Winter Care of The Garden

Department of Agriculture Gives Timely Hints on Care of Garden

Fall Fertilizers for Lawns.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 7.—To stimulate the growth of a lawn and to improve its appearance for the following spring, no better treatment can be recommended than the application of properly-rotted manure in the late fall, according to the United States Department of Agriculture's specialist. This application should not be made until after the frosts have stopped the growth of the grass. Ten to twenty two-horse loads should be applied to the acre, according as the soil is more or less rich.

It is most important that the manure should be thoroughly rotted before application, so that all weed seeds are killed; otherwise damage done by weeds will more than offset the fertilizing value of the application. Manure really needs careful handling before it is suited for spreading over the lawn. Unless it is properly "composted" it may have most of its valuable constituents destroyed by improper handling. To "compost" manure properly, it should be treated as follows:

Pile all manure in heaps with alternate layers of sod or other litter. Keep it wet enough so it will not burn. Let it stand a whole year, through summer and winter, forking it over two or three times during the year. It will then be ready for use on the lawns and danger from weed seeds will be minimized.

GROUND BONE MEAL AND WOOD ASHES.—Many people object to the use of manure at all, not only because of the danger of weed seeds, but because of its unsightly and insanitary appearance. These will undoubtedly prefer to use something else, and the most economical substitute is finely ground bone or bone meal. This should be applied at the rate of from 500 pounds to one ton per acre, according as the ground is more or less rich. It should cost between $25 and $30 a ton.

With the bone meal, it is desirable to use double the quantity of wood ashes. These ashes contain considerable lime in a very desirable form, as well as other valuable elements. However, they are apt to be more or less costly.

Ordinarily, MURIATE OF POTASH would be found more economical than wood ashes, although the potash does not contain the lime which the other fertilizer imparts to the soil. On account of the European war, the potash may prove more difficult to obtain than the wood ashes. Only one-tenth the quantity of potash should be used as of bone meal.

The potash may be sown separately or mixed with bone meal, as desired. The same is true of wood ashes if these are used instead of potash. All applications should be made before the ground freezes permanently for the winter, as otherwise the fertilizer may be largely washed from the soil before it has a chance to become incorporated with it.

In regions where COTTONSEED MEAL may be obtained at a price not over $25 per ton, it may be used satisfactorily in the place of the ground bone. TANKAGE AND FISH SCRAPS are even richer in important elements than ground bone, but are frequently in bad mechanical condition for handling (that is, they contain hair or other foreign coarse matter). Their bad odor also makes them objectionable.

PREPARED SHEEP MANURE is an excellent dressing. As it has been sterilized by drying and rendered odorless, there are not the objections to it that there might be to ordinary manure. Its one drawback is expense.

TO PROTECT WORN PLACES.—If there are any parts of the lawn which will be tramped over when they are not frozen, and especially when snow is melting there, these parts should be protected to prevent persons from cutting across. Tramping on the turf when it is covered by slush or snow is as destructive to a lawn as almost anything else.

It is hardly necessary to say that nothing will be gained by scattering grass seed on the lawn at this season.

PREPARING HORSES FOR WINTER.

Most horses turned out to rest after the hard season's work are losing flesh. Pastures are short, and the new fall growth of grass has little nourishment in it. The feed is getting poorer. When the first cornfield is husked and the stock turned in, there will be a few days of feast on the ears, and then a steady and rapid decline in the picking. This common corn-belt plan of preparing work horses for winter saves money in the fall, but it must all be paid back with interest before spring.

A thin horse suffers from cold and then demands more feed on which to exist than a fat horse. This winter hardship on thin horses reduces their vitality and doubtless shortens the period of their usefulness. Preparation for winter should include sufficient feed to keep the horses gaining steadily in flesh through the fall, so that cold weather finds them comfortably clothed with fat. The alfalfa fields of the West do this splendidly. After hay cutting is done for the season the horses gain rapidly on the nutritious aftermath and go into winter fat and in fine spirits. In marked contrast is the thin, rough-haired, listless appearance of the common run of corn-belt horses when winter comes on. More nutritious hay and grain constitute the remedy, so as to supply the necessary nourishment which the late pastures and stalkfields lack.

POISONOUS PLANTS ON WESTERN RANGES.

Some of the Principal Varieties That Cause Heavy Losses to Stockmen in the West.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 7.—Six of the poisonous plants that cause the heaviest losses of live stock on Western ranges are described with the aid of full-page photographs in a circular just published by the United States Department of Agriculture, under the title "Principal Poisonous Plants of the Western Stock Ranges."

Despite the damage that these plants do every year, there are many stockmen who do not recognize them, and in consequence are unable to protect their stock effectively from being poisoned by them. It is probable that there are on the ranges a large number of poisonous plants, but the heaviest losses are those produced by the plants named in the circular. These are the zygadenus or death camas, the lupine, the rattlesnake or white loco (one of the worst of the many varieties of loco plants), the tall larkspur, the low larkspur and the cicuta or water hemlock. Of these the cicuta is dangerous to man, causing violent convulsions and even death. The root of it, however, is the only poisonous part. In the case of the other plants, with the exception of the lupine, all parts are poisonous to stock. Both the tall and the low larkspur lose their poisonous qualities after blossoming.

The illustrations in the circular are accompanied by brief descriptions of the plant which should enable the stockman to identify them readily. The symptoms to each form of poisoning and the remedy, when there is one, are also set forth.

SIT TIGHT! DON'T ROCK THE BOAT!

Sit tight! Don't rock the boat! That's the watchword to-day. That's the first duty of every American at this moment. That's what this country needs to keep it straight and safe and true to its course—absolutely all it needs.

Business conditions are sound. We have one of the greatest grain crops in history. Its value has already greatly advanced. We have a sound financial system, backed by the greatest store of gold in the world. Our banks are solid, safe. There is nothing the matter with the United States.

War will mean an unprecedented demand for supplies. Experts declare American business will feel a great impetus. While other nations destroy, this country will produce. While other nations are armed camps, this country will be a farm, a factory, a forge. Trade extension is predicted in all directions. The immediate future is plain.

The national administration is acting wisely, promptly. The sum of $500,000,000 is available, under the Aldrich-Vreeland act, for an emergency. The organization of the reserve board will soon be complete. This will enable us to deal more effectively with the outflow of gold. Plans are perfecting to permit American registry of foreign vessels. This will protect and develop our commerce.

We are preparing to maintain strict neutrality. Questions may arise with foreign nations as to what constitutes contraband. Such questions cannot conceivably involve us in difficulties. They will be settled by the ordinary processes. The general principles of neutrality and neutral commerce are plain. The United States will adhere rigorously to them. Friendly intercourse, as far as circumstances permit, will be its rule and its procedure.

Stock exchanges have closed—a wise precaution. This country cannot be the dumping-ground of the whole body of securities that war-mad Europe is anxious to convert into money. The closing is temporary. Elsewhere there is no prospect of interference with the orderly processes of American business. Stable conditions are here. All we have to do is to keep them stable.

The administration has decided to appeal to the public to help maintain existing satisfactory conditions. The public cannot fail to respond. The only danger is one which it may create itself. Its course is simple. All it has to do is to sit tight, to do nothing to disrupt the fortunate condition in which this country finds itself.

Don't rock the boat—that's the central idea! The swell from the great battleship, "Europe," will be felt. But it will not hurt us. It need not even break over the sides. There's nothing the matter with the boat that we are in. Straight and strong, well-scamed, well-caulked, well-timbered, with reasonable guidance it will bear us safely and prosperously through.

Sit tight! Don't rock the boat! Keep its head well up against the sea! Don't let it get into the trough of the waves! Let every man realize that at this moment calm confidence and calm thankfulness are the first duty. They are absolutely justified by the favorable situation in which we find ourselves. They are the certain guarantee of a continuance of those conditions.—Chicago Herald.

HANDMADE ARTICLES ARE USEFUL GIFTS

Women Can Make Pretty Things With the Crochet Hook.

WITH a spool of cotton or linen, a crochet hook, some time and perseverance, many beautiful Christmas gifts can be made by the woman who has a desire to give and very little money to gratify her desire. The lace collar illustrated here, while it may appear elaborate, is, in fact, quite within the accomplishment of the fairly skilled worker with the crochet hook.

shop. With this will come directions for crocheting. This is a standard pattern of rose crochet, and all shops keep it. Any other pattern which would be simpler to execute would be just as acceptable to the recipient of the gift.

This is only a Christmas suggestion should you be in despair, as so many women are at holiday time, what to give one's best friend, who simply must be remembered.

Or if a bag be preferred to a collar here are two to select from, and if the girl or woman who receives one is not pleased she will be a very difficult person, indeed.

The bag in this illustration is of the beautiful grape pattern, not difficult to execute, but very showy with its leaves in solid crochet and its fruit, little round crochet balls. Milady could use it through the winter in a variety of ways—as a theater bag, a bridge bag, for handkerchief, powder puff, the inevitable vanity mirror or as a pretty case for her fancy work, for the bit of embroidery which must not be soiled in the making.

Then when summer comes, if the bag has survived the vicissitudes of the winter months, it can be carried with dainty summer dresses. So do not fear that your gift of a bag will not be found useful and acceptable. The fertile brain of the woman who receives it will devise many uses for it.

There is still another bag which would make a pretty case for handkerchiefs. Lined with a dainty shade of taffeta and with a sachet bag tucked away inside, scented with the recipient's favorite scent, this would be an ideal gift. And used as a handkerchief case in the intimacy of your friend's boudoir it would pleasantly serve to remind her of the donor many times a day.

Bootees For Baby.

A pair of wee bootees will be welcomed. They may be made of any soft cloth, kid or chamois, bound with baby ribbon and finished with bows of ribbon, with ribbon ties at the ankle. The soles are sewed to the uppers when wrong side out, and then the shoe is turned.

USEFUL GIFTS.

When Making Presents Combine the Beautiful With the Practical.

That the useful may be beautiful no one will deny; that the cap illustrated here are both will also be admitted. No girl ever has too great a supply of these fascinating articles of wearing apparel and on Christmas morning will be pleased to see one or more among her list of gifts.

The cap shown at the top of the illustration might be called a "fools-cap." It has a long peak which is turned over upon the cap and fastened to the side with little pink buds of chiffon.

TWO FAVORITE CAPS.

fon. The cap is of white frilled net with a liberal sprinkling of the pink chiffon buds.

The one pictured below is not quite so frivolous. It is developed with a band of embroidery from which a ruffle flares in a coquettish manner. The inner part of the cap is made of net.

Another style not illustrated is to take a square of dotted net about a foot across. Trim off the corners; then to the circle stitch baby blue ribbon of the narrowest sort so as to form squares about an inch across. A ruffle of net bordered with the baby blue ribbon completes a pretty and useful boudoir cap.

USEFUL GIFTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Embroidered Household Linens Always Welcome Presents.

WHO ever knew a housewife who was not greedy to add more and more and still more to her linen chest? Embroidery appears to be the favorite garniture, as it wears just as well as the material upon which it is worked. Hemstitching, while pretty, has fallen of late somewhat into disuse by astute housekeepers, who find that their sheets and pillowcases, towels, etc., that were

In the case of the embroidered articles experience has taught that the embroidery oftentimes outlasted the other parts. Illustrated here is a pattern for a pillowslip which would be equally handsome for sheets and pillowcases and towels. A pretty monogram is an ideal decoration for linens and, by the way, is considered very swagger for a woman's lingerie as well. If you wish to give a friend great pleasure upon Christmas day present her with a piece of hand embroidered linen. The centerpiece and doily pictured here are rather elaborate, but would make an exquisite Christmas present—say, the centerpiece and a half dozen doilies. They are made of linen, the edges decorated with the fashionable cutwork, which is a very handsome finish. Any fancy workshop will supply patterns and directions for making this pretty garniture.

RUSSIANS AGAIN HOLD KAISER'S GAME PRESERVE.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Emperor William's thirty miles of barbed-wire fence around his big game preserve at Rominten is now in the possession of his enemies. Early in the war the Russians held the preserve. There are thirty miles of barbed wire fence around the stock farm and game preserve.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR THE FRIVOLOUS

Articles Not So Very Useful, but Unique and Pretty.

THE tango garters illustrated here are made of satin ribbon shirred over rubber elastic. The pair at the top of the illustration are ornamented with French knots in a contrasting shade of silk floss.

The pair shown in the middle of the picture were made the same way, only trimmed differently. Tiny rosettes of ribbon with ribbon pendants were used in this development, but the ones below are the prettiest of all.

This pair were made of pale blue satin ribbon, with tiny pink rosebuds of chiffon and leaves of twists of green taffeta ribbon ornamenting them. By a deft handling of the chiffon and taffeta ribbon roses and leaves may be charmingly simulated.

The purses pictured are unique in the extreme. They are to be crocheted of coarse purse silk. First a chain of twenty stitches is crocheted and joined together. From that the circle is worked to the size of a twenty-five cent piece, though these purses are meant only for small change, like five and ten cent pieces. To the crocheted circles is attached a crocheted flap, which is made to button over the tiny buttons attached to one side to hold in the change. The purse is to be slipped into the glove, and another flap is buttoned to the glove button. When milady sallies forth with immaculate kid gloves upon her hands the fingers of them will not be soiled by fumbling with purse fasteners, and her car fare will not slip upon the floor of the car at an inopportune time.

Paper Weight of Glass and Shells.

A paper weight that is beautiful is made by artistically arranging tiny seashells and mosses together and putting them beneath glass. These glasses can be bought either oval or square, and they magnify whatever is put beneath them. Take your glass and cut a piece of cardboard the size of the hollow in the glass, and to this cardboard affix as neatly as possible the tiny sprays of moss and shell flowers. Have your variety of the smallest shells handy, also a candle and beeswax, and handle your shells with tweezers. Pick up a little shell with the tweezers and put the coarser end of it in the flame of the candle just long enough for it to get warm; then have your wax made into little round wads, put the shells into this while they are warm, and when they are cold they will rest perfectly solid. With the little rose leaf shells you can put these leaves in one at a time until you have a perfect little flower. The cardboard is covered with little shell flowers, and pretty ends of mosses are put into the glass and the bottom covered with felt. This is beautiful and makes a useful paper weight as well.

NOVELTIES IN THE SHOPS.

With Wide Array to Choose From Gift Selection is Easy.

In novelties there are the pendants in jade, quartz, malachite and lapis. Though to be had in the real stones at great cost, these manufactured semi-precious stones call for an expert's skill to be distinguished from the real.

Other pretty novelties are the rhinestone drops worn on exceedingly thin gold chains; likewise the delicate flowers, such as pansies, violets, etc., delicately enameled on silver. Some of these are made so they can be worn either as brooches or pendants.

Garnets and jets are among the old fashioned stones once again popular. Garnets make pretty color pins when set in the long thin bars. In brooches they are set as four leaf clovers and roses.

The jet pins are also worn with the large pieces cut oval and oblong or set in flowers and many geometrical designs, such as stars, crosses, etc.

Stockings were never so exquisite before. From the display seen in the shops it would seem as though spiders instead of heavy looms had woven some of the delicate and beautiful hosiery. The most fashionable colors are the london smoke, copenhagen and other blues and greens.

The mere mentioning of delicate stockings suggests dainty slipper buckles. And, though some of these buckles are beautiful and wonderfully artistic, decidedly pretty rhinestone buckles and sterling silver shoe buckles are displayed as low as $1.

Both Doll and Penwiper.

A penwiper is made by taking any little doll with a pretty face and dressing it in black. Make the skirt long and of heavy black material, so heavy that the doll will stand alone, and across her shoulders pin a tiny white handkerchief. Next put a little white apron on her, and then paste a little white cap on her head and you will have a neat little nurse. If you have sleeves in the doll dress it is a good idea to sew a Red Cross badge on. Make the skirts suitable for the penwiper.

ENGLAND BUYS CHICAGO EGGS.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 6.—Arrangements have been completed for the purchase and shipment of all available storage eggs in Chicago. In a shipment made a few days ago there were six hundred thousand eggs. The buyers bought for English merchants.

POWDER PUFF BAG.

This Will Be an Easily Made but a Much Prized Yuletide Gift.

Even in winter milady's dainty nose needs its dash of powder between acts at the theater, upon a shopping tour at the tea dansant or the ball or dinner in the evening. At all these times the powder puff must be concealed in some little receptacle which can be got at easily. This bag pictured here could be tucked away in milady's bodice, slipped in her shopping bag or even in her hat if there were no other place convenient, it is so tiny and of course daintily perfumed from the powder used. It ties very tightly so the powder cannot sift out.

This bag would make a charming and useful gift for a friend. It could be developed in the dainty Dresden ribbon, so much in vogue, or usually one has odds and ends of satin or silk. It is simply a circle of material with a hem sewed in and a drawstring run through. It could be made in an hour.

CHARMING NEGLIGEE.

Gifts Which One May Give to an Intimate Friend.

A pretty dressing jacket may be pieced together of ribbons, flowered being combined with plain taffeta ribbon in various widths, as shown in the illustration. The round collar band is made of shirred ribbon, which is brought down the front of the garment.

Dresden ribbon is also used to make dainty boudoir slippers.

Purchase leather soles the desired size that have a quilted satin lining, then sew together two widths of ribbon the length of the measurement around each sole. Run rows of shirring across that portion that forms the toe covering and fold the other half of the ribbon over. Sew securely to the sole binding.

Three small rosettes of narrow ribbon trim each slipper.

ORIGIN OF ONYX.

When waters charged with carbonate of calcium derived from limestone are allowed to evaporate they deposit their load in the form of sinter or tufa. This process can be observed at many thermal and "petrifying" springs and also in the formation of stalactites and stalagmites in limestone caverns. In this way large masses of compact carbonate are formed, some of them of great beauty. The so-called "onyx marbles," of which the Mexican "onyx" is a familiar example, are formed in this way. Some rock of this class is stalagmitic, in caverns, and some of it is formed by springs. Its variations in color and texture, to which its ornamental character is largely due, are commonly produced by impurities or inclusions, such as oxide of iron, or even mud and clay.

HOWL AND CALAMITY WILL ANSWER.

Destructive criticism can destroy confidence and help to make "hard times." A soundly informed and constructive public opinion can do much toward averting "hard times."

An economist has said: "Panics are seldom logical, generally psychological." This is true to a remarkable extent with the general business of a country. Individually—let a person get a notion that trade is restrained in the centers, that money is tight; let him believe that conservatism on the part of banks and bankers indicates approaching disaster, and he can howl calamity with a degree of certainty, to himself, and an air of precision that will soon convince others that he is right, if the conditions that exist are not carefully studied.

When the European war broke out, international commerce began to show more conservatism in its movements. A readjustment of the Nation's financial institutions and currency system had previously made the banks conservative. The newspapers were full of talk of currency reform, some of it partisan and biased; some of it made purely for political purposes in anticipation of the November elections. The party in power had promised reforms along lines that would naturally be expected to affect trade channels to an extent. Even those who helped elect the incumbents in Congress were doubtful about some of the legislation passed. A flurry followed. It has subsided.

Manufacturers immediately took advantage of the war scarce to get extortionate prices. Federal and State investigations, proposed or executed, soon set things right. That flurry is now an incident.

Conditions, which have seemed to those easily excited disastrous, have been met with sane, practical solutions which have given all relief that necessity has demanded. Our real economic situation has been brought more nearly to conform with fundamentally correct principles than ever before.

The regional bank and currency reform were looked upon at first suspiciously, and many saw a hint of disaster in their introduction. But the plan was worked out with the assistance of the best technical banking experts of the country and after a careful study of the banking systems of the world. The spirit in which the banks have accepted seems to show that the first flurry was only incidental.

Think of the real situation before you form a conclusion on any event. Remember that the popular attitude toward any economic situation will affect your business; value conservatism; discount dependency and fear. The immediate impression of an event is psychological and often deceptive. Read deep, and analyze the situation before you act.

It is an easy matter to express an impulse before a conclusion has been reached.

LARGE GERMAN SIEGE GUNS ON ISLAND IN NORTH SEA.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Reports from Amsterdam say that the Germans have placed large 42-centimeter siege guns on Borkum Island, in the North Sea. This is the most southerly of a string of islands that skirt the German coast from Cuxhaven to the mouth of the Ems River. The strategic value of Borkum, which is six miles long and two miles wide, lies in the fact that it commands the estuary of the Ems, and might perhaps be used as a submarine base and also in defense of East Frisland.

RICHARDS BROS. & COLLIER BANQUET EMPLOYEES AT STORE.

Feast at Rich-lier Store and Party at Reading of "Blue Bird" Features of Entertainment.

Last night at the Rich-lier Store Richards Bros. & Collier gave to their employees a dinner royal, which was so home-like and beautiful in its appointment that it seemed more like a large family affair.

"How much like Thanksgiving," said one of the guests, as they sat down. "And Christmas, too," said another, as the turkey and cranberries came into view.

T. E. Richards, senior member of the firm, gave a short talk and invocation at the opening of the feast. Afterward the guests were taken to the Baptist Church, where seats had been reserved. There "The Blue Bird," told in story in all its mystical beauty by Mrs. Jua Sonstegard King, was enjoyed.

The dinner, including salads, ices and coffee, was prepared and served by Mesdames T. E. Richards, D. H. Collier, J. W. Richards and T. O. Collier.

The members of the store force who enjoyed this cordial hospitality were Mrs. Minnie Hart, Mrs. Olive Russell, Misses Rebecca Ansley, Myrtle Higgins, Leona Bates, Willie Farmer and Lillie Cole, and Messrs. Oscar Collier, Caswell Franklin, Guy Ivey and Will Spear.

Later the Masonic brothers put on a moving picture slide showing the emblems and signs of the order.

A number were present, enjoying the pleasure presented to them by Miss Joe Keck, Worthy Matron, and her associates.

The play is taken from the novel "The Conjuror's House," by Stewart Edward White, and is fascinating from beginning to end.

FAMOUS AUTHOR DRAWS VIVID PICTURE OF WAR.

Cyrus Townsend Brady Makes It Clear to Boys What Every Battle Means.

"Playing soldier" is still a favorite game. "Being soldier" is not quite so amusing," says Cyrus Townsend Brady, the famous author, in an article on "What War Is—Just One Battle" in the war number of Boys' Life, the Boy Scouts' official magazine. It was Dr. Brady's desire to help the boys of America to understand the true nature of war and its consequences. His graphic pen has given a picture startlingly vivid—one that adults will read with as much interest as boys.

In the course of his illuminating story, Dr. Brady says:

"War affects first the land or country in which it is carried on; second, the non-combatants who reside there, the women and children; third, the soldiers themselves. Let us consider for a moment a country over which contending armies have already marched or fought and where they are to fight again. It will be a devastated land, cities will be burned, towns depopulated, villages razed, forests cut down, crops destroyed, industries wrecked.

Bringing It Home to Him.

"Every boy lives in a house; let him think of the results of the explosion of a shell in the center of it. The dwellers are either in flight, or if at home, killed; the explosion has torn the house to pieces, all the furniture and household belongings, the hallowed family treasures that have not been shattered have been destroyed by the resulting fire. If the house has a garden it has been uprooted; the dog is dead, shot or stabbed; the whole place is ruined. If there is a farm attached, the standing crops have been destroyed by being trampled under foot. The trees under which he played have been cut down to make palisades, or to delay movements, or to destroy cover; the limpid brook has become a muddy morass where men and horses have passed. Broken wagons, smashed implements, shattered cars, abandoned cannon abound on all sides. The once smiling land is a desert. And there is death everywhere—dead cattle, dead horses, dead soldiers, dead women, dead children.

How the Innocent Suffer.

"Before the battle, highways are crowded with people; old men and women, mothers carrying little babies, children clinging to grandfathers' hands, all fleeing from the army of the enemy. No band plays, there are no brilliant uniforms to be seen, there is nothing to eat, no water to drink, the roads are thick with dust. It is summer and fearfully hot, yet there are clouds in the sky—clouds of smoke from burning buildings, houses, factories, towns. "Shells aimed across the valley at the defenders fall short and explode among the fugitives. They make great gaps in the flying crowds, but they close up and press on; they must get out of the valley away from the line of fire of the contending armies at any cost. The dead are thrust aside, the wounded are left to suffer, the weak fall by the way. Children are born by the wayside; their wailing mingles with the groaning and clamor while the great mass struggles painfully on.

"These are all innocent people. They have done nothing to provoke this. They can do no fighting. They are leaving behind them all that they have gained in a lifetime of toil, and going they know not where, to what sadder fate they cannot tell.

"And who are driving them from their homes, who are killing them on the way, not wilfully, perhaps, but unavoidably? The soldiers! Truly a pleasant trade. It is the business of the soldier to kill and destroy; that really is his only business, that is what his training is for; just that and nothing else. Dress-parading is a side issue.

Figures You Can Comprehend.

"How can I make the boys of America realize the number lost in this comparatively insignificant engagement in modern warfare which hardly has a name? The other day I saw the New York Giants and the Boston Braves play ball at the Polo Grounds in New York. The lower grand stand was filled with 20,000 people. That many, and it may be half again as many, men are lying on that field dead or helplessly wounded. Most of my Boy Scout readers go to church. It is a large congregation that numbers 500. Every regiment has lost that many persons killed and wounded on an average. I am talking of the seriously wounded now. There are always hundreds and even thousands who are cut, bruised, grazed, scratched, sprained, wrenched and otherwise hurt who are not counted. When a boy gets hurt in work or play he knows how helpful is the sympathy and aid of his fellow Scouts, how sweet the care of his mother. Nobody is helping the wounded between the lines. The valley is still swept with fire. It is impossible to go there. The wounded envy the dead. The groans and shrieks or appeals of the wounded are heard above the awful din—and, most horrible of sounds, the screams of wounded horses, poor, unwitting victims of the savagery of man.

"Back home mothers, wives, sisters, sons and daughters in heart-breaking tension, wait for news from the field. Suppose your father or brother were there!

What Grant Prayer For.

"What," asked a woman of the Duke of Wellington, "is more terrible than a great defeat?"

"Nothing, madam," replied the great soldier thoughtfully, "unless it be a great victory!"

"The man who knew most about war in America lies buried on the banks of the Hudson. His tomb bears the wish that was nearest to his heart. 'Let us have peace.' Why did General Grant, great soldier that he was, make that prayer? Because he knew what war is—what every battle means."

MORE LAND FOR FARMERS.

Planting of Legumes Will Reclaim Depleted Land, Supplying Humus to the Soil.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 7.—Because of the low price of cotton, a decrease in cotton acreage and an increase in corn acreage is to be expected in the South. This means that fewer laborers will be needed per acre and if more land is not brought under the plow the drift of the negro population to the cities will be accelerated.

Use of Legumes on Land.

Fortunately, there are now in the South vast areas of excellent land ready to be utilized. This is the land that has been depleted of humus and allowed to go back to scrub pines and broomsedge. In many of the Southern States, indeed, the forest has actually been encroaching upon the cultivated land. This reforestation is nature's method of recuperation, but a more general use of winter legumes would have rendered it unnecessary. It is safe to say that had the efficacy of winter legumes in restoring humus to depleted land been as thoroughly recognized in the past as it is to-day, the mistake of permitting reforestation would never have been made. Present conditions, however, by making desirable an increase in the total area of tilled land, afford an excellent opportunity for remedying this error. Clearing-off of the reforested areas will not only relieve the present situation and hold labor on the farms, but it will pave the way for a more economic utilization of labor and a greater diversity of crops after the cotton market has returned to its normal condition.

TEXAS INDUSTRIAL CONGRESS CONTEST WILL INCLUDE HOME GARDENS.

Work in Garden by Children Will Develop Physically and Be More Productive Than Indoor Work.

In connection with its competitive contests next year for the largest net profits per acre from corn, cotton, kaffir, milo, feterita, peanuts, cowpeas, wheat, oats, barley, baby beeves and hogs, the Texas Industrial Congress is planning to offer prizes in a home-gardening contest in town and country.

The plan contemplates conducting the contest as far as possible in connection with the city and country schools, although boys and girls not attending school will also be enrolled. Dr. P. P. Claxton, of the U. S. Bureau of Education, is strongly in favor of gardening in connection with the schools, saying that with proper direction the average child can produce on an eighth of an acre from $50 to $100 worth of vegetables, adding "more to the support of the family than can be purchased with the same child's wages, working in factory, shop or mill." Dr. Claxton also says that "if children can contribute to the family's support while in school, it will make it possible for them to attend three or four years longer than they now do"—a consideration of great importance in Texas, where so small a proportion of children graduate in the high school studies.

Agricultural instruction in the Texas rural schools is in a more or less formative stage, and the aim is, or

HALLMARK

Stands for Economy to Merchant and Public

It stands for service.
It stands for honor.
It stands for high quality.
It stands for lower prices.

WHY?

HALLMARK is the trademark of a co-operative company owned by leading retail jewelers of the United States, only one in each city and town. The purpose is to produce the highest grade Jewelry, Silverware and kindred articles bearing the trademark HALLMARK for sale only in the stores of the stockholders. By the co-operation of these retail jewelers each article is produced in large quantities, lessening manufacturing cost. The manufacturing is under the direct supervision of the company, insuring a high standard of quality and exclusiveness of design. The business is managed by a board of directors composed of retail jewelers, and the distribution of merchandise is much more economical than is possible under old methods. PETERSON'S is the HALLMARK store in Plainview, and HALLMARK wares may be obtained only at this store.

should be, to work toward a better development in this respect. The Texas Industrial Congress very much desires that its home-gardening contest shall prove of benefit in bringing this result about.

While the details are yet to be worked out, some of the purposes of the Congress in adding this feature to its work may be stated.

Garden Work Profitable.

In a bulletin of the Congress entitled "A Living at Home," the importance of the garden in the income of the farm family is given its due weight, but nothing is said as to the part a home garden plays in the economy of city family life. Yet there is no investment of the same time and labor that will pay bigger cash dividends than the garden, and almost every family can have one. The returns in better health from out-door exercise in man's most ancient employment and from a food supply made better by the addition of the right vegetables are in addition to a considerable monthly saving of family expense. In almost every city home there is a back yard that may be put to better uses than serving as a receptacle for garbage, and if the family is so unfortunate as to be domiciled in apartments on an upper floor, there are always vacant lots within a short distance that the owners would undoubtedly prefer to have planted in a garden rather than growing up in unsightly, unhealthy patches of weeds. If the vacant spaces in the cities of this State were utilized for beneficial purposes instead of serving, as many of them do, for garbage repositories, waste catchers, and parking places for weeds, nettles, and mosquitoes, there would not only be an appreciable gain in the food supply, but great improvement in the appearance of the streets, an increase in property values, and a change for the better in public health.

Effort will be made by the Congress to make the home-garden contest of service to canning-club work, and, as far as possible, to the work carried on by the College of Industrial Arts, the State University, A. & M. College, and the Departments of Education and Agriculture.

SWINE IN INCREASED FERTILITY.

By A. L. WARD.

If each of you will at a glance pass in review all that you have heard said about increasing soil fertility, or even maintaining the fertility, and if I were to ask you to briefly state the main theme of all that was said, I am sure that nine out of ten would say, "Grow legumes; raise live stock." "Apply barnyard manure." We all know legumes may be depended upon to restore humus and nitrogen and portions of phosphoric acid and potash to depleted soils. There are three methods of utilizing them for this purpose. The first is to turn under the green crops. This is good, but a serious objection to a green manure lies in the fact that it must ordinarily take the place of a regular crop, so that the income from the land is lost for the season.

The second is to feed the live stock and return all of the manure and possibly some phosphoric acid and potash in addition. This, too, is good, but considerable labor is involved and necessarily there is loss of plant food from the manure in the storing and handling.

The third method, and without doubt the most economical and surest means of getting the maximum of the plant food voided by the animals, is to grow the crop and turn the live stock in on them. This, of course, applies to all crops, and not only to legumes, although the excreta from stock fed on legumes is worth more as a fertilizer than the excreta resulting from the feeding of any other crop. This is borne out by the fact that a ton of cowpea hay has 43 pounds of nitrogen, 5 pounds of phosphoric acid and 33 pounds of potash, worth about 15 cents, 6 cents and 6 cents, respectively, a total of $9.03. In a ton of alfalfa hay we have plant food valued at about $9.42. Other feed stuffs have a fertilizing value as follows: Corn meal, $5.66; gluten meal, $15.53; cottonseed meal, $26.16; meat scraps, $35.69; wheat, $8.49; oats, $6.70; skimmed milk, $2.11; wheat bran, $12.30; wheat shorts, $10.50.

Now, in order to find the amount of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash which may be expected in manure or excrement, it is necessary to simply subtract from that contained in the food that retained by the animal body. This is the part which is exceptionally interesting to us as swine breeders, and should concern all pork producers and farmers. Just as a general rule and for rough estimates, we find that a food stuff passed through an animal is worth 75 per cent to 95 per cent of its original value as a fertilizer alone. Hence, if it is used as a feedstuff and the manure or excrement is lost, advantage is secured only by the feeding value of the material. If it is used only as a fertilizer, as is often the case with cottonseed meal, no advantage is secured from the fertilizing value. The quantity of the fertilizing constituents of feeding stuffs retained by a fattening animal is comparatively small. Young and growing animals consume larger proportions and milk cows use a certain amount in their milk, but a considerable part of the fertilizing value of the feed still passes into the excrements.

Our experiment station at College Station by experiments with fattening steers found that 42 per cent of the fertilizing value of the feedstuff is excreted in the solid excrement, while 53 per cent of the total value of the feeding stuff is excreted in the urine. Accordingly, if the solid excrement is saved, there is a saving of about 42 per cent of the fertilizing value of the feeding stuff. If the urine is saved in addition, there is a saving of 95 per cent of the fertilizing value. The saving of the urine is a point that I will call special attention to later; it concerns us as hog men. In other words, if a ton of cottonseed meal is fed, having a fertilizing value of $29.50, the proportion of its fertility which goes into the solid excrement has a value of $12.29. That portion of its fertility which goes into the urine has a value of about $15.

Bear in mind that these figures were for fattening steers. Now in or-or excreta of the various farm animals I submit the results obtained by the New York Cornell Station. Value per ton of manure, sheep, $3.30; hogs, $3.29; horses, $2.21; calves, $2.18; cows, $2.02. The same station gives the amount and value of manure produced per 1,000 pounds live weight per year as follows: Hogs, $37.96; cows, $39.27; horses, $27.74; sheep, $26.09; calves, $24.45. These figures show that as regards amount and value of manure produced for an equal amount of live weight, hogs stand first, cows second, horses third and sheep fourth.

It is a fact often lost sight of in practice that the urine of animals is often the most valuable part of the excreta. Nitrogen is by far the most expensive of the fertilizer constituents, and analysis shows that one-third of the nitrogen passed out by the hogs is found in the liquid excrement. Another point that we must emphasize is that manures and excrements not only contain plant food, but they supply the soil with organic matter, humus, which is very necessary to enable the soil to maintain in good condition. You all know that it improves the tilth of the soil; holds together loose and sandy soils; absorbs plant foods and solids in solution, and which might otherwise be lost by leaching; promotes chemical action in the soil, by which means mineral matter is converted into plant food; dissolves plant food by virtue of the presence of carbonic acid gas in the humus, so that it can be taken up by the roots of the plant, and it retains moisture in the soil for use of plants in the time of drouth, and thus often saves a crop.

Now, we have shown that the hog produces the greatest value of fertilizer for his weight of any other farm animal. Now let us see if our methods of handling him enable us to get as full value from him as given amount of his excrements as we would from any other live stock. Our horses and cows spend one-third to one-half of the time in the stable or lot, where it is necessary to collect the excrements as manure and either haul it directly to the field or else pile it in a manure heap, and later convey it to the field. In both cases considerable labor is involved, and unless the excreta is caught on the very best of thick bedding a very valuable part of the liquid is lost at once. And in case it is put in a manure heap future deterioration takes place by fermentation processes and leaching. What is the case with the hog? Here in the South our hogs are in the field practically all of the time. When it gets too cold the hog seeks shelter in the small hog house which is erected in the field. This month he may be in pasture No. 1, next month in pasture No. 2, and so on, always in the field, where they are not only depositing all but about five per cent of the nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash taken up by the crop just grown, but in addition about 95 per cent of the nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash being given them as a supplement to the pasture.

In this instance, you see at once that no labor is necessary to convey the fertilizer to the field, no fears need be entertained about losses from leaching, fermentation, etc. Again, more humus is added to the soil, for in the process of rotting in a heap a portion of the organic matter is destroyed.

Therefore, by this means, and this means alone, will the farmer and hog raiser get the fullest value of his crop as a feed stuff and a fertilizer and at the same time increase the soil fertility without cost.

BRAVER THINGS THAN WAR.

Making Soldiers Out of Them the Poorest Use a Nation Can Ever Make of Its Boys, Says Dr. Jordan.

"I have just come back from Europe, where every nation has made a soldier out of every man fit to bear arms," writes David Starr Jordan, Chancellor of Stanford University, in the leading article in the November issue of Boys' Life, the Boy Scouts official magazine. "And now the whole continent is impoverished and starving while its rivers run with blood of young men who have been killed by other young men, who had no quarrel with them at all."

"It is a soldier's business to fight and kill or to stand up against other soldiers who are forced to fight and kill. It is a Boy Scout's business to help and to save, to make this world a better place for good men and women and boys to live in. It costs $40,000 for every man who is killed in battle, and this amount must be paid in 150 years' work for each one of the farmers and workmen who make up the armies of Europe. And we who are outside of Europe may be most thankful that we were born a republic where no man is made a soldier against his will."

"Just a word to the Boy Scouts of America as to what they are doing and why they are doing it. It is not that we want to make soldiers of you. That is about the poorest use a nation ever made of its young men. There must be soldiers, sometimes, even in our great republic, but they are called to fight only when some men who ought to know better have made some awful blunder."

"We want you, Boy Scouts, for braver things than war. We want to make men of you, strong, kind, alert, vigorous, helpful men, useful to yourselves, to your neighbors, to your country and to the world. For the world-to-day is one great nation, and whatever helps or hurts one part of it aids or injures all. Once in a great while the world needs soldiers. It needs you all the time as boys and as men, and it wants you clear-eyed, wholesome and high spirited, fit to do good work, and willing to do it with abounding joy."

PURE FOOD IN 1911.

Draastic and novel measures against food adulterations were taken by Jacques de Tourzel, seigneur of Amberg. In a decree issued in 1481, he directed that "a funnel shall be placed in the mouth of any man or woman convicted of having sold watered milk and the said watered milk shall be poured down the funnel until such time as a dieter shall declare that the culprit cannot be made to swallow any more without danger of death." The seller of impure butter was to be put in the pillory, "when the butter shall be crushed down upon his head and shall remain there until the sun shall have melted it."

"A DRY GOODS STORE IN A BLOCK TO ITSELF"

Seth Ward Notes

After the excitements of Halloween and the Clarendon football game, Monday, the students have returned to their studies with greater zeal, in preparation for the fall term examinations, which are to be given just before Thanksgiving.

The boys have entered into football practice this week with new life, in anticipation of the game Monday with Canyon. The team is getting back into good shape, after their slight injuries last Monday, and expect to win over Canyon.

The first and second football teams were startled and amazed last Thursday when a new eleven, calling themselves the third team, rushed out on the football gridiron, in uniforms of old shirts and trousers. The football field is now covered with boys seeking for honor and glory in the football world.

Tom and Will Tilson are visiting home folks this week.

John P. is reported ill the latter part of this week.

Mrs. Trulove met with the Young Men's Ministerial Association of Seth Ward Thursday afternoon. The most important feature of the meeting was a lecture by Mrs. Trulove on "Missions." This is the first of a series of lectures on this subject that will be given to the young ministers.

There will be given a recital in the Seth Ward Auditorium Saturday night by students of the Fine Arts Department. SETH WARD REPORTER.

EXPECT BIG STOCK LOSS.

United States Veterinary Says Epidemic Will Be Cheap at Ten Million.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 3.—The gravity of the epidemic of hoof and mouth disease affecting cattle in the Middle West was driven home to cattlemen today by Dr. S. E. Bennett, of the bureau of animal industry, who answered the protests of certain interests by asserting that the slaughter of suspected animals would be cheap at 10 million dollars, compared with the incalculable loss which a general spread of the malady would incur.

No way of fighting the plague effectively is known except the annihilation of affected and suspected animals.

Representatives of the Federal government yesterday were in favor of closing the Chicago Stock Yards, and an order to that effect was rescinded only after the heaviest pressure had been brought to bear. The danger of such action is not yet over. In fact, Governor Dunne, in conference with State and Federal government representatives and meat packers, vetoed a renewed proposal to close the yards. The status of the quarantine, therefore, depends on future developments.

WOUNDED SOLDIERS LAY ON BATTLEFIELD A WEEK.

E. V. Salisbury, Chicago War Nurse Home on Furlough, Tells of Need of Drugs in Europe.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 7.—The call from European hospitals for chloroform and ether to deaden the pain of the operations wounded soldiers must undergo is meeting with response in Chicago. Mrs. Martin Gridley, Mrs. C. H. Jones and Mrs. C. J. Whiteley, all of Evanston, gave to the Red Cross through Miss E. D. Miller, of Grove House, 100 cans of chloroform. They have promised another hundred cans next week.

The need for drugs of many kinds was emphasized yesterday by E. V. Salisbury, a Chicagoan, who was in Paris at the beginning of the war and volunteered for service in the hospitals, and who left Paris only two weeks ago. He is visiting his father, at 1444 Hyde Park Boulevard, but will return to Paris in a few days.

"The need for help to take care of the wounded cannot well be exaggerated," said Mr. Salisbury. "After the battle of the Marne we had soldiers brought to us who had lain on the field for two, three and four days without attention, and we actually had some who have been seven days unattended. Drugs are scarce."

The Chicago Red Cross fund now totals $79,376.85.

100 BRITISH AUTOMOBILES DESTROYED WEEKLY IN WAR.

Chicagoan Back from England Pleds Enormous Motor Business for the United States.

One hundred automobiles—most of them motor trucks—are destroyed each week in the British army alone, according to Charles Y. Knight, a Chicago motor inventor, who has just returned from Coventry, England, where he resided until the outbreak of hostilities. The smallest percentage of these, he said, are destroyed by shells. They are rendered useless to prevent them from falling into the hands of the enemy.

"Fifteen of London's 3,500 motor busses have been requisitioned every day since the war started," he said. "The powers have been seizing machines of all kinds. The demand for motor trucks in the United States is going to be tremendous, and the largest purchases may be expected from Russia, where there are few factories."

Mr. Knight made the assertion that if the United States should become in-involved in a war with any of the first class nations of Europe and her navy were crushed, an invading army using motor trucks and automobiles could sweep through the country unchecked from Boston to Chicago before an adequate defense could be offered.

WACO CONCERN GETS ORDER FROM FRENCH ARMY.

WACO, Texas, Nov. 7.—The countries engaged in the European war continue to draw on this State for war supplies, and the latest order placed with a Texas concern was closed a few days ago when the French army contracted with a local manufacturer of this city for 3,000 army saddles and 300 sets of artillery harness. It will require several months to make the articles, and the deal will bring into Waco $126,000, according to the manager of the local concern.
