Ninety-Two Thousand Attend Wichita Fair and Exposition and International Farm Congress

More than ninety-two thousand people saw the Hale County exhibit at the Wichita Fair and the International Farm Congress at Wichita, Kansas. This is the record of gate receipts to the agricultural exhibits. And Hale County's exhibit was a good one—good enough that the judges pronounced it the best county exhibit. The fair was open to the world.

The County of Hale and the Plainview country are known to thousands of people who had never heard of them before. And there are additional thousands who had heard of this wonderful section, but had never seen it. These were brought closely in touch with the South Plains, and interest already stimulated was intensified.

Almost every state in the Union and many foreign countries competed in this fair. At the International Farm Congress, farming experts from South Africa, the South American Republics, Canada, the Alaskan possessions, the South Sea Islands, Japan, China, Greece and Turkey, were in attendance. These facts make the winnings of Hale County indeed significant.

Hale County won sweepstakes for the best twenty heads of kaffir corn, and the best grower.

Here is a list of the winnings:

- First, County Exhibit.
- Fourth, State Exhibit.
- First, Watermelons.
- First, J. O. Brown, Vine Peanuts.
- First, W. B. Martine, Six Bunches of Celery.
- First, J. O. Brown, 1/2 Peck Kaffir Seed.
- First, J. O. Brown, Durum Wheat.
- First, J. O. Brown, 1/2 Bushel Kaffir Seed.
- First, T. J. Tilson, 1/2 Bushel Triumph Potatoes.
- First, J. O. Brown, Orange Seed Cane.
- First, J. O. Brown, Best Peck Peanuts.
- First, W. H. White, Largest Pumpkin.
- First, County Prize, Kaffir Heads.
- Second, Plainview Floral Company, White Onions.
- Second, J. O. Brown, Dwarf Broom Corn.
- Second, J. O. Brown, Vine Cow Peas.
- Second, Cotton Display.
- Second, L. N. Dalmont, Gano Apples.
- Second, J. O. Brown, Vegetable Display.
- And another Second.
- Third, Robt. Alley, Bale of Alfalfa, Brown to Dallas.

J. O. Brown secured a special dispensation of rules in order that he might be admitted to the Texas State Fair, at Dallas. To secure the prizes offered at Wichita he was compelled to hold the exhibit there until the awards had been made.

The Wichita Beacon of Saturday, October 17, says in regard to the Hale County Exhibit:

KANSAS CAPITALIST BUYS JOHN L. WORTHAM RANCH

Will Develop in Small Tracts 11,000 Acres in Shallow Water Belt of the South Plains

Jno. G. Edwards and wife, Dr. and Mrs. O. V. Standish and H. Rippell, of Larned, Kansas, toured Hale County yesterday and to-day in their Case car, which they drove through from their home.

Mr. Edwards, who is president of the Union Central Fire Insurance Co., of Kansas City, and an extensive dealer in lands, has recently purchased the John L. Wortham ranch of 11,000 acres near Lubbock. A price of $35 an acre, including all the improvements, crops and livestock, was paid by the Kansas man, who will probably improve and sell the large acreage in small farms.

Mr. Edwards and party were delighted with the possibilities of the Plainview shallow water country, and predicted that it offered the best field for investment that he has recently encountered in his many trips of inspection to all parts of the United States. He may decide to make further purchases in this section, which he expects to visit again as soon as his insurance company can get located in their own new building in Kansas City.

JEALOUSY PROMPTED KILLING OF MRS. BAILEY AVERS STATE

District Attorney Says Jealousy Cause; Stresses Finding of Dictaphone in Carman Home

By United Press.

MINEOLA, Oct. 20.—"Jealousy was the motive for the slaying of Mrs. Bailey," declared District Attorney Smith in his opening statement this morning. He stressed the fact that a dictograph had been found in the Carman home. He made the statement that a negro maid saw Mrs. Carman come down the stairs just before the fatal shot was fired. That she went outside and returned a few seconds after the second shot. Smith said that Carman and his wife told the negro maid not to tell that she had seen Mrs. Carman pass through the kitchen just before and after the murder.

Mrs. Jennie Duryea, mother of the slain woman, broke down while telling of seeing her daughter leaving home the last time on the night of June 30. Had Mrs. Carman been assured that her trial on the charge of murdering Mrs. Bailey was a mere formality, and that she would be freed in a few days, she could not have shown less concern than she displayed to-day when taking of testimony in the case began. Her coolness dominated the crowded court room. The attorneys spoke softly. The audience was remarkably quiet and well-mannered. The affair was distinctly "high brow."

I. C. C. Begins Rehearing Eastern Roads Rate Case

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 19.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has begun a rehearing of the Eastern railroads' application for a five per cent advance in freight rates. President Willard of the B. & O. and Vice President George Shriver opened the hearing with statements tending to show that war has brought a crisis in railroad affairs and that an immediate increase in revenue is imperative. The immediate effect has been to demoralize the stock market and prolong the rise of interest rates. When foreign holders try to unload their three billion holdings of American railroad securities the possible effect would be disastrous. They also claimed that the net operating income for nineteen fourteen is the smallest in ten years.

Sweden and Norway Buy Cotton; Are New Markets

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 19.—There are evidences that cotton shipments are reaching Germany. M. H. Wolfe, a prominent cotton buyer, said to-day that large orders were coming from Sweden and Norway, which have no spindles and took no cotton before this year. Wolfe's German agent wrote, however, that all German spindles were idle.

Engineer and Fireman of Fast Train Killed Outright When Train Is Derailed

By United Press.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 19.—Engineer J. F. Johnson and Fireman W. E. Rhodes, both of Smithville, Texas, were killed this morning when the northbound Katy Flyer was derailed between Bartlett and Granger at four o'clock. B. F. Campbell, an extra fireman, was badly injured. A few negroes were slightly injured.

The Pullman did not leave the track. Although overturned, the chair car was derailed.

The passenger train, which followed the Flyer pulled the sleepers back to Taylor, and both trains were derailed to Temple. The tracks were torn for four hundred feet.

Traffic has been resumed.

We expect to be back in a week and do business in this shallow water belt," said Mr. Lyons at the time of his departure. Mr. Lyons commented, "The Texas Land and Development Co. has done more real development in a shorter time than any other company has done in any new country we have visited."

FIVE HUNDRED ATTEND SINGING CONVENTION

Classes from Neighboring Communities Enjoy Day with Plainview People; Basket Dinner Feature

One of the biggest things that has happened in Plainview lately and one of the most successful was the Singing Convention last Sunday at the Church of Christ, on West First Street.

The great interest felt in the subject of good singing was shown by the large crowd in attendance. More than five hundred were present. L. D. Griffin, of Abernathy, is president of the association.

The singing was exceptionally good, some of it accompanied by music and some without.

Dinner was served on the grounds. A whole barbecued beef was contributed by Judge W. B. Lewis.

The next meeting will be in January, at the White school house.

ZEPPELIN ATTACK ON ENGLAND PLANNED

Forty-Two Centimeter Motors and Huge Zeppelins Germany's Surprise to World in European Struggle

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND.
(Written for the United Press.)

LIEGE, Sept. 11.—By Courier via Maastricht and Rotterdam to New York.—That Germany is preparing an aerial attack or invasion of England with her fleet of Zeppelins, is the general impression among officers here, so far as I could get any of them to express an opinion. That same impression is in the public mind in Berlin and elsewhere.

"Where are all the Zeppelins and what are they doing?" I asked a member of the Flying Corps.

"Just wait and see," he replied. "England gave us a little surprise off Heligoland. We will give her a surprise before long."

There appear to be but few Zeppelins with the armies in the field. It is dangerous to ask questions or seek information, but indications are, and I have been told from various sources, that the Zeppelins are being concentrated close to the North Sea. It is said that the completion of several new Zeppelins is being awaited.

Just how many Zeppelins Germany has, no one outside of the government knows. Before the war, the official record was less than 15. There are reasons for believing that Germany has more, in fact, many more. The Zeppelins and the 42-centimeter mortar are the two mysteries of the war so far. You can take your choice from the stories that are afloat about these two weapons. Among these are, that the manufactured parts of a large number of Zeppelins had been made at the Zeppelin Works, at Friedrichshafen and stored ready to be put together when the emergency arose. The Zeppelin Works are said to be working day and night. Both in Berlin and here I am told that Germany has now a fleet of 64 aerial cruisers.

fleet of Zeppelins. It seems to have been a poor day when not more than one Zeppelin was shot down by the French or Belgians. It is quite possible that we are less informed in Germany, but there is every reason for doubting this wholesale destruction of the Zeppelins. So far as I have watched events, there is a possibility that two may have been destroyed, but there is no proof of it, and very little to base the supposition on. The government flatly denies that it has lost a single Zeppelin so far. It also denies the report of the loss of the Zeppelin which terrorized Antwerp. Members of the German Flying Corps who have been under fire many times in this war and with whom I have talked, say that there is little to fear from rifle and machine gun fire when flying at an altitude of not less than 4,000 feet. Sergeant Werner, the first pilot who flew over Paris, said he had 25 patches on the wings of his monoplane—scars of the enemies' bullets. He declared it had been his experience and that of other flyers that at an altitude of 4,000 feet a bullet has little or no force or impact left. As he put it, "You can almost catch them in your hand."

TO THE PATRONS OF RURAL SCHOOLS OF HALE COUNTY.

Prof. J. A. Hill, of Canyon Normal, and with two associates, will arrive in Hale County on Sunday, October 25th, and spend the entire week in the interest of the rural schools. They will visit all the rural schools possible, make talks and give entertainments both day and night. These gentlemen are men of more than ordinary ability, and they expect to collect data which will be published in the interest of rural schools. They are giving their time and money to aid the rural schools of Hale County, and I desire very much to secure the co-operation of every citizen in Hale County, in order that much good may be done.

The route of their trip has not been definitely arranged, but probably will be as follows:

Monday, October 26th—
Woodrow, 9 o'clock a. m.;
Runningwater, 1 p. m.;
Halfway, 7:30 p. m.

Hale Center, 7:30 at night.
Friday, October 30th—

It is possible that these gentlemen will stay Saturday, and, if so, a Saturday program will be arranged later, and it may be possible to visit more than three schools a day. Every person in Hale County is cordially invited and urgently requested to be present at these meetings and advertise the same.

Every school child in Hale County attending the schools above mentioned is requested to be present at these meetings, and every teacher teaching in these schools are requested to cooperate in this rural survey.

Can't Delay Ordering Fall Clothes!

The time for swift change of seasons—with all that it means to the man who guards his health or carefully regards the changes of fashion—is here. Order now—get when you say. It's simply a question of unsurpassed facilities.

A GOOD SUIT OR OVERCOAT TODAY AT $15

Because our cutting and tailoring departments are organized for the production of higher-price garments and because our goods-getting facilities extend to representative mills that others cannot reach, we, the originators of really good $15 tailoring in this city, make far better clothes, in quality of fabric and fineness of workmanship, than those who solely feature some misleading low price.

Prove it by getting samples of goods—prove it by critically comparing finished garments—prove it by asking those who have dealt both elsewhere and here.

BETTER, OF COURSE, FOR $20

Better because the goods cost more and are worth more—better because of the greater variety of choice afforded—better because of more expensive linings and trimmings—better because of greater satisfaction that payment of higher price inspires.

AND REALLY FINE FOR $25

At $25 we offer fabrics that every other tailor—because of paying more and expecting more and because of his relatively greater expense—could not tailor and sell for much less than double. You may make your own investigation—we've found the comparison true time and again.

IMPORTED FABRICS $28 TO $30

A Century Ago France Feared the Russia She Welcomes Today

(Editor's Note.—This is the first of a new series of articles on the European war by William G. Shepherd, whose first letters, a few weeks ago, were so welcomed by the reading public of America.)

By WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, Sept. 29.—(By Mail to New York.)—A little man all bundled up in coats drove up this very street one December day a century ago and, rushing into a building in this very park, tore through the halls, dashed into a certain room and there threw his arms around the Empress of France. He was Napoleon, back from Moscow, where the Russians had all but shattered him. Two days later he told France the story, and France shuddered at the name of Russia.

But to-day when I saw this street, France was thrilling with hope at the thought that somewhere, in the fog of war, huge Cossacks from Moscow itself, perhaps, were coming, by land or by sea, with their wild horses, to save this street and palace and the great art galleries and Paris and France itself from the Germans.

The street was almost deserted. The great Tuilleries gardens lay in the golden autumn sunshine as empty and silent as if they had been farms in Iowa, after crop time, instead of the most famous park in the world.

The Louvre art gallery was locked. I didn't know whether its art treasures remain there or not. A soldier at one door told me he didn't know either. The wonderful pieces of marble and painting which Napoleon himself, when master of Europe, seized as he pleased and took off as war booty to his great and wonderful Paris, have been hidden away ere now and will be safe when the sound of German guns which I hear booming to the northwest this afternoon grows louder.

Here's the great building right here: the great Louvre gallery. Stand and look at it this September afternoon, and then listen to the cannon, not many miles away, and you'll have a thrill you'll never forget. We cross the river. I want to see Napoleon's tomb. We pass great railroad stations that are closed; somewhere the steel lines that run out from them have been cut by the Germans and the trains are not running. Here we are at the Invalides, the old soldiers' home. I can't go in. I can't even go near the old cannon trophies which Napoleon brought from the ends of Europe. I wonder if all the tattered flags seized in other days from other armies by armies of France are still in their glass cases in the Invalides or have they been hidden, ignominiously also with the trophies of art?

Come around behind this old Invalides Building topped by a dome. Soldiers stop you. Under that dome rests a great stone sarcophagus. I know it well, because I have spent hours, like every other tourist, gazing at it. I know it stands there under the dome in the center of that stone circle with magic names of "Austerlitz" and "Sedan" worked in marble below it.

Napoleon lies here. I remember the shrine with the marble Christ watching over the dead Emperor's grave, and I remember in all this great building that the word "Napoleon" is chiselled only once, and that in small letters under the sentence, "I desire to rest on the banks of the Seine, amid the French people, whom I loved so well." How well are you resting this Indian summer afternoon, Napoleon, with those German cannon sounding at the gates of Paris?

You may talk to tombs all you please and get no answer. They have only to do with the past, anyhow, and the cannon and a German aeroplane flying overhead reminded me of the present. "Where are the French armies?" I asked an officer of the Guard. "Everybody believes they're all dead," he said. "The Times said the other day that when the world knows, at the proper time, the story of our armies, it will thrill and weep." As I said goodby to the officer he turned away to continue his job of guarding the tomb of Napoleon.

The Eiffel tower, 1,000 feet high, loomed before us in the evening dusk. "The Germans will cut that in two with their shells," said the cab driver. "That's the wireless station. What a fall it will be!"

For the past few nights the armies of Europe have been sleeping and marching and killing under a full autumn moon. There has been surprisingly little rain in Europe, and even London has had only splendid clear days. So it was a beautiful evening that I went to my big, lonely hotel, where there are only two guests besides myself.

Great fingers of light from the Eiffel tower scoured the skies for Zeppelins, and one of them, hitting the tall building across the street, lighted my room in regular throbs and made it hard to sleep.

It was ten in the evening in Paris, the play place of the world, and I couldn't see a soul or even hear a footfall.

But early in the morning the booming of the cannon started again.

SORGHUM FOR SILAGE.

A Kansas correspondent writes to Wallace's Farmer:

"I have four silos 22x50 feet, filled with sorghum silage. The cane was put in when good and ripe. The stalks and leaves were still green, but were ripe. I cut the stalks into three-eighth-inch lengths, running two half-inch streams of water with the cane. Fifteen hundred tons of the cane had heads on; five hundred had no heads. One silo with cane heads on stood two weeks and settled five feet. Another with the heads off stood one week and settled three feet. We will fill the fourth silo, stand ten days or two weeks to settle and then fill up again, and put on salt, as you advised in your issue of September 11th. How thick should I put on the salt? How long should the silage stand before it is ready to feed? My cane is making about sixteen tons to the acre, and I will have eighty acres of rowed cane in the shock after the last silo is filled. How will this do for roughage together with the cane silage? How many pounds of cottonseed cake or meal should be fed to a 500-pound steer daily?"

Our correspondent is to be congratulated on having so much rough feed, says Wallace's Farmer. Experiments at the Kansas station indicate that sorghum silage is almost as good as corn silage. Early in the feeding period, our correspondent's 500-pound steers will probably eat as much as forty or fifty pounds of cane silage daily, in connection with from two to five pounds of cottonseed meal. A good average daily ration early in the feeding period is forty-five pounds of cane silage and two and one-half pounds of cottonseed meal. Later on, prices permitting, our correspondent may find it worth while to add some corn or other grain to the ration.

Our correspondent's plan of filling up his silos again after the have been allowed to settle is a good one, provided he has a cutter and engine available. The proper amount of salt with which to seal a silo is one barrel to a silo sixteen feet in diameter. This means that a silo twenty-two feet in diameter should take nearly two barrels of salt. The salt is spread evenly over the surface.

Feeding of silage may begin as soon as filling is completed. The top silage has not, of course, fermented, but it is nevertheless good feed unless it has been allowed to stand long enough to mold. By starting to feed at once, it is not necessary to take precautionary measures to avoid spoiling, such as putting salt on top.

WAR'S ONLY EXCUSE.

From the "Cours de Morales," a French school book.

No! I cannot consent to be a murderer or to die myself save for a good that is higher than life, save for a duty that is more imperious than the essential duty of respecting the lives of others. Now, there is one thing of supreme value, one thing that is the very foundation of my moral duties, the very reason for civilization: it is the right of being a free man; it is the right of guarding intact my dignity as a citizen; it is the right to go and come as I please in my own country, to pay no taxes save that of my own levying, to speak my own language freely, to be subject to the law of no despot, man, or nation of prey.

BAR ASSOCIATION CONVENTION OPENS.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20.—Formally welcomed to Washington by President Wilson, the members of the American Bar Association convened here to-day in their annual meeting. With Memorial Continental Hall packed almost to its capacity, President Wilson opened the convention by delivering the address of welcome to the lawyers from all over the United States.

Following President Wilson's address, which was warmly applauded, William Howard Taft, former President of the United States and president of the association, delivered his annual address. He covered in a general way the work of the association in the past year and told of the problems now confronting the body.

Routine business occupied the remainder of the opening session of the association. The nomination and election of members was scheduled to come first, after which the general council for next year was to be elected. The secretary, treasurer and executive committee were then to make their reports.

The convention will last three days, coming to a close on Thursday evening, October 22, with the annual dinner of the association, which will be held at the New Willard Hotel.

Senator Elihu Root, of New York, will address the convention to-night on "The Layman's Criticism of the Lawyer." Following this address the convention will adjourn to attend a reception tendered to members, their wives and friends at the Hall of America, in the Pan-American Union Building. This reception will be held at 9:30 o'clock.

The various committees will not make their reports to the association until to-morrow. Besides the fifteen standing committees from whom are expected some critical reports on present law methods and suggestions for reforms, ten special committees appointed last year to investigate certain laws and suggest possible remedies will deliver their reports tomorrow.

A fight is expected in the convention when the resolution of Moorfield Storey, of Massachusetts, rescinding a former resolution which aimed a blow at negroes joining, comes up, which will be Thursday, the last day of the meeting.

Storey's resolution is as follows: "RESOLVED, That the preamble and resolution adopted by this association at the thirty-fifth annual meeting (1912) which were as follows:

"WHEREAS, Three persons of the colored race were elected to membership in this association without knowledge upon the part of those electing them that they were of that race, and are now members of this association.

"RESOLVED, That, as it has never been contemplated that members of the colored race should become members of this association, the several local councils are directed that if at any time any of them shall recommend a person of the colored race for membership, they shall accompany the recommendation with a statement of the fact that he is of such race," "be and the same is hereby rescinded."

The resolution referred to by Storey is the one which provoked such a fight in the convention two years ago, at which time William H. Lewis, the negro appointed by Former President Taft as one of the assistant attorneys general, was taken into the association. The fight almost disrupted the body, and a second clash is feared over Storey's resolution.

It Costs $95 To Get Sick

Special to The Herald.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 20.—Sickness costs Texans $15,000,000 annually, and the average cost per case of illness is $95.00, according to Dr. M. M. Carrick, the famous clean-town expert. In discussing this gigantic loss recently, Dr. Carrick said:

"There is an economic side to the question of sickness that should be considered, as well as that of the inconvenience, loss of time and suffering it entails. The needless and senseless drain upon the public for the care and maintenance of the sick from preventable diseases should cease. It was this aspect of the problem that induced Gladstone, Bismarck, Disraeli and other far-seeing statesmen to incorporate into the laws of their respective governments the statement: 'The care of the public health is the first and highest duty of statesmen.'

"Every public official of Texas should consider the care of the health of the public, and their first and highest duty, if every physician co-operated with them in the enforcement of sanitary laws, making vaccination against communicable diseases compulsory—for example—if all the people in Texas could and would observe in their daily lives the laws of health as now known to the scientific world, sickness would soon decrease and health would abound. This is the only practical, logical solution of our civic problem."

SOUND TEETH AND HEALTH.

Like hard-working sentinels, the teeth are on duty at the gateway of the digestive system. The capacity the teeth have to do their duty, largely determines the capacity of the digestive organs to complete their functions.

Thousands of human being are contracting fatal diseases through bacteria from decayed, neglected teeth.

We are just beginning to appreciate these facts. Until disease-producing bacteria were discovered the care of the mouth and teeth was only a matter of cleanliness and good manners, almost entirely disconnected with the question of health, unless toothache or some other readily-perceived effect resulted. Now it is an accepted fact that many fatal diseases, among them pneumonia, diphtheria and tuberculosis, may be induced by decayed or neglected teeth. Indeed, it is claimed by medical authorities that persons suffering from infected teeth are a menace to society, to everyone with whom they converse and live.

Nearly all disease is contracted through the mouth. There is no better breeding place for bacteria than the moist, high-temperature lining of the mouth, which comes into close contact with water and food passing into the digestive organs. The mouth is a veritable bacterial incubator.

These facts should be taught in every schoolroom. They should be known and stressed in every family. Children should be taught the importance of preventing dental disease. It should go hand in hand with the swat-the-fly crusade and with the fight against every form of bacterial infection. Vigorous campaigns along this line would lower the death rate. It would make home more happy and schools more effective. It would insure a healthier and longer-lived race.

NEW YORK GLOOM, KANSAS CITY OPTIMISM.

Somebody ought to take the City of New York and build a huge Chinese wall around it, in order to prevent its pessimism from trickling out over the rest of the country.

A Kansas City millinery buyer went East to New York last week. He was prepared to buy a minimum order of $15,000 worth of goods. If things looked good to him he was prepared to "go in" even more heavily.

Now, out in the Kansas City part of the world they don't know that there is any war. With the biggest crop of wheat ever known and the highest prices for it, they don't care whether school keeps or not.

This millinery buyer was ready to breeze into the metropolis in the recognized style of the American business man, who believes that this is the greatest country on earth and that no man can lose by banking on its future.

What does he get in New York? Gloom, gloom, gloom, and then more gloom. They don't let him buy their goods. They tell him that everything's all shot to pieces. All hands join in the chorus. They don't leave a ray of hope anywhere.

Two mornings after reaching New York the cheerful Westerner sits alone in his hotel over a frugal breakfast of coffee and toast. In his hand he holds a telegram from his firm. It reads: "Your reports of New York sentiment received. Cut our order 50 per cent."

As a result, that Kansas City buyer goes out of New York with less than $6,000 worth of goods bought, instead of the $15,000 and upward that he was ready and willing to buy.

Also, he returns home as an apostle of gloom. And his gloom has the "big city," financial center of the country, New York, label stamped all over it. So it "goes" with the home folks.

As we remarked in the beginning, if someone could only make New York into a cold storage tank for pessimism instead of an active distributing siphon, it would help the United States extremely.—Editorial, Chicago Evening Post.

Psychology plays a heavy role in either success or failure. Get a town's merchants to talk calamity, and the people of the country round about will talk calamity. If they are optimistic their trade will be optimistic. The man who just "keeps sawing wood" regardless of pessimistic tendencies will be the most successful business man.

Meet your friend on the street; tell him he is looking ill. If he goes on down the street and hears the same comment, he will soon believe he is sick.

If your attitude is optimistic, you will buoy up; if it is pessimistic, you will depress.

LITTLE STORIES OF THE LONE STAR STATE.

By United Press.

"Texans! Come and free your country at once; and be MEN!"

Would an appeal like this to-day gain the support Sam Houston gained when, as commander-in-chief of the army of independence, under date of April 13, 1836, he appealed to the men of Texas to fight Mexico?

Those were days of stirring appeals, of stirring addresses to the army after the recruits had come together and when inspired oratory moved men to deeds of valor perhaps still unequalled.

The classic among these appeals, however, is admittedly the one sent off by a messenger by Colonel Travis, commanding the Alamo surrounded by Santa Anna's forces.

"Fellow Citizens and Compatriots," said this heroic Texan: "I am besieged by a thousand or more of the Mexicans under Santa Anna. I have sustained a continued bombardment for twenty-four hours, and have not lost a man. The enemy have demanded a surrender at discretion; otherwise the garrison is to be put to the sword, if the place is taken. I have answered the summons with a cannon shot, and our flag still waves proudly from the walls. I shall never surrender or retreat. Then I call on you in the name of liberty, of patriotism, and of everything dear to the American character, to come to our aid with all dispatch. The enemy are receiving reinforcements daily, and will no doubt increase to three or four thousand in four or five days. Though this call may be neglected, I am determined to sustain myself as long as possible, and die like a soldier who never forgets what is due to his own honor and that of his country. Victory or death?"

Thirty-three men answered this call. The fate of the Alamo is too well known to every Texan to require repetition.

THE PARCELS POST.

An effective and serviceable parcels post is no longer merely a favorite subject for magazine discussion and high school debates; it is now a national institution and a practical accomplished fact.

No exact data have yet been compiled relating to the workings of the parcels post in Texas, but from estimates compiled by the postal authorities at Washington, based on the business handled at representative offices in this State, it is evident that during the fiscal year 1913 approximately 10,000,000 packages were mailed in Texas on which the postage amounts to nearly a million dollars.

The parcels post has served to bring the rural producer and urban consumer closer together and has greatly helped to solve the high living cost problem in Texas. It is performing the functions of the middleman without his exorbitant profits.

SOCIETY

MRS. CHARLES TANDY LED MYSTIC CLUB.
Authors of the Southland and Their Work Subject Discussed by Club Members.

Authors of the Southland are being studied by the Mystic Club. The Club met Saturday afternoon. With Mrs. Charles Tandy, a native of Virginia and an enthusiastic Daughter of the Confederacy, as leader, and Mrs. H. W. Harrel, a native Kentuckian, as president of the club, the meeting could not have been otherwise than enthusiastic.

The paper prepared by Mrs. H. C. Randolph, who was unavoidably absent from the city, was read by Mrs. S. A. Barnes. The paper consisted of well-written sketches of James Ryder Randall, Francis Orny Ticknor and James Reuben Thompson.

Mrs. L. S. Kinder had four of these old and popular Southern authors as her theme—Margaret J. Preston, James Baron Hope, William Gordon McCabe and Henry Lindon Flash—and right entertainingly did she write of them.

The discussion upon the songs of the Southland was able led by Mrs. L. A. Knight. Finding it hard to decide whether "Maryland, My Maryland," or "Dixie" was the "Marseillaise" of the South, the club took a vote, which resulted in favor of the latter. Before adjournment the members joined in singing Dixie, led by Mrs. W. L. Harrington.

Mrs. Harrington, in connection with the program, spoke of her kinsman William Allen, of Virginia, promising a volume of his writings to the library.

Coffee and sandwiches were served to the following: Mesdames Harrison, H. V. Tull, J. B. Maxey, E. J. Morehead, C. C. Gidney, R. S. Charles, C. E. White and J. B. Farmer.

PEACE HOST TO EMPLOYEES AND FRIENDS AT ELK SHOP.

R. M. Peace, proprietor of the Elk's Barber Shop, was host Thursday night at a chicken supper for the employees of the shop, their families and a few friends.

The chickens, bountiful in number, were barbecued back of the shop by Joe Pratt, who deserves great credit, not only for the way in which the frys were cooked, but also for the serving.

From 8:15 to 9:15 the guests were seated at the long table placed in the shop.

The menu included barbecued chicken with salad, ham sandwiches, pickles, fruit salad, tea, ice cream in cantaloupes and a variety of cake.

Thirty-three guests enjoyed this gracious hospitality on the part of Mr. Peace to his employees.

HALLOWE'EN HERALDED AT PRETTY PARTY.

Circle No. 2 of the Methodist Missionary Society Entertained by Mrs. W. N. Baker.

The approach of Hallowe'en was heralded Friday afternoon at such a pretty affair given for Circle No. 2 of the Woman's Missionary Society by Mrs. W. N. Baker, 814 West First Street.

Upon entering the front porch you saw an old-fashioned darkey peeping from behind a bunch of cornstalks. Having passed in safety this uncommon sight, the guests entered the living room, where black cats were much in evidence, combined with beautiful autumnal decorations in different shades of yellow. Jardinières made of pumpkins filled with graceful foliage plants, and clusters of fall flowers, were seen in every available place.

The hostess and the ladies assisting her wore pretty little aprons and collars of yellow crepe paper with yellow ornaments in their hair.

The refreshments were in keeping with the decorations. Pumpkin pie of golden hue, chicken salad, olives, sandwiches and tea were served.

DINNER AT WARE HONORING ALABAMA VISITOR HERE.
Lay Reader and Director of Episcopal Choir Host at Dinner Honoring Miss Laura Mastin.

W. H. Mason, director of the choir and lay reader of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, was host Friday night at a dinner given at the Hotel Ware in honor of Miss Laura Mastin, who has been a prominent member of the choir during her stay in Plainview.

The dinner was a farewell courtesy to Miss Mastin, who leaves this week for her home, at Florence, Ala. Red roses were chosen as favors and decorations for this pretty dinner, which was served at seven o'clock. Hand-painted place cards marked places for fourteen guests, including the host and the honoree. During the serving of the five courses, toasts were given to Miss Mastin and other members of the party.

After dinner, Mr. Mason and his guests adjourned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Brahan, where Bridge was enjoyed during the remainder of the evening. Those present were Mrs. E. Dowden, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Lindsay, Misses Mastin, Allie Ware, May and Lucille Kinder, Nell Sansom and Stella Bryant, and Messrs. Lawrence Gray, Austin and Jennings Anderson and Charlie Spencer.

KANSAS CITY STOCK MARKETS IN DETAIL.

Special to The Herald.
KANSAS CITY STOCK YARDS, Oct. 19.—Cattle are selling steady today; receipts only 1,500 head. The supply this week has been 5,000 less than last week, and the run will probably decrease gradually from this time on. The Panhandle, New Mexico and Colorado are still shipping heavily, but Kansas is dropping off. The Kansas men are on the buying side now, and will be still more in the market for cattle as they get this season's operations cleaned up. There would be heavier buying except that money arrangements cannot always be made. Prices are 15 to 25 cents lower this week on steers, including stockers and feeders, but cows are steady to strong for the week. Two features stand out prominently this week—the first sale of prime Missouri cattle Thursday at $11.25, highest price ever paid on the open market here for cattle, 15 cents above Chicago's best price this year, and 40 cents above the St. Louis top. The other feature was a sale of 12 cars of lowest grade cattle, from the east coast of Florida. These were scrubby little cows weighing 423 pounds, and steers weighing 536 pounds, that sold at $4.75 and $5.25, respectively. Choice Panhandle yearlings sold at $7.50 to $8.25 this week, stock calves largely at $7.50 to $8.35, medium grades of stockers and feeders $6.25 to $7.00. Colorado cattle have averaged lower quality this week, the best beef steers at $7.15 to $7.35, feeders at $6.90 to $7.25, cows $5.75 to $6.35, common stockers and feeders $6.00 to $6.50. Quarantine receipts have been liberal, and have contained some fair strings of steers, which sold largely at $5.85 to $6.75, cows firm at $5.25 to $6.00, canners $4.00 to $5.25. Hog declines have been checked, and the market has assumed a more stable appearance. Packers disputed the field with order buyers this week, and they have closed up the range of prices. Receipts are 3,000 to-day, market strong to 10 cents higher, top, $7.60, bulk $7.15 to $7.55. Order buyers continue to pay 10 to 20 cents more than the best prices paid at other Missouri River markets. Quality averages very good. Sheep and lamb receipts are dropping off pretty fast, as Utah and Idaho are winding up the season's business. Southern Colorado, New Mexico and the Panhandle have a good many to ship yet. Demand from the country for feeding and breeding stock has been strongest of the season this week, and some advance on these grades is possible in the near future. Fat lambs are worth $7.00 to $7.35, feeding lambs $6.50 to $6.85, light lambs $6.00 to $6.50, breeding ewes up to $5.75, fat ewes $4.25 to $5.00.

FIRE PREVENTION.

By S. W. INGLISH, Austin, State Fire Marshal.
 In recent years gasoline has caused more fires than inebriety has caused poverty. In every drop of gasoline there is written in letters of living fire the word "DANGER." There is no fool-proof gasoline. Gasoline requires more watching than the proverbial kicking mule. It harbors more destruction than a modern dreadnaught. Just a chance and gasoline will do more damage than a forty days' rain at harvest time. Gasoline is not a toy. It is not a plaything. It can do more destruction in ten seconds, if the opportunity is presented, than a thousand men can repair in a year. Never get around gasoline without thinking you have an invitation from eternity.

HISTORY OF TEXAS SOON GOES TO PRESS.

Secretary T. F. W. C. Urges Club Women and Others to Send Interesting Historical Facts About Texas.
 Do you know interesting facts in the history of Texas in which Hale County is the setting? A book, "Texas: Historical, Traditional, Legendary," is about to be published by the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. An appeal is made especially to club members and others to send in interesting bits of Texas history whose setting is their immediate county. If you have an item of interest send it in. The text of the final open letter by the editor of the book follows:
 To the Club Women of Texas, and Other Friends:
 This final Open Letter is addressed in behalf of those counties of our great State from which no data has as yet been received for my forthcoming book, "Texas: Historical, Traditional, Legendary," a work bearing the endorsement of the T. F. W. C., with pledges of the co-operation of our Club Women.
 But the procuring of requisite material has not been confined to Club Women alone, many Texas Women, not Club Women, and many able men, have also aided in this method of perpetuating the heretofore unwritten history and folk lore of our State.
 But others should become interested and lend their aid, hence the following individual appeal:
 Will you not take a personal interest in this matter to the end that your county will not fall of recognition in this book of Texas and for Texans?
 The different sources from which data has been gathered are, first, from the venerable pioneers so rapidly passing away, whose memories hold incidents of such vital importance that they should be made into permanent chronicles. Many deeds of daring and of rare courage were performed by heroes still unhonored, who should be justly accorded the high places they merited, along with others of the same era to whom history has already given prominence. The second source is found in research work relative to the presence in different sections of old landmarks—trees, ruined buildings, or mounds of earth or stone—or of decayed towns, in themselves now but a memory. What of old Washington on the Brazos, Indianola, historic Nashville? Around them any many other localities linger stories and legends of a once resplendent past which should be gathered and preserved. The third source is research work through old papers, letters and historical documents which might aid in this collection. The following suggestive outline, if referred to, will aid materially in selection and preparation of data:

 From whom or what was your county named? Give short biography or explanation.
 When was county created?
 With what original boundaries?
 What are they at present?
 Name the principal historical events in the making of your county, to include a short, comprehensive sketch of its pioneers—educational, industrial or otherwise; also brief sketch of your town, telling when incorporated and whence name derived.
 What men of fame in State or Nation count their birth-place within the borders of your county? For what distinguished?
 Give outlines of any legends or traditions in connection with your section of the State.
 December 31st of this year will constitute the time limit for the receipt of contributions. I hope that you will consider your county and community of sufficient importance not to be overlooked in a work of this import, whose success from the standpoint of interesting and valuable contents, furnished largely through the courtesies and generous assistance of loyal Texans, is already assured.

COTTON SACKS FOR FLOUR.

Special to The Herald.
 WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17.—In order to increase the demand for cotton, one of the largest flour-milling firms in America has directed its managers and salesmen all over the country to urge its customers to accept deliveries of flour that are shipped in cotton instead of jute sacks. Hitherto jute imported from India has been used extensively for shipments of flour, both to home and foreign markets. The sacks employed held 140 pounds each. If the trade can be induced to accept shipments in cotton sacks holding 98 pounds each, there will be a marked increase in the demand for home-grown cotton, and the action of the flour-milling firm is regarded as a long step in this direction. Anything that will improve the financial condition of the cotton growers, it is pointed out, will increase the volume of their cash purchases and thus benefit general business conditions. For this reason, it is believed that the trade will not insist on the jute sacks used hitherto.

LANDSLIDE TIES UP THE PANAMA CANAL.

Culebra Cut Again Blocked Up by Sliding Earth; Traffic May Be Held for Some Time.
 PANAMA, Oct. 15.—A serious landslide in the Culebra Cut at a late hour last night interrupted completely all traffic through the Panama Canal. Several ships in the canal have been unable to complete their passage. The reports indicate that there were earth movements on both sides into the channel from the slopes of Gold and Contractors hills, which are virtually opposite each other. Colonel Goethals and other officials are this morning making an examination of the extent of the damage. It is said that traffic through the canal probably will be interrupted for some time.
 Glad It Came So Soon.

THE AUTO IN THE FIELD.

It is quite a common sight in Texas to see farmers drive to the harvest fields in automobiles. It takes a solemn sum of money to buy an automobile, and it takes good roads, as well as gasoline, to run them. A joy ride in the harvest fields of this State is one of the most exhilarating experiences that is available on this continent and one that would charm a tourist and convince a home-seeker. A speedway lined with growing crops and blooded stock is a landscape that one seldom tours in a lifetime. In mapping out automobile routes the Texas harvest fields should be given prominent position. Why not a "See Rural Texas First" campaign?

Correct Pronunciation of Jaw Breaking Names

By CARLTON TEN EYCK.

Written for the United Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Pronouncing war names is the newest and most popular form of amusement in Manhattan these days. Some of the jaw-breakers and tongue-twisters uncovered for the first time by the European war have been given as many different pronunciations by the general public as a certain manufacturer has brands of pickles.

Therefore, an attempt has been made in the list which follows below to give the correct, or at least as nearly correct as possible, pronunciation of the names that one sees every day or two in stories of the conflict raging in Europe.

It should be borne in mind, however, that it is utterly impossible to indicate exactly the sounds employed in pronouncing some of the names. Some of them you can't describe in the English language.

Here's one for which a professor stands responsible: The French U sound (equivalent to the German U with the umlaut mark) has an equivalent in English. To make the sound purse the lips as though to say O, but say E instead. The combination produces the French sounding of U.

The French and Belgian names are, as a rule, accented on all syllables. To an American they would sound as though they were accented on the last syllable. The Austrian words are generally accented on the first syllable.

In the list below will be found some words marked nasal. To get the correct sound, for instance, in the French word mon (my), it is pronounced as though spelled mawn, the letter n, however, not being sounded, the word dying away with a nasal twang. It is as though the end of the word tried to creep out through your nose, but got stuck there. Following is the list of words, with the pronunciation given as clearly as possible:

U. S. SUPREME COURT CONVENES.

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 19.—Meeting to-day for the first time since the summer recess for the purpose of handing down decisions, the Supreme Court of the United States has a docket of already argued cases of great importance. None of the cases equals in interest several of those handed down last season. But there are a number of knotty problems in the settlement of which there is the most intense interest in a number of localities.

One of these is the Maryland "Grandfather" case. This law would not prevent negroes from voting for Federal officers, but in state and municipal elections provides that, among other things, a man can vote if his ancestors voted prior to January 1, 1865, or before negroes were enfranchised. This law was applied at Annapolis, capital of Maryland, and four negroes have appealed the case up to the Supreme Court. It is one of the most peculiar "Grandfather" clauses ever brought up to the Supreme Court, in that it does not bar negroes, even in its practical working out, from voting for President and Congressmen.

Another race question decision which will be handed down in the near future, probably, if not to-day, will be that on the Oklahoma "Jim Crow" law, providing that common carriers must provide separate compartments for white and black passengers.

A case in which men connected with big business are vitally interested is the case of George G. Henry versus U. S. Marshal Henkel, of New York. On this decision hangs the power of a Congressional committee to force an unwilling witness to testify before it. Henry was a partner in the firm of William Salomon & Co., Wall Street brokers. He refused to testify before the famous Jujo "Money Trust" investigation committee.

OBSERVE "PEGGY STEWART" DAY.

By United Press.
ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 19.—"Peggy Stewart" Day was celebrated to-day over all Maryland and Virginia by historical and patriotic societies, this being the anniversary of the burning in Annapolis harbor, October 19, 1774, of the brig "Peggy Stewart," because her owners paid a duty on a cargo of tea, which enraged Marylanders opposing the tea tax. To-day was also the anniversary of the surrender of General Cornwallis to General George Washington, in 1781, at Yorktown.

FEDERATION EXPECTED TO O. K. SUFFRAGE MOVE.

Rural school conditions, industrial education, and social hygiene are some of the other subjects to be taken up at the session of the convention, which closes October 22.

PACKERS TIRED OF BEING MADE "GOAT."

By United Press.
CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 19.—Resolutions deploring the tendency of the American people to blame the high cost of meats on the packers were certain of adoption when the American Meat Packers' Association opened its annual three-day convention in the Hotel La Salle to-day. The packers were prepared to show by statistics that the production of cattle has not kept pace with the increase in population and to shift the blame for high prices to the law of supply and demand.

COMMISSION OPENS RAILROAD HEARING.

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 19.—Hearings were begun to-day by the Interstate Commerce Commission upon the application of 132 railroads for a flat increase of 5 per cent in freight rates. Commerce conditions directly caused by the war was the sole scope of the evidence, as restricted by the Commission. Railroad presidents and counsel, in force, were arrayed to-day in the battle for increased rates against shippers' organizations and state railway commissioners.

Brief hearings only were planned to-day. The Commission will confine all testimony to "war" conditions, disregarding other elements of railroad finance considered in previous applications of the railroads for the 5 per cent horizontal advance. Because of the war the railroads contend their commerce has dwindled and their revenues have been greatly curtailed. Security obligations and improvements facing the railroads, it is contended, make necessary a rate increase.

FORMER N. Y. CENTRAL PRESIDENT ON TRIAL.

By United Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—W. C. Brown, former president of the New York Central Lines, and Thomas O'Gara, head of the big coal company that bears his name, were to be placed on trial here to-day before Federal Judge Landis, charged with violating interstate commerce laws.

Brown was indicted on the charge of permitting the giving of rebates to the O'Gara Coal Company, and O'Gara was accused at the same time of accepting the favors. The trial was originally set for the first of October, but Brown's attorneys were not ready to proceed.

LITTLEFIELD PEOPLE ATTEND SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Special to The Herald.
LITTLEFIELD, Lamb County, Tex., Oct. 19.—Littlefield was well represented at the Lamb County Sunday School Convention, which was held at Olton, the county seat, yesterday. A splendid program had been arranged for the entire day, the convention only recessing at the noon hour to enjoy a feast of good things served in picnic fashion. It was what is termed "preaching all day and dinner on the ground." In this case, however, the "preaching" consisted of many short addresses and round table discussions on various Sunday School topics. Those motoring over from Littlefield were: Mrs. L. E. Bowman, Misses Ola Page, Alice Kling, Fay Parsons, and Messrs. W. H. Willis, Clyde Willis, Guy Willis, Chas. Smith and C. J. Duggan.

Of multiplying my expense;
I'll wait till trade comes first."

At last this merchant, ill advised,
Had thought to do but fail;
And then the sheriff advertised

"A DRY GOODS STORE IN A BLOCK TO ITSELF"

HALE COUNTY IS FIRST AT WICHITA'S BIG FAIR

honor; the records say, of presenting the best county exhibit at the Forum; of getting the fourth prize as a state exhibit; of earning 12 blue ribbons, 6 red ribbons and one yellow one for fine farm products.

It is worthy of note also that the county has the distinction of winning sweepstakes for the best 20 heads of kafir corn exhibited at the Forum--Kansas not competing. This is considered a marvelous showing for a single county to make in a contest with the splendid exhibits of various other states represented here this week.

Hale County is about 80 miles south of Amarillo, Tex., and is in the heart of the Plainview Shallow Water district of the South Plains. Both irrigation and dry farming are successfully used in this county.

"I hope Texas will be inspired by the progressive spirit manifested by the citizens of Hale County and send an exhibit to Wichita in 1915 that will show every resource of the great State of Texas," said John Ferriter, head of the agricultural exhibits of the Congress, to-day.

Winnings at Texas State Fair.

The Plainview country has an enviable record of winnings at the great Texas State Fair, at Dallas. In 1913, seventy first and second prizes, more than all other competing counties in the classes entered, were won. There were thirty-seven firsts and thirty-three seconds. Owing to the distance, there was a small string of livestock entered. Two firsts, two seconds and two thirds were captured by this string.

In 1912 the Hale County exhibit won thirty-six firsts and sixteen seconds at the Texas State Fair. In 1911 out of twenty-seven entries there were won nineteen firsts and six seconds. In 1910 there were some sixteen premiums won.

First in Alfalfa Six Times.

For six consecutive years Hale County has had the best alfalfa shown at the Texas State Fair, at Dallas. At the Panhandle State Fair, 1913, Hale County won forty-nine first premiums, twenty-nine second premiums and one first premium.

Hale's exhibit was shown at the Oklahoma State Fair last year.

At Oklahoma State Fair.

Hale County's exhibit was shown at the Oklahoma State Fair this year. Under the rules of this fair, no exhibitors from other States were permitted to compete with Oklahoma exhibitors, subject to these rules, the Great Northern Railroad entered its exhibit of agricultural products, selected and assembled from the five northwestern states of Montana, Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Wyoming. Gilded and illuminated signs over this exhibit proclaimed to the world that the five states mentioned had contributed their best thereto. The exhibit is the result of several years of preparation, and is added to each year and entered at the state fairs throughout the country.

The Dominion of Canada also showed an exhibit of her agricultural products at the Oklahoma State Fair. This exhibit is furnished and maintained by the Canadian Government for the purpose of display throughout the United States.

In the contest with the exhibits of both the Great Northern Railroad, representing five states, and the entire Dominion of Canada, the Hale County exhibit was awarded the first premium, and this Blue Ribbon may be seen at their exhibit here.

Hale County also carried off first premium on single farm exhibit. This premium was awarded to J. O. Brown, who displayed 119 specimens of products raised by dry process.

Will Publish Winnings.

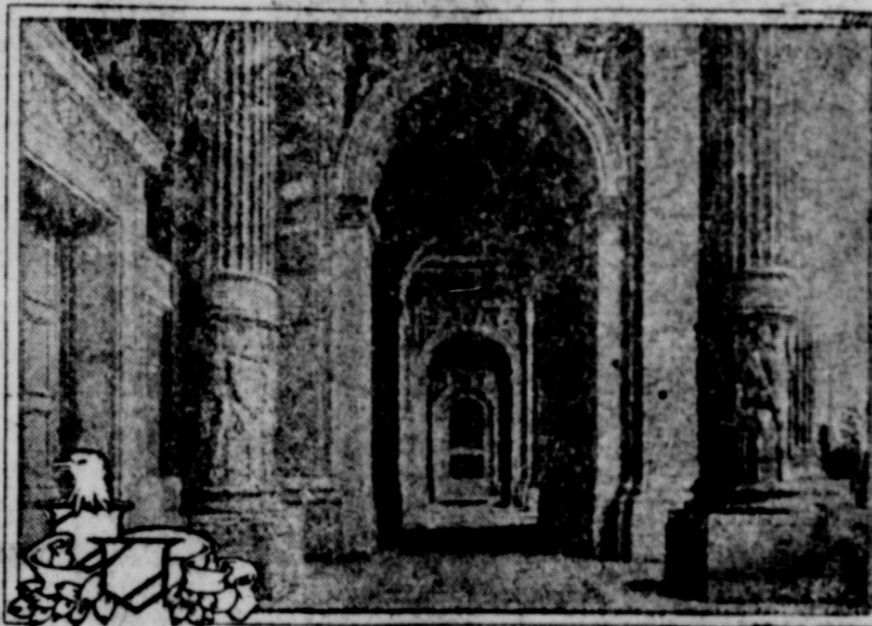

It is the plan of the Chamber of Commerce and Fair Association, under whose direction the exhibits are, to send the Hale County exhibits to different fairs over the country each year. It is a remarkable fact that Hale County wins a large number of premiums, wherever her products are entered. By selecting the largest fairs over the country and changing from year to year, the greatest publicity will be given the Plainview Shallow Water District.

Secretary O. M. Unger, of the Chamber of Commerce, is planning some extensive publicity of Hale County's winnings at fairs during the past few years.

Main Entrance to Palace of Machinery at Panama-Pacific International Exposition, 1915

Copyright, 1914, by Panama-Pacific International Exposition Co.

THE photographer was stationed at the most northern of the three arched portals constituting the main western entrance to the palace and turned his camera to the north. The huge columns adorning this entrance are of imitation Siena and are in warm contrast with the creamish gray of the "Trevi" plaster of which the walls are composed. The friezes at the base of the columns and the spandrels above the archways of the vestibule are the work of the sculptor Haig Patigian. In architectural style the Palace of Machinery is early Roman. The architect is Clarence K. Ward of San Francisco.
