On Saturday, June 17, there will be a joint meeting of the Hale County Swine Breeders' Association and the Hale County Farmers' Institute. The meeting of the swine breeders will be held at two o'clock. Geo. R. Quisenberry, manager of the Helen Temple Farm, who is president of the association, announces the following committees who have been requested to look after the details of the meeting: Program committee—H. V. Tull and W. E. Loveless; entertainment—Judge W. B. Lewis, C. D. Powell and Geo. E. White; marketing—J. G. Selpp, E. A. Zollcoffer and J. K. Kelleher.

Immediately following the meeting of the swine breeders the Farmers' Institute will convene. D. C. Dove, assistant organizer of farmers' institutes, is to make a tour of the west Texas country, and will be in Plainview on that day. Regarding his visit here, Hon. Fred W. Davis, Commissioner of Agriculture in Texas, says: "The Department of Agriculture desires to get in closer touch with all the people through farmers' institutes. The efforts of the Department to reach and serve farmers will be greatly handicapped unless the officers of institutes, commercial organizations, local newspapers and public-spirited people unite in helping to secure a large and representative hearing for the department's organizer at these meetings. We must organize and cooperate if we would improve market conditions and control crop pests."

Will Elect Delegates.

At the Farmers' Institute meeting delegates will be selected to attend the State Farmers' Institute, which convenes in Austin, July 17 to 19, inclusive. The institute is entitled to one delegate for each twenty-five members. E. A. Zollcoffer is president of the local Farmers' Institute.

Plainview's Soldier Boys Now Patrolling United States Border

Special to The Herald.

SANDERSON, Texas, 2:30 p. m., May 30.—Company L arrived in Sanderson Sunday morning, and are encamped along the Southern Pacific right-of-way. The population of Sanderson is about eight hundred. Half are Mexicans. The civilians are very courteous, but the Mexicans are indifferent. The town is under military police. Twenty sentries patrol the town nightly. A scouting party of five goes through the mountains during the day. Soldiers are stationed at all the bridges and towns along the Southern Pacific west of Del Rio. The weather is hot and dry.

(By Mail.)

Plainview Evening Herald, Plainview, Texas.

En Route to Sanderson, May 27, 1916.

"On to the Border." We answered reveille this morning at four, had mess at five and broke camp at six, and are now en route to the fated Sanderson. We were first scheduled to go to Eagle Pass, but later assigned to Sanderson.

The interesting feature of this trip is that while we are entrained we have nothing to eat. It is now five o'clock, and we have had nothing since this morning at six. On the whole, however, Uncle Sam takes good care of his soldiers. The rations are plentiful, but they have a painful sameness—beans, bacon, bread and coffee three times a day, with an occasional round of prunes.

The typhoid vaccination affected many of the fellows a little, inducing feverish headaches. We have had two injections—have been shot in both arms, and are scheduled to receive another in seven days from the date of the second. Some of us will have to be shot in the leg the next time, as both arms are almost out of commission.

Revival services will begin at the Methodist Church Sunday morning, June 18. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Story, will be assisted by Professor R. E. Houston, of Greenville, Texas. The pastor states that all Christian people are invited to attend the meeting.

The rostrum of the church will be extended to accommodate a large choir. Good singing will be one of the features of the services.

ONE GRAVE RECEIVES BODIES OF TWO WOOLFOLK BROTHERS

Father Brings Bodies of Sons Who Were Shot by New Mexico Veterinarian.

Sunday afternoon, in the Lockney Cemetery, the bodies of Paul and Frank Woolfolk, who were killed near their claim in New Mexico, were buried in one grave, under the direction of W. F. Garner. Rev. W. F. Ledlow, of Lockney, preached the funeral sermon in the chapel of the Lockney Christian College.

These young men, ages twenty-three and twenty-five, respectively, left the home of their father, near Lockney, in February, for New Mexico. The elder filed on a quarter-section claim there. They had improved their farm and were planting a crop.

One of their neighbors was Dr. C. E. Briles, whose place was just across the road from theirs. Arrangements had been made for the use of a dugout on the Briles place for an incubator, which had been set by the Woolfolk boys.

Trouble ensued between the two brothers and the veterinarian, it is alleged, the latter charging them with intimacy with his wife. The doctor left his home on business. Soon after his wife departed also. Returning, he armed himself with a pistol and Winchester rifle, it is claimed, and approached the dugout. When one of the boys came out he leveled the Winchester on him. The "covered" man seized the barrel of the gun, and a struggle ensued. Briles drew a pistol and fired, killing young Woolfolk instantly. The muzzle of the gun was close enough to set fire to his clothing, and his face, arms and chest were mutilated by the fire.

Hearing the shot, the other brother came out of the dugout, and was shot as he emerged.

The slayer gave himself up to the sheriff of Colfax County, waiving examining trial.

R. N. Woolfolk, of Lockney, father of the boys, and L. A. Wofford started for New Mexico as soon as the news was received, making the trip, 352 miles distance, without resting. Arrangements for embalming the bodies were made there, and they were shipped to Plainview, preceded through the country by Messrs. Woolfolk and Wofford. From Plainview the bodies were taken to Lockney in automobiles.

There was no eye witness to the shooting except an imbecile, whom, it is stated, has already made conflicting statements about the occurrence. Mr. Wofford, who went with the father to arrange for the burial, gives the details of the tragedy to The Herald.

WILSON'S SPEECH MAY LEAD WAY TO PEACE

DIPLOMATIC CIRCLES BELIEVE PRESIDENT'S UTTERANCES SIGNIFICANT.

U. S. WONT TAKE INITIATIVE

Will Remain in Position to Carry Out Good Offices Given at Opening of War.

Under a Washington date line, a staff correspondent to The Dallas Morning News interprets the President's recent speech before the league to enforce peace as being accepted in official and diplomatic circles as the most significant utterance on the subject of peace since the European war began and as a step which will mark the way for negotiations. "In German circles, particularly," he states, "was the address of interest. Correspondents of German newspapers in their reports construed the President's words as a response to the statements of the German Chancellor and other German statesmen that Berlin is ready to discuss peace terms it has outlined.

"It was noticeable that German comment on the speech was nearly unanimous that it would be received with favor in Europe, with the possible exception of England, where there have been no comments favorable to the peace talk recently emanating from Germany.

Will Not Take Initiative.

"The President strongly intimated that the United States would not take the initiative unless a favorable opportunity offered, but remain in the position of willingness to carry out the good offices given at the outbreak of the war and renewed on another occasion. The course outlined, however, was deeply significant, as the President said, 'If it should ever be our privilege to suggest or initiate a movement for peace among the nations now at war.'

"Among the peace delegates, a number of whom were from Texas, the President's treatment of the subject was thoroughly approved and is expected to bring the issue to a conclusion in Europe without much delay. Standing as the United States does, the only great neutral power, it is anticipated that the belligerents will realize the President at least invites use of the American Government to bring hostilities to an end. These delegates, whose energies at home were dropped and time given to further a sentiment, think there is a public sentiment in Europe for termination of the conflict that will assert itself before many weeks. While they admit that this condition has been believed for a year or more, the fact that peace hints are continually thrown out lends color to the idea that the sentiment is crystallizing with some force.

Germany Believed Receptive.

"Germany's expression of terms upon which she would be willing to consider ending the war are accepted as indicating that overtures would be received, and the opinion prevails in Washington generally the President entertains similar thoughts. Many of the delegates departed for home today enthused over the success of the meeting.

"Successful termination of the submarine negotiations with Germany leaves the American Government in a more advantageous position to further peace talk among the belligerents. The passage in President Wilson's speech about security of the highways of the seas, while generally looked upon as referring to submarine activities, is susceptible of another construction, according to the Washington view, that being a demand for freedom for neutral property as well as life. That the English view of the speech and the American effort put forward by the meeting for establishment of permanent peace will be interesting is freely admitted."

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Winslow left this morning for Amarillo, where Mrs. Winslow will enter a sanitarium for another operation.

MARRIAGE LICENSE ISSUED.

County Clerk B. H. Towery has issued a marriage license to C. O. Howard and G. E. Frelburg, of Lockney.

Motor News of General Interest

WAR MOTORS SHOW WEAKNESS IN RADIATORS.

"Radiators are proving to be the weak spots."

That is one of the lessons in respect to motor equipment requirements, as taught by the European War, according to Major Francis Lawton, of the Commissary Department of the East, United States Army.

Major Lawton directed attention to the disadvantages of radiators in a recent address before the Pennsylvania section of the Society of Automobile Engineers, on the transportation lessons of the great war in relation to the problems of preparedness in this country. He said that modern warfare has supplied, for the first time, the experience upon which knowledge of the needs for the right kind of service can be based.

Ten observations relating to type, capacity and equipment in motor transportation for military purposes were cited by Major Lawton. Of the ten, the only one in which mechanical difficulties was involved singled out the radiator as the weak spot of any motor squadron.

This condition is further emphasized by information given by the correspondent of a news service, writing from the scene of the American punitive expedition's activities in Mexico. He explains that the efficiency of motor transports has been hindered by their consumption of large quantities of water for cooling. Water along the march has been very scarce, and with the trucks demanding their portion, that for men and horses has necessarily been decreased much below normal.

The impracticability of water-consuming radiators in military equipment adds interest to direct air cooling. It is predicted that the adaptability of direct air cooling to rigorous service will finally be recognized as the solution of drawbacks incident to the use of radiators.

THE MOTOR TRUCK IN MEXICO.

Only by the immediate purchase of two hundred trucks just completed and ready for shipment to France was the War Department able to cope with the novel situation in Mexico caused by the extremely rapid advance of the punitive expedition over the mountain roads and the necessity of supporting it at all costs without delay. Mules were definitely proved of no use for transportation, since they ate more than they carried. As we read in the New York Evening Post, in part:

"The first week of actual service revealed the superiority of trucks over mules, not only in the greater speed and running radius of the trucks, but in the reduction of labor, hauling-units, forage-requirements, and cost of operation. One of the first units to reach the front was Motor-Truck Company No. 1, composed of twenty-eight White trucks. Ordered by long-distance telephone on March 15, these trucks were shipped by special train on March 16, and arrived in Columbus on March 19, only four days after the advance column had crossed the border.

"Many of the rivers, wells, and water-holes along the route of the army-transport service are either polluted or poisoned, making it necessary to transport practically all the water used for drinking. For this purpose the War Department placed a rush order with the company for three tank-trucks of 600 gallons' capacity each, and these trucks are now in service.

"Every piece of motor equipment now in service in Mexico is called upon to render extraordinary service. In overcoming the natural difficulties presented by deep sands, always shifting with the wind and obliterating parts of the trail, as well as the rough routes through passes and canyons, the army trucks have only begun their work. The sand storms, which impose so much suffering upon men and mules, also impede the progress of the trucks.

"Great clouds of dust and fine sand raised by the gentlest breeze sweep across the deserts and plateaux of Chihuahua, enveloping the trucks and lodging sand in the truck carbureters, as well as the eyes and throats of the drivers. The trucks have been rendered practically immune from conditions of this kind, having all working parts fully enclosed, magnetos equipped with leather covers, and carbureters protected from the flying sand.

"In addition to hauling supplies, the motor truck is performing an equally important work for the Signal Corps.

Communication between Columbus and the advance column in Mexico is maintained by motor trucks equipped with radio sets."

DODGE BROTHERS CAR SAVES LIVES OF FAMILY.

A. D. Frost staked the lives of his wife and baby and his own life on his Dodge Brothers Motor Car during the Villa raid in Columbus, N. M.

The Frost family encountered probably more thrills and genuine peril than most of the numerous refugees who had narrow escapes from the bandits. Mr. and Mrs. Frost were aroused in the early morning by shouts and the firing of guns. They looked out in the streets and it was teeming with Mexicans.

Mr. Frost got out his car. Mrs. Frost and the two-weeks-old baby were still in their night-clothes when he put them in the back seat and made away for Deming.

They had proceeded only a little beyond the outskirts of Columbus when a carload of bandits started pursuit. They fired on Frost repeatedly. Five bullets passed through the driver's seat. Two struck Frost, one in the shoulder and another piercing his elbow. Except for almost superhuman effort Frost would have lost control of the wheel when he was wounded, and the car would have plunged into the ditch. He clung to his position, however, until the bandits were out of range. Weak from the loss of blood, he sank into his seat.

Mrs. Frost, who climbed from the back seat to his side when he was wounded, quickly took the wheel. Leaning over his body, she drove the last of the thirty-five miles to Deming. The baby, which she had left in the rear seat on joining Mr. Frost, rolled to the floor of the car, and was found there, quiet and unharmed, at the end of the flight.

Mr. Frost spent several days in the hospital, but was able to ride back, with his wife at the wheel.

"Is dem you-all's chickens?" "Co'se ey's mah chickens. Whose do you s'pose dey is?"

"Ah wasn't s'posin' nuffin' 'bout 'em; but Ah will say dat it's mighty lucky dat a chicken won't come runnin' an' wagin' its tail when its regular owner whistles, same as a dog."

SPEAKING OF NAMES.

"The title of efficiency engineer," said an officer at the League Island Navy Yard, "doesn't necessarily imply that a man is either efficient or that he is an engineer. "It's a good deal like a Welsh rabbit, which is neither Welsh nor rabbit—it's just a piece of cheese."

Why All the Hurry?

Ever since the public first tasted the New Post Toasties, the factories have been heavily taxed to supply the demand.

These new flakes are different—better in flavour and form. A distinguishing feature is the tiny bubbles on each golden flake, produced by a new, patented process of manufacture.

New Post Toasties are not "chaffy" in the package; they don't mush down when milk or cream is added like ordinary flakes; and there's a delicious new flavour—the true flavour of prime, white Indian corn—brought out for the first time.

The Herald's Review of the Movies

Thursday The Mae I. offers "As a Woman Sows," a sensational De Luxe Edition Mutual Masterpicture, featuring Gertrude Robinson and Alexander Gaden. When these artists put their names to contracts with the Gaumont Company a few months ago, discriminating lovers of motion pictures watched the productions with more enthusiasm. The out-of-door scenes were taken in mid-winter, but in sunny Florida. "As a Woman Sows" is an intimate story of married life. A young wife, feeling that her husband does not care enough for her and that he devotes too much time to business and politics, connives with another in a flirtation merely to revive her husband's interest. Complications arise.

A special attraction is offered Friday at The Mae I., it being "Triangle Day." In addition to "The Golden Claw" (Triangle), a Keystone Comedy, "The Best Enemies" is offered. No reviews of this film in advance are obtainable. However, it is announced by the management that the usual high standard of Triangle pictures, which The Mae I. considers its leader, will be shown.

"Seeing America First" and "Keeping Up With the Joneses" comes again Saturday at The Mae I. The young children all know what this split-reel feature is.

"The Smugglers of Santa Cruz" is also to be shown this day. This is a three-part Clipper Drama, in which William Russell is starred. Charlotte Burton, partners in evil-doing in "The Diamond from the Sky," have completely changed characters in this drama. Russell is seen in a magnificent romantic role, and Miss Burton, as the unsophisticated daughter of a California coast lighthousekeeper, follows the call of love—even to self-destruction.

Burton, as Langdon, a young revenue officer, falls in love with the young girl. She is also admired by the leader of a smuggler band. There are plenty of exciting coast scenes and lively action.

Flowers Her Hobby.

Gladys Hulette, Mutual favorite, has many friends, but her chief friends and most constant companions are her books. "What other girls spend on needless finery, I prefer to spend on my flowers and my books," she says. Her delightful rooms are always a mass of flowers and leaves.

MAKE FARM HOME ATTRACTIVE.

In the design and construction of the farm-house the question of utility alone should not be the determining factor. The first thought should be the making of a home. The amount of money to be invested in the building of the home should not be determined by its relation in size to the balance of the plant, nor by the amount that is necessary merely to provide a shelter, but the amount to be invested should be that which the owner may reasonably afford without financially crippling himself too severely. The average city dweller in buying a house for a home does not proceed solely on the basis of what he can expect to secure in case it is ever desirable to place the house on the market. He is not likely to consider the purchase of a home as a financial investment, but as a social one, which will enable him to secure for his family the comforts and conveniences that he could not secure in a rented house, and to have for his family a genuine home, a genuine home life. If he is able when the time arrives to dispose of his property to financial advantage, well and good; if not, he considers, and properly so, that he has made a good investment from the social side.

There is no panacea that will cure the yearning for city life evidenced by the country boys and girls of today, but there are certain conditions, which, if established, will add materially to the attractiveness of life in the country, and should therefore prevent them from flocking to the cities merely to avoid life on the farm. It is not to be expected that every person reared on a farm will desire to follow farming as a life work, nor is it necessarily desirable that they should do so. Many of the boys will feel a calling to one or another of the professions, and it is probable that if allowed to follow their bent they will be far more successful and contented than if over-persuaded to stay with the farm. The problem is not to force the boy or girl to remain on the farm, but to assist them in every way in making an intelligent choice. Their choice can not possibly be intelligent unless they are familiar with farm life under its best conditions.—E. B. McCormick, Office of Public Roads and Rural Engineering. Yearbook, 1915.

HOW FARMERS SPEND MONEY.

The belated March report shows American exports to be in excess of $410,000,000 for the month, while the balance of trade in our favor is now approximately $2,250,000,000. At such a time there comes to mind Goldsmith's lines, "Ill fares the land to hastening ills a prey, where wealth accumulates and men decay." Real prosperity, permanent and dependable, is built not on conditions that make possible $150-per-plate dinners and marble baths more luxurious than any of which the proudest Roman dreamed. It is built on agriculture, trades, and on the sane, simple life that goes with these. Happily, farmers and laborers are sharing somewhat in the prosperity of the hour. Farmers generally are making a better living—living a broader life—and enjoying some of the one-time luxuries which rapidly are coming to be classed as necessities. The automobile is now a part of the equipment of hundreds of thousands of farms. Electricity has been given a place in many a rural residence where running water and sewer systems make for comfort. Hogs at $10, lambs at a similar figure and wool at 30 cents make possible these and other comforts to which farmers have long been entitled. The farmer is able to spend more money than he once spent, and he is spending it wisely and well. He has not gone in for idle show, but he is providing first for the comforts of his family. He is evidencing a new interest in better schools and better roads, and is contributing liberally toward whatever makes for community betterment. At the same time, the farmer is not unmindful as to the needs of his business. Records of sales of registered stock show that the demand for choice individuals having the most desirable breeding is such as to result in top prices. In fact, there is a healthy demand for every animal good enough to use for breeding purposes. Not only is there a call for better stock, but farmers are interested in better seed and in more efficient farm machinery. The increased expenditure on the part of farmers represents not waste but wisdom. Prosperity should and does result in a better standard of living, but there should be a reasonable limit to luxuries.—Breeder's Gazette.

CORN SCARCITY IN MEXICO.

(Vice Consul Homer C. Coen, Durango.) The corn crop in the State of Durango for last year was only about one-fifth the normal yield, and therefore the available supply is almost exhausted. The price of corn in the city of Durango has advanced to a point which makes it almost prohibitive to persons of small means. Recently the military authorities opened stores and sold corn at a reasonably low figure, but the supply was soon exhausted, and the price advanced to nearly $1.60 United States currency per bushel. It is generally admitted that a supply of corn must be imported to satisfy the needs. According to advices received from neighboring districts, it seems probable that no help can be expected from them.—U. S. Commerce Reports.

The Oil Stove Boon

HUMAN beings are made for moderate temperature; they are unhappy when either too hot or too cold.

In warm weather the woman who does the cooking is apt to be overheated a good deal of the time if she has to depend on a coal or wood range. Whether she be mistress or servant it is not good for her disposition or her efficiency. The stifling air of an overheated kitchen several hours a day, every day, is a drain on her physical and nervous powers that is both harmful and unnecessary.

Here is where the FLORENCE Oil Stove fits the case. It is not expensive. A good oil stove gives heat when you want it, can be put out immediately when you are through with it. Its heat is directed right up into the cooking (if it is a FLORENCE). It is safe and economical (the FLORENCE costs about one-half cent per hour per burner when in use.) Not only is it very economical of fuel but its value is saved many times over in comfort, happiness and health.

We are sure these distinctive FLORENCE features will appeal to you.

1. Handsome in appearance.
2. Highest power per burner.
3. No wicks to bother with.
4. No valves to clog or leak.
5. Once lighted will run at full power without further attention.
6. Simplest possible to handle.
7. Exceptionally strong and durable.
8. Extra large tank, (holding full gallon.)
9. Unbreakable glass front to tank (showing quantity of oil.)

We don't want to give too many of the good points of The FLORENCE Stove. You will discover others when you have used one.

PEACH-LEAF CURL AND PEAR BLIGHT AND HOW CURED.

By W. B. LANHAM,
Horticulturist, Extension Service,
A. and M. College of Texas.

Peach-leaf curl is a fungus disease which causes the leaves to thicken, discolor, curl up and finally drop off the tree. This loss of foliage in the midst of the growing season lowers the vitality of the tree, as the food that would normally be used in the growth or in the maturing of fruit is diverted to making another crop of leaves. As the fungus is between the tissues of the leaves, no spray can be applied at this season that will be of any assistance. The disease, however, can be easily controlled by spraying while the leaves are off with a lime-sulphur solution, such as is recommended for San Jose Scale and described in Extension Bulletin B-13, on "Care of Peach Orchards." It can be applied any time the tree is dormant.

Many apple trees are affected with a disease known by various names, such as Apple Blight, Twig Blight, Blossom Blight, depending upon the fruit or part of the tree affected. This disease lives over the winter in what is known as canker or rough infected portions of the bark. In spring as soon as growth begins, a sticky sap exudes from these cankers, which contain large numbers of these bacteria. These and other insects suck this juice and then visit flowers and inoculate them. Aphids not only inoculate flowers, but soft, succulent growths, such as water sprouts. The only remedy for the disease is to eradicate it. As it is within the tissue of the plant, no spray can reach it.

If the disease is very bad at this time, the trees should be carefully gone over and all affected parts removed and the trees pruned immediately. The pruned wood should not be allowed to remain in the orchard even for a few days before burning, but should be destroyed the same day it is cut off. In making a cut, the diseased portion should be removed two feet below where there is any evidence of the disease, as the bacteria may be under the bark that far below the point where the disease appears on the surface. In the fall and winter the diseased portions can be much easier located than now, for the leaves do not drop at the same time normal, healthy leaves do; also, the disease is not running so rapidly at that time. So, the trees should be very carefully gone over in the winter and fall and all diseased portions removed. If a tree is very badly infected it is better to remove it bodily and burn it. After making a cut the pruning tool should be carefully disinfected before making another cut. This should be done for the reason that if by any chance the cut should be made through an infected portion of the branch and the tools are not disinfected the disease will be scattered and more harm than good done by the pruning. Corrosive sublimate is a good disinfectant. It can be purchased in tablet form at drug stores and should be used at the rate of one part of the poison to 1,000 parts of water. It is a deadly poison, and should be kept out of the way of children.

While no spray will control the blight, yet, as it is spread very rapidly by means of plant lice or aphids, the tree should be carefully sprayed with Black Leaf 40, so as to eradicate these pests.

SWEET POTATO CULTIVATION.

By G. M. GARREN,
Agronomist, Extension Service, Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas.

The cultivation of sweet potatoes does not differ materially from the cultivation of other field and garden crops. Four furrows are thrown up with a turn-plow to make the ridge on which the potato draws are transplanted. The first thing in cultivation is run between the rows with a sweep and burst out the small ridge usually left after the main ridges have been thrown up. After that, cultivation consists in destroying weeds and maintaining a soil mulch to conserve moisture. The field should be cultivated shallow, as soon as possible, after every rain, and once a week when it does not rain. For these cultivations a harrow-tooth cultivator is one of the best of implements. It will be necessary to give them at least two hand hoeings. Since hand hoeing is expensive cultivation should be so managed as to dispense with as much of it as possible.

When the vines have covered a greater portion of the middle, give them the last working by first turning the vines back across the ridge and then working out the middle, thoroughly drawing the soil to the vines. All cultivations should draw the soil to the vines at the top of the ridge. Then turn the vines back to their original place and work out the next middle the same way, until the whole field has been covered. If enough weeds spring up afterwards to interfere with the growth of the vines they will have to be pulled out by hand. It does not injure sweet potatoes to break the vines loose from the soil. It greatly reduces the yield of potatoes to cut off any part of the vines during the growing period.

KANSAS CITY STOCK MARKET IN DETAIL.

KANSAS CITY STOCK YARDS, May 26.—Beef steers close the week around 50 cents higher, and with good prospects. On a small run today, a top of $10.25 was paid, and unless too many prime cattle are drawn out Monday, on the basis of the market now something might appear worth $10.40 or $10.50. Middle and low-class beef steers show even more strength than the best steers, nothing of consequence selling under $8.50, and killers buying all the feeders, and some of the stockers. Best pulp-fed steers are worth $10.25, and none will sell under $9.50, because the pulp cattle offered now have had a long feed and are good.

Butcher grades participated in the boom, best heavy cows bringing $8.75, bulls up to $8.25, yearling steers and heifers up to $10.00. Veal calves are the only kind of bovines at a standstill, best ones $11.00.

Stockers and feeders sold higher the first of the week, or, more correctly speaking, stockers did, for the feeder is at present an unknown quantity, not exactly extinct, but non-existent for the moment because the packers have promoted him into a beef steer. However, country buyers have balked on the high prices, calves and yearlings up to $9.75 this week, and trade is dull in the stocker division today, with prices tending lower.

It is not thought possible that enough cattle can be assembled at the markets at any one time within the next thirty days to hurt prices seriously, and after that the finished steer will be in a position where runs of grass cattle will have little effect on his standing.

Hogs are going down, declines being effective each of the last three days, but prices still resisting the downward tendency tenaciously. Receipts today are 6,000, and the week's supply is 55,000 head, ten thousand less than last week. Buyers are making a strong effort to put prices down, and some of them take the matter seriously, but so far the big break that was in the air yesterday and Wednesday is non-effective to a great extent, and apparently it is being slowly dissipated. Top hogs sold at $9.80 today, only 15 cents below best time this week, and bulk of sales range from $9.50 to $9.75. A feature today was 3 cars of hogs from Twin Falls, Idaho, 186 pounds, at $9.55, sold straight. The shrink on these was only 7 pounds per head, from Idaho, and not a hog died on the trip.

Sheep and lambs close the week 35 to 50 cents below the high time, killing goats a quarter lower, brushers steady. Woolled lambs are about all in, some second or third raters yesterday at $11.50, spring lambs worth $11.00 to $12.00, clipped range wethers $8.25 to $8.75, fat goats $5.75 to $6.15, Angora brushers $5.25 to $5.75, Mexican brushers $5.00 to $6.00. Receipts this week amount to 33,000 head, including 8,000 goats.

Health Worry

only puts one further "under the weather." Often the best way out is to make a decided change in the daily diet, for sound health is largely a matter of selecting right food.

Active brains and vigorous bodies require wholesome, easily digestible food containing true nourishment, and it must include certain mineral elements, phosphate of potash, etc. These elements—lacking in many foods, but abundantly stored in the field grains—are supplied in splendid proportion in

UGH! CALOMEL MAKES YOU DEATHLY SICK
Stop Using Dangerous Drug Before It Salvates You! It's Horrible!
You're bilious, sluggish, constipated and straighten you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick I want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calomel today, and tomorrow and believe you need vile, dangerous calomel to start your liver and clean your bowels.
Here's my guarantee! Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver you will feel weak and sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tone tonight and wake up feeling great. It's perfectly harmless, so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate, so let them eat anything afterwards. Adv.

POSITIVE PROOF. Should Convince the Greatest Skeptic in Plainview.

Because it's the evidence of a Plainview citizen.
Testimony easily investigated. The strongest endorsement of merit. The best proof. Read it:
Mrs. T. R. Alexander, Archer and Slaton Sts., Plainview, says: "I suffered from a feeling of distress in the small of my back and was languid in the morning. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from the Long Drug Co., removed the trouble and strengthened my back."
Mrs. Alexander is only one of many Plainview people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask DISTINCTLY FOR DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS, the same that Mrs. Alexander had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. FOUR COUNTIES STILL UNDER CATTLE SCABIES QUARANTINE.

Seven Texas counties and a portion of another one are released from Federal quarantine for cattle scabies by an order effective July 1. This order marks almost the last stage in the fight against this disease, which began in 1905. At that time 1,269,844 square miles were quarantined on this account. After July 1 only 3,817 square miles of this area will remain in quarantine.

The area still infested by cattle scabies includes four Texas counties—Castro, Lamb, Bailey and Cochran. The counties released by the new order are Dallam, Sherman, Hartley, Oldham, Beckley, Yoakum, Gaines and the remainder of Parmer County.

In the released area it is probable that occasional dipping will be necessary for some time to prevent any re-appearance of the disease. Such outbreaks, however, should be purely sporadic, and can be controlled by State quarantine of the immediate localities affected.

Add the unbeaten white of an egg to cream which is too thin to whip, and it will whip readily.

NOTICE.

A call meeting is hereby issued of the Plainview Cemetery Association at the City Hall at three o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 3. All interested in the improvement of the Plainview Cemetery are urged to be present.

EL PASO HOST FOR 1916 SOIL-PRODUCTS EXPOSITION.

The 1916 Soil-Products Exposition is to be held in El Paso in October.

Ten years of ever-increasing success have clearly demonstrated that this is the greatest exposition of soil products in the world. Here are annually displayed the results of modern, scientific, up-to-date farming from twenty states, and from many nations and provinces. Here are to be found those object lessons which exert such a tremendous influence toward a better agriculture. The results of the research work of National and State experiment stations is here displayed in concrete form. Delegates from a majority of the American States, from all the Canadian provinces, and from twenty other countries are always present, to study the exhibits in all lines.

The latest and most improved farm implements and machinery are displayed and demonstrated at this exposition. Progressive farmers can well afford to, and do, travel hundreds of miles to attend, as they are thereby enabled to keep fully abreast of all development affecting agriculture and allied industries.

Premiums, medals and diplomas are awarded on all classes of exhibits.

This exposition is held under the auspices of The International Farm Congress (The International Dry-Farming Congress).

Previous Congresses and Expositions have been held as follows: 1907, Denver, Colorado; 1908, Salt Lake City, Utah; 1909, Cheyenne, Wyoming; 1909, Billings, Montana; 1910, Spokane, Washington; 1911, Colorado Springs, Colorado; 1912, Lethbridge, Canada; 1913, Tulsa, Oklahoma; 1914, Wichita, Kansas; 1915, Denver.

LONE STAR IN GLOOM OVER DEATH OF WOOLFOLK BOYS.

LONE STAR, May 30.—Our community is wrapped in gloom on account of the killing of our neighbor boys, Paul and Fred Woolfolk. More than 500 viewed the remains at Lockney Sunday afternoon, and many went away who did not view their bodies. There was a beautiful floral offering to these deserving boys. Our community don't afford a nicer, quieter set of boys than they have proven to be during the seven years they have lived here, and I speak the sentiment of the whole neighborhood when I say we are deeply grieved over their untimely death.

Rev. Nance was buried at Silverton on last Thursday afternoon. Thirteen cars of neighbors followed him to his last resting place. His sickness has been long and he has suffered much. He bore it with patience and was ready and anxious to go. All was done for him that his loving family and neighbors could do.

Our whole community is wrapped in gloom at the deaths of the past week.

Our farmers are getting quite anxious to see rain, as the small grain is suffering for moisture.

Virgil Dodson is home from Plainview, where he has been attending school at Wayland Baptist College the past winter.

Our girls and boys are all home from school now, and there is great rejoicing.

The singing school is doing nicely, with more than 75 pupils in attendance and doing good work.

Rev. S. W. Smith did not fill his appointment here Sunday, on account of the burial of the Woolfolk boys.
