PRICE FIVE CENTS

COUNTY FAIR WONT CHARGE FOR EXHIBIT STOCK PENS

Farmers in Briscoe, Swisher, Lamb and Floyd Counties Will Enter Lists

It has been decided that no charge will be made for stock exhibit pens at the County Fair. Unusual interest seems to be centering about the baby show. A prize of $5 is offered each to the best boy and girl. A number of valuable special prizes are offered, too.

Seth Ward scholarship in the Department of Fine Arts is to be given for the best and largest display of live stock and farm products grown and exhibited by one entrant. It is valued at $54 to $72. Winner will be allowed to select the course.

Seth Ward's scholarship in the Literary Department will be given for the best decorated automobile in the individual parade. It is valued at $60.

There will be a special section in the automobile parade for individual automobiles and floats of merchants. Special prizes will be offered in each class. This will come the third day.

Many farmers in Swisher, Briscoe, Lamb and Floyd Counties have asked if they will be permitted to exhibit. The directors advise that unless otherwise specified, prizes offered are open to the world. "We want these people and their exhibits," E. B. Miller, secretary, said to-day.

Premium lists will be off the press early next week, and will be mailed to all interested persons whose names are given to the secretary. Enthusiasm over the county increases steadily. Everybody is working for the fair.

Special railroad rates will be granted.

ENROLLMENT AT CANYON CITY SLIGHTLY LESS THAN YEAR AGO.

Normal School Closes Summer Term; Lack of Buildings Cuts Down Attendance.

The fourth year of the Normal closed Friday morning, with an appropriate program in the auditorium. Mr. Guenther gave the address on this occasion. The summer's work has been very successful. The temporary buildings have proven to be very comfortable, and the work has gone on uninterrupted. The attendance was cut down considerably owing to the burning of the buildings, in March.

The following is the number of students by years since the Normal opened.

Year	Regular	Summer	Total
1910-11	227	355	582
1911-12	329	474	794
1912-13	428	687	1,115
1913-14	500	480	980

ANSLEY BROS. SELL CATTLE TO McMURTEY AND McDONALD.

Ansley Bros. have disposed of 400 head of two- and three-year-old steers to McMurtey and McDonald, of Silverton. Consideration was $18 a head. These cattle were the property of D. M. West, of Loupe, near Brownfield.

MEMPHIS MAN FISHES ON CANYONS.

Arthur Travis Caught 208 Bass in One Afternoon.

Arthur Travis and family, of Memphis, passed through here Thursday on the way from Terra Blanco and Pola Duro Canyons, where they and two other parties from Memphis had been on a fishing trip.

Mr. Travis tells of some fine fishing in the canyons. Among other stories, he reports 208 bass caught while they were on Terra Blanco in one afternoon.

BIRTHS.

Born, August 2, a boy to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Remminga, at Hale Center.

Born, August, 15, a girl to Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hardin, ten miles southwest of Plainview.

J. L. Smith went to Amarillo to-day to meet his wife and daughter, who have been visiting at Jolly, Texas.

Central and Lamar Schools to Have Concrete Sidewalks

Plainview schools are to have cement walks. At Central School walk will be put down along the south and part way on the west side of the grounds. At Lamar Building cement walks will be laid to the entrances, about half way around the grounds. W. R. Simmons has contract to lay these walks.

L. G. Wilson is putting down concrete walk on his property at West Third and Prairie Streets. Alley crossings have been put in at a number of places. When Mr. Wilson's walk is finished there will be cement walks along West Third Street, with two exceptions, to Alexander Street. Other gaps are being filled in. As soon as this is completed, it is planned to get the town inspected for free mail delivery. That is all the Government is waiting on.

STATE INSPECTOR FINDS DALMONT NURSERY O. K.

Ed L. Ayers Says Plainview Country Is One of Greatest He Has Seen.

Ed L. Ayers, deputy inspector with the State Department of Agriculture, inspected Plainview Nursery this week. Mr. Ayers says that the trees are in fine condition and there is no infection in the orchard.

Mr. Dalmont is to be congratulated upon the nursery he has established. Last year Mr. Dalmont put out nearly a quarter of a million trees.

Mr. Ayers says that he is delighted with the Plainview country. "You can't say too much in praise of it," he said. "It is one of the greatest farming and fruit countries in the world."

JERSEYS TO HAVE EXCLUSIVE RIGHT WITH J. C. GOODWIN.

Plainview Man Is Establishing Thoroughly Sanitary Modern Dairy Near Wayland College.

J. C. Goodwin is establishing a modern dairy near Wayland College. Mr. Goodwin bought 20 acres of ground and has put down a fine well. He will build a sanitary barn, with concrete floors and other modern improvements.

Jersey cows will have right-of-way with Mr. Goodwin. He has had those in his herd inspected and will not buy a cow until she passes inspection tests. Tests will be made a regular intervals, and if any cow shows signs of tuberculosis or other disease she will be taken out of the herd.

Mr. Goodwin will also have a sterilizing room for milk bottles. In fact, "sanitation" will be the feature of the new dairy. Milk is known to be the source of numerous diseases. Mr. Goodwin's plan will guarantee against all of these. Thorough cleanliness will be his slogan.

LATE NEWS FLASHES.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The administration has notified Germany that diplomatic code messages can be sent from Sayville, L. I. This is the only German wireless station which is not censored.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—It is estimated that 1,500,000 bushels of wheat was shipped abroad, and as result price may go up to $1.10 again.

ROME, Aug. 22.—Reports are current that a general mobilization of Italy's entire fighting force has been decided upon.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Secretary Bryan says Government's position in the Germany-Japanese struggle will be "hands off."

ROME, Aug. 22.—When the Pope's body, enclosed in three caskets, is entombed at St. Peter's, this evening, the Sacred College will begin preparations for a conclave to elect his successor.

Russian Troops Digging Trench

News dispatches unite in declaring that the Russian soldiers went almost mad with joy at the prospect of war with Germany. Trench-digging is a part of the science of warfare, and the Russians got some valuable though expensive experience in the war with Japan.

FAIR TRADE EXCURSIONS RUN SEPTEMBER NINE AND TEN

Twenty-Five Automobile Have Already Been Signed Up; Twenty Five More Wanted

Wednesday and Thursday, September 9 and 10, are the dates set for the trade excursion and sociability run. Already about twenty-five cars have notified E. E. Roos that they will go along. Why not make it fifty?

The run is particularly timely just now. It comes two weeks before the fair, and is confined, with two exceptions, to towns which do much of their trading in Plainview. They could do a great deal more here if we interested their people somewhat more in us and manifested an interest in their prosperity.

The fair committee is anxious to bind all of the Shallow Water Belt together with the Hale County Fair. The trip will be a dandy outing, too. Get your car and take your family. If you do not have a family, take along some other fellow—an editor, for instance.

Mr. Roos says his committee is urging merchants to have representatives in the party. The band will go along. Register your cars at Roos' garage or The Herald and get ready for the run.

MORRISON TOPS HOG MARKET.

Local Shipment Brings $9.35 on Fort Worth Market.

T. W. Morrison shipped a car-load of hogs to Fort Fort Tuesday which brought him $9.35 a hundred. The car-load realized $1,533. This was top of market.

Mr. Morrison fed his hogs on maize.

OHIO MAN SAYS PLAINVIEW COUNTRY FARMING PARADISE.

Eber Davis Thinks Hogs, Alfalfa and Irrigation Better Here Than in the North.

Eber Davis, of Worthington, Ohio, is her looking over his land. Mr. Davis bought a year ago. He is strong in the belief that the country has a great future.

"It is a paradise," Mr. Davis said to a Herald reporter to-day. Speaking of Joe Wing's article on the "Little Colorado," as he called the Plainview country, Mr. Davis said Mr. Wing has more influence with farmers throughout the North than any other man.

"Hogs and alfalfa with your irrigation ought to make this the greatest farming country in the world. We have nothing to compare with it throughout the North, I think."

Joe Ramsey, of Lockney, is in Plainview to-day.

MISSSES SHROPSHIRE AND HOWELL PASS 200,000 MARK

Eula Howell Takes First Place in Herald Automobile Contest; 65,000 Votes This Week

Miss Letha Shropshire passed the 200,000 mark in yesterday's count. She was distanced for first place, however. Miss Eula Howell turned in 63,500 votes during the week. Miss Shropshire turned in 7,000. This gives her a lead of 8,100.

Eight thousand votes means a good day's work—eight subscriptions or sixteen renewals. Of course, Miss Howell is proud of the fact that she is first. Miss Shropshire isn't at all discouraged. She says she will make up that "one day's" work before the end.

Roy Bailey, of Petersburg, turned in 21,000 votes, and has 106,000 now. Mr. Bailey is working the Petersburg country systematically. He expects to win. The Petersburg man and the Plainview contestants are working different territory, and each is materially helping to make good The Herald slogan: "A Herald in every home in Hale County."

Mrs. Braddy's friends are counting on her to win. She has been engaged at other work, but many friends are throwing their influence for her. She can't lose—even if she does not get a capital prize, she wins 5 per cent on money turned in. Do you know of any other chance to collect unlimited sums of money at 5 per cent commission?

V. N. Dillard, of Lockney, started last week. He expects to climb fast during the next three weeks.

Only three weeks now in which to win a $1,160 automobile. The car is electric lighted and equipped with electric self-starter. The person who works most consistently during 20 days is going to be richer by $1,160 September 15. Who will it be?

Standing now is: Miss Eula Howell, 212,400; Miss Letha Shropshire, 204,300; Roy Bailey, Petersburg, 106,000; Mrs. W. L. Braddy, 31,300; V. N. Dillard, Lockney, 2,000 votes.

MR. AND MRS. HARRY LONG AND MISSSES PENNY IN AUTO TRIP.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long and little daughter, accompanied by Mildred and Dorothy Penny, leave to-day in a Ford for Amarillo. From there they will go by rail to Mobeetie and ship their household goods to Plainview, where they intend to live. Mrs. Long was Miss Allene Penny before her marriage, and her friends will be glad to welcome her back.

Little Miss Mildred Penny will drive the car to Amarillo.

JAP VETERANS OF RUSSIAN WAR WAITING FOR ATTACK ON GERMANS

China Gathers Troops and Makes No Announcement of Intentions; Diplomats Believe Kaiser Will Let Mikado's Ultimatum Expire Today Without Reply

GERMAN ARMY OVERRUNS NORTH BELGIUM

Servians Take Austrian Arms, Ammunition and Supplies, Inflicting Loss of Twenty-Five Thousand; Emperor's Troops Attack Mulhausen and Advance to Frontier of France

BY UNITED PRESS.

PARIS, AUG. 22.—AN AUSTRIAN BATTLESHIP WAS BLOWN UP TODAY DURING THE BOMBARDMENT OF ANTIVARI. HER CREW NUMBERED 816.

SHANGHAI, AUG. 22.—THE JAPANESE FLEET AND AN IMMENSE ARMY IS WAITING TO MAKE THE ATTEMPT TO CONQUER GERMAN POSSESSIONS IN CHINA.

CHINESE TROOPS ARE ALSO IN THE VICINITY. CHINA HAS MADE NO ANNOUNCEMENT OF HER POSITION.

JAPANESE TRANSPORTS ARE CARRYING UNDEFEATED VETERANS OF THE RUSSIAN WAR. THEY ARE GRIMLY ANXIOUS TO RE-USE ARMS WITH THE "GREATEST SOLDIERS OF EUROPE."
IT IS EXPECTED THAT GERMAN WILL OFFER DESPERATE RESISTANCE BY LAND AND SEA.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 22.—Belief is general among diplomats that Germany will let the Japanese ultimatum expire, and by ignoring the Mikado's demands place upon Japan responsibility for any hostile act.

ULTIMATUM EXPIRES TO-NIGHT.
Japan's ultimatum expires to-night at noon to-day, Tokyo time. Acting apparently on the assumption that hostilities are inevitable, the Japanese ambassador is arranging with Secretary Bryan to transmit a note from Japan to Germany. The note will be sent when war is declared. It is said that this will deal with certain details in Berlin.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—French troops in Lorraine have been unable to maintain their positions, and are giving way before an overwhelming force of Germans, reinforced by Austrians.

The Germans are again attacking Mulhausen. A detachment is attempting a flank movement against the French army in upper Alsace. Desperate fighting is reported, and enormous losses.

PLAINVIEW BOY IN LINE FOR PROMOTION IN NAVY.

D. Gratz Hunter to Receive Education for Officer if He Passes Examination.

E. C. Hunter is in receipt of a letter bringing him good news from his son, with the United States ship Saratoga, at Cheefoo, China. It is written by a friend of young Hunter. Gratz cannot write, he says, because of a bone fellow.

The good news is to the effect that Gratz has been transferred to the United States ship Saratoga for an examination. If he passes this test he will become an officer, and given the finest education possible. To use the writer's exact words: "Gratz will receive a $20,000 education."

Gratz is 18 years old, and has been in the navy since March, 1913.

JUDGE PENNY TO AUSTIN.

Plainview Man Responds to Call for Special Session of Legislature.

Judge L. C. Penny and Mrs. Penny went to Austin to-day. Judge Penny is responding to call from Governor Colquitt for a special session of the Legislature.

The Governor proposes to find some relief for farmers who are having to hold their cotton as result of the war in Europe.

German cavalry are reported 35 miles west of Brussels, 50 miles from the Belgian coast and only 25 miles from the French position fortified by Lille.

Immense War Tax Upon Brussels.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—German armies are being hurled at the gap between Mons and Charleroi. No doubt a great battle is raging. If Germans gain an advantage here the allies will form a second line inside the French frontier. Maybeuge is German objective on French soil.

German army is advancing rapidly and effectively. It has overrun all of Northern Belgium. Namur is besieged. The Times' military expert said: "The situation is very critical." There is intense indignation over war tax of $40,000,000 levied by Germany against Brussels; $10,000,000 on Province of Liege and $2,000,000 on city.

Telegraph correspondent of Gazette wired: "Germans are advancing like a tidal wave. Rumored allies' lines have withdrawn to fortified positions along French boundary."

Austrians Lose Arms, Supplies and Officers.

Practically unopposed, the Germans are sweeping through Belgium. The little principality is prostrate after 15 days' determined opposition to troops of the Kaiser.

NISH, Aug. 22.—War office announces: "For three days Servian and Austrian armies have battled along the River Drina. The troops face each other for 25 miles. By a series of bayonet charges, Austria's left wing was turned and a general attack followed. Allies of the Germans were routed amid confusion. Abandoned artillery and supply trains were taken by the Servians."

"Austria's losses are placed at 25,000 killed, wounded and captured. Entire regiments were wiped out. Many Austrian officers were killed and captured."

TWENTY HALE CENTER YOUNG PEOPLE COMING TO COLLEGE.

President McDonald Says Seth Ward College Stands Strong in Sister Town.

Rev. C. L. McDonald, President of Seth Ward College, says he secured twenty pupils for his school at Hale Center yesterday. Mr. McDonald has been working in that community for some time.

Ten of the pupils will board at the college, and have contracted to study both music and literary courses. Ten others will study music at the studio which Seth Ward will maintain in Hale Center. A teacher from the college will spend two days each week there.

Professor Frank Wilson came in yesterday. He is lining up prospects for athletic teams, and expects to have a winning team. Mr. Wilson is an experienced coach and was a star in basketball and track at college. He has followed football closely and coaches that successfully.

SAN ANTONIO MAN BUYS HALE COUNTY 320 ACRES.

Ollie Purl, of San Antonio, is here to see half a section of land which he bought last week. It is 9 miles northwest of town. Mr. Purl plans to put down a big well later on. He is enthusiastic over the prospects for irrigated farming here.

HALFWAY.

Special to The Herald.
HALFWAY, Texas, Aug. 21.—Young crops are needing rain badly. The old stuff is being harvested. Some of it is fine.

Mr. Sam Howard was the champion wheat raiser. He made 27 bushels to the acre.

The mass meeting was well attended. R. L. Hooper donated 6 acres of land; Mr. Helm gave $25; the Mothers' Club, $25; Mr. Green, $15; W. A. Miller, $10; Clab Dye, $5; Harry Huguley, $5, and others gave smaller donations. This money goes to improve the school ground.

Mr. Barrett is on the sick list. We have hope for his speedy recovery. Also, Mrs. Elzy Gilbert has been sick, but is convalescent.

Mr. J. W. Dye and wife went to Floydada to attend the association. We wish for them a pleasant trip.

Mrs. Miller has returned from a few days' stay in Plainview.

Mr. Edgar Howard is building a house for Mr. Cornelius near West Side.

Mrs. Dan Hooper spent a very pleasant day at Mrs. Helm's Wednesday.

The Needle Club entertained their husbands and sweethearts at the North Camp Wednesday. Dinner was served at 1:30 o'clock to a very appreciative crowd. The ride on the hay frame was enjoyed by the younger set.

Mr. Gilbert's brother, from Nebraska, is visiting him. He is very well pleased with our country.

Miss Sadie Miller entertained with a social Friday night, in honor of her cousin, Miss Leta Hemphill, of Hamlin, Texas. A jolly good time was had by all.

Mr. Will West and sister Armah went toward Plainview last Sunday. We would like to know the attraction.

Mrs. Hemphill and daughters and Mrs. Miller and children spent a very pleasant day at the lovely home of R. L. Hooper Friday.

After two weeks of visiting, Mr. P. S. Hemphill and family returned to their home, at Hamlin, Texas. They were delighted with the coolness of the weather here.

Mrs. Nye and daughter were callers at Mrs. Hooper's Thursday.

agreement does not provide it.

The closetless bedroom is a trial to the spirit, but many hotels that charge substantial rates offer no closet room except hooks in the bedroom wall to their guests. It is bad enough to have to wear the same clothes over and over all through the summer vacation, without being forced to look at them on the wall, also every minute one is in one's room. Several yards of cheap cretonne may be tucked into the trunk and if there is no closet in the bedroom a neat curtain may be fashioned in a morning, to hide the wardrobe hanging on the hooks, and to keep one's frock free from dust. A woman who found the hook-in-the-wall arrangement her only closet space, and these hooks far too few to accommodate her wardrobe in anything but indiscriminate confusion, eked out very cleverly by extending a tape across an unused wall space and pinning safety pins at intervals through the tape. Another woman has a cretonne tapestry which she hangs against the inner side of her closet door. In this curtain are sewed snapfasteners, and the mates to the fasteners are sewed to petticoats, negligees and blouses. The garments when not in use are snapped to the fasteners on the tapestry curtain, and much crowding in the small hotel closet is avoided.

LITTLEFIELD.

Special to The Herald.
LITTLEFIELD, Texas, Aug. 20.—A jolly crowd of young people, adequately chaperoned, spent last Friday evening in camp upon a large lake south of Littlefield, hunting and bathing being the main features of the outing. The camp was given complimentary to the visitors in Littlefield, Misses Ruth Key, of Lampasas; Gladys Norton, of Fort Worth; Mrs. Gypsie Hyatt, of Houston; Miss Clara Matejowsky, of Abernathy, and Mr. Marion Pollock, of Temple.

The Union Sunday School had quite a treat in the way of a special program by visiting ladies Sunday morning. Miss Norton, of Fort Worth, gave the children a beautiful story of a princess winning back her title by acts of unselfishness; and Mrs. Hyatt sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Arthur P. Duggan.

A large crowd was present Sunday evening at the "singing." Several numbers were given by a mixed quartette.

In entertaining for her household guest, Mrs. Hyatt, of Houston, Mrs. W. G. Street set a precedent for cordiality in her new home Monday evening. Dainty postcard score cards directed the recipients to one of five tables conveniently arranged throughout the house from the front to the rear porches. Progression was made rapidly from table to table, amid much merriment, "42" being the diversion of the evening. A delicious iced course was served at a late hour by the genial host and hostess to Misses Helen Smith, Mae Sue Bryant, Ruth Key, of Lampasas; Gladys Norton, of Fort Worth; Bernice Lynch, of Des Moines; Mrs. Gypsie Hyatt, of Houston; Mesdames V. V. White, Arthur P. Duggan, L. E. Hensley and Medie Duggan; Messrs. Marion Pollock, of Temple; J. T. Street, C. D. Hensley, C. J. Duggan, L. E. Bowman, Arthur P. Duggan, Ralph Wood, Clyde Willis and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hedges.

Miss Clara Matejowsky, who has been visiting Miss Mae Sue Bryant, left this week for a visit in the Swain home, south of Littlefield.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Arnett, of Spade Ranch, were visitors in Littlefield Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Duggan motored over to Plainview Monday, returning late in the afternoon.

Complimentary to Misses Key and Norton, Mrs. Hyatt and Mr. Pollock, all visitors in Littlefield, a splendidly-appointed dinner was served at Casa Lodge Sunday. Besides the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Willard G. Street, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bowman, Mrs. Medie Duggan, C. J. Duggan, J. T. Street and C. D. Hensley had places at the table.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Moulton and family are in Plainview for a few weeks.

An automobile party consisting of Misses Bernice Lynch and Helen Smith, Mrs. Gypsie Hyatt and Messrs. J. T. Street, C. D. Hensley and Clyde Willis motored to Plainview Sunday afternoon, returning home late in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bowman entertained at luncheon Tuesday, complimentary to Mrs. Hyatt and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Street.

C. D. Hensley, Manager of the McAdams Lumber Co. yard at Littlefield, left Wednesday for his vacation, to be spent in Missouri points. Mr. W. H. Henneger, of Lubbock, came to relieve Mr. Hensley during his absence.

J. J. Barton, of Bartonite, was at Littlefield on his way home from a trip through Kansas. His children met him here in their car, returning home immediately.

Sheriff McQuillen was in Littlefield transacting business Wednesday.

Mrs. L. E. Bowman's Sunday School class, consisting of 25 young men and ladies, enjoyed a picnic Wednesday evening. The visiting young people in town were special guests.

Misses Ruth Key and Gladys Norton, Mesdames Hyatt and Arthur P. Duggan and Messrs. Marion Pollock and C. J. Duggan motored over to Yellow House Ranch headquarters Wednesday morning. After an exciting experience kodaking along the cliffs near headquarters, the entire party, except Mrs. Duggan and Miss Key, returned to Littlefield in time to enjoy a fried-chicken dinner at the home of C. J. Duggan.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Perkins and little daughter, of Dallas, are spending a few days in Littlefield in the interest of Mr. Perkins' land near here.

Miss Gladys Norton, of Fort Worth, who has been the household guest of Mrs. Medie Duggan, leaves this week for Lubbock, where she will visit her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Norton. Miss Norton was the recipient of many social courtesies while in Littlefield.

Mrs. C. E. Cooper will entertain with bridge Friday afternoon, complimentary to the visiting young ladies in Littlefield.

LITTLEFIELD.

Special to The Herald.
LITTLEFIELD, Lamb Co., Texas, Aug. 19.—Littlefield's second annual watermelon cutting was participated in last night by the entire citizenship of this community. Last year the Littlefield Land Company invited everyone in the community to come up one evening and eat watermelons, and the event proved so pleasant that it was decided to make it an annual affair. The watermelons this season are abundant and delicious. Large shipments are being made to outside points. No part of the country anywhere can surpass this for fine melons and cantaloupes.

TAKE THEM ALONG.

Here Are Some Small Comforts for Your Hotel Room on Your Vacation.

Several little things that will add vastly to one's comfort in the barren hotel bedroom may be slipped into the vacation trunk and will take up scarcely any space at all. Usually these things are forgotten and one vainly repines their absence all through the summer weeks.

A calendar to pin to the wall will be appreciated as the days go by and become lost in the lazy weeks. A candle and matches should never be forgotten when one sets out on a summer vacation. Something may happen to the electricity in the country hotel and it is very convenient to have the "makings of a light" always at hand. If your hotel is a small one—of the boarding house genus—take along an inexpensive thermos bottle. It may be filled at night from the ice cooler in the hall and one will have ice water in one's room even though the man-

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery.

Pomeroyton, Ky.—In interesting advices from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Theford's Black-Draught, and quit taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it.

I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it.

I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me."

Theford's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest. PRESIDENT WILL SIGN SHIPPING BILL TO-DAY.

Senate Passes Measure to Admit Foreign-Built Ships to American Registry.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 17.—Congress to-day passed the emergency shipping bill which will authorize the President to admit foreign-built ships to American registry, so that commercial fleets may sail the seas under protection of the American flag while belligerents of Europe are at war and scouring the oceans for prizes. President Wilson will sign the bill to-morrow.

Culmination of the effort to enact this legislation followed repudiation by the Senate of the conference report on the measure, which previously had been radically amended in the Senate. As it goes to the President, the bill is the same as it passed the House more than a week ago.

The conference report met defeat in the Senate by a vote of 40 to 20, because of determined opposition to the provision that would have admitted to the American coastwise trade all foreign-built vessels taking American registry within two years.

How They Stood on Question.

Twenty Democrats and twenty Republicans voted to reject the report, which was submitted and championed by Senator O'Gorman, chairman of the Inter-oceanic Canals Committee. Seventeen Democrats, Senators Borah and Jones, Republicans, and Senator Poin-dexter, Progressive voted for it. Senator O'Gorman arraigned the opposing Democrats, declaring they were championing an offensive monopoly and borrowing Republican arguments in favor of "the un-American principles of protection."

As finally agreed to, the bill, besides providing for the registry of foreign-built ships, authorizes the President in his discretion to suspend provisions of the law requiring all watch officers of American vessels in the foreign trade to be citizens of the United States, requiring survey, inspection and measurement of vessels admitted to registry by officers of the United States.

Enlarge Merchant Marine.

The bill enacts into the law the Administration plan to restore the trans-Atlantic trade paralyzed by the European war. It is also designed to enlarge the American merchant marine.

Already the Hamburg-American line has received proposals for certain of its vessels now in American waters, and the North German Lloyd line has announced that it will sell some of its ships. Administration officials expect to see many foreign-built ships come under the American flag soon after President Wilson signs the bill.

In passing the House bill, the Senate receded from all its amendments, but subsequently passed a joint resolution granting permission to the American Red Cross to charter a ship which may fly the American flag. This provision was included among the Senate amendments to the House bill, but made a separate matter of to-day's action, that the registry bill might not be delayed.

EXPECT TWO CHINAS TO FOLLOW BREAK.

By United Press.

SHANGHAI, China, Aug. 20.—That China will split into two separate countries is the growing conviction here among men in close touch with the Republic's politics. That there is about to be a successful revolution in the provinces south of Yangtze, these judges of the situation declared was certain. The revolutionary movement was said to be practically unanimous, and even though President Yuan Shi Kai might win a border battle or two, should he attempt to present Southern China's secessions from the north, it was pointed out that it would be hopeless for him to attempt to subdue a territory half the size of the United States, with a population approaching 200,000,000 solidly united against him.

It was agreed, on the other hand, that the north showed no such disposition for popular government as the south, and it was admitted that it would be as impossible for the south to beat the north on its own ground as it would for the north to hold the south against its will. The southern leaders propose a republic, with land on something like a single-tax basis and the state in control of most great utilities. They plan railroad building, the establishment of free schools and as rapid development as possible by Chinese of the country's latent resources.

MERCHANTS IN CONVENTION.

By United Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 17.—All phases of store management, sales and credit problems and even matters of stock and window arrangement were being discussed before the convention of the Northwestern Merchants' Association, which began a six-day session to-day. Hundreds of merchants from Oregon, Idaho and Washington were in attendance. The Manufacturers' and Merchants' Fair, which opened to-day, proved quite an attraction to the visitors.

FARMERS' ORGANIZATION MEETS.

By United Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 17.—Elimination of the middleman and fostering of dealing direct from the farmer to the consumer were the two chief matters of importance to come before the great gathering of farmers' organizations which opened a three-day congress here to-day. Agriculturists from every section of the country were present. A score of farmers' societies were represented by delegates who had been empowered to vote for a National organization of farmers to make direct dealing with the housewives of the Nation possible.

UNIONS TO QUESTION CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE.

By United Press.

PUEBLO, Colo., Aug. 17.—Records of State and Legislative candidates in connection with the labor troubles which have rent Colorado during the past year will probably be canvassed during the annual convention of the Colorado Federation of Labor, which began here to-day. Many union leaders regard the coming political campaign as vital in importance to the future of unionism in Colorado. They want the unions to take more active part in it. Because of this fact, the convention is expected to be one of the most important in the history of the organization.

SENT TONS OF GOLD BY MAIL.

For Second Time Government Sent Big Shipment by Postal Route.

From the New York Times.

For the second time in the history of this country the Government a few days ago used the mails for a big shipment of gold. To make up in part for 37 million dollars of the precious metal taken out of the treasury's vaults, or engaged to be taken out in the next few days, the Treasury Department shipped 10 million dollars in gold coin from Philadelphia to this city.

The United States Express Company had the contract for carrying gold for the Treasury, and since its dissolution this work has been assumed by the Wells-Fargo Company. None of the officials concerned would say why such an important shipment was entrusted to the mails. Two explanations offered by men engaged in handling gold were that by this method the delays incident to packing the gold in boxes were avoided, and that heavy express charges were saved, since the railroads get nothing extra for the service performed under their mail contracts.

It was noon when a special car carrying twenty tons of gold and a number of armed guards left Philadelphia, and a little after 3 o'clock when seven motor trucks arrived at the rear of the subtreasury, in Pine Street. The police department had been notified of the shipment, and police guards were drawn across Pine Street at either side of the subtreasury. Besides the federal guards and the uniformed police, the financial district was thickly dotted with headquarters men in plain clothes assigned to Wall Street to prevent a raid on the trucks taking gold to the various purchasers.

The gold, weighing nearly twenty-one tons, came in registered mail pouches, each secured by two heavy padlocks. Inside every pouch but one were three strong canvas sacks, each containing $10,000. In the last bag was a single sack of gold. The 324 bags were unloaded on small hand trucks and run up to the door of the gold room, where the locks were removed and the contents checked up by representatives of the Treasury Department and post office employees. The empty bags were then checked off and replaced in ordinary canvas mail bags. A large force of postal employees were on hand to handle the gold until received for by the subtreasury officials.

MOTORCYCLE ENDURANCE RACES ARE ON TO-DAY.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 15.—A dozen teams were entered in the team endurance run scheduled for to-day by the North Shore Motorcycle Club, of Chicago. The route is to Milwaukee and return.

CUPID ROUTED BY SUPERSTITION.

From the Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

"Frederick, I am sure you will forgive me," said the beautiful girl, bowing her head, "when you know the true reason of my breaking our engagement so soon. But when I became engaged to you I forgot—"

"What is it, Gladys?" he murmured sadly. "Be not afraid. Is it that you love another?"

"No, indeed," responded the girl indignantly, her eyes flashing at him through a veil of tears. "But you know how superstitious I am—I forgot you would be exactly the thirteenth man I've been engaged to."

STOCK MARKET IN DETAIL.

Cattle in Good Demand; Hogs Lower at K. C.

KANSAS CITY STOCK YARDS.

Aug. 17.—Cattle of all kinds were in good demand last week, and the general market advanced 15 to 30 cents. The supply was 25,000 head smaller than same week's supply last year.

The run to-day is 19,000 head, largest Monday run this season. Steer buyers demand 10 to 15 cents lower prices to-day, and after considerable haggling, salesmen conceded that amount on medium steers in the native division, prime steers selling steady to 10 cents lower, with top of $10.15. Middle-class Kansas and Missouri grass steers, weighing 1,100 to 1,230 pounds, sold at $7.75 to $8.60.

Cows and heifers found a good outlet at close to steady prices, particularly medium and common cows. A hurry order for war canned beef was placed with Armour last week, which helps the market on everything that can be used to fill it. A good many country buyers are here to-day, and stockers and feeders are selling steady.

Fleshy feeders are worth $7.75 to $8.25, and stock steers largely $6.50 to $7.50.

Quarantine arrivals are only 57 cars to-day, and sales in that division do not show as much decline as in the native division, steady to 10 cents lower describing the market there. Top in that division is $7.20, although good Oklahoma wintered steers are quotable up to $7.55. Common light steers sell downwards to $5.50, and good quarantine cows at $5.50 to $6.00. Killers have small stocks of meat on hands, and the general situation favors the selling side, and the decline to-day is due to a set of conditions effective only for the day.

Hogs opened 10 to 20 cents lower, receipts 7,000 head. Demand was good from all sources, and several loads sold at the top late, $9.20, and the bulk of sales ranged from $9.00 to $9.15. Chicago reports the hog market a quarter lower, top $9.25, except one fancy load at $9.30; bulk $8.80 to $9.10.

Bulk of hog sales in Chicago has been lower than bulk in Kansas City every day since last Tuesday. Extreme necessity of killers for supplies, coupled with small receipts, defeats efforts of killers to keep prices down.

Lambs sold 10 to 20 cents lower to-day, receipts 7,300 head in the sheep division. Utah lambs, 64 pounds average, brought $8.25 to-day, which price is the top on Western lambs in Chicago to-day.

Wethers sold at $5.90, ewes $5.50. Good feeding lambs would sell at $7.00, but so far this season packers have taken the Western offerings with such light sorts that few feeders have been available. Feeding stock will be more plentiful from this time forward.

THE CRAZE FOR AMUSEMENT.

Recreation is the basis of life. It may also cause death. Kings have always employed "fools" to amuse them. Common folk have entertained themselves with their own devices most of the time.

Plainview has three picture shows; a theater; a lake for boating; 400 automobiles; a social club. This is even smaller (except for automobiles) in proportion than many cities boast. They are not iniquitous.

No one of these is injurious. All of them may not be. It is when the habit of going becomes an obsession that the thing hurts.

We have seen intelligent young college students who could not entertain half an hour with conversation. You had to dance with them. We know parents who have not spent six succeeding evenings at home with their children for half a year. They take their children to the picture show.

Intelligent recreation builds intellect, morals, physique, character. Habitual attendance upon any class of amusements does neither. It does not call for any effort upon the part of the frequenter.

The child whose parents carry him regularly to any place of amusement develops a "craze for amusement" which is abnormal. It is like the habit of strong drink. It takes away home impressions. In fact, it prevents the formation of home ties.

No person who watches the amusement seekers night after night can doubt that the people have gone mad for amusement. They leave good books in the library cases. They find nothing interesting at home.

Unrestrained, this means the undermining of home life. That can result in only one thing—the destruction of the Nation.

HOW DO YOU WORK?

Do men do best what they like to do or what their tasks require? It might be argued that very few work unless there is necessity for so doing. The number who do not feel this necessity is comparatively small.

One can never tell what has been the experience of another, but it is safe to say that often the best work is done when the worker has had no choice in the matter.

Especially is this true of what is called "head work;" but, for that matter, all good work is head work. Even though it be called manual labor, it can not be done mechanically. The man who grows bigger than his job uses his brain.

It is true that sometimes an article or a poem written under the inspiration of the moment is the crown of the author's literary career; but, again, if one always waited for inspiration, for the exactly sympathetic subject, or the desired length of time in which to write, how much of the world's good literature would be lost! Such inspiration is found at the top of a mountain we have struggled to climb.

Much of the work done by newspaper men is done under pressure. It can allow of no delay. It is generally of such immense importance that it calls for rapid treatment. There can be no hesitancy about certain phases. A newspaper writer must tell the facts—quickly and concisely. He works under pressure, and that pressure often brings forth the best that is in him.

Much of the finest work is done when the worker does not allow himself to think of how much he has to do, but keeps right on because the work is before him. He has it to do, and he does it with a quickened intelligence because of the demands of the moment.

Do your dead level best, and don't worry whether you had to do it or merely wanted to.

THE MYSTERY OF CHARM.

From the Youth's Companion.

Charm is certainly the most exquisite of heaven's gifts, and the most inexplicable. Why is it that one person whom everyone respects and commends, and by whom no duty is neglected, should be slighted and passed by, while another, far less commendable, is sought after and sought out by everyone?

You cannot acquire charm. You can acquire learning, you can acquire riches, you can acquire good manners. Patient effort will give you the tongues and the arts and the sciences. You can make people come to you for something you have to give them. But if you have charm they will come to you for nothing that you give them, and will give you everything. Yet by no patience and by no effort can you acquire charm.

It is not beauty; for features of the most purely modeled perfection do not give it. It is not wit; for men fear wit rather than love it, and they pay homage to intellect only grudgingly and from afar off. It is not kindness; for we all know persons whose lives are spent in doing good to others, and who yet have no charm whatever.

And so undoubtedly charm is too often a source of envy and bitterness to those who have it not. You do the work of the world. You soil your hands and stoop your shoulders. It hurts a little to see other shoulders at twitching with merriment in a cloud of admiration precisely because labor has not bent them. You go on stooping and soiling your hands because it is your nature, but it hurts.

Yes, to be loved just because you are inexplicably lovable is lovely. But it falls to few of us. The next best thing is to make yourself loved by solid usefulness. It is a humdrum substitute, but perhaps it is surer and more enduring. At any rate, it is better than growing sour and petulant over gifts that you lack. And to be loved somehow, even a little, is surely the thing best worth seeking in this inscrutable and wonder-breeding world.

PSALM 7.

1. O Lord, my God, in thee do I put my trust: save me from all them that persecute me, and deliver me.

2. Lest he tear my soul like a lion, rending it in pieces, while there is none to deliver.

3. O Lord, my God, if I have done this; if there be iniquity in my hands;

4. If I have rewarded evil unto him that was at peace with me; (yea, I have delivered him that without cause is mine enemy:)

5. Let the enemy persecute my soul, and take it; yea, let him tread down my life upon the earth, and lay honour in the dust. Selah.

6. Arise, O Lord, in thine anger, lift up thyself because of the rage of mine enemies: and awake for me to the judgment that thou hast commanded.

7. So shall the congregation of the people compass thee about: for their sakes, therefore, return thou on high.

8. The Lord shall judge the people: judge me, O Lord, according to my righteousness, and according to mine integrity that is in me.

9. Oh, let the wickedness of the wicked come to an end; but establish the just; for the righteous God trieth the hearts and reins.

10. My defense is of God, which saveth the upright in heart.

11. God judgeth the righteous, and God is angry with the wicked every day.

12. If he turn not, he will hiss his sword; he hath bent his bow, and made it ready.

13. He hath also prepared for him the instruments of death: he ordaineth his arrows against the persecutors.

14. Behold, he travaileth with iniquity, and hath conceived mischief, and brought forth falsehood.

15. He made a pit, and digged it, and is fallen into the ditch which he made.

16. His mischief shall return upon his own head, and his violent dealing shall come down upon his own pate.

17. I will praise the Lord according to his righteousness: and will sing praise to the name of the Lord most high.

SUNDAY AT THE PRESBYTERIAN REVIVAL.

Rev. Caldwell to Talk on "Life of Increasing Fullness."

Brother Caldwell delivered a masterful sermon last night on the subject of "Sowing and Reaping," developing the thought that we reap what we sow in the physical, intellectual and moral life. The audience was deeply impressed with the truth as brought out in the sermon, and we are sure it will bear fruit.

We are expecting a great day Sunday. Mr. Caldwell will preach in the morning on the subject "Life of Increasing Fullness," and at night on "The Palm Tree and the Bay Tree."

We are anxious to have every Sunday School pupil present Sunday morning and all of our members at church at the eleven o'clock service, as well as all friends and visitors who may be in the city. THE PASTOR.

Mary Pickford, the universal favorite among the film actresses, appeared Wednesday at The Olympic in "Tess of the Storm Country."

Always good, little Mary was particularly so in her presentation of the loyal, ragged country girl who was true to herself, her friends and her God.

Episode No. 6 of "The Million Dollar Mystery" was shown at The Olympic Thursday.

Foiled in their last attempt to lure Florence Gray into a trap and in finding the hiding place of the million dollars, they plan anew, but are again thwarted by Jones and Norton.

"The Coaching Party of the Countess," as the present episode is called, is one of the most exciting of the stories in "The Million Dollar Mystery."

SAND WILL DO IT.

I observed a locomotive in the railroad yards one day.

It was waiting in the roundhouse where the locomotives stay; it was panting for the journey, it was coaled and fully manned, and it had a box the fireman was filling full of sand.

It appears that locomotives can not always get a grip. On their slender iron pavement, 'cause the wheels are apt to slip; And when they reach a slippery spot their tactics they command, And to get a grip upon the rail they sprinkle it with sand.

It's about the way with travel along life's slippery track, If your load is rather heavy you're always slipping back; So, if a common locomotive you completely understand, You'll provide yourself in starting with a good supply of sand.

If your track is steep and hilly and you have a heavy grade, If those who've gone before you the rails quite slippery made, If you ever reach the summit of the upper tableland, You'll find you'll have to do it with a liberal use of sand.

If you strike some frigid weather and discover, to your cost, That you're liable to slip up on a heavy coat of frost, Then some prompt, decided action will be called into demand, And you'll slip 'way to the bottom if you haven't any sand.

You can get to any station that is on life's schedule soon If there's a fire beneath the boiler of ambition's strong machine, And you'll reach a place called Flush-town at a rate of speed that's grand, If for all the slippery places you've a good supply of sand.

SETH WARD GETS READY TO OPEN TUESDAY WEEK

President McDonald Says North Side College Will Grant Teachers Certificates Without Examinations

Paper hangers and painters are busy overhauling the dormitories at Seth Ward. School opens Tuesday week. "In answer to many inquiries into Seth Ward College and its standing," President McDonald says, "I wish to make the following affirmative statement:

"Seth Ward is a Junior College of the first rank. Our graduates have entered Southwestern University and have taken their A. B. degree in two years. Three young men of last year's class have already secured their credits and will enter Junior year in Southwestern University without examination.

"We have a letter on file from State Superintendent of Public Instruction F. M. Bralley which gives us the authority to grant State certificates without examination to all who take our Education Course, when we have satisfied Southwestern University as to character of work done, and received credit for same.

Local Merchants Offer Latest Styles From Fashion Center

By MISS MUELLER, of Plainview Mercantile Co.

Miss Mueller, trimmer and designer in hats for the Plainview Mercantile Company, tells of rich material and chic designs for fall and winter millinery.

Miss Mueller has just returned from the Eastern markets. "Silver, gold and bronze prevail in trimmings," said Miss Mueller this morning to a Herald reporter.

Among the novelties shown by Miss Mueller in her display is a Lewis model in peon blue, trimmed in monkey fur, one of the newest materials.

The Plainview Mercantile carries the Regina line of hats exclusively. The leading shapes in all lines are the popular Gainesborough, the Palette, the Jockey cap and Sargent shapes. These are for piquant, youthful faces, while for women of maturer years are more conservative shapes.

Ostrich plumes are extensively used for trimmings, their soft and graceful touches mellowing the severe outlines of some of the shapes.

Some of the newest colors for hats are Beetroot red, Corbeau blue and Tate de Nigre. Though small hats are still retained, there is a tendency toward the ever-popular picture shapes.

We have not spared money to secure the strongest faculty of any Junior College in Texas. We have secured the above credits by so doing, and urge the citizens of Plainview to help us maintain our standing, which we confidently expect they will do.

Black and white—black predominating, and black and white in equal proportions—have crowded the late eccentric colors into the background, according to T. E. Richards, of the Rich-lier Store.

Apparently Dame Fashion has put in mourning for her late bizarre combination in color and style.

"On the streets of New York," said T. E. Richards this morning, "nearly every dress you see is black.

"But," Mr. Richards went on to say, "the new colors next in favor to black are Russian green, Ttate de Nigre, Plum and Benglas blue."

Among the dress materials, broadcloth, serge and poplins lead. Ponceiro is the leading fur fabric, and satins prevail among the silks.

Mr. Richards has just returned from New York and Chicago. In speaking of the new styles, Mr. Richards says that Cossack models are popular. As to the others, history is repeating itself, for the old-fashioned basque and redingote worn by our mothers are now in evidence. We can see ourselves as they were viewed years and years ago.

Fashion is also taking another backward step, as skirts are to be worn fuller and coats longer than hitherto.

LUNCH COOKED "GYPSY FASHION" ENJOYED BY CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Improvised Trolley Is Feature of Amusements at Pioneer Park Picnic Yesterday.

One of the most delightful of church affairs of the summer was the picnic given yesterday afternoon by the members of the Christian Church, at Pioneer Park.

Forty-odd chickens, with a corresponding quantity of corn, tomatoes and onions, were taken out to the park just after dinner and cooked, "Gypsy fashion," in a large kettle. This appetizing "yegua" stew was served "al fresco" with pickles, melons and crackers to the one hundred and fifteen guests present.

An improvised trolley and a "teeter-totter" were the amusements for the young folks.

Many invitations were issued to members of other denominations, and every one who attended is enthusiastic over the good time enjoyed.

RICHARDS HOME FROM MARKET.

T. E. Richards returned yesterday from St. Louis, Chicago, New York and other places in the Northeast and central part of the United States. He has been away for several weeks buying the fall and winter stock for his firm, Richards Brothers & Collier, popularly known as "The Rich-lier Store."

Mr. Richards says European war is going to make styles considerably more military this year.

REV. CALDWELL POINTS OUT LITTLE SINS WHICH DESTROY

Presbyterian Revivalist Warns Against Fault Finding, Ill Temper Intolerance and Self-Righteousness

Brother Caldwell's sermon Thursday night, on "The Little Foxes," was one of the most practical and powerful sermons ever heard in Plainview. It was well received by the large audience, as evidenced by the hearty response on the part of the people.

The preacher said, in part: "Every Christian life is expected to produce results which manifest themselves in blessings to others and in pleasure and comfort to one's self. If such results are not manifest, there is something wrong in the life of the Christian. It may not be something that outrages public sentiment, nor something that seems very bad to the one that is suffering; but anything is serious if it affects character, and thus destroys the best results of a Christian life.

"Our text speaks of the little foxes that spoil the vine, and I want to speak of some things that may not seem very bad at first glance, but they spoil the harvest of life. These little foxes are hard to catch. By the grace of God they can be caught, and unless we Christians are willing to find our lives barren of results for good, we must catch them. A few of these little foxes will be named, by way of suggestion, hoping that the Spirit of God may reveal others.

"The first little fox is Fault Finding. It may be the duty of parents, teachers and friends to recognize the faults of those in whom we are interested, but we have no right to be censorious in regard to them. There is a Bible truth often overlooked—'Speak the truth in love.'

"If I approach the faults of my fellows in love, I will not be a fault-finder, but a friend ready and able to help get rid of them. There are only two conditions under which a Christian has a right to speak of the faults of another: First, to warn others against them, and, second, to help the one in fault to recover from them.

"This little fox of Fault Finding cuts the cords of sympathy and trust between parents and children and between friends. Then when a crisis comes in the life of the child or friend, there is none to help. Much harvest is lost through this little fox.

"The second little fox is Irritability and Bad Temper. Some Christians seem to think it is a small matter to lose the temper. It is the manifestation of the power of Satan over them, and will destroy happiness and influence and make the harvest unsatisfactory.

"The third little fox is Repression or Unexpressed Appreciation. Men, women and children have given up the fight for the lack of a word of appreciation. Only the records of eternity can tell of the unhappiness produced and the homes and lives ruined because people forget to say 'Well done.'

"The fourth little fox is Stubbornness. This reflects on the intellect as well as on the character. I must have my way or I won't work at all. This is an exceedingly disagreeable fox, as well as a ruinous one.

"The next little fox is Intolerance. 'Wisdom will die with me. Wisdom will die with my church.' Nothing else makes as unmistakably a small brain and as contemptible a character as this little fox. When anyone claims that his church is the only church, don't get angry with him, but remember the poor fellow—the little fox of Intolerance is loose, and he needs your pity.

"The sixth little fox is Discourtesy. Christianity contemplates making gentlemen and ladies of people. They should always be thoughtful and considerate of others.

"The last little fox of which I wish to speak is Exactiveness. This little fox insists that you must fit his standard in every particular, or there is nothing good in you—self righteousness. The real trouble is that he has an artificial standard by which he wants to measure everybody else. The cure for him is to bring Christ's standard of life and service before him."

The Battle of Sedan

"News is hourly awaited," says a late report from London, "of the greatest battle Europe has seen since Sedan." In view of this report and on account of the general interest in comparing current events with those of the Franco-Prussian War, the following account is offered of the battle of Sedan, Sept. 1, 1870:

For the better understanding of the conditions which confronted the desperately struggling army of Napoleon III at the historic village of Sedan forty-four years ago this month, it is necessary to sketch briefly the events of the war immediately preceding this last great battle.

At bloody Gravelotte, on August 18, the Third French Army Corps, under Marshal Bazaine, then chief of staff of the Napoleon forces, had been terribly crushed by the combined armies of Prince Frederick Charles and General Steinmetz, though the loss to the German arms, through the costly, culminating flank movement of Crown Prince Albert of Saxony amounted to more than thirty thousand men. Bazaine fell back upon the fortified town of Metz, which was promptly invested by Prince Frederick Charles.

The third German army, under the Prussian crown prince, and a fourth army, under the crown prince of Saxony, were then separated from the Metz besiegers with the object of proceeding against Paris. In the meantime, the French Marshal MacMahon was mobilizing a new army at Chalons, about midway between Metz and Paris. This fresh force numbered twenty thousand and, not knowing the developments at Metz, MacMahon's plan was to fall back to protect the French capital. On August 19 came orders from the French Minister of War Rouher to the effect that MacMahon was to move east to join Bazaine, who had sent word that he would force his way to Chalons by way of Montmedy to the north, or, if Montmedy was too strongly guarded, by way of Sedan, still further to the north beyond Montmedy.

Surprised by French.

In compliance with the new turn of affairs, MacMahon moved toward the last-named town, leaving the road to Paris open. On the morning of August 24 the Prussian Uhlans rode into Chalons to find the French camp deserted. The news was carried to the German army of the Meuse and the Prussian crown prince, surprised at the unprecedented French movement, threw his army north by forced marches to block MacMahon's progress eastward. Thus, MacMahon found, after an attack by the crown prince of Saxony's cavalry, that not only was his march eastward contested, but his return to Paris was cut off. He therefore decided to fall back toward Mezieres, near the Belgium border, but this plan was checked by a message from the war minister, saying: "If you abandon Bazaine, we have the revolution in Paris!" There was nothing to do but press onward toward Montmedy.

First Blood Sept. 1.

On the morning of the thirteenth, part of MacMahon's Fifth Corps was surprised and nearly cut to pieces by the German Fourth Army Corps. The survivors took refuge, after an exhausting retreat, in the town of Sedan, where they were shortly joined by the main force. Here MacMahon wasted precious time deciding whether to fall back toward the Belgian frontier and Mezieres, where he expected to be joined by a fresh corps under Vinoy, or whether he should proceed south to meet Marshal Bazaine.

Sedan lies on the east bank of the River Meuse, with Mezieres slightly to the northwest and Montmedy slightly to the southeast. The town rests in a triangle formed by the Meuse and two small tributary brooks. It is closely flanked on the north by the hamlet of Illy, on the southwest by the hamlet of Floing, while just south of the town lies a third hamlet, Bazailles.

The plan of the German forces was either to drive MacMahon across the Belgian frontier or to compel his surrender. Before the French commander realized his plight he was hemmed in on all sides.

The first blood in the great battle was shed on the morning of September 1, at Bazailles. King William of Prussia, Moltke, Bismark and Roon stood on a commanding hilltop and viewed the operations. It was 4 o'clock in the morning and a thick fog blanketed everything when a Bavarian division under General Stephan attacked the hamlet, believing it to be weakly defended. The bloodiest engagement of the day followed. The French fought stubbornly for three hours, giving in only when the Bavarians had penned them into the houses, like rats and set fire to the town. Concerning this fight, Cassell's Illustrated History of the War asserts that the Emperor Napoleon, who had accompanied the army from Chalons, exposed himself to the enemy's fire with reckless bravery.

By 7 o'clock the Germans had planted artillery on the heights surrounding Sedan and throughout the day a rain of shells was poured into the city, which became a shambles. Early in the battle MacMahon was severely wounded, and transferred the command to General Ducrot. Immediately an unfortunate conflict of authority began between Ducrot and the grizzled veteran, General Wimpffen, who had returned on the day of the battle from a campaign in Algiers, and who now showed a secret warrant appointing him to supreme command in the case of any eventuality. Ducrot had ordered a retreat to the north of Sedan. This Wimpffen promptly countermanded, saying to General Ducrot, according to the evidence of one of Napoleon's staff officers: "I have undertaken the command of the army. Besides, I am an older general than you, and I hold the positions you are about to take to be entirely wrong."

General Wimpffen, at the head of his Zouaves and Turkos, then threw himself repeatedly against the iron ring of Germans surrounding the town. These gallant efforts, however, were fruitless. The villages of Floing and Illy fell before the furious cannonading of the Crown Prince of Prussia's artillery. They were fiercely defended by the French, who were armed with "mitrailleuses" (forerunners of the modern machine guns). The correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette, who witnessed the defense, said that General Sheridan of the United States army (attached as an observer to Bismark's staff), who was standing beside him, remarked that he had never heard so well sustained and so long continued a small-arm fire as that from the French.

Brilliant Cavalry Charges.

The taking of Illy and Floing was followed by repeated brilliant and reckless cavalry charges, led by the French generals, Douay and Marguerite, in a vain effort to recapture the villages. Point after point succumbed to the German fire, and finally the weakened French army was driven into the middle of Sedan. The soldiers crowded into the fortress in such numbers that many were suffocated and trampled to death in the gateway.

At this point Napoleon took it upon himself to order the white flag hoisted, seeing the futility of further resistance. As soon as it was up, however, the heroic Wimpffen ordered it hauled down. But at 6 o'clock even the bulldog from Algiers saw that the situation was hopeless, and the battle was over.

A picturesque view of the surrender of the French army, which heralded the downfall of the dynasty of Napoleon and the birth of the French republic, is conveyed by the following letter from Bismark to his wife:

"VENDRESS, Sept. 3, 1870.—Day before yesterday I left my quarters here; to-day I am returning, and have in the meantime experienced the great battle of Sedan, on the 1st, in which we made towards thirty thousand prisoners and forced back the rest of the French army into the fortress, where they must surrender themselves along with the emperor. Yesterday at 5 o'clock in the morning, after I had been discussing until 1 o'clock in the morning with Moltke and the French generals the terms of capitulation, General Rellie, whom I know, awoke me to tell me that Napoleon wished to speak with me.

Bismark Meets the Emperor.

"I rode, without washing and with no breakfast, towards Sedan, and found the emperor in an open carriage with three officers of high rank and three others on horseback on the high-road near Sedan. I dismounted, greeted him as politely as if we were in the Tuilleries, and asked what were his majesty's commands. He wished to see the king. I told him, as was the truth, that his majesty had his quarters three miles from there, at the place where I am now writing. On Napoleon's asking whether he should go, I offered him, since he was unfamiliar with the region, my quarters at Donchery, a little place in the neighborhood close to Sedan. He accepted my invitation and, accompanied by his six Frenchmen, myself and Karl, who had in the meantime followed me, drove, in the silence of the morning, toward our forces.

"Before we reached the place he began to be apprehensive lest he might encounter a number of people, and he asked me whether he could not get out at a lonely laborer's cottage on the road. I had the place inspected by Karl, who reported that it was miserable and dirty. 'N'importe,' said Napoleon, and I ascended with him a narrow, rickety stairway. In a room ten feet square, with a deal table and two rush-bottom chairs, we sat an hour, while the others remained below—a singular contrast to our last interview, in '67, in the Tuilleries.

"Our negotiations were difficult, unless I consented to touch upon matters which could not but be painful to one who had been so cast down by God's mighty hand. I had summoned officers, through Karl, from the town and had asked Moltke for some. We sent out one of the former to reconnoiter, and discovered, half a mile away, in Fresnois, a little villa with grounds.

"Thither I accompanied the emperor, with an escort from the king's cuirassier regiment, which had been called up in the meantime; and there we concluded, with the French general, Wimpffel, the capitulation, according to which forty to sixty thousand French—I cannot be more accurate at this time—with all that they had, became our prisoners. Day before yesterday and yesterday cost France a hundred thousand men and an emperor. This morning the latter started with all the members of his court, his horses and carriages for Wilhelmshohe, near Cassel.

"This has been an event of vast historic importance—a victory for which we must thank the Lord in humbleness of heart. It decides the conflict, although we must still carry on the war against an emperorless France.

"Good-by, my sweetheart. Love to the children.
Your V. B."

Sudan Grass as a Forage Crop Valuable for the Central Great Plains and Southern States and and Under Irrigation in the Southwest.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 21.—That Sudan grass, which is closely related to the cultivated sorghums, is an excellent forage crop in the Central Great Plains south of North Dakota, and promises to fill a long-felt want for a hay grass in the South, is the conclusion of Farmers' Bulletin No. 605, shortly to be published by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The grass also does remarkably well under irrigation in the Southwest.

Sudan grass is an annual, the leaves of which are broader and more numerous than those of Johnson grass. It is distinguished from the Johnson grass, to which it is related, by the absence of rootstocks, and, while this necessitates annual planting, it also prevents Sudan grass from becoming an obnoxious weed, like the perennial Johnson grass. When seeded broadcast or in drills, it averages about 3 to five feet in height and has stems a little smaller than a lead pencil. When grown in rows and cultivated, it reaches a height of 6 to 9 feet, with rather larger stems. The hay of the cultivated crop is somewhat coarser than that of the broadcast crop, and is not so desirable for market hay.

Sudan grass does best on a rich loam, but it has been grown successfully on almost every class of soil from a heavy clay to a light sand. Where the soil is quite sandy, a light yield may be expected. The ground must be fairly well drained.

When given plenty of room the grass stools very freely, especially after the first cutting, and it is not uncommon to find over 100 stems arising from one crown.

From seeding to first cutting, 75 to 80 days are usually necessary. The second cutting comes about 45 days after the first, and in sections where the growing season is at least six months, a third cutting can be made 50 to 55 days later. By cutting the grass earlier each time, four cuttings can be made in some sections, but it is probable that three cuttings give an equally large yield of hay of better quality. The total yields vary from 1 to 8 tons of cured hay per acre.

Feeding Quality of the Grass.

It has been demonstrated that Sudan grass is palatable, and analysis shows it to be about the same chemical composition as Johnson grass and timothy hay. The percentage of protein decreases from the heading period until the seed is ripe, but the hay is as valuable about blooming time as at any previous stage. Being an annual, it can be fitted into any rotation without much trouble, but very little benefit to the soil will result from growing it, as it is a rank feeder and leaves nothing in the soil for improvement except the decaying roots. It is suitable for growing in mixtures with cowpeas, soybeans and other legumes, because its stiff stems support the vines of the legumes and make harvesting easy, and allow legume vines to cure more quickly by preventing the matting of the leaves.

It is admirably suited for use as a soiling crop, since it makes a large yield and is very palatable in the green state, as well as when cured for hay.

Enormous yields are secured under irrigation, because the growth is so rapid and the recovery from cutting so prompt. A small area of the South, where the rainfall is adequate or where irrigation is possible, can be made to support a goodly number of animals by this method.

No trial of Sudan grass as silage has yet been carried out, but, judging from its palatability and its succulence, it should be excellent for this purpose, especially in mixtures with legumes. A mixture of Sudan grass and cowpeas or soybeans could be grown for silage as well as for hay.

Pasture.

No pasture tests have yet been completed, but Sudan grass seems to lack several of the essentials of a good pasture. First, it is an annual, and the ground would necessarily be soft and considerable injury from trampling would result, since it does not form a turf; second, live stock pasturing on it would, no doubt, pull out quite a number of plants; and, finally, being a sorghum, it may, in some cases, be a carrier of Prussic acid, which when occurring in considerable quantity is fatal to cattle.

Value to Different Sections.

In the Central Great Plains the summers are sufficiently warm and long enough to mature one cutting, and in some cases two cuttings, of Sudan grass, thus giving this region a hay of good quality to replace the millets. This grass promises to become of most importance as a hay plant throughout Texas, in Western Oklahoma, Western Kansas, Western Nebraska, and Central South Dakota.

In the southern part of the United States the climatic conditions are also favorable to the production of this grass, but there are found there several other grasses and legumes which partially fill the need for a hay crop. In the southwestern part of the United States, Sudan grass will no doubt be extensively grown under irrigation, since the yields of both hay and seed have been highly satisfactory.

It is likely that Sudan grass will supersede the millets as catch crops in most of the regions east of the Rocky Mountains, south of the southern boundary of New York, and north of Tennessee. Near the Gulf Coast the humid atmosphere and continuous heat favor the development of the red-spot disease (sorghum blight), and thus reduce the yield. This is true to some extent also on the Atlantic Coast of the Southeastern States. Continued cool weather, such as one encounters in high altitudes, is detrimental to the growth of Sudan grass. This fact precludes its successful production in the intermountain section.

While the value of Sudan grass under conditions of extreme drought has not been definitely established, reports from the South where the lack of moisture has been combined with extreme drought have, in general, been favorable to this grass in comparison with millets and sorghums. Further north, the grass grown under extreme drought conditions seems to produce less than millet. However, during 1913, when the drought was especially severe in the central Great Plains region, the grass seemed to make better yields than the millets, and where it had been planted at the most favorable time it showed the following yields:

In Western and Central South Dakota—1½ to 2 tons.
In Eastern South Dakota and Southern Minnesota—4½ to 5 tons.
In Eastern Colorado and Northern Texas—1½ to 2½ tons.
In Eastern United States (Maryland and Virginia)—2½ to 3½ tons.
Further south (Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana and Florida)—2 to 3½ tons.

Seed.

The seed habits of Sudan grass are nearly perfect, as it produces freely and high above the ground, where it can be harvested easily. The seed is retained well, and loss from shattering is much less than in other wild forms of sorghums.

Seed harvesting is accomplished economically with an ordinary grain binder, after which the seed can be handled in the same manner as grain. The seed yields range from 450 to 1,400 pounds per acre under ordinary conditions, and under irrigation, up to 2,250 pounds.

As the seed of Sudan grass resembles Johnson grass very closely, except that it is larger and more plump, it will be advisable as soon as the seed becomes abundant to use only that Figures quoted are from the New International Encyclopedia. It has been found difficult to determine the actual number of men engaged at Waterloo because of the constant shifting of forces. The Prussians, whose arrival turned the tide for the allies, are supposed to have numbered about 40,000 in addition to the total given in the table.

Encyclopedias are much at variance in the number of French engaged at Crecy. The estimate given in the table is low. The French forces have been placed as high as 120,000 troops.

produced in the North, beyond the Johnson grass area. Seedmen at present are charging up to $2.25 a pound for their seed, but in a few years it will no doubt be produced in quantities to reduce the price to 4 or 5 cents a pound. It requires from 16 to 24 pounds of good, clean seed per acre for broadcast sowing, and from 2 to 6 pounds per acre for seeding in rows.

Cultivation.

A rather firm seed bed is best. When the seed is drilled, the ground should be plowed in the spring and harrowed down well, as for corn. A cool soil delays the germination. No fertilizers are necessary in the West, where the soil is reasonably good, and in the East it is advisable to use some complete fertilizer, such as is applied for corn. In the extreme South, the best time for seeding is between April 1 and 15; in the latitude of Oklahoma and Kansas, April 15 to May 15; and north of that, in the latitude of Nebraska and South Dakota, May 1 to June 1.

In regions of abundant rainfall, a common grain drill is the best machine for seeding. In semi-arid regions for hay, and in any locality for seed production, better results will be obtained by seeding it in rows far enough apart to allow cultivation. Where ordinary grain cultivators are used, the rows should be 36 to 42 inches apart; but where beet cultivators or similar tools are used, larger yields can be obtained from rows 18 to 24 inches apart, the latter distance being the most practicable.

JACKSON'S MOST VITAL ORDER.

Confederate Commander, Obeyed by Federal Gunner, Won Battle. From the Youth's Companion.

Perhaps the most important order that "Stonewall" Jackson ever issued—certainly the most vital to himself—is not in the official war records. The order was given in person by Jackson to a Northern artillery officer as he stood, in full uniform, ready for battle beside his gun, and—strangest of all!—was at once executed by him, with the result that the battle was lost by the Union arms.

It was on a spring morning in 1862, just before the battle of Port Republic. Jackson, in advance of his troops, with only a single escort, galloped across the bridge over the Shenandoah River into the town, which stood on the east bank. Learning that the army of General Shields was still a good many miles away, and confident that his own troops would be in possession long before the enemy, he rode to a residence at the farther end of the village, where he spent nearly an hour.

But meantime the energetic Shields—whom Jackson later declared to be his most formidable opponent—had thrust forward a small, swift column to occupy Port Republic, seize the bridge and halt Jackson's advance. So rapidly did it move that it gained both objects without firing a shot. More than that, Jackson was a prisoner—if anyone had known it!

Jackson, in utter ignorance of the disastrous change, mounted his horse, and ambled down the main street to the bridge. What was his astonishment to see groups of soldiers—in blue!—busily moving to and fro about the bridgehead, and throwing up intrenchments and fortifications. Planted on a little knoll that commanded the bridge and its approaches was a formidable field gun!

Fortunately for Jackson, the recent campaigns up and down the valley had faded both blue and gray uniforms into a nondescript drab. As Jackson sat on his horse and watched the busy scene, he formed his plan swiftly. He could not go back; he must cross that bridge; that was his only chance. It was the frowning field gun that he feared. He must put it out of commission long enough to get beyond its range. Throwing up his hand to attract attention, he shouted to the officer in command of the gun:

"What are you doing with that gun up there? I didn't order it there, and I don't want it there!" There was authority and petulance in his voice as he added, "Limber up, and run it over on that knob over there!"

The officer at the gun, thinking he had to deal with some superior officer recently arrived, hastened to obey without question, explaining in self-defense that he had understood his orders otherwise.

Sitting on Little Sorrel while the Federal troops worked busily about him, Jackson calmly waited until the gun was limbering off to its new position. Then he rode quietly across the bridge and up the other bank until he was well out of musket range. Then he turned, waved his hand to the astonished Federals, and, putting spurs to his horse, galloped away from the rain of bullets that pattered in the rear.

Had he been captured the Confederate victory at Port Republic, which he won a few hours later, would not have happened; the able and energetic Shields would have defeated his troops, stunned by his loss.

CARRYING FAVOR WITH GOD.

Mark How the Pietistic Emperors Seek the Lord's Sanction for the Devil's Work.

"And now I commend you to God," said the kaiser from his balcony to the people in the street. "Go to church and kneel before God and pray for His help for our gallant army."

Pray that a farmer dragged from a Saxon field shall be speedier with a bayonet thrust than a wine maker taken from his vines in the Aube; that a Berlin lawyer shall be steadier with the rifle than a Moscow merchant; that a machine gun manned by Heidelberg students shall not jam and that one worked by Paris carpenters shall!

Pray that a Bavarian hop grower, armed in a quarrel in which he has no heart, shall outmarch a wheat grower from Poltava; that Cossacks from the Don shall be lured into barbed wire entanglements and caught by masked guns; that an innkeeper of Salzburg shall blow the head off a baker from the Loire.

"Go to church and pray for help"—that the hell shall be hotter in innocent Ardennes than it is in equally innocent Hessen; that it shall be hotter in innocent Kovno than in equally innocent Posen.

And the pietistic czar commends his subjects to God that they may have strength of arm in a quarrel they do not understand; that they may inflict more sufferings than they are required to endure and the name of Romanoff be greater than the name of Hohenzollern, that it may be greater than the name of Hapsburg, that its territories shall be wider and the territories of Hohenzollern and the territories of Hapsburg less.

The pietistic Emperor of Austria commends his subjects to God, to seek divine assistance to crush the peasants of Serbia, dragged from the wheat field when it was ready for the scythe, and given to the scythe themselves. From the Chicago Tribune.

One Man -9000 Horsepower
How the Largest Exclusive Tire Factory Keeps Cost Down and Keeps Quality Up

Firestone TIRES
Cost No More Than Average

Every facility for economical production that science has been able to produce has been brought to bear in the Firestone plant to give you Firestone quality at ordinary price. The power plant, where one man feeds the boilers that produce 9000 horsepower, is one example of Firestone scientific management.

The great Firestone plant naturally attracts the country's greatest tire experts.

Every man in this factory is a tire specialist, doing his work with skill and accuracy.

Here nothing but tires is made, and every ounce of steam power, every effort of the workmen, every bit of study and thought, are focused on the making of Firestone Tires. This concentration and specialization in production make it possible to give highest quality at a cost no greater than only average tires.

ARCHITECT COMES WITH NORMAL SCHOOL PLANS.

President Cousins and Adviser Are at Work on New Building in Canyon.

CANYON, Texas, August 29.—Architect Endress is in the city to-day with plans for the new Normal Buildings. He will discuss the matter to-day with the members of the faculty.

President Cousins met Mr. Endress in Amarillo yesterday, where a conference was held with Hon. W. H. Fugua, who, together with Mr. Cousins, constitutes the building committee. These gentlemen made some suggestions which will no doubt be adopted by the board.

Mr. Endress will see Mr. Radford, at Fort Worth, and Mr. Kendall, at Dallas, on his way home, and if they agree to the plans as the remainder of the members have done, he will advertise for bids to be opened on October 1st.

Mr. Cousins and Mr. Fugua will also suggest to the president of the board, Mr. Sparks, that he and Mr. Goeth see Governor Colquitt at once and ascertain whether or not the Governor will ask the Legislature for an appropriation.

Mrs. Sam Tibbets left to-day for Waco on business.

REV. STREET TO WACO.

Rev. H. H. Street has been called to the Provident Heights Baptist Church, of Waco, Texas.

Rev. Street was pastor of the First Baptist Church here before the two churches united. He was then pastor of the united church until the first of August.

Mrs. C. C. Cowden and children arrived yesterday from their home, in Abilene. They will visit Mrs. Cowden's mother, Mrs. J. J. Rushing.

Miss Fannie Locke, of Runningwater, went yesterday to Canyon. Miss Locke will visit her brother, Frank Locke, in Canyon.

Mrs. Thea Goebel came up yesterday from Abernathy to visit Mrs. C. S. Ebling.

B. G. Lowery came in yesterday from Amarillo.

C. R. Houston, representing the Carter-Houston Dry Goods Company, returned to-day from the Northern markets. He has been away about two weeks. Miss Elizabeth West accompanied him away, but stopped in Denison, Texas, to visit until next week.

REV. FRANK P. CULVER.

Brother Culver will reach Plainview next week and remain about two weeks to preach for the Methodist revival meeting. He is one of the strongest preachers in the Church.

PLATFORM DANCE GIVEN HONORING MISS McCART.

Miss Celestine Harp Provides Unique Entertainment for Fort Worth Girl Guest of Misses Kinder.

Miss Francis McCart, of Fort Worth, who is visiting Miss Mae Kinder, was honored Thursday night with an impromptu platform dance given by Miss Celestine Harp, 715 Restriction St. The beautiful lawn, with its banks of glowing red cannaes, was lighted with electric lights and Japanese lanterns.

Dancing was enjoyed to the soft strains of the Victrola and the piano.

Punch was served throughout the evening to gay dancers, who numbered Mr. and Mrs. Charles Saigling, Miss McCart, the guest of honor; Misses Mae and Lucille Kinder, Edna Harrington, Laura Mastin, Nelle Sanson, Annie Maud Davidson, Mildred Buchheimer, Marquenia Hulen and Daisy Gidney. In addition to Miss McCart, the out-of-town guests were Miss Evelyn Gidney, of Muskogee, Okla.; Miss Elsie Guenther, of Canyon, and Miss Corinne Kelly, of Dallas. The gentlemen invited were Messrs. Paul Fierson, Lawrence Gray, Vere Calvin, E. L. Doland, Beal Pumprey, Ellis Carter, Buster Armstrong, George Wyckoff, Harold and Casey Hughes and Austin Anderson.

Mrs. Joe Wieser and daughter arrived to-day from Hico. They will visit Mr. and Mrs. George B. Doubleday and family.

THE ICE MAN.

I'd like to be the ice man, then
I'd drive a big ice truck,
And I would always have a nice
Big piece of ice to suck.

It's queer about an ice man, how
He never seems to care
To eat a little piece of ice
When lots of it is there.
—David M. Corey, in John Martin's Book.

Miss Flossie Huckabee left yesterday on her return to Temple. She has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Graham and family.
