TEXAS INDUSTRIAL NOTES

A cold storage plant, costing one hundred and ten thousand dollars is being erected at Austin, and will be completed within the next ninety days.

A coffin factory has been completed at Dallas which is valued at two hundred thousand dollars. The building consists of five stories, and is a modernly equipped manufacturing plant.

The new High School Building at Fort Worth will cost two hundred and ten thousand dollars, and will have seventy-two rooms.

Dirt has been broken on the Cleburne post office. The new building will cost one hundred and fifteen thousand dollars.

A thirty thousand dollar addition will be rebuilt to the King's Daughters' Hospital at Temple.

A bond issue of five hundred thousand dollars will be asked by the City of Austin last week by the Frisco Railroad officials. It is the Intermittent Vacuum Pre-Cooling Company of Texas, with headquarters at San Benito, and has a capital stock of sixty thousand dollars.

The Reynolds Military Academy, at Albany, Texas, has added a new course to that school, which includes book-keeping, brokerage, insurance, salesmanship, advertising, commercial law and commercial correspondence.

The San Antonio, Rockport and Mexican Railway Company has filed its articles of incorporation, with a capital stock of three hundred and fifty thousand dollars. It is the purpose of the company to construct a line of railroad from San Antonio to the Mexican border, with a trunk line from Atascosa County to Harbor Island. The offices of the company will be in San Antonio.

During the cotton season of 1910-1911, the city of Galveston received in the port a total of 2,948,354 bales, and the receipts of the season show an increase of 356,942 bales over the previous year. The records of the United States custom house show that 2,755,982 bales, valued at $210,208,504 were shipped to foreign ports.

It has been said that England, on a space of less than ten square miles, could place all her cotton mills, and within that enclosure she could take the entire production of the Southern cotton farms and, by manufacturing, create as much wealth and employ as much labor as the South produces and employs in all her cotton fields. This illustration can be applied to every city in Texas. A factory can be erected on a vacant lot and create more wealth and employ more labor than 10,000 acres of cultivated land.

Beyond question, Texas leads the world in the production of raw materials. Other states may lead in the production of some things enumerated, but no other state can produce them all. Illinois produces more corn, but she produces neither cotton nor rice. Pennsylvania produces more iron, but she has fewer cattle. It is one of the strangest facts in the history of our country that with such wonderful resources the people of Texas are constantly complaining that their lot is hard, and that the wealth of the Nation is rapidly concentrating in the bleak and barren states of New England, when Texas offers marvelous opportunities to all.

WITH THE LIVE STOCK.

Are the stalls, stables, sheep and hog pens in readiness for their long winter occupancy? It is better to see to this work in the cool, pleasant days than to leave it until the shelters are needed.

Keep a record of every cow, every day, with pencil and paper and scales. It only takes a minute, and will pay you—big.

Keep the stables dry and clean. No animal can thrive if compelled to stand and sleep on a reeking bed of manure.

Early maturity is the keynote in successful pig handling.

Put a boss pig by himself. Allow no robbing—it doesn't pay.

Let the hogs turn all the "windfall apples" into high-priced pork.

Feed just enough—have the pig's bed clean and comfortable so he will lie down and sleep, and put on fat.

See that the colts do not lose flesh on short or frost-bitten pastures.

No matter how good a horse is in its early life, its usefulness is cut short if it is not properly cared for. This is a serious loss.

If you are feeding clover, remember to cut down the bulk. This is a hearty food, and you can't use as much of it as you can of timothy without doing your horse harm.

If your horse was on fire, would you throw more fire on it to extinguish it? Foolish, you say? But I've seen people calling themselves men who would try to drive fear out of a frightened horse by beating him, swearing at him and scaring him. Isn't that much the same thing? Seems so to me.—From October Farm Journal.

ITS EQUAL DON'T EXIST.

No one has ever made a salve, ointment or balm to compare with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the one perfect healer of Cuts, Corns, Burns, Bruises, Sores, Scalds, Bolls, Ulcers, Eczema, Salt Rheum. GIVES AID TO STRIKERS.

Sometimes liver, kidneys and bowels seem to go on a strike and refuse to work right. Then you need those pleasant little strike-breakers—Dr. King's New Life Pills—to give them natural aid and gently compel proper action. Excellent health soon follows. Try them. 25c at all Drug-gists.

THE POULTRY YARD.

Market the surplus stock. The caponizing season is now ended. Peter Tumbledown's growing stock are rusts.

If we have not access to road dust, we may take some field earth, fine and free from lumps.

There are several signs that indicate good health—a bright red comb, activity, readiness for food, and a glossy and smooth appearance of the feathers.

The new roads have made it a little more difficult for some of us to get dust for our chicks, but almost always there are little places where we can find some.

Under no circumstances should an unhealthy bird be allowed a place in the breeding pen, since such can not fall to have an extremely injurious effect on the progeny.

I like the wire nests in the hen house. I have thrown away the bulky, insect-harboring wooden boxes. One can put three wire nests in the space usually occupied by a wooden box, and there is not a place in or around the wire nests for mites to live.

Place the pullets in their winter quarters, before they start laying. It gives them a good chance to become acquainted with their new home.

Place a china egg in each nest, so as to guide them to the proper place to lay their eggs when they get ready.

This month, April-hatched pullets should begin laying. When the crop becomes very large, and the fowls show signs of the disease, keep them away from all food, allowing only water, for forty-eight hours. Then give them all they will eat of finely-chopped onions, allowing them nothing else but water for several hours more, or until they show they are relieved. I have never known the remedy to fail.—From October Farm Journal.

TEXAS NEWSY NOTES.

Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 30.—The Commercial Secretaries' and Business Men's Association have issued their annual financial statement for the current year. The last annual meeting was held in Waco in November, and the coming meeting will be held in Dallas in October, and the financial report, therefore, covers a period of eleven months from November 1, 1910, to September 31, 1911.

The report shows $348.32 on hand at the beginning of the year and received during the year, $31,864.95, leaving a balance on hand at the close of the year of $393.72. An itemized statement of the disbursements follows:

There are 87 towns in the State this year that have contributed toward the work of the organization, while in 1910 only 24 towns made financial contributions. The organization has received in cash $7,543.80 more during 1911 than during 1910, and has gained 63 in number of clubs giving the organization financial co-operation.

POLITICS A POWERFUL MISTRESS

When the political factions in the last Legislature clenched and fell there was some important legislation lost to the people of Texas. A case in point is the proposed amendment to the stock and bond law, which, if enacted into law, would have resulted in the building of many miles of new railroads, and the proposed amendment to the bond election law for improvement of public highways, changing it from a two-thirds to a majority vote, would have resulted in the building of thousands of miles of road, but there is an old axiom among politicians that "When politics interferes with business, quit business," and they quit business.

Politics is a powerful mistress, and strong men, kneeling at her shrine, sometimes become bereft of reason, and their efforts to acquire fame would be pitiful if it were not ludicrous. We need to exchange a few politicians who can make the clock tick their way for business men who can make the wheels of industry go round.

Be Happy!

Happy the girl, or woman, who has never suffered from any of the diseases of womanhood! Or, if she has been a sufferer, happy is she if she has learned of the wonderful benefits of Cardui, the woman's tonic!

Cardui is a gentle, tonic remedy, for women's ailments. It is a natural medicine—safe, harmless, purely vegetable. It has been in successful use for more than 50 years. It has cured thousands. It should do the same for you.

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Mary Neely, of Denver, Tenn., says, "I think there is no tonic on earth, as good as Cardui. I used it with the very best results. I had backache and nearly everything a woman could suffer with, until I took Cardui. Now, I feel better than I have for two years. I shall always recommend Cardui to other suffering women. I can't praise it too highly. As a medicine for weak, tired, worn-out women, Cardui is safe and reliable. Try it, today."

RIGHT TO SCOLD HUSBAND.

Kansas City Mo., Sept. 29.—A wife has a right to scold her husband, Circuit Judge Thomas decided in refusing a divorce to Glenn C. Burnham from his wife, Ida Burnham.

"There is no such thing as a perfect wife," Judge Thomas said. "A wife has a right to scold her husband if he gives her provocation. This husband took his wife to live with his folks. That was enough to make her peevish."

HIGHER SINCE ELECTION.

Loss of Fight for Reciprocity Causes Foodstuffs to Advance.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 28.—Foodstuff prices, which might have been affected by an influx of Canadian products had Borden not sent Laurier down to defeat in Thursday's election, leaped toward the top quotation on the boards in various supply centers of the United States today.

Wheat, both September and December, lead, and before the market closed all foodstuffs had advanced in prices. To market manipulators and millers in this country, the overwhelming defeat of Laurier and his reciprocity propaganda was a great surprise.

When the people of New Mexico rise in their majesty, on the seventh of November, and throw off the yoke of Republican gang rule, and elect a corps of Democratic officials to conduct the affairs of this State, there will be a lot of serious cogitation on the part of several. There are more than a dozen men in New Mexico who, if they had any political convictions at all, are Democrats, but who have allowed a present chance for office to lead them into the ranks of Republicans. When the State goes Democratic, they will be wondering where they are "at."—Roswell Morning News.

THE BORROWED DOLLAR.

Debt has been pictured by many writers as a hard taskmaster, and the borrowed dollar is the most abused of currency, but it is, nevertheless, a development dollar, as it possesses volume and activity, two of the most important factors in our progress to a greater degree than any other form of legal tender. When in the hands of operators not familiar with its purposes and habits, it sometimes creates havoc and ruin, but it has rescued many a sinking enterprise, has performed deeds of industrial heroism and it has been the burden bearer of industry.

No man or animal possesses the active instincts of the borrowed dollar. When in bad hands it quickly returns to its owner or moves rapidly on through the channels of trade until it finds a competent hand to guide it where it can glorify its creator without being railed at by incompetent owners or incapable directors. It has fought our battles, built our cities and developed the industry and commerce of the country. During times of prosperity efforts have been made to drive it from circulation, but during adversity we send emissaries to plead for its return, and it is sought after by every important enterprise in the country.

Idle dollars, like idle men, are no good to a community, but the charge of vagrancy can never be made against the borrowed dollar. No one will borrow money and let it lie idle. Idleness is its mortal foe, and is certain destruction. The borrowed dollar must move rapidly on its journey and return heavily laden with the fruits of its toil or it will perish. No other form of currency possesses such compelling forces of activity as the borrowed dollar.

We are already heavy borrowers. No accurate figures are available, but estimates furnished by county clerks, bankers, and other reliable sources, justify the following estimate:

Farm property	$200,000,000
City property	100,000,000
Public service and utility corporations	400,000,000
Public debts	100,000,000
Miscellaneous	300,000,000

$1,000,000,000

An effort to separate the borrowed dollar, as between home and foreign, proved futile, although it is important information in this discussion.

The borrowed foreign dollar is the most constructive dollar on the financial horizon, as it combines activity and volume and brings new money into the State.—Exchange.

TEXAS IS SAFE.

Historians tell us that nations wither under the heat of civilization, but the political thermometer has been at blood heat so long in Texas that there is absolutely no danger of dissolution by the natural processes of National decay. We may, unless we cool down, explode into four or more fragments, but we will always be a factor in the world's commerce, so long as the opportunity germ flourishes in our midst.

As we look down memory's lane and see the ghosts that have stood at the cross roads of every crisis, we are reminded that we have been so busy searching the sewer of life that we have neglected the 140,000,000 mellow acres of idle farm land, the 130,000 miles of unimproved public highways, the 50,000 miles of new railroads, our needed factories and mines, and it will be a glorious day for Texas when our leaders lift the thought of the State into the crisp and vigorous atmosphere of development.

A PRESIDENT IN SYMPATHY WITH CONGRESS.

If Clark is elected president next year, a Congress Democratic in both branches is likely to supplement that result, and the first business in hand in 1913—probably in the spring—will be tariff revision. The Payne law will come in for a complete overhauling. What, then, shall we see? A man in the White House familiar with the tariff from a Democratic point of view, a man in the Speakership—Mr. Underwood—familiar with the man in the White House, and some man as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee who is familiar with both. A majority of the majority of the House will be men who have served with the president in Congress. The combination will be as closely knitted as was that of McKinley, Reed and Dingley. Both House and Senate are sensitive. In approaching them, a president has much need of diplomacy, and knowledge of their dispositions and methods of labor. After using the expression in a letter that he "had Congress on hands," Mr. Cleveland never had the slightest influence with anybody. The tone offended both sides. As president, Mr. Clark would need no interpreter of the Congressional Record. He would know at a glance the meaning of things, and how to go about influencing the situation if it were not to his liking. Though lost to sight, Congress will still be to memory dear, and easily understood.—Washington (D. C.) Star.

The fast man is pretty certain to fall behind.

What three vowels express trouble? I. O. U.

It will probably never be known what the hand-saw.

"Be sure you are right," and then don't make a fuss about it.

There is many a man who isn't worth what it costs him to live.

Every dog has his day, and too many of them have their nights also.

The blacksmith may be an expert forger without being arrested for it.

Nature is a good doctor, but she makes her patients pay to the last cent.

What the corn heard with its own ears, the potato saw with its own eyes.

Few men know what is good for them until some wise woman has told them.

The money that a woman spends is never for the bonnet.

But always for the fancy things.

The milliner puts on it.

The rich are known by their dollars, but the humble onion is known by its scent.

The farmer who lost his half-bushel measure was in more than a peck of trouble.

The foolish trust to the safety-pin, but the wise see to it that the buttons are well sewed on.

It is easier to climb down a tree than to climb up, which explains why the top is never crowded and why there is always room there.

We are none of us any better than we ought to be, and many of us are a great deal worse.

The farmer has a good many mouths to feed; he is even obliged all through the winter to feed the fodder cutter.

Sometimes when a man is pretending to be looking for a wife he is merely hunting for a good cook. Beware of such.—Farm Journal.

TWENTY ACRES RIGHT.

Judge Emmett Patton, who owns a fine farm near Lake Arthur, was in the city on business Tuesday. The Judge says he will no doubt HAVE to reduce his acreage, if not his holdings, as the quick crops of this section where there is plenty of water for irrigation, make it impossible for one man to care for over forty acres even with an occasional hired man.

This is the common complaint among our farmers who own large tracts.

The farmer who comes here from the rain belt wants to put in a hundred and fifty to two hundred acres and take care of that with the help of a boy and one hired man.

A 20-acre diversified farm will keep one man busy, if he has irrigation.

The late James J. Hagerman had this very idea in view when he decided to divide his immense orchard holding into smaller tracts and put them on the market. Even as it is at present, with the heavy apple crop of this season, the small orchardists are not able to gather their crops without help.—Roswell Register.

The above item should start our folks who irrigate or who contemplate irrigation to thinking and figuring. Irrigation calls for intense cultivation, and if a man has more than he can handle he is forced to neglect some of his crops or fail to do justice to any of it. Of course a man can handle more ground in alfalfa than most other crops, and few other crops pay better. Most people in their first attempts at irrigation over crop if they have the land, but as they advance it is but a few years until they see the wisdom in reducing acreage.

This is an ideal location for a park, and we are of the opinion that it will be used as such at some time in the future.

AVERTS AWFUL TRAGEDY.

Timely advice given Mrs. C. Wiloughby, of Marengo, Wis., (R. F. D. No. 1) prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. "I have been using it for some time," she wrote, "and the awful cough has almost gone. It also saved my little boy when taken with a severe bronchial trouble." Seth Ward's parlor is now dressed in gala attire, having been furnished with new mission furniture. This was the gift of several of the business houses, banks and citizens of Plainview. We surely do appreciate the liberal contributions and the good will of the givers. This is not the only improvement on foot. In the near future we are going to build a much-needed cement walk from the entrance to the main building, at least.

Cottolene

Cottolene is packed in patent, air-tight tin pails (never in bulk) and no dirt, odors, or other contamination can reach it. Lard is seldom guaranteed—you usually take your chances; the purity and freshness of Cottolene are always guaranteed, and any grocer who sells it will refund your money if you are not wholly satisfied with it.

There are thousands of Cottolene users in the country who would never let lard or any other substitute enter their kitchen.

Cottolene is purer, more healthful, more economical than lard or any other cooking fat. Prove it by a trial.

Shortens Your Food—Lengthens Your Life

Every great enterprise, such as a railroad, for instance, is not built on the annual installment plan, out of the anticipated earnings of the property, but is conservatively bonded, while the interest on the bonds is cared for by the earnings. So should county roads be financed.

Safe Food for the Little Ones

The delight of children is pastry, cookies, cakes, doughnuts, and other dainties, in many of which a cooking fat is used. Lard is risky; it is simply hog fat, sometimes impure, often indigestible. To use butter is expensive and often impracticable. However, Cottolene—the pure vegetable-oil cooking fat—can be used in every way the same as butter or lard; it makes light, digestible, healthful food, and at less expense, too, one-third less being required than of either butter or lard. If you value the health of your children, shorten their food with Cottolene.

"OUR ATTORNEY."

Mr. Albert Taylor and his own company will open on Wednesday, October 11, in the original comedy, "Our Attorney." An advance notice says, Mr. Taylor has undoubtedly selected a play that possesses the greatest entertaining power. The story is well written, it is true to life characters, so natural, and its comedy so deftly woven, that critics who know the bill pronounce it a decisive success with unanimity. The characters depicted are so usual and commonplace, and yet so delicately and appealingly portrayed, as to delightfully satisfy all lovers of a wholesome and pleasing laugh from a truly refined comedy play. The subtle comedy will be the peer of any of the bills yet presented by Mr. Taylor, as it is a sure laugh-getter from the time the curtain rises on the first act until the final climax, at the fall of the curtain on the last act. Merriment will reign supreme, and the principal comedy lines will be handled by Mr. Taylor in the leading part as "Our Attorney." Mr. Taylor's manner of speech and pleasing delivery aptly fits the role to be taken by him in this offer. The plan, although a comedy, suggests a little lesson, and that is that we are oftentimes mistaken as to who is the ignorant one, and the wise ones and the sharps are often fooled when they go up against one whom they think is unwise to the ways of the world, but when they find that he is endowed with such great mental faculties as "Our Attorney," the surprise is a wholesome one that will delight the playgoers.

ABOUT DRY FARMING.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 26.—According to an article contributed to Collier's Weekly by H. S. Rogers, of this city, the cardinal principles of successful dry-farming are: "Plow deep, turn under the humus and make a great reservoir; mulch, to prevent evaporation; summer fallow, to gather two years' moisture for the crop; develop indigenous plants and seeds that will mature in a short time and resist drouth; fight the winds, by growing wind-breaks and studying means of cultivation that will resist the pulling on the soil; rotate crops, to preserve fertility or restore it."

He offers as a successful example of these principles the experience of Mr. E. R. Parsons, whose dry-land orchard at Parkers, Colo., near Colorado Springs, is one of the wonders of the surrounding country. Here is Mr. Parson's recipe for planting a desert-land orchard, and it will be observed that the principal ingredient is work and more work: "Cultivate the land one or two years before planting, so as to have about three feet of damp soil. Set the trees in this, and they are drouth-proof. Young trees use up so little water that the orchard soil gains in moisture every year. Cultivate about twelve times a year, once quite late, to turn in the fallen leaves for fertilizer. After five or six years there will be ten feet of moisture. Dry years make no difference, as the trees will thrive on water that fell two or three years before. When this orchard was young (it stands on a gently sloping hill, facing southeast), it was plowed in furrows every twenty feet during the winter, so as to catch and hold the snow. The trees are big enough now to catch their own snow."

Interest in this great movement, which means the ultimate reclamation of vast tracts of lands thought heretofore to be of no value, is not confined to the states directly benefited, but is general, not only in the United States, but in all countries throughout the entire world.

The great International Dry Farming Congress which is to meet in Colorado Springs, October 16 to 20, will mark the culmination of the efforts that have been directed along dry-farming lines during recent years. Representatives of every state in the Union, and of numerous foreign countries, will gather to discuss ways and means of advancing a movement that is today proving a decided success, and which, with its more general adoption, will mean millions of dollars to farmers of this and other countries.

Announcement was made yesterday from Washington that Colorado Springs gets the next annual session of the Great Plains Co-operative Experiment Association. It is to be held during the week of October 16, at the time of the International Dry Farming Congress meeting. This body is composed of experts connected with the government experiment stations in the Great Plains geographical division. Heretofore it has always met at Washington, but this year the Government is taking advantage of the great gathering of agriculturalists and scientists and display of dry-farmed products that will be assembled in Colorado Springs to bring the experiment men in touch. John S. Cole, of the Department of Plant Industry, chairman of the executive board, who makes his headquarters at Denver, has arranged the meeting.

And the plaintiff further alleges that Janie A. Quillen and Mattie Poulson are the only surviving heirs at law and were the only children of E. L. Lowe, deceased, and, further, that Geo. M. DEMONSTRATION FARM FOR TOM GREEN.

The Commissioners' Court of Tom Green County has granted the petition of a number of prominent business men for the establishment of an experimental farm for Tom Green County, and has set aside $500 to be used for this purpose. The appropriation will be supplemented by $500 from the United States Department of Agriculture.

The 32nd Legislature passed a law permitting the Commissioners' Court of a county to appropriate not to exceed one thousand dollars for experimental and demonstration farms, and, as a result, many counties in the State have made appropriations for agricultural experiments.

FARMING ADDRESS AT ABILENE

By H. M. BAINER.

Following is the synopsis of an address delivered at the Central West Texas Dry Farming Congress in Abilene, September 27, by H. M. Bainer, agricultural demonstrator of the Santa Fe system:

"In the semi-arid countries, we often find successful crops and absolute failure demonstrated on adjoining farms. 'What is the reason for this?'

"Brain work is an absolute necessity in semi-arid farming. The successful farmer must use his entire body; he can not be successful and use only that part of his body from his eyes down.

"Irrigation is not going to save a semi-arid country, but rather an intelligent system of farming.

"It is not the mean annual rainfall that will save the country and make crops, but it is rather the amount of moisture that can actually be saved and made available for our crops.

"We have learned by experience that a very small amount of moisture, at the right time, will make a crop. We have also learned that large crops can be produced on but a very few inches of moisture if the land has been properly prepared.

"The following authentic record: 'I have just threshed 20 bushels of wheat per acre on 100 acres of the 1911 crop.'

The record shows that only four inches of moisture fell on this wheat between the time it was sowed, September 2, to the day it was cut, July 15 and not a particle of irrigation was practiced.

This wheat was sowed on well prepared land that had been summer tilled, that is, it was carefully cultivated, the weeds being kept down and no crop being raised on it last summer before sowing time.

It was not the four inches of rainfall that fell on the land during the growing period that was responsible for this 20 bushels per acre, but, rather, that reserved moisture that had been stored and held by good cultivation.

Again, two years ago, several wheat farmers prepared their wheat ground early, cultivated to save the moisture and made from 20 to 25 bushels of wheat a year ago. The rainfall record showed from 3 1/2 to 4 inches of moisture to have fallen on this wheat during its growing period.

Preparation. The question is asked, 'How are we going to prepare and work our soil to produce these good results?'

To begin with, the ground should be thoroughly and deeply prepared at the right time. We must always keep in mind the old saying, 'No after-cultivation can make amends for poor preparation.'

Yet how true this is. We have too much 'hogging in' of crops, and then wonder why the crops are not better.

What Constitutes Thorough Preparation? Thorough pulverization to a good depth, well worked down as long as possible before planting time.

How deep should the ground be plowed? This will depend upon the type of soil, time of year and general conditions.

Many of our farmers seem to think that our moisture and plant food is carried to the upper three or four inches of our soil, and they, therefore, plow only to that depth.

We must remember that the depth of our farms is the depth that we plant. Three-inch plowing means that we have a farm three inches deep, and is less than one-half as good as the farm that has been plowed six inches deep.

We must remember that it is very necessary to prepare our ground deeply in order to have a place to store our moisture deep enough to prevent the first little dry spell from getting it.

Drouth begins at the surface, and works deeper and deeper as the dry spell prolongs. Deep moisture is very much slower to disappear in drouthy times than shallow moisture.

We must keep the subsoil full of moisture, and thus encourage the roots to grow down. The deeper the plowing, the deeper the subsoil will be from the surface, and the slower it will be in drying out.

When once the subsoil has become filled with moisture, under 8 or 10-inch plowing, it is next to impossible for our most severe drouths to dry it out.

This deep plowing should be done as long before planting time as possible. This gives the ground a chance to become well settled before planting time, and also enables the soil to catch and hold all moisture falling upon it. The sub-surface plow is an excellent implement to use immediately after the plow, to firm the ground. All ground should be harrowed immediately after plowing.

Soil Mutch.

"A deep soil mutch is very essential to the proper conservation of moisture. We must not get soil mutch confused with so-called 'dust mutch.' A fine dust mutch is very dangerous. In the first place, it is very liable to blow, and, in the second place, moisture does not pass through it readily. Water will often flood off a dust mutch before it will pass through it.

What we want in the way of a soil mutch is to keep a loose surface, but be careful not to work it too fine. Small clods mixed with the surface will prevent blowing, holds the moisture, lets the moisture pass through it readily and answers every requirement.

The shallow, 1-to-2-inch mutch is not deep enough for long, hot, dry spells, it become heated through too easily, and lets the moisture dry out under it. The 3-to-4-inch mutch is none too deep.

Humus.

"Humus is very much lacking in all of our semi-arid lands. Humus helps to hold moisture, it helps to make our soils loose and prevents them from running together or baking. It also adds to the plant food conditions.

Summer Tillage.

"What is known as 'summer tillage' is practiced with excellent results on many of our semi-arid farms. Under this method, the ground is cropped every second or, in some cases, every third year.

As soon as the crop has been removed in the fall, the ground should be plowed deep, from 8 to 10 inches. It should be lightly harrowed immediately and left lay over winter.

All of the following season the surface is kept thoroughly worked. Weeds are kept down, and at no time is a crust allowed to form on the surface. Briefly summarized, summer tillage clears the lands of weeds, it improves the physical condition of the soil, saves the moisture and makes plant food available.

The following results of summer tillage were obtained at the San Antonio Experimental Farm during the season of 1909. This gives a comparison and yields from crops sown on summer tilled land and on land cropped the preceding year:

Table with 3 columns: Crop, On land cropped in 1908, On land cropped summer-tilled in 1908.

"Mr. George L. Farrell, a noted dry farming specialist of Utah, who plows and subsoils as deep as 15 inches, raises, on an average, 45 bushels per acre of wheat on 200 acres of summer-tilled land.

One of our best Western Kansas wheat farmers reported to me last year that he raised 42 bushels of wheat per acre in 1910, on summer-tilled land, and in the same field, on land that had been cropped the preceding year, the best he could do was to raise 7 bushels per acre the same season.

Weeds.

"Many of our dry farmers need criticism on the weed question. We can not expect maximum crops when we stop to consider that on a majority of our farms the weeds get more of the moisture than our crops.

Moisture and humus is all we lack to insure crops in our semi-arid belt. We can not afford to grow weeds to supply this humus, because they take the 'precious' moisture needed by our crops.

Moisture is our crop's bank account, and weeds are the deadly mortgage. 'Kill the weeds in the germinating stages and, at the same time, break the crusts, which cause the loss of much of our moisture.

Don't Try to Handle Too Much Land.

"We have too much 'extensive' farming, and not enough 'intensive' farming. We should not try to farm more land than we can handle properly. It will pay us to look more to the yield than to the number of acres.

One of our greatest troubles is, that too many of us farm by sections instead of by quarter-sections. We try to handle about four times as much land as we are able to handle properly.

"If we are going to farm on a large scale, let us exchange our single plows for gang; our one-row cultivators for two-row cultivators; our two-section harrows for four-section harrows, and all other implements in proportion.

We will necessarily have to change our horse power in proportion to our implements. Under dry farming conditions, we must be able to get over our land quickly. Large acreage must be hauled with large units.

Grow Right Crops.

"We must grow crops that we know to be adapted to our conditions. We have spent much time in this congress talking about corn. Let me tell you, the only successful way to handle corn is to forget it. We must replace it with kaffir and milo maize.

Too Much Seed Planted.

"If you have thoroughly prepared your ground, from 20 to 30 pounds of seed wheat is enough for sowing an acre; three pecks to one bushel of oats is abundant. Single stalks of kaffir and maize, 24 inches apart in the row, with rows 12 inches apart, are close enough.

Good Seed.

"Like begets like. 'Whatever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.' Inferior seed cannot produce maximum crops. The best seed is none too good for our conditions. There is no question but that our wheat, oats, kaffir, maize and cotton crops can be increased in yield at least one-fourth by the use of the right kinds of seed.

"Whenever we actually get down to the point of mixing brains with farming, then only will we be successful."

FARMERS' COURSE FOR A. & M.

Plans are being made to have the second annual Farmers' Short Course at College Station during January, 1912, under the auspices of the Extension Department.

The course begins January 8th, and last two weeks, and is devoted to matters of practical interest to farmers. The entire time is devoted to practical demonstration work, such as stock judging, veterinary science, pruning, budding, grafting, dairying, etc.

The short courses for farmers have become popular in late years throughout all the United States. No entrance fees are charged, and no age limit is placed on the attendants.

The A. & M. College of Texas instituted this course last year with such success that it was decided to make it a permanent part of the curriculum of the institution.

The A. & M. College is doing a great work for the farmers of Texas by encouraging better methods of agriculture.

MARRIAGE ANNIVERSARY.

On Tuesday evening, the beautiful, cozy home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Otto was the scene of one of the most beautiful and appropriate social functions of the season.

At the time the invitations were given, those invited were told that the affair would be given in honor of two of the guests, but they were left to draw their own conclusions as to the identity of the honorees.

Just before being seated around the festive board, which was beautifully decorated, a bouquet of bride's roses being in the center, Mr. and Mrs. Otto announced the honorees, who proved to be the amiable host and hostess, and the occasion represented the twenty-first anniversary of their marriage, after which Mrs. Otto, in her pleasing manner, gave the following toast to her husband:

"Twenty-one years ago today a bride; Sticking like glue to my husband's side; Twenty-one years of married bliss— Well, old man, let's have a kiss!" And they "showed" the guests that "kissing" was not a lost art with them.

As each guest wished them many happy returns of this auspicious day, they realized that the sweetest anniversaries are those of the heart, when the river of feeling overflows.

An elegant five-course dinner was served to the following guests: Dr. and Mrs. E. Lee Dye, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Tudor, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Clinkscapes, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Harrel, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Keck, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Burch, Mr. and Mrs. E. Dowden, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Burch, and Mr. E. H. Perry.

The dinner hour being over, the guests enjoyed "500," in which Dr. Dye won high score. A GUEST.

LARGE CREW OF COTTON PICKERS

The ladies of the Home Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, South, are picking cotton for W. A. Miles, near town, today (Friday), for which they will receive $1.00 per hundred. This is a unique method of raising a sum of money for a needed cause. We rather think that a goodly sum of money could be raised in that way, as pickers of the fleecy staple are in good demand, with the supply short.

SATURDAY MATINEE.

The management of the Majestic Theatre has announced that they will put on a matinee performance every Saturday afternoon from now on. This is a new movement in the entertainment line in Plainview, and is designed especially for the country people who come to town on Saturday. Only the best pictures are shown at the Majestic, and you are sure of getting your money's worth any time you go.

Monday, sales day, was a busy day in this city, as is usual for the first Monday. But trade was perhaps a little light, as the farmers were busy with their feed crops and cotton. They will be busy, too, as help is scarce, for the next two months.
