Woman drowns in 'big spring'

By BILLELDER

When a scuba diver pulled the body of Dorothy Stogner, 27, from the "big spring" late Monday afternoon, the city recorded its first fatality in the historic spring in several years.

While not known as one of the better swimming spots in the area, the spring has attracted its share of occasional swimmers.

The dense algae and trash in the spring have a lot to do with the spring's unattractiveness as a swimming hole.

The absence of a lifeguard probably kept a lot of people from diving in the deep spring water, too.

"If you fall in the water, it's virtually impossible to get help," Officer George Quintero of the Big Spring Police Department said this morning. "By the time we respond, it could be too late."

It's a violation of city ordinances to swim in the spring, he said, adding that the department has had "some problems" with swimmers in the spring.

Stogner, of Odessa, had gone to adjoining Cosden Lake with a friend, Glenn Hickerson, to go fishing, according to police reports. After diving into the spring at about 5:30 p.m., she failed to surface and police were summoned to the scene.

According to reports, Stogner had been under water at least 20 minutes by the time officers arrived. Pascal Odom, a diver with the Colorado River Municipal Water District, was brought in to retrieve the body and did so about 6:25 p.m., according to police reports.

Cause of death was listed as accidental drowning.

Local postmaster may testify before modernization panel

Big Spring Postmaster Frank Hardesty left this morning for Houston where he was invited to appear before Cong. Mickey Leland's Sub-Committee on Postal Personnel and Modernization.

In offering testimony, Hardesty will be representing the National Association of Postmasters in the United States. He was recently elected vice-president of the organization.

The new state president, Cecil Stripling of Georgetown, Tex., will also offer testimony during the hearing, if asked.

The hearing will get under way at 9:30 a.m., Wednesday, in the Harris County commissioners court chambers and will last until about 1 p.m. Also participating in the hearing will be sub-committee member Robert Garcia (D-N.Y.), chairman of the House Sub-Committee on Census and Population.

The hearing reportedly will concentrate on reports of poor postal service in the city of Houston.

Cong. Leland represents the 18th District of Texas in Washington.

In the afternoon, the sub-committee will hold a separate session to wrap up an Oct. 27, 1980 hearing on racial discrimination and sexual harassment in the postal service.

Hardesty expects to return to Big Spring Thursday afternoon.

Sisters cashing in on fireworks

By CAROL HART

"Everybody loves fireworks," says Charlotte Beil, co-owner of the Beil Sister's Fireworks stand.

Charlotte and her sister Brenda found that selling fireworks was a good way to make some extra money for college. They got the idea, and the stand, from a friend who had been successful in year's past.

Brenda, 20, is a junior at Texas Christian University. Charlotte, 18, will enter TCU as a freshman this fall. "Bubba Stripling used to own this stand," said Charlotte. "He did well with it, and wasn't going to be here last summer. We bought the stand and started running it ourselves."

The girls said they really didn't know much about operating the stand at first, but Stripling helped them get started. They learned from Stripling where to order large quantities of fireworks for resale, and about state laws pertaining to fireworks.

"We still didn't know that much about owning a fireworks stand," the girls said, recalling their first year of operation. "Last year was a learning experience."

One of the things the girls learned was that state law prohibits stands opening before June 24. And stands must close at midnight, July 4.

The girls also learned that there is no big rush on fireworks during the first week of operation. "We don't get many customers until now," the girls said Monday. "We open early (on June 24) so customers will know where we are."

...sisters operate fireworks stand

But the rush really hits around the third or fourth of July, said Brenda, "when we're low on items." The stand is "packed" with people on those days, the girls said.

They added that their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beil, help them out when business is brisk.

Are there any drawbacks to running a fireworks stand? "It gets real boring the first week," said the girls. "And it's hot. It's not been as bad this summer as last summer," the girls recalled.

Their best selling item is bottle-rockets, the girls said. Near the Fourth of July, families come in "and buy pretty things," like sparklers.

The girls have a few safety tips concerning fireworks, which can be dangerous if not used properly.

"People shouldn't shoot them around dry grass," said the girls.

"We tell kids not to put them in their mouths, and to read the directions carefully. Some people have a tendency to hold them in their hand" as they light them. "Don't do that," they warn.

The girls also agree that children should always be supervised by an adult when around any type of fireworks.

Rodney Phillips, arson investigator for the city, has another warning for people using fireworks. "Fireworks are not supposed to be discharged in the city limits," Phillips stressed. "There is a city ordinance against it. People will be cited for it."

"We're not trying to keep kids from having fun," Phillips added, saying that it was dangerous to allow the use of fireworks around grass or other flammable items.

Phillips also stressed the importance of adult supervision. Children should always have an adult with them if they are around fireworks.

America denounced as Iranians mourn

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran announced today that "U.S. agents" killed the warden of its main prison as more than a million Iranians attended a mass funeral in Tehran of 72 political leaders who died in a bomb blast.

Pars, the official Iranian news agency, said the revolutionary prosecutor's office in Tehran announced Warden Mohammad Kachou of Evin Prison "has been assassinated by U.S. agents." It gave no details.

The forbidding prison on the outskirts of the Iranian capital is the chief place of confinement for opponents of the Islamic fundamentalists controlling the Iranian regime. Firing squads have executed hundreds there since the overthrow of the monarchy in February 1979.

The United States also was condemned at the funeral for the victims of Sunday's bombing at the Islamic Republican headquarters as the chanting crowd extolled the "martyrs" and shouted "America defeated!" over and over, Tehran Radio reported.

"What happened was an American crime," one unidentified speaker told the throng as it assembled for the funeral procession through the Iranian capital. "The crimes of America are well known all over the world. America calls itself a civilized nation. Such civilization is a barbaric civilization. It is a civilization to enslave mankind."

Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani told the mourners they must fight on two fronts, one the battlefield with Iraq "and the other an internal one."

"With your determination, you can defeat the enemy and the Fifth Column trying to create disturbances," he declared.

Rafsanjani threatened an intensified crackdown on the opposition, saying, "We have been trying to reason with the counter-revolutionaries. But after this horrible crime, how can anyone expect us to let them do what they like to do."

He said the bodies of those killed in the bombing Sunday night would be taken to their birthplaces for burial.

New method of collecting garbage makes debut in city

Mechanized garbage collection makes its debut in Big Spring this week when the city trots out a new $18,000 truck and more than 160 dumpsters in selected neighborhoods.

The new method should keep the city much cleaner, although it won't necessarily reduce the cost of trash collection.

"I'm optimistic about it and I think it will work," said City Manager Don Davis, explaining that with the current system spillage has been a serious problem. The new dumpsters should reduce the problem of spillage, he said.

Avion-Indianola will be the first neighborhood to try out the new system. There will be one dumpster for every four households.

Other neighborhoods to follow during the initial phase are Kentwood and Douglas.

Collection still will be twice weekly, and before the start of collection in each area, residents will be notified by a letter from the city outlining how the new system works.

Focalpoint

Action /reaction: Drunk Hummers

Q. I need to know when to put out the hummingbird feeder so we can start feeding them.

A. Now.

According to the Audubon Society, the little hummers started arriving here in April after their 2,400-mile hop from South America. They stay the summer and go south in October.

There may be fewer hummingbirds this summer than last summer because of the extended drought last summer. The drought killed many flowers which the hummingbird depends upon for food during both journeys.

If you plan to feed them, mix one part sugar with eight or nine parts water by volume and color it red or blue. Hang near a window where you can see it but out of the sun. The sun's heat will cause evaporation which will turn the sugar water to syrup or cause it to ferment.

The only thing more disgusting than a drunken hummingbird is two hummingbirds!

Words of Freedom

In face of the myriad challenges posed by an increasingly complex world, we tend to lose sight of the freedoms and privileges with which we, as Americans, are blessed. It must be our continuing duty to strive for the preservation of the political and economic system which guarantees these rights and which is recognized worldwide as an extraordinary achievement in the progress of mankind.

BSHS's float entered in parade at Odessa

Dust off your period clothing for another parade, this one Odessa's Centennial 100 processional scheduled to start at 10 a.m., Saturday at Odessa College.

The world's longest parade float, assembled by Big Spring High School representatives for the Big Spring Centennial parade, will be taken to Odessa for entry into the parade and is in need of riders.

Boasting 10 units, the float will carry Big Spring Centennial bunting. Those who would like to hitch a ride on the float should call Craig Fischer at either 77461 or 3-1585 no later than Wednesday and be prepared to furnish their own transportation to and from the parade site.

People in Indian, pioneer, western or oil driller dress get a special invitation to participate, Fischer said. The float will likely be carefully examined by TV cameras, representing KMD-TV Channel 2 and KOSA-TV Odessa Channel 7.

Fischer plans to take the float to Odessa College, where the alignment for the parade entries will be made, Friday.

Silverman may resign

NEW YORK (AP) — Fred Silverman, once considered a wizard of TV programming, will resign his position as president of NBC and will be replaced by producer Grant Tinker, sources at the network told The Associated Press today.

Tomkaw, the host of NBC's morning "Today" show, and Roger Mudd, NBC News's chief Washington correspondent, will assume the duties of co-anchors of the "NBC Nightly News," said the sources, who asked not to be identified.

John Chancellor, the current anchorman, will become a commentator, the sources said.

NBC's profits have dropped from about $150 million in 1977 to about $80 million last year, less than one-third the profit reported by ABC and CBS. And NBC has lagged in the prime-time ratings.

Silverman, former programming chief at ABC, was hired by NBC to improve the network's ratings and profits.

He could not immediately be reached for comment in Hawaii, where he was vacationing.

A spokesman for NBC said only that a forthcoming announcement from the network's parent company, RCA, would concern "a change in NBC's management."

Tinker, 55, worked in the programming department of NBC from 1961 to 1967, and his MTM Productions is considered one of the best independent television studios in Hollywood.

Economic recovery slows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's index of leading indicators, an important gauge of future national economic strength, plunged in May, the Commerce Department reported today.

The drop was in line with other recent government reports that have indicated the economy is slowing in its recovery from last year's recession.

"The decline in the index of leading indicators for May, together with other information available, suggests that the economic recovery that began last summer temporarily has stalled," said Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige.

"Since the end of last year, the leading index has been telegraphing the message of a slowdown. We do not expect to see a recession — but do expect a continued slowdown in the short term," Baldrige said in a statement.

Missing goats, boat keep sheriff busy

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Mitchell County sheriff's office has been kept busy lately with a multiplicity of duties.

Sheriff Wendall Bryant recovered a stolen boat from Lake Colorado City, a 12-foot fiberglass craft owned by Herman Cardwell, which was reported missing approximately a week ago.

Sheriff Bryant's office received a telephone call informing the department where the boat could be found.

Additionally, six mail boxes a mile and a half south of Colorado City were damaged by a motorist on the old Seven Wells Road. A suspect was located and agreed to replace the damaged boxes.

If that is not enough, Sheriff Bryant said he would appreciate any calls concerning a missing herd of goats, number 12 to 14. The stock is missing from a farm north of Loraine. Several days ago, the herd was spotted meandering southwest of Loraine. The sheriff says theft is not suspected. Anyone seeing the goats is asked to call Sheriff Bryant.

Computer-printer breakdown delays 20-day tax notices

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Mitchell County Tax Collector-Assessor Mike Burt reports a computer-printer breakdown in Austin has caused a delay in getting out the 20-day tax notices.

Originally, the re-evaluation firm of Southwestern Appraisal Co., had planned to have the printouts in Colorado City by noon Monday, but due to mechanic problems the printouts will be received later this week.

That means the date for the board to review will be set back one week to July 27. Four days have been set aside to meet with tax payers July 27-31.

County Extension Agent appointed

Hank Allan Willemsma has been appointed Howard County Extension Agent, replacing Andy Vestal.

Willemsma's appointment was announced by Roberta Johnson, district director for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and Howard County Judge Bill Tune, following action by the Howard County Commissioner's Court. The appointment is effective July 16.

Willemsma is a native of Virginia, and graduated from James Wood High School in Winchester, Va. He attended Lord Fairfax Community College, and received his bachelor's and master's degrees in animal science from New Mexico State University.

He is now serving as extension agricultural aide in the Dona Ana County Extension office in New Mexico. He and his wife will move to Big Spring from Radium Springs, N.M.

Residence looted

The Roger Rayl residence, Route 1, Box 432, was looted Monday, according to a report in the Howard County Sheriff's office.

The report shows that Rayl noticed a vehicle in his yard which had been reportedly stolen earlier from a man he knows. Rayl ran off some people at his residence at that time.

When he left and returned a short time later, the people were again at his residence, and he again ran them off. He then went in the house, and saw that his pistol was missing. He gave chase to the suspects, and lost sight of them at the Centerpoint Road on Highway 350.

Stolen pickup is recovered

A 1980 Chevrolet pickup, reportedly stolen in Big Spring, was recovered by the Howard County Sheriff's Department on Monday.

Sheriff A.N. Standard said that the vehicle was abandoned in Howard County, and a subsequent check showed the vehicle to be stolen.

The owner has been notified, and was reportedly enroute to pick up his vehicle.

Stolen in the incident was a brass barreled, dark walnut banded .35 caliber pistol, a four piece sterling silver set, including a coffee pot, creamer, sugar bowl and baby cup, and assorted jewelry. The items were valued at $250.

Officials in the Sheriff's office were alerted, and the case is now under investigation.

Harte-Hanks official testifies before PUC

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The top official of one of Texas' largest newspaper and broadcast companies said today his firm might not get involved in the burgeoning electronic information business if it has to compete with the telephone company.

Robert Marbut, chief executive officer of Harte-Hanks Communications, told a Public Utilities Commission hearing examiner that American Telephone & Telegraph's proposed Austin test of a home information system would have a "chilling effect" on other companies considering getting into the field.

Marbut appeared as a witness for the Texas Daily Newspaper Association, which is fighting AT&T's plan to test its "Electronic Information System."

The phone company wants to put about 700 computer screens in Austin homes and businesses to test the system. TDNA has said the phone company should not be allowed to enter the information field because AT&T owns all the lines needed for such a system.

"We would most probably stay out of the market, knowing what we know now," Marbut said. He agreed with a previous witness who said it would be a "kamikaze" mission to try to compete with AT&T in the electronic information field.

"As chief executive officer of a public company, I don't like those kinds of missions," Marbut said.

On Monday, Dr. William Cunningham, associate dean of the University of Texas graduate school of business, told PUC examiner Rhonda Ryan at a prehearing conference that the test itself would give AT&T an advantage competitors could never match.

Former Big Springers sell Ballinger Ledger

Tom and Linda Roy, former residents of Big Spring, have sold the semi-weekly Ballinger Ledger to the Wes-Com Company, which publishes seven other West Texas weekly and semi-weekly newspapers, among them the Colorado City Record.

Wesley W. Burnett, vice-president of Wes-Com, will become publisher of the Ledger Wednesday. Burnett, 39, is currently publisher of the Stephenville Star and Dublin Progress. He and his family are planning a move to Ballinger.

Wes-Com was organized by Burnett, Gus Allen of Sonora and S. Ronilyard of San Angelo in 1976.

Murder trial of Cuban national set Monday

A trial for Edwardo Maidique, a Cuban national who was charged with murder in the shooting death of Linda Garcia, has been set for Monday, according to District Judge Jim Gregg.

Maidique's attorney, Wayne Basden, was to appear in court today for docket call.

Miss Garcia, 26, was found shot inside her home March 23. She received four gunshot wounds to her body. Her sister, Martha Esquibel, 19, was also injured March 23, and was transported to Odessa Medical Center with a head wound and a broken neck. Maidique was charged with aggravated assault in relation to Miss Esquibel's injuries.

Construction firm looted

Wayne Jones of Jones Construction, Interstate 20, reported a break-in at the business at 8:15 a.m. Sunday, to the Howard County Sheriff's Department.

The building was reportedly entered by a window which was broken on the west side. Taken was a black and white television. A 1975 Chevrolet pickup, and a three axle equipment trailer was taken from the compound.

The pickup and television were later located at a local truck stop, and the trailer was later located in Luther.

The case is now under investigation.

New firm open for business

Joe's Produce, 1800 South Birdwell, has recently opened for business, according to co-owner David Wright.

Wright operates the business with his partner, George Moland.

The store specializes in fresh fruit and vegetables brought in from California and the Rio Grande Valley, Wright said.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Ball response 'tremendous'

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Response to reservations for the Mitchell County Centennial Ball has been tremendous, according to Mrs. J.R. Fuller, chairman of the event.

The Gilded Cage Ball will be held from 9 p.m., until 1 a.m. July 18, in the Colorado City Civic Center.

Mrs. Fuller reminds Mitchell County residents that space is limited and due to the number of reservations already made, July 8 will be the cutoff date for making reservations for the ball.

Persons must make their reservations in person at the Colorado City Centennial headquarters, just north of C Athletics.

Texas holiday traffic toll might reach 44

AUSTIN — The Department of Public Safety has estimated that as many as 44 persons may die in Texas traffic accidents during the upcoming July 4 weekend unless drivers exercise extreme caution.

Col. Jim Adams, DPS Director, urged motorists to maintain safe driving habits during the holiday to help minimize the loss of life.

"Texas is well on its way to yet another record year for traffic fatalities," Adams said. "We can put a stop to this dangerous trend if more motorists will slow down, refrain from drinking and use the most readily available safety precaution — seat belts."

"In Texas, the chances of being killed in an accident during 1980 were four times greater for persons not wearing seat belts than for those wearing the belts," Adams pointed out. "The odds are clearly in the motorist's favor when everyone in the vehicle remembers to buckle up."

Adams said DPS Regional Commanders will deploy additional troopers where heavy volumes of traffic are expected.

The DPS will be conducting "Operation Motorcade" during the holiday period to call attention to the dangers of holiday driving. The Department will tabulate traffic fatalities and release totals three times daily at 10 a.m., 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. The first report will be made at 10 a.m. Friday, July 3.

The 78-hour counting period will begin Thursday, July 2, at 6 p.m. and continue until midnight, July 5.

Fifty-two persons died from traffic injuries received during the July 4 holiday period last year. Texas traffic deaths in 1980 totaled 4,424, a record high for the fourth consecutive year.

Police Beat — Shrubbery destroyed by driver of pickup

Shrubbery was the victim in a case of criminal mischief reported to police just before midnight Monday. Edward Martinez, 2208 S. Monticello, complained to police that someone drove a light-colored, newer-model pickup through his property, destroying four bushes. The loss was estimated at $400.

▼Vending machines were broken into at the Plaza Pub, 112 S. Main, between 2 p.m. Sunday and 10:30 a.m. Monday, according to police reports. Missing are approximately $200 in change, 12 bags of chips and one case of beer.

▼Bill Chrane of Chrane Auto Sales said that between 10:30 a.m. Saturday and 8:30 a.m. Monday a red four-wheel tandem trailer valued at $1,350 was taken from his lot at 1205 E. 4th.

▼Jean Williams told police she was parked at 203 Barnes between 3 and 4 p.m. Monday when her purse was stolen from inside her car. Value of its contents totalled over $200, according to police reports.

Malone-Hogan Hospital. He was admitted to the hospital around 1 p.m. Monday in semi-comatose condition after swallowing an overdose of medication, according to a hospital spokesman.

▼Guilty plea nets prison

Ricky P. Ornelas, 18, of 508 NW 10th, was given a two-year sentence in the Texas Department of Corrections, Huntsville, following the revocation of his probation Monday in 118th District Court.

On Feb. 24, 1981, Ornelas pleaded guilty to a charge of aggravated assault, and was given a two year probation sentence. Records show that Ornelas was accused of violating his probation May 17, when he was charged with burglary, aggravated robbery and aggravated assault.

Ornelas was represented by Jack Thompson.

Gomez given probated term

Angel Gomez, 25, of 302 W. 7th, pleaded guilty in 118th District Court Monday to a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Gomez was given a two-year probated sentence, and released.

Shaw-Heatly pairing may not hold up

It looks like there's a good chance that the redistricting plan that "pairs" me with Rep. W.S. "Bill" Heatly (D-Paducah) may be ruled unconstitutional.

As you know, the House reapportionment plan puts both me and Rep. Heatly in a new 150th District, which extends more than 300 miles from Dawson County, barely 45 miles from the New Mexico border, to Wilbarger County on the Red River.

Borden, Dawson and Howard counties would be in the new 150th District but, despite my very vocal protests, Scurry, Sterling and Coke counties would not. But there's hope. Three Mexican-American state representatives and five other plaintiffs from around the state have filed a class action suit to have the new plan ruled unconstitutional because it unnecessarily splits too many county lines.

Their argument is extremely similar to the suit that successfully overturned the redistricting plan drawn in 1971. Back then, the Texas Supreme Court overturned the plan for "wholesale cutting on county lines" that wasn't justified by the one-man, one-vote principle.

The 1971 plan split 33 counties, and the 1981 plan just passed by the Legislature also splits 33

Representative Larry Don Shaw Reports from Austin

Such extensive county splitting just wasn't necessary. There was a lot of political maneuvering involved, and I think the court will easily see through it and throw the plan out.

The plan doesn't split any of the counties in the new 150th District, but it hardly meets the requirement that the new districts be as compact as possible.

And the redistricting plan is like a house of cards — if you change one district, the whole plan collapses and you have to start over.

In this case, if the court throws the plan out, a new one will be drawn by a five-member redistricting board composed of the Speaker, the Lieutenant Governor, the Attorney General, the State

Comptroller and the State Land Commissioner.

If that happens — and I'm fairly confident that it will — it's almost certain that the redistricting board will draw new districts that are considerably more compact. And, hopefully, I'll end up with a district that contains all six of the counties I currently represent.

State District Judge

Harley Clark on June 19 granted a temporary restraining order against implementing any part of the reapportionment plan until a hearing is held. The hearing was originally scheduled to take place on Friday, June 26, but was rescheduled for Tuesday, July 7.

As I said, I'm very optimistic about the outcome of the suit, and we should know something by the middle of July. If Judge Clark does throw the plan out, it will probably take another month or two for the redistricting board to draw another plan, so we may not know the eventual district boundaries until after Labor Day.

No majority expected from Israeli election

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin and challenger Shimon Peres battled for dominance today in a general election considered so close that neither Begin's Likud Bloc nor Peres' Labor Party was expected to win a majority in the Israeli Parliament.

Five hours after the 4,950 polling booths opened, 30.4 percent of the country's eligible voters had cast their ballots — roughly the same as in its opening hours of the 1977 election. Participation was expected to increase after dusk reduced the sweltering heat blanketing much of Israel.

Begin was among the first to arrive at a polling place near his Tel Aviv residence when the voting began at 7 a.m.

"I bet you don't know who I'm going to vote for," the prime minister said teasingly before stepping into an enclosure to choose a party slip.

"Until early morning nobody will know who will form the government," he said. "Here it is not a choice between two men. It is between 31 parties."

The polls were open until 10 p.m. (4 p.m. EDT) and computer projections of the outcome were expected soon after.

Peres voted near his home in suburban Tel Aviv, telling reporters: "This is a fateful day. I'm keeping my feelings to myself."

With final opinion polls reporting Likud and Labor running neck and neck and well short of a majority, both the major parties urged the 2.4 million voters not to give their ballots to any of the 29 smaller parties on the ballot.

A poll published Monday showed Labor leading Likud 43 seats to 40 in the 120-member Knesset. It was taken last Friday by the polling division of the Dahaf Advertising Agency and was commissioned by the Labor Party. A Dahaf poll 10 days earlier had Likud leading Labor 45 seats to 38.

Another poll taken last Thursday tied the two major parties at 42 seats each, 19 seats short of a majority. But the polls indicated more than 10 percent of the voters were undecided, and their decision could have a decisive effect on the outcome.

A close election would send both parties scrambling to line up support among the smaller factions for a governing coalition. But Israel has never had a single-party government in its 33 years of independence although Labor was the dominant force until Likud defeated it four years ago.

If neither Peres nor Begin could patch together a majority within six weeks, another election would have to be held.

Prolonged negotiations would put in limbo such crucial matters as the Syrian missile crisis in Lebanon and the long-postponed talks with Egypt on Palestinian autonomy.

Likud won 43 seats to Labor's 32 in the last election. Begin then had no problem forming a coalition with the centrist National Religious Party and several smaller centrist and religious blocs.

The key issues in the campaign included the inflation-wracked economy, the future of Jewish settlements in occupied Arab lands, the continuation of the Mideast peace process and Israel's relations with Egypt, the United States and Western Europe.

HOT AIR HIJINKS — A member of the crew at the Quechee Hot Air Balloon Festival seems to be on his way to an involuntary ride, but actually he is having some fun as he and others move the balloon to the top of the hill for takeoff. The festival took place last weekend in Quechee, Vt.

Last flight leaves Angelo

SAN ANGELO — The last Texas International flight out of San Angelo was scheduled for 2:08 p.m. today.

The airlines began its service to San Angelo in 1947. It was then known as Trans Texas Airways.

San Angelo was phased out as a TI stop because airline officials decided it would increase its profits with longer routes than as an intra-state carrier.

The air lines has also ended its service to Abilene and Beaumont-Port Arthur.

Five local employees of the air lines are transferring to other spots across the country, one as far away as Hartford, Conn. The other three elected to remain here and seek other employment.

Why has the cost of electricity increased so much?

Mainly, fuel. Mainly, natural gas. We still have to use it to make more than half your electricity. Our fuel bill in 1980 was $198,900,000*; our estimate for 1981 is $480,000,000.

As the graph shows, Texas Electric's customers paid much lower fuel costs on their electric bills throughout the '70s. But now our biggest contract for low-cost gas has expired, and we have to pay the going rate.

Our lignite-fueled generating plants (and our nuclear plant in the future) will help protect our customers from rising gas prices.

You can help hold down your electric bill by conserving at home; learn how at one of our free Tighten-Up workshops, or request our conservation tips booklets.

*The amount we have to pay for fuel to make electricity is the exact amount we charge our customers for fuel.

Knowing our language helps

It has been suggested any number of times recently that one way America might reduce its imbalance of trade with Japan would be for more Americans to learn the Japanese language.

The idea, of course, is that Japanese success in the American market is partially due to the better understanding Japanese businessmen have of America and the greater ease they have in communicating with Americans.

English has long been a 'must' subject in Japanese schools. How many public schools in America do you know which even offer a course in the Japanese language?

THE NUMBER OF JAPANESE business stationed in America who are more or less fluent in English run into the thousands. On the other hand, most American businessmen residing in Japan need an interpreter to get a point across.

We are often amused by the quaint phrases some of the Japanese use while speaking English but if we learn one or two words of Japanese we are prone to crow about it to other Americans.

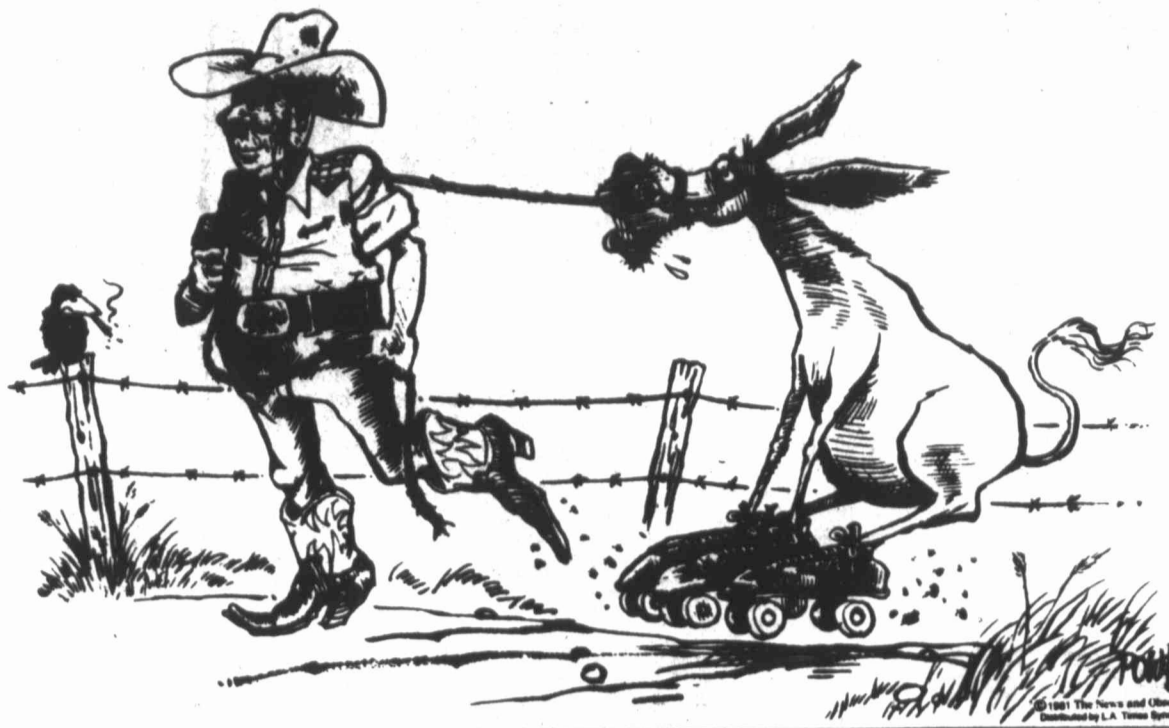

The plain fact is that the Japanese have been learning English ever since Commodore Perry sailed into Tokyo Bay the 19th Century, ending forever an isolation philosophy that the Japanese had respected for centuries. In 1869, after experiencing bitter disappointment at the fact that the years he spent learning Dutch did not help him in communicating with the foreign merchants in Japan, Fukuzawa Yukichi concluded, "As certain as day, English is to be the most useful language in the future." He then hurried off to find an English teacher.

Today, virtually all Japanese study English in junior and senior high school — most students for as many as six years. The Ministry of Education and local boards of education have structured things so that many students don't realize that English is an elective, not a required, subject.

MODERN AMERICAN MUSIC is a distinct hit in Japan and Japanese students who might be reluctant to learn English are often inspired to master the language just to decipher the words in some of the songs.

It's highly unlikely that there will ever be as many Americans studying Japanese as there are Japanese studying English, although new emphasis is being placed on such education in American schools. However, it is earnestly hoped that more Americans make an honest effort to at least develop a working knowledge of the Japanese tongue. Japanese, the experts say, will never be the language of the future but neither will it ever be replaced entirely by English. To put it succinctly, "when you're playing with their ball you usually play by their rules," and the Japanese own a prominent share, if not all the ball.

Man to watch in France

Evans, Novak

PARIS — The presence of the notorious leftist adventurer Regis Debray as a high official in the Elysee Palace heightens the alarm aroused in Washington by President Francois Mitterrand's new Socialist regime despite his professions of deeper concern than his conservative predecessor over Soviet military might.

Debray was Che Guevara's boon companion and chronicler in his disastrous communist insurgency in Bolivia in the 1960s. High French officials assure the U.S. that Debray is a mere functionary in Mitterrand's political household, not engaging in policy determination. Nevertheless, his presence symbolizes a troubling mindset by Mitterrand's French Socialists.

While claiming to be more attuned to Soviet expansionism and more aligned against neutralism in Western Europe than defeated conservative President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, the Socialists stand with Regis Debray in supporting worldwide insurrection — especially in Latin America. Therein lies the fatal plan of the non-communist left internationally: While opposing the Kremlin, it backs causes whose anti-Western animus is no less intense than Moscow's.

NOR IS THIS the only disturbance beneath the facade of avowed greater anti-Soviet steadfastness here now that Mitterrand is in power. While decrying Soviet SS-20 missiles aimed at Western Europe, the new government emphasizes negotiations to get rid of them rather than balancing Western weaponry. Furthermore, the presence of communist members in the new cabinet (even though the Socialists won an absolute majority of the National Assembly) undermines Franco-American relations more than anybody admits officially.

All this diminishes the importance of anti-Soviet rhetoric by Mitterrand and his foreign minister, Claude Cheysson, in addressing the Reagan administration. Condemning Giscard for insufficient outrage over the Soviet rape of Afghanistan, they say it is not enough merely to say there must be no more Afghanistans but Moscow still should be pressured to free Afghanistan itself.

Privately Cheysson goes beyond that, saying: We would return to pre-Gaullist adherence to U.S. leadership in the West if only Washington showed it stands for something. That something, however, embodies the contradictions of the non-communist left. Cheysson actually is seeking U.S. endorsement of anti-Western, anti-democratic movements in the Third World supported by the Socialist International and its French members, including Francois Mitterrand. The new French president upholds the romantic tradition of the French left that invests any insurgency against authoritarian right regimes with the highest values of mankind. Whereas Chancellor Helmut Schmidt resists such dogma in his German Social Democratic Party, Mitterrand enthusiastically embraces it.

In Africa, where the practical interests of France intrude, Socialist support for the Polisario insurgency in Morocco is being tempered by dealings with King Hassan. The new government's ardent backing of SWAPO guerrillas in Namibia is kept within the framework of a unified Western European approach.

Opening gambits

Art Buchwald

It's summer, and you will be meeting new people at the seashore, in the mountains and on trips. You want to make an impression on them, but you need an opening gambit. May I suggest a few that could break the ice?

"I had a poorer childhood than Ronald Reagan."

"I always sleep with a gun, when I'm sunbathing on the beach."

"I miss Jimmy Carter in the White House."

"We're passing up Prince Charles' wedding because my wife doesn't like to fly."

"I saw the movie 'Heaven's Gate' and liked it."

"MY SON WANTS a genetic engineering set for his birthday."

"Would you like to see a photo of my Moral Majority leader's wife?"

"My husband was going to get a high position in the State Department, but his brothers told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he wasn't qualified."

"Street crime is overrated."

"I think the quality of television programs is getting better all the time."

"We lost our American Express travelers' checks in Florence, and the hall porter at our hotel told us there wasn't anything we could do about it."

"Our French cook can do miracles with our food stamps."

"My daughter is in Al Haig's remedial English class."

"Whenever my broker from E.F. Hutton says something, nobody listens."

"My husband sells processed uranium to Third World countries."

"Nancy Reagan bought an Adolfo suit from me that I don't wear any more."

"My daughter wants to be drafted."

"George just put Alf Landon on his political hit list."

"My son is constantly being sexually harassed by his female supervisor."

"No, thank you. I don't drink wine. But I'd like a real good stiff shot of booze."

"The more I hear about supply-side economics, the more I like it."

"I think Charles Kuralt is much better looking than Dan Rather."

"I don't believe all those stories in the press about Mt. St. Helens overflowing."

"I'm reading Spiro Agnew's book this summer, and I can't put it down."

"OK, SO THE Soviets knock out 40 million Americans in a first strike, and we retaliate by killing 50 million of them. They're still going to have to buy our wheat."

"Did anyone read the story in the 'National Enquirer' on killer earthworms?"

"My mother was arrested for sitting in with the Vietnam veterans at the White House."

"Here's my card. If you ever need any real good Mexican grass, call me."

"I say if you have to choose between beautiful beaches and drilling for oil, you close the beaches."

"My garage mechanic called me this morning and told me there was nothing wrong with my car."

"Can anyone give me one good reason why we have to save the bald eagle?"

"I swear I saw Vice President George Bush today."

"Would anyone like to buy the Reagans a yacht?"

Greed leads man

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — By the nature of their work, undercover agents are given wide latitude in the way they spend the money allotted for their operations. It's an open invitation to steal with little chance of getting caught.

This is the story of one sticky-fingered spook who responded to the invitation with a degree of greed that is impressive even in the world of clandestine double-dealing. He stole impartially from the U.S. government, from his associates and from the foreign dictators with whom he did business.

THE SWINDLER is Edwin Wilson. He worked with another ex-CIA agent, Frank Terpil, who was convicted in absentia of illegal munitions dealings. Both are on the run after being indicted for illegal arms sales to Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi. Wilson is hiding out in Tripoli; at least he was until a couple of weeks ago.

By all accounts, Wilson is a shrewd, cold businessman who lets neither sentiment, patriotism nor simple morality stand in the way of a lucrative deal. When his mother died several years ago, he flew off to Libya on business the next day and missed her funeral.

In his years as a CIA contract agent, Wilson either resisted the temptation to profiteer or was able to cover his tracks. He was involved in the Bay of Pigs fiasco, as well as the subsequent secret war against Fidel Castro, which included a cockamamie scheme to have trained dolphins attach explosive charges to Cuban ships.

It was when Wilson left the CIA that opportunity knocked. He joined the Navy's supersecret "Task Force 157" — a group of about 75 agents who gathered intelligence around the world under the cover of export-import operations.

Wilson's assignment was to set up a "front" firm called Consultants International, through which agents would be run and supplied. It was a joint CIA-Navy operation: The Navy gave the orders; the CIA paid the rent.

Terpil told a confidant that Wilson made a fortune from Task Force 157. Wilson was the paymaster for his agents, Terpil explained, and would charge the government $20,000 a head — but pay some agents as little as $11,000 and pocket the difference.

Terpil also said Wilson once was given $70,000 to buy a Russian mine. But he never bought it, claiming that his contact had absconded with the money, or some such excuse.

WILSON ALSO MADE a bundle from the then-shah of Iran through his CIA-Navy front. Sources told my associate Dale Van Atta that Wilson had particularly good contacts in Iran during the shah's regime, including members of the American group that advised the Iranians on military purchases.

Around the rim Smokers, beware

Richard Horn

Smokers beware. There are people out to get you, to brand you as a health menace and a nasty lot.

The attacks are coming from several sources, the most publicized being from the mouth of Brooke Shields, star of screen and magazine. But the Civil Aeronautics Board is also holding hearings, trying to decide if smoking on airplanes should be prohibited altogether. A Dallas businessman bypasses the CAB and will shortly begin operating the first non-smokers airline.

MISS SHIELDS has been appearing before a subcommittee, trying to prove that her non-smoking ads will be effective in keeping young people from smoking. The ads, which show her with two cigarettes sticking out of her ears and read "Smoking can spoil your looks," were cancelled by the Department of Health and Human Services because Brooke was an "inappropriate model for young people." In other words, it's because she is a teen-age sexpot.

Miss Shields testifies that she IS an appropriate model for young people because young people, so she says, look up to her. But excerpts from the testimony show that Brooke tends to babble, and looks a great deal better than she argues:

"When you die because of cigarette smoking you've lost a very important part of your life — your life. You can lose friendships, your lungs."

Go ahead smokers, light one up. You have nothing to fear from her.

Smoking is a habit that mystifies me. I cannot understand how a person can derive pleasure from inhaling burning leaves, but enough people do just that, so there must be something to it.

I suppose it gives them something to do with their hands, but chewing on pencil erasers can accomplish that purpose. It's just as silly, but infinitely cheaper.

THEIR ADDICTION IS understandable to a coffee addict like myself. The coffee that I make smells and tastes like a burnt hot dog, but I drink six to eight cups of the stuff a day. Sir Walter Raleigh, America's first tobacco enthusiast requested that his funeral be a smoking party. I suppose I can have coffee and cookies at mine.

But drinking coffee does not produce the mess that smoking cigarettes does. Anyone who doubts that need only take a long-distance bus ride. The odors of stale cigarette smoke, leaky toilets, diesel, and vinyl seats combine to create a sort of motorized Hell speeding down the highway.

Then there are the smokers who put their cigarettes out in their Jello or mashed potatoes or whatever is handy while everybody else is still trying to eat. Perhaps I should pour cold coffee over my leftover food when I'm through eating, just to settle the score.

I know a lot of people who are far more radical than I am in their dislike of cigarette smoke. One man threatens to get sick to his stomach if anyone around him smokes. And, of course, there are always people who want a federal law on the books to prohibit smoking once and for all.

Fortunately that will never happen, but there are people out there drawing battle lines, waiting for the wrong puff of smoke to cross into their territory.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I became a Christian during my teenage years, but I began to drift away somehow and now I am living like a complete unbeliever. How do you think something like this could happen? I thought God would never let go of us. — N.H.

DEAR N.H.: No, God may not turn his back on us, but it is certainly possible — and all too easy — for us to turn our backs on him. Do not blame him for your rebellion against him; you are responsible, and you also are the only one who can take the steps you need to take to come back to him. And when you do, you will find he still loves you and wants to forgive you.

One of Jesus' best-known parables vividly pictures this, and I hope you will study it carefully. It is the parable of the prodigal (or lost) son, and you will find it in Luke 15. In that story, a son decides to leave his home. He decides he wants to be free and believes he will have happiness if he can only get away from his father.

For a time, it seemed like he is right; he apparently has lots of friends and has the money to enjoy all kinds of pleasures. But when his money runs out, his friends leave and he finds himself in great misery.

Eventually he realizes how foolish he has been, and determines to return to his father — even if he has to become one of his father's servants. "But while he was still a long way off, his father saw him and was filled with compassion for him; he ran to his son, threw his arms around him and kissed him" (Luke 15:20).

No matter what you have done, it is not too late for you to return to Christ. In your heart you know he loves you — in fact, he was willing to go to the cross and die for you. What you have done is serious, but it would be tragic for you to go through life without knowing the joy and peace that only Christ can bring. Repent of your sins — turn your back on them, with the strength he can give you. And then return to Christ and be his disciple from now on.

She even eat kids' leftovers

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: First, let me tell you that I really enjoy your column, and so does my doctor. Now for my problem. At age 30, I was an attractive young woman. Now at age 40, I am a fat-clad, disgusting, pot-bellied mess. All that remains of the attractive 30-year-old is a pair of sorrowful eyes looking out of an overblown face. I am such a compulsive eater that I eat when I'm not even hungry. I eat the children's leftovers. I eat what I don't like. I eat anything in sight. In front of people, I eat like a normal person, but as soon as I am alone, I am out of control. I do not have a job other than homemaking, so I am really stuck.

Please tell me and the other miserable compulsives what we can do. My body can't take much more on my 5-foot frame (at 170 pounds). I cannot stick to any diet, even with my doctor's help. All I do is fail to lose, then break appointments so he won't find out. Help. It's really serious. — M.S.

I still think you're attractive, especially after that greeting. It's more than dieting you need. I am sure you could lose weight if you consumed fewer calories. But you know that. It sounds like you need behavior modification. Often, with compulsive eaters, there is a psychological factor that has to be met head-on if there is to be any long-term success. I have found an attraction in Weight Watchers or similar programs. The support offered at weekly meetings is very helpful for keeping on diets and exploring reasons for compulsive eating. So I recommend that to you.

Regular reinforcement of good nutritional habits should allow that 30-year-old attractiveness to break out of this 40-year-old mess you got it into. For starters, you may want to study the booklet "Lost Secrets of Reducing," which is available by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printing and handling.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Husband's Inhibitions Make Him Fear Exhibition

DEAR ABBY: I have a very frustrating problem. On many occasions my husband (I'll call him Joe) and I find ourselves spending vacations or holidays at the home of a relative. We have a wonderful time except when it comes time for bed, then Joe refuses to make love because he says it's not polite to make love in someone else's home. Abby, we have a separate room and all the privacy we need, but Joe is very stubborn about this.

This frustrates and infuriates me — especially when the vacations last a week or two. Joe and I have a very healthy relationship at home or in a hotel, and these loveless vacations are making me very unhappy. Can you help me? DEPRIVED IN BUFFALO

DEAR DEPRIVED: Joe's inhibitions are not uncommon. I hope he is sufficiently considerate of your feelings to get professional help to overcome his hangups about boudoir behavior. The alternative is to stay at a hotel where you can both enjoy a carefree vacation, complete with marital relations. It's expensive. But having a frustrated and furious wife could be even more expensive.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in the same boat with the widow from Hibbing, Minn., who loves to dance. We aren't widows by choice, Abby, and if the wives of those men who ask us to dance can't spare their husbands for a dance or two, shame on them! We don't want their husbands, all we want is a little recreation. What are women without husbands supposed to do — bury themselves?

I had open heart surgery last year and my doctor told me I should walk and dance as much as possible. Sign me ... NEEDS TO DANCE

DEAR NEEDS: I'm with you. If there's an escort service in your area, why not engage a gentleman who loves to dance, and have a dancing evening? You could write it off as a medical expense. Dancing is not only valid therapy, it's exhilarating, wonderful exercise, and it's great for the morale.

DEAR ABBY: There is this guy on my husband's ship who is the quiet type. When the ship goes out to sea, he sits back and observes all the men. When he gets home, he tells his wife every move the men made, right or wrong.

Well, the wife goes to the wives of these guys who messed around overseas and spills the beans. She and her big mouth have already caused two married couples to split up. Abby, no wife really wants to hear that her husband has been unfaithful to her.

We need a solution.

NAVY WIVES IN VIRGINIA BEACH

DEAR WIVES: A slip of the lip can sink not only a ship but a marriage. I don't condone fooling around, but let all concerned be forewarned.

Plant in containers to conserve water

NEW YORK — Your summer can be filled with flowers, geraniums, the wonderful shower of annuals like petunias and even a patio rose tree. Or, would you rather have a fresh tomato or cucumber to slice and pop into a salad on a moment's notice?

"You can enjoy both worlds," says the consumer advisor for a large variety chain, "even with the prospects of continuing drought in many areas."

One of the ways to conserve water, we know, is to recycle house water and use it for watering plants. "With some careful planning and as many container plantings as you desire, you can have an 'instant garden,'" advises Grace Ulbricht, consumer advisor for F.W. Woolworth. "And you will find container watering easy. In the case of vegetables, you'll be cutting down on back-breaking weeding if you grow them in containers; also the rate of plant pests is cut considerably." Homeowners, terrace, desk and patio, roof garden owners and window box enthusiasts can enjoy that universal urge to surround themselves with plants of all kinds, advises the expert.

Grace points out that you can get a good start with a 10- to 12-inch container that comes with three plants — two geraniums and one group of six annual plants for less than $4. And if you wish to make up your own group of plants, you'll find 12-inch planters cost as little as $3.27.

"For a lovely array of container blooms," Grace suggests geraniums and the hardy annuals as Portulaca; Zinnia; Periwinkle and Celosia. Plan a show-off group in wonderful yellows, orange and the most popular garden color of all, red. For a touch of green you might consider Bells of Ireland. And baskets provide beauty wherever they hang out. Fill them with Morning Glory; Nasturtium — even strawberries."

Dress up your patio with many container plants as you wish. Place them at corners; in groupings at the bottom of steps; arrange some around a pool; along a driveway or any focal point you want to emphasize.

We've become accustomed to the patio-type tomato plant that produces an almost endless supply of tiny tomatoes.

Bride-elect is honored with afternoon shower

Brenda Scott, bride-elect of Van Gaskins, was honored on Saturday afternoon with a bridal shower in the home of Mrs. James Coates.

Corsages of apricot silk flowers were presented to Miss Scott, her mother, Mrs. Larry Nix and the mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. Joe Mack Gaskins, Knott. Other honored guests were grandmothers of the couple, Mrs. Roy Henderson, Hyman, Mrs. John Hood, Big Spring, and Mrs. Nora Gaskins, Knott.

The refreshment table was covered with an imported cut-work white cloth and was centered with an arrangement of silk flowers in shades of apricot. The refreshments of petit-fours and punch carried out the selected colors of apricot and white. Crystal appointments were used.

Approximately 40 guests registered at a desk enhanced with a bud vase of apricot carnations flanked by white spiral candles.

Hostesses were Mrs. Coates, Mrs. Jarrell Barbee, Mrs. Vernie Barr, Mrs. Kenneth Scott, Mrs. Kenneth Furlong, Mrs. Donald Hale, Mrs. Lindell Newton, Mrs. Randall Reid, Mrs. Boyce Sneed and Mrs. Bill Stovall. The hostesses presented Miss Scott with a vacuum cleaner.

The couple will be married August 1 in the Midway Baptist Church.

Newspaper develops reading enjoyment

Can parents lure reluctant young readers into an enjoyment of reading?

Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, suggests that when reading the daily newspaper becomes a family adventure it can help a child learn to enjoy reading more.

Many children are "reluctant readers." They know how to read; they simply don't enjoy it. This happens even when a child has all the "advantages": weekly visits to the library, story hours, bedtime reading, parents who are avid readers.

The scope of information in the daily newspaper offers many opportunities for discussion and learning. For example, the local weather forecast can lead to an interest in the lines, patterns, and numbers on the weather map — an interest that can develop into a desire to learn — read — about clouds, the color of sunsets, electricity. Pictures of a new highway, a flood, the Easter Seal poster child, and Saturn's rings lead to questions about transportation, nature, handicaps, and outer space. And the logical place to find the answers to all these fascinating questions is in the library, in a book.

Newspapers are good for non-factual learning, too. A photo of an unattractive person could lead to a discussion of where physical beauty ranks in your scale of values.

The newspaper's usefulness outlasts its timeliness. (After a few weeks, the ink doesn't rub off anymore.)

You can get more information on this subject and on the physical and social development of children up to six years old by writing to Growing Child, 22 North Second Street, P.O. Box 6201, Lafayette, Ind. 47902. When writing, include child's birthdate.

American caviar will compete with imports

The Soviet Union has long dominated the world caviar market, but soon there will be a caviar to compete with Russia's best, coming from, of all places, the United States.

American caviar will soon be available worldwide, reports the June issue of Town & Country magazine, and at prices one-half to one-quarter those of the best imported beluga's $500 a pound. In 10 years, says the magazine's food and wine editor, renowned gastronome James Villas, "American caviar not only will be a popular, eminently affordable delicacy but will also have put a big dent in the market for the imported product."

Ironically, during the 19th century much of the caviar in Europe was imported from no place other than the United States. Up to 50 tons a year were collected from the sturgeon teeming in the great inland lakes and large rivers. Caviar was once so common that caviar sandwiches were given away free with nickle beer in New York saloons just to induce thirst. However, overfishing eventually put an end to the sturgeon supply and the caviar industry shifted to the Soviet Union and Iran.

Today, breeders of sturgeon in California are using the area's warm waters to induce sturgeon to produce eggs within four to six years, instead of the 15 to 20 it takes in cold Asian seas. And if the technique whereby the fish are relieved of their eggs by Caesarean section rather than by killing them is perfected, the fish could continue producing for decades.

In any case, there is already some delicious, sensibly priced fresh American caviar on the market — such as the "Tsar Nicolai" brand from California — for the first time in decades. "At its best," says Town & Country's expert, "our caviar is already on par with Iranian servuga." And that is very good indeed.

NOTED HYPNOTISTS IN BIG SPRING TO HELP SMOKERS & THE OVERWEIGHT

Director of Techniques For Living

Are you overweight or a cigarette smoker? Have you tried to lose weight or stop smoking, only to fall time and time again? If you find yourself answering "yes" to either of these questions then the Techniques For Living Seminar, under the direction of Wade M. Gentner, F.A.I.H., at the Holiday Inn 300 Tulane Avenue will be the place for you to be on Wednesday, July 8. Techniques For Living will be conducting their famous Lose Weight — Stop Smoking Seminar which has helped thousands of people throughout the United States. Techniques For Living is a national organization dedicated to helping Americans solve these and other problems that have kept them from enjoying their lives to the fullest.

The subject of numerous newspaper and magazine articles as well as television appearances, Mr. Gentner and his staff have been conducting these seminars throughout the country. In a comprehensive and fascinating three hour program, those who attend the seminar experience the relaxing and beneficial effects of clinical hypnosis. Not only do people permanently lose weight and stop smoking as a result of the seminar, they also report that they sleep better, feel more energetic, and generally enjoy life more than they had previously.

Mr. Gentner's skill in clinical hypnosis was noted by Dan Rather of CBS' "60 Minutes", who referred to him in a nationally televised report as a well-trained and highly experienced hypnotist.

"Clinical hypnosis is the easiest way there is to solve these problems," Gentner says. "Simply put, it helps to eliminate these types of problems permanently."

Gentner says that the reason clinical hypnosis is so successful is that "it removes the causes of problems, not just the symptoms." For example, he explains: "People who are overweight go on diets. A diet is only good for as long as you can follow it. Once you stop the diet you re-gain the weight. Hypnosis is permanent because it eliminates the causes of overeating, not just the symptoms." The same holds true for smokers where the need to prevent cravings for cigarettes or weight gain is just as important. Both problems are covered at the seminar, and each seminar leader is personally trained by Mr. Gentner. Further information can be obtained by calling, toll free 1-800-645-5454.

CindyMann places in pageant

Cindy Mann, a student at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, was second runner-up in the Miss Deaf Texas pageant in Fort Worth recently.

Miss Mann is a resident of Austin. The pageant is based on beauty, poise, and personality, according to Doug Burke, vice-president of SWCID. Miss Mann was also required to answer a question posed to her from pageant judges.

Contestants also participated in a talent category, said Dr. Burke. Miss Mann performed a dance routine choreographed by Ora Burson of Big Spring.

The pageant was part of a series of events in conjunction with the Texas State Association for the Deaf Convention. Several members of the SWCID staff were in Fort Worth for the event.

Members of the SWCID staff were honored by the Deaf Action Center during a buffet, said Dr. Burke. The group also were honored at a reception by the Dallas Association of the Deaf.

Three members of the SWCID staff were named to the board for the Texas Association for the Deaf last weekend. They are Larry Evans, Bill Eckstein and Beatrice Burke.

While in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, the SWCID staff members also attended "Children of a Lesser God," a play by Mark Medoff which features two instructors from SWCID in the cast. They are Marilyn Myers and Steve Baldwin.

The 1983 meeting of the Texas State Association for the Deaf will be in Big Spring, said Dr. Burke. SWCID won the bid for the convention.

Luxury hotel set for Odessa

ODESSA — Plans for a seven-story, $11.5 million luxury hotel have been announced here.

A part of the Granada Royale chain, the hotel will be located at the corner of Eighth Street and Dixie Avenue, where an apartment complex is now standing.

There are 13 other Spanish-styled Granada Royale hotels in the south and midwest and plans exist to build ten more in the Chicago area.

When completed, the hotel will have 164 suite-type rooms. Construction likely will begin at the end of this year. Completion date is set for late 1982.

Economic theory is subject to unexplainable, unforeseen

NEW YORK (AP) — The best laid plans, the most scholarly research, the most reasoned explanations sometimes are flawed. The unforeseen the unexpected, and the unexplainable occur often enough to prove it.

—Critics have said that Reagan administration plans for a personal income tax cut aren't consistent with supply-side economics, but that may not be the case.

First, the background: The supply side is the economy's production (business) side, as opposed to the consuming side. Supply siders seek to spur production, hoping that more output will mean less inflation.

Agent's passport revoked

Agee's lawyers claim court's ruling 'totalitarian minded'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Philip Agee's lawyers are calling the Supreme Court's decision revoking the former CIA agent's passport "totalitarian-minded" and "extremely disturbing." The high court on Monday upheld the 1979 revocation, saying Agee harmed American interests by disclosing CIA agents' names and some of the agency's undercover operations.

The ruling, according to Agee's lawyers, also strengthens the government's power to revoke passports as a means of displeased the government. Agee, who was granted permission to return to this country when his passport was revoked in 1979, is now living in West Germany. He declined immediate comment Monday, saying he first wanted to hear details of the decision.

But the two dissenting justices said the majority had gone too far. "It is important to remember that this decision applies not only to Philip Agee, whose activities could be perceived as harming the national security, but also to other citizens who may merely disagree with government foreign policy and express their views," Justice William J. U.S. could sell nuclear reactors, fuel to Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may sell Egypt nuclear power reactors and low-grade uranium fuel under a new agreement between the two nations. Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., who signed the agreement Monday along with Egypt's minister of electricity, Maher Abaza, said he hopes it will be a "model" other countries will follow.

Haig noted that Egypt signed the nuclear non-proliferation treaty last February, thereby providing assurances that it has no intention of developing nuclear weapons.

NAACP leaders focus attack on Reagan's economic policy

DENVER (AP) — After giving President Reagan a polite but cool reception at their annual convention, members of the NAACP have turned their attention to strong attacks on Reagan's economic policies.

During its first day, the 72nd Annual Convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People passed resolutions on Monday condemning the Reagan budget cuts and authorizing NAACP participation in a protest march this fall.

And, after sending Reagan off with smiles and handshakes, the NAACP's two top officers lax out at the administration's economic programs.

Those programs will wreak "additional hardship, havoc, despair, pain and suffering" on blacks and the poor, said NAACP Executive Director Benjamin Hooks.

In his 20-minute address, Reagan told the NAACP that "government is no longer the strong draft horse of minority progress."

He asserted that government aid programs to minorities have failed and urged the 400,000-member civil rights group to support his tax and budget cuts.

The program of cuts, Reagan said, "will move us toward black economic freedom because it is aimed at lifting the entire country and not just parts of it."

Reagan also vowed to protect blacks' voting rights and never to stray from "our national commitment to battle discrimination."

Hooks termed Reagan's speech "thoughtful" but said the NAACP has little faith in the president's programs.

"We know for a certainty that his budget initiatives, favoring as they do the rich and well-to-do over the least well-off of us ... while simultaneously taking those same dollars from the poor, afflicted and aged, are bound to worsen our double-digit inflation," Hooks said.

Reagan was introduced to the convention by NAACP board Chairman Margaret Bush Wilson, a St. Louis attorney, who gently chided the president for failing to accept an invitation to address the NAACP during the 1980 campaign.

But in a speech delivered Monday night, she compared Reagan to the biblical "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" — war, famine, pestilence and death.

Reagan "presides over a government whose major actors seem determined to dismantle or undermine national policies and programs that have fed the hungry, educated the ignorant,

Compiling outstanding record with American League's Coca-Cola Colts

Hobbs honored for 30 years in Little League

30 YEARS OF COACHING — Johnny Hobbs, who has managed the Coca-Cola Colts of the American Little League for 30 years, is surrounded by his players from the 1981 season and local Coke Distributor Weldon Bennett after being presented with a watch from Coca-Cola for his outstanding service to Little League baseball. Bennett mentioned that such awards are usually awarded to Coca-Cola executives, but in the case of Hobbs, who has won in the vicinity of 450 games in that span, which is a winning percentage of 75, an exception was made.

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

In college football, the legendary Bear Bryant chases the record for career coaching wins amidst enormous fanfare. In Little League baseball, which doesn't receive the same amount of ink as the college gridiron, Big Spring has a mentor that can be considered in the same breath in regard to success.

Although no official national or worldwide Little League records are compiled on such information, local manager Johnny Hobbs would have to be esteemed with the best in his field.

Hobbs has managed the Coca-Cola Colts of the American Little League for the past 30 years, devoting countless hours toward the development of hundreds and hundreds of 10-12 year old boys. And as is the case at this level, it is all for free.

He was recently honored by local Coca-Cola distributor Weldon Bennett with a shiny watch in commemoration for his 30 years in coaching the team, and Hobbs admitted that he was overjoyed.

"I was really surprised and very thankful," Hobbs explained. "That watch really means a lot to me. Of all the things I own, besides my 25-year ring from Cosden, that's (the watch) my pride and joy."

Hobbs' 30 years with the Coca-Cola team hasn't been normal, either. He's been more than an average coach. The Colts, who were named the Cubs for the first eight years under Hobbs' direction, have won 19 outright American Little League championships, and shared another. That's a near amazing average for a six-team league.

Hobbs has also had only two losing seasons out of 30, as his team has been a near permanent fixture when the city playoffs roll around.

Only in 1976 and the past year have his Colt teams lost more than they won, and he is quick to remind that both of those came during rebuilding seasons. After winning his third city championship in 1980, he relied nearly on all 10 and 11-year-olds the past season. But that only means that the Colts will in all likelihood return to their past success in the next two seasons.

His personal regular season coaching record hits the 75 percent winning mark. In the sport of baseball, especially over a 30-year period, that percentile is outstanding.

After his first 25 years, at which time he was honored by the State Little League headquarters in Waco for his achievements, Hobbs' record with the Colts was 379-122. Hobbs didn't have his records handy during this interview, but said that he now has lost "about 150 games." That means that he has won around 450 contests.

The manager of the first place team in the American League takes charge of the All-Star team, which means that Hobbs has managed 20 AL All-Star units. Over that time, he has directed that league to the state tournament on three occasions.

As well as his coaching achievements, Hobbs has had time to help build three fields in Big Spring — the American League Park, the old National League Park, and Johnny Stone Memorial Park. That's quite a load for a man that works a normal job at Cosden, as well as owning Terry's Drive-In on East Fourth.

Hobbs has coached two generations dating back into the 1950s, and naturally has seen the change in Little Leaguers as the world around them changes each decade.

"Kids have changed a whole lot, I'll guarantee you that," Hobbs said. "Back in the 1950s, it wasn't hard to get their attention. But that's not the way it is now."

"The first 15 years I coached, they didn't have anything else on their minds but to play baseball," Hobbs continued. "It's not hard to get things done when you've only got one thing to concentrate on."

"But then in the early 60s TV came on real strong, and now they have Little League football, and of course, the girls," he added, laughing slightly at the girls.

Hobbs, despite the somewhat facetious hope of his coaching adversaries, has set no timetable for retiring from the Coca-Cola Colts managing position. "If my health holds up, I'll probably go another two or three years. But who knows," he said.

In his 30 years, Hobbs has probably made some players and parents unhappy. But for the most part, every player that has performed on a Colts team states

Today's Wimbledon action

Borg moves on with easy win

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Bjorn Borg moved closer to his sixth consecutive Wimbledon title today, defeating Peter McNamara of Australia 7-6, 6-2, 6-3 in the quarterfinals at the famed All-England Club.

The champion was two points away from losing the first set, but recovered, then won the tiebreaker 7-2 and was in fine form from that moment on.

In other men's quarterfinals today, second-seeded Jimmy Connors played Vijay Amritraj of India; surprising American Tim Mayotte took on another unseeded player, Rod Frawley of Australia, and second-seeded John McEnroe met South Africa's Johan Kriek.

McNamara, the 26-year-old 12th seed, played well, but well was not enough on a day when the ice-cool Swede was at his brilliant best.

Serving at 4-5, 30-all in the first set, Borg produced two service winners to save the set.

McNamara, who had dropped only three points in his four previous service games, opened the tiebreaker with a double-fault and Borg went on to take the set in 43 minutes.

Furious rally saves Jimbo

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Jimmy Connors came from two sets down to beat Vijay Amritraj of India 2-6, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2 Tuesday and reached the Wimbledon semifinals for the seventh time in eight years.

10th inning HR stops Texas League deadlock

Ed Cuervo's solo homer in the 10th inning gave the Jackson Mets a 1-0 Texas League baseball victory over the Tulsa Drillers Monday night.

Judges ruling won't matter to Illinois QB going pro

PEOIALL (AP) — Quarterback Dave Wilson, who already has decided to turn professional — has no constitutional right to play football another year for the University of Illinois, a judge says.

U.S. District Judge Robert D. Morgan's dismissal Monday of Wilson's lawsuit against the Big Ten Conference officially ended the athlete's last legal effort to play the 1981 season for the Illini.

Monday ruling had little practical impact because Wilson, expecting an adverse ruling by the court, announced last Friday that he would make himself available to the National Football League's upcoming what had been a pitching duel between winning pitcher Terry Leach, 4-1, and Kevin Richards of Tulsa. Jack Lazorko, 2-4, who relieved Richards in the eighth, was the losing pitcher.

Stan Davis had a solo homer in the eighth inning as the El Paso Diablos edged the Midland Cubs, 5-4.

Jim Korts, 2-4, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Randy Clark, 4-3.

supplemental draft. But Wilson's lawyer, Robert Auler, said he still would appeal the ruling because he believes the young athlete's rights were violated by the Big Ten and is seeking monetary damages.

While Mandlikova thrives, has shot at Grand Slam for women

Chrissie in Wimbledon semis for 10th straight year

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Pam Shriver has something to prove to herself: that she can win a string of great matches, and not just one.

She played a great match Monday, defeating her 18-year-old rival Tracy Austin 7-5, 6-4 to reach the Wimbledon semifinals. It earned her a crack at top-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd, who has beaten her in all seven of their previous meetings.

The statistics will not worry seventh-seeded Shriver too much. The 6-foot-11 Lutherville, Md., player, who will turn 19 on Saturday, ended an 11-match losing streak against Austin in front of a packed crowd of 14,000 on Wimbledon's center court and said afterward she was full of confidence for the semifinals.

"That must be my greatest win," she said. "I played an almost perfect match."

"I now know I can play a great match. Now we are going to see if I can string together a sequence of great matches."

"Today was good for me. I couldn't ask for anything better before playing Chris."

Lloyd, who defeated Shriver, then 16 years old, in the final of the United States Open three years ago, defeated 10th-seeded Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia 6-2, 6-2 in a little over an hour to clinch her place in the semifinals.

"It doesn't worry me who I'm playing," said Lloyd, who reached the semis for the 10th straight year.

"I like playing Pam because she is a serve-and-volley player. That gives me something to aim at — and she's a pretty big target," Lloyd joked.

Lloyd, 26, had very little to worry about Monday. The chunky Jausovec, who had earlier upset fifth-seeded Andrea Jaeger, did not have the consistency to disturb the No. 1 seed.

The Yugoslav player mixed up her shots intelligently but made too many unforced errors.

The other semifinal is a much tougher match, according to the seedings, with second-seeded Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia playing Czechoslovakian-born Martina Navratilova, who is seeded No. 4.

Mandlikova overwhelmed Wendy Turnbull of Australia 6-0, 6-0 in 40 minutes, while Navratilova ousted Virginia Ruzici of Romania 6-2, 6-3.

Turnbull was hampered by a wrist injury, but Mandlikova, the 19-year-old reigning French Open and who is halfway to the Grand Slam, said: "I know the result looks easy on paper, but I had to work for every point."

There is debate on whether a player must win all four major titles — Wimbledon and the French, U.S. and

Australian Opens — in the same year or consecutively to capture the "Grand Slam."

Navratilova, the Wimbledon champion in 1978 and 1979, has a 2-3 head-to-head record against Mandlikova. But they have never met on grass.

For All-Star Little League Tourney District 3 brackets drawn

The brackets for the double elimination District III Little League Tournament matching All-Star teams from Big Spring, Midland, Lamesa and Stanton has been drawn up, with action set to begin at two local parks on July 13.

The American and National League parks will be used for the 11-team tournament, which will conclude on Saturday, July

The seedings were drawn by the representatives of all of the leagues on Sunday. Local teams drawing first round byes included the Big Spring National and Big Spring Texas Leagues.

The Big Spring International kicks off the tournament on the 13th, facing Midland Western in the National Park. The Big Spring American faces

Midland Tower on the 14th at the National Park.

The BS National League will meet Midland Eastern in second round action on the 14th at the American League Park, while the BS Texas League will wait until the 16th to face the survivor of the American-Tower contest.

Joining the four teams from Big Spring will be five from Midland, with one each from Lamesa and Stanton.

UNM Coach Ellenberger back in court

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The state was resuming its case today against former University of New Mexico basketball coach Norm Ellenberger, who is on trial on charges of fraud and submitting false vouchers.

Ellenberger, the once highly successful coach, was indicted by a state grand jury in May 1980 on 12 counts of making false public vouchers, one count of fraudulent excess of $2,500 and nine counts of fraud in excess of $100. The charges stem from an investigation on the UNM basketball program triggered by a recruiting scandal that eventually led to the firing of Ellenberger at the outset of the 1979-80 basketball season.

The much-delayed trial opened Monday with the selection of a jury, opening statements by the prosecution and defense, and testimony from the state's first witness, Bob Dibell, associate director of athletics at the university.

Umps, fans, city economics affected by strike

CROSS COURT STRIKE — Hans Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia strokes across court during her Ladies Singles quarter-final match against Australian Wendy Turnbull Monday at Wimbledon. Mandlikova won 6-0, 6-1 and will meet Martina Navratilova in the semi-finals of the tournament.

Baseball strike won't hurt Lloyd's of London insurance

LONDON (AP) — Another $1-million-plus in checks were written and deposited by the U.S. baseball owners on the third day of the strike, but Lloyd's of London is not worried about the impact on its business.

The ball, which was taken off the ground from the ground in London in 1789, traditionally has been used for important international events, such as the foot and one for the U.S. Open and the U.S. Open.

"Now it is used for special occasions, such as the World Series," said a spokesman for Lloyd's.

The baseball strike in America is certainly an emotional one, but it is not a disaster for Lloyd's, which is a master of risk and a stock market in the middle of it.

The nearly 300-year-old financial giant, which will insure anything from a diamond ring to the deck of a battleship, has a long history of insuring major league club owners against a possible strike and now faces a 150-game season, it is not over the hump of a $100,000 for each scheduled game.

The strike, which required most of the policy from Lloyd's, which is in reality a worldwide society of underwriters, are paying off their shares.

This all runs to more than $1 million a day, assuming 10 or more games are scheduled each day, with a likely final outlay of $50 million.

is Lloyd's worried?

"I'm not worried about the price of a jumbo jet," remarked Lerner with a shrug.

Lloyd's, the indemnity is backed up by the unique American Trust Fund, which was founded by Lloyd's in 1888 as World War II was starting.

"At the time, some people thought Britain might be overrun by the Germans," Lerner explained. "Lloyd's policy holders in the States became quite nervous. So Sir Clarence F. Mackay, Lloyd's chairman of the board, went to America and set up the fund where the dollars of all policies involving U.S. interests would be held."

"It started with a $40 million nest egg. It now totals $1 billion."

Lloyd's is an unprecedented but sprawling empire in the insurance and shipping district in the heart of London. It maintains strong links with the past while looking to the future. A $170 million skyscraper home is under construction.

When the glass and steel structure stands into the sky, the Lloyd's Building will be transplanted along with the huge loggers on which scaffolds throughout the world are still recorded with a gilt pen and intact, the insurance and meeting room of the Lloyd's Committee.

Lloyd's, which has 1,200 far-flung agents, handles $1 billion in policies a year and rarely rejects one, so it is not worried.

Cleveland Browns owner sees pay-TV coming to NFL

CONTINUAL COMEBACK — Muhammad Ali, recovering from a bout of pneumonia, told reporters at a Chicago hospital press conference Monday that he plans to fight several exhibition boxing matches in September.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Art Modell, president of the Cleveland Browns, believes that pay television will become important as far as the National Football League is concerned, but not for another eight to 10 years.

"Pay-TV is coming. It is dramatic, but it's not a long time," Modell said Monday in U.S. District Court at the federal trial to which the Oakland Raiders and the Los Angeles Coliseum Commission have sued the NFL over the league's refusal to allow the Raiders to move to the city.

One reason that Al Davis, managing general partner of the Raiders, reportedly wants to move his team to Los Angeles is that he believes he would make large profits from pay-TV in the lucrative Southern California market.

Modell said that pay-TV profits will be shared by NFL teams, thus disputing a claim by Davis that the teams would get their own pay-TV money.

Modell also testified during his first day on the witness stand that the NFL plans to insure economic stability among league members.

"We fight with the rich to get richer and the poor to get poorer," Modell said.

Modell agreed with earlier defense witnesses who disputed Davis' claim that he struck an oral contract with NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle to permit the move of the Raiders.

Davis testified earlier in the trial that at a league meeting in Chicago in October of 1976, he agreed to change his position from "no" to "abstain" to allow Rozelle and the league to change its rules on moving franchises.

The rule was changed from unanimous consent of the owners to a three-quarters majority. To change the rule, unanimous vote was needed.

Modell agreed that Davis said he would reserve his rights, but denied Davis said anything about leaving his football team.

Modell did, however, say at one point "under questioning" by Raiders' attorney Joseph Alioto:

"Mr. Alioto, you can keep me here all summer long. I am not going to change my testimony."

But he then proceeded to recall that Davis said, "I reserve my rights to move."

nothing but the positive about Reds and his coaching style. That's also true with the parents. He is not a screamer, not a frustrated member that is living with his past through a group of Little League players.

He says that Jimmie's respect is the reason that he returned to Little League since at the beginning of his career, he has coached and watched playing, both in Little League and in later years.

"I wouldn't want to answer it," the long-time Little League manager said in reference to a question of picking a team composed of his best players through the years. "I've got too many friends from the people I've coached, and too many good ones. Besides, a lot of 'em think they're the best ones, anyway," he mentioned with a slight grin.

"But I will say this," he continued. "I would pick a team, Jim Dandy All-Star team, from all of my Little League players."

Red Sox split with Ozona

The Big Spring Red Sox split a doubleheader with the Ozona Royals in Sunday afternoon action, moving their record to 8-4 and setting up big inter-city game next weekend.

The Red Sox rallied in the opener for a 5-4 triumph. Facing the attack with two hits each were Ernie Garcia, Adam Yanes, Fernie Paredes and Jesse Olague. David Cruz was the winning pitcher for the Red Sox, improving his personal record to 4-2.

Everything Ozona hit in the second game seemed to drop and the Royals went on for a 10-9 win over the Red Sox. The Red Sox had the same quartet hitting twice each as in the first game.

The Red Sox play a July 8 game against the Big Spring Angels. That rivalry will be followed by an Old-Timers game between the Big Spring Tigers and the Midland Old-Timers.

BS Yankees easy winners

The Big Spring Yankees returned to winning form in a big way Sunday afternoon, rolling for 19-0 and 12-7 win over the Abilene Jets in semipro baseball action.

Charlie Vernon started a two-hit shutout and whiffed eight Jets in the opener, and his teammates stroked out 19 hits in the process.

In the nightcap, the Yankees raised their record to 16-4 with the 12-7 win. Ricky Myers went the first six innings, allowing six hits in recording the win. Chris Uelman came in and finished up in just the save.

Ricky Stone and Tooter Higgins both had four hits in the twinning to pace the Yankees attack. Dave Barbee chipped in with three base hits.

The Yankees take the July 4th weekend off, but return to play the same Abilene Jets on the road on July 12.

C-City taking UGSA entries

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Women's Softball Tournament for tournaments will be held July 10-12, with the first 24 UGSA teams that enter being eligible.

Entry fee is $50 dollars per team, with trophies being presented to the first, second and third place teams, as well as to individuals on the first and second place teams.

Those wishing to enter may do so by mailing check to Ursula Walker at Route 5, Box 3455, C-City, 79326 or by calling Colorado City Athletics at (915) 728-3378 or calling Walker at 728-3028. Entry fee must be paid before the first game.

The tournament for UGSA girls has been organized in order that Colorado City may send some of its girls teams to post-season tournaments.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning is fine for continuing with whatever plan of action you put in effect yesterday. You are also able to extend your activities beyond present boundaries.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) The morning is the best time to engage in activities that will increase your income. Handle social affairs with ease later in the day.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) First take time to handle home affairs, then talk with associates and come to a better understanding. Relax at home tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study business reports carefully early in the day. Later discuss the future with associates. Obtain important data you need.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Strive to be more successful in your line of endeavor. Keep busy attending to practical matters. Be alert.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Improve your appearance at the start of the day and make the right preparations for the social events you want to attend.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The morning is best for planning how to make your life better in the future. Be sure to spend only within your means.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Contact influential person who can assist you in getting ahead in life. Be more positive in going after personal aims.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Handle career matters early in the day, then go after personal goals. A good friend can be most helpful to you now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have good ideas early in the day which should be put in operation without delay. Take it easy tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Carry through with whatever promises you have made to others and derive many benefits therefrom. Be more cheerful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Come to a better meeting of the minds with associates before attending to routine tasks. Make plans for the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Attend to work facing you early in the day so you will have time to make plans for bigger projects later. Be practical.

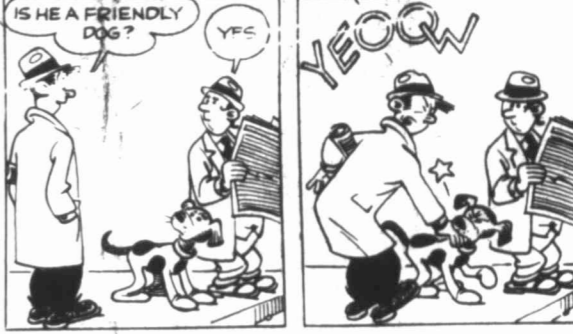

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will want to make a pattern of living that will lead to a big success. Teach your progeny not to be hasty to criticize others unless it is done constructively. A fine sport in this chart. Also, a good religious person.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

On the light side
Bacon, eggs and ... navel?
 PALM BAY, Fla. (AP) - When Dennis LeClerc bought a truck-stop restaurant that had changed hands five times in a year, he was determined to clean up the place and bring back good food.
 But how to re-establish the clientele? LeClerc and his public relations buddy, Dick MacMillan, came up with a gimmick: Put menus on the waitresses. Literally.
 So, now, at Dennis' Truck Stop Rest' Rest, you stroll in and sit down. Either Bonnie Pedell or Judy Bishop comes to the table and asks, "Would you like to see the menu?"
 If the answer is "Yes," the waitress flings open her robe to reveal a bikini and the menu - handpainted on her legs, stomach and back.
 "Two Eggs $1.35, potatoes or grits," it says to the right of Judy's navel. She pivots and poses, displaying numerous breakfast specials and other offerings from the kitchen.
 LeClerc claims truckers are radiating the news up and down the East Coast, and he figures business is up 40 percent since the waitresses made their debut early this month.
 "We have a lot of church people in this area and we don't want anybody to get the wrong attitude," LeClerc says.

A timely voice
 NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Police here say a talking pinball machine was the hero in a foiled armed robbery attempt over the weekend.
 Officer William Panier said the would-be robber approached a cashier at a Canal Street convenience store late Sunday, drew a pistol from his waistband and barked, "Give it up!"
 At just that moment, a pinball machine located behind him growled out its pre-recorded message: "I want you to play me."
 The robber, who could see no one behind him, was so flabbergasted, police said, that he cursed and fled - empty-handed.

Alaskan has unusual art supply problem
 HALIBUT COVE, Alaska (AP) - Alaskan artist Diana Tillion, whose work is warm, exciting and different, has an unusual art supply problem.
 When she reaches to grab some ink, it's liable to reach out and grab her. And the source of supply has a 4-1 reach advantage.
 She is a watercolorist who works with octopus ink, a medium she discovered and developed. From her studio-cum-studio overlooking Kachemak Bay, perhaps the most beautiful in all Alaska, she wanders along the shore to catch her own octopus.
 "If I had to be a minute tide, you find them in their dens under rocks. The tell-tale signs are very visible. Then you just put your hand under the rock."
 She described the process in the matter of fact tone of someone telling about a bargain in gouache or camel hair brushes at a local art store. A recent octopus Diana groped for under a rock weighed 47 pounds and measured 12 feet from the tip of one writhing tentacle to its diagonal opposite. Then the trick was to find the gland near the liver which contains the ink. After all this, to say nothing of a stirring knife and net struggle with an eight-handed opponent, she ended up with 5 cc. of ink.
 The ink, however, is very strong and when diluted provides a rich range of warm, wonderfully indelible tints for a number of fair sized watercolors. It also can be used to make batik cloth, which Diana does, along with working in oils, gouache and lithographs and sculpting in clay, ceramics and wood.
 Also the recipient of the ink came in is immediately recyclable, since the artist with a proud grin admits to being the best sauteed-octopus chef anywhere north up the coast.
 The octopus ink works on display and on the drawing board in her studio vividly reflect the artist's love affair with Alaska and its people, particularly the natives. Eskimo hunters. A sea-dog fisherman. An Indian village in winter. A rookery of puffins. A loon in the rain.
 Diana Tillion happened on octopus ink while studying the European masters in Paris, especially some of the late 14th century Italians who worked in sepia, the light brown pigment obtained from the ink secretions of the cuttlefish. After experimenting with octopus ink, which is even darker and has a richer range of tone, she was certain that some of these early monochrome watercolorists and some of the later Japanese had also dipped a brush into this eight-footed invertebrate that swims backwards, is said to be as intelligent as a dolphin and chomps raw lobsters, shell and all, in its horny jaws.
 Diana was born in California and arrived in Alaska in 1939 aboard a 90-foot sailboat.

Howard County cotton output drops in 1980
 Official figures for the 35 High Plains counties represented by Plains Cotton Growers Inc., including Howard, show production at 2,017,300 bales of 480 pounds net weight.
 The 1980 crop-year yield was 733,300 bales below the 2,750,600 bales produced in 1979 and almost 1.3 million below the all-time record of 3,215,400 grown in 1977.
 Acres planted to cotton in the 35-county area totaled 4,523,900 - almost equalling the previous high of 4,505,000 seeded in 1979. After about 12.5 percent of the crop was lost to drought and other adverse weather, however, only 3,369,900 acres were harvested in 1980. Yield per acre came to 244.5 pounds in 1980, the lowest yield per harvested acre since the 199.5 pounds harvested in 1980 and well below the average of 358.3 pounds per acre for the 10-year period 1970 through 1979. The highest average per-acre yield ever achieved on the Plains was 513.1 pounds, recorded in 1965.
 In Howard County, 110,500 acres were planted in cotton. Of that amount, 98,700 acres were harvested. The yield per harvested acre amounted to only 115 pounds.
 Dawson County harvested 65,000 bales after planting 315,000 acres to the crop. Its average yield per acre on the 293,000 acres that were harvested came to 144 pounds.
 Borden County harvested 6,100 bales on 28,400 acres committed to cotton, lowest yield among those reported. Martin County's crop total was 34,400 bales on an original commitment of 169,700 acres. Its average yield per harvested acre was 115 pounds.
 Midland County farmers planted 43,000 acres in cotton, producing a total of 11,500 bales. Its average yield per harvested acre was 146 pounds.
 Hale County's 240,000 bales led the 25-county area in production, followed by Lubbock County, 213,800 bales; Lamb, 194,800; and Floyd, 173,800. Per-acre yield acres in 1980 were Farmer County, 450 pounds; Hale, 430; Castro, 414; and Lamb, 394.
 Deaf Smith had the second smallest harvest among those reported with a crop totaling only 6,700 bales. Deaf Smith, however, planted only 10,400 acres in cotton and had an average yield per acre of 267 pounds.

More beef, less pork due at meat counters
 AUSTIN - Shoppers may notice a changing selection at the meat counter in the coming months, as more beef and less pork starts to show up. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said today.
 "The latest reports indicate that we can expect to see an increase in beef production and a corresponding decrease in pork this summer, and this definitely will affect the selection and price of meat," said Brown.
 He noted that total meat production in Texas so far this year has risen by 3 percent from a year ago, while nationwide output has remained constant. "The major difference this year is that beef is up while pork is down," he added.
 Red meat production in Texas during the January-May period totaled 1.67 billion pounds, up 8 percent from a year ago. On a number-of-head basis, beef production was up 5 percent, veal was up 24 percent, pork was down 7 percent, and lamb and mutton was up just slightly from last year. Statistics for May show that the trend is continuing.
 Nationwide, commercial red meat production for the first five months of 1981 totaled 16.2 billion pounds, virtually unchanged from a year ago. Beef production was up 4 percent, veal up 8 percent, pork down 5 percent and lamb and mutton, up 1 percent.

Truck crash kills five
 PINELAND, Texas (AP) - Five persons died late Monday when a tractor trailer rig loaded with 50,000 pounds of loose rice was involved in a collision with an automobile, the Texas Department of Public Safety said today.
 DPS spokesman David Wells at Austin said the vehicles collided at the intersection of U.S. 90 and Farm Road 1 near this Sabine County town in Southeast Texas.
 The two vehicles burned following the accident, Wells said.
