

DR. PRICE'S CREAM Baking Powder

Purity in food, lower cost of living—these are the demands of the day.

Pure food is health, and health is economy itself. We cannot have health without healthful food.

The most healthful foods are the quickly raised flour foods—biscuit, cake, muffins, crusts and other pastry, when perfectly made from wholesome ingredients.

Dr. PRICE'S baking powder makes these foods in specially attractive, appetizing and wholesome form, and for both economic and hygienic reasons, such food should be more largely substituted for meat in the daily diet.

But bear in mind that alum, or unwholesome baking powder, can never make pure, wholesome food.

CATTLE MARKET SAGS.

Hogs Are 5c Higher, While Sheep Are Weak.

Kansas City Stock Yards, March 24, 1913.—The cattle market sagged a little last week, and weakness predominates today. Receipts have been running a little smaller, but a slow dressed beef trade has caused killers to fight the market stubbornly. The run here today is 3,000 head, moderate for Monday, and demand is sufficient to prevent any decline of consequence, but not strong enough to hold the market up steady.

Good Nebraska steers sold at $8.55 today, but no strictly prime steers are included in receipts on the native side; they would reach around $8.90. More of the Johnson black steers from Oklahoma sold in the quarantine division at $8.80 today, same as similar steers brought last Wednesday. Heifers from the same shipper sold at $8.09 today, not quite as good as the $8.25 heifers from him last Wednesday. Stockers and feeders are off 10 to 15 cents today.

Country buyers moved slowly last week, but paid close to steady prices for everything, and in the end their purchases were up to a normal volume, 9,500 head for the week. Same week last year that trade took 4,800 cattle. That is about the same ratio with reference to the movement last year that has already been established this year. Sugar mills are represented today by a shipment of 1,250-pound cattle from the Scottsbluff district, at $8.20. Beet-top bulls from La Junta brought $6.50 last Wednesday.

Veal calves are a half a dollar lower than a week ago. Some commission men have advised customers to postpone shipments intended for this week till next week, anticipating a better market them.

Hogs are 5 cents higher today, which puts them back close to the best point of last week. Top price today is $9.00, bulk of sales $8.85 to $8.95.

Order buyers and shippers are good buyers of weights from 225 down, including pigs, and force packers to stay in line. Conditions are strong and healthy.

Sheep and lambs have displayed weakness constantly since the first of last week, with the single exception of Friday. Declines have been negligible, however, and Friday restored all losses. Run is 7,000 today, market steady to 10 cents lower, lambs at $8.75 for tops, wethers $6.90, ewes $6.50, heavy yearlings $7.30. Not much change in prices is expected.

By beginning now, manure and filth in which the young stages of the fly are passing the winter can be disposed of, thereby destroying the young flies. In like manner, all cellars, houses and other buildings in which the adults may be hiding, should be thoroughly gone over. The destruction of one fly now is equivalent to destroying hundreds of thousands of them in the summer. By cleaning up all rubbish now we can not only destroy most of the hibernating forms, but also deprive those which succeed in passing the winter of suitable breeding places when the warm spring days come.

How the Fly Breeds.
The breeding habits of the house fly are generally known, though some readers may not be acquainted with them. With the first warm days of spring a few house flies will be seen flying about, and these search for suitable places to deposit their supply of eggs. Fresh horse manure in stables is used when available, and when this cannot be found any decaying vegetable matter is used. The small white eggs, or "blows," are deposited and from these hatch the small maggots, which feed upon the material, grow rapidly, and in about a week are full-fed and about one-half an inch long. Then they pass to a resting stage, the pupa, which is a small oval, brown object about the size of a small bean. In this stage the fly remains a day or two, and then breaks through the shell and crawls about until its wings expand and dry, when it flies away in search of food, and later to deposit its eggs. In the spring when the weather is yet cool, the fly does not develop so quickly as in the summer, when it may pass from an egg to the adult fly in about a week. Each female fly lays several hundred eggs, which, together with the rapid development during the summer and the ability the fly has of escaping danger, accounts for the overwhelming swarms of house flies during the summer.

Clean Out Breeding Places.

Every town or city which permits filth to collect on vacant lots, in back alleys, on the main streets or back yards, or permits owners of horses to allow manure to collect in stables or to be piled up back of the barn, is sure to be overrun with the house fly each summer. The first and important thing for such a city to do is to begin now and make sure that all fly breeding places are cleared up and kept clean during the spring and summer. If the fly is not allowed free access to breeding places it cannot continue to multiply so rapidly. To be sure it is impossible to keep the fly from breeding entirely, but the fewer the exposed breeding places there are, the fewer are the chances that any particular fly will succeed in reproducing. If we could prevent the fly from continuing to multiply, the whole problem would be solved.

But the house fly, like with all insect scourges, can never be completely stamped out, and all we can hope for is to reduce their numbers as much as possible. To accomplish this we must prevent them from reproducing and employ every means possible to destroy those which do mature. Traps, fly paper and poisons are very helpful about the home and in stores. Along with the actual destruction of flies we should keep in mind that this insect is of importance to man first of all as a carrier of germs from filth to food materials.

The fly is a nuisance to be sure, but if we were sure it was not laden with germs we might bear with it, as we do with the English sparrow. The fly is comparatively harmless until he gets hold of filth laden with disease germs. It is, therefore, important not only that the number of flies be reduced, but that all materials reeking with the germs of diseases be carefully disposed of or screened so that the fly does not have an opportunity of getting its body and legs covered with these. Further than this, all food materials should be kept out of reach of the fly, for it cannot place germs upon food without coming into contact with it.

An effective fly campaign resolves itself, therefore, into a fight to reduce the number of flies, to prevent those which escape destruction from getting at filth and becoming charged with disease germs and to keep all foods out of reach of the fly. It is only by diligently carrying out such a campaign that any community can hope to solve the fly problem.—Leonard Haseman, in the University Missourian.

BIG WINDSTORM WIPES OUT TOWNS

Half Hundred Reported Dead in Meager Reports from All Over Middle West.

SOUTHERN STATES HARD HIT

Mississippi and Alabama Worst Sufferers from Damage to Life and Property.

Chicago, Ill., March 22.—Chicago was almost completely cut off from wire communication with the outside world last night (Friday). Except over the leased wires of the press associations—and these working only occasionally—no dispatches were received or transmitted by the Western Union or Postal offices between this city and the east and south. The wires to the west were little better off. The long distance telephone wires were likewise out of commission, and no connection was to be had with New York or Washington.

The conditions—due to the storm, which is moving eastward—were more serious even than on Inauguration Day four years ago, when Washington was isolated. In fact, the telegraph companies have not been so completely crippled in two decades. The telegraph and cable news service in the Chicago papers of this date filtered in over leased press wires.

Middle West Swept.

A terrific windstorm, accompanied by rain, sleet and snow, swept over nearly the whole Middle West yesterday, causing many deaths and great destruction of property.

Alabama and Mississippi seem to have been the states where the greatest violence was felt. A half score of towns in those two states were practically destroyed, and a half hundred deaths are reported. Indiana, Missouri and Ohio also reported loss of life and property.

The force of the storm was felt from the Gulf Coast far up into the Northwest.

The full extent of the damage cannot be learned, because of the fact that wire communications from Chicago to practically all of the east and a large section of the south and west were cut off.

Blizzard Hits Chicago.

In Chicago, starting before midnight and continuing until late in the afternoon, a gale burdened first with rain, then with hail, and finally with snow, tore through the streets, ripping down telephone poles and burying railway tracks.

During the daylight hours telegraph service out of the city was at times almost suspended, and on most of the railroads trains were from a few minutes to eight hours late. But for the fact that milder weather is predicted for today the city would be in danger of several days of isolation.

"SUCH DELICIOUS Doughnuts!"

Cottolene makes delicious doughnuts—free from sogginess, grease and indigestion. The reason is that Cottolene contains vegetable oil—not animal fats—heats to a much higher degree than butter or lard, fries so quickly that it forms a crisp, dry crust over the dough and prevents the absorbing of the fat.

Cottolene

Cottolene is decidedly better than butter or lard for all shortening and frying. It is healthier, it is quicker, it is more economical.

Cottolene costs no more than lard, you use but two-thirds of a pound of Cottolene to do the work of a full pound of butter or lard.

POTATO DOUGHNUTS
Cream 3 tablespoons Cottolene, add 1/2 cup sugar and 3 yolks of eggs well beaten with 1 white. Stir in 1 cupful freshly mashed potato and 1/4 cup milk. Sift 2 1/2 cups flour with 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon each of salt and ground nutmeg, also a little nutmeg, and add to first mixture, working in flour enough to handle lightly. Roll and cut before frying and have Cottolene hot enough to brown a bit of bread lightly in half a minute. Turn doughnuts as they come to the top, and again when nicely browned.

Cold Wave Follows Storm.

Back of the storm came a cold wave which is extending over the trans-Mississippi States and spreading east. In many places in the Northwest springlike weather has been succeeded by temperatures in which the mercury has been sent down almost to the zero mark.

This cold wave is felt even in the Southwest States. The mercury yesterday dropped to 13 at Kansas City, 8 in Omaha, 12 in St. Joseph, Mo.; 10 at Wichita and Concordia, Kansas, and 10 at Amarillo, Texas.

In the mountain states the cold weather was severe. At Cheyenne, Wyo., the thermometer registered 8 degrees above zero; 10 at Harve and Helena, Mont.; 4 at Lander, Wyo., and 14 at Yellowstone.

Nebraska Suffers.

Dallas, Texas, March 24.—Hale County Herald, Plainview, Texas.—First dispatch received direct from Omaha reached Chicago at 5 a. m., stating that hundreds of people had been killed by the cyclone that circled over the cities of Omaha and Council Bluffs at 5:40 p. m. yesterday.

Early reports indicate that the city was the scene of the most destructive tornado that ever visited the state. It is reported that all telegraph and telephone wires were blown down.

Thirty to forty blocks were swept by the storm, leaving hundreds of wrecked residences in its path. Trains reaching the city during early morning stopped to take on dead bodies and many injured people.

The villages of Benson, Dundee and Florence, suburbs of Omaha, were practically wiped out. Heavy rain saved masses of wreckage and many bodies from being burned.

The Webster Street Telephone station in Omaha, containing a score or more of girls, was one of the buildings hit by the storm, and in a moment was twisted and torn. Several of the girls were killed and many others injured. A moving picture show putting on last film collapsed, and in a rush through exists many not hurt by fall of building were trampled to death. A few of the attendants escaped.

Mayor Dahlgren wired Governor Moorehead for troops to prevent looting on residences and dead bodies.

Governor Goes in Person.

Three Omaha companies were partially available, and Governor Moorehead ordered out two Lincoln companies and others from nearby towns. Governor Moorehead personally left the State capital on special train for the scene of the disaster shortly after midnight.

Hotels and hospitals, according to persons from the scene of the disaster, are filled with dead and injured.

Passengers arriving in Lincoln, Nebraska, at midnight brought information that the tornado first destroyed the suburb of Ralston, Nebr., and from there swept up the residence section of Omaha.

The Illinois Central Railroad bridge over the Missouri River was destroyed. A single railroad wire connects Omaha with Lincoln.

Fire sprang up all over the tornado swept area; firemen were unable to respond to numerous alarms, and many houses were allowed to burn to the ground, adding to the horrors of the situation.

Under Martial Law.

Police were unable to protect the stricken district, and it has been placed practically under martial law.

On account of the appalling nature of the disaster and lack of communication with the outside world, practically no names of dead and injured are available.

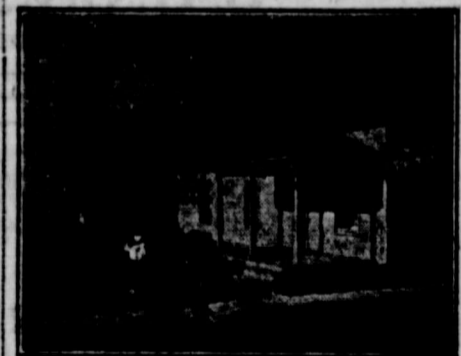

Absence of wire facilities prevents hint of exact situation, but railroad people state that it is grave.

Property damage will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The tornado swept in from the southwest and zig-zagged to the northeast over the residence portion of the city, destroying practically everything in a path from two to four blocks wide.

Co-Operative Marketing by Grayson County Farmers Is Breaking All Records.

Sherman, Texas, March 22.—The second week of co-operative egg marketing on the part of the farmers residing in Grayson County resulted in the bringing here today of 12,000 dozen eggs. This so far has brought them an average of about 2c per dozen above the market price, and it is expected to do even better than this when the work is thoroughly organized and the farmers of the entire section of the State are interested in the matter. Heretofore there have been two obstacles in the way of the farmers getting the best price for eggs the year around. One of them was the fact that it has been well-nigh impossible to impress on farmers the importance of gathering the eggs as soon as they are laid, and the other is that little or no interest could be worked up in getting the farmers to get together and market their eggs at one time in such quantities that it would pay to ship them.

C. A. Melton, of Sherman, secretary of the Grayson County Poultry Association, has started a campaign in the county to interest the farmers in disorganizing culls and common stock poultry altogether and getting each farmer to select some breed exclusively.

RAM BREAKS UP SCHOOL.

Butts Woman Principal and Puts Children to Rout.

A ram with no more respect for the public school regulations than was manifested by "Mary's Little Lamb," recently wandered into the Crescent School, in the Franktown district. It followed Nick Galdona.

Miss Flora Denniston, principal, encountered the ram in the hall. She tried to "shoo" it away. Mr. Ram butted Miss Deniston at the knees and knocked her down.

Then some of the pupils who knew nothing of the disposition of a bull sheep tried to reason with the Galdona pet. Well—the students who escaped violent collision with the hard skull of the ram fled from the building. During the scrimmage Miss Denniston remained insensible on the floor. Frigh and shock caused her to swoon. The janitor was about to resort to cautious strategy when Nick Galdona said something in Italian and the ram followed him back home, but school was dismissed for the day.—Pittsburg special to Washington Star.

THE PULSE OF A SKYSCRAPER.

Constant Slight Vibrations in Every Direction.

By day or night, a modern city is never wholly at rest. A hundred disturbing factors are constantly setting up curious vibrations which carry in every direction. The tracing out of these vibrations and their accurate measurement is a new problem among builders which has a peculiar interest for the layman as well. This problem of feeling the pulse of buildings is not limited to great cities, but often arises in comparatively small towns throughout the country. Let a train rush past the foundations of a high building, or even a low one, or a powerful windstorm beat against its walls, and the entire structure may vibrate like a giant tuning fork. Incidentally, the problem is so well understood that accidents from excessive vibration is practically unheard of. The cradle may rock, but it never falls.

The measurement of the pulslike vibrations is made much the same as that of an earthquake, and almost as accurately. The marvelously delicate instruments which are depended upon for these records trace curious pulsing lines, which show at a glance just how wide an arc the building swings through, and how regular is the recurrence of the movement. These readings are accepted on court as absolutely conclusive, and it is not uncommon for damage suits involving immense sums of money to be decided by these delicate tracings.

Public opinion is all wrong, or nearly so, as to the amplitude of the vibrations of buildings, both large and small. Everyone has felt such vibrations, but one's sensations are apt to be very misleading. It is a surprise to many that the most violent vibrations are not felt in the extremely high buildings, as is commonly supposed, but in the comparatively low office buildings, and as a rule those of solid construction. A vibration of three-sixteenths of an inch is extremely violent, for a movement of one one-hundredth of an inch is readily noticeable. As the records show, there is a peculiar method of rhythm in these movements, the building swaying back and forth through a given arc, with the regularity of a pendulum.—Christian Herald.

This was decided upon at a meeting of a committee of farmers and business men held in Anson yesterday. Eight hundred dollars of this money is offered to adults and $400 is offered strictly to boys and girls under 20 years of age. The prizes the business men offer are for crops that are common to all sections of the county—that is, cotton, milo maize and Kaffir corn—and are divided as follows: Two hundred dollars for the greatest production on five acres of cotton, with a second prize of $100 and a third prize of $50; for the milo maize the prizes are $100 for the greatest production on two acres, $50 for the second and $30 for the third; for the Kaffir corn the prizes are the same as offered for the milo maize.

The prizes for the boys and girls under 20 years of age are as follows: One hundred dollars for the greatest production of cotton on one acre, $75 for the second and $25 for the third. The other classes of prizes offered for the boys and girls are as follows: One hundred dollars for the greatest production of milo maize or Kaffir corn on two acres, $75 for the second and $25 for the third prize.

All except the cotton prize offered on five acres is in line with prizes offered by the Texas Industrial Congress.

The following towns are participating in the prizes offered: Anson, Avoca, Hamlin, Hawley, Leuders, Tuxedo and Stamford. J. B. Zachary, of Hamlin, was elected chairman of the general committee to handle the contest, and L. T. Cunningham, of Anson, was made secretary.

A COLD, LA GRIPPE, THEN PNEUMONIA

Is too often the fatal sequence. La Grippe coughs hang on, weaken the system, and lower the vital resistance. R. G. Collins, Postmaster, Barnagat, N. J., says: "I was troubled with a severe La Grippe cough and was completely exhausted after each fit of violent coughing. Before I had taken one-half of a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, the coughing spells had entirely ceased. I wish to say it can't be beat. All others are imitations. R. A. IMPORTANCE OF HEALTHY KIDNEYS.

Plainview Readers Should Learn to Keep the Kidneys Well.

The kidneys have a big work to do. All the blood in the body is coursing through the kidneys constantly to be freed of poisonous matter. It is a heavy enough task when the kidneys are well, but a cold, chill, fever or some thoughtless exposure is likely to irritate, inflame and congest the kidneys and interrupt the purifying work.

Then the aching frequently begins, and is often accompanied by some irregularity of the urine—too frequent passages, sediment or retention. Thousands testify to the wonderful merit of Doan's Kidney Pills, a remedy for the kidneys only, that has been used in kidney troubles fifty years. You will make no mistake in following this Plainview citizen's advice:

Mrs. T. B. Orwin, 202 Jones St., Plainview, Texas, says: "When we have had occasion to use a kidney remedy we have taken Doan's Kidney Pills. They have never failed to be of benefit."

HAVE BONFIRE AFTER EACH WIND, SAYS CIVIC LEAGUE.

Plainview Ladies Urge That Yards Be Cleaned Just as Homes Are.

Realizing that much might be learned and many mistakes prevented by a knowledge of what had been done for civic improvement in other places, we have sent to Washington, to several state governments and to clubs for bulletins, and the responses have been very prompt and the knowledge gained of much value.

I see no reason why Plainview cannot accomplish the work of improvement as well and as easily as many other towns have done. Occasionally some one says, "You can never do it! Every time the wind blows it is as bad as ever." There is just one answer to this, and that is that every time the wind ceases to blow we must have another little bonfire. It won't seem such a job and we get the habit, and the result will be worth the effort. The housewife cleans every day. What would you think of her saying, "It is of no use to sweep; there will be more dirt tomorrow?"

This seems a good place to quote a few lines from the Kirksville, (Mo.) Bulletin, which is one of the best, right to the point, and well worth reading: "The Civic League stands for the betterment of the town, and all the League asks is that you help, by taking a sympathetic (instead of critical) interest in what is being done. Put your own shoulder to the wheel occasionally. Even if it does get your coat muddy, you'll have the satisfaction of being a real 'citizen.'"

Mrs. L. Lee Dye, the president, and her co-laborers feel much encouraged since the committee of which she was chairman visited the Mayor and Council Monday night. That they would be courteously received was expected, but that every one of them—Mayor, Councilmen and City Attorney—should show a real, live interest and greatly approve of the work, with assurance of their co-operation, was a pleasant surprise; and I have been informed that the committee went home with new courage.

There is a live committee planning the details of the campaign against flies, and another one, just as earnest, planning the flower planting, and we hear of prizes to be given. Details of all these plans will be published later. With the knowledge of what others have done, the difficulties in Plainview do not seem too great if all will help. One gentleman remarked in my hearing that nothing would give the town a "boost" like capturing that prize for the cleanest town.

Illinoisan Urges Growing of Toads to Be Rid of Disagreeable Insects.

Prof. Kirkwood found that a single toad can destroy insects in one season that would damage crops to the extent of $12.88 (textbook, Zoology, by G. W. Herrick, B. S. A., page 245). I timed one that lassoed 15 flies in two minutes.

To destroy flies and mosquitoes raise toads. It is easy: in a convenient corner of the lot, especially near stables, dig a shallow basin, say 12 inches deep and three by six feet or more. Have the edges sloping and lined with clay or cement mortar; keep about six inches of water in this basin, and the toads will spawn in it. Soon the water will be full of black tadpoles. These will destroy the "wigglers" of mosquitoes. Shortly the tadpoles will change to little toads and congregate at the edge of the water and stay closely huddled together for a week, after which they leave to destroy cutworms, caterpillars, larvae and flies, bugs, etc. Grown larger, they catch flies and bugs with their tongue, which is long and very swift. The toad is not foul, poisonous, dirty nor malodorous. It cannot give you wart, itch nor any disease; it is not a good looking toad, but for genuine quiet, useful service, he beats his cousin, the frog, to smithereens. On lawns, toads should be raised in basins for water plants. A. P. S.

SHALL WE MOVE A. & M.

Texas newspapers are giving large space to the discussion growing out of a proposal to unite the State Agricultural and Mechanical College with the University, at Austin.

It is suggested that the buildings now at College Station could be used, and are needed, for an insane asylum. The argument of reduced operating expenses has much weight, and increased educational efficiency is a larger consideration.

President Milner, of A. & M., opposes the proposed consolidation, and cites instances from the older states to prove his contention of vastly increased educational efficiency to the youth of the commonwealth in States where the Agricultural and Mechanical College is removed from the State University.

There is much duplication in teaching force, as well as in equipment, at Austin and College Station. The question for largest consideration is service to the State. Will the increased number of students attending the two schools, operated separately as at present (if there is an increase over what there would be were the two schools united), offset the expenses incurred by duplication?

Can one central institution meet the needs of a commonwealth so vast and of interests so diversified as Texas? If not, might it not be wisdom to combine the school at College Station with the University at Austin and establish another college in some part of the State which must work out agricultural problems entirely different? Or would it be wiser to maintain the school at College Station and establish yet another in some diverse section of Texas?

These are questions which effect the prosperity of the whole people of Texas. The foundation of the State rests upon the education of its youth.

trains and engines passed through the interlocking switch at the Texas & Pacific station, an average of 241 per day.

Coleman.—Hunters in this vicinity are rapidly eliminating the jack rabbit. Several hundred of the native product were killed recently, when one hundred and seventy citizens of this county, armed with shot guns, went in search of "Brer Rabbit."

Alvin.—Thirty-nine new silos will be erected in this vicinity within the next sixty days, contracts for that number having been placed. Brazoria County, with 60 silos already in operation, ranks first in the State.

Livingston.—At a mass meeting Saturday it was unanimously decided to ask the Commissioners' Court to grant an election to determine whether or not bonds in the sum of $200,000 shall be issued for road improvement in precinct 1, Polk County.

Athens.—A bond election in which $100,000 will be asked for to improve the highways in precinct 1, Henderson County, has been ordered by the Commissioners' Court.

Itasca.—The Itasca Item, a weekly newspaper, was sold at auction in front of the court house in this city a few days ago by J. C. Butts, receiver, to Pat E. Hooks, who in turn disposed of the property to J. F. Pardue, who immediately assumed charge. Mr. Butts has conducted the paper for several months.

Fort Stockton.—All records for the laying of steel rails were broken by the construction gangs who are laying the track on the Orient between this city and Alpine. In four days more than 25,300 feet of rails were laid. In a single day 9,100 feet were placed.

San Benito.—The much-discussed "Cabbage Day" celebration was held here March 17, with great success. Cabbages from this section were served in all the hotels and restaurants. A crate was recently dispatched to President Wilson, with the request that he include cabbage in his St. Patrick's Day dinner.

Tyler.—The Tyler Commercial Club will at an early date send a practical man to Cobden, Illinois, to study a new method of kiln drying sweet potatoes. This process of preserving potatoes has never been adopted in Texas, and in only a few places in the Southern States. The method is said to be inexpensive and will keep the potatoes indefinitely and render them better shippers.

Asherton.—A conservative estimate places the 1913 onion crop in this immediate vicinity at 410 cars.

Denton.—Another large land deal in this vicinity was consummated when Mrs. A. Borth sold to E. J. Wiebusch 131 acres near here for a consideration of $10,552.

Premont.—A Commercial Club has been organized here, with A. T. Canales as secretary. G. A. Kleinkauf was selected president. The new club starts out with fine prospects.

Mission.—What is said to be the largest cabbage ever raised in this section is now on exhibition at a local bank. The cabbage weighs 30 1/3 pounds. It was grown by E. A. Wright.

DeLeon.—Interest in the Farm Life Movement is gaining impetus here every day. At a meeting March 19 a number of interesting and instructive addresses were made, and the county organization formally launched.

Newport.—The recent rains have proved a blessing to farmers in this section. Oats are looking fine. Many farmers have commenced planting corn, and prospects for a good crop seem assured.

Georgetown.—A Ten Thousand Club was formally organized at a big mass meeting which was held by the business men here a few days ago. About sixty enthusiastic boosters were in attendance. Officers will be elected at a later meeting.

"A BACHELOR'S HONEYMOON."

On Tuesday night, April 1st, at the Schick Opera House, Gilson and Bradford's Company will present that cool and delightful farce comedy, "A Bachelor's Honeymoon."

"A Bachelor's Honeymoon" scarcely needs an introduction to local theatre-goers. Its successful engagement of three hundred nights at the Madison Square Theatre in New York has placed it in such a well-known position that to go into details would be superfluous. Aside from the fact that it is one of the daintiest comedies ever seen here, it is also a cool and soothing offering after the ponderous book and problem plays of the past season. A laughter-loving public will enjoy the cleverly-written, sparkling, witty lines of "A Bachelor's Honeymoon."

EPISCOPAL LADIES TO HOLD MARKET.

Miss Minerva and William Green Hill

By FRANCES BOYD CALHOUN

The fierce, bloodshot eyes, which had seemed so laughing and merry before, now glared into those of the little boy as the man took a stout cord from his pocket, bound Billy to the chair and gagged him with a large bath towel. Energetic Mr. Jones took the key out of the door, shook his fist at the child, and went out, and locked the door behind him.

Jimmy seeing no hope of eluding Sarah Jane's vigilance, resorted to strategy and deceit.

"Tain't no fun setting out here," he called to her, "so I'm going in the house and take a nap."

biscuits, I spec'. All of us is 'bout to be slewed. Goodby."

The plump, round gentleman at the other end of the wire heard this amazing message in the utmost confusion and consternation. He frantically rang the telephone again and again but could get no answer from the Garner's home so he put on his hat and walked the short distance to Miss Minerva's house.

Jimmy was waiting to receive him at the front gate, having again eluded Sarah Jane's vigilance.

"Hush!" he whispered mysteriously, "he's in the dining room. Ain't you bringed nobody else? Get your pistol and come on."

Mr. Algernon Jones, feeling safe and secure for the next hour and having partaken of a light lunch, was in the act of transferring some silver spoons from the sideboard to his pockets when a noise at the dining room door caused him to look in that direction. With an oath he sprang forward, and landed his fist upon the nose of a plump gentleman standing there, bringing a stream of blood and sending him sprawling to the floor. Mr. Jones overturned a big-eyed little boy who was in his way, and walking rapidly in the direction of the railroad, the erstwhile plumber was seen no more.

Jimmy quickly recovered himself and sprang to his feet. Seeing the blood streaming down the white shirt front of Miss Minerva's unconscious beau, he gathered his wits together and took the thread of events again into his own little hands. He flung himself over the fence careless of

She willingly consented, as she was through with her ironing and thought to snatch a few winks of sleep herself.

The little boy slipped quietly through the house, noiselessly across the backyard and into his father's big garden, which was separated from that of his neighbor by a high board fence. He quickly climbed the fence, flew across Miss Minerva's tomato patch and tiptoed up her back steps to the back porch, his little bare feet giving no sign of his presence. Hearing curious noises coming from the bath room, where Billy was bumping the chair up and down in his efforts to release his mouth, he made for that spot, promptly unlocked the door and walked in. Billy by scuffling and tugging had freed his mouth from the towel that bound it at that moment.

"Hush!" he whispered as Jimmy opened the door, "you'll get eat up alive if you don't look out." His tone was so mysterious and thrilling and he looked so scared tied to the chair that the younger boy's blood almost froze in his veins.

"What you doing all tied up so?" he asked, in low, frightened tones.

"Mr. Algernon Jones done it. I spec' he's a robber an' is jes' a-robbing 'righ' now," answered Billy.

"I'll untie you," said his chum.

"Naw; you better not," said Billy bravely. "He might git away. You leave me jes' like he fixed me so's you can try to ketch him. I hear him in the dinin' room now. You leave me right here an' step over to yo' house an' phone to some mens to come and git him quick. Shet the do' ag'in an' don't make no noise. Fly, now!"

And Jimmy did fly. He again took the garden route and in a minute was at the telephone with the receiver to his ear.

"Hello! Is that you, Miss Central? This is me," he howled into the transmitter. "Gimme Miss Minerva's beau. I don't know his number, but he's got a office over my papa's bank."

His father being out of town, the little boy shrewdly decided that Miss Minerva's beau was the next best man to help capture the robber.

"Miss Minerva what lives by me," he shrieked.

Fortunately Central recognized his childish voice and was willing to humor him, so as she too knew Miss Minerva's beau the connection was quickly made.

"Hello! Is that you, major? This is me. If you don't want Mr. Algernon Jones to be robbing everything Miss Minerva's got you getter get a move on and come right this minute. You got to hustle and bring 'bout a million pistols and guns and swords and tomahawks and all the mans you can find and dogs. He's the fercest robber ever was, and he's already done tie Billy to the bath room chair and done eat 'bout a million cold

Sarah Jane this time, mounted a chair and once more rang the telephone.

"Hello! Is that you, Miss Central? This is me some more. Gimme Dr. Sanford's office please."

"Hello! Is that you, doctor? This is me. Mr. Algernon Jones done kilt Miss Minerva's beau. He's on her back porch bloody all over. He's 'bout the deadest man they is. You'd better come torecky you can and bring the hearse, and a coffin and a clean shirt and a tombstone. He's wounded me but I ain't dead yet. Goodby."

Dr. Sanford received Jimmy's crazy message in astonishment. He, too, rang the telephone again and again, but could hear nothing more, so he walked down to Miss Minerva's house and rang the door bell. Jimmy opened the door and led the way to the back porch, where the injured man, who had just recovered consciousness, was sitting limply in a chair.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Bad Spells

"I suffered, during girlhood, from womanly weakness," writes Mrs. Mollie Navy, of Walnut, N. C. "At last, I was almost bed-ridden, and had to give up. We had three doctors. All the time, I was getting worse. I had bad spells, that lasted from 7 to 28 days. In one week, after I gave Cardui a trial, I could eat, sleep, and joke, as well as anybody. In 8 weeks, I was well. PRESCRIPTION
 For a Long Life.
 This is the prescription for a long life given by an old gentleman in Connecticut, who is ninety-nine years old and still well and cheerful. "Live temperately, be slow to anger, don't worry, take plenty of exercise in the fresh air, and, above all, keep cheerful."
 Should the system get run down—digestive organs weak—the blood thin and sluggish, take Vinol, which is a delicious combination of the medicine—body-building properties of cods' livers, with the useless grease eliminated and tonic iron added. We regard Vinol as one of the greatest body-builders and strength-creators in the world for aged people.
 Mrs. Mary Ivey, of Columbus, Ga., says: "If people only knew the good Vinol does old people, you would be unable to supply the demand; it is the finest tonic and strength-creator I ever used."
 We wish every feeble old person in this vicinity would try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it fails to give satisfaction.

SUMMARY OF THE WORLD NEWS OF THE WEEK.

President Wilson has refused to stand sponsor for a loan by American banks to China. American bankers may participate in the loan independently, but the President has declined to request them to do so, which would be equivalent to United States guaranty of its repayment. China is trying to borrow $125,000,000 from a six-power combination, which insists that the nation permit its agents to collect its taxes, pending repayment. This action of President Wilson is a complete repudiation of the "dollar diplomacy" ideas of his predecessor and of former Secretary of State Knox. He proclaims that the only open door we want in China is that of friendship. J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the First National Bank and the National City Bank, all of New York, will probably withdraw from co-operation with bankers of Great Britain, Germany, France, Russia and Japan in the loan arrangement. President Wilson holds that for the United States to be a party to China's signing away her taxation function would be equivalent to our interference in that country's internal affairs.

Secretary of War Garrison declares the United States is not prepared for war. He says the present force at home of 35,000 is inadequate, and suggests establishing reserves and shortening the present term of enlistment from four to two years, so as to train more men.

Secretary of State Bryan went to Springfield, Ill., to try to break the Senatorial deadlock. He made a brilliant address to the Legislature and said the election of even one Senator was very important, as questions were sometimes decided by one vote. He spoke complimentarily of J. Hamilton Lewis, the primary nominee of the Democrats, but after he left Lewis lost votes. The deadlock is still unbroken.

Gamblers fear that Florida is to be closed to them and they blame William Jennings Bryan, who recently built a winter home at Miami. It is said that a man who had been fleeced out of $50,000 wrote to Bryan, and that Bryan in turn wrote to Governor Trammell. Palm Beach is now the Monte Carlo of America, and the threat of Governor Trammell to drive gamblers from the State has caused a panic among them.

The official directory of the Catholic Church shows 15,154,158 of that faith in the United States. Catholics in our island possessions bring the total up to 23,329,047. Missouri has 470,000 Catholics, and ranks tenth among the States.

Lincoln, Neb., gave William Jennings Bryan an enthusiastic welcome when he returned home for the annual banquet given in that city on his birthday. Gov. Morehead, Nebraska; Gov. Dunne, Illinois, and Gov. Hodges, Kansas, were guests.

Antonio Musica, of New York, his three sons and two daughters, were arrested in New Orleans on board a steamer about to sail for Panama. Musica is head of a firm dealing in hair. The firm is said to have defrauded 22 European banks out of $1,000,000. The family carried $76,804 in cash, $18,604 of which was found in the corsets of Miss Grace Musica. On the way to the police station the eldest son, Phillip, tried to shoot himself.

The Pope's physician, Prof. Morchiafava, says he fears the Pontiff will not live long. His condition caused the physician to deny an audience to Gen. Porfirio Diaz, former President of Mexico. The Pope is said to be suffering from insomnia and loss of appetite.

Huntington Wilson, First Assistant and Acting Secretary of State, a legacy from the last administration, became angry over the way the Chinese loan question was handled and quit the department while Secretary Bryan was absent in Nebraska.

A distinguished gathering of men and women assembled at Caldwell, N. J., to celebrate Grover Cleveland's birthday and witness the transfer of his birthplace to an association formed among his friends to purchase it. His son, Richard F. Cleveland, opened the house, and the first to enter was his daughter, Esther, who strewed flowers over the floors. On an adjoining lot Andrew Carnegie will erect a memorial library to cost $7,500. To purchase the Cleveland birthplace $25,000 was raised. The purchase price was $17,610, and the remainder will be used as a maintenance fund. Among those present was Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, formerly Mrs. Grover Cleveland.

Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, widow of the Confederate General and post-mistress at Gainesville, Ga., has written an open letter to President Wilson asking him to protect her position. She says she has transformed the office from a community disgrace to a community pride, and now politicians want her job, because she has offended a powerful Georgia corporation.

George B. Cox, former Republican boss of Cincinnati, and ten others have been indicted for alleged mismanagement of the wrecked Cincinnati Trust Co. It is alleged they made improperly secured loans to a failing manufacturing company.

President Wilson favors the passage of a bill admitting members of the Cabinet to the Senate, where they will have a right to debate, but not to vote. A bill to this effect will be urged at the extra session. It is the President's contention that the Government business could be more intelligently discussed with the department heads present to elucidate the problems before them. He also favors the budget system advocated by Taft, in arranging appropriations. In this way disbursement of Government funds could be made to conform more nearly to the income, he says.

The jury in the third trial of Dr. B. C. Hyde, of Kansas City, Mo., charged with poisoning his wife's uncle, Col. Thomas W. Swope, disagreed, after being out 86 hours. At the finish the jury stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction, though at first it voted seven to five for conviction. Floyd Jacobs, County Prosecutor, says he will never consent to dismiss the case against Dr. Hyde, and that he will be tried again as soon as possible.

The American Naval Stores Co., of Savannah, Ga., has suspended business, with assets of $4,900,000 more than its liabilities. The secretary of the company says its business was ruined by Federal prosecution on charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust law. The result, he asserts, was a restriction of credit that forced the company to suspend.

All gifts sent to President Wilson, modest or expensive, are promptly returned to the sender with a note from Secretary Tumulty explaining that the President has made a rule not to accept any presents.

Maxine Elliott, actress, theatrical manager, international beauty and former wife of Nat Goodwin, is now the wife of Anthony F. Wilding, an English lawyer, who is the world's champion tennis player. They were married in Nice. Her new husband never drinks intoxicants and never uses tobacco.

Four Oklahoma sheriffs, acting in concert, arrested six men who are accused of holding up a Katy train at Wirth, Okla., October 29, last. The arrested men are Joe Davis, Bob Wortham, once before arrested for this holdup and released; Dick Burdolph, Tom Meeks, Walter Spencer and his brother Tom, known as "Montana Slim."

Representative Louis H. Chappelle, of Cincinnati, has introduced a bill in the Ohio Legislature by which the wearing of peekaboo waists is forbidden. The bill also bars openwork stockings, décolleté dresses and the display of undraped artificial figures in store windows, on the ground that these are factors in the cultivation of immorality. A commission is proposed by the bill to investigate an alleged wave of indecency now said to be sweeping over the country, and over Ohio in particular.

Fred Kahler, of Cleveland, for ten years Chief of Police, and called by Colonel Roosevelt "the best Police Chief in America," has been discharged for immorality, because of his relations with a married woman. The Civil Service Commission awarded him a pension of $65, and expressed regret that the full pension of $125 could not be given to him. He was named as correspondent in a divorce suit. Kohler was famous for skill in handling minor police offenders with a view to reforming them, and his reputation for honesty was never questioned.

A committee of the Missouri Legislature has recommended a substitute for the equal suffrage bill by which the Constitution is to be amended so that the Legislature alone shall have the right to settle this question. Mrs. D. W. Knefler, of St. Louis, was the only woman to appear and protest. The committee told her they had waited for the Missouri mothers to come to the front, but that they did not seem to care to vote. The women threaten to submit a suffrage amendment by initiation, so that the question of granting equal suffrage may be voted on at the same time the proposition to leave it to the Legislature is put up to the people.

President Wilson has issued a formal proclamation convening Congress in extra session at noon, April 7. He intended to call the extra session April 1, but postponed it a week at the request of Chairman Underwood

Will make the season of 1913 at my farm one mile east of Kress, Texas

Jobert is a fine Imported Percheron Stallion, a dapple grey, weighs 1800 pounds, has splendid action, very heavy bone, is a sure foal getter, with good size and style, all of which make him a very desirable horse. Breeders are respectfully invited to call and examine this horse before placing their business, for I am offering an excellent opportunity for breeders to improve their stock. Jobert won first premium at the Illinois and Iowa State Fairs when four years old.

Suffragettes who tried to hold a meeting in Hyde Park, London, were mobbed by a crowd of 10,000. Freedom of speech is usually accorded to all in this park, but the disorder was too great on this occasion to be quelled by a strong force of police. Women wearing the badge of the Women's Social and Political Union were greeted with shouts of "Incendiary," "Shopbreaker," and other epithets. For two hours the park and Oxford Street nearby were scenes of the wildest disorder.

Burglars bored their way into pawnbroking offices of Martin Simons & Son, New York, and obtained $250,000 worth of jewels, $3,500 in cash and $2,500 in checks. They scorned gold watches, and left them piled in the floor. The vault was reached by digging a tunnel under the building, and gloves found indicate that the robbers wore them to avoid detection by finger prints. The police think the work was done by the same men who robbed Herman Shapleigh's pawn shop three nights before of $6,000.

Government statistics show Texas to be the biggest crop producer. Illinois is second. Ohio third and Missouri fourth.

The official appraisal of the Edward H. Harriman estate is $70,000,000, only $1,800,000 less than the estimated value. Most of this was in railroad stock, but he left $1,432,242 cash in banks. A death tax of $675,000 in New York and $793,846 in Utah has already been paid.

University City, St. Louis, Mo., raised $25,000 for street improvements and deposited it with the People's Savings Trust Co., now defunct. In the present campaign, the issue between friends and foes of E. G. Lewis is whether the money is or is not secure. The bond issue was voted in 1910, and the bonds sold May 25, 1911. Since then the money has been in the Lewis bank, and none of it has been used for the purpose intended. The receiver of the Lewis enterprises says he has no evidence that the deposit is any different from hundreds of others.

THE WEBB LIQUOR LAW.

The following statement has been issued from the Anti-Saloon headquarters by State Superintendent J. H. Gambrell:

"As a matter of information, the press of Texas is asked to print the Webb liquor law, passed by Congress over ex-President Taft's veto, which is now in full force and effect:

"A BILL (S. 4043) DIVESTING INTOXICATING LIQUORS OF THEIR INTERSTATE CHARACTER IN CERTAIN CASES.

"Be it enacted, etc., That the shipment or transportation in any manner or by any means whatsoever of any spirituous, vinous, malted, fermented, or other intoxicating liquor of any kind from one state, territory, or district of the United States, or place noncontiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, into any other state, territory, or district of the United States, or place noncontiguous to, but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, or from any foreign country into any state, territory, or district of the United States, or place noncontiguous to, but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, which said spirituous, vinous, malted, fermented, or other intoxicating liquor, is intended by any person interested therein to be received, possessed, sold or in any manner used either in the original package or otherwise in violation of any law of such State, territory, or district of the United States, or place noncontiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, is hereby prohibited.

What the Law Does. It will be seen that the purpose and effect of this law is to take liquor out of interstate commerce, so far as prohibition States are concerned, leaving the States free to enforce their own laws prohibiting the sale of liquor. Under the law, liquor becomes subject to state laws immedi-

The law guarantees that the Federal Government will not interfere with the enforcement of state laws, and is exactly what prohibitionists have been working for for the past twelve or fifteen years. State Prohibition Conference. "There is a wide-spread feeling among prohibitionists that there ought to be held some time in the near future a State-wide conference to consider the whole situation, as it exists today. The conviction is that there ought to be a thorough understanding among prohibition forces, with the view of united action with reference to the political aspects of the prohibition movement. It is altogether probable that such a conference will be called within the next 30 or 40 days, and every feature of the situation, bearing on the liquor question, will be carefully considered. At the proper time, a call for such a conference will, no doubt, be issued, and prohibition forces from all over the State ought to make it a point of duty to attend the meeting. "Dallas, Texas."

laughs last laughs best." It is Mr. Collins' time to laugh now.

To show that his interest in pigs and peanuts has not diminished during the three years that he has been on the "poor hill place," the farm that provoked the "horse-laugh," it may be said that last year, 1932, Mr. Collins had 55 acres in peanuts besides his other crops (he still diversifies), and he has already sold $1,289.60 worth of pork, put up enough to supply his family and has 66 more porkers for sale. Recently a car-load of his peanut-fattened hogs topped the market at Fort Worth. And this is not all of the peanut story; there is enough peanuts left in the fields, to maintain his hogs until May without any other feed, then there will be rape, oats, wheat, etc., to graze.

His sandy-land farm consists of 125 acres, and about 26 of it is in permanent woods pasture.

The land for peanuts is listed or bedded in fall or winter. Before planting time it is rebedded. The rows are about 28 inches wide. Ordinarily growers recommend that the plants be 15 to 20 inches apart in the row, but Mr. Collins has found by careful investigation that better results will be had for hogs where the plants are only five inches apart. One will get five times as much grazing in both nuts and vines as when planted as far apart as twenty inches, he thinks. He uses about one and one-half bushels of nuts to the acre to plant the fields, and the nuts are planted with a planter. He plants from 8 to 10 acres a day. The nuts are planted slightly below the level of the surface.

Easy to Cultivate.

To peanut, he finds, is easily cultivated. While the plants grow off rather slowly, especially when planted very early, one does not need so much caution as in cultivating young cotton. If the land is in good condition he does not hesitate to cover the plants anywhere from one to several inches with fresh earth from the cultivators, provided there are weeds enough to warrant such drastic methods of their eradication. He says that he finds that the plants will "come out" without injury. But he warns you against covering the young plants when the soil is too wet. This is sure to prove detrimental and may destroy your stand. He has covered plants six inches without injury, but that was when the soil was in good tith.

The crop is cultivated from two to three times, depending upon the season. Mr. Collins says 100 acres of peanuts can be cultivated as cheaply as 20 acres of cotton. In his section one can plant as early as the last of March, but the best time, he thinks, is from May 10 to 20. As a rule, he divides the crop into two plantings, so that he may extend his grazing season. About August 20 the swine may be turned into the fields.

It is found that the peanut has the extraordinary habit of standing apparently without making growth during extremely dry weather, and when late rains come begins to grow and put on nuts. This habit of itself makes the peanut safe as a crop, and when its feeding value is considered it will be seen that is scarcely has an equal for fattening swine or for growth in young pigs.

Where the crop is sold for the nuts or hay, Mr. Collins estimates that it costs but $1.50 an acre to harvest the vines and 10 cents per bushel to thresh the nuts. Compare this to the cost of hoeing and picking cotton, and you will better understand Mr. Collins' interest in the peanut.

Mr. Collins' idea of farm economy, and the one he puts into practice, is to sell only the surplus on the farm. His first provision is for the home, then the live stock on the farm, and if there be a surplus it is sold.—Farm and Ranch.

a good black-land farm and was contented until he became so deeply interested in the peanut. He always diversified his crops—grew cotton, corn, fruits, vegetables, etc. He kept his table supplied with choice farm products and was in a prosperous condition. But he found that sandy land is better for the peanut than black land, and after 20 years of residence in the black belt rented his farm and bought a farm in the cross-timber section of the same county. The farm was somewhat run down by continuous and high-pressure cotton growing. It was then, as Mr. Collins admitted, his neighbors gave him the "horse-laugh." But it is said that "He who
