POSSIBILITY OF ARSON INVESTIGATED — Fire of mysterious origin struck the Village of the Spring condominiums just off US 87 near Comanche Trail Lake around 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening, burning the partially-completed buildings to the ground. Fire officials are investigating the possibility of arson. A recent picture (top left) showed the advanced stage of con-

Jerry Worthy, owner of the condominiums, watches the conflagration, after arriving at the site while the flames were lighting up the sky. The losses will be substantial.

Vietnam links U.S. to invasion

China may have halted drive

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Hanoi claimed today its forces stopped all of China's invasion columns, killed more than 3,500 Chinese troops and destroyed almost 80 tanks since the Chinese attacked Saturday. Western sources said China may have halted its drive after achieving its goals.

Vo Van Sung, Vietnam's ambassador to France, charged the invasion had the "tacit approval" and possibly the "complicity" of the United States. He linked it to the American visit of China's Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping and said at a Paris news conference "an attitude of American encouragement" was clear.

With Asia's newest border war in its third day, Western intelligence sources in Bangkok said the Chinese have halted their offensive after driving no more than six miles into Vietnam and may be withdrawing some units. They said the Chinese objective was extremely limited, "to teach Vietnam a lesson."

Today's claims by Hanoi, which cannot be independently verified, claimed Vietnamese troops inflicted "heavy losses" on 12 Chinese divisions but gave no figures for Vietnamese casualties. The report said only that Chinese artillery caused heavy losses to life and property.

The Western sources said China's air strikes along the border ceased today but that heavy artillery bombardment continued.

The Vietnam News Agency reported the Vietnamese army inflicted "heavy losses" against the invaders Saturday and Sunday in Hoang Lien Son, Cao Bang and Lang Son provinces.

"Many columns of Chinese aggressor troops were intercepted and are being encircled and strongly attacked," the report said.

There were no reports from Peking on the fighting. But the official Peking People's Daily said China "does not want a single inch of Vietnamese soil; what we want is a peaceful and stable frontier. After hitting back at the aggressors as far as is necessary, our frontier forces will turn to guard strictly the frontier of our motherland."

The Vietnam News Agency also reported that the Chinese Air Force bombed factories, power plants and communication facilities Sunday, inflicting "terrible damage" and causing many casualties. Intelligence sources in Bangkok said Chinese MiG fighter-bombers attacked along the Red River to within 60 miles of Hanoi.

There were no reports that the Vietnamese Air Force sent up its own MiGs to challenge the Chinese raiders.

The Soviet Union warned China to withdraw its troops "before it is too late" and said it would honor its obligations to Hanoi under the treaty of friendship and cooperation signed last year. However, the announcement by Tass, the official Soviet news agency, indicated Moscow would not aid its Vietnamese allies with an attack across the Soviet-Chinese border.

Flames consume condominiums

Jerry Worthy describes himself as being in a "state of limbo" today after fire Sunday night destroyed a complex of five townhouses he was constructing across from the Brass Nail Restaurant and Club.

The Big Spring Fire Department was alerted at 7:52 p.m. Sunday of the blaze that destroyed the 40 percent complete "Village By the Spring" in only 30 minutes.

Worthy, owner-developer, arrived minutes later to find eight firefighters including Assistant Fire Marshal Ricky Womack, Fire Marshal Jim Ryals and Fire Chief Alvie Harrison at work. One pumper and one booster were at the scene.

"All five units went up," described Worthy, as he surveyed the smoldering remains. "We were just about to put up the sheetrock, but we hadn't installed the fire walls or anything yet. They burned like it was just one big house."

Ryals theorized that the flame began in the southeast corner of the complex and was fanned by winds, spreading northwest.

After the fire was extinguished, about 10 p.m., Ryals launched an investigation on the source of the blaze.

"We are investigating it as an arson," he said this morning. "We'll be combing the area all day."

Al Lain of Lain Construction Inc., contractor of Village By the Spring, stated that "there was nothing combustible in the building material to account for its starting by itself."

"I don't know what I'm going to do at this time," said Worthy, who was unable to give an immediate dollar value to the extensive damage. "I feel like I will build again."

Rhodesians attack camps for third time

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — The Rhodesian Air Force bombed a guerrilla arms and supply dump in Mozambique today, the Rhodesian military command announced. It was the third such attack reported in three days.

The warplanes bombed a storage complex of Robert Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union at Chimoi, about 80 miles east of the Rhodesian border, a communique said.

"No damage was incurred to any other buildings or property outside this complex," the communique continued. "All aircraft returned safely to base."

Rhodesian planes on Saturday and Sunday attacked camps in Zambia of the other guerrilla force fighting white rule in Rhodesia, Joshua Nkomo's Zimbabwe African Peoples Union, according to reports from Lusaka, the Zambian capital. The Rhodesian command admitted the raids Saturday, saying two ZAPU camps near the Victoria Falls were attacked. But it denied that any raids were flown Sunday.

The strikes appeared to be an attempt by the Rhodesian government to disrupt preparations for a massive guerrilla infiltration into Rhodesia to sabotage the April elections to choose the country's first Parliament with a black majority. Both Mugabe and Nkomo, the co-leaders of the Patriotic Front alliance, have vowed to step up their six-year-old guerrilla war to disrupt the voting.

The Rhodesian command denied that the raids into Zambia were in retaliation for the downing by Nkomo's guerrillas of a Rhodesian airliner a week ago in which all 59 persons aboard were killed.

New Orleans police, city negotiating

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Striking police and city officials agreed to stop insulting each other and to resume negotiations today in an effort to save what is left of Carnival and Mardi Gras.

"From now on, all statements to the news media will come from me," federal mediator Ansel Garrett said Sunday in announcing the city and the police union had agreed to meet and to refrain from criticizing each other publicly.

The city remained relatively quiet as 600 National Guardsmen and 200 state police watched over streets bearing few signs of the usual boozey Carnival festivity.

Mayor Ernest Morial canceled the elaborate Carnival parades scheduled for the weekend and tonight and said more cancellations would be imposed if the strike continued.

Carnival is the parade and party season preceding the uproar of Mardi Gras, French for Fat Tuesday, which this year comes on Feb. 27. It brings in an estimated $50 million a year.

A return to private talks was agreed upon Sunday after Vincent Bruno, president of the Police Association of Louisiana, dared Morial to fire police strikers. He warned that would trigger sympathy strikes by garbage collectors and firemen.

"The next move is up to the mayor," cried Bruno, standing atop a parked police car to address about 600 people at a rally behind police headquarters. "He makes that mistake, we go to war."

The union claims 1,200 of the 1,514 commissioned policemen as members. It and the garbage collectors union are both affiliated with the Teamsters union.

Neither side made mention of a Civil District Court judge's back-to-work order, which the union has ignored.

The union demands that ranking officers be covered by the contract, and that unresolved issues be settled by compulsory binding arbitration. The city has rejected both demands.

City council at Coahoma will have different look

COAHOMA — Two members of the Coahoma city council have resigned while terms of two others expire this year.

Indications are the council will have a radically different look after the April 7 city election.

Mayor Joe Swinney has indicated he will not offer for office again. E. A. Richters, now a councilman, will campaign for the mayor's office.

Richters, position on the council expires this year, as does that of Melvin P. Dorn Jr. Dorn has not indicated he will offer for the office again.

Councilmen who have resigned are Pete Banks, who moved into Big Spring, and E.L. Collier, who said his long hours on his regular job prevent him from attending as many council meetings as he would like.

The ballot to be handed voters this year will include places for two regular two-year terms on the council plus two unexpired (or one-year) terms.

Deadline for candidates to declare for the races is March 6, according to Ina Stout, city secretary.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Not punishment

Q. Why are people suspected of violent crimes released on less bond than those suspected of non-violent crimes?

A. It isn't necessarily true that suspects involved in violent crime are let out on less bond than those suspected of non-violent crime, according to Lewis Heflin, justice of the peace. Suspected drug traffickers are more prone to jump bail than those suspected of violent crimes and are sometimes required to post more bail before being bonded out of jail. Bond isn't set as a punishment. It is set to insure the suspects show up for trial and is set only as high as the individual and the crime would warrant.

Tops on TV: Matter of choice

It's strictly a matter of choice tonight. "Roots: The Next Generation," which starts on ABC at 7 p.m., and extends for two hours, likely will be the "most watched" event on the tube. Many might prefer to view the concluding episode of "Backstairs at the White House," scheduled on NBC at 8 p.m. Leslie Uggams mourns the death of her mother in this one. Franklin D. Roosevelt dies and Leslie is dismissed from the White House service by Harry Truman, but all ends happily when she is reinstated by Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Calendar: University women meet

TODAY

The American Association of University Women will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Pioneer Natural Gas Building. Dan Wilkins will speak on stocks and bonds. Members are urged to attend.

Chapter 47, Disabled American Veterans, will hold a regular meeting in the VFW Hall, Driver Road, 7:30 p.m.

TUESDAY

The Pink Puffers, an affiliate of the American Lung Association, will meet at 7 p.m. at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center at 306 W. 3rd. Dr. Sam Sepuyo will speak on "chronic bronchitis" and the public is invited.

Board of trustees of Howard College meets, 12:30 p.m., in board room at college.

Seat in economic institutions vital China could land windfall

WASHINGTON (AP) — A potential financial windfall of at least $700 million a year, much of it from the United States, could go to Communist China if it claims a seat in the world's two most important economic institutions.

China's seat in the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank is occupied by Taiwan, a situation that can't continue much longer, officials agree. However, rather than oust Taiwan in favor of Peking, they are trying to find a way to make room for both.

"We do not want to see Taiwan dumped from these institutions," a Carter administration official said. "We would like Taiwan to have some independent status, but nobody has worked out a legal formula yet."

The Peking government hasn't made any move to join, although it has declared in the past that Taiwan is illegally representing China.

One official — who like other authorities quoted here asked to remain anonymous — said the pressure from Peking for a change could come in October at the annual joint meeting of the IMF and the World Bank in Yugoslavia, the first time they have met in a Communist country.

"They are sort of suggesting there will be Chinese around," said one official. "If I were looking for a solution to the problem, I'd look in that direction."

The 137-nation IMF and the World Bank distribute billions of dollars each year in aid and loans to under-developed member countries. World Bank lending totaled $8.4 billion last year, including $2.3 billion in interest-free loans to the very poorest members.

Financial support from the two institutions could be extremely helpful to Peking in carrying out its ambitious development plans.

One official said China and its one billion people would qualify for aid equal to what India receives, nearly $1.3 billion last year, including about $1 billion in interest-free loans.

However, since the bank's resources are limited, it would probably mean a cutback in aid to India in future years, leaving around $600-700 million for each country, one official calculated.

U.S. taxpayers provide about 20 percent of all financing for the World Bank and the IMF, and 33 percent — about $800 million last year — of the interest-free aid. The Bank and the IMF make the decisions on how the money should be used.

Among reasons they are reluctant to oust Taiwan is that the Taiwan government still owes a significant amount of money from past loans — $250 million to the World Bank and $190 million to the IMF.

One institution official suggested Taiwan may have incurred its debts partly to give it leverage against being ejected.

Another official said one solution might be for Taiwan to give up its China seat and reapply for membership on some other basis. But he admitted the mechanics of that approach aren't worked out since there is no provision for membership by non-nations.

"It will be one hell of a complex legal problem... All kinds of options are being drafted here and drafted there, but nothing is decided," another said. The official did not want to be identified because the issue is a sensitive one.

The decision may be dictated by the United States, which has been the controlling power in both institutions since it spearheaded their establishment after World War II to help run the post-war global economy.

One official said the subject may come up in talks that Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal will hold with Peking leaders during a visit to China later this month.

"The triggering point for a decision would be an expression of interest by Peking," he said.

In making their decision, officials will have to consider the following:

—Only a handful of the 137 members of the IMF — fewer than 20 — still recognize Taiwan. All of the major western nations that provide the vast bulk of the financial support recognize Peking.

—The seat occupied by Taiwan is the seat created for China when the organizations were established in the months following World War II.

—As long as the single most important member of the IMF, the United States, recognized Taiwan, it made sense from the U.S. point of view to continue Taiwan's membership. But on Jan. 1, the United States switched to Peking.

A nation must belong to the IMF to qualify for World Bank membership.

But joining would also carry a few strings for Peking. One is that Peking, as any other member, would have to open its economic books to scrutiny by the IMF — sort of an international audit — and possibly adopt IMF recommendations for changes in its economic policies.

There is also the question of whether Peking would assume Taiwan's indebtedness.

Taiwan has not received any loans from the World Bank since 1971, apparently sensitive to its precarious international position and therefore not wanting to encourage any confrontation over its membership. It has made repayments of past loans on schedule.

The two organizations' only communist members are Yugoslavia, Romania, Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos — and the last three all took over the memberships held by the former non-communist governments, a precedent that could apply to China.

FAÇADE OF FROST — New York City firemen play stream of water on smoldering building, already ice-covered in the Greenwich Village section of New York City Sunday. Fire fighters had been spraying the building since it first erupted in flame Wednesday night. Frigid temperatures coated the fire-blackened facade with white frost during the wet-down period.

Worst still ahead for Pittsburgh's potholes

By JOHN BRONSON
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Every year about this time, Pennsylvania motorists go through more bumps and grinds than Gypsy Rose Lee as they negotiate pitted highways that in some places are roads in name only.

Potholes are opening faster than repair crews can patch them, and with more winter weather and the spring thaw in store, the worst is still ahead.

"It's a shame," muttered Francis Ward, proprietor of a service station along a rutted stretch of Pittsburgh's Ardmore Boulevard. "I'm making money on it, but it's still a shame."

Outside Ward's station, about 20 ruined tires are stacked in the snow — silent trophies of the city's mean streets.

"There are just so many potholes around here, that I can't keep up with them. Last week in one five-hour period we fixed 16 flats," Ward said.

This is a motorist's horror story, but it's not the worst. Consider these:

—A monster chuckhole on a railroad crossing in downtown Erie trapped a car fast month. The owner went for help and came back to find the car smashed by a train.

—Following a recent heavy rain, a pothole about a foot deep and a yard wide appeared on Philadelphia's Schuylkill Expressway. It caused so many problems that an enterprising tow truck driver parked nearby and took orders.

—A section of Interstate 70 in Westmoreland County has crumbled so badly that an estimated 150 tractor-trailers staged a slowdown near Belle Vernon last week to protest the highway's condition.

'TIS THE SEASON — Pittsburgh area service station operator Francis "Pee Wee" Ward poses with some of the estimated 80-90 blow-outs resulting from potholes. "It's a shame," said Ward. "I'm making money on it, but it's still a shame."

—In Erie County, about 12 miles of the westbound lanes of I-90 have so deteriorated that the speed limit had to be reduced to 40 mph.

—Allegheny County Port Authority Transit is reporting slower running times for buses and says several drivers have put in claims for workmen's compensation, after wrenching arms or shoulders when hitting potholes.

But drivers aren't the only ones plagued by pitted pavements.

West Penn Motor Club's pothole hotline took a call from an irate housekeeper recently who said vehicles crunching into a rut were shaking her house so much that her cakes wouldn't rise.

Helicopter crashes

BOSTON (AP) — The Coast Guard searched today for the crewman of a helicopter that crashed in heavy seas while attempting to airlift an injured man from the Japanese fishing vessel Kaisei Maru No. 18.

Three other Coast Guardsmen died in the early morning crash Sunday.

The Coast Guard HH-3F "Pelican" long-range helicopter from Otis Air Force Base crashed 180 miles southeast of Cape Cod and 350 miles east of New York City.

"The helicopter was about to hoist up the injured Japanese crewman when something happened, and the helicopter went down," said Coast Guard Seaman Paul Powers.

He said the wind was gusting up to 30 mph and the seas were running about 25 feet.

FIRST IN SURVEY — The State of North Carolina and the nation of Canada were recently awarded top honors in a worldwide survey of free tourism information sources, conducted by The Travel Advisor, published monthly in New York and Washington. The publication surveyed materials from all 50 states and 123 foreign tourist offices and announced winners for 1978 were the Tar Heels and the Canadian government. North Carolina's Division of Travel and Tourism also won an award for Best Color Advertising in the nation, and an international prize for Best Public Service radio-television spots in 1978. Above, North Carolina's Lane Turner displays publications that earned the international literature award for her state.

Strike against Gulf Oil could end today

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Union officials called a vote today on an agreement that could end a six-week strike against the Gulf Oil Co. refinery here and send about 3,000 union employees back to work. The balloting was ordered to begin at 2 p.m.

Money management course planned

A seminar in Personal Christian Money Management will be held Tuesday from 7-9 p.m. beginning March 6, and ending March 27. Participants will meet in the Cactus Room of the Student Union Building on the Howard College Campus. Gil Jones III, local attorney, will coordinate the teaching process. Phyllis Graumann, local bookkeeper, will assist him in the coordination efforts. Carroll Kohl, a local minister, banker J.D. Nelson, John Wilson, C.P.A., and a regional insurance agent will be included in the teaching effort. Each individual will lecture on subjects relative to their professional field. The subjects covered in the course will be financial short and long range goal setting, a spending plan, income and expense records, credit buying, debt load, insurance, planning for retirement, death and burial, and wills and estate planning. There will be reference to personal spending as an individual and family unit as addressed in the Bible. The effects of money mismanagement on the family and individual will be discussed. The course will be valuable to those people who financially counsel clients, as well as the individual and family unit who manage their own money. Interested people may enroll in the Continuing Education office located in the Horace Garrett Building. There will be no charge for participation. For more information, call 267-6311, ext. 70.

not released. Only about 150 office workers who are members of the Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers union have been on strike, but their picket lines have been honored by the refinery's entire union work force. Gulf spokesman Jim Gatten said if the contract is ratified, "We will start immediately to make plans to bring them back in." He said the workers could resume normal hours as early as Tuesday. Co-chairman Austin Langley of the office workers union also predicted workers would be back on the job Tuesday. He said the union was successful in gaining a say over personnel cutbacks, one of the disputed issues. In a related development, non-striking electrical workers also came to agreement with Gulf Sunday and called a ratification vote for 3 p.m. today.

WILLIAM GARGAN DIES — Veteran actor William Gargan, who lost his larynx to cancer, was presented with the American Cancer Society's annual "courage award" in 1974 by First Lady Pat Nixon. Gargan, who went on to achieve equal fame as a cancer crusader after losing his voice to the disease, died Friday after suffering a heart attack on a flight between New York and San Diego. He was 73.

Police shooting suspects caught in Louisiana Sunday

BOSSIER CITY, La. (AP) — Texas law officers were here today to bring back two men accused of shooting to death a policeman in a Fort Worth suburb six days ago. The suspects were captured in this northwestern Louisiana city Sunday after they went to a friend's home for assistance, police said. They did not resist capture. A police spokesman said Jimmy Loyd Mead, 36, and Donald Ray Cagle, 21, waived extradition back to Texas. Deputies from the Tarrant County sheriff's office left Sunday afternoon en route to Bossier City to take custody of the prisoners. Bossier City officials said the Texas deputies would probably return to Fort Worth later today. The two men were arrested on warrants accusing them of the shooting death of police officer James Michael Carpenter, 25, of Crowley, whose body was found Tuesday slumped in the front seat of his patrol car.

Bus crash in Arlington causes injuries to 30

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — A Continental Trailways bus swerved to avoid a station wagon and overturned on the highway between Dallas and Fort Worth Sunday, injuring 30 persons, none seriously. Two of the victims were hospitalized, and the others were treated and released. Bus driver Roy Birdwell said he swerved but the bus struck the auto anyway, went into a skid, and overturned in mud alongside Interstate 30. Sarah M. Murphee, 69, of Houston, was hospitalized for observation, and Kathleen Weaver, 63, of Tyler, was listed in fair condition in Arlington Memorial Hospital.

Weather

Temperatures may climb into 50s, 70s

Winter was expected to loosen its icy grip on much of the state today as temperatures climb into the 50s across North Texas and as high as the mid 70s in the southwest. Low clouds hung over much of the eastern third of the state this morning and fog reduced visibility in some areas. However, most of the rest of Texas reported fair skies. Light showers fell in the lower Rio Grande Valley early today and forecasters predicted it would continue today. Early morning temperatures ranged from 21 degrees at Junction to 39 at both Brownsville and El Paso. Forecasters said it would be fair and warmer today in the west with highs ranging from the mid 50s in the north to the mid 70s in the south. Skies were expected to be fair and warm in North Texas after some early morning cloudiness.

Foreign policy needs partisan debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. says it's time to make the Democratic administration's foreign policy a legitimate subject for partisan political debate. Times have changed, said Baker, in urging Republicans to abandon altogether a generation-old belief that "politics stops at the water's edge." Not that the belief was absolute. Politics moved well beyond the water's edge in debates as long ago as the 1890s over China and Korea. Nevertheless, the Tennessee senator's advice has attracted attention because he is a Republican presidential hopeful.

Even before Baker's call or partisan debate, members of Congress — both Republicans and Democrats — showed little reluctance to criticize President Carter's foreign policy. Republicans, after all, Baker among them, gave Carter the votes he needed to go ahead with plans to sell jet fighters to Egypt and Saudi Arabia. A majority of Senate Democrats voted against their president's proposal. Democratic Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, the new chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, is one of the most prominent critics of Carter's Middle East policy.

Iran, continuing weakness of the dollar abroad, and a feeling among some members of the House and Senate that the China-Taiwan issue was mishandled — and, once again, members of Congress view Carter as an outsider with little aptitude for handling the complexities of foreign policy. And the Vietnam War remains fresh in the memory of Congress. It keeps members of both houses determined to question foreign policy as they now believe they should have during the buildup in Southeast Asia. So there is no shortage of congressional criticism of foreign policy from Democrats as well as Republicans. What Baker appears to be seeking is the leadership of a united band of Republicans who can establish themselves as a large and responsible faction offering alternatives to administration policies. Islamic government ends relation with Israelis

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran's new Islamic government ended all relations with Israel and pledged its support to the Palestinian war against the Jewish nation after a weekend meeting between Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and Yasser Arafat of the Palestine Liberation Organization. Iran will "turn to the issue of victory over Israel" after it binds up the wounds of the year-long revolt that drove Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi from the country, Tehran Radio reported Sunday.

Dropped from airplane near Cotulla

Law officers hunting marijuana bales

COTULLA, Texas (AP) — Law officers riding horses, squad cars, helicopters and on foot fanned out across the brushy plains between here and the coast Sunday, hunting bales of high-grade marijuana dumped from an airplane piloted by accused smugglers. An estimated 5,000 pounds of the Colombian weed are believed scattered along the 120-mile route across southern Texas. "We just hope we get to it before too much of it gets away," said Sgt. Phil Altman of the Texas Department of Public Safety narcotics division, who said the search was ordered to continue today. "Anybody caught with any of this marijuana had better be headed for the nearest law enforcement office," he said.

Altman said two persons have already been caught trying to take some of the contraband and were jailed in George West County on trespassing charges. He said 4,500 to 5,000 pounds of marijuana have already been gathered since the Colombian-registered DC-4 flew at low altitudes from Corpus Christi to Cotulla, dropping burlap bags filled with from 50 to 80 pounds of marijuana each. Ranchers and farmers checking their livestock after a cold front passed through the area Friday found most of the bundles. "It's high grade stuff. Each burlap bag contains two Purina Feed Chow sacks full of marijuana," Altman said. "U.S. Customs had two aircraft in the air following the DC-4, and when the suspects' plane landed in Cotulla, a Customs aircraft landed right behind it" at about 1 a.m. Friday, Altman said. Authorities arrested the two men on the DC-4 and nabbed three other suspects accused in the smuggling attempt at a secret landing strip in Duval County which had been under surveillance for about a week. Altman said there were "several theories" as to why the marijuana was dumped. "The aircraft was low on fuel. They could have been trying to conserve fuel. They knew they were going to have to land at a commercial airport instead of the clandestine airstrip, and they may have kicked it out to avoid detection," he said. The state trooper said the search was concentrated in the counties of McMullen, Live Oak and Jim Wells. The five men arrested in the case were charged in federal courts with conspiracy to possess marijuana with the intent to distribute. Brett Kimberlin, 24, also known as Chris Columbus Shipley, of Indianapolis; William Bowman, 32, of Dayton, Ohio; and Luis Frank Sial, 36, of Edinburg, Texas; were in the Nueces County jail in Corpus Christi Sunday night. Kimberlin was being held on $250,000 bond, and Bowman and Sial on $50,000 bond each. Richard C. Curry, 35, of Nakomis, Fla.; and George Ralph Greene, 27, of Remington, Ind., were being held in the Webb County jail in Laredo under $50,000 bond each.

FORECAST

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is expected in the forecast period, Monday until Tuesday morning, for most of the Pacific coast and Rocky Mountain areas. Elsewhere skies will be mostly fair. Cold weather is expected from Texas to the mid-Atlantic region. Mild weather is forecast for the Plains and seasonable temperatures elsewhere.

Fine Arts faculty will offer special courses

The Adult and Continuing Education office of Howard College announces a selection of courses to be offered by the Fine Arts faculty of Howard College. The courses are designed to appeal to all ages. The basic approach to reading music. Beginning Monday, Feb. 26, and ending April 30, a course in Beginning Piano will be offered. The class is designed to give the student a casual approach to learning to play the piano. The class will be limited to six students since a laboratory piano set-up will be used. The use of earphones will enable each student to progress at his or her own speed without interfering with the other students' progress.

Stuckley added to PGP staff

Perry Gas Companies, Inc., an Odessa-based energy related holding company, has announced the recent addition of John R. (Bob) Stuckley to the staff. Hal D. Guttery has also joined the staff of PGP Gas Products, Inc., a subsidiary of Perry Companies. Stuckley is employed as Systems Analyst in the company's Data Processing Department. He previously worked as a Customer Representative for Oil Industry Computer Services, Inc., Computer Division, Odessa. New version of fairy tale fits the times

The Congressional Record last July 28 repeated a variation of the Little Red Riding story which parodies one of the tragic problems gripping this country today.

The article originally appeared in the Pickens County Herald and the West Alabamaian, both Alabama publications, after having been forwarded to the Record by an 86-year-old retired teacher.

The story:

"Once upon a time, in a faraway country there lived a little girl called Little Red Riding Hood. One day her mother asked her to take a basket of fruit to her grandmother's who had been ill and lived alone in a cottage in the forest.

"It happened that the wolf was lurking in the bushes and overheard the conversation. He decided to take a shortcut to the grandmother's house and get the goodies for himself. The wolf killed the grandmother, then dressed in her nightgown and jumped into bed to await the little girl.

"When she arrived, he made several nasty suggestions and then tried to grab her. But by that time the child was very frightened and ran screaming from the cottage.

"A woodcutter, working nearby, heard her cries and rushed to the rescue. He killed the wolf with his ax, thereby saving Red Riding Hood's life.

"All the townspeople hurried to the scene and proclaimed the woodcutter a hero. But at the inquest, several facts emerged (1) the wolf had never been advised of his rights, (2) the woodcutter had made no warning swings before striking the fatal blow, (3) the Civil Liberties Union stressed the point that although the act of eating Grandma may have been in bad taste, the wolf was only 'doing his thing' and thus didn't deserve the death penalty, (4) the SDS contended that the killing of the grandmother should be considered self-defense since she was over 30 and, therefore, couldn't be taken seriously because the wolf was merely trying to make love not war.

"On the basis of these considerations, it was decided there was no valid basis for charges against the wolf. Moreover, the woodcutter was indicted for aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

"Several nights later, the woodcutter's cabin was burned to the ground. One year from the date of the incident at Grandma's, her cottage was made a shrine for the wolf who had bled and died there. All the village officials spoke at the dedication, but it was Red Riding Hood who gave the most touching tribute.

"She said that, while she had been selfishly grateful for the woodcutter's intervention, she realized in retrospect that she had overreacted. As she knelt and placed a wreath in honor of the brave wolf, there wasn't a dry eye in the whole forest.

"They named two bridges, one school and a street for the wolf. Two denominations gave huge funds in his memory to reconcile all other wolves."

Does that remind you of modern day justice and the manner in which some judges interpret the law?

St. Crispin's Day

William F. Buckley, Jr.

LONDON — "Oh," said the dashing young MP. "don't worry. It will happen. It has always happened when one group has gone out of hand. We tamed the barons, didn't we? Then the king. Then the church. Then the House of Lords. Then the industrialists. We will now tame the unions."

It is fair to say that that sentiment prevails among buoyant British men of affairs with a sense of history. Certainly it is the will of the people, a week-old Gallup poll showing that no less than 84 per cent of the public have become convinced that the power of the trade unions is inordinate. However when one gets around to asking just how the objective is to be accomplished there is a certain tentativeness. Not an inarticulateness — the English will not achieve inarticulateness until Education Minister Shirley Williams administers the schools for another generation. But a genuine sense of powerlessness.

NEIL KINNOCK, an engaging Welsh MP, red-haired, amusing, relaxed, is the total socialist, of the stripe of Tony Benn, who says things like: "How are you in fact going to put limits on the right to picket? What will the police do? Arrest a hundred thousand people?" Some of his counterparts in the House of Commons gets extremely indignant over talk of that kind. Is Britain less obedient to the rule of law, they ask, than France or Germany — or even Italy, all three of which regulate what pickets can do and cannot do? Kinnock simply smiles.

Up until 1976, a picket addressing employees of a company supplying the picket's company was allowed to communicate to said employees only that the company being supplied was being struck. Nothing more. If that picket attempted to persuade the employee to join in what we call a secondary boycott, the offender could be sued under the law for committing the tort of "inducing a breach of commercial contract." That restriction was removed by the Callaghan government as a payoff to the trade unions. Could a Conservative Party reverse the law? Make it yet stricter by outlawing any attempt to hit out at secondary enterprises?

Mrs. Thatcher is cautious. She speaks about labor reforms of the kind that might get the cooperation of the trades unions council. There is a feeling that unless the unions themselves cooperate, the problem is very nearly insuperable. An effective veto by a minority interest would be a first in British history. Churchill's famous phrase was "If the British Empire and its Commonwealth last for a thousand years, men will still say: 'This was their finest hour.'" It struck many people as curious that a phrase as rollicking in self-assurance should be introduced by a conditional: if Britain should last for a thousand years? Not ten thousand?

But just that question now arises: because the unions may prove to be unassimilable. Forty per cent of the working population in the private sector belong to the trade unions. Eighty per cent of all public employees do. If anything like one-half or even one-quarter such employees defy the law, you will be left with an inoperative law.

HOPEFUL ENGLISHMEN will tell you that the fate of the country rests really with the social democrats.

Political intelligence

Inflamed nerve can cause eye twitch.

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have been bothered with a twitch in my right eye, as though the eye was blinking rapidly. But when I look in the mirror nothing seems to be happening. My doctor said it was a nerve problem and to take vitamin B. I am taking vitamin supplements with zinc once a day. I still feel like a rabbit. Also, my eyes get sore after reading or watching TV for a long time. I am 69 and arthritic, but otherwise healthy. I'd like your comments on this twitching business. — R.P.L.

See next two letters.
Dear Dr. Ruble: I'm giving my husband drops of chloroptic ophthalmic solution in his eyes four times a day. Now he has a terrible twitch in his left eye that is driving him crazy. Can I help in any way to relieve this twitch? He is a diabetic. — Mrs. F.P.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can you tell me what causes the muscle of your eye to twitch uncontrollably? — D.M.

It seems every mail delivery brings letters from eye-twitching readers. A great many people develop twitching of one lid or the other sometime in their lives. It is called "myokymia" and usually means little. Even a very minor irritation of the muscle controlling eyelid movement will cause a lid to contract repeatedly. The flutter is often so rapid that it cannot be seen. It is annoying and embarrassing and seemingly impossible to control.

If such twitching persists, however, it might indicate a medical problem. A virus infection may inflame the nerve controlling the muscles. People with overactive thyroid glands may develop a twitch. Often the answer is simpler. Eyestrain, which may be a contributing factor for Mrs. R.P.L., can cause it or it may be a complication of Mrs. F.P.'s husband's diabetes. A localized irritation can cause the trouble and she might try a different eyedrop solution. Vitamin B may help if the nerve is inflamed (neuritis).

For the most part, however, eyestrain and simple fatigue are the commonest causes of eyelid twitching, which as I mentioned is harmless and subsides when conditions are corrected.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Two years ago I had a gallstone attack. Tests showed I had large stones. The doctor suggested I try to control it by diet. On the whole, I was successful by eliminating fried food and generally going easy on fats. My problem is that I have had an inordinate amount of gas. Is this related to the stones? What foods create the gas? I eat a lot of vegetables. — S.H.

Don't be too quick to blame the gallstones for your gas. Stones may have nothing to do with that. An extensive study was done recently and the conclusion was that gas and belching are no more common for people with stones than for those without them. This was true even for those who age gas-forming foods — foods high in cellulose and certain oils. Cellulose is a major constituent of vegetables, and among the chief offenders seem to be cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, brussels sprouts, onions, garlic, radishes, turnips, cucumbers, melons and beans. Usually, though, gaseousness is more related to how you eat (rapidly) than to what you eat.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can taking vitamin C correct a high cholesterol level? I have heard it can. Have studies proved this? — R.E.C.

The vitamin C merry-go-round never stops, and the music's usually the same. Vitamin C is not a cholesterol-lowering substance. It is useful if there is a vitamin C deficiency. If your cholesterol needs lowering, the first step is to try to find out why it is high. Then you treat that. If a cause cannot be found then weight reduction, fat restriction, and possibly one of the etruly cholesterol-lowering medicines might be tried.

At this time of year the question always is asked, "Does vitamin C help prevent or treat the common cold?" In spite of all the publicity and many studies there has been no clearcut evidence that it does either, except as the vitamin contributes to generally good health. I doubt you will find any fewer common colds in the citrus-rich areas of the country than in others.

CONFIDENTIAL TO R.C. — The extra bleeding may be a cause of your continuing fatigue. Have this checked out, and at the same time have something done about the hemorrhoids, since that probably is where the bleeding originates.

Dear Doctor: Thanks for the article on epilepsy. Every little bit helps in understanding. — O.S.

Although cholesterol has been implicated in heart attacks and other circulatory troubles, it is at the same time vital to human life. For a copy of the booklet, "Control Your Cholesterol Sensibly," write to Dr. Ruble in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Many involved

Around the rim

Carla Walker

Taking tours of students through the Herald, I have noticed one thing in particular. They are surprised to learn that there are more on the newspaper staff than Rossys and Lou Grants (or for those who don't watch television, reporters and editors).

I guess I just never consciously thought about the people involved in publishing a newspaper until I began working at the Herald during my high school days, and then, I knew that more were involved than the ones whose names appeared in the paper.

OTHER PEOPLE WHO have no contact with the newspaper other than to read the product may not realize the expertise that goes into, not just the writing and editing, but the printing as well.

To pay for the cost of printing the paper, the advertising department has to sell ads. The more ads they sell, the more pages the Herald can afford to publish, and therefore the more news the reader receives.

Also, the simple act of advertising is a public service, without the news inches it finances.

Obviously, merchants feel advertising benefits them, since they buy it, and the surveys indicate that readers take the paper, not only for news as reporters might like to think, but for the advertising as well.

Also helping to produce money to pay the costs of printing is the circulation department. Without them to deliver it to subscribers, the product would never reach the reader at all.

To keep track of all the incoming and outgoing money (and hopefully, to make sure the former is always bigger than the latter) is the business department. Without them, none of the people who work here would get their paycheck, which means that none of us would show up for work and there would be no Big Spring Herald.

Regardless of how many pages of features and news are written by the editorial department, not one of them would ever be seen outside the building if we didn't have the production department, which breaks down into two areas, composing and pressroom.

In composing, the material that leaves my typewriter and that of the other reporters (Many times in such a messy state that I wonder how the typesetters ever read it) becomes the justified columns of type. The stories, headlines and (I mustn't be the usual snob and forget) the ads, are pasted together and put on the pages.

There is a definite art to getting the print straight and making the page look good, besides the skill it takes to read the editors' handwriting on the layout sheets.

And, there is the pressroom. Look at the cover of Sunday's farm edition if you don't believe that our pressroom crew does a good job. Or, look at any of the color photos we have run in the past year or so.

The Herald was one of four newspapers (nationally) last year that was commended for the color reproduction of an Easter picture of eggs and baby chickens.

The pressmen really take pride in what they do, and it makes editorial a little more conscious of the fact that we should be giving them good ideas to work with.

For example, if we know the backshop and pressroom crew will take a lot of care in printing the cover to a special edition, it makes us more willing to put out a lot of effort to give them good pictures and good layouts. We are assured that a good idea — or a bad one — on our part, will be given the attention required to render the best reproduction possible.

So, next time you read a reporter's byline, remember how many people worked together to bring that story to you; a lot of deserving bylines never get printed.

Keller stalked

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Teen-agers' sick jokes about deaf and blind people are known as "Helen Keller jokes," after that remarkable woman and distinguished American whose triumph over her handicaps was an inspiration to millions the world over.

But the sickest Helen Keller joke of all was perpetrated, not by teen-agers, but by the late director of the FBI, J. Edgar Hoover. His near-hysterical suspicion of anyone who did not measure up to his rigid standard of red-white-and-blue Americanism led him to maintain a detailed investigative file on Keller until her death in 1968 at age 87.

WE HAVE OBTAINED Helen Keller's FBI dossier — 44 pages of incredible trivia. It tells us little about Keller. But it tells us a lot about J. Edgar Hoover, the self-appointed guardian of America's political morality for half a century.

The idea of the FBI running its number on Keller would almost be funny if it weren't such a sad commentary on Hoover and the anti-communist paranoia he so effectively cultivated in the American public.

Helen Keller was born June 27, 1880, in Tuscumbia, Ala. When she was 19 months old, illness left her blind and deaf (and therefore mute). Under the tutelage of another remarkable woman, Annie Sullivan, she learned to speak, read and write. She went to college and was the author of 11 books.

But to the FBI, Keller was a "writer on radical subjects."

There are numerous references in Keller's FBI file to her support of the Friends of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade. The brigade was made up of American volunteers — mostly idealistic college students — who fought for the republican government of Spain against Francisco Franco's fascist rebels in the Spanish Civil War in the late 1930s. There were enough communists in the Lincoln Brigade to taint every survivor or supporter in the Red Scare that gripped the United States in the years after World War II.

The FBI file, which is stamped "Security Information Confidential," also notes that "Helen Keller, blind author and educator, was one of a group of individuals sending messages of condolence on the occasion of the funeral of Mother (Ella Reeve) Bloor, well known Communist Party member, on August 14, 1951."

Even worse, by Hoover standards, "Helen Keller has sent loving birthday greetings to Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, a prominent communist leader, on her 65th birthday," according to the FBI dossier.

Keller also was one of the signers of a letter to the speaker of the house in March 1948, protesting the red-baiting activities of the notorious House Un-American Activities Committee. This transgression was duly recorded in her FBI dossier.

KROGH'S COURAGE: Leon Jaworski, the patient, dogged special prosecutor who finally brought down Richard Nixon and his Watergate gang, recently sent us a footnote to the nation's greatest political scandal.

While addressing the student body at the University of California in Berkeley, Jaworski wrote, he was handed a note as he entered the auditorium. It was from Egil "Bud" Krogh, who directed Nixon's political espionage from a room in the White House basement.

Krogh eventually wound up in prison for his illegal activity.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

The water rate increase passed by the city council will pay off the deficit in the Water and Sewer Department in ten months. If water consumption is up by that time, the council plans to drop 15¢ of the increase. However, the $1.35 increase will still net the city more than $31,000 a year in excess of the rate increase by the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Although most of the council members, the City Manager, the Director of Utilities and the City Finance Director agree that the city used an inaccurate estimate of the number of water meters, with the exception of Bill Henkel, they all insist that the inclusion of apartments and other multiple billing residences would make no difference in the amount of rate increase needed. The Finance Director, Tom Ferguson, even went so far as to say that $31,000 is an "insignificant amount of money." On the one hand, the council insists on including a 15¢ charge, which I protested, to offset a drop in consumption, saying it is "necessary," and on the other hand they claim that 25¢ one way or the other is of no importance.

The Water and Sewer Department has yet to give the public a satisfactory explanation for the bind it is in. I find it hard to believe that a drop in residential consumption is solely responsible for the entire deficit. Yet our city officials have given us only vague excuses and have taken the position that "no one really knows" what caused the deficit.

Regardless of the amount of money involved, the city government should feel duty-bound to provide the public with all of the data used to make a determination on a matter of this kind, so that there will be no room for error or misinterpretation.

It should use accurate estimates, or better, solid statistics, in making decisions. It should use care to find out what the public wants. And it should watch its expenditures, being certain it doesn't spend money unnecessarily.

Our city at present is being run in the manner of the Federal government, without regard to cost or public opinion, and I believe that we deserve better than that.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: We are unhappy about our one son. We tried to give him everything when he was growing up, but now he has rejected us and left home. Where did we go wrong? — Mrs. C. G.

DEAR MRS. C. G.: There is no way for me to know to what degree you might have been responsible for your son's rebellion. Sometimes parents do a good job in raising their children, and yet there are problems. It is difficult to know all the reasons why.

But there may be a clue in your phrase, "we gave him everything." The Bible and experience itself tell us there can be serious problems when we allow a child to have everything, without teaching discipline at the same time.

I think of one of the sons of King David, Absalom. In a sense, Absalom seemed to have everything. The Bible says he was handsome and admired by others. Unfortunately, the Bible hints that David did not teach him discipline, but instead allowed him to do whatever he wanted. Absalom killed his half-brother, Amnon, and yet David did not punish him as he should have done (see 2 Samuel 13-14). As time went on, Absalom revolted against his father, and attempted to become king.

Sometimes in our materialistic world we give our children many things, and yet we do not give them what they crave most — ourselves and our love. Most of all, from early childhood we need to teach our children to respect and love God.

Pray for your son, not just that he will return home, but that he will come to Christ, who alone can give him meaning in life. If there are things which were wrong, don't be afraid to confess them and ask his forgiveness. God can still bring him back.

Officers appointed

The National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees met at the Kentwood Older Adult Center at 6:30 p.m. for a pot luck supper on Feb. 15 followed by the regular business meeting at 7:30 p.m. with R. W. Cagle, president presiding.

J. W. Weidel was elected second vice president due to the resignation of F. W. Jarrett who has moved from Big Spring.

W. C. Cole was named chairman of the legislative committee due to the resignation of G. P. Morrison who also resigned. Others appointed on the legislative committee were Mrs. W. C. Bell, Mrs. G. B. Pittman, Mrs. J. T. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Anderson.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. W. C. Cole, Mrs. C. F. Whittington and Mrs. G. W. Hill.

Visitors were Ms. Gertrude Hamlin, A. C. Powell, Ms. Christine Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Castle, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lloyd.

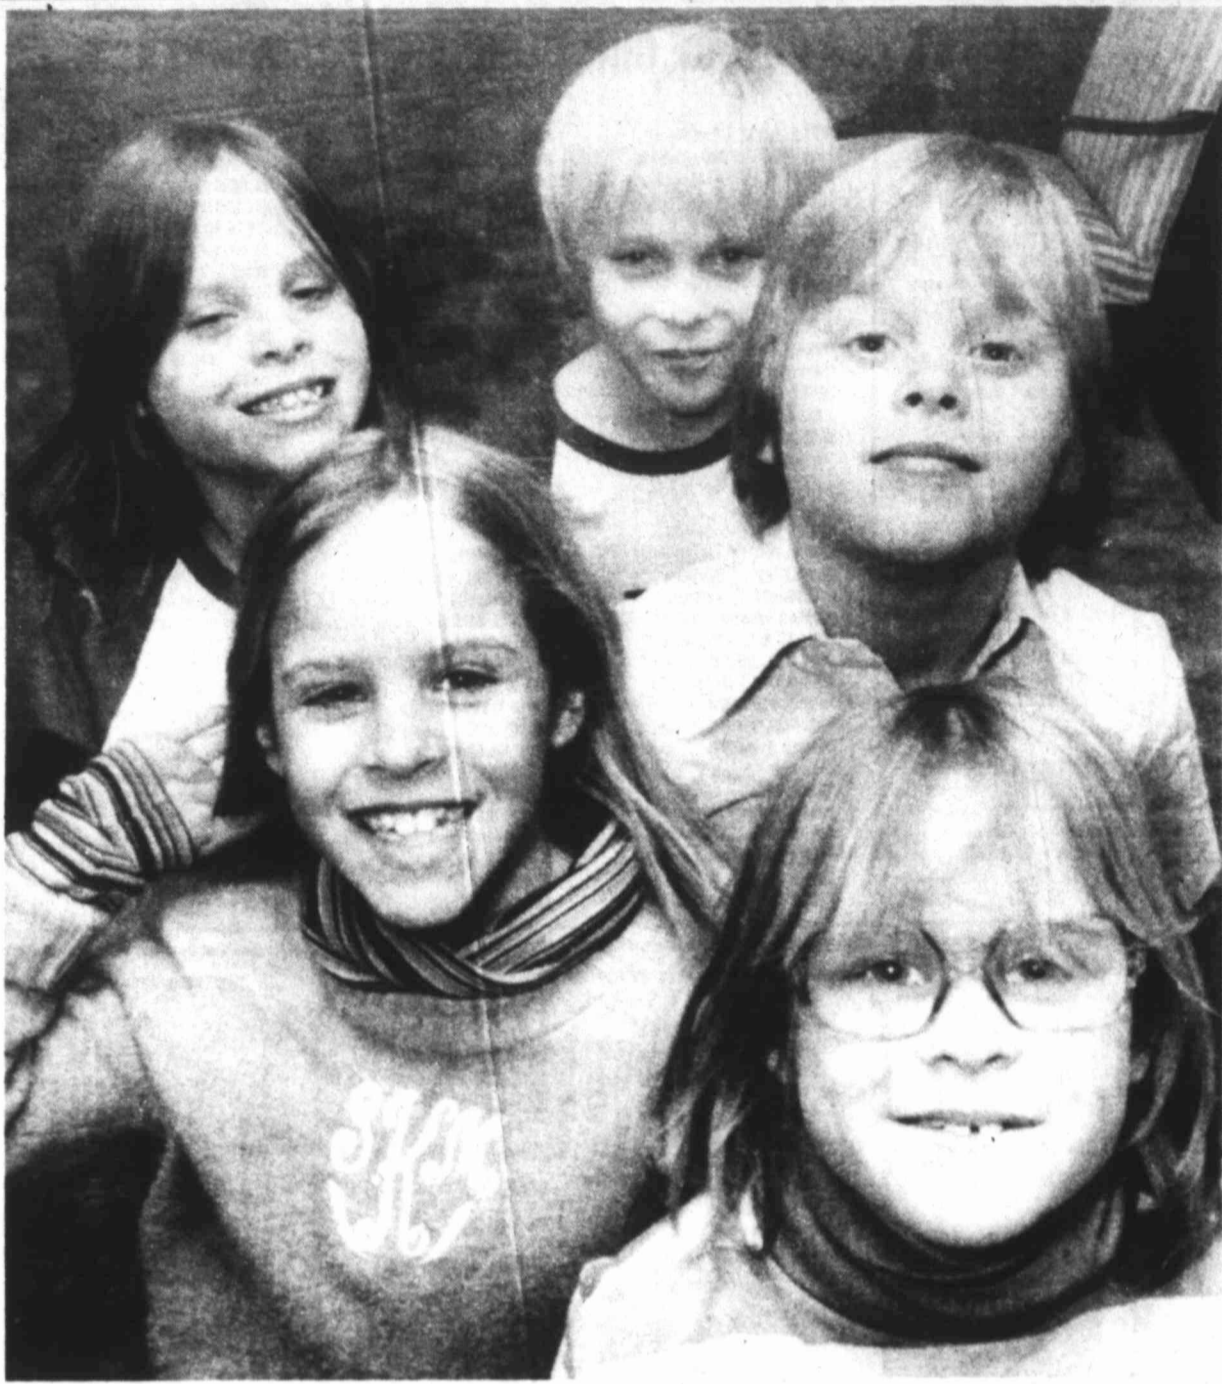

Music by the Tom Castle Band was enjoyed after the supper and following the business meeting.

Members will man phones

Alpha Kappa Omicron chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Feb. 13 at the home of Donna Newell with Doris Arcand presiding. A program on love, given by Carole Lowstetter and Donna Newell, opened the meeting.

Tentative plans were made to have a concession booth at the Rattlesnake Roundup to be held March 16, 17, and 18. Members voted to help man telephones for the Easter Seals March 24-25.

Doris Owusu won the hostess gift. Decorations and refreshments were centered around the Valentine theme. The next meeting will be held Feb. 27 at the home of Carole Lowstetter.

QUINTS WILL BE NINE — The Kienast quintuplets, Sara, left front, Abigail, left rear; Amy, Gordon, and Ted, right front to back, pose for photographer at their home in Liberty Corners, N.J. The five, born on Feb. 24, 1970, will be celebrating their ninth birthdays this week.

NEED TO SELL!
WE HAVE BUYERS!

She Can't Bank On Her Memory

DEAR ABBY: I'm sitting here with a terrible headache and an upset stomach because I can't remember where I put my money, and a payment is due today at the bank!

I'm only 35, but my memory is so bad I'm ashamed of myself. Four years ago I hid some jewelry before going out one night. I still haven't found it.

I order things and forget to pick them up. I forget to make phone calls. I forget where I park my car. But I remember petty things like an argument I had with my husband 10 years ago. So why can't I remember everyday things?

Writing notes to myself doesn't help. I forget where I put the notes.

I've thought about going to the local mental health clinic, but I have a friend who works there and I'd just die if he found out how dumb I am.

Are there others like myself? What do they do about it?
FORGETFUL FRAN

DEAR FRAN: There are MANY like yourself. The wise ones get professional help, which is what you should do. Call your mental health clinic for an appointment. Your friend who works there will respect you for recognizing a problem and seeking a solution. That's smart — not dumb. Make that call now — before you forget. And good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married 12 years and my biggest complaint is the same one I've had ever since I was a bride. My husband "surprises" me with unexpected dinner guests. He doesn't even call to give me a few minutes notice. He just walks in with a friend or two at mealtime, and says, "Don't go to any extra trouble, honey, they'll eat whatever we have." I could wring his neck!

Sometimes I have skimpy leftovers, only enough for our family.

Naturally, I'm stuck. I have to be a good scout, but I wish I knew how to cure him of his thoughtlessness. Any ideas?
HATES SURPRISES

DEAR HATES: If your husband has been "surprising" you with "unexpected" company for 12 years, it's time you expected it. Stop being a "good scout" and start being a "Girl Scout." (Be prepared!)

DEAR ABBY: There is a girl in one of my classes who is really neat, but she has one bad fault that turns me off. She uses dirty language. I'm no good-gooey, but she shocks me. She's great looking and bright, too, but what a disappointment when she starts to talk!

When will girls learn? Guys sometimes use rough language among themselves, but no fellow likes to hear words like that coming out of a girl's mouth.

How about a few words of wisdom on the subject from you, Abby?
TURNED OFF IN ALTOONA

DEAR TURNED OFF: You've said it, and you've said it well.

Modern Woman's Forum discusses family life

The home of Mrs. C.R. Moad was the site for the 3 p.m. meeting of the Modern Woman's Forum. Thirteen members attended the Feb. 9 gathering.

Mrs. Bert Affleck, president, conducted the business session and led the club collect and Pledge of Allegiance to the American flag. Honor was given to the Texas flag.

Federation Counselor Mrs. Fred Whitaker reminded members of their Texas heritage by saying "The Lord made us all neighbors in Texas, let knowledge make us friends." She then presented several ways to do this, such as pledging the Texas flag, promoting travel and tourism in Texas, honoring pioneer personalities by placing books in local or school libraries in their honor, and promoting the usage of Texas products.

A program was given on home life by Mrs. B.M. Keese. She entitled her presentation "What Makes A Good Family?"

Mrs. Keese revealed that family does not include blood ties alone. When relatives sometime fail to be friends, friends can be transformed into relatives. If no blood family exists or they live far away, new families may be cultivated from friends.

Mrs. Bert Affleck spoke on "The Family: Down, But Far from Out." Her talk recalled a decade ago when it was being said that the American family, society's basic institution, was emotionally unstable, economically weak and not up to the task of raising children. However, the opinions have shifted. Now it is being said that there is no better invention than the family.

"Nevertheless, many parents feel increasingly harassed by today's social changes," revealed Mrs. Affleck. She said raising children has never been more costly. Parents also feel their control over their children's lives is being threatened by the influence of television, schools and peer groups of the children. The most severe threat to family life stems from unemployment and lack of adequate income.

Mrs. Affleck revealed that in Flint, Mich., alcoholism, drug abuse and child abuse all increased when the jobless rate reached 20 per cent.

In concluding, the major family function was stressed; bringing up children to be full human beings, able to live in a world of two sexes consisting of different ages, different personalities and different temperaments.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. H.M. Rowe Feb. 23.

TWEEN 12 and 20 — Teen swears off junk food

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Teens: While reading a local newspaper the other day, I ran across an item about a teen that really made me feel good and I'd like to share it with you. I KNOW THIS WILL INSPIRE:

— A year and a half ago, when she weighed 318 pounds and wore a size 52, Margie Vering would hide in her room when visitors called. She couldn't wear jeans like her peers and schoolmates in Chicago taunted her.

But Margie, now 16, has turned all that around. At 5-foot-4 and a trim 131 pounds, she wears a size 12 after having sworn off junk food with the help of an understanding dietician, Paula Calvin.

Vering, who had a weight problem almost from birth, had failed on several attempts to lose weight before she met Calvin.

"Before, all the doctors treated me like a patient, not a person," Vering said. "I could tell they were skeptical. They didn't think I could do it. Paula was different. She treated me like a person, and she knew I could do it."

It was just a matter of sensible eating.

"I really don't miss the candy at all," she said. "It's such a relief that I lost all that weight."

And, as it should happen to all 16-year-old girls, "I go out a lot," and she gets whistles at the beach.

Dr. Wallace: I am a 15-year-old sophomore and have been going with a guy the same age for about five months.

We haven't had sex, and have agreed not to until we get married (if and when). Instead, we have learned to enjoy being together alone, or with friends, and doing things such as swimming, bowling, going to the movies, club meetings, parties and dances.

We usually listen to our parents and we both keep our grade averages above a B, and are involved in our separate school activities. We aren't rich, but we're happy being teen-agers with no big hang-ups.

I don't care if you print this or not. It's just to show you that not all of us kids have problems so big that prayer and patience can't handle.

Yes, we know that there is a real world out there, with problems and madness, but we'll tackle them as they come along, trying not to create any new ones. — M.H., Porterville, Calif.

M.H.: You are a wise young woman. Thanks for sharing.

Fitness program presented

Jerry Zambrano presented a program on physical fitness to the American Association of Retired Persons recently at Kentwood Older Adult Activity Center.

Mrs. B.M. Keese, president, presided over the business meeting. A covered dish luncheon and games followed for the 52 members who attended.

The next meeting of the group will be March 6.

Study club hears chief

Chief of Police Stanley Bogard spoke on "This is Your Policeman," to The Big Spring Child Study Club Wednesday at the Dora Roberts Community Center.

Ed Kissing, Sergeant, showed a film on drugs, "11:59, Last Minute to Choose." In addition, he gave a demonstration of the equipment of drug users to the 19 members present.

Merry Mixers will give dance lessons

The Merry Mixers, a square dance club formed in August, will be giving lessons every Monday night at the Settles Hotel Ballroom, 7:30 p.m., for 18 weeks.

Those taking the opportunity to learn this popular activity will be given the first three lessons free. It was announced that tonight is the last night for enrollment.

James Moore is caller for the Merry Mixers every first and third Friday of every month at the ballroom.

Officers include presidents, Wayne and Dorothy Nichols; vice presidents, Tommy and Nelda Carstensen; treasurers, Preston and Mae Ward; and secretaries, Steve and Joyce Coleman.

Last Friday night the club held a Sandwich Supper with 3½ squares participating. An upcoming event will be a Chip and Dip Dance March 2.

Members of the Merry Mixers encourage everyone interested in learning how to square dance to join them tonight at 7:30 p.m. Others already knowing how are invited to dance with them the first and third Friday's of each month.

Police beat Burglars work overtime

A number of burglaries were investigated by police over the weekend.

An auto belonging to Johnny Davis, 3 Val Verde, was parked at A&M Electric between 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. Friday, and someone apparently used a coat hanger to illegally enter the car. Stolen was $267 worth of items including a CB microphone, a pay check and a case containing 15 eight-track tapes.

Evelyn Paul, 2500 W. Hwy 80 reported that her car was burglarized around 11:30 p.m. Saturday when it was parked at the Bowl-A-Rama. The battery cables were cut and a battery stolen. Value of the loss and damage was $25.

Webb Bowling Lanes was burglarized between 10:30 p.m. Saturday and 10:15 a.m. Sunday. A glass door was broken out, a cigarette machine, juke box and two game machines damaged in addition to the theft of 20 packs of cigarettes and money taken from the machines. The value was assessed at over $55.

The Pro Shop at the Figure Seven Tennis Center was entered between 6:30 p.m. Saturday and 12:55 p.m. Sunday. An office door was kicked open, but apparently nothing was taken.

Burglars removed a gate at the Bent Cement Skateboard Park, 900 W FM-700, then raised a window of the building to get inside. The burglars were frightened away before they could take anything, sometime between 7:45 p.m. and 8:19 p.m. Saturday.

Curtis Arceneaux, 8 Chief Apts., reported that someone took a $60 motorcycle helmet from the cycle while it was parked at the Starlite Club between 6:55 p.m. and 7:15 p.m. Sunday.

Eleven traffic signs, taken from different locations around the city, were found at the corner of Stonehaven

MEMBER OF PINACEAE FAMILY
Red Berry Juniper

Red-Berry Juniper is native to this area

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series about Howard County plants and their history. The articles were prepared by local Soil Conservation Service personnel.

Red-berry Juniper called Juniperus pinchotii in scientific circles, grows mostly on the well drained, shallow soils south of Big Spring. Smaller areas can be found north and east of Big Spring.

This species of Juniper is resistant to fire damage, and can sprout back out after range fires have killed other types of vegetation.

This plant is not readily eaten by any animals. The plant does provide an excellent cover for all kinds of birds and wild animals.

Two drug arrests made in Big Spring

Two residents of the Sandra Gale Apartments were arrested this morning on suspicion of possession of controlled substances.

Members of the Big Spring Major Crime Task Force, local detectives, a member of the San Angelo Police Department and his drug-sniffing dog raided the apartment of Robert Moreno Marquez, now serving a probated term for another crime, early this morning. Also arrested was a female companion, Johnnie Harbuck.

Seized in the raid were several grams of heroin and cocaine, according to Detective John Burson. Investigators also recovered several thousand dollars thought to have been used in narcotics transactions, said Burson.

Justice of the Peace Bob West will set bond for the pair later today.

Eight cases disposed of Eight cases were disposed of today in Howard County Court, five of them were DWIs. The hearing started at 9 a.m.

Stephen Allen Martin, arrested on suspicion of DWI, will have charges dropped against him if he participates in a state hospital detoxification program. He will be granted a continuance for the case if he doesn't go to detoxification.

Martin and his attorney, Robert Moore, didn't appear at the hearing. Moore and County Attorney Harvey Hoyer settled the matter out of court.

Randall Dean Bretz had his case dismissed because he couldn't be identified by the arresting highway patrolman, Seberg Albidrez, another DWI arrest, will enter a guilty plea Feb. 22. Jack Odell Nault's DWI case was dismissed because a witness did not appear.

Richard W. Glass was granted a continuance for his DWI case.

Willie Ray Myles will enter a guilty plea for marijuana possession and was granted a continuance. A "carrying prohibited weapon" case was dropped against David Lee Ayers because the tool handle he was carrying was not considered by the court to be prohibited. Eugene Bryant, arrested for criminal mischief, agreed to pay full restitution of $350 for damages.

Salty Price of Vernon was named chairman of the 30th Senatorial District Democratic committee.

Jane Ray, Howard County Democratic chairman, was unable to attend.

It was disclosed that Cong. Charles Stenholm, freshman representative from Stamford, will be honored sometime in March by Texas Tech as the first graduate of that school ever to sit in Congress.

Advisory board of SA slates banquet tonight

The Salvation Army of Big Spring will conduct its annual advisory board installation banquet at 6:45 this evening at the Cactus Room of Howard College.

"The annual meeting also gives the opportunity to present appreciation awards and certificates to the service clubs who manned the kettles at Christmas. Also in presenting our annual report it gives the Salvation Army the opportunity of acquainting the public with the services of the Army and to give an account of our stewardship for the year 1978 and to express our appreciation to our many friends and organizations for their fine support", said Brigadier Roberts, Ball, local commander.

The special speaker for this occasion is Captain Joseph Bennett, divisional secretary for the Texas Division. Captain Bennett is a talented musician (he is a tenor soloist) and has appeared in many of the most important musical festivals and conventions of the Salvation Army in the south.

Bennett is an excellent speaker and a member of the divisional staff in Dallas.

"A few tickets are still available for $4 each through our office at 308 Aylford" Ball said.

City merchants come through

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Police Department has expressed gratitude for nine merchants who donated matching funds needed for a $7,500 federal grant, which will be used to upgrade the equipment within the department.

The merchants chipped to the extent of $2,000. The application has already cleared one hurdle with the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission and likely will be given final approval within the near future.

The Coahoma city council is still seeking a replacement for Chief of Police Benny Fishback, who resigned recently to accept employment with the Midland Sheriff's Department.

David Weaver continues on the Coahoma police force.

Deaths

M. O. GRIFFITH
M. O. Griffith

M. O. (Jack) Griffith, 66, of Big Spring, died at noon Sunday in his home after a long illness. Services will be 2 p.m. Tuesday in Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home Rosewood Chapel.

The Rev. Dan Sanford, minister of Phillips Memorial Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Mount Olive Memorial Park.

Born April 19, 1912, in Coleman County, he married Glennie Moschel June 3, 1939, in Abilene. The couple lived in Sweetwater before moving to Big Spring in 1950. He was a member and deacon at Phillips Memorial Baptist Church.

A former truck driver for Steere Truck Line Co., he was awarded the national "Truck Driver of the Year" award in 1961. He also had worked for Gulf Oil Co. for 16 years, as the company's terminal manager in Big Spring.

Survivors include his wife of the home; three daughters, Jackie Rupard of Sand Springs, Dawn Powell of Coahoma and Janice Hyden of Big Spring; two sons, Wayne and Darwin, both of Big Spring; two sisters, Annie Ward of Sweetwater and Effie Pierce of Diablo, Calif.; eight grandchildren; a great-grandson; and numerous nieces and nephews.

Palbearers will be Wayne Burchett, Charles Rupard, Terry Haggerton, Jimmy Haggerton, Orville Griffith and Sterling Whitefield.

No retrial, Berkowitz says

NEW YORK (AP) — David Berkowitz has asked his attorney "to remove my appeal for a new trial on the grounds of insanity" in connection with the "Son of Sam" slayings.

The 25-year-old Berkowitz, who pleaded guilty to six killings that terrorized the city in 1977, insisted he "made up the story about (being possessed by) the demons." He said he is of sound mind and wants "nothing except to be left alone and to spend the rest of my life in prison." The request that the appeal be dropped was made on a notarized sheet of Attica Correctional Facility stationery dated Jan. 5.

Two in custody by FBI

NEW YORK (AP) — The FBI, with two men already in custody, pressed its search for four other men and the haul from the largest cash holdup in U.S. history — the robbery of a Lufthansa cargo terminal at Kennedy airport.

The New York Times reported today that investigators believe one of the four missing men has been murdered.

An estimated $5 million was taken in the Dec. 11 holdup, along with jewels worth about $800,000. Arrested late Saturday on robbery charges was Angelo John Sepe, 37, of Queens. Peter Gruenwald, 39, of Levittown, Long Island, was later taken into custody as a material witness, the FBI said. Gruenwald, a cargo traffic division worker for Lufthansa, was in a position to know when valuable shipments came through the terminal, authorities said.

Mormons establish 1,000th

NAUVOO, Ill. (AP) — The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has established its 1,000th stake, which is comparable to a diocese.

More than 1,000 Mormons gathered as Ezra Taft Benson, president of the church's Quorum of 12 Apostles and former U.S. secretary of agriculture, formally organized the Nauvoo Stake in this Mississippi River community, once headquarters for the church. Nauvoo was founded by the Mormons and served as the church's headquarters from 1839 to 1846. During the period, Nauvoo was the state's second largest city, trailing only Chicago. Under Brigham Young's direction, the Mormons left in 1846 and eventually wound up in Salt Lake City.

KKK pickets TV station

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Some 20 robed members of the Ku Klux Klan picketed station WAAY-TV to protest the showing of the ABC series "Roots: The Next Generation."

The grand dragon of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Don Black of Birmingham, on Sunday called the program, "a real slap in the face for white Americans everywhere, because our people are being defamed and degraded and put down everywhere by anti-white groups."

The sequel to Alex Haley's award-winning 1977 production "Roots" traces the lives of his ancestors from their freedom from slavery to his discovery of his family roots in Africa. Black said the Klan would demand equal time to present an opposing view of race relations.

Runnels band members to play at McCamey

McCamey High School will be the scene of a concert presented by the All Region Junior High School Band at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

The 88-piece band will include 37 members of the Runnels Junior High Band who qualified in tryouts Feb. 17.

The flute section will include Holly Parham, Bobby Newell, Susan Smith, Mary Lin Spencer and Pauline Sundin.

Runnels additions to the clarinet section are Robin Bronaugh, Stacy Wood, Carla Mavnard, Lisa Paredes, Lisa Smith and Alicia Ramirez.

Playing bass clarinets will be Beth Smith, Tracy Claxton and April Waters.

Alto saxophone players will include Scott Ringner, Valerie Subia, Reginald Dawson and Junior Garcia.

Jay Purser, first chair, and Tony Shortes will play tenor saxophone and David White will be on baritone.

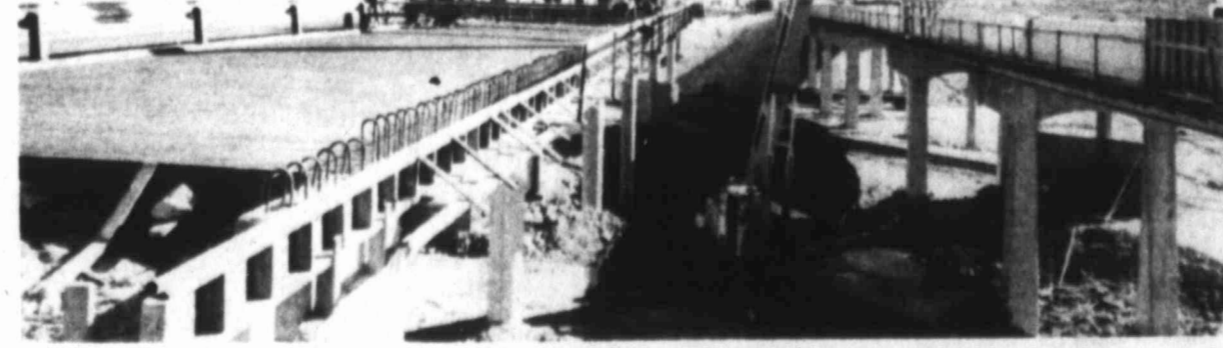

The concert section includes Keat Wilkins, Alena Pyles, Thomas Nelson, Randy Easterling, Tony Franco and Robert Gonzales.

Barbara Moore will play french horn.

Trombone players will include Sanjay Rao, first chair, Les Kinman, Patricia Wood and Camilo Ramirez.

New additions to the tuba section are Delbert Green, first chair, and Kelly Rogers.

The percussion section includes Mark Collier, first chair, Rory Worthan and Alana Merrick.

WORK ADVANCING — Construction work on a bridge, located west of Big Spring on IS-20 is progressing, and finally seems to be nearing completion. Both sides of the highway at that point have been open on only one lane for several months.

Who needs Bob Lanier?

By the Associated Press
Who needs Bob Lanier? Coach Dick Vitale says the Detroit Pistons do, but you'd never know it from their last three outings.
Lanier, Detroit's 6-foot-11 center, has missed the last four games but the Pistons have won three in a row, including Sunday's 124-104 rout of the National Basketball Association's Central Division-leading San Antonio Spurs.
The fifth-place Pistons aren't picking on weak sisters, either. Their other two victories came against Denver and Houston, a couple of second-place teams.
Elsewhere, the Washington Bullets defeated the Seattle SuperSonics 105-94, the Philadelphia 76ers shaded the Milwaukee Bucks 110-107 in overtime, the Kansas City Kings crushed the Chicago Bulls 130-107, the

New Jersey Nets nipped the Houston Rockets 126-124 in overtime, the Denver Nuggets edged the New Orleans Jazz 115-112, the San Diego Clippers trounced the Atlanta Hawks 116-101, the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Indiana Pacers 122-111 and the Portland Trail Blazers turned back the Boston Celtics 111-104.
Bullets 105, SuperSonics 94
Elvin Hayes scored 33 points as the Bullets beat Seattle for the first time in three meetings. Washington reeled off 12 straight points midway through the third period to take a 72-59 lead.
76ers 110, Bucks 107
Bobby Jones sank a layup with 11 seconds left in overtime to nail down the victory after Philadelphia rallied from 14 points behind. Steve Mix put Philly on top to stay 106-105 with a pair of free throws.

Kings 130, Bulls 107
Otis Birdsong scored 31 points and Scott Wedman added 22 as Kansas City frittered away most of a 16-point lead and then closed with a rush.
Nets 126, Rockets 124
John Williamson scored 41 points and Eddie Jordan added 19, six of them in overtime, while Bernard King came off the bench to score 11 of his 14 points in the final 2:19 of regulation play. Williamson's basket with 19 seconds left was the clincher.
Nuggets 115, Jazz 112
David Thompson scored 31 points but Denver needed four free throws in the last seven seconds to overcome New Orleans and hand the Jazz their 30th loss in 33 road games.
Clippers 116, Hawks 101
Lloyd Free scored 26 points and Randy Smith added 21 for hot-shooting San Diego, which made 64 percent of its shots in the first half compared to 41 percent for Atlanta.
Lakers 122, Pacers 111
Rookie Ron Carter scored all of his 14 points in the fourth quarter to help Los Angeles hold off a late Indiana rally, although Jamaal Wilkes led the Lakers with 28 points.

BLIND BLOCK — Milwaukee Bucks' Ernie Grunfeld reaches behind his back to block a pass by Sixers' Al Skinner (30) in the first half of Sunday's NBA game in Philadelphia. Sixers won in overtime, 110-107.

College basketball-gambling on the rise

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
College basketball is booming again — on a spinning high reminiscent of the heady post-World War II years before the gambling scandals of 1951 and the early 1960s punctured the balloon.
Madison Square Garden, under the astute showman Sonny Werblin, is resurrecting — slowly but methodically — the doubleheader format created by Ned Irish. Competition is intense. Fan interest is spiraling. Gambling is flourishing. Money changers are in the temple.

Is the dark spectre of the 1950s and 1960s riding again? Bobby Knight, coach of 1976 NCAA champion Indiana University, is worried and outraged.
"There's too much easy money," Knight warned recently. "There are savvy characters around. I don't think coaches are concerned enough. We could be headed for what happened in the 1950s."

He called attention to the plethora of gambling sheets and point spreads on the market and added: "Every time I see a point spread in a newspaper, it offends me."
Coach Digger Phelps, whose Notre Dame team played in the Garden last Thursday night, acknowledged there always was a threat of outside influences, but said he did not feel endangered.
"Possibly it's because of the type of athlete we get at Notre Dame," he said. "Ninety-nine percent of them go on to get their degree. However, as a safety measure we have the FBI come in periodically and warn the players of the perils and consequences."

Phelps, who coached at Fordham before going to Notre Dame in 1971, said he would like to see New York regain its position as "the mecca of basketball."
Clair Bee, now 83, once a coaching institution at Long Island University, looked back on those old days and said he was certain the gambling scandals never would be repeated.

"Certainly not on the same scale," said the venerable master who compiled an 82 percent winning record.
"The players are different today — more aware and mature. The coaches are more careful. In my day, we were all innocents. The scandal hit us like a thunderbolt."
In 1951, 33 players from national champion CNY and six other schools were caught up in the "fix" scandals. A decade later, 47 players from 27 colleges were snared in a high stakes bribery web that shattered careers and sent several offenders to jail.

"Most of the kids were street kids, out of the ghetto," Bee said. "Many didn't have money to get to school. You can imagine how easy it was to tempt them. They didn't have to lose the games, just beat the spread. It didn't seem all that wrong to them at the time."

Longhorn victory could ruin Hogs' chances

By the Associated Press
The Texas Longhorns can make the pre-season forecasters right good Tuesday night in the wrap-up of the Southwest Conference regular season basketball championship.
Coach Abe Lemons' crew was the runaway choice to take the title because the Longhorns returned four starters from their National Invitational Tournament (NIT) championship team. However, the Longhorns got away to a stumbling start before regaining their 1978 magic.

Lemons pushed the right buttons and now Texas is 13-2 and just one game away from undisputed possession of a hard-earned title.
Texas travels to Dallas Tuesday night to meet

Southern Methodist and a victory would keep Arkansas away from any chance at a title.
Arkansas is 12-3 and must take the perilous trip to Lubbock to meet the Red Raiders the same evening.
Both Texas and Arkansas have earned byes to the semifinals of the SWC post-season tournament at The Summit in Houston.

The Texas Aggies who are 10-5, can gain the third spot and a bye to the quarterfinals with a victory over Rice Tuesday night in College Station.
Texas had to share the championship with Arkansas last year but wants the whole thing now.
"I'm tired of sharing it (the SWC championship) with the Hogs," said Texas

Coach Abe Lemons after the Longhorns nipped Texas Tech 63-56 in overtime Saturday.
In other games, Baylor clinched at least a fifth position in the standings by beating Rice 70-69 and Arkansas sewed up second place with a 78-58 victory over the University of Houston.
As it stands now, the first round of the tournament Feb. 24 looks like this:

Texas Tech would host Texas Christian (1-13), Baylor (8-7) would host Rice (4-11) and Houston (6-10) would host SMU (4-10). Of course there is still some place with a 78-58 victory over the University of Houston.
As it stands now, the first

TWO AGAINST ONE — Bobbie Allison holds the foot of Cale Yarborough (R) as brother Donnie (L) uses his helmet as a club in their effort to down the Timmonsville, SC driver. Donnie had been leading the Daytona 500 in the last lap when he collided with Yarborough, thus ending his chances of a win.

Aging racer wins Daytona 500

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — As he headed into the final lap of the Daytona 500, slumping Richard Petty was thinking about third place, something of a morale victory for the aging stock car racing king.
But the fiery tempers of Cale Yarborough and Donnie Allison ignited into a battle that took both off the track — and cleared the way for Petty to roar to his sixth victory in the $600,000 classic Sunday.
It was Petty's first victory since the Firecracker 400 at Daytona International Speedway in July 1977. It wasn't one that he expected.
"When I saw the yellow flag, I called back on the radio to ask (crew Chief Dale Inman) who was in the wreck," Petty said.
He heard brother Maurice Petty yelling "Go, Go, Go!"
"I came around turn three and saw No. 1 (Allison) and No. 11 (Yarborough) sitting on the infield and here I am leading the race," Petty said.

As Yarborough and Allison, who banged into each other in their battle for first place and smashed themselves out of the race, began fighting, Petty held off second-place finisher Darrell Waltrip and third place A.J. Foyt for a memorable — if not entirely satisfying — victory.
Petty, advised by his doctor to lay off racing for three months after a December ulcer operation, raised his career winnings to $3,180,596 with the $73,500 first-place prize.
Petty began 13th after a mediocre week here, but as the cars circled the damp track under a caution flag for the first 15 laps, his Oldsmobile's performance gave him growing confidence.

Pole winner and favorite Buddy Baker was dogged by engine problems from the beginning, and finally had to stop after 38 laps. The early departure of Baker, who qualified at 196.049 miles per hour, probably helped the other drivers keep from overtaking their engines.
Petty won with an average speed of 143.977 mph. Seven caution flags totaling 57 laps slowed the race. Defending champion David Pearson was among five drivers forced out on the 53rd lap after a mass tangle-up on the fourth turn.
The periodic caution flags resulted in long drafts that didn't finally break up until the last 45 miles. Waltrip pulled into the lead, then made the last of his 18 pit stops on the 175th lap, setting up the Allison-Yarborough battle.

When their last-lap dogfight and fistfight were finished, the two exchanged charges.
Yarborough, who said that Donnie's brother, Bobby Allison, slowed down to block him, claimed Donnie then knocked him into the grass.
"That's the worst thing I've ever seen in racing. I had the race won, no ifs, ands or buts," Yarborough fumed.
Both Allison denied the plot described by Yarborough. Donnie said Yarborough came up off the grass to knock him into the wall.
Donnie Allison finished fourth. Yarborough was fifth and rookie Tighe Scott, who overshot his pit on his last stop, wound up sixth.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, FEB. 20, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are eager to get off to new scenes, new working materials, new personalities and new surroundings, but first study carefully all aspects of such courses of action. Hasty decisions could result in wasted time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are apt not to appreciate others or new outlets only because you know little about them, so study into them. One who is overly talkative and loud should be avoided, however.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get at those responsibilities early and they are soon behind you. Show more consideration for a loved one. Come to a better understanding and be happier in the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Partners are of great help now so be cooperative and grateful. A community affair requires much study before you delve into it.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Complete unfinished projects efficiently, conscientiously. Take little rest periods from time to time and rebuild energies.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan what should be done to take some burdens off your shoulders. Give more time and thought to a talent you have that can pay off handsomely.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study reports and statements and clear up any possible errors. Be especially careful in the handling of transportation matters.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Reach a better understanding with friends by meeting their expectations and vice versa. Entertain a friend who needs cheering up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan how to add to present abundance to meet future unexpected expenses. Avoid a gossip who wastes your time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You understand how to get all of your interests improved and come to a better understanding with close ties. Entertain but stay within your budget.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Look into the motivations behind the activities of others and forget the practical for the time being. Cement better relations with one who has power over your affairs.

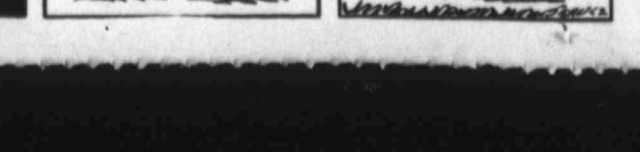

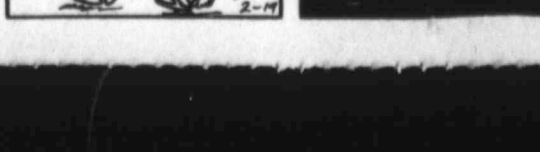

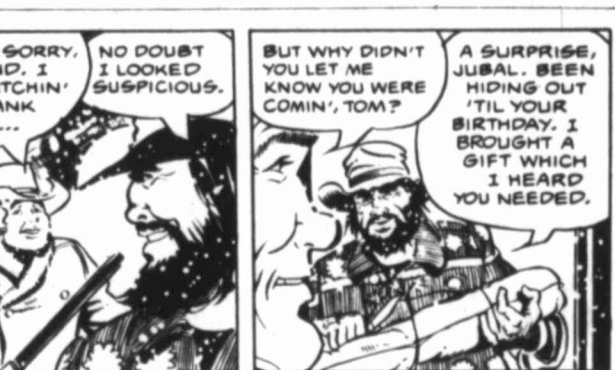

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You want to see many persons today, but be sure you use tact and be only with those you can trust. Avoid the social in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get into community matters that will improve your position in life. Find better ways to get ahead in your career. Make the evening a happy one at home.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have much ability at dealing with persons who are far away. Teach early to work so that the habit will be formed. Gentle types of sports are best here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

One in seven catches common cold Most, least serious disease

By KEVIN MCKEAN
 AP Science Writer
 NEW YORK (AP) — It is both the most and least serious disease.
 One American in seven catches it every winter week but none die from it.
 We spend more than $843 million a year for remedies though there is no cure.
 It causes a quarter of all school days lost and a tenth of all work days lost. But research into its causes has declined in recent years.
 It also is one of the few diseases that can be spread by a handshake but perhaps not by a kiss.
 The disease? It's the common cold, an ailment that has the average adult sneezing, sniffing and coughing at least twice a year — and the average child five times a year.
 Scientists have been able for two decades to isolate and grow some of the viruses which cause the cold but its cure remains elusive.
 The cold begins with a runny nose and cough or sore throat. There may also be chills, headache, muscle aches or just an all-in feeling. It ends about a week later with congestion in the head.
 It is an ailment often maligned by association. We loosely call a "cold" anything that produces cold-like symptoms.
 But a "cold" can be caused by over 200 strains of virus, of which only about 130 are strains of rhinovirus or coronavirus, the main cold viruses. Other viruses that sometimes masquerade as colds include those that cause flu, pneumonia and bronchitis.
 Colds are potent medical enemies because:

 —There are so many cold-causing viruses that it is impossible — so far — to find a vaccine to protect against the major strains.
 —Scientists can identify the virus culprit in only about one-half of colds, raising the possibility of many undiscovered strains.
 —The natural immunity acquired from a cold protects only against that strain of virus. It doesn't protect against other strains and lasts only two years, so it's possible to get one cold after another.
 —Since the virus lives inside cells, it is hard to kill the virus without killing cells.
 "Because of the problems, cold viruses have become a low priority in terms of research funding," says Dr. Arnold S. Monto of the University of Michigan School of Public Health.
 Monto and his colleagues have studied respiratory infections in the small town of Tecumseh, Mich., since 1965.
 Among their findings: children appear to be the main "reservoir" for colds. "If there were no children, colds wouldn't disappear but there would be fewer of them," Monto says.
 Doctors have long suspected it was virus-swapping at the beginning of school that caused colds to peak in late September every year.
 Monto says the age at which children get the most colds has declined from age 5, where it stood 20 years ago, to age 3, probably because kids are going off to day care centers earlier.
 This could be a dangerous a cold victim — even when the kiss lasted longer than a minute.

 Researchers plan more tests to see whether viruses spread by hand contact under natural conditions and not just in the lab.
 In one test, Gwaltney will ask mothers of young children to use a virus-killing lotion on their hands. If the mothers get fewer colds, it will prove hand contact is an important route of infection.
 Other researchers believe the virus-stopping substance interferon, which is also under investigation as an anti-cancer drug, may one day help prevent colds.
 Dr. Thomas Merigan of Stanford showed six years ago that a nose spray containing interferon blocked cold infections. Doctors hope a nose spray or hand lotion could be used by high-risk people during cold and flu epidemics.
 Unfortunately, interferon is still too rare to be used on colds. The substance is distilled from white blood cells and the world's supply would fit in a few milk bottles.
 But genetic engineering may make it cheaper. Says Merigan, "Who would have thought during the early work on penicillin that it would ever be used for ear infections?"
 Researchers are working on drugs such as amantadine, propanediamine, inosiplex and others that either protect against colds or decrease their severity.
 Several drugs show promise but none has yet produced startling results.

Mexico always got attention from U.S.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says the United States has always paid attention to Mexico — even before rich deposits of oil were found south of the border.
 But the Texas Democrat, who accompanied President Carter on his recent mission to Mexico City, senses that some Mexican officials and newsmen think the United States wants to take advantage of Mexico's energy potential.
 "The Mexican press played it that now all of a sudden they're paying attention to us. But I think we've always paid attention to Mexico," Bentsen said before speaking to a local shrimpers group here Saturday night.
 The senator said some Mexicans seemed suspicious of Carter's motive. Those suspicions led to the lukewarm reception for the president in the Mexican capital, he said.
 "The previous presidential trips were looked on as Kennedy and Johnson coming down there to do something for them. They were concerned Carter was coming down to do something to them, because all of a sudden they had all this natural gas and oil. So they met him with considerable reserve and coolness," Bentsen said.
 He added, however, that the meeting eventually "thawed" and became cordial and productive.
 Bentsen said he is convinced that the oil and natural gas will lead to a rise in the quality of life for Mexico's millions of poor people.
 "But it's not going to happen overnight. Oil won't solve all their problems. But it will help if wisely used," he said.
 The senator also said he believes Mexican President Jose Lopez-Portillo "is determined not to make the mistakes of Venezuela and the Middle East with its sudden oil reserves."

Determining finance charge not easy Where, how you borrow counts

Where you borrow and the way the interest is figured can sometimes be as important as what you borrow when it comes to figuring out how much interest you will pay.
 Determining finance charges isn't easy. Even banks can make mistakes. The office of the comptroller of the currency recently announced that hundreds of banks made errors in calculating the annual percentage rate on loans and will have to give refunds to borrowers.
 The Truth in Lending Law, enacted in 1969 and now under review, requires lenders to tell you two things: the finance charge and the annual percentage rate.
 The finance charge is the total dollar amount you pay to use someone else's money. It includes interest and other fees, such as service charges or insurance premiums. Suppose, for example, you borrow $100. The interest is $7 and the basic service fee is $1. The finance charge is $8.
 The annual percentage rate — sometimes called the APR — is the relative cost of credit on a yearly basis. Take that $100 with an $8 finance charge. If you borrow the money today, keep it for an entire year and then repay it, the APR is 8 percent.
 Most loans, however, are paid off in installments. Suppose you repay the $108 in 12 monthly installments of $9 each. As time goes by, you get to use less and less of the $100. The average amount of money you owe during the course of the year is less than $100; the annual percentage rate, therefore, is higher than 8 percent.
 If you use open-end or revolving credit like bank charge cards, you should learn whether the creditor calculates interest on the adjusted balance, the previous balance or the average daily balance. The amount of interest you pay can vary, even if the rate is the same.
 Here's how it works: Assume you have an outstanding balance of $400 on an account with a monthly interest charge of 1 1/2 percent. (That's the maximum allowed by law in most places.) You make a $300 payment on the 15th day of a 30-day billing period.
 If the creditor uses the previous balance method, you will be charged interest on the entire $400. The one-month interest charge will be $6.
 If the creditor uses the adjusted balance method, you will be charged interest only on what is left after the payment — $100. The one-month interest charge will be $1.50.
 If the creditor uses the average daily balance method, you will be charged on the average amount outstanding. Since you owed $400 for 15 days and $100 for 15 days, your average daily balance was $250. At 1 1/2 percent, that's a one-month interest charge of $3.75.

Grain sorghum fuel?

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — A plant scientist at Texas A&M University has developed a grain sorghum that he claims stands a good chance of feeding and fueling much of the world.

own fuel," says Dr. Frederick Miller. Miller labels grain sorghum as perhaps one of the most energy-efficient crops for use in survival of man, and specifically the most energy-sufficient species on which man can draw.

"Calories for human food and livestock and poultry feed, fiber for clothing materials and the leaves and stalks for processing alcohol into fuel."

The use of gas processes from plant residue will become economically feasible once gasoline reaches $1 per gallon, he says.

Winter storm strikes East from both sides

Winter blasted the East with both barrels today, sending a storm sweeping in from the frozen Midwest and another howling up the coast from the South, which was stunned by up to 17 inches of snow.

Charlestown and ice and snow covered the golf courses of Myrtle Beach and Hilton Head Island.

Grain sorghum's multi-uses have been limited primarily to livestock feed and to by-products such as glue for postage stamps.

Plant scientists began improving grain sorghum in the 1920s. The late R.E. Karper at the Agricultural Experiment Station in Lubbock foresaw the possibilities of the grain on the South Plains of Texas.

At least 13 weather-related deaths were reported in six states, including six persons who froze to death in what is on record in some places as the coldest winter of the century.

In Atlanta, four inches of snow sent residents to the streets on seldom-used skis or to street corners to yell encouragement to drivers trying to negotiate slippery hills.

Senate split on Taiwan security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has yet to act on legislation implementing President Carter's China policy although the final pieces of the new relationship with Peking and Taipei are scheduled to fall into place by March 1.

Relations Committee is widely split on the issue of U.S. security guarantees for Taiwan. Carter has indicated he would veto any legislation on Taiwan that jeopardizes the new ties with the mainland.

Seven of the deaths came in southern states ill-prepared for the storm that hit Sunday.

Weather service spokesmen said it was the coldest February ever in Detroit, with temperatures 16 degrees below normal, and the coldest in 84 years in Washington, D.C., where the mercury has climbed above freezing on only one day since Feb. 8.

Congressional sources, who asked not to be named, say the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is widely split on the issue of U.S. security guarantees for Taiwan.

Some knowledgeable source predicted there would be no quick resolution of the issue, which threatens to jeopardize temporarily trade with Taiwan and delay Senate confirmation of Leonard Woodcock as U.S. ambassador to Peking.

Both the House and Senate were turning to ceremony today with the traditional readings of George Washington's farewell address, in the Senate by Republican John Warner of Virginia, and in the House by Rep. James Courter, R-N.J.

Heavy snow was falling in New York City today, where 3-to-5 inches were predicted in the city's third snowstorm this month.

Temperature records tumbled throughout the Midwest and East this weekend. A sampling: 9 below in Youngstown, Ohio; 37 below in Traverse City, Mich.; 31 below in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; zero in New York City; 52 below in Old Forge, N.Y.; and 11 below in Erie, Pa., where police officer Harry Staszewski said, "You feel your nostrils tingling in this kind of weather."

Japan, European Common Market

Connally suggests 'get-tough policy'

ARCHBOLD, Ohio (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John B. Connally has suggested that the U.S. adopt a get-tough economic policy toward Japan and the European Common Market.

Connally, who is seeking the 1980 Republican presidential nomination, told those attending a Lincoln Day dinner Saturday that imports of goods from those nations should be strictly limited until their restrictions on American agricultural products are lifted.

Connally, a wealthy Texas attorney and rancher, told the crowd in rural northwest Ohio that he does not endorse price supports for farmers equaling 100 percent of parity, which is what the American Agricultural Movement is lobbying for in Washington.

Yemen, Angola and Ethiopia should not be condoned, and added that he would stop pursuing an arms limitation agreement until those troops are withdrawn.

Connally said inflation is obviously the most troublesome issue of the day. He said he would support a constitutional amendment that would force the government to balance the budget, but he added that he would hesitate to call for state constitutional conventions to deal with the proposal.

there's going to be more of them over there."

But he commended farmers who paraded their tractors to the nation's capital for their courage. He said his plan to open foreign markets to all American agricultural goods, not just those selected by foreign governments, would satisfy the needs of American agriculture.

Connally also suggested the U.S. should get tough toward Soviet aggression, which he said is threatening to grab control of 50 percent of the world's oil supply by controlling the entrances to the Red Sea and eventually the Mediterranean.

RICHARD BURTON SOPHIA LOREN

Sophia Loren aided Burton

NEW YORK (AP) — Sophia Loren says she played "psychiatrist, comforter and ego-masseur" to Richard Burton during his estrangement from Elizabeth Taylor.

Burton stayed in Rome with the Italian film star and her husband, film director Carlo Ponti, during the summer of 1973, Miss Loren said in an article in the March issue of McCall's magazine.

At the time, Burton was on a program "to cure his drinking habit" prior to filming "The Voyage," in which he and Miss Loren would star, she said. Miss Loren later came to Rome and Burton had "high hopes of reconciliation," but "all of us, except Richard, could see it was going to end," said Miss Loren.

During that "sad period" in Burton's life, she compared him to a Shakespearean king, "once grand, who is broken upon the wheel of preordained tragedy."

Reagan losing support?

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Ronald Reagan will win the 1980 GOP presidential nomination but he's losing some support to other hopefuls, says Sen. Barry Goldwater, a 1964 presidential candidate.

Goldwater said three of Reagan's former Arizona delegates have been lost to GOP presidential candidate Rep. Phil Crane of Illinois and he predicts Rep. Jack Kemp of New York and George Bush also will pull delegates at the party's national convention.

"Everywhere I go people say they like Reagan," Goldwater added. "But they ask, 'Isn't there somebody else?'"

Roommates to share stage

ATLANTA (AP) — "Where the hell is Plains?" Robert Ormsby demanded as he confronted his new roommate in the fall of 1942.

Jimmy just lifted his head and grinned that typical grin of his and said, "near Albany," he said. "He sort of put me in my place."

For three months, Ormsby, now president of Lockheed-Georgia, and Jimmy Carter shared a room as freshmen at Georgia Tech.

On Tuesday, they'll share a stage when Tech presents Carter an honorary degree. Carter completed one year at the school before going on to the Naval Academy.

"We got along very well," Ormsby said. "But I had already pledged with a fraternity that fall, and I spent most of my time with my friends over there. Jimmy had his own friends."

Government should serve

By Bill Albright

Executive Vice President, Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce Industrial Growth and Development

At this point we are well into the 96th United States Congressional session and the 66th Legislative session of the great State of Texas.

Therefore I believe it's appropriate to sound a periodic warning. This warning is based on recent developments, proposed legislation and such bad examples as are readily available to serve as red flags or danger signals. I will be drawing on some previously discussed points and writings which I have assembled and synthesized over the past few months.

I continue to feel a deep concern for the well being of our country and an ominous apprehension over the legislative detentions that establish road blocks to the preservation of our American Way!

SHOP THE BIG SPRING AREA FIRST It is my strong conviction that the major detriments to preserving our great system of economic growth are:

1. Deficit spending which feeds and nourishes our greatest threat — Inflation.

2. Excessive governmental regulation and control. Thus it is with an extreme sense of urgency that we must analyze and assess each measure both legislated and directed which will only add to the already overwhelming burden caused by federal spending and federal control.

Americans deserve less government and consequently deserve a reduced expense to maintain the non-essential elements of that government.

We are entitled to the basic freedom, known as "FREEDOM OF ENTERPRISE."

is evident that Big Government augmented by the well entrenched Big Bureaucracy and fueled by Big Apathy is on a course to put business, both Big and Small out of Business. Each year it becomes more difficult for business to operate and to make a profit. The example of Britain, Australia and Canada should serve as contemporary warnings that "it can happen to us."

Actually it is happening! Of course what I'm speaking of is the inflation that threatens all of us. And the next stop on this trip is socialism.

TAX REFORM — A permanent tax reduction is desirable. And any tax credit action that will stimulate business in the private sector is just what we need right now. But a reduction of taxes and increased social security in the face of an increased budget that continues in the "red" seems to be just what the "doctor didn't order!"

WELFARE REFORM — Welfare continues to take the spotlight as the "crime against civilization." It is responsible to a large degree for the unhealthy economic crisis that we are experiencing in the United States today. It has pre-empted the work ethic that helped to make our country the economic leader of the world. It is easier to receive (welfare) than to give (honest work).

LEGISLATIVE INFLATION — While the President hopes to control inflation by "voluntary" guidelines in the percentage of wage and price increases in 1979, the legislation enacted in 1978 is expected to increase inflation by a proportionate amount. It would appear that executive and legislative actions could provide more of a balance.

Lets look at some of the excessive federal controls.

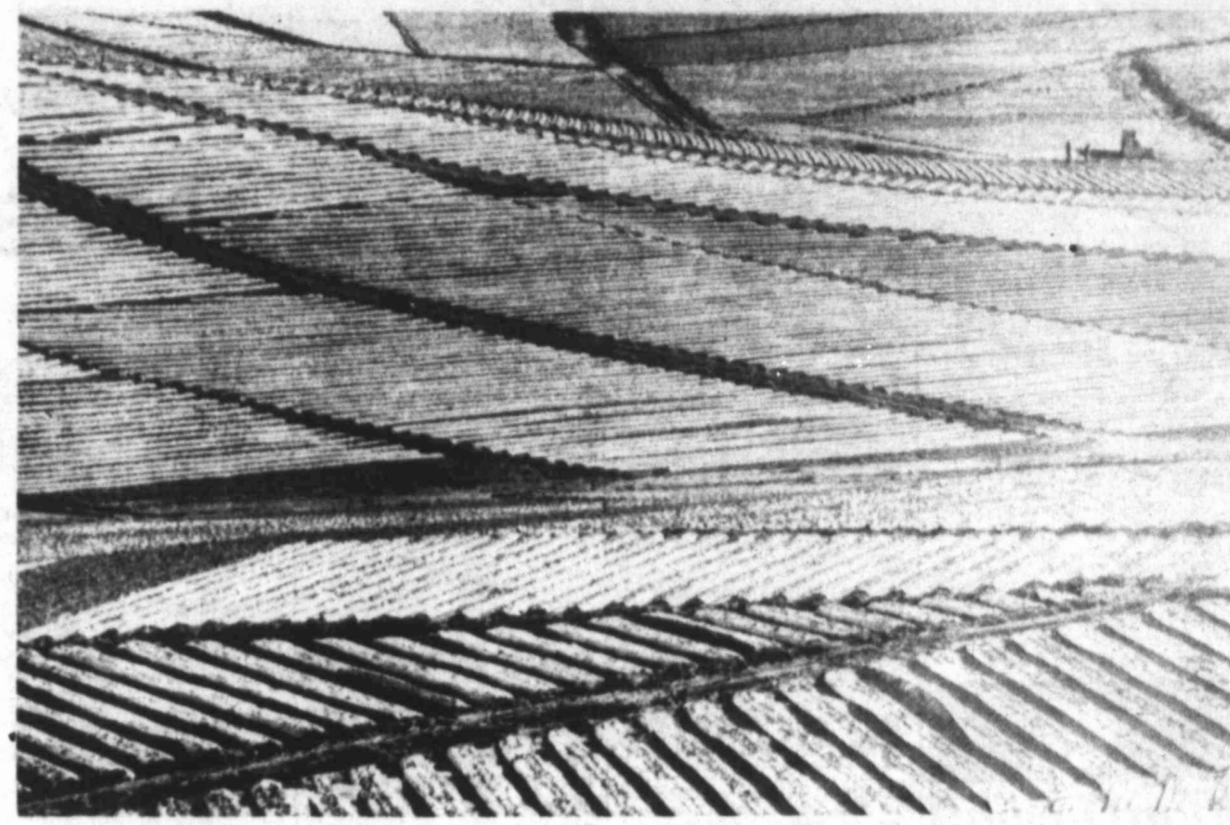

Normally the Congress provides fair and just legislation to guide our country. Interpretation and administration of those laws often deviate from the originally intended purpose. Administering agencies should be encouraged and admonished by the law makers to show a greater degree of common sense.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY — Strict enforcement of the ban on new construction in non-attainment areas is a serious blow to the creation of new jobs throughout the United States. What is needed here is a reasonable approach to protecting environment and permitting productivity and jobs to exist.

PAPER WORK — Government paper work still ranks high on the list of troublesome problems created by excessive government regulation, generally, the smaller the business, the greater the problem because there are less people to do the administration required by government.

WAGE AND PRICE CONTROLS — Time after time, history has proven the fallacy of a regulated market. A free economy can not survive such controls. Federal deregulation in the case of current controls and a strong program to protect the free market system is essential to the quality of life that we now experience and that we plan for our future.

And here are some other vital issues. It is unjust for the American people to be required to subsidize a strike of any kind. FOOD STAMPS — are now a tool of certain Big Labor and in effect, one that is being used against the very people who supply the tax

PLASTIC PATTERN — Workers and their truck, upper right, are dwarfed by some of 1 1/2 million feet of plastic they helped place over 175 acres of strawberries near Salinas, Calif. Farm operators say the plastic protects the strawberry plants from mud and cold and keeps moisture in the ground until the April harvest.
