AMERICAN ATTITUDE ON MEXICAN POLICY CHANGING

CARRANZA WARNED OUTRAGES MUST CEASE OR ACTION WILL BE TAKEN

Washington, Aug. 14.—The first definite move toward the long expected change in policy in dealing with Mexico was disclosed today.

Carranza has been warned that if the murders and outrages of Americans continues, "it may be forced to adopt a radical change in its policy with regard to Mexico."

The government announced its action by publishing an exchange of notes with Mexico, and prefaced its official statement with the explanation that the diplomacy representations referred to had been taken "in view of the long series of murders and outrages of American citizens in Mexico, culminating in the murder of Peter Catron in San Luis Potosi last month, and the perpetration of others in disregard of American lives and property."

The communication to Mexico is couched in probably the strongest language said in any form from this government since the exchanges proceeding the Vera Cruz occupation. All official Washington began at once looking behind the official text seeking some reason for an impending change of policy, for which there has been demanded in and out of congress. Pressure from foreign governments and pressure in congress which is preparing an investigation of the whole Mexican situation were among those most commonly discussed.

Tom was quite well liked here and his death is deplored by many friends.

Both parties or factions denounce the Wilson administration; oppose prohibition, woman's suffrage, etc.

The CRUSADERS

The bunch that met in Fort Worth yesterday was a band of crusaders, engaged in rescue work.

They purpose to save the democratic party from socialistic adventurers, plutocratic maulers, ancient faith-destroyers, witch burners, personal liberty enemies, and make glorious the twentieth century emancipation of Texas democracy.

They are "agin" the national administration; "agin" socialism; "agin" the ins; "agin" prohibition; "agin" woman's suffrage; "agin" everybody and everything that is sober, honest and decent.

Their patron saints are Joe, who was repudiated by the people of a great state because he became too friendly with vicious interests, and Jim, who was impeached by a sovereign state and must forever live under the sombre shadows in disgrace.

They will gather to their standard the disappointed politicians, the ex-public officials, the former bar-tenders and saloon hangers on, the alien enemies, the ignorant "stifled" dwellers, the anarchistic element, the political grouchers and the non-descripts. Of course, a few good men will join them through a misunderstanding, but they will soon be stunk out.

Such a bunch gathered together is enough to make men and angels weep—for fear that Ajax might turn loose his bolts of lightning on the assemblage.

Oil is a blessing in many ways. It enables many of those Eastland and Comanche county people to buy lands on the Plains and move out here.

Really Chicago deserved what she received in the recent race riots, for several aldermen of the city are negroes, and it was their votes that killed the segregation ordinances.

Its rather warm these days on the Plains, but nothing to be compared with the heat down in Central Texas. My, how we Plainsmen do sympathize with those poor people who live down there.

Every year somebody predicts that the world will soon come to an end. But in former years the public either ignored or scoffed. This year a good many seem to be hoping the prediction is true.

According to a report men's shoes are going to cost $15 to $25 and men's suits from $75 to $100. Then, let us all hope and pray for a mild winter, so that the "wind shall be tempered to the shorn lamb."

Germany has put a neat trick over France by sending a lot of gold to the United States and South American securities to Argentina to pay for food and raw materials she is to buy. France was expecting to get this gold and securities as first payment on her war indemnity.

One thing can be said of the railroad union men—they have plenty of nerve, and are not at all mealy-mouthed about asking for things. About all they seem to want is that the gross receipts of the railroad be divided among themselves and the expense of running the roads be paid out of the federal treasury.

It is with much gratification that we announce that we are soon to receive that million dollars from our oil interests. Down in the grease field a well has been brought in close to a tract of land we own a lease on, and it now looks as though nothing can keep us from getting the million. However, we are willing to take something less than that amount for our holdings, if taken at once.

John Bull is having troubles of his own. Beef that sold at 26 cents a pound before the war now brings 63 cents; granulated sugar has risen from 4 to 14 cents; milk is 75 cents a gallon; the poor man's suit is up from $11 to $40; woolen underclothes which brought $2.20 now sell for $6.25; $5 shoes now sell for $12.50; building brick selling at $7 a thousand before, now bring $32; cement has jumped from $8 to $20 a ton; bread used to sell for 10 cents a pound loaf, now it costs 18 cents. Coal, which in pre-war days cost $6.25 a ton, now costs $12. It is alleged the primary causes of high prices in Great Britain are a shortage of goods and an abundance of money.

A half-million dollars' worth of wheat has already been shipped from Hale county. There is over four million dollars' worth more to be shipped. The wheat crop will bring $500 to every man, woman and child in the county. Other crops this year will bring as much more. Who ever before heard of the crops of a county bringing $1,000 per capita. There is no keeping back such a county, and if the people will not act like double-action fools and spend their money extravagantly they will be on easy street for a long time.

WORK HARD AND—SAVE

Mr. Harding is governor of the federal reserve banking board. He is one of the greatest authorities on banking, currency and business economies in the country, possibly in the world.

He was before congress the other day, relative to the investigation of the high cost of living, and as to his views on how to get the country back to a lower level of prices and more sane way of living.

What do you think his answer was? He did not urge much legislation, nor any revolution.

His answer was, in a few words, and homely words at that, and was given as a sure cure for our economic distress.

His advice to the people was, namely:

WORK HARD AND—SAVE.
 These words of advice should burn into the minds of the people.

But it is a prescription he gives that the people will find bitter and they will be loath to take the dose of medicine.

The people of the United States, on account of the increased wages, prices of products and the manner of living, have engaged in a saturnalia of extravagance, pleasure, and thriftlessness.

They no longer want to work hard nor long hours. They want easy work, short hours, and plenty of pleasure. They do not want to deny themselves anything their fancy may desire. They had rather live day-by-day, than to lay by for the inevitable old-age or rainy day. They are like the negro who refused to take a job "because I already has a quarter."

The Dallas News, speaking of Mr. Harding's prescription, truly says: "It is simple. It is obvious. It points the finger of responsibility at every one of us. And what most of all renders it repugnant is that it makes a stern and inexorable demand for the practice of self-denial. The acceptance of it requires that we shall work, not less, but more, and spend, not more, but less. Each of the ingredients is an unpalatable one, and the compound makes a bitter dose. Nevertheless, it is one that we shall have to swallow. We shall only aggravate the malady by putting off the taking of it; prolong the period of cure and increase the quantity of medicine we shall have to take. Work and save. There is no other way out of our difficulties. Useless spending, even by those who can afford what they buy, operates to increase the cost of living. Every purchase is a draft made on labor. To draft labor for the production of the unessential thing. And our trouble is, fundamentally, an inadequacy in the supply of essential things."

Now, of all times in the history of the nation—of Plainview and Hale county—is the period to work hard and save. Wages and prices of products of all kinds are higher priced than ever before, and higher than they will be in a few months. There is more money in circulation, and it is easier to get than ever before, and easier than it will be within a few months. The dollar that is made and saved now will be worth maybe two or three times its present value in a year or so.

Hence, the wise man will during these times of easy money and high prices work long and hard and make every dollar he can; then, he will save every dollar he can possibly save. By this means he will accumulate enough that in the years to come will bless him and his family, and the increment will provide for his old age.

Therefore, WORK, work HARD, and SAVE.

LET'S REVOLUTE

In these piping days of unrest and anarchistic thoughts, especially on the part of certain elements, it seems to be the fashion to threaten to pull off a revolution if something don't go to suit.

Recently the beer and liquor crowd threatened to lead a revolution because national prohibition was adopted.

Mr. Plumb, attorney for the railroad union laborers, before the congressional committee last week, declared if the radical demands of the railroad employes were not accepted they would pull off a revolution.

A leader in another class of union men asserted if the high cost of living was not reduced his bunch would revolute.

These are but sample cases of the brazen affrontry certain elements are practicing in this country these days. But, they are simply talking with their mouths.

These would-be revolutionists represent but a very small fraction of the citizenship of the country.

The American people are safe, sound and patriotic and can be depended upon to put down any kind of a revolution that may be attempted.

In this country the ballot box is the place to settle all governmental affairs. Every man has a right to vote his sentiments, and if he loses in the election he should bow to the will of the majority.

In America the people are the masters. They make and unmake presidents, senators and representatives.

They make and unmake laws. They should think more and talk less.

The man who talks about revolution is not a true American; he is not a fair square player in the game. He is an anarchist at heart, and is devilish mean, and but seeking to give vent to his innate cussedness.

A revolution in this country would be shot to pieces before breakfast. This is a country of law, order and democracy.

It is not a country of bolshevism. This is America, not Russia.

MAKING HIM THE GOAT

Through the whole propaganda against the high cost of living runs the red thread—the farmer is to blame, that he is getting too much for his products.

The city people look upon the farmer as the ugly ogre who by charging $2.26 a bushel for wheat, freight prepaid, is starving their wives and babies.

They feel that by charging 30c a pound for cotton he is withholding clothing from their bodies, and rejoicing because of their nakedness.

The facts are the farmer is not getting his pro rata increase in the prices paid in these piping days, and he is the only man whom the government has handicapped in selling his products. By setting the price of wheat at $2.26 during the war Uncle Sam robbed the American farmers of hundreds of millions of dollars, for wheat at that time was selling at about $3 a bushel. There has doubtless not been a day since then that wheat would have sold as low as the government price.

The government made the farmer the "goat" for it did not set the price on manufactured articles, such as he has to buy at high prices.

Then, $2.07, which is the actual price Hale county farmers are getting for their wheat, is not so high considering that last year the farmers failed to make any wheat, hence counting this and last year, would mean an average of $1.04 a bushel—not a very high price in these high-price times.

Besides there is lot of difference between what the farmer receives for his products and what the consumer pays. The farmer in Central Texas gets 50c a bushel for peaches for which the consumer on the Plains pays $2.50. The farmer receives 30c for the cotton which when made into gingham sells for $5.

The city wage earner and salaried worker gets higher pay than ever before, he works every day if he wants to, he is paying a sure game. Not so with the farmer—he has a large investment in lands, improvements, live stock, etc., he goes to the expense of planting his crops, he takes a risk against the elements, insects, etc., and after all his expense, his labor for a year, he may not make anything—just as he failed on wheat last year. Hence, even if he should receive a higher price for his products he richly deserves it.

The farmer is not going to be made the "goat." He has the whip-handle and has the power to use it. He has been thinking. He controls the food and the clothing supply of the nation, of the world. He is in a position to say he will not sell for less than a fair price. He does not intend to pay double prices for everything he buys and then sell his products at pre-war prices. He is willing to reduce his prices in proportion as others reduce their prices or wages or freight rates, but he does not intend to be made the "goat."

Do you blame him?

A SCOTCH LADDIE

Andrew Carnegie died Monday, age 83 years. His life was a romance that is possible only in America, the golden land of opportunity.

Carnegie came to America from Scotland when a baby. His family was almost destitute of worldly possessions, yet he accumulated more than a half-billion dollars, and died the second richest man in the world. He gave $300,000,000 away, to libraries, hospitals, colleges, scientific research, promotion of peace and for other charitable and uplift purposes.

Carnegie began work at 12 years as a bobbin boy in a cotton factory at $1.20 a week. At 14 he was a telegraph messenger boy; then he studied telegraphy and became an operator. He began to climb up. He worked hard, saved his money, invested it in safe enterprises.

This was a rather slow way to get rich, but it is the pathway that was trod by most all rich men, for there are few royal roads to affluence. Work and save are the sure ways.

In time he engaged in the iron business, and by early taking advantage of certain processes he was able to later control the iron business. By a certain process he was able to reduce the cost of steel from $95 a ton to $12 a ton. He sold at $26 a ton and became a millionaire. Later he sold out for more than a quarter of a billion dollars.

Then he set to work to give his money away. It was a bigger job than making it, for to give money indiscriminately is a curse rather than a blessing to the recipients.

Back to his beginning: There are as many opportunities for the boy of today to succeed as there were in the days of Andy Carnegie. It is all in the boy. The boy who has the grit and determination, and is willing to work hard, economize, do without things, and use his brain—like this poor Scotch laddie did—will succeed just as he did.

America is the land of opportunity. Success is for the worker and the thinker.

Failure is the portion of the shirker, the shiftless, the thriftless. The story of Andy Carnegie should be an inspiration to every American boy.

L. A. Knight sold 200 cows in Kansas City several days ago, at an average of $80 a head.

Mexico has abolished the one-day pass into that country from the American border, because, it is charged, Americans go to Mexico for the purpose of getting drunk. Well, what other excuse could an American have for going to Mexico?

SINGLE-TAX A CURE-ALL

William Black of San Antonio represents that 'district in the legislature. He is a democrat, but that is a side-issue with him as compared to single-tax. He is of the opinion that every political ill the people and the country are heirs to can be cured through the single-tax on land remedy. The editor of the News knew Mr. Black quite well during the special session. He is a genial, likeable fellow, even if he is "buggy" on single-tax. He and Capt. Tilson of this district have been pitted against each other in a number of times over single-tax measures in the legislature and Tilson has invariably come out winner and with a handful of Black's hair. Tilson is a farmer and stockman, and few farmers and stockmen are for single-tax. It is the landless people in the cities and thickly congested districts who here for single-tax on lands, for you know the average man wants to tax every person but himself.

As a sample of some of Mr. Black's vagaries, we quote the following written by him, and which should be cabled to the powers that be in Germany, for doubtless after reading it they will at once ask President Wilson to send him over there to solve the vexing problem of how to meet the war indemnity assessed by the allies: "If Germany will take all her economic rents, together with royalties on all minerals and coal, she can pay her indemnities before the rest of the world will have paid their war burdens and will come out of the struggle richer than any other people in the world. The economic rent of her city and farm lands, together with water fronts and other transportation terminals, must be at least three and one-half billion a year. This will surely take care of all obligations for the indemnities. She can afford to tax productions enough to take care of her necessary civil needs. Twenty dollars per capita is enough for this, or approximately one and a quarter billions. Her business will even then be burdened less than other commercial peoples."

That was real mean of Clarence H. Mackay, head of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Co., to reduce rates 20 per cent the next day after the government returned his wire system to him. The Western Union Telegraph Co. refuses to meet the cut. If the Postal can carry messages for 20 per cent less the Western Union which is a much larger system should carry them even cheaper than that. Mackay charges that the Western Union is the pet of the administration.

THIRD TERM FOR WILSON

When Gen. Grant was serving his second term there was a strong movement to induce him to run for a third term, and he gave sympathy to it, but the republicans in general frowned upon it, and to his sorrow he was turned down for the nomination. Roosevelt was talked of for a third term but he sidestepped and threw his support to Judge Taft. Four years later he did run on the bull moose ticket and was defeated by Mr. Wilson.

Every president who has held two terms has been urged to run for a third term. Just now there is a movement looking to having Mr. Wilson for the democratic nominee next year for a third term.

If Mr. Wilson is as smart as we believe him to be, he will not give heed to the proposition. He is now serving his second term. He has made a notable record, and as great a name as it is possible for him to make if he were elected for another term or two. Hence, as far as fame is concerned he has nothing to gain, and all to lose.

Then, to be plain, he could not be elected, and for him to suffer defeat would blight his life.

In the first place, the people of the country are prejudiced against a third term for any president. Two terms have been set as the limit, and it is but democratic for a man to step down after two terms.

President Wilson has done many illustrious things. He has successfully conducted a great war to a victorious end. He caused the signing of the armistice. He has attended a peace conference that considered and acted upon the troubles of most every country under the shining sun. He dominated the politics and the public eye of the world while in Europe, and was acclaimed the world's greatest man.

While he conducted the war with possibly as few mistakes as any mortal man could have conducted it, there are few persons in the United States but what "have it in" for him for something he did, and comparatively few would support him with their votes. He has stepped on somebody's toes at nearly every step he has made, and the pain still rankles in their minds, too.

The fact that he promulgated the famous "fourteen points" that helped to bring an end to the war is lost sight of by the average man because of some far less important act of the president.

Mr. Wilson has been autocratic, domineering and cruel in some of his "Only slight revisions" will be made in this report, it was announced.

FAT AND SLIM ELKS WILL PLAY BASE BALL

Elephants Brag About How They Will Put It Over the Spiders Wednesday

Having been challenged by the slims of the Elks to play the fat men a game of base ball at the city ball park next Wednesday, at 5 p. m., will say, that R. C. Ware says the ball will be so greasy when he pitches that he defies any of the slims to even bunt the ball.

J. N. Donohoo says that he will catch behind the bat and look after same just as he would in looking after interest on borrowed money. Also Charles Vincent says if he plays first base and any one is caught chugging corners he will be fined $11.70, sure.

Bill Watson says he is busy feeding hogs but sure will be in fine shape for that game. Daddy Watson says when it comes to being a pig-tail behind the bat he can't be beat. Tiny Brown says he will stop everything that comes his way just as he did the Hun bullets. T. Stockton proposes to knock all the covers off of the balls just the same as he knocks the cobwebs out of his throat when he goes to sing a basso and when it comes to shooting them up, John Vaughn will be on the ground and C. L. Largent will sure put them into home if any strays should come his way, even if he has to lather and shave the ball to make it go faster.

Bob Myers, of course, thinks that the ladies will want to have charge of the proceeds and he can't be beat in looking after the receipts of the game.

Now we do not know what the line up of the slims will be but for our part, we expect if the weather continues to be warm, you will see the best game ever played in Plainview.

Desdemonia Richest Oil Field
C. W. Sewell has returned from a stay of a few days in the Desdemonia oil field. He says geologists are agreed that that field is the greatest in the United States and when the pipe lines have been completed to take care of the oil that will come from the wells now on the sand, the production will be double that of the Ranger and Burkburnett fields combined. Fabulous prices are being paid for leases and royalties. Mr. Sewell and associates have extensive holdings near Desdemonia.

Just a Ride Makes A Hundred New Owners Are Added Daily —Each a Warm Supporter of the Essex Men Want the Essex

Surely no car has ever equaled the Essex in the way it has been endorsed by the public. From the very first it has been advertised just as we said it would be, by what people had to say for it.

You remember we announced the Essex would have to speak for itself. Its fate was left with the people. And now you can judge what the verdict has been.

One Hundred Owners Added Daily

Deliveries at this writing exceed 10,000 cars. An average of 100 new buyers are getting their Essex cars every day.

Such a production would be large for many older organizations. But it is not half equal to the demand that there is for the Essex.

Sweden Ordered 5 Then Cabled for 75

The first shipment of Essex cars reached Sweden a few days ago. The initial order was for 5. But on the day they were unloaded the dealer cabled for 75 to be shipped immediately.

That is significant, for Sweden is one of the countries where gasoline costs nearly a dollar a gallon. Even before the war European countries did not take readily to American cars. Only the light, small, inexpensive cars had a market then.

Cost of operation was the big item. Gasoline and oil prices made large cars impractical.

But the Essex just met the needs. It has the sturdiness and dependability Europeans had never attributed to moderate priced American cars. The Essex met their demands for economy and low operating cost.

And Those Advantages Are Important Here

Americans rather than put up with the customary objections of light low priced cars, more willingly paid the price that obtained the degree of elegance, comfort and performance they wanted.

But the Essex seems to have filled the need as we expected it would. It answers the demand for moderate first cost. It meets the inexpensive cost and maintenance situation and, of course, it gratifies the taste in appearance and performance.

How Everyone Talks For the Essex

They tell their friends what they have learned about it.

Any dealer can tell you of person after person who has placed orders with him as the result of a ride they have had with some friend. As a test of how it stands in the opinion of motorists in general, or even the man in the street, mention the Essex anywhere you might be in such a way to provoke a discussion of it.

The result will be interesting. You aren't likely to hear a single adverse criticism. But you will probably conclude everyone is interested in selling you an Essex.

That is the Essex Selling For

It is just what you will hear from any group of motorists. Everyone seems bent on telling everyone else what a fine car the Essex is.

Note the manner in which they praise it. People judge it in comparison with other cars of merit that they know.

That probably explains why Essex performance and quality is compared to large, high priced automobiles.

There is no other measure by which Essex can be described.

When will you take your ride in an Essex?

Your enthusiasm will be as great as it now is with close to a million others.

Essex boosters grow daily—and thus they swell Essex sales.

Will Employ Red Cross Nurse for Chapter

Mrs. Claude B. McCartney, divisional representative from the Red Cross headquarters in St. Louis, who was here the fore part of the week, met with the executive committee of the local chapter Wednesday night.

She told of the future plans of the Red Cross which include work in five departments. Nursing—caring for the health of the American people, and the urging that each chapter employ a public nurse. First aid—to care for people who happen to accidents or where there is public calamity. Home service—to look after the needs of returned soldier and sailor boys, and especially those who were wounded. Junior—enlisting the children in the work of the Red Cross that they may grow up as a part of it. Publicity—acquainting the people with what the Red Cross is doing, what it intends to do, and asking their support of it.

It was decided that the Hale county chapter employ a trained nurse for six months, and she will begin her duties the middle of September. She will give lessons in first aid and hygiene, and will conduct classes at the public schools in Plainview and at each of the branch chapters and auxiliaries of the chapter.

It was decided to keep the Red Cross rooms in Plainview open every afternoon in the week, instead of only three afternoons as has been the rule.

Mrs. W. E. Armstrong was made executive secretary for the chapter. Mrs. J. Klinger is the regular secretary.

Divisional Auditor Checks Up Work, and Compliments Chapter for Good Report

E. L. Harris, divisional auditor for the American Red Cross, was here last week, and audited the books of the local chapter, which includes Hale and Lamb counties. He found that during the year closing July 31, $11,998.49 was raised for the Red Cross and of this all was expended but $2,000, which remains in the banks.

The accounts of the officers were found correct, and he complimented those in charge of the organization and the people in general because of the excellent showing made.

The following is a statement as given out by Mr. Harris for the year ending July 31, 1919:

executive committee of the American Red Cross. The primary object of the campaign, which will be known as the Third Red Cross Roll Call, will be to enroll members for 1920 but there will be in addition a general appeal for $15,000,000 to enable the organization to complete its war obligations at home and abroad. There will also be local appeals, where necessary, conducted by the chapters, to secure funds needed for local programs.

During the war there were annual Red Cross campaigns, the war fund drive in the late spring and a Christmas Roll Call for membership. The only campaign this year will be the one in November and in succeeding years there will be only an annual Roll Call in which the Red Cross will seek the re-affirmed allegiance of the American people expressed in dollar memberships. The money so derived will be used for American purposes and the approval thus received is to be regarded as a mandate to carry on future programs.

Notwithstanding the war, the largest tunnel in the world is well under course of construction in France, its object being to give Marseilles connection with Paris and the interior of the country in general by rail and water. The new harbor and the cutting of a ship canal, actually tunneled through solid rock for five long miles, joining the old harbor and the Mediterranean to the River Rhone. The Rhone's upper stretches are placid and already are used extensively for barge navigation, but near Marseilles the stream is far too turbulent for commerce. A range of hills had prevented the construction of a canal in days gone by. Now, with France energized by the war and with the necessity for the canal emphasized thereby, the tunnel is being cut and the canal will soon be opened. The work was begun in 1911-12, and has been continued through the war. By this canal and links already available, barges can be sent from the Mediterranean to the English channel.

The work was begun in 1911-12, and has been continued through the war. By this canal and links already available, barges can be sent from the Mediterranean to the English channel.

Cause of Oil Rash.

Oil rash in users of cutting lubricants and cooling liquids are found by the British department of scientific and industrial research to be generally due either to plugging of the small glands at the roots of the hairs of arms and legs, or to mechanical abrasion of the skin by suspended metal particles in the cutting oil. Suppuration or abscesses may result. Preventives are dusting the skin with starch and zinc oxide powder before touching the oil, abundant after-use of soap and hot water, sterilizing of oil by heating to 300 degrees Fahrenheit and frequent change to clean cutting oil.

Elephant to Have Shoes.

An interesting experiment was recently tried out in New York city on De Wolf Hopper's hippodrome elephant, Lena, says the Christian Science Monitor. A huge shoe, presumably made of coarse leather or cowhide, with stout laces of the same material, was tried on the elephant's foot. To put it more correctly, four shoes were tried on the elephant's four feet, in the hope that they will keep Lena's feet warm during the cold weather. Certainly Lena will look very funny, walking about with these huge shoes on.

COULD USE HIS HEAD, BUT—

Sam Would Have Had More Confidence Had He Been in Possession of Another Weapon.

There was once a very successful business man, whose two pet hobbies were system and everlasting trying to impress on his employees the importance of doing their own thinking. His motto was "Use Your Head," and he had the office and the factory placarded with the sentiment.

One day he hired a likely looking colored man as his office porter, Sam—that of course being his name—forthwith received the startling information that man is a thinking animal and he, Sam, must keep that in mind as much as possible.

About twenty minutes after Sam began work the boss, glancing out the office door toward the factory, noticed that a row had started among some of the factory hands and the whole bunch was trying to settle the argument in that peaceful and quiet way possible with plenty of good stiff stones.

"Now, Sam," said the boss, "I shall depend on you to break up that fight at once. The method to take must come from your own brain, but whatever you do, Sam, remember, 'Use your head.'"

"Yessah, yessah, it suhtingly does look like Ah'd have to use my haid, sah, but Ah—ah—shuah would feel a heap safab, boss, ef Ah had my razah, too."

NOW BACON HAS A RIVAL

French Professor Asserts That William Stanley, Earl of Derby, Really Was "Shakespeare."

To those who take argumentative pleasure in the conviction that Bacon wrote Shakespeare, the introduction of yet another candidate for that distinction must be rather annoying. William Stanley, sixth earl of Derby, is the latest "real Shakespeare," discovered and produced by Prof. Abel Le Frank, a French scholar, who claims that only an Englishman who had lived in France could have written "Love's Labor Lost," and that William Stanley was the only contemporary Englishman who fits the bill; also that there was an instinct for the theater in the Stanley family, and that William is known to have written poetry. The argument seems to be about as complete as that of the person who found a passage in a letter from Sir Phillip Sidney which mentions "Will, my Lord of Leicester's jester," and, not being able to find out just where Shakespeare was, and what he was doing at the time, decided that he was probably "my Lord of Leicester's jester" himself.—Christian Science Monitor.

Largest Tunnel in the World.

Notwithstanding the war, the largest tunnel in the world is well under course of construction in France, its object being to give Marseilles connection with Paris and the interior of the country in general by rail and water. The canal will provide ample waterway for barges. The new harbor and the cutting of a ship canal, actually tunneled through solid rock for five long miles, joining the old harbor and the Mediterranean to the River Rhone. The Rhone's upper stretches are placid and already are used extensively for barge navigation, but near Marseilles the stream is far too turbulent for commerce. A range of hills had prevented the construction of a canal in days gone by. Now, with France energized by the war and with the necessity for the canal emphasized thereby, the tunnel is being cut and the canal will soon be opened. The work was begun in 1911-12, and has been continued through the war. By this canal and links already available, barges can be sent from the Mediterranean to the English channel.

"Well, you must remember, Henry, that my father is not paying for this gas now."—Yonkers Statesman.

Income Tax Returns

Final reports just completed by the bureau of internal revenue for the calendar year 1917 show that income tax returns were filed by 3,472,896 persons and showed a total net income of $13,652,383,207. Taxes paid totaled $675,249,450. Returns were made on 1,640,758 incomes ranging from $1,000 to $2,000. There were 30,391 returns on incomes between $25,000 and $50,000; 12,439 returns from $50,000 to $100,000; 3,302 from $100,000 to $150,000; 2,347 from $150,000 to $300,000; 559 from $300,000 to $500,000; 315 from $500,000 to $1,000,000; and 141 for incomes in excess of $1,000,000. A suggestive feature of the report is that while there were 1,296 incomes exceeding $300,000 in 1916, the number was reduced to 1,015 in 1917. Incomes of more than $1,000,000 decreased from 206 to 141, and the decrease in the amount reported by persons in that class was $157,427, 730.

Mark Sullivan in Colliers' Weekly writes that the income tax has come to stay. This is to be a $5,000,000,000 government for years and years. To be exact the sum of $5,000,000,000 will be needed to pay interest charges, to support the army and navy, for the upkeep of all other branches of the government and keep it moving along progressive lines. Foreign governments owe Uncle Sam $10,000,000,000. Interest charges on this vast debt may run as high as $650,000,000 a year. Some of the foreign debtors are unable to pay even the interest, let alone the principal. Regardless of this the $10,000,000,000 investment is regarded as a gilt edged one by many of the financiers of America.

There are 16,000,000 Americans who purchased war bonds. These bond holders will pocket the annual interest. They loaned their savings to the government and the government will pay the interest charges. The Victory bond is about the best investment in the world today and millions of Americans are the owners of these securities.

Lest we forget, the output of the Philadelphia mint for July included the enormous total of 38,931,000 pennies; 950,000 dimes and 9,300,000 nickles. This is a "small change" country, as well as a land where people talk in millions and billions. There are carloads of pennies minted every month. They are needed by the trade.

John Bier's Father Dies

John Bier, carrier on motor mail route B, returned last week from Green City, Mo., where he attended the deathbed and burial of his father, Niels H. Bier.

The Green City Press has published a long obituary anent the deceased, from which we take the following data: He was born in Havervad, Brons county Denmark, Dec. 30, 1844. In 1867 he and other members of the family moved to Dwight, Ill., and at the time of his death he had lived in the United States fifty-two years. He was married in 1870 to Anna K. M. Hansen, who died about eighteen months ago. ## CHURCHES

Nazarine People Begin Their Big Tent Meeting

The big tent meeting opened last night under the leadership of Evangelist J. B. Kendall, of Wilmore, Ky., with splendid interest. Mr. Kendall is a man of remarkable ability as a gospel preacher; not only gripping a deeper, meaning of the Word in his own thought, but imparting it to his hearers.

Wherever he labors he captivates the people from the very first service. His natural wit and humor together with logical reasoning, holds his audience through the entire sermon. He is anything but prosy from beginning to end and there is never a dry uninteresting moment, yet he never descends to the lower, or coarse, vulgar, fanatical, extravagances to which many evangelists descend.

While Mr. Kendall is a Methodist, he loves the people of all denominations, and preaches a gospel that saves from all sin, and then trusts the local pastors to take care of the converts and lets them go into the church of their choice.

The meetings are held under the auspices of the Central Plains Holiness Association for the salvation of all men from all sin. The public is cordially invited and churches all have a special invitation.

actions. He has overridden the rights of the people in many ways. He brooks no opposition and persecutes in an unfair manner any congressman or citizen who opposes his program.

If he should be inveigled into allowing his name to be used for a third term there are thousands and thousands of democrats right here in Texas who have always voted the ticket, who would scratch his name with a vengeance.

William E. Muse is county judge of Somervell county, one of the very smallest counties in Texas. It joins Erath, Bosque, Johnson and Hood counties, and is locked among the mountains and cedar brakes of the beautiful Patuxey, just where it joins with the Brazos river. Glen Rose is the county site, and it is known for its white sulphur artesian wells and as a health resort. Judge Muse was impertuned last year to run for county judge; he declined, but finally told the people that if he could be elected by a unanimous vote and allowed to serve for a salary of $1 a year which he would donate to the Red Cross and to give all fees of the office to the public school fund of the county, he would consent. They took him up on the proposition, and he is making one of the best county judges in the state. He is building a system of good roads through the scenic mountains, and putting the little county on the map. Doubtless, the people will continue to elect him so long as he will have the office.

It is with presumption on our part, of course, but if it were left to us to hazard a guess we would say that the myriads of little bugs passing thru Canadian at this time towards the south are headed for Jess Adams alfalfa beer distillery located near Plainview. They are soft shell like as if they had lived in the wet cities of the north when the alcohol drouth overtook them.—Canadian Record.

Editor Moody of the McLean News publishes a startling story copied from the Canadian Record, and adds, "Evidently Editor Loomis doesn't want Ben Smith of the Lockney Beacon and Jess Adams of the Plainview News to hold the distinction of being the biggest liars in the Panhandle." We cast the insult back at the McLean man. We do not have any such reputation; the fact is, we are a paragon of truthfulness and would not know how to tell a fib if we tried ever so hard, never having had any experience along this line. Now, Smith and Loomis are professionals—one is champion of the Panhandle and the other of the South Plains—and it would be nip-and-tuck in a contest for Northwest Texas, which would be awarded the leather medal. Possibly Mr. Moody, who has seen service in France, could also enter the contest and tell a few foreign ones. We really believe that Loomis is more artistic and picturesque, but for old-fashioned scientific fabrication Smith is a past-master. We long ago found it to be a dangerous thing to believe anything either of them says, hence we have just as little to do with them as possible.

We have known since childhood some of the men who were delegates to the new party convention held in Fort Worth yesterday. All we have to say is, that before attending the convention we would first have gone and buried any money we might have had in our pockets. Compared with such fellows a corkscrew is as straight as a knitting needle. It is past reasoning how some good men will homologate politically with such a bunch.

Imperialism is not dead in the world. No not by a jugful. Militarism has not passed from this sphere. Democracy and self-determination has no look-in in many lands. America is the only one of the great nations but what has imperialistic, militaristic programs. Japan is ruling Korea with a rod of iron and shooting daylight through any patriot who asserts the right of freedom; Japan is holding military dominion over China with its one-third of the people of the world; Great Britain is asserting with the mailed fist dominion over India, Egypt and other countries; France dominates with its army and navy dominion in a colonial empire greater in territorial extent than the United States; Belgium has military control of the Congo and its valuable rubber districts; Italy with bristling bayonets rules peoples and countries that are not her blood. Not only do these "democratic" countries rule empires of other peoples but they do not brook the least act of freedom of those who want to assert the right of self-determination. Not only are these countries ruling imperially over what they already have, but are wanting other lands and peoples to rule over.

Tennessee women have won their fight. They have been given the ballot for municipal and presidential elections. They have been given equal voice with men in the control and management in the cities of Tennessee and the selection of the presidential electors of that state. Tennessee is a Southern state, but it is more progressive, more democratic than Alabama and Georgia, the two states that have the questionable honor of having refused to ratify the suffrage amendment. Texas ratified the amendment, and as a result of that and having adopted statewide prohibition another party is being organized.

Senator Reed of Missouri insists that it is the duty of the government to make living conditions admirable in our own country before supplying the demands of Europeans. And, really, we feel he is close to right about the matter. America first, for us.

Another thing we'd like to know is why a young buck cannot drive a car without a cigar or cigarette stuck in the slit in his face.

One reason why the bunch on the corner likes to work is because a frog hasn't any use for his hind legs because they are only in his way.

J. V. Martin is a Patriot

There is no question about J. V. Martin, who lives over near Bellview, being a patriot, a gentleman and a scholar. Yesterday he brought in two fine melons and presented them to the News.

THE WINNER in life's battles is the fighter backed by a united family, entrenched in its home, equipped with the ammunition of love, confidence and determination.

Communion is the law of growth, and homes only thrive when they sustain relations with each other.

A house and a home are the most real of all real estate. There is nothing real about a HOME in somebody else's house. Get a real home; build it.

YOU WILL not make new friendships after you have passed middle age, and you will look back to the friends of your youth as the only real friends you have known. Fix the domicile of your children as well as yourself by building your home among your real friends.

If "HOME is where the heart is," how about the heart of the fellow who lives in a rented house? Build a home around your heart.

In the homes of America are born the children of America; and from them go out into American life, American men and women. They go out with the stamp of these homes upon them; and only as these homes are what they should be, will they be what they should be.

What will not a father do for his children and their mother? The least he can do is to provide them a real home of their own. Build that home now.

Summer Complaint

During the hot weather of the summer months some member of almost every family is likely to be troubled with an unnatural looseness of the bowels, and it is of the greatest importance that this be treated promptly, which can only be done when the medicine is kept on hand. Mrs. F. E. Scott, Scottville, N. Y., states: "I first used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy as much as five years ago. At that time I had a severe attack of summer complaint and was suffering intense pain. One dose relieved me. Other members of my family have since used it with like results."

Drew Ridgeway of Canyon and Raymond Snider of Eldorado, Okla., have business here today.

Why Suffer?

Mrs. J. A. Cox, of Alderson, W. Va., writes: "My daughter... suffered terribly. She could not turn in bed... the doctors gave her up, and we brought her home to die. She had suffered so much at... time. Having heard of Cardui, we got it for her."

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"In a few days, she began to improve," Mrs. Cox continues, "and had no trouble at... Cardui cured her, and we sing its praises everywhere. We receive many thousands of similar letters every year, telling of the good Cardui has done for women who suffer from complaints so common to their sex. It should do you good, too. Try Cardui. ## THE LITTLE HOUSE

By JACK LAWTON.

Richard Ellis viewed from the hill the miles he would have to walk in order to dine at his boarding place in the village below. When his work of rapid construction should be in progress he would have to consider some means of transition; the present state of the land made this difficult.

Like a white square on the hillside stood a cottage; he remembered having passed it on his upward way. What a strange, detached home it must be, far from neighboring habitation. Perhaps it might be possible to procure a light luncheon there. The door, when he reached the house, stood open, disclosing to the farthest corner one wide room. It was a remarkable room for a humble country cottage. While the floor was scrubbed gullless of varnish, the walls were lined with shelves of books.

A pictorial calendar, with a verse for each day, drew his attention; curiously, the verses were printed in German. Upon the window seat, among its artistic cushions, were scattered various maps and drawings.

Then between two bookcases opened what he had fancied to be an outer door, and a girl appeared from the interior. A glorious creature she was, small, yet with an unmistakable air of dignity.

"I am a civil engineer—Richard Ellis," he explained; "we are going to put through a road. My boarding place in the village seemed too far away at dinner time, and I hoped to get a glass of milk and some bread at a farmhouse, but," he smiled engagingly, "I find this is decidedly not a farmhouse."

The girl gravely considered. "Still," she said, "we may be able to provide you with a cup of coffee." She moved indifferently toward the prepared table. "Make yourself at home," she invited.

In strange diffidence, the usually reserved Richard Ellis, with her regal air, the girl had prepared his coffee, she went out into the porch. It was all pleasantly mysterious. Ellis enjoyed the perfect salad, and wondered who the duce his queenly hostess might be. The matter of remuneration troubled him; he could imagine her scorn at the suggestion of payment. Yet he felt like an interloper calmly partaking of her food.

The girl promptly relieved him on this score. "I asked you to stay," she said, as he appeared upon the porch. "In order to gain information about the new road. Please explain to me concisely, just how and where it is going."

The engineer stared in astonishment. Her question had the sound of a command.

"It is not customary—" he began hesitatingly, and for the first time the girl laughed.

"Then, Mr. Ellis, engineer," she challenged, "stop in again, say tomorrow, and you shall see your wonderful plans, as they are not now, but as they will be when completed."

"I do not understand you," Ellis repeated slowly. With strange reluctance he turned to depart.

"Down there," she said, mockingly, "they will tell you all about me."

It was impossible to concentrate upon the duty of the afternoon because of her haunting personality.

"Who lives there?" he asked of Sammie, associate engineer.

"The lady of mystery," Sammie answered. "Why, haven't you heard? She comes galloping into town on a black horse, with a great dog in tow. They have it figured out here that she's in the employ of the German government, mapping out the country and all that. Look out for the black eyes, Dickie, or she'll have you hypnotized."

To Richard's memory came quickly the girl's boasted knowledge of his work, her own avowal that she had entertained him in order to gain information.

"I came," he greeted, "to have you fulfill your promise concerning my outline of work."

In her own pretty, serious way, the girl bowed, and placed in his hands the completed blueprint map of the road.

"But, how?" he asked perplexedly.

Again the girl laughed, and dropping her manner of reserve, seated herself on the step at his side.

"What am I now," she asked naively, "a defaulter in hiding, a German spy, or just disappointed in love? They have had me all three at the village."

Ellis gazed tensely into the black eyes. "What are you?" he asked. "That is what I wanted to know myself."

"I shall only disappoint you," the girl replied. "It is so simple. My father is Lewis Kain, chief engineer. When I learned that he must be away from home long, I begged to come with him and keep house. He sent on our man to fix up this shack, and then was called away the very night of our arrival. There was no reason why I should not wait in this peaceful spot, his return. My dog is a fine body-guard. I helped father with these maps and prints—we two are great chums. That's all," she ended, and arose abruptly.

"Then I shall see you again!" cried Richard Ellis, his voice ringing with a hidden joy.

No one could have called the girl's eyes somber as she flashed him a smile. "Father will need you here often," she said.

"LOVE THAT SUBDUES EARTH"

Robert G. Ingersoll's Beautiful Tribute to Women Has Been Surpassed by Few Writers.

It takes a hundred men to make an encampment, but one woman can make a home. I not only admire woman as the most beautiful object ever created, but I reverence her as the redeeming glory of humanity, the sanctuary of all the virtues, the pledge of all perfect qualities of heart and head. It is not just nor right to lay the sins of men at the feet of women.

It is because women are so much better than men that their faults are considered greater. A man's desire is the foundation of his love, but a woman's desire is born of her love. The one thing in this world that is constant, the one peak that rises above all clouds, the one window in which the light forever burns, the one star that darkness cannot quench, is woman's love.

It rises to the greatest heights, it slinks to the lowest depths. It forgives the most cruel injuries. It is personal of life and grows in every climate. Neither coldness nor neglect, harshness nor cruelty, can extinguish it. A woman's love is the perfume of the heart. This is the real love that subdues the earth the love that has wrought all miracles of art that gives us music all the way from the cradle song to the grand closing symphony that bears the soul away on wings of fire. A love that is greater than power, sweeter than life and stronger than death.—Robert G. Ingersoll.

WORD THAT IS OVERWORKED

Swiss Visitor in England Somewhat Puzzled Over Constant Use of "Up" in Conversation.

The use of the word "up" as applied to railroad destinations reminds a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian of some observations of a Swiss friend. "When I go back to my country," she said, "I shall tell them that they must use 'up' to everything. Everything is up. I am roused up in the morning. I wake up. I get up. I button up my dress. Why 'up?' I button it down. Then I eat up my breakfast, I drink up my coffee, and then somebody washes up the pots and cleans up the house. I pick up my umbrella and go out of the house, and when I see a friend in front I catch her up. How can I catch her up? It is ridiculous! It is all up. You lie up when you are ill, and you save up for a rainy day. Your English language is very funny. My employer put his head in at my office the other day and said, 'I want you to stop tonight.' So I got up and put my cloak on. When he saw me he got quite worked up. He said, 'Why have you got your cloak on? I told you to stop.' I said, 'I have stopped.' Why was he angry? I look into the dictionary, and 'stop' means 'leave off,' and he meant me to go on."

Strong Seasoning Harmful.

In an article about food and growing fat, a well-known doctor says in American Magazine:

"When you continue to pour strong mustard and other seasonings into your food day after day and week after week there can be no question that their effect is injurious. It is exactly the same as if one used a drug of some sort. Constant use creates the desire to increase quantities until the amount used becomes positively harmful."

"For example, every one knows that when mustard or pepper is put on the skin the skin reddens and in a few minutes a blister is caused. And, since the skin can stand a great deal more than the membrane of the mouth and stomach, you can well imagine the effect upon it when you pour strong mustards and peppers into your stomach. So if you are prone to indigestion and gastritis see if you are not using too much seasoning in your food."

Feather Convicted Thief.

A green feather decided a curious case at Bishop, Auckland, Australia, recently. A man was charged with the theft of a canary, but declared that he had bought the bird. In the course of evidence it was stated the prosecutor's bird had a green feather. Examination failed to uncover a green feather on the bird in question, but it was pointed out that it might have been plucked. Accordingly the case was adjourned to see if the feather would grow again. The bird was handed to the care of a well-known fancier, and each party agreed that the case should be decided on whether the feather grew or not. A few days later the fancier produced the bird, and it was observed that the dark green feather had grown again. Defendant was then fined five dollars and costs.

Church Many Centuries Old.

The church of St. Martin, at Canterbury, is claimed by some to be the oldest church in Great Britain now in use. The building, in excellent repair, contains many features attributable to Roman and Saxon architecture, and was the scene of St. Augustine's preaching and the baptism of Ethelbert, king of Kent. After the departure of the Romans from Britain in 400, the church was still used by a small band of Christian worshippers till St. Augustine's mission in 597, and within the walls of this cradle of English Christianity Divine service has been celebrated for at least 13 centuries without any apparent interruption.

Store Talk

Dangerous days—these hot days are for the health and comfort of the little folks and the grown-ups. It means that more care than ordinary must be given to the selection and preservation of food to insure the health of the household. You will find that every article of food we offer is of that guaranteed wholesomeness and quality which will safeguard the health of your family.

This hot weather is hard on fowls. They can't range like they ordinarily do. They have to lay around in the shade. Give them plenty of fresh water and be sure to feed them Purina Chowder to supply the shortage of egg-making food that they don't get out into the sunshine and hunt for.

These moonlight nights are mighty pleasant after the hot days. Why not get up a picnic party and spread the eats out in the open. Of course you can't expect the picnic to be very enjoyable if you mess around over a hot stove all day getting the food ready. But we can solve that trouble by supplying the necessary lunch goods without the worry.

Flour is flour of course—but some flour won't do what you want it to and then it is expensive at any price and disappointing too. We have just placed upon our floors a carload of Light Crust Flour—the kind that serves every purpose. It is a blend that makes bread, biscuit and cakes equally delicious.

Don't let 'em frighten you with high prices of food stuff. Of course everything is higher than it used to be but you can still buy lots of good eating here for a dollar. We try to keep the retail price as close to the wholesale price as it is possible to do.

Now is a good time to clean out the pantry, see how much of the supply has been injured by the mice, see what items you are short on, and then make out your supply list and let us fill it with quality groceries at reasonable prices.

No matter where you have been trading we ask that you get acquainted with us and our service. We firmly believe that we will both profit.

LAND OF QUIANT BELIEFS

Black Country Are Among the Strangest Put in Record.

Taking into consideration the fact that it is a typical industrial area, it is strange that the Black country should be such a hotbed of superstition.

A dog howling in front of a house in the night is a sure sign of the approaching death of one of the household. The dog, however, must howl in the front and not at the back of the house. A marble rolling down the stairs means that one of the children is bound to die.

When baking was invariably done at home there was the superstition that if the top of the loaf came off in the oven death would soon overtake some member of the family.

A Black country miner is full of superstitions. If he dreams of fire or meets on going to work a cross-eyed woman or a wooden-legged man he will not descend the mine. Something is sure to happen if he does—at least, he thinks so.

The strangest of all superstitions, however, is associated with common or garden parsley. There is nothing wrong about sowing the seed and raising the herb, but it must not be transplanted. Most terrible things are bound to happen if this is done!—London Mail.

FINDING PLEASURE IN WORK

Quite Possible for Anyone to Get All Needed Amusement From Every-Day Occupation.

Of course we are entitled to it. And we should take great pains to secure the fullest measure of it. So much may be taken for granted; the important question is, when and where shall we find pleasure? Sir Walter Bagehot gave his opinion that "Business is so much more amusing than pleasure." I suppose he meant that a man who is in love with his work will get more real "fun" out of it than was ever gathered in so-called "places of amusement." Many of our pleasures do little more for us than kill time. They do not kill care, for it comes back again the next morning. He is a wise man who more and more learns to get his amusement out of the serious work he is doing. Then if he takes an occasional hour or day for sport or the "passing show," he will come back to his real task in life to find his real entertainment. The other day I heard a scrub-woman singing at her work. I prefer to think that she sang because she was having a good time. At any rate, what finer art than that of having a good time in the doing which one has to do? Immensely wiser and more profoundly philosophical than the practice of planning for the good time afterward.—George Clarke Peck.

Would Take the Job.

Into the office of the Wall Street Journal there ventured a small boy, awed by the great adventure of getting his first job. Timidly he approached an editor and explained what he wanted.

"Hm," quoth the veteran to the would-be recruit, "It's too bad, but there are no vacancies now, unless you would like to be managing editor. How about that?"

The youngster began to back away. "Oh," he gasped, "I wouldn't like that at all."

Yesterday he came back, with desperation in his eye, and marched up to the veteran.

"I've changed my mind," he announced. "When do I start in?"

AFFECTED BY ICE DEPOSITS

Seeming Proof That Crust of the Earth Has Had Periods of Rising and Falling.

The elastic character of the earth's crust is one of the most certain facts of observation; great areas rise and fall under the action of varying pressures. It is, therefore, reasonable to suppose that the accumulation in pleistocene times of vast continental glaciers one or two miles in depth would exert such downward weight pressure as to cause a subsidence of the great areas affected.

This seems to be borne out by a marked and very apparent rise of land in the northeastern section of the North American continent, in comparatively recent times. H. L. Fairchild, writing in Science, states that this area, covered by the latest American ice sheet, the Labradorian glacier, stood much below its present position, relative to sea level, when the ice sheet melted off, and that a slow uplift brought the land to its present altitude. This is indicated by the presence of the remains of sea animals and plants throughout inland parts, by beach formations in parts now away from the sea and general geological considerations.

The region of this recent rise of land extends from New Jersey to Hudson strait and as far inland as Wisconsin.

COMBINE TRUTH AND HUMOR

Fifty Epitaphs on Tombstones in British Cemeteries Are Worth More Than Passing Notice.

In a search for the unusual, one would scarcely expect to come across it on a tombstone. But full justice can in some cases be done to a deceased in a single word.

There is a stone in Leamington cemetery dedicated to the memory of J. T. Burgess, who before laying aside the trammels of this mundane sphere edited the Leamington Spa Courier. His career and end are adequately summed up in one word—"Resting."

A departed auctioneer who lived in the city of Worcester had inscribed on his memorial stone as an epitaph, "Gone." Brief, economical and retrospective. In a Sussex graveyard may be seen a stone on which are chiseled, after the name and date of death of the deceased, just two expressive words—"He was." Surely a sermon in a nutshell.

But two of the strangest as well as the briefest epitaphs are to be found on stones in Cane Hill cemetery, Belfast. On one of them, erected to the memory of a lazy fellow by one who evidently knew him well, are the words, "Asleep (as usual)." On the other, "Left Till Called For."

A certain photographer has this inscribed over his grave, "Taken From Life."—London Tit-Bits.

Diet for Weight Reduction.

Fuel is the main food requirement of the body. A certain amount of fuel keeps the engines of the body working normally and produces energy. The surplus of fuel derived from the food forms layers of fat. So it is evident that the matter of keeping the body weight where you wish to have it is merely a matter of arithmetic, says Popular Science Monthly.

Certain foods have an enormous fuel value in comparison with others. For instance, it would require $9 worth of lettuce and tomato salad to furnish the amount of energy that 20 cents' worth of butter or 10 cents' worth of sugar would supply. No one would think of feeding exclusively on any of these foods, but it is easy to see that the limitation of butter and sugar and the introduction of such foods as lettuce, tomatoes, celery, carrots, spinach and fruits, all of which have low fuel value, instead of fats, milk, cream and oil, pastry and sweets, would enormously reduce the fat-forming elements in the diet and yet fill the stomach and satisfy hunger.

Childish Selfishness.

Unselfishness is one of the virtues which has to be cultivated, for we are not born unselfish. We have to be taught this virtue and of course the greatest teacher of all is love. I am inclined to think love is the only teacher. Henderson says, "To get children interested in impersonal things is to make them unavoidably unselfish. Solitary children, only sons and daughters, are, as a rule, extremely selfish, for the simple reason that their lives have been so overwhelmingly personal. The way out is through group activities on the part of the whole family through pleasures as well as through service. If life is to be permanently successful, and happiness genuine and secure, the major interest must be impersonal, must have to do with something bigger than the little self, must concern itself with the abiding and universal things."—Alice Barton Harris.

How to Remove Oil Stains.

To remove oil stains from leather and paper, etc., apply pipe-clay powdered and mixed with water to the thickness of cream, and leave it on for four hours. This will not injure the best colors. For boards, marble and other stones make a strong solution of carbonate of potash and water and add as much unslaked lime as it will absorb. Then stir it together and let it settle a few minutes; bottle it and cork tightly. Have some water ready to dilute it when used and scour the part with it. Don't leave the solution too long on the boards or it will draw the color out of them.

Scientific Distribution of Groceries

The Piggly Wiggly has been in Plainview a year. It has made a place for itself in the hearts of the people of the Plainview country. Its volume of business has grown rapidly, as it has proven of use to the people. It has saved the people thousands of dollars on their grocery purchases.

These hundreds of people have continued to visit this store and more and more have joined them until now most everybody trades at the Piggly Wiggly. There is nothing miraculous about PIGGLY WIGGLY; it is just so very simple and so very clean and so very appealing to every sense of the clearminded man or woman. They realize that PIGGLY WIGGLY is the most successful grocery store and with the most economy in management and conduct.

There are four separate aisles in a PIGGLY WIGGLY store and each of these aisles runs in a straight line and connects with the succeeding aisle until the full circuit of the store has been traversed from one end to the other, which will take less than a minute straightway walking.

On either side and at a height not too high for the average person to reach each food product with each manufacturer's label appearing thereon sets in mute display with a plainly marked swinging price tag indicating number of cents that will be charged at the checking counter for such item as is selected for purchase. But remember, please, everyone, that nobody is expected to buy a single article unless such person is attracted sufficiently by the merit of the article and its price to take a voluntary choice without solicitation.

Each person finds price values that are only possible through the scientific application of PIGGLY WIGGLY system, which system is unlike any system in the entire world and which system has the lowest operating cost of any known method of merchandising in the entire world, and not only lower, but exceedingly lower.

American Invasion of Europe
Americans are said to be pushing trade in European markets. They are selling everything for locomotives to sewing machines and giving long time credit.

Moreover, an Associated Press correspondent at Geneva reports that the Yankees have obtained a virtual monopoly in the iron and steel of Europe and are seeking further fields for the investment of capital.

Isn't this American invasion of Europe violative of state rights, repugnant to the spirit of the constitution, an insidious attack upon the constitution of the United States and at variance with the implied teachings of the farwell address of the father of his country?

Respectfully submitted to the disciples of Joseph and James.

Every year somebody predicts that the world will soon come to an end. But in former years the public either ignored or scoffed. This year a good many seem to be hoping the prediction is true.
