PLAINVIEW, TEXAS, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1915

PRICE FIVE CENTS

CITY PAYS $8,000 FOR NEW AUTO FIRE TRUCK

$8,000 CASH OUT OF GENERAL FUND AND SIX THOUSAND IN FOUR YEARS AT 6 PER CENT.

RETAINS HORSES AND WAGON

Will Sell Old Apparatus When New Motor-Drawn Truck Has Been Installed; Due Here in 60 Days.

The City of Plainview now owns an auto fire truck. The purchase was made last Friday evening, at a special session of the Council. Eight thousand dollars was paid for the truck. Two thousand dollars cash out of the general fund of the city and the balance at six per cent interest due in four years time, is the arrangement of the deal. The truck is to be delivered within sixty days.

The new truck is an American-La France. It is complete with all extras and extra ladders. Eight firemen with the driver is the regular number of men that the truck will carry, but twelve may be accommodated. Twelve hundred feet of hose are carried by the truck. It has a speed of fifty miles per hour. The makers of the pump on the truck guarantee that it will have a capacity of seven hundred fifty gallons of water per minute from each of two hoses.

The fire truck is not all that Plainview gets in the deal. It is expected that the key rate for fire insurance will be reduced. Mayor Dorsett has a communication from A. R. Anderson, of the State Department of Insurance, which informs him that at an early date the chief engineer of the department or one of his associates will be in Plainview and will take up the matter of re-rating the town. A new key rate will no doubt be the outcome of his visit. Plainview has the same equipment in proportion and the specifications of the department are met in pumping plant, duplicate boilers, etc., which Fort Worth has, yet the maximum basis 45c is charged residents of Plainview. Our key rate, that is, the lowest insurance issued, is 72c.

That the truck will give protection to more of the taxpayers, and will cost finally not much more than the horses did, is the belief of the Councilmen. Five minutes' difference in the time the scene of a fire is reached might mean the saving of property worth thousands of dollars.

Joe and Jim May Go. All of the old fire-fighting apparatus is to be retained by the city. It will be disposed of to the best advantage. Joe and Jim, the two fire horses, are still the property of the city. Jim is seven years old, and has been in the service of the department three years. He was raised by W. L. Harrington. Joe is the veteran of the service. He is eleven years old, and has seen six years of service. B. B. Huguley raised the first team of fire horses Plainview owned. Joe has outlived his teammate three years.

PREACHER BELIEVES IN "PRINTERS' INK"

Rev. E. H. Oxford, of Hale County, was in Plainview yesterday visiting his sister, Mrs. T. E. Richards. For a number of years Rev. Oxford was county attorney of Hood County. He joined the Central Texas Conference of the Methodist Church a few years ago, and transferred this year to the Northwest Texas Conference. Rev. Oxford is one of the progressive type of ministers. To a representative of The Herald he said yesterday: "I believe in securing every good thing possible for my congregation. Occasionally there is an entertainment of merit which can be had at small cost, good lectures, etc. I believe in printers' ink in my profession. A few circulars or newspaper publicity will reach the people and inform them of what is going on."

STATE MANAGER FEDERAL LIFE INSURANCE CO. HERE.

Ben Thorp, State Manager of the Federal Life Insurance Company, is here from Dallas. Mr. Thorp says that he has often heard of the Plainview country, and that his visit here has confirmed the many good things he has heard of it.

DEFENDANT MAKES MOTION TO CONTINUE MUNCEY CASE

Stallings vs. Harp Will Be Tried Before Special Judge R. A. Souder, of Lubbock.

The Muncy case, which was set for yesterday afternoon, was called at two o'clock by District Judge R. C. Joiner. On motion of the defendants, the case was continued until the 30th of August, which will be the fifth week of the second term of court.

For the rest of this week matters which can be adjusted without a jury are being taken up by the court. It is probable that the case of Stallings, of Tulla, vs. A. E. Harp will go to trial soon. Judge R. C. Joiner is disqualified, and R. A. Souder, of Lubbock, has been agreed upon by defendant's and plaintiff's attorneys as a special judge. He is expected to arrive Thursday morning.

A jury committee has been empaneled, and Judge Joiner expects to clean up the remainder of the docket at this term.

The court will begin its Floyd County session February 22.

Hale County Hogs Again Top Market of World; Bring $7.25

Hogs from the Plainview country again scored high on the Fort Worth market Friday, when a shipment averaging 227 pounds topped the world market for the week.

Here's what the Fort Worth Live-stock Reporter says about the shipment:

"The Fort Worth hog prices towered far above those prevailing at all other markets Friday. The Texas Land and Development Company, of Plainview, constant shippers to Fort Worth and chronic market toppers, set the pace with the sale of a car of sixty-eight head, averaging 227 pounds, at $7.25. This concern has mastered the hog-feeding art, and markets as good consignments as are ever seen outside of the show ring. Against Fort Worth's top of $7.25, was a top of $7.10 at Chicago and $6.90 at Kansas City."

PLAINVIEW BOY SCOUTS OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY WEEK

Organization of American Youths Was Made Four Years Ago; Has 300,000 Members.

Seven years ago Sir Baden-Powell organized in England the order of Boy Scouts. Three years later the American order was formed. Its membership now numbers 300,000. The local troop was formed two years ago.

This week is anniversary week. In keeping with the week, Rev. R. A. Highsmith, of the Christian Church, preached a sermon for Scoutmaster E. B. Miller and his troop Sunday morning.

Monday evening Mrs. J. C. Goodwin entertained the Scouts with a chicken fry, honoring her son, Stewart, who had joined the Scouts a year ago.

"Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

This Scriptural passage was the text of the sermon preached Sunday morning at the Christian Church for the Boy Scouts, by Rev. R. A. Highsmith.

In the introduction to the sermon the preacher gave a short sketch of the shifting methods of boy-training, telling how there had been a change from the method of severe punishment and austerity to laxness.

"By nature," he said, "the boy is an interrogation point. He wants to know, and will ferret out from one source or another answers to questions which concern him. He is imaginative and visionary. The love of adventure is instilled in him. One way to reach the boy is to be a boy with him, to associate with him, to assist him in organizing his bunch or clan."

"The boy problem has always been with the parents. Two generations ago austerity and severe punishment was the attitude of the parents toward the child. The parent believed that the child was obedient and capable of accomplishing the most good, when in reality he was cowed and intimidated, secretly resenting and chafing under the punishment. The past generation, recognizing the fault of the preceding one, went to the other extreme, and was too lax on the child. In this generation the idea of directing the activity of the child in the right channel prevails, and the wisdom of the policy is evident."

"Seven years ago Sir Baden-Powell organized in England the Boy Scout movement. Four years ago the Boy Scouts of America were organized. The order has grown until its membership now numbers 300,000 in America."

"The purpose of his movement is to properly utilize the boy's activity, to teach the boy to know himself, to teach him how to control and care for himself, to live a useful life, to be of service to the world—not selfish, but altruistic; not for pay—to develop himself mentally, morally and physically. The Scout oath is: 'On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to my...'"

TROUBLE BREWS BETWEEN CHINESE AND JAPANESE

Japan Threatens Military Action to Enforce Demands on Big Republic.

PEKIN, China, Feb. 7.—Military action to enforce its demands upon China has been threatened by the Japanese Government, according to a cable message from the Chinese Minister at Tokio. It is believed in official circles here, however, that the communication should not be taken too seriously.

Both public men and newspapers are urging President Yuan Shi kai to let Japan seize by force what she wishes, as China would be unable to oppose her, but refuse to grant humiliating concessions.

It is reported that the President intends to meet some of the demands, granting the Japanese such concessions as would be given to any other country, but stubbornly resisting any transgression of China's sovereign rights.

The Government is observing the Japanese requirement that secrecy be maintained in conducting negotiations, as it is desired to give Japan every opportunity of moderating her demands without losing prestige.

Waxlike Watermarks.

A newspaper article by Liang Chichiao, former Minister of Justice in the Chinese Cabinet, emphasizes the statement that paper upon which the Japanese demands upon China are written is watermarked with warships and cannon. It is stated from a source which is considered most reliable that the outline of the Japanese demands which appeared in the Tokio newspaper Asahi Shimbun in a special edition which was promptly suppressed, is correct. Regarding these demands, the Asahi Shimbun said:

"Japan asks China to solve the Manchurian and Mongolian questions by the extension of the lease of the Port Arthur, Darien and South Manchuria Railway zone to ninety-nine years; and by granting the Japanese the right of residence and land ownership in Mongolia and Manchuria; and to solve the Shantung question by transferring to Japan concessions hitherto held by Germany. Japan also asks for the opening of important cities as treaty ports and the opening of various rivers to foreign navigation. She asks also railway concessions."

FARMERS' INSTITUTES ARE PLANNED FOR SOUTH PLAINS

Department of Agriculture Will Have Representative in This Section February 8-28.

Fred W. Davis, Commissioner of Agriculture of the State of Texas, announces that a series of farmers' institutes have been planned for the South Plains section. W. E. Prescott, a specialist of the department, will be in immediate supervision of the work. The department desires to co-operate with the farmers in every way possible. "The business of farming is as important as the labor on the farm," says the Commissioner in a communication to The Herald. "It is useless to expend all the time in labor and leave our business alone for some one else. So let's get together and do our planning."

There will be meetings held in communities of the South Plains. Institutes and public discussion of matters of vital interest to farmers will be the order of the day. In traveling over the State and lecturing and talking with the best farmers, the specialists with the department have the best methods of farming and farm management in mind. Often suggestions are made which will save the farmer hundreds of dollars and make his labor much easier and more productive.

The itinerary of Mr. Prescott follows:

- Matador—February 10.
- Crosbyton—February 12.
- Lorenzo—February 13.
- Lubbock—February 15.
- Slaton—February 17.
- Abernathy—February 19.
- Petersburg—February 22.
- Hale Center—February 24.
- Plainview—February 26.
- Lockney—February 27.
- Floydada—February 28.

ZOLLICOFFER LOSES BARN AND FINE STOCK BY FIRE.

Prompt Response of Firemen in Automobile Saves Home From Destruction by Flames.

Saturday afternoon the barn of E. A. Zollicoffer, three miles southeast of Plainview, was destroyed by fire. It is stated that his fine jack, a blooded boar and two cows were burned in the barn.

The prompt response of the firemen with a chemical tank from the fire truck saved the house from burning. A few of the firemen took one of the chemical tanks from the fire truck and made a run for the fire in Will Price's automobile. When they reached the house it was on fire inside, and Mayor Dorsett states that wherever shingles were torn from the roof flames appeared. By judicious use of the chemical the fire was put out.

Otis Trulove left this morning for Amarillo and Clovis, N. M., on local business.

BRITISH SHIP FLIES UNITED STATES' FLAG

CLAIMS PRECEDENT HAD BEEN WELL ESTABLISHED BY INTERNATIONAL LAW.

GERMAN DOCUMENT ON WAY

Official Memorandum Will Explain Germany's Submarine Campaign on Enemy's Merchantmen.

LONDON, Feb. 8, 12:58 a. m.—The Press Association has issued the following under a Birmingham date:

"Passengers from the Lusitania who arrived here today state that when off the coast of Ireland the Lusitania received a wireless message from the Admiralty that it was to hoist the American flag. It did so, and sailed under the flag to Liverpool."

The British Foreign Office, in a statement bearing on the flying of the American flag by the Cunard liner Lusitania, although it does not mention this incident, declares that the use of a neutral flag is within certain limitations well established in practice. The British Government maintains that as it has not objected to foreign merchant vessels using the British flag as a ruse for evading capture at sea at the hands of a belligerent, British merchant vessel is entitled to assume neutral colors for a similar purpose.

Practice Well Established.

The following statement was issued by the Foreign office tonight:

"The use of a neutral flag is, within certain limitations, well established in practice as a ruse de guerre. The only effect in the case of a merchantman wearing a flag other than her national flag is to compel the enemy to follow the ordinary obligations of naval warfare and satisfy himself as to the nationality of the vessel and the character of her cargo by examination before capturing her and taking her into a prize court for adjudication."

"The British Government has always considered the use of the British colors by foreign vessels legitimate for the purpose of escaping seizure. Such practice not only involves no breach of international law, but is specifically recognized by the law of this country in the merchant shipping act of 1894."

Only for Escaping Capture.

"In instructions to British Consuls in 1914 it is said: 'A ship is liable to capture if a British character is improperly assumed except for the purpose of escaping capture.'"

"As we have in practice not objected to foreign merchant vessels using the British merchant flag as a ruse for the purpose of evading capture at sea at the hands of a belligerent, so we would maintain that in the converse case that a British merchant vessel committed no breach of international law in assuming neutral colors for a similar purpose if she thought fit."

"By the rules of international law, the customs of war and the dictates of humanity it is obligatory upon a belligerent to ascertain the character of a merchant vessel and cargo before capture. Germany has no right to disregard this obligation."

"To destroy a ship, noncombatant crew and cargo, as Germany announced her intention of doing, is nothing less than an act of piracy of the high seas."

German Note Expected.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 7.—Although the text of Germany's official memorandum explaining the Admiralty's proclamation of a submarine campaign against enemy merchant ships has been delayed in transmission and did not reach the State Department today from Ambassador Gerard, publication in the press of the text of the document produced a profound impression on officials and diplomats in the National capital.

As the memorandum revealed that German Naval commanders had been given orders "to avoid violence to neutral ships," it was regarded as much more reassuring than the brief proclamation, though there was some uneasiness over the suggestion in the memorandum that efforts to torpedo enemy merchant ships might unintentionally strike neutral vessels.

Mince Meat.

2 pounds of fresh beef, boiled and chopped fine when cold.
1 pound suet chopped very fine.
5 pounds of chopped apples.
2 pounds of seeded raisins.
2 pounds of seeded currants.

Cocoanut Pudding With Apricots.

One quart of milk, 4 tablespoonfuls of corn starch, 1 cupful of sugar, a pinch of salt, 1 scant teaspoonful of vanilla, and cocoanut. Scald the milk, with a pinch of salt, in a double boiler, reserving a little cold milk to moisten the corn starch and sugar. Stir constantly and let it boil until it thickens. Sprinkle shredded cocoanut into it as it boils. Cut some apricots into halves, remove the stones and put them in a stewpan with syrup to cover them, and let them simmer gently until tender. Drain the apricots and keep in a cool place until ready to pour the pudding into molds. Wet the mold with cold water and place the apricots against the sides, and as the pudding is poured in scatter more apricots through the mixture.

When cold, turn out on a platter and sprinkle with shredded cocoanut.

Chicken Pie.

One chicken cooked tender; remove the bones. Prepare a sauce from the broth the chicken was cooked in by taking 3 tablespoonfuls of melted butter, 3 tablespoonfuls of flour. Add a pinch of black pepper and mix with 3 cups of broth and one of rich milk or cream. Then pour over chicken.
For the crust on top, take 2 cups of flour, 1 teaspoonful of salt, 1 teaspoonful of baking powder, 2 tablespoonfuls of lard or butter; rub this in the flour. Beat 1 egg, to which add 1 cup of milk. Pour this over flour and shortening and beat well; then drop this batter over chicken and sauce in small spoonfuls.

1 can lye.
6 tablespoonfuls turpentine.
6 tablespoonfuls kerosene.
Dissolve lye in water; add turpentine and kerosene; put in jug and cork well. Add one teaspoonful of this to a boiler of water, and see how much easier your clothes are washed. In warm weather it is a good idea to soak clothes over night in water to which has been added one teaspoonful of this fluid.

Chocolate Cookies.

1 cup brown sugar.
1/2 cup shortening.
1 egg.
1 cup sour milk.
2 squares chocolate.
1/2 cup nuts.
1/2 cup raisins.
1/2 teaspoon soda.

Frozen Tomato Salad.

2 small onions, 1 bunch celery (or celery seed may be used). Strain and season with salt and pepper to taste. Add 1/2 box gelatine dissolved in a little of the boiled liquid. Cool and freeze. Serve on lettuce leaf.
Especially attractive when frozen in round glass freezer and sliced off into round slices.

Salad or Mayonnaise Dressing.

Put into a stewpan 1/2 cup butter, and let melt.
1/2 teaspoon of mustard.
1/4 teaspoon of salt.
1/4 teaspoon of red pepper (scant).
Mix mustard, salt and pepper in 1/2 cup of sugar. Beat yolks of 4 eggs; add 1/2 cup of rich milk, then add sugar and, last, enough vinegar to make sour. Pour in melted butter and boil until as thick as thick cream.
Fine for potato salad or meat sandwiches or lettuce.

Toast.

Nice for school lunch, or for breakfast with cream poured over.
Slice light bread, spread rich cream or melted butter, pile sugar on top and put in grate of oven and brown.

Cheese Straws.

1 glass of flour.
1/2 glass of butter.
1/2 teaspoon of salt.
1/2 teaspoon of sugar.
A little red pepper, if you like.
Thoroughly rub butter and flour together as for pie crust; add enough water to pack together; roll out. Have 1 glass of cheese grated and sprinkle over crust; continue this until all the cheese is used. Roll out 1/4 inch thick, lay in pan and cut in small strips.
Use cheese straws for log houses decoration February 12.

Hints.

When you burn potatoes or anything, remove the lid, and set stewpan in a vessel of cold water, and food will not taste of the burn.

In cake baking, when you dust your pans with flour, always put in a teaspoon of salt in the flour. It keeps the cake from burning and adds to the flavor of cake.

Amber Pie.

1 cup plum jelly.
1 cup sugar.
1 cup sweet milk.
1/2 cup butter. (Cottolene will not do.)
Yolks of 4 eggs.
2 tablespoonfuls of flour.
If the jelly is very firm, dissolve it. Then add sugar, butter, eggs and flour. Mix well before adding milk. Let pies get cold. Make a meringue of whipped cream sweetened and flavored with vanilla.
This makes three pies.

Peanut Bread.

1 beaten egg.
1 1/2 cups sweet milk.
1/2 cup sugar.
1 scant teaspoon salt.
4 level cups of flour.
4 teaspoonfuls baking powder.
Sift flour and baking powder several times. Add one cup of peanuts, chopped fine. Set in warm place 20 minutes, and bake one hour in moderate oven. This makes two loaves.

CHLORIN-BLEACHED FLOUR.

Since the bleaching of flour with the oxides of nitrogen has been forbidden in the United States under the Food and Drugs Act, there are signs of the introduction of other processes intended to produce similar changes in the wheat product. In one of these chlorin is the bleaching agent employed, the anhydrous gas being diluted with an inert gas and then used to "mature and whiten" the flour. Without commenting at this time on the legal aspects of the matter, we may fairly ask whether the new process confers any advantages on the cereal which will render it superior to the ordinary unbleached patent flour. Mere appearance need not be taken into consideration here. Experiments conducted in connection with the pure food work at the Kansas State Agricultural College, at Manhattan, have shown that although the chlorin content of untreated flour may run as high as 576 parts per million, chlorin-treated flour will contain over 600 parts per million. Chlorin-treatment increases the softness of the flour. The gluten tests run practically alike for the bleached and unbleached flour. The baking experts report that there are no differences in loaf volume; but the bleached flour gives a loaf having an objectionable color and texture. In nearly every case the bread made from the unbleached flour graded better. According to The Journal of the American Medical Association, the chlorin-bleaching cannot be defended on the ground that bread-making qualities of the flour are improved.

Black Rot of Grapes

Ed L. Ayers, Plant Pathologist State Department of Agriculture.

Black rot is the most serious menace to grape growing in most sections of Texas. This disease is caused by a fungus which develops very rapidly on moist, warm days, muggy weather of mid summer being particularly favorable for its rapid development and spread.

Symptoms.

The disease appears on the leaves, fruit, and sometimes on young canes. The berries are most seriously affected, although the work is first seen on the young leaves. Upon the leaves the disease first appears as a circular brownish spot, which gradually darkens. The berries are usually attacked when about half grown. The spot appears on them as a purplish or brownish spot, which spread all over the surface of the berry. Later the berry shrivels and dries up, but does not fall, and infected bunches seem to cling to the vine throughout the season.

Control.

Certain varieties of grapes are more or less resistant to Black Rot. These varieties should be chosen from the varieties which do well in a particular section. In general, dark-colored varieties have been noticeably susceptible, while light-colored ones are more resistant.

Bordeaux Mixture has proven a very efficient remedy in the control of this disease. After first cleaning the vineyard in the winter by cutting back and pruning all fruit clusters, the old berries and rubbish should be covered by early plowing. Bordeaux should then be applied thoroughly, covering the vines, posts, and trellis, just as the buds begin to swell in early spring. This should be followed by another application at the time the buds open and vines should be sprayed every two weeks until six applications have been made. The season will greatly determine the number of sprayings, and when the disease seems to be developing rapidly it is necessary to do the work more often.

Spraying Solution.

Bordeaux Mixture should be made according to the following formula: Copper Sulphate 4 pounds Lime (stone) 4 pounds Water 50 gallons Dissolve copper sulphate by suspending in a sack near the surface of about a third of a barrel of water. Slack lime and dilute to same volume of water as copper sulphate solution, and then pour the two solutions together bucketful to bucketful and dilute to 50 gallons.

It may be dangerous to use Bordeaux even as weak as 4-4-50 late in the season, and the following solution is as effective, colors the fruit less and there is less danger of burning the tender fruit:

Ammonical Copper Carbonate Solution.

Green Copper Carbonate ... 5 ounces Ammonia 3 pints Water 50 gallons Dissolve copper carbonate in ammonia and dilute to 50 gallons of water.

Copper carbonate is not usually found at the local drug stores, so it will be well to order same before it is actually needed.

hand grenades and artillery) to what the French call "armes blanches" (swords, lances and bayonets). In military parlance, the war illustrates the increasing moment of "fire" and the decreasing consequence of "shock action."

The Germans, who are right in most matters of military technique, are right again when they say in their official infantry regulations:

"The offensive consists in bringing fire nearer and nearer to the trenches of the defenders; and, in any case, even at close quarters, is not a reserved clip of cartridges worth more than a bayonet? In the Spanish-American War dismounted United States cavalry assaulted and carried Spanish trenches without bayonets; the Boers in South Africa preferred firing at close quarters to using the weapons that stab and slash; and in two months with the armies of Villa and Carranza, in Mexico, I never saw a bayonet and never saw or heard of a situation that demanded one, although close fighting was common.

"Cold steel" still has its uses; but they are not so frequent, so decisive, or so fearful as the uses of "powder and shot."

KANSAS CITY STOCK MARKET IN DETAIL.

KANSAS CITY STOCK YARDS.
Feb. 9.—After several days full of excitement and apprehension with respect to the movement of cattle to and from market, as governed by foot-and-mouth quarantines, the situation begins to clear at the end of the week. The fact that no new cases of the disease have been discovered simplifies matters very much, and while there will be no relaxing of the air-tight quarantine in force in the four counties in question, movement of stock in other portions of the State will likely be permitted with a minimum amount of hampering, in conjunction with keeping a close watch by the Sanitary Commissioner's agents.

Arrivals of cattle today were only 1,500 head, and there was no change in the market. Some yearlings sold to killers around steady, and some 1,400-pound steers at $7.50 were at the bottom of the week's decline. Prospects for Monday are that there will be a light run, guesses ranging from five to nine thousand head, and there should be a fairly decent market.

Stockers and feeders are 50 cents lower for the week, and very little doing. Inspectors are permitting shipments to Kansas today, if the cattle can be traced back as originating in a clean area, and this will be the policy next week. Missouri and other States, except Oklahoma, can buy stockers and feeders here and take them home, without restriction.

Hogs sold 5 to 10 cents lower during most of the session today, but there was a spurt at the finish, and the close was steady with yesterday, top $6.85, bulk $6.50 to $6.90. All weights have been selling close together this week, and all the buyers have shown that hogs are needed. Pork is cheap, as compared with beef and mutton, which makes a wide outlet for it, and a strong call at the stock yards for hogs from killers. This condition will take care of liberal receipts around present range of values.

Sheep and lambs have had a good week, receipts fairly liberal. There was some weakness Thursday, but the small supply here today sold 70 cents higher, top lambs $8.85, four loads of 40-pound lambs at $8.80, choice ewes available around $6.50. If Chicago remains closed there will be a good market here next week, and dealers do not expect a break before Wednesday, in any event. However, the market in top heavy, although fairly grounded, and slight breaks are apt to come at any time. Feeding lambs sold up to $8.75 this week, choice fat yearlings worth up to $8, without $7.

ECONOMIC WORKERS

"PASE UP" SOUTH PLAINS.

Eighteen parties of business men and prominent farm workers are planning, and have started on, a campaign to get Texas farmers interested in the move to "let Texas feed itself."

Those workers have ignored the South Plains entirely. Big Springs, to the south, and Memphis, to the northeast, are the nearest approaches the parties make to the South Plains. This is significant. They know that the great South Plains is feeding its own stock and practically feeding itself. Our diversified program of farming is such that our farmers do not need encouragement in planting feed and food crops.

"Let Texas feed itself," and let the South Plains help. Let the South Plains—the Plainview country—"feed" the stock markets. Let the South Plains supply the $52,000,000 hog products which Texas imports each year.

ON BEING A BOY.

Days like today, when a fellow feels a craving for the open, for baseball, for the sunshine and warmth, are reminders of the spring and summer that is to follow.

The boy who is not allowed to spend a few years just as a boy, but little thought of what the future has in store for him and what it means, is denied a beautiful birthright.

The boy who owns a horse, the boy who can hunt and fish, the boy who owns a dog, will most certainly make a better man than the one who has none of these advantages. The world needs more of such boys. And a good reason is always the result of a real boyhood. Wholesome influences and wide range are conducive to broad thoughts. Sometimes this rule will not hold, but it remains a rule nevertheless.

The race needs to know what just being means, as well as what doing means. And being a boy is more important than doing a sum or memorizing a fact, or carrying a burden.

People really live when they are being; and the highest function of life ceases when they are merely doing. We do in order that we may exist; but to compel the boy to do beyond a limited extent is a crime against all wisdom and kindness.

A real boy makes a real man, who can shake you by the hand with a will, and means all that it implies; who is better than a man who can build a bridge. One can swim the river with a comrade, but there is little good in walking over the bridge, if one walks all alone.

Because life is short, it is infinitely more important to be happy than to be useful—mainly because one cannot be happy without being useful, while it is possible for one to be useful without being happy.

Let the boys have their boyhood; let every man who is worthy of the name make a little extra effort to bear a little heavier burden, take one further step, bear another trifling hardship, that the grander phenomena may not be curtailed nor marred.

Best Editorial of the Day

THE "DANGEROUS" MAN.

The man who goes about challenging ancient beliefs and superstitions is apt to make a reputation as a "dangerous man." If he fights slavery at a time when slavery is flourishing he is a fanatic. If he attacks franchise-grabbers he is an "agitator."

A striking instance of the way society strikes at those who disturb it is the case of the sophists of ancient Greece. Until comparatively recent years the sophists were regarded as exceedingly undesirable citizens, mercenary and corrupt. The stigma that the standpatters of Athens fastened to them still survives in the contemptuous word "sophistry." But some of the best modern investigators are now convinced that the

Lines to be Remembered

I hold it the duty of one who is gifted,
And royally dowered in all men's sight,
To know no rest till his life is lifted
Fully up to the great gift's height.

Great gifts should be worn like a crown befitting,
And not like gems on a beggar's hand;
And the soil must be constant and unremitting
That lifts up the king to the crown's demands.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

(Ella Wheeler Wilcox was born in 1855, and is now living. She was educated at Wisconsin University. In 1884 she married Robert M. Wilcox, of Meriden, Conn. She soon afterward moved to New York. In addition to quite a collection of verse, she has written a large number of essays and short stories for the New York Journal.)

sophists were generally intellectual progressives and reformers. What they attacked were the superstitions of their age. That is why they were regarded as "dangerous."

In the Fifth Century, B. C., came a great intellectual awakening in Greece. It arose on the Ionian Coast of Asia Minor and spread through the Greek cities chiefly through traveling teachers who were known as "sophists" from the Greek word "sophia," "wisdom."

These men looked out on the world and found it dominated by ignorance and unreason. The mass of the people were sunk in superstition. When the sophists began to inquire into the popular beliefs they found a mass of things for which no reasonable argument could be brought forward. The religion of the people was a gross idolatry, full of absurdities.

One of the earliest of the sophists, Xenophanes, criticized Homer severely for attributing to the gods acts which if committed by men would be considered disgraceful. Another declared that "God sent all men to be free; Nature made none a slave." A third asserted that "a man is the measure of all things," as a protest against making Nature the standard of what was good; urging that public opinion was the great moralizing agency.

Such doctrines as these seemed to all conservative and respectable Greeks to be pulling down the pillars of the temple. They were subversive of the established order. Besides, the teachers took pay for giving lessons, which was unheard of and therefore scandalous. Persons who have been offended by Mr. Bryan's appearance on the lecture platform will have some idea of the horror of the cultured Greek over paying teachers.

And then there was Alcibiades. For more than two thousand years Alcibiades has been used as a clinching argument of the immorality of the sophists. Did he not give him lessons, and did he not turn out a flighty and unstable and undesirable character? Which is a good deal as if it should be argued to day that the fact that Mr. William Barnes, of New York, political boss of that State, is a Harvard graduate, is proof of the corrupting influence of a Harvard education.

Give a dog a bad name, and you know what follows. The Greek standpatters gave the sophists a bad name, and they probably never will outlive it.—Kansas City Star.

READERS' FORUM

This column is open to readers of The Herald for open discussion of public questions. Names will not be published unless so requested, but contributions must be signed.

Editor Herald:

Dear Sir—I want to tell The Herald readers through the Forum column about a wonderful book that I have just had the privilege of reading. I have mentioned it to a member of the Public Library committee and have the promise that the name will be added to the list of names of books that they expect to buy at some future time; but in the meantime I want to tell you about it now, while the matter is fresh in my mind. The book is published by the Co-Operative Publishing Co., of Guthrie, Oklahoma, and is entitled "The Life and Adventures of 'Billy' Dixon—Plainsman, Scout and Pioneer"—who fought at Adobe Walls and Buffalo Wallow. * * * A narrative in which is described many things relating to the early Southwest, with an account of the fight between Indians and buffalo hunters at Adobe Walls and the desperate engagement at Buffalo Wallow, for which Congress voted the medal of honor to the survivors. * * * recording some of the perils and hardships encountered in those far-off days by men and women who forsook the comforts of more civilized surroundings to risk their lives in making habitable the wilderness."

The book is one that everyone interested in Texas history should want to read, as it sets forth certain matters connected with the settlement of the Panhandle country that have never appeared in print before. Among other things, the following reason for justifying the wholesale extermination of the buffalo was an entirely new point to me, and I quote in full from the text in regard to it:

"At a later day, General Phil Sheridan, to subdue and conquer the Plains tribes for all time, urged and practiced the very thing that 'SANTANTA' (an Indian chief) was fearful might happen (the extermination of the buffalo). In the early seventies the State Legislatures of Kansas and Colorado, listening to the appeal of the Indians through sympathetic white persons, enacted laws to stop the slaughtering of the buffaloes. General Sheridan, at that time, was in command of the Military Department of the Southwest, with headquarters at San Antonio. The Texas Legislature, in session at Austin, was at the point of declaring against the merciless slaughter of buffaloes that was then under way in the Staked Plains and Panhandle region. General Sheridan is said to have told the Legislature that the State should give to every buffalo hunter a bronze medal, on one side of which should be a dead buffalo, and on the other—a discouraged Indian; adding: 'These men have done more in the last year to settle the vexed Indian question than the entire regular army has done in the last thirty years. They are destroying the Indian's commissary; and it is a well-known fact that an army losing its base of supplies is placed at a great disadvantage. Send them powder and lead if you will; but for the sake of a lasting peace let them kill, skin, and sell until the buffaloes are exterminated. Then your prairies can be covered with speckled cattle and the festive cowboy, who follows the hunter as a second forerunner of an advanced civilization.'

"The Texas Legislature accepted General Sheridan's advice. The Texans, as a people, were disposed to agree with that point of view, for in no State did the Plains Indians commit crimes more cruel and horrible than in Texas."

New Oldsmobile Agency

We have taken the agency for the famous Olds—a car which at one time you didn't think you could own, but you can afford it now and we ask the privilege of showing you how you can.

The 1915 Oldsmobile represents in a sum total all the experience in the history of the manufacture of motor cars.

Fours and sixes have been manufactured at Olds Motor Works since motor cars of this type were first invented. You get a time tried and proven automobile when you purchase an Oldsmobile.

The first gasoline motor car to achieve what they call "output" was the little one-cylinder Oldsmobile which was steered with a tiller and had a curved dash like a sleigh. It is to the Olds Motor Works which built that car that a large majority of the automobile manufacturers in Detroit trace their origin. Indeed there are today no less than a dozen organizations, the heads of which were at one time connected with the original Olds Company—the 16-year-old forefather of the automobile business.—Julian Street, in Collier's, July 4th, 1914.

We are now demonstrating the Oldsmobile Model 42 Touring Car. Price $1285 complete, including one man top, Jiffy curtains, rain-vision wind-shield, demountable rims, Delco self-starting and light equipment, genuine honey-comb radiator. Weight 2,500 pounds. Non-skid tires on rear.

WARN GIRLS AGAINST GOING TO FRISCO FOR POSITIONS.

No Desirable Work for Girls at Exposition; Only Those on Ground First Secured Places.

At the request of the Federated Clubs, who have acted through a motion picture from the Mystic Club, The Herald reprints the following warning:

"The women of San Francisco are determined to prevent the letting of a portion of the fair grounds for the purpose of establishing houses of prostitution, and are doing all in their power to stay the evil.

"However this controversy ends, one thing must be remembered: The vice that sacrifices the girlhood and boyhood of the country, and brings condemnation upon innocent wives and children—that vice intends to flourish somewhere during the world's fair.

"Let it be remembered that the country will be scourged for girls to supply the demand of this nefarious business, and every means that is possible for man to conceive will be used to snare and mislead these girls in order to secure them.

"Every girl should be warned against advertisements of positions in San Francisco, for every place that is worth while will be taken, and the door that will be open for the strange girl will be the door that leads to perdition.

"The papers that do their duty to the girlhood of the Nation will publish the warning, and women of every town and city who would protect the youth of the land, will sound the alarm and caution and guard the girls of their neighborhood."

HELP SOUTHERN TEACHERS BRING SCHOOL NEARER FARM.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5.—With the object of helping rural teachers in the South to make their instruction of more practical value to farm children, and thereby increase the interest of these children in the common school branches, the educational specialists of the Department of Agriculture will shortly publish Department Bulletin No. 132, "Correlating Agriculture With the Public-School Subjects in the Southern States."

The purpose of the bulletin is to supply teachers with methods of organizing agricultural clubs among their children, and to give them suggestive material whereby the facts and activities of farm life may be used effectively to vitalize and make of immediate use the school courses in arithmetic, language, nature study, history, geography, and drawing. The specialists believe that such a correlation can be made an effective agency in increasing the regularity and length of attendance of rural children, and by making school work a more direct means of teaching farm economy, will increase the readiness of rural parents to improve and support the local schools.

Inasmuch as the correlation recommended is to be made effective largely through the establishment of children's clubs, the bulletin first gives the teacher complete details for the establishment and organization of juvenile clubs. The data supplied includes a sample constitution and by-laws, forms for necessary blanks, score cards for rating the products raised by the clubs, methods of awarding prizes, and details for developing school gardens, holding school exhibits, conducting practical work in seed selection, storing and testing.

The bulletin then supplies outline courses for school or club work arranged in two groups, the first group showing how nature study and agriculture may be combined each school month with the public school studies of Grades 1 to 5; and the second group showing similar applications for Grades 6 to 8. This syllabus takes into careful consideration the difference in ages and interests of pupils in the two groups. The purpose of the syllabus is to supply the teacher with practical problems in farm arithmetic and seasonal farm material to be used in language, history, geography, drawing, and nature study work, as a substitute for the unpractical or remove problems and illustrations found in textbooks designed largely for city schools.

The following is a sample outline for language lessons during the month of January in the lower grades: Conversations concerning the uses of fertilizers, the quantity required, and for what crops, should be engaged in with the younger pupils. Oral and written accounts of visits to fertilizer plants, methods for distributing fertilizers, and methods of mixing should be required of the more advanced pupils of the group. Descriptions of fertilizer distributors, fertilizer mixing boxes, and the different brands of fertilizers should constitute work for the still more advanced pupils of this group.

The drawing work would consist of outlines of fertilizer sacks, mixing boxes, horns, tools used in the mixing of fertilizers, and sketches of improved fertilizer distributors.

The arithmetic, following the same general plan, would deal largely with the number of sacks of fertilizer used and computation as to the amount of fertilizer and cost per acre on farm. The following month the work would be supplemented by practical observations of fertilizer mixing and application; visits to fertilizer factories or warehouses, etc. In February, the lessons would be based on seeds and seed testing, with practical work in testing seeds, observation of orchards, pruning, etc.

The same plan would be extended so as to take in more difficult subjects in Grades 6 to 8. For example, the lessons in arithmetic for Grades 6 to 8, for February would be based on the following outline:

Problems in the value of selecting and testing seeds of the various crops should be developed for this month. Let the exercises involve the value of time spent in selecting and testing, the time spent in replanting, and the effect of untreated seed on the stand and the ultimate yields. Let these exercises as nearly as possible be based on data gathered from the community. These processes may be multiplied to meet the needs of the different classes in the subject of arithmetic. Problems on the cost of spraying materials, the time spent in spraying, and the increased yield should be developed. Comparisons should be made of the yields of sprayed and unsprayed trees, and problems developed on these as a basis. The value of sprays in prolonging the lives of plants should be estimated.

The same plan is worked out for each month of a nine-month course, the bulletin covering the seasonal application of various farm processes in the South. The bulletin also includes material showing how to conduct practical work in selecting, storing, and testing seed, developing school gardens, arranging school exhibits, and preparing score cards for different agricultural products raised by children. The score cards, among other subjects, cover the following: Bacon and lard hogs, cotton plant, corn, potatoes, tomatoes and apples; also butter, bread and jellies.

The report closes with suggestive problems in arithmetic to indicate how the question may be developed in the other subjects.

The following indicates the practical correlation of these questions in arithmetic with the farm activities:

Questions in Arithmetic for February.

1. Spraying materials usually cost as follows: Lime, 1 cent per pound; copper sulphate, 10 cents per pound; Paris green, 30 cents per pound; arsenate of lead, 15 cents per pound; kerosene, 13 cents a gallon; hard soap, 10 cents per pound; lime-sulphur mixture, 15 cents per gallon.

2. Find the cost of the following formula:

5 pounds lime
5 pounds copper sulphate
50 gallons water

Total

3. Find the cost of the following formula:

2 gallons kerosene
1 pound hard soap
1 gallon water

Total

4. Find the cost of the following formula:

3 pounds arsenate of lead
50 gallons water

Total

5. If it takes three applications of 2 pounds of arsenate of lead and three days' time, at $1.25 per day, to destroy the Colorado beetles on an acre of potatoes, how many bushels of potatoes at 50 cents per bushel will be required to pay for the treatment?

6. A boy failed to select and test the vitality of his seed corn and secured only three-fourths of a regular stand. His yield was 60 bushels. What should it have been if his stand had been regular?

7. If two days had been required to select and test the corn seed in problem 6, and thereby secure a regular stand, what would have been the value of the boy's time per day?

THE DAY OF ART.

James McNeil Whistler.

In the beginning man went forth each day—some to do battle, some to the chase; others, again, to dig and delve in the field—all that they might gain and live, or lose and die. Until there was found among them one, differing from the rest, who stayed by the tents with the women, and traced strange devices with a burnt stick over a gourd.

This man, who took no joy in the ways of his brothers—who cared not for the conquest, and fretted in the field—this designer of quaint patterns—this deviser of the beautiful—who perceived in Nature about him curious curvings, as faces are seen in the fire—this dreamer apart, was the first artist.

And when, from the field and from afar, there came back the people, they took the gourd—and drank from out of it.

And presently there came to this man another—and, in time, others—of like nature, chosen by the gods—and so they worked together; and soon they fashioned from the moistened earth, forms resembling the gourd. And with the power of creation, the heirloom of the artist, presently they went beyond the slovenly suggestion of Nature, and the first vase was born, in beautiful proportion.

And the toilers toiled, and were athirst, and the heroes returned from fresh victories, to rejoice and feast; and all drank alike from the artist's goblets, fashioned cunningly, taking no note the while of the craftsman's pride, and understanding not his glory in his work; drinking at the cup, not from choice, not from a consciousness that it was beautiful, but because, for sooth, there was none other.

have come to no decision as to whether there will be any protest from the United States Government, but it is believed that some inquiry might be made to determine what steps are planned to take off passengers and crew from enemy merchant ships as well as neutral vessels, the former because of the great number of American citizens accustomed to travel on belligerent passenger steamers to Europe. The declaration of London provides that all persons aboard an enemy merchant ship must be saved before the vessel is destroyed.

Officials Generally Noncommittal.

Officials generally were noncommittal as to what the position of the United States Government might be, but if assurances are given that merchant ships will not be summarily destroyed without giving an opportunity for persons aboard to be saved, it was regarded as certain that the American Government, observing strict neutrality, would not protest against the proclamation of the sea zones.

It was apparent among high officials that the hoisting of the American flag on the British steamer Lusitania immediately after the charge had been made in the German Admiralty statement that neutral flags had been ordered by Great Britain, introduced a phase of the situation which is more likely to call forth diplomatic discussion than the proclamation itself.

Until some specific act violating the safety of neutrals on merchant ships is made, it was said that no protests would be made, but that the Lusitania incident may call forth an inquiry tomorrow if Ambassador Page does not report on the incident by then. There is, however, no law of the United States penalizing any vessel that enters or leaves American ports for using the American flag without authorization, and no explicit rule on the subject ever has been incorporated in international law.

God and my country and to obey the Scout Law, to help other people at all times, to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight. There are twelve points to Scout Law —trustworthy, courteous, clean, loyal, helpful to others, friendly, kind, obedient to superiors, cheerful, thrifty, brave, reverent.

"Scoutcraft teaches the outdoor life, understanding of birds, trees, plants—of nature—to observe closely, and swimming. It teaches how to take care of one's self in a bad situation, such as poison, stings, mad-dog bites, drowning, loss in woods, etc.; how to take care of others in a bad situation, first aid to the injured, etc. There is an educational feature of merit. Respect to the American flag is taught; cooking, signaling, tracking, and knife using, pitching tents, making fires in woods, etc., are practiced. There is a definite program in the life of the Boy Scout. His moral life is developed in his organized activity, his physical life is made more perfect. Good books, good deeds and good thoughts tend to the development of his mental nature. The evil effects of bad habits, tobacco using, drinking, swearing, and other sins of habit, are impressed upon the Scout and the law of cause and effect emphasized throughout. The Scout pledges himself to do one good turn daily. The habit of doing good turns grows and the tendency is toward the development of a well-rounded, well-balanced man, unselfish in his conception of life and its responsibilities."
