Observers soon to visit hostages

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said today international observers will see the American hostages in the occupied U.S. Embassy "in the very near future."

Meanwhile, the spiritual leader of the Azerbaijani Turks who are rebelling against government authority in the northwest, said in an interview today that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini would face civil war if he did not liberalize his policies toward Azerbaijan.

Today the dispute between Iran's two highest-ranking holy men intensified when Shariat-Madari, second most senior religious leader, said in an interview with Associated Press Correspondent Maureen Johnson at his home in the holy city of Qom, "If the executive makes mistakes again, the disturbances will continue in Azerbaijan, tension will increase, people will start to kill each other, civil war will take place."

"We are going to have independent international observers to go and visit the prisoners in, I hope, a very short time and afterwards I hope that visits will be (made) regularly," Ghotbzadeh told a news conference.

The news conference was for newspaper and magazine reporters, not wire services, but The Associated Press obtained a tape recording of the questions and answers.

"One visit certainly is agreed upon, and it will be done I hope in the very near future," Ghotbzadeh said. "I hope that visits will be regularly (allowed). I can't guarantee that now."

Among the international intermediaries in Tehran is Harold Schmidt Degrueneck of the International Red Cross, who saw 15 of the hostages earlier in the five-week-old siege.

U.N. emissary Zuhair Yamin arrived in Tehran Monday and Sri Lankan Foreign Minister Shalun Hameed, who already has acted as an intermediary, is reportedly back in Tehran.

Ghotbzadeh said attempts were being made by Iranian officials to assemble an international grand jury as soon as possible to investigate

Iran's grievances, including crimes charged against the deposed shah.

Meanwhile, the official Pars news agency reported today that a revolutionary guard was shot dead behind the embassy last Sunday morning and said the "martyred" guard was buried in his home town in the Sennan central province. Pars said only that the man was killed by "an unknown person" during a change of guard.

ABC News reported the Carter administration had "signaled" that if the hostages were not released within seven to 10 days, the United States would launch an economic campaign to bring down Iranian strongman Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. But a spokesman for the State Department's task force on Iran denied the report.

Khomeini on Monday defied the United States to blockade Villanad made a personal attack on President Carter as the outcome of the rebellion in northwest Iran against his authority remained uncertain.

"America should remove Carter from its political scene," the religious leader of the Iranian revolution asserted in a speech to Moslem students at his headquarters in Qom.

"He was a bad president for America. He disgraced America in the world. He mobilized Moslems against America... The nation of America should know that they should not vote for Carter because Carter has betrayed America."

Khomeini also accused "American spies" of fomenting the rebellion, now in its sixth day, by the Azari Turks, the largest of Iran's ethnic minorities, in Tabriz, the capital of the northwestern province of Azerbaijan and Iran's third largest city.

Angered by mob attacks on the Qom home of their spiritual leader Ayatollah Mohammad Shariat-Madari and by the failure of Khomeini's new Islamic constitution to grant them autonomy, the Turks seized control of Tabriz last Thursday and battled government troops and revolutionary guards through the weekend for control of the local radio station and other government buildings.

Khomeini's forces regained control of the radio station Monday and broadcast government programs and pro-Khomeini slogans. Tehran Radio said a "group of armed people" tried to attack the station but were repulsed and 72 were arrested. Reporters in Tabriz said rival groups demonstrated in the city but they saw no attack on the station.

Khomeini sent a peace delegation to Tabriz headed by Finance Minister Abolhassan Bani Sadr, but leaders of the the Turks' Moslem People's Party, refused to meet with them. The party's three-story headquarters was filled with armed men. Machine guns were mounted on the roof and some balconies, and a party official said they were prepared for an attack.

The Turks reported nine of the their men killed and 60 wounded in the rebellion so far.

'Hoods' will cover Gregg traffic lights

By JAMES WERRELL

The Big Spring City Council, during today's regular meeting, voted to eliminate several traffic lights on Gregg Street on a trial basis.

No changes of traffic signals will be made until after Jan. 1, said City Manager Don Davis, in order that Christmas traffic not be disrupted. At the beginning of the year, however, 'hoods' will be placed on lights at Gregg intersections of North Third, North Fourth and Fifth, South Second, Fifth, 15th, 18th and Edward Streets.

The Big Spring Traffic Commission had recommended a more limited covering of lights, but city staff members urged that all seven lights be covered.

"This is all based on recommendations from the State Department of Highways, and I think we should go all the way with it. This is strictly on a trial basis, and if it doesn't work out, we can go back to the previous arrangement," said Davis.

Stop signs will be erected at each of the affected intersections to help control traffic flow. Despite these precautions, Councilman Larry Miller urged the plan.

"I think we'll end up with the world's biggest drag strip on Gregg. We'll also probably have to erect rest areas at those intersections because it will take all day to get across the street," he said.

When the motion to adopt the proposal was made, the rest of the council favored it while Miller voted "nay."

In another move that will affect traffic flow in the city, council members voted to make several changes in the zone near College Heights and Goliad Schools. All but two student crossing areas, those at

STUDENT CAPTOR SPEAKS — A person identified only as "Mary", one of the students holding hostages inside the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, speaks from the embassy in Tehran during an NBC interview with Marine Corporal

Billy Gallegos, left. Gallegos said during the interview that he and the 49 other hostages were being treated well by their captors.

19th and Goliad and 20th and Goliad, will be eliminated.

Stripes at those two intersections will be repainted, and student crossing areas along the west side of Goliad will be designated with new stripes. Flashing lights at both ends of the school zone will be modified to draw more attention from drivers, and all parking along the east side of Goliad will be eliminated.

As a further measure, the city will consider hiring adult guards to supervise the two crossing areas in front of the schools.

"These measures also were all recommended by the traffic study done here in 1978," said Davis.

Following a closed-session discussion, the council appointed four new members to city boards and committees. Edna Womack was named to replace Bob Hurt, retiring chairman of the Structural Standards Board. Billy Mac Sheppard, present member, will serve as new chairman, while Mrs. Womack will serve as vice-chairman.

Jim Bill Little was named as the new city representative to the Colorado River Municipal Water District Board, replacing the retiring Ken Perry. Bill Brooks and Sid Smith were appointed to the Board of Adjustment and Appeals.

Appointment of 80 members to the newly formed Capital Improvements Program Committee was tabled until a later date.

The council decided against implementing a personal property tax on Big Spring automobiles during the 1980 fiscal year.

"We took a look at several cities that had tried such a program, and they have all ceased to use it," said Davis. "We learned that there are untold numbers of complications with such a program. For one thing, we don't know how many cars there are in the city, and since there are about 1,000 transfers of cars a month, it would be very difficult to implement this tax."

The council concurred, and voted unanimously against the plan.

After hearing a presentation by Daryl Pittman, district manager of the Pioneer Natural Gas Company, the council failed to come up with a motion to cover use of natural gas for decorative outdoor lighting.

The council has been asked to consider the first reading of a resolution prohibiting the general use of natural gas for decorative outdoor lighting for commercial and industrial purposes. According to Pittman, the regulation was formulated nationally, passed onto state officials for regulation, and, in turn, recommended to city officials for regulation on a local level.

"I resent the fact that the federal government can shove this on us without any proper guidelines or fines included. This is just a first step, and I think we should stop it right now," said Councilman Ralph McLaughlin.

When the time came to make a motion on some sort of plan for the prohibition, the council remained silent, and the resolution died.

In other business, council members:

—Agreed to award Marguerite Cooper $234.22, the full amount requested, for damages incurred when a police car collided with her vehicle.

—Awarded a bid for city janitorial services to Diaz Janitorial Service, low bidder with an estimate of $500 a month.

—Passed a second and final reading of resolutions authorizing Mayor Wade Choate to accept terms of release of the gas distribution system at the Big Spring Airport and to transfer that system to Pioneer Natural Gas Company.

—Approved minutes of a regular meeting and a special work session of the Big Spring City Council.

Following regular business, the council heard a report from Bill Hall, director of Housing and Community Development for the city, regarding local efforts in taking a census report in 1980. According to Hall, a special Complete Court Committee will be appointed among local business, clergy and labor organizations.

"The job of the committee will be primarily to coordinate public relations and answer questions regarding census taking. Although the census is scheduled to be completed April 1, the committee will remain together from December through June 30 to clean up any loose ends," explained Hall.

Poerner cancels Big Spring talk

John H. Poerner, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, has had to cancel a 2:30 p.m. press conference set for today at the Chamber of Commerce due to bad weather.

Poerner was to be in Big Spring today as the guest speaker for the noon Rotary Club luncheon at Howard College.

School trustees convene Thursday

The board of trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District will convene for a regular session at 5:15 p.m., Thursday in the board room at the high school.

Among other items, the trustees will consider an oil evaluation contract with the firm of Pritchard and Abbott, formally accept a donation for capital improvements to Blankenship Field and consider an appointment to fill a vacancy on the board created by the resignation of Bob West.

A progress report on the collection of taxes, including delinquent accounts, will be given.

Supt. of Schools Lynn Hise will offer an attendance report and make a statement on the budget.

Retiring director of DPS

disappointed with successor

ABILENE — In a press conference held here Monday, Col. Wilson Speir, who is retiring Dec. 31 as director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said he was disappointed that Jim Adams had been chosen as his successor.

Speir said he would have preferred that Leo E. Gossett had been chosen to succeed him. Gossett is assistant director of the DPS and has seniority with the department dating back to 1958.

Speir questioned Adams' ability to administer an agency with which he is not familiar.

Adams, who appeared at a one-day seminar for police officers in Big Spring recently, was an associate director of the FBI and executive director of Gov. Bill Clements' criminal division when he was appointed to the DPS post Nov. 2.

Speir also said the DPS needs higher, more competitive salaries and more money for operations. He said DPS salaries have to be elevated in order to recruit and train troopers.

City manager insists

No major problems in police department

City Manager Don Davis announced today that "there are no problems of major consequence in the Big Spring Police Department."

Davis had made this same pronouncement during a closed session with the city council this morning. Following that session, Davis went public with the news.

"I have examined the status of the Police Department situation, and findings within the last couple of weeks show me that no problems of major consequence exist in the department. There are no criminal activities or corruption going on there, and I believe we have a fine police department," said the city manager.

Davis did state, however, that some problems still exist within the department. These, he said, are "procedural in nature."

The city manager also gave his full support to Police Chief Stanley Bogard: "The Chief is the administrative head of that department, and he has 100 percent of my support. His attitude is very positive, and I believe that the department will soon get back on the right track."

Had Davis ever considered firing Bogard?

"Yes, I did," he said. "At one point I had considered the removal of Chief Bogard, but decided that this was not the answer to the problem. I think it is imperative that we squelch this rumor (of Bogard's imminent departure). We are not witch hunting, and he has my complete support," he added.

Davis has met several times with not only Bogard, but also members of all shifts at the department to try to determine where problems with morale might lie. He found that the problem may rest in two areas of the department operation: lack of communication and enforcement of departmental procedures.

"There seems to be a lack of communication between divisions and between subordinates and their supervisors," said Davis. "As far as procedures are concerned, some of the men believe that rules and regulations may not be enforced fairly."

In order to correct this situation, the city staff will review all aspects of department operations. This will include possible revision of procedures of booking, handling evidence and confiscated property and logging and filing records, said the city manager.

Appeals will be made directly to the force's "rank-and-file" for suggestions in improving procedures at the department, he added.

"I want to stress that we are very positive about the Police Department now. I am satisfied that it is a good, clean, energetic force, that is concerned about doing its job," concluded Davis.

WRITING A CHRISTMAS LIST IS SURE COMPLICATED, AND THERE ARE ONLY 11 DAYS LEFT!

Christmas cards to hostages proposal pushed by Stenholm

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Rep. Charles W. Stenholm (D-Texas) has urged the American people to "mail a Christmas card to hostage American citizens in Iran during the holiday season as an indication of our concern and support."

Stenholm introduced a concurrent resolution before Congress Monday asking that "the American people immediately send Christmas cards to the hostages as an indication of our concern for their welfare and our support for the government of the United States as it seeks to secure their release."

Sheppard elected president of West Texas GOP Women's Club

Dene Sheppard heads up the 1980 slate of officers for the West Texas Republican Women's Club.

She was unanimously elected president when the nominating committee presented their slate of officers during a recent meeting at the La Posada Restaurant.

Also nominated and unanimously elected were Polly Mays as vice president, Hazel Lawrence as secretary, and Ethelyn McCann as treasurer.

The West Texas

Republican Women's Club met at the La Posada Restaurant. Joyce Green, president, presided. The Rev. Bill Henning offered the invocation. Lucy Knox, vice president introduced the Rev. Bill Henning who assured the group that even though there is unrest throughout the world, God is with us.

The group viewed a slide presentation of the Big Spring delegation's trip to the state convention in Austin. Mrs. Mays provided the slides.

"The cost of a Christmas card and the approximate 62 cents for postage is a small price for us to pay to indicate to the Iranian government the unity and resolve of our people," Stenholm said.

"In a situation like this, particularly one which has lasted so long, it is frustrating because everyone wants to do 'something' to help, but as individuals, it seems that here is little we can do," he said, explaining the purpose of the resolution.

"While the State Department has given us little assurance that the cards would ever actually be delivered to the hostages, we can hope. Of course, more than anything else, we hope that the hostages have been released before the cards are even mailed.

"But if they are not, delivery of the cards to the American Embassy in Iran will be a strong indication to the Iranian government of our support."

In his resolution, Stenholm said both the Iranian government and the students illegally holding the hostages "do not believe the government of the United States currently enjoys the support of the American people in its dealings..."

"I can't think of a better Christmas present for the Ayatollah Khomeini than an avalanche of cards being sent to our embassy people," he concluded.

The Christmas cards should be addressed:

March of Dimes group undergoes changes

The Caprock Chapter-March of Dimes, headquartered in Big Spring, is currently undergoing innovative changes, in attempts to become a more vital asset to the community.

The March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation leads volunteers to work throughout the community in the areas of medical assistance, public health education, professional health education and grants and community services. All of these areas, of course, demand financial support in order to be implemented. Thus much of the local volunteers' time is spent in fund-raising efforts as well.

The March of Dimes Campaign for Big Spring will be kicked off in January with the annual Mothers' March Against Birth Defects. This door-to-door campaign will also serve an educational function. This year a survey for each home regarding teenaged pregnancy will be undertaken.

Teen pregnancies are at epidemic proportions nationally, and the West Texas area has a greater amount than even the national average. Teens have an extremely high incidence of birth defects connected with these pregnancies.

SNB deposits top $50 million

Deposits at the State National Bank here have passed the $50 million for the first time in history.

In a statement of condition issued at the close of business Nov. 26, deposits were reported at $50,555,679.54.

The bank, which has been serving the Big Spring community for 70 years, moved into its new quarters at Ninth and Main Streets earlier this year.

The SNB deposits represent a gain of over $4 million since the third quarter drew to a close Sept. 30. They serve again to reflect the healthy economy of the Big Spring area and likely benefit, at least in part, from Howard County's bountiful cotton crop.

John Currie is president of the banking institution.

The local board of directors for the Caprock Chapter is in need of manpower. "I have a lot of faith that the folks of Big Spring will hear our plea for help and turn out," proclaimed Jerry Reid, manager of Big Spring's Western Kawasaki Dealership and one of our most outstanding local volunteers.

Persons interested in serving on the Caprock Chapter board of directors, or helping with even one of our many projects, can contact D'Ann Reid, Staff Advisor, at (806) 747-4411 in Lubbock (call collect), or attend the next meeting at K-Bob's Steak House, 12 noon, Monday, Dec. 17.

Police beat Auto, jacks missing

Police are looking for a red and white 1975 Oldsmobile Cutlass reportedly stolen Tuesday night.

The vehicle, owned by Danny Rivas, Chief Apartments no. 24, is valued at $2,500.

Western Glass and Mirror, 909 S. Johnson, reported Monday that during the weekend, between 5 p.m. Friday and 8:30 a.m. Saturday, unknown subjects shot three large windows out of the business, apparently using a BB gun. Damages were set at $1,137.

Bennie McChristian, 3800 McChristian Road, has notified police that 12 or 13 scaffold jacks have disappeared from a house under construction on E. 24th. The jacks were taken sometime during the last two weeks. Their total value was determined to be $480.

An unknown instrument was used by an unknown subject to break into a locked car parked downtown Monday afternoon. Mark Stephens, Gail Rt., Box 42A, left his car parked near the Ritz Theatre around 1 p.m. When he returned at 5:30 p.m., a $200 watch had been removed from the front seat.

Two shoplifting attempts have been reported to police. A female was apprehended after attempting to remove a candle, valued at $4.99, from Furr's Supermarket, 900 11th Place, 8:30 a.m. today.

Also today, a clerk at the 7-11 Store, FM 700 and Birdwell, observed a small girl, accompanied by an unknown male subject remove an article, thought to be a camera film, from the store.

Three minor traffic accidents were reported Monday. All occurred in the morning.

At Big Spring State Hospital

Christmas celebrations special

The celebration of Christmas at Big Spring State Hospital is a time of sharing and giving by people from throughout the area. These people come bringing gifts, food, fellowship and song, providing activities for the patients in the form of parties, concerts, carols and Christmas gifts.

The season began Nov. 27 when the F.W. Woolworth's store remained open for the patients to do their Christmas shopping. Mike Ambrose, store manager, and his staff continued an 18-year-old tradition by inviting the patients to the store and serving them coffee and donuts while they were shopping. The Volunteer Services Council provided money for patients without funds from donations received from volunteers.

December is always highlighted by Christmas parties and Christmas programs. Unit parties were held Dec. 11 and Dec. 13 with each unit being given a party with sandwiches, cookies, cakes, fruit and punch, all provided by volunteer groups. Each party had live entertainment for the patients' dancing and listening enjoyment. Groups helping with parties this year were: Beta Sigma Phi-Mu Zeta, Key Club, Tri-Hi-Y, Midland Volunteer Auxiliary, Wesley United Methodist Women, Baptist Temple W.M.U., Kiwanis Club, Elks Auxiliary, Eagles & Auxiliary, Rotary Club, Greater Big Spring Rotary Club, Downtown Lions Club, Centerpoint Extension Homemakers Club, Lamesa Circuit Riders, Colorado City Circuit Riders, Ackerly Circuit Riders, Stanton

Additional activities planned include a dance in the Auditorium on the night of Dec. 18 hosted by the Odessa VFW Post 4372 and another hospital-wide dance scheduled for Dec. 20 by a group of volunteers representing the Big Spring Federal Minimum Security Camp.

A door decorating contest was judged Dec. 10 which had each unit competing for cash prizes. Judges were: Don Davis, Big Spring City Manager; Janet Rogers, County Extension Agent;

Former detective McCain recovering from heart attack

Former Detective Capt. Jim McCain, 41, is resting comfortably today in Malone-Hogan Hospital's Intensive Care Unit, according to the nursing staff.

McCain, who resigned last week from the police department after nearly 15 years service, had just returned home from a fishing trip when he suffered a heart attack at his home, 1:30 p.m. Sunday. He was rushed to the hospital's emergency room by Shaffer Ambulance.

"He has had a heart attack," a hospital spokeswoman confirmed today. "He is more comfortable today than he has been."

McCain experienced a bad day Monday, she said, but had a restful night. His condition is fair.

175 attend breakfast

Approximately 175 persons attended the Chamber of Commerce monthly breakfast this morning.

To everyone's surprise, Santa Claus made an appearance and gave gingerbread houses to Nadine Teague, Quail Dobbins and Mr. and Mrs. Al Valdes.

The breakfast, sponsored by the Big Spring Board of Realtors, was held at Howard College.

Music was provided by Runnels Junior High School German Band directed by Bill Bradley and accompanied by Harlen Thornton. Nita Tarbet led the group in singing "Silent Night" using sign language.

Digest

Automatic belts coming

DETROIT (AP) — Automatic seatbelts will be standard equipment on most full-size 1982 General Motors cars, with the controversial air bag available as an extra-cost option, the automaker says.

Buyers of full-size models with three-passenger front seats will be required to buy the bags, GM spokesman Don Postma said Monday.

Current government regulations require passive restraints in full-size 1982 models, extending to all models by 1984.

The bags will add about $600 to the cost of producing a car, and the automatic belts, which go around a passenger when he gets inside the car, will add about $100, according to GM. The cost to the buyer of a 1982 model is not yet known.

Christmas links tricky

ATLANTA (AP) — Christmas sausage, a traditional gift among European immigrants, is a major cause of trichinosis, a disease attributed to improperly cooked meat, the national Center for Disease Control says.

"These ethnic groups buy large amounts of sausage, which usually is cold smoked, and they give it to family members and friends at Christmas," Dr. Peter Schantz of the CDC's division of parasitic diseases, said last week.

Movie sets records

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" has set a box-office record, Paramount Pictures executives say.

A studio spokesman said the movie grossed $11,815,203 at 859 theaters in the first three days it was shown. The previous record was credited to "Superman," with a three-day total last year of $10,363,384 in about the same number of theaters.

Early reviews of "Star Trek," however, have been less than stellar. Time Magazine flatly panned the picture, and reviews in both the Los Angeles Times and Herald Examiner were critical of the $42 million film.

Snowmobiles are faulty

MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — Owners of about 6,000 John Deere snowmobiles are being notified that the vehicles may have faulty steering mechanisms, a company spokesman says.

Ray Brune, Deere spokesman, said Monday that letters have been sent to customers notifying them that the small part of the steering linkage must be replaced on four 1980 models — the Liquifire, Sportfire and both sizes of the Trailfire.

Most of the snowmobiles have been sold in the Midwest.

Former Big Springer negotiating oil venture

A San Antonio firm headed by Kyle McAlister, a former Big Spring resident, and former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali are negotiating a worldwide oil venture that would insure a supply of oil from Third World countries.

The venture was discussed recently when Ali met with McAlister, president of Questor Petroleum Corp., 6243 NM-1-10, San Antonio.

Kyle McAlister is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. McAlister. Kyle's father is a former Howard College instructor who later founded Gamco Industries here.

McAlister added Ali would use his influence with the Third World countries to insure the success of the deal.

Ali recently made headlines around the world by offering to take the place of the U.S. embassy delegation kidnapped by self-styled Iranian students in Tehran. The students, who demanded that the Shah be turned over to them in exchange for the American citizens being retained at the embassy, never dignified Ali's offer by replying to it.

Revenue sharing amendment adds $38,000 to road, bridge funds

By EILEEN MCGUIRE

An amendment made by the Howard County Commissioners Court Monday to the revenue sharing budget added $38,000 to the county's road and bridge fund, resulting in a total $85,233 allotted for those expenditures.

The amendment added a total of $48,484.23 in cash to the budget, providing $10,000 for a new vehicle for the County Agent in addition to the road and bridge increase. The total revenue sharing budget was increased to $217,096.23.

The amendment was unanimously passed by the commissioners court at the end of a called meeting Tuesday afternoon. Business not taken care of during the regular morning meeting was also attended to and included the opening of bids for new county equipment.

During the morning session, the commissioners opened bids for the purchase of two pickup trucks for the county. The sole bidder was Bob Brock Ford, represented by fleet salesman Del Worthan, who proposed to make the two trucks available for $8,064.41 each with trade-ins.

The commissioners altered their original specifications for the trucks to include overdrive at an additional estimated $150 in order to save some three to five miles per gallon of gasoline.

Bids on a dump truck that the county intends to sell were dismissed due to a misunderstanding over what the sale included. The truck will be sold as one complete unit and new bids will be opened Jan. 11, with the bid awarded Jan. 14.

Bidding on the sale of a dump bed to Howard County was attended to in the afternoon meeting. Four bids were opened, two of which, the lowest bids, varied by only about $125. After some deliberation, the court chose to accept the lowest bid —

$3,118.75 from Western Trailer Equipment in San Angelo.

Though the other low bidder, Hobbs Trailer of Odessa, has received most of the county's business in the past, County Commissioner David Barr observed "If we can save the taxpayers $125, then I think we should."

Barr withdrew his motion to award the contract to Western Trailer and Louis Brown withdrew his motion to second it, however, after the court discovered that the trailer failed to meet size specifications that had been presented to the companies.

The bid was then awarded to Hobbs Trailer.

Chances for gas tax very slim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders are telling the White House that chances of enacting a suggested 50-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax range from slim to nonexistent.

Top administration economic officials, in a closed-door meeting Monday with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, reportedly listed the tax as one of the options the president has under serious consideration as he prepares his 1980 agenda, sources said.

Administration economic officials see the tax as a way of forcing conservation of gasoline by making the fuel much more expensive at the pump.

But O'Neill, according to a participant at the meeting who declined to be identified, immediately threw cold water on the idea, telling the officials there was "little enthusiasm for a gas tax" on Capitol Hill.

Other sources said White House officials got much the same signal in a recent meeting with Senate Energy Committee Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and other Senate leaders.

O'Neill reportedly told the administration officials he didn't see much support in the House for either a 50-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax or a strengthened gas-rationing plan also being considered by the administration.

Rationing and the gas tax, according to the sources, were two of many items discussed at Monday's session with O'Neill, Treasury Secretary G. William Miller, White House domestic adviser Stuart E. Eizenstat and Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

At the meeting, the administration officials outlined a series of energy and economic proposals Carter is considering for possible inclusion in his 1980 budget and in his State of the Union address, the sources said.

"We made no commitments," Miller told reporters after the meeting. Miller and the other officials declined to publicly discuss details of what went on at the session with O'Neill.

But one source said the administration officials "laid out all the options and asked for advice."

O'Neill voiced particular pessimism about prospects for a gasoline tax passing — especially in light of the rejection of a similar tax proposal by the House in 1977, the same source said.

Carter submitted a proposed 50-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax to Congress in 1977 as part of his "moral equivalent of war" energy program.

Texas Panhandle has threat of snow

A cold front moved into the Texas Panhandle early today, bringing with it gusty winds, much colder temperatures and the threat of occasional snow flurries.

The prospect of snow flurries appeared far away for the rest of Texas as dawn broke with temperatures mostly in the 60s, unseasonably warm readings 14 days before Christmas.

Forecasts called for the front to move southward today, bringing with it colder temperatures, gusty winds and clearing skies.

Highs were to range from the 40s in Northwest Texas to the low 80s in extreme South Texas.

Dense fog reduced visibility to near zero in the Beaumont area during the pre-dawn hours and fog was reported elsewhere along the Texas coast and in the Permian Basin. Some light rain and drizzle was reported in the Hill Country.

Early morning extremes ranged from 45 at Wink to 70 at Brownsville.

'Certainly cause for dismay'

Communications satellite lost

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Satcom III, a one-ton, $20 million RCA Corp. communications satellite, is lost in space after technicians fired an engine meant to send the craft into permanent orbit.

"We lost the satellite and haven't found it yet," said John Williamson, a spokesman for Americom, an RCA subsidiary, in New Jersey.

The television relay satellite disappeared from Americom's New Jersey tracking screens shortly after a kick motor switched on Monday afternoon, Williamson said.

"We don't know what happened to it," he said. "We hope it will come out OK. But there is certainly cause for dismay."

Williamson said if the satellite were to fall to earth, it would burn up in the atmosphere before reaching the ground.

search was being conducted by the agency's Worldwide Space Detection and Tracking system.

RCA also has asked NASA, Western Union, Comsat General Corp. and Telesat of Canada for help.

Williamson said the total cost of the mission was $50 million, including the space craft itself, insurance and launching costs.

Before the launch, RCA officials said they paid $5.3 million for a 90-day insurance policy on the mission. The satellite's 24 channels were to be leased for $800,000 a year to uninsured users and $1.2 million a year for insured users, officials said.

"For the protected user, we would have to go out and lease space from another satellite corporation if we failed," Americom president Andrew Inglis said at a briefing last week. There was no similar guarantee for uninsured users.

Sources close to the RCA project told the newspaper TODAY in Cocoa, Fla., "either it blew up or it's flying somewhere out in the universe." One source said the satellite probably blew up because it would have remained on tracking screens longer had it been propelled into outer space, the newspaper reported.

Satcom III was launched from Cape Canaveral Thursday night by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration under a contract with RCA. James Lacy, public information officer at a NASA tracking station in Maryland, said the craft went into a temporary looping orbit, and NASA tracked it for two hours before turning the job over to RCA.

The North American Air Defense Command in Colorado Springs joined in the search for the box-like satellite measuring about 5 feet by 4 feet by 4 feet. Capt. Mary Noeller, public information officer for NORAD, said the FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — John Y. Brown Jr., 45, took over the reins of Kentucky state government today, climaxing his meteoric nine-month rise to the top of state politics.

The multi-millionaire businessman became the state's 55th governor about 12:30 a.m. EST today when he was sworn in at private ceremonies at a Louisville residence by Chief Justice John Palmore of the Kentucky Supreme Court.

Shrine idea not a compliment to us

A book which recently hit the market, entitled "Ambush," deals with the violent life and death of Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker.

Authorized by the late Ted Hinton, who took part in the tracking and demise of the notorious pair, it focuses attention on mankind's strange fascination for deviation from the norm, for the flawed individual and for the problems they create for society.

(AFTER BARROW AND MS. PARKER had been cut down by the bullets of an ambush party of six on a lonely country road, people by the thousands, including some of the entertainment greats of the era, assembled at the mortuary which received their bodies to view their remains).

Comes now another example of man's strange attraction for the macabre. There reportedly is currently afoot a move in Dallas to create some sort of "shrine" in Dallas on the sixth floor of the building once known as the Texas School Book Depository. In case your memory is failing you, that is the spot from which Lee Harvey Oswald purportedly dispatched President John F. Kennedy a little more than 16 years ago.

At the present time, the building is owned by Dallas County and groups there are dead serious about restoring various scenes connected with the assassination story.

Plans include a display at the window from which Oswald was to have fired the shots, recreation of the second floor lunch room (where Oswald was alleged to have been seen sipping a soft drink moments after he had committed his act of violence) and the construction of a $500,000 elevator from the ground floor to the sixth floor so that the entranced spectators could travel directly to the scene without bothering county employees on other floors.

It would be bad enough if some individual operating on his own initiative was planning the project, motivated solely by the profit idea.

It is sad to learn that employees of Dallas County, however, are back of the plan and have discussed the idea of using tax money and a federal grant to bring it about.

There is nothing wrong with showing the proper reverence at The Kennedy gravesite and the eternal flame, and a monument in Dealey Plaza in Dallas is fitting enough.

What possible motive, however, could the Dallas Historical Commission have in opting for this ridiculous plan? Is it an attempt to rally pride in Dallas, or Texas? Is that what people around the world are going to remember most about Dallas?

Certainly no public good can be derived from such a plan. The money needed to promote such a venture could be put to far better use. What has happened to America's sense of values?

Once is enough Around the rim

Marie Homever

No way. There is absolutely no way. That was my first reaction when asked by colleague Don Woods to ride in an elephant race. But, before I knew it, he and James Werrell had conned me into agreeing to climb on top of one of those monstrous animals.

After I finally gave in, I was excited about riding in the race. When would I ever get the chance to ride an elephant again? Never, I told myself as I tried to rationalize my decision.

AS THE DAY wore on my enthusiasm grew until I could hardly wait for the event to take place. Even Nathan Poss, who at first was wary of the idea as I, was hepped up about it.

We arrived at the site of the relay race a few minutes early. But the few minutes dragged on as the elephants took their time in arriving. The more I had to wait, the more nervous I got. At that time I just wanted to get it over with. My enthusiasm was dwindling. And, as the elephants arrived and emerged from their trailer, my enthusiasm all but vanished.

Wow, those animals are BIG! I don't know if I want to do this or not. How could I let myself get talked into doing something like this. I've got to be crazy!

All these thoughts popped into my head shortly before the first relay began. It was a good thing that we were the challengers. We could watch the first contestants and "learn" from watching them.

At first I emphatically refused to be first. Then as I "learned" from watching, I decided it would be easier to go first. So, here I was volunteering to be the first aboard the mighty animal! It would be easier to get on the animal at my own leisure than to have to jump on it as the other member of my team was jumping off, I thought.

Yes, I would go first. As I crawled onto the animal, I was shaking so much I think if it hadn't been for all the people there you could have heard my teeth rattling.

AS I WAS waiting for the other contestants to get on their elephants, I clung tightly to the harness so as not to fall off. Then, horror of horrors, the animal decided it didn't want to stand in one place! It started moving about all over the place. Or, at least, that's the way it seemed to me way up in the air. I looked around for the trainer of my elephant and he wasn't even watching the elephant. Visions of the elephant running through the parking lot with me hanging on for dear life rushed through my head. "Why don't you look at your animal?!" I kept wanting to yell at him but didn't for fear of frightening the animal.

But, the others were ready and the race began. Oh, what a bumpy ride! It's twice as bad as riding a horse. I kept trying to "go with the elephant". But having nothing to brace myself with, I just had to take the bumps as they came. By the time I got to the other side and the elephant started slowing down, I lost my balance and almost slid off the animal. Screaming at the top of my lungs, I crawled off as the trainer was making the elephant kneel.

It was over! My muscles ached. But I was glad I had done it. I would always have wondered what it would have been like. Now, I know, so I will never have a reason to get on one again.

Expected Trouble

WASHINGTON — In the backrooms of Washington, everyone seemed to know that the shah was bad news. The State Department and Central Intelligence Agency advised against admitting him to the United States. It would probably incite militants in Iran, they warned, to storm the American Embassy and seize American hostages.

President Carter was aware of the warnings. In response to implorings that he admit the shah, Carter reportedly once asked his advisers ruefully: "When the Iranians take our people in Tehran hostage, what will you advise me then?" Nevertheless, he personally authorized the shah's entry.

SECRETARY OF State Cyrus Vance understood the danger. On July 26, he sent an urgent, "eyes-only" cable to Charges d'Affaires L. Bruce Laingen in Tehran.

"We are considering," the cable posed, "how to respond to the shah's continuing query to us through various channels regarding establishing residence in the United States. . . I would like to have your personal and private evaluation of the effect of such a move on the safety of Americans in Iran (especially the official Americans in the compound)."

Laingen warned that the shah's arrival in America could ignite anti-American actions, including probable reprisals against the embassy. Yet Vance advised the president to admit the shah on "humanitarian" grounds.

The shah's case was handled at the State Department by Undersecretary David Newsom. He probably understood better than anyone else in Washington the consequences of granting the shah a visa. He was privy to the many warnings and prognostications that the shah's presence in the United States would mean trouble.

Yet Newsom's only concern was how to minimize the impact of the shah's arrival. He would have preferred, for example, to bring the shah into the country next year — after the Iranian situation became more stable.

HENRY PRECHT, who heads the Iranian desk at the State Department, was in touch with developments in Iran on a daily basis. He knew that the political ingredients in Iran were highly combustible and, with the slightest spark, could explode in America's face.

Yet on Aug. 2, he sent the American Embassy a "Secret-Sensitive" planning paper on how to prepare "for the shah to come to the United States." The plan was to wait until Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini pushed through his new constitution and established a new government.

Then, the paper stated, "We should inform the new government that we wish to clear our decks of old issues on the agenda. One of those old issues will be the status of the shah. We could inform the government that we have resisted intense pressures to allow him to come to the U.S. because we did not wish to complicate (the ayatollah's) problems or our efforts to construct a new relationship."

"Now with the new government firmly established and accepted, it seems appropriate to admit the shah to the U.S. The new government may not like it but it is best to get the issue out of the way."

Proposed the State Department planners: "This discussion with the new (government) should take place after it is in place some two to three weeks and some few days before the shah would come here. In the meantime, we should begin to prepare the Iranians by telling them of the intense pressures for the shah to come here — pressures which we are resisting despite our traditional open-door policy."

"If there is no prospect for Iran to settle down, there may be an argument for going ahead and admitting the shah anyway to get that inevitable step behind us, but it will be necessary first to review how dangerous the situation is. In either of these scenarios we should aim for a positive change in our position on the shah by January, 1980."

Instead the shah, pleading medical need, arrived in October 1979. Sources close to the shah acknowledge that his ailments, though real enough, could have been treated elsewhere. The humanitarian appeal, in other words, was a ruse.

The compelling question is why? Why were our leaders so determined to admit the shah, contrary to the best interest of the United States? The usual justification is that they could not turn their back on a loyal ally and that they could not give the ayatollah a veto over who can enter the country. Poppycock. Their greater obligation was not to the shah but to the national interests. A day seldom passes that the United States doesn't bar undesirables whose presence would not be helpful.

The pressure to admit the shah came primarily from David Rockefeller and Henry Kissinger. Despite their disclaimers, they conducted a relentless campaign in Washington to grant the shah refuge. The respected foreign affairs specialist George Ball was correct in calling it "obnoxious pressure."

The Rockefeller-Kissinger alibi that they made only limited personal contacts is pure deception. They directed the campaign; they pulled the strings; they enlisted others to join in the pressure.

In previous columns, we have explained their motivation. They have multimillion-dollar financial ties to the shah.

WASHINGTON — All the Christmas catalogues are in now. Every year I choose the gift that will make the greatest contribution to Western civilization. This year's award goes to Sakowitz of Houston which advertised a swimming pool built in the shape of Texas and filled (I'm not making this up) with 30,867 gallons of Perrier water. The price tag is $127,174.32.

Little did I realize when I lived in Paris that someday Perrier, an innocuous soda water that comes from France, would become a status symbol in the same class with Dom Perignon Champagne and Chivas Regal Scotch.

AMERICANS are now drinking Perrier by the tank, and it's hard to believe — though I have no evidence to doubt it — that all the Perrier being consumed in the world comes from one underground spring.

While Perrier is a nice, tasteless bubbly drink, I think it would be very dangerous for the United States to become too dependent on it.

It is just like the French to get us hooked on their water and then threaten to pull the plug if we didn't go along with them on everything they asked for in the Common Market.

The threat to this country of a Perrier-less society has not been faced up to. People are guzzling it like there is no tomorrow, and the few scientists who have warned that we could exhaust all the Perrier water in the world by the year 2000 have been ignored.

Hans Freidrich, an expert in the bubbly water market, paints an even gloomier picture.

IN A PAPER JUST printed in the prestigious Bottled Water Journal "ZZZZZZZ," Freidrich said if Americans continued consuming Perrier at the present rate, the price of a six-ounce bottle now selling in a bar for $1.50 could rise to $5 for a regular glass and $6 with a piece of lime.

"This means," he wrote, "that the middle and lower income groups could be forced to drink domestic soda waters and, in some hardship cases, even tap water to supply their fluid needs."

Freidrich warns in his article that as more and more super-tankers are used to supply Perrier to soda guzzlers in America, there will eventually be an accident off the Atlantic Coast and, as he puts it, "We could see the largest soda water spill in history. No one knows what Perrier can do to a beach or wildlife when it mixes with salt water. A Perrier spill off the coast of a populous area could play havoc with the ecology of fishing grounds, and unless a method is found of bursting the bubbles before they hit the shore, people could be cleaning up their sands for years to come."

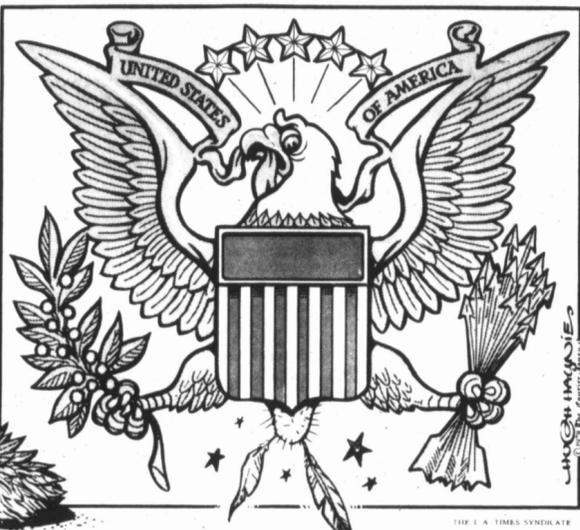

ALTHOUGH ADMITTING that there has to be a trade-off if the United States wishes to continue receiving supplies of Perrier from France, Freidrich believes Americans should concentrate on finding their own Perrier. He points out that at present prices it is at last economical to squeeze soda water out of shale rock. "A ton of shale rock," he says, "can now produce one six-pack of Perrier-like water. With the help of the government we could be free of France's stranglehold on us by 1989."

In the meantime, Freidrich advocates odd and even days for the drinking of Perrier and giving tax exemptions to U.S. bottled-water companies which are willing to use their profits to drill for a comparable substitute for the French water.

He cited the Sakowitz department store by name as an example of why the country will soon be faced with a Perrier crunch.

"Feathering one's nest is easy... if you're not bound by the silly rules of law and decency."

Chalazion like sties

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have spent a lot of money for treatment of chalazions. I have them on my eyelids (top and bottom) and have used all sorts of lotions and ointments. They have gone down in size but have not disappeared. I noticed them shortly after using soft contact lenses, so had to discontinue them. I'm sick spending money on expensive office calls and various prescriptions. Any suggestions? — S.W.

Chalazion (KA-LAY-zee-on) is inflammation of glands located on the eyeball-side of the eyelids (meibomian glands). They are like sties, and may, in fact, begin with a stye, which is a bacterial infection. The glands are swollen, but not tender. Often a cause cannot be determined, but certainly contact lenses can be the irritant for some people.

Repeated formation of these bothersome swellings requires use of antibacterial ointments regularly along with daily eyewashing. Medical message of the lids helps empty the glands. The ultimate treatment is incision of the chalazion and scraping out of the contents. Both the massage and the scraping are done by an eye doctor.

The danger of chalazion is a pressing of the hardened lump (that's what chalazion means in Greek) against the cornea, irritating it.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please explain what is done in a hemorrhoid operation? I've heard it is very painful. What makes it so painful? What are the procedures? — Mrs. J.S.

There are many ways to remove hemorrhoids (dilated or varicose rectal veins).

I can't speak from personal experience, but I'm told that most patients don't find the operation so terribly painful. No one can guarantee painlessness, however. As my predecessor, Dr. Thosteson, once commented in this column, it is never a "strawberry social."

Whatever the procedure, the idea is to remove the dilated sections. Afterwards, the underlying skin is sutured. That's it.

Procedures vary according to the extent of the hemorrhoid problem and according to whether they are internal or external. You will find a more complete discussion of hemorrhoids and what is done for them in the booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids." For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Recently, I had X-rays taken and they showed an aneurysm of the aorta. I was told this requires surgery, but an explanation of the condition was not too clear for me. Could you say something about this? — F.B.

An aneurysm (AN-you-rism) is a bulge in any blood vessel.

The aorta is the largest artery in the body. It does heavy duty work continuously so it can develop such a bulge. The bulge makes the artery susceptible to bleeding, and if one bursts a very serious condition arises.

The need for surgery is determined by the size and location of the aneurysm. Although that may sound terrifying, such operations are performed daily with good success. The bulging portion of the aorta is removed and a graft is used to replace it. Surgeons have remarkable ways of keeping your body supplied with blood during the actual repair work. Think of it as putting a patch on an inner tube.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can a person have too much B-12 in their system? How long can vitamins be stored? — H.K.J.

The minimum daily requirement for B-12 is an extremely small amount, about 2.5 millionths of a

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have just been dismissed from the job I had held for many years. Now I wonder if life is worth living any longer. Do you have any answers to this? — O.S.

DEAR O.S.: I know this is a difficult time for you. God has given us the ability and the desire to work and be useful; when a person loses his job it is natural for him to feel that he is no longer of any usefulness. But it need not be this way. God can use this time in your life to bring a new dimension to you.

Yes, life is worth living, whether you have a job or not. In God's eyes you are precious, and He loves you. I know you may wonder about that right now; you may feel like saying, "If God loves me, why doesn't He give me a new job?" We may not always understand why God permits some things to happen to us, but I can assure that He has not abandoned you. "God has said, 'Never will I leave you; never will I forsake you.'" (Hebrews 13:5).

Your letter suggests that your work

There is enough B-12 in the system at any given time to last from three to six years if all outside sources are cut off. Once the required amount is received any further B-12 intake is eliminated in the urine. I have never heard of any trouble from too much B-12.

How long vitamins can be kept in a bottle depends on how they are manufactured. Expiration dates should be on the bottle. They should be stored, as should all medicine, in a dry cool place. The traditional bathroom medicine cabinet may not be the best place to store medicine. Too much dampness.

What can vitamins really do for you — and what can't they do? In his new booklet, Dr. Paul Donohue separates the common sense from the nonsense about this controversial health aid. For your copy of "Vitamins: Facts You Need to Know," send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Unless properly treated, both glaucoma and cataracts can lead to blindness. If you are afflicted with either of these ailments, or know someone who is, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for his booklet, "Cataracts and Glaucoma." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

has meant much to you — perhaps too much. Your letter also suggests that you have never given much thought to God, and perhaps have been too busy to think about Him very much. Wouldn't it be wonderful if you used this time to discover God and give your life to Him? There is no greater subject to which you can give your attention than the question of your relationship to God.

God loves you and wants you to be His child. If you come to understand that, you will see that life is worth living because God has a purpose for every one of us. He wants you to get to know Him. He also has something for you to do. Pray that He will show you the way He wants you to go. Life can be an adventure every day if we commit our lives to Him and look to Him each day for direction.

Whether or not you find another job remains to be seen. But I hope that if you do you will never again let your job be the center of your life. Let Christ come in and be the center, and you will learn the joy of being a child of God.

Hunger-strikers get taste of local sentiment

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Iranian students who have launched a hunger strike on the steps of City Hall are getting a taste of local sentiment on the Iranian crisis, often in the form of obscene comments from passersby.

The five San Antonio College students began the hunger strike Monday to protest the presence of the deposed shah at nearby Lackland Air Force Base.

Spokesman Mohsen Towliat said they also are protesting the city's refusal to issue a parade permit for a rally that had been planned for last Friday near Lackland.

Several persons who walked past the SAC students stopped just long enough to fling an obscenity or two at the protestors.

"Someone ought to shoot those SOB's," said one man.

A woman in a car stopped and made a common obscene gesture at the students.

Police officers kept a wary eye on the situation.

The students merely sat silently with their anti-shah signs and a poster of new Iranian ruler Ayatollah Khomeini. They took a prayer break at 1 p.m., chanting and bowing to the East in Islamic tradition.

Towliat, 22, said, "This (the hunger strike) is the only way we can express our opinion of what is going on. We'll do it as long as we can survive."

As the students dodged insults and intermittent raindrops, the former monarch spent a quiet ninth day at Lackland. He is secluded at the base for an indefinite stay while American diplomats try to find him a home.

During the early hours of the hunger strike, one white-haired woman stopped on the stairs to challenge Towliat and the others.

"Do you think if I was in Iran they would allow me to sit on the steps of your city hall and do what you're doing?" asked the unidentified woman.

"Yes," responded Towliat. "No," the woman fired back. "An American would be killed for doing what you're doing. That's the kind of country your country is under that ruler (Khomeini)."

The five students are missing classes in order to pursue the protest. Associate Dean Earl Wright said the students could face expulsion if they miss classes for three weeks. If expelled, their visas could be canceled.

The hunger strike is one of the few Iran-related protests to develop since the shah's Dec. 2 arrival. Air Force officials installed extra security precautions for the weekend, when Lackland and nearby Kelly Air Force Base are almost deserted.

HUNGER STRIKERS TAKE PRAYER BREAK — Mohsen Towliat leads the chanting as these Iranian students from San Antonio College bow towards Mecca during a prayer break in the first day of their hunger strike on the steps of San Antonio's city hall Monday.

Japan to continue oil imports from Iran

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira said today that Japan might consider restricting oil imports from Iran if the U.S.-Iranian crisis worsens, "but at the present time we are not considering this possibility."

"For the present time, Japan must make every effort to secure the oil imports that it needs," the prime minister told reporters.

"The United States has taken a severe stance toward Iran because of the hostage issue. But the crisis between Iran and the United States is in a proper sense not an oil problem."

Ohira was responding to criticism from a spokesman for Secretary of State Cyrus Vance who said Monday that Japanese oil companies and banks were undercutting the economic pressure the U.S. government is putting on Iran to try to force Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to free the 50 Americans held hostage in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since Oct. 4.

Vance, visiting major U.S. allies in Europe to ask their cooperation, talked with Japanese Foreign Minister Subaru Okita in Paris. A high-ranking official accompanying Vance criticized the Japanese purchase in the spot market of Iranian oil diverted from the United States and the help Japanese bankers gave Iran in easing the effect of the Carter administration's freeze on Iranian assets in American banks.

"As long as there is evidence like that provided by the Japanese, those guys in Tehran have got to believe we are all words and no meaning," said the official, who refused to be quoted by name.

Before Ohira commented, an official of the Japanese Foreign Ministry said the expanded purchases of spot oil for as much as $40 a barrel was "regrettable" and his government was stepping up efforts to curtail the purchases.

"We are asking trading companies to refrain from buying on the high-priced spot market, but there is no way we can end all purchases of spot market oil from Iran because of this nation's energy needs," he said.

"We understand why the Americans, worked up over the hostage issue, become angry when Japanese buy Iranian oil, and we are doing everything to improve the situation."

Machines open to determine official victor

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Election officials in 64 parishes begin opening voting machines today to see if Republican Dave Treen is the official winner of the run-off election for governor.

An unofficial tally by the secretary of state's office on Monday gave Treen an edge of 10,385 votes over Democrat Louis Lambert, 690,888 to 680,503.

Despite a loss of 7,000 votes in earlier unofficial counts, Treen said he was "cautiously optimistic" that he would be the winner of Saturday's election. He would be the first Republican governor of Louisiana in 102 years.

Lambert has not conceded defeat. In a statement issued by an aide, Lambert said he was awaiting the official vote count with confidence that it would be fair. But his aide would not rule out the possibility of a challenge to the results.

Republicans obtained a District Court order that election totals on the state's 6,400 voting machines cannot be cleared until the official count. The machines were put under police guard.

For every way to use electricity in the kitchen, there's a way to use it more efficiently.

Keeping your heating and cooling costs down are the biggest ways to save electricity, but there are lots of little ways, too.

Your kitchen is a good place to start. Here are a few ways to save.

Use flat-bottomed pans. The flatter the pan the better its contact with the cooking unit. A tight-fitting lid on your pan will reduce cooking time.

Use less water. By cooking vegetables with the least amount of water possible, you'll improve their appearance and nutritive value, and you'll save electricity.

Reduce cooking time. Thaw meats before cooking them. This will save cooking time and energy.

Make efficient use of your oven's heat by cooking several foods at the same time.

Use your oven timer and keep the oven door closed. Opening the door unnecessarily causes heat loss and extended cooking time.

Get our free booklet, "Tips To Help You Use Electricity More Efficiently Throughout Your Home." Copies are available in our office or you can request one on the comment portion of your electric service bill.

Dennis Kucinich

Mayor's life threatened

CLEVELAND (AP) — Former Mayor Dennis J. Kucinich was to be the target of an assassination plot, according to a Cleveland television station report quoting a convicted killer who said he was approached about the killing.

WKYC-TV on Monday quoted an unidentified man as saying he had been contacted by organized crime figures about killing Kucinich in October 1977, but was arrested in another case before he could plan the slaying.

In the report, the man, who is in the federal protective custody program for witnesses, said he would tell only police who offered him the job.

No attempts on Kucinich's life were ever reported, but Edwin Nagorski, Cleveland's acting police chief, told the station that police had indications in the fall of 1978 "that there would be a professional attempt on the mayor's life...and we started taking immediate steps to ensure that could not happen."

The television station quoted the man as saying the reason for the plot was: "We can't buy Kucinich, that is what I was told. He was cut from a different cloth."

Kucinich, elected mayor in November 1977, was defeated last month in his bid for reelection.

Minnelli in hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Liza Minnelli, recently married to long-time beau Mark Gero, was rushed to New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, the New York Daily News reported today.

Sources close to the singer-actress, who is two months pregnant, said she was in danger of losing her baby, the News said.

"She has been having trouble for more than a week," a source told the newspaper. "Over the weekend, the pains became intolerable and she was rushed to the hospital."

The hospital reported her condition as satisfactory.

She was listed in the maternity section under the name of her manager, Deanna Wenble, who said Miss Minnelli went in for a checkup. "It has nothing to do with her pregnancy."

Bell advises Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Griffin Bell, former attorney general and now a $1-a-year anti-crime adviser, says this city needs to get the drunks out of downtown Atlanta and politics out of the police department.

The recommendations for slowing Atlanta's crime rate were contained in a seven-page letter to Mayor Maynard Jackson released Monday.

Atlanta, with 220 murders so far this year compared to 144 in 1978, has been wrestling with a disgruntled police force, a rising crime rate and flight to the suburbs.

Bell said interference by City Hall in police affairs reminded him of Watergate-era abuses in the federal government.

He also said the city needed a detoxification center, ordinances against disorderly conduct and drinking in public, more policemen on the drug squad, a state handgun law and stricter penalties for firearms violations.

Prepares to move in

Chicagoan breaks down barriers for lighthouse

CHICAGO (AP) — For years, Stirling Bemis was in love with a lighthouse off a breakwater near Navy Pier.

He gazed down at the Lake Michigan sentinel from his 23rd floor apartment, cruised by it on his sailboat and dreamed of making the nine-story tower his home.

Now he's preparing to move in.

A year and a half ago, Bemis, a salesman for Good Housekeeping Magazine, learned the lighthouse was being automated and the four coast guardsmen assigned there were pulling out.

So he hired a lawyer, and started negotiations that lasted more than nine months. At first, the Coast Guard's attitude was, "Go away kid," Bemis, 37, recalled.

Then, Bemis's lawyer quit, saying there was nothing more he could do and that he would be wasting his money. "But I continued," Bemis said.

The breakthrough came when he argued that his presence would prevent both deterioration and vandalism at the lighthouse. Two weeks ago he signed a lease with the Coast Guard, but he declined to disclose the terms.

The lighthouse, standing since 1920 and accessible only by boat, rests on a concrete base 28 feet above water level. Inside, a spiral staircase winds its way to the top where a beacon flashes a red light every five seconds and is visible for 23 miles. There are several living areas, a new kitchen, storage rooms and an office.

"During the winter, weather permitting, I'll be going out there and getting the south room ready for insulating," said Bemis.

"This is where I'll live at first. There are nine levels from the water level to the lantern deck on top.

"I'll have to do some insulating for noise, too, from the foghorn," he said. "It's 113 decibels and that could be harmful to my hearing. Any improvements I make become Coast Guard property. I'll work my way up from the south room as time and money permit."

Bemis will have no responsibility for, or access to, the foghorn, the light and a radio transmitter. That section will be maintained by the Coast Guard and kept locked.

While he negotiated for the lighthouse, his friends thought of him as a Chicagoan Don Quixote, chasing a waterbound windmill.

"Half of my friends thought it was the best idea they ever heard of. The other half thought I should be fitted for a straitjacket," Bemis said.

Why live in the cold, military gray atmosphere of an aging, isolated building that bleats loudly to sailors in foul weather?

"From there (the lighthouse) I'll get one of the most beautiful views of the city. And I'm a view freak. Besides, I just love that lake," he said.

Dear Abby

She's Staying Home for Xmas

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading your column for years, and around holiday time someone always asks, "Should we go to HIS mother's or to MY mother's for Christmas dinner? And your answer is always, "Why not alternate?"

Abby, my husband and I struggled with that problem for years, and we resolved it according to your suggestion. Both sets of parents lived nearby, and it seemed the only fair thing to do. So for 22 years, we spent Thanksgiving and Christmas in parents' homes instead of our own.

It never dawned on us until this year—as our children are ready to strike out on their own—that we never developed our own holiday traditions. We always went to Grandma's for the holidays. She insisted on doing all the cooking herself—and then complained for months about how much work it was and how tired she got. When we, her daughters and daughters-in-law, asked if we could bring something for dinner, she wouldn't hear of it. When we brought food without asking her, she refused to serve it, so we finally gave up.

I realize now what a high price I've paid over the years for peace in the family. I wish I hadn't. Abby, please urge young marrieds to have their own holiday celebrations in their own homes. Suggest that they invite their parents and grandparents, who might even be relieved to be finally free of the burden of entertaining three generations.

"DOING MY OWN THING"

DEAR DOING: You make an excellent point. Your answer was better than mine.

DEAR ABBY: Last Christmas Eve, during my busy preparations for 18 dinner guests (and also during our meal), I was called to the phone three times and kept there from 20 to 30 minutes while the callers wished me a "Merry Christmas." Each said, "I decided to bring rather than send cards this year," then proceeded to phone me up to date on their health, families and activities!

I appreciate their thoughts, and realize that by placing such calls they probably filled an otherwise lonely Christmas Eve, but if they must save the expense of sending Christmas cards, why can't they wait until the holiday is over, and then phone with their annual accounts of joys and sorrows?

Am I the only one who feels such phone calls are impositions?

UNAPPRECIATIVE IN OREGON

DEAR UNAPPRECIATIVE: Probably not. But if it's inconvenient for you to take the call, say so. And ask if you may return the call when you're able to visit longer.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Laaky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Ten most wanted

Bachelors invariably are in short supply and, it is widely believed, very often spoiled. Fortunately there are some sensational exceptions to the rule and in the December issue of Harper's Bazaar, the magazine sizes up the ten most wanted men in America:

William S. Paley: "He's this year's Henry Kissinger and you remember what sort of flap the ladies were in when he was available. Paley, seventy-ish, has nothing more to recommend him than the whole world of CBS, a twinkle in his eye, a penny in his pocket and more charm and clout than Rhett Butler and James Bond rolled into one."

Prince Albert: "Albert is 21 years old now, blond, blue-eyed and as handsome as his mother (Princess Grace of Monaco) is beautiful. In winter, he can be found studying at Amherst. He skis when in residence at the family chalet in Switzerland. He loves America as much as he does Monaco. He's the Crown Prince and you don't find many of those in the U.S.A."

Robert Evans: "Tycoon, businessman, producer—quintessential resident of southern California. He is tall, dark, handsome and the only perennial bachelor I know who has been married three times (to Camilla Sparv, Ali MacGraw and Phyllis George). Capable of such tenderness and charm."

Dr. John Stehlin: "John is six feet five and a soft-spoken southern admirer of the ladies. Passionately devoted to the Stehlin Foundation for Cancer Research in Houston, you're apt to find him relaxing only on weekends when he can take off to his house on the beach at Malibu. In his early 50s, the doctor loves his patients, women, jazz and tennis, probably in that order."

Dean Paul Martin: "As a kid, he played with all the great tennis stars, seriously, and wound up a neophyte actor but tremendous athlete, starring in his first film, 'Players'. He's 22. I just don't want him to lose his bachelor status. We need some golden boys."

David Rockefeller, Jr.: "This six-foot Rockefeller is in his late 30s, was recently divorced, lives in Boston and is development director of the Boston Symphony. Run, do not walk, to Massachusetts."

TwEEN 12 and 20
Mothering, giving birth are not the same

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 19 and never knew my parents. All my life I lived in foster homes or in a children's home. I had a dream someday to find my parents and my dream came true when I discovered my mother lived in Santa Barbara, Calif., with her third husband.

I graduated from high school in Wheeling, W.Va., and moved to Santa Barbara to be with her. Mom was ecstatic to see me and I was ecstatic.

I have been living with mom for three months (my real father is dead) and things are really uptight. Mom never has time for me and complains about everything I do. No, I don't feel welcome in my home even though she says that she loves me. I'm confused and need your help. — Peggy, Santa Barbara, Calif.

Peggy: This lady is your biological mother only. You do not fit in her home. If you are financially able, go out on your own. Of course, it will be a struggle but your freedom and peace of mind are more important to you than a roof over your head.

If you feel lost or uncomfortable in Santa Barbara, move back to Wheeling where I'm sure you have more friends and acquaintances.

Dr. Wallace: I care for a boy very much and he cares for me, but we don't see each other very often because we live in opposite ends of town.

Yesterday he called me and asked me if I could baby-sit his two small brothers because he got a call from the place he works and they wanted him to come in.

My grandmother said yes and drove me over to his house, then drove him to the restaurant where he works.

About 10 minutes later he came home because he said that he got into an argument with his boss.

Well, about a half-hour later, my aunt stopped by to see how I was doing and Darrell answered the door.

My aunt took me home and now my grandmother thinks that Darrell is a liar and won't let me see him anymore. Do you think this is fair? I don't. — Dolly, Weirton, W.Va.

Dolly: Regardless of whether Darrell lied or not, I blame you for the trouble that you are in. When Darrell came home, you should have called your grandmother and told her what happened.

Not ever seeing Darrell again is a bit strict but you definitely should be disciplined in some way.

Hawk Queens rout Pioneers

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

The Howard College Hawk Queens used a tenacious defense that continually harassed the Western Oklahoma team in taking an 84-60 win here Monday evening in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The Queens jumped out to an early 23-11 lead in the opening ten minutes of the game behind the inside play of sophomores Shawn Smith and Jane Jones, who dominated the backboards throughout the contest. Both players scored 12 points in the first half to pace the Queens, who could manage to connect on less than 33 percent of their shots in the opening stanza.

The Queens led by a count of 39-27 at the intermission.

With the Western Oklahoma team still in the contest, the Hawk Queens pressured their opponents into numerous errors in the opening minutes of the second half and took advantage of them to quickly take complete control of the contest. The Queens, who shot 50 percent from the field in the second half, increased their margin to 63-41 with 10 minutes remaining and then cruised on to their tenth victory of the year, against three losses.

Western Oklahoma, meanwhile, dropped to 8-5 on the season.

The Queens defensive performance and the domination of the backboards by Smith and Jones also prevented the Western Oklahoma team, who Howard College Coach Don Stevens described as excellent shooters, to take only 53 shots during the evening. Meanwhile, the Queens took 80 shots.

Smith led all scorers in the contest with 20 points, while Jones contributed 15 points and a game high 12 rebounds. Karen Zimmerer, a 6'1" sophomore from Dallas, led the Western Oklahoma attack with 13 points.

Stevens was very pleased with the defensive performance his team turned in, stating: "The key to the game was our pressure man defense. We only let them shoot 53 times, because we kept their great outside shooters from shooting and we controlled the backboards. Smith had a great game, as did Jones. Jones is playing with an injury," Stevens said, "but she's learning to play with pain."

The Hawk Queens return to play Friday night when they host the Texas Tech women in the highlight affair of this weekend's Hawk Queen High School Basketball Classic.

Hawks lose heartbreaker

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

Bernard Moore scored following a steal by teammate Robert Russell with 16 seconds remaining to propel the Western Oklahoma State College Pioneers to a pulsating 82-81 win over the Howard College Hawks in a non-conference game played Monday evening in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The bucket by Moore gave the Western Oklahoma team their first lead since the very early portions of the game, and had to be extremely disappointing to Hawk Coach Harold Wilder and his troops.

The Hawks had used the early scoring of Ron Akins, Kenneth Jones and Mike Wallace to take as much as a 10-point lead in the middle stages of the opening half, as the Howard College team took advantage of their quickness on their full-court press to overcome the taller Western Oklahoma team.

But Western Oklahoma put on a heated rally in the final minutes of the first half, led by the inside play of the 6'8" Moore, to cut the Howard College lead to 37-36 at the halftime.

The game was close in the opening minutes of the second half, but a red hot Wallace boosted the Hawks into a 56-48 lead with 13 minutes left to play.

But the Pioneers, a well balanced team that had considerable muscle advantage on the Hawks, continually battled back, finally narrowing the lead to 77-75 with four minutes remaining.

At this point, Wallace fouled a Pioneer and was then issued a technical for voicing his objection. But Western Oklahoma could connect on only one of the three free throws, and the Hawks then forced a turnover on the Pioneers ensuing possession to retain a one-point lead.

The Pioneers Randy Plummer was then issued a technical, but the Hawks wouldn't capitalize on this opportunity, and continued to cling to their one point lead as the tempo began to slow down in the final minutes.

Russell then tied the game at 78-78 with three minutes remaining, and the two teams went scoreless for over the next two minutes.

But Howard College's Akins drove and scored with 46 seconds remaining, and was fouled in the process.

Akins converted the charity toss to give the Hawks an 81-78 lead.

Moore then put the Pioneers within one at 81-80 with 30 seconds remaining, and the Western Oklahoma team quickly went into a press when the Hawks inbounded the ball.

Russell then intercepted a poor pass and fed Moore for the winning points.

The Hawks came down in a final attempt to win, but a shot missed, with the Pioneers taking the rebound and the game.

A telling statistic in the contest was the fact that Howard College converted only 11 of 20 free throw tosses.

The Hawks are now 8-4 on the season, and will return to play at home on Wednesday in a Western Conference game against undefeated Midland College. The contest against Midland will be the final game for Howard College before the Christmas vacation.

Oilers batter Steelers to remain in race

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers, following sage advice, declined to spit into the wind or step on Superman's cape Monday night.

Having come within one second of defeating the world champion Pittsburgh Steelers, Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini politely fell on the ball for the final play of the game at the Steeler one-yard line and the Oilers trotted into the dressing room with a 20-17 victory.

"The Oilers had better sense and sportsmanship than to rub the Steelers' noses in the Astroturf."

"Pittsburgh is too good a team to rub their noses in a loss," Oiler Coach Bum Phillips said.

"If the touchdown would have made a difference in the division championship, we could have scored,"

Pastorini said. "We weren't trying to rub their faces in it."

The Oilers had accomplished their goal. They kept the Steelers from clinching their sixth straight American Football Conference Central Division championship and kept alive their own chances of claiming a title for the first time since 1967.

"After the way we lost to them the first time we played this year we had to be a little psyched up," Pastorini said. "So we just went out and got a little sweet revenge."

The Oilers, who lost to the Steelers 34-7 in last season's AFC championship game and 38-7 in their first meeting this season, clearly were ready for the challenge this game.

Houston held the Steelers to four first downs and took a 7-0 halftime lead on a 25-yard pass from Pastorini to Ken Burrough. They went ahead 13-3 on field goals of 24 yards and 34 yards by Toni Fritsch in the third and fourth quarters.

The record crowd of 55,293 in the Astrodome and a national television audience kept waiting for the sleeping giant Steelers to wake up and they finally did.

Matt Bahr kicked a 37-yard field goal in the third quarter and Lynn Swann ran nine yards for a touchdown on an end-around play that narrowed the Oiler lead to 13-10.

But the Oilers didn't fold. Rob Carpenter ran four yards with 2:10 to play to boost the lead to 20-10 for what proved to be the winning margin.

Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw whipped the Steelers to the game's final touchdown with a 34-yard bomb to John Stallworth with 1:18 left in the game. But the Steelers tried an on-sides kick that found its way to Oiler tight end Mike Barber.

"They took that damn football and ran it down our throats for five minutes and scored a touchdown," Steeler defensive tackle Joe Greene said of Carpenter's touchdown. "That was as disappointing as anything that happened and they did it the way they weren't supposed to."

Latest National Bicycle Association bicycle motocross state standings have just been received from California, according to Perry Hall, owner of the Big Spring BMX track.

Ranked fifth in Texas is Jim Baum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Baum. Tony Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Hall, is ranked ninth, while Arley Garner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Garner, is number eleven. All three Big Spring BMXers race 16-and-over class.

Final standings of the year will be revealed at the annual NBA awards banquet to be held at 6:30 p.m. January 18 at the Holiday Inn in Midland.

Signs of weakness still showing up

Economy demonstrates resilience
WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's economy demonstrated further resilience in November, further confounding predictions of a downturn.
Total sales at the nation's retail stores rose 1.8 percent to $77 billion in November, wiping out the 1.7 percent drop in the previous month, the Commerce Department said Monday.
The data on retail sales - an important component of the economy - came on the heels of a Labor Department report showing that the nation's unemployment rate fell from October's 6 percent to 5.8 percent last month.
"You certainly don't get a picture of an economy that is folding up around us," said William Cox, a senior Commerce Department economist. "It seems as though this business expansion has nine lives, and I am not sure which one we are on."
The nation's output fell sharply in the period from April through June, leading many economists in and out of government to conclude that a recession had begun. Then the economy rebounded strongly from July through September.
Despite the latest good news, many analysts still predict the economy will show little or no growth in the fourth quarter and that output will continue to weaken into 1980.
"There are some signs of strength, but I don't want to try to call the (fourth) quarter at this stage," Cox said.
One sign of weakness showed up in government figures Monday on the sales of new one-family houses, which fell

1.8 percent in October to an annual rate of 724,000 units.
The latest figure was nearly 20 percent below the 900,000-unit rate of October 1978, the report said.
The falloff in home sales had been expected in the wake of Federal Reserve action Oct. 6 to tighten credit. The central bank's move has pushed mortgage interest rates to record levels around the nation, discouraging home purchases.
The Commerce Department report also showed that the median sale price of homes sold in October was $61,900, down 7 percent from September.
"The last time we had a drop of that magnitude was from May to June in 1970," said Dale R. Jacobson, a Commerce Department analyst.
Price declines often occur during tight-money or recessionary periods, such as happened in 1970, because people are forced to lower the asking price of their homes to attract buyers.
But Jacobson and Jack Carlson, economist for the National Association of Realtors, warned against reading too much into a single month's statistics.
Carlson said the figures probably reflected the fact that "homes in the lower price range are selling and homes in the high price bracket, those above $75,000, are not selling as well."
He added that the Realtors expect the median sales price of previously occupied homes to increase this year more than last year's record 13.5 percent.

Rep. Jones not to seek office
EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Rep. Luther Jones, D-El Paso, announced Monday he would not seek re-election to a fifth term in 1980.
Jones said, "...eight years is enough. Serving in the Legislature has taken just too much time from my family."
Jones told a news conference, however, he would consider running for chairman of the Texas Democratic Party if chairman Billy Goldberg of Houston does not seek re-election next year.

Man dies in 3-state kidnapping
VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) - A 25-year-old man abducted in Louisiana is dead and a suspect is under arrest following a three-state kidnapping spree that began with a bungled burglary in Texas, authorities say.
A second hostage, the dead man's girlfriend, was rescued late Monday night.
"She watched him shoot him," said police Capt. John Baker of Vicksburg. "She's not in any shape to tell us anything right now."
Police said the gunman, who kidnapped a Texas man earlier in the evening, abducted Michael Wayne Hardaway and Cynthia Baxter, 19, as they left a Bossier City, La., restaurant.
The Texas man, Jim Rogers, 47, escaped, and the gunman forced the young couple to drive him toward Mississippi.
Not long after that, Hardaway was shot in the chest and killed, police said. His body was dumped at a car wash near Delhi, La.
