NUMBER THIRTY-NINE

Hale County Fair Next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday Everybody's Coming To Plainview

LARGE PREMIUMS FOR HALE CO. FAIR

First Annual Celebration Promises Complete Showing of Central Plains Products.

MERCHANTS ARE LIBERAL

Best Exhibits Will Go to Dallas, in Effort to Duplicate Last Year's Winnings.

The Hale County Fair will be held in Plainview Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. The committee appointed to secure premiums has met with encouraging success. A large exhibit of agricultural products, vegetable and textile is assured. More than forty horses have already entered. "Horses have come in from as far away as Elk City, Oklahoma," H. C. Whitworth said last night, "and we are expecting a number of others. Some of the fastest horses ever seen in Plainview will be in the races next week."

Mr. Whitworth asks that all carpenters and everybody else who will help with the work to please report to H. C. Whitworth, at DeLay barber shop, or go direct to the fair grounds. It is necessary to put up temporary exhibit booths for some of the live stock and other exhibits.

Special Space for Ladies.
The exhibit building will be thirty by fifty feet, amply large enough to accommodate all exhibits. There will be special space set aside for textiles and other exhibits by the ladies.

The Fair Association asks that all persons bringing exhibits will either leave them with the merchant with whom they trade or bring them to the wooden building at the corner of California and Covington Streets, adjoining Wat. A committee will call on all merchants for exhibits and will haul them, together with the exhibits left at the building designated, to the fair grounds.

The Fair Association has designated Thursday as "Plainview Day," and a committee will request all merchants to close Friday afternoon, so that every one may go out to the Fair.

U. C. V. REUNION TO BE IN CLEBURNE

City Is Making Extensive Preparations to Entertain Visitors, October 3 and 4.

MANY THOUSANDS EXPECTED

One of the Big Features to Be Shown Battle Between Regulars and Ex-Confederates.

The Annual State Reunion of the United Confederate Veterans will be held at Cleburne on the 3rd and 4th of October, and that city is making extensive preparations to entertain a large number of the Confederates' families, and friends.

One of the features of the program will be a big sham battle between the Ex-Confederates and Regulars. Arrangements have already been made for this, and the details are being worked out. It is proposed to give a vivid exhibition of a real battle.

The two-days' program will be carried out at beautiful Lovelady Park, and the Cleburne Street Railway System has agreed to give special car service in order to accommodate the crowds. Plenty of water, shade, and ample grounds for the old soldiers will be found at the park.

They will also be given free entertainment while in the city, and cared for in every particular as befits a gallant Confederate soldier. Everything possible is being done to make their stay pleasant and comfortable in Cleburne.

Cleburne can be reached by the Santa Fe, M. K. & T., T. & B. V., and the Fort Worth-Cleburne interurban, cars over the latter running back and forth every hour. All railroads in Texas will give low rates for this event.

Parties desiring any information should address Reunion Entertainment Committee, Cleburne, Texas.

SEWALKS MEAN MAIL DELIVERY

"Uncle Sam" Says Town Must Make Permanent Improvements to Secure Free Service.

POSTAL RECEIPTS $12,000.00

Street Work Is Progressing, but Mayor Cannot Secure Laborers to Handle Teams.

Plainview is entitled to free mail delivery just as soon as the people build more sidewalks, according to Postmaster George C. Keck. Mr. Keck says the United States Government requires that a town shall have 5,000 population or that its post office receipts must amount to $10,000 a year.

Plainview's post office receipts have been more than $10,000 for three years. During the past year receipts amounted to a little more than $12,000. Three years ago the Federal Inspector was in Plainview. He went over the town with Mr. Keck. After an inspection, he declared that free delivery would be installed just as soon as sidewalks and crossings were put in.

Would Not Cost 1 Cent.

"Free mail delivery would be more than a mere convenience," says O. M. Unger, President of the Chamber of Commerce. "It would give employment to three or four men and would not cost the citizens of Plainview one cent. Four Federal employees would add that much to the population of Plainview; but it is in these little ways that a town must grow to larger things."

Plainview has several miles of granite sidewalk, but there are wide gaps where citizens have refused or have been unable to put sidewalks down. Plainview cannot compel them to build sidewalks until the city can put in street crossings, and this cannot be done until the bond issue of $10,000 is voted.

Property owners on North Pacific Street, with two exceptions, agreed to build cement sidewalks from the Santa Fe depot to the square, according to Mr. Unger. These two men blocked the movement. Walking is splendid without sidewalks until it rains (and it has rained nearly a dozen times during the past ninety days). Unfortunately many visitors come into Plainview during the rainy weather, and they are forced to much discomfort by having to wade through the mud.

Laborers Are Scarce.

Mayor Dorsett is busy opening drainage ditches. Teams were offered this week, but it was impossible until Wednesday even to hire men to drive them. Laborers could not be found. These storm-ways were stopped up largely because citizens have unthinkingly thrown trash in them, Mayor Dorsett says, and he asks the property owners to render all assistance in their power toward keeping the ditches clean now. They will carry off the flood water at once, and obviate the discomfort of the heavy rains.

There has been some hitch about securing the dirt from the Finnie building to put on the east side of the public square. "We loaned the party who was removing the dirt all of our implements, and we thought he ought to be glad to dump the dirt in the street," Mayor Dorsett said this week. "The gentleman told me that he had been offered $5 for this dirt, and I agreed to pay him this much out of my own pocket. He then asked more than that price, and I declined to pay it."

Mayor Dorsett says there is too much good dirt around Plainview to pay exorbitant prices for it. He says that the east side of the public square will be raised considerably before work stops.

AUTOMOBILE BURNS WHEN GASOLINE LINE PARTS.

Perry Rascoe Saves Rear Tires by Chopping Off Wheels; Mother and Aunt Have Narrow Escape.

An Overland car belonging to Perry Rascoe of Tulla was burned Sunday about one mile north of E. Dowden's ranch. Mr. Rascoe was driving to Plainview from Tulla. His mother and aunt were in the car with him.

The automobile caught fire when the gasoline line broke, about half way between the carburetor and gasoline tank, immediately over the muffler. The flames spread quickly, and before Mr. Rascoe could come to a stop the car was enveloped in flame. No one was injured. Mr. Rascoe saved the two rear tires by chopping the wheels off with an axe.

Mrs. E. E. Thomas of Purcell, Okla., came in Tuesday from Floydada, where she has been visiting her daughter. Mrs. Thomas will visit her brother, J. Thomas, at Merkel, Texas, before returning to her home, at Purcell.

THE BIG WELLS MAKE FARM LANDS WORTH $250 TO $500 AN ACRE.

FIRST FROST OF SEASON CAME WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

The first frost of the season fell Wednesday night. It is not thought that the frost materially damaged growing vegetation. The thermometer registered 33 degrees Fahrenheit Thursday morning.

The mercury stood at about the same point this morning, and there was another light frost.

HALE CO. HAS 23 IRRIGATION WELLS

Slaton Well, Dug in January, 1911, Was Pioneer on Central Plains.

PEOPLE WERE SKEPTICAL

Water Supply Has Been Tested and Syndicate Will Put Down 200 Wells.

Garrison and Woodson are finishing up one of the best irrigation plants in Hale County. "Garwood" has a pump house built with storm paper inside and weather boarding outside; it is papered and painted, and outside is as well finished as any residence in Plainview.

Four iron gates will offer entrance to Garwood and a driveway all around the 120 acres, which, being irrigated, will make it a fine show place.

Steel Truss a New Feature.

A new feature at Garwood is the steel truss on which the centrifugal pump is suspended. The pump shaft runs on ball bearings, and a 32-horsepower engine drives the pump. The other pumping plants on the Central Plains are suspended on wooden trusses. In some cases the wood has warped, throwing the pump shaft out of plumb and giving trouble with the belt. The steel bridge truss at Garwood obviates all of this.

There are now twenty-three pumping plants in Hale County. The first well was dug in January, 1911, nearly twenty months ago. J. H. Slaton, President of the First National Bank was pioneer. During that time the skepticism of the people has been conquered. Two years ago everybody was skeptical; now every man is sanguine. That is the greatest work. "Irrigation will make a large crop yield on the Plains certain every year," says J. F. Garrison, and every man who visits the irrigation plants now in operation enthusiastically agrees that irrigation will make these plains a paradise.

25 Prizes Out of 27 Entries.

A well equipped to irrigate 120 acres of land will cost from $2,000 to $3,000. Irrigated fields yield five tons of alfalfa to the acre and the land grows richer every year.

Last year Hale County won first prize on alfalfa hay, milo maize, speltz, pumpkin, parsnips, carrots, turnips, onions, tomatoes, celery, table beets, sugar beets, winter cantaloupes, peppers, sweetsteaks on vegetables, Missouri Pippin and Jonathan apples, and on quinces, at the Texas State Fair, at Dallas. Hale County won second on wheat, Limber Twig apples, Winesap apples, second on apples any variety, second on cabbage and on Rocky Ford cantaloupes.

Mr. Garrison is growing a large acreage of Mexican beans, and finds ready market for them at Fort Worth or Dallas.

A. L. Kruger, expert agriculturalist for the Henderson-Grant Syndicate,

FOR THE ODD FELLOWS' HOME.

Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, there will be a meeting in the COURT HOUSE of all persons interested in securing the Odd Fellows' Home for Plainview. I am sure it is not necessary to urge the citizens to come out to this meeting.

O. M. UNGER,
President Chamber of Commerce.

Plainview, Texas, Sept. 27, 1912.

TO THE CITIZENS OF PLAINVIEW, TEXAS:

The Grand Lodge of I. O. O. F. of Texas is seeking a location for a new Widows' and Orphans' Home. Plainview Lodge has applied for the location at Plainview. We must give at least 200 acres of land, and, to secure this great prize, we have also offered to sink a well and place a big pump in it, ready for irrigation. In order to pay for this land, well and pump, we must have the backing of the citizens of Plainview and surrounding country.

The Grand Lodge proposes to duplicate the Home at Corsicana, which means the expenditure of about $100,000.00. It will cost approximately $50,000.00 per annum to maintain this Home. All of this expense will fall on the Grand Lodge of Texas, and not a cent on Plainview, except such as is borne by our local Lodge as any other Lodge in the State.

Will you help us by your subscription to secure this great institution for the Plains. Come to the Court House Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, and tell us what you will do.

Yours truly,
H. C. RANDOLPH, N. G.,
Plainview Lodge No. 12, I. O. O. F.

COMMERCIAL SECRETARIES TO MEET IN HOUSTON.

President Cain Urges Texans to Attend "Pre-Panama Convention," October 4 and 5.

The Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's Association will hold its Fifth Annual Convention, in Houston, on October 4 and 5.

The most progressive citizens of Texas will attend this convention. Its educative value will be great and its inspirational worth no less. President Cain has sent out the letter following, urging Texans to attend this meeting: "To the Progressive Citizenship of Texas:

"We take pleasure in extending every one interested in the industrial development of Texas, a cordial invitation to attend the fifth Annual Convention of the Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's Association, to be held in Houston October 4th and 5th, 1912.

"In view of the probable opening of the Panama Canal in 1913, this will likely be the last meeting of the Association, before that great event, and can well be called the "Pre-Panama Convention" of the Association.

"There has been no time in the history of Texas when there have been so many economic, commercial and industrial problems for solution, and, this being true, it is hoped that this may be the best and most largely attended meeting of the kind ever held in the State.

The crowning work of the Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's Association during its five years of existence was the organization of the Texas Welfare Commission; this Commission is composed of fifteen of the ablest, most patriotic and progressive men of the State, and men who have given careful study to the problems now confronting the people of Texas.

"The feature of this annual meeting will be the presentation and consideration of the report of the Texas Welfare Commission, and will, therefore, be one of the deepest import. One of the questions already considered by the Commission, and the only one upon which definite action has been taken, was the step in connection with the Texas Farmers' Union in securing necessary loans with which to finance distressed cotton in the State for this season.

"Other grave questions that affect the progress and prosperity of other classes and interests will be reported upon and there will be no document that will go to the people of Texas which will be fraught with more general and special interest than the report of the Texas Welfare Commission. Its importance is so highly regarded by the Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's Associations that most of the two days meeting mentioned above will be given to the consideration of this report.

"Texas has been a pioneer state in industrial development, the greatest asset in this direction being the Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's Association. The work of this organization in cementing the commercial, agricultural and industrial there is still much to be done, and we urge the progressive spirit of Texas to attend the Fifth Annual meeting of the Association to hear and consider the report of the Texas Welfare Commission, and in doing so we are radiant with the hope that the year's close study given by this patriotic body of men to the economic, commercial and industrial questions of the state, and their report upon same, will be a long stretch toward the goal of making the Lone Star State the greatest in progress of all the states of the Union.

"We are pleased to advise that all the railroads have given low rates to this meeting, and Houston, through its Chamber of Commerce and citizens, give assurance of a most cordial welcome to those who attend the meeting.

"Again we urge the progressive spirits of Texas to attend this meeting and anticipate with sincere hope that it will be the greatest gathering of its kind that has ever been held in the state.

"Yours for a greater Texas,
"TEXAS COMMERCIAL SECRETARIES AND BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION.
"BEN B. CAIN, President;
"J. A. ARNOLD, Sec.-Manager."

HUDSON FACTORIES DOUBLE WITHIN YEAR.

The Hudson Motor Car Company's Detroit factories have doubled within a year, owing to the addition of two new factories instead of the one as announced a fortnight ago. A year ago the Hudson factories' floor space was 172,811 square feet. Last winter a new factory was added, bringing the total to 236,411 square feet. The new additions bring the total floor space up to 363,611 square feet.

RED CROSS SEAL PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED.

Christmas Campaign of the Anti-Tuberculosis Association Includes Health Sunday.

The September issue of the Texas Anti-Tuberculosis Association's public Health Bulletin contains an announcement for the 1912 Red Cross Christmas Seal Campaign. The Association plans to use the funds derived from the sale of stamps this year for the maintenance of the Walter Colquitt Memorial Children's Hospital for the treatment of children suffering from bone and glandular tuberculosis, and it is also planned to use a part of the funds for the expense of operating a public health educational exhibit throughout the State in a railway car or cars.

This exhibit will be sent into every town on a railroad in the State of Texas, if sufficient funds for this purpose are secured. In connection with the operation of this exhibit, agitation will be carried on for the establishment of county hospitals and dispensaries with special and separate provision for the care of cases of tuberculosis and other communicable diseases, and for the enlargement of the State Sanatorium.

Fort Worth Lead in 1911.
The Bulletin contains detailed information as to the plan of campaign and also contains a detailed report of the sale of Seals in 1911. This report shows the number of Seals sold by each city or town, the sales per capita of population, and the Seals per capita of scholastic population. The eight cities leading in the number of Seals sold are as follows: Fort Worth, 122,798; Dallas, 75,597; Houston, 54,680; El Paso, 54,392; Waco, 50,000; San Antonio, 48,552; Sherman, 29,958; Corsicana, 17,800; Beaumont, 16,800.

The eight cities leading in the sales per capita of population are as follows: Westhoff, 19.76; Johnson City, 9.85; Dodd City, 9.17; Kingsville, 6.66; Alpine, 6.26; San Benito, 5.42; Crystal City, 4.85; Marfa, 4.55.

Health Sunday.
It is announced in the Bulletin that Sunday, October 27th, will be observed throughout Texas as Health Sunday, full details of which will be given in the October issue of the Bulletin.

PECOS TO SPEND $6,000 ON FAIR.

Irrigation and Poultry Will Be Featured in Local Exposition, October 9, 10 and 11.

Pecos is spending $6,000 in an effort to make the second annual Pecos Fair, October 9, 10 and 11, the most extended in scope of any fair in Texas except the State Exposition, at Dallas. Permanent buildings have been put up and the grounds well laid off. An American Standard race track has been constructed. High-class races have been arranged for each day. Aerial flights are to take place once each day. The Layton Midway Carnival Company, in charge of all paid attractions, will have twenty of the late shows at Pecos.

Irrigated products are to be a feature. Much attention is being given to the poultry show. There will also be a decorated automobile parade. Railroads have granted low rates from all points in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, and will allow liberal stopovers.

When I took the train at Plainview, on July 27th, I think I was the only delegate, but at every station more delegates would get on the train. By the time we arrived at Sweetwater we were quite a band bound for College Station.

Sweetwater seems to be prosperous and busy; I suppose on account of its railroads. The crops were gradually getting shorter as we left Plainview and the Plains. The best crops I saw, on an average, were between here and Lubbock.

As we were billed over the Santa Fe to Coleman, we went through Buffalo Gap, my old home, and I saw but little improvements through that country since I left there, eleven years ago. We arrived at Coleman about eleven o'clock, where we had to wait for our train four or five hours. I was disappointed in finding that city not much larger than when I last saw it, 20 years ago, and not presenting as attractive an appearance.

Sleeps on Dallas News.

We passed Belton about dark. I could not see much change in that place since the last time I had been there, some 30 years ago. The next town of importance was Temple. We came back through Temple in day time, and it seemed to be a prosperous place. Our next stop was Malano Junction, where we had to wait until 9 o'clock, and, to my surprise, there was not much town for a place with two railroads. There were very poor hotel accommodations; some of us had to sleep on Dallas News, and, as we had to wait until 9 o'clock Monday morning, we saw that the town was very small—only three or four country-looking stores and a few tired-looking people, wading through the mud.

We had to lay over at Valley Junction from 11 o'clock a. m. until 3 in the evening; not much town here except one hotel and weak artesian well of water that was warm and tasted bad to me, so we rested in the shade of trees, as the thermometer registered 108. We went through Bryan, an old-looking town, and arrived at College Station about 3 o'clock Monday evening.

I was agreeably surprised at the improvements at College Station. As we went from the entrance to the buildings was a large, gravel walk in every direction; in every spare space the grounds were beautified with fine shade trees, mostly cedars, arbor-just suits me." Some said they once expected to see three or four good buildings, but, to my surprise, they told me that there were 15 or 16 good, permanent buildings and more being built, besides many dwellings and other houses.

Hears Patriarchs Speak.

The grounds put on, to me, the appearance of a huge campmeeting; people were everywhere—standing, in groups, going and coming. They told me by this time that fifteen or sixteen hundred delegates from all parts of the State were there. Here we had the to meet such old patriarchs as E. W. Kirkpatrick, Frank Onderdonc, John S. Kerr, and others, and hear them tell about Texas when they commenced the fruit industry, 35 or 40 years ago, when Texas was in its primitive state, and its only resource was its unbounded range and long-horn cattle—in the days when it was said you could not make a living in Texas farming and could not grow fruit here; and that now we grow in Texas everything from the apple of the cold regions to the orange of the tropics. We have even taken the native pecans and improved them to where they have thin shells and bear in three or four years.

I heard Col Exall tell how he urged the people of Texas to better systems of farming—to select the best of seeds and to improve on every line, especially in the way of taking care of our lands by protecting our soil from washing away; protect by not over-cropping our soil and fertilizing by spreading the manure upon it and growing green crops of peas to be turned under after the other crops are taken off. Mr. Exall emphasized the fact that the prosperity of our State and Nation depends largely on the care we take of our soil; and, I would add, of the care we take of what we raise on it.

Spaniard Tells of Mexico.

One of the most interesting talks I heard while at College Station was by a Spaniard that had been educated and trained on farming in Texas. He made a strong appeal to us to help him educate his country—old Mexico—where, he said, they still tickled the ground with a crooked stick. He said that where Christianity and prosperity blessed the people there was peace and happiness, but where ignorance and starvation prevailed, there was revolutions. He said old Mexico is one of the best corn countries of the world; and still people are starving for the want of corn.

I want to say to the people of Plainview that I took special interest to tell them at College Station that I live at Plainview. Many said to me, "Well, that is a good country; you irrigate some there." I said, "Yes, it lived there, and wished they were back. I want to say to the people of Plainview, be brave and stay at your post. I have lived in Texas about 37 years, have been from Red River to the Gulf, from College Station to New Mexico, and I had rather take my chances at Plainview than anywhere. We have had three or four dry years, but they will not last always, and with our good soil and shallow water, when we once develop it and learn to handle it to the best advantage, we will have one of the finest countries in the world. I am sure we have the best citizenship of anywhere. It has been my observation that sin and ignorance wants a low country, in which it can hide; but Christianity, intelligence and education wants a high plain to shine from. So, let the light of progress shine from Plainview, so the world may know where we are and what we are doing. College Station is Hot. I want to thank the people of Plainview and the Farmers' Institute for the privilege and honor of being a delegate to College Station. I am sure I have been well repaid for what time and perspiration I devoted to the trip; as a part of the time at College Station the thermometer registered 116, and was too hot for a Plains man to sleep. I woke and jumped up in the middle of the night, while down there, thinking the house was on fire; but when I got out in the hall and found out how hot it was, I realized it was only the weather. I thank you. L. N. DALMONT. TWO SIDES OF FLOOD PROTECTION. Making Provision Against Drouths as Important as Protecting from Overflow. The State of Texas has been spending money liberally during the last three years in the construction of levees, the result being that it has added about seventy-five miles of these embankments to those previously in existence. In pronouncing this a pretty fair response to the legislation of four years ago, directed toward flood protection the Dallas Morning News, which has recently given considerable attention to this subject, is fully justified. So far as levee building is concerned, Texas has done and is doing well. The newspaper referred to points out as a rather ironic circumstance that since the surveys looking to further flood protection were begun in 1908, there have been no floods, such as were formerly experienced in the State; on the contrary, the intervening years have been notable for drouth. Levee building would undoubtedly have proceeded more rapidly in Texas had the conditions been reversed, but right here is excellent opportunity for pointing a moral and adorning a tale. In the Milam County district $21,000 has been expended on five and a half miles of levees. In the same district, because of better protection from floods, land has increased in value from $50 to $100 an acre. The cost of flood protection was $5.25 per acre. It is not difficult to determine the handsome per acre enhancement consequent to this expenditure. But quite another view should be taken of it; that is, the one we have in mind. The Milam County property has felt the protection from floods and has consequently doubled in value; but there have been no floods of late. Instead, there have been drouths. Drouths may or may not have cost the landowners—the farmers—as much as floods would have cost them. At all events, they have been costly. Assuming that the State of Texas were making provision against damage from drouths as well as damage from floods, is it not reasonable to assume that there would have been a still greater enhancement in the value of Milam County land? Texas and other states, it is certain, will soon see the wisdom not only of controlling their flood waters, but of impounding, storing, husbanding them for rainless seasons. The State of Texas has no asset more valuable than its water supply; this is now largely a wasted asset; it will not continue to be so when the people of Texas awake to the advantage that will accrue to them from construction of reservoirs as well as levees.—Christian Science Monitor. SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—The scene at the opening of the story is laid in the library of an old worn-out southern plantation, known as the Barony. The place is to be sold, and its history and that of the owners, the Quintards, is the subject of discussion by Jonathan Crenshaw, a business man, a stranger known as Blount, and the Yancy, a farmer, when Hannibal Hazard, a mysterious child of the old southern family, makes his appearance. Yancy tells how he adopted the boy.

CHAPTER II.—Nathaniel Ferris buys the Barony, but the Quintards deny any knowledge of the boy. Yancy to keep Hannibal, Captain Murrell, a friend of the Quintards, appears and asks questions about the Barony.

CHAPTER III.—Trouble at Scratch Hill, Yancy's home, when Hannibal is kidnapped by Dave Blount, Captain Murrell's agent. Yancy overtakes Blount, gives him a thrashing and secures the boy.

CHAPTER IV.—Yancy is served with a warrant for assaulting Blount. Yancy appears before Squire Balsam, and is discharged with costs for the plaintiff.

CHAPTER V.—Betty Malroy, a friend of the Ferrises, has an encounter with Captain Murrell, who forces his attention on her, and is rescued by Bruce Carrington, who threatens to whip the captain.

CHAPTER VI.—Betty sets out for her Tennessee home. Carrington takes the same stage. Yancy and Hannibal disappear with Murrell in the mountains of Tennessee. Murrell gets Yancy drunk and stabs him in a fight that followed. Hannibal escapes in a canoe.

CHAPTER VII.—Hannibal arrives at the home of Judge Slocum Price.

CHAPTER VIII.—The Judge recognizes the boy, the grandson of an old time friend. Murrell arrives at Judge's home. Hannibal hears of the finding of Yancy's body. Price arrested as counterfeit.

CHAPTER IX.—Cavendish family on raft rescue Yancy, who is apparently dead. Price breaks jail.

CHAPTER X.—Betty and Carrington arrive at Belle Plain.

CHAPTER XI.—Hannibal's rifle discovers some startling things to the Judge. Hannibal and Betty meet again.

CHAPTER XII.—Murrell arrives in Belle Plain. Is playing for big stakes.

CHAPTER XIII.—Yancy awakes from long dreamless sleep on board the raft.

CHAPTER XIV.—Judge Price makes surprising discoveries in looking up land titles. Charley Norton, a young planter, who assists the judge, is mysteriously assaulted.

CHAPTER XV.—Norton informs Carrington that Betty has promised to marry him. Carrington bids Betty good-bye. Norton is mysteriously shot.

CHAPTER XVI.—More light on Murrell's plots. He plans uprising of negroes.

CHAPTER XVII.—Betty and Hannibal are made prisoners in a lonely cabin.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Murrell appears at the cabin and shows his hand.

CHAPTER XIX.—The Judge hears of the mysterious disappearance of Betty and Hannibal.

CHAPTER XX.—The Judge takes charge of the situation and search for the missing ones is instituted.

CHAPTER XXI.—Carrington visits the judge and allies are discovered.

CHAPTER XXII.—Judge Price visits Colonel Ferris, where he meets Yancy and Cavendish. Learns things of importance about the boy. dashes a glass of whiskey into the colonel's face and a duel is arranged.

But that fixed stare of the judge's continued. No, the man had not changed—he had grown older certainly, but age had not come ungracefully; he became the glossy broadcloth and spotless linen he wore. Here was a man who could command the good things of life, using them with a rational temperance. The room itself was in harmony with his character; it was plain but rich in its appointments, at once his library and his office, while the well-filled cases ranged about the walls showed his tastes to be in the man's eyes and intellect.

"How long have you lived here?" asked the judge abruptly. Ferris seemed to hesitate; but the judge's glance, compelling and insistent, demanded an answer.

"Ten years."

"You have known many men of all classes as a lawyer and a planter?" said the judge. Ferris inclined his head. The judge took a step nearer him. "People have a great trick of coming and going in these western states—all sorts of damned riffraff drift in and out of these new lands." A deadly earnestness lifted the judge's words above mere rudeness. Ferris, cold and distant, made no reply. "For the past twenty years I have been looking for a man by the name of Gatewood—David Gatewood." Disciplined as he was, the colonel started violently. "Ever heard of him, Ferris?" demanded the judge with a savage scowl.

"What's all this to me?" The words came with a gasp from Ferris' twitching lips. The judge looked at him moody and frowning.

"I have reason to think this man Gatewood came to west Tennessee," he said.

"If so, I have never heard of him." "Perhaps not under that name—at any rate, you are going to hear of him now. This man Gatewood, who between ourselves was a damned scoundrel—the colonel winced—"this man Gatewood had a friend who threw money and business in his way—a planter he was, same as Gatewood. A sort of partnership existed between the pair. It proved an expensive enterprise for Gatewood's friend, since he came to trust the damned scoundrel more and more as time passed—even large sums of his money were in Gatewood's hands—" Ferris' countenance was like stone, as expressionless and as rigid.

By the door stood Mahaffy with Yancy and Cavendish; they understood that what was obscure and meaningless to them held a tragic significance to these two men. The judge's heavy face, ordinarily battered and debauched, but infinitely good-natured, bore now the markings of deep passion, and the voice that rumbled forth from his capacious chest came to their ears like distant thunder.

"This friend of Gatewood's had a wife—" The judge's voice broke, emotion shook him like a leaf; he was tearing open his wounds. He reached over and poured himself a drink, sucking it down with greedy lips. "There was a wife—" he whirled about on his heel and faced Ferris again. "There was a wife, Ferris—" he fixed Ferris with his blazing eyes. "A wife and child. Well, one day Gatewood and the wife were missing. Under the circumstances Gatewood's friend was well rid of the pair—he should have been grateful, but he wasn't, for his wife took his child, a daughter; and Gatewood a trifle of thirty thousand dollars his friend had entrusted to him!"

There was another silence.

"At a later day I met this man who had been betrayed by his wife and robbed by his friend. He had fallen out of the race—drink had done for him—there was just one thing he seemed to care about, and that was the fate of his child, but maybe he was only curious there. He wondered if she had lived, and married—" Once more the judge paused.

"What's all this to me?" asked Ferris.

"Are you sure it's nothing to you?" demanded the judge hoarsely. "Understand this, Ferris, Gatewood's treachery brought ruin to at least two lives. It caused the woman's father to hide his face from the world; it wasn't enough for him that his friends believed his daughter dead; he knew differently, and the shame of that knowledge ate into his soul. It cost the husband his place in the world, too—in the end it made of him a vagabond and a penniless wanderer."

"This is nothing to me," said Ferris.

"Wait!" cried the judge. "About six years ago the woman was seen at her father's home in North Carolina. I reckon Gatewood had cast her off. She didn't go back empty-handed. She had run away from her husband with a child—a girl; after a lapse of twenty years she returned to her father with a boy of two or three. There are two questions that must be answered when I find Gatewood: what became of the woman, and what became of the child; are they living or dead; did the daughter grow up and marry and have a son? When I get my answer it will be time enough to think of Gatewood's punishment!" The judge leaned forward across the table, bringing his face close to Ferris' face. "Look at me—do you know me now?"

But Ferris' expression never altered. The judge fell back a step.

"Ferris, I want the boy," he said quietly.

"What boy?"

"My grandson!"

"You are mad! What do I know of him—or you?" Ferris was gaining courage from the sound of his own voice.

"You know who he is and where he is. Your business relations with this man Ware have put you on the track of the Quintard lands in this state. You intend to use the boy to gather them in."

"You're mad!" repeated Ferris.

"Unless you bring him to me inside of twenty-four hours I'll smash you!" roared the judge. "Your name isn't Ferris, it's Gatewood; you've stolen the name of Ferris, just as you have stolen other things. What's come of Turberville's money? Damn your soul! I want my grandson! I'll pull you down and leave you suppressed and bare! I'll tell the world the false friend you've been—the thief you are! I'll strip you and turn you out of these doors as naked as when you entered the world!" The judge seemed to tower above Ferris; the man had shot up out of his deep debasement. "Choose! Choose!" he thundered, his shaggy brows bent in a menacing frown.

"I know nothing about the boy," said Ferris slowly.

"By God, you lie!" stormed the judge.

"I know nothing about the boy," and Ferris took a step toward the door.

"Stay where you are!" commanded the judge. "If you attempt to leave this room to call your niggers I'll kill you on its threshold!"

But Yancy and Cavendish had stepped to the door with an intention that was evident, and Ferris' thin face cast itself in haggard lines. He was feeling the judge's terrible capacity, his unexpected ability to deal with a supreme situation. Even Mahaffy gazed at his friend in wonder. He had only seen him spend himself on trifles, with no further object than the next meal or the next drink; he had believed that as he knew him so he had always been, lax and loose of tongue and deed, a noisy tavern hero, but now he saw that he was filling what must have been the measure of his manhood.

"I tell you I had no hand in carrying off the boy," said Ferris with a sardonic smile.

"I look to you to return him. Stir yourself, Gatewood, or by God, I'll hold you fierce a reckoning with you—"

The sentence remained unfinished, for Ferris felt his overwrought nerves snap, and, giving way to a sudden blind fury, struck at the judge.

"We are too old for rough and tumble," said the judge, who had displayed astonishing agility in avoiding the blow. "Furthermore we were once gentlemen. At present I am what I am, while you are a hound and a blackguard! We'll settle this as becomes our breeding." He poured himself a second glass of liquor from Ferris' decanter. "I wonder if it is possible to insult you," and he tossed glass and contents in Ferris' face. The colonel's thin features were convulsed. The judge watched him with a scornful curling of the lips. "I am treating you better than you deserve," he taunted.

"Tomorrow morning at sun-up at Boggs' race-track!" cried Ferris. The judge bowed with splendid courtesy.

"Nothing could please me half so well," he declared. He turned to the others. "Gentlemen, this is a private matter. When I have met Colonel Ferris I shall make a public announcement of why this appeared necessary to me; until then I trust this matter will not be given publicity. May I ask your silence?" He bowed again, and abruptly passed from the room.

His three friends followed in his steps, leaving Ferris standing by the table, the ghost of a smile on his thin lips.

As if the very place were evil, the judge hurried down the drive toward the road. At the gate he paused and turned on his companions, but his features wore a look of dignity that forbade comment or question. He held out his hand to Yancy.

"Sir," he said, "if I could command the riches of the Indies, it would tax my resources to meet the fractional part of my obligations to you."

"Think of that!" said Yancy, as much overwhelmed by the judge's manner as by his words.

"His Uncle Bob shall keep his place in my grandson's life! We'll watch him grow into manhood together." The judge was visibly affected. A smile of deep content parted Mr. Yancy's lips as his muscular fingers closed about the judge's hand with crushing force.

"Whoop!" cried Cavendish, delighted at this recognition of Yancy's love for the boy, and he gleefully smote the austere Mahaffy on the shoulder. But Mahaffy was dumb in the presence of the deencies; he quite lacked an interpreter. The judge looked back at the house.

"Mine!" he muttered. "The clothes he stands in—the food he eats—mine! Mine!"

CHAPTER XXV.

The Bubble Bursts.

At about the same hour that the judge was hurling threats and insults at Colonel Ferris, three men were waiting ten miles away at the head of the bayou which served to isolate Hicks' cabin. Now no one of these three had ever heard of Judge Slocum Price; the breath of his fame had never blown, however gently, in their direction, yet they were preparing to thrust opportunity upon him. To this end they were lounging about the opening in the woods where the horses belonging to Ware and Murrell were tied.

At length the dip of oars became audible in the silence and one of the trio stole down the path, a matter of fifty yards, to a point that overlooked the bayou. He was gone but a moment.

"It's Murrell all right!" he said in an eager whisper. "Him and another fellow—the Hicks girl is rowing them." He glanced from one to the other of his companions, who seemed to take firmer hold of themselves under his eye. "It'll be all right," he protested lightly. "He's as good as ours. Wait till I give you the word." And he led the way into an adjacent thicket.

Meantime Ware and Murrell had landed and were coming along the path, the outlaw a step or two in advance of his friend. They reached the horses and were untying them when the thicket suddenly disgorged the three men; each held a cocked pistol; two of these pistols covered Murrell and the third was leveled at Ware.

"Hues!" cried Murrell in astonishment, for the man confronting him was the Clan's messenger who should have been speeding across the state.

"Toss up your hands, Murrell," said Hues quietly.

One of the other men spoke.

"You are under arrest!"

"Arrest!"

"You ase wanted for nigger-stealing," said the man. Still Murrell did not seem to comprehend. He looked at Hues in dull wonder.

"What are you doing here?" he asked.

"Waiting to arrest you—ain't that plain?" said Hues, with a grim smile.

The outlaw's hands dropped at the side, limp and helpless. With some idea that he might attempt to draw a weapon one of the men took hold of him, but Murrell was nerveless to his touch; his face had gone a ghastly white and was streaked with the markings of terror.

"Well, by thunder!" cried the man in utter amazement.

Murrell looked into Hues' face.

"You—you—" and the words thickened on his tongue, becoming an inarticulate murmur.

"It's all up, John," said Hues.

"No!" said Murrell, recovering himself. "You may as well turn me loose—you can't arrest me!"

"I've done it," answered Hues. "I've been on your track for six months."

"How about this fellow?" asked the man whose pistol still covered Ware. Hues glanced toward the planter and shook his head.

"Where are you going to take me?" asked Murrell quickly. Again Hues laughed.

"You'll find that out in plenty of time, and then your friends can pass the word around if they like; now you'll come with me."

Ware neither moved nor spoke as Hues and his prisoner passed back along the path, Hues with his hand on Murrell's shoulder, and one of his companions close at his heels, while the third man led off the outlaw's horse.

Presently the distant clatter of hoofs was borne to Ware's ears—only that; the miracle of courage and daring he had half expected had not happened. Murrell, for all his wild boasting, was like other men, like himself. His bloodshot eyes slid around in their sockets. There across the sunlit stretch of water was Betty—the thought of her brought him to quick choking terrors. The whole fabric of crime by which he had been benefited in the past or had expected to profit in the future seemed tottering in upon him, but his mind clutched one important fact. Hues, if he knew of Betty's disappearance, did not connect Murrell with it. Ware sucked in comfort between his twitching lips. Stealing niggers! No one would believe that he, a planter, had a hand in that, and for a brief instant he considered signaling Bess to return. Slocum must be told of Murrell's arrest; but he was sick with apprehension, some trap might have been prepared for him, he could not know; and the impulse to act forsook him.

He smote his hands together in a hopeless, beaten gesture. And Murrell had gone weak—with his own eyes he had seen it—Murrell—whom he believed without fear! He felt that he had been grievously betrayed in his trust and a hot rage poured through him. At last he climbed into the saddle, and, swaying like a drunken man, galloped off.

When he reached the river road he paused and scanned its dusty surface. Hues and his party had turned south when they issued from the wood path. No doubt Murrell was being taken to Memphis. Ware laughed harshly. The outlaw would be free before another dawn broke.

He had halted near where Jim had turned his team the previous night after Betty and Hannibal had left the carriage; the marks of the wheels were as plainly distinguishable as the more recent trail left by the four men, and as he grasped the significance of that wide half circle his sense of injury overwhelmed him again. He hoped to live to see Murrell hanged!

TABERNACLE REVIVALISTS GO TO POCAHONTAS, ARK.

Rev. Steve Burke and Co-Worker Close Services; Some Striking Truths Spoken.

The tabernacle meeting closed Sunday night. The Rev. Steve Burke and his co-worker, Rev. Mr. Hobbs, went to Floydada Monday, and left Tuesday for Pocahontas, Arkansas. They will hold revival services at Pocahontas.

The rains interfered with the services at Plainview. Three nights church had to be abandoned entirely. Nevertheless, it was a great revival. There were more than 70 converts, and the people have been profoundly stirred by the homely truths chosen from broad experience and by the earnestness of these men of God.

The Rev. Mr. Burke enunciated some striking truths. "In the matter of eternal life," he said, "every man has an equal show. It falls to everybody to have eternal life if he has the will power. It is free, and yet, in the face of God's wonderful love and Christ's sacrifice, many of you are lost."

Revivals Expose Cowards.

Mr. Burke says a revival will show just exactly who are Christians and who in the church are lost. "It will expose every coward. It is a sad state, yet many churches get to where they say 'Don't talk about our sins; be careful what you preach.' Molly-coddles in the pulpit who are afraid to tell the moral coward about his sins are damning the world. If the flag of anarchy ever comes down it will be because righteous men for righteousness.

"I am opposed to saloons," Mr. Burke said, "because I don't like their manufactured product. One hundred thousand men and sixty-five thousand women die each year because of drink, and by far the greater part of them started with the social glass. Ninety per cent of the divorces are the result of the social drink. It isn't true that if you let it alone it will let you alone. My mother let it alone and it broke her heart, because her son cultivated an appetite for it.

Moral Man Church's Great Enemy.

"I had rather my son would associate with a drunkard than with a moral man. The drunkard would disgust him, but the moral man leads him on. The moral man is the greatest enemy of the church and of society. In his self-righteousness, he damns himself and leads scores of young men and women to hell.

"I have word from most of the ladies that they are going to quit playing cards. I am glad. There are just a few who will play or 'bust.' I feel sorry for those who are so weak they can't quit.

"No community will get on a higher plane than its women.

"If we meditate on the laws of Almighty God we will become stronger every day. We will 'delight in the law of the Lord.'"

Volunteers took down the tabernacle Monday and returned the lumber to local dealers.

FROM ENGLAND COMES REQUEST FOR HERALD.

Peter Keary Is Interested in Central Plains, and Asks Subscription Price.

From England comes a request for a copy of The Herald and subscription terms. Peter Keary of No. 48 Wimbledon Park, Surrey, England, asks for the information. The Herald has also received two letters from Chicago this fortnight, asking for information concerning the Central Plains.

O. D. Coen visited Plainview in July. Mr. Coen writes that he has everything packed to come to Plainview. "I don't know whether it is me boosting, or whether the contagion is in the air, but there are half a dozen parties here who are especially interested in the Central Plains."

LOAN SOCIETIES FOR FARMERS PROPOSED

American Ambassador to France Forwards Report on European System.

TEXAN AID IN WORK.

Edwin Chamberlain of San Antonio Member of Commission Which Studies Plans Abroad.

Sweeping recommendations for legislation designed to help development of agriculture in the United States are contained in an elaborate report forwarded to Washington by the American Ambassador to France, Myron T. Herrick, who has completed an exhaustive investigation of the systems of agricultural credit facilities in operation in Europe, says the Dallas News. Ambassador Herrick wrote the document after receiving reports from other American diplomatic representatives in Europe and conferring with others.

Work Ordered by Taft.

The work of gathering and compiling material for the formulation of plans for an efficient land and agricultural system has been carried on under instructions from President Taft, and Ambassador Herrick has been assisted by a commission which reached Paris from the United States in July. Edwin Chamberlain of San Antonio, one of the commission, who represents the American Bankers' Association, will report to that organization.

The Ambassador's report recommends the adoption by the United States of the Reiffeissen system of agricultural co-operative credit societies. This system has been particularly successful in Germany, where its operations represent half the business of the commercial banks. It includes organizations composed of small co-operative societies, whereby farmers are able to borrow money for a short time on their collective guarantee. These societies have become the nucleus of a series of central co-operative banks.

For General Committee.

The report also recommends that persons interested in the welfare of the farmer should form a general committee to direct a movement for the loaning of money to farmers for a long period at lower rates than they now obtain.

The report urges the President to place the matter before the people and suggests holding state conventions and then a National convention, at which a permanent committee should be appointed.

In this way the people would gradually become educated to realizing the necessity of adopting uniform state laws authorizing the establishment of new banking credit institutions whose sole purpose would be to loan money to farmers under conditions which would permit the complete wiping out of the loan through the payment of interest over a long period. This is the essence of the European system.

System of Banks.

The several banks would be complementary to the co-operative loan societies, which the Ambassador favors as a first step in the financial relief of farmers. As in the case of co-operative societies, these new loan institutions in the various states would make establishment of credit banks in large commercial centers necessary. These central banks could handle the securities of the state loan institutions and sell them in the international markets. Such banks have a better prestige if possessed of a Federal charter, and the report recommends the enactment of legislation to that effect.

SEARS TO OPEN

WAYLAND LYCEUM.

"The Taffy Man" Is Said to Combine Dr. Willets and Sam Jones.

Dr. H. W. Sears, "The Taffy Man," will open the Lyceum Course of Wayland Baptist College, October 17th.

Dr. Sears has spent twelve years on the lecture platform. An admirer says, "He is Sam Jones and Dr. Willets in one; for he has the pungent sarcasm and brilliant gift of the one, and the pathetic and inspiring power of the other."

"Dr. Sears is unique and without a peer to entertain and edify an audience on any occasion. Every lecture course is richer when he is in it."

Hart Schaffner & Marx new Varsity line for young men

NEVER before in all the history of clothes-making have the well dressed young men of this city been offered better clothes, livelier styles, more new and snappy features than we're now offering in the new Varsity line, created by Hart Schaffner & Marx special designers of young men's clothes.

The models are expressly for young men; the fabrics specially chosen for young men; and many new features have been added which will please the critical young college and high school fellows; and dressy young business men.

You must come and see these new models. We'll show you the new Eas-adjust waistband in the trousers; gives you three measurements, and does away with a belt if you choose. We'll show you trousers with belt of same material, in "tunnel" belt loops, a very good new feature. The coats are in various models; the waistcoats high cut; there are some good new pockets added.

Fine ready made clothes like these are now the standard of quality in men's wear; no tailor can touch them under double the price. Be sure you see them before you buy.

What are you doing to help Plainview grow?

It is even more true today than when Edison said it—that "Genius is 2 per cent inspiration and 98 per cent perspiration."

The old proverb says "Silence is golden." Would you say, then, that all of the silver-tongued orators holding forth nowadays are "free silver."

THE VALUE OF MOBILIZED RESERVE.

Under the American system of scattered bank reserves each bank selfishly accumulates gold and cuts off its loans in time of crisis. Foreign banks follow just the other course, as may be seen by a comparison of statistics during the panic of 1907, when the process of liquidation was world-wide.
The banks of Europe let reserves fall off and increased their loans.
They were enabled to do that because one feature of their scientific banking systems is mobilized reserves. They could put their reserves into circulation.

Is it not time that the banks of America formed a co-operative union to make mobile their pooled reserves?

PROSPERITY AND OUR BANKS.

Record-breaking crops, busy factories and good business constitute prosperity.

As is usual when business is good, there is fear that banks will not be able to meet even transient demands for currency without impairing their reserves. It is against the law to cut the percentage of reserves below the legal limit. The banks must, therefore, curtail loans, however well secured, in order to keep their reserves intact and supply the currency absolutely necessary to move crops.

New wealth in the form of crops,
instead of stimulating business, chokes it. The country's credit system is inelastic.

Must we undergo another panic to adequately impress on lawmakers the urgent necessity of reforming the American banking system?

FOR A GREATER UNIVERSITY.

The University of Texas opened its thirtieth session Wednesday. In September, 1883, the University enrolled 221 pupils, and had nine teachers.
Two thousand, eight hundred and thirty-two pupils enrolled at the State University during 1911-12, and the faculty has grown more than twelve times.

This increase has continued, notwithstanding a constant raising of requirements for entrance. Thirty years ago practically any one could enter;
now entrance requirements of our University are on a level with the leading universities of America.

If Texans had realized from the beginning the need and worth of their University, as they must realize now, the school would take rank with the best American State Universities, instead of being in class with the poorest in the matter of equipment and income.

But a story of the University would be incomplete without mention of its wider influence, of its increasing participation in the active concerns of the whole people. Three years ago the correspondence courses were added.
During three years nearly 1,800
Texans have taken instruction by correspondence. This brings instruction to any boy or girl, man or woman.
Can any Texan contemplate the progress of our University without pride, mingled with the one regret—that it has been held back and hampered by inadequate funds?

Statistics show that a college education adds more than 200 per cent to one's earning capacity. No arithmetic has yet been devised that can estimate the per cent it adds to one's manliness, usefulness and happiness.

The University can be made much more effective for great work by adopting the Constitutional amendment which will place the University and all educational and eleemosynary institutions beyond the reach of caprice of politics. Vote for the University.

A college education don't make a man, but it helps.

"BABY BEEF CLUB."

Commissioner of Agriculture Ed R.
Kone is making great efforts to place
Texas at the head of the list in agriculture and stock raising. He has lately launched a campaign to supplement the "Boys' and Girls' Corn Club."
This new movement he calls the "Baby Beef Club," or the "Boys' and Girls' Stock-raising Club." The National Feeders' and Breeders' Association is co-operating with the Commissioner, by offering prizes for the best fat calves raised by boys and girls.

The encouragement by this organization will be a great boost for the new children's club, and will be appreciated by all. It will be remembered that the National Feeders and Breeders, by their fat stock shows, have done a great work toward popularizing stock raising in Texas.

In explaining the character and importance of the new movement, Commissioner Kone said:

"The objective point toward the attainment of which this undertaking is designed to contribute is a vital one.
It is to round out and develop Texas farming to such extent that it will yield the greatest possible financial returns to those engaged in it, the most wealth to the State, and contribute all that it can to supplying human wants. Crop production is only half of farming; rather, it is less than half, because if it is followed alone, soil fertility is sure to decline. The other, larger, part is livestock production.
With it added agriculture is full-orbited and revolves securely around the sun of prosperity and yields its best. Forage crops that, if sold from the farm, would impoverish it, are made to render it ever richer and richer by being fed to livestock, and, by being marketed in the form of flesh, are made to bring the producer from three to five times more money than they otherwise would. The nutriment in most of such crops is not available as food for man until concentrated by being transmuted into meat. Every pound of it converted into meat adds that much to the food supply, as well as puts more money in the farmer's pocket."

Let's have a "Baby Beef Club" in Hale County. Surely, with abundant crops of grain and forage of all kinds, we have at least an equal chance with any section to win the prizes. If you decide to enter, correspond with or see E. Van Deventer, secretary of the Hale County Farmers' Institute.

Plainview at Church

SUNDAY IS PROMOTION DAY AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Sunday is "Promotion Day" at the First Baptist Church. Special music will be rendered by the Junior choir. Services begin at 9:45 a. m. This Junior choir is one of the best in West Texas. They have learned new songs for Sunday. There are some 35 or 40 voices, accompanied by several musical instruments.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Now that autumn is here, travelers have returned and schools have begun, we are to open our fall and winter campaign next Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church for more aggressive and efficient service.

We have named it "Denomination Day." The subject of the morning service will be "Denominational Loyalty." Every Presbyterian is expected to be in his place and take some part in the service, that it may all be to the glory of God. The choir is to render some excellent music in keeping with the spirit of the day.

We shall look for every member of the church, and we extend a hearty welcome to all friends and visitors.
S. PARK, Pastor.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH.

The following are the services to be held at Calvary Baptist Church on next Sunday, September 29:

- 9:45 a. m.—Sunday School.
- 11 a. m.—Morning Worship: "The Measure of the Gift of Christ."
- 4 p. m.—Junior B. Y. P. U.
- 7:15 p. m.—Senior Union renders a very interesting program.
- 8 p. m.—Evening Worship: "Jesus, the Way."

Miss Williams, instructor in Expression at Seth Ward College, will give a special reading at the Senior Union. Miss Harris, instructor in Voice at Wayland College, will sing for us at the evening worship.

Always something good at our services. Everybody invited.
C. R. HAIRFIELD, Pastor.

FEDERATED SOCIETY TO HOLD FIFTH MONDAY MEETING.

7. Give twelve missionary stations in Africa.
8. Give the names of twelve missionaries who are in Africa today.
9. What Protestant Churches have missions there?
10. How many missionaries and mission stations has your church there?

MRS. C. W. TANDY, President.
Program Committee—
MISS EDNA MAYHUGH,
MISS ROSA FOWLE.

REV. C. R. HAIRFIELD SPEAKS ON THE COUNTRY CHURCH.

The Missionary Society of Calvary Baptist Church met with Mrs. Charlie Brown Monday afternoon of this week. The subject for study was "The Country Church." Leader, Mrs. H. J. Dillingham.

The meeting was opened by singing "America." Prayer by Brother Hairfield. The leader read Matt. 9. Mrs. Will Murphy gave a reading on "Country Life." Mrs. Foley and Mrs. Harvey read papers pertaining to country life and country church life.

"Problems of the Country Church" was discussed by the pastor, Rev. C. R. Hairfield. Special prayer was made by Mrs. Will Murphy for the struggling country churches.

Following the program, the Society held a short business session, at which Mrs. C. W. Tandy, President, presided.

The social hour was indeed delightful. The hostess had prepared from her bountiful store of "country" supplies and goodies, apples red and rosy and peaches luscious "with native taste." The hostess not being satisfied, she must still further tempt the ladies with delicious watermelon, and, just to please the children present, peanuts, parched and unparched, were generously piled into the chubby little hands.

The next missionary meeting goes to Mrs. H. J. Dillingham's, on the fourth Monday in October

A TALK ON TUBERCULOSIS

CONSUMPTION—A Brief History of the Disease

By ROBERT J. NEWTON

Executive Secretary, Texas Anti-Tuberculosis Association

Consumption is an endemic disease; that is to say, a disease which can be contracted in any season and which exists in all the countries of the earth.

It is called a disease of the masses, because of its great prevalence among all classes of people. The first records of it date back to the fifth century before Christ, or about 2,500 years ago.

In 1865, Villimin, a French physician, demonstrated beyond doubt that tuberculosis could be transmitted from one individual to another. This was verified by other famous physicians until the disease was generally branded as infectious. In 1882 the specific germ which causes consumption was discovered by the great German scientist, Robert Koch.

Tuberculosis occurs most frequently in its pulmonary form, known as consumption, which, of course, attacks the lungs.

Since the discovery of the infectious nature of the disease, the number of deaths have decreased, noticeably in Berlin, London, New York, Philadelphia, etc. Yet, according to some statistics, every sixth or seventh death in the whole world is caused by tuberculosis in one form or another. The death rate from tuberculosis is greatest in Russia and Austria, France is next, America and Germany follow, and England has the lowest death rate. Accurate statistics for Texas are not available, but the Health Department has a record of about 3,100 deaths last year. There are between 7,000 and 10,000 deaths annually. The number of living cases, it is impossible to estimate.

Researches in recent years have demonstrated that consumption, also many other forms of tuberculosis, may not only be prevented, but can, in many cases, be arrested and lastingly cured. Governments have taken measures to suppress the scourge, but their efforts have not been wholly successful, owing to the lassitude and carelessness of the people. To successfully fight, intelligent co-operation from all classes is needed.—Robert J. Newton, Executive Secretary, Texas Anti-Tuberculosis Association.

WHITFIELD.

Sept. 23.—Will Puckett was a caller at Halfway a couple of days last week, on business.

HALFWAY.

Sept. 26.—A large crowd gathered at the school house last Friday night to witness the picture entertainment, which failed to appear. All were very much disappointed.

Farmers in this vicinity are very busy at present, cutting their row crops.

The exceptionally cold weather of the past few days surpasses all previous records here for this season of the year. There has been no frost, however, up to this writing.

J. D. Walker and W. U. Dannelley started this week to move their cattle to a ranch near Clovis, New Mexico.

Mr. O. P. Martin of Dana, Indiana, spent a few days the first of the week at the Gilbert and Barrett homes.

Robert Pinkerton has been quite sick the past week, but is better at present.

The Dye family are still wrestling with their siege of sickness. Frank Clark is improving. J. W. Dye, Jr., was taken sick the first of the week. Bryne Dye is convalescent. Grandma Puckett is now able to be up. All hope for the speedy recovery of this family.

W. R. Triplett of Plainview preached at Halfway last Sunday, filling his regular appointment.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hooper attended the Teachers' Association at Running-water last Saturday.

The Luxuries of Life

The luxuries and conveniences of this life are desired by all of us, but sometimes we meet a man who is not able to afford all of them, and sometimes we meet other men who are willing to do without some of them if he can save something thereby. Money saved is money made. Take care of the dimes and the dollars will take care of themselves is an old, true and tried saying. These are the men I am anxious to do business with. I base my profits on my expenses of doing business. Not the other fellow.

THE MESSAGE.

By LOUISE HEILGERS.

"God is either dead or out of date." The speaker hurled these words at the little group of staring people ringing round him.

"I tell you, friends," went on the speaker, his white face full of terrible earnestness, "you are imprisoned in a web of superstition. What's the good of preaching? What material good does your religion do you? Does it feed the hungry? Clothe the naked? Cure the sick? The clergymen have an eye upon their subscriptions. They don't want you. Your God does not want you. Nobody wants you."

His thin hands plucked restlessly at the soft felt hat that he held. A streak of red sunlight fell upon the bared head. The crowd stared at him—shuffling, coughing, spitting, as is the way with Hyde Park crowds. "Self should be your God," he cried at them huskily. "The best person of all to depend on is yourself."

A boy with a peaked, unhealthy face under a greasy cap, came pushing through the press:

"Say, mister," he called shrilly, "you're wanted at home. The kid's taken awful bad with convulsions, and Mrs. Purdon, she says for you to come home at once. Fair maized she seems."

The kid!

His only child. The Hyde Park orator looked at his neighbor's son without seeing him. The rickety steps upon which he stood seemed to rock dizzily; the world, all red sun and gaping faces, swam before his eyes.

"Eternal Father, strong to save, Whose arm doth bind the restless wave."

In a ready chant, the words came drifting to him from where, a yard or two further off, an earnest-eyed young revivalist held a service.

"What's the good of preaching?" the atheist had asked contemptuously of his audience a minute or two back; "God is either dead or out of date."

But what were the words that now came seething, red hot to his lips, refusing to be stayed. They burst from him in a groan: "Oh, God, save my child!"

Over and over again he said the words as he sped home. His feet kept time to the beat of them in his brain. When he reached the door of the house where he lodged, he leaned his burning face for a moment upon the door.

"Eternal Father, strong to save." It was as if a martial band were playing. He gained courage to climb the stairs. He met no one upon the way. When he came to the door of his room he saw that it stood ajar. A great quietness filled it. That and the setting sun. Over the bed knelt a woman, very still, her arms about a bundle in a woolly shawl.

It was all over then. The kid was dead!

But even as savage curses rose to his lips, his wife turned and saw him. "S-sh!" she said, a finger to her lips, and there was joy in her eyes, not tears.

And when he tiptoed near to the bed he saw that stretched across the counterpane lay one crimson sunbeam, like a blessing hand—the hand, perhaps, of God.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

THE LEMON AS A MEDICINE.

A nervous headache may frequently be cured by several slices of lemon in a cup of strong tea, and a bilious headache is almost invariably put to rout by a teaspoonful of lemon juice in a small cup of black coffee. The juice of half a lemon in a cup of hot water first thing in the morning is an excellent liver corrector and successful substitute for calomel and similar drugs.

Honey, alum and lemon juice is an old fashioned but good remedy for croup. A dash of lemon juice in water makes a pleasant and effective tooth wash, cleansing the teeth and sweetening the breath. In fact, a lemon is pretty much of a concentrated drug store. Outwardly applied, lemon juice and rosewater will remove tan and whiten the skin, and taken inwardly, lemon juice on lump sugar is fine for hoarseness.

Lemon juice with olive oil is far superior as a salad dressing to vinegar and a teaspoonful of lemon juice adds a dainty flavor and whitens the grains of boiling rice or sage. Salt and lemon juice remove rust stains from white goods, and tough meat may be made tender by adding a teaspoonful of lemon juice to the water in which it is to be boiled. If the hands become stained, lemon juice will make them white.

The lemon does not end its useful career even when the juice and pulp have been tracted. The half skins make dainty and attractive receptacles for serving ices or salads, or dipped in salt, the rinds clean brass thoroughly and quickly.—New York Times.

SELECT KAFFIR AND MAIZE

SEED FOR 1913 NOW.

Bainer Says Earliest Heads from Best Stalks Will Largely Increase Yield.

"As farmers, we can increase the yield of our kaffir and maize crops at least one-fourth by the use of the right kind of seed," says H. M. Bainer, Agricultural Demonstrator of the Santa Fe System. "It would be a hard matter to estimate the actual loss to our farmers in the seed planted last spring which did not even start to sprout. Not only was this seed lost, but the small percentage which often came up made a poor stand, and this could not produce a maximum crop.

"Poor seed often produces such a poor stand that it has to be plowed up and replanted, making all of the first planting, a total loss. Why not feed this poor seed to the hogs or cattle and plant seed that has been secured from the field and is known to be good?" Mr. Bainer asks.

Begin 1913 Crop Now.

"We cannot afford to wait until spring and take our seed from the bundle or out of the threshed seed from the granary," he says. "It may have become heated in storage, or the freezing and thawing of winter may have damaged the germinating qualities.

"The time to begin our 1913 kaffir and maize crops is in September and October. By selecting the best heads from the field at this time, the farmer can secure the earliest and best formed heads. A selection of these earliest heads will insure a seed that will mature uniformly earlier than the seeds from the later heads.

Uniform Heads Are Best.

"The farmer who will go through his field and select the best heads before the crop is harvested has an opportunity to see the type of stalk which produces the seed. A big head grown on a stalk by itself is not as good for seed as a uniform-size head which grew on a good stalk which was surrounded by other good stalks.

"Again, if the crop from which seed is being selected is somewhat mixed with other sorghum crops, the selected heads should be taken as far away from the foreign heads as possible.

"Remember that now is the time to start our next year's crop. Let us select the best heads and store them in a dry place, out of the reach of mice. The heads can be stored in sacks or tied in bundles, and can be hung from the rafters until spring. Shortly before planting time, these heads can be threshed out by hand. This method of selection will insure very much better yields than we have been getting."

BAINER URGES FORMALIN TREATMENT FOR SEED WHEAT.

Agricultural Demonstrator Says Precaution Must Be Taken to Keep Smut Out of 1913 Crop.

"It will pay every farmer who sows wheat this fall to treat the seed for smut before sowing it," says H. M. Bainer. "The 1912 wheat crop was badly damaged with smut and on account of this we must exercise every precaution to keep it out of the 1913 crop.

"The most of us know that the smut spores adhere to the wheat kernels and are sown with the seed. When the seed begins to grow, the smut also grows. It lives in the wheat plant and is ready to destroy the wheat kernel as soon as it forms."

Mr. Bainer says that on account of the large amount of smut in the country this year, it will pay to treat all wheat seed whether it shows smut or not. Either the "Blue Stone" or "Formalin" Treatments will do the work. The latter is considered best.

"One pound of the 40-per-cent solution of Formalin in 40 gallons of water is enough to treat from 2,000 to 2,500 pounds of seed. Thoroughly wet the seed either by sprinkling or dipping. Pile the wet grain and cover with blankets or sacks for two hours, then spread out to dry. Thoroughly disinfect the sacks in which the seed is to be replaced, also see that the grain drill is washed out with the solution. Don't treat the seed too long before sowing it."

CIRCUS PEOPLE SAY PLAINVIEW BREAD BEST.

Cole Bros. Circus shipped 100 loaves of bread from the City Bakery to Floydada, and purchased 130 loaves to take with them to their next stop. The show people told Mr. Dillingham that he baked the best bread they had found. Their total purchases from the City Bakery were 290 loaves of bread and 30 pies.

Young Women

Read what Cardui did for Miss Myria Engler, of Faribault, Minn. She says: "Let me tell you how much good Cardui has done me. As a young girl, I always had to suffer so much with all kind of pain. Sometimes, I was so weak that I could hardly stand on my feet. I got a bottle of Cardui, at the drug store, and as soon as I had taken a few doses, I began to feel better.

Today, I feel as well as anyone can."

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

Are you a woman? Then you are subject to a large number of troubles and irregularities, peculiar to women, which, in time, often lead to more serious trouble.

A tonic is needed to help you over the hard places, to relieve weakness, headache, and other unnecessary pains, the signs of weak nerves and over-work.

For a tonic, take Cardui, the woman's tonic.

You will never regret it, for it will certainly help you.

Ask your druggist about it. He knows. He sells it.

CAMPAIGN TEXTBOOK IGNORES ROOSEVELT.

Taft Leaders Are Silent on Reciprocity; Join Issue on Tariff and Cost of Living.

The Republican campaign textbook this year is notable for two things—absence of reference to Canadian reciprocity, which was one of the most important as well as most spectacular undertakings of the Taft administration, and absence of reference to the administration of Theodore Roosevelt. This latter omission is all the more striking because almost every chapter in the 1908 textbook harked back proudly to the Roosevelt policies, the Roosevelt deeds and the Roosevelt words. The 1912 Republican textbook brings the Republican party back to its old moorings of William McKinley and Mark Hanna, from which the Roosevelt storm tore it eleven years ago.

Join Issue with Democrats.

Taft leaders join issue with the Democrats on the high cost of living and the tariff, with a brief reference to trusts. The usual line of Republican tariff argument fills a substantial part of the volume, includes a chapter in laudation of the tin plate tariff as an illustration how a protective tariff cheapens things to the American consumer, and concludes by a reproduction in full of the tariff bill veto messages of President Taft. On the trust issue there are two chapters, one telling of the activity of the Administration in its efforts to control the trusts, and the other showing that free trade England is rust-ridden, the deduction from which, the text-book finds, is that the protective tariff is not responsible for trusts.

The Republican textbook's treatment of the subject of the high cost of living is pitched on a studious plane. It has in mind always that the protective tariff must be exonerated from any responsibility in the increased cost of living. So, with great detail, it attempts to establish by consular reports from Norway to the Malay Straits via Africa and China that an increased cost of living is world-wide; then argues that the increased production of gold and the changed conditions of farm life, from the greater cost of farm lands to the migration of country people to the cities, are the principal causes of the increased cost of living at least in the United States.

Tariff and Trusts.

In this manner the Republicans seek to combat the contention of the Democrats that the tariff and tariff-created trusts are responsible for soaring prices in this country. The case in the Republican textbook rests on the contention of a world-wide increase in the cost of things due to the increase of gold and changed rural conditions, while in the Democratic textbook it rests upon demonstration of the cost of material and labor in Europe with the selling price in Europe as against the cost of production in this country with the selling price in this country. This demonstration the Democrats back up, giving the American the cheap selling price in Europe of several hundred American articles manufactured under the protection of the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

A feature of the Republican textbook is a formidable chapter of nine pages devoted to showing how much patronage has been bestowed upon the "Afro-American citizen" and what various Southern states have done to said "Afro-American citizen" by the way of poll tax laws and "grandfather" clauses.

A SAFE SUBSTITUTE FOR CALOMEL.

A Mild Vegetable Medicine for the Liver That Is Free from the Dangers of the Powerful Chemical, Calomel.

The R. A. Long Drug Company's drug store has a mild, vegetable remedy that successfully takes the place of the powerful mineral drug calomel, the old-fashioned liver medicine. This remedy is Dodson's Liver-Tone, a very pleasant-tasted liquid that gives quick but gentle relief from constipation without the bad after-effects which so often follow taking calomel.

Dodson's Liver-Tone is fully guaranteed to be a perfect substitute for calomel, and if you buy a bottle and it does not entirely satisfy you, R. A. Long Drug Company's drug store will promptly give your money back upon request.

It is fine for both children and grown people.

HOW TO START AN AUTOMOBILE.

Dallas Postmaster Gives Number of Rules That Have Been Successful.

In addition to his other accomplishments, Postmaster Sloan Simpson is an authority on starting automobiles. He has prepared the following simple and infallible directions for the guidance of his friends:

- 1. Remove the spark-plug, empty the carbureter, and crank the engine.
2. Sandpaper the fly-wheel, take off the commutator, and crank the engine.
3. Kick the pup, blow cigarette smoke into the priming cocks—and crank the engine.
4. Disconnect the driving-shaft, reverse the engine, empty the gasoline tank—and crank the engine.
5. Repeat a verse from the Koran, tie a wet towel about the cylinders, take off the lubricators—and crank the engine.
6. Take the motor entirely apart, put it together with your fingers crossed, drop a quarter into the tank—and crank the engine.
7. Crank the engine suddenly, without doing anything else. This often surprises it into running.
8. Turn your coat inside out, oil the radiator, throw the gasoline strainer at a spectator, stuff a cushion in the fly-wheel—and crank the engine.
9. Repeat the names of the prophets in Arabic, put a gumdrop in the cylinder, write your name on the windshield, roll up your cuffs, connect the batteries with your watch, take off your necktie, yell 'Hell' into the gasoline tank—and crank the engine.
'There is not the least sense in any of these rules, but each has started an engine in its time.'—Dallas News.

AMARILLO TO HAVE GRAND OPERA.

Elks Fraternity Has Contracted With Miss Mabel Riegelman for October 11.

Amarillo is to have grand opera. Miss Mabel Riegelman has contracted to appear in grand opera, under the auspices of the Elks fraternity, at the Amarillo opera house Friday night, October 11.

Miss Riegelman is the talented protegee of the world-famed Gadsdi, who has starred for three years in the class with Mary Garden and others of her fame. She is now soprano prima donna with the Chicago-Philadelphia Grand Opera Company.

The coming of Miss Riegelman means a treat for opera lovers. Amarillo Elks are inviting every member of the fraternity to see Miss Riegelman.

"PLOW EARLY AND DEEP," SAYS AGRICULTURAL EXPERT.

Balner Says Ground Plowed in July or August Insures Best Crop.

"We all know that early, deep preparation for wheat is advisable," says H. M. Balner, Agricultural Demonstrator for the Santa Fe Railroad. "Ground that has been well plowed or listed in July or early August and then has been well cared for since, will insure a better crop than that land prepared in September.

"Ground worked after September 1 must naturally be worked shallower and at the risk of not making as good crop as an early, deep and well-packed seed bed. Soil prepared late should be well packed by the use of the sub-surface packer. If the packer cannot be obtained, the common smoothing harrow will do lots of good. The harrowing and tramping of horses will firm the ground much. Wheat requires a firm seed bed.

Time for Seeding.

The time for seeding wheat must necessarily vary according to the season, Mr. Balner says. Our best wheat crops, Mr. Balner thinks, come from sowing between October 1 to 20, provided the season is favorable. Sowing as late as December 1 often produces good results under favorable conditions.

Good Seed Necessary.

Mr. Balner says that too much cannot be said in favor of pure seed. A great deal of wheat will be used for seeding this fall which is badly mixed and of inferior quality. Good seed will pay, even if it has to be purchased slightly above the market price.

"It will pay to run all seed through the fanning mill. Turkey Red and Kharkof wheats will be found good varieties for Central Plains conditions. Both are hardy, of excellent milling qualities and yield well.

Don't Sow Too Much Seed.

"Most of us," Mr. Balner suggests, "sow too much seed. For our hard lands, thirty pounds of seed to the acre is sufficient, if the ground has been well prepared. Twenty-five pounds an acre is usually sufficient. We must give our wheat a chance to stool.

"It is a good plan to treat all seed wheat for smut, whether the wheat appears to be free from it or not. The 'formalin treatment' is the most reliable.

"Use a good, reliable grain drill, and cover the wheat with press wheel attachment, if possible. The press wheel attachment firms the ground better. Sow deep enough to come in contact with moist soil, but not more than three or four inches in depth. Wheat may be sowed slightly deeper in sandy soils than in heavy, tight soil."

Mr. Balner urges that the farmer sow smaller acreage and do the work right, rather than to sow twice as many acres only half prepared. He says we can't afford to "hog-in" our wheat.

CRYING FOR HELP.

Lots of It in Plainview, but Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys cry for help. Not an organ in the whole body so delicately constructed; Not one so important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood. When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous. There can be no health where there is poisoned blood. Backache is one of the first indications of kidney trouble. It is the kidney's cry for help. Heed it.

Doan's Kidney Pills are what is wanted, Are just what over-worked kidneys need.

They strengthen and invigorate the kidneys; help them to do their work. Read the proof from a Plainview citizen:

HOT FLASHES.

Women in middle age often complain of hot flashes. They are at that stage of life when their delicate organism needs a tonic and helping-hand which only Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can give them. Many women suffer needlessly from girlhood to womanhood and from motherhood to old age—with backache, dizziness or headache. A woman often becomes sleepless, nervous, "broken-down," irritable and feels tired from morning to night. When pains and aches rack the womanly system at frequent intervals, ask your neighbor about Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Mrs. J. IMROF, of 221 S. Benton Street, Baltimore, Md., says: "I wrote you about nine months ago, telling you of my condition. I have a fine baby girl—she weighed nine pounds when born. She is my third child and the strongest of them all. My suffering was only for two hours. I took several bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of Dr. Pierce's Smart-Weed. I never had a wretched day before I took your medicine. I was surprised how well I felt—could eat—was always hungry, and never had a sick stomach. The nurse who was with me said the medicine was wonderful because I got along so nicely after having had so much trouble before. She intends to recommend it to all her suffering patients. Everybody is astonished at me because I only weighed 102 pounds before and now I weigh 135. I have had several ladies come to me and ask about Dr. Pierce's medicine. I am willing to recommend it to all who suffer and want help. If any want information I will be glad to give it."

LOCAL INSTITUTE AT RUNNINGWATER.

On last Saturday, Sept. 21, a few teachers met with the patrons of Runningwater school to discuss some phases of school work and try to devise some plan whereby the schools might be improved. There were present several citizens of influence, among them being County Judge Mayfield and County Judge-elect Lewis, County Trustee Tarwater and Mr. Springer, of the Hale Center School Board.

The exceedingly cool morning caused nearly every one to be late in arriving, and little was done until after twelve o'clock. Mr. M. J. Baird is principal of the school, and he had promised us a good dinner on the occasion. The lateness of the arrival of some of the patrons seemed to give Mr. Baird much concern lest they miss the program. However, Judge Mayfield was no to be led astray by tardiness on the part of those long overdue. He expressed confidence in the outcome and recommended a postponement of the program until later. This met with the approval of all, and a general discussion of some minor school topics followed.

Now, Judge Mayfield hasn't lived in Hale County so long without finding out something of the habits of the people. Just as he had predicted, the people began to arrive. They, further, seemed to appreciate the fact that the wait would sharpen our appetite, for never have we seen a better dinner, nor a more abundant one. Now, we are not ashamed to confess the fact we are possessed of a weakness when it comes to eating. We are so timid that we can hardly get our consent to walk up and begin. But we are entirely too bashful to stand off to one side and have people make remarks about us. Then, too, we are like some people who go calling—it is hard to take leave. Another confession we will make in that we were ten years old before we were aware there was anything of a chicken excepting neck and gravy; and, habits early formed being most lasting, we have never been able to entirely overcome that of taking the neck. On this occasion, however, we were among strangers, and took only five. The boys at home would never believe we left one; but we did.

After all had feasted to their hearts' content (or should we say, "to our stomachs' distent"), we repaired to the school room, and spent the evening in discussing some of the more perplexing and important school issues.

The idea of local institutes is practically new in Hale County, but it can be made of much benefit to both teacher and patron if properly conducted. There has long been too much of lack of understanding between teacher and patron. The patron often feels—and not unjustly so in many instances—that the teacher cares nothing for the advancement of the school except as it furthers his own interests. The teacher is often made to feel that he is nothing more than a menial servant paid to perform so much labor and nothing more. This should not be. Teachers and patrons should realize that without co-operation success is impossible. But there can be no co-operation without a better understanding, and at least a speaking acquaintance. Through the local institute we hope to bring these things about. When the people understand their purpose there is but little doubt that they will render every assistance.

On October 5, our second local institute will be held at Hale Center, and Superintendent Rives has promised to show us what Hale Center has in the way of chicken and "pumpkin pies." But never again do we hope to enjoy an institute as we did at Runningwater.

Yours for advancement,
W. H. WARREN.

MOTOR HIGHWAY FROM NEW YORK TO FRISCO.

Automobile Manufacturers Propose Stone Highway; 25,000 Auto Owners Would Make Continental Drive.

An Indianapolis dispatch to the Dallas News says that a stone National Highway from New York to San Francisco, to be completed by January 1, 1915, in time for the Panama Exposition, is the dream of automobile manufacturers.

The plan provides for setting aside of 1 per-cent of gross receipts for one year by every automobile and sundry manufacturing concern which participates. The amount is to be paid either in three yearly installments of one-third of 1 per-cent each, or five of 1 per-cent each.

$300,000 in 27 Minutes.

Already practically every Indianapolis manufacturer has signified his intention of acceding to the arrangement. At a recent dinner in Indianapolis more than $300,000 was assured in twenty-seven minutes.

Owing to her larger output of automobiles, Detroit proposes to outdo Indianapolis. New York, Buffalo, Cleveland and other important automobile centers are working on the plan.

An appropriation of $10,000,000 will provide $5,000 for each mile of roadway to be spent for materials. This will be provided out of the general fund.

The road proper is to be constructed by the counties through which it passes, under direction of the War Department engineers. The course of this roadway will be determined by a National commission of experts.

Why Not via Plainview?

The total expense of the road, it is said, will be in the neighborhood of $35,000,000, and the men behind the movement claim that 25,000 motor cars will run over it to the Panama Exposition.

An enthusiastic Plainview motorist asks why the automobile highway should not come across the Central Plains and through Plainview?

HALE COUNTY SCHOOLS TO RECEIVE $12,000.

Scholastic Census Is 1,814; Plainview Gains Slightly Less Than Country.

The public schools of Hale County will receive $12,425.90 from the State for the school year just beginning, according to computations completed this week by Judge George L. Mayfield. This computation is based upon an allowance of $6.85 for each child of scholastic age. There are 1,814 children in Hale County between the ages of seven and seventeen.

Plainview will receive $5,651.25 of this amount, making nearly one-half of the total amount.

The scholastic census shows an increase of 224 over last year, or 14.1 per cent. The scholastic census last year gave Hale County 1,590 pupils entitled to participate in the per capita tax from the State. Plainview's scholastic census increased from 738 to 825, or an increase of 87; Hale County, outside of Plainview, increased from 852 to 989, an increase of 137.

The ladies are working away on the fence fund, which has now reached $120.75 toward the $1,000 necessary to put up the new fence.

ELECTS NEW OFFICERS.

Mrs. A. W. McKee Is Made President of Parent-Teachers' Association.

The Parent-Teachers' Association met in regular session Friday afternoon, at the High School Building. The principal matter before the Association was the election of officers for the season.

The following officers were elected: President—Mrs. A. W. McKee. Secretary—Mrs. J. F. Owens. Treasurer—Mrs. Frank Brown.

The enrollment committee was handed quite a few new names and the Association starts off with enthusiasm.

Mrs. McKee, in taking the chair, made a few fitting remarks and asked for more time to appoint committees and make plans in general for the welfare of the Association.

As a surprise to the many present, some of the ladies had quietly prepared cake and ice cream, and served it with much charm.

The Association meets every third Friday at 4 o'clock, at the High School Building.

Mrs. F. A. Ellison of Goldthwaite, Texas, came up Wednesday from Lockney, where she has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Spence.

PARENT-TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION TO BEAUTIFY SCHOOL GROUNDS.

Mrs. A. W. McKee Asks That Anyone Who Has Cuttings Please to Notify Her.

The Parent-Teachers' Association plan to beautify the school rooms at the different buildings of our public schools. The Association asks that the patrons of the schools and members of the Association give to the Association any cuttings or transplantings they may have left after replanting their flowers from the yards to pots for winter bloomers.

Any one desiring to supply some of these plants is requested to phone the President, Mrs. A. W. McKee, or Mrs. R. W. Braban.

A FROG IN A WELL KNOWS NOT THE WIDE WORLD.

There has recently been perfected a plan to have a "Travel Study Class" organized in Plainview, and the reading public is cordially invited to participate in this educational proposition. This class is designed to take up a reading course of travel, beginning the first week in October, and as it is not included in the Federation of Women's Clubs there will be no extra dues or fees.

There will be given an opportunity to every one who can in any way get in touch with the "Stoddard Lectures and Travels," for some exhaustive papers on history and literature, science and art.

These travel study classes were begun in Texas ten years ago, following the example of the Eastern States, but Texas is now leading in these studies. The Panhandle Travel Club at Amarillo, Texas, is to be organized the 8th of October, in unison with the "Chaster Club of the Plains," at Plainview.

The organizer of these clubs wishes to thank the ladies of Plainview for their kind courtesies in extending to her their aid in her efforts to place the name of Plainview on the already large list of club towns, and to you I extend my best wishes.

MRS. W. L. KING, Travel Study Organizer.

B. Y. P. U.'s ENTERTAIN AT MRS. MURPHY'S.

The Calvary B. Y. P. U. entertained Thursday evening, from 8 to 11 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Murphy, 1001 Restriction St.

Musical numbers, contests and readings furnished a pleasant diversion during the evening. Miss Effie Murphy delighted the guests with a reading, "Courting Under Difficulties." Instrumental selections were contributed by Miss Hattie Hutton, instructor in Piano at Wayland College, and Mrs. Leal Downs and Mrs. Wright.

Contest, fortune getting, and drawing kept the jolly crowd of young people busy. Refreshments of chocolate and wafers were served, shortly after which the B. Y. P. U.'s were saying good-nights with many expressions of pleasure to one and all and good wishes for the invited guests.

HIGHLAND CLUB PLAYS "FORTY-TWO."

The Highland Club was entertained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. John Elliott, 604 Cottage St. The usual pastime of "forty-two" was engaged in—four tables.

Some of the regular members were sick. The substitutes were as follows: Mrs. Pennock, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Roger Mayhugh, Miss Patterson of DeLeon and Miss Velma Fishback. The meeting hour was changed to 3 o'clock.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. C. Anderson, 314 White Street.

PRESBYTERIAN LADIES ENTERTAIN MEN.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Southern Presbyterian Church entertained the men of the church Thursday evening, at the home of their pastor, Rev. J. F. Forsythe, 211 Prairie Street. Quite a number were present and the evening was most pleasantly spent in various amusements, contests, readings and musical numbers—instrumental and vocal.

The refreshments consisted of salads, sandwiches, doughnuts, coffee and chocolate.

PLAINVIEW TO HAVE CREAMERY.

W. H. Morrison Is Anxious to Contract with Farmers for Butter Fat.

Plainview's industries are to include a creamery. W. H. Morrison, who has been manufacturing ice cream and bottle goods, has ordered a complete modern outfit for an up-to-date creamery.

Mr. Morrison already has a pasteurizer and boiler and steam for sterilizing cans. He has ordered a 500-pound churn and other complete equipment.

Mr. Morrison has shipped considerable cream the past season. He has not been able to fill all orders, however, because he could not get sufficient sweet cream from the country around Plainview. "I have been offering two cents above the butter fat market for sweet cream," Mr. Morrison says. He is getting all the sweet cream he can handle just now, but will need more as soon as his machinery comes in, and has needed much more during the summer.

At present Mr. Morrison is paying 26 cents a pound for butter fat. He says he will make contracts with the farmers for all cream, sweet or sour, that they can produce, and the success of this enterprise depends upon whether or not farmers will supply the cream.

The Central Plains country can supply good silage every year. A small dairy herd enriches the soil instead of impoverishing it, as grain crops do. In the Isle of Jersey dairying is practiced on lands valued at $600 an acre. "It certainly will pay in Hale County," Mr. Morrison says, and those who have tried dairying on the Central Plains agree with him.

Mr. Morrison proposes to produce only butter of the highest grade. He has lived in Hale County since 1881.

WAYLAND COLLEGE NOTES.

With the close of the first month's work in Wayland College, we are safe in saying that the school is on a basis for superior to that of any previous year.

We have a splendid faculty, and a student body that cannot be surpassed in earnestness and enthusiasm.

The most intense interest prevails among the members of the different Societies, and already they have begun to work of finishing and furnishing the rooms which have been set aside especially for them.

The chapel exercises have been of unusual interest this week. On Monday morning we were entertained by the teachers of the Fine Arts Department. Among our distinguished fellow townsmen and others who visited us and assisted in chapel services were Rev. Street, pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city; Dr. Park, our Presbyterian minister; Rev. J. W. Saffal, pastor of the Baptist Church, Hamlin, Texas; also Hon. A. C. Hatchell, donor of the trophy cup, to be won and held by the literary society which wins the Annual Inter-Society Debate. I. E. GATES.

WILL SPEAK IN PLAINVIEW.

Comrade Reddin Andrews of Tyler, nominee for governor, and Comrade Thos. A. Hickey of Hallettsville, nominee for lieutenant-governor, Socialist party of Texas, will speak in Plainview October 4th.

Comrade Andrews is 64 years old, a native of Texas, an ex-Confederate soldier, volunteering at the age of 16; was a cowboy, a farmer; later a teacher and is a preacher; was professor and later president of Baylor University before its removal to Waco; for the past three years has lectured for Socialism, refusing lucrative positions in colleges and churches because he could not bear to keep silent as to Socialism.

Comrade Hickey is editor of The Rebel, which gained 20,000 readers in six months; is a native of Ireland, though in America 25 years; was one of the original organizers of the Socialist party.

We want every fair-minded, liberty-loving man and woman in Hale County to hear these speakers.

Secretary, Socialist Party of C.I.K B. F. TUFFORD, Secretary. Socialist Party of Hale Co.

E. Van Deventer returned Monday from Roswell, New Mexico, where he went to purchase a car load of apples. He reports things in a flourishing condition in the Pecos Valley and the apple crop good, although damaged considerably by hail. Mr. Van Deventer occupied the Herald editorial chair for several months prior to the time the present management took charge.

OURS IS A TRADE THAT SERVICE MADE

This week a lady came into our store. She had just moved to Plainview. We had been recommended to her by another lady because of our "exceedingly courteous treatment" of her as a customer, we were told.

Courteous treatment of customers makes trading a pleasure. Business is human. We wouldn't sell groceries if we couldn't sell them and be courteous.

It is a pleasure to call our customers by phone whenever we secure something special appetizing. You, Mrs. Housewife, appreciate this. It enables you to provide the best table, and you don't lose even a minute visiting grocery stores to find out what can be had for the table. But your are welcome when you do visit our store.

All goods offered our customers are fresh, firm and of highest quality. Then we deliver them to you at once.

If you want fresh butter we secure it for you just as often as you want it—name the days—it will be fresh and sweet.

Our service doesn't cost you one cent. Courtesy to customers has made our store the largest grocery in Plainview.

Yours servingly.
