MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM WILL SEAT 2,100 PERSONS

WILL BE 120x140 FEET, LARGE STAGE, SEATED AND HEATED

The city council has accepted the plans of Architect Lawrence Kerr of Amarillo for the municipal auditorium for which $60,000 in bonds were recently voted. The building will be a very handsome one, the picture of which can be seen in one of the show windows at Carter-Houston's store. It will be 120x140 feet, and seat 1,400 people in the main auditorium and 700 in the gallery. There is a large stage 39 feet deep and 71 feet wide, and ample dressing rooms, wings, etc., also pit for orchestra.

The building will be well seated and also have a heating plant, and will be capable of taking care of large conventions, meetings, shows, etc.

The lots at the corner of Broadway and West Ninth streets have been contracted for. This property is six lots, 150x140, and will thus face on Broadway and the southside will be on Ninth street. There will be a vacant space of thirty feet on the north side of the building and this can be marked. The property is owned by W. L. Thomas, and the price to be paid is $6,500.

It is thought that the city will not have much hardship in disposing of the bonds, as the bond market is easing up, and besides maybe these bonds can be handled by material firms. It is hoped to get the construction work to going soon, and the contract will be made at an early date.

Today's Local Markets

Eggs are going up in price, and are now bringing about 30c a dozen cash and 32c in trade. The present cold snap will likely put them higher, as they will be scarce for at least a few days. The moulting season is on, and locally there is a scarcity of eggs.

Butter is selling from 40c to about 50c according to its quality, and who buys it. Butterfat is 34c a pound.

WILL BUILD MODERN APARTMENT HOUSE

C. A. Knupp to Erect Two-Story Building With Four Family Divisions

C. A. Knupp will erect a two-story apartment house on Austin street, just back of the Wayland hotel, with four divisions or suits of rooms to accommodate four families. He and his family will occupy one apartment, and the other three will be leased to families. The building will be modernly equipped with necessary conveniences.

Hale County Agricultural Census
The following is the government census report as of January 1st, 1920, for Hale county:

Hale county increased its farms 41 per cent, or from 731 in 1910 to 1,031 in 1920. The area was 581,713 an increase of 53 per cent, one-half of which is improved. The value of land and buildings was $25,930,722, an increase of 167 per cent. It reported 50,000 animals, against 35,000 ten years ago. Its principal crop was kafir and milo, being nearly 2,000,000 bushels. Wheat, hay and cotton, other leading crops, show marked increase compared with 1909.

Floyd county farms are 1,289, an increase of 108 per cent, 572 of them being in charge of tenants, and all the farmers in the county are white. The acreage is 490,731, one-half of which is classed as improved. The value of the land and buildings was $26,258,837, an increase of nearly 200,000,000. The number of animals reported was 50,000, a substantial increase during the period and the production was 2,501,175 bushels of kafir and milo, compared with 98,000 bushels ten years ago. Says Market Plan Fails

Chicago—The grain world is now witnessing the almost complete collapse of the co-operative movement of farmers to market their own grain, Joseph P. Griffin, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, told the Grain Dealers' National Association at the opening of its twenty-fifth annual convention here Monday.

"This movement is dead," he said. "Despite the fact that the farmers have spent millions of dollars in organizing themselves into co-operatives, they have failed to market their own grain."

MATTER OF FUEL ECONOMY IS VERY IMPORTANT ONE

METHODS OF SAVING COAL AND MAKING HEALTHFUL CONDITIONS IS OUTLINED

The average house owner burns too much coal, principally because he does not know how to regulate his heater, say engineers of the United States Department of Agriculture in Farmers Bulletin 1194, "Operating a Home Heating Plant," published by the department. Many rural homes are now provided with furnaces, and the publication was prepared as a guide to their efficient operation, particularly in getting the most heat out of the fuel used and in making the home as healthful as possible.

The satisfactory and efficient heating of homes, according to the bulletin, requires the chimney flue to be of proper size and in the proper place, that the proper heating equipment be installed correctly, that the plan be understood thoroughly and operated so that it gives the most heat from the fuel consumed, that the house be constructed so that the air be kept moist, and that enough fresh air be admitted either continuously or from time to time, to avoid the discomfort or unhealthful conditions due to accumulation of carbonic-acid gas. In selecting fuel, the bulletin suggests that different kinds and sizes should be tried out.

Should Be Properly Installed
The best and highest-priced heater improperly installed may give less satisfaction than the poorest and cheapest, put in, correctly, says the bulletin. For this reason, a man known to understand his business should install the plant. In selecting the furnace, consult owners of homes who have had experience in operating furnaces of different types.

Practically all heating plants have four dampers. A draft damper in the door of the ash pit is opened to admit air through the fire, which causes it to burn rapidly. A check damper located in the smoke pipe is opened to admit cold air into the flue, thus interfering with the draft and retarding the burning of fuel in the heater. The damper located in feed door is used for the same purpose. Through it cold air is admitted directly over the fire, and if opened wide it acts as a draft damper. When regulated properly, it admits sufficient air to supplement the draft through the flue, and uses more perfect combustion. The smoke-pipe damper is used to regulate the draft through the flue.

WOMAN KILLS THREE CHILDREN AND HERSELF

WIFE OF PROMINENT LUBBOCK WHEAT GROWER SUFFERS MENTAL ABERRATION

Lubbock, Oct. 5.—In a fit of mental aberration following a brief illness, Mrs. Albert Groves 32, wife of a prominent wheat grower living twelve miles north of Lubbock in the Grovesville community, this morning shot and killed her three boys, whose ages ranged from 2 to 6 years old, and then turned the weapon on herself with fatal results.

The tragedy occurred while Mrs. Groves was alone with her children. Mr. Groves having gone to town for medical aid. A forty-five caliber automatic pistol was used. Each of the wounds was through the head. When Mr. Groves returned with a physician he found the shades drawn and the doors barred. The labored breathing of one of the children was heard by the father. Immediately, he crashed in the door to see the gruesome find. There was one cartridge left in the pistol. The family attended the big fair Tuesday, and Mrs. Groves appeared to be in unusually good spirits. The Groves family is one of the oldest in this section of the state. Mrs. Groves came originally from Fort Stockton, where she has relatives.

THE GREAT CHARTER

U. M. Rose

No one can sum up the debt that we owe to the Magna Charta, the one great product of the Middle Ages. We look back with feelings of aversion and pity to that dark and troubled period; to its insane crusades, to its fanatical intolerance, to its pedantic and barren literature, to its scholastic disputes, to its cruelty, rapine, and blood shed. But the genius that presides over human destiny never sleeps; and it was precisely in that most sterile and unpromising age that the groundwork was laid for all that is valuable in modern civilization. As an unborn forest sleeps unconsciously in an acorn cup, all the creations and all the potentialities of that civilization lay enfolded in the guaranty of personal liberty and of the supremacy of the law that was secured at Runnymede. The various bills and petitions of right, and the Habeas Corpus Act, while they have given new sanctions to liberty, are but echoes of the Great Charter; and our Declaration of Independence is but the Magna Charta enlarged, and expanded to meet the needs of a new generation of freemen in the battle of life beneath

Lamb Resigns Bank Presidency

E. C. Lamb has sold his stock in the First National Bank and resigned as president, in order to give his entire time to his other business interests. Dr. C. C. Gidney has been elected to fill the vacancy. Dr. J. C. Anderson and F. M. Butler have been elected to the directory to succeed Mr. Lamb and son, Arthur Lamb.

Mr. Lamb helped engineer the deal two years ago when the First National and the Citizens National Banks consolidated, and became president of the consolidated bank. The First National is the largest bank on the Plains, with resources footing up more than $3,000,000.

Dr. Gidney has been a citizen of the town for more than eleven years, and is rated as one of our most popular and substantial citizens, and well worthy to head the bank. Dr. Anderson is the partner of Dr. Gidney and has been here the same length of time, and is also a leading citizen. Mr. Butler came here several months ago from Floydada and has been a vice president of the bank. R. A. Underwood continues as active vice president.

Lubbock Has Good Fair

Many Plainview and Hale county people have attended the South Plains fair held in Lubbock this week, Tuesday to Friday, and as Tuesday was Plainview day a very large number went to Lubbock.

The fair has permanent grounds and a number of exhibit buildings. The exhibits this year are especially fine in both farm products and live stock. Among the hogs are a herd of Duroc-Jerseys from Helen-Temple farm, also Dr. Barnes and Mr. Marshall and others at Hale Center have several heads of this breed. Mrs. Jake Cargille has a pen or two back Langshan chickens. Terry county won in the county agricultural class.

There are many amusements and attractions at the fair, and the attendance is good.

U. S. to Take Charge

Washington—The Kansas City stockyards and all the other big yards of the country will be put formally under government regulation and supervision Nov. 1, under present plans of the department of Agriculture. This will mark the first big step in putting into effect the packer and stockyards act, recently passed by congress.

The future trading act, which, in like fashion, puts the grain exchanges of the country, including that at Kansas City, under government regulation, does not become effective until Dec. 27. One small grain exchange already has applied for government approval, but the major exchanges have not moved yet to comply with the new law. It probably is just as well for the department of agriculture is just beginning to bring together the organization for administration of this law.

Will Attend Funeral at Lockney

The remains of Willie Landrum who passed through Lockney on Monday, will be taken to Lockney for funeral on Tuesday.

WILSON DEVOTES HIS TIME TO FAMILY AND TO WRITING

FORMER PRESIDENT SPENDS MANY HOURS WRITING NEW BOOK NOTES

Washington.—Woodrow Wilson fell a sick man two years ago, today. Since then he has passed under the shadow of death and out of the White House.

Thousands of Americans, whatever political faith recalled the anniversary of the beginning of the former president's illness and wondered what he was doing. Although he no longer figures in the daily headlines, Mr. Wilson still is "news." Therefore it seems appropriate on this occasion to tell the latest news about him. Mr. Wilson, besides following the ways of a retired gentleman with a lively interest in the world's affairs, lives by the eight-hour day, which he once told congress was "adjudged by the thought and experience of recent years a thing upon which society is justified in insisting, as in interest of health, efficiency and contentment."

Starts Day's Work

Seven a. m. is about his rising time. He shaves and bathes and then takes some calisthenic exercises as prescribed by his physicians. He has breakfast in Mrs. Wilson's boudoir. The morning papers never are neglected whatever else may demand attention. Half a dozen of them are delivered early and Mr. Wilson reads them thoroughly.

Then comes the morning's work. About that time, the mail carrier, six days a week, delivers quite a packet of letters. Mrs. Wilson invariably goes over the morning's mail with her husband; some letters are turned over to a secretary for a reply, most of them he answers personally, dictating to a stenographer.

He and his inseparable companion always have their luncheon in the dining room. The nap of an hour, and the weather is most favorable. The parlor is then by an unbroken dark.

He goes to his study, which is then that we however, but he writes. Like Mr. Wilson, much reading is done. Propped up by the writing board, he reads and makes voluminous and body knows what puts them carefully notes for a book. Unless Mr. Wilson decided he will write. Robert Lansing or any other writer, who has been given access to Mr. Wilson's papers, of which there are almost a ton, is writing a book, but it will be his own, not Mr. Wilson's.

Far From Well Man

Friends and admirers ask what is Woodrow Wilson's real condition now. He will be 65 years old next December and has passed through an ordeal which few men survive. The measure of his progress toward health is those facts in his health.

One thing can be said of the bunch of unemployed that inhabits the north west corner of the square—none of them is hunting work.

The editor of the News is not much of a base ball fan. He does not know which is which of the teams playing for the World's championship, and has not read two dozen lines about it, even if the daily papers are using many columns each day telling about the games.

A new and rich oil field has been struck near Mexia, but it is not at all interesting to us, and the first son-of-a-gun who tries to "let us in on the ground floor" is going to get blowed up higher than Pike's Peak. "A burnt child dreads the fire" and too much of anything is a plenty and then some

Socialism or rather communism was tried in America at one time—in Virginia when the colony was first organized, under which system the land and all property owned in common and all profits were divided equally. This proved a disastrous failure and was abandoned, for individual ownership and operation, and a representative form of government.

Of course we are not very sporty, and that may be the reason why we think the person is a fool who will stand in line all night and until the next afternoon to get into a park to see a base ball game, as many are reported to have done Tuesday night and Wednesday in New York to see the first of the world's championship games.

Sterling P. Strong of Dallas is a candidate for U. S. senator. He is one of the best known prohibition and good government eponents in the state, and is an able man and fully qualified to serve his state and nation with distinction if elected. Mr. Strong is first county and district clerk of this county, back in the pioneer days, and has many friends on the ground who take great pleasure in supporting him for senator. The better than elect

McCormick, president of the National Harvester Co., and his daughter, who is the daughter of John McCormick, have agreed to a separation, and she announces she will take a course in a school in synthetic technology in Europe. It would be much better for themselves, for their children and society in general, if the McCormicks would take a course in trying to make each other a sympathetic and loving husband and wife, respectively. A man and woman can get along agreeably and happily if they sincerely try to do so.

Many banks these days pay interest on time deposits. While the rate seems small, only 6 per cent, a certificate of deposit is about the best investment a person with surplus cash can make. There is no time wasted chasing after the debtor or worrying about whether the certificate will be paid when due. The average person does not know how to safely loan or invest

The order of Gideons, the organization of Christian commercial traveling men, this week placed 600 Bibles in the "Texas", the new hotel in Fort Worth. The Gideons have for years been supplying every room in the leading hotels in the cities and towns in the entire United States, and these Bibles are used frequently by the guests, too. In the front of each Bible is printed on a fly leaf a number of suggestions like this "If trade is bad read" giving a passage in the book, "If you are blue, read—" "If you are tempted to do wrong read —", and so on. The Bible is the great and wonderful book of the ages, and its precepts touch a persons life at every point, hence it is not astonishing that every year more Bibles are sold than the twenty "best sellers" among the secular books, and the number printed and disposed of each year is growing rapidly. The person who reads and studies the Bible is taking hold on things that build up one's life in every way, for it says "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

IS A PRIZE-WINNER

The Hale county agricultural exhibit sent to the Dallas fair this week, is the best ever sent from this county, says Co. Smyth, who has assisted in getting up and managing many exhibits during the past fifteen or more years. Last year the Hale county exhibit took second county premium, being a close second in the score to the first.

The exhibit is composed of very fine products of all kinds, and you know Hale county raises more different species of products than most any county in the state.

These fine products will make the people of other sections of the state sit up and take notice, for it is astonishing to some people in East and Central Texas to know that anything except grass grows out here, when as a fact this is decidedly the best and most successful agricultural section of Texas.

As people in other sections learn of the boundless resources and possibilities of the Plains, they want to come out here and make their homes, and hundreds of families are coming every year. Thousands would come if they were able to get loose from their present places and make the move. The man who has brains, energy and a little money can do better on the Plains than in any other section of the Southwest.

WOULD SHOW SINCERITY

The decision of Senators Borah and Pomerene to introduce resolutions urging President Harding to stop all work on warships while the Disarmament Conference is in session should meet with approval from the public in general.

Likewise, the House Appropriations Committee, is taking the right stand in deciding to postpone discussions of the big Army and Navy appropriation bills providing funds for armament work during next year, while the conference sessions are being held.

If work on warships is halted during the conference the world should be strongly impressed with America's good faith in her move to limit armaments and as Mr. Borah points out it would prevent embarrassment to the administration during the arms meeting.

Material uses are involved in the suspension of hearings on the army and navy appropriations bills until after the conference meets its outcome may dictate the administration's action.

The arms race is a race to the bottom. The man who has brains, energy and a little money can do better on the Plains than in any other section of the Southwest.

Senator Calder has introduced a bill in congress to legalize 2.75 per cent beer, but it won't get far toward passage, as to permit the selling of beer would be a blind tiger for the sale of whiskey. This is but one way to handle the liquor question and that is to make the prohibition laws more stringent, really bone dry. Violators of the liquor laws are the lowest down creatures this side of hades and deserve no sympathy, but the most severe punishment.

THE STATE AROUSED

The affair at Lorena Saturday night in which Louis Crow was fatally stabbed, and the sheriff of McLennan county and several others were seriously wounded, when the sheriff forbid a Ku Klux parade on the streets has aroused tre courts and good citizens of the entire state to the menace of "the invisible empire," and the fight is now on in earnest for its destruction.

A number of district judges have this week bodily denounced the Klan and charged their grand juries to make thorough investigations of its existence and activities in their counties. Gov. Neff has promised his aid toward breaking up the organization. Newspapers, preachers and others are holding up the Lorena affair as a species of lawlessness that is no better than anarchy.

The sheriff of McLennan county is to be commended for his staunch stand for law and order. It is indeed refreshing under the circumstances to find such an officer who stands out so fearlessly. Some officers are so weak-kneed and so fearful they might lose a few votes for re-election that they are afraid to denounce or stand out against mobs or public opinion.

The most disreputable part of the Lorena affair is that 100 "good" citizens signed a petition requesting the grand jury to indict the sheriff for trying to stop the Klan parade. Heavens save the mark if these 100 men are rated as good citizens of the community—what must a sorry citizen look like in Lorena! It is astonishing that anywhere this side of darkest Russia as many as 100 persons in a community as small as Lorena could be found to sign such a petition—it is enough to cause Sul Ross, Uncle Rufus Burleson and Dick Coke, who are buried a few miles away, to turn over in their graves, that their loved McLennan county should have its soil contaminated by such a bunch of "good" citizens. Ross, Burleson and Coke stood for law, order and true Americanism—they were brave men who sought the daylight and were not comrades who did things in disguise under the cover of night.

With the federal and state governments, backed up by the good citizenship, determined to break up the "invisible empire" it is of course doomed, for law and order in the United States always asserts itself sooner or later. If this were not so this country would have long ago become as chaotic as Russia under the Bolshevik regime. Either law and order or the Klan and anarchy must dominate, for it is impossible for both to exist in America.

What we want to know is, why does the average farmer, when he is smoking hold a cigar like it was a Roman candle?

If laws are obnoxious it is their province to be repealed. Until they are repealed they are observed and enforced for favor.—At the bar before America

HEALTH! COMFORT! CONVENIENCE!

With This Warm-Air Furnace in Your Parlor

New Heating Principles for Small Homes and Bungalows (with or without basements)

A good many years we've experimented to find a better way of heating the smaller type of home. For modern heating systems were evidently designed without thought of bungalows or small houses. The owner was left but little choice; either an expensive furnace in the basement, or stoves and fireplaces upstairs. Now we offer the Estate Heatrola. And we believe you will agree it offers the final solution of this problem.

WHAT IS IT?

In the first place, the Heatrola is NOT a stove, but a practical and efficient "pipeless" furnace that offers ALL the comforts of warm air heating at low cost. We first announced it only several months ago. And home owners from Maine to California responded by the thousand. Experts all endorse it. And the great Estate Stove Company, an institution known more than 75 years for the excellence of its stoves, ranges and warm air heating systems, GUARANTEES it. Finished in rich grained mahogany to harmonize with finest home furnishings, the Heatrola looks like a beautifully finished phonograph. This finish is a vitreous enamel, which is practically everlasting. You can rub it and dust it with a cloth just as you do your furniture.

SUPPLANTS STOVES AND FIREPLACES!

The Heatrola heats 3 to 6 connecting rooms. Heats them better than an ordinary heats one. It works exactly as the famous Estate Single Register Warm Air Heater does in heating larger homes. Great volumes of warm, moist air are continually circulated throughout the rooms. And this, as any doctor will tell you, is the secret of healthful heating. No "dead air" in the house.

BURNS ANY GRADE OF COAL

You can use hard coal or soft, lignite or slack. Results are the same. And note, too, that the Heatrola holds fire for 50 hours on any grade of coal. And that it uses no more fuel than an ordinary heating stove. Estate stove dealers in all parts of the United States are now displaying the Heatrola. But see your dealer at once, if you want an Heatrola THIS winter. The demand will be greater than we can supply.

CHURCHES

Plainview district, Dr. R. A. which is inevitable when one sees not only order and system in the universe, and therefore manifested intelligence, but more so still when he sees every day of his life the many deeds of kindness done by the hands of Love.

To say that order and system, love and sympathy, are but the laws of nature or that they exist by chance and originate in force inherent in matter, is tantamount to asserting that there is intelligence and love in matter.

So often it is that afflictions seem necessary in order to bring us to a consideration of the existence and omnipotence of God, and to thoughtfulness as to life here and hereafter, as was the Prodigal Son, who spent his all in "riotous living." When he found himself homeless, friendless, sick and despondent he exclaimed, "I will arise and go to my father." Which reminds us of the exclamation of the Psalmist, "Before I was afflicted, I went astray; but now have I kept my word."

It is when the day gets dark and cheerless, when the night of sin begins to settle over us, when the stygian valley of the shadow engulfs us, that we kindle the torch of spirituality and walk in the light of Love.

It is then that we begin to realize that God alone will go with us through "the valley of the shadow of death;" that He will hold our hand when we draw near to the brink of the dark river, for He has said, "When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee." Mother can not go with us, father can not, nor sister, nor brother can accompany us, nor can the one we love most dear of all hold our hand as we enter the water of the river which separates the present from the future and climb the craft with the Silent Presence.

It is then that we must "T. Lord with all thine heart, not unto thine own understanding, is when we have an

Him that we have courage at the saying "Good night!" because we are sustained and soothed by an unflinching trust. It is then that we lean so heavily upon the words of Him who "spake as never man spake," and who loves as never man loved. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid," and plead with terror and a realization of utter helplessness—

"Abide with me, fast falls the evening tide; The darkness deepens; Lord, with me abide. When other helpers fail and comforts flee, Help of the helpless, O abide with me."

How much better and happier is he who can look back over a well-spent life and say with earnestness and sweet confidence, "Lord, thou has been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God." He who has the desire to know God, who can exclaim as did I might
