CARBAJAL REPLACES WASHINGTON STATUE

Provisional President of Mexico is Creating Kindlier Feeling For Americans in Capital

WILL PROTECT FEDERALS

Carranza Promises Lives of All Who Opposed Him Except Those Who Murdered Francisco Madero

By United Press

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, July 23.—Following President Carbajal's order that the statue of Washington be replaced, a kindlier feeling is being manifested towards Americans. This statue was torn down during anti-American riots of the Huerta regime.

Carbajal is in complete control. The capital is tranquil.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 23.—Official confirmation of armistice between warring factions in Mexico is lacking.

It is believed, however, that Carranza has promised Carbajal a guarantee of the lives of all Federals except those responsible for the murder of Madero. This will expedite the formation of a Carranzista government.

All Constitutionalists insist that the men who had part in the killing of Francisco Madero must die.

Conferences to effect transfer of authority from Carbajal to Constitutionalists will open Monday at Tampico, according to Jose Castello, Carbajal's representative here. Carranza and Hillman are now at Tampico. Castello expressed the opinion that transfer of power will be effected with little difficulty.

EL PASO, Texas, July 23.—"Orozco's revolt will be a failure, because it is in opposition to a majority of the people," said General Ynez Salazar, in his cell at Fort Wingate. General Salazar is held as military prisoner.

CONFUSION OF TONGUES AT EUCHARIST CONGRESS.

By United Press

LOURDES, France, July 23.—The second day of the Eucharistic Congress of the Catholic Church witnessed the first effort this morning to get the 4,000 delegates divided according to nationality. Owing to the fact that there is no edifice here capable of accommodating the entire congress, and owing to the great diversity of languages spoken, simultaneous sessions will hereafter be held every day in a dozen different churches.

The division provided for the sessions of the Italian-speaking delegates is in the asylum of Notre Dame de Lourdes; the French, in the Church of the Rosary; the Hungarians, in the hall of Saint John the Baptist; the Austrians, in the hall of Saint Michael, in the same asylum; the Germans, in the hall of Joan d'Arc; the English, in the hall of the Sacred Heart; the Spanish, in the hall of Saint Martha; the Belgians, in the hall of Saint Genaro; the Poles, in the hall of Charles, while disposition was made also for half a dozen other nationalities.

The session of the English-speaking division was attended by Cardinal Farley, of New York, and the seven other archbishops and bishops who are representing the United States at the Congress.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Clements, of Richmond, Calif., came in yesterday from Waco, where they have been visiting relatives. They will leave for home in a day or two.

Miss Ollie Brown, of Hickory, Okla., passed through Plainview yesterday en route from Lockney to Roswell, N. M. Miss Brown visited her uncle, Henry Brown, while in Lockney.

Mrs. J. Walter Day and son went to Slaton yesterday to visit a sister of Mrs. Day. Mrs. Day's daughter, little Miss Louise Day, is in Amarillo visiting her aunt.

H. W. Garrett returned to-day to his home, in Italy, Texas. Mr. Garrett has been visiting Rev. S. Park for about ten days.

DISCUSSES NEW ISSUES.

Notive is called to the discussion, in this issue, by Y. W. Holmes, candidate for the Legislature, of the 9th, 10th and 11th planks of his platform.

L. F. E. GIRLS AND OTHER FRIENDS ENTERTAINED BY MISS SANSON; PINK AND WHITE COLORS USED.

Pink and white were the colors used at Miss Nell Sanson's party Tuesday afternoon. This pretty combination was used in vases of sweet peas, in the plink and white divinity served during the game, and in the cherry ice cream and cake served afterwards.

The party was given for the members of the original L. F. E. Club and other friends of the young hostess.

There were five tables arranged for Bridge. Around these were grouped Mesdames Charles Saigling, W. S. Fyffe and Elmer Sanson and Misses Laura Mastin, Joe Keck, Edna Harrington, Celestine Harp, Alice Harrel, Bette Knight, Annie Maud Davidson, Mae and Lucile Kinder, Marie and Daisy Gidney, Nell Jones, Ollie Wheeler and Miss Ruth McFadden, of Austin.

FATHER MURPHY SPEAKS ON "THE GREAT INTERNAL ENEMY."

Rev. Patrick J. Murphy, of Dalhart, spoke at the Methodist Church this afternoon on "The Great Internal Enemy." Father Murphy is one of the most forceful speakers in Texas. His address teemed with interesting facts.

BIG GAME PRESERVE PROPOSED.

By United Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., July 21.—According to the United States Forestry Bureau here a strong movement is on foot to have 50,000 acres extending back from the Pacific Coast near Santa Monica to the San Fernando Valley set aside as a game preserve. If the plan goes through not only will no hunting be permitted for a decade, but campers will be required to give their names and addresses as a means of fixing responsibility for forest fires.

Robert L. Faulkner is expected to return to-day from Northern points. Mr. Faulkner has been gone a week or more. He is in the immigration business.

D. LEACH WELL PRODUCES NINETEEN HUNDRED GALLONS

Layne & Bowler Company Begin Work for Syndicate; Big Contract in Kansas

D. Leach's well, north of town, pumped 1,900 gallons a minute on test, according to H. C. Whitworth, of Layne & Bowler Co. Layne & Bowler had contracted to produce a well which would yield 1,500 gallons a minute.

The well is 146 feet deep. A No. 6 Layne pump is set 75 feet below ground. Mr. Leach will install a 60-horsepower Rumley engine.

Layne & Bowler Co. have just completed a system of city water works for Wellington, Kansas. The supply is 3,350,000 gallons a day. Layne & Bowler have closed contract with Alta Loma, Texas, for city water supply.

Drill is being moved from Mr. Leach's well to property of the Texas Land & Development Co. near Kress. Mr. Whitworth says his company will put in a number of wells for the syndicate.

BIRTHDAY BREAKFAST FOR MISS FANNIE MARGARET BARNES.

An early morning party was given Wednesday in honor of the birthday of Miss Fannie Margaret Barnes.

Rowing on the sparkling waters of the lake and a tempting breakfast eaten in the fresh morning air were the attractive features of this pretty birthday fete.

Those present were Misses Pearl Burkhead, Ida Elach, Myrtle Wade, Sybil Roberts, Lena Williams, Adnah Orlemme Barnes, the honoree and her mother, Mrs. S. A. Barnes.

FIGHTING THE NICARAGUAN TREATY

Owing to the financial condition of Nicaragua, the fact that the senate foreign relations committee cannot make quite sure who will get the money, and the charge by Senator William Alden Smith that of the 25,000,000 pesos just issued by the Nicaraguan government nearly all this amount has been paid to favorites of the Diaz government, it is predicted in Washington that the Nicaraguan treaty calling for a payment of $3,000,000 for a canal route, now before the senate for ratification, will be defeated. Emilliano Chamorro, the present Nicaraguan minister at Washington, and members of his family, are charged by Senator Smith with having received great sums from the treasury. He and Rafael Cuadra, the Nicaraguan minister of finance, who is now in Washington, have indignantly denied having received any of this money. The illustration shows Senator Smith at the left, Senor Chamorro in the center and Senor Cuadra at the right.

KNIGHT GARDEN PARTY ENJOYED BY SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Knight and Daughter Entertain Guests at Beautiful Wayland Blvd. Home

A brilliantly-lighted lawn, strains of sweet music, and a cordial hand grasp greeted the guests Tuesday night at the garden party given by Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Knight and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth, at their beautiful home, 1600 Wayland Boulevard.

In a summer house wreathed with vines and flowers, punch and cakes were served throughout the evening by Mrs. F. W. Clinkscapes, Mrs. Hugh Burch, Mrs. P. J. Wooldridge and Miss Alice Harrel.

A platform had been placed on the lawn for those who danced, while Five Hundred and Forty-two afforded enjoyment for the older set.

The party was one of the largest and best appointed of the season. The assemblage of one hundred and seventy-five guests included the young friends of Miss Elizabeth and those of her father and mother. Many of those who were present were out-of-town visitors and strangers in our midst—some of these from our own State, others from the far North, but all included in the warm welcome extended by the hosts.

The music, unusually good, was furnished by Miss Stella Bryant and Mr. Charlie Davis.

LOCKNEY BANK PRESIDENT SELLS FIRST NATIONAL STOCK.

"BALL OUTMEASURES 'JIM' ON EVERY COUNT"—WORKS

Amarillo Man Says Prohibition Candidate's Success is Guarantee of Fitness for Office

All candidates and many local citizens drove to Pierce's Chapel yesterday to help eat chicken. Of course, the candidates pressed their claims for Saturday's vote. And what chicken there was; and salad, pickles, cake and pie!

F. P. Works, of Amarillo, spoke at some length on Tom Ball. "Just admit, if you want, all that they say against Tom Ball," Mr. Works said. "He is in a class several notches higher than Jim Ferguson. Tom Ball stands at the top in his profession, in business, as a Christian gentleman. He has made large financial sacrifice to serve the people of Texas."

Speaking of the Houston Club, Mr. Works said: "The Houston Club is not a social club. It is a business club. Tom Ball has to do business with men of Ferguson's type, and they would scuff the club as a 'goody-goody' affair if cards and whiskey were kept out of it. It is just like a first-class hotel.

"But Tom Ball promises he will put these clubs, so far as selling whiskey and playing cards is concerned, out of business. Jim Ferguson says he will protect them. 'Any whiskey legislation put up to me,' Mr. Ferguson says, 'will get it where the chicken got the axe.'"

Mr. Works made a strong appeal for Ball because he stands for prohibition; because he is a statesman; because he can give the State an economic business administration.

Many of the crowd went to Hale Center to hear Mr. Works and Fred C. Pearce in joint discussion last night.

TEXAS CLUB WOMAN LAUDS PLAINVIEW

Mrs. Warner of Claude Thinks Shallow Water Country is a Garden Spot

DELIGHTED WITH PEOPLE

Plainview's Women are Happy, Contented and Progressive Says Rural Work Expert; Marvelous Growth

Mrs. W. A. Warner likes the Shallow Water country. Mrs. Warner recently lectured in Plainview. She is chairman of the State Rural Work Committee.

In a letter to The Herald, Mrs. Warner says: "This was the impression or sensation or something never felt before in the Panhandle that followed me home from Plainview. The same emotion must have been awakened in hundreds of others, or you would never have drawn so many new people to your beautiful country in such a short time.

"I am so glad we have such a town, country and people in OUR Panhandle."

Mrs. Warner continues: "Plainview.

"Are you homesick? Do you dream of blue grass pastures and alfalfa fields? Does your mouth water morning, noon and night for home-grown strawberries and sweet-clover cream? Are you hungry for all the good fresh 'garden sas' your mother used to have? Does your optic nerve just ache for the sight of the old-fashioned plinks and zenias and roses? Do you still feel half mad at Horace Gresley for advising your grandfather to 'Go West, young man, and grow up with the country,' and plumb mad at your husband, who followed the same advice? Do you still think there is just one State in the Union worth living in, and that is the one you came from, and that you are little less than a living martyr to leave a dear old home like yours for your husband's fool notion to go West and get a home of your own? Do you?

"Well, then, hitch the mules to the wagon or crank up your car some morning and drive to the nearest railroad station, and buy a ticket for Plainview. There you will find almost everything you left 'back yonder.' The one universal mistake that 'folks' make when they came to the Panhandle is to try to transform whatever county they locate in into the one they left 'back yonder.' But at Plainview it looks like you could do that, for there you find the blue grass and clover, alfalfa, fruit and flowers just like they were 'Back home.'

"Here, in a few hours after a rain, you can spin along over the smooth, dragged roads, or, if you prefer for the sake of the memories of your dear old home, you can go around another way, and enjoy for a while that 'established' feeling one experiences while the driver jacks up his car and puts on the chains.

"Then, there is more than crops and water at Plainview. The hospitality of the people pours forth as free and natural as a flowing well—and they do not turn it on and off just before and after the train goes through.

"So successful has everything been the men have tried, that this year the women have decided to plant a few 'seeds of kindness' and some 'co-operative ideas' of woman's work in the irrigated districts, and see if they will not grow into Rural Woman's Clubs and a Hale County Federation. They think it is time now to demonstrate what the women of Hale County can do as well as the men, and that, after all, the best advertisement for any country is a happy, contented, progressive class of women.

"From now on the people of the Plains will watch with interest the development of the rural woman, the rural boys and girls, the rural schools, and all the rural communities of Hale County to see if they thrive there as well as clover and alfalfa and apple trees."

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Sanders left yesterday for Geary, Okla. Mr. and Mrs. Sanders will visit Mr. Sanders' mother.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE STATE CONSTITUTION, AMENDING SECTION 1, ARTICLE 3, OF THE CONSTITUTION, PROVIDING FOR THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM.

(S. J. R. No. 12.)

Senate Joint Resolution.

To amend Section 1, of Article 3, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, so as to give the people, or reserve to them, the power to propose laws and to enact or reject the same at the polls, and to approve or reject at the polls any Act of the Legislature.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

That Section 1, of Article 3, of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended to read:

Section 1. The legislative power of this State shall be vested in a Senate and House of REPRESENTATIVES, which, together, shall be styled "The Legislature of the State of Texas," but the people reserve to themselves power, as herein provided, to propose laws and to enact or reject the same at the polls, and to approve or reject at the polls any law, or any part of any law, enacted by the Legislature. The Legislature shall provide by law for submitting to the vote of the people, upon the petition of 20 per cent. of the qualified voters of the State the enactment of laws and the approval or rejection of any law enacted by the Legislature.

Be it further resolved, by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the above and foregoing is proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State, and shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the State of Texas for members of the Legislature, for their adoption or rejection as a part of the Constitution of this State, and shall be voted on by such electors at the regular election for the election of officers to be held throughout the State, on the second Tuesday in November, A. D. 1914, and those voting for the adoption of said amendment shall have written or printed on their ballots the words: "For the amendment to Section 1, of Article 3, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, providing for the initiative and referendum," and those voting against the adoption of said amendment shall have written or printed on their ballots the words: "Against the amendment to Section 1, Article 3, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, providing for the initiative and referendum." And the foregoing proposed amendment shall be duly published once a week for four consecutive weeks, commencing at least three months before the election at which it is to be voted upon, in one weekly newspaper in each county in this State, in which such a newspaper may be published. The Governor shall make proclamation of such election upon said proposed amendment by publication as aforesaid, and as required by the Constitution and laws, and the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) is now appropriated out of any fund in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to pay the expense of making such proclamation and publication and holding said election.

(Note.—S. J. R. No. 12 passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 21, nays 5, and was further passed by a two-thirds vote, yeas 21, nays 7, and Senate concurred in House amendments by a two-thirds vote, yeas 23, nays 9; and was passed by the House of Representatives with amendments by the following vote: yeas 84, nays 36.)

HOME RULE FIGHT DISRUPTS SOCIETY.

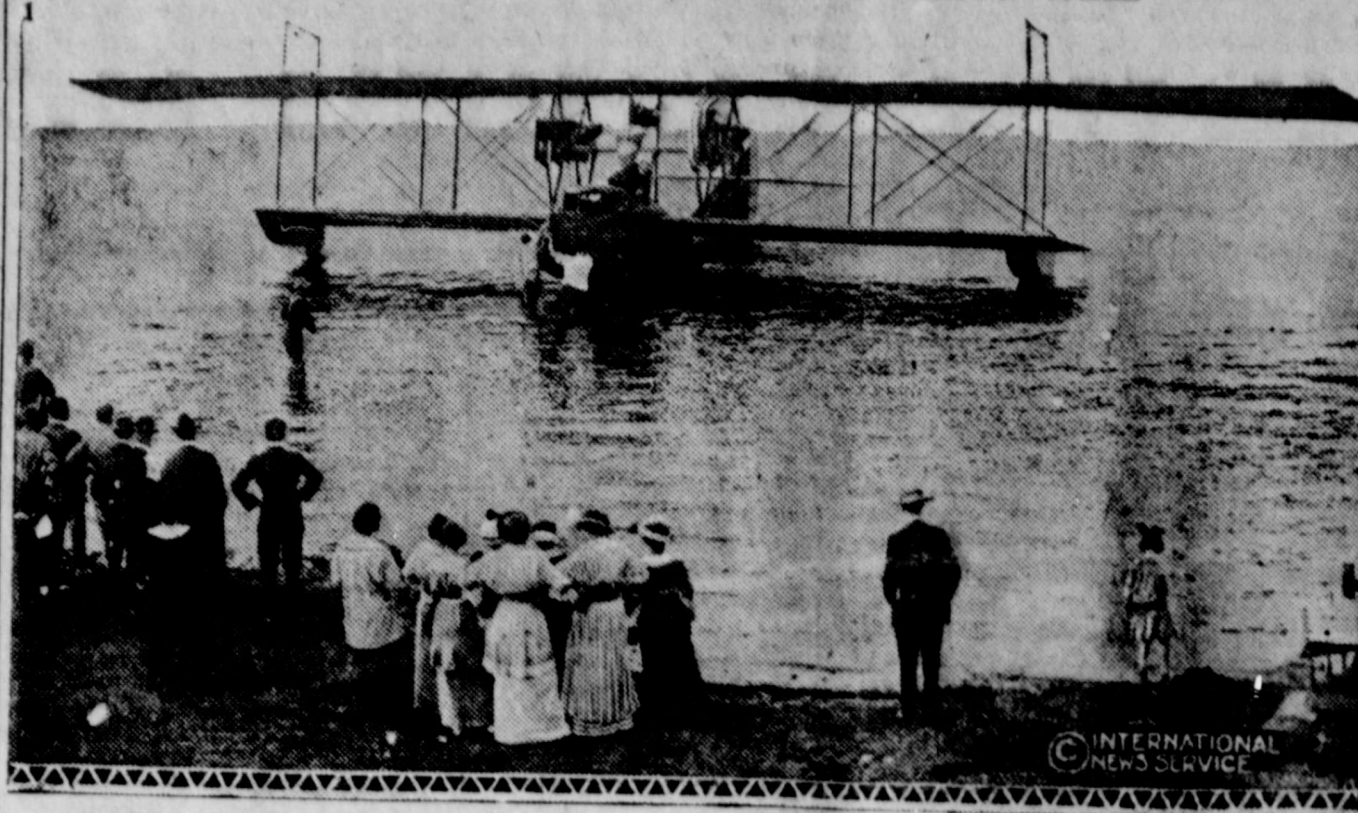

By United Press.

LONDON, England, July 21.—So seriously do Britishers take their politics and so bitter is the present controversy over the Home Rule question, that even society has become affected. Many Unionists are now refusing to entertain Liberals or any members of their families. Liberal balls and other festivities frequently fizzle because Unionists, whom society regards as the "best people," will not attend them. Some of the Unionists have frankly said that they do not care to be seen in the company of those who are working for Home Rule.

The cleavage has become so marked that one distinguished Unionist peer and his wife were bold enough actually to decline an invitation to Windsor Castle because certain "objectionable" members of the administration were present, and this notwithstanding the fact that a royal invitation has always been considered tantamount to a command. That the King appreciates the situation and sympathizes with their viewpoint was evident, not only from the fact that the pair were not punished, but that a few days later the peeress was invited to lunch with her Majesty at the races. This time she accepted, and it was noticeable that none of the administrationists or their wives, who were still guests at the castle, were among those present.

Not long ago a liberal peer and peeress were invited by a leading Unionist to his country house for a week-end, but at the last minute the invitation was withdrawn, the Unionist explaining, with much candor, that he had heard of a conspiracy among his Unionist guests to "send them to Coventry" should they appear.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE STATE CONSTITUTION, AMENDING SECTION 24, ARTICLE 3, OF THE CONSTITUTION, INCREASING COMPENSATION OF THE LEGISLATURE AND EXTENDING LENGTH OF REGULAR SESSION.

(S. J. R. No. 26.)

Senate Joint Resolution.

Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to Section No. 24, of Article 3, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, relating to compensation for members of the Legislature.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That at the next general election of the State of Texas for the election of State officers, or at a previous general election, in case a general election for the State shall be sooner ordered by the Governor for other purposes, there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Texas, for their adoption or rejection, the following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas, as provided for in Section 1, Article 17, of said Constitution, relating to proposed amendments thereto, it being intended to amend Section 24, Article 3, of said Constitution, relating to the pay of members of the Legislature, and extension of term of regular sessions, so that the said Section shall read as follows:

Section 24. The members of the Legislature shall each receive from the public treasury as compensation for their services twelve hundred ($1200.00) dollars for the year in which each regular session of the Legislature is held, payable in equal installments on the twentieth days of January, April, July and October of the year in which the regular session is held, and five dollars per day for each day of every special session held in the year next succeeding that in which any regular session is held. In addition to said compensation the members of each house shall be entitled to mileage going to and returning from the seat of government, which mileage shall not exceed five cents per mile, the distance to be computed by the nearest and most direct route of travel by land, regardless of railways or water routes; and the Comptroller of the State shall prepare and preserve a table of distances to each county seat, now or hereafter to be established, and by said table the mileage of each member shall be paid. Each regular session shall continue until the business of such session is disposed of.

Sec. 2. The Governor of this State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation submitting this amendment to be voted upon by the qualified electors for members of the Legislature, at the first general election to be held in this State. Those favoring the amendment shall have written or printed on their ballots the words: "For amendment to Section 24, of Article 3, of the Constitution increasing compensation of the Legislature, and extending the term of regular sessions of the Legislature."

Sec. 3. The sum of five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the State Treasury, not otherwise appropriated, to defray the expenses of such proclamation, publication and election.

(Note.—S. J. R. No. 26 passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 26, nays 0, and Senate concurred in House amendments by a two-thirds vote, yeas 23, nays 1; and was passed by the House of Representatives with amendments by a two-thirds vote, yeas 101, nays 22.)

Approved April 3, 1913.

EDGEWATER, L. I., July 23.—Tennis stars from many summer colonies along the Sound and several of the leading players of other sections of the country contested here to-day in the annual invitation tournament of the Edgewater Tennis Club.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE STATE CONSTITUTION, AMENDING ARTICLE XI, SECTION 7a, OF THE CONSTITUTION, PROVIDING FOR AUTHORIZING COUNTIES BORDERING ON THE GULF OF MEXICO TO BUILD SEAWALLS.

Senate Joint Resolution.

To amend Section 7 of Article XI of the Constitution of the State of Texas, authorizing counties bordering on the Gulf of Mexico to build sea-walls by adding Section 7a, so as to authorize such counties to build sea-walls and designate sea-wall reclamation districts for the protection of life and property from storm overflow, and to build or condemn land for sea-wall and reclamation districts, the county to have State's title to the roads and bay shore line to low tide within the district, and the right to issue district bonds for acquiring and developing the district and building the sea-walls, and when district is developed as townsite to sell such portions of the land as not reserved for public use by the county.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

That the following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas be proposed to the voters of the State of Texas for their adoption in accordance with law, and that the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to add Section 7a of Article XI, and that Section 7a of Article XI shall read as follows, to-wit:

Section 7a. Where protection against the waters of the Gulf of Mexico is needed for protection of life, health, property or the sea-wall, any county bordering on the Gulf of Mexico may acquire title to the land for said sea-wall or sea-wall reclamation district as designated by the County Commissioners' court by purchase or condemnation of all the land desired for sea-wall and land for the sea-wall reclamation district from the sea-wall to bay shore tide line boundary of the property abutting on the bay, and the State hereby cedes to the county, for such district, for reclamation and general uses of the district, the title to bay shore lands in the district between the property tide line boundary and the low tide line of the bay shore, and any land in the reclamation district that may have been retained by the Republic of Texas of (or) the State for roads when the lands adjacent were platted and sold, and the county is given the right to dredge in the bay or in the gulf for fill for the district, and right to sell the land when reclaimed and laid off as townsite or otherwise, and where condemnation is used to acquire the land the proceedings to be under the Statutes for condemnation for railroads, provided that the condemnation shall vest title in fee in the county, and county may issue bonds or other evidence of district indebtedness for acquiring the property, building the sea-wall, reclamation development and all incidents thereto as expenses of sea-wall and reclamation district, with lien on land and such terms and conditions as county, through its commissioners' court may deem best, and the county commissioners' court shall appoint two persons who are owners of land within the district, and who desire to sell for reclamation and buy back from the county when reclaimed, who, with the county judge as chairman, shall continue a sea-wall reclamation district commission, whose compensation shall be fixed by the court, and this commission has power to make all rules and regulations for acquiring the land of district sea-wall building, reclaiming and plating land of district, issuing bonds or other evidence of indebtedness for same, subject, however, to all such rules, regulations and acts of the commission being authorized and approved and ratified by county commissioners' court. The district must bear all expenses of sea-wall and purchase of the land and expenses of filling (filling) same and other expenses, and the same shall not in any way involve the credit of the county or be a basis for a tax by the county on general lands of the county unless authorized by a vote of two-thirds of the property taxpayers of the county voting at a special election therefor.

It is further provided that any owner of land in a proposed district may subscribe and pay for the district commission, when organized, as a pro rata of his land of the expense of the wall, reclamation, platting as town lots on a basis of such area of land is to be the whole land of the reclamation district and sea-wall, and at any time before the completion of the district may surrender the bonds and receive from the county a bond for title for his land in town lots, less streets and alleys deducted therefrom, for which on surrender deed may be demanded from the county after the district is walled, filled and platted into streets, alleys and lots, and bonds so bought shall so provide. It is further provided that no district shall be formally designated by the county commissioner's court until owners of at least one-half of the proposed area of district petition therefor, and subscribe out for bonds for repurchase from the county as herein provided. This amendment may be acted on without delay of legislation in aid thereof or legislative action may be had in furtherance thereof if desired by the county, acting through its commissioners' court.

Be it further resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

That the foregoing proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the State of Texas for their ratification and adoption at an election to be held throughout the State on the second Tuesday in November, A. D. 1914, and at such election those favoring the ratification and adoption of said amendment shall have written or printed on their ballots: "For the amendment to Article XI, Section 7a, of the Constitution providing for authorizing counties bordering on the Gulf of Mexico to build sea-walls;" and those opposing the adoption and ratification of said amendment shall have written or printed on their ballots, "Against the amendment to Article XI, Section 7a, of the Constitution, providing for authorizing counties bordering on the Gulf of Mexico to build sea-walls." Proclamation of such election shall be made by the Governor, as required by the Constitution and the law, and there is appropriated out of any funds not otherwise appropriated the sum of five thousand ($5,000.00) dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to pay the expenses of advertising and holding such election.

(Note.—S. J. R. No. 22 passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 24, nays 1, and Senate concurred in House amendments by a two-thirds vote, yeas 27, nays 9; and was passed by the House of Representatives with amendments by a two-thirds vote, yeas 114, nays 6.)

CHARLTON LOSES HIS PRISON PRIVILEGES.

By United Press.

COMO, Italy, July 21.—As a result of the recent Socialistic riots in Italy, Porter Charlton, the American wife murderer, is having to undergo for the first time the full rigors of Italian prison life.

Since Charlton was returned to Italy from the United States, last August, he has been the sole occupant of the jail here. As such, he has been allowed the most unusual privileges, such as receiving an occasional visitor, an unlimited correspondence, daily papers, magazines and novels. During the recent riots the jail here was filled up with Socialists and others who ran afoul of the police and military. That these may not be able to take advantage of the many privileges heretofore accorded Charlton, all his privileges have been curtailed. The reading of a daily Italian paper was prohibited, on the ground that this might give the other prisoners information of the strike. As Charlton has mastered Italian perfectly during his year of Italian prison life, his daily American news paper was also tabooed, as he would be able to communicate to his fellow prisoners prohibited information.

Present indications are that young Charlton will have to continue his present restricted regime until his trial comes off, next November. He continues to be in the best of health.

BRUCE ISMAY AN OUTCAST.

Friends Desert the Steamship Official Accused of Cowardice.

From the Detroit Tribune.
COSTELLO, Galway Bay, Ireland.—Where is Bruce Ismay?

For two years the steamship corporation official, who drew the criticism of the world after the sinking of the Titanic, has been missing from the pages that used to know him.

The captain of the lost liner went down with his ship, the first mate ended his broken life, and Bruce Ismay, making his way into a lifeboat and to the deck of the rescue ship Carpathia, sailed to safety.

Then of a sudden he disappeared. Rumor whispered that his one-time friends avoided him, that club committees desired his resignation, even that his mind had failed under the terrible strain.

At the Heel of the Sea.

Englishmen have scant sympathy for a coward. Few men would be willing to live the life that Bruce Ismay saved from the sea. No longer a steamship magnate, no longer a Bear Brummel in Eelgrass, the question of his whereabouts assumed the significance of a mystery.

Meantime the lost director was living in a remote house on a place known as the Heel of the Sea.

The loneliest road in Ireland runs from Minna to Costello, along the shore of Galway Bay. Sheer moor, quire treeless, bleak beyond words, hardly a stone cabin in sight, and no path but the straight mill road.

In the heart of this Irish wilderness a solitary lodge shows white against its surrounding patch of green. A locked gate forbids entrance. Sheamus, the old side-car driver, flourishes an accusing whiplash through the teeming rain.

"Look There Where He Hides."
"Look there where he hides. Never a gentleman have I brought here but was turned away from the very door. Money he has and all that money will buy. But he cannot shake off the memories on his mind. Day after day he must hear them—the shrieks of the drowning men crying down the wind. This is his curse. What he did will be remembered until the Titanic is forgotten."

Potomac for full enjoyment of the rights guaranteed by the Declaration of American Independence.

The immoralities which directly resulted from slavery would have been unbridled under the Southern Confederacy, and ultimately would have contaminated and degraded the Anglo-Saxon race on the Western Continent.

Had the North decided to allow the wayward sister to depart in peace in the fair confederation which would have stretched from the Potomac to the Rio Grande, mighty impetus would have been given to classic literature, oratory, music and art. A civilization such as mankind has never witnessed would have dazzled the world for a brief day whose morning splendors would have been eclipsed by a chaotic twilight. But in the zenith of her brilliant day the Southern Confederation would have nurtured all that militated to the happiness of her civilization and to the maintenance of her domestic and political honor.

The old South maintained a degree of humane responsibility between employer and employee which would be derided in this soulless commercial age, when in the clashes between capital and labor "big business" sometimes finds it expedient to shoot down helpless women and children. The individual humanitarianism which distinguished the ante-bellum South was partly due to the care necessary to slaves as valuable property. But it would have formed the poetry and grace of the Southern Confederacy, under the regime of which the tremendous force of a brave and manly people would have measured men and honored them by the standards of justice and generosity.

Under the Southern Confederacy the art of Italy, the progress of France, the spirit of the Latin races would have predominated over the colder commercial qualities of the Anglo-Saxon. The Southern aristocracy would have striven to preserve social and political institutions embalmed in the blood of an honored and historic ancestry. A fair dream would have been reared above the graves of those fallen in battle. Suffering would have sanctified the dream; love upheld it; religion blessed it.

But underneath the flower-wreathed columns would have seethed the unforgotten hope of slaves for freedom. The disintegrating principle of secession would have interfered with the stability of commerce, depleting the treasury. The few would have been rendered more arrogant, the many more disconsolate. And at last the states would have returned, one by one, to the Union, and over the broken drama of the Southern Confederacy Old Glory would have been nailed, just beneath the cross, every star restored to its blue field.

CARDINAL GIBBONS

EIGHTY TO-DAY.
BALTIMORE, Md., July 23.—Scores of telegrams were received here today congratulating Cardinal Gibbons on his eightieth birthday. Letters and telegrams came from all parts of the world, many of them bringing words of cheer from fellow members of the Sacred College of the Catholic Church and some from rulers of Europe.

IF THE SOUTHERN CONFEDERACY HAD WON ITS INDEPENDENCE.

The Widow of General Longstreet Says That the result Would Have Been a Nation of Unexampled Brilliance, Which Would Have Soon Passed Away, and the Seceding States Would Have Asked for Reunion With the North.

Helena D. Longstreet, widow of the famous Confederate general, has written a page article for the New Work Sun in which she discusses what would have been the result had the South won its independence and established its national capital at Richmond. The following is an extract from the article:

The Old South would have reigned in short but brilliant sovereignty. Both the good and the evil of the old civilization would have been exaggerated. The Southern Confederacy would have given agriculture the benefit of partisan legislation at the expense of the manufactory, and free trade would have developed the commerce of the seas at the expense of the American foundry and factory. The progress of mechanical invention would have been retarded in the Western world by the retention of the institution of slavery.

A boundless and exaggerated hospitality, made easy by slave labor, would have illustrated all that was felicitous in the social and domestic circles of the South.

Slavery Doomed.

The moral force of a universal public opinion opposed to slavery would have modified its cruelties and in time have brought about emancipation based on an educational and moral fitness for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. Slavery was doomed, and with or without the war Providence had decreed emancipation, which would have been more merciful both to master and slave had it been written in the calm justice of arbitration, rather than in the blood and fire of a painful and unnecessary conflict.

The establishment of the Southern Confederacy would have immeasurably retarded the progress of women in the Western Hemisphere toward the nobler independence which blesses the new and better day.

The chivalry of the old South comprehended a sheltered position for women protected from competition with men; now relegated to the impracticabilities of a defeated people. Southern chivalry, however, did not preclude women from the exercise of industrial activities; nor was her influence over men based merely on external beauty, grace and the refinement of a lofty moral standard and poetic delicacy of thought and feeling.

The responsibilities borne by the woman of the old South rendered her capable and made her a companion to her husband, and her influence would have dominated politics at Richmond, influencing laws and measures protective of the home and its environment.

Friendship of France.

The ancient friendship of the South for France would have resulted in the recognition of the Maximilian empire by the Southern Confederacy, despite the Monroe Doctrine, and reciprocal trade relations would have grown up between France and the South, all tending to the social power of the Southern aristocrat.

The court at Richmond would have vied with the court of St. James in the pride and beauty of its women and the gallantry of its soldierly men, intoxicated with victory and relieved of financial burdens by opulent lands and underpaid labor.

Under the Southern Confederacy the public school would have been of slow growth, but the college and university education would have been more profound. The poor white man could not have survived in the South in competition with slave labor, and he would have been forced to emigrate to the Republic whose Capitol was on the Potomac for full enjoyment of the rights guaranteed by the Declaration of American Independence.

The immoralities which directly resulted from slavery would have been unbridled under the Southern Confederacy, and ultimately would have contaminated and degraded the Anglo-Saxon race on the Western Continent.

Had the North decided to allow the wayward sister to depart in peace in the fair confederation which would have stretched from the Potomac to the Rio Grande, mighty impetus would have been given to classic literature, oratory, music and art. OUR ABSURD JUSTICE.

From the Toledo News-Bee.

A poor down-and-outer has been sent to the penitentiary for two years for "repeating" in the recent franchise election in Kansas City, wherein the street railway company got an extra nineteen years to its franchise.

Within a week the paper value of the stocks of the company increased 5 million dollars in value.

This unthinkable sum will hardly prove of solace to that tempted creature who confessed that for a paltry $2 he helped to give away the streets of the people of the Missouri metropolis. He may think of it, perhaps—but he may be sure that those sleek, fattened masters of finance, whose tool he was, will never think of him as he toils away his life in the jute mills.

So absurd and antiquated are our methods of dealing with real crime that the courts never look beyond the bundle of rags which was caught red-handed in his illicit quest for food.

It did not ask who hired him. It did not trace the trail that might have led to the mahogany offices wherein the crime was planned.

The police took the $2 from the repeater. It did not take the millions away from the big looters.

It is still a matter of shame that our civilization has not yet put money and jail into the same dictionary when referring to the theft of public franchises.

If there is any satisfaction to be had from looking at the pitiful spectacle of a hungry tramp behind bars, the people of Kansas City may have it—while looking into their pockets for more nickels to pay interest on stolen millions.

THE "CARELESS WORM," OR GARDEN WEB-WORM.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, July 20.—The garden web-worm, or "careless worm," has made its appearance in many sections of Texas, and is doing considerable damage to cotton, by devouring the leaves, according to a statement issued by State Entomologist Wilmon Newell, at the A. & M. College.

This worm somewhat resembles the cotton-leaf worm or "army worm," which did much damage to cotton last year, but is not as serious a pest as the latter, in that it is not likely to persist throughout the season.

Fortunately, the pest is very easily controlled. It is only necessary to apply to the cotton, in dust form, the poison known as powdered arsenate of lead. This is a white, fine dust, and the method of application is to make a small sack of cotton cloth, place the poison in it, tie the sack to a short stick, and then dust the cotton lightly with it. One man can dust the cotton as fast as he can walk along the row, and the dusting is facilitated by the operator carrying in one hand another short stick with which to tap the one having the sack on it. About two pounds of the powdered arsenate of lead is sufficient to destroy the pest on small cotton.

In fields where the cotton is nearly waist-high a more rapid and economical method is to suspend a sack of poison to each end of a pole about six feet in length. This pole is then carried across the saddle in front of a laborer on horseback, who rides between the rows shaking out the poison. The powdered arsenate of lead is not diluted with anything before application. On large cotton from three to four pounds per acre are required. This poison will not scorch or burn the leaves of cotton, no matter how heavily applied.

In emergencies, where the powdered arsenate of lead cannot be applied, the worms may be destroyed in the same manner with Paris green, mixed with air-slacked lime at the rate of one part Paris green to five parts of the lime. This should be dusted onto the cotton plants very lightly, at a rate not to exceed one-fourth pound of Paris green per acre, for the reason reason that Paris green, no matter how lightly applied, is itself injurious to the plant, and will always reduce the final yield.

There is no necessity for purchasing spraying machinery for destroying this pest; nor is there any need for using a liquid spray for its destruction. It requires many tons of water to spray a cotton field, and such a method is both laborious and expensive, on account of the work involved. The dry applications of poison are fully as efficient as the liquid spray and much cheaper. White arsenate and caustic soda should never be applied to cotton. Either one will do about as much damage as the insects themselves. Powdered arsenate of lead is preferable.

SATURDAY'S ELECTION.

An American citizen has no higher privilege than the right of suffrage. An honest ballot is the foundation of free government. Men ought to get away from the passion which has characterized pre-election discussion before casting a vote Saturday. Rid your mind of prejudice.

We need a business administration. University students are going to school in shacks. Insane are housed in county jails. Destitute live in halls scarcely fit for habitation. Our penitentiary costs tax payers a million dollars a year.

Jim Ferguson says whisky legislation must stop. Can Mr. Ferguson give us a "business-like" administration when he votes all legislation to further regulate the expenditure of $4 million dollars a year for liquor? Does he expect industrial peace so long as the one stream which fills our jails, our insane asylums, our poor houses, our penitentiaries—which pollutes every avenue of political, industrial and social life—is left untouched? Yet Mr. Ferguson stands for just that.

Does the saloon deserve castigation? Does it help or hinder business?

Kansas is our best answer. The "Sunflower State" is not more favorably situated than its neighbors. It is more prosperous than they.

Kansas has 104 counties. Forty-eight of these did not send a man to the penitentiary last year. Eighty-seven did not report an insane patient. In fourteen counties no jury has been called in ten years to try a criminal case. Fifty-three counties have empty jails. Thirty-eight counties have tenantless poor-houses.

Tom Ball's first step in efficient administration of public affairs is to throttle the greatest economic and social evil of the people. He has succeeded admirably in whatever he has undertaken.

You cannot separate the two men from the issues. A vote for Ferguson is a vote for the licensed saloon and all that goes with the saloon. A vote for Ball is a call for industrial efficiency, for business betterments, for home and manhood.

Saturday is your opportunity. It is a sacred trust upon you.

NEW HAVEN CORRUPTION.

Stockholders in the New Haven Railroad are asking for about 360 million dollars. The money was wasted by Morgan and his associates.

New Haven was built into one of the strongest and most conservative lines in New England. It was looted systematically under the personal auspices of men supposed to represent the most staunch financial integrity of Wall Street—indeed, of the Nation.

Under J. P. Morgan and John D. Rockefeller New Haven suffered practically the same dismantling as Erie did under Fisk and Jay Gould. Mania for monopoly produced the same results among the Nation's financial wizards as the most unscrupulous cunning of York State produced a generation ago.

Neither did the crookedness of Fisk and Gould resort to more devious ways to hide the facts than Rockefeller and Morgan employed. The Investigating Commission says:

"It was found in the investigation of the New Haven system that there were 336 subsidiary corporations, and the books of the New Haven road proper reflect only a small part of the financial transactions of the railroad. Many of these subsidiary corporations served no purpose save an evil one. They were used to cover up transactions that would not bear scrutiny, and to keep from the eyes of public officials matters that were sought to be kept secret."

Wall Street is screaming against government by investigation. For months America's financial capital has been denouncing Wilson's proposal for Government supervision over railroad securities. Business needs a rest, they say.

The largest trouble with America is not Wilson's headstrong determination to make big business "play square." Our most imminent menace is in the practices of men of position, wealth, education who hesitate at no step to gain power and gold. Prosperity is excellent. Honesty, justice, liberty is better.

We cannot have honesty, justice, freedom in a land that submits to the abuse of the money-mad, power-intoxicated plutocracy embodied in the men who defied law, debauched government, polluted public opinion, defrauded the weak and helpless in their plundering of New Haven to enthrone monopoly.

Perhaps an understanding of New Haven makes President Wilson's policy clearer.

GAINESVILLE, Texas, July 17, 1914.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

We, the undersigned citizens of Gainesville, Texas, have known Mr. W. N. (Newt) McDonald for many years, and know him to be a man of ability, and one whose honesty and integrity has never been questioned.

He would not aspire to any position which he was not capable of filling, and will always be true to any trust reposed in him.

Y. W. Holmes, Democrat Candidate for The Legislature

Live in Plainview, native Texan, on farm till 26 years old, academic graduate University of Texas, lawyer since 1898, served in the Legislature in 1905, lived in Gonzales 9 years, in Amarillo 3, and in Hale County 4. Investigate me, and if it shows good and you like my platform, WONT YOU VOTE FOR ME?

Cannot see you personally, but will make speeches, and will discuss briefly in this column part of the following propositions every two weeks. Watch for them.

1. Favor State-wide prohibition, most strict regulation till State-wide is secured, and full protection of dry territory against liquor traffic.
2. Favor ample provision for building, equipment, maintenance and protection of all State educational institutions, particularly the Canyon Normal.

3. Favor compulsory attendance of every scholastic under 14 years for four months each year; favor free text books; an eight months' school year, divided into two separate sessions; and better pay for teachers.

4. Opposed to children under 14 working at any indoor occupation, except to assist in business of their parents.

5. Opposed to women working over 8 hours per day in any factory, and over ten hours at any other indoor occupation.

6. A mother with children, without support, unable to maintain a home, should be assisted by the State to enable her to maintain a home for them.

7. Favor laws providing for a complete and accurate gathering and disseminating of information on growing, harvesting and marketing agricultural products; and providing for a marketing and warehouse system.

8. Favor a pure seed law to protect agriculture against damage from bad and impure seed.

9. To encourage the purchase and improvement of small farms, I favor laws to promote rural credit associations; and also the necessary laws to give Texas the benefit of the National Rural Banking Act to be passed—but homestead exemptions must be preserved. Men cannot afford to borrow money to purchase and improve farms except at a low rate and on long time. The president appointed a commission to study rural credit systems in Europe, where they are highly developed. One member was S. A. Lindsay, of Tyler, Texas. Their report, after a study over all Europe, contains a wealth of information which should be used in devising a rural credit system for Texas. That Texas may receive the benefit of the National Rural Banking Act, soon to be passed, it must establish the Torrens system of land registration. This requires a thorough knowledge of the Texas land laws. As far back as 1904, I made an extensive study of this system, and prepared to introduce a bill to establish it. Some claim Texas must abolish its homestead exemptions in order to get the benefit of the National act. This is untrue, as our constitution allows liens on homesteads for purchase money and improvements. If it were necessary to abolish the homestead exemptions, I would be opposed to it.

10. Encourage railroad building by improving stock and bond law to allow bonds to be sold before a railroad is built, the proceeds to be spent under supervision of the railroad commission. More railroads are necessary to the development of this section of country. Local companies cannot build road, because they must first secure the money, and build the road, before they can issue bonds, and they are not able to furnish the money. Consequently, we are at the mercy of the big railway systems. They are constantly sparring, each to keep the other from building into its contemplated territory, and they build up new roads when they get good and ready, while the public waits and waits. If the local company could first issue bonds with which to raise money to build the road, it would make us independent of the big systems. The plan would be for the Railroad Commission first to investigate the proposition, and, if approved, authorize the issuance of the bonds, the proceeds to be set aside for the purpose, to be used for no other purpose, and to be spent only under the supervision of, and with a strict accounting to, the Commission. Then when the road is built, the bonds will be represented by property actually in existence, just as under the present law requiring the road to be built before the issuance of bonds.

11. Reform Court Proceedings, so cases will be determined right and with due dispatch, eliminating unnecessary technicalities. Court proceedings are too slow. Some think they can remedy it with one stroke, but I am not that smart. The proceeding in civil appeals is rapid enough, until it reaches the Supreme Court. When a case reaches that court, the wait is interminable. The Court is too small for the volume of business, and it ought to be increased to five members. In the trial court, if the defendant were required to answer within twenty days after notice; and in case he failed, judgment could be entered at once, so that only contested cases would be before the court at the regular session; and if litigants were required to demand, and pay for, a jury on the first day of the term; and if cases were required to be tried or dismissed when no good cause is shown why they are not ready for trial at the time a case is set for trial, and eliminating the practice of litigants to continue, or postpone, by agreement, unless for good cause, I think such would end half the delays in trial courts.

PREDICT ANOTHER REVOLT IN CHINA

By United Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., July 22.—Recent arrivals here from China declare almost without exception that a giant revolt is imminent there against President Yuan Shi Kai.

Yuan, they say, though a strong and able man, has utterly failed to comprehend the modern spirit which has awakened among his countrymen. His policy is denounced as one of oppression, which the masses of the Chinese, with the memory of their last successful revolution still fresh in their minds, show no disposition to tolerate.

Much of the country, it is stated by men who have travelled through it and studied it thoroughly, is already in revolt, though the rebels are generally referred to in officially-colored dispatches, as mere brigands. Good judges of the situation freely discuss that another vast struggle will be in progress within another year.

ATLANTIC SHORE CRAFT IN OCEAN YACHT RACES.

By United Press

CAMDEN, N. J., July 22.—Much interest was manifested to-day and brought here many leading members of the Atlantic seaboard yacht clubs in anticipation of seeing many of the best Atlantic shore crafts which will start to-day in the Philadelphia-to-Baltimore ocean yacht race. The regatta committee announced that it has many interesting events on its program to-day for the enjoyment of the visitors. The race will end at Baltimore July 24.

SELF UNMADE MEN.

From the Chicago Herald.

Jerome S. McWade, the Duluth millionaire connoisseur, said at a dinner at the Marlborough-Blenheim, in Atlantic City:

"I am sick and tired of those financiers who, when caught out, put all the blame on another—put all the blame on a dead man."

"There was the sugar scandal, and the blame all put on poor dead Haverney. There was the railroad scandal, and the blame all put on poor dead Harriman. And now we have the New Haven scandal, and Mellen puts the blame on poor dead Pierpont Morgan. Bah, what a stale dodge."

Mr. McWade struck the table vigorously with his fist, and added:

"How ridiculous to put the blame on others, dead or living, anyway! We hear a lot from the self-made man—why does the self-unmade one always give the credit to somebody else?"

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN FLEE FROM FARM WORK.

"I'd like to have a farm, but my wife won't let me," says a man who won't even spade up the back yard for a garden.

"I'd just love to live in the country and have a garden and cows and pigs; it would be so good for the children. But my husband was raised on a farm and he just hates the country," says a little mother whose husband insists upon living in a steam-heated flat.

A great deal of blame has been placed on the women because of the abandonment of farms in this country. The fearful loneliness and drudgery of farm life, it is declared, has driven farm women to influence their men folk toward leaving farm life for the comforts and society of the cities.

Yet why is it that almost invariably the man who has been raised on a farm hates the very thought of farm life and no matter how his wife may plead for a home in the country refuses to consider it, even for the children's sake. As one man said:

"It was labor from sunup to sundown. Even when I was a baby I had to help, and to this day I can't look at an onion patch without remembering how I had eternally to keep after the weeds in the onion patch back on the old place."

This particular man bends over a desk in a half-dark office nine and ten hours a day. He seldom sees his young children and his wife except when they are asleep. He and his wife have no companionship, no interest in common. He looks worn and anemic, and I know it's hard lines for him to make ends meet on his salary, at the city cost of rent, food, education and recreation. Still, he prefers the eternal grind under unnatural conditions to the natural labor of farm life.

If women hate farm life, why is it that those who have migrated to the city are nearly always willing to go back to the country to live, if given the proper chance? True, they want better conditions, and, if they go back, they manage to get better living conditions.

Don't blame the farm women entirely for the exodus from our farms. Heaven knows she's had cause enough to wish to desert. But she is willing to study better ways and to work. Rather blame the farm boy who leaves home as soon as he can, longing for the ease and elevation of a city job, and the gilded palace of amusement and sociability which he expects to find in the city.—Copyright, 1914, by E. K. Woolley.

WESTERN TENNIS STARS WATCH DAVIS CHALLENGERS.

By United Press.
LAKE FOREST, Ill., July 23.—Leading tennis players from Western States gathered at the Onwetsia Club to-day in advance of the Western championship tournament, to open July 25, to watch the Davis cup challengers of Australia and Canada play their preliminary matches on the grass courts here.

The prospect of seeing Anthony F. Wilding, world's champion; Norman E. Brooks, one of his closest rivals, and Stanley N. Doubt, Australian star, in the competition brought a crowd to the Onwetsia Club to-day. Society folk came by the hundreds from Chicago, and gave a brilliant setting to the event.

Wilding and Brooks, and possibly two of the Canadian players, are expected to remain over and participate in the Western tournament, opening July 25. In order to try for the National doubles championship, they must first qualify by winning one of the sectional events.

MOVING A HILL BY TRAIN.

One in California Will Be Shipped to Pennsylvania.

From the Youth's Companion.
Moving a hill even a few feet proved too big a job for Mohammed, but to-day, in California, a mountain is being shipped three thousand miles to Pennsylvania.

Situated at Lompoc, Santa Barbara County, this mountain is really a heap of millions and millions of tiny decomposed sea shells. It is sold as "infusorial earth" and has a high value for insulating purposes and for jeweler's grinding pastes. The earth is white in color, fluffy in consistency, and exceedingly fine in grain. Fifteen cars containing fifty tons each will go east monthly. When the last car goes out, it will be possible to tell precisely how much the mountain weighed.

THOUGHT IT SAFER.

By United Press.
LONDON, England, July 23.—At the Old Bailey a prisoner who said he was unable to hire a lawyer asked the court to appoint some one to represent his case. "Just make your own choice," said the recorder, pointing to a score of barristers present. The prisoner carefully scanned the countenances of the three rows of lawyers, then announced, "Never mind; I'll defend myself."

PEORIA CANDIDATE WANTS NATIONAL CAPITAL REMOVED.

By United Press.
PEORIA, Ill., July 23.—"Remove the National Capital to Peoria.

"A full dinner pail for the laborer, a new dress for his wife, a nickel for the tots, a full stomach for all. Only old sea cows say things that can't be done."

These are planks in the platform on which "Judge" J. Frederick Hilton, of Peoria, is seeking the nomination on the Republican ticket for Congress from the Sixteenth Illinois District. The platform is printed on the back of Hilton's name cards.

"The capital of the United States, in the face of the growing and dominant West, can't last fifteen years where it is," reads the argument in support of the first plank.

One of Hilton's most frequently advanced claims to distinction is a boyhood friendship for Al Jennings, former bandit, now running for Governor of Oklahoma.

CHILDREN SAVE "THOUSANDS."

By United Press.
CHICAGO, Ill., July 23.—That old china bank and the penny-at-a-time stuff is a has-been. Chicago school children now bank their money in really-truly banks, and their combined deposits total "in the thousands." To be exact, it's $2,537.05.

That is the amount the youngsters have saved since the opening of savings banks in 21 school on April 18. At present, there are applications to install 14 more school banks this fall.

PLAIN YALLER DOG HAS HIS DAY TO-DAY.

By United Press.
CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 22.—The largest and most unique bench show ever seen here was scheduled to open to-day. It was Cleveland's first annual cur dog exhibit, staged by the Personal Liberty League in their annual outing at Luna Park.

Every year Cleveland sees one or more shows where every conceivable breed of dog, from New Foundland to French poodles, are judged and admired, but dogs who are "just dogs" never get within barking distance of these affairs. To-day the meanliest cur was judged with as much respect as the proudest and most pampered bench dog. Several canines who showed signs of snobbishness tried to slip into the feast, but were promptly excluded by watchful and unsympathetic judges.

After the show, children who could gain the parental consent were given their choice of the canine wanderers.

CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCES ON.

By United Press.
BURTON, Wash., July 22.—With a seven days' program scheduled that embraces many topics of vital importance to the church and the public, the annual Congregational Conference of the Northwest began sessions on Vashon Island to-day. A large number of churches of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and British Columbia were represented, besides hundreds of clergymen and laymen, interested in the work to be considered. Practically every one attending is living in tents, and the meetings have all of the features of a summer camp.

PLAINVIEW ENCAMPMENT NO. 58, L. O. O. F., INSTALLS OFFICERS FOR ENSUING TERM.

MEXICO MAKES MANEUVERS GOOD.

By United Press.
CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 23.—Not since the Civil War has this State seen such a military display as was spread out on the camp grounds here to-day when the entire State militia went through their maneuvers. Over 3,000 men, comprising forty companies, a hospital corps, bands and a cavalry squadron, were on the field.

The chance for service in Mexico brought the guard enlistment up to 3,000 within a month, and most of the new members had seen service either in the regular army or in the guards. The excitement also increased interest in the drills, and Adjutant General Holloway said to-day that the men are better equipped than ever before.

WATERLESS SWISS NAVY.

By United Press.
BERNE, Switzerland, July 23.—"The Swiss navy" is about to be removed from the joke books. After trials lasting several weeks, the government has decided to purchase, chiefly with the large sum raised by popular subscription, six Schneider biplanes, which will form the nucleus of an aerial fleet. These machines are particularly adapted to long-distance scouting. Later a number of French monoplanes will be added, experiments with these still continuing.

PACIFIC COAST SHOOT.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 21.—Scattergun artists from the Northwest and California were competing to-day in the ninth Pacific Coast Handicap Shoot, being held here under the auspices of the Portland Gun Club. Besides the prize money put up by the local organization, the Interstate Association has added $500. The grand shoot-off will be staged to-morrow.

STARTS OPERA BOOM.

By United Press.
PARMA, Italy, July 22.—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormack's first effort at breaking the Italian music trust has resulted in the composing of 39 new grand operas. These have just been presented here in the first annual competition for the $4,000 prize offered by the Chicago Woman.

For nearly a century past the famous music house of Ricordi, of Milan, has exercised a monopoly on the opera producing business in Italy. No composer who fails to line up with the Ricordi people can possibly hope to get his opera produced in Italy. Mrs. McCormack's prize, which is to be repeated every year for ten years, also insures the production in this city of the prize-winning operas.

"COMBINGS" FOR VACATION FUND.

By United Press.
LONDON, England, July 23.—"Give us your combings," says in ingenious appeal issued to the women of England by the promoters of the London Fresh Air Fund. Estimating that an average of more than two ounces of hair is shed annually by every woman in the United Kingdom, they figure that $750,000, which might be used to furnish country vacations for the poor children of the metropolis, is thus thrown away. For every pound of hair received by the fund—value cents—one child will be given a day's outing, with plenty to eat. The fund last year sent more than a quarter of a million children to the country for outings of from one day to two weeks.

July 20th, 1914.

Mr. Dan White,
Plainview, Texas.

Dear Sir:

I have your wire advising that some former residents of Bell County, now living there, are making the statement that only the riff raff are supporting Ferguson in this county.

I enclose herewith a list of a few of his supporters in the City of Temple, and any one acquainted with these men know them to be among the strongest and best men in our town. Among this list, you will find that the strongest men in the various lines of business will vouch for the standing of these men, as they know them well and favorably.

Mr. Ferguson has made a remarkable campaign, and is meeting with strong support all over the State; and there is no doubt in my mind that he will carry his own county and also carry the State by an overwhelming majority. The people seem to want a business administration, and he is entirely capable and worthy of filling the bill.

They have tried to dig up all kinds of slander on him, but none of it will hold water, and you can tell your people that he enjoys a nice, clean record here, and he is worthy of the support and confidence of the people of this State.

With very kind personal regards, I remain,
Yours very truly,
CHAS. M. CAMPBELL,
President.

BOY SCOUTS AND THE CAMPFIRE GIRLS ARE CRUSADERS OF TO-DAY.

Modern Army of Children, Three Thousand Strong, Accomplishes Effective Campaigns Against Filth, Fifth and All Health-Menacing Conditions.

There is something peculiarly stirring about the vision of a band of young people gathered together for a great common cause. How our sympathies were aroused, both in the old schooldays, by that Thirteenth Century story of the children's crusade! How our imagination was kindled by the thought of those 50,000 little volunteers who, inspired by the great wave surging over Europe, left their homes in France and Germany and set forth, unarmed but unafraid, for Jerusalem, to win back the holy sepulcher from the hands of the conquering Saracens!

We are far removed to-day from such old-time fanaticism. But even now the New World has its counterpart of that eager army. We find our modern young crusaders in the Campfire Girls and Boy Scouts of America—two youthful, enthusiastic bands that have spread across a whole continent their ideals of helpful comradeship and practical achievement, says S. A. Moffat in the Craftsman.

The value to the Nation of these organizations as builders of a conscious citizenship is evident when one sees how closely the young people's interests are linked with those of the community. This is particularly significant in the case of the Boy Scouts, whose active share in civic and State activities has become, during the last few years, a really vital and progressive factor in many sections of the country.

Are 30,000 Strong.

The Boy Scouts are 300,000 strong, not counting the 8,000 scout-masters and assistant scout-masters. Everyone knows in a general way what they stand for—their camps and sports and outdoor activities, the badges and honors awarded for special attainments in education, industry and art. But less widely known is the work they do in co-operation with city and State officials to promote the cleanliness, health and happiness of the people in their own neighborhood, to aid the State in forestry, bird and animal conservation and to volunteer their service wherever they can aid the cause of public welfare.

In the cities and towns all over the country, Boy Scouts who wish to taste the adventures and responsibilities of active citizenship go to the mayor and ask how they can help him. The mayor is almost sure to be interested by their boyish eagerness, and sets them gladly to work. He gets his public health officers and his policemen to co-operate with the Scouts in whatever undertaking seems most needful. They start, for instance, with a general "clean-up" campaign. On one occasion the New York branch of the Boy Scouts had a "clean-up" campaign, and boys from certain troops went to the Ghetto and other East Side sections. They were so energetic in clearing away refuse and debris from back yards, roofs and fire escapes that the people themselves became interested and gave most enthusiastic aid.

In some cities, anti-fly campaigns were started by the Scouts, and in one place, in Canada, they accomplished wonders, with the help of the cabmen. In New York, this work has been done in co-operation with the city board of health and the Museum of Natural History. Posters were printed and distributed, and moving pictures were made showing the ravages of flies as carriers of disease, instructing people how to get rid of them by poison and traps, and how to prevent their breeding. All over the country the Scouts visited the owners of livery stables and dirty back yards, and persuaded them to sign blanks promising that, with the aid of the Boy Scouts, they would clean up their premises, get rid of manure, garbage, etc., and do their share in the movement toward cleaner cities. The results were well worth the efforts.

Protection of Food.

The protection of milk, meat and other foods from dust and flies is another matter to which the Boy Scouts give their attention, for they know that unprotected eatables are a source of danger to the public health. They find out what laws have been passed in their town or district for such protection, and how the people are living up to the laws. If there are no regulations of this kind, their investigations are often influential in creating a demand for proper legislation.

The fighting of actual disease is another phase of Boy Scout activity, and co-operating with health societies and hospitals they distribute posters describing the dangers of unhealthy environment, impure food, and the precautions that should be taken to avoid contagion. In a number of the smaller towns, the boys who have studied "first aid" are allowed by the police to take a practical part in caring for injured persons and warning people on matters of public safety. During conventions, some of the scouts also frequent the railroad stations, meet trains and act as guides to visiting strangers.

HOW A NEWSPAPER SENT A GIRL TO COLLEGE.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 18.—A few years ago an ambitious girl found herself obliged to quit school at the close of her second year in high school, financial reverses having overtaken her father. She had always been her father's right hand man; and when he found himself in business straits and needing his daughter's help in the office, he promised that if she would help him out for a few years he would send her back to school wherever she wished to go. But the years went by, and business did not improve. The girl found herself possessed of a good deal of miscellaneous business training, but no nearer to a college education.

She then determined to get an education for herself, since her father evidently would not be able to help her again. So she went back into the high school, keeping her father's books in the afternoons and on Saturday, and hoping all the time that by the time she was prepared something would turn up to open the way for college. And just before Christmas the opportunity came. In the nearest large town to her village, one of the big State papers put on a circulation campaign, offering the usual prizes—an automobile, a piano player, a building lot, etc. And the young girl who is our heroine decided to try for a prize.

She devoted all of her holiday to taking subscriptions for the paper. Then, finding that things were going well and that she needed more time, she stayed out of high school a couple of weeks longer and canvassed her whole section for subscribers. And she won the building lot, which was readily mortgaged for enough money to put her through the first year of her college course. She is just finishing a year of work in the University of Texas. Her troubles are not over, of course. There is the interest on the lot mortgaged to be handled, and the money for the other three college years to be got some way. But the first lap of the race is successfully run, and this plucky young woman has proved herself a worthy member of the group of self-supporting students that share the benefits of the University of Texas with an only slightly larger group whose parents are able to present them with a college education.

THE RAREST MILITARY HONOR.

Only 3,088 Have Been Brave Enough to Win American Medal.

From the Chicago Tribune.

Americans of average information know about the Victoria Cross, the Iron Cross and the Cross of the Legion of Honor. These are rewards of heroism the winning of which would mark a man above his fellows, even in this foreign land.

But how many Americans know what a Medal of Honor is?

How many Americans know that the modest American soldiers who wear the Medal of Honor wear a decoration that is among the rarest and most difficult to win among military honors? The roll of the Legion of Honor, established by Napoleon in 1802, had over 50,000 names on it by 1815, and while founded to signalize deeds of special daring in war, was later given freely for civil distinctions. Nearly 40,000 German soldiers were decorated with the Iron Cross in the seven months of the Franco-Prussian War, while in the more than half century since the creation of our honor roll only 3,088 have been granted, and of these nearly 900 were given under a mistaken reading of the law.

The holder of the Medal of Honor must have "distinguished himself conspicuously by gallantry and intrepidity, at the risk of his life, beyond the call of duty." This standard, which bars out action, however brave, in the course of duty and includes only acts of daring which a man might refuse or avoid without rebuke, is said to be unequalled.

There has been introduced in Congress a bill to give moderate pensions to the few surviving Medal of Honor men who are 65 or older. The expense would be but slight, and, in fact, so small as to appear almost penurious, perhaps less than $12,000 the first year and decreasing annually with the death rate of Civil War veterans. The Republic, which is none too generous, would do well to grant this small acknowledgement for acts which are an example of self-sacrifice and heroic fearlessness.

LITTLE STORIES OF THE LONE STAR STATE.

By United Press.

"Horse Marines"—how many persons know that Texas has a claim to originating this expression? "I'm Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines,"

And feed my men on pork and beans," goes the well-known old-time song. Well, the obviously farcical "horse marines" were referred to first in Texas in 1836, in connection with a small company of mounted men under Captain Isaac W. Burton, who were ordered to the coast county between the mouth of the Guadalupe and Copano. Retaliatory measures had been determined upon by General Buck and President Burnett against Mexico, mainly to discourage an attack, Texas having won her independence but still fearing another invasion.

Discovering the schooner Watchman near Copano, Burton decoyed it to shore and captured it. He manned the boat, which was laden with supplies for the Mexican army, and very soon afterward took two other schooners similarly freighted. These achievements, so helpful to the poorly-fed army of Texas, won for Captain Burton and his cavalry the name of "The Horse Marines."

GRANDI STOCK CO.

"Better than I expected it to be," was the general opinion that was held of the Grandi Stock Co. after it had given the plays "St. Elmo" and "The Three Twins."

"The Three Twins," a three-act comedy, was rendered Tuesday night to a very appreciative audience.

"St. Elmo" is a four-act tragedy, and was played with good effect last night to a larger crowd than that which had seen "The Three Twins."

A play without a name will be shown to-night. This play was written by Robert Grandi, the manager of the company. He will give ten dollars to the one suggesting the best name for the play.

"Dr. Jeckyl and Mr. Hyde" will be presented Friday night. This play is dramatized from the book of the same name written by Robert Louis Stevenson.

The Methodist ladies will serve dinner Saturday, election day.

Plainview is famous for its good dinners, and this promises to be no exception to the rule. Fried chicken, ice cream and other good things will be on docket.

The third installment of the great serial "Luelle Love" was shown at the Olympic Tuesday night. Grace Canard, in the heroine role, and Francis Ford, as "Hugo Loubeque," are interesting in every way. The interest increases with each installment.

MISS SANSON TO TEACH.

Miss Nell Sansom, who has for the past two years been Director of Music in the State Normal School of Florence, Alabama, will now teach in Plainview, and will take pupils in both piano and voice. She is a pupil of the distinguished Harold Von Michwitz, and also a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

The following letter is from Dr. H. J. Willingham, President of the Florence Normal School:

"Florence, Ala., March 9, 1914.

To Whom It May Concern:

"During the past two sessions Miss Nell Sansom has been employed by this institution as director of the Department in Instrumental Music.

"She came to us highly recommended by the authorities of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. She has fully sustained the high expectations which her testimonials led us to hope for.

"Her class is always as large as she can care for, and her work is exceedingly popular among the student body.

"She is a young woman of very attractive personality, really fond of work, and is in every sense a highly successful teacher.

"For reasons that are personal she has felt it necessary to return to her home, in Texas, and, therefore, will not allow herself to be re-elected for the same position for another year. Her going will be a distinct loss to the institution. She has my unqualified endorsement for any position which she may accept.

"Very respectfully,
HENRY J. WILLINGHAM,
President."

AN INVITATION.

One of Plainview's good women sent in the following verse. She says it was made up while she was stirring grit for the chickens. Anyhow, it is worth publishing:

"That none may be slighted,
You are cordially invited
To come to our dinner—
Both saint and dear sinner,
And stranger, too.

That are in Plainview.
Please send no regrets:
We must pay our just debts,
And cheerfully own
We can't work alone—
That is why you're invited.
When all are united
The walls will come down
And victory crown
The work of our hands
And finish our plans.
Be sure to be there—
North side of the square.
The time is quite nigh,
Twenty-fifth of July.
Till then—good-bye.

DRY HANDS IN HOT AIR.

More Sanitary Than Paper Towels, It Is Claimed.

From the Electrical World.

In hotel, factory and public lavatories where roller towels should not be used, because of the danger of spreading skin diseases, and where the expense of furnishing individual paper or cloth towels is considerable, the electric hand drier may be used economically and satisfactorily. A sanitary hand drier consists of a sheet metal case with an opening in its top in which the hands can be inserted and dried by a current of hot air. A foot pedal operates a quick-acting switch which starts a blower, forcing air through the electric heater. The hand drier is, of course, absolutely sanitary, a sit is unnecessary to touch any part of the apparatus when using it. The hands can be thoroughly dried, it is declared, in from thirty to forty seconds, which is less time than is required to perform the same operation with a linen or paper towel.

ILLINOIS WOMEN HAVE FIRST REAL TEST IN COMING CAMPAIGN.

By United Press.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 23.—The women of Illinois will undergo their first real test as a political factor in the coming campaign. In the April elections they voted only for city officers, but on November 3 they will have the additional privilege of voting for county, State and National officers.

The officers for whom the electorate of the whole State will vote are: State treasurer, superintendent of public instruction, clerk of the Supreme Court, three trustees of the University of Illinois and United States Senator. All counties and several cities will provide several offices to be filled.

The municipal elections last spring afforded little opportunity for professional politicians to get a line on the women's voting strength, as one alderman was elected from each ward and women voted for different candidates, even when voting for the same party. The fall campaign, which is just now getting under way, will permit the women to combine in support of certain candidates, and it is very probable their votes will decide the fate of many aspirants for the various offices.

GRAPE JUICE FOR RUSSIANS.

By United Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Russia, July 23.—That the czar was thoroughly in earnest in his recent announced determination to make the Russian army dry is shown by the text of the new prohibition regulations, published to-day. Officers are forbidden to drink vodka in camp, on maneuvers, or while on duty with their men. All cases of drunkenness are to be dealt with in the severest possible manner. Commanding officers are ordered to discourage as much as possible the drinking of any kind of intoxicants by their subordinates, and are recommended to set the example themselves. Vodka is forbidden to the enlisted men at all times, and the most stringent measures will be taken to prevent them from buying it. No soldier will be allowed to receive money from home if he is known to be inclined to drink.

LITTLE STORIES OF THE LONE STAR STATE.

By United Press.

While murder mysteries of to-day fill the newspapers, let us hark back to the assassination of Colonel Henry Teal during the terrific thunder-storm at night in the camp of the army of the Republic of Texas, at Navidad, in 1837.

The crime could be traced to no one. His friends found Colonel Teal on his cot dead. The shot had been heard even as a flash of lightning lighted up the camp and gave the murderer an opportunity to fire with deadly accuracy.

Eighteen years passed, and the murder was almost forgotten. Then, on the night before he was hanged for the murder and robbery of two men at Galveston, John Hamilton Schultz, one of a family of thieves and murderers reared at Vincennes, Indiana, confessed to assassinating Colonel Teal. It was remembered that Schultz had been in the camp at the time, and he gave as the motive for the crime that Colonel Teal had insulted him. Schultz said he longed for revenge. Schultz conferred to half a dozen other murders for robbery, and each was verified on investigation.

The assassination of Colonel Teal caused a sensation, but Schultz's confession created an even greater stir. Showing how murder sometimes will out, Schultz accidentally betrayed his guilt of the double murder at Galveston to a twelve-year-old boy at Columbia, South Carolina, and was arrested through the efforts of a Texan who happened to be visiting there and was related to the boy.

TREES BRING GOOD RETURNS.

Virginia Forests Yield 5 to 10 Per Cent on Investments.

From Farm and Fireside.

It is just possible that a large proportion of the future forest products will come from the Atlantic coastal plain—7 million acres of which are in Virginia. It is mostly suited to agriculture, but not a third of it is cropped yearly. The forestry prospects of this area lie in the case with which it may be used for the growing of trees. In the first place, it tends to plant itself, through artificial seeding.

The Forest Service says: "Various native pines spring up readily and thrive." Markets of timber are close. Water transportation is available. The cost of keeping up a forest is insignificant, chiefly fire protection. One of the best pines known is the loblolly pine—otherwise known as the "Ojfield," "Rosemary" or "Slash" pine, which grows naturally in these regions.

The forestry people are of the opinion that owners of farms in this region would do well to give parts of their lands to these trees. It takes from twenty to forty years to make a crop, but it can be shown that, without counting on rising prices for lumber, a return of from 5 to 10 per cent can be expected on an investment of from $5 to $17 an acre.
