Unemployment down, wholesale prices up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dipped a notch to 7.5 percent in November while wholesale prices rose 0.6 percent, down from October's 0.8 percent increase, the government said today.

Despite the overall, slower rate of inflation last month, gasoline prices increased for the first time in six months and food prices continued their substantial climb, the Labor Department said.

See charts page 2A

Last month's price increase translates to a seasonally adjusted 7.9 percent compound annual rate of inflation, the department said. However, for the first 11 months of 1980, wholesale — or producer — prices rose at a 12 percent yearly clip.

Unemployment, meanwhile, declined from the 7.6 percent rate registered in October, as the number of people holding jobs grew by 220,000, the labor department said in a separate report.

The jobless rate has remained fairly static since May, when the recession caused it to soar to 7.8 percent.

A Labor Department economist attributed last month's slower price rise entirely to automobiles and trucks.

"There's still a lot of inflationary pressure," said Craig Howell. "The prices of intermediate goods such as steel, chemicals and plastics are rising and this is worrisome."

The cost of those products will increase prices of finished wholesale goods, and these, in turn, will be passed on eventually to consumers, he noted.

The Labor Department's Producer Price Index measures three levels: finished goods, intermediate items and raw materials.

The department reported that:

—Food prices rose 0.5 percent last month, the same as in October. Most economists expect this rate to pick up in coming months, the result of a long-term grain shortage. The largest advances in November were for pork, cereal, bakery products, dairy goods, fresh fruits and vegetables.

Prices for beef and veal declined due to a large slaughter by farmers who chose not to feed cattle such high-priced grain. Poultry prices also fell.

—All energy prices at the finished goods level advanced 1.3 percent, after falling 0.4 percent in both September and October. Gasoline prices jumped 1.7 percent after declining for five straight months. Home heating oil costs rose 0.9 percent following two months of small decreases.

—Automobile prices rose only 0.7 percent last month, far less than the 3.4 percent increase in October when 1981 models were introduced.

The department's Producer Price Index, before seasonal adjustment, stood at 253.2 last month. That means that a marketbasket of goods and services that cost $100 in 1967 sold for $253.20 in October.

The price of all intermediate, or semi-finished goods, climbed 1 percent last month, about the same as in October and substantially more than September's 0.6 percent rise.

Raw goods prices accelerated 1.1 percent after going up 1.9 percent the month before, the department said.

About 7.9 million Americans were unemployed last month, the department said.

Private economists expect the jobless rate to begin edging up because of interest rate rises that now threaten the recovery.

"The November data provide further evidence of the gradual improvement that has been in effect since late summer," said Janet Norwood, commissioner of the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

BODIES RECOVERED — Policemen, firefighters and emergency medical personnel mill around bodies after being recovered from Stouffer's Inn in Purchase, north of New York City, Thursday. Twenty-six persons, many of them corporate executives, were killed and some 40 others were injured in the nation's second hotel fire in two weeks. The flash fire raced through the conference rooms on the top floor of the three-story suburban hotel where several meetings of corporate executives were under way.

Executives 'didn't have a chance' of surviving Stouffer's Inn blaze

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Business executives gathered for meetings at a hotel here "didn't have a chance" when an electrical fire raced through conference rooms with heat so intense that it melted walls, fire officials said.

The blaze Thursday at the suburban Stouffer's Inn killed 26 people and injured at least 40.

"The fire was so strong, so fast, that it was like a bomb exploding," said Franz Eichenauer, an executive chef for General Foods.

"It appears it flashed up suddenly and these people didn't have a chance," said Purchase Fire Chief Robert Makowski.

Most of the victims were believed to be executives of Arrow Electronics Inc. and Nestle Company Inc.

The families of the victims were gathered at the Westchester County medical examiner's office early today, working with authorities who were trying to identify the remains of victims through fingerprints or dental records.

A police spokesman said he had received calls indicating that people "from California to Canada" were at the hotel.

It was the second major hotel fire in the United States in two weeks. On Nov. 21, a blaze at the MGM Grand hotel in Las Vegas, Nev., killed 84 people and injured more than 700 others.

Makowski said he determined the Stouffer's fire was electrical because "the partitions in the walls melted. It was a very hot, hot fire."

There were no sprinklers in the area where the fire spread.

"It is tragic that the safety codes did not require sprinklers in such areas because they are not regarded as guest living areas," said Carl Vergari, Westchester County district attorney.

Sprinklers were not required in most areas of the MGM Grand and were not installed there either.

Most of the deaths apparently were from smoke inhalation, and the 40 injuries apparently were suffered in leaps from second-story windows.

John C. Waddell, Arrow executive vice president and its ranking corporate officer after the fire, identified three of the dead as company President Biddle Duke Glenn, 44; Executive Vice President Roger E. Green, 42; and Norman Kelly, another executive. Ten other company executives were missing.

Dr. Gary Paparo, Westchester County medical examiner, scheduled a news conference this morning to release the names of more of the dead.

Item 4 of bond issue

Amphitheatre, golf course, fishing dock funds needed

A number of people have been contending that most of the money will be used to improve Comanche Trail Golf Course, if Item No. 4 in the Dec. 13 bond election here is approved. The amount of money which would be available for that part of the capital improvements plan totals $780,000.

City officials are taking issue with such claims. They say that while up to $325,000 would be spent to refurbish the course, money would also be set aside for such things as construction of restrooms, street paving and other improvements to Comanche Trail Park itself; a development program at Moss Creek Lake to make it an exceptional camping and aquatic center; and improvements for the amphitheater at Comanche Trail Park.

The golf course itself, which has served thousands of people here for nearly half a century, is in need of a new irrigation system, according to Don Davis, city manager.

Provisions would also be made for water fountains at strategic points and the repaving of golf cart paths. Bobby Maxwell, golf professional at the course, also says several greens have to be rehabilitated, some even rebuilt, and there is a need all over the course for turf building.

Some local residents who do not play golf say that the course should pay its own way. While it is true the golfers are charged green fees, the income does not provide nearly enough to finance the major repairs needed, city officials say.

As has been mentioned, the proposed program of rehabilitation and improvement is divided into three parts other than the upgrading of the golf course.

Davis says improvements are planned for the swimming pool, picnic units, softball field, tennis courts and playground areas, as well as to the golf course. Parking would be paved west of the Old Settlers pavilion and Whipkey Drive would be reconstructed from US 87 to the Circle 7 Tennis Center — which engineers point out would eliminate a dangerous dip. The thoroughfare would also be widened enough for safety. The cost of such improvements, exclusive of the golf course needs, is estimated at $200,000.

The citizen advisory committee which lent attention to the needs at Moss Creek Lake said the City of Big Spring was in a position to make it an exceptional camping and aquatic center — something very few West Texas cities can provide. At a cost of $185,000, such things as restrooms, new fencing, playground equipment and an overnight trailer park would be added, if plans are followed. In addition, there would be an enclosed fishing dock located on the lake, primarily for year-around comfort and confidence of elder fishermen.

The citizens advisory committee also proposed new light and sound systems for the amphitheater, handy restrooms, remodeled dressing rooms, a concessions area and a canopy over the stage. Total cost of such an undertaking would be $70,000.

City officials point out that the purpose of the proposed program of rehabilitation for parks and recreational facilities is to provide facilities for the average income family that can't afford to go somewhere else, and for retired citizens on a fixed income.

"Not only will the program better the quality of life in Big Spring, it will also aid and assist in industrial recruitment," said Russ McEwen, chairman of the Citizens For A Better Big Spring Committee. "Most industries consider the cultural and recreational facilities in a community before investing in that community. That's a real bargain for the taxpayer at only about 50 cents a month," he added.

If Item 4 is approved by the voters, property owners will be paying an additional .0329 cents per $100 valuation.

(PHOTO BY BILL FORSHEE)

SOONER OR LATER — If Whipkey Drive, which leads into Comanche Trail Park near the Figure 7 Tennis courts, is to be salvaged, it will have to be resurfaced. The presence of pot holes gives motorists a very rough ride on the road now. If voters approve No. 4 on the bond issue Dec. 13, park improvements totaling $780,000 will be made over the next few years.

Christmas Fund grows by $943

Collections for the Christmas Fund amounted to $943 for the 24-hour period ending at noon today, bringing the aggregate to $2,472.80.

Objective in the drive, which is being sponsored by the local Salvation Army post and the Herald, is $20,000.

The money collected is used to buy provisions for needy families in the Big Spring area who might otherwise have to do without at Christmas time.

Food baskets are usually distributed to the families a couple of days in advance of Christmas. Donations in any amount can be forwarded either to the Salvation Army, P.O. Box 1248, Big Spring, or to the Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ezzell donated $100 to the Christmas Fund Thursday. H.G. Keaton responded to the appeal by making out a check for $250.

Absentee ballots cast total 56

A total of 56 absentee ballots have been cast in the upcoming city bond election, said city officials this morning.

Ballots may be cast in-person at the office of Tom Ferguson, city secretary, until 5 p.m. Tuesday. Mailed absentee ballots will be accepted until 10 a.m., Thursday.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Concert quiz

Q. Am I upset? Yes! After hearing the pleas for support of the Community Concert, I decided to do my part and paid for a membership on October 1 with the understanding that the membership card would be mailed to me prior to the first concert. I have a receipt but nothing that shows dates, performers or whom to contact. Now, ten days past the first concert, I still don't have a membership card. I missed the first concert in Big Spring and one in Midland. Whom do I contact? Does the Community Concert Association really want my support?

A. According to Jean Kuykendall, president of the Community Concert Association, the mailings were sent out before the first concert. The people who did not receive one and who contacted the Association received their information by hand delivery. Mrs. Kuykendall says she will check with the membership chairman and see that the woman who asked this question gets her membership immediately.

Digest

Expert predicts invasion

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An expert on Marxian economics at the University of Texas predicts Russia will invade Poland and squelch the "Solidarity" movement.

"Someday soon, you're going to wake up in the morning, probably on a Saturday or Sunday, and read that the Soviet Union has invaded Poland and there is heavy fighting," said Edward Hewett.

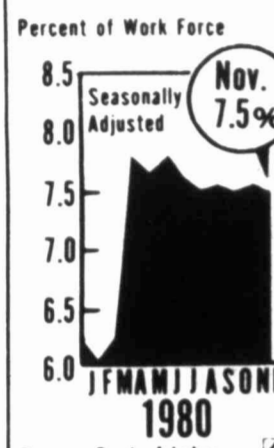

"I'm scared," Hewett added in an interview with the Austin American-Statesman. "What the Polish workers are doing is perfectly reasonable, although they don't realize the economic implications, and the Soviet Union (will) come in and shoot them for it."

Led Zeppelin folding

LONDON (AP) — The rock group Led Zeppelin, creator of such "heavy rock" classics as "Stairway to Heaven," is breaking up because of the death of drummer John Bonham.

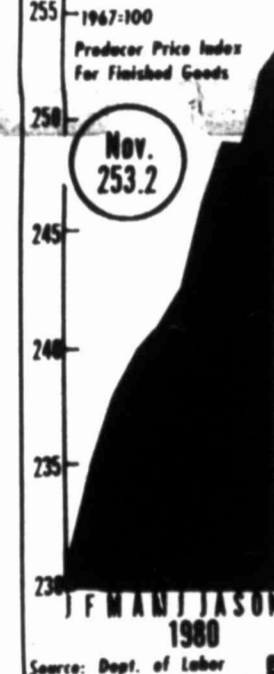

In a statement on Thursday, the band said it could not go on as before out of respect for Bonham's family and because of a "sense of undivided harmony felt by ourselves and our manager."

Unemployment

UNEMPLOYMENT EDGES DOWN — The unemployment rate edged down from 7.6 percent to 7.5 percent in November, the Labor Department reported today. The jobless rate has shown little change since May, wavering between 7.6 percent and 7.5 percent of the labor force. The government said total employment in November rose to 97.4 million, with the increases concentrated among women.

Wholesale Prices

WHOLESALE PRICES — The Labor Department announced today the Producer Price Index, before seasonal adjustment, stood at 253.2 for November. That means that a marketbasket of goods and services that cost $100 in 1967 sold for $253.20 in October.

Assistant Chief Hammond named 'Fireman of the Year'

COLORADO CITY — Assistant Fire Chief Jerry Hammond has been named "Fireman of the Year" in Colorado City, an honor that focuses attention on his outstanding service to the department over 1980.

The award was bestowed by Hammond at the annual Firemen's Banquet held earlier this week.

Hostages Christmas cards plan pushed

Members of the Marcy PTA want to see Big Spring join a nationwide drive to send Christmas cards to the American hostages held in Iran.

Mrs. Nelda Reagan, president of the Marcy PTA, said "we don't want to forget the hostages," and added that the cards may serve as an uplift for the captives.

Big Spring residents are urged to put the proper postage and addresses on the cards and get them to the local post office, where a space has been set aside for them.

The State Dept. said Christmas cards may be sent to:

- U.S. Embassy, Tehran, Iran
- Ahern, Thomas, Falls Church, Va.
- Barnes, Clair Cortlandt, Belk, William, Columbia, S.C.

Rumors are flying

WASHINGTON — Published reports today that Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, might vacate his seat to become Secretary of Defense in the Reagan Administration has kicked off a flurry of speculation about who would replace him.

Sources close to Tower said he wants the defense job, but Tower denied a report which said President-elect Ronald Reagan had already offered it to him.

Former Texas Gov. John Connally, a former Ambassador to Great Britain Anne Armstrong and Rep. Bill Archer, R-Houston, were cited by Texas

Tower wants defense job?

Republicans as the three leading candidates to fill Tower's shoes.

But Connally's son and Armstrong's husband said the two men probably would not be interested in the seat.

Archer said, "I am interested (in Tower's job). But the press has been premature on Tower's appointment... If in fact it does come to pass, it's hard to say what the governor would do."

Under Texas law, Republican Gov. William Clements would appoint a successor to Tower for 90 days when a special election would be held.

Clements was unavailable for comment.

While Connally was refusing comment on the reports, his son, John ID, said it is "highly unlikely" that his father would want Tower's job. He based the assessment on several conversations he had with his father over the past few days.

In addition, a close friend to Connally said he "could not conceive of John wanting to go in the Senate. He does not want to serve in an elective capacity."

Connally associates in Texas said the former Secretary of Treasury would only return to Washington if President-elect Reagan offered him one of two cabinet posts: Defense or State.

Police Beat

Man charged with rape

A local man was arrested and charged with suspicion of rape, 7:40 a.m. today.

Detectives Avery Falkner and Ted Lancaster arrested Antonio Oliver Paredes, 20, 503 N.E. 10th, at the McMahon Concrete Company, this morning. Paredes was charged with suspicion of rape, and his bond was set at $30,000 by Justice of the Peace Lewis Hefflin.

The rape allegedly occurred between 2 and 2:30 a.m. Tuesday in the parking lot of a lounge on the 3200 block of West Highway 80. According to the victim, when she entered her car parked near the lounge, three men were sitting in the back seat.

She states that they forced her at pistol point to drive to a dark area of the lot, and all three raped her. There are no other suspects in the incident at this time, said Falkner, this morning.

Police in Little Rock, Ark. located a stolen car even before it was reported missing here. Little Rock officers notified local police Thursday that they had recovered a 1981 Toyota Corolla with dealer tags from Mesa Valley Toyota, 511 S. Gregg. The car was valued at $6,823.

Officials at the Texas Electric Service Company, 1701 West IS-20, reported that 30 gallons of gas were missing from one of their trucks, and $140 worth of copper wire, a number of crossties, five quarts of oil,

Three admit forgery raps

Three pleas of guilt to forgery and forgery by passing were entered in 118th District Court this morning.

Gilbert Hinojosa, his wife, Patsy, and her father-in-law, Pablo Hinojosa, all of Lamesa, received seven-years probation each.

Gilbert wrote three checks, signing them with the name Robert Stovall, Lamesa. Two were written for $175 and two for $150, said William Shankles, a deputy sheriff, who filed the three charges in the office of Justice of the Peace Bobby West Sunday.

Patsy and her father-in-law, Pablo, then passed the checks. The three are migrant workers from a labor camp in Lamesa.

They are individually responsible for paying a total of $725 restitution to Winn-Dixie Food Store.

Teachers hear Walter Grubbs

COLORADO CITY — State Representative Walter Grubbs, a native of Colorado City, was the principal speaker at the Colorado City Classroom Teachers Association's annual banquet held in the Middle School Cafeteria here Thursday night.

The association currently has 92 members. Kit Arthur presided at the banquet.

Carter says he would veto anti-busing bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a final battle with Congress, President Carter is vowing legislation he says would undermine the powers of the presidency by barring the government from seeking court-ordered busing to desegregate schools.

With the lame-duck session of Congress in its last hours, some congressional leaders say Carter's position may prevail — at least until Republican Ronald Reagan takes office and the more conservative 97th Congress convenes next month.

Carter told congressional leaders late Thursday he will veto the $9.1 billion appropriation bill containing the anti-busing amendment.

"For any president to accept this precedent would permit a serious encroachment on the powers of this office," Carter said. "I have a responsibility to my successors and to the American people not to permit that encroachment to take place."

Carter said the anti-busing amendment "would effectively allow the Congress to tell a president that there are certain constitutional remedies that he cannot ask the courts to apply."

Annoyed anti-busing leaders in Congress expressed little optimism that they could overturn the president's decision.

Weather

Unseasonably warm weather for Texas

Partly cloudy skies and unseasonably warm temperatures dominated the Texas weather scene today.

Forecasts called for partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures statewide. Highs were to be mostly in the 70s.

Widespread fog and drizzle was reported over most of the state early today. Only the Panhandle and the mountains of Southwest Texas reported clear skies during the pre-dawn hours.

Early morning temperatures were in the 30s and 40s over the western half of the state and in the 50s and 60s over the eastern half. Extremes ranged from 35 at Marfa to 68 at San Antonio.

Polish leaders in Moscow for Warsaw Pact summit

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Polish leaders were in Moscow today for a Warsaw Pact summit, Warsaw sources reported, and the Kremlin gathering was expected to consider the Polish crisis.

The Polish news agency PAP said Communist Party leader Stanislaw Kania's trips had been planned for some time.

The Kremlin meeting came a day after a top Polish official said Poland would have the right to request Soviet bloc assistance if authority "slips into the hands of anti-socialist elements."

PAP said that although Kania's trip to Moscow had been scheduled, it had not been announced in advance.

In Moscow, official Soviet sources said leaders of the seven Warsaw Pact nations attended the meeting, which included Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev and other top Soviet officials.

The crisis in Poland began with a wave of summer strikes and escalated after the government agreed to allow unions to form independent of Communist Party control for the first time ever in the Soviet bloc.

SHOT TO DEATH — Three Roman Catholic nuns and a social worker, all Americans, were found shot to death and buried near Santiago Nonualco, about 30 miles south of San Salvador, capital of El Salvador, Wednesday afternoon. The bodies were found in a single grave near a highway with each having been shot in the head. The

Three Americans shot in El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — El Salvador's ruling junta accused right-wing terrorists of assassinating three Roman Catholic nuns and a lay missionary, all Americans, and piling the four women into a common dirt grave after shooting each in the back of the head. "I totally repudiate this crime that is not only a crime, but a premeditated murder, irrational and of a paranoid mind that wants to destabilize the government. It is a premeditated murder of the right wing," Jose Napoleon Duarte, a member of the civilian-military junta, told a news conference Thursday. No group claimed responsibility for killing the women. But right-wing terrorists opposed to the strong human rights advocacy of the Catholic Church in El Salvador have assassinated at least nine priests since 1977, including Archbishop Oscar Romero, who was shot to death while celebrating Mass March 24. The last priest to be assassinated died Monday. The women were shot late Tuesday and discovered by peasants Wednesday. They were identified as Sister Dorothy Kazel, 41, of Cleveland, a member of the Ursuline Order, Ita Ford and Maura Clarke, Maryknoll sisters from New York City, and Jean Donovan 27, a lay volunteer from Cleveland. A soldier at the scene said all four were shot in the back of the head with a large caliber pistol and buried one on top of the other. "Helping others cost them their lives," said a nun who knelt and prayed beside the makeshift grave. The bodies were exhumed

Thursday from the grave beside an unpaved, isolated road about 30 miles south of the capital while reporters, peasants and U.S. Ambassador Robert White looked on. "I am sorry," White said as the first bloody body was uncovered. The ambassador, visibly furious, turned his back on a reporter who asked if he had been informed by the National Guard on Wednesday about the discovery of the bodies. "I am not going to say anything because this time nothing will be done incorrectly," he said. Another reporter overheard him say, "This time they won't get away with it. They just won't." An embassy official said the U.S. government would take charge of the bodies. A squad of about 12 National Guardsmen arrived as the bodies were being exhumed and surrounded the area with guns drawn. White, in shirtsleeves and heavily guarded, was heard asking another embassy official, "Do you think they are going to do something to us?"

"No, I don't think so. Too many foreign journalists," the other official replied. The sisters were in El Salvador to aid refugees from rural areas who were fleeing the violence between leftist and rightist guerrillas that has claimed an estimated 8,500 lives this year. Secretary of state Reagan's tentative nod goes to Haig

Other Cabinet prospects

Opposition builds against Haig

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strong opposition is building against two leading prospects for Ronald Reagan's Cabinet, forcing the president-elect to consider alternatives to Alexander M. Haig Jr. as secretary of state and banker Walter B. Wriston as treasury secretary, Republican sources report. Haig, the former NATO commander and White House chief of staff during the final days of Richard Nixon's administration, was under fire from some conservative Republicans for his longtime association with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, one source said. Other Haig detractors are concerned about his connections to the Watergate scandal, which forced Nixon to resign the presidency in 1974, the source said.

Wriston, chairman of Citicorp, the nation's second-largest bank, was encountering conflict-of-interest questions. Citicorp, a Citicorp subsidiary, is involved with claims against Iranian assets and loan guarantees for New York City, two issues before the Treasury Department.

Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox during the famous Saturday Night massacre in October 1973. Another question about an appointment to head the State Department involved his health. Haig underwent coronary bypass surgery last April. As a result, one source said, Haig was a possible "klinker" in the emerging lineup of Cabinet secretaries.

There was a rumor Thursday that Reagan was asking Shultz to reconsider the State Department job, but sources at Reagan's transition office here said they were unaware of a new effort to recruit Shultz.

Wriston, meanwhile, reportedly faces, in addition to the conflict-of-interest questions, complex problems over what to do with his financial holdings.

Portugal's Prime Minister

killed in plane crash

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Prime Minister Francisco de Sa Carneiro and six other people died in the fiery crash of his campaign plane just days before presidential elections that could bring down the government he formed.

flames after taking off from Lisbon airport.

The 46-year-old prime minister, the only head of government with a parliamentary majority since Portugal's 1974 leftist revolution, was killed Thursday when his light plane sheared off a wing on an apartment roof and fell in

There were unconfirmed rumors of sabotage and one witness told police he saw a piece of the twin-engine Cessna 431 fall off just before it clipped the roof of the two-story apartment building 500 yards from the end of the runway, flipped over and plunged in flames to a narrow street.

Four other apartment buildings were damaged but none of the residents were injured, police said.

Big Spring's five PTA units will help at Yule program

Volunteers from the city's five PTA units will be helping at the third annual community Christmas program Saturday at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, according to Leslie Earnst, president of the Big Spring Council of the Parent-Teacher Association. PTA members helping at the program should be at the Coliseum Saturday for the 10 a.m. practice and then arrive at 6:30 p.m. to help ready children for the 7 p.m. program. College Heights, Kentwood, Marcy, Moss and Washington PTAs are the groups providing parent helpers. What is becoming a traditional event, the Christmas program is expected to involve more than 700 elementary children under the direction of the school system's elementary music teachers.

Should state-by-state primaries be ended?

What would your answer be if you were asked if you liked the present state-by-state primary system, which determines far in advance of the national conventions who the presidential candidates will be?

A recent poll taken of the members of the Democratic Party who survived the recent elections turned up some interesting results.

Over 32 percent said they despised the present system. An additional 17.4 percent disliked it, another 14.4 percent wasn't sure how they felt about it. Only 18.9 percent thought it was OK and 17.4 percent heartily approve of it.

AND WHAT would those who became disenchanted with the primaries use in their place? Nearly 29 percent strongly want a regional system while another 55.6 percent would opt for one national primary on the same day.

Judged by the sentiment manifested in the poll, perhaps the present system should be jettisoned and a single national primary held in its place.

There would be drawbacks to holding one nationwide primary on the same day, however. Such a plan wouldn't give the candidates much of a chance to get exposure like they do now. The cost of one primary might be prohibitive but then the system used now is too high.

The toughest hurdle might be in picking one date for such balloting, since most presidential primaries are anchored by local primaries. It likely would contribute to a lower voter turnout, too.

The best way to go, perhaps, would be the regional primary. Such plan would save the candidates, parties and contributors a lot of money by allowing them to concentrate their travel, advertising and appearances in a given area at a given time. States could save money by having their state primaries coincide with the national primary and it would be a lot easier for a few states to make those arrangements than for all 50 to hit on the same date.

THE CANDIDATES likely would become better acquainted with local and regional issues, if they concentrated their campaigns in one area for a time. Right now, one of their speech writers hands them a sheet of paper and they blindly quote from it without really knowing much about a problem. The candidates, no doubt, feel much better discussing a broad national policy than they do a regional issue.

A big plus with a national or regional primary is that the voters wouldn't be confronted with candidate sales pitches from January through early November. As it stands now, each state primary is a crisis and is kept in front of the voters week in and week out, month in and month out.

Any discussion of primaries raises the question of what is the best day in the week to vote. Some like Saturday. Others prefer Tuesday. Many countries around the world, however, stage their elections on Sundays, with good results. Hold it during football season, you ask? Why not, it doesn't take long to vote and anyone would still have time to get back home and warm up the TV set for the opening kickoff. It's something to think about.

Ask a native

Around the rim

James Werrell

Last week, a bold party of four adventurers ascended into the gunmetal skies over Dallas, broke through into the blue yonder, and winged their way to the tiny village of Puerto Vallarta, Mexico.

Had they brought enough suntan lotion; the right clothes; their tickets? With the casual bravado that was to become their trademark, they brushed aside these cares, ordered a cerveza, and steeled themselves for the challenge that lay ahead.

INCREDIBLY, THEY emerged five days later from their ordeal, torn and battered... but alive! As is true of explorers throughout history, these four ask only that others may learn from their experience. And in that spirit, portions of the personal diary they kept is reprinted below:

While in Puerto Vallarta, avoid Germans named Siegfried, particularly if they tell you, "Meine friends call me Zeegzy." Inevitably they will drink tequila and begin to sing "My Bonnie Lies Over Ze Ocean," and you will sing it with them.

If you are looking for a good place to eat lunch, just walk up to any native and say, "Tony's Please." Actually, the name of the restaurant is Tony's Please, so you would be more correct in saying, "Tony's Please, please."

But then again, since you are in Mexico, you should say, "Tony's Please, por favor." On second thought, you can get a pretty good lunch at a place named Moby Dick's. (If you go there, avoid the sea snail cocktail.)

If you want to be an ugly American, go ahead, it's O.K. Feel free to drink too many margaritas, victimize the other customers, tell long, dull stories in a loud voice and fall asleep on tables.

Then, just as you are about to leave, turn to your spouse and say, "Boy, honey, it sure will be nice to get back to Toronto."

SECLUDED BEACHES dot the coast line near Puerto Vallarta, and it is definitely worth your while to look for one. After renting a car, travel on the only road out of town until you spot a sandy beach on your left.

Continue past this beach until you come to a finger of land jutting out into the sea. The beach here will be covered with rocks, rubber sandals and bottle caps.

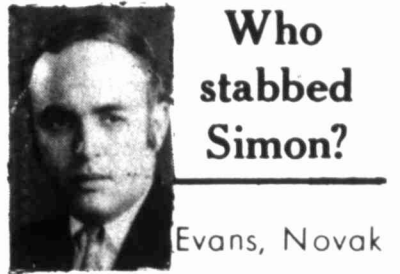

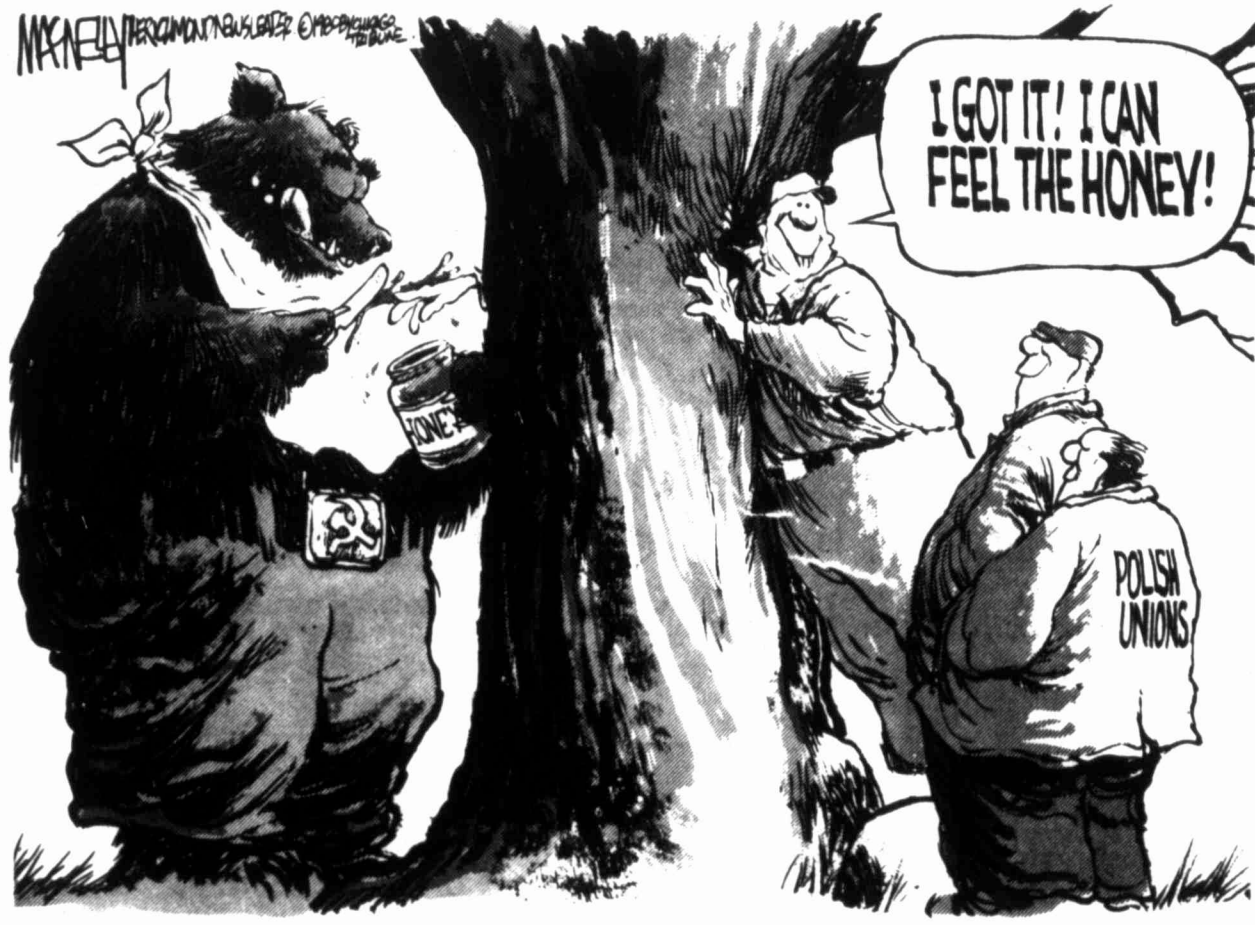

Get back in your car and return to the first beach you saw, and you will come to the conclusion that it is the finest piece of real estate you've ever set foot on. More margaritas can be purchased from a vendor under a thatched hut, and for a tip, the girl at the cash register will tell you in Spanish that you have beautiful blue eyes.

We decided not to stay very long in a place called The Piano Bar. It must have been a pretty rough joint because we didn't see any women at all in there.

A note on dress: It seems to be the custom down here that all fat men wear small, postage-stamp swimming trunks, while all women with big, bulgy thighs wear string bikinis.

Take the Bora-Bora Cruise. By all means, take the Bora-Bora Cruise. Someone else who went on the cruise told us we had a really good time.

There is probably plenty more I could write about our adventure, and I probably will. But in the meantime, one last piece of advice; on your return trip, ask the girl at Gate 19 in the Braniff terminal in Dallas what the woman was wearing that set off the metal detector in the walk-through security booth.

Who stabbed Simon?

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — The unseen hand of Sen. Robert Dole, a lethal weapon in the backroom chicanery of Capitol Hill, fashioned the campaign against William Simon that led him to reject the Cabinet post that two weeks earlier he thought was securely his.

Quite apart from the desirability of Simon's return engagement at the Treasury, that intensifies post-election questions about Ronald Reagan: Are non-Reaganites like Dole supplanting Reaganites like Simon in setting policy for the new administration? Can the new president cope with the velvet-gloved grandees of Congress, including those wearing Republican colors?

That leads to a broader concern beyond the confines of Congress: the seeming passivity of Reagan. If Simon were really his first choice at the Treasury, surely the president-elect could have shrugged off intrigue to insist that Simon take the job.

DOLE, WHO WILL be finance committee chairman in the Republican Senate, sharpened his knives after we reported Nov. 14 that Simon was telling one and all that he would definitely be secretary of the Treasury. Keeping in the background, Dole created a strong impression that the Senate Republican cloakroom was rising en masse against Simon.

The end result within 10 days was a prearranged transcontinental telephone conversation — Reagan offering the post, Simon turning it down. Simon ignored the vicious backstairs Senate campaign against him. The reason he gave Reagan was his disinclination for a revival of wars with the White House staff that he continuously fought in Nixon-Ford days.

Simon's injudicious claims that the Treasury portfolio was his quickly spawned this report, circulated through the lobbyist community to the press: Senate Finance Committee Republicans had actually voted 7-to-1 to recommend against the Simon nomination. The source of the information was not hard to find: Bob Dole.

Savoring his imminent chairmanship, Dole had no desire for four years of combat with hard-driving Bill Simon. During a Nov. 17 meeting with finance committee Republicans, Dole suggested Simon would be in big trouble if he tried to walk over the backs of senators as in his previous Treasury incarnation. A few senators chimed in with support; nobody defended Simon.

Contrary to the circulating reports, no vote was taken. Sen. William Roth, Reagan's trust ally on the committee in pursuing supply-side tax cuts, characteristically kept his cards face down when it came to discussing Simon's abrasive personality. At least one member, Sen. John Chafee, was not even present.

The reports of a finance committee campaign against Simon dovetailed with bad-mouthing from old enemies in the Ford administration, possibly including Gerald R. Ford himself. In his Nov. 21 meeting with Reagan, Ford did not attack Simon but may have tried to kill him with kindness by indicating it is a burden for a president to have to deal with a Cabinet member of Simon's competence.

The hot-tempered Simon sizzled over the burgeoning attack, complaining to friends it had "injured my reputation." He knew he was still the first choice of the California kitchen cabinet (thanks mainly to efforts by drugstore magnate Justin Dart), and he wanted a speedy announcement. He also was Reagan's choice.

Sore gives entry to rabbit fever germ

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I recently had tularemia, or rabbit fever. I had an extremely high temperature at times and also had hard chills. Is this dangerous? I really thought for a while that I was going to die. Also, how long does it take to really feel up to par again after you've had it? My age is 56. I cannot figure out why it's called tularemia. Can you explain? — Mrs. M.M.P.

Tularemia was named for the bacterium that causes the illness, which was first discovered in Tulare County, Calif., in 1912. The illness is no more prevalent there than in other areas, but that is where it was first found. Many locations live with the names of diseases, innocent victims of a local researcher's diligence. The other name, "rabbit fever," was given to this illness because it once was a rabbit skinner's occupational disease.

The germ lives in many species of animals and insects — rabbits, squirrels, beavers, deer, ticks, deerflies. Humans get the disease when they come in contact with an infected animal or from the bite of an infected tick or deerfly. The germ passes into the body through even an unnoticed scratch on the skin.

The disease takes various forms. The most common one produces an ulcer at the point where the germ penetrates the skin. Then the lymph nodes enlarge and there is fever, chills and fatigue. Pneumonia may develop, so prompt treatment (with the antibiotic streptomycin) is important.

Because you were so sick, it may take a few months before you feel completely well. Having had the infection once should protect you for life against the germ. That's your reward for having to be so sick. There should be no lasting effects. P.S. — I recently encountered my first case ever of tularemia.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have heard that there is a simple procedure of scraping the lungs to help breathing for a person who has emphysema. I asked my doctor about it, having emphysema myself. He says there is no such procedure, but I figured it wouldn't hurt to get a second opinion. — Mrs. H.C.

I have never heard of it, either.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I recently had a FANA test, and it came out positive. I was told it was some kind of arthritis. Please explain. — M.H.

The test letters stand for "fluorescent anti-nuclear antibodies." A positive result could indicate any of a number of connective tissue diseases, including rheumatoid arthritis, lupus, etc.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please explain Bartholin's cyst or abscess, its causes and method of treatment. — B.

One Bartholin's gland lies on either side of the vagina. They are normally about a half inch in diameter and provide lubrication. These glands and their ducts can become filled with little sacs as a result of repeated infection or trauma. (NOTE: FOR READERS — For more than a year now I have been trying to find a suitable substitute for the medical term "irritation" or "damage" just won't do in all cases, but might in this.)

When a Bartholin's cyst becomes infected, and when this infection plugs the duct that normally empties the lubricants into the vagina, an abscess forms. Often, that abscess will have to be drained and antibiotics will have to be given. An uninfected cyst can be left alone. If a cyst becomes enlarged or is subject to repeated infection, then the gland is removed.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Everyone keeps telling me I am overweight. I am a 15-year-old girl and am 5 feet, 9 inches and weigh 145 pounds. How am I doing? — L.M.J.

OK. Your height places you in the tallest category for girls your age. Only 5 percent of your girlfriends should be taller than you. According to my charts you are not overweight for your height.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Does a woman's energy decline after the menopause? I heard this stated as more or less a fact at a recent bridal shower I attended. — C.B.

There is no direct connection between "energy supply" and the menopause. There may be an indirect association between severe menopause symptoms in some women and the psychological effect on a woman's activities. The woman still has the same amount of energy, but may feel less eager to use it.

Vaginitis can strike any woman at any time in her life. You can read about the causes — and cures — for this troublesome complaint in the booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." To get a copy, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Birth control is a highly relevant topic in today's society. Find out what you should know about it in an easy to read booklet, "The Twelve Birth Control Methods." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Curious maneuver

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — A curious irregularity by the Justice Department has heightened Judge Fred Winner's determination to pry the lid off a $30 million bribery plot.

The money was put up by Libya's dictator Muammar Qaddafi who sought the release of some embargoed U.S. transport planes. He was advised on the finer points of bribery, American style, by the international swindler Robert Vesco, who tried to ensnare Democratic Party chief John White and President Carter's brother, Billy, in the conspiracy.

Winner is the chief U.S. district judge in Denver, far from the scene of the scandal. But in a related case, he issued a subpoena for Philip Heymann, head of the Justice Department's criminal division, to answer questions about the bribery investigation.

HEYMANN ADOPTED a petulant air of affronted dignity and annoyance with the inconveniences of the judicial process. So the U.S. marshals, who are his subordinates in the Justice Department, simply held the subpoena for a month and then sent it back to Denver.

This moved the incredulous Winner to write a blistering letter to the marshal's service, complaining: "In my experience, failure to even try and serve a subpoena is unheard of."

Even more astonishingly, my associate Indy Badhwar learned, the Justice Department then moved to quash the subpoena, which had never been delivered in the first place. The judge saw this as part of the "immutable efforts to avoid public testimony by public officials in this case."

"If the process of the United States District Court," he added, "is to be served or not served depending upon whether the intended recipient works for the Department of Justice, we have come to a sorry state."

The subpoena refusal is only the latest episode in the Carter administration's efforts to cover up this complex case. The Justice Department, for example, is also behind a move to kill a Winner subpoena for White's testimony.

It struck the judge as odd that the Justice Department would support White's "desire to remain silent." In a judicial memo, Winner noted wryly that "the government is at least consistent in trying to block all testimony aimed at disclosure of the truth."

The Democratic national chairman has denied any wrongdoing, though he has admitted that he discussed the Libyan plane deal with White House aide Stuart Eizenstat and senior State Department officials after being approached by an admitted Vesco associate.

Judge Winner noted that White had discussed the Libyan bribery case with reporters and had issued an "unsworn" press release. The judge observed that White's press release "claimed his testimony to a grand jury" "should sweep the record clean." But it didn't clear the record, Winner insisted, not at all.

"THIS SELF-ABSOLUTION," he wrote in a literary reference to a fictional creature from Alice in Wonderland, "is reminiscent of Lory's chat with Alice: 'I'm older than you and must know better.' And this Alice would not allow without knowing how old he was, and as Lory positively refused to tell its age, there was no more to be said."

In a withering summary, the judge noted that White "does not seem to have been the least bit reticent about making unsworn statements — it is testifying under oath he objects to."

Footnote: In another peculiar twist to the case, the Justice Department has allowed one of the key conspirators, James C. Day, to plead guilty to a technical felony. Sometimes prosecutors will let a suspect off lightly in return for his testimony implicating others. But in this incredible instance, Day got off by exonerating White and another Carter aide, Hamilton Jordan.

KREMLIN BULLIES: If anything can change a dove into a hawk, it's constant pushing around by a bear. Or so the Joint Chiefs of Staff seem to figure in their latest plea for more defense spending.

Throughout their 1980 military posture statement, the military chiefs repeatedly point to instances where the Soviets have used their military edge over the United States to bully their way to political advantage.

Gen. David Jones, the JCS chairman, notes that one serious "current of instability" in the world situation today is "the Soviet Union's growing capability and inclination to project military power — its own or proxy forces — to influence political outcomes."

Jones observes that the Pentagon has for years been warning that the trend toward Soviet military superiority would encourage the men in the Kremlin to use their military force "to achieve political objectives by the early 1980s." He adds glumly: "They beat that estimate by a week" — a reference to the Afghanistan invasion last Christmas.

For 96 top-secret pages, the joint chiefs make a persuasive case for the idea that improving U.S. military might is not simply blind jingoism, but a necessity in a world where the appearance of power is itself power.

CHAIRMAN'S CLOUT: Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., thought he had found a room for a state delegation reception during the inaugural weekend — the Small Business Committee hearing room. But Armstrong just learned that he was nosed out by the incoming committee chairman, Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., who wanted the room for a dinner party.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My son has joined a small religious group and I am confused about them. They seem like nice people, and they are always talking about divine love, but they never mention Jesus. Do you think I should be concerned? — Mrs. E.H.B.

DEAR MRS. E.H.B.: Yes, you should be concerned. One cannot talk about God's love without talking about his Son, Jesus.

First, the Lord Jesus Christ is God's ultimate expression of his love for mankind. The death of Christ shows the depth of God's love for us. "God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life" (John 3:16). It was not necessary for Christ to die for the penalty of sin in place of you and me. This is God's gift to us, and it demonstrates how much God loves us. One determines the value of an item by the price he pays for it. God paid a high price for us. He sacrificed that which was dearest to him in order to secure our salvation. Through Christ, God has expressed his love for each of us.

Second, by his teachings and his example, Jesus sets the pattern for us in how we ought to love others. Jesus said to his disciples, "My command is this: love each other as I have loved you. Greater love has no one than this, that one lay down his life for his friends" (John 15:12, 13). Jesus took this a step further; he died for his enemies.

Third, the Lord Jesus Christ can give us the capacity to love others. Human love is easily exhausted. For the Christian, the indwelling Christ can love another through him. So often our own love grows impatient over the faults and failures of others. But God's love goes "the extra mile." From Romans 5:5 we read, "God has poured out his love into our hearts by the Holy Spirit, whom he has given us."

It is in Jesus that we find the expression of God's love, the perfect example of love, and the capacity for unconditional love.

Stay clear of religious groups that ignore the Lord Jesus Christ!

Cities not coping with waste disposal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein said today his staff has to wear the "biggest, blackest hat" in Texas because local officials do not cope with waste disposal problems.

"Nobody at the local level wants to deal with it in any significant way," Bernstein told a conference on environmental issues.

"It turns out we wind up making the political and economic decisions because the people at the local level won't," he said.

Bernstein spoke at a conference sponsored by For the People, Inc., a non-profit corporation working for public education on environmental matters.

The commissioner said the disposal problem is "almost impossible" in Houston because "they have run out of land for any purpose." The solution, said Bernstein, is in "resource recovery" — recycling portions of garbage.

On Thursday, a presidential adviser and a state legislator predicted a gloomy environmental future if apathetic attitudes are not changed.

Gus Speth, director of the President's Council on Environmental Quality, was the keynote speaker Thursday.

"I wish I had some good news to bring to you," Speth said before reeling off a checklist of brewing ecological catastrophes.

Rep. Fred Agnich, R-Dallas, said, "I'm not a doomsdayer," but then issued a similarly disturbing prediction.

Speth worked on Global 2000, a report to the president on possible world conditions in the year 2000.

in 2000 will live with an "absence of hope," he said.

He cited the testimony of a witness at a recent public hearing as an example of current attitudes toward the environment.

"Future generations, humbug," the witness said. "What have they done for us?"

Agnich, a geologist, said the 1970s were the "easy years" for environmental decisions.

"It was the in thing to do. Everybody wanted to clean up the environment," he said.

In the 1980s, he said, Americans are learning about the high cost of cleaning up.

Jail time to prevent hiring of illegal aliens proposed

WASHINGTON — The staff of the Select Commission on Immigration and Refugee Policy has recommended sweeping changes in federal law to prevent the hiring of illegal aliens, including the eventual issuance of identification cards to everyone who holds a job in the United States.

Among other proposals expected to be considered when the commission meets this weekend in Virginia, is the imposition of penalties in stages against employers who hire illegal aliens. The stiffest of these penalties includes a one year jail term.

In addition, the staff is calling on the commissioners to "legalize" the status of all illegal aliens now in the U.S., estimated by the Census Bureau to number between 3.5 million and 5 million.

The recommendations are contained in a series of option papers given to each of the 16 commission members and obtained Thursday by States News Service. The weekend meeting is designed to draw the group together for a consensus on a wide range of immigration issues and could determine future U.S. policy.

The commission's final report is due to be completed by March 1, 1981.

These proposals are similar in several respects to those presented to Congress by President Carter in 1977, including plans for an illegal alien "amnesty," a new form of Social Security card for workers and fines for employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens.

The administration's lack of success in Congress led to the creation of the select commission — chaired by Father Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University — which includes cabinet members, presidential appointees and Republican and Democratic members of Congress.

The election of Ronald Reagan will automatically change the commission's makeup in January, because by law, the membership includes the attorney general and secretaries of State, Labor, and Health and Human Services.

"I used to think Hispanic Americans would be better off putting our hopes on the work of the commission before Carter left office," said Ruben Bonilla, president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, who condemned the worker identification proposals. "Now I think we're better off with the Reagan administration."

The commission staff proposes that all newly hired employees in the United States be required to sign affidavits at the time of their employment. The affidavits would certify under penalty of perjury that the signer is a citizen or legal alien "entitled to work in the United States."

The affidavit requirement would become effective one year after the authorizing legislation is passed by Congress.

The report estimates the rule would affect "40 million persons involved in 70 million job changes or hires annually," at a cost of $80 million to $100 million each year.

Illegal migration, the commission staff said, could be curbed by 30 to 40 percent with this step.

The next stage, estimated to occur six years after its passage by Congress, would involve the registration of "all persons seeking employment" through a "counterfeit-resistant" worker identification card.

It would take seven years for all workers to receive the cards, according to the staff report. At that time, "illegal migration and illegal participation in (the) labor force (would be) negligible."

Awards, cake-baking contest featured at Cub Pack 305 meet

Several awards and a cake-baking contest featured the monthly meeting of Cub Pack 305 at the First Baptist Activities Building Tuesday.

Charles Brandenburg took first place in the lad-dad cake contest. Second went to Ben Fritzier and Matt Mayes, and third to Eric Mayes and Ricky Swafford.

Tim McQueary received his Bobcat pin with arrow points on his wolf. Bear badges went to Scott Oliver, Brady Keyes, Matt Mayes, Clint Cypert, Keith Tucker and Brian Nimmick. Ricky Swafford received his one-year service pin.

A highlight was the induction of Keith Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Tucker, into Scout Troop No. 5 by Cubmaster Glenn Pierce and Joe Pickle, representing the troop.

Barbara McQueary's den exhibited snowman pinatas, and Linda Brandenburg's den exhibited several home games the Cubs had made.

Plans were made for the District banquet Friday, and for participation in the Scouting exposition next spring. There will be no December pack meeting.

BSSH patients begin Christmas activities

"Away from home, but not forgotten" could be the motto of Big Spring Hospital volunteers with regard to patients at the Big Spring State Hospital volunteers with regard to patients at the Big Spring State Hospital.

The volunteers began their Christmas activities for patients with an evening of shopping and refreshments at Woolworth's, downtown Big Spring.

For the past 18 years, Woolworth's has set aside one evening exclusively for the patients to do their shopping. Kyle Gregg, present manager, and his employees hosted the event again this year.

Some 200 patients, along with volunteers, and Big Spring State Hospital employees to assist them, participated in the festivities.

He warned the audience in the House chamber that residents of wealthy nations will suffer if they do not abandon their arrogant attitude that "the riches of the earth are ours to plunder."

"It's beginning to cause permanent damage to the planet's natural resource base," he said. "It is now a challenge that rivals the global arms race in importance."

The Global 2000 report projects a world population of six billion in 20 years, with most of the new population in poor nations.

Half the world's population

Agnich said the skyrocketing world population must be slowed. "Unless we can somehow limit those numbers, there will be those who have energy and those who don't," he said.

He predicted "famine, pestilence and warfare" will prevent the world from reaching the populations predicted in some reports.

Packaging People

Copyright 1980 Kester Advertising Service
P. O. Box 8024, Charlottesville, Virginia 22906

Know why we build skyscrapers? In order to have many more people working in a limited area. We package people vertically!

Among the skyscrapers our photographer has discovered a church. It too has a vertical element — a steeple pointing heavenward.

Church architecture with its traditional spires expresses our beliefs. People today are packaged too tightly. Pressure, custom, conformity crowd in upon our souls. Christ teaches that every person is important — each one of us is loved by our Lord.

As we worship God each week side by side, our beliefs point us heavenward.

N.W. Texas to get new bishop in Lubbock

Consecration of the Rev. Sam B. Hulsey of Midland as third bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Northwest Texas will be held at 10:30 a.m., Saturday, in Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Co-consecrators will be the Ret. Rev. George H. Quarterman, Amarillo, first bishop of the diocese, who retired in 1972 and the Ret.

REV. SAM B. HULSEY

Rev. Willis R. Henton, second bishop, who retired earlier this year to accept election as bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Western Louisiana.

Among diocesan officials expected to participate in the service in Lubbock is Evelyn Anderson, 1314 Sycamore, a member of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin in Big Spring. Mrs. Anderson is a member of the diocesan ministry and mission commission.

Hulsey was elected to the episcopate during a special diocesan meeting in Lubbock, Aug. 23. Born in Fort Worth in 1932, he has served congregations in Corsicana, Dallas, Pampa, and Midland. He has been rector of Church of the Holy Trinity in Midland since 1978.

The Diocese of Northwest Texas includes the Panhandle of Texas and extends to San Angelo, including Kermit to the west and Coleman to the east.

Baptist who defamed Jews will meet with offended ones to meet

By GEORGE CORNELL. NEW YORK (AP) — The blunt, folksy Rev. Bailey Smith, the Southern Baptist who has stirred a hullabaloo with remarks about Jews, has arranged a meeting with some of them to try to soothe the fringes.

But so far, says a spokesman, Smith isn't saying "yea or nay" about whether he intends to modify his comment that first aroused the clash, — that "God Almighty does not hear the prayer of a Jew."

There since have been other chafing words, on both sides.

In any case, the ebullient Smith, 41, president of the nation's largest Protestant body, the Southern Baptist Convention, has a meeting set in New York City Dec. 18 with Jewish leaders.

"I have a great desire for better understanding with you and your people," he wrote to Nathan Perlmutter, head of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, in initiating proposals for the meeting.

"I deeply regret any hurt that may have come by remarks credited to me. You and I both know that situations are not always what they appear to be when more information is revealed."

However, as to whether he still would maintain that God does not hear Jewish prayers, he relayed word through a spokesman he did not consider it appropriate to discuss the point before the meeting.

Smith, pastor of the big First Southern Baptist Church in Del City, Okla., was expected to bring denominational colleagues with him to the session and several Jewish leaders are expected to take part.

Several had sharply denounced Smith's statement, made at a mid-June rally in Dallas, as bigoted and anti-Semitic. Numerous Southern Baptist scholars also called it invalid and un-Scriptural. But Smith has not altered it. His remark in a broadcast sermon that "Jews have funny looking noses" further fanned the controversy.

On that occasion, Smith later explained, his remark was only a jesting aside, directed mainly at a Jewish-Christian member who before the service had kidded Smith, saying, "Preacher, you've got a bald spot and we Jews have funny looking noses."

Methodists to present 'Living Christmas Tree'

The Ministry of Music of First United Methodist Church will present "The Living Christmas Tree," Dec. 13 and 14, 7:30 p.m. in their sanctuary.

This very unique program will feature a choir of 75 voices with a 35 piece orchestra at the base of the Living Christmas Tree. Special lighting, elaborate costumes, choir robes and many surprises will add to the program. Glorious music of the Christmas season will be sung and played. The tree will present comedy, drama, and Christmas music.

The Living Christmas Tree will extend almost four stories into the air. The framework is laden with New Mexico pine, lights, and ornaments giving the appearance of a giant Christmas Tree.

First United Methodist Church, Big Spring, Texas, is located on the corner of 4th and Scurry Streets. A nursery is provided.

St. Paul Lutheran Church schedules advent service

St. Paul Lutheran Church holds its first advent service Sunday, accompanied by a pot luck dinner at 5 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall. Services will follow at 6:30 p.m. by the Rev. Carroll C. Kohl.

Special music will be presented by the Prison Quartet. The music will include Christmas hymns and carols.

David Keyes, Medical Assistant at the prison, will be in charge of the program.

Preacher-soldier bust dedicated in park

WASHINGTON (AP) — A life-size bronze bust of Peter Muhlenberg, the "Fighting Parson" of the American Revolution, recently was dedicated in a park named for him, completing part of a memorial project authorized by Congress more than 50 years ago.

As a brigadier general, he commanded a brigade that stormed a British redoubt in the final victory at Yorktown.

Muhlenberg, a Lutheran pastor in Woodstock, Va., in 1776, is said to have told worshippers, "In the language of Holy Writ there is a time for all things... there is a time to pray and a time to fight... and that time has come now."

He thereupon removed his vestments, and as a pastor-soldier enlisted about 3,000 parishioners from German Lutheran congregations and fought at Valley Forge, Brandywine, Germantown, Monmouth and Stony Point.

4-H'ers fight for first places in 4-H Food Show

The Glasscock County 4-H Food Show was held at the Garden City School Cafeteria with a Thanksgiving theme. Turkeys, pilgrims, and a huge horn of plenty decked the halls for the festival of thanks.

In the Junior Main Dish division, LeAnn Seidenberger took top honors with a Chicken Enchilada Casserole. With an Oriental flair, Laurel McDowell was named alternate for the Chicken Egg Rolls she prepared. Other blue ribbon winners in the main dish division were Michele Piechacek, Charlene Schraeder, and Jana Hunter.

First place in the Junior Side Dish division went to Deanna Wilde. Her entry was a delectable Broccoli and Rice Casserole.

Second place went to Kristi Jones. Her Surprise Casserole of yellow squash, cream, style corn, stuffing mix and cheese will be a taste tempter on anyone's table. Blue ribbons in this division were also given to Melissa Lopez, Jean Schraeder, Elizabeth Glass and Wendi Hilger.

Dana Hoelscher placed first in the Junior Snacks and Beverages division with her cheese logs. Second place went to Mary Schafer for her Dill Dip. Blue ribbon winners in this division included Jackie Halfmann, Carol Hoelscher, Kelly Strube and Amber Pike.

Western Loaf bread was the first place in the Breads and Dessert division. Stephanie Frerich was the chef. Second place went to Jacque Jost's German Chocolate Cake. Blue ribbons in this division were won by Lisa Halfmann, Suzie Halfmann, Dana Hillger, Carol Schwartz, Paula Wilde, Mandy Havlak, Joan Braden, Marisela Lopez, Deanna Plagens, Berta Saidibar, and Tavie Murphy.

In the Senior Main Dish division, Andrea Frerich took top honors with her Tropical Pork Salad.

Candy Overton placed first in the Senior Side Dish Division with the ever-popular Thanksgiving treat, Sweet Potato Casserole.

Second place went to Karen Halfmann. Her entry was Calico Salad, a mixture of wax beans, shoe peg corn, and green beans with vinegar dressing.

First place in Senior Snacks and Beverages went to Gina Wilde. Her entry was Georgia's Smoky Beef Salami. Second place went to Lisa Halfmann's Peach Pie.

Mary Kay Halfmann took top honors in the Senior Breads and Dessert Division. Her entry was a delectable combination of puddings called Chocolate Cheese Dessert. Second place went to Brenda Havlak's No Crust Coconut Pie.

These placings were given after an interview which revealed the 4-Hers nutritional knowledge. The food was tasted and graded. The 4-Hers 4-H foods project record was considered as well as a menu. The menu was judged for nutritional adequacy, color combination, texture combination and flavor combination.

Winners in each division received a trophy. The junior trophies were donated by Machicek Garage. The senior trophies were donated by Mr. and Mrs. George Schwartz. The winners will go on for district competition January 17 in Midland.

Leaders responsible for making the 4-H program in Glasscock County such a success are Annette Frerich, Helen Glass, Barbara Halfmann, Lillie Havlak, Debbie Schraeder, Doris Schwartz, Jeanie Wilde, Maria Saldivar, Janet Wilde, Linda Jones, Valeria Hoelscher and Marilee Jost.

The 4-Hers made a recipe book containing food show recipes. For copies, call The Glasscock County Extension office, 354-2381.

Miss Barton elected president of TARC

Officers for the movement TARC (Teens Aide for the Retarded Citizens) were elected Tuesday night in the party room at Quail Run Apartments. A president, vice-president, treasurer, corresponding secretary, recording secretary, and two advisors were selected.

Sarah Barton, a Big Spring High School student, was elected president and Dawn Underwood vice-president. Kellee Riddell took office as corresponding secretary and Laura Karwedsky as recording secretary. Terry Watkins was elected treasurer and elected as advisors were two special education teachers, Carol Green and Candy Middleton.

Catherine Jones, Cathy Davis, and Laura Karwedsky were appointed to the Christmas Committee. A fund-raising bake sale will be held on Dec. 13.

New members are welcomed to TARC. The next meeting will be held Dec. 9.

Dear Abby

'Old Flame's' Legacy Scars Troubled Wife

DEAR ABBY: I am in a nightmarish mess! I'm a 27-year-old married woman expecting my first baby next month. I love my husband and he loves me, but I cannot keep this baby because it isn't my husband's.

Two months before we were married I went out with an old flame. I got drunk and he took advantage of me, and I know this baby is his. My husband and I didn't have relations until after we were married, and my doctor tells me I am eight months along, instead of six as I had hoped.

Abby, I don't want this baby. I can't keep it. I told my husband the truth. He says he still loves me, but he can't love the baby knowing it's not his. Please don't think I'm an animal, but I want to give this baby up for adoption. I'm sure there are lots of people who would love to have it. I simply can't bear the thought of raising this child. What if it looks like my old boyfriend? Don't try to talk me into keeping it. Just tell me where to go to have it adopted, and may God forgive me.

ANONYMOUS, PLEASE

DEAR ANONYMOUS: You don't say where you live, but there must be an adoption agency near you. Your Family Service Association can help you. So can your doctor. Or contact Birthright. If you don't get immediate satisfaction from any of the above suggestions, write again and include your name and address. I promise an immediate response and absolute confidentiality.

DEAR ABBY: I feel stupid asking this question at my age (42), but here goes: What is a first cousin once removed? Is that the same as a second cousin? I know what first cousins are, but I am not sure what kind of relationship makes people second and third cousins.

NEVER TOO OLD

DEAR NEVER: Thanks for nudging me. I never clearly understood the "once-removed" relationship either, but after researching it, it goes like this:

I have a son named Edward. My sister has a daughter named Margo. Edward and Margo are first cousins. Margo has a son named Adam. What is Adam to Edward? He's a first cousin once removed.

Now, Edward has a son named Tyler. How are Tyler and Adam related? They are second cousins. The children of Adam and the children of Tyler will be third cousins. And their children will be fourth cousins, etc.

DEAR ABBY: About the M.D. WITH $35,000 ON THE BOOKS: His letter brought to mind the following verse by John Owen:

"God and the doctor we alike adore
But only when in danger, not before.
The danger o'er, both are alike required,
God is forgotten, and the doctor slighted."

RUTH IN MODESTO

DEAR RUTH: The problem is universal. The Chinese say: "The wise dentist presents his bill while the tooth is hurting."

Fertility rates are studied

ATLANTA (AP) — Hispanic women had a higher overall fertility rate than other white women and blacks in a study of fertility rates among ethnic groups in Texas from 1950 through 1977, the national Centers for Disease Control has reported.

The CDC and the Texas Department of Health conducted the study and found 135.5 births per 1,000 Hispanic women aged 15 to 44 in 1977. The fertility rate among other white women was 62.8 and among blacks was 91.9.

The national fertility rate the same year was 67.8 per 1,000 women aged 15 to 44.

Since 1960, the fertility rate among all three groups has declined, the study showed. The rate among Hispanics likely will continue to decline, the report said, because of "the current level of contraceptive use and the interest in use expressed by Hispanic survey respondents."

She wants kissing lessons

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm really embarrassed to write about this but here goes. I'm an 18-year-old girl and I don't know how to kiss. I've been asked out a lot but I always say no because I'm ashamed to admit I don't know how to kiss.

I have a friend (a guy) who was going to teach me but I was afraid he would wind up laughing at me.

I really want to learn because I like this certain guy and I want to go out with him but I can't think of it until I learn how to kiss. Help. — Kathy, Fort Smith, Ark.

Kathy: Please read the next letter from Kris and the informal survey on kissing.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a normal 18-year-old girl who has graduated from high school, has a good job, and is popular with my friends. I have no problems but I'd like to ask you a question if I may. I have only kissed one boy in my life.

It wasn't because I didn't have the opportunities, it was because I wanted kissing to be very special, not given to every guy who came along.

My question is, "Are guys turned off by girls who are not expert kissers?" — Kris, Bartlesville, Okla.

Kris: I presented your question to a high school football team in Garden Grove, Calif., and found that the great majority of the guys preferred a girlfriend who was not worldly-wise in the art of kissing. This information should place you high on the list of preferred dates.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 16 and was going steady with John but broke up with him because I met Bob who is the cousin of my best girlfriend. Well, Bob broke up with me and I want John back.

I've called John and talked to him but he seems uninterested. Can you please help me get John back? — Linda, Porterville, Calif.

Linda: Write him a note explaining how you feel about him and that you want to see him again — that's all. He knows that you are available and will contact you if he still cares.

If I were John I'd also seem uninterested in you — permanently!

Polishing silver can be therapeutic

Polishing silver is a chore for some people and "therapy" for others. Those who recommend it say that it is calming after a trying day at the office to briskly clean and polish their favorite candlesticks or bread tray and to see them shine. If you're planning to try it before resorting to breaking a dish or two, use a protective hand cream. Silver, brass and metal polishes can be hard on hands. Kerodex 71 is a protective barrier cream, available in pharmacies, which acts as a non-greasy, invisible glove between polishing agents and the skin.

Hyperions to continue scholarships

The 1955 Hyperion Club met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Jimmy Morehead. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Jay Cunningham and Mrs. H.B. Perry.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. James Cowan, president. Mrs. James Cave read a letter telling of the 100th-year celebration of the railroad coming to Big Spring.

The club voted to send Mrs. Matthew Hunter and Mrs. Roy Reeder as representatives to determine how the club might participate in the celebration.

Mrs. Walter Wheat gave a report on the upcoming bond election.

The project committee suggested the club continue this year with a $100 scholarship to a student at Howard College.

Felicia Ford and Tammy Spears presented a program of Christmas carols.

The hostess' home was decorated for the holiday season and she presented a special basket of treats to Mrs. James Owens as a door prize.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Wheat on Jan. 6.

Reagan expected to take tough anti-Castro stand

By STEPHEN C. SMITH
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — The sun-drenched but mostly poor islands of the Caribbean can expect greater aid and cooperation from the incoming administration of Ronald Reagan, observers say.

The president-elect gained the support of the Cuban-American community during his campaign by vowing to stop Cuban President Fidel Castro from "exporting communism."

He also promised to increase economic assistance to the Caribbean.

Hints about a possible Reagan policy emerged just before the election from Roger Fontaine of the American Enterprise Institute, a senior Reagan adviser mentioned frequently as a likely choice for a high State Department post.

Caribbean in particular would receive higher priority than the previous administration (gave it)," Fontaine said.

Reagan's chief foreign policy adviser, Richard V. Allen, last week put a gag on the president-elect's foreign affairs advisers, suggesting they postpone meetings with reporters and foreign visitors because of "the distortions that might result from your conversation."

However, a story in Thursday editions of The New York Times detailed a transition team report recommending a reduction in the influence of "social reformers" and human rights advocates in the State Department's Bureau of Inter-American Affairs, which deals with the Caribbean and Latin America.

The report criticized President Carter's advisers on the National Security Council and the role played by some ambassadors, specially Robert White, ambassador to El Salvador. Ambassadors "are not supposed to function in the capacity of social reformers and advocates of new theories of social change" in the countries to which they are accredited, said the report.

White has supported land redistribution and nationalization of the banking system in El Salvador, now ruled by a military-civilian coalition fighting against extreme leftists.

In regard to human rights, the report said the Reagan administration should avoid confrontations with governments accused of violations. In contrast, Carter has actively encouraged other nations to improve their records on this issue and has sometimes threatened to withhold aid from countries who abused human rights.

Despite the silence of Reagan's advisers, a consensus emerging from interviews with State Department experts, scholars and Republican Senate sources on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is that Reagan, like Carter, will concentrate on providing economic aid to friendly governments, while taking a much harder line toward Castro.

"The Carter administration has tended to ignore Cuban activities in the last four years and tried to adopt a warm relationship with Castro," said a Republican source on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee who asked not to be identified.

"I think it would be fairly safe to say those sorts of relationships are not likely under President Reagan. I think Cuban involvement in places like Angola, Ethiopia, Nicaragua and other countries will be looked upon more seriously and with grave concern by the Reagan administration," he said.

Under the Reagan presidency, U.S. immigration laws will likely be toughened to stop the flow of refugees, which in 1980 alone brought more than 125,000 Cubans and some 25,000 Haitians into the country.

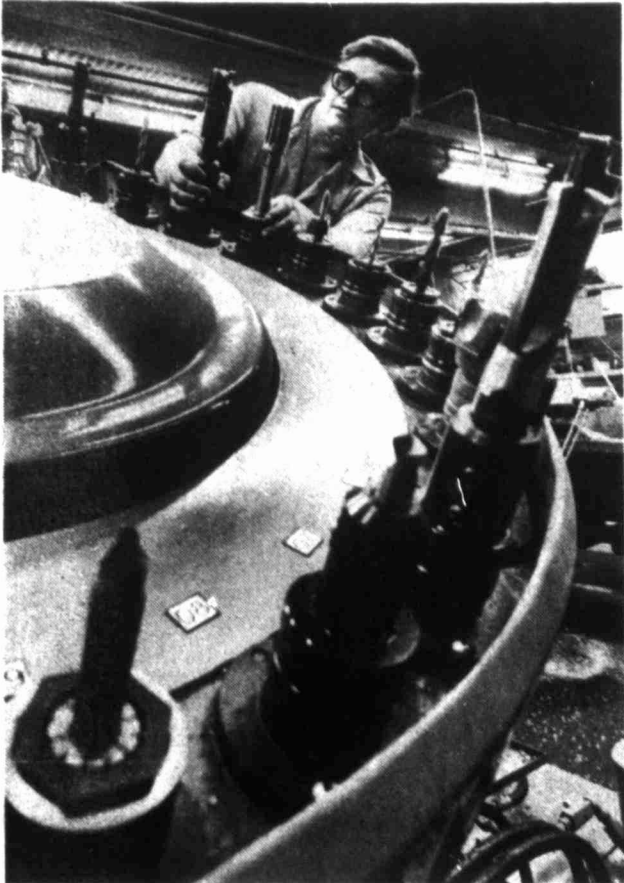

American companies might be offered incentives to invest in U.S.-leaning nations like the Dominican Republic, Haiti and Jamaica.

And money will likely continue flowing into hurricane-ravaged Windward Island countries such as Dominica and St. Lucia to revive their one-crop economies.

Hurricane David in 1979 and Hurricane Allen this year virtually destroyed the banana crop on Dominica and heavily damaged crops on other islands. U.S. aid to the Windward islands for fiscal 1981 is $193 million.

Knight says any new American policy must concentrate on economics and put less emphasis on military and strategic matters.

TOOL-GO-ROUND — This automated machining center, an important fixture at Tenneco's J I Case Company plant in Wichita, Kan., can perform any combination of 30 different operations automatically, selecting the proper tool from this rotating disc and applying it with precision to the product being machined. Leonard Stowell gives two of the tools a routine check. The Wichita plant makes light equipment for the construction industry.

Volunteer Services Council schedules arts, crafts sale

The Volunteer Services Council for Big Spring State Hospital will hold its fourth annual Arts and Crafts Sale Saturday from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. in the Highland Shopping Center Mall.

proceeds will go to the patients Christmas fund.

Homemade gift items, Christmas decorations and baked goods will be available. All items are made and donated by volunteers serving Big Spring State Hospital patients. These volunteers are from Midland, Big Spring, Lamesa, Ackerly and Colorado City. All

Also available during the sale will be the cookbook recently reprinted by the Council entitled "Best of the West-Cookery by the 'Best of the West' volunteers for Big Spring State Hospital." The book sells for $3.50 and is a compilation of new and old recipes from volunteers.

The booth will be manned by volunteers from the various communities and Volunteer Services staff members.

FRESH WATER FROM AN OLD WELL

A TRIP THROUGH THE BIBLE

With the Holy Spirit as my guide I entered the wonderful temple of Christianity. I entered at the portico of Genesis, walked down through the Old Testament art galleries where the pictures of Noah, Abraham, Moses, Joseph, Isaac, Jacob, and Daniel hung on the wall.

I walked into the music room of Psalms, where the Spirit swept the keyboard of nature until it seemed that every reed and pipe in God's great organ responded to the tuneful harp of David, the sweet singer of Israel.

I entered the chamber of Ecclesiastes, where the voice of the preacher was heard and into the conservatory of Sharon and the Lily-of-the-Valley's sweet scented spices filled and perfumed my life.

I entered the business of Proverbs and then into the observatory room of the prophets, where I saw telescopes of various sizes pointed to far-off events but all concentrated upon the bright and morning star which was to rise over the hills of Judea for our Salvation.

I entered the audience room of the King of Kings and caught a vision of His glory from the standpoint of Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John; walked in the Acts of the Apostles, where the Holy Spirit was doing His work in the formation of the infant Church. Then, into the correspondence room where Paul, Peter, James and John prepared their Epistles.

I stepped into the throne room of Revelation, where towered the glittering throne, and caught a vision of the king sitting at the right hand of God, in all His Glory, and I cried —

All hail the power of Jesus' name.
Let Angels prostrate fall!
Bring forth the royal diadem
And Crown Him Lord of All!

THE WAY IT WAS... A herd of Houston Oiler defenders put the crunch to Pittsburgh Steeler running back Franco Harris (32) during action in last night's game. The Oiler defense was superb all night in leading Houston to a 6-0 victory.

Houston stays alive in classic defensive struggle Oilers outmuscle Steelers

HOUSTON (AP) — Just as Houston Coach Bum Phillips promised, the Oilers finally kicked in the door of the Pittsburgh's Steel Curtain.
 Unfortunately for the Oilers, when they knocked the hinges off Pittsburgh's title hopes with a 6-0 shutout Thursday night, they found the Cleveland Browns waiting on the other side.
 Houston kicker Toni Fritsch returned to the team's good graces with a pair of pressure 37 and 33 yards field goals and the Oiler "Blue Curtain" defense made the kicks stand up for a victory that virtually eliminated the defending world champions from the playoffs.
 Despite the personal triumph, the Oilers still find themselves in second place in the American Football Conference Central Division behind the Cleveland Browns, who beat the Oilers 17-14 Sunday when Fritsch missed a field goal that would have tied the game.

 Cleveland leads the division with a 9-4 record followed by Houston at 9-5 and Pittsburgh at 8-6.
 The Oilers have lost to the Steelers in emotional AFC championship games the past two years and the thought of not facing them a third time displeased Phillips.
 "It makes me a little bit sad," Phillips said. "I'd rather play them again. They are still a good football team and we've had some great games."
 Oiler safety Mike Reinfield, who intercepted all Terry Bradshaw passes, had few regrets however.
 "As much money as they've taken out of our pockets the past two years, it's nice to take money out of their pockets for a chance," Reinfield said.
 Fritsch, who had missed three of his last four field goal tries after hitting 14 in a row, provided all the offense the defense needed to keep the Oilers' playoff hopes alive.

 "The first field goal I kick for the team—and for myself," Fritsch said. "When I made it, I knew I'd be kicking them straight the whole game. I've been in this league 10 years and I've known pressure before. It doesn't bother me."
 Houston's defense played a superb game, forcing five Pittsburgh turnovers, including two interceptions by safety Mike Reinfield and one by cornerback Greg Stenrick. The Steeler offense that once terrorized all comers, managed only 22 yards in the second quarter.
 Oiler defensive coordinator Ed Biles said the Oilers made only minor changes in their defensive scheme for the Steelers.
 "The whole key was we kept the pressure on Bradshaw," Biles said. "He couldn't sit back there all day and do what he wanted to do. We didn't think they could beat us running the ball so we concentrated on the pass."

 Neither team had a serious scoring threat in the first half but the Steelers got a big break in the third quarter when cornerback J.C. Wilson's pass interference penalty gave Pittsburgh a first down at the Oiler one.
 After a five-yard illegal motion penalty, however, Reinfield picked off a Terry Bradshaw pass into the end zone and the Oilers drove to Fritsch's first field goal.
 The Oilers put Fritsch on the field again early in the fourth quarter after linebacker Gregg Bingham recovered Franco Harris' second fumble of the game at the Steeler 33.
 Pittsburgh's other deep penetration into Oiler territory came with 5:00 left to play when kicker Matt Pahr missed a 42-yard field goal attempt.

 Reports of the Steelers' demise have been greatly exaggerated, however, according to the Steelers.
 "This club isn't going to get far off their winning ways," Center Mike Webster said. "Nothing ended here tonight, things began. We will correct our errors and benefit from our mistakes and then we'll be back as strong as ever."
 Defensive tackle Joe Greene said "They would have won the ball game no matter where it was played. We played as good a football game as we could and we just lost to a better team. It's disappointing, but we've won in the past and we've been in the past and we've been in the past."

Hawk Queens outlast FPC

BORGER — The Howard College Hawk Queens overcame a shoddy shooting performance with some outstanding defense in taking a 54-45 win over Frank Phillips in the Western Conference girls opener for both teams here Thursday night.
 The contest was originally scheduled for 6:00 p.m., but Frank Phillips balked after the Hawk Queens and the officials arrived, thereby moving the game back to 8:00 p.m. The long wait seemed to alter the Hawk Queens early, but they still managed to slowly ease to a 21-17 halftime lead.
 The contest remained close in the second half, with the Hawk Queens holding only a 31-25 lead going into the final 10 minutes.
 But the Hawk Queens, behind the scoring of Julie Hill and Cynthia Robinson, held off the Frank Phillips team at the end. Hill had 15 points for the night, while Robinson added 10.
 Linda McReynolds paced Frank Phillips with 11 points.

The Hawk Queens could connect on only 34 percent of their shots, with inside scoring ace Kelly Lyons managing only eight points. She did pull down 20 rebounds to carry her load, however.
 "It was just one of those nights where nothing would go in," said Hawk Queens Coach Don Stevens. "We couldn't buy a bucket."
 "We won with our defense," the Howard College mentor continued. "It was just outstanding and we wouldn't have been in the game at all."
 The win gives the HC women a 1-0 conference mark and a season record of 10-1. Frank Phillips is now 0-1 and 7-2.
 The Hawk Queens come home on Monday for a 6:00 p.m. encounter with rugged Western Texas. Stevens is hoping that Jill Floyd, sophomore starter, who missed the Frank Phillips game with an illness, will be back in the line-up for that matchup.

Luftrick 0-0; Lyons 4-0; Luna 2-1; Hill 5-5; Robinson 5-10; Muir 4-1; Bell 0-0; TOTALS 57-54

No urine samples taken after Duran-Leonard bout

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Nobody took urine samples from Roberto Duran or Sugar Ray Leonard after their championship fight here, violating World Boxing Council rules, state boxing officials acknowledge.
 "It is a violation of the rules, but not by the fighters," said Jose Sulaiman, WBC president. But he said he did not blame Louisiana State Boxing Commission Chairman Emile Bruneau, who was responsible under WBC rules for making sure the samples were collected.

Duran lost the title to Leonard when he quit fighting in the eighth round of the Nov. 25 fight, complaining of stomach cramps.
 There was no evidence that either fighter is suspected of using illegal drugs or violating any regulation. WBC rules require antidoping tests on both fighters after a championship bout.
 "Duran never had a urinalysis. We couldn't get a sample because it was bedlam in Duran's locker room. These Panamanians were going crazy," said Bruneau.

Montgomery paces UT over NMSU

By The Associated Press
 Ken Montgomery hit a career high 34 points Thursday night as the University of Texas scored a 102-82 basketball victory over New Mexico State of the Missouri Valley Conference.
 Southwest Conference basketball teams won three of five non-conference games Thursday night, highlighted by the Texas victory.

Baylor beat Southwestern, 73-66, and Texas Tech downed Western Kentucky, 68-58. On the losing side of the ledger, Notre Dame easily rolled past Texas Christian, 79-63, and Southwest Texas of the Lone Star Conference edged Rice, 68-67.
 Texas basketball coach Abe Lemons perhaps understated Montgomery's performance, saying, "Montgomery did have a good night's shooting."

Hawks explode for 128-94 win in Chaparral Classic

MIDLAND — The Howard College Hawks opened their bid for the Midland College Chaparral Classic championship here Thursday afternoon by running to an easy 128-94 win over St. Phillips College of San Antonio.
 The Hawks, behind the shooting of Randy Corker, were never threatened in the contest. Corker scored all 33 of his points in the wild first half which saw the Hawks take a 63-40 intermission advantage.
 Howard College Coach Harold Wilder left his starting team in for only four minutes of the second half, and then totally emptied the bench. A total of 13 Hawks scored in the win, which boosts the HC record to 7-3.

 In other first round games in the Olympic style tournament, Midland blasted Laredo JC 112-74, and Odessa College outscored Eastern Arizona 88-78.
 In tonight's games, Odessa faces St. Phillips at 5:30, Midland meets Eastern Arizona at 7:30, and Howard faces Laredo in the finale at 9:30. Action concludes Saturday night, with the team with the best record claiming the title. If more than one team has the best record, the championship will be decided by the best point differential of the contending teams.

 Corker's point production in the first half was enough to claim high point honors in the game. Four other Hawks hit in double figures, with Kenneth Jones leading the way with 20. Ron Akins added 15. Jeff Faubion 12 and Walter Hall 10.
 Rod Lewis had 18 for St. Phillips.
 HOWARD (128) — Akins 4-15; Corker 11-11; Jones 8-4; Faubion 6-0; Loving 4-1; Hall 4-2; Johnson 3-0; Hirsch 2-1; Adams 2-0; Mound 3-3; Wallace 1-1; Chatfield 1-0; Wainright 1-0; TOTALS 51-26-128

In game with Notre Dame

USC excited with chance for redemption

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The circumstances are unusual for a Southern California-Notre Dame football game, but that hasn't stopped Coach John Robinson of the Trojans from looking forward to Saturday's annual battle between the two perennial powerhouses. And that's putting it mildly.

"I'm more excited about this game than any I can remember," Robinson said earlier this week. "It's that element of fear. Our team is stimulated by what has happened. I believe we are going to play very hard."

What's happened, among other things, is this: Notre Dame, 9-0-1, is ranked second nationally and controls its own destiny as far as winning the national championship is concerned.

All the Irish have to do to win the national title is beat the 17th-ranked Trojans (7-2-1) and then defeat top-rated Georgia (11-0) in the Sugar Bowl on Jan. 1.

Southern Cal., on the other hand, had an unbeaten streak of 28 games before losing to Rose Bowl-bound Washington on Nov. 15. The following Saturday, the Trojans were beaten by crosstown rival UCLA, giving them two losses in a row.

Both were suffered at the Los Angeles Coliseum, site of Saturday's game. For USC to lose three straight at the Coliseum would seem to be impossible.

"All the news we get is that they are approaching this as the biggest game in USC history," said Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine. "They're looking at our ranking, plus they don't want to lose three in a row."

"And don't forget, one of the greatest incentives for any team is to finish on a winning note."

The nationally televised game will begin at 12:50 p.m., PST before an expected crowd of nearly 90,000. The possibility of a wet field loomed according to weather forecasts.

Notre Dame, a slight favorite, hasn't had much luck against the Trojans in recent years. USC has won five of its last six games against the Irish and is 9-2-2 since 1966, when Southern Cal. was thrashed 51-0.

Both teams will rely on youngsters in key positions. The Irish have been doing that most of the season with freshman Blair Kiel at quarterback at sophomore Phil Carter at tailback, among others.

The Trojans offensive backfield will feature nothing but inexperience, with five sophomores sharing the duties.

Senior quarterback Gordon Adams suffered a knee injury and was lost for the season in the Washington game. He was replaced by Scott Tinsley.

Junior tailback Marcus Allen, one of the country's top rushers, won't play because of an eye injury suffered in the UCLA game. Anthony Gibson and Michael Harper are expected to alternate at that spot.

Two fullbacks have been lost — Doug MacKenzie had knee surgery at mid-season and Paul DiLulo has been excused from the game because of a laceration in his family. Thomas Jefferson and Bob McClanahan will share the position.

With last year's Western Texas team

Nolan Richardson coached Tulsa upsets Louisville

Nolan Richardson has just graduated to the major college ranks at Tulsa and already is making high marks against the opposition.

Coaching a team that largely resembles his junior college national champions from Western Texas, Richardson pulled off one of the early surprises of this college basketball season Thursday night with a 68-60 victory over eighth-ranked Louisville.

"I did a heck of a job and I'm going to take credit for it," said Richardson, glowing over his team's upset of the defending NCAA champions.

Richardson, starting four players from his junior college champions, insisted that the victory was not a fluke.

"We should have been up 15 points by rights at half-time," said Richardson, pointing out that his team blew several easy shots. "Missing those kind of layups, in the second half of those that have got to fall."

The loss was the second straight for the winless Cardinals, who dropped their opener to DePaul in the Hall of Fame Game at Springfield, Mass.

"Tulsa just outthrust us," said Louisville Coach Denny Crum. "When you get outthrust, there's no excuse."

In other action involving the nation's ranked teams, No. 6 Oregon State walloped Cal State Northridge 78-47; No. 13 Notre Dame stopped Texas Christian 79-61; No. 20 Georgetown routed St. Leo College 108-73.

David Brown scored 13 second-half points, including a game-breaking slam-dunk with 20 seconds left, to lead the Hurricane's upset. Brown finished with 15 points and Tulsa's arm-waving defense stymied the defending NCAA champion Cardinals down the stretch in a contest with bizarre twists.

Tulsa led 35-32 after a first half played without benefit of a game clock or scoreboard. A hockey scoreboard was used in the second half after the overhead board blinked out three minutes into the game.

Early in the second half, Louisville's Wiley Brown, who scored a team-leading 12 points, was ejected on a flagrant foul when he jumped off the bench to scuffle with Brown.

Louisville led 46-45 at the time but the Cardinals never put their offense together after that. The game was last tied at 50 with 10:48 left. It was one of 13 ties in the contest in which the lead changed hands seven times.

Steve Johnson scored 21 points to pace Oregon State over Cal State Northridge. The Beavers had no difficulty as Johnson scored 17 of his points at the half, helping them to a 45-26 lead. Kelly Tripucka scored 22 points and pulled down 10 rebounds as Notre Dame rolled past TCU. The Irish led all the way, never letting the Horned Frogs closer than 11 points, which happened with 4:42 to play as Notre Dame went into a deliberate offense. TCU was outrebounded 22-15 at the half and 39-29 for the game.

"Notre Dame was just too big, too strong and top good," said TCU Coach Tim Killingsworth. "I knew the Irish would be big and strong. I knew we would have a lot of difficulty trying to control the boards."

Forsan wins pair in Garden City Tourney

GARDEN CITY — Both the Forsan boys and girls teams came away with wins in the first round of the Garden City Invitational Tournament here Thursday.

The Forsan boys scored an easy 70-20 win over the Sterling City JVs, with the Forsan girls taking a 66-25 win over Rankin after a slow start.

The wins give the Forsan teams respective records of 3-0.

Ricky Bedwell led the Forsan boys in their win, tallying 18 points. Forsan will meet Sterling City at 4:30 today in the semifinal round. The other semifinal round in the boys competition finds Merton meeting Water Valley.

In the consolation boys bracket, the Sterling City JVs face Westbrook, while Grady tangles with Garden City.

In other opening round games, Sterling City thrashed Westbrook 66-24, Merton defeated Grady 41-25, and Water Valley outlasted Garden City 59-51.

The Forsan girls jumped out to an 11-8 lead, but had things their own way thereafter. Christi Adams had 18 points to lead the well balanced Buffalo Queen attack, while Black scored 16 for Rankin.

The Forsan girls will face Sterling City in a semifinal game at 3:00 this afternoon, with the other second round tilt finding Garden City facing Merton. In the consolation bracket, Rankin will meet Westbrook and Grady faces Water Valley.

Garden City took a 44-31 win over Water Valley in Friday's girls action, while Sterling City toppled Westbrook 40-30 and Merton defeated Grady 46-35.

Eric Floyd scored 24 points, including a perfect 11-for-11 from the field, to lead Georgetown to an easy victory over St. Leo. The taller and quicker Hoyas scored as well as they opened a 24-point halftime lead behind Floyd's shooting.

"This is what we should have started with, not that Alaska trip," said Georgetown Coach John Thompson, referring to two losses last weekend in the Great Alaska Shootout Tournament.

In other action, Jeff Taylor scored a career-high 30 points to lead Texas Tech to a 68-58 decision over Western Kentucky; Phillips Hayes contributed 23 points as Memphis State beat Southwestern Louisiana 80-76.

In Levelland Tourney

Plainview nips Steers

"That had a lot to do with them beating us," said Steer Coach Ed Haller. "But we weren't aggressive for the most part, and you can get anybody to foul if you stand back and wait for them to."

A Steer win over Slaton this afternoon would propel them into the consolation finals tomorrow afternoon at two. A loss today would put the Big Spring crew in an 11:00 a.m. game Saturday. The team will be returning to Big Spring Saturday evening.

Plainview was led in the scoring column by Alton

Goliad stops Coahoma twice

Two Goliad Middle School boys' basketball teams started the season off on the right foot Thursday, beating Coahoma in each instance.

The Goliad Black team won, 40-11, while the White club turned back the visitors, 42-12.

The same clubs will meet at Goliad again Dec. 11. Game times will be at 4 p.m., and 5:15 p.m.

Practice pays off in San Antonio Spurs win

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — One day of practice made a world of difference for the San Antonio Spurs who were blown out on their home court by the Phoenix Suns the previous game for their second straight loss at the HemisFair Arena.

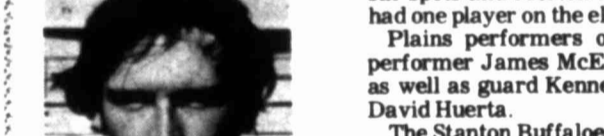

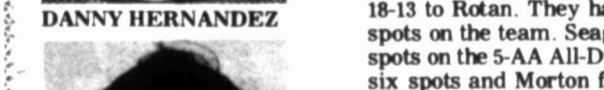

The jeers turned to cheers Thursday night as San Antonio coasted to an easy 130-100 drubbing of the hapless Cleveland Cavaliers and displayed some of the tenacious defense that put them atop the Midwest Division early in the season.

"It was nice to get our running game back," said

Spurs coach Stan Albeck who promised his players would go "back to basics" after the Tuesday night loss to Phoenix that brought sporadic boomer from the fans.

Practice pays off in San Antonio Spurs win

Curtis Williams two-way choice

Five Buffs named 5-AA All-District

As is usually not the case in picking a post-season football team comprised of outstanding members, the 5-AA All-District squad was not well represented by league co-champion Plains, as three other teams placed more members on the elite list.

Plains, which tied Stanton for the league title, advanced to last week's regional battle before losing by 18-13 to Rotan. They had three players named to four spots on the team. Seagraves, meanwhile, filled seven spots on the 5-AA All-District squad, while Stanton had six spots and Morton five. O'Donnell and Ropes each had one player on the elite team.

Plains performers on the team included two-way performer James McElroy at quarterback-secondary, as well as guard Kenneth Ruthardt and defensive end David Huerta.

The Stanton Buffaloes, who finished with a sparkling 9-0-1 record had another two-way All-District choice in the form of 145-pound stalwart Curtis Williams. The versatile senior was named as a running back and as a defensive back.

Other Stanton players named to the All-District team included linebacker Greg Douglas, defensive end Lee Byrd, defensive tackle Danny Hernandez, as well as running back Kevin Newman. All are seniors except Newman, who is a junior.

Seagraves finished one-and-a-half games behind both Stanton and Plains in the race, but had more performers on the team, with five being on the offensive side. Four of the Seagraves players named were on the offensive line.

Besides Williams and McElroy, Morton's Mike Dewbre and Seagraves' Dean Tupin were two-way choices at offensive tackle and defensive lineman.

Williams, who played seven games at quarterback and the rest at tailback accumulated over 370 yards rushing on 104 carries, and completed 19 of 55 passes for 376 yards and five touchdowns. Defensively, Williams had eight interceptions and was one of the leading tacklers on the team.

Newman missed the last two games with a deep thigh bruise, but still carried for 787 yards on 180 carries in the first eight games.

There was not a second team or honorable mention All-District 5-AA squad picked. Those chosen to the elite list were done so by the seven head coaches in 5-AA.

Whoever said, "What goes up must come down", had not been buying groceries.

An optimist fears that we live in the best of all possible worlds. The pessimist fears this is true.

A Bachelor friend said he had eaten so many TV dinners that he broke out in a test pattern.

Here's a Xmas story for you — a Russian named Rudolph looked out of his Moscow window and said: "It's raining." His wife looked up & promptly disagreed: "It's snowing."

Whereupon Rudolph went into a tantrum: "It's raining darn it! I said it's raining — and Rudolph the Red knows rain, dear!"

Speaking of Xmas — BIG SPRING SEED & CHEMICAL, 602 N.E. 2nd has lots of items that would be good for gifts. Stop by & let Jimmy suggest some things for the man of the house. e.g. Tools, Jackknives, Jumper cables, water coolers & much more. Stop in for coffee & check for yourself. Be kind to your dog — buy him some "TOP FLIGHT" dog food at the 25% savings price...only $7.50, for a 50 lb. bag.

WE WON — Houston Oilers Earl Campbell all smiles as Pittsburgh Steelers' quarterback Terry Bradshaw congratulated him on the Houston Oilers win Thursday night at Houston. The Oilers won the NFL game on the strength of two field goals, 6-0.

Fritsch's toe the difference as Oilers stay in playoff run fortunate." The Oiler victory convinced Bradshaw of Houston's talent.

"This is a much better football team than Cleveland," Bradshaw said. "There's no comparison. We did all we could do tonight and we lost to a great effort. They put a lot of pressure on me and I wasn't able to do the things I wanted to do."

Houston quarterback Ken Stabler, who shouldered some of the criticism from the Oilers' two straight losses prior to Thursday night, said he preferred to be judged at the end of the season.

"If I throw 30 interceptions and we make the playoffs, that's fine with me," Stabler said. "A lot of people write you off after a loss. All that matters to me are the people in this (dressing) room."

The shutout was the first

Pittsburgh has suffered since Sept. 29, 1974 when they lost to the Oakland Raiders, and, yes, quarterback Stabler.

Well known athletes set for Dallas track meet

DALLAS (AP) — The best triple-jump field ever assembled for any U.S. indoor meet and former Olympic athletes Harvey Glance and Francie Larriue-Smith will headline the Dallas Times Herald Invitational Track Meet at Reunion Arena Jan. 31, said meet director Ted McLaughlin.

The event, with proceeds to benefit a civic arts organization, will be "as good an indoor meet as you'll see in the United States this year," said McLaughlin who also serves as track coach for Southern Methodist University.

"Several events are already loaded with talent," he said, mentioning specifically the triple jump. "I consider it the best (triple jump field) ever assembled for an indoor meet in the United States."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, DEC. 6, 1980

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You need to make sure you get the right information from various sources since some persons are likely to be careless in stating facts correctly. Be alert at all times.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good day to get much done that is personal in nature. Study your surroundings and make long-range plans for improvement.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take steps to improve your environment. You are able to have more rapport with loved one. Think logically and act wisely.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Let your friends spell out clearly what they desire of you where recreations are concerned and go along with them if feasible.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be sure you follow through with promises you've made and keep out of trouble. Think constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) This is a good day to engage in new outlets, provided you have studied them well. Make this a most productive day.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan how to handle regular duties more efficiently. Avoid expensive mistakes by being more alert. Put your talents to work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Show more interest in civic affairs and gain more respect. Allow time to engage in favorite hobby with congenials.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take extra time ironing out wrinkles in work at hand. Meet new persons who can help enrich your life in many ways.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal time to engage in favorite hobby with friends. Take health treatments and improve your appearance.

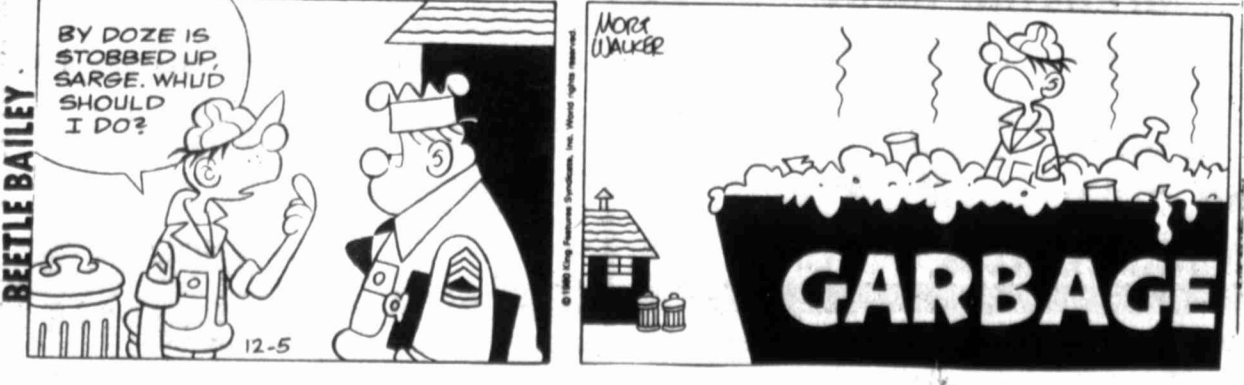

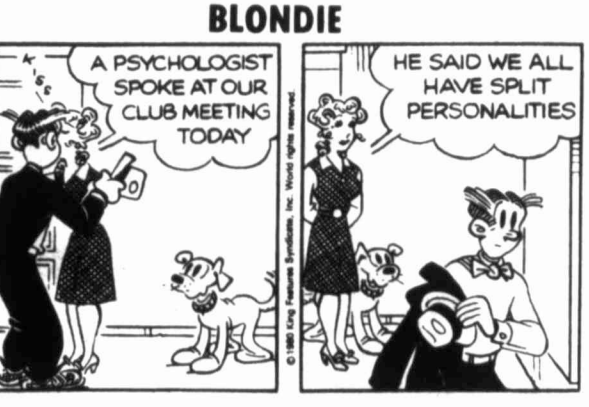

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) There are new interests you can look into that could be beneficial in the future. Don't neglect regular chores.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan how to make your routines work more efficiently so that you need not worry so much. Use care in travel.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be sure you study every detail of a new project before going ahead with it. Show more devotion to loved one.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very good at solving problems and should have as fine an education as possible in order to make the most of this talent. The pioneer spirit is definitely in this chart. Be sure to give good spiritual training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

WASHINGTON LOTTERY TICKET UNEARTHED — George Gloss, proprietor of the Brattle Book Shop in Boston, displays George Washington lottery tickets Thursday. Top one (white No. 191) is a facsimile with George's signature enhanced. Bottom one (No. 230) is real but ink on signature has faded. Gloss, believes his ticket would sell to a collector for about $800-$10,000, probably more than Washington made out of it.

Brucellosis control program set

Area cattlemen will have an opportunity to hear about the new governmental imposed brucellosis control program Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Tumbleweed Room of the Student Union Building on the Howard College Campus.

The program is being sponsored by the Agricultural Committee of the Big Spring Rotary Club and the livestock program area committees of Howard and Martin counties.

Moderator for the event will be Don Richardson, Howard County Extension Agent. Featured speakers on the program will be Dr. Nelson Adams, area Extension livestock specialist from Ft. Stockton, who will discuss the plan in general and give a background on the disease itself.

Dr. Don McDonald, Sterling City veterinarian, will discuss immunology and the testing procedure; Dr. Hank Thompson, Big Spring veterinarian, will discuss the transmission of the disease and survival of the organism and other odd facts about the disease.

Steer show preview scheduled Saturday

The Howard County 4-H members are inviting everyone in Howard County to attend their first Spring Steer Show Preview. The steers, which will be exhibited this spring at livestock shows at Fort Worth, San Antonio, Houston and many others, will be at the Howard County Fair Barns for your appraisal from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., Saturday.

There will be a training clinic on the topics of feeding, fitting and showmanship beginning at 10 a.m. Steers will begin weighing at the Fair Barns at 8:30 a.m. and the program will end at noon. The afternoon will be set aside for trimming steers.

The 4-H'ers hope to have the communities support in 1981 and this may be your chance to get acquainted with our youth. For more information call Andy Vestal, County Extension Agent — Agriculture, at 267-1821.

Energy—1,070 rigs busy in Texas

The number of working oil wells in the state dropped this week.

As of Monday, 1,070 rigs were making hole, compared to 1,090 for the previous week. This also represents a drop from the 1,094 total of a month ago, but stays ahead of the 898 total for this time last year.

The drop in Texas' working wells was reflected in the national total which fell from 3,231 last week to 3,209 this week. The total is almost even with the 3,210 total of a month ago, and well above the 2,530 total for this time last year.

Two die in apartment fire

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas woman and two of her children died early today when a fire swept through their apartment, fire officials said.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Lois R. Johnson, 30, and two of her four sons, C.F. Johnson, 4, and Casey Johnson, 2.

Firemen said the woman's husband and two other sons were taken to Parkland Hospital. The extent of their injuries were not immediately known, officials said.

The husband was identified as C.F. Johnson and the sons were identified as Cedric F. Johnson and Cedric D. Johnson.

Fire department investigators said they were not immediately able to determine the cause of the fire at the Calvary Arms Apartments in southeast Dallas. No damage estimate was immediately available.
