Basques free consuls; declare 'cease-fire'

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Basque separatists who have waged a decade-long terrorism campaign against the Spanish government announced a cease-fire on Saturday and released unharmed three honorary consuls kidnapped a week ago.

It was not immediately clear if the moratorium on violence applied to other separatist groups besides the moderate political wing of the organization ETA, which announced the decision in a clandestine news conference after releasing the honorary consuls of Uruguay, El Salvador and Austria.

There was no immediate comment from the government.

The cease-fire offer capped a tumultuous week that began with Parliament held hostage at gunpoint in an attempted military coup and ended with an outpouring of popular support for the constitution. King Juan Carlos warned Saturday, "We are living in grave moments."

The Spanish news agency Europa reported the Basque leaders, at their news conference in Guipuzcoa, said "the present political situation is sufficiently serious for political parties and institutions to be the protagonists in resolving the problems of the Basque country."

The agency quoted the leaders as saying they had planned a cease-fire earlier but they withheld implementation when Premier Adolfo Suarez announced his resignation a month ago amid criticism he could not effectively deal with Basque terrorism.

"With the nomination of Leopoldo Calvo Sotelo as new premier and fearing a government move to the right, we planned tough action, but the attempted coup five days ago determined a halt of any type of action and announcement of immediate cease-fire," Europa quoted them as saying.

YORK TAKES AIM — A statue of Tennessee's World War I hero, Alvin York, located on the state Capitol grounds appears to take aim down a line of marching Klansmen.

Earlier in the week the NAACP made a protest march on city hall. Saturday night the KKK marched from the City Hall to the State Capitol.

Escape? Forget it!

Inmates drink from china cups

By the Associated Press

It's doubtful there'll ever be a riot at the federal prison in Big Spring, with angry inmates raking tin cups across the bars of their cells. For one thing, inmates drink coffee out of china cups.

Another reason, adds prison Superintendent John Allman, is "we don't have any bars."

After a day of work making electronic components or canvass mailbags, an inmate might decide to take a dip in the swimming pool or retire to his private room to freshen up before dinner.

Probably the last thing on his mind is escape.

But if he did decide to make a break, he would not need a file, a shovel, a gun or a jackhammer. According to prison officials, he would only need to know how to walk nonchalantly.

For there are no walls — not even a fence — surrounding the federal Big Spring Prison Camp, formerly Webb Air Force Base. It's a prison where the mess hall is known as the "dining room," the cell block is the "dormitory" and the warden is not the "chief screw" — he is the "superintendent."

The guards carry no firearms and the prisoners wear no chains. It is no secret that any of the 260 prisoners housed here could walk away in the night and probably be gone two hours before they were missed, said Allman.

"One thing that stops such escapes is that most of the inmates are here for only a short time and if they mess up here it could mean additional years in a traditional prison," he said.

Allman agreed there is little "traditional" about his prison. Hardened criminals might even say it's run by a bunch of pussycats.

During the summer months prisoners can relax in the old Webb AFB swimming pool, which Allman said is "an outstanding therapy tool. On a hot day you get in that nice pool and swim a little bit and it's a lot easier to control your temper and get along with people."

Tables in the dining room are adorned with checkered tablecloths, and Allman said when you go through the cafeteria line "you feel like you're at a Wyatt's or a Furr's cafeteria."

There are no "lifers" here — the average stay is only 14 months, and only "very good security risks" — such as convicted swindler Billie Sol Estes — are confined at Big Spring, Allman said.

Estes, 55, serving a 10-year sentence for fraud and trying to hide assets from tax collectors, was transferred here last summer from the medium security prison at La Tuna, just outside El Paso. Allman said he is a model prisoner and works in the kitchen. He said Estes receives visits only from family members and will not talk to news reporters.

"We have to be careful about violating the rights of prisoners," Allman said. They are apparently a fussy bunch. "Our staff spends hours every day answering charges made by prisoners to their senators for such complaints as a telephone being out of order."

"Our prisoners are highly educated and highly sophisticated," Allman said. "Many have never been in prison before. They come from middle to high income brackets. They feel like they are entitled to more than they really are."

The prisoners produce electronic cables — including some used in America's space vehicles — and mailbags for the Postal Service. Inmates earn $10 to $60 a month and can save their money, send it home or spend it in the commissary.

Each of the dormitory's three stories has its own television room, and at present most prisoners can elect to have private rooms, since there are 250 two-man rooms but only 260 inmates. Allman said the prison has not held its capacity of 500 since it began taking inmates June 11, 1979, although at one time it housed 350.

Most offenders are serving time for white collar crimes such as tax evasion, fraud or embezzlement, although there are a few bank robbers and others who have served long terms in tougher prisons and were transferred here to serve out the last few months of their terms.

'I patterned my life after hers'

Special teacher provided spark

(Editor's Note: March 24 is Texas Public School's Week. In recognition of the many aspects of a school system, The Herald has prepared a series of five articles on various people and sections of the Big Spring Independent School District. Part One of the series is featured today.)

By CAROL HART

After many years as a teacher, Naomi Graham has never regretted she chose education as her career field. Her interest in teaching was sparked by a very special teacher she had in elementary school.

"In the fifth grade, I had a teacher I really loved and adored," Mrs. Graham recalled. "I patterned my life after hers."

"She was an excellent teacher," said Mrs. Graham. Beginning then, Mrs. Graham began preparing herself for what she really wanted — a career in education.

Mrs. Graham has been with the Big Spring Independent School District for almost 27 years. She began her career in the Big Spring system at Lakeview Elementary School, where she taught science and reading. In 1955, she became a physical education teacher and basketball coach at Lakeview High School, and later began teaching health. She teaches health and physical education courses now at Goliad Middle School.

Mrs. Graham stayed at Lakeview for 12 years, and spent 11 years at

NAOMI GRAHAM

Runnels Junior High School. She has been working at Goliad Middle School for two and a half years. During her years in the BSISD, Mrs. Graham has also coached track and volleyball.

Tallahassee, Fla., was where Mrs. Graham grew up and attended school. She attended Greenbrier Elementary School, and graduated from Lincoln High School. She then attended Florida A&M, where she obtained a bachelor's degree in health and physical education, and a master's degree in education.

Her enchantment for her vocation hasn't dwindled. "I really enjoy teaching," she said. It is one way of "getting to know so many personalities and individuals." Another aspect of teaching that she enjoys is getting to see "the end result of what you do" through the accomplishments of her students.

Mrs. Graham recalled that "I wanted to share with others what I had learned. I wanted to share my education with less fortunate children." Teaching, she says, is "one way of helping children become what they want to be."

Mrs. Graham's husband, Willie, is a retired civil service worker, who for many years worked at Webb Air Force Base, and was stationed for awhile at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, Miss.

The couple is active in the Baker's Chapel A.M.E., where Graham serves as chairman of the board of trustees, and Mrs. Graham works as church clerk and organist. She is also an adult Sunday school teacher, and serves as promotional missionary education chairperson for the Northwest Texas conference.

Mrs. Graham is also actively involved in the EverReady Civic and Art Club, the Big Spring Music Study Club, and Delta Kappa Gamma, a teacher's society.

Tearful Vickie Daniel fights for her children, takes 'fifth'

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — A tearful Vickie Daniel has told a state district judge she loves her children and wants to retain custody of them despite her indictment on a charge of intentionally killing her husband, former Texas House speaker Price Daniel Jr.

Mrs. Daniel, 33, is facing two separate child custody suits, the first filed by Daniel's sister, Mrs. Jean Daniel Murph of Richardson, and the second by her first husband, Larry Moore of Dayton, Texas.

Local woman wreck victim

A Big Spring woman was killed 5:38 p.m. Friday near Midland in a one-vehicle accident.

Doris Patterson Bingham, 52, was pronounced dead after the vehicle her husband, Ed Bingham, 55, was operating lost control, overturned, throwing Mrs. Bingham from the vehicle.

Mr. Bingham was traveling northbound on Hwy. 349, 13.6 miles south of Midland when he apparently lost control of the vehicle, steered into a ditch on the west side of the road, skidded broadside, overturned on its side and threw Mrs. Bingham from the vehicle.

She was pronounced dead at the scene by Midland County Justice of the Peace Robert Pine. Her husband is reported in fair condition at the Midland Memorial Hospital, suffering a broken rib and a broken shoulder blade.

The accident was investigated by DPS Trooper David Jones of Midland. Funeral services are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

She was born Sept. 10, 1928 in Eakley, Okla.

Survivors include her husband of the home; two daughters, Mary Ann Jordy and Linda Sue Eddins, both of Sand Springs; a brother, Roy Patterson, Odessa and three grandchildren.

preliminary motions in the Murph suit, she invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked whether she shot her husband in self-defense and tearfully denied the allegations of her sister-in-law that she was an unfit mother prone to violence.

"I am a good mother and I love my children," cried Mrs. Daniel, who is free on $50,000 bond on charges she intentionally killed her husband on Jan. 19.

State District Judge W.G. "Dub" Moore denied a motion to delay the civil proceeding until after Mrs. Daniel's murder trial and scheduled a hearing on who should have custody of the Daniels' two sons, Franklin Baldwin Daniel, 3, and Marion Price Daniel IV, 1, to begin on Tuesday.

Mrs. Daniel's attorney, Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, asked for a continuance.

Wood also refused Friday to seal the report of court-ordered psychiatric examinations Mrs. Daniel underwent in Houston Tuesday.

Mrs. Daniel's first husband filed suit Friday seeking custody of their 12-year-old daughter, Kimberly Moore already has custody of their 10-year-old son, Jonathon.

He said the couple was trying to work out an "agreeable arrangement" for the custody of the girl.

"We don't want a court fight. She told me to do whatever she (the child) wants, and Kimberly wants to live with me," said Moore, who has been subpoenaed to testify in Mrs. Murph's suit.

Mrs. Daniel, her voice cracking on the stand, lashed out at her sister-in-law Friday.

"If there was any love in this (the suit) it would be different, sobbed Mrs. Daniel.

She said Mrs. Murph "never once offered to care or do for my children." And she said prior to the shooting her sister-in-law never indicated she thought Mrs. Daniel was an unfit mother.

Mrs. Daniel said she had "no anger in my heart" toward her sister-in-law because of the suit, but is upset because she believes Mrs. Murph told Franklin Daniel that his mother had killed his father.

"I feel they would be in great emotional danger if Jean were given custody because of what she told my little boy," Mrs. Daniel said.

She said she knew that Mrs. Murph had told the child of the shooting because "he said it out of his own mouth. He, only repeats what he hears."

Asked by Mrs. Murph's attorney, J.C. "Zeke" Zbranek, if she killed her husband in self defense, Mrs. Daniel invoked the Fifth Amendment.

Earlier Friday, she took the Fifth Amendment when questioned about the contents of several letters removed from a warehouse that contained Daniel's belongings.

Mayor of Coahoma seeks re-election

COAHOMA — Mayor Joe Swinney says he will be a candidate for re-election in the April 4 city elections here but no one has come forward to offer for the two positions on the city council which will be vacated by Brian Jensen and Melvin Dorn Jr.

Farm lands in Big Spring section gulping showers

Thirsty farm lands in the Big Spring area soaked up a rain that started Friday evening and continued off and on most of Saturday.

Most areas absorbed more than an inch of moisture. Unaccompanied by neither thunder nor lightning, the rain fell slowly, with the result that most of it went into the ground.

The farmers and ranchers, of course, are rejoicing. For the farmers, the rain will serve to prime the land for planting cotton in the spring. The range grasses will get a new lease on life, a fact that brought smiles to the faces of the ranchers.

Four miles south of town, Boyce Hale said his gauges showed .98 of an inch fell, bringing the aggregate to well over two inches for the year.

The fall was somewhat lighter in Coahoma and at Luther. Joe Swinney, the Coahoma mayor who has accepted the responsibility of getting rainfall reports for the National Weather Services, said the fall in Coahoma amounted to .7 of an inch while John Couch of the Luther community reported his gauge showed only half an inch of moisture fell.

The Wilkinson Ranch, located west of town, benefited from an estimated one inch of rain. A visitor to the ranch from Trent (near Abilene) said rain fell on him all the way from Trent.

Big Spring rainfall is now above normal for both January and February.

Steel rod pierces skull

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — A 24-year-old carpenter who fell off the roof of a house was in stable condition Saturday after a 3/4-inch steel bar pierced his skull but missed his brain and spinal column, authorities said.

Los Angeles County fire paramedics found Michael Melnick, of Reseda, conscious and talking as co-workers comforted him at the construction site in Malibu following the Friday accident. The workers supported Melnick's torso, which was hanging over an open pit from which the reinforcement bar jutted.

A fireplace was to be constructed at the site of the pit. The reinforcement bar entered the base of Melnick's skull and came out just above the bridge of his nose.

Doctors at Westlake Community Hospital said the rod was surgically removed.

"In 23 years of duty I've never seen anything like it," said Capt. Harry Williams of the Los Angeles County Fire Department. "When we got there Friday morning his co-workers were supporting his body above a 10-foot hole that had been dug for a fireplace foundation."

"The only thing that kept him from falling into the hole was the steel bar," he said.

Williams said fire officials and paramedics realized immediately that they could not remove the rod from Melnick's head. He said Melnick was in pain but was calm and carried on a conversation with rescuers as they sawed through the rod and then shortened it.

Two Texans killed

ATLANTA (AP) — Two Texas truck drivers who stopped to check their tractor-trailer were struck by a car near Atlanta and killed early Saturday on Interstate 20, the Georgia State Patrol reported.

Saturday as a "program of unfair sacrifice and unequal benefit."

"I am concerned that the Reagan budget cuts would take the most from middle-income families, and from those who have the least," Kennedy said in a CBS television program presenting Democratic and other views of the president's plan. "I am concerned with a tax cut that would give 20 times more to the very wealthy than to the middle class."

Reagan has proposed slashing more than $40 billion from the federal budget for fiscal 1982 and cutting individual taxes 10 percent a year — across the board — for three years.

"This program of unfair sacrifice and unequal benefit is based on an untested and uncertain economic theory," Kennedy said.

Former Big Spring resident in trouble with State Bar

EASTLAND — A district grievance committee for the State Bar of Texas has filed suit in 91st District Court in Eastland to have Cisco attorney Truman P. Kirk "reprimanded, suspended or disbanded as the facts shall warrant." Kirk is a former resident of Big Spring.

Kirk, former candidate for a district judgeship and the state Legislature at the time he was residing in Abilene, declined to answer questions about the suit which was filed by attorney Charles W. Yett, assistant general counsel for the State Bar in Austin.

The suit alleges five counts of violating the Bar's Code of Professional Responsibility. The suit claims that Kirk notarized the signature of a client on a warranty deed Nov. 15, 1979, but indicated he had notarized the signature Oct. 15, 1979.

No date has been set for trial on the suit.

Kirk's legal representation may seek a jury trial. Regardless, a district judge would determine the disciplinary action to be taken against Kirk if he is adjudged guilty of the allegations.

Kirk could continue to practice law if nothing more than a reprimand was ruled in his case. A suspension would cause Kirk to lose his right to practice law for a term determined by the judge. If Kirk were disbarred, he would be unable to practice law for five years, after which he could apply for reinstatement to the bar.

Yellow ribbons greet missionaries

LONDON (AP) — Three British missionaries who spent six months in Iranian jails on spying charges returned home Saturday, declaring they love the Iranian people and were well-treated in captivity.

Two said they longed to return to the country they served as medical missionaries for 32 years.

Iran released the Britons after announcing the spying allegations were based on documents forged by an Iranian Anglican church worker in that Moslem nation.

Yellow ribbons fluttered from the door of a VIP lounge at London's Heathrow Airport, and the Anglican missionaries hugged relatives in emotional reunions.

But their statements contrasted sharply with the homecoming last month of the 52 American hostages, some of whom complained of ill-treatment during their 44-day captivity in Iran.

Man treats oceans like unpopular kinsman

Mankind may have something far more serious to contend with than shortages of oil and brush fire wars.

The National Wildlife Federation says that the globe's oceans — which cover three-quarters of the earth's surface — are in danger of dying. The immense seas, the NWF reminds, are, in fact, a single, fragile ecosystem.

Theme of this year's National Wildlife Week, which the federation has sponsored for 44 years, is "We care about oceans."

Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the federation, explained it thusly recently:

"For centuries we have taken from the ocean's riches, and with a growing world population we will turn more and more to this bountiful resource. We must stop polluting and treating the oceans carelessly, for the oceans is a threat to our own futures."

What comes from the oceans? Just about everything we need — food, minerals, energy, recreation ...

ABOUT TEN PERCENT of the world's protein comes from the seas — some countries rely on the oceans for as much as three-fourths of their protein. Already, we catch about 60 million tons of food from the sea each year. With new techniques of ocean farming, called "mariculture," scientists predict that we will grow some 100 million tons. In addition, the seaweeds found along the coasts are among the oceans' most valuable living resources, for food, and for the chemical and industrial products derived from the plants.

About 99 percent of the world's bromine is found in the sea. There is enough copper on the bottom of the ocean to last the world 6,000 years; enough nickel to last 150,000 years. Countless other minerals that can be recovered are below the waters of the seas.

The oceans have become an important source of oil and gas and today offshore wells are producing petroleum around the globe. Scientists are continually studying various ways to tap the oceans' enormous energy potential.

Most of the world's great resorts are located close to the oceans and the possibilities they offer for fishing, swimming, scuba diving, boating and snorkeling are limitless.

Most important of all, the oceans are a reservoir for more than 97 percent of the world's water supply. The hydrologic cycle makes it possible for water to be transported from the seas to the land, and back again, providing water for plants and animals. Some scientists believe that the oceans' one-celled plants, phytoplankton, supply more oxygen to the atmosphere than all the forests on earth.

KIMBALL SAYS WE owe the oceans so much, it's tragic that we have treated them as bottomless dumping grounds. We've polluted the seas with oil, pesticides and other chemicals, radioactive compounds, sewage, sludge and toxic heavy materials, such as mercury and lead.

The most heavily polluted ocean waters are the shallow areas near land. This is unfortunate, because most marine life is concentrated in the four percent of the ocean relatively close to land. Pollutants, however, are carried across the globe, in time.

There is some hope. A new federal law requires that the dumping of municipal sewage sludge be halted by the end of this year. Ocean dumping of dredged harbor bottom spoils has been stopped.

We have no choice but to try and salvage the oceans. In that fight, we shall win or we shall die.

My former barber, Jim Caldwell, now setting a fast clip in Odessa and who celebrates his birthday Tuesday, says:

Shell Oil predicts by the year 2000, motorists will get service at a gas station from robots.

The driver will insert a card in the slot of a window level computer which will check his bank account and transfer the correct amount to the oil company. Then a robot arm will reach out, hook up with a car and put in the gas.

Former Herald pressman, Steve Holcombe, now busy rolling out words in Abilene and who celebrated his birthday Friday, said he had one question.

Who is going to take off the gas cap?

MELLOW MARSHA Bishop, former Herald ad-visor and her husband, Gary, former chief Herald pressman, plan to celebrate Marsha's birthday Tuesday in Bryan.

Marsha provided me with my first exclusive of the year.

President Reagan is sick.

"Aides say Ronnie's rejection by Anne Armstrong, George Schultz and William Simon has given him a bad case of cabinet fever," she confided.

Loretta Lynn consulted a psychiatrist and she said it helped her.

Asked in what manner, she told an interviewer she learned that "life goes on, and you gotta keep truckin'."

Not a bad philosophy.

THAT HIGHWAY MAN, Nathan Dalton, who is now driving a purty new car, remarked during a visit at my home a week ago Saturday that many state senators favor restoring the speed limit to 65-70 miles an hour. Nathan says that would still leave him behind 90 percent of the cars on the road.

"Truck drivers don't care what the speed limit is," he added. "They just want to go fast enough to keep up with the other trucks that are exceeding it."

TERRIFIC TERRI Beard Merrick, who is making gigantic plans to celebrate her birthday Thursday, insists what TV really needs is something that encourages togetherness — like a soap opera about football.

Fanatic in charge

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — President Reagan and his secretary of state, Alexander Haig, have made clear that concern for human rights will take a back seat in U.S. foreign policy to the fight against international terrorism.

But the man who has been appointed to the human rights chair at the State Department, Ernest W. Lefever, may be more intransigent than the president intends. By most accounts, Lefever is a right-wing fanatic who seriously believes the United States should pay no attention to the human rights record, however deplorable, of regimes it chooses to support with military and economic aid.

He was so eager to take command of the Human Rights Bureau that he has served for a month without formal nomination and without pay.

LEFEVER HAS BEEN an unabashed supporter of military dictators ranging from the late Shah of Iran to the late dictator of Nicaragua, Anastasio Somoza. He gets worked up over repression only when it is practiced by pro-communist governments. But any ruler perceived as anti-communist, in Lefever's view, is deserving of American friendship.

Lefever's writings have also appeared in two South African periodicals that were revealed to have been heavily financed by the white minority government as part of a campaign to purchase favorable mention in the international press.

To his credit, Lefever has made no secret of his opposition to human rights as a criterion for U.S. relations with foreign governments. In 1979, for example, he told a House subcommittee forthrightly:

"In my view, the United States should remove from the statute books all clauses that establish a human rights standard or condition that must be met by another sovereign government."

Somewhat less to his credit, Lefever, as head of an ultraconservative Washington think tank, the Ethics and Public Policy Center, has accepted money from the Swiss-backed Nestle conglomerate in return for attacks on those who oppose Nestle's questionable marketing of infant formula in Third World nations.

NESTLE IS TRYING to wean Third World mothers away from breast feeding, despite scientific evidence that the use of formula has had disastrous effects on infants in these countries. A recent Brazilian government survey, for example, linked the successful Nestle promotion of the formula to an increase in infant malnutrition from 9 percent to 30 percent in rural communities.

Lefever vehemently denies the "chocolate connection," but Nestle documents show that company officials were "somewhat concerned that the company should not be seen as the dominant subscriber to the Ethics and Public Policy Center."

But the memo went on to say that "there are ways in which this matter can be satisfactorily handled," and stated that Nestle planned to "give every encouragement" to Lefever's pro-Nestle propaganda. Among Lefever's favorite targets for obloquy has been the World Council of Churches, which he has characterized as dominated by "Marxists" marching under the banner of religion.

Interestingly enough, sources told my reporters Lucette Lagando and Julie Kosterlich that Lefever himself was an ordained minister. He served with the World Council's U.S. affiliate, the National Council of Churches, in the early 1950s. His title was associate executive director for international justice and goodwill.

Lefever insists that he is a "demonstrated champion" of human rights, and says he has been maligned by the press. He claims his statements have been taken out of context.

Lefever also insists that the trouble with Jimmy Carter's perspective on human rights was that it was too narrow, and ignored major violators like the Soviet Union. He dismissed Carter's human rights policy as "romanticism" that demonstrated a "selective morality."

FRIENDS IN NEED: When the American Embassy in Islamabad, Pakistan, was overrun by a howling mob on late 1979, two Pakistanis risked their lives to protect U.S. dependents from harm.

devotion to the American women and children during the embassy attack earned them disfavor among their countrymen.

Now the two Pakistanis, Siraj Patel and Col. Ismail Khan, want to come to the United States. Their devotion to the American women and children during the embassy attack earned them disfavor among their countrymen.

After I wrote about their heroism, Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., introduced a private bill to give the two men immigrant visas. But Wolff was defeated in November, and the bill died in the final confusion of the closing session. However, Patel and Khan have not been forgotten on Capitol Hill. Rep. Steve Solarz, D-N.Y., has taken up the cause. He is preparing to introduce another private bill that will let the two Pakistanis start life anew in the country they served so well during a time of crisis.

WATCH ON WASTE: After years of sometimes-lonely battle against waste in the federal government, the General Accounting Office now apparently feels the need to give some tips to the new boy in the budget-cutting game, Budget Director David Stockman. The GAO's comptroller general recently sent Stockman a confidential letter protesting the Reagan administration's freeze on purchases of new equipment. Noting the "desirability of acquisitions that save money," the letter reportedly urged Stockman to lift the buying freeze in cases where maintaining obsolete equipment costs the government money.

Reagan magic

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — They loved Ronald Reagan as a political winner exuding optimism and good feeling. When he stood in the well of the House to present his economic recovery program, the applause was so enthusiastic Mr. Reagan himself seemed surprised. "If I'd gotten a hand like that in Hollywood," he said, turning to Vice President George Bush and Speaker Tip O'Neill, "I never would have left."

They also loved Ronald Reagan as a relentless cutter of government spending. There was a second burst of applause when the President announced: "I am asking that you join me in reducing direct federal spending by $41.4 billion in fiscal year 1982."

They also loved Ronald Reagan, the compassionate defender of subsidies to retired people. A third round of applause came when the President, with a bow to Social Security and veterans pensions, said: "All in all, nearly $216 billion, providing help for tens of millions of Americans, will be fully funded."

THEY ALSO LOVED Ronald Reagan, the intrepid foe of villains who freeload on programs for the poor. The fourth big hand came when he announced his intention to deny food stamps to those "who are not in real need."

They also loved Ronald Reagan, the scourge of corruption in government. Probably the loudest applause during the speech came when he said: "Waste and fraud in the federal government is . . . a scandal we are bound and determined to do something about."

They also loved Ronald Reagan, the free-enterprise patriot. So they cheered when he promised his program would "create millions of new jobs . . . and make Americans competitive once again in world markets."

Finally, they loved Ronald Reagan, the demon deregulator. They clapped with abandon when he said that in the health field alone his program would "reduce the need for 465 pages of law, 1,400 pages of regulations, and 5,000 federal employees who presently administer 7,600 separate grants at about 25,000 locations."

But between bursts of enthusiasm, there were long silences when no hands clapped. There were no cheers for cutting subsidies for cultural activities, or to research, or to industry, or to agriculture. No huzzahs for shaving loans to students, or clipping free meals for children of families that could afford to pay. Most astonishing of all, there was no applause for the biggest tax cut in our history.

One thing all this says is that the president's popularity is not a form of magic that can be applied indiscriminately to push through any measure he happens to favor. Reagan is liked as a person, and for his most salient positions, to be sure.

But many in the Congress, maybe even a majority, are wary of his program. They will subject it to intense, piecemeal scrutiny, particularly in areas where vested interests come into play.

IN THE FIELD of taxes, where the Congress itself is expert, there will almost surely be written legislation very different from what the President favors. His program is already being criticized as inflationary by both Republicans and Democrats. In addition, it is twisted in ways that obviously benefit the rich.

Exercise helps straighten swayback

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 25-year-old male. Please discuss swayback. It seems I've had this problem for as long as I can remember. Is there anything medical or in the way of exercise to help me at my age?—S.S.

Inherited back structure can set a person up for poor posture or it can be due to an early injury of the spine or its muscles. So first of all, you must be checked for such problems. If there are none of those factors involved then you can start thinking of exercises to correct the sway.

A helpful one is done lying on the floor on your back. In this position bring your knees up to your chest, holding them there for a full minute. When you do this, allow your hips to leave the floor at the same time (rolling up into a ball, hugging your knees).

Another exercise is done standing with your back leaning against a wall and the heels six to 12 inches away from the wall. You force your spine back flush against the wall by thrusting your hips away from it. In doing this the knees bend slightly.

You may need a demonstration of this by a therapist, who may have other effective exercises to add. Some people graduate to attempts at knee bends with the back against the wall. The purpose of all this is to flatten out the curve of the spine.

You can help by habitually using straight chairs rather than the overstuffed kind. Try, as my third grade teacher used to say, to "stand tall." This will help flatten out the lower-back sway. It takes a long time to correct faulty back posture, but do not be discouraged. You can still accomplish it, even at your age.

First, have your back evaluated by a doctor expert in such matters. An orthopedist is one. Let me know how you make out, will you? The back and its problems is discussed at length in the booklet "Backache and Spine Problems." For a copy write me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 61 years old, an old-time athlete. I have a problem when I play tennis which I do in the winter months indoors. I have debilitating pain in my knees and hips that lasts for one to three days. I can play tennis outdoors in the summer (afternoons) and feel no effect. I control the pain by aspirin and heat to the areas involved.

My conclusion is that the temperature is the causative factor. But tennis courts are warm indoors and the surfaces softer than outdoor courts. Why the inconsistency? I would appreciate your judgment. Under no circumstances do I intend to stop my activity, which is important mentally and physically.—D.G.

I would say that the pain in your hips and knees is telling you that something is wrong. The exact something I do not know, but you can imagine the innumerable possibilities. I think the fact that this pain is coming on in the wintertime and not in the summertime may indeed be related to the cold. Indoor tennis courts are never really very warm.

Are you doing preliminary stretching exercises and calisthenics to warm up your muscles and joints? You really should. Younger athletes might get by without heeding this rule. They shouldn't try and at your age and in a cold environment you would almost certainly be asking for muscle sprain and ligament strain without warming up first.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What can I do to help my husband? He is addicted to drugs and is ruining his life. Please pray for us. — Mrs. G.M.U.

DEAR MRS. G. M. U.: Your husband is in the grip of a terrible thing which could destroy him. Furthermore, he is probably almost powerless to do much about it, and he needs you at this time. More than that, he needs God, because only God can give him the strength he needs to resist the temptations he feels.

It is difficult for me to tell you exactly what to do — at least part of that will depend on your situation. For example, have you talked with your doctor about this? Have you sought the advice of a trusted pastor who may be able to suggest treatment programs in your community? Is your husband willing to face up to his problem, or does he deny having it? What I am suggesting is this — you need the help and wisdom others can give you, and pray that God will lead you to others who can give you sound advice for your particular situation.

Having said that, however, I want to stress my firm belief that the ultimate answer to your husband's problem is Christ. Treatment and counseling programs may help, but I am praying that your husband will not stop with those but will instead give his life to Jesus Christ. Why do I say that? One reason is because you and your husband in one sense are no different from other people. You need the love and forgiveness Christ alone can bring. You need salvation, and "Salvation is found in no one else, for there is no other name under heaven given to men by which we must be saved" (Acts 4:12).

But Christ also can help your husband deal with the root problems of his life — problems which may have caused him to turn to drugs in the first place. For example, some people turn to drugs because they want to escape from their problems and failures. But Christ can give you a new strength to accept responsibility, and a new determination to live for him. Pray for your husband, that he will not only conquer this problem but find Christ as well.

Four added to board

Malone-Hogan board of trustees named four new members to its membership Friday. Selected were W.A. (Dub) Moore, Carroll T. Moore, M.D., Robert Rember, M.D., and Ray Don Williams. Other members are K.H. McGibbon, chairman, Rich Anderson, Robert Griffin, M.D., Paul Schaffer and John Bingham, administrator.

Announcing the appointments, Bingham said that the board looks for community members and medical staff physicians with ability to separate the "chaff from the wheat". Other factors involved in the selection process are freedom from conflict of interests that might compromise the hospital's position, and attitudes and commitment of the member to keeping abreast of hospital interests.

Demos nix Clements' proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill Clements' proposal for a regional primary has been criticized by 22 Democratic leaders from the Southwest.

In a statement signed at the Democratic National Committee meeting here, Democrats from Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and New Mexico said such a primary would not be in the best interest of the states or of the nation. The group included four state party chairmen and three vice chairmen.

"...We see no significant interest or support among Democrats in our states for Gov. Clements' proposal," the statement said.

Bob Slagle, Texas Democratic Party chairman, said a major reason for the unanimous opposition was the cost of a primary on a date separate from other elections.

"We Democrats just can't justify the wasteful cost and the unnecessary inconvenience to our voters and taxpayers that is involved in holding an extra separate election," he said.

Pickle's skeptical reception for mandatory pension plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission's call for a new 3 percent payroll tax on businesses, to finance mandatory private pensions, got a skeptical reception Friday from the head of a House panel grappling with the problems of the Social Security payroll tax.

"You know anybody who would run for office on that platform?" Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, asked C. Peter McCollough, who chaired the President's Commission on Pension Policy.

The commission on Thursday recommended sweeping changes in Social Security, including a higher retirement age and a phased-in tax on benefits, as well as a so-called Minimum Universal Pension System for all workers.

"I can't answer your question," replied McCollough, the chairman of Xerox Corp. But he added, "I would think if you have 50 percent of the public who are not covered by a pension and who are worried about their old age, you would find some appeal in that group at least."

Pickle, who chairs the Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security, said he agreed that steps must be taken to encourage people to save more for retirement.

The commission, appointed by former President Jimmy Carter in 1979, recommended the Social Security retirement age be hiked from 65 to 68 between 1990 and 2002. It proposed phasing in a tax on benefits while allowing workers income tax deductions or credits on the amount they pay in payroll tax.

Although workers never see the 6.65 percent subtracted from their paychecks for Social Security, they pay income tax on top of that payroll tax.

The commission's call for taxing Social Security drew a quick retort from President Reagan. A White House spokesman said Thursday Reagan took only 40 seconds to flatly reject the idea, saying, "No, they paid taxes on that money when they sent it in."

McCullough, after the hearing, commented, "If you considered the proposal for only 40 seconds, you clearly didn't understand it."

He stressed that no current retirees would be taxed on Social Security, and future retirees would be taxed only in proportion to how long they got the proposed new tax deduction.

Also, elderly couples with Social Security income of $7,400 or less and no other income would pay no tax in any event, he said.

The commission said Social Security coverage should be extended to federal workers and others outside the system. "If Social Security is good enough for me as a private citizen of this country, it should be good enough for the people who run the government," McCollough told Pickle.

Major business groups have criticized the commission's call for mandatory pensions. McCollough said in an interview he is convinced the country will mandate fully funded pension plans in the workplace because it cannot afford to rely only on pay-as-you-go programs such as Social Security.

"There's no perfect solution to anything," he said, "but the other alternatives are far worse."

Hatha Yoga class begins Tuesday night at YMCA

A new 6-week, 12-class Hatha Yoga session will begin Tuesday, March 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the YMCA. The class will offer techniques on both body movement, stretching, and breath control.

By learning and applying these, one is able to deal with and remove both physical and mental stress, increase and sharpen muscle tone and response, and deepen concentration.

The type of exercises associated with Hatha Yoga is slow, gentle, conscious stretching that is a combination of both holding and movement techniques. An equally important dimension to this class is the breathing exercises which direct you towards establishing breath awareness as well as deeper and healthier breathing.

Hatha Yoga is an exercise that stresses awareness of your activities and allows you to come in touch with your own abilities and limitations and progressively work from there. This class is open to people of all ages and physical conditions. The fees for the class are $15 for Y members and $25 for non-members.

If you would like more information, you are invited to attend the first class without any obligation to join, according to YMCA officials.

Q. What is RESPA and what does it have to do with buying a home?

RESPA stands for the federal law titled "Real Estate Settlement Procedure Act." The statute was enacted to help home-buyers, specifically, when they come to the point of getting the loan with which to buy a home. A prospective lender is legally bound to give you a booklet, "Guideline for Homebuyers," within 3 days of the time you make written application for a loan. This law applies whether you fill out the application papers or the lender fills out the application. Although the RESPA booklet is not particularly "light reading," study it carefully, it will be well worth your time and attention.

RECOUNT EXPERIENCES — Tan Pham, (l), and Hung Tang discuss their flights to freedom from Vietnam to the United States. While Tan and Hung, and Hung's brother An Tang, are enrolled in basic education classes at Odessa College, all three hope to someday return to their homeland.

Tan Pham adjusting to life of student

ODESSA — The months of terror that had gripped an 18-year-old Vietnamese "boat refugee" were no longer visible this week as Tan Pham chatted freely with teachers and students in this class at Odessa College.

Currently a student in Odessa College's adult basic education program, Tan has found he's not alone in Odessa. Not only does he have a brother and an aunt and uncle here, but he has made other Vietnamese friends, An Tang and Hung Tang, brothers also enrolled at O.C.

Stories of their freedom flights are similar. All involve large amounts of money ranging from $1,000-$2,000 paid to Communist "boat owners" for the privilege of riding with more than 60 persons on a boat only 13 yards long, days without food and water, existing on the hope that a West German boat or a ship from another friendly nation would pick them up.

He began saving his money for the chance — a chance with no guarantees — to hop a boat and escape to the United States.

Two years past his initial boat ride to freedom, Tan can relax and reflect on his motives for escape, and his need to return to Vietnam some day.

Shortly after the Communists overran his school, Tan Pham made the painful decision to flee his country and his family.

The biggest fear faced daily by Tan and the Tang brothers was robbery by fishermen from Thailand.

Lamesan participates in Global Shield 81

Air Force Staff Sgt. Johnny N. Morta, son of Mike Morta of 406 N.E. Fourth, Lamesa, Texas, has participated in Global Shield 81, the Strategic Air Command's (SAC) response to a simulated attack on the United States.

The service member is among the more than 100,000 U.S. Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps and Canadian personnel taking part in SAC's largest, no-notice, 20-day training exercise.

During one portion of Global Shield, more than 500 B-52 and FB-111 bombers and KC-135 tankers took off from 70 different locations in the United States and Guam within minutes of notification. This exercise is not related in any way to real world situations, according to a SAC spokesman.

Global Shield 81 is designed to test the command's capability to carry out emergency war orders to support U.S. policy if deterrence fails. This exercise has been constructed to measure SAC's response to a set of preplanned events leading up to a simulated attack on the United States, the spokesman explained.

As part of Global Shield, some SAC aircraft deploy to civilian and military airfields selected specifically for the exercise. Additionally, B-52s and FB-111s fly low-level training routes approved by the Federal Aviation

TAX WRITE-OFF FOR WORTHLESS STOCKS

If you own stocks which have become totally worthless, you are entitled to a write-off for the cost of those stocks.

No deduction can be taken for partially worthless stock. The stock must be entirely worthless and the deduction taken in the year when all the facts point to its actual worthlessness. It is up to you to prove that the securities have no value and that they became worthless in the year that you are claiming the deduction. There is no sure-fire way of proving worthlessness in many instances. The most obvious event substantiating this would be bankruptcy proceedings by a Federal court.

If the corporation stock was actively traded, you could check with your stockbroker for substantiation of worthlessness.

For small, closely held corporations, it may be more difficult establishing that stock is entirely worthless and the year it became so. If the liabilities exceed the assets or there are no assets and the business affairs have been reduced to a stand-still, with no intention to proceed with business, you will probably have a deduction at that time.

It is not necessary that you actually sell or attempt to sell the stock in order to claim your write-off.

Losses on small corporations may qualify for an "ordinary loss" as opposed to the less favorable "long term capital loss." To obtain the ordinary loss, your stock must have been issued to you by the corporation under a special provision in the Internal Revenue Code called "Code Section 1244 Stock." If your corporation meets certain qualifications, you will qualify for this preferred treatment.

Even though your corporation may have filed several years of "loss" tax returns, you are still entitled to the deduction for your basis (usually your purchase price) of the worthless stock.

 Mo-Pac's Houston sales office will remain at Union Station.

Growers: Nuts to Reagan

WASHINGTON — In November, Ronald Reagan dealt a blow to the nation's most renowned peanut farmer — Jimmy Carter. Now, peanut growers from North Carolina to Texas say Reagan isn't doing right by them either.

The grumbling concerns Secretary of Agriculture John Block's recent decision to maintain price support levels for this year's peanut crops at 1980 levels — $455 per ton for most peanuts produced.

"The growers are extremely discouraged," said Robert Wilson, the Texas-based secretary of the National Peanut Growers Group, an organization of 15 state and regional peanut growers' groups.

The move, Block said, was intended to limit costs to the Commodity Credit Corporation, the federal body that provides low-interest loans to farmers to help market peanuts and other commodities.

Producers, noting that the market price historically tends to be close to the support price, say they'll lose money if forced to sell peanuts for $455 a ton.

Texas — the biggest peanut state after Georgia and Alabama — harvested $111 million worth of peanuts in 1979. (The 1980 figures are not out yet.) Texas farmers planted 315,000 acres and harvested 523,025,000 pounds of peanuts.

With the spring planting season approaching, grower representatives predict the state price support level will lead many peanut farmers to plant other crops or leave their land fallow this season.

Such a move, producers noted, could lead to a shortage of peanut products — such as edible nuts, peanut butter and oil — have a severe impact on local economies in peanut-producing areas.

"It would definitely have a very damaging effect on the local communities," said Wilson. "You've got to remember that in most areas where peanuts are grown, it's the major crop."

The dispute between the peanut producers and the budget-conscious Reagan administration may provide insight into how the new president may deal with a host of unresolved agricultural issues, including price supports for other commodities.

Growers, who sought an increase in the support level to $831 a ton, say the current rate is not sufficient to meet the rising prices of fuel, seed, machinery and other expenses that bring peanut production costs above $677 a ton. — Block, in his prepared statement announcing the price supports, stated that the $455-aton level should cover about 95 percent of the cost of production.

Rep. Charles Rose, D-N.C., chairman of the House Tobacco and Peanut Subcommittee, has expressed his opposition to Block's move.

He has invited the agriculture secretary to an upcoming hearing on the matter, although no date has been set.

"I think the facts clearly call for an increase (in peanut supports)," Rose said. "This will definitely be damaging to the peanut industry."

Agriculture Department specialists aren't panicking. "I think it's a little early to say the sky's falling," said Dallas Smith, deputy director of the department's producer associations division. "I can understand how a farmer who sees (that his cost of production is above the support level would be very pessimistic about planting. But next week, that may change."

Braniff gets reprieve from debts

DALLAS (AP) — A Braniff Airlines spokesman says the debt-saddled company has received permission from its major creditors to delay the payment of an estimated $40 million until July 1.

Ray Chanaud, vice president of public affairs, said the agreement with 39 creditors came Friday, two days after the company asked its employees to accept a profit sharing plan that would reduce their paychecks by 10 percent and help Braniff meet a critical cash flow problem.

Chanaud said an estimated $18 million owed by the company to its creditors would have been due Monday if the agreement had not been reached.

He said a formal agreement that would suspend interest and principal payments until July 1 is expected to be signed Monday.

Braniff Chairman John J. Casey said the plan came at the request of "one bank and one insurance company who were insisting that the employee program of participation become a part of our program by Monday."

Employees represent by the Teamsters Union are voting this weekend and the results will be announced Monday.

Casey said the plan would save the airline an estimated $2.5 million a month.

Weather modification may be increasing crop yields

Weather modification efforts of the Colorado River Municipal Water District over a nine-year period may be increasing rainfall and crop yields within the target and downwind areas.

This is the conclusion by John Girdzus, meteorologist, in his annual report of operations by the CRMWD, both on its own and in concert with the HIPLEX program which involves the U.S. Water and Power Services and the Texas Department of Water Resources. His observations are statistically based rather than scientifically established. Involved in the study are 14 West Texas counties, four of them — Borden, Scurry, Howard and Mitchell — in the target area for precipitation from silver iodide seeding of clouds. The others are regarded as the control area, which is divided into upwind and downwind.

Within the target area, the historic (1936-70) rainfall average for the operational period (March 1-Oct. 31 for CRMWD and May 15-July 15 for HIPLEX) was 10.57 inches; for the cloud seeding period (1971-79) it was 15.53 inches.

For the control area, rainfall historically averaged 11.14 inches, and in the seeded years it was 13.26 inches. Thus the increase in target area rainfall during the seeded period was 25 percent greater than the increase in the control area. Girdzus based his findings on data from 106 recording gauges, by intensity and amount, and 81 conventional fence-post gauges.

Since it is axiomatic that rainfall amounts and crop yields generally parallel each other, Girdzus applied results to cotton yields in the 14 counties. During the nine years of seeding, cotton yields showed a departure above normal of 63 percent in the target area. The counties downwind, which tend to benefit from the seeding, had a 56 percent departure, while those upwind increased only 10 percent.

"In six of the nine years, target area crop yields were greater than those observed in upwind or downwind areas," the meteorologist noted. "Such an occurrence never before happened. In only four years previous to initiation of the seeding program can it be noted that target area crop yields exceeded that of upwind or downwind counties."

Presence of convective (cumulus) clouds obviously is the first requirement for precipitation, either naturally or enhanced by seeding, and the time of the year in which this occurs has much to do with cotton yields. For instance, in 1979, rainfall amounts were near average, yet rain came in such a timely manner that yields were extraordinary.

Although 1980 rainfall has not yet been translated to cotton yields because yield totals are not yet available, Girdzus noted that 1980 was one of the wettest years on record, yet one of the poorest crop years.

This was because most of the moisture came in an 18-hour storm May 15, and in two September storms, the major one for eight days starting Sept. 20 after it was too late to influence yields (and when conditions prevented cloud seeding).

In the interval of June, July and August, the south half of the nation was oppressed by a high pressure area from San Diego, Calif., to Savannah, Ga. The compressed air over the region meant record high temperatures and little or no moisture.

Nor could the high-pressure mass move because another high pressure dome in the Pacific 1,000 miles west of Seattle, Wash. blocked cold fronts from coming down and pushing the dome out. This reduced seeding opportunities drastically, for instead of an average of 36 seeding flights, 1980 produced only 18 such chances.

Last season, the Girdzus report shows, CRMWD put in 74.3 operational hours aloft. Of these, 32.5 were in the district's Aztec plane mostly for seeding attempts. The remaining 41.8 were with the Navajo aircraft, laden with highly technical and sophisticated electronic instrumentation, under the HIPLEX program.

If you relish mystery stories, try library

By ROSE VON HASSELL

Cataloguer Howard County Library

Do you have a favorite detective whose exploits you like to follow? Well the Howard County Library has gotten some new books that just might be your cup of tea.

Emma Lathen has a new book featuring John Putnam Thatcher. He's a senior vice president of the Sloan Guaranty Trust, but does sleuthing on the side. In this book he goes to Lake Placid for the Winter Olympics and finds more than sports when a skier collapses in mid-air and tumbles to the ground.

There are all sorts of other complications and once again John Putnam Thatcher's level-headed thinking solves the murder.

David Williams has created a banker sleuth named Mark Treasure, who's Britain's counterpart to John Putnam Thatcher. Mark has appeared in two previous novels titled "Treasure Up In Smoke," and "Unholy Writ."

"Second Vespers" is a Father Dowling mystery by Ralph McInery. Father Dowling is the priest at St. Hilary's Parish in Fox River and manages to get caught up in murder, mystery and mayhem. In "Second Vespers" he has to find the murderer of the noted author Francis O'Rourke before any more bodies are discovered.

Another clergy-detective is Reverend Doctor Cesare Paul Randolph who is a permanent pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd in downtown Chicago. Randolph is a former star quarterback who decided to become a clergyman.

Randolph's main problem, however, is to keep himself alive, since a religious fanatic is killing off the clergymen of Chicago.

For those who enjoy women detectives, we have Alison Quantrell, "The Chief Inspector's Daughter," by Sheila Radley. Alison's friend Jasmine is murdered and Alison helps her father to find out who did it.

Anne Morice's Teresa Crichton is an actress who manages to find herself some real murders in the rehearsals of her new play. One of the actresses is missing and later found dead of what is thought to be natural causes. It is not until the second body is discovered that Tessa realizes it was murder.

Tessa in her usual splendid form finds out the truth in a most delightful whodunnit.

The above books are new, but the library has many detective series that might interest you: Nero Wolfe, Rabbi Small, Miss Silver, Mrs. Pollifax and Gideon.

Agatha Christie has written books about the spinster-detective Miss Jane Marple and the retired Belgian detective Hercule Poirot. We have many of these books for you to take out and enjoy.

Of course there are many Ellery Queen books that we have such as "The Roman Hat Mystery", "To the Queen's Taste", "The King is Dead", "The French Powder Mystery", and many more.

I'm sure I've left out someone's favorite detective, but why not come by the Howard County Library and browse among our mystery section, to see just what we have to offer.

Tower: 'We have to meet the threat' in El Salvador

WASHINGTON — The U.S. must take measures against guerrilla efforts in El Salvador or other trouble spots will develop in this hemisphere, Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, insists.

Tower, chairman of the Senate Armed Services committee, said, "We have to meet the threat. If we fail we will see a repetition of it in this hemisphere and other places."

However, Tower said sending money and advisers to the Central American country, as the Reagan administration has done, is unlike U.S. efforts in South Vietnam in the early 60s because "El Salvador is in our backyard."

War has waged between factions for 14 months. Estimates are that some 14,000 persons have been killed, most by government-supported forces.

"There is no question that, now, the whole guerrilla effort — or anti-government effort — in El Salvador is being orchestrated by the Soviets and their clients the Cubans," he said.

Tower spoke at his first news conference since completing a 17-day trip to Europe and the Middle East to confer with world leaders about U.S. military aid.

During the trip, Tower met with eight prime ministers, eight foreign ministers and eight defense ministers.

"One of the most important lessons of this trip was the realization of the inadequacy of the U.S. security assistance program," he said.

He said the nations in the Eastern Mediterranean and Middle East (Greece, Turkey, Israel, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Oman and Tunisia) expressed "extreme disappointment" in the U.S. program.

The major complaints about military aid were high unit costs, long delivery periods, inadequate funding levels and high interest rates.

He said he also heard opposition expressed by leaders of European nations he visited (Great Britain, West Germany) to "important" North Atlantic Alliance initiatives like modernizing long-range nuclear forces.

"While the United States has awakened to the need for a substantially increased defense effort, our allies in Europe, on the whole, do not view the West's security situation as sufficiently critical to warrant a more determined defense effort on their part at the present time," he said.

However, the Reagan administration commitment to a stronger defense was popular with overseas nations.

"The vast majority of the senior officials with whom I met applauded these U.S. efforts and also overwhelmingly favored the tougher stance which the administration is taking with the Soviet Union and her proxies," said Tower.

U.S. defenses in the Persian Gulf are stronger than is currently believed, he said.

"There are too many important unknowns — including the role of regional and non-regional powers — to enable the Soviets to be certain of the success of a thrust into the region," he said.

Tower said he favored an eventual summit meeting between Reagan and the Soviet Union.

"Obviously it's a question of times, I wouldn't try to second guess President Reagan," he said.

Concerning strategic arms limitations talks with Russia, Tower said overseas allies approved of the Reagan plan to scrap the SALT II agreement.

"They do want us to renew the SALT process, but they are not terribly impatient with us on this," he said.

Hogs hold off TT rally

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Regular season champion Arkansas derailed a furious second-half rally by Texas Tech and held on for a 64-61 Southwest Conference basketball victory Saturday night.

The Razorbacks increased their record to 13-3 in the conference and 22-6 for the year, while Tech fell to 8-8 in league play and 14-12 for the year. The Razorbacks have a bye into the semifinals of the conference tournament next week in San Antonio.

The Red Raiders will host SMU Monday night in a first-round game.

Arkansas built a steady lead in the first half and held a 31-23 advantage at intermission, before the Red Raiders regrouped and battled back.

With Clarence Swannegan and Jeff Taylor leading the way, Tech cut the margin and took a 36-35 lead in the first five minutes of the second half. But Arkansas scored the next nine points and went on to build a secure 53-42 lead with 8:57.

The Raiders cut the lead to 59-57 with only 2:26 left, but the Hogs used free throws as the disparate Raiders were forced to foul and the Porkers hung on for their 3-point win.

Gregg Jones highlights BSHS performance in Comanche Relays

San Angelo opens track season in style

FORT STOCKTON — The San Angelo Central Bobcats showed their early power here Saturday in the Comanche Relays by rolling for 144 points and the championship in the Division III field.

The Bobcats point total was 32 points more than second place Midland Lee, which finished at 112.

All of the District 5-AAAAA schools except Abilene Cooper were in attendance in the annual meet that kicks off the West Texas area track and field competition.

The Big Spring Steers showed some promise but managed to score only 29 points in finishing in sixth place in the competition.

Steer Coach Randy Britton saw some good signs in the initial competition that counts, however. "We didn't score a lot of points, but most of the people we had showed improvement. We scored in many events, but just didn't do as well as I expected," Britton explained.

Britton further explained that the Bovine tracksters could easily have scored more points, and probably will as time passes.

"Edwin Matthews has a hurt leg, or he would have placed higher than he did. He probably would have won the long jump and placed higher in the high jump, as well as placing in the hurdles," Britton noted.

The Steers also missed some points when the sprint relay team dropped the baton, and will no doubt have some potential points when Bobby Earl Williams joins the team. Williams played in the BSHS boys basketball finale on Friday night and will join the Steer tracksters on their next meet at the West Texas Relays on March 13-14.

Matthews, despite his injury, did manage to place second in the long jump and sixth in the high jump.

Big Spring's Greg Jones put on an impressive heave in the shot put with an effort of 56'11", good enough for a first place in the competition.

Other Steers earning points included Joe Hicks in the pole vault, Pat Connelly in the 400-meter dash, Tommy Madigan in the 300-hurdles, and 1600-meter relay quarters of Madigan, Connelly, Richard Evans and Audins.

UT outscores Rice to set up Monday night rematch

HOUSTON (AP) — LaSalle Thompson scored 24 points and his Texas teammates held off a second half surge by Rice Saturday night for a 90-80 victory that earned the Longhorns a home court advantage in the first round of the Southwest Conference postseason basketball tournament.

Rice and Texas, who are tied with 7-9 SWC records, will play again Monday night in Austin for the right to advance to the second round Thursday in San Antonio.

Thompson, who fouled out with 1:32 to play, also grabbed 13 rebounds and offset the scoring of Rice's Ricky Pierce, who led all scorers with 32 points.

Texas, 12-14 for the season, started off with a hot hand in the first half and took a 41-35 lead at intermission despite Pierce's 19 points.

Washington missed Rice's last chance to tie the score with 11:50 left in the game when he missed the first free throw — on a one-on-one package.

The Owls went cold afterward and during a two-minute span were outscored 8-0.

Texas coach Abe Lemons said his Longhorns played much better than in a 46-40 overtime loss to Rice earlier this year.

"The last time we played Thompson only got three rebounds and Wacker didn't get any," Lemons said. "LaSalle just had a great performance. It's been a long trip for him. He's had to have anybody else."</

Watson's blunder helps red hot Bean in Bay Hill

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Andy Bean — greatly aided by a Tom Watson triple-bogey disaster — surged to a three-stroke lead Saturday on the strength of a 4-under-par 67 in the third round of the $300,000 Bay Hill Golf Classic.

Bean, who entered the day's play tied with Watson for the top spot, took sole control with a 197 total for 54 holes. He was a whopping 16 strokes under par on the 7,102-yard Bay Hill Club course.

Watson had the triple bogey when he drove out of bounds and eventually threeputted from the fringe on the ninth. He once was five shots behind on the back nine. But Watson, golfer's Player of the Year for the past four seasons, displayed the grit that has helped make him the game's No. 1 performer. He birdied two of the last four holes to salvage a 70 and took a 200 total into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $54,000 first prize.

round," said Watson, who has been fighting an erratic driver most of the season. "I'm just not very confident with my long game. I hit a bad drive on the ninth and it cost me a triple bogey."

and former national amateur champion playing with Bean and Watson in the final group, was third, a distant seven strokes back at 204 after a third-round 70. The only other men within 10 shots of the runaway Bean were Mike Donald and Mick Soli, tied at 206. Donald had the best round of the warm, sunny, almost windless day, a 66. Soli shot a 67. Lee Trevino was 72-213 and Arnold Palmer, the tournament host and owner and operator of the Bay Hill Club, was 73-218.

Raiders make court brief implicating Rams, Rozelle

LAS ANGELES (AP) — The Oakland Raiders filed a brief in U.S. District Court saying National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle knew of Super Bowl ticketing improprieties but did not correct them. The brief also charged Los Angeles Rams owner Georgia Frontiers with criminal conspiracy to evade income taxes.

The brief, filed Friday with U.S. District Judge Harry Pregerson, asks the court make the NFL reveal how it sold and distributed Super Bowl tickets from 1977-80.

"Basically, the brief presents the Raiders' belief that Frontiere and Harold Cuiver were involved in a criminal conspiracy to evade federal income taxes," a source close to the Raiders, who asked anonymity, told The Associated Press.

"It presents evidence of a multimillion-dollar Super Bowl ticket scandal, mostly in Los Angeles, and that there has been a conspiracy to protect that market from the Raiders."

The source said that Rozelle and the NFL had conspired to keep the Raiders from moving their franchise to Los Angeles so that the team won't have access to as many Super Bowl tickets as the Rams in future years. Los Angeles has been the "host city" for the Super Bowl twice in the past four years and will be again in 1983.

A spokesman for the NFL said, "These same things have been charged and commented on publicly in recent months and answered in depositions and publicly."

Frontiere and Cuiver could not be reached immediately for comment. Al Davis, the managing general partner of the Raiders, has been attempting to move his team to the Los Angeles Coliseum since early last year.

The host city, along with participating teams, receives far more Super Bowl tickets than other NFL teams. "The brief not only charges criminal conspiracy but presents evidence that Rozelle was aware of the situation," the source said.

"There's a market for these tickets, a multimillion-dollar black market, and these are totally off-the-book dollars."

Frontiere denied in a deposition that she had any knowledge of receiving tickets at $70 above face value from Cuiver. Rozelle admitted in a deposition having knowledge that "some Rams' Super Bowl tickets had ended up in seapalers' hands."

The brief charges that Rozelle knew about Frontiere's agreement with Cuiver to hide $70,000 profit. Frontiers testified that the Cuiver agreement was submitted to Rozelle in October 1979.

Officers elected for men's softball. The Big Spring Men's Softball Slow-Pitch Association met the past week to elect officers and set rules and regulation for the 1981 season.

Elected president was John Weeks, with Bill Sledge getting the vice-presidential nod. Kenny Bearden was elected second vice-president, with Claude Fryar named secretary-treasurer.

The Association decided that each team will have two representatives to vote on matters at the upcoming meetings. The entry fees were set at $225 per team, with a five dollar per player entry fee.

All entry fees are due on April 13, one week before the pre-season tournament. Another meeting of the BSSA is slated for tomorrow night at seven o'clock in the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room and anyone interested is urged to attend.

BEAN LEADS THIRD ROUND — Andy Bean reacts as his ball drops for a birdie on the fifth hole of the $300,000 Bay Hills Classic in Orlando Saturday. Bean broke a second round tie with Tom Watson as he surged to 16-under-par for the third and a three stroke lead over Watson.

Blow 20-point margin in one point win. Aggies survive scare from UH.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Michael Young missed a shot just before the buzzer and Texas A&M escaped with a 78-77 victory over Houston Saturday afternoon in a televised Southwest Conference game that enabled the Aggies to clinch a home-court berth for the upcoming SWC playoffs.

Houston freshman Clyde Drexler hit a 15-foot jumper with 6 seconds to play that would have put Houston into a 79-78 lead, but referees ruled the Cougars had called time out just before the shot.

Senior Rynn Wright led the Aggies with 22 points, while freshman Reggie Roberts collected 16. Two other Aggies also scored in double figures as the Aggies improved their conference record to 8-8 and their season mark to 15-11. The Aggies now have won seven of their past eight SWC games.

The Cougars were paced by Rob Williams and Young with 20 points apiece, with 20. The loss dropped Houston to 19-8 for the season and 10-6 in the SWC.

FARM FORUM

By RONNIE WOOD

Crystallizing agriculture five years down the road is risky, but agri-economist John Marten has done just that, and predicts some interesting developments. Export is the key word for 1985, given a hefty boost by a 250 percent overall increase during the last decade. Marten looks for total grain tonnage of at least 150 million metric tons at a total dollar volume of $75 billion — at least. That may sound high, but the world is hungry, and inflation will stay with us and the U.S. farmer has the ability to produce the crops. Marten predicts an eight to nine billion bushel corn yield in 1985, meaning average U.S. yields of 110+ per acre and, despite higher input costs, prices will remain strong enough to encourage production. Russia, Japan, China and Europe will continue to be major U.S. grain markets. Feed grain yields will increase by 2 percent per year, soybean acreage may increase only slightly.

Midland High girls claim BSHS tourney

Ann Combs and Janice Littlefield stroked the Midland High Bulldogs girls golf team to the championship here Friday afternoon in the Big Spring High School Girls Invitational.

Combs and Littlefield were the two top golfers in the tournament in the medalist competition, and their performance was most needed in MHS's seven stroke margin of victory over second place El Paso Coronado.

The Midland team used 685 strokes over the two-day affair, which was climaxed at the Big Spring Country Club after the first day was completed at the Comanche Trail Course.

Combs fired an 81-78 for a 159 total, while Littlefield used only 161 strokes for two days.

Taking third in the medalist competition and leading her team to a third place finish was Jill Prince, with 162 strokes.

A total of 23 teams competed in the tournament, with some of them being among the top in the state of Texas. The Big Spring Steers girls finished ninth.

"This is a very tough tournament, with some of the best schools in Texas attending," said BSHS Coach Howard Stewart. "I am pleased with the improvement of our girls team."

The tourney was the last for the BSHS girls before the District 5-AAAAA race begins two weeks from now. Four teams from 5-AAAAA were here, with Midland Lee and San Angelo joining Midland and Big Spring.

The Steers girls ninth place stroke total was 810. Senior Laura Mexia paced the BSHS girls with a two-day total of 190. Lisa Bumgarner came in at 193, followed by Toni Subia's 212, Karen Woodall at 223, and Patricia Jones at 247.

Individual BSHS girls playing but not counting on the team totals were Rhonda Woodall and Misti Meyers at 214, and Tracie Young at 258.

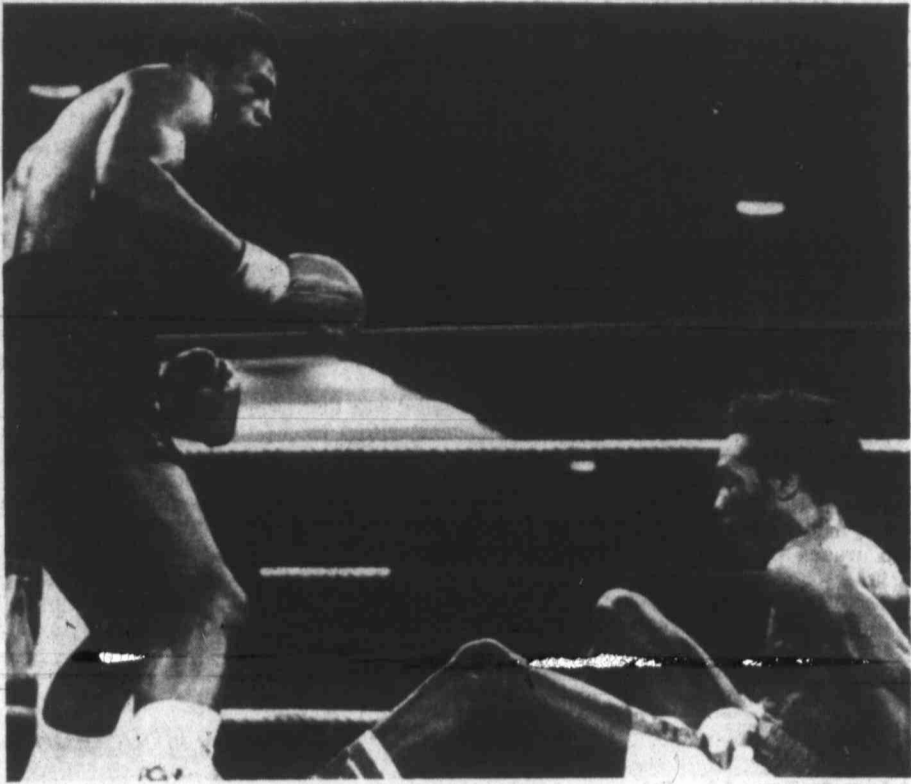

Some local sponsors had a great deal to do with the success of the BSHS Girls Invitational.

The Big Spring Country Club set an excellent hamburger for the girls, and the Security State Bank and First Federal Savings provided the handsome trophies.

San Angelo ends successful year by holding off Big Spring's rally

SAN ANGELO — The San Angelo Central Bobcats capped their finest season in more than 10 years here Friday night by taking a 51-44 win over the Big Spring Steers. It was the District 5-AAAAA finale for both teams.

The Bobcats led from the opening minutes in the contest, but the win was not easy, as the Steers fought back to make things interesting late. It was similar to the first meeting between the schools, except that the BSHS team couldn't make quite as big a rally. In that game, San Angelo blew a 14-point fourth quarter lead before settling for an overtime win.

San Angelo jumped out to a 16-9 lead in the opening period, and had stretched it to 24-15 by the intermission. Behind the scoring of Greg Diebitsch and Cody Cox, the San Angelo crew continued to increase their margin, finally taking a comfortable 42-26 lead into the final stanza.

But the Steers, behind the play of Bobby Earl Williams, and Jerald Wrightsil, fought back to within four points of the Bobcats late in the game. But the San Angelo crew held on.

The win allowed San Angelo to finish the second half of 5-AAAAA with a mark of 6-1. Their only loss was to undefeated district champion Midland High. For the year, the San Angelo team finished at 23-8.

Big Spring won twice in seven second half 5-AAAAA starts. Coach Ed Haller's team thereby finished the year with a 12-20 record.

Patient Muhammad retains title with 11th round KO

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Matthew Saad Muhammad, showing patience and speed, scored an 11th-round knockout over 11th-ranked Vonzell Johnson Saturday to keep his World Boxing Council light heavyweight title.

Johnson, 28, of Columbus, Ohio, led throughout most of the scheduled 15-round bout by constantly moving around Saad Muhammad's frustrating attempts to score to his face.

Saad Muhammad was coached to keep moving by famed manager Angelo Dundee.

Johnson used his lanky 6-foot-4 frame and long arms to keep the 5-foot-11 Saad Muhammad away until he began to tire in the ninth round of the nationally televised fight.

The champion stayed calm through the difficult early rounds and concentrated on wearing down his less experienced opponent. The end came midway through the 11th round when a lightning-fast combination stunned Johnson and a follow-up right brought him down against the ropes.

Moments after he returned, another combination brought Johnson to the mat again, and referee Tony Perez stopped the fight.

Johnson lost the fight when fatigue from moving laterally caught up with him. Saad Muhammad scored when Johnson retreated but could not connect when his opponent kept moving.

A turning point came in the sixth round when Johnson, who was leading four rounds to one, slipped while barely being touched. Perez ruled it a knockdown, however, and Johnson laughed at the call.

Saad Muhammad, 32, now has a 29-2-3 professional record with 21 knockouts.

The tough Philadelphia wore a green ribbon on his trunks to remember the dead and missing black children in Atlanta.

Johnson now is 23-2 and has 15 knockouts.

Saad Muhammad lacked crispness despite two months of training for a Feb. 23 fight to unite the light heavyweight title with World Boxing Association champion Eddie Mustafa Muhammad. However, that bout fell through in the MAPS boxing controversy, and Saad Muhammad took on Johnson instead.

It was Saad Muhammad's fifth defense of his title in two years.

Virginia overcomes Terps to break 2-game loss skein

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. (AP) — Jeff Lamp and Ralph Sampson led a 10-2 run midway in the second half that carried third-ranked Virginia to a 74-63 Atlantic Coast Conference basketball victory over 17th-ranked Maryland Saturday as the Cavaliers rebounded from two straight defeats.

The Terps, who lost four players on fouls, led 45-44 with 10:36 left on a jumper by Greg Manning before Lamp and Sampson scored four points each in the next three minutes as Virginia took a 54-47 lead. The Terps never got closer than six.

Lamp finished with 18 points and Sampson 17. Jeff Jones scored a season-high 13, including 12 in the second half, and Othell Wilson had 11 for the Cavaliers, 24-2 overall and 13-1 in the ACC.

The Terps, 16-8 overall and 8-6 in the ACC, were led by Ernie Graham with 19 points, Manning with 18 and Albert King with 14.

Area girls seasons end one step too soon

A doubtful performer due to an ankle she sprained in her team's win Friday night over Winters, Mayo canned 18 points from the field to play a key role in gunning down Coach Ron Taylor's Buffalo Queens.

Besides Adams' 15 points, no other Buffalo Queen could hit in double figures, although Lavonne Brumley and Monica Dyess each had eight points.

Forsan thus ends their season with a record of 26-4 after winning the District 5-AA title, bi-district and their first game in the Region I Tournament.

The Coahoma girls, despite losing by a count of 66-50 to a powerful Abernathy team, were actually in the contest going into the final stanza.

Trailing only 46-40 with one quarter remaining, the Coahoma girls saw Abernathy take total control in the final minutes.

Abernathy guard Ramona Irlbeck directed the Abernathy attack and poured in 24 points. She was the only Abernathy player to hit in double figures.

Three Coahoma girls hit in double figures, but the rest of the team managed only nine points. Daria Henry came through with 17 points to pace the Coahoma girls in the Region I Class AAA finals, with Karl Robinson and Andrea Fowler chipping in with 14 and 10 points, respectively.

Abernathy hit 22 of 25 free throws in the game, compared to 14 of 29 for Coahoma.

The Coahoma girls had advanced into the Class AAA regional championship game with a tense 46-45 win over Dimmitt on Friday night.

In that game, Robinson had 17 points and Fowler 13. Coahoma, coached by Billy Gordon, thus ends their excellent season with a record of 24-7.

A $100 FACTORY REBATE

Install Gas Air Conditioning now, and you'll not only be cool the first day this spring... you'll save a cool $100! Buy before May 1st and you'll receive a $100 rebate direct from the factory... plus you can defer monthly payments until May, too. But $100 and deferred payments are not the only reasons for installing Gas Air Conditioning.

Gas Air Conditioning Systems are very energy efficient. They now use less gas energy because the constantly burning gas pilot has been replaced with a new pilotless ignition system. Pilotless ignition saves gas, and saving gas will save you money.

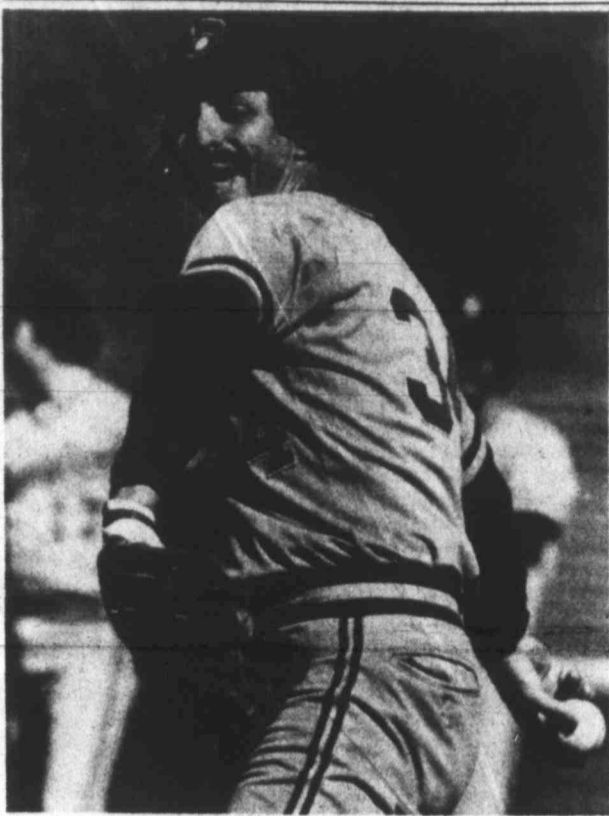

Gas Air Conditioning is also very dependable. It's built to last and last with no loss of cooling capacity. Hand-crafted of sturdy stainless steel components, Gas Air Conditioning has fewer moving parts and no compressor to wear out or break down. That means less wear and lower maintenance costs. And to prove its dependability, Gas Air Conditioning gives you the longest warranty — the 10-year "No Sweat" limited warranty — twice as long as all others.

Gas Air Conditioning. It's energy efficient. It's designed to lower maintenance costs, to lower operating costs. Gas Air Conditioning will save energy and that will save you money. And when you combine Gas Air Conditioning with adequate conservation measures, like caulking, insulation, storm doors and windows, you'll save even more.

But don't wait too long. The $100 rebate ends May 1, 1981. Call now for a free home cooling survey and cost estimate. There's no obligation.

Manufacturer's limited warranty covers all defects in material and workmanship on the sealed refrigeration unit for ten years from date of installation of the air conditioner when it is installed in a single-family residence. All other parts are warranted for one year from date of installation.

Magic return works like charm for LA

The Magic Man is back. Earvin "Magic" Johnson, sidelined since Nov. 18 because of torn cartilage in his left knee, returned to action Friday night in Los Angeles and contributed 12 points, 11 rebounds, four assists and three steals to the Lakers' 107-103 National Basketball Association victory over the New Jersey Nets.

"I felt relaxed," said the 21-year-old Johnson, who played 24 minutes in a reserve role. "It's great to be doing something you love to do. I'm excited. It's sunshine all day long now."

Johnson, the outstanding second-year guard who won Most Valuable Player honors in last spring's NBA championship series, received three standing ovations from the sellout crowd of 17,505 at the Forum — when the Lakers came out for pregame warmups, when he was introduced before the game and when he made his first appearance with 5:02 remaining in the first period.

Johnson started slowly, throwing a pass away shortly after entering the game and missing badly on his first two shots. But he got untracked by making his next three field goal attempts.

Oilers to meet Bum led Saints early

HOUSTON (AP) — Only one Astrodome game was on a four-game pre-season schedule announced Friday by the Houston Oilers.

The Oilers go on the road for games at New Orleans, Tampa Bay and Dallas, after opening in the Astrodome on August 6 against the Philadelphia Eagles.

John Biles, the new Houston coach, will challenge his former boss Bum Phillips when the Oilers play the New Orleans Saint Aug. 15.

Phillips moved to New Orleans after being fired by the Oilers at the end of the 1980 season.

The Oilers will be at Tampa Bay on Aug. 22 and at Dallas on Aug. 29.

SMU promotes AD

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University's associate athletic director for the past six years has been named interim athletic director, university officials announced Friday.

Dudley Parker has replaced Russ Potts, who resigned Feb. 12 to become vice president in charge of marketing and advertising for the Chicago White Sox.

SMU President Dr. L. Donald Shields said he would name a search committee for the new athletic director Monday.

"We have an excellent staff here and we will continue to do business as usual while the search is underway for the new athletic director," Parker said.

In Madison Square Garden meet Friday night

Alabama high jumper goes 7'7" for US record

NEW YORK (AP) — Jeff Woodard's body was so numb he couldn't feel the crossbar. His ankles were so sore he had to take off his track shoes between jumps.

The pain, however, gave way to pleasure Friday night at the USA-Mobil Indoor Track and Field Championships, as Woodard jumped higher than any American had ever gone before.

The University of Alabama athlete won the high jump with a United States-record 7 feet, 7 3/4 inches, bettering Franklin Jacobs' previous American mark by three-quarters of an inch. He cleared the bar at a world-record 7-9.

Woodard's feat was the last in a lengthy list of records set at Madison Square Garden.

Eamonn Coghlan, the Irishman who last week set a world indoor best in the mile, came within two-tenths of a second of the world indoor three-mile mark with a 12:54.80 clocking. It was a meet and U.S. all-comers record.

Francie Larriue beat Margaret Groos in a marvelous women's two-mile race, shattering her own world indoor mark for an 11-lap track with a time of 9:38.1.

The meet's top woman was Chandra Cheeseborough, who broke the women's 100-yard dash record in 23.27 and ran on two record-setting relay teams from Tennessee State University.

Ed Kania won the 35-pound weight throw with an indoor-record 73-4, and the Los Angeles Mercurettes' team of Paulette Clagon, Cindy Cumbess, Brenda Peterson and Deann Gutowski set an indoor mark of 3:40.46 in the women's mile relay.

Woodard's record was the next-to-last event settled in the day-long meet, with only the pole vault undecided when he missed on his final try at 7-9.

Indeed, as Woodard and runner-up Nat Page both tried for the U.S. mark, many in the crowd of 15,891 were besieging Dwight Stones, long the nation's top high-jumper, for autographs and snapshots. Stones finished in a tie for third.

The race was actually the second-fastest two miles ever run by a woman indoors. The fastest was Jan Merrill's 9:31.7, on an unbanked track in a co-ed meet in 1979.

The pole vault wound up in an all-French finale, with 20-year-old Thierry Virgneron beating Philippe Houvion on the basis of fewer misses at 18-4 1/2. Both then failed in three attempts at a world indoor-record 18-8 3/4.

Steve Scott, who chased Coghlan to the record a week ago, won the mile in 3:57.3, beating Ray Flynn by a 10th of a second.

Evelyn Ashford won the women's 60-yard dash in 6.63, a 10th of a second off the record, while Stanley Floyd, running despite a painful groin injury, won the men's 60 in 6.15.

Brian Oldfield won the shot put at 69-4, a distance he said he was "glad to have on a bad day." The long jump was won at 26-8 3/4 by Larry Myricks, the former indoor record-holder. Carl Lewis, who set the record a week ago, was second at 26-6 3/4.

Aggies dominate track meet

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Rod Richardson and Johnny Hector won two events each as Texas A&M took 14 first places and scored 109 points to defeat Lamar University and the University of Texas-Arlington in a three-way track-and-field meet Saturday.

Richardson, a freshman from Shreveport, La., ran the 100-meter dash in 10.0 seconds, then captured the 200-meter dash in 20.37. A tailwind estimated at 12 to 15 miles per hour followed Richardson in the 100-meter race.

Hector, a sophomore from New Iberia, La., ran the long jump with a leap of 25 feet, 4 inches and the triple jump with a distance of 49-4.

Herschel Walker prefers track gold to Heisman

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — All-America running back Herschel Walker of Georgia was in the unaccustomed position of being on a losing team, but he said he loves track more than football anyway.

"I love to compete in football, but if I had to choose to it, I'd have to say track is my No. 1 sport," he said after qualifying for today's finals in the 60-yard dash at the Southeastern Conference Indoor Track and Field championships.

His team was in fifth place with 13 points after five events were completed Friday. Ahead were Tennessee, with 50 points; Louisiana State 34, Auburn 26 and Florida 13.

The other 11 events were scheduled to be completed today.

Walker, lighter by 15 pounds than his football playing weight, said he was more nervous before his two 60-yard jaunts Friday night than he was when he rolled up 1,616 yards during the football season.

He finished that season by gaining third place in the Heisman trophy balloting despite being only a freshman.

He ran a 6.30, finishing second, in his preliminary heat and a 6.34, finishing fourth, in his semifinal run.

His personal best for the indoor season is 6.24, but he said he thinks he can do better in today's finals.

Walker said he is down to about 205 pounds. In high school, he ran a 9.2 100-yard dash weighing 233.

His bulk is awesome when he lines up in a track uniform, but he said he doesn't think his size is responsible for his slow starts Friday night.

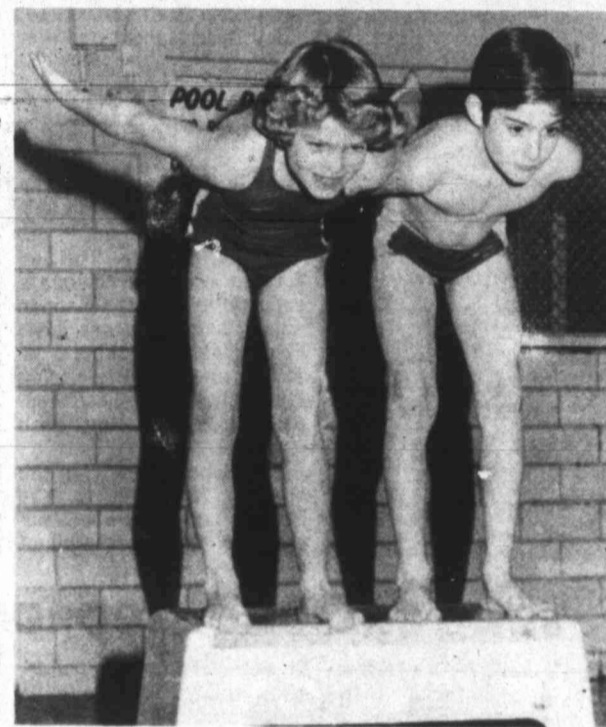

"I was slow out of the blocks both times," he said. "I was probably a little tense. It's my first SEC meet."

Despite the fame and glory that came his way as a star of the nation's top-ranked college football team last season, Walker said he'd rather win a gold medal in the 1984 Olympics than win the Heisman trophy.

"The Heisman is given to the athlete who was the best in college football in the United States that season," he said. "An Olympic gold medal goes to an athlete who beats the best in the world."

He seemed a bit uncomfortable with the fact that he was drawing autograph-seekers and reporters because of his football fame. But he said there appears to be no jealousy from his teammates.

If we don't sell your home, we'll buy it.*

Your local participating ERA® Real Estate Specialist is now offering a unique, worry-free way to buy and sell a home when you're relocating - the Sellers Security Plan.™

First, the Sellers Security Plan may advance on the equity in your present home, up to $25,000 interest free, to use as a down payment on your next home, providing you purchase a house in your area of relocation through an ERA Broker and your present home qualifies. Then, in the unlikely event that your present home isn't sold in the first 120 days after we list it, ERA will take over your monthly mortgage payments, if you have completed the purchase of a house in the area of relocation through an ERA Broker and vacated your present home. Finally, if your house still hasn't sold after 240 days, ERA will buy it, at a price and terms you agree to when you accept the plan.

A minimal application fee, which includes a certified appraisal, is required to see if your home qualifies. The ERA Sellers Security Plan. Interest free equity advance, a limit on double house payment and assured sale at a price you can live with.

Like the Moving Machine™ and Buyer Protection Plan it's available exclusively from your participating ERA Real Estate Specialist. The person you need to know in real estate.

* Some conditions and limitations apply. To see if you qualify, call your local participating ERA Real Estate Specialist.

Brothel flap 'El Pueblo' calls it quits on 'trick list'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The editorial board of "El Pueblo" newspaper announced Friday it has voted unanimously not to print any more names from an alleged "trick list" of well-to-do brothel customers kept by convicted madam Theresa Brown.

"We wanted the people of San Antonio to see for themselves in a concrete way how wealthy and influential men can break laws, behave immorally and irresponsibly and get away with it under the protection of District Attorney Bill White," the 20-member editorial board said in a statement.

"At the same time, poor people who commit the same violations are severely punished. We believe that our actions during the past two weeks have accomplished this goal and that we have made the point that we wanted to make."

Although editors of the monthly non-profit newspaper had threatened to publish "hundreds" of the reported 3,000 names on the list, it eventually printed only 19 names on Feb. 20 and said 65,000 copies "sold like hotcakes."

Spokesman Antonio Cabral said Friday the 19 names published were the most verifiable and least likely to result in libel suits. By Friday, none of the 19 men named had filed a lawsuit.

Cabral and attorney Jesse Botello told a news conference that the master index card file from which the names were taken was still in the newspaper's possession and would not be released until its legal ownership was determined.

Both Ms. Brown, sentenced on Thursday to five years probation for aggravated promotion of prostitution, and El Pueblo columnist Armandina Saldivar have claimed ownership of the index file. Mrs. Saldivar, who said she obtained the list from Ms. Brown and gave it to El Pueblo, has said she wants to publish the rest of the names or, failing that, burn them or toss them out of an airplane.

Cabral said the monthly newspaper endured threats and intimidation to publish the 19 names, but that "there is no further benefit to the community by our publishing any more names. El Pueblo is not a sensationalist magazine. El Pueblo is a serious newspaper dedicated to serve our working community."

Cabral said people who have been critical of the newspaper for not publishing more names should shift their wrath toward White, because the district attorney's office has been in possession of another copy of the alleged "trick list" for five months and has not made the names public nor prosecuted any of the alleged brothel customers whose names appeared on the list.

"We also stated that we did not want to jeopardize Theresa Brown's case — not because we agree with Mrs. Brown's type of business but because we think it is unjust for her to be punished while the influential men who also helped promote prostitution at her brothel are protected by the district attorney," Cabral said.

Ms. Brown's attorney, Pat Maloney Sr., also contends the brothel customers should be brought to court and says he will appeal her conviction to higher courts.

The Golden Lamb, oldest continuous business in Ohio

Historic Ohio landmark hears history in the making

By MICKIE DICKSON

A visit to the Red Lamb, the oldest inn in Ohio, is like stepping back into the history of early-day United States. Jonas Seaman built a sturdy two-story log building on choice lots in the very center of the newly platted village of Lebanon, in the Ohio Valley near Cincinnati on Broadway. Two days before Christmas, 1803, he appeared before the Warren County Court in the Black Horse Tavern to secure a license "to keep a house of entertainment" in the building where he then resided at the crossroads of the traveled paths of the north-south and east-west traffic.

Martha Seaman was a good cook, thrifty housewife and an industrious woman. With a few servants to help with the weaving and spinning, the churning and soapmaking, the washing and ironing, she and her family set a good table and made up comfortable beds in clean rooms. The new tavern soon became known as a fine place to stop for meals or a night. Its stables opened on Main St. and there were vegetable gardens, pigpens and chicken-houses, a well, and other necessary houses, behind the tavern.

In 1805, the first court house in Lebanon was built across the street, and The Golden Lamb became the rendezvous for men of law and politics. With the first issue of The Western Star, printed by John McLean, other business men were calling attention to their location near Seaman's tavern.

Guests were served familiar pioneer food and drinks: deer, bear and wild turkey, hot corn bread and apple butter. The original common table set with pewter, wooden and pottery dishes soon expanded to six tables set with knives and forks, glass and Queensware.

Much of the news of the world was exchanged in the public rooms of the tavern before the inviting warmth of the great wood fires on open hearths where guests relaxed. Soon it became a clearing house for messages and letters as well, addressed to settlers and travelers "In the Land of the Miamis" and even "In Ohio Country."

THE GOLDEN LAMB — Ohio's oldest inn in Lebanon has been host to 10 Presidents and many celebrities including De Witt Clinton, Governor of New York; Robert G. Ingersoll, American lawyer, lecturer and author and Henry Howe, Ohio's historian. Superb dining and comfortable lodging with a unique gift shop with party and meeting rooms are offered the traveler today halfway between Dayton and Cincinnati.

As men met here to discuss their needs and those of their new America, the tavern became more and more important as a gathering place.

There is no known record of the time when this tavern first became The Golden Lamb, but it was the practice of those early keepers to hang out immediately a gayly painted sign to attract travelers. It is likely that the sign was hung almost as soon as the cabin was finished. Because only about half the people could read, these signs were largely pictorial, with animals frequently chosen for illustrations. There was nothing unusual in the choice of a golden lamb, and nothing to indicate that it would reach the mature age of 177 years.

At a dinner for Jeremiah Morrow, Ohio's first representative, given by a group of citizens, they discussed a new east-west road to give access to the new states being formed from the Northwest Territory. Knowing well the hazards of travel on horseback, the dangers of swollen streams and muddy trails through the woods, Representative Morrow, with Thomas Worthington of Ohio and Samuel Smith of Maryland in the Senate, introduced measures which led to the construction of the National Road, now U.S. Highway 40, which today extends from Atlantic City, New Jersey to San Francisco, Calif.

Early in March, 1805, three Shaker missionaries who had walked 1,000 miles from New Lebanon, N.Y., in the dead cold of winter, were preaching at an old church four miles west of Lebanon, according to news brought by farmers to the Golden Lamb.

Stories of the Shaker's peculiar costume, their strange beliefs and their effect on the congregation amazed all who listened as guests gathered around The Golden Lamb hearth. Richard McNemar, the first to persuade most of his flock to renounce Presbyterianism and take up the queer habits of the Shaker cult. He was discussed most frequently.

The Shaker community, called Union Village, remained an important economic factor in Lebanon and Warren County for more than 100 years. The Shaker's broad-brimmed hats and straw bonnets were familiar sights. Eager buyers throughout the country sought their fine farm stock, medical herbs and concoctions, their furniture and other household essentials, yet they never ceased to be an object of curiosity in the community.

A rising cost of living and tight money problems that beset every business in the early 1900's forced the Seamans to give up the tavern even though, during the War of 1812, Lebanon became a meeting place for troops raised from Hamilton, Butler, Clermont and Warren counties.

Ichabod Corwin, original owner of the lots on which The Red Lamb was built, bought the old Seaman house, building a fine brick hotel to replace the old log tavern.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Share became the proprietors of this already famous hotel early in 1820 and operated it successfully until the death of Share in 1830, after which Mary Share stayed on for seven years.

The tavern had virtually become a house of public entertainment with a stage constructed by a local cabinet-maker, Edwin Forrest, at 17, with the first theatrical group to visit Lebanon, performed among the scenes of the hastily constructed theatre in the hall of the Golden Lamb in 1823 for an admission charge of 25 cents. Thomas Corwin, who attended, praised young Forrest highly and predicted correctly that he would become one of the leading tragedians of the age.

Many other shows came including the world-famous Siamese Twins May 27-28, 1833 which were shown in the Grand Rooms.

Political rallies and celebrations were frequent occurrences at the Golden Lamb. In 1822 honest old Jeremiah Morrow was elected Governor of Ohio, the last and best governor of the pioneer race.

In November of 1925, Robert H. Jones, who is still the hotel's owner, the host, took over the Red Lamb, marrying Virginia Kunkle of Springfield June of 1928.

An extensive remodeling program was launched, providing maximum comfort with an early American atmosphere, compatible with tradition throughout the hotel.

A picturesque colonial porch with tall graceful white pillars and second and third floor balconies was constructed. The exterior was sandblasted while the interior was furnished with antiques, some of which are original furnishings of the inn. The old stables were removed to make a modern parking lot. The building has four floors, a lobby, four large public and four private dining rooms, a gift shop and 40 guest rooms with telephone, television and air conditioning.

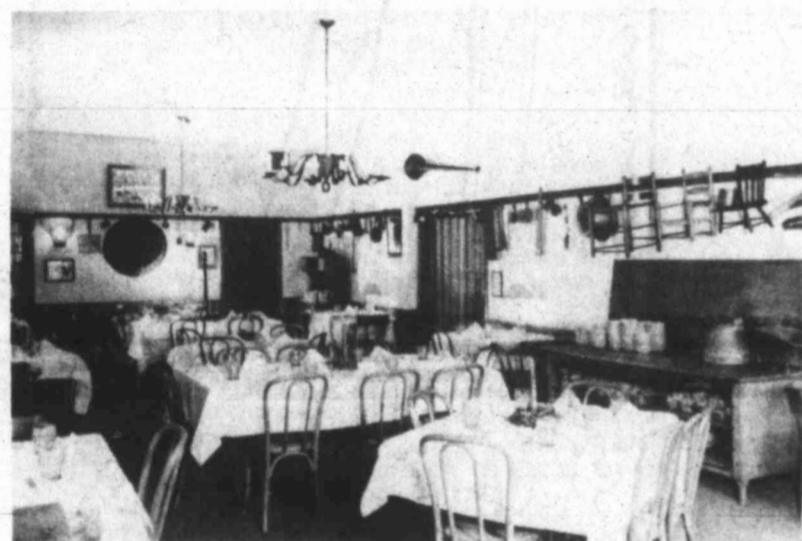

The building and organization has frequently been singled out for distinction, the Golden Lamb being chosen as worthy of preservation in the Historic Building Survey with complete plans of the building filed in the Department of the Interior in Washington.

"Instead of being a place along the way, Lebanon and The Golden Lamb became the end and purpose of the journey," stated an editorial in The Western Star paying tribute to 'Bob and Ginny' as they are lovingly called by Lebanon citizens. "It became to many travelers and 'diners out' a Mecca."

IF WALLS COULD TALK — The walls of the lobby of The Golden Lamb above could re-tell the tirade Charles Dickens, noted English author, when he was refused a drink because it was a "temperance hotel" at the time. It could also relate the plans for a new road which became U.S. Highway 40, the coming of the railroad in 1882 to Lebanon and Presidential campaign plans for several U.S. Presidents and much more.

SHAKER DINING ROOM — Robert H. Jones' rare collection of Shaker materials, including antique furniture, cooking utensils, documents and literature are attractively displayed in this small dining room at the Red Lamb. Gourmet meals are served to Lebanon and surrounding community's citizens as well as travelers here.

Coahoma made good use of most school buildings

District schools consolidate with CISD

By MICKIE DICKSON

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another article in the school history series featuring schools which consolidated with Coahoma Independent School District.)

Coahoma School was one of two district schools whose enrollment was sufficient to become an independent school district in Howard County.

Five common or district schools west and north of Coahoma Independent School District were consolidated with Coahoma when their enrollment reached a point where it wasn't feasible for them to continue operating.

These schools were No. 3, R-Bar; No. 4, Shiloh which consolidated with Flat Top, No. 25, then Vincent; No. 17, Morgan; No. 22, Rice, later changed to Green Valley and still later to Willow Valley and No. 8, Sandy Hollow which later consolidated with Cedar Bluff District to make Midway.

Coahoma's first school was built in the 1890's, about a mile east and one-half mile north of the present site, on the W.J. Jackson farm. S.J. Robinson, S. McMurry and other interested parents built the one-room schoolhouse and hired a teacher.

R.V. Guthrie and John R. Wheeler, grandfather of Annie Phinney of Coahoma, mapped out the district and surveyed it, setting up a tax base for its support.

Pupils initially enrolled were Bill, Mattie and Cora Spears, and Charlie and Walter Robinson, twin brothers.

Coahoma's next building was erected in 1904, a three-room edifice, across the street from the southeast corner of the present campus. Students registered in the fall of 1909 and the building burned that night.

School was held in three churches, Primitive Baptist, First Baptist and Church of Christ while a new brick two-story modern building was being built.

This building had three classrooms, a cloak room and principles office with an auditorium upstairs with a big school bell on top. The school bell is now at the First Baptist Church in Coahoma.

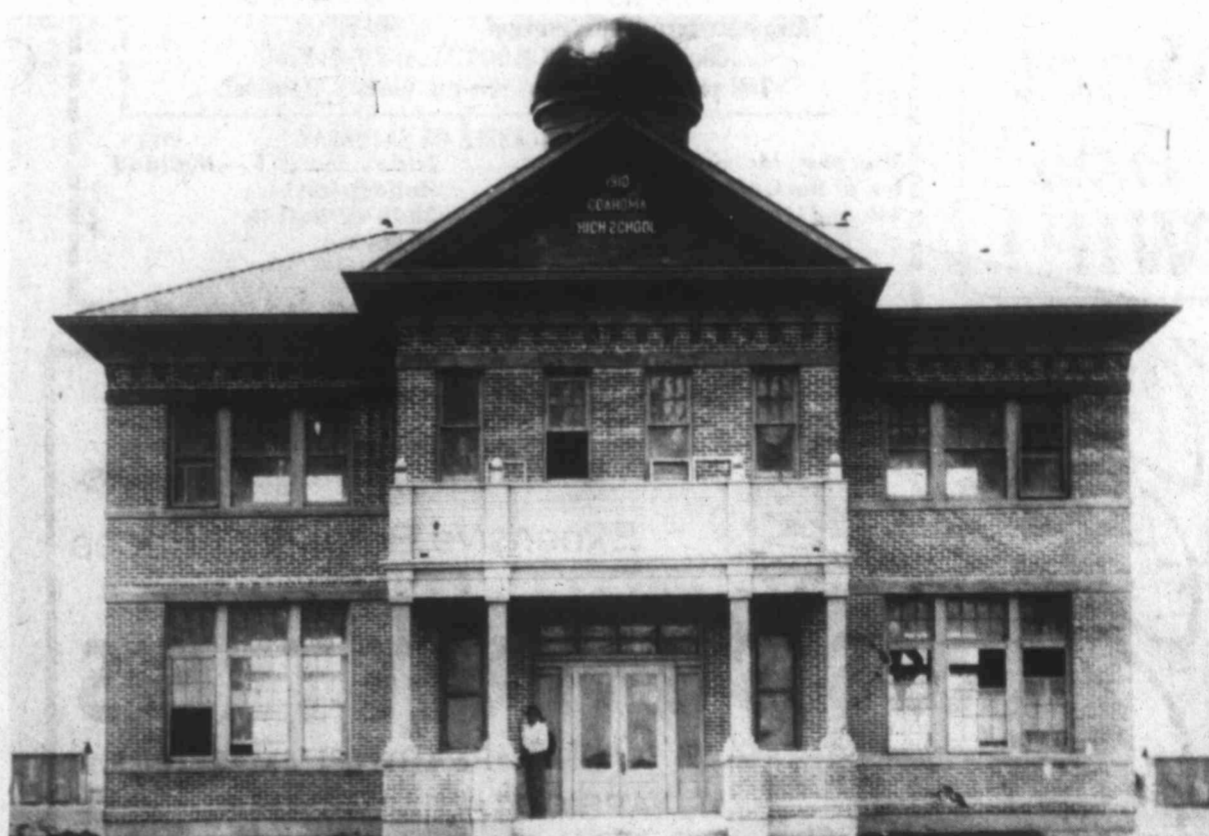

The R-Bar School, located on the B.F. Miller farm on Centerpoint Rd. one and a half miles north of the old Colorado City Rd. on section 16, opened in 1906-07. The ball park was across the road on the R.E. Martin Sr. farm now owned by Jack Cathey, his grandson on the Southeast quarter of section 16.

R-Bar was an L-shaped building and when it consolidated with Coahoma, the long part of the building was moved to Coahoma and used for a classroom and Agriculture shop, according to Bobby Cathey.

Sandy Hollow school sessions began in 1906 then consolidated with Cedar Bluff to make Midway school in Sand Springs community. Midway got its name from its location halfway between Sandy Hollow and Cedar Bluff schools.

Morgan school was named for P.S. Morgan who owned the land it was on.

It is located on County Rd. No. 41 north of the Snyder highway and was at first a one-room then later a two-room schoolhouse. It is said to have been built in 1900-1903, but no Morgan school was listed until 1906-07. Thirteen students were reported going to school there in 1907-08. The building was 12-24 feet. In 1913 or 14, R. G. Kennedy sawed the little building into two parts moved them apart and rebuilt it into a 24 x 24 foot building. It consolidated with CISD in 1943. CISD moved Morgan school building to Coahoma and used it for classrooms. Later Buster Bonds of Coahoma built his house out of it.

COAHOMA HIGH SCHOOL, 1916 — This was Coahoma's third school, built after the second three-room structure burned. It contained three classrooms downstairs, principal's office, and a cloak room with a large auditorium upstairs and a bell on top. Two "modern" restrooms, one on each side, completed the picture.

Shiloh first enrolled students in 1906-07, later consolidated with Flat Top, then with Vincent prior to consolidating with CISD. The Vincent school building was moved to Coahoma and used for classrooms. Flat Top was four miles due West of Vincent, originally on the J.W. Carpal's land. The first teacher was Eunice Howard, who later married John Falche. The school was later moved one and a half mile nearer Flat Top Mountain to be in the center of the district on the W. V. Rutledge land according to Charlie Creighton of Big Spring.

District No. 22, originally named Rice for one year, 1908, became Green Valley and later Willow Valley, consolidated with Vincent prior to consolidation with CISD.

Jack Roberts bought the Willow Valley schoolhouse and moved it to

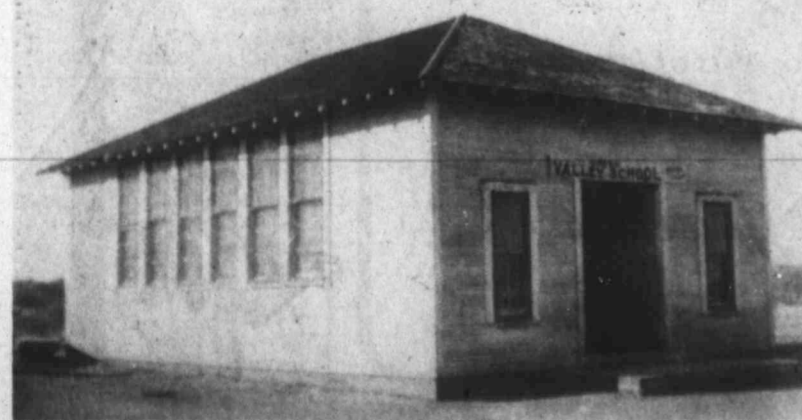

A partial list of distinguished guests for whom rooms at the Golden Lamb have been named include: William Howard Taft, 27th president; Warren G. Harding, 29th president; William McKinley, 25th president; James A. Garfield, 20th president; U.S. Grant, 18th President; Charles Dickens, English novelist; William Henry Harrison, 9th President; Benjamin Harrison, 23rd President; Van Buren, eight President; Rutherford B. Hayes, 19th President and John Quincy Adams, 6th President.

Others included are: Edwin Forrest, famed Shakespearean actor; Ormsby Mitchel, Civil War general and founder of Cincinnati Observatory; James Whitcomb Riley, "The Hoosier Poet" and Harriet Beecher Stowe, author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Others among this list includes: Horace Mann, American educator and author; Joseph Benson Foraker, Governor of Ohio and U.S. Senator; Samuel L. Clemens, "Mark Twain" and many others too numerous to mention.

The year 1978 marked several milestones in the history of The Golden Lamb. That year the Inn was placed on The National Register by the Department of the Interior and the Ohio Historical Society verified The Golden Lamb as being the oldest continuous business in the state.

"With all its legend of drama and romance that are part of our traditions, The Golden Lamb holds fast to a quality of gentle and gracious living and to the preservation of the American way of life," said Hazel Spencer Phillips in her description of the aura and excitement surrounding The Golden Lamb.

EARLY DAY SCHOOL — No. 22 District, Green Valley School, was located four miles south and one mile west of Vincent School with which it consolidated later. The student body was out in force as the Clarence Harrington family passed in two covered wagons to settle nearby. Raymond, George and twins, Carroll and Harroll, enrolled in the school and took their place "on the other side of the fence" in a few days.

Children of all ages are victims of child abuse, says magazine

NEW YORK, N.Y. — A recent Surgeon General's report estimates that as many as four million children are either abused or seriously neglected by their parents. A common misconception about abuse is that it involves just babies, but in fact it's inflicted on children of all ages. Of the total cases reported in 1977, 28 percent involved teenagers.

In the past, child abuse generally was not reported or even recognized as a social ailment, reports an issue of SEVENTEEN Magazine. But today, more teens than ever are crying for help — to police, social agencies, hospitals, clinics and local child-protection units set up across the country. By stopping abuse as soon as it starts, thousands of young people may be saved from irreparable physical and psychological harm.

According to Vincent Fontana, chairman of the Mayor's Task Force on Child Abuse and Neglect in New York, reports indicate that both the rich and poor, the educated and the ignorant beat their children, injure them, and neglect them. "It can be the frustration of unemployment that makes a parent strike out against a child, or it can be too many martinis, stockmarket problems, waiting on gas lines, or an impending divorce," he says. "No age, racial or income group is immune to it."

Emotional abuse and neglect less dramatic than physical abuse, are just as equally damaging, says Dr. Fontana. "Psychological or verbal abuse can be just as insidious as bodily harm. The parent has 'no time' for the child," says 'Get away from me,' or sends the child to boarding schools to be relieved of the responsibility of child rearing. It's natural for a young person in this situation, to grow up feeling unwanted. And it's as hurtful as if you'd broken his or her arm."

There are many reasons why abused teens fail to seek help. They may not know where to go. They are afraid to speak up for fear of repercussions to themselves or other members of their families. Or they may feel that their parents are basically good people, who only become violent under certain circumstances.

But more and more people are realizing that reporting a problem benefits everyone involved. Mistreated teens can be spared permanent emotional and physical scars, and abusive parents can get badly needed counseling.

To report a child or teen-abuse problem, look up your state- or city government in the phone book. Under the heading "Social services," you'll find the numbers for child-abuse reporting centers. Many cities and states also list special counseling centers, set up to help young people. Or you may feel more comfortable discussing the problem with someone you know and trust — a physician, school counselor, teacher or minister.

In an emergency, you can call a crisis-intervention line, often listed under "Clinics" or "Mental Health" in the Yellow Pages. Crisis lines offer immediate short-term help. They're staffed by personnel who will listen, offer advice, and, if necessary, direct you to long-term counseling agencies.

Council proposes budget, courses for new year

The Big Spring Public School Advisory Council for Vocational Education met at 7 p.m. Feb. 24 in the Vocational Department at Big Spring High School. Purpose of the meeting was to consider the relevance of vocational programs being offered in the Big Spring Public Schools as they relate to meeting current job needs and needs of the students. The council recommended that the school board continue to offer the same courses for the 1981-82 school year.

The Public Schools were recently advised by the Texas Education Agency that they were allocated Federal Funds in the amount of $50,879 for which they could make application through consultation and recommendation of their Vocational Advisory Council. The council recommendations are for utilization of $46,571 to $50,879 depending on budgetary adjustments and guideline requirements being met for the total allocation.

The Advisory Council is made up of membership of the local community representing business, industry and the public at large. Members in attendance were: W.L. Whisenhunt (retired welder), chairman of the council; Carrol Hardison (owner of Hardison Appliance Service); Leon Langley (self employed, representing agriculture); Harold Bentley (personnel administrator for Big Spring Public Schools); Mrs. Robbi Crow (executive secretary, Malone-Hogan Hospital Radiology Dept.); Mrs. Patsy Sharpnack (personnel dept., Veterans Administration Hospital); Don Finkenbinder (pharmacist, Leonard's Clinic Pharmacy); Gerald E. Damm (office manager, Texas Employment Commission); Mrs. Pete Jones (co-owner of Nu-way Janitor service); Harvey Rothel (Vocational Counselor for Big Spring Schools serving as consultant for the Council); and John Bagnall (vocational administrator for Big Spring Schools) serving as executive secretary for the council. On behalf of the Vocational department and the Big Spring Schools Mr. Bagnall stated, "The citizens of Big Spring should be most appreciative of the time, interest and effort provided by the members of this Vocational Advisory Council in the development of a very important segment of our education program in the Big Spring Public Schools."

Focus on family living

Estate planning is vital in order to protect heirs

Many people put off thinking about a will because they don't like thinking about death, but that can mean trouble and major expenses for heirs. It also can mean the courts will dole out the property according to state law. Even in Texas, a community-property state, there is a need for a will — and an estate plan.

Inflation alone should be enough reason for people to write a will and plan their estate. Your estate may be much larger than you think — thanks to inflation, more corporate fringe benefits and retirement programs, and the increasing value of homes and other real estate. If you don't say how you want all of this distributed, you can create a lot of trouble and expense for your heirs.

It generally costs more money to die without a will than it does if there is one. Delays in estate administration that result from

"no will" require extra attorney services — along with an increased fee. Also, court costs and other administration fees often are major expense items for the "no will" estate. On the other hand, a will makes it possible to cut out many of the legal steps that would otherwise be required. A "no-will" situation also leaves the heirs vulnerable to the full impact of estate and inheritance taxes.

Of course, the exact amount of death tax levied upon a particular estate is dependent upon the amount of money involved and the manner in which the estate is distributed, but a will can lessen the heavy impact of this taxation. Making and continually revising an estate plan can lessen the tax amount even more. The Tax Reform Acts of 1976 and 1978 made significant changes in federal tax laws applicable to estates and trusts. An attorney familiar with estate planning can help you take advantage of the provisions that these laws offer.

While estate planning and a will may not be the complete solution to the problems faced by survivors, it is a giant step in the right direction. You spend considerable time accumulating assets, so it's a "must" that you spend considerable time in planning the distribution of those assets to minimize the anxieties of your survivors.

Three cheers for tomboys

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

TEENS: It used to be that the girl who preferred treehouses to dollhouses would be negatively labeled a tomboy.

Today, girls are not only climbing trees, they are climbing into many of the traditional male-dominated sports and business fields. And the word "tomboy" is taking on a whole different meaning. Psychologists have pointed out that young girls are no longer criticized for demonstrating assertive behavior. And girls who are good at sports now get favorable male reactions.

"I think there's more emphasis on companionship in dating these days," says Dr. Janet S. Hyde, an associate professor of psychology at Bowling Green State University in Ohio.

"A boy probably prefers someone who can play tennis with him to someone who just watches him."

The old stigma, Hyde says, was derived from the conception that if you were a tomboy, you not only had to enjoy being one of the boys — you also had to hate being one of the girls.

But now that parents are buying their little girls chemistry sets and baseballs as well as baby carriages, fewer girls think that only certain activities are right for them. In such a positive atmosphere, it's not surprising that it's becoming easier to be a tomboy.

"Today you can be a tomboy and still be feminine," says Hyde.

The latest research indicates that many tomboys enjoy taking the lead and breaking into new territory. This individualism can help young girls become self-assured, well-adjusted women.

Tomboys are made of sugar and spice and everything nice. Today they just have a little more spice.

Dear Abby

Bigots' Consistency a Sign of Little Minds

DEAR ABBY: I am sending you something written by the late, beloved humorist Sam Levenson. If you appreciate it as much as I, please share it with your readers.

MRS. B. FLEMING, L.A.

DEAR MRS. FLEMING: I did, and I will.

SAM LEVENSON'S ANSWER TO AN ANTI-SEMITES
 "It's a free world; you don't have to like Jews, but if you don't, I suggest that you boycott certain Jewish products like the Wassermann Test for syphilis; digitalis, discovered by a Dr. Nuslin; insulin, discovered by Dr. Minofsky; chlorhydrate for convulsions, discovered by Dr. Liffreich; the Shick Test for diphtheria; vitamins discovered by Dr. Funk; streptomycin, discovered by Dr. Z. Woronin; the polio pill by Dr. A. Sabin and the polio vaccine by Dr. Jonas Salk.
 "Good! Boycott! Humanitarian consistency requires that my people offer all these gifts to all people of the world. Fanatic consistency requires that all bigots accept syphilis, diabetes, convulsions, malnutrition, infantile paralysis and tuberculosis as a matter of principle.
 "You want to be mad? Be mad! But I'm telling you, you ain't going to feel so good."

DEAR ABBY: There is a group of us in a mental (psychiatric) hospital who read your column daily.

We would just like to say that it's sometimes very relieving to read about problems that we do not have. Our problems weigh heavily on our shoulders day after day, and sometimes it seems that we are the only ones having difficulty handling our problems and society's hassles. We tend to forget that not everyone's burdens are concentrated on the few of us.

We thank you, Dear Abby, for reminding us daily that we don't have to be perfect to be part of society again.

GRATEFUL

DEAR GRATEFUL: Thank you. Your letter made my day.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THINKING IT OVER IN SALEM, N.J.: Think it over thoroughly. Money isn't everything. Sometimes it isn't enough.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212

Annual banquet will highlight National Social Work Month

The provision of housing and food, historically one of the first missions of social work, continues today for many destitute poor. During March, Social Work Month, members of the National Association of Social Workers nationwide and the Howard County unit of the Texas Chapter of NASW commemorate the historical beginnings of social work, its development as a profession, and its function in society. Rooted in church charities and private philanthropy, social work found its first efforts in the 19th century focused on relief of the poor, the settlement of immigrants, and the welfare of abandoned and homeless children. To these concerns have been added the treatment of the mentally ill, the retarded, and the troubled.

Social work assesses individual, group, and community problems in the context of the social setting, and brings its professional skills to bear in assisting the client to use available resources, social and individual, to come to a resolution of the identified problems. Social workers have their professional practices in hospitals, counseling agencies, private practices and a host of public and private agencies. Social workers are therapists, educators, administrators, and researchers. Social workers provide individual casework, group treatment, and engage in community organization, assisting community groups in accomplishing their goals.

In Howard County, social workers are found at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, the Big Spring State Hospital, the Texas Department of Human Resources, and several other agencies. More than forty social workers and human services personnel are employed in Howard County and provide social service throughout West Texas.

Howard County social workers will observe Social Work Month in March. Open houses, by invitation, will be hosted at several local social services offices to enable area social workers to become better acquainted with services available to their clients in Howard County.

The highlight of Social Work Month will be the annual National Association of Social Workers banquet at the Brandin' Iron on March 13 at 3:30 p.m. Social Worker of the Year and Citizen of the Year Awards will be presented. Marilyn McCorkle, local NASW president, notes the continuing need for citizens to receive professional assistance when confronted by social problems and the continued dedication of social workers to provide this professional assistance. Social Work Month, March 1981, will celebrate the profession of social work and the contribution of social work to safety.

TONI CHOATE - KATHRYN PERRY

Different brides favor different traditions. Here at the ACCENT SHOPPE we think one of the loveliest is the bridal or memory candle.

This is a very large candle, usually white and decorated. It is properly placed on the wedding guest book table at the reception to light up the festivities. As you can imagine, this is an especially nice touch at fall and winter weddings when the air is chilly and soft candle glow looks warm and friendly. As the candle is large, it will burn for many hours at the reception. Afterwards, it is kept by the bride and groom and lighted at every anniversary. May they have a long and happy life!
