"The fools are not all dead
And I'll tell you the reason why:
Because the little fools grow up
Before the old fools die."

As nearly as we can get at it, red tape is nothing but a system which requires six months to do a job that action could do in as many days.

If President Wilson will put through the treaty of peace, and then come home and fire Postmaster General Burleson the world will become "safe for democracy."

"Out this way," says a western paper, "we have a way of our own in deporting the Bolshevik. We deport him by putting a rope around his neck, throwing the rope over a limb and pulling."

C. A. Lamb, who has been editing the Lorenzo Enterprise for a few months, has gone to Matador and resurrected the Motley County News, which has been suspended since the death of Editor Bob Johnson, some months ago.

Under private ownership unless there is due regard for income and out go, there cannot be success. Under government ownership those in charge have little regard for making both ends meet, for they feel that the government will make good any deficiency.

The doughboy who comes home from France expecting to be married at once will have nervous prostration when he buys his first American newspaper and reads in the advertisements: "Women's spring suits, $45.00. Women's oxfords, $12.50," to say nothing of the produce and market reports.

The first vice president of the bunch on the corner says that having elected one of their members to a public office, the bunch will have out full tickets in next year's campaign. He avers there is so little work about holding office that it does not forfeit a man's membership in the Sons of Rest to be elected.

Clarence Mackey, former head of the Postal Telegraph Co., says he will reduce rates to the old basis, if Postmaster Burleson will turn his business back to him. This will be a saving of sixteen million dollars a year to the people. By all means turn them back to him, Albert, for you are making a botch of the business.

Representative Marvin Jones, predicts that the constitution of the league of nations will carry all safeguards required by American interests and that the completed draft will remove all conscientious objection and leave partisan opposition no ground on which to stand. The News has been predicting for some time that the senate will ratify it when the time comes for voting. The American people are for the league.

We have been accustomed to think of Japan as a land of cherry blossoms, wistaria, Fujiyama, and the quaint kimono; but it is becoming increasingly necessary to think of Japan as a land of smokestacks. Thirty-four years ago there was about one hundred and twenty-five modern factories in Japan. At the present time there are at least twenty thousand. At that period these factories employed perhaps fifteen thousand people. Today more than one million men, women and children are working in the mills and factories of modern Japan.

Representative T. J. Tilson of this county has been criticised for introducing in the legislature a bill for a survey of the state and school lands, with a view of finding all excess, same to be sold and the funds turned into the permanent state school fund, where it belongs. We asked Col. Tilson to write an article explaining the matter, and he has done so, and same is published in this issue of the News. His explanation should satisfy anyone that the measure is a good one, both for the school fund and the owners of the land wherein excess land may be found by such a survey. Read the article.

Mrs. Jesse Trippett of Floydada was here yesterday en route home after being in a Dallas sanitarium for a surgical operation.

The laborers in the big German city of Stuttgart struck last week, for political reasons, whereupon the bourgeoisie met them by a counter strike, all the tradesmen, merchants, manufacturers, state and municipal officers, doctors and chemists stopping work. The newspapers also refused to publish editions and the street car service was suspended. Now, isn't that a pretty kettle of fish? But, the strike spirit is abroad in the world and no matter what comes up, the first thought is to go on a strike. My, but what if the wives of the world should go on a strike and refuse to cook for their families! If they should in a couple of days the world would become a seething, raging mass of wild-eyed men whose actions would make those of the Russian Bolsheviks seem as decorous as a Quaker prayer meeting.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

It is a poor senator who could not enormously improve the Ten Commandments, or the Sermon on the Mount, or the Constitution of the United States. If the authors of the first two utterances should appear with the most painstaking arguments in support of them, it is the poorest kind of lawyer who could not pile up objections in detail, under hypothetical cases, twice as fast as the authors could adduce reasons for accepting the utterances. That is more or less the trade of lawyers. Given a body of men who want to raise hypothetical objections, the first paragraph of the Declaration of Independence would have provoked so many arguments that the document would have been under debate to this hour, and our half dollar would be adorned with the image of King George.

If you take any possible Constitution of a League of Nations as the last word that is ever going to be said on the subject, as fixing now and forever the terms of international relations, and then set yourself to conjuring up hypothetical cases under which it might not work well, you would never get a League of Nations. And that—do not forget—is exactly what some of the sensational objectors want: No League of Nations, but substitutionally the old international system, which gave the great war its ample opportunity.

A draft of the league's constitution affords a working basis to begin with. As soon as the breath of life is breathed into it, like all living things, it will begin to change. There will be modifications and amendments as experience shows the need of them.

The precise form in which the constitution of the league is cast is comparatively unimportant. The great thing is to accept the underlying principle of friendly international organization and to get a settlement of Europe's affairs now that will reduce the danger of war to the lowest practicable point. That is what the objecting senators never would do. Whatever form the constitution was cast in, they would still find objections.—Saturday Evening Post.

A Massachusetts woman who claimed that a man kissed her 8,300 times in twenty-two years is suing the gentleman for $10,000 damages. It will soon be so the girls will have to keep computing cash registers and adding machines. The kissing thing seems to be getting down to a science.

Returned soldiers tell of a negro trooper still over in France who quickly tired of the war and then tired again of the "war after the war," and now says: "Ef I eveh git back home dey'll haff to burn de woods and sift de ashes before dey eveh git me in another war."

This paper is anxious each week to issue a spicy and interesting local page. If each of our subscribers would hand or phone us in one news item, what a newsy paper we could issue. Try it for a few weeks and mark the change.

RENEWING THE MIND

Turn from these vanities to the living God.—Acts.

It would at first blush seem to be an extreme comparison to say that the human mind is much like that of the silly moth. But it will be found upon serious consideration that such comparison is not at all extreme if that mind is not governed by righteousness—principle. In such case it finds itself looking for pleasure and happiness to those things which sooner or later mean destruction, just as the little insect allows itself to be drawn into the flame of the candle and destroyed.

It is established beyond controversy, and has been for ages, that those things which hold out temptations to the physical senses are essentially destructive.

This is necessarily so for the reason that all things material are the direct opposite of things spiritual. The Apostle gives this thought impressive emphasis when he says, "To be carnally minded is death; but to be

TO THE BUYING PUBLIC

Listen! It is To Your Interest

We are absolutely selling groceries for less money than other grocers—compare our general range of prices with those of others, considering quality, and you will readily see that what we say is true.

The Piggly Wiggly Has Put the Romance In Merchandising

For the Piggly Wiggly has perfected a system for the distribution of groceries

Piggly Wiggly is the name of a certain system, character and type of a grocery store different from any store "All over the World." The labor saving devices used, the original and distinctive system, the "self serving" store; these and so many other special features all make for low cost in merchandising, for we do away with all extravagances, loss and duplications of work. We buy for cash and sell for cash only, and we make money at each end of the transaction.

At the Piggly Wiggly you wait on yourself, you take your own time to do so; you see the price, note the brand and quality of the goods. Everything is fresh, sanitary and wholesome.

We do not make any special prices—every article in the stock is sold as cheap as it is possible under our unique system to sell it, and that is less than others can possibly sell for.

We appreciate the goodly volume of business we are already receiving, which is increasing as the people begin to know of our store, and its saving and service to them. If you haven't beet in to see us, do so the next time you are in town.

spiritually minded is life and peace." This is why he says elsewhere, "Set your affections on things above, and not on things on the earth," for he realized that no one ever rises higher than his ideal, and very few so high.

The only way by which one can be immune from the destruction which waits on those who break the law is to have one's mind occupied with better things. Those whose affections are set on things spiritual are not likely to be carried into the bondage of sin by things material, which is a worse slavery than is the cruelest physical serfdom. We are told how to avoid the traps and snares, the quagmires and quicksands of evil in thousands of places in the Book of books. For example, "Be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind."

Correct thinking is manifestly the only guarantee to correct living.

He whose mind is fixed on love and charity, gentleness and loving kindness, will not be found suffering from the penalties which go with the sins of hate and avarice, cruelty and intolerance. The wrong thinker can easily transform himself by renewing his mind, having only to take to heart the admonition, "Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and unto our God, for he will abundantly pardon." One's mind can not be renewed in the sense implied by the Apostle unless he is sufficiently repentant of his wrong deeds to forsake them and "turn to the living God." This can be done, indeed, must be done, if he is to be transformed from an evil-doer to a doer of those things which please God. He not only has the privilege of doing this, but also has innumerable invitations and exhortations to do so with the assurance, "Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool." When one takes advantage of this promise his mind is soon renewed, and if it is done in meek sincerity it stays renewed. If one does not have the mind renewed as he is admonished to do, it is not because the means have not been offered him, for "God hath not given us the spirit of fear, but of power, and of love and of a sound mind." Now, a really sound mind is one that is renewed, one which sets its affections on things above—on spiritual joys, and not on material pains and pleasures. Material pleasures are in reality more dangerous to one's eternal welfare than are material pains and sufferings, for it is often that one is induced through material afflictions to seek the living God, finding no help elsewhere.

It is by seeking Him "with the whole heart" that we may renew our minds day by day.

This seeking is accomplished by following the adjuration of Isaiah, "Seek ye out of the book of the Lord, and read," and that of Amos, "Seek ye me, and ye shall live." This implies that if we do not seek Him we shall not live, for if one could live and not seek Him, why seek Him at all? This is why the Master admonished His hearers to "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness."

Right thinking, otherwise a properly renewed mind, robs us of fear and apprehension, of distrust and faithlessness. It supplants doubt with faith, hate with love, and error with truth.

If one has not the desire to have his mind renewed he has eyes but does not see and ears but does not hear, for every one who has ever tried to present spiritual things to a person who is crassly material in his thought will testify to the fact that it is next to impossible to persuade him to give attention. This was evidently what was meant by the Savior when He said, "Neither cast ye your pearls before swine." The Apostle Paul explains this difficulty by saying, "The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God, for they are foolishness unto him; neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned." One whose mind is constantly fixed on material things knows nothing of spiritual things, and therefore has no appreciation of them. Thus it is that "Blessed are they that hear the Word of God and keep it."

"Clenze your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double-minded." It is only by cleansing our hands and purifying our hearts that we are enabled to renew our minds. In other words, it is the only way by which we can draw nigh unto God and have Him draw nigh unto us, as the Apostle said.

We can not face him with bloody hands.

We cannot pray to Him with an impure mind.

We cannot plead for forgiveness with a hypocritical heart.—Dallas News.

The Eighteenth Amendment
There have been but six amendments to the constitution of the United States since September 25, 1804. During this period of time, nearly one hundred and fifteen years the people have not cared to add to or to take many things from the fundamental law. From 1804 to the close of the civil war the constitution remained the same. Then the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, dealing with new problems which had grown out of the freeing of the negro were enacted. The last of these three was ratified March 30, 1870. The power to amend after this was not successfully used until 1913, when the sixteenth amendment was added to the constitution, granting congress the power to lay and collect income taxes. The seventeenth amendment, pertaining to the election of senators by a direct vote of the people, was ratified during the early part of the year 1913. An amendment to the constitution of the United States of America is the expression of the overwhelming desire of the people. The eighteenth amendment makes it contrary to the fundamental law of the land for manufacture, transport, import, export, or sell intoxicating liquor in any territory completely under the jurisdiction of our national government. This amendment will become effective in January, 1920.

On the Farm

We hear of great men who have won the shining summits of renown they've garnered dollars by the ton, with honors they are loaded down. We read the facts of their careers—such narratives have endless charm—and o'er and o'er this fact appears: "They spent their boyhood on the farm." 'Twas on the farm they learned to work with all their energy and snap, and got the notion that a shirk is but a blemish on the map. 'Twas on the farm, 'neath open skies, they learned to hoe their divers rows; and on the farm they learned to rise with early birds, and things like that. The habits of the farm are great; they build up men of stalwart mould, who bear their burdens, walking straight, e'en when the years have made them old. The wealth of pure and sparkling air, that doesn't cost a man a cent, the regular hours, the honest fare, are good for any human gent. Great men are doing mighty deeds, by force of mind or strong right arm; and evermore the reader reads, "They spent their boyhood on the farm." The great men of the future toil on farms today, as in the past; they cultivate the fertile soil and turn the grindstone mighty fast; they shear the sheep and feed the swine, and drive the poultry to their coops, and prune the hardy pumpkin vine, and teach the cows to loop the loops. And when they've reached the shining height, where envy's arrows can not harm, biographers will proudly write, "They spent their boyhood on the farm."—Walt Mason.

Will Discharge Soldiers Rapidly

NEW PROJECTILE HAS RANGE OF 200 MILES

Worcester, Mass.—Dr. W. H. Goddard, professor of physics at Clark college, has invented a new rocket that is reported to be a terrible engine of war with an altitude range of seventy miles straight up into the air and a distance of at least 200 miles.

The rocket, in the opinion of the scientists who have investigated its workings, is the most efficient ever developed. It is claimed the best known rocket in use today has an efficiency of less than 3 per cent while the Goddard rocket has an efficiency of 63 per cent.

The rocket has been developed in a special laboratory at Worcester Tech. The signing of the armistice prevented its being put to actual use in warfare against the Germans.

The Goddard rocket, weighing thirty pounds, is propelled by a perfect gas engine installed in the lower part of the shell, the explosions that generate the power coming from cartridges that are fed into the chamber by a cocklike time device. The range of the rocket is limited only by the amount of propelling cartridges it could be fitted to carry.

The rocket does not require a cannon to start it on its flight, the journey beginning from any point where a man can get. The weapon feature of the device is in the head where a chamber is fitted to contain either high explosive or gas.

Men who have followed the development of Dr. Goddard's rocket claim it can be made as efficient in naval warfare as in land battles.

Nobody Claimed the Mules

Miss Josie Lippit, up north of Roswell was in town last week proving up her claim. Miss Josie will be remembered as the homesteader whose claim in addition to much good gramma grass also gave her a span of valuable mules. It was this way: Miss Lippit was working in the laundry in town and had been away from her claim several weeks; one day she went out home, was delayed on the road and only reached her cabin after dark. She went in and soon retired for the night. Later after a sound sleep she was awakened by a feeling that the house was in motion, and looking out she discovered that her house was on rollers and was being whisked away by a span of big mules spurred on by a driver; she made an outcry, the driver fled leaving his mules, and tho she advertised and did her best to learn who owned the mules, she could not, so they became hers by right of possession and discovery and some one who attempted to steal her claim house, failed.—Roswell (N. M.) Weekly Star.

To Kill Blue Weeds

The following formula for a spray to kill blue weeds has been tested out in various parts of the country, and is said to be very effective. The spray will kill all vegetation but will not deaden the soil. The only question is in regard to the return of the weed in following years. Thus far no one has reported a reoccurrence of the weed pest. Take it for what it is worth.

ANSWER TO CHARGE THAT Y.M.C.A. MEN AVOIDED DANGER

General Dickman, Hero of Chateau Thierry, Issues Order on Conduct—Free Supplies.

Spread upon the records of the Third division, A. E. F., and just brought to the attention of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A., is a general order issued by command of Major General Dickman, which "Y" officials have hailed as an emphatic answer to charges that Red Triangle workers had avoided the danger zones in France and had wrung exorbitant prices from the soldiers for the comforts which the association had sent overseas. General Dickman directed that a copy of the order be sent to every one of the thirty-four men and six women who went with the division through the fighting at Chateau Thierry and along the Marne, to St. Mihiel, and later into action north of Verdun and along the Meuse.

The Y. M. C. A. has made public General Dickman's order along with a communication from Col. J. C. Rhea of another division which was in the St. Mihiel fighting. Colonel Rhea gave figures showing the large amount of supplies which were distributed in his division by "Y" secretaries without charge. The order of General Dickman, who is now in command of the Army of Occupation in Germany, is as follows:

"The commanding general desires to make of record in the general orders of this division his appreciation of the part taken by the members of the Y. M. C. A. who have been attached to this division and actively carried on their work in all its phases during the time that this division was in contact with the enemy from May 31 to July 30.

"During the days beginning July 14, when the enemy made their attack and for days and nights afterward, the Y. M. C. A., through its faithful members at their posts of duty, not only with chocolate and cakes and tobacco cheered our soldiers, but were of efficient assistance to our medical staff in caring for wounded. Hot chocolate was served, in many cases free, both day and night to the wounded and ambulance drivers.

"While the men of the Y. M. C. A. were with the troops in the front line the young women of the Y. M. C. A. were detailed with the hospitals and the medical staff of this division bear testimony of their most efficient help during these two weeks of great strain.

"The conduct of these self-sacrificing and brave men and women who have so unhesitatingly given their services to their country, establishes a standard of prestige, exceptional courage, devotion and resources which the commanding general particularly commends."

Colonel Rhea, chief of staff of the general staff of one of the divisions which helped to straighten out the St. Mihiel salient, wrote to the Y. M. C. A. overseas headquarters in Paris as follows:

"The division commander directs me to thank you in the name of the officers and men of this division for your great work in having distributed gratis to this division, between September 10 and 18, a total of 147,908 packages of cigarettes, 67,540 bars of chocolate, 29,900 packages of cakes, 3,320 pounds of hard candy, and hundreds of gallons of coffee, chocolate and bouillon.

"It is impossible to express to you the appreciation of the officers and men of the pleasure and comfort you have brought to them when each one was struggling under the greatest hardships, to do his duty toward his country. You probably realize better than can be expressed the appreciation of your kindly work."

FIVE "Y" MEN GET CROIX DE GUERRE

Of Two Latest to Receive Great Honor, One Wounded by Shell.

According to a cablegram from France Henry Wharton of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, Pa., the president of a coal company in that city, and Benton V. Johnson, a real estate man of Detroit, Mich., both Y. M. C. A. workers in France, have been decorated with the croix de guerre. General Petain himself presented them. Their decorations increased to five the number of Y. M. C. A. workers receiving the croix de guerre.

Their citations, which were given to them at general headquarters, commended the two for their work under shell fire with the Twenty-sixth division, and especially mentioned their "zeal and devotion in carrying aid to the wounded under a very violent bombardment."

Both men have followed their division, which has been in the thickest of the fighting, to several fronts. They worked as stretcher bearers in the Toul sector, at Chateau Thierry and in the Argonne woods. Their job was to carry the wounded through the trenches, often several hundred yards, until it was possible to leave the trench for the road, where they put them on stretchers and carried them under fire to the dressing station.

While engaged in this work last summer Mr. Johnson was wounded by shell fragments and forced to spend two weeks in the hospital. He received his former citation for his services at this time.

IN THE VICINITY OF VLADIVOSTOK

Showing an American Y. M. C. A. man distributing bars of chocolate to Czechoslovak soldiers in Siberia. The Y. M. C. A. gave chocolate, cigarettes, etc., to the men on the extreme front lines and sold them elsewhere. Writing paper, pens, ink, moving pictures, concerts, etc., were always free to the men. Because of the very heavy expense incident to shipping all kinds of supplies overseas and then hauling them to the front, the Y. M. C. A., ordered by the war department to charge cost plus transportation, was in some cases forced to charge the soldiers more than the same goods would have cost them in the United States, with the result that the organization has been severely criticized. In view of this criticism, the army officials finally came to the Y. M. C. A.'s rescue, with the result that the boys overseas are now buying canteen supplies in many cases much cheaper than they can be bought in the United States.

"GOODIES" FOR ITALY'S FIGHTERS

"MOVING DAY" ON ITALIAN FRONT

The photo above, one of the latest from the Italian front, shows a number of Y. M. C. A. workers and soldiers taking the makings of a "Y" hut to an isolated army post so that it can be put up. It gives an illuminating idea of some of the difficulties incident to war work.

KEEP FIT FOR HOME SLOGAN OVERSEAS

Pershing Issues Order Designating Y. M. C. A. to Supervise Athletics.

Paris.—General Pershing's position regarding the Y. M. C. A.'s management of athletic activities in the American expeditionary forces is set forth in the following army order:

"The Y. M. C. A., with the approval of the commander in chief, has organized a department of athletics and is prepared to give every assistance in the development of general athletics and the arrangement and management of competitions between military units.

"It has a large number of specially trained physical directors in mass play and other athletic activities now in its ranks in France. One of these will be attached to the staff of each division and separate unit, and will be designated in orders as the divisional (or unit) athletic director, and under supervision of the division athletic officer will be charged with the responsibility for the arrangement, management and general conduct of athletic activities throughout the unit."

In another section of the order, provision is made for mass athletics and competitions for every possible man, an all-point company athletic championship and official A. E. F. championships in a wide variety of sports.

"Keep Fit for Home" is now the slogan. If the period of demobilization is not to be, as Doctor Mott has put it, "a period of demoralization" for many men, attractive, constructive physical activities must immediately be substituted. To a certain degree a continuation of military drill will meet the situation, but the games and play, informal and competitive, will be found the best agency to meet the call for physical well-being.

There will be physical expression of some sort, particularly during the leisure time of the soldier. Shall it be destructive, disorderly and dull—or constructive, orderly and interesting?

The army has decided for the latter. It has adopted a program maintaining a wise balance between the amount of drill necessary to maintain military efficiency and discipline and the amount of play necessary to keep men physically stimulated, and so the responsibility for the play side of this program for the 2,000,000 men in France is placed upon Y. M. C. A. athletic directors, experts in their profession.

IT PAYS TO READ ADVERTISEMENTS

You've often heard the saying, "It pays to advertise." That is true. And it also pays to read advertisements—pays YOU. If you read advertisements consistently for any length of time you will agree that this statement is also true.

IT PAYS YOU IN MONEY SAVED.

There are many real bargains offered from time to time in the advertisements appearing in this paper. Watch for them.

IT PAYS YOU IN SATISFACTION.

When a merchant asks you to come to his store he obligates himself to sell you quality goods "as advertised." You have a right to expect satisfaction from what you buy and you get it.

IT PAYS YOU IN TIME SAVED.

When you know exactly what you want to buy and where you want to buy it, you don't have to "look around" and waste time finding it.

Don't you want to save money and time? Wouldn't you like to be sure of getting satisfactory service and quality goods every time you go to a store? Then read the advertisements and patronize the stores which can serve you best.

Impossible Expectations
The extravagant demands which are being made throughout the country at this most inopportune time are due for the most part, to vague assurances which have been freely held out by writers and orators who, with little knowledge of business affairs themselves, have been moved by generous sentiments to promise that a new heaven and earth would be realized after the war. They don't know how industry is to be revolutionized, so that the wage-earner will receive a much larger share of the product, but they have been sure that it would be done somehow, because, they say, "it must be." But nothing must be, or will be, unless somebody knows how to accomplish it. As a rule the parties who are so sure that things will be very different in the future know very little about the problems of the business world, and have never had the responsibility of meeting a pay roll, managing an industry or marketing the product of a group of workers. They don't know how hard a task it has always been to make a business pay a margin above the costs of operation, and how few comparatively, succeed in doing it.

The federal trade commission made an inquiry upon this subject several years ago, confined to corporations, and reported that most of the corporations doing business in this country were not making even a fair profit. How are the employers of this class going to radically increase wages and bear the cost out of their own profits?

In every line of industry there are establishments of varying profits, from the most advantageously situated and most capably managed, down to those which scarcely have any profits, and below these to yet others which are wasting their capital and probably will have to close down. The scene is constantly changing, with concerns that have been leaders yielding place to younger and more vigorous rivals. Nobody has a secure and guaranteed place in the business world. Energy, new ideas, enterprise, are always bringing new competitors to the front. Profits are an uncertain, elusive quantity which one man has today and another man tomorrow. Profits are not made by increasing prices, but by reducing costs; not by having higher prices than competitors, but by being able to sell below them or sell more goods at the same price they do.

in methods have occurred recently profits are generally small. Large profits are made where there have been new developments in product or processes, which have not been fully introduced; but, taking industry as a whole, a very large part of it is in the hands of proprietors, who are operating on very moderate margins of profit. These people can not be compelled to absorb large wage increases by reducing their profits, for it is impossible for them to do so, nor can they be suddenly forced out of business in favor of more economically-managed rivals. The latter alternative is indeed a remedy which is always working more or less effectually, but it takes time.

The business organization and business methods of a country can not be changed at once; it must be accomplished by a gradual process of adjustment and evolution. An attempt to revolutionize industry by the edict of any authority must result in halting all the processes of production and exchange upon which the whole community depends for its livelihood, with incalculable loss and suffering as the result. Whatever alterations are desired in the machine must be made in such a manner that its efficiency in serving the daily wants of the community is never impaired, but day by day improved. —Bulletin of the National City Bank of New York.

The First Baptist church of Amarillo has elected as its pastor Dr. H. W. Virgin, formerly pastor in Roanoke, Virginia, but now engaged in ministerial work with the army in France. He will accept and begin the work next month.

W. R. Lotspeich has been elected secretary of the chamber of commerce at Crosbyton.
