ARRESTED FOR BOOTLEGGING

CAUGHT WITH THREE GALLONS CORN LIQUOR IN SUIT CASE

Jim Chambless, age 19, and L. Northcutt, age 20, were arrested at the southwest corner of the square about nine o'clock this morning by Sheriff Sam Faith, on a charge of bootlegging, and having liquor in their possession. One of them was carrying a suit case, in which was found six half-gallon jars of white corn liquor.

The young men came into town yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock and registered at the Wayland hotel. In some way Sheriff Faith and District Attorney Clements became suspicious of their movements, and went to the hotel and took Dr. Wayland into their confidence, and he assisted them in every way he could. The young men went to their room after registering and stayed during the night, the officers being on the watch throughout the night, expecting the youths to come out and try to peddle their liquor. This morning at 9 they came down, from their room, paid their hotel bill, and started out with the grip.

They are now in jail and an examining trial will be held most likely this afternoon.

It is said they have been employed on the big Franks' ranch east of Floyd, but came here directly from Memphis, where they said they bought the Ford car which they were driving from Claude Nunley, he being out on an appeal having been sentenced to a term in the pen by the Floyd county district court for liquor law violation. He also was in some way connected with the Franks' ranch.

P. H. S. CAGERS ARE WINNERS

COACH DUNCAN PICKS FAST TEAM OUT OF THIRTY-TWO CANDIDATES

Plainview high school's basket ball team has practically clinched the county championship of Hale county in the first three games of the season. Hale Center was defeated early in the week 54 to 5. Plainview defeated Petersburg, who had previously defeated Abernathy, 30 to 12 and 28 to 14 Friday and Saturday. Friday's game was played on the indoor court in the Plainview auditorium and Saturday's game was played on an outdoor court at Abergathy.

Coach Horace Duncan has thirty-two men trying out for the team and his hardest task is to select the best five from such an array of material. The Sone brothers, Teague, Monk, Cook and Tudor have done the most work in the early games but sickness or injuries have kept some other mighty promising material out of these games. Tudor, the scrappy little quarterback of the 1922 football team, has overcome experience with his fighting spirit and seems to have clinched a guard. He has managed to take the ball away from opposing players nearly twice his size and but few points have been made over him.

Day By Day In Every Way

Emile Coue, a little French druggist of Nancy, is in the U. S. to teach auto-suggestion. "Day by day, in every way I am getting better and better," cures sickness if said repeatedly and believed, is his claim.

MRS. FLOYD EWING AND DAUGHTER BADLY BURNED

Placed Pan of Gasoline On Stove to Do Cleaning—House Came Near Burning

Thursday, about 1:30 o'clock, Mrs. Floyd Ewing and daughter, little Miss Lucy, were painfully burned in a gasoline explosion, which took place at the Ewing home. The house was set on fire from the explosion, but by prompt response to the alarm, the house was saved, together with the household effects, but not until considerable damage was done to same by water and breakage.

The fire company made a quick run and got water to the building promptly. A bucket brigade had extinguished the flames inside the building before the department reached the scene. The high school boys being closest to the building did most of the work and saved the property.

Mrs. Ewing had placed a pan of gasoline on the stove to do some cleaning, and had built a fire of kindling. The gasoline ignited from the fire with the above results.

Mrs. Ewing was severely burned about the face and arms, and her hair was almost burned from her head, and her face a solid blister. Miss Lucy was burned about the arms, lower limbs and on the chest. They were both brought to town, where medical attention was given them, and while very painfully burned, both will soon recover. It is indeed fortunate that they escaped with their lives. It was also fortunate that the building and contents were saved.—Lockney Beacon, Jan. 12.

East Texas for W. T. A. & M.

Major Dan Cook of Mt. Pleasant, county judge of Titus county, was here this week visiting relatives.

In conversation with the editor of the News Judge Cook declared that West Texans are in error when they think East Texas people are opposed to or fighting the establishment of the proposed West Texas A. & M. college. On the other hand a large per cent of them are very favorable to it, feeling that this section of the state needs the school and should have it, as the present college near Bryan is overcrowded and is far distant from West Texas, besides agricultural problems on the Plains are different from those in other parts of the state, especially East and South Texas.

Recently so Judge Cook informed us, the Mt. Pleasant Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution endorsing the establishment of a West Texas A. & M. college.

Will Enter Band Contests

The Plainview Boys' Band, with its forty-two members, expects to attend the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, which will be held in San Angelo May 21-23, and compete for the top premium in the band contest. San Angelo will offer cash prizes aggregating $2,000 dividing the bands into three classes. The Plainview band plans to compete in the highest class.

Bledsoe On Senate Committee

Senator W. H. Bledsoe of this district has been appointed chairman of the committee on mining, irrigation and drainage, and a member of the committees on counties and county boundaries, federal relations, civil jurisprudence, public health.

No City Poll Tax

The attorney general last year held that the collection of a city poll tax was unlawful, and accordingly no such tax is this year being collected in Plainview.

O. Z. Gulleddge went to Lubbock this morning on business. He is just up from a siege of sickness.

INAUGURATION OF GOV. NEFF

HUGE CROWD WITNESSES THE CEREMONIES IN AUSTIN TUESDAY

Austin, Jan. 16.—Governor Pat M. Neff, today was inaugurated for his second term. T. W. Davidson of Marshall was administered the oath of office for lieutenant-governor at the same time.

Members of both house of the legislature, state officials and visitors from all parts of the state packed the historic hall of the House of Representatives, scene of every inaugural since 1884 to witness the ceremonies. The oath was administered by Chief Justice C. M. Cureton, first to Mr. Davidson and then to Mr. Neff.

In his address, Mr. Davidson urged the need of legislation favorable to schools, good roads and an improved system of taxation. He laid special stress on law enforcement and commended Governor Neff for his vigorous policy in the suppression of lawlessness at Mexico.

Gov. Neff delivered a comprehensive eulogy on Texas, its people, history and vast resources. He emphasized the responsibility resting upon every legislator and public official as a servant of the state in the legislative halls, urging the two-houses to perform their duties conscientiously in the interest of their constituents and without factional feeling. His address was much shorter than that delivered when he first took office two years ago.

The 142nd Infantry band of Brownville supplied music for the occasion. "The eyes of Texas are upon you," school song of the University of Texas, Governor Neff's Alma mater, was played as the inaugural party entered the hall.

Cattlemen Face Better Times

Kansas City, Jan. 16.—Nineteen twenty-three promises to be a good year financially for the men who produce America's best beef steak, according to a statement issued here today by officials of the American Hereford association.

"The year just closed was full of difficulties for cattlemen," the statement said. "But the first half of 1922 showed a marked improvement over the first half of the year, with the result that the beef cattle industry entered the new year with regained confidence and a hopeful view of the future."

Commercial beef production has been stimulated by a rise in the prices paid for market cattle, according to the statement, which also pointed out that the price of breeding cows has advanced $5 to $7 a head in the last six weeks and that the demand for bulls has brought price advances on sales.

"This indicates," the statement concluded, "that stockmen are replenishing their herds which produce America's market cattle, and presages improved business for breeders who supply the range cattlemen. The pure bred breeder who purchases herd improving material at present prices and takes good care of his stock, is sure to reap substantial profits in the years to come."

Start Court Martial

Essen, Jan. 18.—The French military authorities today instituted court martial proceedings against six Ruhr coal magnates whose names were withheld. They were charged with "refusing to obey orders of the military authorities in the territory under state of siege."

Berlin, Jan. 18.—A general stiffening of German resistance in the face of the French ultimatum is indicated by the Berlin newspapers correspondents in the Ruhr. The mine operators, mine workers and labor leaders are represented as standing together in a decision to do "their duty by Germany."

France and Belgium appear to be the only nations to which Germany refuses to make reparations deliveries.

Snyder Has Basket Ball Team

Principal L. W. Sloneker of Snyder school says his community is very proud of its basket ball team, which is a winner.

Last Friday it won from Ellen by a score of 16 to 8, on the Snyder grounds.

Snyder will play East Mound this afternoon, and will play Halfway in Plainview tomorrow afternoon.

Texas to Have 600,000 Autos

The estimate is made by the State Highway Commission, Austin, that Texas will have 600,000 automobiles by the end of 1923. There are now some 530,000 cars in the state, a gain of about 50,000 in the past year.

POSTAL RECEIPTS SHOW INCREASE

MAKES ABOVE AVERAGE FOR SEVERAL YEARS, THOUGH LESS THAN 1921

During the year 1922 the Plainview post office's total receipts amounted to $27,261.22, which was somewhat smaller than the former year of 1921, when the total was $28,498.44. However, it was above the average for several years, as is shown as follows: 1917, $22,989.11; 1918, $25,459.44; 1919, $23,427.12; 1920, $27,127.31.

Business conditions in years before 1921 were better, as the inflation and boom were on, and besides 30 letter postage was in vogue considerable of the time.

The payroll of the office for the year was about $12,000, as a force of eleven employes are at work in the office, as follows: Fred L. Brown, post master; E. E. Spencer, assistant post master; W. O. Anderson, money order and registry clerk; A. J. Chambers, mailing clerk; C. M. Walter, clerk; V. L. Formway, general delivery clerk; James Noel, stamp clerk; Elmer Anderson and J. L. Estes, city mail carriers; John F. Bier, Route B carrier and C. F. Vincent, Route A carrier.

The outstanding improvement of the office during the year was the establishment on Sept. 1st of free city delivery of mail, in which service two carriers are employed, and a considerable portion of the residential parts of town and the entire business section are covered. An electric stamp cancelling machine, additional lock boxes, and more convenient methods of handling of mails and stamps were improvements made during the year.

Hale County Cars Registered

During the year 1921 there were 1,819 cars and motor cycles registered in Hale county, which was 133 less than in 1921.

During the years 1921 and 1922 Hale county paid in auto license fees into the state highway commission $1,137.85, and did not get a cent back for its roads. In the many years the half of auto license fees have been going to the state highway commission Hale county has not gotten back a dollar. And, if it takes any road bond issues to get any of it back we hope it will never do so.

The state and federal highway laws are the biggest robbery of any on the statute books—and that is saying a lot. They should all be repealed and wiped off the books.

Hale county could do a lot of road work with the thirty or forty thousand dollars it has paid into the state highway commission during the past six or seven years.

The Star and Crescent

Those who arose early Saturday morning saw a very pretty sight in the eastern skies, an almost perfect emblem of the Mohammedan religion—"the star and crescent." The planet Venus, in its greatest refulgence was almost between the points of the moon in its last quarter. Doubtless just before they arose above the horizon there was an eclipse as the star moved ahead of the moon.

We have never before seen the morning firmament so beautiful as it has been the past two or three weeks, with the moon and several mornings stars shining so brightly. Venus has now left the morning skies. Venus is still very bright and can be seen almost throughout the day, despite the brightness of the sun.

Prices Are Advancing

The wholesale prices of nearly all kinds of goods are now advancing and rather rapidly, and local merchants tell us they are feeling the effects of it very sharply in their new purchases. The prices on cotton goods is reflecting the higher price for the staple the past season. The indications are, so the trade papers declare, that prices of manufactured goods will continue to advance the entire year, and goods bought one month will seem cheap as compared with those bought the next month.

Wages of labor in most all of the industries are also advancing, and there is a great demand for workers. The supply of common labor from Europe has been cut down by the immigration laws of this country.

Wayland Student Dies

Isaac Kingery, student in Wayland college and a star in its football team last fall, died here Tuesday, from a relapse of typhoid fever.

His remains were taken to the family home at Matador for burial. A brother died in the navy last fall.

Simmons and Wayland to Play Simmons college basket ball team of Abilene arrived today to play the Wayland college team at the city auditorium tonight and tomorrow night.

United States Senator George W. Norris

Nebraskan asks why most important office in our country, the presidency, is left to fill through choice of political bosses instead of by direct primary, the true voice of the voters?

SIX MORE INDICTMENTS BY GRAND JURY

Two Felonies, for Bootlegging and Burglars—Four Misdemeanors for Petty Theft of Poultry

The grand jury has returned six additional indictments this week, making ten for the term so far. Two of the new indictments are for felony and four for misdemeanor.

Milton Logan was indicted for selling liquor, and has been arrested.

Andrew Newman has been indicted for burglary, it being charged that he stole turkeys near Petersburg. He and another party were arrested one night a couple of weeks ago at Petersburg, while plying their business, being equip with a Ford car with a turkey coop on it. The other party escaped from the constable after being brought to town. Newman has been in jail here since then.

The misdemeanor cases are for petty theft, mostly poultry stealing. There was much stealing of turkeys and chickens during the fall and winter, throughout this section, and it is the determination of the people and the courts to put a stop to the business.

The court has been trying the case of Solon Clements and Sam Wilks vs. C. H. Critchfield, suit for commission. H. Critchfield, suit for commission.

He informed us that he would spend several days in Plainview in February for the purpose of giving advice and helping people make out their income tax schedules for 1922.

There was a goodly crowd in town yesterday, to take advantage of the Dollar Day Bargains, and the special clearance sales, and more people than usual were from the far away sections of Plainview trade territory.

The Country Store was held at the band stand at 5 o'clock, and about 100 articles given away in the drawing, Aline McCallon drawing the slips from the barrel. ## CLUB ROOM FOR LEGION

PLANS LAID AT DINNER AND COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO SECURE PLACE

The American Legion Post will likely soon have a club room, properly furnished, for the use of its members, in which there will be an athletic room, reading room, etc. The plans were discussed at a dinner held at the Wayland hotel dining room Wednesday night, at which fifty-eight former service men were present. After talks relative to the importance of having a club home, a committee composed of W. Holbrook, Kearby Nash, F. E. Offlighter, G. C. Hughes, and Don P. Jones was appointed to lease proper quarters at once. Several tentative places are under consideration, and it is said that within three or four weeks the Legion will doubtless have a club room.

The feed was prepared by J. A. Peret, the best known lodge and club chef on the Plains, and consisted of fresh roasted pork, sweet potatoes, Martha Washington slaw, rolls, coffee, pie a la mode, etc. It was quite an enjoyable affair.

A state drive is now on to if possible get every ex-service man signed up as a member of the Legion. Ten new members were added at this meeting.

The Legion is working toward a club building in Plainview within the next several years.

More and more, each and every day, we hate the phrase "government aid."

Every farmer on the Plains should raise at least a few turkeys this year. They will bring a good revenue.

Its foolish to ask Obregon to guarantee the safety of Americans in Mexico. Why not let them take the same chance they do in Herrin, Ill., Mer Rouge, La., Denison, Texas, and a few other places we might mention.

The state senate one day this week adopted a resolution denouncing the klan and endorsing the fight Gov. Paaker is making against it in Louisiana. Another proof that Texas democracy is not dominated by the klan.

Under a contract just signed Jackie Coogan, age 8 years, moving picture star, is to receive $1,500,000 a year for his services in making films. This is indeed a fabulous sum, but if the movie fans are willing to pay for it, we have no complaint.

Big Bill Haywood's communist colony in "Free Russia" has gone to smash and Bill is left broke and discouraged. We had understood from Prince Kropotkin and others that it didn't hurt a true communist to be broke, but Big Bill doesn't seem to be quite happy.

A St. Louis attorney of wet sympathies urges the people of the city to resist search and seizure by prohibition agents acting on blanket warrants. "If you get killed," he comforts them, "you will be martyrs." Maybe so, but as the people of St. Louis will probably reflect, a dead martyr never hears the applause.

A Washington state woman has been learning her husband's job. The husband is a miner. The mining business, she says, is not so hard as house keeping. Judge for yourself, then, from the trouble we have when miners go on strike, what the situation would be if the housekeepers walked out.

Representative Bryant of Memphis has introduced a bill in the legislature proposing a state income tax on persons, corporations, joint stock companies and associations, as a means of raising additional revenue. The same exemptions and deductions as those in the federal income tax law are carried in the bill. The bill should fail of passage, for there is a menace in it, why seek to tax industry and thrift to death. All that modern day legislators seem to think of is additional taxes. A better plan would be to reduce expenditures. Cut every expense possible, and make the tax burden less heavy. It can be done, and should be.

Those who fear that the Catholics will in the near future dominate the United States, and massacre or enslave all protestants should read in the daily newspapers Monday of the banishment from Mexico by President Obregon of Monsignor Filippi, apostolic delegate from the vatican to Mexico. Filippi was bundled up and sent out of Mexico pronto, even though he was the personal delegate of the pope himself. While nearly all the women and more than half of the men in Mexico are Catholics, they do not dominate the nation politically. President Obregon is a Mason and is not a Catholic; so was President Diaz; so are a number of the leading statesmen anti-Catholics. Every now and then, when priests try to exercise any undue influence or jolitical activity, they are arrested and punished or banished. When the editor of the News made a tour of Mexico more than a year ago he was surprised to never see a priest or nun on the streets of any city, and asked why this was, and was informed it was against the law for them to wear their clerical dress outside of a church. Catholicism is gradually losing out in Mexico. It can never hope to dominate the United States, and anyone who fears it will ever do so is indeed credulous. The nominal charge against Monsignor Filippi was that he made a Catholic speech at the dedication of a monument to Christ, outside of a church, but the reason is said to lay deeper, and a fight on all outside Catholic dignitaries, at least that is what de La Huerta and Calles, the two leading men in Obregon's cabinet, declare. The pope and his hegarchy haven't much standing in Mexico, at least among the political leaders, and the more democratic and radical elements,

Under the present law half the auto license money goes into the state highway fund and the other half goes to the county in which it was paid. The state highway commission now urges that the law be changed so that all the money will go to the state and none of it kept by the county. This is "adding insult to injury," for we believe it would be better if it all stayed in the county where paid. The state and federal governments should not appropriate a dollar or have anything to do with the building or maintenance of roads—that should be done by the counties and precincts.

"QUIT YE LIKE MEN"

District court is in session, and it is hoped by every friend of law and order and the punishment of crime that this term will prove superior to past terms.

There is not a county in Texas that we know of where it is so easy for a criminal to escape punishment as in Hale county. This county has possibly the sorriest jury service of any county in the Lone Star state.

The record in Hale county is such that every officer connected with the courts should hang his head in shame when he contemplates the failures of justice. There are cases which have been on the dockets one, two, three and possibly a half-dozen terms without being forced to trial—open and shut cases in which the accused are unquestionably guilty.

At the spring term of the Hale county district court there was, despite a number of cases on the docket, almost a "water haul." The court then moved to Floyd county and a number of convictions were had. Why is this?

No wonder there is crime when it is so easy to put off the trial of cases from term to term until they are "worn out."

No wonder there is crime when weak-kneed jurors can be and are swayed by the pleas of the criminal lawyers.

No wonder there is crime when court officers, jurors and some other people let "maudlin sympathy" enter into cases.

The enforcement of law should be with a vengeance, and without sympathy. Criminals should be made to feel the iron hand of law when they commit offenses.

When murder is committed there should be a swift trial; when a person is arrested for stealing he should be tried at the first term; continuances are, as everyone knows, the refuge of criminal lawyers in protecting clients they know to be guilty. A lawyer who secures the acquittal of a guilty client should feel that in so doing he has disgraced himself, his profession, his country, and committed a crime almost akin to treason.

It is a greater crime against society for a guilty criminal to be acquitted than were an anarchist to put dynamite under the court house and blow it to pieces.

The failures of the courts in Hale county in the past have bene enough to disgust every friend of law enforcement. It is time that a change for the better should be made, and it can be made at this term.

No innocent person should be convicted, but is important that all guilty ones be convicted and punished to the extent of the law.

It is time that jurors in Hale county hearken to the Israelitish charge, "Quit ye like Men."

Mob law is always dangerous, for it is just as liable to punish an innocent person as a guilty one. For instance: Recently one night near Waco a young man named Skipworth was killed, and his body thrown over a high bluff. A young woman was with him, and she told a harrowing story of how a negro attacked them, killed Skipworth and then assaulted her. Some days later a negro was arrested and she identified him as the one who had committed the crime. It was reported that a mob intended to lynch the negro. Last week the girl and her two brothers were arrested and are now under bond charged with the murder of Skipworth. Hence, had the mob lynched the negro it is very likely it would have punished an entirely innocent person. We have known of a number of such cases. The courts have their faults, it is true, but they are the best things we have for punishing criminals.

The Monroe County (Missouri) Appeal would like to send this message to the farm bloc: "In ancient Rome the remedy for unrest was a blowout in the Colosseum and a few shiploads of free food. In modern America the remedy seems to be more credit. If the farmer is hard run, lend him another wad if he can give security. This will enable him to buy more plug hats, more diamond jewelry, more automobiles and other trifles big business has for sale. This, in turn, will give employment to more laborers and furnish more customers for the retail merchant, and everything will be fine. But it is not more credit the farmer needs. It is better markets, lower rtaxes and cheaper goods. Carry the news to the farm bloc."

Representative Fields of Hill county has introduced a bill in the legislature to change the manner of electing county commissioners. At present the various counties are divided into the various precincts, each precinct electing one member of the court. Mr. Fields would have the entire four elected from the county at large. This, he argues, would place the responsibility of the interest of the entire county upon the shoulders of each member, whereas, at present, very often each member of the court is very vigilant in looking after the interest of his own precinct, to the detriment of the rest of the county. It seems that the bill has some very good points to it, and should likely be adopted.

WILL IT EVER END?

The trouble between France and Germany started 1080 years ago. At Verdun, in the year 843, Charlemagne's three grand children quarreled over grandpa's will and divided his property. Strongest of three was Louis the German. He took for his share land which has become known as Germany. Charles the Bold got the kingdom of the Franks, west of the Rhine—roughly speaking, modern France.

The third brother, Lotharie, was a weakling. So he got only the scraps, territory neither of his brothers coveted at the time. These scraps included Alsace, Lorraine, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland and a strip of northern Italy. Descendants of Charles the Bold and Louis the German began fighting for Lotharie's property. They have been fighting over parts of it, ever since, so we can scarcely expect the dispute to be settled quickly.

In other nations there is racial hatred, which rankles in the hearts of the people, and breaks out in a flame from time to time.

Uncle Sam is wise in trying to stay clear of European affairs.

GIVES YOU PEP

When you need stimulation, at a few lumps of sugar—and you'll get as much "kick" as from an alcoholic cocktail. So claims a medical research man of high standing in his profession.

He adds: "Most people will laugh at that statement, but it's a chemical truth. The sugar positively will stimulate the physical body as much as the cocktail. The mental exhilaration may seem greater from a cocktail than from lump sugar, but that's chiefly the power of the imagination. The cocktail drinker gets a 'kick' because he expects it, is firm convinced that he'll get it. Sugar doesn't seem to give this same effect—because the sugar eater doesn't expect it, hence his imagination doesn't create it." Mental stimulation is at least 50 per cent imagination.

A strong whiskey highball, if you tell the drinker it is very weak, is not apt to stimulate him mentally as much as a weak one if you tell him it's half whiskey, half ginger ale.

Exhilaration and depression are largely states of mind.

Sugar in the stomach is like coal in the furnace. It rapidly is converted into heat and energy. That's why so many athletes, especially football players, instinctively crave a few lumps of sugar before they enter a contest. Sugar "gets to them" quickly—is transformed into energy and heat sooner than any other food.

Newspaper men, as a class, are notorious candy fiends. Few of them realize it, but they crave sugar because of its stimulating power.

Many candy fiends are really "suggestive drunkards."

Did you ever notice that some girls who constantly munch candy are geared up to an emotional exhilaration that resembles intoxication.

If you want to prove all this, try what doctors call the "finger weight test for exhaustion." Hitch a small weight about two ounces, to your fore-finger. Then count how many times, with your hand parallel with the floor, you can raise and lower the finger and its attached weight. After a certain number of times, your finger will get exhausted and the little weight will seem to weigh a ton.

Try the same experiment again, after eating several lumps of sugar, and you'll be able to lift the little weight a tenth or a fifth more times than when you haven't stimulated yourself with sugar.

The stimulation from sugar is of longer duration than the "kick" from alcohol. Also, sugar does not have alcohol's depressive reaction.

O. J. Sexton, manager of the Western Union telegraph office here, has been in Dallas this week attending a state meeting of managers.

Section 9.—Matthew 6:14

THE SPIRIT OF TRUE HELPFULNESS

1. Take heed that ye do not your alms before men, to be seen of them: otherwise we have no reward of your Father which is in heaven.

2. Therefore when thou doest thine alms, do not sound a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

3. But when thou doest alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth:

4. That thine alms may be in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret himself shall reward thee openly.

THE NATIONS SUPREME NEED

The saving grace of Jesus Christ is the supreme need of our nation. His power is needed in every home and every heart. We are assailed by many dangerous and destructive influences and enemies. There is no deliverance nor security to be found anywhere except in the presence and power of His salvation.

Our country is invaded by at least three enemy armies and forces:

First—There is the army of nearly six million illiterates above ten years of age. These illiterates have confessed that they are illiterates. Perhaps if the educational test were put to others, this number would be increased very materially.

Second—There is an army of nearly sixty million people who are not identified with any church or religious organization—Jewish, Catholic, or Protestant. This is a serious reflection.

Third—There is an army of about twenty-eight million children and young people under twenty-five years of age who are not enrolled in any Sabbath Day School or any other institution giving religious instruction. Unpardonable reflection!

These three forces are armies or groups constitute a triple alliance, which threatens the life of our country. Patriotism demands that every loyal American should immediately enlist in an army for a campaign of Americanism, a campaign of adult evangelism, and a campaign for the spiritual nurture of childhood.

People must be educated. They must be regenerated. They must be born again. They must be trained for church, for home, and for country. These opinions are the opinions of the best writers and thinkers and of the truest and noblest Christian patriots in America.

I appeal to every honest, virtuous man and woman to enlist for this crusade.

WARNING TO DEADHEADS

The editor of a Kansas newspaper says: "Ten cents per line straight will be charged for all obituary notices of business men who did not advertise while living, and delinquent subscribers will be charged 15c per line for obituary notices. Advertisers and cash subscribers will receive the best in the shop when the shuffle off. Better send in your subscription, as yellow fever is abroad in the land."—Sugar City (Colo.) Gazette.

Sixty years is long enough for any one to live, said John William Goddard, London artist. Then he went home, stuffed paper in the door and window cracks, and turned on the gas. It seems he had become discouraged about the world situation. Many others are. It has been so in all generations. But somehow the world always manages to pull through by the skin of its teeth, and slowly gets better. For your own happiness and peace of mind, contemplate world conditions with interest but don't take them too seriously.

THE FINE ART OF KISSING

By A. Wize Gie

People will kiss! Yet only one in a thousand knows how to extract the maximum of bliss from ruby lips. And yet it is simple, at least for the initiated. Follow these directions for best results:

First, know with whom you are clinching—don't make any mistakes although a mistake may be a good one. Don't jump like a cat for a mouse and smack the dainty thing on the arm, or in the ear, or on the head. Do not be in a hurry!

The gentleman should be taller, although this isn't absolutely necessary. He should have a clean face, a kindly eye, and mouth-ful of expression.

Don't be anxious to kiss in a crowd. Two are plenty to corner and nab a kiss, more would spoil the fun.

Take the left hand of the female in your right. Let your hat go to hell! Throw your left arm over the shoulder of the lady and slip it around to her right side below her arm.

Do not be in a hurry!

Her left arm is on your right—let there be a faint pressure on that, not like grip of a vise, but a gentle grasp full of thought, respect, and electricity. Do not be in a hurry!

Her head lies lightly on your shoulder. You are heart to heart. Look deep into her half closed orbs. Gently, but firmly press her to your vest. Stand firm, be brave but do not be in a hurry! Her lips are almost open. Lean slightly with your head, take careful aim—the lips meet, the eyes close, the heart opens, the soul rides through tempests, it do not be in a hurry! Heaven opens before you, the earth flies from under you like a blazing rocket across the evening sky. Don't be afraid. No fuss, no noise, no fluttering, no squirming. You are twanging the golden chords of ecstasy.

But do not be in a hurry!

A bill is before the legislature to put a tax on soft drinks, ice cream and similar dishes served at fountains, 1c on each 10c worth gross. The legislators are indeed hard up to find means of raising additional revenue if they resort to the "nuisance tax," which the federal government repealed Jan. 1st of last year. The bill should be defeated. The tax burden should be lightened instead of increased.

BEST WAY TO PLANT TREES

VARIETIES THAT ARE MOST SUCCESSFULLY GROWN ON PLAINS

Tree planting time will soon be here again and those who intend to plant trees and shrubbery will possibly be benefited by a few suggestions from one who has studied the varieties of both fruit and shade trees, also ornamentals, which are best suited to the some what rugged climate of the Plains and West Texas.

After trying out and testing the years, we have come to the selection of the hardiest and best trees for permanent street planting, as well as for lawn and yard trees. They follow in order, Elm, Ash, Honey Locust, Sycamore, Box Elder and Maple. The first four named are long life trees which are best to plant as by the time the softer wooded trees are of large size they are ready to decay from one cause or another. No insect pests have attacked the Elm, Honey Locust or Sycamore, though Caterpillars have been known to eat the leaves from Ash, Popular and a few of the softer trees. They are not a menace, as they are easily controlled with the Arsenate spray.

Black Walnut is a good tree and will live for a century and is disease resisting to a great extent, and after they are well started they will grow as fast as an Elm or Ash. Elm will be more universally planted than the other varieties, though the hardy Locust will be growing here on the Plains after all the other trees are gone. They are not as desirable as some of the others, such as Ash, Elm and Maple.

The thornless Honey Locust is a fine tree. They are used in the City of Washington as an avenue tree. They will grow straight up fifty feet. They have roots like the walnuts and are more hardy than the Black Locust. No insects have been known to attack them here.

A few words about planting. The holes should be dug deep enough and wide enough so that the ground will be loose around them. Put the top soil around the roots and firm it down and water good after planting, cultivate and water good when necessary all through the summer. It is not necessary to water much when trees are dormant as it has a tendency to cause them to winter kill.

All the homes on the Plains can have trees if the right varieties are selected. There are special varieties of Plum, Apple, Cherry and a few of the late Blooming Early Bearing Peach that do well here. This is the finest Cherry and Grape country there is for the American varieties of Grape and the Montmorency and Hybrid type of Cherry.

In another article we will have something to say about Roses, including the older annuals, and the newer and more popular Teas, Hybrid Teas, Perpetuals and Polyantha for out door spring planting. All the more up to date cities and communities are having "Tree Planting Week" supported by the various Civic organizations and clubs, such as Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions, Women's clubs, Chamber of Commerce, Farm Bureau, and Farmers' Clubs.

"Plan to Plant Another Tree," has interested the daily, weekly, and agricultural press of the country, also some special magazines. The Woman's Club of Concord, Ga., last fall organized the town and secured the planting of an average of four fruit and shade trees, evergreens, shrub, vines, etc., for every man, woman and child in the town.

On the Plains our best planting season is from February to May. Roses can be planted, however, over a longer period of time than most any other plant.—D. C. Aylesworth.

Cow, Sow and Hen Special

The Cow, Sow and Hen Demonstration Train to be run over the Texas lines of the Santa Fe Railway, will spend nearly two weeks in the Panhandle and South Plains in March and April. The train will start from Sweetwater on March 23rd according to the tentative schedule and visit practically every point on the Santa Fe railway branches and main lines in this territory. The program will include snappy addresses by speakers from the Texas State College, and well selected exhibits of dairy cattle, hogs and poultry. When all the details of the train and the program have been completed, further announcement will be made.—A. M. Hove.

Will Tour Foreign Countries

Dr. E. B. Atwood, president of Wayland college informs us, that he is contemplating attending the world's Baptist conference, to be held in Stockholm, Sweden, next summer, and if he does he will tour the other European country, and also visit the Holy Land. A number of Texas Baptists expect to make the trip.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton has compiled statistics from charitable organizations of a large number of American cities. These show a decline in the number of families given relief because of distress caused by drink, running as high as 95 per cent.

Judge Pink L. Parrish and B. W. neaday.

Floyd County Warrants Refunded

The refunding warrants for Floyd county have been cashed, and a part or all of the money has been received by Floyd county banks, and is being paid to the people holding the old warrants.

This means quite a good deal of new and ready money being put into circulation. The refunding warrant deal runs around $100,000. This money is to pay off the old warrants being held by the people in Floyd county. The old warrants were left with the banks of the county sent to Dallas and paid off, new warrants being issued known as refunding warrants. The money was sent back to the First National Bank of Floydada and in turn this bank has sent same to other banks of the county in sum corresponding with the amount of the old warrants held in trust by the various banks.—Beacon.

Births Exceed Deaths

There were 149 more births in Floyd county during the year 1922 than deaths, according to the records of the county clerk. Seventy-two marriage licenses were issued during the year. A total of 181 births were recorded of which ninety-two were boys and eighty-nine girls. There were no twins or triplets born in Floyd county during the year. Thirty-two deaths were reported, of which twenty-one were males and eleven females.

C. R. Flesher of Canyon was in town Tuesday.

Yokahama Girls Will Serve Colonial Tea

The Yokahama Girls met Tuesday afternoon. After the devotional program, a business session was held, in which it was decided to change the days of meeting from the first and third Tuesdays to the second and fourth Mondays. The hour was changed from 4 o'clock in the afternoon to 7:30 in the evening.

The society also planned a Colonial Tea, for the 28th of February. The girls will dress in the old colonial styles. They are giving this tea to raise funds for their missionary pledge, and to pay their scholarship in Japan.

There were several new members, and great interest was shown.

The next meeting will be held Monday evening, at the home of Miss Jewel Johnson. Definite plans will be made then. All members are expected and new ones invited.—Reporter.

Good Manners

Sometimes important work or an appointment makes it practically impossible to entertain a chance caller.

But a visitor having once been told that the house's mistress is in, almost nothing can justify the latter's failure to see the guest for at least a moment. She may explain matters and excuse herself after extending a greeting, but she must not send a message by another.

Her presence is required, if for no other reason than to make the situation clear to the caller.

Marriage A La Mode

The Norwegian bride always wears a wreath of white flowers.

After the ceremony she is blindfolded, and, with her bridesmaids in a circle about her, dances a folk dance alone. Then she gives the wreath to one of the maids, and the recipient according to an old legend, will be the next one to wed.

This goes on until the wreath has been handed to each of the bridesmaids in turn, the order in which, supposedly, they will be married being determined thus.

As You Like It Club Elects Officers

A Woman Accounts To Herself for Righteousness Never to Get Over a Sorrow

The old adage "hell hath no fury like a woman scorned" is receiving new and curious illustrations in these days of feminine emancipation.

During the past year more than a dozen women settled their accounts with faithless husbands and lovers by murdering them, and now comes the interesting cases of two wives who have not only divorced their husbands for statutory offenses, but who grimly declare that they are going to see to it that the men marry the "other women."

It would seem from this that the way of the philanderer will not be the safe and pleasant one in the future that it has been in the past, and that husbands who elect to dally along the primrose path, will do so at their peril. It was one thing to have to face the tears and reproaches of a jealous wife. It is quite another thing to face an automatic in the hands of a woman whose aim is not obscured by the fact that she is green-eyed.

The old recipe for keeping a husband properly domesticated was to make home pleasant for him. Millions of wives tried this with but indifferent success, and so it will be interesting to see whether making it dangerous to leave home works out any better.

Perhaps the wives who use the cave women methods in preventing their husbands from wandering from their own firesides are simply reverting to type, and using the same method that their prehistoric ancestresses did in keeping their mates from straying off after younger and slimmer females with less hair and shorter teeth than they had.

Undoubtedly, a wholesome fear of consequences does a lot to keep us all in the straight and narrow path. Women are, as a sex, more moral and lead more upright lives than men do, not because they are intrinsically of a higher and nobler nature, but because society has made them pay a bigger price for wrong doing than it makes men pay.

Just as many women as men have wandering fancies. Just as many wives get tired of fat and stupid husbands, as there are husbands who get tired of fat and stupid wives. Just as many women at middle age would like to have one more fling, and one more bite at the angel food of romance, as there are middle-aged men who crave the thrill of another amorous adventure.

But when the average woman marries, she settles down to be a good and faithful wife. She strifes her yawns and tries to hold the thought that John is a good provider if he is prosperous and tedious. She satisfies her hankering for cake with bread and butter, because if she doesn't her husband will yank her into the divorce court, and she will find herself a forlorn, declassée woman, without home, or position, or a meal ticket.

Husband, on the contrary, may nibble at forbidden fruit with comparative safety so long as he doesn't do his apple eating in his wife's face, or call public attention to it.

It is because women have forgiven their husband's sidestepping and men have demanded that their wives toe the line that women are more respectful of their marriage vows than men, so perhaps the woman with the gun may do more toward domesticating man than the woman with the curtain lecture has ever been able to do.

The woman who kills the man who has tired of her and turned to another woman, is easy to understand. She is a primitive woman and takes a primitive revenge. The wife who divorces her husband and makes him marry the woman for whom he has forsaken her, is of a more complex nature, but it is doubtful if her revenge is not of a subtler and deadlier kind than that of the wife who has slain her man rather than let her rival have him.

Of all dead things in the world, the dearest is a dead love. You can no more revive it than you could breathe life into a corpse, or blow upon burnt ashes until you kindle them into a flame again. So the woman whose husband has ceased to love her loses nothing that could contribute to her own happiness when she bestows him upon another woman, but none the less she takes her revenge to the uttermost when she ties them together by marriage.

For honor is honor, and loyalty is loyalty, eternally, and the man who did not have it in him to be faithful to one wife, will not be faithful to another. Indeed, often, by the time the second wedding bells are ready to ring he is already tired of his new love, but society holds him bound by the unwritten law to this second woman, and so he must marry her no matter how little enthusiasm he has for the undertaking.

Generally, these marriages are not of a kind to add to a man's prestige in either business or the social world. Often the woman is far from being of his own class, or the kind who would be acceptable to his family and friends, but even when she is a woman of breeding and education, the knowledge that everywhere she goes, people whisper behind their hands the story of her past indiscretions, is a stab at his pride as deep as any fury could deal.

As for the woman, the course of a jealousy that eats on her happiness day and night is upon her. For as she took her husband away from his first wife, so shall some other woman take him away from her. The weakness that made him her prey, will deliver him into the hands of a younger and fairer vamp some day.

For as we sow, we reap, and every wrong is sooner or later avenged.—Dorothy Dix.

NEFF EMPHASIZES ENFORCEMENT

GOVERNOR PLEDGES HIMSELF TO FIGHT LAWLESS ELEMENT TO FINISH

Austin, Jan. 12.—Governor Neff pledged himself to fight the lawless element in Texas "with my back to the wall" and to a program of taxing privileges and special rights and relief for the present taxpayer, in his address to a joint session of the legislature today. He outlined in general his program for legislation and announced he will deliver specific recommendations to the legislature at various times during the session.

"I am for enforcing the laws of the state," Neff declared. "Every day three men are killed in the state and liquor smugglers are constantly at work. Law enforcement is a burning question to the state at present. I will send you in a short time a message regarding law enforcement that will wear whiskers.

"Privileges and special rights in Texas are more valuable than privileges in speaking on taxation. The laws of Texas made such privileges more valuable. No interest should hope to live under a government they do not help to support. I am not proposing that the present rate of taxation be raised but rather that the present property owner be relieved of the tax burden which he is now laboring under. I favor tapping new sources of revenue in which Texas is unquestionably rich. The oil interests of the state should pay their share as should the light interest and the manufacturing interests."

"Texas government is extravagantly and inefficiently administered," he said. "The government of this state is top-heavy. There are too many boards and bureaus. I am for simplifying it and administering it in a more efficient way."

Neff's program regarding conservation of flood waters and overflow lands and the construction of factories also were outlined. The house of representatives hall was crowded when the governor spoke.

The governor emphatically declared himself in favor of a system of education "from the bottom to the top" from the little read school house to the splendid institution out here on the hills" (referring to the University of Texas.)

"Texas should enter the educational market and barter for the best educational system obtainable. It has been estimated that $50 per capita per year is necessary to give any child in the state the proper educational advantages. We are now investing far less than this amount. My recommendation is that the state furnish $25 of this amount and that the local school authorities be given the task of raising the remainder.

"But as emphatic as I am in furnishing Texas with a worthy educational system, I am unqualifiedly opposed to buying such a system unless we have the money to pay for it and I serve notice here and now that I will not approve any measure passed by this body which appropriates money and does not provide for raising that money. We spent $25,000,000 for education last year, but there is a big question whether the children get their measure of education. We must do more than merely raise money, the provision of an adequate educational system requires more than that.

"Closely related to the educational problem and scarcely less important is the transportation question, we must provide a system of state highways. It is impossible to travel for 100 miles in Texas on good roads. A traveler passes from a good road in one county into a mud hole in the next. This is the result of our road building policy which regarded the county as the unit, instead of the state. We have spent millions on roads but we have no state system of highways. Highways should be under state and not county control.

"Another question of pressing importance is that of taxation. We have tax laws in Texas worthy the name. We have a patchwork of tax laws but they are unjust and discriminatory. Landlords and home owners bear the brunt of taxation and it is unevenly distributed even among them. Some counties pay nothing in support of this government, on the other hand they take money out of the state treasury. Such a condition is a disgrace to a civilized land."

The present building is a two-story brick building with four rooms, and it is intended to build the new addition two stories with eight rooms and basement. This will make a twelve room school building of which any town of much larger population might well be proud. A heating plant will be installed in the basement and the building with this addition will be modern and up to date in every respect.

It is estimated that the above will cost about $26,000, and it is intended to spend the balance of the $30,000 bond issue for the purpose of purchasing school equipment.

Monday evening at the Wayland hotel dining room the teachers in the Methodist Sunday school were banqueted by the Men's Club of that church.

R. A. Underwood presided, and responses were made by Dr. J. F. Owens, who gave "A Tribute to Sunday School Teachers;" Pastor O. P. Clark, who spoke on "Relation of the Sunday School to the Church;" and the gallant A. A. Beery, whose topic was "What Would the World Be Without the Women," and he declared in a short time it would not be much of a world.

Short talks were also made by Dr. C. C. Gidney and Supt. J. D. Steakley. Miss Creola Richbourg gave a reading.

Covers were laid for sixty, and a delicious repast was spread.

Church of the Nazarene

Last Friday evening while sitting around the fire after supper, we heard a knock at the door. I opened the door and said, "Come in." To my surprise they did come in and kept coming, and coming, everyone with hands full. They crowded the dining table with vegetables, fresh fruit, dried fruit, canned fruit; then put a chicken and two sacks of flour on the floor. If you think we have had nothing to eat at the parsonage this week, just come to see us.

We spent the remainder of the evening in song, and prayers and thanksgiving. The hearts of the pastor and wife were almost too full of thanksgiving for words, and as we looked over the crowd of happy givers, our New Year resolution came to us with greater force—to make this the best year of our lives up to the present, and be faithful and true and do all possible to help this precious people.

We do thank the Lord the way He is helping us as we go forward upon this new year. Our Sunday school is growing in interest and number.

The Lord is blessing as we give out His word.

The Young People's Society is rendering excellent programs. Try to be with us next Sunday.

Thirty years ago, F. Edson White, then a youth, left his home near Peoria, Ill., and went to Chicago where he found work as a checker in the pens at Armour & Co., at $12 per week. This month he was made president, the first not a member of the Armour family since 1862.

PACK BURROS USED TO PRODUCE FILM

Building Materials for "Peg" Location Transported On Donkey's Backs Up the Mountains

Pack burros were used to transport every ounce of building material and water used in the construction of an Irish cottage near Crag's Lake, California, for the metro production of "Peg O' My Heart," the famous play by J. Hartley Manners in which Laurette Taylor stars under the direction of King Vidor, and will be at the Olympic Theatre Friday and Saturday.

Crag's Lake is located in the mountainous regions about forty miles north of Los Angeles. Since it was impossible for trucks to approach closer than a quarter of a mile to the side site on which the cottage was built, burros were secured for the difficult work.

The initial scenes of "Peg O' My Heart" were filmed on this location. It was a novel introduction to motion picture location work for Miss Taylor and her husband, Mr. Manners. The nearest available camp site was two miles distant and they resided in a log cabin mountain cottage during the filming of the exterior scenes.

This spot for the location was selected after a complete survey of all the logical Southern California sites. It was the only place that was typical of the part of Ireland in which a portion of the action of this story is laid.

In return for the country club's courtesy in permitting the use of the grounds, it was decided to build a permanent cottage. The best of materials were put in the hands of the workmen and the result is a firmly built cottage which adds to the scenic beauty of the place. It is an exact reproduction of a thatched-roofed Irish home.

IS HAROLD LLOYD KING OF COMEDY

Is Harold Lloyd the screen's comedy king?

That is an interesting question and a question that James W. Dean, prominent syndicate writer and motion picture critic knew would cause considerable comment. In fact, Mr. Dean began the controversy by syndicating a story through prominent newspapers throughout the country and thusly started the ball rolling. He wrote:

"The barber was talking as he wielded his razor. Valentino is a great actor, he thinks, but William Farnum is greater. And who is his favorite actor of all? Harold Lloyd. Does he think Lloyd better than Chaplin. 'I should say,' he answers, 'Chaplin is always the same. Lloyd is always different.'"

"In a theatre a flash on the screen announced the coming of Harold Lloyd in 'Dr. Jack.' Said one man to another near me:

"I'll have to see that. That fellow's the funniest guy in the world."

"The other man asked him if he thought he was funnier than Chaplin."

"He's got Chaplin skinned seven different ways," he replied."

"In another theatre the main title of a release is flashed on the screen. It says 'Harold Lloyd in Dr. Jack,' and before the opening scene is disclosed there is a round of applause. The only time I have witnessed such an occurrence was on the first night of the showing of 'The Three Musketeers' when Douglas Fairbanks was there in person." Mr. Dean goes even further than that, telling of the opinions of ten different people in different walks of life. Two preferred Chaplin while a housewife declared that she "liked Chaplin better in some ways but in other ways didn't like him as well as Lloyd." It is a question bound to provoke interest. Anyway Harold Lloyd will be seen Monday and Tuesday at the Olympic Theatre in "Dr. Jack" and then people can judge for themselves.

Funeral of Noted Westerner Several hundred people on Tuesday attended the funeral of M. E. Kerrigan, formerly mayor of Quannah. In honor of this sterling citizen the stores closed their doors at eleven o'clock until after the funeral.

"I love them all," was the message dear old Mike sent to the people of Quannah. These last words to Father O'Grady by the dying man, were faithfully reported by him to the congregation that had gathered at St. Mary's Catholic church that morning, and chosen as the text of a beautiful sermon.

Mike Kerrigan loved people regardless of their race, creed, or color, and as such he showed the true charity as preached by Christ.

Though born in Europe, he was a patriotic American, and one of his last requests was that "America" should be sung at his grave by Jimmie Jones and another friend.

The funeral train was in charge of Arthur Keys, who managed things well. The body had laid in state at the Goodlett residence, almost buried beneath flowers. It was carried for the services to the church, thence to its last resting place.—Quannah Tribune-Chief.

Mike Kerrigan was a well known pioneer in this section of the state, and was the friend of many of the first settlers of Plainview. Numerous interesting stories are told of his Irish wit.

Will Have Rabbit Drive

The Boy Scouts will participate in an all-day rabbit drive east of town four miles, tomorrow.

They will gather on the Phelps section in the morning and make a drive across two or three sections, and at noon a weiner roast will be enjoyed. In the afternoon another drive in another direction will take place. The boys expect to have a good time.

Richard Lloyd Jones Says

PLAY WELL YOUR PART

BEHOLD the movie play. How daringly the actor does his part with but the eye of the camera to see. It memorizes his movements but it does not applaud his act or bring him back with encore. Headlong the players plunge over precipices, bound they lie before the thundering locomotive, wildly they cling to the mane of the maddened horse. They do it with a philosophy that counts it all in the day's work.

The small stage star twinkles in the limelight of sumptuousness and feeds on content adulation. The player in the out of doors serves art without the stimulation of an audience's admiration.

All credit to the movie players. They take whatever part the scenario provides and perform before the one-eyed auditor in a soldierlike way. Would that we could borrow a bit of their soldiery and infuse it into everyday living.

Would we could live the philosopher who said, "Act well your part, there all honor lies."

So many of us grumble and whine through all our days because we are not cast in the star's part. We object to playing second fiddle. We lack the wisdom to take in the whole drama, to see the beauty of the humble parts, to know that the fair lady-a-glitter with jewels is not invariably the leading lady, that sometimes the poor Goose Girl who never has a chance even to get into a clean frock has the part to be coveted.

In Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" the great actors will not play the part of the martyred emperor. Rather would they play Brutus or the civilian orator Anthony. In "The Merchant of Venice" they will not play the merchant, but choose to be Shylock, the tortured, humble Jew. It is his speech and crass costumes that give them opportunity for character delineation.

Wise is the man who can look deep enough into his life to see that the stage setting is worth but little. It is the way we do our part that counts.

"Give the marshal stage center," said the great Henry Irving when rehearsing "Robespierre" can be seen on the side."

The wise man seeks glory in opportunity.

Great generals do not look for easy battles. It is the difficult things that they seek to conquer. They seek to break the strength of the foe.

Every difficulty conquered is a source of joy and pride after the stress of the struggle is over.

Where is the pioneer who has not gloried in the little red school house, the symbol of the frontiersman's battle for betterment?

Hard time experiences are always the most enjoyable conversation in the comfort of after-dinner company among men who have really known what it is to rest from battle. It is pleasant to them to contemplate that they have triumphed with the strength that came from resisting. The man who never had to do anything never has anything to tell.

It's the ne'er-do-well who has to lean upon the stories of what he is going to do, never what he has done.

The fellow who whines for an easy life, who is sure he could hold a big job if only he had the right sort of introduction, and who is too good to play unless he can play in the spotlight may clamor for applause but he stands a slim chance of getting it. Applause goes to the fellow whose work deserves it,—not the fellow who is waiting for it.

The appetite for applause is an early evidence of weakness. Big men do not mind the opinions of their contemporaries. They are too busy minding their business.

Poem by UNCLE JOHN

I recollect the overshoes my Aunt Malindy wore. . . . The kind that used to last her maybe seven year or more. . . . They buckled up as tight as wax, fer keepin' out the snow. . . . We likened Aunt Malindy's tracks to maps of Mexico. . . . There weren't no moisture filtered through, when Aunt Malindy strode across the fields to Centerville, or up the county road. We'd allers hear her comin' long before she landed there, for the overshoes was real, that our auntie used to wear. . . . an' when she firmly kicked the mud, from off their spacious soles, the pups would start to barkin' an' the rats would hunt their holes!

Now, . . . Ethyl Maude has got a pair,—or maybe it's a set,—she wears 'em nearly everywhere, whenever walks is wet. . . . A pair of rubber nipples, mounted on her dainty toes, and a crupper back around the heel, to keep 'em on, I s'pose. . . . Sech little hangin' baskets ain't built fer snow or floods, but they they're as healthy as the big, old-fashioned sort, but if Aunt Malindy seen 'em, you'd be apt to hear a snort!

Your own Uncle John.

HOMELY PHILOSOPHY For 1923

NOW is the time for all our philosophers to get busy an' philos. Who's smilin' because the income tax blanks are out again? Everybody's gettin' the best of it. Here we are sittin' around the table in a friendly game an' we've got to have a kitty. Every cent spent for ourselves share an' share alike. The fellow that can't chip in much isn't asked to, an' the chap that's had luck in the game drops in quite a pile. Seems as if it was a bit mean for the little fellow or the big fellow to dodge the ante. Suppose we fixed it so that everyone had to chip in the same amount before he could sit in. That would be fair enough, wouldn't it? Boy, the little fellow that's let off lightly ought to smile and the tight wad that's hit hard should smile, too. He's hit the ball an' won the cigars ahead of the game. Pay up an' cheer up, an' if you want to win the next pot study the game an' play it

CITIZENS DRIVE OUT RAILROAD STRIKERS

For Four Years Bridges Have Been Periodically Burned on Arkansas Railroad

Harrison, Ark., Jan. 16.—A citizens' committee today was questioning about twenty-five alleged strikers on the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad rounded up yesterday by several hundred men from points along the road, who came here after announcing that they would resort to "armed action" unless deprivations on that line ceased. A number of alleged strikers were driven from town, while others, hearing that the citizens were coming, fled.

Periodically, bridges of the road have been burned and service completely tied up at times between some points.

It is estimated that more than 300 citizens, some from points as far as 150 miles away, came here yesterday to round up the strikers.

A brakeman named Ford was slightly injured when struck by a shot fired from the home of a man said to be a striker. At another house the invaders were met by gun fire but no one was injured. The occupant was held to wait action by the citizens committee. The crowd was orderly, and although many of them carried weapons, there were no reports of any shots being fired by the citizens.

The body of E. C. Gregor, alleged striking shopworker, was found yesterday morning hanging from a railway trestle. Gregor is said to have resisted attempts of the "committee of 1,000"—an investigating body of citizens—when they sought Monday night to question him regarding the identity of persons suspected of carrying on a campaign of sabotage.

Gregor is said to have opened fire when called on to surrender. Later he was captured by a pursuing posse and hanged from the trestle.

The labor hall was raided and its furniture and fixtures burned in a huge bonfire on the public square.

Several of the men reported that a store of guns and ammunition was discovered in one of the homes entered by the men.

According to J. C. Murray, vice-president and general manager of the road, the recent bridge fires were of incendiary origin. All of the bridges along the line are now being guarded by citizens who have organized, he said.

Two alleged strikers, "Red" Orr and Luther Wise, are said to have pleaded guilty on charges of arson in connection with the bridge burnings and sentenced to seven years each in the penitentiary. They were reported tonight en route to prison at Little Rock.

Albert Stephens, a former railway conductor, also charged with arson, failed to appear in court this morning and his bond of $10,000 was declared forfeited. His bond, it is said, was signed by George O'Neal, hotel owner, who was publicly whipped yesterday.

Today twenty-five union men have been indicted by the grand jury on charges of arson.

News from Canada indicates that the Dominion government will shortly take further measures to prevent the exportation of liquor from Canadian provinces to the United States.

The Magnolia Building, Dallas, 30 stories high, just completed, stands on the site of two former saloons.

WHAT IF THE MINISTER QUIT BOOSTING HEAVEN

Wouldn't the congregation be surprised if the minister got up in the pulpit some Sunday morning and made the announcement:

"Beginning today, I'm going to quit the job of selling Christianity and boosting heaven. Everybody believes in God, or ought to by this time. I'm not going to waste my time and yours preaching any more. So I'll say good-bye, folks. Now, don't forget to keep right on believing in God."

Supposing some other business house resolved as follows:

"Our business is good. People know us. We have been in this one location for years. Why should we use part of our income to keep our goods before people who will just naturally come and get them?"

Supposing the grocer announced:

"Shucks what's the use of advertising. Folks have just got to have food anyway. They'll come and get it even if I don't tell 'em about it."

Such occurrences are hardly probable, and yet they would parallel the attitude of some business institutions which fail to credit the necessity for continuous advertising.

A. & M. COLLEGE BILL INTRODUCED

SENIOR CO-EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION OR FIRST CLASS IS PROVIDED

Austin, Jan. 16.—Senator Bledsoe today introduced his bill to establish the West Texas State College and the same measure was presented in the house by Representative Chitwood of Sweetwater. The bill appropriates $1,000,000 and provides for a co-educational institution of the first class, located in the western part of Texas.

The principal provisions of the bill are as follows:

"Sec. 1. There shall be established in this state, in that portion of Texas lying west of the nine-eighth meridian and north of the thirtieth parallel, at such point and in such manner as is provided by this act, a senior college for white students to be known as the West Texas State College, a co-educational institution, giving thorough instruction of college grades in those arts and sciences, physical and social, pure and applied, which elevate the ideals, enrich the life and increase the capacity of the people for democratic self-government and emphasizing instruction in agricultural and home economics.

Control by A. & M.

"Sec. 2. The government, control and direction of the policies of the said West Texas State College shall be vested in the board of directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas. The board of directors shall provide a president for said West Texas College who shall devote his entire time to the executive management of said school; who shall be directly accountable to the board of directors for the conduct thereof.

"Sec. 3. The said West Texas State College shall offer the usual college courses given in standard senior colleges of the first class and shall be empowered to confer appropriate degrees and shall offer four-year courses, two-year courses or short-term courses in farm and ranch economics, adaptation of farm crops to the peculiar conditions of the section in which the college is located and other such courses as the board of directors may see fit to provide as a means of applying the educational facilities necessary for this section of the state. All male students attending this college shall be required to receive such instruction in military science and tactics, as the board of directors may require, which shall at all times comply in full with the requirements of the United States government as a prerequisite to any now extended or to be extended by the government of the United States to State institutions of this character; and all such white male students shall during their attendance a such college be subject to such military discipline and control, as the board of directors may prescribe.

"Sec. 4. The said West Texas State college shall be co-educational and shall offer the usual college courses given in standard senior colleges of the first class and shall be empowered to confer appropriate degrees and shall offer four-year courses, two-year courses or short-term courses on equal terms to young women, including the arts and sciences connected therewith, as offered to young men in farm and ranch economics.

Locating Board

"Sec. 5.—The board of directors of the A. & M. College of Texas, acting as the board of directors of the West Texas State College, is hereby empowered and authorized to accept any and all benefits accruing to the agricultural college system, of which the West Texas State College becomes a part by virtue of this act, from the Federal government.

"Sec. 6. The chairman of the State Board of Control and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, the president of the University of Texas, the president of the A. & M. College of Texas and the president of the College of Industrial Arts of Texas shall constitute a board charged with the responsibility for the location of said West Texas State College. The said board is restricted in the choice of a location to the area mentioned in Sec. 1 of this act. As soon after the passage and approval of this act as practical, the said locating board shall make a careful investigation of the proposed site for the said institution; consideration shall be given to climatic conditions, supply of water, accessibility and such other matters as appropriately enter into the selection of a desirable location for an institution of this kind.

Authority of Board

"It is further provided that said locating board shall not be influenced to any degree in the selection of such location by offers and promises of bonuses or gifts, direct or indirect, to the State of Texas or to said college as a consideration for the location of said college at any particular place, but the primary consideration, which shall outweigh all others in the minds of the members of the locating board, shall be to locate this college where it can, in the future, render the greatest service to the state and to that section for which it is especially intended; but this is not to be interpreted to mean that the board of directors shall not have authority to accept gifts of land, money for student loans permanent improvements or other ob-

You Can Enjoy This Purse Protection

SHAKESPEARE wrote the greatest of all advertising truths when through his character of Cassio he said: "Good name in man or woman, dear my lord, is the immediate jewel of the soul."

The greatest properties in the world have been built on the foundation of good name. Reputation and honor bring more interest than any capital that can be invested in business. More important still, they form an absolute guarantee for the Buyer.

(There are single words, single names, that today are worth untold millions of dollars. Sheffield suggests cutlery of quality. Dresden brings chinaware to mind. Venice visualizes glassware, Nottingham pictures laces, and Paris—well, Paris fashions have become an international by-word.

These are the names of cities whose workmen have built character by living up to reputation.

Does any man question Gobelins tapestry, the Damascus blade, the violin of Cremona, or of more recent times, the product of Tiffany?

Business men and private individuals interested in the value to them of the art of advertising will do well to remember these facts. They were brought out forcefully in a speech delivered recently in Atlantic City by Earl D. Babst. Mr. Babst explained that reputations of value attach to localities as much as to individuals and corporations.

"The greatest asset in the world is good will," said Mr. Babst.

"Good will, in the simple terms of American business, is 'good reputation.'"

The average citizen who buys, but does not manufacture or advertise, may say: "Advertising is all very well for the SELLER. It makes HIM known, it makes HIM rich, it increases HIS business. But what good does advertising do ME?"

Advertising is more valuable even to the buyer than to the seller. For in a business established by advertising that has cost millions a business has established a NAME worth more than all its factories, machinery and money, and it MUST PROTECT THAT NAME.

The only way to protect a NAME is to protect the PROD-

UCT, by keeping up its QUALITY, by making good THE PROMISES of the ADVERTISING, by doing nothing to injure the chief asset, which is GOOD REPUTATION, GOOD WILL.

A man owning factories or other buildings will not set fire to them and burn them down if he can help it—especially if they are not insured.

The good will, the reputation back of a name, is a property that CANNOT BE INSURED. The good will of the public is the only insurance.

Having built up such a name, it must be KEPT UP. To let it fall, to deceive the public, to diminish quality for the sake of extra temporary profit, is as foolish and destructive as it would be to set fire to uninsured buildings.

ONCE TORN DOWN, A NAME CANNOT BE BUILT AGAIN.

Buyers protect themselves when they learn to test the promises and the fulfillments of advertisers, the value of a NAME ON A PACKAGE or a product of any kind.

A buyer has in his power constantly the standing, the life or death of any advertised product. Once the BUYER abandons it, it is gone.

Buyers should know, and many manufacturers, business men of good character with good products should know, more than they do know about advertising power, its meaning, its value to the producer AND MUCH GREATER VALUE TO THE CONSUMER.

There are advertised articles in which amounts as great as fifty millions and more have been invested, MERELY TO BUILD UP THE NAME. It is not likely that the owner of such a name, with his millions invested in it, would for the sake of temporary profit jeopardize the great capital that the name represents.

The business man who has not learned what advertising can do for him, locally and nationally, might write to Earl D. Babst, No. 117 Wall Street, New York City, for a copy of his speech.

MICKIE SAYS

FARMERS MUST HAVE FOREIGN MARKETS

Lodge's Admission on Foreign Trade Vindicates Democratic Position — That New Tariff Is Failure

Reluctant but eloquent evidence that the Fordney-McCumber profiteers' tariff law has not cured and is not likely to remedy the depression which has bankrupted American farmers is to be found in the words and acts of Republicans in congress.

Senator Bursum (Rep., N. M.), in introducing a bill to extend to Germany a credit of $1,000,000,000 for the purchase of foodstuffs and raw materials in this country, admitted that some effort must be made to find a foreign market for agricultural surpluses now being held in the United States to the detriment of producers.

The bill which Senator Bursum fathered, he said, was intended to stimulate trade in the United States upon the assumption that most of the depression in the farming districts was due to the inability of agricultural producers to dispose of their products abroad.

In the course of a speech against Senator Borah's proposal to call a conference to consider Europe's economic difficulties, Senator Lodge (Rep. Mass.), acknowledged that unless Europe is rehabilitated and pacified American trade will suffer. After declaring that the Harding administration would do "anything reasonable" to help Europe, Senator Lodge said: "Selfishness alone would be a sufficient reason for that, because the restoration of Europe to stability would tend to widen our markets and increase our commerce."

This is a change of front on the part of leading republican advocates of the Fordney-McCumber bill. When that measure was in course of enactment most of the republican senators and representatives pronounced it a guarantee to prosperity for American industry, agriculture, and labor, and a stimulus to foreign commerce.

Senator Lodge's admission is a vindication of the democratic position in 1919 and 1920, and since.

High School Notes

The Seniors held a class meeting Wednesday afternoon, at which time it was decided to give the Juniors a party, on Friday, Jan. 26th. This is the prize offered by the Seniors to the class that bought the most annuals.

This week the Seniors are having their pictures taken for the annual. The Annual staff is getting the material ready to send off, and they expect to get it all in next week.

Mr. Floyd announces that the girl's basket ball team of P. H. S. is "a good one." He says that he has a game scheduled for every week for a long time. He says the girls can do as much as the boys, and we all agree with him.

Mr. Duncan says that the boys' basket ball team is practicing hard this week, with a view of winning in the tournament next week. He says that, from the way the team is working, he believes that we will surely win.

Sjogren Will Hold Sales

C. F. Sjogren, the Kress auctioneer, was in town yesterday, and called at the News office. He says he has the following sales to hold next week: R. L. Spence, 14 miles northeast of Tullia, Jan. 22; Frank Kline, ten miles north west of Kress, Jan. 24; G. L. Gunkey, one mile west of Tullia, Jan. 26.

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

It's a question of closer cooperation between the packers and the growers, he says; of shipping when the market is strong, of feeding a few days longer when there's a surplus.

And growers, thanks largely to farmers' organizations and the radio, are daily becoming "wiser" about markets. But one article doesn't make an issue of this great weekly any more than one swallow makes a summer. In this issue, for example, you may read practical discussions, based on tested facts, on the Grange, red clover, pure-bred cattle, grapes, berries, farm tilling, and a splendid organization article, "Another Voice From the Land," by a "retired sucker." And 52 issues like this, or better, cost only a dollar. When may I call for your order?

START YOUR LIVER

Don't Take Calomel! "Dodson's Liver Tone" Acts Better and Doesn't Gripe, Salivate or Make You Sick—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible. Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone to night.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick—3

WATER TANK NOW IMPORTANT ITEM

Unhealthy Mud Puddle Which Affected Stock at All Times Has Been Abolished.

CONCRETE MAKES BIG CHANGE

Any Farmer Can Build Device Similar to One Shown in the Illustration if He Will Follow Instructions Given.

The day of the unsightly, unsanitary mud-hole water tank in the barn lot is a thing of the past. American farmers, who in the old days struggled against the worst possible conditions in the care of their stock, today have available for their service the most modern methods known to the building trade.

A water tank, often considered of old a minor detail in farm equipment, now is recognized as an important item in the health of farm stock and farm occupants.

Formerly a breeding place for germs, vermin and mosquitoes, the site of the unhealthy mud puddle which affected stock both summer and winter now can be spotlessly clean, dry and sanitary.

Principal Requirement.

While the principal requirement of a water tank is of course that it be watertight, sanitation and permanence also must be considered. Concrete tanks when properly constructed fulfill all of these requirements at a reasonable first cost, with practically no upkeep expense.

Any farmer can construct a water tank similar to the one shown in the picture if he follows these instructions.

The forms, which should preferably be of one-inch material for a large tank, should be prepared so far as possible before concrete work is begun, their excavation is made about one foot below the ground line of an area a little larger than the proposed tank. If the site is not well drained it may be well to excavate a little deeper. A base of cinders or gravel is then tamped into place and upon it a bed of concrete about six inches thick of a mixture of one part of cement, two parts of sand and four parts of gravel is laid.

As soon as the concrete has hardened so that it will support some weight, the forms for the walls of the tank are put in place and the filling made as rapidly as possible.

A rich mixture of concrete, preferably one part of cement, one and one-half parts of sand, and three parts of pebbles or broken stone, is used for this work, and enough help and material should be available so that the entire wall can be constructed in one continuous operation.

In order to make the bottom watertight, the inner forms should not reach to the concrete bed first laid, but a two-inch gap should be left and a layer of concrete equal in thickness to this should be placed so as to be continuous with the concrete in the walls.

Reinforcement Needed.

Reinforcing is, of course, necessary and it is well to have this made "L" shaped and set in the concrete so that the steel extends up into the walls. Bars bent at a right angle should also be placed at the corners, with straight rods extending horizontally in the ends and sides of the tank.

Though not shown in the illustration, a concrete pavement five or six feet wide around the tank is desirable. It can be cast separately and made not less than six inches thick of a 1:2:4 mixture.

HOGGING OFF THE CORN PAYS

Plan Regarded as an Economical Method; Cattle or Sheep Clean Up Much Left.

It is the consensus of opinion among farmers that hogging off corn pays and this fact is borne out by results at most of the agricultural experiment stations. Should you have pigs weighing around 100 lbs to turn into the corn, you can expect the pigs to gain a pound a day or better when fed a pound of shorts or a half pound of tankage in addition to corn hogged off. With pigs of this size in hogging off corn, they can be expected to consume from five to seven pounds of corn daily. It is an economical method of harvesting an area of corn and if not kept in too late in the season, the cattle or sheep will clean up much of the leaves not touched by the hogs.

TEMPLE IS WORLD WONDER

Gigantic Memorial to the Memory of Buddha Recognized as Masterpiece of Ingenuity.

What is claimed to be the eighth wonder of the world is the great Buddhist temple of Barabodhes, in Java. This gigantic building, which makes even the Pyramids of Egypt "look small," was built centuries and centuries before the coming of Christ.

The builders first made an enormous, artificial, flat-topped hill, 150 feet high, and on this they erected their temple, a building measuring 2,000 feet in circumference and six stories high. There are miles and miles of galleries and hundreds of rooms, and the walls are carved—every inch of them—with marvelous pictures that tell the story of the birth and life of Buddha in his various incarnations.

It is the picture bible of the Buddhists, the most beautiful thing of its kind ever created by human hands.

But the strange thing about this enormous building is that it was lost for a period of more than 600 years. And not only lost, but so utterly forgotten that its very name was not so much as mentioned.

How this extraordinary thing came to pass is told by Dorothy Dix in her travel book entitled "My Joy-Ride Round the World."

When the Mohammedans conquered Java they imposed their religion upon the islanders and destroyed the Buddhist temples. All that is, save this one, which was covered over with earth by the conquered people.

In that hot, moist climate the jungle in an incredibly short time closed in about the temple, and as years rolled on the memory of it faded from the minds of men.

Then, about a century ago, the fortune of war made Java a British possession, and Sir Stamford Raffles was in charge of the administration of the island.

Through some old papers that came into his possession he got on the track of the lost temple and started to work clearing the jungle and removing the earth from above it. When the structure was finally unearthed it was found to be almost as perfect as when it was built.

It had been hermetically preserved to come to light as the eighth wonder of the world.

He Knew the Country.

An American negro from Mississippi, known simply as "Thomas," is the proprietor of the chief outdoor pleasure resort for foreigners at Constantinople. Before the Russian revolution Thomas owned a string of restaurants and theaters in Moscow, where he lived luxuriously. He has had, in all, three Russian wives, white women. He is now a refugee on the Bosphorus, the Bolsheviki having robbed him of everything, including his American passport. He was very anxious to get another passport, not with the idea of returning to America, but because "it would help him in his business." But the American consulate refused him the paper, on the ground that it had no record of his citizenship. One day I said: "Thomas, why don't you send to the United States and get a certified copy of your birth certificate from your old home?" Thomas leaned over the chair on which I was sitting in his theater garden and whispered in my ear with the true negro candor: "Say, Mist' Dunn, you know jes' as well as Ah does dat us niggers down in Mississippi ain't never got no birth certificates."—Robert Dunn in the New York World.

The Regular Attendant.

A young school teacher on the North side belongs to a bridge club. At the beginning of this season one of the members made the remark that she was the only one who had not missed several nights at the club the year before. Several congratulated her on being so regular.

The worst cat of the crowd spoke up, "If you had a regular bean, like I have, you just couldn't be present every time."

There was silence for a minute, then the little teacher scratched back. "My beau did raise a row about my unwillingness to miss club meetings," she retorted, "until I told him I was afraid to miss, for after the way you all talk about the others when they aren't here, I knew you'd talk about me if I wasn't here."—Indianapolis News.

Greece Produces Much Olive Oil.

In recent years Greece has become one of the most important olive oil producers in the world. Its production in 1921 was one-sixth that of all countries (final estimates placed the total world production of olive oil at 1,100,000 metric tons), about one-third that of Spain and Italy combined, and a little more than 35,000 metric tons larger than that of Tunis, Portugal and France put together.

HANDLE ALFALFA WITH MUCH CARE

Experiments Show It to Be Excellent Pasture Crop for Live Stock and Poultry.

GRAIN IN RATION ESSENTIAL

Green Feed Has Good Effect in Maintaining Egg Production With Hens on Free Range—Great Danger of Bloating.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) The results obtained by the United States Department of Agriculture and the various state experiment stations show that alfalfa is an excellent pasture crop for hogs, horses, mules, and chickens, but must be handled carefully when grazed with cattle and sheep.

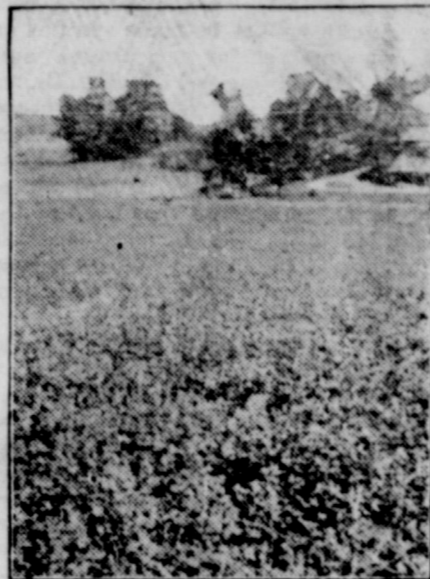

Hogs are probably the best live stock to graze on alfalfa, but a small grain ration with the pasture is necessary for the best and most economical gains. All kinds of poultry relish green alfalfa, and it has been shown to have a good effect in maintaining egg production when the hens have free range.

Danger of Bloat.

When cattle and sheep are allowed on alfalfa pasture there is great danger of bloat. This is particularly true in the humid sections of the country. Bloat seems to be greatest when the alfalfa is young and tender, but there are other precautions regarding the use of alfalfa for cattle and sheep pasture that must be observed. These general rules are: (1) Do not turn the stock into the field when the alfalfa is wet with rain or dew; (2) let the animals feed on other forage, preferably hay, before turning them in on alfalfa; (3) allow the stock to graze only a few minutes at a time until they have become accustomed to it, and then do not take them out of the field except for water; (4) sow some grass with the alfalfa and have a patch of grass where the stock can graze at any time; (5) have a stack of hay or straw in the field to which the stock may have free access; (6) have salt and water easily accessible.

Hard to Get Stand.

Experiments with pasturing alfalfa have shown that it takes time for the stand to become established and that it may be seriously injured, if not destroyed, by careless grazing. Usually it is best to wait until the third year before turning stock in on the alfalfa field. Even then it is necessary to avoid over-pasturing, grazing at improper stages of growth, or grazing when the land is wet or frozen. When such care is not taken, plants die, the stand thins, and weeds come in.

GRASSHOPPERS PREFER OATS

When Food Is Scarce Insects Will Not Go Far Out of Way to Search for Pleasing Plants.

When various grains are available the grasshoppers prefer oats to any of the others, reports a United States Department of Agriculture investigator in Montana. However, when food is scarce the hoppers will not go far out of the way to search for the plants that please their palates most.

MADE FIRST FAMILY GARDEN

According to Figures of Department of Agriculture Many Farmers Changed Methods.

Two hundred and sixty thousand families either made their first home garden or changed their previous ways of gardening in 1921, as a result of demonstrations of improved methods by agricultural extension agents, according to reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture.

BALANCE RATION FOR FOWLS

Putting Out Trough or Self-Feeder of Mash Is Not Sufficient—Most Hens Like Grain.

Just putting out a self-feeder or trough of a good mash is not enough. Most hens like grain better than the mash, and if they are allowed too much grain they will not eat enough mash. Keep down the grain so the hens eat up at least as much mash as grain, to keep up the laying in hot weather.

ONE OF MAN'S OLDEST ARTS

Velvet Has Been Made Since the Earliest Days of Which History Has Record.

The art of velvet making was practiced in the legendary days of Indo-China. It is one of the oldest of arts, since it was the first imitation of man's first garment, fur. Even after spinning and weaving had become known, the ocellated pelt of the great felines killed in hunting was the dress for important occasions, and the most beautiful of ancient fabrics shows that the ambition of the weaver was to surpass his model and copy the fur of the animal in something finer by fur. The discovery of silk substituted soft threads for hair, and the threads took the dyes as no fur could take them.

Asia kept the art of velvet making secret for centuries, an exchange states. No one wore velvet but royal personages, and it was for the most part seen only in the processions of the rajahs. Even in these times the Chinese and the Japanese rasp their threads with knives in order to give the tissue the aspect of real fur. Indian velvet rippling with pearls as large as birds' eggs, diamond dewdrops and cloudy, red corundum, was seen in the processions of the durbar.

The Arabs were the first to exhibit velvet to the lands bordering on the Mediterranean. The first caliphs were simple, plous, and savage people; they were not tempted by Asiatic luxury. But the Islam that came after the caliphs drove its roots into the heart of the ancient world and invaded the Aryan lands of the Hindus and the Ganges. The Arabs boasted of their commercial zeal. Their caravans of camels crossed the desert and wound through the mountain passes of Iran, carrying raw tissues, jewels, and perfumes and now and then a carefully protected piece of velvet lay under the folds of a praying rug.

The splendid court of the Abbassid caliphs loved the sliken pile of fabrics of India. Bagdad was a city of silk and velvet, and the conquerors of Africa and Spain contrasted strangely with the iron-clad warriors of the Cross. In all the ages velvet was held sacred by the Mussulmans. At Medina, in Damascus, and in Stamboul, they employed it to drape the tombs of their caliphs and their saints; and when their warriors set out to die upon the fields of battle that to die of their trappings that did not gleam was covered with velvet.

Cures Tomato's Ills.

Following our example set in the United States, the British government is aiding an experimental station at Turner's Hill, near London, to eliminate disease in tomatoes. So successful is this station that most of the enemies of the tomato have been vanquished, at an estimated saving to growers of about $220,000 a year, it is said.

Thirty-five years ago the first glass houses for the cultivation of tomatoes were built in the Chestnut area of the valley of the River Lea, near London. This district now presents a vast array of glass houses, being in the center of a thriving industry.

It sends tomatoes, not only to London, but to the north country manufacturing cities of England, and to the continent. Agents in the Worthing and Chestnut districts make good livings insuring the glass. After one of the heavy hailstorms which occasionally visit the British isles, insurance companies are called upon to disburse large amounts to replace broken panes.

Showy Dress Illegal in Olden Days.

Lace and embroideries were prohibited by order of the general court of Massachusetts in 1634. Many people were tried and punished for wearing ostentatious apparel. In Northampton, in 1670, 38 women were brought up at one time in court for their "wicked apparel." Not only did the law makers and courts try to stop the increase of showy clothing, but also the ministers took up the refrain and preached against the display of finery.

Earle, a leading historian of this period, says: "After a while the whole church interfered. In 1679, the church at Andover put it to a vote whether 'the parish Disapprove of the female sex sitting with their Hats on in the Meeting-house in the time of Divine Service as being indecent.' In the town of Abington, in 1775, it was voted that it was 'an indecent way that the female sex do sit with their hats and bonnets on to worship God.' Still another town voted it was 'the Town's Mind' that the women should take their bonnets off in the meeting and 'hang them on the pegs.'"

Believe It or Not.

A big game hunter had just returned from the hills and was recounting some of his adventures.

"The most astonishing experience I had," he said, "was when I fired my last bullet at a bear and missed him." "Did the bear give you a chase?" asked one of the listeners. "No. You see he knew me by reputation and was so surprised at my missing him that he fainted dead away."—American Legion Weekly.

Making Tibet Known.

Tibet, it is hoped, will not much longer be the land of mystery, nor the outside world a land of the unknown to the Tibetans. They are to be shown, through movies, the world of other men. In exchange it is hoped they will allow films to be taken of the wonders of Tibet. A British Buddhist mission is on the way to Tibet to take the pictures.

SHORT COURSES HAVE GAINED MUCH FAVOR

More Than 60,000 Boys and Girls Enjoy Instruction.

Patterned Somewhat After Farmers and Home Makers' Weeks Conducted by Agricultural Colleges—Leadership Important.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Over 60,000 boys and girls, enrolled in club work under the supervision of extension workers employed co-operatively by the United States Department of Agriculture and the state agricultural colleges, enjoy the advantage of junior short courses and camps every year. These short courses have become a popular feature with the farm boys and girls and are eagerly looked forward to by them throughout the year.

The courses are patterned somewhat after the farmers and home makers' weeks, which have been conducted by the agricultural colleges for several years. Besides the instruction given, emphasis is laid on the social and recreational side of junior extension work. Most of the colleges give a course in rural leadership, emphasizing the importance of boys and girls becoming local leaders of clubs.

West Virginia, which, besides having three state camps for rural leadership for boys and girls, also maintains 40 county training schools. These schools are held in connection with county camps, and the farm boys and girls enjoy an outing of from one to 10 days at very small expense. Most states provide similar programs at the college or at some desirable location in the state, and a considerable number—as, for example, Montana and Minnesota—conduct county camps.

FARM NAME LENDS DIGNITY

Farmer Takes More Pride in His Place and Markets Much Higher Class of Produce.

The farm that has been christened adds dignity to itself, its owner and the entire neighborhood.

The result is the farmer takes pride in it, makes it a better farm and markets a higher class of produce because he wants to keep the name of his farm in good standing before the public, all of which means more money for the farmer, and that means greater prosperity for the city. Give the farm a name just like any other business institution and see how quickly people will start commenting on your enterprise.

One farmer suggests why not urge state representatives to pass a law where there is none at present, giving a farmer the exclusive right to a certain name by his registering it with the county clerk and paying a $1 fee for so doing. This will pay all the expense incurred. It will give him a standing in his community and dignity the business of farming. The business men of the city will help you, as they are commencing to realize the importance of the farm, and the fact that the city grows just as fast as the surrounding country is developed. Now everybody boast and do this one little thing as a start for bigger things.

CONTINUE INBREEDING TESTS

Department of Agriculture Has Now Taken Up Investigations With Poultry and Swine.

After 15 years of inbreeding and cross-breeding experiments with guinea pigs, in which more than 34,000 animals were used, the United States Department of Agriculture is continuing the investigations with poultry and swine, making use of many facts developed in the tests with the smaller animals. Six pens of White Leghorns have been set aside for the purpose, and it is planned to breed continuously within each pen, using one male bird each year. A similar test will be carried on with five pairs of Poland Chinas and four pairs of Tamworth hogs. This experiment will make possible a later comparison of crossing within a breed and between two breeds with inbreeding.

STANDARD SIZE IN LEGHORNS

It Is Necessary to Cull and Fowls Nearest Right Proportions Should Be Selected.

To get standard size Leghorns it is necessary to cull. Choose the birds nearest to standard size as breeders. If you get a male that seems to increase the size of the flock, do not sacrifice him after one year, but mate him to good hens.

UNCLE SAM WON'T MIX IN TROUBLE

Europe Can Settle Its Own Quarrels, So Far as This Country Is Concerned

The United States will leave Europe to settle its own quarrels, at least so long as Europe insists upon having its quarrels and its own way to settle them. Uncle Sam will not attempt to interfere as a peacemaker while there is a prospect that interference in the family row over there would result in nothing more than the United States becoming a party of the first part in the row and having to pay the bill for all the broken dishes.

That is about the attitude that the government at Washington has assumed toward the European turmoil. Nevertheless Uncle Sam is keeping an eye on all that is going on in Europe, through an official observer who will be kept on the job, it is announced, so long as there is necessity for it. The democrats in Washington now charge that President Harding has adopted the policy which President Wilson adopted after the world's war began and before the United States was forced into the war—the policy of "watchful waiting." That the Harding administration has adopted the watchful policy toward European affairs is not to be doubted. But it is announced that Washington is waiting only until such time as it will be able to lend a hand to guide Europe out of its present difficulties without involving this country so deeply in European affairs as to lead to serious embarrassment.

There is a will to help Europe, it is announced from Washington, but there appears at the present time no way. The United States cannot stop the French government in its invasion of the Ruhr. It has offered as a solution of the French-German crisis the formation of a commission of experts to determine how Germany shall pay the reparation demands upon it according to its ability. The Washington government announces that it still is ready to renew the offer when it appears possible that such an offer will be accepted. Germany has protested the French invasion to the United States, but no action can, or will, be taken, it is announced, in the matter of Germany's protest.

Boiled down, the situation appears to be that the United States is an interested spectator, but that it is attempting to keep itself from being the innocent bystander who usually gets hurt without lending any particular service toward the settlement of a family row.

The United States soldiers have been ordered from the Rhine and the withdrawal will begin January 27. President Harding's order for the withdrawal has met with disappointment and particularly to the States, however, received with great approval. The part of a majority of the withdrawal of the American troops, President Harding merely stated that he deemed the time for such withdrawal to be expedient. Not more than one thousand American soldiers are left on the Rhine, and the withdrawal of this force is important only in the intimation involved in the movement to the effect that the United States is no longer a party to the allied occupation of the Rhine.

Custom of Breaking Money.

To break a piece of money at parting, each keeping a part, was a bond of fidelity at one time among lovers. This came from very remote times, before inns and houses of public accommodation were known.

Travelers had then to trust to the hospitality of strangers living on the road, and it was customary at parting to divide some article, such as a white stone or small coin, and for the host and guest each to take a part, "but if the host required similar hospitality from his guest he might claim it by showing his token."

In the Revelation of St. John the custom is referred to where Christ says, "To him that overcometh will I give a white stone," so that at the Day of Judgment he may demand admission into heaven.

Electro-Chemical Colors.

The preparation of mineral and artificial organic colors by the aid of electricity has made considerable progress and it is suggested that the products of the industry may eventually replace those derived from coal tar. Among the colors now produced in commercial quantities by the employment of electric current are vermilion, Seba's green, cadmium yellow, Japanese red, corise or cherry red, Berlin green and sine white, besides a number of organic colors. The process consists essentially in sending an electric current through a solution containing the elements required for the production by precipitation, of the coloring matter desired.—Exchange.
