The great race is now on. Will the blooms now on cotton mature before Jack Frost comes?

Yes, thank you, Hale county will harvest eight or nine thousand bales of cotton and sufficient feedstuff for local use.

Jim is notorious for his loose talk, so it will take sure enough evidence to bolster up anything he says. We do not believe there are five per cent of the preachers of any denomination who have affiliated with the Ku Klux. If there is even one preacher who belongs to it that is one too many, for wherever the Klan touches the church it is to injury, and any preacher who afiliates with or so much as endorses uence in his congregation and the state highways running across the community where he labors.

President Coolidge is favorable to Secretary Mellon's plan to lower the surtaxes in the income tax law, to 25 per cent from the present level of 50 per cent. By the adoption of a lower surtax it is contended it will be possible to lower the income rates on moderate incomes. The high graduated rates on large incomes is proving a very unwise piece of legislation for nearly all the rich people are investing their money in tax-free public securities and thus escaping all taxes. If the income tax rates were in reason the wealthy would find it profitable to invest in industrial securities and thus assist in development of the resources of the country and provide labor with more to do.

So, in order to get back our road tax money it seems we will have to issue road bonds and then the federal and state governments will match our bond money dollar for dollar, and after building certain state highways will maintain them. The whole matter is explained in the article referred to in this paper.

MAN USUALLY TO BLAME

The Snyder Times declares the law should provide that neither party to a divorce case could marry within a period of time, say five or ten years, and argues that most divorces are wanted by persons simply in order to marry again. There is some sort of a provision by which the district judge in the decree granting a divorce can forbid remarriage with a year, but it carries no penalty for violation and is a dead letter. E. Dowden is enthusiastic for irrigation in the Plainview country. He says it is the foundation of our future success and prosperity. He looks forward to the time when every farm has from ten to thirty acres under irrigation, the water supplied by an inexpensive pumping plant. On these small tracts he is of the opinion most farmers will make more money than the average dryland farmer makes on a quarter section. Irrigation is going to prove the salvation of this country.

a delegate to the Massachusetts congress, made a raid on St. John, N. B., in August, 1776. He burned the barracks and destroyed the fort, which was protected by only four men, and captured a brig, of 120 tons, laden with oxen, sheep and swine, which were intended for the British troops at Boston. This sudden raid had the effect of putting the British authorities on] the alert, and vessels of war were sent to cruise in the Bay of Fundy to protect the settlements along its shores.

The people of Machias, emboldened by the success which attended their first raid, attempted to seize and hold the fort at St. John, but were driven away by a force sent from Halifax. In consequence of this second raid on St. John, a block house and stockades were erected on a hill overlooking the harbor, and dignified by the name of Fort Howe. Two years after this event about 600 Indians assembled at the mouth of the Jemseg for the purpose of destroying the settlement of Maugerville, but the people escaped across the river to Oromocto, where a fort had been erected. This was the last threat of Indian war, and in the following year, 1780, numbers of Indians assembled at Fort Howe and swore allegiance to King George.

CAN'T FOOL DIAMOND DEALER

Men Who Handle Precious Stones Have Many Ways of Detecting Those Which Are "Fakes."

For the reason that the traffic in mitation precious stones is growing, diamond merchants nowadays are obliged to devote more time than formerly to the detection of fakes. The experienced dealer can often tell a faked stone at a glance.

Once suspicion falls on a stone it is subjected to various tests. For example, the gem may be placed in water, and watched to see if it loses its brilliance. If this happens, the stone is discarded at once as being false. Another water test consists in plac ing a drop of water on the stone. The water globule is then touched light ly with the point of a pencil. If the globule breaks the stone is a fake. Sometimes a black dot is made on piece of white paper, and the diamond held in front of it. If the stone is an imitation the dot appears

The hardness of a stone is another deciding factor. A real diamond can be filed with the hardest instrument without being scratched. A faked stone will crack and probably break up under the process.

Engineering has accomplished this by the perfection of what is known as the gyroscope stabilizer, the first of which, in this country, has been constructed by the Metropolitan Vickers Electrical company at their Traffordi Park works, Manchester. The manner in which the gyroscope steadies a ship is simple. If a wave comes along and seeks to push the ship over in one direction the gyroscope quietly pushes it back, exerting an equal force directly opposite to that of the wave.

"Tea" From Cassina Plant. Laboratory investigations by the bureau of chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, have shown that a very delightful beverage resembling tea in many respects can be made from cassina, a wild plant that grows around a slender steel mandrel, or abundantly in the South Atlantic and Gulf states from Virginia to Texas, when the leaves of the plant are treated by processes similar to those used in curing tea. The cassina plant has been used to a limited extent by Indians and, during the Civil war when tea and coffee could not be obtained, by people of the Southern states to make a beverage. Unless properly cured, however, cassina does not make a good beverage. It having been demonstrated in the laboratory that cassina could be treated by processes similar to those used in the tea industry and an excellent beverage made from it, work has been undertaken to produce it on a larger scale. An experimental plant has been installed near Charleston, S. C., and preliminary reports indicate that the laboratory results can be duplicated on a commercial scale.

Wires Too Fine for Sight.

Tungsten, the metal from which modern electric filaments are made. can be drawn into wire so fine as to be invisible to the naked eye except when held against the sun. A pierced diamond serves as a die to spin this cobweb metal which, in spite of its almost impalpable fineness, is strong enough to bear up a pair of ordinary desk shears. Wire of this sort is used chiefly as fuse in delicate electrical experiments, where the least excess of current would destroy intricate and costly apparatus. Tungsten cannot be successfully bent and shaped cold. Because of this peculiarity, the cone-shaped filaments for certain types of lamps are made by winding the tungsten wire core, and after fixing it with heat, dissolving away the steel, leaving the shaped filament as it appears in the finished lamp.

Swinburne

What will time, the great decider of men's labor and fame, eventually say of him? We are too near him to judge with any certainty how he will appear to those who look back to him as he looked back to Coleridge and Shelley. But it is hard to believe that any change of the perspective will dim the brightness of his lyric achievement. He was prodigal of his music, that new music he bad taught the old tongue; over-prodigal at times, seeing that verse may run once too often in the triple-lilt of his magical cadences. But he has left English poetry reinforced at point after point .-- Ernest Rhys.

A scientist engaged recently in taking photographs of leaves through the microscope was surprised to discover that some of them showed hundreds of little round patches, each of which reflected the image of some object, just as do the facets of the compound eye of an insect. Closer examination proved that each of these patches consisted of a cell whose rounded outer wall formed a perfect lens.

Each cell was, in fact, a perfect eye. It was tempting to jump to the conclusion that plants could see. Actually they do not. The "eyes" serve quite a different purpose. A plant lives by the process of bottling up sunshine, whose action produces chemical changes within the leaves and the stem. The leaves focus the sun's rays and enable the work to be done effectively.

Plants are sensitive to light simply because when the sun shines the chemical changes within them go on with increased speed. Climbing plants find supports by groping. The tendrils follow the sun, and as they move round they touch and hold on to anything suitable that lies in their path.

LONDON THIEF USES CANDLE

Burglar Always Carries Stump and Matches in Cigar Box and Leaves Them.

There is an old-fashioned burglar in London who has mystified New Scotland Yard detectives for a long time, the Cincinnati Enquirer says.

At every home he breaks into he leaves a cigar box. About two dozen cigar boxes have been collected by the police and deposited at various stations in the north and northwest suburbs. The cigar box is used as a candlestick. He puts the stump of a candle and some matches in the box, and when, in the early hours of the morning, he forces the catch of a window and enters a house he lights the candle and quietly makes a search for jewelry.

Having filled his pockets with all the valuables he can find he leaves the cigar box with the candle and the matches on a chair or table and goes

Nobody has yet been able to find out anything more about this mysterious burglar. The police think (without prejudice) that he is an old man, who, after leading an honest life for some years, has returned to the evil habits of his youth. They base this theory on the supposition that if he were a young man he would despise such an antiquated thing as a candle and carry an

One evening after I had finished helping mother dry dishes I decided to read my story book. I began where I had left off-about the middle of the book. Soon I fell asleep. The Main Point.

Mrs. Wombat had another cook and the first dinner was a sad affair. The potatoes were soggy, the steak was raw and the odor of scorched soup greeted Mr. Wombat as he entered the front door. He knew this signal of yore, but advanced cheerily.

"How's the new cook ?" he asked his wife.

Mrs. Wombat put it all into a very brief sentence. "She can't cook !"

Nothing, however, could dismay the incorrigible optimist.

"Perhaps we can cure that," he said, "The question is-will she stor awhile?"

Laws Against Kissing.

Kissing is considered an unhealthy practice by some people. A few years ago the physicians of Milwaukee prepared a bill for the absolute supprescion of kissing, on the ground that the practice was hygienically dangerous.

The bill did not become law or it would have made Milwaukee more famous. But such laws existed in Puritan New England. In 1656 Captain Kemble of Boston was "set for two hours in the public stocks for his lewd and unseemly behaviour,' which con-

> This idea of the bursting of diamonds is of great antiquity. Albertus Magnus says that a diamond immersed in the fresh, warm blood of a goat will burst, especially if that animal had previously browsed on parsley or drunk wine. Pliny vouchsafes a similar notion. The majority of modern authorities believe that, in most cases, the breaking exerted by the mineral inclusions times zircon, ilmenite, iron pyrites and possibly chrysolite. As early as 1522-seven years before the Panama canal project was first talked about-Gll Gonzales Divala explored Nicaragua in an effort to find a natural waterway or to select a route for a possible canal. In 1550 Antonio Galvao, a Portuguese navigator, proposed four routes for a canal across the isthmus-one by Lake Nicaragua and the San Juan river. The latter route was surveyed for the Spanish government in 1781, by Don Manuel Galisteo. Always Close to the Source From Which the Language Draws Its New Life.

No matter what our correctly named English teachers may hope and strive for, the well-edited magazine and the well-edited newspaper-especially the latter-will set the standards of the American language tomorrow-and revise them, perhaps, for the day followadays are not visited by newspapers. Father and mother and the daily have our lusty young language pretty large- | Then he takes two splints-lengths of ly in their hands.

And let us give the American newspaper-the good newspaper-the credit inches above and below the breakit deserves. It is not a poor teacher. It preaches and practices a more correct, a more sensible and a more succinct style of language than is found in most school and college classrooms. It spells correctly, punctuates much better than college professors or stenographers, and produces a sentence noted for its directness and clearness, two qualities sadly missed in colloquial and academic American. It may be too hurried, too slapdash in organization after the head and the lead, and too intolerant of individual style; but it is far enough ahead of the average American to serve as his goal.

Whether the teacher likes it or no, the journalist will boss our language. He has by far the best chance at us. He sets a printed standard before us every day. And he supplies us with most of our raw material of thought. As a nation we are much more exposed to his style than we are to the essay of the composition teacher.

The newspaper and the review magazine keep peculiarly close to the source from which language draws its new life. In them we find the current cant of government and courts, the slang of sports, the technical terminology of art, science and invention. the dialectal humor of the unlettered, the terms of business, and more and more every day the rich phraseology of good modern verse and prose. All or this we find jumbled together, just about as our developing American language finds it .--- H. W. Davis, Broadcast from the Kansas City Star Radio Station.

A short time ago I, with a group of friends, went on a hike to the country. We decided on a shady spot to spread our lunch. A cow stood near by, and I took it upon myself to drive the animal away. When safely on the other side, I arose to see the cow slowly deyouring the leaves from my switch. Instead of being angry over my red bandana, she merely wanted to have a taste of the green leaves on the switch. My ignorance of gentle country animals proved to be the source of great enjoyment to my friends and an extremely embarrassing incident for me .--- Chicago Tribune.

Employed by Gardeners.

It seems strange to think of a plant being put into splints very much in the same way as the surgeon fixes up a broken bone, says St. Nicholas. Yet Pony, in All Its Fleetness and Wisdom, this plan is often followed in the modern garden. From one cause or another a bough becomes broken, although the parts are not actually severed. Frequently this is due to the weight of the fruit. In this case money will be lost if something cannot be done to repair the injury.

It is here that the practice of putting a plant in splints becomes useful First of all, the expert gently straightens out the bent portion. This has to be done with great care, so as, if possible, to avoid a complete fracture. wood a little wider than the branch and long enough to allow several and binds them in place, not too tightly, or it would hamper the circulation of the sap. When the splints are well adjusted cotton wool is tucked into any exposed parts about the fracture. In this manner the action of the air is excluded as far as possible.

If the matter has been looked after promptly, there is no reason why the growth above the break should not go on steadily. Finally, the wound is so completely healed that the place where the break took place is as strong as any other part of the plant .- New York Post.

Although the earthly remains of one of the first saints are declared to be contained within this chapel, it is not often visited by sightscers, the Detroit News states. A picturesque old woman conducts a small number of strangers daily through the chapel. She leads them into a crypt where the skull of Mary Magdalene, lined with bands of gold, is supposed to be kept. The bones are dark, almost black. Yet the deep eyeholes and delicately curved jawbones still arouse an impression of beauty. In a golden shrine one sees a curl said to have been cut from the head of the saint who, with her hair, dried the feet of the Savior. The hair is thick and soft and has a gold-brown luster. To the question how the saint came into Provence the old guardian tells that on account of the persecutions of Christians in Palestine Mary Magdeline and her brother, Lazarus, left their native country. HOLY CITY TO MANY SECTS Jerusalem Held a Sacred Spot by Others Than Followers Precepte of the Christ.

We were in the outskirts of Jerusalem before we realized it. We turned a corner in the road, and there before us rose the city, set upon a hill. In its narrow, noisome alleys, its tortuous lanes, its dim bazars, its four-square houses with their brown mud walls, rising on the hillside, one above another, like chairs in an amphitheater, it resembles many another oriental city. But above the flatroofed dwellings rise scores of imposing buildings in brick and stone, churches, convents, monasteries, hospices, mosques, and synagogues, representing the religious devotion of Protestant and Catholic, Latin and Greek, Copt and Armenian, Moslem and Jew. For it must be remembered that Jerusalem is the Holy city of the Hebrews and of the Mohammedans ne less than of the Christians, for her Solomon reared the temple and on its site stands the great mosque of Omar, the third holiest place in the Mos lem world.-Harper's Magazine.

Sixty-three years ago he and his wife sailed from Boston to begin their missionary service in India. Ox Team to Airplane.

At last the American continent has been spanned from coast to coast. From noon May 2, eastern time, until noon May 3, Pacific time, the steady drone of the motor pulling the giant westbound monoplane through the air never ceased until the two pilots had looked upon both the oceans that bound America.

The plane had no sooner landed than telegrams began to bombard the two aviators. One of the most interesting came from Ezra Meeker of New York city:

"Congratulations on your wonderful flight which beats my time made seventy-one years ago by ox team at two miles an hour, five months on the way. Happy to see in my ninety-third year so great transformation in methods of travel. Ready to go with you next time."-United States Air Service.

One More River.

Great Britain has eight Jordans including a river near Edinburgh, a hill in Dorsetshire, and a sandbank off the Lancashire coast, the other five being county seats, villages and suburbs. The United States has a Jordan river in Utah, emptying into the Great Salt lake. Canada also has a Jordan river emptying into Lake Ontario through a picturesque gorge, between Hamilton and Niagara. Across it the United States forces raced in the War of 1812 until the overconfidence resulted in a nasty defeat at Stony creek, where the little Canadian army turned in a night attack on their pursuers.

Long Record of Service.

All records for length of service in the same job have been broken in France by Alexis Fauchon, a farmhand of Glos, in Normandy, who has completed seventy-six years in the same position. Fauchon, who is eightyfive, entered the Mouton farm when e was nine as a herder. He is now erving the great grandson of his origval employer.

He was very hard to please and always found something the matter with ach man. One had brown hair, which the man-

John Smithers heard of this as he sat in the corridor waiting his turn to be interviewed, and resolved to be prepared for everything.

When his turn came all went well. There was nothing the matter with him as far as appearance was concerned and his references were quite in order. "Now," said the manager, "is your health quite sound?" "Well, sir," replied John, "I have only one complaint." "What is that?" said the manager, pricking up his ears.

May Day and May Baskets.

The celebration of May day is an English custom which originated with the Druids. The Floralia, or floral games of the Romans, which began on April 28 and continued several days, were festivals of similar character. In medieval and Tudor England the first day of May was a great public hollday. The young people started at an early hour to gather flowers and hawthorn branches, with which they decorated every door and window in the village. In Northamptonshire it was the custom for the young men early on May day morning to leave a large bunch of flowering hawthorn at the door of the prettiest girl in the village; later the hawthorn gave place to the May basket. In some places in the United States May baskets are hung on the evening of April 30, but there is no authority for the custom.

Improved Hand Truck.

To dispense with the services of helper, a hand truck, described in Popular Mechanics Magazine, has been so designed that it enables one man to handle large packages. Swiveled above the truck and its two small wheels is a platform so arranged that one end of it can be raised or lowered by double levers and links. On the platform is a sliding frame with its end turned at right angles so that, when lowered it can be pushed under a package, and when that end is raised and the other end is lowered onto the truck, it is ready for moving.

Why Not Thermos Houses?

A thermos bottle has become an ar ticle of common use, though only invented a few years ago by Professor Delcar. It is just a double walled flask with the air drawn out between the walls. This vacuum prevents the passage of heat or cold waves. If it were possible to make the vacuum perfect, no heat would pass through. The specimen was a lower human jaw belonging to the second interglacial period, and fixed the in western Europe. "Had the teeth been absent," says a report of this discovery, "it would have been impossible to diagnose it as a human jaw. The teeth are molars, pre-molars, canines and incisors, and are all essentially human though primitive in form. The conclusion is that the jaw, regarded as unquestionably human from the nature of the teeth, ranks not far from the point of separation between man and the anthropold apes."

Dear Aleda: Is it proper for a young lady to invite a gentieman, who has taken her out in the evening into her home? (2) If the parents have retired? (3) If they are still up? (4) Does the hour make any difference?-Thank you, C. P.

The hour is the whole thing. For an example, suppose a couple have gone to an early movie and are home by nine-thirty-then the girl may invite the boy in whether her family have retired or not. If, on the other hand, they have gone to a picture from which they return at eleven, she should not extend an invitation to enter, A gentleman calling usually concludes his visit between ten-thirty and eleven. Never later than eleven.

HELPFULHEALTHHINTS

Splinter in the Skin. A needle will usually remove a splinter from your skin. First wash hands in soap and hot water and pass needle thru a flame to avoid possible infection. If this is not successful, try a pair of pincers.

Poison lvy-Is a very treacherous plant. You may handle it at one time with no ill effects and the next time be severely poisoned. A good treatment and simple one is this: Wash the inflamed skin in boric acid solution in water, followed by smearing some ordinary zinc ointment on the skin. Cover this with a thin cloth. The ointment should be washed off daily, using lime water. The skin should then be dried, and carbolized vaseline as an ointment applied. A good old-time remedy is made by putting a penny is some vinegar and use this as a frequent wash.

Crampe—A cramp is often caused by indigestible food or by cold, espe-cially if one gets overheated in hot weather. Never drink a lot of cold water after some strenuous exercise, as this will often cause a spasm of the intestines and is quite danger-ous. Soda mints or tter yet a little hot water with a bit of syrup of ginger can be taken. For a mild cramp a hot water bottle placed on the abdomen will often give relief.

REALLY NOT IN ANY HURRY

Not Hard to Believe Naive Statement Made by Men Condemned to Be Hanged.

Augustus Thomas has a story to relate of his early days which illustrates the very telling effect to be achieved by just a few words, the New York Herald says. Thomas was then an advance agent, working the territory ahead of a famous mind reader of a generation ago, and generally working it for all it was worth. In Minnesota he managed to land his thought diviner on the front pages of the newspapers by asking for a reprieve for two brothers, due to be executed for murder, until his psyschic wizard could arrive on the spot, read the minds of the Woodie Featherstone took the state condemned men and determine whether the jury were good guessers in finding them guilty.

The following day, in order to get a good second-day story, Thomas decided to work up further interest in a delay of execution-and incidentally in his mind reader-by visiting the jail and having the two prisoners sign an important statement to go to the governor.

"They were men of limited intelligence," says Thomas, "rather illiterate, and so I thought it best to confine their statement to one simple sentence. I merely had them say: 'We're willing to wait.' "

The time is coming when the Plain-Miss Nettie Roberson arrived in view shallowwater belt will be dotted and forty acre irrigated farms-and then prosperity will reign all the time.
