Water bills of local residents to rise

By BILLELDER
Big Spring residents can expect a $1.65 increase in their monthly water bills as a result of city council action Tuesday night.

The council gave initial approval to water and sewer service rate hikes for both residential and commercial water users. Further discussion and final action on the matter are expected at the council's next regular meeting July 28.

Acting on the recommendation of Finance Director Thomas Ferguson, the council approved a rate schedule which would, in the case of residential water users, charge a monthly minimum of $5.75 for the first 2,000 gallons and 95 cents for each 1,000 gallons subsequently used.

Currently, residential water users are charged a monthly minimum of $5.75 for the first 3,000 gallons and 85 cents for each 1,000 gallons used afterward.

That would have the effect, Ferguson told The Herald prior to the meeting, of raising the average residential bill — calculated to be $11.70 — to $13.35 per month.

DON DAVIS

City Manager Don Davis explained to the council that the increase was necessary to satisfy the city's annual bond requirements for three years. If approved by the council at its next meeting, the rates would become effective Aug. 1.

Sewer service rates increases also would become effective at that time. The council approved a hike in sewer service — also to satisfy bond requirements — which would increase the minimum monthly charge for a one-bathroom home to $5.60 from the current $5 per month.

There was no dissent and little discussion of the water and sewer rate increases.

In another matter, the council unanimously approved the first reading of an ordinance which would increase the speed limit along nearly four-tenths of a mile of F.M. 700 from 35 to 45 miles per hour.

The stretch of road runs from Parkroad 8 past Wasson and Westover almost to the point where the exit ramp to Gregg merges with F.M. 700.

The council acted on the recommendation of the Traffic Commission, which apparently felt it was unnecessary for traffic to slow down from 50 mph near the park road to 35 mph near Wasson and then back up to 55 mph just beyond the exit ramp. A final vote on the matter is likely at the next council meeting.

Action allowing the Big Spring Bass Club to put on a fishing tournament at Comanche Lake was postponed by the council pending an exploration of the city's deed to the lake. The club had asked to use the lake for a tournament for kids under the age of 16, and was told by the Parks Board that because of deed restrictions prohibiting fishing, boating and swimming in the lake, the club would have to hold its tournament in Moss Creek Lake.

The club pressed its claim for Comanche Lake and while the council indicated it thought the plan to be worthy, the matter of the deed restrictions needed to be explored before the tournament could be approved for Comanche Lake.

City Manager Don Davis urged the council to get the prohibition against swimming and fishing lifted before the city sanctions any events on the lake; otherwise, approval "might open us up to the possibility of liability should anything happen out there."

Perplexed by why such restrictions existed if the city in fact owned the lake (it apparently was deeded to the city by the Cosden Pension Fund), Councilman Robert Fuller said he personally would investigate the matter of who owns the lake and why the swimming-boating-fishing restrictions exist. A representative of the Bass Club said a firm date for the tournament had not been set and that a delay of council action was ac-

In other business, the council:
● Approved a request by the Texas Army National Guard to make road and fence improvements at Moss Creek Lake in order to hold training maneuvers there. Assistant City Manager Paul Feazelle told the council the city would set the specifications for the work and would provide — out of a $2,000 budget — materials for fence construction. All labor and equipment would be furnished by the guard.

● Approved a one-month extension of the city's contract with Shaffer Ambulance Co. while the city prepares a new annual contract effective Aug. 1. Davis and an Ambulance Study Committee are recommending that the next contract with Shaffer include a provision for it to purchase a new vehicle "and upgrade the rest of their equipment as soon as possible."

● Gave final approval for the mayor to sign an application for a project to build a boat ramp at Moss Creek Lake. The state would pay 60 percent of the cost and the project has the approval of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

● Swore in newly appointed Councilman Larry Miller as Hal Boyd's replacement. Miller had resigned from the council in February, citing the press of business. He told The Herald prior to Tuesday's swearing-in ceremony that he accepted a job on the council because he had "caught up with the work I needed to do."

Miller will serve out the rest of Boyd's term — until April — and told The Herald "most likely" he will run to keep his post in the April election.

He said he would continue to keep his job as Howard County Civil Defense Director. "We discussed it the other day and there is no conflict of interest, since it is a volunteer position and there's no pay involved."

Miller also is owner of Carver's Pharmacy.

He's said to have been picked to return to the council for his fiscal expertise as the council prepares to formulate a new annual budget.

Captured 11 minutes after caper

Three suspected bandits nabbed

By BILLELDER
It took just eleven minutes for police officers to apprehend suspects in connection with the aggravated robbery of the owner of a Mobil station Tuesday afternoon.

"We had people on the line and kept putting out the information as soon as we got it," explained police Lt. George Quintero this morning.

Three youths, apparently all from San Angelo, were apprehended in connection with the incident, which began for police with a call from an apparently anonymous witness. The call, originally reporting an assault in progress, came in about 3:08 p.m. It was followed by another call to police clarifying the incident and reporting it as a robbery in progress, Quintero said.

A third call, possibly from the same person, supplied police with a description of the vehicle and that's when "all available units were dispatched to the area" and converged on the vehicle, which was stopped at N. 9th and Scurry just eleven minutes after the robbery is believed to have taken place at the gas station at 1000 N. Lamesa.

Quintero said two of the suspects "walked into the station pretending they needed a tire. He (Grady Harland, 66, owner of the Mobil station) was looking in the phone book when they began to struggle with him. He got hit in the back of the head with a rock."

The pair allegedly stole Harland's wallet and fled the scene in a vehicle driven by a female accomplice.

"Supposedly she dropped them off a block from the service station and then parked her car behind the station" while they walked up to Harland, said Quintero.

Arrested on suspicion of aggravated robbery were Hardin Levern Jr., 17, Anthony Limuel, 17, and Marie Morrison, 17. They were held in the police station jail after bail was set late Tuesday by Justice of the Peace Bobby West. Bond was $50,000 apiece for the two males and $25,000 for Morrison.

A check on the suspects' car, a 1976 Plymouth found that it was reported stolen from a Midland dealership yesterday, Quintero said.

Harland was listed in fair condition this morning by a nurse at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital after being admitted with fractures and lacerations.

BOND SET FOR ROBBERY SUSPECT — Justice of the Peace Bobby West sets $50,000 bond for robbery suspect Anthony Limuel, 17, who was arrested Tuesday afternoon in connection with the robbery of gas station owner Grady Harland.

Conviction for aggravated rape in Big Spring upheld

AUSTIN — A threat to kill, even without the use of a deadly weapon, is sufficient to support a conviction for aggravated rape, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals said Wednesday.

In May 1980, Cedric Jefferson pleaded guilty to the Feb. 24, 1980, aggravated rape of a Big Spring woman, and a jury in District Judge R. W. Caton's court sentenced him to 40 years in prison.

Jefferson argued in his appeal, that the evidence was insufficient to support the aggravated portion of the charge because he never pulled a knife on his victim.

In its ruling, the appeals court noted that Jefferson's actions were sufficient to convey a threat of imminent death if the woman resisted.

"(He) threatened to kill her, told her he had a knife and patted his back pocket," the court noted.

"Moreover, it is the established rule that a plea of guilty to a felony charge before a jury admits the existence of all facts necessary to establish guilt," the appeals court added.

A claim that he did not receive effective counsel from his court-appointed attorney also was denied.

NO INJURIES — No severe injuries were reported in a traffic accident that occurred at 11 a.m. Tuesday 7-10 of a mile west of Big Spring on Interstate 20. A 1980 black Datsun pickup driven by John Louis Smith III, Midland, was struck from the rear by a 1972 Green Ford tractor-trailer, driven by Wayne I. Bergman, Clarence, N.Y. The Datsun ran off the road, overturned, and had to be towed from the scene. The tractor-trailer rig was driven away.

Starlight Specials Talent Show will be hosted by Gary Tibbs

Gary Tibbs will offer a special performance during the Starlight Specials Talent Show scheduled to get under way at 8 p.m., in the Comanche Trail Park amphitheater here Thursday.

Winner of the senior high division of the 1980 Starlight Specials Talent Show, Gary will double as host of this year's show.

The Thursday program will offer 26 entries who are classified according to their grade level in school. They wind up in one of three divisions — elementary, junior high and senior high.

The winner of the senior high division each year serves as host or hostess in the talent show the following year and, in addition, is featured in a special performance.

A special attraction of the 1981 talent show will be an appearance of Felicia Ford of Big Spring, chosen recently as Miss Texas Teen of 1981. The Cultural Affairs Council of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Com-

GARY TIBBS merce sponsors the Starlight Specials Talent Show each year as part of the annual Starlight Specials in the amphitheater.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Tablescraps rapped

Q. Should pets be fed tablescraps? I've heard it both ways. A. Dr. William R. Bilderback of the Texas Department of Health's Bureau of Veterinary Public Health, says: "Foods that are good for you can be bad for your pet. Tablescraps are not a balanced meal and they can make a pet refuse to eat his own food. An animal actually needs a well rounded diet just like any member of the family does. His food should provide him with protein, carbohydrates, fat, vitamins and minerals. Most dog foods contain all these essential elements."

Tops on TV: Rodeo, disaster

"Blair Pro Rodeo" is the show to watch tonight. Filled with plenty of action and excitement, it's the best way to spend an evening. It starts at 7 p.m. on CBS. Afterwards "Disaster on the Coastliner" starts at 8 p.m. on ABC. A deranged engineer, obsessed with revenge, plans a head-on collision between two trains.

Calendar: CGA meeting

WEDNESDAY
The Chicano Golf Association will hold a meeting today to discuss an upcoming tournament at 7:30 p.m. at the Coors Hospitality Room. The Spring City Dance Club meets to dance at the Eagles Lodge, 703 W. 3rd, at 8 p.m. Members and invited guests may attend.

HC trustees study $6,102,234 budget

Trustees of the Howard County Junior College District got their first look at the proposed budget for the new fiscal year during their meeting at Howard College Tuesday, a budget that calls for expenditures totaling a record $6,102,234.

That is a sizeable increase over the current budget, which authorizes expenditures of $3,564,703 but includes a $1.5 million layout for the operation of Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, a Howard College adjunct.

Dr. Charles Hays, president of the district, said that costs would, no doubt, escalate in the future as SWCID expands.

A total of $438,000 has been written into the new budget for utilities, $225,000 of that for electricity alone.

The district's tax rate will remain the same, 14 cents per $100 valuation, but a 7.6 percent increase in tax revenue is anticipated. Only property owners who have added to their investments can expect to pay higher tax bills this fall.

Another budget hearing is scheduled for July 21 while a public hearing on the budget will be held sometime after 5:15 p.m., Aug. 12. The budget could be approved during the regular meeting Aug. 18.

The trustees approved a plan to close Adams Street immediately south of the Student Union Building, ending the through traffic on that artery. The segment which is being closed will be curbed and landscaped.

The Security State Bank will sever as the depository for district funds during the ensuing year, it was decided.

Commercial Interior of Big Spring was granted a contract to provide carpeting for the Student Lounge in the SUB building and renovated areas of the Howard College administration building on a bid of $6,839.25.

The trustees also approved the hiring of two members of the Howard College faculty and the addition of a dean of students at SWCID.

Melba Elizabeth Griffin is a new chemistry-math teacher at Howard College. Billy D. Griffin, now with Panola College, was hired as the dean of students and baseball coach at Howard College at a starting salary of $28,000 per annum. Dominick Benura of Milford, N.H., was appointed dean of students at SWCID at a starting yearly salary of $26,000.

SWCID was also authorized to name a nine-member advisory committee, members of which will serve staggered terms.

An amended student code policy for both campuses, which is in a state of constant revision, was also approved.

Mike Bruner, vice-president, business, said two firms has been consulted about eliminating leaks in the Garrett Coliseum. Salary increases amounting to $1 an hour were approved for part-time help and a faculty handbook was approved.

A resolution commending Tommy Hart for his loyalty and support of the college district and for his faithfulness in attending trustee meetings was presented to the editor of the Herald by Don McKinney, board president.

Economic forecast hurt by high interest rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stubbornly high interest rates will drive federal spending $10 billion higher than President Reagan had planned next year despite his extensive budget cutting and rapidly receding inflation, the administration reported today.

Next year's budget is now expected to top $700 billion.

In an updated budget and economic forecast, the Office of Budget and Management predicted that inflation would unwind even faster than earlier optimistic forecasts had called for. Consumer prices, which jumped 12.4 percent in 1980, are expected to rise 8.6 percent this year and 6.2 percent in 1982.

The forecast for interest rates, however, was not so hopeful. Already near record levels, short-term rates are expected to remain above 10 percent through 1982.

In addition, with nearly no economic growth predicted for the rest of 1981, unemployment will rise to 7.7 percent in 1981 and remain at 7 percent or higher through 1982, according to the forecast. Rates will stay in double digits through 1982, the report predicts.

The mid-year forecast says Reagan is abandoning plans to hold spending in 1982 to $695.3 billion — the ceiling he set in February, when he proposed $48.6 billion in federal program cuts.

Instead, the administration now expects spending next year to total $704.8 billion because higher interest rates have driven up the government's borrowing costs by more than $10 billion.

Despite the spending increase, Reagan predicts the budget deficit for fiscal 1982 will actually be somewhat lower than that he had projected earlier — $42.5 billion rather than $45 billion.

Medfly spraying goes on

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A helicopter sprayed pesticide on the San Francisco Bay area for a second day today as an infestation of fruit flies was detected in a new area and five Southern states clamped down on shipments of California produce.

Two helicopters were to have taken off before dawn to spray malathion mixed with a sticky sweet bait over a 17-square-mile area of homes and yards. One helicopter took off at 12:30 a.m. PDT, but officials decided not to use the other craft, apparently because of mechanical problems.

Officials had feared a mass panic when a lone helicopter launched the spraying program Tuesday morning, dumping the pesticide over a 1,200-foot-wide strip six miles long. But Monday and Tuesday night, fewer than 100 people came to Red Cross shelters set up for refugees.

Man arrested for spying

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A former Army warrant officer was indicted and arrested today on charges of supplying the Soviet Union with information about a U.S. code-making device. Joseph George Helms, 44, also was identified as a colonel in the Soviet Army.

U.S. Attorney Gary Betz identified Helms as a Soviet colonel during a hearing before a U.S. Magistrate, who set $500,000 for Helms.

FBI Director William H. Webster said Helms was arrested by FBI agents today in Jacksonville, Fla., following an extensive investigation by the FBI into the alleged espionage during the 1960s.

'Boom Town' Review to open with sirens

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Mitchell County residents will have their cake and eat it, too, when the official opening ceremonies for the Centennial production of "The Boom Town" Review will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday on the East side of the Court House lawn.

At 10 a.m., sirens will herald the beginning of the event to alert residents to be on hand for the program, which will include a proclamation by Gov. Clements, plus appearances by Brothers of the Brush, Centennial Belles, First Lady candidates, as well as city and county officials.

A special treat is planned for area youngsters from 2-4 p.m. all the watermelon they can eat.

For those interested in whipping up a similar cake to Mitchell County's Centennial treat, the completed project will weigh 140 pounds and includes 60 eggs, 20 cups of sugar, 10 cups of shortening, 10 teaspoons of vanilla, 10 teaspoons of butter, 35 cups of flour, 30 teaspoons of baking powder and 12 cups of milk.

The icing alone calls for 28 pounds of powdered sugar, 14 cups of shortening, 1 1/2 cups of water and 14 teaspoons of vanilla.

Responsible for the mammoth sweet tooth which measures 3 by 5 feet, are Debra Chaney and Jeanie Hamby.

Colorado Opera House books 'moving pictures'

COLORADO CITY (SC) — In the early 1920's, the Colorado Opera House was a movie theater... silent movies with printed captions.

As a contribution to Mitchell County's Centennial celebration, the Colorado City Playhouse will re-create those years by again showing a silent movie with background music of the old nickelodeon theater organ style. The Opera House movie will be showing continuously each afternoon from 1 p.m. until 8 p.m. during the week of July 20-25, with admission being 5 cents.

The feature picture is "The Gold Rush," starring Charlie Chaplin. Known as the "Little Tramp," Chaplin was the foremost comedian of that era.

The complete show is approximately 45 minutes long and patrons can come by for the entire feature or for just a few minutes to recapture the era of those amazing "moving pictures" before the advent of sound track or technicolor.

Senators study redistricting plan

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Senators scheduled a third session on congressional redistricting today to get a look at a proposal touted by its sponsor as a compromise that Gov. Bill Clements might accept.

Redistricting is one of five issues submitted by Clements to the 30-day special session, which began Monday, and it is no secret the governor wants Republicans to get the best deal they can.

Sen. John Wilson, D-La Grange, said he had a proposal that "meets every objection he (Clements) has. I don't know whether he will accept it, but I will offer it."

Wilson said the plan included a minority district for Dallas County, which Clements has stressed. Packing minorities into a single district would increase chances that Dallas' other three congressmen would be Republicans.

Clements' approval is important since he can, of course, veto a legislative proposal. The regular session of the Legislature, which ended June 1, failed to draw new congressional districts to reflect the 1980 census.

Isaac Jackson of Dallas, a staff representative of the United States Steelworkers, told the Senate on Tuesday, "It's clear the Republican governor wants all the minorities (in Dallas County) in one district so others will go Republican. He (Clements) does not care about the plight of blacks or browns, he only cares about Republican forces."

Sen. James "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson, quipped, "The witness indicates the governor is not interested in the plight of the Browns — well, he campaigned for me."

Jackson said Dallas County would be better off without a strictly "minority district," because U.S. Reps. Martin Frost and Jim Mattox, both Dallas Democrats, both are responsive to the needs of their minority constituents.

He and three other Dallas-area witnesses supported a proposal that would allow Democrats and Republicans alike a good chance to be re-elected. Two of the witnesses said it was important that Grand Prairie be in a single congressional district.

The proposal has been endorsed by most of Texas' 24-member congressional delegation. Under the plan, two of Texas' additional three congressional seats probably would go to Democrats and one to a Republican.

Seven witnesses from Brazoria County, however, opposed the proposal because, they said, it would split the county.

Mayor Vick Vickers, also of Lake Jackson in Brazoria County, said in opposing two Democratic redistricting plans before the Senate, "We aren't selfish. We aren't greedy. We just want our fair share of the pie in the future."

Dave Coslett, president of the Brazosport Chamber of Commerce, said if the county is split it would become a "hinterland without an effective voice" in either congressional district.

Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas, said of the redistricting proposals, "There's going to be a court test whatever we do."

Police Beat

Expensive boots are stolen

A pair of boots worth $225 was reported stolen from Ward's Saddle & Western Wear, 212 Runnels, about 2:10 p.m. Monday, police said. The store filed a complaint saying two women entered the store and one of them left the clerk busy while the other kept the store without paying for the boots.

● Carol Ann Winbush, 2503 Barksdale, told police that between 3 and 6 p.m. Tuesday someone took four pairs of pants worth $80 from a clothes line hanging in back of her house.

● Lakeview Elementary School, 600 N. Channing, had two windows broken out of its east entrance doors, according to police reports. The broken windows were discovered by a police officer about 3:40 a.m. today. There were no suspects, police said.

● College Heights Elementary

School had three windows broken with rocks, according to police reports. Officers responding to an alarm about 4:26 p.m. Tuesday discovered the damage, estimated at $40.

● Mrs. Kayla Wiggins, 30, told police she had parked her car at the YMCA, 801 Owens, between 10 and 10:50 a.m. Tuesday when a door window was broken out.

● Judy McMillan, 43, of 1301 Mesa, said that between 12:30 and 1:15 p.m. Monday a front door to her residence was kicked in and three pairs of blue jeans plus $40 in change was taken.

Richard explained that it is a routine procedure for those sentenced to 99 years or life to file appeals in cases. Saracho has already filed a regular appeal through the courts and lost it. The next move is the writ of habeas corpus.

The petition reads "the trial court erred... committed a fundamental error, and abused its discretion in trying the appellant upon an indictment that did not comply with the Texas Code of Criminal Procedure."

The indictment failed to give the accused notice of "how" the appellant allegedly threatened to inflict the prosecutrix with "serious bodily injury to be imminently inflicted" on her, according to the petition.

Richard said evidence in the case would be examined, and a report made to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Convict files habeas corpus writ

By CAROL HART
 Jose Antonio Saracho, who was sentenced to 99-years in the Texas Department of Corrections by a Howard County jury in 1976, has filed a writ of habeas corpus with the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Saracho is accused of forcing a woman to be driven from the Continental bus station to a secluded area along First Street, where she was allegedly abused.

The victim in the case testified she was asked to wait outside the bus station early in the morning of Aug. 23, 1976. She had gone to the station to wait for her brother, sister and mother, who were to arrive on a bus at 1:25 a.m. Aug. 23. The bus station attendant asked her to wait outside while he locked up the building.

Testimony indicated Saracho approached the car from the rear, and threatened the victim with a butcher knife, then drove her to First Street.

At that time, Saracho was convicted of aggravated sexual abuse, and given the maximum 99-year term. He has also served time on an armed robbery conviction.

Don Richard, special assistant to the District attorney, is working on the case now. In a petition filed, Saracho charges that he is "illegally confined and restrained" at the Ramsey No. one unit, Rosharon, in Brazoria County.

Richard said that Saracho is alleging 16 points of misconduct in his trial.

Councilmen OK water line repair

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado City Council dealt with several problems in less than an hour Tuesday night.

After getting a first hand look at the water line problems on Pine Street, the council voted to repair the line at an estimated cost of $3,000, money that is budgeted for the project.

Additionally, the council agreed to make an application for funds from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for the use of building a new city swimming pool. If the department will grant the funds of $585,000, the city will match the grant to construct at the same location a new facility to replace the old pool.

In a related problem, City Manager Brenda Tarter stated, "Broken glass has been thrown into the pool to the extent we cannot clean the floor area successfully without completely draining the pool, which holds 150,000 gallons of water... a job which will require our closing the pool for three days at a cost of $200 to the city."

Mrs. Tarter asked that anyone having information concerning the identification of the vandals please contact the local police department.

The problem of non-maintenance of vacant lots was discussed, with council member Nina Crout suggesting offenders' names be published, or utilizing the filing of charges. The council instructed Mrs. Tarter to crack down on owners who have allowed their vacant lots to deteriorate.

According to Sheriff A.N. Standard, several incidents of fence-cutting on property southeast of Berkley home has been reported to his office lately.

Sheriff Standard said that fences were being cut so that four-wheel vehicles and motorcycles could gain entry to the property. He urged that people trespassing on the property "discontinue it," or that "complaints will be filed" and prosecutions executed.

Sheriff Standard said he was seeking the cooperation of people in the matter, but if

Loraine trustees hint hike in taxes

LORAIN (SC) — Loraine School Trustees got a look at the proposed budget for 1981-82 during Monday night's meeting and didn't like what they saw.

State funding will be down for the school district, expenses will be up and as Principal Mike Hartman stated, "There's no way you can get by without a tax increase."

Specifically, the Loraine School System needs almost $118,000 additional money, which represents an increase in tax dollars of at least one-third.

According to School Superintendent Glen Sanders, "It looks bad right now. We've compared last year's budget with this year's and we're planning a meeting Friday night during which we'll sharpen our surgical knives and do some slicing."

Sanders cited the system's being down in ADA as one reason for lower state funds, as well as some $41,000 received last year in tax refunds which will not be available.

Sanders added, "Couple the above with increased utility bills, put the pencil to it and it adds up fast."

Superintendent Sanders commented he believes $15,000 to $20,000 can be trimmed from the budget, but any trimming above that amount will result in the cutting of major programs, such as band. To add to that, Hartman stated unless he can hire a band director within the next two to three weeks, the program probably will have to be scrapped anyway.

Other board action included setting a tentative date of Aug. 10 as the date for a public hearing on the budget, approving the purchase of two classrooms of furniture at a cost of $4,176 and discussing holding a sale of surplus school property within the next two weeks.

Renowned surgeon set to speak at HC Friday

Renowned plastic surgeon, Dr. Kenneth Salyer of Dallas, will be a guest lecturer on the Howard College campus at 3 p.m. on Friday, July 17, in Room 100 of the P.W. Malone Science and Math Building, announced Ramona Harris, Director of the Vocational Nursing Program at Howard College.

The purpose of the lecture is to make the public aware of surgery techniques that are available for children with facial structural problems, said Harris.

"We are very pleased and honored to have such a distinguished guest as Dr. Salyer to come and speak to our student nurses," said Harris.

"We would like to invite all medical personnel in the area, interested persons in the area and especially parents who have a child with facial structural problems to attend," added Harris.

Dr. Salyer is one of the foremost plastic surgeons in the country, as prior to getting into private practice he was Professor of Surgery and Chairman of the Division of Plastic Surgery at the University of Texas, Southwestern Medical School in

DR. KENNETH SALYER

Dallas. He is a consultant in Plastic Surgery for John Peter Smith Hospital in Ft. Worth, Presbyterian Hospital in Dallas and the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children in Dallas.

He is the author of four books on plastic surgery, and has another one in progress as well as numerous papers published in medical journals and other publications.

The public is urged to attend.

Malone-Hogan Hospital gains JCHA accreditation

Two year accreditation has been given Malone-Hogan Hospital by the Joint Commission on Hospital Accreditation (JCHA). The accreditation means that the hospital has demonstrated a team of professional health care surveyors, that it is maintaining high professional standards in patient care.

Word of the approved accreditation came to John Bingham, administrator, July 2. The hospital had undergone a two-day survey of 24 different areas, in April, in an on-site visit by a team composed of a physician, a nurse, a hospital administrator, and a laboratory technologist.

"We invited JCHA to do this survey of hospital operations for several reasons. One of them is that it keeps us abreast of changing standards in health care. Another reason for subjecting our hospital to the scrutiny of outside surveyors, is that we want to provide this community a hospital that measures up to governmental standards that will qualify patients for Medicare reimbursement for their health care expenses. In non-approved hospitals, the senior citizen receives no Medicare assistance in paying his or her hospital bill."

JCHA is governed by representatives of five national health care organizations — the American College of Surgeons, the American College of Physicians, the American Denton Association, the American Hospital Association, and the American Medical Association. It is a private, not-for-profit organization.

Two-year accreditation is the maximum approval given by JCHA. Had the hospital had significant deficiencies, or problems, a one-year accreditation could have been given, and the team would have returned in one year to examine the hospital's compliance with their suggestions for improvement.

"We were told by the survey team at their summary conference in April, that they 'may have set some sort of record' in finding so few deficiencies. This was a welcome compliment, of course," Bingham said.

'Sweeney Todd' slated July 23-25

Members of Spring City Theatre have been rehearsing nightly for the past several weeks in preparation for the summer melodrama, "Sweeney Todd, Demon Barber of the Barbary Coast," slated at 8 p.m. July 23, 24, and 25 in the Comanche Trail Park amphitheater.

Admission is $3 for people over 12, and $2 for those under 12. According to director Cecelia McKenzie, a special treat, "dinner on the rocks," with hot dogs and all the fixings, will be offered this year, beginning at 7 p.m.

Spring City Theatre is a non-profit organization under the umbrella of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, according to Mrs. McKenzie. The summer melodramas are held in conjunction with the Chamber's Starlight Specials.

Working with Mrs. McKenzie as assistant director is Crystal Dean. Stage manager is Carol Hart. Technical director is Kelly Brockman.

Taking roles in the production are Kelly Draper, Sweeney Todd; Norma Caballero, Rose; Lida Boland, Mrs. Lovett; and Donnie Wheeler, Mr.

Scrupes.

Other actors include Barbara Dirks, Minnie; Lynn Smith, Mrs. Meanly; Scott Boland, Billy; Darlene Fivesh, Mrs. Noble; Caroline McWilliams, Mrs. Worthy; Shelley Mail, Mr. Chong; and Kim Boland, Belle.

Reagan predicts easy approval of O'Connor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan confidently predicted today that Sandra D. O'Connor will be confirmed as the first female Supreme Court justice.

Reagan, at the beginning of an hour-long meeting with the jurist, told reporters, "We're delighted to have her here and look forward to when she'll be here, you might say permanently."

He was asked whether his comment was a prediction that the 51-year-old Arizona appeals court judge will receive Senate confirmation. Reagan replied: "Yes, yes, it is."

Senate leaders of both parties made similar predictions Tuesday.

Reagan, accompanied by Mrs. O'Connor, Vice President George Bush and Attorney General William French Smith, was asked whether he had talked to her about the controversial topic of abortion, which she says she opposes.

"Previously we have talked about a number of subjects," Reagan added without elaboration as he left the Rose Garden with Bush, Smith and Mrs. O'Connor.

Mrs. O'Connor was heading to Capitol Hill later in the day for more meetings with key senators as she continues her campaign for confirmation.

On Tuesday, she voiced opposition to abortion during her meetings at the Capitol.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Moral Majority, which last week called the nomination "a mistake," said that "the potential is there" for the fundamentalist group to support Mrs. O'Connor if she confirms her opposition to abortion.

While she refused to comment publicly on allegations that she took a pro-abortion stance as a member of the Arizona Senate, Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., said after meeting with Mrs. O'Connor: "She indicated to me that she is opposed to abortion. Her position is against abortion."

DeConcini, who supports the nomination, said that satisfied him, but he added that Mrs. O'Connor probably will have to make a public statement on the issue, short of saying how she would vote in any given case.

Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and Minority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., predicted that Mrs. O'Connor would be confirmed by the full Senate before the Supreme Court's fall term starts in October.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., chairman of the Judiciary Committee which must vote on the nomination before it goes to the Senate floor, said hearings probably won't begin until September, when Congress returns from its summer vacation.

Baker said criticism by the Moral Majority and other conservative groups about Mrs. O'Connor's past stance on abortion "is not an issue that should bear significantly on her prospects for confirmation."

Byrd went even further. "I congratulated her not so much on her nomination as her confirmation, which I feel confident will be forthcoming," he said. "I feel that she will make a fine member of the U.S. Supreme Court."

Baker said he had not heard of "a single senator" who opposes Mrs. O'Connor, while Byrd said no Democrats had come to him with any objections.

"A great number of senators have expressed support, some publicly, some privately," Baker added.

Syria blames envoy Habib for new Israeli air raids

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria's state radio today blamed U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib for Israel's escalated air attacks on Palestinian guerrillas in Lebanon.

Israeli warplanes struck a dozen Palestinian Liberation Organization guerrilla strongholds along Lebanon's Mediterranean coast and inland mountains Tuesday, killing 10 guerrillas and villagers and injuring 35, police said.

Israeli jet fighters also shot down a Syrian jet in a dogfight over Syrian-held Lebanese territory. Syria maintains a 22,000-man army to police Lebanon's Moslem-Christian civil war armistice under an Arab league mandate.

Damascus Radio noted that there have been three Israeli air assaults into Lebanon since Habib began his third Middle East shuttle last Thursday to avert a Syrian-Israeli military showdown in Lebanon.

"These attacks obviously are a result of plain coordination between the U.S. administration and the Zionist enemy," the official radio said hours before Habib was expected to fly to Syria from Saudi Arabia.

An editorial in the Syrian newspaper Tichrin, which speaks for the ruling Socialist Baath Party, said today that Syria was determined to "defend Lebanon's territory and air space against Israeli intrusions at whatever cost." It said "Syria is not prepared to allow Israel to turn Lebanon into an enemy security zone."

Israel's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Raphael Eytan, said on state television that the Jewish state would continue to "attack guerrillas on our own terms and not as a reaction." He said the guerrillas received new arms supplies from Libya, Syria and the Soviet Union that were destroyed in the recent air raids.

Israel's third air assault into Lebanon this week has the Lebanese considering a call for a U.N. Security Council debate on what a government official described as "Israel's escalating aggression."

During a meeting today on the topic, two sonic booms shook the Lebanese capital and the state radio blamed Israeli jets, saying they crashed the sound barrier over Beirut and other Lebanese cities.

Syria moved SAM-6 anti-aircraft missiles into Lebanon's Bekaa Valley after Israeli jets shot down two Syrian helicopters in the valley April 28. Syria has refused to pull the missiles out despite repeated Israeli threats to destroy them in bomb raids.

A Syrian official, who declined to be quoted by name, said Syria will not change its policy of keeping the missiles in Lebanon. He said his government "does not expect much from Habib's visit."

Observers said the loss of the Syrian jet could make President Hafez Assad's government even less receptive to Habib's diplomatic effort to defuse the missile crisis.

A battle is intensifying

The people who would outlaw hand guns in the United States say now it is only a matter of time before the public outcry stirs Congress to action. Meanwhile, they stay busy reminding the world that guns do indeed kill people, especially when wielded by the irrational, the hostile types, that segment of society bent on vengeance and those individuals lusting for macho images.

The nation's handgun death toll in May alone totaled 609, bringing the year's total to 3,225. The May bodycount included 37 senior citizens, 37 between the ages of 13 and 19 and nine 12 years of age and younger.

THE HOUSTON POST recently employed a picture calendar of homicides captioned, "Houston's Waste of Humanity. Sixty 'ordinary' people were killed there during the month of January this year — most of them by handguns.

The Oakland Tribune marked the location of that city's 1980 homicide victims on a map of the city — 145 in all.

Death is bizarre, any time it happens, but it can be especially grotesque when it comes to a person in full bloom, one who has not been allowed to live out his or her life span.

Case in point:

• Carolyn Andrews, 17, was shot and killed in Duluth, Minn., with a small caliber handgun by an unknown assailant.

• Joanna Williams, 17, was shot and killed in Groveport, Ohio, with a .22 caliber pistol by a 71-year-old admirer.

• In Jackson, Tenn., the Rev. John Jackson, 35, was shot to death in the rectory of St. Mary's Church. Father Jackson had stated in a radio interview following the assassination attempt of Pope John Paul that it was important to "put down our guns."

• In Redwood City, Calif., Sgt. George Garrett, 39, an undercover detective, was shot and killed with a handgun at a bank. He was mortally wounded after pushing a bank employee out of the range of the gunman.

The May death count included 63 in Texas, four of whom could not immediately be identified.

CALIFORNIA, NOT surprisingly, led all the rest of the states in the number of homicides with 94 during May. New York state, with more people than Texas, reported "only" 12 such fatalities, Pennsylvania "only" 19.

The battle to banish handguns has by no means been won, and some cynics say it can never be, but those committed to the campaign are confident and quite ready to stay in the battle, no matter how long it takes. They reason they have sanity on their side. If they are capitalizing on fear and paranoia, they add, so be it.

Why a woman?

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — A hurriedly prepared, error-filled memo by a young Justice Department lawyer convinced President Reagan to go through with nominating Judge Sandra O'Connor to the Supreme Court, even in a political risk.

The memo, which O'Connor's proponent, a man who has stunned many of the elements in Reagan's court, told the president accepted it at the time he broadened suspicions that the flow of information supplied to staff manipulation.

It is not clear if the president took serious note of the Moral Majority and its issue, which would have found it difficult to support O'Connor. Thus, a fundamentalist who turned on Jimmy Carter in the same way about Ronald Reagan's policy will be confirmed.

But important conservative Republicans in Congress, while keeping mum publicly, grumble privately that the president has lost control of his own administration to moderate forces generally and chief of staff James Baker III in particular.

The remarkable fact is that Reagan was unaware that the right-to-life movement found O'Connor totally unacceptable until her probable nomination leaked out just before the Fourth of July weekend. The resulting avalanche of opposition then gave the president serious pause.

For example, Trudy Camping, one of O'Connor's former state Senate colleagues, sent the White House a decade-old stack of clippings about O'Connor. They revealed a moderate social liberal supporting the Equal Rights Amendment for women, advocating free choice of abortion and urging caution in restricting pornography.

On Monday, July 6, the president telephoned Attorney General William French Smith, who had given Reagan the Justice Department's O'Connor recommendation. Reagan wanted a quick check on this abortion business. Smith turned the task over to his young counselor, Kenneth W. Starr, who telephoned O'Connor herself.

The next day, Starr handed Smith a two and one-half page memo giving O'Connor a clean bill of health on abortion by using legal gymnastics to explain her Arizona legislative record. While Starr's memo said O'Connor "has no recollection" of how she voted on a 1970 bill to legalize abortion, in fact she was a co-sponsor of the measure and voted for it as it was defeated 6 to 3 in committee.

"Judge O'Connor further indicated, in response to my questions," Starr concluded his memo, "that she had never been a leader or outspoken advocate on behalf of either pro-life or abortion-rights organizations. She knows well the Arizona leader of the right-to-life movement, a prominent female physician in Phoenix, and has never had any disputes or controversies with her."

STARR DID NOT bother to check with that "prominent female physician" — Dr. Carolyn Gerster, a national anti-abortion activist. If he had, the attorney general's man would have gotten an earful. Gerster told us that "I had an adversary position with Sandra O'Connor" in the 1970s when the Supreme Court nominee was "one of the most powerful pro-abortionists in the (Arizona) Senate." Gerster still harbors an 11-year-old grievance, claiming Senate Majority Leader O'Connor broke her word by burying an anti-abortion proposal in caucus.

Based on Starr's memo, Smith reassured Reagan that O'Connor offered no problems. Baker, David Gergen and other senior presidential aides said the same thing, contending only right-wing kooks were making a fuss. Reagan agreed, telephoning prominent anti-abortion Republicans to reassure them that "she's all right."

Eager to announce the nomination before opposition could build, nobody at the White House bothered to probe O'Connor's record. But right-wingers will bother, not in realistic hopes of blocking her nomination, but to deter Reagan from similar choices for future court vacancies.

Around the rim Dread factors

Tina Miller

It is hard to know what he considers the most dreaded incident in the United States, and the one that is likely to be the Internal Revenue Service. Award by all (except perhaps the IRS) for (1) the IRS's "taxes" a "10" on the scale of a dread factor.

Behind with a dread factor of 10 is the all-American grocery store, the grocery store that makes a shopping monster that has to devour paychecks and paychecks in one gulp. It is not the prices that cause such dread, but the problems arise long before the check-out stand is reached.

THEY ARE THE infamous "Hurry Up" in the Parking Lot. In this parking lot, at least three vehicles race to the check-out space, only to find a car already parked by a Toyota. The cashier then retreat and regroup for the battle of the next closest space.

A few minutes through the parking lot, the brave shopper, the brave shopper, the store and chooses a basket, walking halfway through the fruits and vegetables, she discovers that the reason the silly thing would move is because of a broken wheel. Deciding against unloading the precious cargo and checking out baskets, our brave shopper continues onward, veering from side to side and bruising display stands along the way. Clutching the essential pocket calculator, the now irritable shopper makes her way slowly down the endless aisles of eggs, cheese, bread and canned goods.

Also essential to survival in the supermarket are the cents-off coupons. Coupons, like everything else, are not as simple as they appear. Each must be carefully scrutinized. Many of the coupons, for example, are for products that are basically not available. Others promise 15 cents off a product that may be overpriced to begin with. The wise shopper, of course, selects those that are useful, making the hassle of sorting them out more or less worthwhile.

Because she was thoughtful enough to stop by her bank the day before, our shopper does not hesitate to plunge into the meat and produce section. She weakens, however, at the prospect of paying $15 for a roast, and makes a mental note to introduce her family to the wonderful world of vegetarianism.

After completing the grocery store gauntlet, the relieved shopper heads for the check-out stand. But lo, also coming into the homestretch are all the other shoppers in the store, and the race is on to reach the only checker who is in sight.

After losing the race and waiting in line for half an hour, our shopper is now past the irritable and well into the irate stage. The unsuspecting checker smiles pleasantly and adds up the bill, which totals about $70. After subtracting coupons, she announces that the net total is only $68.75.

Finally, the irate shopper can stand it no longer, and bombards the poor checker with complaints about everything from parking lot to poultry. Ultimately, both shopper and checker arrive home growling at everything in sight.

Parking lots, prices and crowds can all contribute to the high dread factor of any shopping tour. While the IRS can be more or less forgotten for the better part of the year, the challenge to keep the family larder full presents a weekly challenge. Maybe our ancestors were onto something when they were "living off the land."

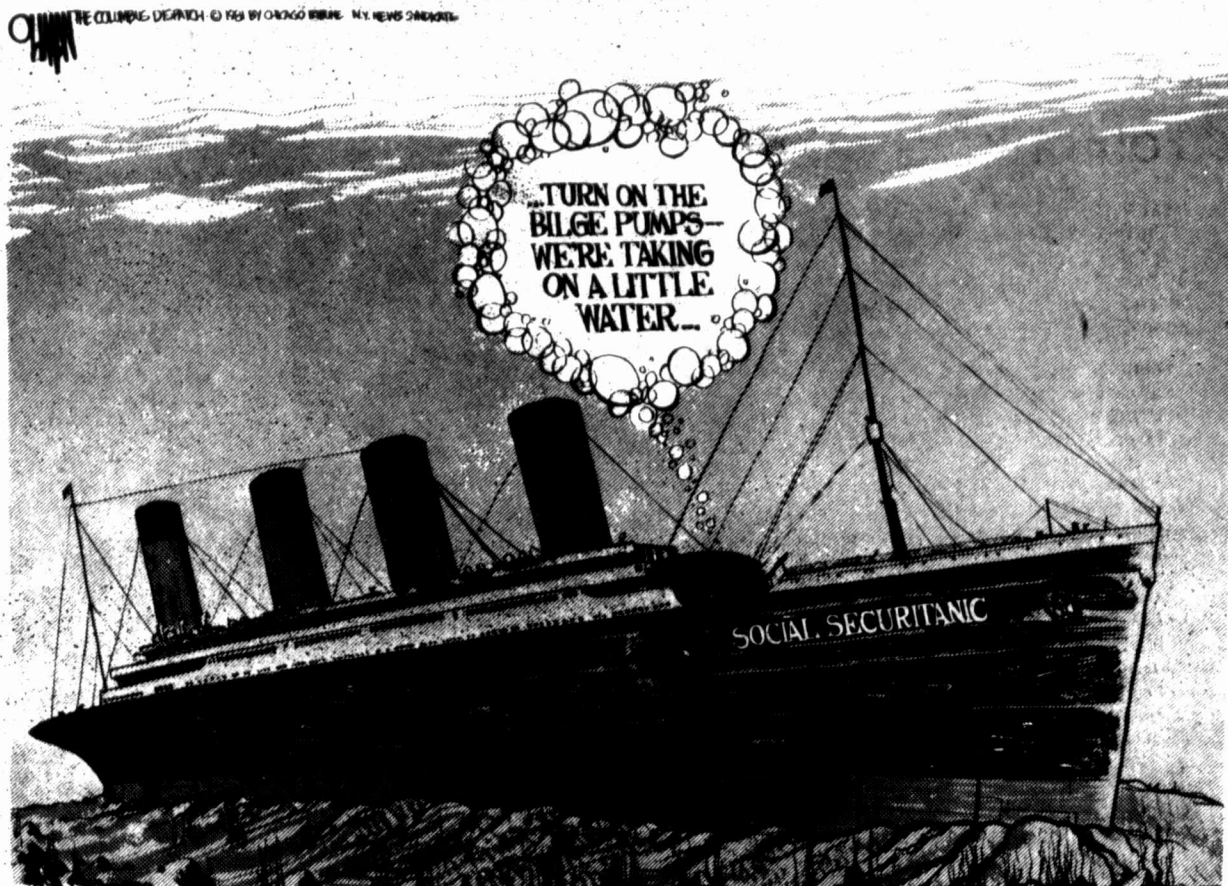

High prices, of course, are not confined to the grocery store. Far from it. The inflation factor looms large everywhere and people in business must "show a fair profit" in order to remain in business.

Iran: Violent and corrupt

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Iran is in turmoil, and the world's greatest oil treasure is in jeopardy. If a pro-Soviet government should rise out of the ashes of Iran, the Kremlin could wind up controlling the Persian Gulf, which is the fountainhead of most of the Western World's oil.

The events inside Iran are so murky that our intelligence services unfortunately aren't sure which reports are reliable, which are wishful thinking and which are simply rumors.

I have always had my own direct sources of information on Iran. They are moderates and intellectuals who hope that some day Iran will become a stable democracy.

THEY CORRECTLY predicted that the shah would be overthrown by a violently anti-American government. They gave me enough backup evidence that I published this warning a full year before the Central Intelligence Agency realized that the shah was in trouble.

Now these same sources have furnished me with the latest information on Ayatollah Ruhollah

Khomeini and his fascist clerics. One source, who was fiercely and actively opposed to the shah, told my associate Joseph Spear that Khomeini is infinitely worse. "A government that is 1 percent democracy is better than a government which has no democracy at all," he explained.

Here are the latest bits of information, some of it conflicting, that our sources have obtained by clandestine telephone messages direct from Iran.

Iran is in utter chaos. The economy is shattered. Prices are soaring, and there are long lines waiting to buy the necessities of life. About 70 percent of Iran's industries are shut down.

Some experts suspect the Russians are trying actively to "destabilize" the Khomeini government, hoping that a successor regime would be pro-Soviet. Other sources dispute this, insisting the Soviets have been fairly quiet, preoccupied with Poland and Afghanistan.

Top-level U.S. officials are wondering if the Iranian army isn't the last best hope of overthrowing

Khomeini and setting up a stable, less anti-American government. Iranian sources say this is a vain hope, because the military is almost totally disorganized after repeated purges of its top leadership by Khomeini. When the ayatollah fired ex-President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr as commander-in-chief, for instance, he had to call each military post, one by one, to notify the local commanders, because there was no central military authority and no chain of command to pass the word.

KHOMEINI IS A criminal. Justice would be served if he were put on trial. His indictment would include suppression of human rights, torture and summary execution of thousands of political opponents, persecution of Jews and other religious minorities, instigation of the illegal seizure and detention of the American hostages, and incitement of the anti-American rioting in neighboring Pakistan. A secret list reportedly exists of between 6,000 and 8,000 Iranians who have been executed by Khomeini's revolutionary squads.

The moderates in Iran are either dead or on the run. Here's a rundown on some of the more prominent moderate leaders: ex-President Bani-Sadr is in hiding, probably in the Kurdish region of western Iran; ex-Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh has been jailed twice in the past six months for statements that "agitated" the situation; Ibrahim Yazdi, another ex-foreign minister and a newspaper publisher, was attacked by fundamentalist ruffians and wound up in the hospital; ex-Premier Mehdi Bazargan is in hiding, as is his first foreign minister, Karim Sanjabi; Ali Agah, last charge d'affaires in Washington, is in jail, charged with corruption — specifically, selling some of the embassy's rugs and pocketing the money.

BUFFALO BULL: The medium is the message, Marshall McLuhan said, and Interior Secretary James Watt apparently believes it. And since press releases are the bureaucrats' medium of choice, Watt's Office of Public Affairs has figured out how to get its message across right at the top of the page, even before the reader's eye catches the written content.

The Interior Department seal — formerly a green-on-white buffalo — has been printed on all the PR stationery, but with a significant difference: Not only is it a bolder blue-on-white, but the buffalo has been turned around to face right, the direction Watt is taking his department.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think it's right to pray for our country? If so, what should we pray for? — N.P.

DEAR N.P.: Yes, I believe it is not only right but important for us to pray for our nation. Our nation is in the midst of a spiritual and moral crisis, and if we continue to turn our backs on God (as we have been doing in large measure in recent decades) we can only expect his judgment in the years to come. But only God can bring about true revival, and that is one reason we need to look to him and pray for our land.

God has blessed our nation in many ways in the past, and certainly part of our prayer should be thanksgiving and gratitude for his mercy. But we should also pray for God to work in specific ways in our land. For one thing, the Bible commands us to pray for our leaders.

"I urge, then, first of all, that requests, prayers, intercession and thanksgiving be made for everyone — for kings and all those in authority, that we may live peaceful and quiet lives in all godliness and holiness. This is good, and pleases God our Savior" (1 Timothy 2:1-3).

If you look carefully at this history of Israel in the Old Testament you will discover just how important the nation's leadership can be for the spiritual life of the people. When the Jewish people had Godly leaders, they often turned to God, but when their leaders were evil men the people abandoned him.

Then notice in the verses from 1 Timothy I just quoted that we should be concerned about peace and order within society. The Psalmist wrote, "Pray for the peace of Jerusalem: 'May those who love you be secure. May there be peace within your walls and security within your citadels.'" (Psalm 122:6-7.)

As Christians, we know that strife and warfare will never be completely eliminated until Christ comes to rule, but we still must pray for a peaceful and just society.

Undescended testicles common in infant

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My son was born with only one testicle. His doctor said the other had not come down. At the time, the doctor also told me that it should be all right within the first year, and if not he would have to have an operation to correct this before it causes problems. Well, now my son is four, and his testicle still has not come down, and my doctor keeps telling me not to worry about it.

My brother, who is now 21, never developed a second testicle, and he was born the same way. He can have children, but if I can help my son, I want to do so before it is too late. Also, lately, I have heard reports about men developing cancer because of the testicle not dropping down.

Should I take my son to another doctor, or is my own right about not worrying about it? Is it already too late? — C.V.

Testicles first develop in the abdomen. While the baby is growing in the uterus, the testicles descend into the scrotum. Up to four of 100 newborns have a testicle that has not descended all the way into the scrotum. About half will descend in the first month of life, and another large percentage will in the first year. If this does not occur, then the testicle should be removed or positioned in the scrotum sometime between the ages of three and six. It's not at all late for your son.

If the testicle is left in the warmer environment of the abdomen, malignant changes are more likely to occur than if it were in the scrotum. Please don't think that an undescended testicle in an older person automatically becomes cancerous. That is not true. But the chances are greater, so why risk it?

I would clarify this matter with the doctor, and if there is some lingering question seek a second opinion about the advisability and timing of surgery to correct the problem. Having one functioning testicle does not cause infertility. I am not aware of this necessarily running in families.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I would like to know more about a skin rash I have on one leg. One insurance form labeled it "stasis dermatitis." — K.R.

Stasis dermatitis is due to veins that allow the fluid part of the blood to leak out into the skin. Usually these veins are varicose veins. "Stasis" is the Greek word for "standing." Dermatitis, of course, refers to the rash.

If blood collects in the veins, pressure builds and forces the fluid part of the blood out. This is most common in the legs. Ankle swelling is often a part of the picture. In time, an inflammation of the skin develops. It can be dry and scaly or oozing and blistered. Eventually, an ulcer forms. The ultimate treatment is to stop the leakage from the veins. Leg elevation, snug-fitting hose (all the way up to the groin) and frequent rests go a long way toward stopping the problem. Relief from long periods of standing is important.

As for the rash itself, if it is moist, then compresses of Burrow's solution applied for 15 minutes three times a day helps. After the Burrow's solution has been applied, apply a steroid cream. Do that until the rash is gone. If the rash is dry, you need only use the steroid cream. But the attention should not focus exclusively on the rash. That's only a symptom. You have to get at the root of the problem — the vein leakage I described.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Let's all turn out for Tommy Hart event

Dear Editor:
Throughout the years many of our good citizens in Big Spring and Howard County have been honored in many different ways, and for many different reasons, and any recognition or honor bestowed upon them, surely was justly deserved.

Soon the folks of our community will be paying tribute to another of our most respected friends. That person is none other than Tommy Hart, who will be retiring July 31 from the Big Spring Herald.

As most of you know Tommy is truly a native son of Big Spring. He was born here and has resided here his entire life except for the time spent in the Armed Services of his country.

Tommy has only had one employer in his lifetime, and of course that is the Herald, and I am sure that all his fellow workers will miss him terribly. Anyone who knows Tommy Hart as I know him and respect him, will surely be present at the dinner to be given in his honor at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum on July 23.

Let's all turn out and let Tommy know in person how much we enjoy his friendship.

Sincerely,
H.M. (Mack) Underwood

(Managing editor's note: This letter is printed without the knowledge of Editor Tommy Hart.)

Tickets to the dinner honoring him are $6 and are available at the Herald, the Chamber of Commerce, Big Spring Athletics & the Pro Shops at Comanche Trail Golf Course & Big Spring Country Club.

PLANT IN WAY — Senate Minority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va. moves a plant out of the way as he and President Reagan prepare to meet on Capitol Hill Tuesday concerning his tax cut program. The president later had lunch with leaders of the Senate at the Capitol.

GOP asked to forgo pet tax amendments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Having lost the first round in the House, President Reagan is urging Senate Republicans to forgo pet amendments as they work on their version of a tax-cut bill the president thinks is already expensive enough.

Leaders of the GOP-controlled Senate hope to complete action within a few days on their Reagan-endorsed bill which would grant Americans an across-the-board cut of 25 percent over 33 months, beginning Oct. 1.

Meanwhile, the Ways and Means Committee in the Democratic-controlled House continued to work on details of its alternative tax plan. On Tuesday, the panel rejected Reagan's approach and approved a two-year reduction which would bring more relief to low- and middle-income taxpayers.

The major House fight on the competing proposals will come on the floor.

In other congressional business Tuesday:

—Sandra D. O'Connor voiced her opposition to abortion as she began four days of Capitol Hill campaigning for confirmation as the first woman Supreme Court justice.

—In the grimmest assessment yet of the future of federal savings and loan associations, the industry's chief regulator warned that high interest rates threaten the stability of one-third of the nation's 4,700 S&Ls.

—The House struggled with the question of using military personnel against drug smugglers as it considered the record $136 billion defense authorization bill.

The House Armed Services Committee has recommended scrapping a 103-year-old policy and permitting the Defense Department to supply personnel and equipment to civil agencies combatting drug traffic.

—The Senate appointed 72 of its 100 members to serve as conferees to work with House members on reaching a compromise on their respective versions of the 1982 budget reductions sought by the president.

—Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., said the Reagan administration would have to justify any changes it wants in the Freedom of Information Act.

Budget support 'not easy'

WASHINGTON, D.C. — On June 25, the House of Representatives passed a austere federal budget and I, along with nine other Texas Congressmen stood firm against such opposition and supported that budget.

It was not an easy vote. My colleague from the neighboring 13th District, Congressman Jack Hightower, eloquently expressed his views on that vote in the following article: "Hard National Choices"

In 1776, Thomas Paine, a great patriot, wrote: "These are the times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of his country."

There have been many such times in this country in the last 205 years. We are in such a time at this moment. On Thursday, June 25th, the House of Representatives came face to face with the issue of federal spending. Our government has grown so big, it has found so many ways to spend tax dollars, the economy has become so complex, inflation has become such a monster, that many were seriously questioning the willingness and the ability of Congress to make the hard decisions necessary.

The question we faced was whether to make a series of judgements on programs that are individually popular and have their own entrenched constituencies working to protect their programs, or to group them together, face the issue, bite the bullet, and embark on a program of governmental reform that could possibly be a solution to many of the economic problems we must deal with. All can agree that "something must be done," the question was "what, specifically, to do" and in reducing spending, "where the cuts were to be made."

I have never had to make a more difficult decision because this vote will inevitably involve people on a very personal basis, as well as taxpayers in general.

Last year in my campaign, I pledged to the people of this district that I would work with all my might to bring inflation under control. I am a Democrat, but the Democratic candidate for President was not elected. Mr. Reagan is now my President and your President. As President, he is head of the Executive branch of government. As an elected Representative, it is my responsibility to: 1) represent the 13th District of Texas in the Congress and 2) work with other elected officials to achieve the goals we all share for the strength and prosperity of America.

If we are to stop inflation, lower interest rates, make our economy strong again and compete more effectively with growing foreign competition, all of us, Democrats and Republicans, the Congress and the President, must work side by side.

I will continue to support the President when I think he is right, such as on government spending; however, as any responsible representative of a congressional district should do, I will oppose a presidential proposal when I think it is wrong — such as Mr. Reagan's social security cuts to present recipients and his weak farm bill. That is how our system is supposed to work. That is how this system of checks and balances are designed. And it has served us very well for 205 years.

I do not want it said of me that as your elected representative, I was a "summer soldier" of a "sunshine patriot." I will continue to speak up for this district and its people both in Congress and in meetings with the President.

The hard issues have to be faced and I will continue to make those hard national choices that require sensitivity to people as well as common sense about taxes and spending.

I have great confidence in the American people's ability to accept change when necessary and, if sacrifice is called for, to make it. One of Congress' challenges is to make sure that if sacrifice is called for, it is as possible. That is also a challenge President Reagan must face, and meet, successfully.

Well-said, Congressman Hightower.

Dear Abby

Girl's Wanderlust Causes Boyfriend to Flee

DEAR ABBY: WEAK IN ILLINOIS, who went from one adulterous affair to another, although she got nothing out of any of them, sounds like my ex-girlfriend. She was beautiful but as promiscuous as they come. Whenever she'd meet a stranger she was attracted to, they'd end up in bed. She was honest. She'd tell me about it, cry and promise it would never happen again, but it always did—about twice a week. She hated herself so much she attempted suicide four times in the six years we went together.

I paid for seven months of psychotherapy for her, during which time she was seducing her therapist and giving out her phone number to patients in his waiting room. Abby, that was the last straw!

Even though I really loved her, I finally had to break off the relationship. It wouldn't have done any good to have sent her to a female therapist. She was also bisexual.

LOVED A WEAK WOMAN

DEAR LOVED: Loving her as you did, you shouldn't have given up when you discovered that her therapist was both incompetent and unethical. Most therapists are well able to handle sexual advances from their patients. It's regrettable that you didn't find one who could. Therapy might have helped her to overcome her compulsive sexual behavior.

DEAR ABBY: May I contribute to your list of commonly misused words? "Presently" means "soon, before long" or "without undue delay." It does not mean, as is commonly assumed, "at the present time."

"The plane will arrive presently" is correct. "I am presently employed as a secretary" is incorrect. "Currently" is the word to use when one means "at the present time."

DEAR MELANIE: Thank you. I'll wager that many of my readers who are currently saying "presently" when they mean "currently" will be mending their ways presently.

DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column a while back from a woman who said that every time she got pregnant, her husband started drinking. My problem is just the opposite. Every time my husband starts drinking, I get pregnant.

I love kids, but we've got just about all we can handle right now.

Don't tell me to use birth control. I've tried several methods, and they don't work for me.

You keep saying that a wife shouldn't turn her husband away when he wants sex because that gives him an excuse to find another woman. So what do you recommend?

ENOUGH KIDS

DEAR ENOUGH: Planned Parenthood for you, Alcoholics Anonymous for him and self-control for both of you!

Girl Scouts provide opportunities for establishing goals and values

There is one 17 year old Big Spring High School Senior who has found herself early in life and established worthy goals and values. Her name is Pamela Beth Caudill.

PAMCAUDILL

Pam has participated in Girl Scouting for approximately eight years. She attended Camp Boothe Oaks as a camper for four years and as a counselor for two years.

Pam has one sister, Laura, who works at Camp Mystic in Hunt, where their mother, Carolee, once camped and worked. Carolee Caudill is now a recreational therapist for special education with the Big Spring Independent School District. Pam's father, Don Caudill, owns the junior clothing store, My Closet, in the Westgate Mall of Abilene.

Pamela is known as "Dusty" at Camp Boothe Oaks (near Sweetwater) and enjoys the out-of-doors and working with younger girls. Dusty says, "The girls seem to make it very worthwhile. It only takes one smile of satisfaction from a camper to assure me that I'm fulfilling my job. Believe me, there are many smiles. The girls are a joy and bring outdoors tops everything off."

Pam's high school activities include being on the staff as sports editor and photographer, being a member of Quill and Scroll, and earning a three year Varsity volleyball letter. Her favorite subjects are English and Science.

She is an outdoor person, loves to canoe, participate in archery, swim, lifeguard, play volleyball and softball, cook-out and sing songs. She enjoys jogging, racquetball and just being outdoors.

As a Senior Girl Scout, Pam was a delegate from the West Texas Girl Scout Council to a Planning Conference at Lubbock for TAWASI, the Senior Girl Scout Annual Event for six neighboring Girl Scout Councils. It was held this year at Camp Boothe Oaks and she was one of the hostesses to the 60 girls and adults in attendance.

She works as an assistant to Debbie Burrow's Junior Troop 96, and is editor of the monthly Big Spring Girl Scout newsletter, "True Treasures."

Future plans for Pamela include majoring in Forestry at Stephen F. Austin State University or Texas A&M. "I hope to someday be more deeply involved in the camping picture, and to be joint owner of a camp which will benefit younger children."

As a participating agency of the Howard County United Way the Girl Scout program is made possible for girls in grades 1-12. The organization strives to enrich the lives of the members by providing a variety of programs and opportunities. Through the Girl Scout program, girls like Pam can develop their skills and find career education and opportunities.

Pam has had many devoted leaders who have given her much. Now Pam wants to share her interests and skills with other girls growing up in the organization.

Forsan Study Club outlines activities

A called meeting of the GFWC Forsan Study Club was held July 10 at 7 p.m. in the home of Eunice Thixton.

Club members voted on several changes in their constitution and by laws. The recording secretary and reporter positions were combined into one office, and Susan Alexander was chosen by acclamation for that office. The executive committee will be composed of all officers, and shall meet prior to each business meeting.

The executive committee submitted for approval a new scorecard for Club-woman of the Year. The new scoring will have participation worth 70 percent.

The club members also decided to have a booth for the March of Dimes West Fest to be held Sept. 13 at Comanche Trail Park. The booth will be open from 1-6:30 p.m.

The club added two new yearly projects. They will assist a local handicapped child and give a money tree to the Howard County Library.

The club resolved to bring international foods to the annual Homecoming Smorgasbord. Kathy Pickett and Susan Gaston will compile a cookbook. Recipes must be submitted at the Sept. 14 meeting and food categories this year will be meats, vegetables, salads, desserts and breads.

The club voted to buy a half page in the Historical Book for Nola Story's history of the club.

The members decided to sponsor a speaking engagement of Norma Gabler from Longview, Jan. 25. They will order a case of her books, "Textbooks on Trial", to begin generating interest. Mrs. Gabler has been standing up for better textbooks in Texas for 20 years.

The first meeting of the year will be a brunch Aug. 22 at 11 a.m. at Garrett Hall of the First United Methodist Church. The Big Lake 20th Century Club will be guests. Members are to bring a gift for Girlstown, and members of the yearbook committee are asked to bring a door-prize. New yearbooks will be presented. All members are urged to attend.

Oil companies preparing for Gulf Coast coal boom

FAIRFIELD, Texas (AP) — Several of the nation's largest oil and energy companies have quietly — almost secretly — acquired leases on millions of acres of farm and ranchlands in six Gulf Coast states in anticipation of a coal boom that could forever change the energy consumption patterns of this oil-rich region.

The heavy investments by companies such as Phillips Coal Co., a subsidiary of Phillips Petroleum, Exxon, and ten other energy concerns have come in an area better known for crude oil production than strip mining.

Lignite — soft brown coal — underlies a vast section of the area. With the long-term availability of natural gas in question and prices for domestic and imported gas on the rise, the region's estimated 35 billion tons of lignite reserves have become a key element in several proposals for the development of synthetic fuels, state and industry officials say.

In East Texas, where the historically famous oil fields are slowly being invaded by salt water, the state's 23.4 million-ton lignite reserves are already being exploited at three strip mines operated by a consortium of Texas electric utilities. Eight mine-mouth generating plants operated by the consortium last year produced enough electricity to meet the needs of a city of 2 million people.

Phillips Coal, founded just six years ago, now holds leases on more than a million acres, while a dozen other major oil and coal companies own lignite rights on an additional 3.4 million acres in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama.

A recent study by the Texas Bureau of Economic Geology estimated that the region's shallow lignite reserves are equivalent in energy content to more than double the region's proven oil and natural gas reserves combined.

As a result, lignite production along the burgeoning Gulf Coast is expected to soar from 30 million tons last year to as much as 138 million tons by 1990. Barely a decade ago, only two million tons a year were being mined in the six-state region, the bureau said.

James Van Reenan, vice president for marketing of the Dallas-based Phillips Coal Co., said lignite is fast becoming the fuel of choice for the region's utility companies and heavy industries.

Gulf Coast lignite is only slightly less efficient as a thermal fuel than Western coals. Transportation costs for mine-mouth power plants are minimal, and land reclamation along the flat, verdant Gulf Coast is less difficult than in the arid coal fields of Wyoming and North Dakota, he said.

The soft, chunky lignite resembles topsoil in appearance and texture and owes its existence to the same geological process that produced the East Texas oilfield. The process began 70 million years ago when a thick layer of plant matter along the Gulf Coast was covered with silt.

The fossilized remains of the vegetable matter is now lignite, a giant black blanket of which lies 15 to 200 feet below the surface. Older deposits of organic materials became pockets of oil and natural gas.

The brown coal deposit extends from the Texas-Mexico border to Alabama and Kentucky and "means there's still hope for us folks in the oil business," said Exxon spokesman Carey Ziter.

Exxon is in the design stages of a proposed $4 billion synthetic fuels plant where Texas lignite would be processed to produce a chemical feedstock, a synthetic crude petroleum. The feedstock, in turn, could be used to produce synthetic gas.

If the company decides the plant is economically feasible, mining of lignite reserves near Troup, Texas would begin in 1986. About 600 million tons of lignite would be mined during the life of the plant.

Phillips, which also is considering construction of a synfuels plant along the Gulf Coast, has already signed contracts to supply several mine-mouth power plants in Louisiana with lignite fuel. The company "is very close" to signing a similar agreement in East Texas, said Van Reenan.

Under its contract with Cajun Electric Power Cooperative, Phillips will charge the utility about $18 a ton for lignite delivered to Cajun's proposed power plants about 40 miles south of Shreveport beginning in 1984.

In contrast, lignite from the massive reserves in North Dakota costs about $33 a ton delivered to Houston. The price includes rail transportation costs of more than $20 a ton, said Van Reenan.

Du Pont lifts Conoco merger offer to hefty $7.4 billion

NEW YORK (AP) — Du Pont Inc. has raised its bid for Conoco Inc. to $7.4 billion — more than twice the largest amount ever paid for a company — and some analysts think the price will go even higher before Conoco is sold.

Du Pont raised its bid Tuesday from $6.9 billion, countering an offer from Seagram Co. Ltd., the Canadian distiller. But Seagram said it was still in the competition and such oil companies as Mobil Corp. and Texaco Inc. were still considered likely to offer bids.

The bidding war has been sparked by beliefs that Conoco's reserves of oil, coal and natural gas are worth more than the value indicated by the stock price, and by signals from the Reagan administration that it is less likely to challenge big mergers on antitrust grounds.

Du Pont said it will pay $95 a share for 40 percent of Conoco's stock and exchange 1.7 Du Pont shares — worth $80.33 at current prices — for each additional share. It had offered $87.50 or 1.6 Du Pont shares, worth about $6.9 billion.

Sanford Margoshes, an analyst with Bache Halsey Stuart Shields Inc., a Wall Street firm, said he expected more bidding, including "another figure from Seagram and a bid from Mobil. It would not surprise me for the final figure to exceed $100 a share."

Any takeover of Conoco will be the largest corporate acquisition in U.S. history, surpassing the $3.6 billion Shell Oil Co. paid for Belridge Oil Co. two years ago.

Conoco, the nation's ninth-largest oil company, accepted the new Du Pont offer as it had the original one. Chairman Ralph Bailey said shareholders would benefit from the combination of chemicals and energy operations.

Du Pont Chairman Edward Jefferson said the merger, which would create the seventh-largest industrial company in America, was "fully consistent with the nation's energy imperatives and will not have anticompetitive consequences."

Drug payoffs are tempting to low paid police

Associated Press Writer
 MIAMI (AP) — By simply turning away as a plane skims over the Everglades dropping duffel bags of cocaine or standing lookout when smugglers sneak a boat packed with marijuana into the Keys, a Florida policeman can make more money in one night than he could in a career.
 The American appetite for cocaine, marijuana and other drugs is skyrocketing, prompting South American smugglers to use old-fashioned bribery to assure the safe arrival of their illicit cargoes.
 The bait is money, lots of money, enough to pay off the mortgage and the bills and buy the luxuries that are only dreams on a police officer's salary.
 "Have you ever seen $50,000 in one pile? I'll tell you, it's impressive," said Maj. Ed Little, chief of the Florida Marine Patrol's South Florida region.
 "You can let your mind run loose. Just think, you could pay off your house or pay cash for a fancy car. You could buy all sorts of things. Hell, yes, the temptation is there. The temptation is great."

 Although law enforcement leaders say nearly all Florida officers are honest, hard-working cops who would never take a bribe, they admit some haven't been able to say "No."
 "You take a police officer who is making $12,000 a year and simply by turning his head one night and allowing an aircraft to come in, he can make $50,000," said Allan Pringle, deputy director of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration's southeastern region.
 "It goes on all the time. In Florida, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, smuggling aircraft are coming in every day by the hundreds," Pringle said.
 Said U.S. Attorney Atlee Wampler: "Nobody in law enforcement makes the kind of money that will come anywhere near what can be earned in a single night by just helping unload a boatload of marijuana."
 One of the longest and most complex investigations into drug-related police corruption climaxed Tuesday when nine former Dade County homicide detectives were indicted by a federal grand jury and accused of accepting drugs and money from Marie Escandar, described by Drug Enforcement Administration officials as a major trafficker of cocaine.

 The officers, who Escandar reportedly once called his "young men of iron," were indicted on a variety of charges, including racketeering, narcotics trafficking and stealing drugs from the scene of a crime.
 So far, one-third of the detectives assigned to the homicide unit in 1979 have been investigated for corruption. Law enforcement officials say almost every police agency in the state has been touched in some way by drug corruption. Some examples:
 —Florida Marine Patrol Capt. Ralph Tingley faces trial next month on charges he accepted a $50,000 payoff to ignore a marijuana smuggling operation. Prosecutors claim Tingley promised that an unidentified person wouldn't be apprehended bringing ashore two boatloads of pot. No marijuana was brought ashore, but Florida Department of Law Enforcement agents said they found $50,000 cash at Tingley's home when he was arrested.

 —Four former Key West city policemen were convicted along with eight other people in connection with a Customs Service bust on Stock Island that netted more than 100,000 pounds of marijuana.
 —Monroe County State Attorney Jeff Gautier was suspended by Gov. Bob Graham last November on accusations that Gautier used and possessed marijuana and methqualone.
 —A jailer and four Taylor County sheriff's deputies were recently suspended after federal agents investigated allegations they were involved in drug smuggling. One of the deputies, Broward Reed, has been indicted by a federal grand jury on conspiracy, marijuana possession and perjury counts.

Child snatchings are toughest cases to police

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — It happens 100,000 times a year. A child is grabbed, hustled into a getaway car and secreted away.

It happened to the four children of Eunice Munford of Austin, Texas.

She said police would have shown more concern if her purse — instead of her children — had been snatched.

She said police viewed the snatching of her children as a "domestic squabble" because they had been taken away by her ex-husband, the father of the children.

A judge gave her custody of the children in the divorce settlement, but that didn't stop her ex-husband from taking the children to California.

Mrs. Munford was luckier than most. Using mostly her own resources, she found and regained custody of the children after a year's search.

"I found in my own experience that it would have been much easier (to get help from the police) if my ex-husband had taken my car — much easier."

Mrs. Munford works for the Texas Department of Human Resources and is Texas coordinator for Children's Rights, Inc., a Washington, D.C.-based organization made up of child-snatching victims.

The American Bar Association says 100,000 children are snatched from their mothers or fathers each year by ex-spouses who refuse to abide by legal custody orders.

Only 10 percent of the children — most of them taken after a divorce — are ever returned to the parent who was granted legal custody, the ABA estimated in its September 1980 Journal.

If a non-parent took a child under similar circumstances, it would be a violation of the "Little Lindbergh" federal kidnapping law and the full resources of the FBI would be used to track the culprit down.

However, several officials said, most law enforcement agencies have treated child snatchings as domestic quarrels, unsure how much time, resources and money the taxpayers were willing to expend to help distraught parents track down and seize custody of their children.

But as one of his last acts, President Jimmy Carter signed a child snatching law — effective July 1 — that put the federal government on record for the first time as frowning on the practice.

The law does three things — it standardizes child custody orders throughout the 50 states; allows the Federal Child Locator Service, set up to locate parents who skip out on child support payments, to also locate child snatchers; and it empowers the FBI to handle unlawful flight to avoid prosecution warrants issued by states in such cases.

Mrs. Munford said the law still leaves the parent mostly to his own resources to track down and retake custody of their children.

"It doesn't have much teeth," she said. "Even if the Parent Locator Service can assist these people, there's nothing they can do as far as enforcement..."

The new law empowers the FBI to act when state felony warrants are issued, but Texas is only one of six states having felony child snatching laws, and local prosecutors often are reluctant to act.

"There's not a hell of a lot you can do if you're dealing with someone who doesn't have any roots, any close ties to anywhere. It's awfully easy to take a small child and get on Greyhound and say bye, and how in the hell are you going to find them," said Charles Conway, first assistant district attorney in San Antonio.

Why not Renta Yenta?

Perfecting the fine art of whoopie cushionry

NEW YORK (AP) — So. You're feeling depressed, right? The big party's tonight and you hadda work late. Everybody's gone home and there you sit, work piled on your desk, and such a headache you could die from.

So quit kvetching. Renta Yenta. Carol and Izzy did, and doncha know, they felt better. With their blessing, a rented helicopter rained 2,000 ping pong balls on the bash, each with a message: "Sorry we can't be there."

What price glory? In this case, more than $1,500, according to Lynn Stererman and Liz Woolf, the geniuses of gimmickry who dreamed up that and a thousand other stunts like it.

A looseleaf notebook records the past capers of the two New York women, whose business professes to do it all — provided "it's legal and it's kind."

There was the "Happy Retirement Ida" sign on Times Square, the brass band that stood knee-deep in ticker tape belting out "76 Trombones" on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, the chesty blonde twins who gift-wrapped a Madison Avenue executive for his birthday.

You got your singing messengers, your balloon bouquets, your belly dancers. There are shaggy donkeys for delivery to corporate types in pinstripes and — are you ready? — cupid in Pampers all set to go for next Valentine's Day.

Business is booming. Go figure it.

The schlock's piled high on the streets of New York, and human gorillas are dropping like flies. What's the average life span of a dancing banana? Ms. Woolf and Ms. Stererman know, and they're here to tell you: not long.

But the ladies who bought Renta Yenta from two West Coast women in 1978 have made a good living while perfecting the fine art of whoopie cushionry.

"We have seen them come and die," Ms. Woolf said of other purveyors of pulchritude, pageantry and panache.

Renta Yenta endures. The two resident yentas — Yiddish for busybody — believe it's mostly a matter of credibility. "People know we'll be here three weeks from now," said Ms. Stererman.

Clients are also lured by the sheer variety of exploits available — from $50 for delivery of a basket of cookies to half a million for a French chef to prepare and a British butler to serve you and a friend dinner for the rest of your life. (Nobody's bought that one yet.)

Somewhere between are the catered receptions, Rolls Royce rides and office parties that are their stock-in-trade, or the more mundane shopping, house-sitting and unpacking services designed to make life less of a hassle for the very rich or the very harried.

Visitors to the offices of Renta Yenta expecting to find what the name implies are in for a big surprise. "They expect little Jewish grandmothers," Ms. Stererman said with a grin. Jewish, yes. Grandmothers, no. Both women are in their early 30s, and are stylishly slim and attractive.

They have much in common: both immigrated to the city at about the same time, Ms. Woolf from Poland and Ms. Stererman from Elmira, N.Y. Both worked in real estate, then in insurance. Both wanted to try something new.

They also had been to a lot of bad parties. "They tasted the same and they all looked alike," said Ms. Woolf, who felt she could do better.

They agreed to go into business together and began searching for a forum. Ms. Stererman heard about Renta Yenta one day at the dentist, and they decided to buy up the name.

"To me, it means somebody who understands how to get the thing done," Ms. Stererman said.

Getting the thing done can range from hovering over the house painters to make sure they don't miss a spot to decorating a four-bedroom townhouse from scratch in 24 hours flat. They did it for Stevie Wonder, and it remains their most Herculean task to date.

They classify themselves as successful, but prefer not to divulge the net worth of their business.

"We've done parties for $30,000 to $40,000 a shot, but there are no millions," Ms. Woolf. Not yet, anyway.

Renta Yenta can draw from 300 such talents, who dress up like Charlie Chaplin, Miss Piggy and Mae West.

RESIDENT YENTAS — Liz Woolf, left, and Lynn Stererman keep busy running their Renta Yenta business in New York. The ladies, who bought the operation from two West Coast women in 1978, have made a good living while perfecting the art of whoopie cushionry.

Merle Haggard's band equipment is stolen

HOUSTON (AP) — A thief may find himself "walkin' on the fightin' side" of Merle Haggard after he made off with a rental truck containing the country music star's band equipment Tuesday.

Haggard's entourage arrived in Houston a few days ago for a concert Tuesday night. The band's engineer, Asa Kelly, said band members staying at a Houston motel heard an engine start up about 2:30 a.m. Tuesday and ran outside to see the yellow truck rounding a corner.

Action against snuff student to be dismissed

TYLER, Texas (AP) — James Bacon Jr. was up to snuff, but Jacksonville Independent School officials said he was up to no good. The whole matter would have been up to the courts — if the two parties hadn't compromised.

A federal lawsuit filed against the JISD after Bacon was suspended for carrying a can of snuff in his pocket probably will be dismissed after a compromise agreement was reached Tuesday, said school district attorney Gordon Phrill.

The suit was lodged against the JISD and two of its officials after Bacon was suspended three days this spring for possessing the tobacco on school grounds.

The school district agreed to provide a written statement of the appeal procedure for a student wishing to contest a disciplinary action in the district handbook, Phrill said. The handbook is delivered to each student at the beginning of the school year.

The district also agreed that a list of possible penalties would be listed in the handbook with the list of infractions, he said.

The compromise also calls for the removal of the infraction and disciplinary measures from the Bacon's school record, along with two other students suspended for possessing snuff, the attorney said.

The agreement was a "true compromise in that there was no admission of guilt or liability by either side in the case," Phrill said.

McEnroe's Wimbledon fines could mean no US Open

NEW YORK (AP) — John McEnroe, who owned Wimbledon's center court a few weeks ago, will get his day in "court" later this month, an appearance which could save him as much as $14,750 in fines and a costly suspension.

The Men's International Professional Tennis Council, the nine-man body that governs the grand prix tennis circuit, will be hearing an appeal by McEnroe, the Wimbledon singles champion, over fines imposed by Wimbledon as a result of his behavior during the prestigious tournament at the stately all-England Tennis Club.

Specifically, McEnroe objects to a $750 fine levied against him for alleged abuse of a linesman during a doubles match — but that's only the surface issue.

McEnroe also was fined $1,500 for two other minor infractions — displays of temper during his first-round singles victory over Tom Gullickson — and is not appealing those fines. But Wimbledon also has recommended two other fines amounting to $12,500. And when fines pass the $5,000 plateau, players can be suspended, too, for as much as 21 days.

Marshall Happer, administrator of the New York-based council, said Tuesday McEnroe "has been invited to present his side of the story by July 21. By the same token, I have asked for information (videotapes plus statements by umpires and linesmen) from the Wimbledon committee and I'm not exactly sure when we're going to get it, so I can't say at this time when this matter is going to be concluded." It won't be on July 21. John McEnroe Sr., a lawyer who will represent his 22-year-old son before the council, told The Associated Press late Tuesday he has "asked for and received an extension because we haven't received a copy of the charges from Wimbledon, so how can we answer them or prepare to the charges, we will present our facts and our side of the story." If the pro tennis council upholds the charges and levies fines beyond the $1,500 which McEnroe is not appealing, and if it tacks on a suspension, the issue will immediately go before an independent arbitrator, one of 30 or so around the world whom the council calls upon in such matters.

Depending on when a suspension, if any, is imposed and upheld, it could put a crimp in McEnroe's plans to successfully defend his U.S. Open title. That tournament starts Sept. 1.

Another member of the McEnroe family, 16-year-old Patrick, also came to John's defense. He said his older brother's outbursts are part of a search for perfection.

"He wants himself to be perfect. That's why he gets so mad at himself. So he naturally feels that the linesmen should be perfect — and that's never possible."

The younger McEnroe also said John's behavior enlivens the sport. "If every tennis player was like Bjorn Borg and never said a word during a match," Patrick said, "it'd be boring."

During District 3 All-Star Tourney Last inning tells story in Little League games

Two exciting games that weren't decided until the final inning made for interesting action in the second night of the District 3 Little League All-Star Tournament.

Both contests were tied entering the final inning, with one not being decided until extra innings. But in the end, it was a pair of Midland teams that emerged victorious, marking the second straight night that All-Star squads from the Tall City came away with wins.

At the American League Park, two of the apparently stronger teams squared off, with the Midland Eastern team using a passed ball in the top of the seventh to score a 2-1 triumph over the Big Spring National League.

The contest was a pitchers duel from the start, with Eastern's Joe Rendon and National's Cary Fraser controlling the contest. Both hurlers limited the opposition to two hits, with Rendon whiffing 11 and Fraser nine.

All of the hits in the contest were singles. Connecting safely for the Eastern All-Stars were Tommy York-man and Carlos Lazano, while Fraser and Mike Sparks hit safely for the National All-Stars.

The National team now moves to the losers bracket, and will face the Stanton All-Stars tomorrow night in the American League Park. Stanton lost to Midland Mid-City on Monday night.

Eastern, the defending District 3 champions, will now face the winner of tonight's Midland Western-Lamesa contest.

In the National League Park, Midland Tower pushed across two runs in the top of the sixth to emerge with a topsy turvy 8-6 win over the Big Spring American League.

Tower had marched to an early lead, and had the AL All-Stars down 6-2 entering the bottom of the fifth. But the American Leaguers staged a four-run rally at that point to knot the score, with the potential go ahead run being thrown out in a rundown between third and home.

But the Tower team regrouped in the top of the sixth, utilizing two hits and a pair of AL errors to score two quick runs and have the bases loaded. They would have had more if not for a pair of defensive plays by AL catcher Sam Ross and third sacker Eric Thompson.

Winning hurler Joe Waters retired the AL in the bottom of the sixth to preserve the win. The losing hurler was Robert Guzman, who had relieved Aaron Allen. Both AL hurlers were 11-year-olds in the predominantly 12-year affair.

Waters and Lance Patterson led the Tower All-Stars with doubles.

Pacing the AL charge were Allen and Joe Louis Parades, who both had doubles.

The Tower team will now face the Big Spring Texas League tomorrow night in the National League Park, while the AL drops into the losers bracket and will meet the loser of tonight's game between Midland Western and Lamesa. That game will also be in the NL Park.

LAST NIGHT'S SCORES:
Midland Tower 8, Big Spring American 6
Midland Eastern 2, Big Spring National 1 (11 innings)
TONIGHT'S GAMES:
NL Park — Midland Western vs. Lamesa
AL Park — Midland North Central vs. Midland Mid-City

Major League All-Star game in Cleveland NL wins make believe

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates' outfielder Dave Parker of the National League was voted an imaginary game hero and some 15,000 real baseball fans eased their frustration at cancellation of the Major League All-Star Game with a deafening chorus of boos.

That's how Clevelanders celebrated the passing of Tuesday's scheduled date for the 48th mid-season classic.

"We always want more, but this is great, just great," said Jeff Kinsbach, a disc jockey from WMMF-FM, who led the booning Tuesday evening aimed at Municipal Stadium.

"These people are true Clevelanders. This is out of pride, to show people that we are tired of being stood up, tired of being made a joke of," he said.

Joel Rothstein, promoter for the Wild Horses rock band who played to the crowd at the city's All Nation's Festival, said the Wild Horses thought of the idea for the booning.

The 30-second boo was recorded at 130 decibels, 20 decibels higher than the accepted pain level.

Parker and his mates walloped the American League 15-2 in a Strat-O-Matic baseball game played at the Stadium's home plate with a game board and statistical cards.

The dice game pits hitters against pitchers by comparing ratings for power, speed and defensive ability. In most cases, results are believable.

Trappings for the game of make-believe were real enough with Hall-of-Fame pitcher Bob Feller throwing out the ceremonial first dice, local favorite Rocco Scotti bellying both the Canadian and American national anthems and Municipal Stadium's scoreboard lighted to show progress of the game.

The game — the only one in town because of the strike — drew plenty of attention, but the 77,000 ticket holders to the indefinitely postponed real contest stayed away. Some 58 diehards cheered in the lower sections of the cavernous stadium.

On this day, the National League assaulted the record book, ripping 17 hits, including four home runs and three doubles. The American League was held to two runs on four hits.

The Nationals were held close for three innings by American League starter Len Barker of the Cleveland Indians. In the fourth, a two-run homer by Philadelphia's Manny Trillo gave the Nationals all they needed. They added 12 more runs in battering five American League pitchers.

National League Manager John Halpern, a producer for WKYC-TV in Cleveland, said it simply: "The National League creamed 'em."

Atlanta Braves' reliever Rick Camp hurled a scoreless fourth inning and benefited from three runs in the fifth for the pitching victory.

George Woodard pronounces himself ready with Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — George Woodard says he has a surprise for the Houston Oilers coaching staff but he's not too careful about keeping it secret.

"I've got a surprise ready for the coaches in San Angelo, I'm going to give them the old George Woodard," said Woodard. "I'm going in at 247 and this year I'm strong."

Woodard, the former Texas A&M mammoth fullback, will be among the 51 rookies and free agents reporting Thursday to begin preseason drills at Angelo State University in San Angelo.

The "old" Woodard led the nation in rushing his junior season in 1977 with 1,153 yards and he was projected as the Aggies' mostly likely Heisman Trophy candidate going into the 1978 season.

He was one of the biggest fullbacks in the country, playing at 230 to 260 pounds.

Woodard broke his leg in a freak softball accident, however, prior to the 1978 season and it virtually ended his collegiate career. He sat out the 1978 season when his weight ballooned to 305 and was used sparingly in 1979.

Despite his inactivity with the Aggies in 1979, Woodard was drafted in the 10th round by the Saints. Woodard reported to rookie camp at 274 and was too weak to play by the time he lost 24 pounds.

"Last year I had doubts about whether I could make it, but not this year," Woodard said. "This is a once in a lifetime chance for me and you only get around once. I'm going to make the best of it."

Woodard, harranged to lose weight throughout his college and early pro career, said those problems are behind him now.

"In a way I blame myself for the weight problem and in another way I don't," Woodard said. "I think if people would have just have left old George alone and let me realize it for myself, I would have been all right."

"But they were always telling me I had to lose weight, I had to lose weight. Finally, I realized that I just didn't need the weight."

Competing with Woodard for a place on the team is former Los Angeles running back Lawrence McCutcheon, who signed a free agent contract last week.

McCutcheon, 31, of Plainview, Texas, is a five-time member of the NFL Pro Bowl squad and has four 1,000-yard rushing seasons in an eight-year career.

Several veterans who spent last season in injured reserve also will be among the early arrivals including offensive linemen Darryl Payne and John Schumacher, receiver Harold Bailey, cornerback Charles Jefferson, running back Charles Barnes, and defensive lineman Daryl Skaugstad.

NCAA championship in Reunion Dallas gets Final Four

CHATHAM, Mass. (AP) — Dallas has been picked to host the finals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's 1986 Division I basketball tournament, an NCAA committee announced Tuesday.

Dallas received the bid Tuesday morning after the Division I Basketball Committee, headed by Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke, considered presentations from Dallas, Atlanta, Kansas City, Mo., and Birmingham, Ala. The presentations were made in Chatham.

"All four presentations were excellent," said Dave

Cawood, NCAA director of publicity. "The committee evaluated each of the four and just determined it wanted to go to Dallas."

Dallas never has been the site of the NCAA's semifinal and final games.

"We are very excited about being able to host the NCAA basketball finals in Dallas," said Dallas Mayor Jack Evans. "Dallas is one of the great sports towns in the country and Reunion Arena is quickly gaining a reputation as one of the country's outstanding sports arenas."

Reunion Arena also will host the 1985 Midwest

Colt investment turned out wise

OWINGS MILLS, Md. (AP) — If there was any derisive laughter when Robert Irsay bought the Los Angeles Rams for $17 million in 1972 and swapped them for the Baltimore Colts, the snickers have long since subsided.

The last laugh, it turns out, belongs to Irsay — who said this week he had rejected a $50 million offer for his National Football League franchise.

While at the club's training complex Tuesday to sign Baltimore's No. 1 draft pick, fullback Randy McMillan, Irsay recalled a conversation he had with the late Carroll Rosenbloom when they swapped franchises.

"He told me people would probably laugh at me for the amount of dollars I paid," Irsay said. "But he said, 'I bet you that 10 years from now, the franchise will be worth $50 million' ... This is my 10th year."

Properly impressed, someone wanted to know if the Colts were indeed the best investment Irsay ever made.

"Well, no ... replied the Chicago businessman.

"I bought some stock once for $1, and it went up to $60."

Irsay tossed some heavier numbers around when asked about NFL finances.

He noted that the television income of $2.1 million per club when he joined the league jumped to $5.3 million in 1977, and could reach $12 million or more when the next contract is negotiated. "And," he added, "cable companies are chasing us."

"But everything is relative," Irsay contended. "The Baltimore payroll was $2 million when I took over, and it's $5 million now."

Irsay said his rejection of the $50 million offer and his purchase of a local townhouse Tuesday should quell rumors that the Colts were for sale.

The Colts averaged only 38,097 fans per home date, the worst in the NFL, while posting a 7-9 record last season. But Irsay remains optimistic.

"We're going to turn this thing around and fill the stadium," he said, while noting that his youngest son, Jim, a senior at Southwestern Methodist University, would be groomed as his eventual successor with the Colts.

Irsay expressed hope that McMillan, a Maryland native who starred at the University of Pittsburgh, would be the next catalyst in the turnaround.

"We look forward to having the best backfield in the country," Irsay said of the prospect of McMillan joining quarterback Bert Jones and halfback Curtis Dickey, who rushed for 800 yards as a rookie last year.

"The Colts are a team coming up," said McMillan, who signed a four year contract reportedly worth $1 million including bonus money. "I'd like to be a leaning pole for them to get to the top."

Area Slow-Pitch notes

Astros win Coahoma Tourney

COAHOMA — The Astros won the First Annual Coahoma Class B Slow-Pitch Tournament here the past weekend, defeating the Colorado City Rejects in the final round.

Eighteen teams participated in the three-day affair, which ended on Sunday afternoon.

Following the Astros and Rejects were third place Coahoma Church of Christ and Nutro.

Among those making All-Tournament were Astros Rondel Brock, Tim Greenfield, Joe Carroll and David Walkup; Coahoma Church of Christ players Warren Jeters and Donnie Buchanan; and Nutro's Jeter Grant.

The Astros' ageless wonder, Putt Fleming, was named the Most Valuable Player in the tournament.

District 6 Slow-Pitch soon

The District 6 Slow-Pitch Tournament is taking applications for the July 25-26 meet that sends the top four teams to the state tournament.

Any team from this area may participate in the District 6 affair, with 75 dollars being the entry fee. The final four teams in the tournament will then be eligible to advance to the state slow-pitch tourney in Midland on the weekend of Aug. 7-9.

Those interested in entering should contact Bill Bailey at 7-1649.

Chicano Slow-Pitch in San Angelo

SAN ANGELO — The St. Margaret Ricardos Chicano Invitational Slow-Pitch Tournament will be held July 31-Aug. 2 at the 47th Street Complex behind San Angelo's Lake View High School.

Entry fee for the Chicano affair is 70 dollars per team, with the deadline for entering being July 28. For additional information, contact Arnold Nogeda at 333-7888 or Johnny Perez at 333-2888.

Moses near mark

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Edwin Moses, the 1976 Olympic champion from the United States, came within one-hundredth of a second of his world record in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles and Britain's Steve Ovett won the mile at an international meet.

Moses, winning his 72nd consecutive race, was timed in 47.14 seconds, just missing the world mark of 47.13 set in Milan, Italy last year. Ovett covered the mile in 3:49.67.

CGA sets meeting

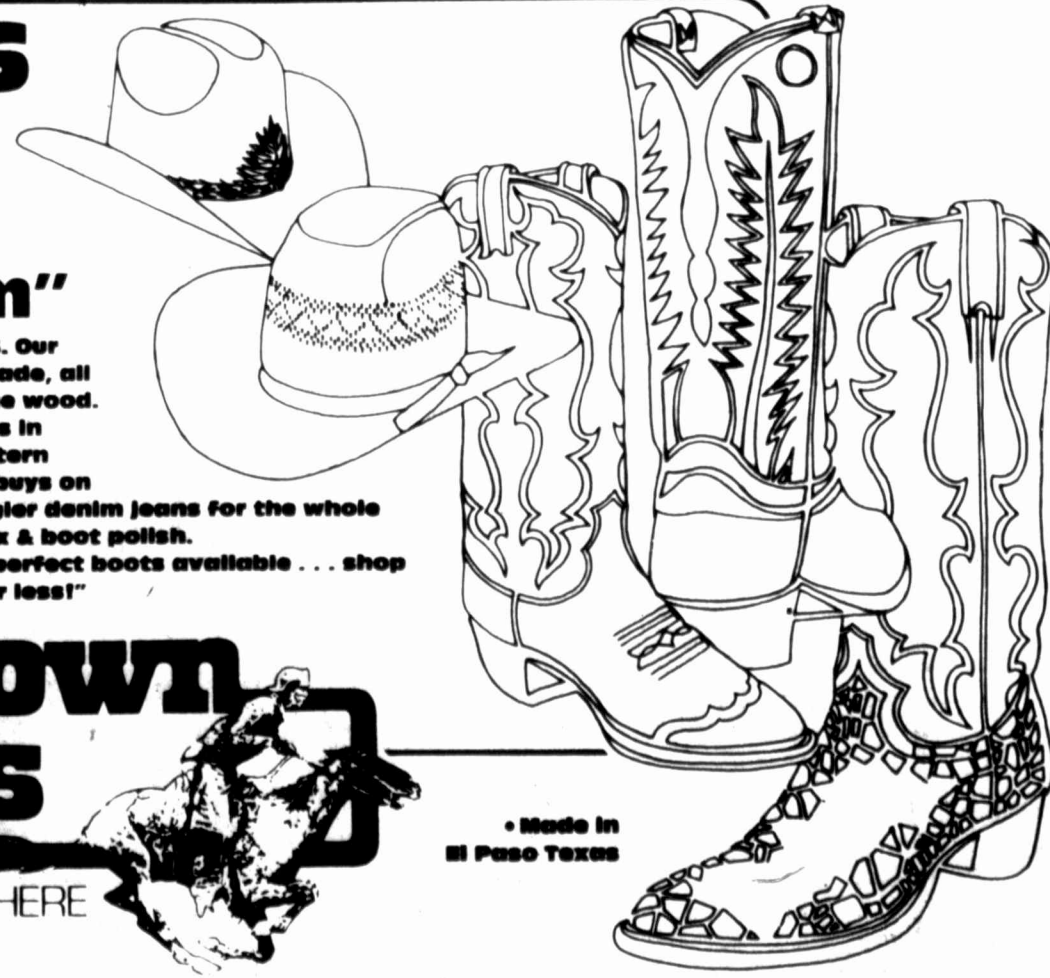

The Chicano Golf Association will hold a meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Coors Hospitality Room. Topic of the meeting will be an upcoming tournament.

Big Spring Senior Leaguers win

ABILENE — The Big Spring Senior League All-Stars used the one-two punch of Jay Pirkle and Mark Walker in romping to an 8-1 win over the Anson All-Stars in the District Tournament here Monday night.

The win moves the Big Spring team into a quarterfinal contest tonight in the 14-15 division of the District Senior League Tourney. They face Abilene at 8:30 p.m.

Abilene Northeastern romps

ABILENE — The Abilene Northeastern All-Stars walloped the Big Spring All-Stars 20-1 in the 13-year old District Senior League Tournament Tuesday night.

Abilene scored five runs in the first inning and never looked back.

The Big Springers only run came when Stacy Kilgore plated Jimmy Rogers in the second inning.

But Trevino predicts Ray Floyd Watson early British Open favorite

SANDWICH, England (AP) — "If I had known the golf course was like this, I'd have come here a few days earlier," said Ray Floyd, one of the favorites to win the 110th British Open starting Thursday.

The burly American, enjoying his best season at 38, had his first look at the Royal St. George's links, set amid sand dunes beside the English Channel, and confessed it puzzled him.

"It's a helluva test of golf out there," Floyd said Tuesday. "When you get on the tee for the first time, you really have no idea where to go. You need to know the golf course a bit.

"You can't see the bunkers, and you can't see some of the pins. If I had realized it was going to be like, this I might have come over about last Friday."

But Lee Trevino, two-time British Open champion who played the course with the long-driving Floyd, still tabbed him as one of the favorites for the $50,000 first prize.

"This course is going to favor a big hitter, and I like Floyd," Trevino said.

Australia's David Graham, the U.S. Open champion, also picked Floyd to win.

But British bookies made Tom Watson the favorite at 4-1, Jack Nicklaus second at 5-1, and saw Floyd as a 25-1 longshot.

Floyd, who has won more than a half-million dollars this year, tried to explain why life begins at 38.

"Many golfers are at their best between 35 and 45," he said. "It's nothing of a freak to start playing well at my age. "The mental and the physical are starting to complement each other. I now know my capabilities and my limitations."

"I know the shots I bring off only occasionally, and those are the ones I try to stay away from. It's about wind and pin placements."

Floyd has won four tournaments this year—the Tournament Players' Championship at Jacksonville, Fla., the Doral at Miami, the Westchester Classic and the Canadian PGA.

He was runnerup to Nicklaus in the British Open at St. Andrews, Scotland, in 1978.

The Royal St. George's Club and the Royal and Ancient Golf Club between them have spent a lot of money on a new irrigation system to prepare this course for its first British Open in 32 years.

Most of the players say it has made the 6,829-yard, par 35-35—70 course lush, greener and slower than the courses they have come to expect in Britain.

Donley agrees to terms with Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have signed 12 of their 14 draft picks, with second-round pick Doug Donley the latest to ink a contract, a spokesman for the National Football League club says.

Third-round selection Glen Tipton, an offensive tackle, also contracted with the club Tuesday, said spokesman Doug Todd.

Donley, a wide receiver from Ohio State, was expected to arrive at training camp today. He said he asked for a three-year contract, the Cowboys offered five, and "we went down the middle for four."

"We got what we wanted," he said. "I'm very pleased."

Cowboys vice president Gil Brandt hinted the club did not stray far from their original offers to Donley and Tipton. "But we're not so inflexible that we won't give up a few thousand dollars to get a player signed," he said.

Cowboy officials earlier had said that negotiations with Donley had reached an impasse.

Jack Mills, Donley's Denver-based agent, said Brandt called Donley Sunday night and told him the talks were off.

"He called up Doug and his dad and wished them luck in whatever Doug planned to do," Mills said. "Gil said we wouldn't be talking any more. I don't know if Gil is playing a game or what."

Donley was supposed to report to the Cowboys training camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., with the rest of the rookies Monday. He failed to show up then.

A lineup of 100 rookies and three second-year players will continue twice-daily workouts today at the Cowboy's Thousand Oaks training facilities, Todd said.

Abilene Northeastern romps

ABILENE — The Abilene Northeastern All-Stars walloped the Big Spring All-Stars 20-1 in the 13-year old District Senior League Tournament Tuesday night.

Abilene scored five runs in the first inning and never looked back.

The Big Springers only run came when Stacy Kilgore plated Jimmy Rogers in the second inning.

Labor Secretary moves in on baseball talks as Prexy cheers

NEW YORK (AP) — With President Reagan cheering from the sidelines, Labor Secretary Ray Donovan is coming off the bench and joining talks aimed at ending the 34-day-old major league baseball strike.

"I think we're getting very near a settlement," baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Tuesday as officials announced that Donovan would appear at today's bargaining session.

Donovan planned to accompany federal mediator Kenneth Moffett at talks this afternoon in New York. Talks broke off Saturday after the club owners rejected a settlement proposal drawn up by Moffett.

The secretary is deeply concerned about the economic impact that the strike is having on many American cities," said Donovan aide Earl Cox. The 24 cities with major league teams have lost 392 of the 2,106 scheduled regular-season games.

President Reagan, who was a play-by-play announcer for the Chicago Cubs years ago, said Tuesday that he'd like to see the strike settled soon.

"I agree with Samuel Gompers, who created the American Federation of Labor, who said, 'Anytime there's a strike, there's a breakdown in communications,'" Reagan said. Donovan was to open today's negotiations by making a statement but didn't plan to stay for the entire session, Moffett said.

"I believe Mr. Donovan's presence at this meeting will emphasize the importance of bringing this dispute to a conclusion," Moffett said. He and Cox said that if the new round of talks fails, Donovan would summon representatives of both sides to Washington for intensive bargaining.

The strike by the Major League Players Association began June 12 over the type of compensation a team should be awarded when it loses a free agent, a player whose contractual obligation to the team has ended.

The club owners had imposed a system under which a team that lost a free agent to another team would be permitted to take a player from the second team. The team getting the free agent was allowed to take some of its players out of contention, but the rest were fair game.

The players objected, saying such a system made owners reluctant to hire free agents and therefore threatened the players' mobility.

As a compromise, Moffett proposed limiting the instances in which teams would have to provide compensation for free agents.

In an interview aired on the CBS network, Kuhn said Tuesday that he believed the club owners had made a "significant step forward in their rewrite" of Moffett's proposal last week.

Kuhn said he was looking at a number of ways to resume the season once the strike ends, including the possibility of a round-robin tournament.

Czechs causing NHL uproar

CHICAGO (AP) — A proposal for settlement of a three-team conflict which grew out of the signing of two Czechoslovakian hockey players by the Vancouver Canucks was taken under consideration Tuesday by National Hockey League President John Ziegler.

The hearing has been adjourned to a later date. A proposal for settlement was made to the president for consideration," an NHL spokesman said Tuesday following two days of meetings. "There will be no further comment by any involved party until the president has acted upon the proposal."

The special hearings involve Vancouver's signing of Czechs Jiri Bublana and Ivan Hlinka, after the two players had been drafted by Colorado and Winnipeg respectively.

When Vancouver announced the signings, Ziegler immediately declared them null and void.

UT steals another coach

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — For the second time in two days, a member of the University of Tennessee women's athletic staff has resigned to take a job with the University of Texas.

Claudia Woody, Tennessee assistant women's athletic director, resigned Tuesday to become director of special projects for the women's athletic department at Texas.

On Monday, Jill Rankin, a graduate assistant and former women's basketball standout at Tennessee, accepted a job as assistant coach of Texas' Lady Longhorns basketball team. Rankin is from Texas.

Woody said she was leaving Tennessee to advance her career in sports administration.

Brazile, Oilers ink through '86

HOUSTON (AP) — Robert Brazile, the Houston Oilers' five-time Pro Bowl

linebacker who walked out of camp last year in a contract dispute, has signed a contract extension through the 1986 season, ending more than 12 months of negotiations.

Brazile reported to the Oiler training camp last year but left on Aug. 5 when the Oilers refused to renegotiate his contract, which extended through the 1982 season.

The Oilers also refused to renegotiate All-Pro running back Earl Campbell's contract earlier this year, based on a team policy of not renegotiating contracts, according to Oiler General Manager Ladd Herzog.

Foyt changes to CART

BROOKLYN, Mich. (AP) — A $500,000 prize and the love of racing has drawn four-time Indianapolis 500 winner A.J. Foyt into the Championship Auto Racing Teams Inc. fold in time for Sunday's Norton Michigan 500.

"Really, the biggest thing is that I like to go racing," Foyt said Tuesday as he ended his two-year holdout as a CART driver.

Foyt, who won the United States Auto Club-sponsored Pocono 500 last month, also said he joined CART because "It's good for my sponsors for me to be there." His sponsor is Jim Gilmore, of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Foyt had requested to be entered in the race on his USAC permit. However, CART officials denied the request, forcing Foyt to join their group in order to race on Sunday.

The race at Michigan International Speedway is expected to draw more than 65,000 fans to the two-mile oval.

It will mark Foyt's first appearance in a CART race since the association split with USAC more than two years ago.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JULY 16, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early morning is the best time of the day to make long-range plans for the future. Make sure you are in control of your emotions so that you don't become involved in arguments.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have to exercise more care in business deals now to avoid possible trouble. Take steps to improve your health.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put your ideas to work that could prove profitable at this time. Take treatments that will make you healthier.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Good day to put your house in order, even if it means more effort and extra work on your part. Buy appliances you need.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use more care in travel to avoid possible accident. Be diplomatic in handling a civic affair.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make changes in your budget so that you have less expense. Study practical ways to improve conditions in your environment.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your appearance well and know where to make improvements. Use your good judgment instead of relying on others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Concentrate on private matters that need your attention at this time. Make the evening a happy one. Be wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Think about doing more for your true friends instead of expecting more from them now. Show others that you have wisdom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have to be very careful you do nothing to injure your reputation since adverse aspects are in effect now.

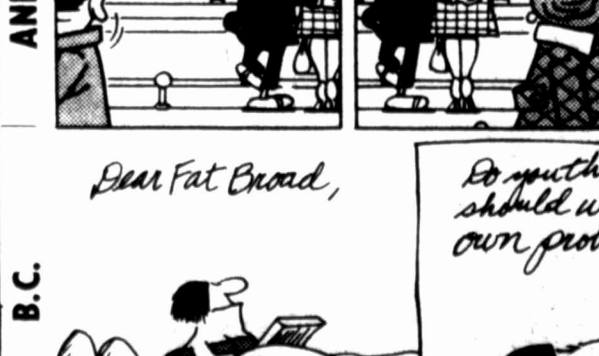

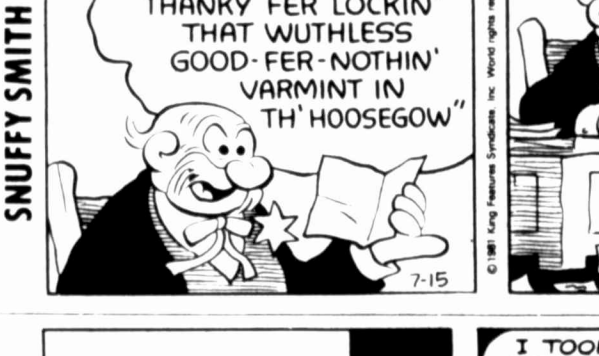

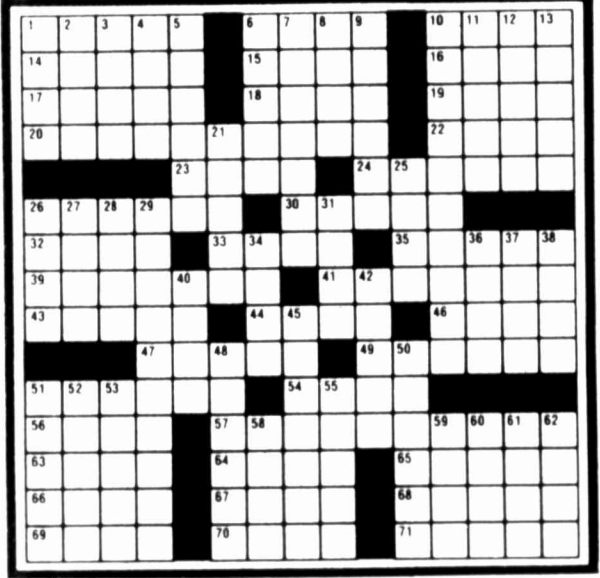

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 30) Plan time for obtaining facts and figures for a new project you have in mind or you could lose out before you start.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 31 to Feb. 19) Be more businesslike in handling finances and safeguard your interests. Strive for more harmony at home.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) It may be necessary to have long discussions with associates if you wish to work more harmoniously in the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will could be very fussy and finicky, so to counteract this, teach to understand the motivations of others. Ideal chart for the researcher and the laboratory worker. Be sure to plan for a college education.

Dine Out At Home With a PORCH PICNIC

On a summer's day, move your ferns and plants out to the porch as a lovely setting for a carefree picnic. It's only a short trip to the kitchen for food prepared at your own easy pace.

While some diners cook their kabobs, others can nibble on fruit with refreshing lemon yogurt dip or well seasoned, sour cream shrimp dip. Vegetable Sandwich Loaf, with its grain and vegetable foods combined, is designed to be part of the main course with the kabobs. The loaf can be grilled or oven-baked.

For kabobs, tenderize economical pot roast by marinating in buttermilk before threading on skewers with colorful vegetables. Beef is easily cut in thin strips if partially frozen.

There are two dessert options: strawberry ice cream in a brownie crust, made in advance except for the whipped cream topping, or colorful ice cream-sherbet shakes made as they're requested. All the dairy foods made this a gloriously simple picnic for celebrating June Dairy Month.

When you shop, look for the "REAL" Seal to identify genuine dairy products. When you get home, use the real product in a recipe from "The Wonderful World Of Real Dairy Foods." Included in the 16-page, four color booklet are recipes for tasty appetizers, vegetable and fruit dishes, salads, main dishes, desserts and beverages. To receive your copy, send 35 cents ($35 in coin to American Dairy Association, Dept. RB-RDF, Box 721, Rosemont, Illinois 60018.

LEMON FRUIT DIP

Yield: approx. 2 cups
 1 cup cottage cheese
 1 carton (8 oz.) lemon yogurt
 1-3 cup chopped salted cashew nuts
 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
 Whole strawberries
 Pineapple spears
 Honeydew melon spears
 Watermelon wedges
 Orange slices, halved
 Beat cottage cheese in small mixing bowl on high speed of mixer until almost smooth, about 5 minutes. Stir in yogurt, nuts and lemon peel. Chill, covered, 1 to 2 hours to allow flavors to blend. Serve with strawberries, pineapple and honeydew melon spears, watermelon wedges and orange slices as dippers.

ZIPPY SHRIMP-CUCUMBER DIP

Yield: approx. 2 cups
 1 can (drained wt. 4 1/2 oz.) medium shrimp, rinsed, drained and minced
 1/4 cup peeled, seeded, shredded and well drained cucumber
 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
 2 teaspoons grated onion
 1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon chili powder
 3 to 4 drops hot pepper sauce
 1 cup dairy sour cream
 Assorted raw vegetables
 Combine all ingredients except sour cream and vegetables in a small mixing bowl. Gently fold in sour cream. Chill, covered, 1 to 2 hours to allow flavors to blend. Serve with assorted raw vegetables as dippers.

VEGETABLE SANDWICH LOAF

6 to 8 servings
 1 pound loaf Vienna bread, unsliced
 1 egg
 1 cup dairy sour cream
 2 cups soft bread crumbs
 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
 1 can (16 oz.) bean sprouts, rinsed and well drained
 1 cup shredded carrots
 1 cup thinly sliced zucchini, cut into squares
 1/2 cup chopped celery
 1-3 cup chopped green onion with top
 1-3 cup chopped pimiento-stuffed green olives
 4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
 4 slices (4 oz.) sliced Provolone cheese, each cut in half
 2 tablespoons butter, melted
 Cut a slice from top of bread; reserve for cover. Scoop bread from inside of loaf, using fingers, leaving about 1 inch on sides and bottom. (Use this for soft bread crumbs). Beat egg in large mixing bowl; fold in sour cream. Stir in crumbs and seasonings. Add bean sprouts, carrot, zucchini, celery, green onion, olives and eggs. Fill loaf with 2-3 of vegetable mixture. Overlap slices of cheese. Top with remaining vegetable mixture and top piece of bread. Brush with melted butter. Wrap in heavy duty aluminum foil, sealing edges well. Grill over medium hot coals until heated through, about 45 minutes.

turning several times. Slice and serve as a knife-and-fork sandwich.
NOTE: Sandwich, wrapped in foil may be heated in preheated 425 degree F. oven for about 30 minutes.

BUTTERMILK MARINATED KABOBS

Yield: 8 kabobs
MARINADE:
 2 tablespoons firmly packed brown sugar
 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 2 cups buttermilk
KABOBS:

2 1/2 pounds arbonne pot roast, approx. 1 1/4 inches thick
 Small yellow onions
 Green pepper squares, approx. 1 1/2 inches
 Firm cherry tomatoes
 Large fresh mushrooms
 Place meat in freezer until partially frozen, about 2 hours. Remove from freezer and immediately cut crosswise into 1/2-inch thick strips; set aside. For marinade, combine brown sugar, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce and salt in a shallow dish. Stir in buttermilk. Add meat; cover and marinate in refrigerator 24 hours. For kabobs, parboil onions in boiling water to cover 6 to 8 minutes; rinse in cold water and drain. Parboil green pepper squares in boiling water to cover 1 to 2 minutes; rinse with cold water and drain. To assemble kabob, loop pieces of meat on skewer, placing vegetable between meat loops. Brush kabobs with marinade. Grill over hot coals until meat reaches desired degree of doneness, turning every 5 minutes and brushing with marinade. Allow approximately 15 minutes for medium-done meat.

Follow manufacturers' recommendations for placement of coals. Kabobs may also be cooked in the broiler. Broil 4 to 6 inches from source of heat for approximately 12 to 14 minutes, turning half way through cooking time and brushing with marinade.

NEAPOLITAN ICE CREAM PIE

CREAM PIE
One 9-inch pie
BROWNIE CRUST:
 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
 1 cup sugar
 2 eggs, separated
 2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled
 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
 1/4 teaspoon salt

FILLING:
 2 pints strawberry ice cream, softened
 1 cup whipping cream
 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
 1/4 teaspoon almond extract
 1/2 cup toasted sliced almonds
 Preheat oven to 325 degrees F. For brownie crust, cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks; mix well. Stir in chocolate and vanilla. Blend in flour and salt. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; fold into chocolate mixture. Spread batter in a buttered 9-inch pie plate. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool completely. Spread ice cream in "well" of crust. Return to freezer 2 to 3 hours or until firm. Just before serving, combine whipping cream, sugar and extracts; whip until stiff. Fold in almonds. Spread over ice cream. Serve immediately.

STRAWBERRY-LIME SHAKE

Yield: approx. 6 cups
 1 pint lime sherbet, softened
 1 can (6 oz.) frozen limeade concentrate, thawed
 1 cup mashed strawberries
 3 cups cold milk
 1 pint lime sherbet
 Whole strawberries, if desired
 Place 1 pint lime sherbet and concentrate in blender container; cover. Blend until smooth. Add strawberries; blend until combined. Gradually blend in milk. Pour into tall chilled glasses; top each with a small scoop of lime sherbet and a whole strawberry. Serve immediately.

WHOLE WHEAT SCONES

Yield: 18
 1 cup all-purpose flour
 1 cup whole wheat flour
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
 6 tablespoons butter
 1/2 cup buttermilk
 1 egg, slightly beaten
 Preheat oven to 425 degrees F. Combine flours, baking powder, salt and soda. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Combine

RIDING HIGH — Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., rides in the saddle of a mechanical bull at a recent party at the home of Secretary of Labor Raymond J. Donovan in McLean, Va. The 78-year-old senator, who grew up on a farm commented, "I'm accustomed to riding bull calves."

Think tank examines future of Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Think tanks are a growth industry in Washington. They come in varying sizes and ideological hues. They commission studies, offer haven to economists and administrators who come and go from government with shifts in power.

Some produce ideas that take hold. Some produce paper. They operate on the outskirts of politics, as tax-exempt, educational organizations. But it takes office-holding politicians to translate the propositions they generate into programs and action.

Now there's a think tank devoted to pointing the Democratic Party in new directions by generating ideas to serve liberal objectives in what seems a conservative era.

The Center for Democratic Policy is bent on writing a new agenda for liberalism, in a party that discovered its lease on power was ending.

"Democrats for the past 40 years have been running against Herbert Hoover and for Franklin Roosevelt," says Ted Van Dyk, president of the center. He helped four Democrats run for president.

Now, out of the White House and halfway out of power in Congress, Democrats have to build a new policy base, Van Dyk said. That's what his outfit is going to try to deliver. It won't be easy.

Van Dyk sees the economy, with the emphasis on inflation, and the decentralization of government power as the two major issues of the day. He also sees the Democrats in trouble on both, unless they can come up with some new answers.

Democrats were in charge while deficits and inflation soared. They are identified, Van Dyk says, with "big, centralized bureaucratic federal government," which is what most voters don't want.

He talks about, in effect, a conservative approach to reach liberal goals. To an extent, that's what Jimmy Carter tried unsuccessfully.

But Van Dyk says the new center can come up with fresh ideas for Democrats, ideas he claims will start to show up in the 1982 congressional campaigns. The center has just commissioned its first set of studies, on wages, prices, taxes and economic productivity.

California fruit still unwelcome in Texas

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — California fruits and vegetables will be unwelcome in Texas unless they are fumigated or certified free of the Mediterranean fruit fly, says Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown.

Brown said the quarantine would be effective at noon Monday, with all produce trucks being stopped at Texas' borders.

"This plan is imposed to protect the Texas produce industry," Brown announced Tuesday.

Brown, who is president of the Southern Association of State Departments of Agriculture, said he discussed the blockade with agriculture officials in seven other Southern states and most indicated their support.

His office said later if any other states had ordered blockades also.

Brown said trucks carrying produce and plants from California counties not under the present U.S. Department of Agriculture quarantine would be allowed to enter Texas if certified by California officials that the fruit came from a county free of Mediterranean fruit flies.

Any shipments from such areas without certification must be fumigated at state agriculture facilities in El Paso.

No Medflies in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — If Mediterranean fruit flies come to Florida more than 13,000 checkpoints are geared up to detect the destructive insects, but so far none has been spotted.

Florida agriculture agents are continuing to inspect truckloads of fruits and vegetables from California, but state officials report no indication of any infestation yet.

"Everything has been negative so far," Hal Jones, director of the state Department of Agriculture's Plant Industries Division, said Tuesday.

Florida Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner had not issued an emergency order to quarantine California produce as of Tuesday night.

County jail codes are only enforced by nagging

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — There are 241 jails in Texas, most of them substandard, where thousands of people who are never tried for a crime are locked up.

Only 89 Texas counties have jails that meet the 600 requirements set by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards.

"It's a question of educating county authorities that you've got to have a good jail," said Bob Viterna, commission executive director. "If you're going to lock someone up, you've got to lock them up constitutionally."

That caveat is made more serious by the fact that most county jail inmates are not convicted criminals. Statistics show that 70 percent of the people hauled into a county jail will never even be tried, Viterna said. Only 10 percent will be convicted of crimes that lead to further punishment.

For all its rules and regulations, the nine member commission can do little to make counties comply. It has the ultimate power to order a non-complying jail closed, but it never has and doesn't plan to. Thirteen counties have closed their own jails and ship their prisoners to neighboring counties.

The county jails get no state money, so the commission cannot threaten to cut off funds.

That leaves enforcement by nagging.

"If you keep writing them a nagging wife can get her husband to do anything. I nag them to death," said Viterna.

Before 1976, county jails were regulated by a vague state law that required them to be "safe, secure, sanitary and suitable." The broad statute left most jails open to lawsuits. When the commission went to work, 40 percent of the county jails were involved in federal litigation.

"You only lose when you go to federal court," said Viterna. County jails are receiving more attention today because of a federal judge's ruling that Texas prisons violate inmates' constitutional rights. The long court battle could lead to a ceiling on prison population.

That would mean convicts would have to stay in the county jails, many of which are also overcrowded and not equipped to handle long-term inmates.

Charles Sullivan of Citizens United for Rehabilitation of Errands, which lobbies for inmates, said county jails across the state generally are better now than they were before the commission started annual inspections.

"They've come a long way, but they've got a long way to go," he said. "I think they need to crack down on some of the rural jails. They've been hesitant about that in the past because there have been moves to do away with the commission, particularly by rural legislators."

"So they've backed off on some of the real hell holes," he said. Sullivan is confident the commission is here to stay and will begin working harder on the small county jails.

Viterna agreed that the bigger problems are in some of the smaller counties. Most of the large counties are building new jails or renovating old ones. Overall, there are 32 new jails under construction and 35 being planned.

Some counties want new jails, but can't afford them. Red River County in North Texas needs a facility that could cost about $400,000. Viterna said it's out of the question for the local agricultural economy.

Viterna said some of the problem jails are the older ones in small counties.

"We still have jails built in the 1920s with gallows. They had a big ring in the stairwell and a trap door. The doors have been welded shut, but the rings are still there," he said.

But old is not necessarily bad. The Blanco County Jail in Johnson City is a turn-of-the-century model that is in compliance with commission standards.

Many of the larger counties are building jails.

Jefferson County's 400-inmate jail is the largest one in the state that meets commission standards.

Harris County will open a 4,000-inmate jail in 1983. Dallas County is spending $42 million on its new facility. Bexar County is making renovations.

In Travis County, work is underway on the scaled-down jail approved by voters. The existing 50-year-old jail holds 273 prisoners. The new jail, scheduled to open in May 1982, will hold one less, but each will have a separate cell.

"It's going to be too small when it opens," said Sheriff Doyle Bailey. "We're going to be in bad shape over there."

Sullivan, who hates to see any jails built, is happy that Travis County is not building a bigger jail.

"We are very excited by the challenge that brings about. It will force the county to come up with alternatives. I think we're going to see a model jail here," he said.

Travis County already is looking for alternatives, and Bailey said they are needed.

"I don't think society is quite caught up with the fact that there are a lot of people who violate laws" but need something other than a county jail to help get them straightened out, he said.

State District Judge Jim Dear is in charge of a local committee looking into the county jail situation.

"This history of jails is that no matter how big you build them, you fill them up," he said. "The voters told us in no uncertain terms how big a jail they want."

The committee will report later this month on its findings. Dear said the report will make recommendations for keeping people out of jail.

Now, everybody who gets arrested goes to jail. Dear and the committee want that changed. Even though Travis County ranks high on early release of county jail inmates, Dear said it's not good enough. Up to one-third of the inmates at any time are waiting for a judge to set bond, he said, and they usually stay two or three days.

"We need a screening system to get people out faster so they don't take up bed space," he said. The committee will recommend a central input to all jails in the county. "Hopefully, we would get to the majority of the people before they ever go to any jail and take them to a magistrate," he said.

Big Spring students win scholarships

SAN ANGELO — Five Angelo State University students from Big Spring are recipients of Carr Academic Scholarships for 1981-82.

Those receiving awards include Michael Evans, $2,000, a transfer student from Howard College; Rita Gonzales, $1,500, a freshman computer science major; Wendy Pagan, $1,500, a freshman mathematics major; Nikki Tidwell, $1,500, a junior accounting major; and Karen Kimble, $1,000, a freshman accounting major.

The scholarships have been awarded to the students on the basis of their outstanding academic record and personal achievements through funds provided by the Robert G. Carr and Nona K. Carr Scholarship Foundation.

These Big Spring students are among more than 400 students who have been selected to receive Carr Academic Scholarships for 1981-82.

This distinctive scholarship program was created by the late Mr. Carr to provide academic scholarships to assist worthy and deserving students to pursue their education at Angelo State.

Lawyers took bizarre Hughes claims seriously

HOUSTON (AP) — Lawyers representing 22 distant relatives of billionaire Howard Hughes say they have to take bizarre claims against the estate by supposed close relatives seriously because Hughes himself was such an eccentric.

"Sure you tend to laugh them off at first. But you have a legal responsibility to your clients to make sure they are not valid claims," Shelton Smith, who represents two cousins who are among the so-called "known heirs" in the 5-year-old battle to inherit the tycoon's fortune, said Tuesday.

Claims of two women who purported to be Hughes' widow and two people who said they were his children were thrown out of court Monday after Probate Judge Pat Gregory ruled when Hughes died his closest surviving relatives were a few cousins. His estate has been estimated at between $180 million and $2 billion.

A woman in a light green dress who said her name was Alma Hughes said she deserves to inherit the fortune because she said Hughes married her in a Dallas hospital in 1973 when she was there for hemorrhoid surgery and he was in for a hair transplant.

She said she bore him a son when she was 64 and mentioned in her deposition that Hughes had 17 midgets working for him.

Another woman claiming to be Hughes' widow, Alyce Hughes, who bustled into court late with an armful of newspaper clippings, photographs and books said she was the rightful heir of the eccentric tycoon because she said he married her twice in 1946. She was shushed by her own attorney as she tried to address the judge directly.

"I think all of these people were probably sincere about their claims. Both wives really believed the stories they were telling," said Smith. "We had extensive investigations done on these people. You have to take them seriously — Howard Hughes did some weird things in his time."

But how weird?

According to Alma Hughes' deposition, he artificially inseminated her when she was 63 after he married her in Baylor Hospital, said Wayne Fisher, the lead attorney for the "known heirs."

Fisher said her deposition also claimed Hughes lost a foot in a plane crash and his autopsy was falsified because it did not mention this, and that he lived apart from Alma Hughes at his own request, she told the court, because "Hughes was awfully rough in bed with his women."

Alyce Hovsepian Hughes fidgeted, wrote notes on a legal pad, fussed with a briefcase, and handed photographs to her lawyer as Fisher went through her deposition.

"She said Mr. Hughes asked her to have two screen tests. In the first one she had to go to a department store and steal a piece of jewelry," Fisher said. "In the second one she said she had to secure advertising in Atlantic City," N.J.

The other two people whose cases were thrown out did not show up Monday.

One, Donald E. McDonald, who said his real name was Richard Robard Hughes, said he was adopted by Hughes in 1953, but Fisher said he was a married man at that time.

The other, Claire Benedict Hudenburg, claimed she was Hughes' illegitimate daughter. But Fisher said her evidence amounts to an alleged physical resemblance and because she lived in a California house once owned by Hughes.

"This claim represents a common thread throughout all these claims. They come from minds controlled by delusion and fantasies," said Fisher.

Wood jury calls wife of hit man

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A federal grand jury again has summoned Joann Starr Harrelson to testify in its investigation into the 1979 assassination of U.S. District Judge John Wood Jr.

Mrs. Harrelson, 41, wife of convicted killer Charles V. Harrelson, could be risking jail if she cites marital privilege and the Fifth Amendment to avoid answering the grand jury's questions.

The grand jury, reported near to a solution of the Wood assassination, was meeting today for the first time since it ended a three-day session on June 19, the day Sessions found Kay in contempt.

She originally was subpoenaed for May 19, but her appearance was delayed because the government filed a motion with Chief U.S. District Judge William Sessions to disqualify Houston attorney Don Ervin as her lawyer.

The government alleged conflict of interest in Ervin representing Harrelson, Mrs. Harrelson and Mrs. Harrelson's daughter simultaneously. But Ervin said the government may abandon that motion and go ahead with attempts to compel Mrs. Harrelson to testify.

Hawks torment Sweetwater's mail carriers

SWEETWATER, Texas, (AP) — Folks in this West Texas town have their mail problem pigeon-holed. It's not soaring postal rates, nine-digit zip codes or a lack of manpower.

It's a trio of dive-bombing birds.

The family of mean-tempered hawks curtailed the town's mail delivery by swooping at the carrier with talons extended, says postman K.T. Williamson.

He said he's been forced to don a hard hat and face mask to resume the mail delivery to several homes that was halted last week by the three ill-mannered hawks.

"The trouble started last year with one of the hawks who kept attacking the carrier. Now this hawk has trained a couple more and it got so bad we had to discontinue service until we came up the hard hat idea," Postmaster Kyle Scarborough said Tuesday.

Scarborough said at first he didn't believe Williamson's tales about diving attacks by the "mean-tempered birds."

"Then I saw them," said Scarborough. "They're a little larger than a pigeon and they are super fast. They circled around while he was looking at them, then when he turned his back, whammo, they swooped down and hit him on the head."

An 83-year-old woman who has lived in Sweetwater for two decades years scoffs at the mail carriers' temerity.

"I've lived here 20 years, and the hawks have never bothered me," said Audrey Martin, a little irritated by the trip she has to make, downtown to pick up her mail.

"I'll meet the mailman in the street if he hawks. Who's scared of a little 'chicken hawk'?"

Scarborough said nothing can be done about the birds, because they are Mississippi Kite Hawks, which are listed as an endangered species, and protected by federal and state regulations.

So to prevent injury, Williamson must don his hard hat and welder's face mask.

"If that doesn't work we'll have to ask residents to put up rural boxes along the road so he can stay in a car on his rounds," the postmaster said.

Three boys suffocated in closet

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP) - Three young boys who disappeared while playing on an apartment house lawn were found suffocated in a blood-splattered linen closet, police say, but authorities apparently are ruling out murder.

When the bodies were found Tuesday night, police initially said they thought the boys had been brutally slain because of the blood and the fact that the bodies were contorted when found in the vacant apartment.

But Waukesha County Coroner Donald Eggum said the blood apparently oozed from the boys trying desperately to escape the closet.

The closet handle had been removed by painters preparing to paint the apartment, and floor carpeting prevented the air from getting into the 2-foot-deep closet, he said.

"That scene was bad enough to make you want to quit this business," Eggum said. "I hope it will be a relief to the community to know it is probably not a homicide."

The boys were discovered by an apartment house manager who told police he used a screwdriver to pry the closet door open.

The victims were in various stages of undress, evidently having removed clothing because it had gotten uncomfortably warm," Eggum said. "I feel they had been in that closet several hours," he said.

Police investigator Robert Horstmeier said it was unclear how the boys got into the apartment, which searchers had been assured was locked.

HUMPHREY BOGART LADY DIANA SPENCER

Bogart, Diana related?

LONDON (AP) — Humphrey Bogart was a distant relative of Lady Diana Spencer, Prince Charles's fiancée, according to the Daily Mail.

The Bogart link, according to the newspaper, begins with the two daughters of a New England farmer named Joseph Morgan, who was baptised at Roxbury, Mass., in 1646 and died at Preston, Conn., 58 years later.

One of the daughters, Martha, is an ancestor of Bogart's mother, the illustrator Maud Humphrey, while the other daughter, Margaret, is an ancestor of Lady Diana's mother, the Daily Mail reported today.

The paper said the link between the royal bride-to-be and the Hollywood star was confirmed by Debetris Peerage, the internationally reputed guide to the aristocracy, although it said the discovery was news to Buckingham Palace.

The paper said Lady Diana also was distantly related to no less than seven U.S. presidents, including George Washington. It quoted a Debetris spokesman as saying: "Again, it is through Lady Diana's great grandmother's good connections with New England families."

Nancy's step-dad honored

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland has a new honorary fellow, and first lady Nancy Reagan is delighted.

She and the president watched proudly Tuesday as the first lady's stepfather, Dr. Loyal Davis of Chicago, was installed as an honorary fellow at a traditional ceremony held in the Irish Embassy.

In an introduction, Sir Ian Fraser, college vice president, said the 86-year-old neurosurgeon has had a distinguished career, including the chairmanship of the Northwestern University Department of Surgery.

Mrs. Reagan's father is also past president of both the American Surgical Association and the American College of Surgeons.

Later, the Reagans joined Davis and his wife at an embassy reception.

Odd to hear opera

PEKING (AP) — American conductor Sarah Caldwell says it will be odd to hear Verdi's opera "La Traviata" sung in Italian now that she's been listening to it in Chinese during a stay in Peking.

"It's going to sound funny in Italian," Miss Caldwell told reporters Tuesday.

Miss Caldwell, director of the Boston Opera Company, said she has been impressed by the Chinese singers' willingness to take new direction. China's Central Opera Company has performed its version of "La Traviata" more than 400 times since 1956, but never before Miss Caldwell's visit under a foreign conductor.

"In this world, it is rare to find people who do what you ask instantly without arguing or having to prove something," she said.

CBS wins rains war for 8th straight week

LOS ANGELES (AP) — CBS' reruns grabbed six of the top 10 slots — including the first three — in last week's A.C. Nielsen ratings to make CBS the most-viewed network for the eighth consecutive week.

During a week in which the highest-rated original program — the ABC newsmagazine "20/20" — came in 12th, CBS' top-rated trio included all reruns of shows dealing with doctors.

"M.A.S.H." led off with a 21.5 percent rating, which according to the networks means 17.2 million households, or 21.5 percent of all 79.9 million American homes with television sets, tuned in to "M.A.S.H."

Following "M.A.S.H." were "House Calls" and "Trapper John, M.D.," with ratings of 20.1 and 19.2 respectively. The other CBS offerings in the top 10 were "The Jeffersons," "Lou Grant" and "60 Minutes."

The network's overall average rating for the week ending July 12 was 13.5, meaning that during an average prime-time minute 13.5 percent of all households were tuned in to CBS. ABC came in second with an average rating of 12.7 and NBC followed with 11.7.

The highest-rated non-CBS program was NBC's "The Facts of Life," in 4th place with a 19.0 rating. ABC's "Three's Company," which the previous week had pushed the perennially popular "M.A.S.H." from the No. 1 slot, was down to fifth place with an 18.8 rating.

Part VII of ABC's "Roots: The Next Generations" occupied the ratings cellar last week, in 66th place with a rating of 5.2 — meaning it was viewed in 4.2 million homes.

The rest of the bottom five were CBS' "The Incredible Hulk," in 62nd place with an 8.8 rating; NBC's "Sanford" — one of few first-run series episodes on the list — in 63rd place, 8.2; NBC's "BJ & the Bear," in 64th place, 7.4; and "CBS Reports: What Shall We Do About Mother," 65th place with a 6.9 rating.

Charges dropped in teen killing of Houston artist

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Prosecutors have dropped charges against a teen-ager accused in the death last fall of a Houston, Texas, woman.

Epherion Williams, 17, was arrested with two companions about a week after the Sept. 24 slaying of artist Melanie Asquith, who was shot as she and a friend walked near the city's downtown Rivergate convention center.

Williams and co-defendants Lawrence C. Johnson, 27, and Kenneth Robinson, 21, confessed to participating in the killing, police said.

But District Judge Jerome Winsberg ordered their confessions suppressed because prosecutors could not prove the statements were voluntarily given.

Williams claimed that officers rammed his head through a wall during questioning.

Police officers said the hole was made more than a year ago when furniture was re-arranged.

Police who investigated the case and quizzed the suspects denied brutalizing anyone, but photographs showed that Robinson was wounded over his right eye while in custody and before being booked at the Central Lockup.

Coming soon '1984'

CHICAGO (AP) — Marvin Rosenblum has seen the future, and he wants a piece of it — 1984 to be precise.

It struck him as an idea whose time is coming, an idea sparked one day in 1979 when Rosenblum scanned his library and spotted the volume "1984" by British author George Orwell.

To Rosenblum, a 38-year-old attorney who believes timing is everything, the leap from the book to the silver screen seemed a natural. With the year 1984 drawing near and the thought that someone else might also be thinking of movie rights, he asked himself, "Why not Rosenblum?"

It was not a presumptuous question.

This is the same Rosenblum who, while a law student at the University of Chicago, dreamed up and marketed the Spiro Agnew wristwatch.

The same Rosenblum who came up with the idea (it never did pan out) of having 4 million people across the country link hands simultaneously as the ultimate expression of Bicentennial fever.

At the beginning, this latest idea seemed doomed to similar failure. Rosenblum could not find a copy of the original 1956 movie, which starred Edmund O'Brien and Jan Sterling as the doomed lovers Winston and Julia. He had not known that Orwell's widow, Sonia — said to be unhappy with the film — had withdrawn all prints from circulation in 1976, when the license expired.

Rosenblum next tried to find the agent for Orwell's estate. He had no luck until February 1980, when he contacted agent Robin Dalton in California and flew out after a brief conversation.

"She agreed to press my case with the right people," he said.

The "right people" turned out to be the author's widow herself, in failing health in England. In August 1980, he flew to London to lunch with Mrs. Orwell. He sensed that his goal was near.

But Mrs. Orwell at first demanded complete creative control, "which would have made any deal untenable," recalled Rosenblum, "and I knew she wouldn't relinquish it to anyone that she didn't trust. She is very protective of his work."

Rosenblum, however, was prepared. Before the meeting, he read almost everything Orwell had written and underwent some intensive "briefing" by University of Chicago professor Sanford Schwarz. He finished the final volume of Orwell's journals just before stepping off the plane in London.

"The discussion was like squeezing water out of a sponge. Everything I had soaked up, I discussed with her. I found out later that she told people I was the first person who really did his homework," Rosenblum said.

"After trying to convince her that I had read his books and come to some understanding of his vision, I cited an obscure essay he had written on the cinema.

"The premise was to get the message — his message — out to as many people as possible," he continued. "The cinema afforded that chance, and once I assured her that I didn't envision the movie as a special-effects extravaganza, or a glib production, I think we reached an understanding."

Shortly after Thanksgiving last year, Mrs. Orwell phoned him to say she would sign a contract. With a British notary public in tow, and arrangements made to register the contract at the U.S. Embassy in London, Rosenblum concluded his odyssey Dec. 1, 1980, at Mrs. Orwell's bedside.

She died nine days later.

Orwell's "1984" was first published in 1949, an unsettling essay in the quiet readjustment period following World War II.

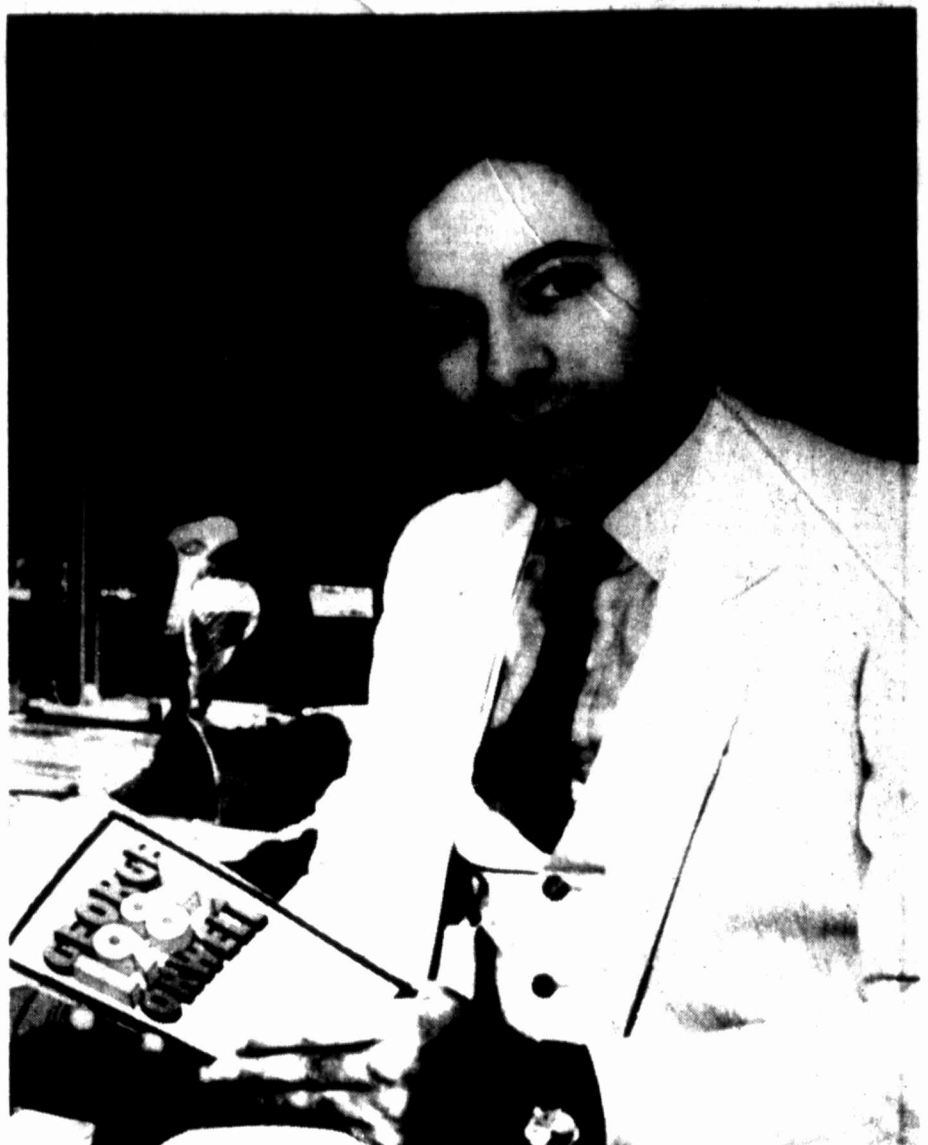

Remarkable for its prophetic depiction of a society controlled and manipulated through technology undreamed of at the time it was written, "1984" fast became a catchword in the language, a symbol of vague fears of totalitarianism. "Big Brother is Watching You," the slogan on the omnipresent posters in the "1984" society, became a tense joke in a world where government surveillance grew along with technology.

If timing is everything, the movie project can't miss — Rosenblum has targeted December 1983 or January 1984 as the release date. Owning the movie rights, however, is no guarantee that Rosenblum's version of Orwell's disturbing vision will end up on film.

He is busy now putting together the "package," trying to line up a director and a writer, deciding whether to offer it to a studio or go the independent route.

"I know of no other industry that continues to operate with something like a 70 percent failure rate," Rosenblum said of moviemaking. "And...you're depending on the mood of some 10 million moviegoers. If you subscribe to the premise that you want to reach the most people, the aim is not to make an art film. We're not trying to recreate literary excellence in the cinema. They are different mediums."

Still, he mused, "Whenever you start with a classic book, you have a leg up on making a classic film...The point is that there, but for good government, go we."

ROSENBLUM'S RIGHTS — Marvin Rosenblum scans a copy of the novel "1984" in his Chicago office recently. Rosenblum bought the movie rights to George Orwell's novel last year, and is working to put the story on the screen by 1984.

General scholarships being offered by Howard College

The Financial Aids Office at the Howard County Junior College District, in Big Spring, is asking that persons wishing to attend HJC/D in the Fall come in now and complete an application for general scholarships, announced Ann Duncan, financial aids director.

"The Financial Aids Office has applications for miscellaneous scholarships," said Duncan. "We would like to encourage all students interested in receiving a scholarship to come by our office and complete the one-page application."

The monies for these scholarships come from clubs, organizations, and memorial scholarships. The form enables the financial aids office to suggest and recommend students for one of these scholarships to the various donors.

"Students who have already applied for financial aid will be eligible for these scholarships as well as those students who may not qualify for federal need based aid," said Duncan.

For additional information, contact the Financial Aids Office at 915-267-6311, extension 32.
