COURT RESTRICTS "WHITE SLAVE" LAW

Holds Women Transported by Inter-
Urban Not Within Scope of United States

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 24.—Reaffirming the validity of the "white slave" law, the United States Supreme Court to-day indicated that it favors a narrower construction of the law when it sustained the dismissal of indictments made at Chicago against Charles C. Wilson. It was alleged that the man had transported for immoral purposes two women from Milwaukee to Evanston, Ill. The trip was made on an interurban.

It was the claim of the defense that since the electric railroad is not under the Interstate Commerce Commission the women were not transported in the sense of "interstate commerce."

COLD WAVE HITS PLAINVIEW.

Sunday's Blow Tumbles Mercury Close to Zero Mark.

The thermometer registered 7 above zero this morning. That is the coldest record so far during 1914 with the exception of Sunday two weeks ago, when the mercury tumbled to 4 above the minus mark.

The coldest weather in January was 16 above zero. December gave us two days which sent the weather man scurrying and tumbled his recorder to 3 above.

The coldest weather since records were established in Plainview in 1908 was minus 8, January 3, 1911. The new year opened in 1911 with the thermometer standing at 20; it dropped to 2 the next day and went 6 degrees lower on January 3. On the 4th the mercury had climbed to 8 above.

The average for that month was 30 degrees.

This was the lag end of the destructive storms which have visited the New England coast during the past week. California also has suffered a loss estimated at $5,000,000 during the last four days.

Oil Expert Examines Field and Lease is taken on 10,000 Acres

ABILENE, Tex., Feb. 21.—That oil in abundance lies latent in the earth in the Abilene country is the assertion of an oil expert of California who is developing several fields in this section of the state. According to his assertions Abilene is the center of the belt.

Actual work of drilling will be commenced soon near Moro, twenty miles south of this city and a company has taken lease on 10,000 acres. Another drilling outfit will soon be put up in about fourteen miles of this city. Col. Morgan Jones, one of the wealthiest railroad men in the state, who has his home here, is interested in several companies who are exploiting the field in this section.

SUNDAY NIGHT BLAZE DOES LITTLE DAMAGE TO "FAIR."

A hurry call sent the fire boys on a run last night. And a thousand hearts stood still when the siren blew. People knew that in a mile-a-minute gale no fire fighter could cope with a blaze.

But the fire fiend never had a chance. It seldom does with Plainview boys. The men who have, time and again, won from the best volunteer companies in all Texas, are just as fast when it comes to real work.

The alarm came from the Fair Boarding House. No damage of any account was done. This is the third time the fire boys have saved the old Fair House.

American is Held As A Spy

By United Press
EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 24.—Gustav Bauch was not executed as a spy, according to an interview of El Paso newspaper men with General Villa to-day. Villa says the German-American was released in Juarez some time last week and added that if he had not returned to his friends in El Paso that it was his own fault.

Villa's statements conflicts with the official statement made at Juarez Saturday. Consul Edwards says Bauch is in a Chihuahuan prison.

Rebels in El Paso tried to discredit the interview but the correspondent who filed it is a friend of Villa's and it is given general credence.

It was said that Bauch was held to await action of the Supreme Court of Chihuahua on an appeal as conviction as a spy.

TO GIVE OIL LANDS TO LORD COWDRAY

Englishman

By Associated Press
MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Feb. 24.—A plan for nationalizing all oil lands in Mexico is to be forced through the next session of the Mexican Congress, according to plans of the Huertan government. This admission was obtained to-day from Querido Moheno, head of the new Cabinet.

It is rumored that the government intends to transfer these lands, when nationalized, to Lord Cowdray on payment of $50,000,000 gold. This sum of money would relieve pressing needs of the Mexican government. However, officials refuse to discuss the rumor.

Lord Cowdray is an Englishman by the name of Pearson, who controls immense oil lands in Mexico. He is credited with being the only man who ever defeated John D. Rockefeller and the Standard Oil group.

Wilson Failed With N. J. Trusts, He Says

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 24.—Assemblyman Richards, Republican, minority leader, to-day charged that President Wilson's seven anti-trust laws which were forced by him through the New Jersey Legislature, are ineffectual. He holds that the Governor's lack of success in New Jersey lessens the likelihood of his success in the present plan of campaign against National corporations.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Feb. 24.—It has been generally rumored that Democrats opposed to making prohibition the main issue in this year's gubernatorial contest would issue a "get-to-mandate as soon as the smoke of last Saturday's convention had cleared. There are some eight or ten anti-prohibitionists in the field now. Of course, their leaders recognize the necessity for "thinning the stand." Always heretofore that has been done without a public caucus.

There is much speculation as to whom the "constructive forces" will unite upon for their standard bearer.

Oldfield, Coper and Grant were the last drivers to quit the course to-day. These three men in the Vanderbilt, with Tetzlaff added in the Grand Prix, carried much of the betting public's money.

Saunders sprung up almost in a night when the St. Paul Railroad crossed Cook's farm. As Cook retained title to the land, he became the duly recognized mayor, and his title will fall upon his successor.

A Wheatfield His Throne

THEODORE C. HENRY, Kansas's First "Wheat King," Is Dead

The Agricultural Enthusiasm of Western Kansas Was Aroused by the Success of the 10,000 Golden Acres in Dickens County

C. M. Harger in the Abilene (Kan.) Reflector.

Early day settlers up and down the Smoky Hill Valley journeyed to Abilene last week to attend the funeral of Kansas' first "Wheat King," Theodore C. Henry. Back in the 70's T. C. Henry was one of the big men of Kansas. He was a man of vision. His enthusiasm knew no bounds. He could devise in a day a hundred schemes, some of which were but good but most of which required more than human ability to make come true. He was just the kind of a leader to arouse the sentiment of the struggling settlers. He was an advertiser, spectacular in his sentiments and with an abiding faith in Kansas soil. His name was known from end to end of Kansas and had present day political methods been in vogue he would have been United States Senator or governor. He did try to secure the Republican nomination for governor but St. John defeated him.

Had Faith in Kansas.

His fame rested on his wheat raising but he did a vast number of other things. Reared on a little farm in Western New York he went in 1865 to Alabama, where he sunk most of his family fortune trying to raise cotton, without the Southerner's familiarity of the task. He built the first log school house for negroes in Central Alabama. With impaired health he came to Kansas two years later and became a hay contractor at Abilene, then it the height of its cattle day glory.

He was the town's first mayor. Under him Tom Smith was Marshal. The quiet sure shot officer who controlled the cowboys better than did "Wild Bill" Hickok. Henry was a county officer, regent of the Agricultural college, Commissioner to the Centennial Exposition and state senator as well as one of the state's largest real estate operators.

His title as "Wheat King" was deliberately sought for he was the first to have faith enough in Kansas soil to enter into the plan on large undertakings. He bought land adjoining Abilene for $6.25 per acre that later sold for $15,000, nearly $270 an acre. His connection with the county offices brought him some real money, a rather scarce article in those days. As agent for the Kansas Pacific lands he had chanced to select those portions he desired and from his acquaintances in Western New York he procured money with which to carry on his dream of soil conquest. For several years he monopolized the real estate business of Dickinson county and was the man whom every farmer went to for advice and financial assistance.

Plowed with Oxen

Stretching east of Abilene, is the Smoky Hill Valley, six miles wide, level as a floor. In 1873 with 6-yoke teams of Texas oxen drawing 20-inch Moline plows he broke therein 600 acres of sod. The seed, Early Red May, were broadcasted and harrowed in with Scotch harrows drawn by ox teams. The year 1874 was grass hopper season, but the 600-acre field was in its glory, with two binders, men standing on the machines and binding the grain, half of it was cut.

Then the straw became too brittle to bind and Henry sent to Illinois for a header. He ran it day and night with relay shifts. At first it was moonlight. A man in white on a sheet-covered horse led the way, later by the aid of lamps and lanterns on the reel posts he was able to complete the work. It yielded twenty bushel and sold for 90 cents. The steam thresher and the header were the first brought to Kansas. All of the work was done by contract and cost fifty cents per bushel. Henry's boast was that he "farmed in kid gloves, without horse or hoe."

Ten Thousand Acres of Wheat

In 1875 he added 700 acres and the 1,300 acre field attracted much attention. It yielded well, some of it thirty-five bushels per acre and sold for $1.05 and some of it $1.21 per bushel. Then he added ten thousand acres of wheat scattered over Dickinson county were contracted in for the following year. The main field of five thousand acres east of Abilene attracted much attention. Through the field ran the Kansas & Pacific railway and the trainmen were instructed to call out as the train slowed down: "We are coming to Henry's Wheat Field."

Dickinson was the banner wheat county of the state and with the success of his fields he started the wheat growing enthusiasm in every county east of the sixth principle meridian. Henry's fame became nation wide. The New York World sent a staff correspondent to Abilene to write up the wonderful wheat raising belt. He expected to find a hoary handed farmer residing in a log cabin but was surprised to find the citified Henry calmly superintending the work from his buggy.

Origin of the Golden Belt

"Just before Sunset," said Mr. Henry, telling of the visit, "we drove to an elevation northeast of Abilene, overlooking the valley with a view of a dozen miles along the Smoky Hill below Enterprise. The yellow grain, nearly ripe, stretched afield for miles, bordered on either side by the deep green of the prairies. The setting sun gave brilliancy to the contrasting hues. My companion caught inspiration from the scene and exclaimed: "Oh, what a magnificent Golden Belt." Such was the origin of the well known and appropriate term."

He spread his winter wheat propaganda, wrote letters, sent circulars, delivered addresses and was president of the State Fair Association. No evangelist was more active" said he. "As I recall my alluring wheat literature, I am sure that I was more of a poet than a farmer. His dream was to build a palatial home on the height overlooking the valley. He erected a magnificent barn—the largest in the state, northeast of Abilene, where the Brenzier brothers built later—but a playful gust leveled it the next year,

Controlling Hookworm Throughout the South

The annual report of the Rockefeller Sanitary Commission, with headquarters at Washington, indicates as a result of the work done under the direction of the boards of health of eleven Southern states, 480,951 persons were microscopically examined during 1913. This means that more than 1,573 persons were microscopically examined for every working day during the year 1913, an increase of sixty per cent over the record of any previous year. In the central and field laboratories there have been examined to date 858,377 persons.

The number of persons treated during the year is given as 186,277, an average of 616 persons treated for every working day during the year, a reduction of 14 per cent from the records of 1912. Considering that the number of persons examined shows an increase of 60 per cent, and that the number of persons requiring treatment of the 186,277 persons treated during 1913, 66,317 were treated and reported by practicing physicians, and 119,960 persons were treated by the members of the staff.

The total number of persons treated orth etain shrdlu emfwp v ed to date is 539,107. Infection surveys based on a minimum of two hundred country children, between the ages of 6 and 18 years, taken at random have been made in 413 counties. A total of 415,250 school children have been examined, an average of 1,005 per county.

The percentage of infection found among them was, for those examined prior to 1913, 55 per cent; for those examined up to December 31, 1913, 43 per cent—a reduction of 12 per cent in the degree of infection recorded. Sanitary surveys have been completed in 501 counties, based on an inspection of an average of 378 homes to the county, a total of 189,586 homes inspected.

Of these, 95,988, or fifty per cent of them, had no kind of privy. Progress in sanitary reform is not as rapid as one would like to see it. It is encouraging to note however, that although the installing of sanitary closets mean a considerable item to the poorer class improved closets are being built at homes and at schools.

just as fate buffeted some of his financial plans.

His Records All Surpassed

Then came the flood of population. Land grew too valuable for speculative wheat raising and some crop failures turned Henry's attention to other things. In 1883 he sold all of his Kansas possessions and moved to Colorado where he entered on a new career, basing his operations on irrigation. Today the visible monument of Henry's activities in Abilene are the 3-story hotel and the Depot of the Union Pacific Railway, once the Henry house and the largest building between Topeka and Denver. But its name is changed now. The big wheat field is divided into many farms and "the Wheat King" record has been surpassed many times in Kansas' latter day productions of Henry's favorite cereal.

FILMS A GREAT AID IN OBTAINING RECRUITS

Says Major General Carter who has Just Returned from Texas City to Chicago

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 23.—Major General William H. Carter was asked by an interviewer last week whether he believed the motion pictures would be a great aid in securing recruits for the United States Army.

"Indeed I do," he replied. "At the present time the men come in without any attraction. I think if pictures were used showing drills and routine work that a larger number would respond than do to the colored posters now used. The government is taking moving pictures of army life all over the country. Chaplain T. J. Dickson of the Sixth Field Artillery has taken many and is showing them with much success. There is no special fund in the army for this purpose and the navy has an advantage over it as it has a special moving picture fund."

Major General Carter has just returned to Chicago from Texas City, Texas, where he has been in command of the second division of the army. He states that as the result of the recent heavy recruiting that the United States Army lacks 1,000 men of being up to the authorized standard of 81,694 soldiers. The authorized number of officers is 4,474. He also stated that this is the first time in his experience that the army has been nearly as large as it should be and that the navy had also been fully recruited.

Crescent Oil Engine Pumping Units for Irrigation

THE CRESCENT pumping unit has been especially designed to meet the demand for high efficiency, simplicity, fuel economy and to be operated by a workman of average intelligence.

THE CRESCENT OIL ENGINE is a two-cycle valveless type with hot-ball ignition. It is simple in construction, reliable and does not require constant attention while in operation. The engine is designed for the use of low grade oils. The consumption is less than one pint per brake horse-power hour.

THE CRESCENT pumping unit is made of the best material and workmanship. Before shipment a severe service test is given the engine. Only a small area of floor space is required.

The Crescent Oil Engine is for heavy duty, built for hard service and belongs to a distinct class of prime movers. Gasoline Engines burning the light distillates or illuminating oils, are not to be compared. Light duty engines are, as a rule, only fit for scrap after one year's hard service.

MIDDLE WEST IS BITTER COLD

Illinois and Missouri Trains Stalled; Street Cars Snowed Under

CALIF. RECOVERING

Sunday's Storm Centered In Arkansas; 52 Mile Gale Adds to Suffering

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 23.—Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Illinois, Nebraska, Indiana and Ohio are in the grip of the worst storm of the winter. It is bitter cold and a terrific gale is blowing.

In Southern Illinois and Missouri many trains are stalled in the snow. Street car traffic is suspended in the Middle Western towns. There is much suffering reported and it is feared deaths will result.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 23.—United Press Dispatches report a terrible blizzard raging over Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas. Telegraph wires are blown down and traffic generally is demoralized. The storm Sunday centered in Arkansas. A wind blowing 52 miles an hour is reported accompanying the bitter cold.

United Press reports another blizzard in Montana and sweeping Eastward.

California seems to be recovering from the storm which tied up the traffic Saturday. It is believed the damage in the "Sunshine State" will reach $5,000,000. More than half a dozen deaths are known to have occurred in and around Los Angeles.

Cold Weather Grips Coast; Wheat Damaged

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 23.—A norther which enveloped the middle West yesterday reached the coast today. Houston felt it's grip this morning. Amarillo reports 4 above zero. Kansas reports zero weather, but snow protected most of the wheat fields. High wind blew the wheat bare in some places, and damage will result.

Mr. Brinkley has captured prizes in his class from many of the northern poultry shows, including the Madison Square Garden Show of New York City.

HAS THE SHEEP A PLACE ON SOUTH PLAINS FARMS

In a Statement to The Evening Herald Geo. M. Rommel, Chief of The Bureau of Animal Husbandry Tells Its Readers Something Worthy of Their Attention

The estimates of the department for the number of sheep on farms in the United States on January 1, 1914, show a decided decrease as compared with 1913. The apparent tendency toward a decline in the number of sheep on farms has been noted for some time and has caused sheep raising on farms to be referred to as a waning industry. A word here concerning the economy of sheep and their place in agricultural practice may not be out of place.

As a farm animal the sheep has a great many distinct advantages.

1. The sheep is much more economical to feed than the steer, returning a larger amount of gain per hundred pounds of feed eaten. When his capacity to consume roughage is considered he is more economical than the hog.

2. The sheep yields a double return—meat at an economical cost and wool as a by-product which will go far toward defraying the cost of keep.

3. Sheep are prolific. A farm herd which does not yield at least 100 per cent increase is very poor indeed.

4. A flock of sheep on a farm, will, in time, clear it of weeds, without expense to the owner if allowed to range the lanes, the stubble field after grain is cut, and the corn field after the corn is full grown. As a scavenger even the goat is not more economical than the sheep.

Of Great Value

As meatfood sheep have never been sufficiently appreciated in the United States. They are however of great value. They must be classed with hogs and poultry as the most available animal to supply meat for the home on a farm. They are readily slaughtered, the meat can be kept without difficulty, it cuts up without waste in pieces convenient for the average family, and the meat is nutritious, wholesome and palatable when properly cooked. The healthfulness of the sheep alone gives it front rank as a meat-food animal. Sheep rarely have tuberculosis or any other disease communicable to man.

The foregoing statements are axiomatic. If the sheep industry is so inviting why do our farmers show a tendency to curtail sheep raising? In my opinion there are three principle causes.

First. Intestinal parasites, principally stomach worms cause great loss in the farmers flock and almost entire lamb crops are sometimes exterminated. In no farming sections are sheep free from this danger and no breeds of sheep are immune, although some breeds—the Merinos, for example—are less susceptible than others. No infallible cure for stomach worms is known but it is possible to control them economically by keeping the lambs away from the ewes except while nursing and by a system of pasture rotation. Unless a farmer is willing to take precaution in the management of his flock he should not raise sheeps.

Second. Cur dogs are almost as

EGGS UNDER HENS SHOULD BE TESTED

Foolish to Waste Time and Run Risk of Breakeage with Infertile Products

It is a fact that a very small per cent of the eggs set under hens are ever tested to see whether they are fertile or not. It is quite as essential to test the eggs set under a hen in the natural way as to test those set in artificial ways.

The poultryman who would run an incubator through the hatch without testing and removing the infertile eggs would be looked upon as one with little experience and judgment in this kind of work. Usually it is an easy matter to set three hens at one time, then on the ninth day test and place all the fertile eggs under two of the hens and reset the other one.

Ordinarily there will be more fertile eggs out of about 39 than can be covered by two hens nicely. But if three should be, the eggs may be divided between the three. If a hen has but eight fertile eggs under her she will do better if the five or seven infertile ones are taken out. She will be less apt to break them and will give better results in the end.

A tube for testing may be obtained from any supply house or a tester can be easily made by using a small box with a lamp inside and a small hole before which the egg is held.

Ten-cent, 15-cent and 25-cent bundles of old papers at Herald office, to put under your carpets.

great a hindrance to the sheep industry as parasites. The only protection against this is to keep the flock in the day time where it can be watched and put them into a dog-proof enclosure at night. A recent case has been reported where a Michigan flock of more than 200 head were all run to death in one night by two cur dogs. Dog tight night folds can be built of woven wire at little expense.

Third. Farmers have not generally recognized the proper place of sheep in agriculture in settled regions. Too much importance is placed on wool. Except on the range, where land is cheap, the wool should be regarded as an incidental—a side line to help defray the cost of handling. Raising sheep for wool value on farms does not pay and the attempt of farmers to make it pay is undoubtedly the cause for the prevailing opinion that sheep are not profitable on expensive land. Sheep are raised in England on some of the most expensive lands in the Kingdom but they are raised as a by-product and not as wool producing animal; the wool is a by-product as it should be in farm flocks.

If only 25 per cent of the farms on which there are no sheep should have a flock of at least twenty-five or thirty ewes, managed with reasonable care and protection against dogs, not only would farm revenues materially increase but a decided step in advance would be taken in the solution of the meat-supply problem.

WITH M. F. PHOTOGRAPHY

Obtains Excellent Results after Many Years Attempt to Get Better Pictures on Screen

After five years of experimenting with special devices used in connection with the motion picture camera and improvements in the developing and printing of films, W. D. Griffith, the director and motion picture expert who has lately been engaged by the Mutual Film Corporation at a salary of over $100,000 a year, has succeeded with the co-operation of Mr. William Bitzer, an authority on motion picture photography, in obtaining excellent results says Ross D. Rogers, proprietor of the Ruby Theater of this city.

Mr. Griffith realized early in his career that some of the pictures were not as effective when thrown on the screen as they should have been merely because of the limits of motion picture photography. He refused to believe that a motion picture could not be projected as clearly and as effectively as a still picture and immediately set to work upon investigation and experiment with Mr. Bitzer with a fixed determination to prove that he was right.

The two experts soon realized that their success not only depended upon the treatment of the film during the process of developing but that there were many imperfections in the camera itself as well as in the manner of "perforating and printing" that must be corrected before they could hope to get the best results from their experiment.

The task that they had laid out for themselves was a big one and no one but an enthusiast would have continued to work at it night after night, following long hard days at their regular studio labors, especially in the face of frequently discouraging failures.

The direct result of their labors has already been seen in some of the most recent releases of the Reliance company on the Mutual Program. The photography is exceptionally clear and beautiful so that the faces of the actors seem to stand out with a rounded cameo effect upon the screen, while the light penetrates the remotest recesses of the distant background and the picture is steady.

WORKING DAY AND NIGHT ON ABILENE'S WATER SUPPLY.

Two Shifts Are Driving Piles for Dam Which Went Out Last November.

ABILENE, Texas, Feb. 23.—Night and day shifts are constantly employed at Lytle Lake rebuilding the big dam which went out in a freshet in November, last year. The pile driver is putting down two lines of sheet piling and a coffer dam is being constructed above the new dam.

The water supply for Abilene is of about 30 days' duration. With the new dam constructed and filled back with water, Abilene will have a supply for more than eight months.

Only light showers have fallen since the first of the year.

HALE CENTER

HALE CENTER, Tex., Feb. 24.—The program rendered by the Mother's Club on Friday night was well enjoyed.

The Mother's Club always gives the people an entertainment worth the cost and they give us our money back by using it for the benefit of the school.

A number of prospectors from the North were in Hale Center last week. They are well pleased with the country and will likely purchase land and improve with irrigation wells. That is the surest method of farming anywhere.

Still we have farmers doing well around Hale Center in the Dry Farming business. Last year was said to be a dry year and yet here is a report of Uncle Les Harrington who lives in Hale Center and has one half section of land south of town which he farms. He says that he has fifty-five acres in wheat on which he pastures sixty head of cattle. He has a field of alfalfa that keeps up a nice bunch of swine. Of the swine 50 are being fattened for pork. To them he feeds 15 gallons of skimmed milk daily. The milk and the alfalfa will make them fat enough for market. The cream he takes from the milk would make him a living. This is a 'special case,' but it takes a special case to illustrate what is possible for all.

FAMOUS EDUCATORS TRIED FOR EMBLEZZLEMENT FUNDS

HAVANA, Ill. Feb. 24.—Convicted of embezzlement of Peoria City School funds of nearly a million dollars, convicted and sentenced to the Joliet prison, paroled and induced to give up private property in partial restitution of his stealings. Newton C. Dougherty, formerly president of the National Educator's Association, regarded as a foremost educator in America went on trial here today on a charge of forgery growing out of his attempts to recover lands he had deeded to the Peoria Board of Education.

The case came up here on a change of venue from the Peoria circuit court and is being tried before Judge Guy Williams, the youngest circuit judge in the state.

The record of Dougherty's petty stealing covering a period of two years rivals the tale of Raffles. He has been president of the State Normal Institute at Normal, state superintendent of public instruction and superintendent of Peoria Public Schools, holding in the meantime the position as head of the National Educator's Association, later held by Nicholas Murray Butler and other famous educators. He was also president of a Peoria Bank and this position enabled him to pad the pay rolls of the Peoria schools and cash checks without being detected. During twenty year's accounts estimated he stole over $700,000.

An obscure bank clerk gave information in 1905 which led to Dougherty's arrest and indictment. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the Joliet penitentiary where he served his term until 1912 when he was paroled. His bank went down with a crash. Other prominent Peorians were suspected in connection with the fraud but escaped indictment.

Shortly after Dougherty entered the state prison, Eddie Quinn, a convicted bank robber, escaped. Eddie Tate a convict was paroled. Then one morning it was found that the safe in the offices of the Peoria school board had been blown, and in the furnace in the basement was found the charred remains of papers held in evidence against the convicted school head.

Tate, Quinn, and a third robber, were indicted by the Peoria county grand jury after a nation wide hunt. Tate was brought to Peoria but escaped from the police at a hospital where he was recovering from an illness. He was arrested in Chicago on another charge and sentenced to Joliet. Fay and Quinn were never captured. Fay was killed in a running fight following a big stamp robbery in Virginia. Quinn was slain by a village marshal in an Ohio city. Before his parole, Dougherty turned over to the Peoria Board of Education extensive land holdings in Arizona, Missouri and Wisconsin, and a suit against his bond yielded $25,000. After his release he lost two suits, was indicted for forgery in connection with them, on which charge he was arraigned today.

Neither Dougherty's genius for crime nor his confidence have failed him from the day of his arrest in 1905 until his arraignment today.

GOTHAM'S BIG CELEBRATION

Notwithstanding Other Large Projects on Foot

PUBLIC AROUSED

Elaborate Program Will Assume Numerous Phases Covering Many Months

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—It is announced as definitely decided that New York will go ahead and celebrate this year. Notwithstanding that such large projects as the celebration of One Hundred Years of Peace Between the English Speaking People and the Opening of the Panama Canal and numerous lesser ones have been launched, New York proposes to celebrate the fact that the chartered commerce of this port, and, in fact, nearly all of the North American continent began over 300 years ago. Combined in this celebration which will continue through six months will be numerous features to commemorate the country's progress including the practical completion of the canal and the peace centenary.

Although the public has not yet been aroused to the celebration pitch the date of the commencement is almost at hand. The opening date is Friday, March 27, 1914 when the program calls for a great "universal religious service of praise and thanksgiving to celebrate three centuries of progress," and another large mass meeting at which the keynote of the long celebration to follow will be sounded. The date of March 27 is the 300th Anniversary of granting of the first general charter for regular commerce with what is now New York by the States General of the United Netherlands.

Commemorative Exercises
During April and May the celebration will be confined to commemorative exercises in the public schools and the higher institutes of learning, including a comparative exhibition of commercial education in American and foreign cities and with the hope entertained by the Tercentenary committee that impetus will be given to scholarships for the exchange of commercial students with foreign schools.

During June, July and August it is proposed to hold a series of exhibitions of the material resources of the various states of the union. There will probably be four or more separate exhibitions, each representing a group of states, such as the Eastern, Northern, Southern and Western states.

The contrast between the days of the early voyagers who believed that some waterway might be found to China and today with the completion of the Panama Canal to provide what nature failed to do, will be the basis of the exercises which will be held in the fall. The holding of the Pan American Congress in New York for the discussion of the trade relations of the American republics will be a part of the program.

The celebration will assume another broad phase during the week of September 14 with a musical festival on a large scale to commemorate the Centennial of Peace between the English speaking people.

The latter part of September will be given over to a series of parades. There will be a pageant of states in which every state will be represented by a float representing its history or its resources, a merchants and manufacturer's parade, in which all of the business houses of New York will be represented, an automobile parade, a pageant of cities, and a unique naval parade which will not only include men from the warships of the United States and foreign countries, but from passenger and merchant ships in the harbor as well.

Many Wonderful Features
The last named parade will be held in conjunction with the laying of a cornerstone of a permanent monument of some kind, suggestions for which have been included in a great permanent reviewing stand of marble, a public auditorium of unusual size or an industrial museum.

Interspersed in the program are arrangements for various local features including celebrations at all of the cities along the Erie Canal, the Hudson river and the Southern tier of counties in New York State.

The celebration will close on October 11th, the 300th anniversary of the granting of the first special charter for trading to New Netherlands. This date falls on Sunday and will be given over to religious observance of the anniversary.

The committee having arrangements in hand is headed by Cornelius Vanderbilt as president, Herman Ridder as first vice-president and Edward H. Hall as secretary and includes as members, more than one hundred of the prominent citizens of the city and state.

Talk With Girls

Nothing succeeds that is done in a haphazard way but when it comes to turning income into outgo the most of us let the haphazard rule us.

A noted educator said lately that the women needed to be taught how to spend money much more than how to earn it. He even said that anyone could earn money, but spending it wisely was a far greater gift. Wisely was the word.

In some schools of domestic science this art of spending is beginning to be taught. Probably the graduates will be able to give us a new notion of what money can and will do. But what are we, ourselves, to do about it here and now.

The first step is to divide your income, be it salary, or what they are beginning to call graft, nowadays,—meaning anything you don't make yourself. Take out first the portion you must actually have to pay running expenses—rent, food lights. See what amount of your earnings go on these necessities and whether your are spending too much for the value you are getting. If so hunt for another place to live. Save on gas or electricity by using an oil lamp and eat simpler, but not less wholesome food.

Next take out the sum you need for dress. That is a more difficult matter to reduce to essentials. You may want to spend a lot more on this item than the schools will allow. Be sensible with yourself. See what you can save by buy-self. See what you can save by buying bargains,—real bargains, or what you can save by doing a little sewing of your own, or by proper care of your clothes. Think of it carefully.

After these main uses for your income come the myriad smaller things that snatch so much money away. Amusements, duties, car fares, reading matter, an occasional visit or present. And then there is your vacation.

Study over it all and divide it up accordingly. If you use more in one place it must come out of another. But don't forget a little for the savings bank each month along with the other expenses.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS PENN. SAFETY MINING LAW.

Highest Tribunal Says Companies Must Leave Pillars for Protection of Workmen.
By United Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 24.—Pennsylvania's "mine safety law," requiring coal companies to leave pillars of coal to prevent cave-ins, was declared valid to-day by the Supreme Court. The case came up on appeal by the Plymouth Coal Company against State Inspector Davis.

The Plymouth Coal Company, of Luzerne County, squarely challenged the constitutionality of the law. It asserted that the requirement was an unreasonable exercise of the State's police power, and that it could mine coal as it saw fit. Interference on the part of officials, the company said, was unwarranted and unlawful.

The officers secured an injunction against the company and the law was upheld by Pennsylvania State courts.

The law provides that owners of adjoining coal mines must so mine their coal as to leave coal "pillars" along adjoining property as supports for the roof. The purpose of this requirement is to protect miners in case of explosions or floods. The law also gives the State Mine Inspector authority to prescribe the size and strength of these pillars.

WOMEN

Largest Equal Suffrage City in the World Will Test Strength of Woman's Vote To-Day

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—The first actual test of the strength of the woman vote in the largest equal suffrage city in the world was made here today. Chicago women cast their ballots for the first time since the Illinois suffrage law was enacted and participated in the primaries to choose candidates for the board of aldermen. Eight women candidates for council seats on the ballots today—three Progressive, three Socialist and two Democrat. Four of them have opposition in the primaries but the names of the other four are certain to be placed on the election ballots for April 7.

Around these four women who must fight for party endorsements, most of the interest in the day's primaries was centered, but the suffrage vote played an even more important part in the other twenty-seven wards that offered no women candidates. In these wards, male candidates, astonished at the size of the suffragist registration on February 3, bid against each other for the support of the women's organization in one of the liveliest primary campaigns in the city's history. For three weeks the play to the suffragist section of the galleries on the part of the aldermanic candidates and city officials and opposing party factions has been one of the most important and significant developments in the political history of Chicago. Aldermen who discarded quids of tobacco and squirted streams of juice recklessly suddenly discovered that the spitting evil was one of the great crimes of the age, when women's organizations urged action upon them the Council Committee got very busy and Mayor Harrison and his police even busier. The official word that 158,026 women had registered at their first opportunity had scarcely been given out when the policemen began to make wholesale arrest of persons who expectorated on the sidewalks.

The anti-spitting campaign was scarcely under way when the anti-spitting campaign got under way with a boom. It was directed at the practice of permitting smoking on the platform of street cars. Various women's organizations, supported by street car motormen, called the practice disgusting, pointed out that the smoke permeated the cars, ascended upon the council health committee. The members of the committee courteously laid aside their cigars, listened to the arguments and promised to recommend the anti-smoking ordinance for passage.

The haste with which the politicians of both "low brow" and "high brow" type have come to the support of the measures advocated by the women voters encouraged suffrage leaders today that not only all four women candidates with opposition will be nominated at the primaries, but in several of the wards, known opponents to women suffrage will probably find themselves eliminated from the race. Miss Marion H. Drake, stenographer-suffragist who is a candidate for Progressive nomination in the first ward is believed to be almost certain to secure the nomination over Karl N. Wehle, her male opponent who counts his strength among the negro population of the first, but Miss Drake will have the backing of influential male Progressives. If she wins the nomination she will oppose the notorious "Bathhouse" John Coughlin, Democrat, on April 7.

Miss Hopkins' Campaign
In the second ward, Miss Sara M. Hopkins, candidate for the Democratic nomination for council, is opposed by Thomas T. Hoynes. The suffragist registration in the second ward totaled 6,164. Miss Hopkins counts upon the votes of at least two thirds of the women in the primaries and on the votes of the Independent Democrats. She has been making an active campaign that included speech making all over the district.

Mrs. Raymond Robins, wife of the prominent Progressive leader, filed at the last minute as a candidate for the Progressive nomination in the Seventh Ward. Her opponent is Albert F. Senger. The suffragist registration in the Seventh Ward is light but the backers of Mrs. Robins count upon support for her from the labor element, because of her efforts on behalf of the working girls.

Mrs. Marie Gerhardt was a late entrant for the Democratic nomination in the Twenty-third, one of the wards where the women's vote is expected to be unusually heavy. Her friends persuaded her to run by arguing that two men in the fight for the Democratic nomination made a suffragist victory possible if a majority of the 6,000 registered women voters got behind the candidate.

Mrs. Julia Arnew, Progressive candidate in the Twenty-first ward has no opposition for the nomination. Her husband, a Hearst-Harrison candidate is a county employee, but promised her at least his vote if not his influence.

Mrs. Josephine C. Kanocko, Socialist writer; Mrs. Lida E. McDermott and Miss Maude J. Bell, Socialist candidates are not opposed to other members of their party and are certain of places in the April election.

I.C.C. EMPLOYS WOMEN THOUGH WILSON DOWNS SUFFRAGE

Old Prejudice Against Women Workers Now a Thing of the Past in Almost Every Activity

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The feminine sex has just won a notable victory here. President Wilson and the House has just turned woman suffrage down—but the Inter-State Commerce Commission has just determined to employ women clerks.

The Commission has been mere man's stronghold. For years it has been the one branch of government service where only men were employed. Even if a female stenographer passed 100 per cent in the civil service examination she could not get on the rolls at the big building on F street where the commission holds forth.

Women for Field Service

The old prejudice against women as workers held full sway. The official excuse against their employment at all times that it was necessary to maintain a force available for field service, and women could not expect to hold themselves in readiness to transfer to any old place in the country. The official reason for the change in the policy was that the Commission had now given growth to such an extent that a permanent office force could be maintained there, and women would be available.

But back of the decision to employ women as clerks lies an interesting story. It is that Uncle Sam can't find competent male stenographers and clerks. There are a dozen women who take the civil service examination to every man. Government jobs may have a luscious sound to the average man but the men are becoming wise to the fact that while the jobs are easy, the chances of promotions to Class A are not so easy. Also there is a suspicion among the clerks who entered their jobs to find a "soft snap" that their job is not a snap. Of course the hours are easy and the work not as hard as in private employ but efficiency ratings are now in force in nearly every department and the clerk must stick tight on his job.

Women Play Big Part

Women play an important part in the government work. There are thousands of them employed in the Treasury department alone. Women are far and above men when it comes to counting bank notes, assisting plate printers, and examining engraved notes for possible defects. Their natural intuition is superior to that of man and they are peculiarly fitted for such work. There are perhaps fewer women in the war and navy department than anywhere else, but in the Interior, Agricultural, Post Office and Commerce and Labor, Justice and State Departments they come near to equaling the number of men.

A woman now heads an important government bureau—Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the Childrens bureau and another is the Industrial Relations Board—Mrs. Borden Harriman. The treasury department has one woman whose place could not be filled—special examiner of money sent in for redemption. The Department of Agriculture realizes the fact that despite their other male talent, woman still reigns supreme in the kitchen by having Miss Hannah Westling on its rolls as official bread maker for experimenter in baking. The same government branch is now employing women to aid the farm extension work—to attend county fairs and show farmers' wives the best way to put up preserves pickles, etc. Miss Nell Price is in charge of this work. The Department of Agriculture also numbers among its employees of women, Dr. Alberta Reed a woman authority on teas and inventor of the Reed test for tea adulteration, and Miss Alice Hinkel one of the world's authorities on medicine roots. Miss Hinkel has written six books on the subject which have been in such demand from pharmacists all over the world that they are known as "Miss Kinkel's Six Best Sellers." She has also been recognized by foreign governments and so it happens that from mere tolerance or suspicion, the government is gradually coming to recognize women as employees with considerable favor.

Legislation in the halls of Congress may be serious trouble sometimes, but not always. For instance, the other day, a big batch of special pension increases were under way in the house. Amendments were offered on several to strike out the beneficiary's name inasmuch as they had died since the committee had reported on the bill.

Congressmen were paying little attention. There were a few perfunctory votes to pass but each time from the rear of the hall a group of Southern statesmen between laughing and joking registered lusty 'noes.' The chairman, however, held that ayes prevailed each time, even though a deaf man could perceive that they were far in the minority.

Finally Minority Leader Mann of Illinois, delivered a broadside at his Southern Colleagues in biting sarcasm showing them that in their levity they were voting to pay pensions to dead men.

Ohio Excise Law Upheld by Court

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 24.—The Ohio excise tax law was declared valid to-day by the Supreme Court. Ohio's excise law is the most drastic in the United States. It levies 4 per cent upon the gross intra-state earnings of all railroads and special taxes on other corporations operating in the State.

The Ohio River and Western Railroad and the Marietta, Columbus & Cleveland Railroad tested the constitutionality of the Ohio excise tax law in suits against the Ohio Tax Commissioner and State Treasurer, respectively. That the tax was discriminatory on different classes of corporations, inatory, by providing different rates was declared by the railroads. They also asserted the 4 per cent levy on gross intrastate earnings was confiscatory.

The Federal District Court of Ohio held the law to be constitutional, but granted an injunction against its operation pending the final decision to-day of the Supreme Court.

AMARILLO, Texas, Feb. 24.—Plans have been perfected by the Chamber of Commerce of this city to bring the 1915 convention of the Panhandle and Southwestern Stockmen's Association to Amarillo.

Committees have been appointed and booster delegations arranged for to present the claims of Amarillo at the Convention at Oklahoma City next week.

The Twice-A-Week
Hale County Herald

BROWN &amp; MILLER, Publishers

The Herald's Open Forum and Public Service Departments.Her Majesty, The Hen.

There are 14,000,000 fowls in Texas, and about three-fourths of them are egg producers, according to the latest figures by the Census Department. She produces each year 77,845,047 dozen eggs, of the value of $11,943,546. Chickens marketed increase this total income to the producer by $7,000,000.

You wouldn't have believed it—$20,000,000!

More than $50,000,000 worth of poultry and poultry products are produced in Missouri each year. Missouri's income from the hen is more than the combined wheat crops of Texas, Iowa, New York, Michigan, California and Maryland!

And yet the hen is so insignificant! She takes cast-off scraps for her dinner, and lives most anywhere. She scratches all the time.

But we are coming to realize that an income of $50,000,000 is too big to throw around. Those who make most money out of their poultry are finding, too, that biddy pays well for care given her. She enjoys "good eats," a comfortable home, and "scratchy" surroundings. And she pays for it, too.

Sometime Hale County farmers are going to find that their income may be handsomely increased by paying more attention to eggs and poultry. The town man is going to realize that he can cut down the "high cost of living" mightily by the aid of Her Majesty, the Hen.

Grow chickens. But don't expect large profits if you let the chickens just "raise themselves."

A School Worth While.

A Washington Tea at Lamar School Friday afternoon demonstrated education that is effective for character building, and no less in the fitting of boys and girls to become better able to live.

There were contests for cake baking for the girls and a prize offered in manual training for the boys. The mothers were there and enthused over the work their children are doing. Not one whit less jubilant than mothers and pupils were the teachers—enthusiastic, happy because they are doing something.

The school is handicapped. Sometime Plainview schools will have tools for manual training and pots and pans and dishes for home economics.

But the teachers are overcoming these obstacles. They are giving their pupils an appreciation for those practical things of life, even without up-to-date working tools.

Isn't it gratifying that we are coming to realize that a girl may be just as well "educated" by teaching her how to sew and cook and keep house as by teaching her French and Italian and dancing? Doesn't it presage a finer manhood when our boys are being taught to appreciate the skill of the artisan, and are fitted to do the work of one?

The home-maker is another name for the upbuilding of the nation. He is the foundation upon which all prosperity and progress rests. Isn't it peculiar, then, that we are just now beginning to teach boys and girls to be home-makers?

That is what Lamar School is doing.

A Plot That Failed.

Honest men throughout the United States are rejoicing over the vindication of Senator Gore. They are glad because of the personal triumph of the blind Senator, who dared to stand on the floor of Congress between helpless Indians and the big grafters. They are glad, too, because of the failure of a plot to ruin an honest man.

Senator Gore's trial, like that of Funk and Sulzer, has exposed the methods used by unscrupulous politicians to discredit men who are in their way to pelf. Sulzer was punished, not for the wrong he did, but for his refusal to obey the mandates of Boss Murphy and turn over New York to plundering politicians.

Funk, of Chicago, refused to contribute to a slush fund to help elect Lorimer to the Senate. He was accused of breaking up a home, and was able to prove that he had never seen the woman in the case.

Senator Gore was to be "buried" because he refused to get out of the way of unprincipled politicians. The plotters were willing to frame the most revolting accusations. They went to their extremity in order to discredit him.

But Senator Gore, like Funk, made the conspiracy so plain that instant acquittal was accorded him.

These cases are conspicuous. On a lesser scale the same thing goes on in every part of the country. Any citizen who stands aggressively in the way of the success of big special interests—usually a combination of business and political ambitions—becomes the object of conspiracies like those against these men. Their action is less spectacular; but their aim is the same. They exert every influence to discredit the citizen so as to undermine his influence and make him less formidable against their schemes.

Go along with the bosses; make no special fight against the special privilege, and you will not be disturbed. But if you stand for public and private right; if you fight courageously for the people, like the blind Senator and Mr. Funk, it is pretty certain that you will become the object of conspiracy to destroy you.

Powerful Sermon on "The Judgement"

By Billy Sunday

I have chosen a text of which every man here this afternoon will believe at least a part.

Some may say that this can't be. Some may say: "I can't believe in Jesus Christ and I can't believe in the bible. I can't believe in eternal life." Yet there is not one among you who will not agree with at least the first part of my text.

"It is appointed to all men once to die." You believe that don't you? You all agree that "It is appointed to all men once to die." You'll accept that.

But my next text adds "And after death the judgment." If you admit the first proposition of the text how can you have the audacity to reject the last part? By every rule of reason or logic you if you admit one part you must admit all.

Some men have been startled at the word judgment. I know there are thousands of men in Pittsburg, hundreds of them here this afternoon, who if they'd die today would be lost. Not because they don't know but because they don't know but because they have put off accepting Christ. If I could make you realize what a risk you are taking, what a change there'd be. No man would put it off if he'd only realize. Some of you have been set to thinking during these past few weeks. You have heard many sermons but you are still outside the pale of God's mercy. If I should say to you that at a quarter past 2 o'clock tomorrow you will be in your coffin you would not sleep tonight. You'd put in your time preparing to meet the God whom you have forgotten, spurned and repudiated. You'd send for the preacher and would try to prepare to meet your God in judgment. If I'd tell you this is the last week of your life and that on next Sunday you would be a corpse, you would not think about business, you would not care whether the price of stocks or bonds went up or down, you'd think of your soul and you'd get ready to meet the God whom you have damned and defied. You can't prove that this isn't your last day on earth.

What a change there would be in your life if you only accepted the words of this text. We have the words of Jesus that all who believe his words shall come into everlasting life with him and that there shall be no judgment for those who are the followers of Christ.

Whether you're a Christian or not a Christian you will be there, but I am not worrying about this judgment for myself. The Christian will not be there to be judged but to receive the reward of righteousness. The sinner will be judged.

I could not have worked harder if it had. I am tired. So tired I sometimes think I will fall in bed and not get up.

I have special reasons for choosing this text this afternoon. It is a personal question. It raises a question for you. You must settle it for yourself. You must eat for yourself and you must settle the question of accepting Jesus Christ for yourself. If it were left to me every man here would instantly take his stand on the side for God. But I can't settle it for you. God Almighty himself cannot save a soul against the individual's will.

I suppose that some of you men have people in the world who love you well enough to die for you. I have two—anyway. I know that Mrs. Sunday and my mother would. But no matter how dearly those near to you may love you they cannot help you into the judgment. You must stand alone. You have plenty of congenial associates in the club or the lodge or the church but in my judgment they can do nothing for you. You must stand alone.

When a man advises you to refuse to be a Christian, look the miserably cur in the face and say, "If I do will you stand in my place in judgment?" You may have read the story. Down in New York was a woman who said to her drunken son: "Let's go down to the police station and have the judge send you over to the Island for a few weeks. May be you will straighten up and I can have some respect for you again." Down to police court they went and appeared before the judge. The judge asked who was to make the charge. The mother sprang forward with the words on her lips. She stopped short, turned to her son, threw her arms about his neck and cried out "I can't, I can't, he is my son, I love him and I can't.

CARNEGIE HAS GIVEN AWAY ALL BUT $15,000,000 AND IS CONSIDERED POOR.

—Culver in Los Angeles Express.

Then she fell at his feet dead. As dearly as she loved her drunken, bloated, loafing son, she could not stand the judgment."

Most men out of Jesus Christ are not honest. I don't mean that they lie and cheat and steal but that they are not honest in spiritual things. They praise themselves for the beliefs to which they adhere when way down in their hearts they know they are not doing right. If I were ill physically, I would see the best doctor I could find. If I had no desire to be a Christian, no inclination to be right with the Almighty, I would get down on my knees and ask God to help me. There is no man I'd worker harder to save than an honest skeptic, but I have no respect for the man who won't believe in Christianity, steals his heart against it, then tries to get others to disbelieve just because he doesn't.

I pray God that the words of my text will ring in your ears long after you have forgotten my face, long after the tabernacle has been torn down when I have gone to other states to preach the word of God I pray that you will hear them above the clash of hammers in your shops, above the din of exploding powder in the mines. I pray that when you walk the streets the echo of your steps will cry "The Judgment! The Judgment! The Judgment!"

Religion isn't a matter of feeling or emotion. It isn't a matter of doing just whatever you want to do. Suppose you worked for a firm, were given order, and said: "I don't want to do it." You would get you walking papers soon enough.

You say there are hypocrites in the church. There are hypocrites in the lodge, there are hypocrites everywhere. But because some men are hypocrites is no reason why you should not do right. There will be no hypocrites in heaven and if you want to get there you had better get into the church with a few of them now.

Infidelity has never won a drunkard from his cups. It has never redeemed a fallen woman from her unchastity. It has never built a hospital for the crushed and sick, it has never dried tears, it has never built a mission for the rescue of the down and out. It would not take a ream, nor a quire, nor even a sheet of paper to write down what infidelity has done to gladden the world.

What has infidelity done to benefit the world? What has it ever done to help humanity in any way? It has never built a school, it has never built a church, it has never erected an asylum, it has never built a home for the god man. I challenge the combined forces of unbelief. They have failed utterly.

Well may Christianity stand today and point to its churches, its schools, its hospitals, with their towers and the spire pointing to the source of the inspiration and say: "These are the works that I do."

Your conscience is the ability of your mind to distinguish between right and wrong. Every man knows what is right and what is wrong. No man ever goes blindly through this world. You know what you ought to do. You are responsible for what you do. Be a man and do what you ought to do.

Remember that your mind is immortal.

Every county has an office where records of land transfers and ownership are kept. If you want to know who owns a piece of land you go to the office and see what the records say. They are absolute. What was put down there long years ago is still there. Nothing is forgotten. So it is with memory.

Some men have long memories. Some have short memories. Lor Bacon said that men never forget anything. That at some time or another they will remember every impression they ever had, or that such an impression can be produced.

King Cyrus could remember the names of 25,000 men in his army, and it gave him a wonderful power over them.

Horace Greeley could read several columns of the New York Tribune and repeat what he had read word for word.

Dr. J. M. Buckley of the Christian Advocate of New York could read whole columns and repeat what he had read word for word.

I saw a Japanese student at Armour Institute in Chicago, who could repeat the first five books of the bible,—The Psalms and all the New Testament. Moody met a man in Scotland who could repeat the Bible from Genesis to Revelations. If the Bible were to be destroyed today it could be rewritten from the memories of men.

You can't down your memory. I bet some of you men would go down to the butcher shop, place your arm on the block and let him cut it off if it would blot out the past. Some men plunge into pleasure to try to down memory, others become dope fiends, but it is useless. They can't kill memory.

You must meet your memory in judgment—every fact of your life. God is writing a book of every life. He puts every thing down, he leaves out nothing. If you were making a tree for your ancestors and one of them had been hanged for horse stealing you might make a limb and put it around to the back where nobody could see it. But God puts everything to the front where it will be seen in judgment.

Do you lie? Do you steal? Do you commit adultery? Are you keeping somebody on the side? Some day God will rip the bark off of you and show that you are full of worm holes.

You will remember everything. You will remember your sins unless you have buried them in the faith of Jesus Christ. You will remember my face. You will remember the words in which I ask you to come to Jesus Christ. You will remember the interior of this tabernacle tonight when you were given a chance to turn from your sins.

Sometimes people say to me: "What will be the outcome of the labor question?" I don't know. Sometimes they ask me how the problems of capital are to be solved. I don't know but I do know that there will be a judgment and that it won't be a class judgment. Capital and labor, rich and poor, idler and toiler, all will stand alike in the judgment.

Let the blasphemers come then. Come on scoffers. Come on infidels. Stand up skeptic and antagonistic. It is your final stand of unbelief. Will you sneer and make fun of God? Get up and tell the universe what a fool you are. Come on worshippers of manhood and idolaters of gain. You have made a bank vault of your heart. Can that save you?

If you sin there is just three ways in which you can escape.

First. Because the law does not make you out a criminal. You may be arrested but then it may be found that there is no law to cover the offense which you have committed.

Second. You are given a trial and the jury says you are not guilty. You are justified by evidence.

But suppose you are tried and the jury says you are guilty. You are called before the court and sentenced. How can you escape now? Only by pardon. Who can do this? In this State nobody but my friend John Tener. Only one man can save you—the governor.

You are condemned to hell. How can you be saved. Only by pardon. Who can pardon you? "God—only God but he won't do it unless you accept his son Jesus Christ."

One day a court-martial was held by Gen. Battle at Round Oaks church and Edward Cooper stood charged with desertion. The witness testified against him and the general asked if he had anything to say. He said: "General I got a letter from my wife and she said our little girl was very sick and asked me to come home. I asked for a furlough and it was refused. I asked for a furlough the second time and it was refused. I asked the third time and it was refused."

"I was assigned to picket duty and as I walked to and fro I could see the faces of Mary and Lizzie and I couldn't stand it. I threw down my gun and went. I would have gone if every gun in the Confederate army had been pointed at my heart. When I got home my wife was at the gate to meet me. She ran into the house and brought our child out. She said how long is your furlough for? She must have seen the truth in my face. I said I have no furlough. She said you go back at once. The name of Cooper has never been dishonored and you must go back, even if you be shot. I wasn't caught Gen. Battle, I came back and gave myself up."

The men on the court-martial were men trained to do their duty. Cooper was found guilty and sentenced to be shot. The papers in the case were sent to Gen. Robt. E. Lee for his action. He looked them over and wrote on the back. "The findings of the court martial is approved but the prisoner is ordered to be released and returned to his command at once."

SCHOLARSHIP INSTEAD OF TRIP TO WASHINGTON

U. S. Department of Agriculture Recommends Agricultural Training as More Valuable Prize for Youthful Members of Farming Clubs

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.—The Department of Agriculture recommends that in place of a trip to Washington the young prize-winners of the Corn, Canning and Poultry Clubs, and other agricultural clubs, be given a year's course in practical training at some agricultural college. In case the young champion's academic training would not enable him to enter the agricultural college of his State, a more elementary course in a school where agriculture is taught or a course in an agricultural high school, are recommended.

The Department considers that such courses have considerably more lasting value for prize-winners and for the agriculture of their sections than flying trips to the Capital. The state and local organizations which have been paying for these trips have been sincerely interested in developing a true appreciation of farming as a business among the boy and girl farmers. Some of these have already considered this question and have decided on the agricultural course as the more desirable prize.

One of the first persons to raise the question as to whether the practical training or more spectacular trip was preferable, was Willie P. Brown, an Arkansas Corn Club prize-winner. Given his choice of all the prizes offered by the State, including the trip to Washington, he selected a scholarship giving him a year's tuition in an agricultural school. This gave impetus to the idea in Arkansas, and now the biggest annual prize offered the Corn Club boys is a scholarship given by the Bankers' Association. The same association gives a similar scholarship to the girl champion of the Canning Clubs.

Other suggestions regarding prizes have been made from time to time by those who have been most interested in these clubs and understand the needs of the boy and girl farmers. Some of these suggestions are offered herewith for the consideration of others who might care to profit by them.

Two Weeks' Courses for County Prizes.

While a year's course with all expenses paid is the suggestion of the Department for the biggest prize for State winners, less extensive courses might be offered to county winners. It has been suggested that such counties as care to give prizes, give one or more short courses in the State agricultural and mechanical colleges to the fortunate county champions. These courses are usually only two weeks long and are held in winter or in summer. The training given is of the most practical sort, and the amount of time spent is no gauge of the amount of benefit to be obtained. These short courses have already been given as prizes by certain counties, and have proved most valuable to the young people.

Large Cash Prizes Not Encouraged.

Large cash prizes are not to be encouraged, according to those who have worked with the young contestants.

Better suggestions are as follows:

- A pair of registered pigs.
- A pair of full-blooded chickens.
- A fine colt.
- A registered calf.
- An up-to-date corn planter.
- A two-horse wagon.
- A gold watch.
- Books on agriculture.
- A double-barreled shot gun.
- A first-class bicycle.
- A ton of good fertilizer.
- A $5 hat.
- A fireless cooker. (For girl contestants.)

More Prizes Make More Contestants.

In general, it is better to offer many small prizes than a few large ones. If twenty boys try for a prize and only one is fortunate, some of the nineteen unsuccessful contestants will probably be too discouraged to try again. But if five of the boys are rewarded for their efforts, more merit will have received recognition and the remaining fifteen will see more possible opportunities of success the following year.

Some boards of trade and chambers of commerce have also recognized the efforts of the clubs, by giving banquets for the young people and entertaining them with street car and automobile rides. On other occasions clubs have been honored by an invitation to march in parades, where they have attracted deserved attention.

A Trip to the State Fair.

From Memphis, Tennessee, comes an interesting story which is a sample of what has been done in other states for young prize-winners. In the three states (Arkansas, Tennessee and Mississippi), which are annually represented at the Memphis Tri-State Fair, it was decided to send certain boy prize-winners to the fair as a reward for their excellence.

A trip to a fair is a more or less spectacular event, as is the Washington trip, but it gives the young farmers certain concrete agricultural experience which they do not receive from excursions to the sights of Washington. At the fair in question the young men were housed on the fair grounds in tents, two to four in each tent, all in charge of men employed by the State or National Government to look after their interests.

The young men had a regular program, which kept them busy most of the week of their stay. One day an expert took the young men to view the improved farm implements on display. The boys were shown the machinery and its uses were explained. Another day a seed expert showed the boys the exhibits of seeds and gave them practical advice on seed selection. The boys were taken in the same manner to view the beef cattle and other live stock. They were taught to pass judgment on the good qualities of the animals. They were schooled in the method of judging the best pigs. Informal lectures were given at the camp on these various subjects. The young men took back much valuable knowledge with them, besides having a good time.

When completed the building will have cost $150,000. It will be of purple brick and Bromide stone trimming, with ceramic tile.

SECRETS OF STATE ARE REVEALED IN FILMS

Boy Buys Reels at Auction Sale and Discovers Hidden in Tema A Secret Military Order

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—The auction sale of the personal effects of Colonel Redl the Austrian traitor and spy for Russia, who killed himself several days ago, has disclosed some of his operations.

A high school boy at Prague bought at auction three reels of film. When he reached home he discovered that on the roll of the supposedly unexposed film was cleverly hidden a secret military order of the highest importance, signed by Archduke Francis Ferdinand and intended only for the eyes of the corps commander of Prague and the chief of Prague general staff.

SHUT OUT.

She may be a model mother and a jewel of a wife, A paragon of pleasing domesticity; She may know all household science, from the whetting of a knife To menus planned for dinner-time felicity; But while these minor virtues win perfunctory regards, To her neighbors she's a novice if she can't deal cards.

She may be an ardent worker in the leading local church, Take part in all its various activities, Have missionary fervor and be foremost in the search For sinners lost on perilous declivities; But though to souls benighted she may furnish oil and wicks, She's in social outer darkness if she can't take tricks. She may be a ready helper at a time of pressing need, Be deeply sympathetic and emotional; The sick ones she may succor, and the hungry poor may feed, Remembering them in daily acts devotional; But though an angel visitant, with presence heaven-kissed, She is lost beyond redemption if she can't bridge-whist!

Feminine Steve Brodie Takes "Leap For Life" Off High Bridge

Photos by American Press Association.

It takes nerve—real nerve—for a woman to perform the daredevil feat that Miss Constance Bennett did when she jumped off the Williamsburg bridge, between Manhattan and Brooklyn. Using a small parachute, Miss Bennett risked her life and limb for the movies. She leaped from the middle of the big span, which is 157 feet above the East river. She descended all right and was fished out of the water by Rodman Law, a companion daredevil, who leaped separately, and by others who were waiting on a tug. She is the first feminine Steve Brodie, though Brodie, who gained his fame by leaping off the old Brooklyn bridge, never used a parachute. Miss Bennett is shown here in the clothes she wore when she made her leap. The other picture shows her descending with the parachute.

AMARILLO LAYMAN SPEAKS ON GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

B. G. Lowrey Says a Christian Man Must Stand for Civic Cleanliness.

B. G. Lowrey, of Lowrey-Phillips Academy, at Amarillo, spoke three times in Plainview yesterday at the First Baptist Church.

Sunday morning Mr. Lowrey's subject was missionary work. He spoke of the divine and the human in the work of missions. Missions, Mr. Lowrey said, are for the purpose of saving men. Every Christian church must be a mission and every Christian a missionary.

In the afternoon Mr. Lowrey's subject was "Good Citizenship." He believes that a Christian man ought to be ready for every good work; and, too, that his words should be chaste. He made a strong plea for broad-minded, patriotic citizens. A Christian man, Mr. Lowrey thinks, must be always ready to make his home, his town, his state, a better place to live.

Cannot Shirk Citizenship.

A Christian man, the speaker said, cannot shirk the duties of citizenship. He cannot "lay down" when it comes to building up his community. Mr. Lowrey included sidewalks, improved streets, good roads, better schools—all of the vital problems of community life—in his definition of the essentials for Christian citizenship. A Christian man, he thinks, must take part in the political life of the community.

Last night Mr. Lowrey spoke particularly to the young people. His subject was how to live the "Triumphant Life." He stressed the idea that a boy in school ought to live within his means if he has to wear common clothes. A young man, Mr. Lowrey said, makes a fatal mistake when he undertakes to spend more money than he has. And he applied the same to girls, as well. He referred to the young man who spends more on his best girl than he has. Finally he begins to take money from the cash drawer, and it always ends in prison.

Live Within Your Means.

The great idea of the triumphant life is the mastery of self. "Self-reverence, self knowledge, self control—these three alone lead life to sovereign power," Mr. Lowrey said. "Know thyself," was his great idea. "Live within your means;" "Be true to yourself, and then it follows, as the night the day, thou cannot be false to any man."

Mr. Lowrey spoke to the students at Wayland College this morning. He returned to Amarillo to-day.

"THEATER IS ENEMY OF HEALTH, SOCIETY AND GOOD MORALS."

Rev. S. A. Barnes Says Every Church Has Gone on Record Against Modern Play House.

Rev. S. A. Barnes preached at the Methodist Church last night the last sermon of his series on "The Theater." Sunday night he continues his series on worldly amusements. The subject is "Card Playing."

Brother Barnes' text last night was from James 4:4: "Know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God? Whosoever, therefore, will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God." The apostle is not making reference here to the world as we commonly refer to it—the mountains, rivers, sea and land—the preacher said. He is talking about the misuses of things and the prostitution of powers. He refers to worldliness as referred to when we speak of intemperance, lust, hate, "lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God."

God and the world cannot dwell in a man's heart, Brother Barnes continued.

Theater and Church Are Enemies.

The preacher then prefaced his remarks with the statement that no Christian can maintain his spiritual integrity and habitually attend the theater. "He cannot do this, first, because the theater stands in open opposition to the church, and its mission is to pull down that standard which the church sets up. This is backed up by precept and example of the theater, and by the spoken word of the leading actors, actresses and theater managers of all ages.

"There is not a single point of agreement between the church and the theater. The church stands for high morals, but upon the word of its own promoters the theater stands for immorality; the church stands for clean living, the theater does not; the church stands for the highest attainment of the intellect, as well as the spirit; the theater seeks to amuse regardless of intellectual outcome or result upon character.

"If you are active as a church member you are deficient as a theater goer. I do not say that church members do not go to the theater; but I do say that the play houses are not filled by spiritually-minded church members."

Brother Barnes declared that the church must stand in opposition to the theater. "It would be the height of folly for the church to stand by an institution which runs in open violation to every principle that the church stand for."

All Churches on Record.

Referring to other churches, the preacher said that 54 synods, both of Eastern and Western churches, have pronounced against the theater, and 71 churches in the United States have cup of writers are against the theater. He also said that every evangelical church has gone on record against it. The Episcopal Church is on record against it, too.

"It may be that an occasional visit to the play house won't hurt you," the preacher said. He continued: "There are a great many things that won't hurt you, but you can't afford to do them. The man who sits with you at the theater and engages in the same games you play lives upon the same plane you live upon, thinks the thought you think, and is just as good as you are.

"The theater is the enemy of society, health and sound morals. It sounds the death knell of spirituality."
