CITIZENS PLEDGE SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT SUNDAY LAWS

MASSMEETING DISCUSSES MATTER--OFFICERS WILL NOT PERMIT SUNDAY SELLING

A meeting of about seventy-five representative citizens of the town, including a dozen ladies, was held at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon, to discuss the Sunday closing law.

W. E. Risser presided over the meeting and Pastor Bullock of the Presbyterian church invoked the blessings of God upon the meeting.

J. G. Chancy, a local druggist, was present, and made a protest against the enforcement of the Sunday law, declaring that a petition had been circulated and more than 400 names secured for open Sundays. He said he thought the enforcement of the law would hurt the town in a business way, and not help it spiritually or morally; that tourists and transients would go to other towns. He said an agreement should be entered into permitting the drug stores and garages to stay open except from ten to two o'clock on Sundays.

Harlen J. Matthews declared that the peace officers are pledged by solemn oaths of office to enforce the laws of the state, and all that is being asked in Plainview is the enforcement of the law. The law should be enforced, and if it does not get repealed the law. Persons can arrange their affairs so that they need not buy on Sundays; no person ever thinks of buying dry goods or groceries or hardware on Sunday, but does without if he does not provide such things during the week. We have plenty of liberty within the law. The Sunday closing law is spreading and other towns are enforcing it, and soon all towns and cities will observe the law. A person cannot be a good citizen and break the laws. Non-enforcement of the Sunday law sets a bad precedent, and handicaps the officers in enforcement of other laws. We cannot set aside the law; officers are as much bound to enforce the Sunday laws as other laws. There is no disposition to try to force the people to go to church. Employees should be given a day of rest. He predicted the movement in this town will succeed.

S. W. Smith, the next speaker, asked, "Is violation of the Sunday law right?" People will not tolerate dry goods, groceries and furniture stores selling goods on Sunday. Every nation that has violated God's law has perished, and this should be a lesson to us. He opposed the ten to two o'clock proposition, and declared that the love of the almighty dollar is at the bottom of people who want to sell on Sunday. The line must be drawn somewhere.

J. M. Adams spoke in favor of enforcement of the law, and said people would soon adjust themselves to the new order and there would be no hardship. That the people should back up the officers in the enforcement of this law, for if they did not how could the officers be expected to enforce other laws. That the Sunday laws are right, for Sunday should not be made a day of merchandise, but it should be made a day of rest. That the idea is spreading and soon most all communities, including the cities, will be closed on Sundays. That he had talked to some of the garage men (and since some of the druggists) and they favor closing on Sundays. (W. T. Mise spoke up and said he was in favor of closing on Sunday.) The speaker also stated that he did not fear any of the local druggists nor garage men would attempt to violate this law, as they are not that class of people. He pleaded for no hard feelings on the part of anyone, and urged that everyone as a good citizen bow to the law, and obey it, especially as this is a religious community and unquestionably the church stands for Sunday observance.

Mrs. T. D. Lipscomb stated that she was indeed glad that the garages are closed on Sundays, as two of her sons work in garage and they are now enabled to rest on Sunday.

County Attorney Baird was called upon and stated that he contemplated no change in the enforcement of the Sunday law and asked that he be given the support of the citizenship, for "no law is any stronger than the support of the citizenship."

County Judge L. D. Griffin was called upon and made a few remarks.

A motion prevailed that the chair appoint a committee to assist the officers in the enforcement of the law, in case such help is needed.

MISS KRITZER TELLS "WHAT IS MAL-NUTRITION?"

Saps Health and Should be Guarded Against--Can Be Remedied By Proper Food

Miss Nancy E. Kritzer, who has come from Tyler, to work under the auspices of the Hale County Red Cross society in the schools of the county, tells in the following article "What is Mal-Nutrition."

Mal-Nutrition is not a disease. Otherwise steps would long ago have been taken to control it. Only in recent years has it begun to receive the attention it deserves. Dr. George Newman, England, describes it as "a low condition of body health and body substance; measurable not only by height, weight, and robustness, but by many other signs and symptoms." What are these signs and symptoms? How may you recognize mal-nutrition in your child if it be present?

The physical signs of mal-nutrition are: Pale, flabby muscles, lines under the eyes, faulty posture, general thinness, winged shoulders, prominent bones, prominent abdomen, hollow chest, spinal curvature.

The nervous signs of mal-nutrition are: Restless, inattentive, irritable, "finicky" about food, sleeps lightly, loses temper over little things, forgetful, worries himself and everyone else.

Direct Road to Dimmitt

John Boswell, secretary of the District Chamber of Commerce, was in Dimmitt yesterday at a meeting with the commissioners' court of Castro county, relative to the laying out and improvement of a more direct highway from Plainview to Dimmitt.

The court was favorable to the matter and authorized County Judge Woodlee to lay out a direct road to the county line, and put the county road grading crew to work on it within the next month.

Hale county will make a direct road to the northwest corner of the county and join the Castro county road.

DISTRICT COURT CONVENES; GRAND JURY IMPANELED

RATHER HEAVY CIVIL DOCKET, AND GRAND JURY POSSIBLY HAS MUCH WORK

District court convened in regular winter session yesterday, with District Judge R. C. Joiner, presiding, District Attorney Charles Clements, District Clerk W. D. Darby, Sheriff J. C. Terry and Court Reporter Fritch as court officers.

The court selected and charged the following grand jury, which is composed of good men who will be vigilant in the ferretting out of crime, and from the number of crimes that have been committed lately in this county it is likely that a number of bills will be returned: J. C. Woolverton, foreman; J. L. Galloway, J. M. Buchanan, A. S. J. Martin, A. J. Baker, C. L. Ford, R. L. Hooper, J. A. Phillips, G. C. Poor, W. O. Teague, B. B. Morton, E. R. Russell.

The following bailiffs for the grand jury have been selected: A. C. Workman, D. M. Thomas, W. C. Malone, Nath D. Burkett, Hugh McClelland, C. D. Hughes, Albert Keller, M. C. Holland.

The court this morning "sounded the docket," and set the trial of a number of cases. Fifty-five civil cases have been filed since the last session of the court. There are a number of old criminal cases on the docket, also several persons have been bound over for action of the grand jury.

THREE INCHES OF SNOW COVERS THE PLAINS

Will Benefit Wheat Considerably--Sunday Morning Thermometer 14-Above

The Plainview country is covered with a three-inch mantle of fluffy snow which fell last night. The weather is warm, and the snow is melting, and will be of considerable benefit to the wheat. The farmers were beginning to want some moisture.

Sunday morning was the coldest of the new year, the thermometer standing fourteen degrees above zero. Monday morning it was 19 above and this morning 24.

Three years ago a terrible blizzard raged over the Plains--Jan 10 of that year the thermometer went to zero, Jan. 11 to seven below, and Jan. 12 to six below.

The present winter has been the warmest for many years.

Cattlemen Have Big Losses

A local cattleman informs us that very few if any of the cattlemen of Northwest Texas will pay any income tax for the past year's operations, as instead of making anything they have lost heavily.

One local cattleman tells us he has lost $39,000, and others have lost in varying degrees. One Amarillo stockman has lost $500,000, another $250,000, and another $75,000, on account of the heavy slump in the price of cattle.

Using Ferrets to Kill Rats

R. C. Ayers Grain Co. of this city is using ferrets to exterminate the rats about its elevator, having received a pair of these animals from Ohio the past week.

The ferret is a small slim-bodied animal, which can follow the rats into their holes, and they kill every rat they can get hold of. They are allowed to run at large, and soon rid a place of rats.

PLAINVIEW'S NEW CITY CHARTER IS ATTACKED

ALLEGES IT IS INVALID AS CITY DID NOT MAJORITY FIVE THOUSAND PEOPLE

The new city charter will be attacked in the courts by a quo warranto proceeding which will be filed in district court today by certain citizens living in the outskirts of the incorporation, through their attorney, W. W. Kirk, co-operating with County Attorney M. J. Baird.

The validity of the charter will be attacked on the matter of the city not having 5,000 population when the charter was adopted last March.

In the spring of 1917 a charter was granted Plainview by the legislature, and rights under the law governing cities of 5,000 people conferred. This charter was attacked in the courts and the court of civil appeals in Amarillo declared the charter invalid; an appeal was taken by the city to the supreme court, and a writ of error was recently granted, and he case will later come up for argument at Austin.

Last January a commission was elected composed of fifteen citizens, who drew up a new charter, and this charter was last March adopted by a large majority vote of the people. The census showed that Plainview had 3,986 people, hence the question arose as to the town's status under the 5,000 population laws.

The new suit will possibly tie up the $100,000 sewerage extension and improvement bond issue which was voted December 1st, and have a bearing on the $50,000 bond issue for city parks to be voted on January 20.

CAKES OF LONG AGO.

Cakes made at home, mixed and baked by the housemother herself, are much more appreciated by the family than if much more is spent by buying them in the shops. A box of home-made cookies or small cakes makes a much-prized gift and the one who makes and gives them will find a greater pleasure if the gift is a result of her handwork.

Little Plum Cakes.—Measure four cupfuls of flour, one cupful each of sugar and butter, one teaspoonful of mixed spices, and one half teaspoonful of salt. Beat the butter to a cream; add three well beaten eggs, one-half pound of raisins, the seedless kind, and one half-pound of currants. Add to the flour mixture and beat hard for ten minutes. This will form a stiff paste. Dredge flour on tin baking sheets and drop the batter the size of a walnut on them. Bake in a brisk oven.

Seed Cakes.—The old-fashioned seed cakes which our grand and great-grandfathers enjoyed have not lost any of their deliciousness. Wash one cupful of butter in one-half cupful of rose water, then cream it and add two cupfuls of sugar. Beat four eggs and add to the first mixture, with three tablespoonfuls of caraway seed and three drops of the oil of cinnamon; add one-half cupful of boiling water with one-half teaspoonful of soda and a half teaspoonful of salt. Add four cupfuls of flour and, if needed, a little milk. Drop on buttered paper or baking sheets in balls the size of nutmegs and bake in a moderate oven. This recipe dates back to 1700.

Cider Cake.—Cream one cupful of butter, add two cupfuls of sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and one teaspoonful of cinnamon and allspice mixed; add three well beaten eggs, a cupful of cider and one teaspoonful of soda. Mix with three cupfuls of flour and bake in a loaf in a moderate oven. Cover with brown sugar frosting. This cake was a great favorite in 1796.

"When a man will trust his wife with his name, his honor and his children and will not trust her with his purse, it is easy to see on which he puts the highest value."

CULINARY KINKS.

Do you know:
 That loaf sugar rubbed over well washed orange rind will absorb the oil and flavor and if kept in a tight receptacle is always ready to drop into a cup of tea?

That a cupful of black walnut meats, or less, added to a custard pie, will form a crust that is delicious when baked?

That a quarter of a teaspoonful of a cinnamon added to a gallon of chocolate ice cream, gives it a flavor that every one likes?

That boiled and mashed squash or carrots make a pie which some prefer to pumpkin?

That minced dill pickles, added to potato salad, is a welcome change, especially if the salad dressing is mild?

That a little orange rind mixed with apple makes an improvement in ordinary apple pie?

That a teaspoonful or more of vinegar added to meat will make it much more tender if added while boiling?

Delicious Muffins.—Pour two and one-half cupfuls of milk over three cupfuls of bread crumbs, let stand until soft, then beat with an egg beater; add the yolks of three eggs, one cupful of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a half a teaspoonful of salt; beat well and add one tablespoonful of melted butter and fold in the stiffly-beaten whites of the eggs. Bake in buttered muffin tins about 20 minutes.

Baked Apple Ice Cream.—Pare and core tart apples, sprinkle lightly with sugar and grated lemon rind and let bake until tender; press the apples through a sieve, add to a quart of the pulp the juice of two lemons and two cupfuls of sugar. Stir until melted; when cold add one quart of thin cream and freeze as usual.

Lazy Daisy Cake.—Into a measuring cup drop the whites of two eggs, fill the cup to one-half with softened butter, not melted; add milk to fill the cup. Now add one cupful of sugar, one and one-half cupfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder sifted with the flour three times; add a bit of salt and beat hard seven minutes. Bake in a loaf, ice with one cupful of powdered sugar, one teaspoonful of lemon extract and a tablespoonful of milk; beat until creamy. This makes a delicious white cake.

SUCCESSFUL SQUAB RAISING

Birds Must Be Kept Free From Disease and Insect Parasites—Keep House Clean.

There is very little chance of making money from squabs, unless the pigeons can be kept comparatively free from disease and insect parasites, pigeon specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture point out. If healthy breeding stock is obtained, the houses and yards kept clean, and careful attention given to the birds, diseases and parasites should not be a troublesome factor in squab raising.

The stock should be carefully watched and any sick birds removed from the breeding pens. The house should be kept dry, clean, well ventilated, and free from drafts. Have the floor covered with 1 inch of fine gravel and rake off frequently the manure which collects on the top. Keep the yards clean either by scraping the surface and adding fresh sand or gravel, or by digging over the land and, if possible, planting it to grain.

The nests, nest boxes, and pens should be kept clean, but it is not advisable to disturb more than necessary the nests that contain eggs or squabs. Spray the pens frequently with white-wash containing a little crude carbolic acid, or with a coal-tar disinfectant; examine the birds for feather lice, which are troublesome, especially in hot weather. Birds having many lice should be treated with sodium fluoride, either dusting by the pinch method or dipping in a solution, the latter method being preferable. The nests or nest pans should be cleaned out and the nesting material removed whenever dirty, care being taken not to disturb the squabs any more than is absolutely necessary.

EXERCISE QUITE IMPORTANT

Close Confinement During Winter Months is Not Conducive to Profitable Results.

During the spring season fowls having free range get abundant exercise, but during the cold months many hens suffer from lack of exercise. Close confinement without exercise is not conducive to getting the best results from a flock, although the feed provided may be the best, for idle hens soon grow too fat to lay. It is almost impossible to give laying hens that are confined too much exercise.

The hens may be encouraged to exercise in various ways, such as suspending cabbage heads, beets, etc., so that the birds have to jump for them, and scattering grain in the litter. The litter should be from four to eight inches deep and may consist of straw (either cut or whole), hay, leaves, buckwheat hulls, shredded corn fodder, or any like convenient material. The hens should be kept hungry enough so that they will work diligently all day for the corn scattered in this litter, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Whenever the litter becomes damp or soiled it must be removed and fresh put in.

GREEN FEEDS FOR CHICKENS

Sprouted Oats, Alfalfa Meal, Chopped Alfalfa, Clover Hay and Beets Are Recommended.

Good kinds of green feeds for hens in winter, recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture, are sprouted oats, alfalfa meal, chopped alfalfa and clover hay, cabbages and mangold beets. Cabbages may be hung up in the poultry house; the beets are usually split and stuck on a nail on the side wall of the pen about a foot above the floor to keep the feed clean. Keep oyster shells, grit, charcoal, and plenty of clean drinking water before the hens all the time.

PULLETS MAKE BEST LAYERS

Feeding Stimulants or Highly Concentrated Food is Most Injurious Practice.

When pullets are forced to lay early, by stimulants or highly concentrated food, it is an injury, as it taxes their vitality. A pullet that is forced will lay very small eggs for a while, and when she ceases, in order to rest, she will not begin again as soon as an ordinary hen. She becomes prematurely old, and, on the average, does not prove as profitable as when she is given time to mature before beginning to lay.

National Park System Needs $1,500,000

WASHINGTON.—Definite approval by congress of a comprehensive plan for development of the national park system will be sought by the national park service of the department of the interior in submitting its 1922 appropriation estimates.

The estimates total $2,473,594 and provide for construction of roads, sanitary systems, camping grounds and electric lighting plants for the public camps and hotels, in addition to the regular expenses of maintenance and administration. The estimates exceed the appropriation for the current year by approximately $1,500,000—all of which the service plans to use in inaugurating its development program.

The service said it would submit with its estimates figures showing that each year the national parks return to the federal treasury in the form of revenues, a large dividend on the investment. These revenues in the 1920 fiscal year were said to have amounted to approximately 35 per cent of the cost of maintaining the parks that year, while the revenues this year are expected to amount to 40 per cent of the year's cost. The suggestion is added that, should the development program be approved, it is expected that the revenues within a few years will be brought to a figure approximating the cost of administration, maintenance and protection.

The estimates for the fiscal year of 1922 to be submitted by the service for the various parks follow:

Yellowstone, $462,300; Yosemite, $575,537; Glacier, Montana, $333,100; Mount Rainier, Washington, $214,400; Sequoia, California, $175,217; Grand Canyon, Arizona, $159,000; Rocky Mountain, Colorado, $150,000; Mesa Verde, Colorado, $54,250; Lafayette, Maine, $50,000; Crater Lake, Or., $26,400; Zion, Utah, $20,000; General Grant, California, $10,000; Mount McKinley, Alaska, $10,000; Hawaii, Hawaiian Islands, $10,000; Wind Cave, South Dakota, $8,500; Platt, Oklahoma, $7,500, and Lassen Volcanic National park, California, $5,500.

And Thereupon Everybody Took Up Golf

OPERATION of trains in interstate traffic, delivery of mail and mail of Sunday newspapers on Sunday would be prohibited if congress should pass the legislation which will be urged by the reform organization working for strict observance of the Sabbath. The bill, sanctioned by the reformers provides:

Hereafter it shall be unlawful for any person in the employment of the United States to work or carry on his ordinary vocation on Sunday.

It shall be unlawful for any person or corporation to operate on Sunday any freight, passenger or mail train in the carrying on of interstate commerce.

It shall be unlawful for any post-office to be open on Sunday or to deliver mail on Sunday.

It shall be unlawful for any newspaper or other paper or publication published, or purporting to be published on Sunday to be received, carried or delivered as mail.

It shall be unlawful for any person or corporation engaged in interstate commerce, or carrying on any business or vocation under the laws of or with the permission and license from the United States, or any of its agencies, to do or carry on any ordinary vocation or business on Sunday, the purpose of this act being to express our national determination to honor the Sabbath day and keep it holy as God commands, thereby securing for all that opportunity for spiritual and bodily refreshment decreed by our Lord for the happiness of all men and the safety of all nations.

Any person who does any of the things above declared unlawful, or who procures or aids another shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine of not under $100, nor over $1,000. Corporations shall be fined not less than $1,000 nor over $100,000.

Anyway, It Boosts "See America First"

THE latest "reform" bill is drafted by Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington and it would forbid all American citizens abroad and members of the American diplomatic and consular services to serve liquors at public or official functions, or to recognize clubs where such beverages are dispensed. The bill also would require the diplomatic service to enforce this provision.

The measure would prevent Ambassador John W. Davis from belonging to or attending social gatherings at the St. James club in Piccadilly, which is open to all members of the diplomatic corps. It would bar drinks from the table of every American ambassador. It might even prohibit a diplomat from handing a friendly visitor for a glass of wine or beer in his home.

The proposed bill goes further than any suggestion heretofore made in connection with the prohibition movement.

Drastic penalties are provided for infringement of the proposed law. The second offense would entail a prison term of from six months to six years. In such cases the sentence is mandatory, the judge being given no discretionary powers.

The binding of American diplomats and consular officers is made effective in this section:

"That it shall be unlawful for any citizen of the United States or person owing allegiance to the United States to serve any of the intoxicating liquors mentioned here in section 1 at a public or official function, or give official recognition to any club or association that keeps or serves such liquors for beverage purposes."

The beverages forbidden are described as including "distilled, spirituous, malt, vinous, or any intoxicating liquors that contain one-half of one per cent or more of alcohol by volume, by whatever name they may be called."

Cleanliness Is Next Door to Dignity

GRABO-ROMAN baths of the United States senate, installed nearly eight years ago, but never put into service, are now being cleared of the cobwebs and stains of time, and will be in shape to offer their luxuries of steam, plunge, shower and electricity to the members of the new senate when it assembles.

Charges of extravagance were aimed at the baths in congressional debate when the power of administration last swung from Republican to Democratic, and as a result the baths, installed in the new senate office building, were shorn of their expensive equipment, bereft of their attendants and left to gloom.

The marble slabs, Turkish rugs and steam proof tables and chairs were turned over to government hospitals, and only the marble shells and nickel fittings left in place.

Now, however, the baths are coming but under a new plan. Members of the operating expenses special unofficial committee has charge of the assessments, be levied against each user in proportion to the service he exacts. The baths will be somewhat less gorgeous than the original plan anticipated. They will, however, in their luxury and completeness still have claim to comparison with private club installation.

Senators will be able to steam themselves out in a series of marble hot rooms, resuscitate themselves on the drying room cots, invigorate under one of the several types of nozzle and drench showers, and float in the swimming size plunge.

They also can try massage, the electric cabinet, or the prickling shocks from the static machine.

SPRING STYLE FOR FLAPPERS

IN January and February much of the year's sewing is disposed of in well regulated households—for these months bring the annual sales of white goods for house furnishings and undermuslins and the displays of new cotton fabrics for spring. At the same time the shops accommodatingly bring out whatever has developed in styles in undermuslins, in children's clothes and in women's wash dresses, especially in practical house dresses. In fashion centers also there are enlightening exhibitions of handsome wash dresses.

In the average home it is spring sewing for the children that can be disposed of in the heart of winter to the best advantage. One of the models turned out for the flapper is pictured here and shows no startling departure from present styles. Any of the plain, fairly heavy wash fabrics are suited to it and its appeal lies in its neatness and girlishness. It has a plaited skirt and a plain smock with three-quarter length, flaring sleeves. The round neck is lined daintily with an inset collar of white batiste. For decoration, a border pattern in colored floss and very simple stitchey finishes off the neck, the sleeves and the bottom of the smock. It is in this simple needlework that the model shows a variation from its predecessors. There is also something a little new in colors—that is, shades and tints have changed a trifle.

It is noteworthy that styles for young misses are growing more conservative; that they are getting back to something like common sense after much extravagance in the past season or so. Too much elaboration, too rich materials, too many colors robbed the dress of young girlhood of its own particular charm, which must always lie on the side of daintiness or simplicity; and charm is the most valuable asset of the flapper, as it is of all womankind. There is nothing more unpleasing than overdressed young girls.

The Day of the Fur Hat

THE day of the fur hat, which was due to arrive at least a month ago, was postponed by October weather which persisted in lingering with us into December. But every hat has its day and, come what will, our fur hats are a part of the play in January and February anyway. They are too attractive to neglect and this season they took their responsibilities lightly; for almost all of them are only partly made of fur. We have fur and velvet, often with embellishment of sparkling bead embroidery, fur and brilliant, rich brocades, fur and embroidered fabrics; the fur providing brims for all sorts of gay and interesting crowns.

The furs best liked are the short-haired velvety pelts, as Hudson seal, mole skin, beaver, caracul, sable, squirrel and mink. Ermine appears occasionally, but nearly always as a trimming, and very handsome velvet hats with knots or bows of fur, or emplacements of fur panels on the brims, are shown among other fur hats. Occasionally the rule of fur brims and fabric crowns is reversed in models that have fur crowns and velvet brims.

The handsome hat at the top of the group pictured employs squirrel fur for its coronet and shirred gray velvet for a crown. Such hats are often finished with a sparkling pin or ornament of rhinestones suggestive of frost. The soft, warm-looking hat at the left has a brim that suggests the cozy poke bonnet and is trimmed with ribbon and fur balls. It might be made in any of the millinery furs. At the right a turban with a wide upturned brim of fur has a sectional crown of velvet and boasts a lovely plume of curled ostrich at the back. Such hats as these have real values to offer; for good furs outlast many seasons, if cared for, and may be made to serve on other hats.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER
FAIRYLAND BALL.

"We're going to have a ball," said Fairy Princess Joy, "and I am getting it up. Will you all come to Fairyland tomorrow evening at eight o'clock? We're going to dress in fancy costumes and we're going to have a great deal of fun," she said.

And that was the invitation she took around to everyone.

The very next evening they all arrived in plenty of time, and there were the most remarkable costumes you have ever seen.

There were gypsies and there were knights and beautifully gowned ladies and there were gnomes and brownies dressed like animals, and many of the elves had dressed as birds.

A number of the fairies were missing, however, and everyone wondered just when they would come and just what they would wear.

In a few minutes after the guests had arrived, along came old Mr. Giant.

He wore a huge costume which stuck out and made him look larger than ever.

His sleeves were the most enormous things you ever did see.

"Well, old Mr. Giant," they all said, "you have a joke in mind to tell us."

"What makes you think so?" asked Mr. Giant.

"Oh, you have something in the way of a surprise or a joke, for you've got an expression on your face which says quite plainly that you've something up your sleeve."

"Something up my sleeve, eh?" asked Mr. Giant. "Pray tell me what that means."

"Well," said Billie Brownie, "when creatures have some secret they know of, they say, 'I've something up my sleeve.' They mean that there is something hidden either in the way of a surprise, a joke, a pack of cards—anything."

"And so we say that you have something up your sleeve, for you look it."

"Something Up My Sleeve."

You look as though you had something hidden away. You have a secret for us, eh, Mr. Giant?"

"Well, well, well, maybe you're right," he said.

And as he said so the great enormous sleeves he wore began to shake and move, and suddenly they saw many of the little fairies running down old Mr. Giant's sleeves and coming out over his hands and tumbling about laughing with delight.

"I did have something up my sleeve, ha, ha, that was true enough," said old Mr. Giant.

"A good joke," said Billie Brownie. Just then along came a fairy carrying an enormous whistle and a cake of soap, a towel and a basin filled with water.

"What in the world are you doing, Fairy?" they all asked. "And won't your water freeze on this cold day?"

"I'm seeing that this whistle lives up to the reputation it has," said the fairy. "They use the expression 'as clean as a whistle,' and I must see that this whistle is no disgrace to the family name, and so I'm constantly washing my own face and hands, for I want to be as clean as a whistle, and the whistle must be clean to keep up its reputation."

They all laughed loudly, and only stopped when they heard a sound coming from one of the branches of a fir tree.

"Who's up there?" they called.

"I am," shouted Fairy Princess Twilight Bell. "I am up a tree because I don't know what to do. I was off on a twelfth party and didn't have time to make my frock. So I don't know whether to come to the fancy dress party as I am, or to stay away because I haven't a costume. So I'm up a tree, or in other words, I'm greatly puzzled about what to do."

"Come down, come down," they called, and Fairy Princess Twilight Bell came down laughing. "A gay little joke I played on all of you. I ate out the old, old joke of being puzzled or up a tree. Ha, ha," she laughed in her musical voice.

And then from the ground they saw arising the Fairy Queen. She had been lying on a bed of snow and she was dressed in a gown of glistening snow, with starlike jewels in it.

"And none of you saw what was right under your noses," she laughed as she joined the jolly party.

Important Requisite.
"Have you change for a dollar bill?"
"Yes."
"Fine! Would you mind letting me have a quarter?"

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Must Hire His Own Help.

A man who was house hunting discovered the kind of home he wanted. The door was opened by a pretty parlor maid. He asked her some questions nervously, for he was a timid man. Presently, remembering the servant problem, he said:

"And are you to be let with the house?"

"No," answered the maid; "if you please, sir, I am to be let alone."—London Tit-Bits.

Simple Deduction.

"Do you know anything about pain-istry, Herbert?" she asked.

"Oh, not much," he answered with an air of modesty. "Not a great deal, although I had an experience last night which might be considered a remarkable example of the art you mention. I happened to glance at the hand of a friend, and I immediately predicted he would presently become the possessor of a considerable amount of money. Before he left the room he had a nice little sum handed to him."

"And you foretold that from his hand?"

"Yes. It had four aces in it."

Not Otherwise.

"Some say we ought to have an extra month in the year. Are you for it?"

"If it is a vacation month."

Here is the greatest motor car in all the world. Great because there is more of it in use than of any other car in the world. Great because that in our demand for a million and quarter Ford cars this year fully 50 per cent of that demand is for the Touring Car. Surely every Ford touring car is a car of great service. You see it wherever you go, day or night, shine or rain, summer or winter—the ever-faithful Ford Touring Car is delivering service and satisfaction, please and economy, in a larger measure than falls to the lot of any other one piece of mechanism in the world.

We can now deliver Ford cars to you with reasonable promptness. Leave your orders without delay, if you would be wise. The prudent man carries his umbrella when it is dry, because any fool can carry one when it rains!

Never forget that right hand to every Ford Touring Car is that ever-dependable and universal "Ford After-Service." Here we are, with the genuine made Ford parts, Ford mechanics, and Ford equipment, to give service to Ford cars instantly, so that your care is never out of commission.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

At last you can learn

What Edison Did during the War

YOU wondered—everybody wondered, and practically nobody knew how Edison "did his bit." At last the official announcement is out! Come in and get your copy of the bulletin: "What Did Edison Do During the War?"—or write, if you can't call.

It tells what Edison did while Chairman of the Naval Consulting Board—how he spent months at sea, experimenting and inventing devices for foiling the German submarines.

The bulletin also tells how Edison stood the gaff and kept the price of the New Edison down to bed-rock during the era of high costs and soaring prices. The New Edison has increased in price less than 15% since 1914—part of this increase is war tax. The bulletin also tells Mr. Edison's views on our Budget Plan which makes the New Edison easy to buy.
