Shaw, Monahans rep paired in same district

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

With less than eight hours to go before its midnight deadline, the Legislative Redistricting Board voted 4-1 Wednesday to adopt new House districts that includes the pairing of Reps. Larry Don Shaw, Big Spring Democrat and Jerry Cockerham, Monahans Republican.

The new plan will force Shaw to choose between running against Cockerham in a district that favors Cockerham or moving to a new district or not running for re-election.

The new district — District 69 — is composed of the following counties: Howard, Borden, Glasscock, Reagan, Upton, Crane, Winkler, Ward, Loving, Reeves, Jeff David, Hudspeth and Culberson.

Shaw retains Howard and Borden from his former district, while Cockerham retains Crane, Winkler, Ward, Loving and Reeves which tilts the district race in Cockerham's favor, according to Shaw.

According to reports from the Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau Shaw made an unsuccessful last-minute, behind the scenes effort to stave off being paired with Cockerham. He said the reason for the pairing was because he had remained independent of Speaker Billy Clayton's "team" politics.

Shaw had told The Herald earlier he was confident that if Clayton's redistricting plan was accepted by the board it would not stand up in the courts. Shaw said he believes the plan violates the voting rights act.

Attorney General Mark White, a member of the redistricting board, said he believes both the House and Senate plans fulfill federal law.

The plan, as adopted, should allow for the election of at least three or four more black and brown legislators because of pro-minority requirements under the federal Voting Rights Act.

Shaw said Howard County's community of interest goes north rather than west and he would have preferred the pairing arranged for him by the Clayton team in last spring's regular legislative session.

That would have put him with Rep. Bill Healy of Paducah, the Dean of the House with 28 years of service. But the Texas Supreme Court threw out the legislature's statewide plan for cutting across too many boundary lines. That ruling sent the House redistricting chore to the special five member board.

The legislative redistricting board was composed of Speaker Billy Clayton, L. Gov. Bill Hobby, Attorney General, Mark White, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and Comptroller Bob Bullock. Clayton and Bullock drafted two plans for the House. Clayton managed to garner support from three of the board members while Bullock remained loyal to his plan.

Clayton won board support for most of his House plan in rural districts although he had to accept some changes in urban areas designed to help Democrats and minorities.

The new plan cuts only 17 county lines across the state. All of them are deemed to be necessary in order to meet population and-or Voting Rights Act requirements.

The board's House plan puts nine pairs of incumbents in the same district, but not all of those paired are planning to seek re-election. The board gave important consideration in both the House and Senate plans to a plan placing two incumbents in the same district.

While Clayton's plan mostly paired incumbents who haven't been prominent members of his team during his four terms as speaker, he did have to put two friends together in the same district: Gary Thompson and Walter Grubbs, both Abilene Democrats.

Clayton wanted to pair Healy and Foster Whaley of Pampa, but Attorney General White opposed pairing Healy because of his long tenure. That forced Clayton to put Thompson and Grubbs together.

RELAXING EVENING — The mummy and the lady in the coffin, better known as Felecia Ford and Esmeralda Franco, spend a typical night at home relaxing after a hectic day of pre-Halloween activities. Capital improvement projects expected to get rolling soon

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

Capital improvement projects for the city of Big Spring should be under way in the near future as a result of action taken by the city council last night.

The council accepted the bid of an Odessa construction company to perform water and sewer projects included in the first phase of the city's five-year capital improvements program.

Councilmen learned, however, that bond revenue to be used to finance the sewer improvements will fall short of the cost of the improvements.

Bennett Reeves, an engineer with the Lubbock firm drafting the city's capital improvements program, told the council the city would fall about $5,300 short in sewer projects financing.

"We suggest the city loan this amount to this project until the next sewer bonds are sold," Reeves said in a letter to the council.

A 15-inch sewer line project on Columbia was omitted from the contract to be signed with Clouse in order to trim the deficit on sewer projects down to $5,300.

Each company submitted two bids for water works improvements in the Washington Place neighborhood, since the city has been exploring two possibilities for doing the work in that area: replacing faulty water lines in their existing easements behind the homes and relocating the lines to the streets in front of the homes.

After a public hearing in which Washington Place homeowners urged the council to repair the lines and leave them in place — even if it meant surrendering a foot or two of private property to an expanded easement — the council began to think in terms of the plan to leave the lines in place.

Clouse's bid for this alternative was $254,289, compared with a $295,307.50 bid from Panhandle Construction Co. of Lubbock.

Formal consent from the approximately 125 property owners in Washington Place is expected to be obtained in two or three weeks, at which time the city hopes Clouse can begin construction work.

In other business, the council announced its intention to put to bid the lease rights for oil and gas production on about 400 acres of city property at Moss Creek Lake.

The council learned last month that the current lease with a Midland drilling concern was due to expire Oct. 26. The council was prepared to rush through a resolution announcing a new lease was being sought. But after Councilman Larry Miller remarked that Griffin and Burnett Inc. — the lease holder — might strike it rich in the closing weeks of their lease, the council decided to let the lease expire before it sought a renewal.

When the matter came up before the council last night, Miller also remarked that it made sense to include a requirement for specific drilling commitments in the bids submitted. Councilman Robert Fuller suggested the bids state drilling would begin within a certain time period, such as six months.

The council then pondered when to date the six months from: after clearing title or after payment of the bonus (the up-front money the lease holder pays the city).

It was decided to require that drilling commence within six months after title clearance, and that the bonus payment be made upon signing a contract with the city.

In other action, the council formally approved the dispensation of a $25,590 state grant to the Police Department Major Crimes Task Force. The grant will cover 40 percent of the annual budget of the task force, now in its third year of existence, said Police Chief Elwood Hoherz.

Hoherz told the council the grant would represent a savings since the grant was not budgeted for the current fiscal year.

The council next went on record in support of two constitutional amendments which Texans will vote on Tuesday. The council endorsed Proposition 1, which it said provides "an unparalleled opportunity for revitalizing the rundown and unproductive areas of our communities." The proposition would create tax incentives for improvements in commercial and industrial zones of Texas cities.

Councilman Jack Y. Smith hedged at supporting the proposition — "I can see this being good for a big city," he said, "but for a city the size of Big Spring" it might not be financially prudent — but later joined the rest of the council in endorsing the measure.

The council also endorsed Proposition 4, the water trust fund amendment. City Manager Don Davis pointed out to the council that passage of Prop. 4 would enable Big Spring to get a better bond rating which would facilitate some water projects scheduled within the five-year capital improvements program. Specifically, Davis said, Prop. 4 could help finance the construction of a "fourth pressure plane."

The fourth pressure plane is a $1.1 million project to increase water pressure to the higher sections of the Highland South neighborhood.

Two men accused of murder freed on bail

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

Two men suspected of murder in a double homicide at a westside bar Tuesday night were released on bond from the Howard County Sheriff's Office Wednesday.

The men — Rudolfo Sandoval Jimenez and Benito Albarado Marquez — were released after each posted a $50,000 bond set by Judge Lewis Hefflin.

Jimenez, of 1603 Robin, and Marquez, of 2602 Carlton, are suspects in the slayings of Clarence Yanez of 704 N.W. Fifth and Benedicto Yanez, reportedly of Louisiana, at the Water Hole No. 3, a tavern on West Highway 80.

The men have not been formally charged with a crime in connection with the incident, officials said this morning, pending further police investigation of the slayings.

The Yanezes were found shot to death in the bar at about 11 p.m. after a fight broke out in the bar, according to police.

It's believed that the suspects may have been trying to break up a fight between the Yanezes and a man who was stabbed by one of the Yanezes, sources have told The Herald.

Jimenez is the owner of Water Hole No. 3, several sources have told The Herald.

Part of the investigation to be completed by police is the result of an autopsy on the Yanezes ordered by Hefflin, who pronounced the men dead at the scene.

Police recovered two weapons at the scene of the shootings: a Colt Python .357 magnum and a Colt .45 automatic, detective Lt. George Quintero, said.

Jimenez and Marquez were apprehended inside the bar after witnesses pointed them out to police, Quintero said.

Marquez is the father of a young woman who died of an apparent hit-and-run two miles north of town on Snyder Highway in January, said Sheriff's Deputy Bill Shankles. He said he didn't think there was a connection between the death of Cindy Marquez Machado and the arrest of her father. The sheriff's office continues to investigate the girl's death, which was "a hit-and-run, in my opinion," said Shankles.

Bond for Marquez was made by Thompson & Hamby, while bond for Jimenez was made by Jack Thompson and R.G. Jimenez, according to sheriff's office records.

Amendment 5 provides Texas livestock owners tax break

AUSTIN — Cattle and farm associations want Texans to give

SIGN LANGUAGE

Notice Karl's left hand, shaped in the form of the letter "S."

To sign "yes," shake the right or left "S" up and down in front of you. Agreement may also be shown by shaking the right or left "Y" up and down.

Dr. Lottie L. Rieckhof in "The Joy of Signing," says the origin of the sign for "yes" was the fist, representing the head, nodding in agreement.

them a tax break in the Nov. 3 constitutional amendments election.

The proposal would exempt livestock and poultry from ad valorem, or property, taxes.

The Texas Constitution stipulates that "farm products in the hands of the producer are exempt from all taxation." But in 1976, former Attorney General John Hill ruled that livestock and poultry are not farm products.

Supporters of the amendment say without the tax relief, farmers and ranchers will be forced out of business and meat prices will continue to soar.

"Without passage of Proposition 5, which could remove such taxes, we fear that some Texas meat producers may conclude that they cannot afford to remain in that business," said Rep. Susan McBee of Del Rio, sponsor of the bill during the last legislative session.

"Then, we'll see a drop in production, meaning eventual increases in consumer prices," she said. Meat is the only food presently taxed in the state, she said.

In most cases, the exemption would shift the burden to other taxpayers within each taxing unit.

But advocates of Constitutional Amendment 5 say the additional burden picked up by other taxpayers would be negligible because most tax entities do not bother to collect on livestock anyway.

School districts don't tax at least 81 percent of the market value of a tax category that includes livestock, according to the State Property Tax Board. So the districts would not be losing much money, because taxes from livestock and poultry are not collected presently, supporters of the amendment say.

But Dr. Floyd Meyers, president of the Texas Association of School Boards, says the exemption would put some rural districts in the Texas Panhandle in trouble.

"They (Farmers and ranchers) have a problem and I understand that," Meyers said. "But I've got a little bit of a problem, too."

"The elderly, the veterans, the timber people and homeowners all have tax exemptions," Meyers said. "If you're going to have a tax base, how are you going to do it with all these exemptions?"

School districts in the Panhandle that count heavily on livestock as part of their tax base already are figuring their loss.

Livestock property taxes comprise about 12 percent of Herford Independent School District's tax base in Deaf Smith County.

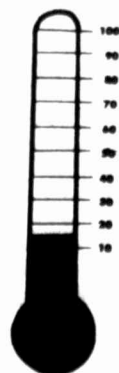

Although school districts have a chance to recoup some of the tax loss should the amendment pass, there is no provision in the law for counties to make up revenue other than to raise taxes, said Harrel Holber, superintendent of Herford Independent

HOUSTON (AP) — A 22-year-old rock fan was stabbed to death during an argument about food at the Rolling Stones concert here, police said today.

Police arrested a 16-year-old suspect at a hotel near the Astrodome, where the Stones were performing the first of two shows Wednesday night. Neither the victim nor the suspect was identified.

Witnesses told police the two men had been arguing about a dish of nachos when the teen-ager pulled a knife. Police, who checked concert-goers for weapons, said they did not know how the teen-ager managed to sneak the knife inside.

'Eerie glow' a reflection?

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard says the white "eerie glow" spotted two nights over Galveston Island probably was a reflection of an offshore oil rig fire.

Police and the Coast Guard were besieged Monday and Tuesday nights by phone calls from residents who spotted the flickering lights.

"I've heard everything from spacecraft landing in the bay to something just circling the island," said Coast Guard Quartermaster Jeff Huse.

Suzanne Northcutt, a Galveston police dispatcher, said residents flooded the switchboard, reporting an unidentified flying object with red and green flickering lights.

Ms. Northcutt said she went outside to investigate, but "when I saw it, it was white glowing like. It could have been the evening star."

A Coast Guard helicopter was sent to investigate, but officers only saw an offshore oil rig spouting a huge flame as it vented gas, Huse said Wednesday.

"You couldn't see the flame from shore, but it's possible that you could have seen the reflection off the clouds," Huse said. "We've gotten reports before about explosions and it turned out it was just a reflection."

Also incorrect was the address for Michael Jon Fox, charged with criminal mischief, of 907 Abrams. Fox's address should be 904 Abrams.

Chamber industrial committee to contact area businessmen

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Industrial Team stated yesterday that 80 percent of Big Spring's growth and prosperity comes from within the city. This was stressed by Granville Hahn, chairman of the team as he urged committee members to begin contacting area businessmen in hopes of finding ways of expansion for Big Spring's industries and businesses.

"We hope to establish a contact committee that will stay current with business managers in Big Spring to let them know of all assets we have. We want to let them know we are here to help them," Hahn said.

Members of the Industrial Team soon will begin meeting with local managers to hear troubles and complaints and to aid in helping the businessmen to streamline their organizations.

Hahn also reported on the Southern Industrial Development Conference he recently attended in Daytona Beach, Fla. Hahn said a main concern at the meeting was Internal Revenue Bonds. The bonds are used to help businesses expand and create more jobs.

Hahn said the Reagan Administration is considering cutting back the IRB's because the bonds have been used for other purposes other than creating jobs. Hahn explained that fast food restaurants and apartment buildings have been built with the funds which raised some eyebrows in the Reagan Administration.

U.S. economic indicators fall

Associated Press Writer

A broad gauge of future U.S. economic strength fell by the biggest amount in 17 months in September, all but ending any hopes the national economy might rebound before next year, Commerce Department officials said today.

Meanwhile, in a separate report, the Labor Department said the productivity of American business fell at an annual rate of 1.9 percent in the third quarter, the largest decline in 3 1/2 years.

The Commerce Department's Index of Leading Indicators dropped 2.7 percent during the month, a fall characterized as "an especially steep plunge" by Robert Dederick, an assistant Commerce secretary.

"The report strongly suggests that industrial production will be sliding into the autumn and that real gross national product will be down for the third successive quarter," Dederick said in a prepared statement released by the department.

"Any upturn is unlikely before early 1982," he said.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the productivity performance in the overall private business sector, including farming, was the poorest since the 2.3 percent annual rate of decline registered during the first three months of 1978.

The bureau's preliminary productivity figures showed

School District.

Under state law, the commissioner of the Texas Education Agency could declare a district an "economic disaster" and adjust its tax formula.

If the amendment passes, Hereford school district would lose about $355,000. Under the economic disaster classification, the district could recover about $245,000, Holder said. Taxes would go up about four cents per $100 valuation with the recovered money from the state and about 10 cents without.

Meyers, however, said state aid is not a bottomless pit.

"There's only so much," he said. "I don't know if Texas could pump too much more in (education funding.)"

Overall, revenue from livestock and poultry taxes comprise a small amount of the state's property taxes, and the exemption would have a "minimal" effect on Texans' property taxes, said Kenneth Graeber, executive director for the State Property Tax Board.

The board projects that if the amendment doesn't pass, livestock and poultry tax revenue would total about $7.8 million in 1982. For the same year, total ad valorem, or property tax, revenue will add up to about $5.5 billion, more than 700 times the revenue gathered from livestock and poultry taxation.

Mrs. McBee said the tax is a small percentage of the state's tax base and is not applied uniformly.

Currently, feedlots are more heavily taxed because it's easier to tax cattle gathered in one place than to count them out on the range, she said.

Graeber called the process of assessing farmers' and ranchers' livestock "an administrative nightmare."

Tax assessor-collectors depend on renditions compiled by farmers and ranchers listing their stock. But not everyone renders their stock inventory, Graeber said. So taxes are often based on estimates, he said.

"There is no penalty for failing to render, so it's an ineffective tool," Graeber said.

The Vote for 5 Committee, a coalition of nine meat and poultry producers' associations, point out that Texas is the only one of the seven largest cattle-feeding states to impose an unconditional property tax on livestock.

Thirty-three states exempt livestock completely or partially, putting Texas at an unfair disadvantage, according to the committee.

Police Beat Complaints filed after fight

An altercation at the Northcrest Apartments, 1002 N. Main, resulted in the filing of criminal trespass, criminal mischief and assault complaints with the police last night.

Gerald Rowland, Geneva Hensley and Lewis Medley filed separate complaints with police after an unidentified person got into a fight at one of the apartments, according to police records.

Medley said he was cut by a pocketknife in the incident, while Ms. Hensley complained that furniture in her apartment was broken, according to police.

A suspect is being checked out but no charges have been filed against the person as of this morning, police said.

Shirley Dame of 207 E. Second complained to police that she was assaulted by her husband in their home at about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, according to police. Albert Dame was arrested shortly afterward on a charge of disorderly conduct, police said.

Michael Forshee, 16, was the victim of an assault by three unidentified men in the 1300 block of Lexington Wednesday afternoon, police said. Forshee, of 1310 Lexington, was on his way home from school at about 4 p.m. when the incident happened, according to police reports.

Clydette Martin complained to police that a person she knows pulled a gun on her and Michelle McDonald at the Southland Apartments, Air Base Road, at about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Danny Howe, 27, complained to police that he loaned his 1963 Dodge Dart to a friend two weeks ago and the friend failed to return it on time. Howe told police he could locate neither the friend nor the vehicle.

Police said Cory Beevers lost control of his automobile and hit a curb in the 600 block of Lancaster at 12:38 a.m. today. Beevers listed his address as a Southland apartment.

Police arrested Bernard Hastings of 403 Trade on a charge of driving while intoxicated at 7:43 p.m. Wednesday after he allegedly struck a vehicle driven by Barnardo Myles at the intersection of Fourth and Lancaster.

Judge will determine verdict in Daniel trial

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — Vickie Daniel, saying it's time for her murder trial to end, has thrown her fate into the hands of the presiding judge.

"One way or the other, it must end," Mrs. Daniel said in a rare comment to reporters.

She spoke after waiving her right to a jury trial Wednesday, thus allowing the judge to decide if she murdered her husband, former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr.

The prosecution readied witnesses today to rebut the defense's case, specifically the testimony of Mrs. Daniel this week.

"I do not feel well. I do not have enough time to spend with my children, now the most important people in my life. I'm ready for it to be over. One way or the other, it must end," Mrs. Daniel said Wednesday in a rare comment to reporters.

"I've lived through nine months of this, one tragedy after another. First Price, then they tried to take my children away, then my mother... died, the days and days of court sessions, and then this trial. Physically and mentally, I am exhausted," she said.

Jurors were dismissed Wednesday morning after listening to 10 days of sometimes lurid testimony.

Daniel, 39, was shot to death at his Liberty home Jan. 19. Mrs. Daniel said it was an accident.

Visiting State District Judge Leonard Giblin of Beaumont agreed to hear rebuttal testimony today and tentatively set final arguments for Friday.

He said he probably would render a verdict within an hour of the closing statements.

Conviction on the murder charge carries a penalty of five years to life in prison and a maximum $10,000 fine. Probation also is a possibility.

Mrs. Daniel, 34, twice married and the mother of four, never denied shooting her husband, the son of Texas political lion Price Daniel Sr., a former Texas governor and U.S. senator.

But she said the fatal bullet discharged accidentally during a bitter argument at the couple's ranch-style home.

Their divorce was pending. Stunned jurors reacted with a mixture of anger, disappointment and relief at their discharge and disclosed that they favored acquittal by an informal vote of 10-2.

One member of the panel, Wayne Ballinger, predicted a hung jury "most likely" would have been the end result.

One of the two jurors who favored conviction was the wife of a Liberty constable and the other was the widow of a murder victim.

"I believe she got the gun, she shot him and she's dead," said Lynn Allen, wife of the constable.

But the majority agreed with lead defense lawyer Jack Zimmermann, that the evidence did not support a guilty verdict.

"I don't think the state proved its case beyond a reasonable doubt," said Zimmermann, but admitted he did not want to risk a hung jury.

"Vickie has already been tried for this thing twice and I don't think emotionally she could go through a third trial," he said, referring to an earlier child custody battle.

"If there was a hung jury, you better believe there would be pressure for a new trial."

Chief prosecutor Carroll Willborn said he agreed to the waiver because he likewise did not relish a hung jury and suspected that jurors misunderstood the legal principles in the state's case.

The prosecution does not have to prove that Mrs. Daniel intentionally shot Price, he said, only that she "recklessly" grabbed, cocked and fired the rifle twice.

The defendant said Price slapped, kicked and threatened to kill her before she removed the rifle from a closet and ordered him to leave. She testified that she fired a warning shot but could not recall firing the second fatal bullet.

"But as a consequence," said Willborn, "a man is dead. And that is the issue before this court..."

"I think the state of Texas will get as good or better a shake with the court than the jury," said Willborn.

Giblin, 40, a state judge since 1977, said he told the opposing attorneys he would assume the traditional jury role but warned them that "it's a roll of the dice."

He said he gave neither side so much as a hint of how he might rule, but assured them he would do the best that he can.

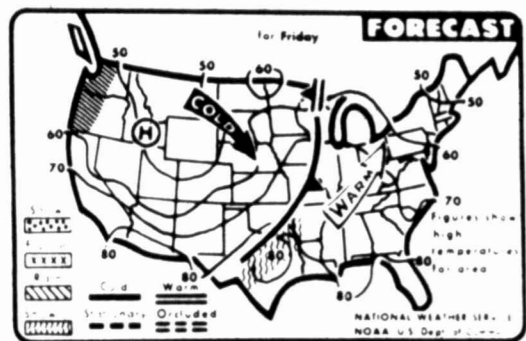

"I'm going to be fair, look at the evidence and call it like I see it," he told newsmen. "It's awesome, but I'm not going to pass the buck."

"I signed on to do the job and I'll call it."

Reagan wins AWACS battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, exulting in a victory that even his opponents called awesome, says the "cause of peace is on the march again in the Middle East" with Senate approval of his AWACS arms sale to Saudi Arabia.

With his first major foreign policy test behind him, Reagan said only a radical takeover in the Mideast now could thwart delivery of the Airborne Warning and Control System planes, the world's most advanced, in 1985. The $8.5 billion sale is the largest arms deal to a foreign nation in U.S. history.

In the meantime, Reagan reaffirmed the United States' "unshakable commitment" to Israel, which had argued that the sale would threaten its security, as his administration worked on compensating arms aid to the Jewish state.

Related stories page 9A

The Senate approved the sale 52-48 Wednesday after Reagan converted seven opponents and won over all seven undecided senators in the final two days of an extraordinary lobbying blitz. It was a performance that moved House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. to say, "He is showing awesome power."

The Israeli Cabinet said today that the approval of the sale of AWACS planes to Saudi Arabia posed "a new, serious danger" that Israel would do everything necessary to overcome.

Saudi Arabia's government-controlled newspapers hailed Reagan as one of the greatest American leaders in history.

Egypt's Foreign Minister Kamal Hassan Aly lauded the vote, calling it a "positive turning point in relations between the United States and the Arab nations" that will enable "Arab countries to defend themselves against any foreign intervention."

"Thank God!" Reagan exclaimed when told of the victory by aides who had been monitoring the roll call, via a phone line, in the office of chief of staff James A. Baker III. Keeping tally were Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., national security adviser Richard Allen and deputy chief of staff Michael K. Deaver.

The president said the sale will "protect our economic lifeline to the Middle East, win favor among moderate Arab nations" and reassure the world that America "is indeed a reliable security partner."

"Because of actions like today's by the Senate, the cause of peace is on the march again in the Middle East," Reagan said. In a letter delivered to the Senate earlier in the day, he pledged that a condition of the sale will be "substantial assistance of Saudi Arabia" in Mideast peace efforts.

"Our friends should realize that steadfastness to purpose is a hallmark of American foreign policy while those who would create instability in this region should note that the forces of moderation have our unequivocal support in deterring aggression," he said.

The Senate vote, two weeks after the House rejected the sale by almost a 3-1 margin, crowned an uphill fight that less than 24 hours earlier had seemed likely to end up in a 50-50 tie. That, too, would have been enough for Reagan, since opponents needed a majority for the first-ever congressional veto of a U.S. arms sale.

Senate Republican leader Howard H. Baker Jr. telephoned the president to report the victory, saying, "There are more brave souls in the Senate today than I ever knew existed."

Reagan shared the credit in the White House mess with the interagency group that spearheaded the administration's campaign.

"It was in the fourth quarter with goal to go," he said. "You pushed it over."

The Saudis will pay $8.5 billion for the biggest single U.S. arms sale in history.

The package includes five AWACS aircraft, the world's most advanced radar planes, plus 1,177 Sidewinder missiles, fuel pods and flying tankers for 62 F-15 jets already on order.

The equipment is intended to guard against attacks on Saudi oil fields.

In his letter to the Senate, Reagan pledged that U.S. personnel will have the right to periodically inspect security arrangements for the sophisticated weapons and that Americans will be involved in Saudi operation of the planes "well into the 1990s."

Four of the 24 AWACS planes within the U.S. inventory already are operating with American crews in Saudi Arabia to guard against possible air attack by Iran or other hostile powers. The ones the Saudis will buy will lack advanced features such as jam-resistant communications devices.

Administration officials assured Congress last spring that Israel's qualitative edge over its potential Arab foes would be maintained.

Amendment 5 helps farmers

Proposed Amendment 5 in next Tuesday's election deserves a "yes" vote. It is the amendment to exempt livestock and poultry from property taxation.

This amendment actually is a correction in language.

In 1879, the Texas Constitution declared that all farm products would be exempt from taxation. Supposedly that included livestock and poultry.

But in 1976, Attorney General John Hill ruled that crops were farm products but livestock and poultry weren't.

Amendment 5 simply puts cattle and chickens back in the category of farm products.

THE AMENDMENT would cure a large inequity in taxing across the state. Many school district do not tax livestock or poultry at all, while others do. Also, it is difficult to tax livestock because it's hard to find them on the range and count them correctly.

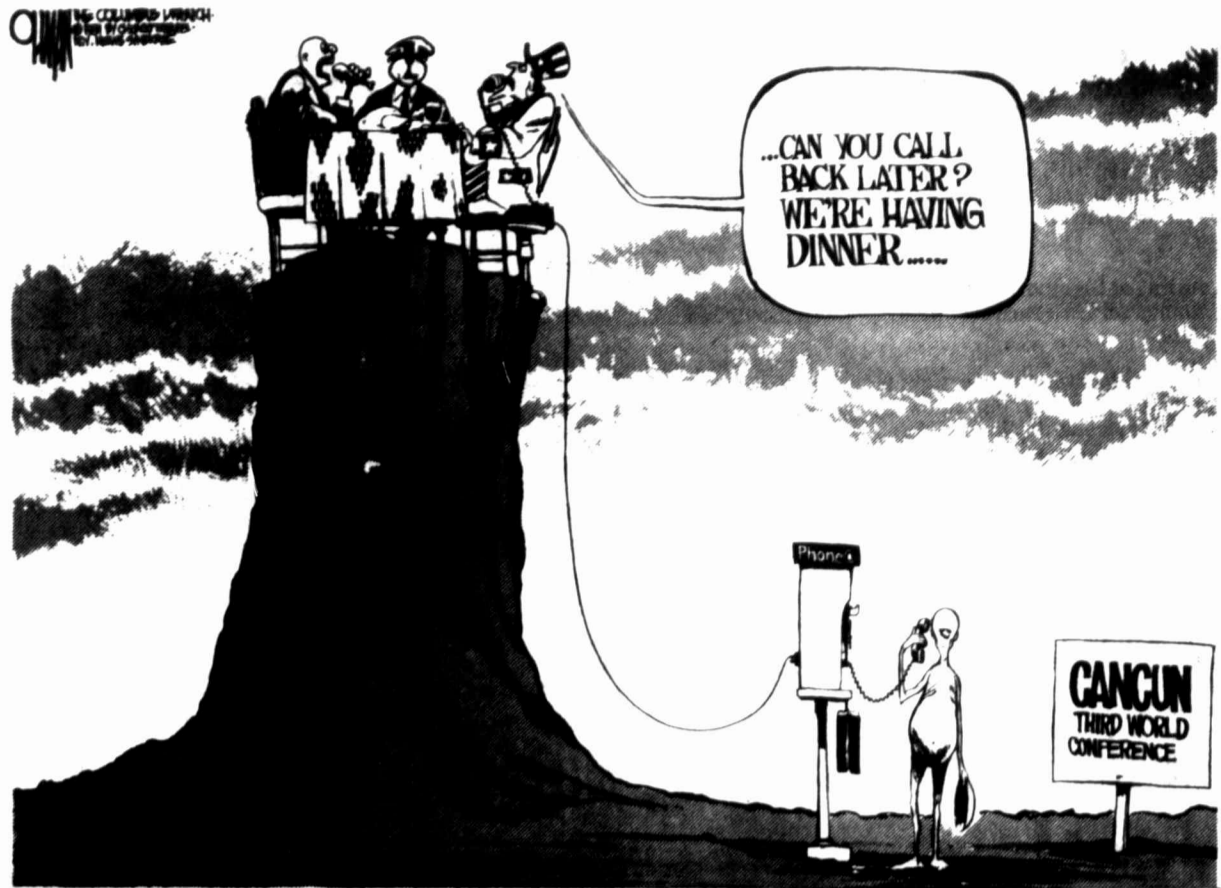

By eliminating the tax, voters would be eliminating an expensive and time-consuming administrative headache. In some cases it costs more to administer the tax than would be gained by taxation. Some jurisdictions use airplanes to count animals. Others spend hours driving through rangeland.

Another example of the current inequity is that someone who puts cattle in a feedyard on Dec. 31 must pay property taxes on 100 percent of the cattle, because they will be counted by the tax assessor on Jan. 1, the day property is appraised. A neighbor who puts cattle in the feedyard on Jan. 2 may be taxed on very few animals, since animals on the range are rarely counted. The tax puts the feedyard industry at a competitive disadvantage with those states whose livestock are not taxed.

SOME PEOPLE have argued that schools will suffer because of the tax loss. Actually, the revenue from taxation of livestock statewide currently is less than one-fourth of one percent of all tax revenue.

Another argument has been that this amendment would give ranchers and farmers a tax break, and why should they get one when automobile dealers, for example, have to pay taxes on their cars. The difference is that businesses can pass on the costs of property taxes to consumers by setting their price, but ranchers must accept the market rate and are unable to pass on their costs.

Last but not least, Amendment 5 will be a significant step in helping hold down the cost of livestock and poultry production in Texas. This action is a step we can take to help hold down rising food costs.

Good news

Art Buchwald

I have good news today. The CIA is going to come back in all our lives. If President Reagan's executive order goes through, the agency can once again spy on Americans in this country.

There are a few people in America who are nervous about giving the Central Intelligence Agency this kind of power, so I will put their fears to rest by answering some of the questions being raised by the new ground rules.

Q — If you allow the CIA to operate in this country don't you violate our civil liberties?

A — No, the CIA protects them. The more it knows what Americans are up to, the safer we will all be from the Commies.

Q — Will the CIA agents be able to read our mail and tap our telephones?

A — Within reason. But they are only going to read the mail and tap the phones of those people who deserve it. The rest of us have nothing to fear.

Q — The CIA was used as a political instrument by the Nixon people. What's to prevent them being used again to "get" the administration's opponents?

A — The difference is that the men under Nixon lost their moral compass. But the people who work for Ronald Reagan are beyond reproach.

Q — How do we know this?

A — Because most of them are lawyers.

Q — Doesn't the CIA have enough to do gathering intelligence abroad without bugging Americans?

A — You would think so, but most intelligence organizations know if they can operate in their own country they can justify a much larger budget.

Q — Will the CIA be able to break into your home under the new guidelines?

A — Not legally. But no one is going to make a big deal of it if an agency does so without getting an official okay.

Q — What's the worst that could happen to a CIA person who oversteps his authority?

A — He would be asked to resign, and then get a job working for Colonel Kadafi.

Q — I thought the FBI was in charge of catching spies in the United States. Why is the CIA getting into the act?

A — Because there are a lot of big jobs FBI agents are no longer permitted to do. Since the CIA is not interested in prosecuting anyone, they can justify almost anything in the name of national security.

Q — What's to prevent the CIA from working with the Mafia or hiring Cuban gangsters to do their dirty work for them?

A — Nothing really. When you're doing a covert job, you want the best people you can get.

Q — Isn't there a chance that the CIA will start off their domestic spying with the best of intentions, but as they get more and more power they could turn the country into a police state?

A — It couldn't happen. The CIA is monitored by a Senate Watchdog Committee, and nobody in the CIA would ever lie to a United States senator.

Q — Will the press be allowed to report on what the CIA is up to in this country?

A — Not if Congress passes its new American Official Secrets Act. You can't have a first-class domestic intelligence operation if the media are going to write about it.

Q — Then who protects us from our own Secret Service?

A — That's like asking who protects Soviet citizens from the KGB?

A Labor Dept.-IRS bungle

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Three months ago, I assailed the Labor Department for botching an investigation of the Teamsters Union's Central States Pension Fund — a multibillion-dollar bankroll that allegedly had fallen into the clutches of the Mafia.

This and similar criticism from Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., pricked ex-Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, who presided over the investigation during the period of worst bumbling. He is an earnest fellow, with an upright look and demeanor.

He took umbrage at my criticism and wrote an angry letter to editors. Now he may have to direct his ire at the General Accounting Office. Its meticulous auditors have confirmed my findings and those of the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee, which Nunn headed.

The GAO report, still classified secret, will be issued in a few weeks. It will lower the boom on both the Labor Department and the Internal Revenue Service for fumbling the ball. The title of the draft report tells it all: "Inadequate, Ineffective and Uncoordinated Investigation to Reform the Multibillion Dollar Teamsters Central States Pension Fund."

The report sternly declares that "the investigation and subsequent dealings by the Department of Labor and Internal Revenue Service had serious shortcomings and left numerous problems unsolved." It also cost $8.5 million and dragged on for six years.

The Labor Department's investigators "narrowly focused on the Fund's real estate mortgage and collateral loans..." the secret report charges. "(This) approach ignored other areas of abuse and mismanagement of the Fund's operation by the former trustees and left unresolved questions of potential civil and criminal violations..."

Those "former trustees" include current Teamsters president Roy Lee Williams and Cleveland Teamsters official Jackie Presser.

The report also criticizes the Internal Revenue Service's dog-in-the-manager attitude. "The objective of having a government-wide investigation did not succeed because the Internal Revenue Service refused to participate in a joint investigation."

"We believe," the auditors say, "the Internal Revenue Service's refusal to join the Labor-Justice investigation destroyed Labor's attempt to have a government-wide investigation... The Internal Revenue Service's explanation that it was pursuing a different course than Labor is not borne out by the facts."

WHAT NEXT? — The contracts of the two independent fund managers will expire next year. Labor Department sources who have reviewed the GAO report told my associate Tony Capaccio that the fund thereafter will revert to its former laxity and will be plundered by the Mob unless the contracts are renewed.

UNDER THE DOME: Most of the Reagan administration's emissaries to Congress have won the respect and goodwill of the members. Jack Woolley, the congressional liaison for the Environmental Protection Agency, is an exception.

Congressional committee staffers make no secret of their resentment of his tactics. They accuse Woolley of being abrasive and high-handed in his dealings with them.

He particularly angered Congress by sending a haughty letter advising House members that EPA officials would testify at committee hearings only if the agency was given three weeks advance notice before an EPA representative was to appear.

Veteran Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., fired back an angry letter to Woolley's boss, EPA Administrator Anne Gorsuch. The three-week rule, declared Dingell, "is unprecedented, presumptuous and totally unacceptable."

Georgia's freshman Republican Sen. Matt Mattingly is a loyal booster of President Reagan's economic program. So much so that he dutifully, if naively, inserted what he considered to be a pro-Reagan newspaper article into the Congressional Record.

"Bob Williams sells whiskey," the article said of a Gainesville, Ga., resident. "And Reagan, he says, has started people drinking the hard stuff like nothing he's ever seen. He adores the president's policies. 'People are buying anything to kill the pain of inflation,' he says."

"The worse the economy is, the better my business is. People are drinking and getting divorced," says Williams.

WATCH ON WASTE: The Army has poured more than $30,000 a year down the drain so that recruits in the St. Louis area can relax in bathtubs rather than take showers during an overnight stay at a local hotel. The hotel accommodations were needed for the enlistees while they completed physical exams and other induction tests.

Three St. Louis hotels bid on a contract to provide rooms for 60 persons, five days a week, 52 weeks a year. The 250-room Mark Twain Hotel submitted the best offer — $10 a night per room. Instead, the Army brass awarded the contract to a more expensive hotel which charges $12 a night.

When Mark Twain asked the reason, an Army representative replied that the hotel failed to meet specifications because the bathrooms were equipped only with showers rather than tubs. In addition, she said, the washbasins at the Mark Twain were located in the bedrooms, not the bathrooms.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a Christian, but I have had a great deal of difficulty with sickness. I get discouraged and depressed so easily now, and yet I thought Christians should always be peaceful and calm. Could it be that I am not really a believer? —R.S.

DEAR R.S.: Only you know whether or not you are really trusting Christ for your salvation, and whether or not you have committed your life to him. If you have, the Bible assures you that you are a child of God (see 1 John 5:11-13).

I suspect that your doubts about your relationship to Christ really reflect a spiritual problem which has grown because of the circumstances you have faced. Nowhere in the Bible are we promised that Christians will always be immune to difficulties, including illness.

We are part of a sinful, fallen world and that means we also have problems and difficult times. Furthermore, you should remember that sickness often opens the door to discouragement and depression. We all are affected emotionally by our physical condition.

But that does not mean discouragement and doubt are inevitable or necessary. If we have learned the secret of committing everything that happens to us into God's hands, then these things do not need to touch us. We need to look beyond our circumstances, and see that we are still in God's loving hands.

Think of the Apostle Paul. Once he was in a Roman prison, suffering for his faith in Christ. And yet he could say, "I have learned to be content whatever the circumstances. I know what it is to be in need, and I know what it is to have plenty. I have learned the secret of being content in any and every situation, whether well fed or hungry, whether living in plenty or in want. I can do everything through him who gives me strength" (Philippians 4:11-13).

Turn your eyes to Christ every day. Read his Word, and take its promises as your own. Learn to bring every detail of your life to him in prayer. You will never be the same when you realize how much Christ loves you and takes care of you every day.

Around the rim Baby sister blues

Carol Hart

It's a strange feeling when your "baby sister" grows up and doesn't need all your good advice anymore.

I found out this weekend that my 22-year-old sister, Phyllis, no longer looks to me for sage advice. What a shock. The bigger shock was that I was constantly asking her for advice on things.

My sister attends the University of Texas and also holds down a job as a nurse. So everytime I get around her, I start asking medical questions I've stored up since our last talk. In fact, I turn into a full-fledged hypochondriac.

By the time my weekend in Austin was drawing to a close, we had pretty well covered all of my medical questions. I felt terrible, because she explained to me all the dire things each of my symptoms might be indicative of.

"BABY SISTER" has also become quite used to driving in heavy traffic. Back when we shared an apartment in Lubbock, I'd never let her behind the wheel of a car because I trusted my own driving better. But in Austin, she maneuvered her little red Chevette adeptly through a maze of crazy drivers.

In the true tradition of showing your elders respect, she asked me if I would like to drive. But I declined because I didn't want to appear foolish as I drove the car into some river.

After only a few months on the Austin highways, she's adjusted really fine to getting exactly where she wants to go. This weekend she was wheeling down the backroads and getting us to places I'd never been able to find at all. When I lose my sense of direction, I get a terrible headache. It's a good thing I had a nurse with me, because I was lost for good once we hit the Austin city limits.

SHE'S ALSO BECOME quite good with words. I remember, when we were really small, I'd never let her talk when we were playing dolls. I'd tell her every word to say.

But, times have changed. She's become really philosophical about living in Austin. She drove me all the way out Congress Avenue one night, then whirled the car around until it faced the Capitol building, far in the distance.

"See all the lights," she said, referring to a steady stream of street lights, traffic lights and lights around the Capitol.

"It restores my sanity to look back at this scene at night," she said. It sure didn't restore mine. Somewhere I'd misplaced about 15 years and "baby sister" was all grown up. That's quite a change from years ago when I used to draw ducks on all her things so she'd know which toys were hers, and which things to keep her hands off.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is there a way to predetermine the sex of a child by having intercourse during a certain time during ovulation? I know nothing is for sure, but was wondering if the odds are greater of conceiving one sex early in ovulation or another sex later in ovulation. I had heard that it was more likely to conceive a girl early in ovulation and a boy later in ovulation. —S.M.

You should take the card Nature deals to you.

There is some evidence that more males are conceived if the egg is fertilized a little later after release from the ovary and more girls when fertilization occurs sooner. The evidence is interesting, but no more than that. There was a flurry of interest in this subject a few years ago, and it was discussed in the lay press. However, no conclusions can be drawn. Furthermore, no attempt should be made to time the fertilization of the egg, which is possibly only for about 12 to 18 hours after ovulation anyway.

There is some evidence that the older the egg gets, the greater the chances that it will have some chromosomal damage with possible ill effects on the fetus. Again, the evidence is interesting, no more than that, and no reliable conclusions should be drawn.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have a close relative who has been told that he has sponge kidneys. This is something I have never heard of before. Could you explain it for me? —Mrs. C.S.

Sponge kidneys have cyst-like spaces in them and that makes them look like sponges. The condition most often does not cause symptoms and does not affect lifespan. Two possible complications from sponge kidney have to be guarded against — infection and stone-formation. A person with sponge kidneys should keep himself well-hydrated to avoid stone formation. He should report any urinary disturbance (increase in frequency, burning on urination, flank pain) to his doctor so that any infection can be treated promptly. When kidney X-rays are taken for other reasons, sponge kidney shows in about one in every 200 of them. So it is not all that uncommon.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble" — it could be dangerous. Read the booklet, "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need to Know About Them." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

John Tower/Capitol Update

Strategic forces vital

Of all the elements of national defense, our strategic, or nuclear, capability is perhaps the most important. The existence of our strategic forces protect the United States itself from foreign attack, as surely as ships and forts did in the pre-nuclear age.

Only a strong strategic system can deter attack from another nuclear power — which would know that they could not possibly "win" a nuclear exchange.

During the past decade, our superiority in that area has dwindled. It is essential that we modernize our forces so that our deterrent remains strong for the rest of this century. President Reagan has proposed a 5-point program to redress the inadequacies of our current forces. By and large, it is an excellent program, one I can support with few exceptions.

The program addresses the need for improved communications and control systems, a new long-range bomber, submarine forces, land-based missiles, and strategic defense.

Communications and Control refers to the survivability, performance and area of coverage of the radars and satellites used to warn us of a Soviet missile attack. It also includes the command centers that would direct U.S. strategic forces during a nuclear war and the way in which they would communicate with our forces. Improving these systems is essential if we are to have the capability to use our weapons systems.

In the area of strategic defense, the Administration's program calls for upgrading, in coordination with Canada, the North American air surveillance network. This would include defensive systems ranging from radars to anti-satellite capabilities, as well as civil defense.

The heart of our strategic system is the "triad" of weapons systems on land, in the sea and in the air. The Administration's program addresses all three of these areas.

For our sea-based forces, it includes an improved missile, with greater accuracy and a larger payload. It also calls for building Trident submarines at a steady rate and deploying Cruise missiles on many ships and submarines.

As for the air-based leg of the triad, our B-52 bombers which have served us so well for many years need to be replaced by a new long-range bomber. The Administration's program calls for a vigorous program to develop a bomber using advanced — or "stealth" — technology. In addition, the Administration proposes to develop a variant of the B-1 bomber to use during the period until the advanced technology bomber can be developed. The B-1 can be used to launch Cruise missiles, even after the Stealth bomber is in use.

We in the Senate Armed Services Committee will be looking closely at this recommendation to see how best to use limited available money in the best way to ensure that we have a viable replacement for the B-52's during this decade.

The final element of the strategic modernization package is the MX missile. This missile is a major improvement over our existing Titans and Minutemen, and its development is vital to our national defense.

I do not approve of the President's recommendation for deploying the missile in the existing missile silos instead of developing a deceptive basing mode. It is my view, and that of the military experts, that only a deceptive basing mode will provide us the survivability we need to maintain an effective land-based deterrent.

The Armed Services Committee will be looking closely to the various basing modes for the future. But, in the interim, development of the missile itself must continue.

House panel rejects MX missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's plan to strengthen the nation's strategic defenses is being set back with a House subcommittee's refusal to appropriate money for the MX missile and a Senate Republican leader's statement that the B-1 bomber is unnecessary.

In separate votes behind closed doors Wednesday, the House Appropriations subcommittee on defense voted 7-5 to fund the B-1 bomber, shelved by former President Carter in 1977, and reject Reagan's request for $1.9 billion for the MX missile during the current fiscal year.

At the same time, Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, chairman of the Senate defense appropriations subcommittee and the No. 2 leader of the Senate's GOP majority, called the B-1 an unnecessary, temporary replacement for aging B-52s.

Stevens told Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger that he sees "a substantial conflict in Congress" over whether to revive the B-1.

Reagan asked Congress for $2.4 billion in fiscal 1982 for the B-1 as part of a $200.9 billion defense appropriation.

The MX, B-1 and the radar-eluding Stealth aircraft are the keys to Reagan's $180.3 billion six-year program for building up the nation's defenses.

Reagan, rejecting an option to shuttle MX missiles among shelters in the Western deserts, decided instead to place the first three dozen in strengthened silos now occupied by the aging Minuteman and Titan II missiles, located in the Midwest and West.

He said he would decide by 1984 on a long-term basing plan for the MX.

Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, chairman of the House Appropriations defense subcommittee, said the panel's refusal to fund the MX "is a significant expression" by Congress that it is reluctant to appropriate money until the administration decides how and where to deploy the missiles.

"We're not going to give him money to wait and to play

OPEC may raise oil prices

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The oil ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries met today for the third time in five months and were expected to agree on a base price for crude oil of $34 a barrel. That increase would raise the price charged by Saudi Arabia, OPEC's biggest producer, $2 a barrel. It could raise the price of gasoline and heating oil for American consumers about 2 1/2 cents a gallon, U.S. petroleum industry analysts said.

Potential snags remained, however, on such related issues as how long to maintain the base price and a price range for top-quality crudes, OPEC sources said.

Prices among OPEC's 13 members vary from Saudi Arabia's low of $32 for a 42-gallon barrel to nearly $40 charged by Algeria. The oil ministers discussed the $34 price proposed by Saudi Arabia during meetings in May and August, but Venezuela and others refused to agree. So Saudi Arabia kept its price at $32.

Budget has deficit for 12th straight year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite perennial presidential pledges to slash federal deficits, the government continues to spew a torrent of red ink that is blotting out President Reagan's promise to balance the budget by 1984.

The Treasury Department reported Wednesday that the budget for fiscal 1981, which ended Sept. 30, ran $57.9 billion in the red, marking the 12th straight year that federal spending has outpaced receipts.

This was the same budget that former President Carter and Congress redrafted 18 months ago to bring it into balance. Instead, the budget produced the third largest deficit in history, surpassed only by a $59.6 billion deficit in 1980 and a $66.4 billion deficit in 1976.

The new figures underscore the widespread skepticism about Reagan's latest pledge to balance the budget by 1984 — a goal that many economists and politicians contend may fall short by a staggering $100 billion or more.

Economists discount presidential budget forecasts as rosy political scenarios that intentionally avoid inevitable economic realities. As time passes, events force presidents to face those realities and adjust their forecasts.

For example, if economic growth proves weaker than an administration is willing to predict — which is usually the case — the government winds up collecting less tax money and spending more on social welfare programs than its original estimates. The result is a larger budget deficit.

Reagan's plan for eliminating deficits by 1984 assumes very strong economic growth over the next five years, a forecast other economists label as too optimistic to attain. In recent weeks, administration economists have hinted they may lower their expectations, a change that puts a balanced budget even further out of reach.

4-Hers plan banquet

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The annual 4-H Achievement Banquet will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in First Baptist Church, according to Marian Morris, county agent.

Mrs. Morris said "For the first time, the banquet won't be a covered dish affair. We decided it was difficult for everyone to rush home, prepare something and get back in time, so this year the 4-H'ers will provide the meal for just $1."

Presentation of various awards to 4-H members who have completed projects such as foods and nutrition, clothing and textiles, beef and shooting sports will highlight the meeting.

According to Mrs. Morris, "Of course, there will be the special recognition awards, too, along with the two Gold Star awards. We do encourage everyone to come to the banquet. It's an opportunity to show your support of these young people who work so hard to achieve their goals."

Dear Abby — DEAR ABBY: Regarding "M's" letter asking how to tell her wealthy date to tip more than $1: If that's all he feels is appropriate, it's his money! Granted, he should be aware that 15 percent is considered "fair," but restaurant prices are inflated enough as it is without handing out 15 percent tips just because it's expected.

My father always tipped like he was supporting the waitress, her five kids and her dog! It's time we start getting what we pay for.

NOT CHEAP BUT FAIR

DEAR NOT: "M" said her escort never tipped more than a dollar. Surely the service couldn't have been substandard everywhere, all the time.

Funny you should mention your father in connection with tipping. I had the same kind of father. I recall his buying coffee for my twin and me at a coffee shop near his theater. In those days, coffee was a nickel a cup and the bill came to 15 cents.

Father gave the waitress a dollar bill and said "Keep the change." In unison we asked, "Daddy, isn't that an awfully big tip?"

"Not for a woman who's working hard to make an honest living," he replied.

DEAR ABBY: We have new neighbors who do not have a telephone, and I doubt very much if they intend to get one. They have given our telephone number to their friends and relatives, who call frequently at all hours of the day and night, and we have to go next door and call them to the phone.

Abby, we would not mind doing this in cases of emergency, but these neighbors get calls that we know are strictly social and they tie up our line for long periods. How can we handle this without appearing mean and selfish?

AREA CODE 602

DEAR 602: Ask your phoneless neighbors to please instruct their friends and relatives to call only in case of an emergency. And if you get too many "emergencies," your only option is to change your telephone number — and keep it to yourself. This is neither "mean" nor "selfish." It's protection against being taken advantage of.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law and her husband celebrated their 49th wedding anniversary last August. Because of my sister-in-law's poor health, her daughter is planning a party to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary next month, which is premature by nearly a whole year!

I am reluctant to accept the invitation because I don't think it's proper to celebrate an occasion that has not yet occurred.

I grew up under the old moral code and still believe in it. Right or wrong?

PUZZLED IN ELMHURST, ILL.

DEAR PUZZLED: Wrong! I think it's more "moral" to be kind and prematurely generous than to go by the book and risk being too late.

Mail order companies face stiff regulations

Each year thousands of consumers shop by mail. They find mail-order shopping the most convenient way to satisfy their shopping needs. To meet the demand, there are now more than six thousand firms that share the U.S. mail-order market with total annual sales estimated to be $40 billion.

Mail-order companies are responsible for the largest number of complaints handled by Better Business Bureaus. The most frequent complaint received from consumers is failure to deliver ordered merchandise. To help alleviate this problem, in 1976 the Federal Trade Commission put into effect a trade regulation rule for the mail-order industry.

The rule requires that a mail-order company must ship ordered merchandise within 30 days from the time it receives an order, unless the offer clearly and conspicuously states some other time frame for shipment. If the company cannot ship within a 30-day period, or within the time it advertised, it must notify the customer of the delay.

This notice of delay must be accompanied by a free means of reply, such as a postage-paid postcard, by which the customer has the right to cancel the order or agree to the delay. If a customer chooses to cancel rather than wait longer for the merchandise, the company is required to give a full refund of any money paid within seven business days from the date it received the cancellation notice. If the money has been charged, the company must provide a copy of a credit memorandum which shows the customer's account cleared of all related charges within one billing period.

If the customer does not respond to the notice the company has the right to assume that he agrees to a delay of up to 30 days.

The FTC's rule does not apply to all the mail-order industry. A few of those products which are excluded are photofinishing, seeds and growing plants, and magazine subscriptions. The rule also does not apply to C.O.D. (cash on delivery) orders, orders with which you send no advance payment or for which you are not billed nor your account charged until shipment is made.

The only problem with this regulation is that it is almost impossible to enforce. It has been the experience of BBB that a few companies fail to send the required delay notice. Therefore, it is up to you to protect yourself. Use the following guidelines if you will be ordering by mail for the approaching holiday season:

- Beware of exaggerated claims for products or unrealistically low prices for merchandise. If possible, investigate the advertiser's claims by comparing similar merchandise in local stores.
- Read the catalog descriptions carefully. Always keep a copy of the ad

Reagan's AWACS fight rough but it worked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Intense, 11th-hour intervention by President Reagan, on top of skillful political maneuvering by his chief of staff, rescued the AWACS arms deal. It wasn't smooth, but it worked.

"The president was given a bum deal by the people who look out for him at the State Department, the Pentagon and the National Security Council," Sen. Roger W. Jepsen, R-Iowa, told a reporter sadly as he reiterated his opposition to the deal.

Eventually, Jepsen came around, and therein lies the tale. Loyalty to the president and attention to the considerable persuasive powers that come with the office triumphed over congressional opposition and the administration's own misuses.

Reagan spoke with almost half the Senate, including more than a dozen in the final days when it became clear that he might actually lose in his first foreign policy showdown on Capitol Hill.

White House chief of staff James A. Baker III put together the strategy and the appointments that won most of the uncommitted and reversed seven Republican opponents in the last two days.

Wednesday's vote was 52-48 for Reagan. Sen. Sam Nunn, a defense-minded Georgia Democrat who supported Reagan, said: "If we were voting up or down on whether the administration handled this right, it would be 97 to 3 against them, and I would be one of the 97."

Criticism of the administration ranged from ineptitude to needless internal power struggles to undertones of anti-Semitism that confused and irritated several senators.

Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., said a businessman told him, "I realize the only reason you oppose the sale is because of your Jewish constituents, but I want you to be objective."

Congressional sources who asked not to be identified said Maj. Gen. Robert Schweitzer, then of the National Security Council, told Republican Rudy Boschwitz of Minnesota, who is Jewish, that he feared there could be "a backswing" against Israel if the deal were vetoed by Congress.

Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, asked a group of businessmen lobbying for the sale to leave his office after they referred to their campaign contributions. Grassley also was angered when White House lobbyist Powell Moore mentioned the senator's desire to see an associate appointed U.S. attorney in Iowa.

Said one administration official involved in the lobbying: "There was pulling and tugging for a while between State, on the one hand, and the National Security Council on the other and then you had Defense in there, too. We didn't have clear coordination in there for a period of several weeks."

The sale of Airborne Warning and Control System jets to Saudi Arabia was drafted last spring. Originally, the administration wanted to sell the Saudis weaponry for F-15 jets. But AWACS were added, representing a victory for Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger over Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., and the opposition began to build.

Coordination of the arms deal with Congress was a long time coming — it was not formally presented until Oct. 1.

Senate Majority leader Howard H. Baker Jr., who led the administration's fight on Capitol Hill, found out about AWACS only when he glanced at the latest briefing books before leaving on a trip to Saudi Arabia early last April.

Senate Democratic leader Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia was not contacted by administration lobbyists until September. He declared against the sale in the last week, interrupting Reagan's momentum.

Brushed aside by the White House were overtures from senators seeking to avoid a confrontation. Two of them, Boschwitz and Democrat John Glenn of Ohio, were to help lead the charge against the sale.

The White House was absorbed with tax legislation and other major domestic issues. While it avoided even low-key lobbying for the Saudi purchase, the American Israel Public Affairs Committee, unions and other groups concerned about Israel's security made major gains in Capitol Hill. By fall, only 13 senators were counted as supporting Reagan, 60 as opposing it.

Policy victory a 'tonic' for Reagan administration

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fight over selling AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia was important to President Reagan not so much for what he won but for what he could have lost.

He had put his prestige as chief executive, director of foreign policy, on the line at a time when his congressional coalition on budget and tax cuts was beginning to falter along with the economy.

David R. Gergen, the White House communications director, described Wednesday's 52-48 victory in the Senate as "a tremendous tonic for the administration, both in relations overseas and with Congress."

"It re-establishes the fact the president has a relationship with Congress that is very effective, and that is important to governing," he said.

As senator after senator trooped into the White House for private meetings with the president, there were arguments about security in the Middle East and about protecting the extremely sophisticated AWACS equipment.

In the view of White House chief of staff James A. Baker III, who sat in his office and listened over a telephone line as each vote was called in the Capitol, the clinching argument was national security.

But Reagan — and even former President Carter, who argued for the sale of the Airborne Warning and Control Systems airplanes to Saudi Arabia — returned to a key point: The ability of the president to conduct foreign policy was on the line. This is what he could have lost, both the past and the present president said.

Reagans enter hospital for physicals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, suffering from a cold in recent days, and his wife, Nancy, are entering Bethesda Naval Hospital today for their first formal physical examinations since moving into the White House last January.

The Reagans were scheduled to spend about 24 hours in the military center's presidential suite, but the White House has released no details regarding the tests they will undergo.

Asked if he was dreading his hospital stay, Reagan, 70, said, "It won't be anything compared to the way I've suffered over" the battle to win approval of his sale of AWACS planes to Saudi Arabia.

Poll shows Americans still oppose AWACS sale

NEW YORK (AP) — Like the Senate, the American public is closely split on what it thinks of President Reagan's decision to sell AWACS surveillance planes to Saudi Arabia, according to the latest Associated Press-NBC News poll.

However, while the Senate approved the $8.5 billion sale Wednesday by a 52-48 margin, the poll said a narrow majority of Americans still oppose the AWACS sale.

The poll of 1,598 adults in a scientific random sampling by telephone Sunday and Monday — before the Senate vote — said 54 percent of those with an opinion on the sale were opposed to it, while 46 percent favored the sale.

An AP-NBC News poll taken a month ago said Americans with opinions on the sale opposed it by a 62-38 ratio.

Respondents with opinions were also sharply split on how the sale will affect American military aid to Israel and the chances of war in the Middle East.

Forty-three percent said they believe the sale will mean the United States will have to increase its military aid to Israel, while 47 percent said it will not and 10 percent were not sure.

Also, 39 percent said they think the AWACS sale will increase the chances of war in the Middle East, 25 percent said the sale will decrease the chances of war, 32 percent said it will make no difference and 4 percent were not sure.

PONDERS QUESTION — Marion Albert Pruett, shown here during an interview in the Jackson, Miss., city jail, said Wednesday that he wants to be executed for the slaying of Peggy Lowe, a Jackson savings and loan employee kidnapped during a robbery Sept. 17.

Confessed 'mad-dog' wants death penalty

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Confessed "mad-dog killer" Marion Albert Pruett says he led officers to the body of savings and loan employee Peggy Lowe because he wants the death penalty.

"I think the people of Mississippi want to see me dead as much as I want to die," Pruett said in a jail cell interview Wednesday. "I just want the death penalty from Mississippi."

Pruett, 32, led Mississippi and federal officers to Mrs. Lowe's body during the predawn hours Wednesday. The 43-year-old mother of two had not been seen since she was abducted during the Sept. 17 robbery of the Metrocenter branch of Unifirst Federal Savings and Loan in Jackson.

Despite warnings from his court-appointed attorney against making any statements to reporters, Pruett said he also had killed two people in Colorado and one in Arkansas and linked the slayings to his "$4,000-a-week cocaine habit."

"I became a mad-dog killer," he said. "That's cocaine."

Asked why he had decided to discuss the killings now, Pruett said he was "tired of living. I killed four innocent people and I've stayed straight (off drugs) long enough to see what I had done."

Pruett, dressed in a jail jumpsuit and white slippers and wearing several days' growth of beard, at one point rolled up his sleeves to show what he said were needle marks from repeated drug injections.

In addition to robbery, kidnap and murder charges in Mississippi, Pruett is wanted for violent crimes in seven other states, including murders in Colorado and Arkansas and robberies in Washington and in Pennsylvania.

Discussing the deaths of two Colorado convenience store employees on Oct. 16, Pruett said he was "high on cocaine" at the time. He said he was "messed up. I guess you call it mercy killing."

Pruett, who has a glass eye because of a childhood injury, described himself as a troublemaker throughout his life but said that when he began the robberies he had not intended to kill.

District Attorney Nathan Watkins of Livingston, Ala., said Mrs. Lowe's body was found in a wooded area beside a dirt road about 12 miles north of Livingston. He said she had been shot at least once in the back of the head and had been dead since the day of the Jackson robbery.

Watkins said Pruett allegedly told investigators he first made Mrs. Lowe strip to her underclothes and left her on the dirt road near Alabama 17.

He said it was alleged Pruett "got to thinking about it and went back" and shot her because she could identify him and his car. The body was found off the road in a wooded area.

Pruett would not discuss details of Mrs. Lowe's death but did say that he had rode with a hostage for 30 minutes after the Jackson holdup. He declined to say whether Mrs. Lowe was killed in Alabama or Mississippi.

The slaying of Mrs. Lowe, the mother of two, was "something that ... just happened. I was too high. It was accidental."

Pruett, who was paroled from prison in 1979 under the federal witness program after serving time for bank robbery and attempted escape in North Carolina, said he held up financial institutions to embarrass the federal government because of what he said was wrongdoing within the witness program and his own treatment by federal parole officers.

He said he had started out only to rob financial institutions but after killing a person during a holdup "I got a little more crazier."

Brinks holdup pistol traced to Texas town

NEW YORK (AP) — An automatic pistol found near the spot where two policemen were killed last week in a Brink's truck robbery was traced to the Texas hometown of a woman sought for questioning in the holdup, authorities said.

Rockland County District Attorney Kenneth Gribetz said Wednesday that the .380-caliber weapon was purchased in Austin in October 1979.

The FBI is searching for Marilyn Jean Buck, 33, a former Austin resident who allegedly rented apartments in New Jersey and Mount Vernon, N.Y., used as hideouts by the gang involved in the Brink's robbery.

"Marilyn Jean Buck is a former Austin resident," said Greg Rampton, the FBI's agent in charge in Austin. "She is being sought for questioning in the robbery, and she is also a federal fugitive."

Ms. Buck failed to return to a West Virginia prison in 1977 after being furloughed. She was serving a sentence for weapons charges.

FBI spokesman Joseph Valiquette said the FBI in Washington was comparing results of ballistics tests on guns or slugs found at the site of the Brink's robbery in Nanuet, N.Y., and the subsequent roadblock shootout in Nyack. The FBI was also examining other evidence, including items found in raids on what were described as "safehouses" used by the gang.

An armored van was held up Wednesday in the New York City borough of Queens, and the New York Daily News quoted an unidentified FBI spokesman as saying the bureau was examining evidence from the robbery to see whether there was a connection with the Brink's holdup.

Two armed robbers with camouflage jackets took $28,000 and critically wounded a guard outside a bank. Sgt. Tom Fahey of the New York City police department said today there was no apparent link between the robbery Wednesday afternoon and last week's holdup.

Four suspects, including Katherine Boudin, a federal fugitive identified as a member of the Weather Underground, were arrested Oct. 20 at the scene of the Nyack shootout, where Nyack police Sgt. Edward O'Grady and officer Waverly Brown were fatally wounded.

The four suspects also are charged with killing Brinks guard Peter Paige earlier in the day at a $1.6 million robbery. The money was recovered. The three other suspects seized that day are Judith Clark and David Gilbert, also identified as members of the Weather Underground, and Samuel Brown, who has no known political connections.

Cynthia Boston, described as an officer of a terrorist group called the Republic of New Africa, was arrested Tuesday in a Mississippi farmhouse and charged with participating in the Brink's heist.

Her common-law husband, William Johnson, believed by police to be a member of the Black Liberation Army, is thought to have gone to Mississippi with her and is the object of a manhunt, as is Donald Weems, an escapee from a New Jersey prison.

College food fight causes $2,000 damage

MURFREESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Six-hundred students flinging turkey, mashed potatoes and chairs in a college cafeteria turned a food fight into a riot until police broke it up with nine arrests and the mayor declared a state of emergency.

"It was funny for a while, but it got too funny," Mayor W.W. Hill said Wednesday night after declaring an emergency in the northeastern North Carolina town of 3,500 people and banning alcohol sales for 12 hours.

"We're a little liberal in this college town — we bend a little," Hill said. "But when the buck has to be stopped, we stop it."

Estimates of damage to the Chowan College cafeteria ranged from $2,000 to $3,000, officials said.

"Food was all over the ceiling," said town police Officer Tommy Gee, who arrived soon after the worst of the rioting. "The floor was such a mess you couldn't walk on it. It was a total wreck."

Police Chief Robert Harris said he and three officers went into the cafeteria and found "students just screaming and hollering, throwing food and trays, breaking up furniture — they broke the door open, too."

Some of the doors were broken down by panic-stricken students after a college official tried to calm the crowd by locking the exits.

Harris said nine students were charged with inciting to riot. They were held on $2,000 bond and scheduled for court appearances Tuesday. More arrests were expected, police said.

No serious injuries were reported.

"I was in the cafeteria when it happened," said infirmary night nurse Marie Elliot. "I haven't seen any injuries. The biggest thing I saw was somebody got hit in the back with an apple and got a pretty good bruise."

GRAHAM AT BAPTIST CONVENTION — Evangelist Billy Graham speaks to a crowd of more than 10,000 at the Baptist General Convention of Texas, held at the Heart O' Texas Coliseum in Waco.

Graham critical of Moral Majority

WACO, Texas (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham urged Baptists to avoid the organized political tactics of the Moral Majority, but said he did not oppose individual activism.

Graham, speaking Wednesday to more than 10,000 delegates to a Bold Missions Rally sponsored by the Baptist General Convention of Texas, said churches should stay away from politics.

At an earlier press conference, he criticized the Moral Majority and leader Jerry Falwell for organizing a political machine that sidestepped the constitutional principle of separation of church and state.

"I don't believe that we as Baptists and Christians should get into politics as an organization," he said at the Heart O' Texas Coliseum rally. "I think our people should get headlong into it."

Graham, a Baptist, said mission work should be a church priority. The Baptist Convention's Bold Mission Thrust seeks to spread the gospel worldwide by the year 2000, officials said.

"We are trying to run a Space Age on a horse-and-buggy morality," he said, adding that Americans have become cynical and hardened to evil.

He quoted Albert Einstein, who when asked by a German photographer whether peace would prevail in the world, said, "Not as long as there are people on this planet, because the problem is in the heart."

Graham said the Biblical prophet Jeremiah described the heart as "desperately wicked." The evangelist said wickedness has caused turmoil in the Middle East and trouble in American households.

Another rally speaker, Baylor University president Herbert Reynolds, said he would dedicate himself to maintaining the institution as a bulwark of Christianity as well as a regional education center.

The rally came at a midpoint in the Baptist General Convention's 98th annual meeting being held this week at the Waco Convention Center. About 2,700 convention messengers earlier elected Dr. D. L. Lowrie, pastor of First Baptist Church of Lubbock, president of the convention.

The convention, which began Tuesday night, ends Thursday afternoon.

Grenada island may expel Don Yarbrough

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Former Texas Supreme Court Justice Donald B. Yarbrough's passport has been seized by agents of the Grenada government who may expel him from the island, a Texas newspaper has reported.

A medical school official said Yarbrough has been suspended from the institution where he studied for one semester and may be extradited to Texas, where he faces a five-year prison sentence for aggravated perjury and other charges.

Dr. Geoffrey Bourne, vice chancellor of the school of medicine, said university officials are concerned about bad publicity stemming from the enrollment of the 40-year-old former Houston lawyer in 1980, when he still was free on appeal.

"We're not in a position to throw him off the island. We've suspended him and that's it. We've done all we can do," he told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in a story published Wednesday.

He said Yarbrough cannot leave the country without his passport.

He was released on a $5,000 personal recognizance bond after his 1978 conviction but left for Grenada in June 1980. He is now being sought on charges of failing to appear in court Aug. 11 to be sent to prison.

Texas authorities tried to have Yarbrough extradited through the State Department, but U.S. officials expressed concern that Grenada's Marxist government would provide asylum for the fugitive.

Grenada government officials "have not actually told him to go. They have just impounded his passport until they decide," the Star-Telegram quoted a St. George's University official as saying.

"The Grenada government will only allow students to remain on the island if they are members of the school," Bourne added. "Mr. Yarbrough has been suspended for some weeks now. I believe the immigration people in Grenada are considering if it means he is not a member of the school."

He said Yarbrough is being allowed to audit classes but receives no credit.

"He's now doing second-semester work. He took the first semester and failed and had to repeat it. Even if he was a full student now it would take him three and a half years (to complete the program)," Bourne said.

He said Yarbrough has conferred with him only a few times — one of them two weeks ago when he asked what could be done to get his passport back.

"I told him there was nothing he could do except to sit quiet and see what the Grenada government did," Bourne said.

Yarbrough's attorney, former Texas Attorney General Waggoner Carr, said his client did not respond to letters notifying him of his failed appeal.

FACE OF HAPPINESS — Los Angeles Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda is covered with shaving cream and soaked with champagne after the team's victory party in the clubhouse after winning the World Series in New York Wednesday.

LA wins World Series

No more waiting for Dodgers

NEW YORK (AP) — So much for waiting until next year. Once, when they lived in Brooklyn, that was a way of life for a team called the Dodgers. Wait till next year. Things will be better then.

It took them seven visits to the World Series before they won one. And they had lost their last three bids for baseball's world championship. Frustration was being a Dodger fan and always waiting for next year.

Well, now 25 other major league clubs will do the waiting. Things have gotten better in a hurry for these Dodgers from Los Angeles who found happiness in a house of horrors called Yankee Stadium on a chilly evening in October.

They are the final survivors of baseball's longest, most frustrating season, a year fragmented by a bitter seven-week player strike that created a new tier of playoffs and kept the games going almost until Halloween.

They are world champions, and next year is here at last.

"This is heaven," said Pedro Guerrero, one of three Dodger heroes who shared the most valuable player honors in the 1981 World Series.

It's a cinch he's the first guy to say that about the South Bronx. But Yankee Stadium looked like Cloud Nine to all the Dodgers Wednesday night as they mugged the Yankees 9-2. The game wasn't as close as the final score indicated.

Guerrero drove in five runs with a single, triple and home run. He shared the MVP award with courageous Ron Cey, who drilled two hits, one of them driving in the go-ahead run, and Steve Yeager, who had another vital RBI-single.

The Dodgers won this World Series the same way they won everything else in this postseason — by bouncing off the deck, and coming from behind. They lost the first two games of the divisional playoffs to Houston and recovered with three straight victories at home. Then they trailed Montreal 2-1 in the League Championship Series but won the last two games in Canada to clinch the pennant.

If they were emotionally drained when they got to the World Series against the rested Yankees, they had an excuse. New York won the first two games and someone suggested to Tommy Lasorda, the good humor man who manages the Dodgers, that now he had the Yankees just where he wanted them.

The words turned out to be prophetic.

"That was the turning point of the Series," said Yeager. "Losing those first two games...that's the only way we can play. I can't explain it, but that's it."

Lasorda told his team that they could turn the Series around and that's exactly what they did.

"I told them they hadn't been blown out," he said. "All we needed was a couple of breaks and we would have won those first two games."

That would have been uncharacteristic for this comeback crew though. Being behind was more comfortable for them.

Rookie Fernando Valenzuela struggled to a 5-4 victory in Game Three and then the Dodgers won (Con't. on 2-B)

Lemon blasted by critics

NEW YORK (AP) — "I was trying to get a run ahead so I could get to the seventh inning and bring Goose in," New York Yankee Manager Bob Lemon said Wednesday night after making a strategic move that left him open to some of the harshest criticism in World Series history.

With the score tied 1-1, runners at first and second and two out in the bottom of the fourth inning, Lemon sent Bobby Murcer up to bat for starting pitcher Tommy John. But Murcer flied out and the Yankees' vaunted bullpen was unable to hold the Los Angeles Dodgers, who pounded the next four Yankee pitchers en route to a 9-2 victory that gave them the World Championship in six games.

Dodger infield not worried about changes

NEW YORK (AP) — There's been a lot of talk about breaking up that veteran Dodger infield, so the 1981 World Series might have been its last chance. And Davey Lopes knew it.

"They can break us up, they can tear us apart, but they can never take away that ring," said Lopes in the hysterical Los Angeles clubhouse Wednesday night. "All those errors don't mean a thing now, do they?"

Lopes, 35, set a Series record for a second baseman by committing six errors, including one in the sixth and final game, but it didn't prevent the Dodgers from trouncing the New York Yankees, 9-2, to climax another one of their patented comebacks.

The Dodgers had to come from a 2-0 deficit to win the National League West playoffs over Houston, a 2-1 deficit to capture the N.L. Championship over Montreal, and another 2-0 deficit to overcome the Yankees. They did all three.

"I think that was one of the motivating forces," said Lopes, referring to the possibility of change in an infield that's been together a big-league-record nine seasons. "I really don't know (if he'll be around next year). I'll talk about that with Al Campanis (the Dodgers' General Manager) in a month or so."

Meanwhile, the Dodgers are celebrating their first World Series triumph since they beat the Minnesota Twins in 1955.

One member of the veteran Los Angeles infield who has been more concerned with his life than playing baseball recently was less vocal than most of his teammates. But he seemed just as happy.

"Words can't express my feelings," said third baseman Ron Cey, who shared the Series' Most Valuable Player Award with teammates Steve Yeager and Pedro Guerrero. "It's a great honor for us, something we've had in the back of our minds for a lot of years from the beginning of spring training. Our goals have never been lower than that."

Lady Steers visit San Angelo

SAN ANGELO — The Big Spring Lady Steers won't be in the same position that they were for their initial encounter with the San Angelo Central girls volleyball team tonight, but they no doubt will still be pulling out all the stops in hopes of winning. It will be the final match of the year for the Lady Steers.

The two teams met in the final game of the first half, with both entering the match with identical 5-AAAAA marks of 6-0. But the San Angelo girls won that contest for the first half title, and have already clinched the second half title with a perfect mark of 6-0.

The Lady Steers, meanwhile, are 4-2 in the second half. They won their first three games, then lost to Midland Lee and Abilene Cooper before coming back to stomp Odessa High.

The Lady Steers are 19-9

Worms latest coaching diet in Garden City

And I thought I was crazy?! Well, maybe I am, but at least I know there are some other people out there that open their mouths and do some ridiculous things.

After watching the original motion picture "Rocky", I became enchanted with eating raw eggs. And it wasn't enough to eat the eggs as Sylvester Stallone did, I had to be a little more bizarre. I found a bigger reaction from both the witnesses and my body if I would just swallow and chew up the whole egg, shell and all. The shell, I philosophized, made my skin tough.

The occurrences of my raw egg and shell idiocracy have slowed down somewhat, although I still have moments especially for them, like Halloween, New Year's, Christmas, my birthday, etc.

...But I felt like eggs have nutritional value and really don't taste that bad raw. But a worm. A worm!

Yes, that's the latest craze for Garden City

Head Football Coach Stu Cooper, who with his staff have done an excellent job in revamping the Bearkat grid fortunes the past two years.

Two years ago, the Bearkats were an ugly 0-10. Last year, in Cooper's first year at the helm, they improved to 3-5-1. This year, they are cruising alone with a district record of 3-0 (which leads 3-A West) and a season mark of 6-2.

So where do the worms come in? From Cooper's mouth. Both the proposition and the actuality.

Before Garden City's biggest test of the year up to this point, against the Klondike Cougars on October 16, some Bearkat players were discussing motivational ideas in a magazine. It dealt with a coach from the Kentucky-West Virginia area, and some of his antics to fire his team up for the big games.

Eating worms came into the discussion, at which point the personable Cooper decided to join the act.

Cooper explained to the team that if they would beat Klondike, he would eat a worm following the game. A bold idea, even if the Bearkats hadn't beaten Klondike in a number of years.

And even though Klondike controlled the statistical department of the contest, the Garden City team managed to hang on for their biggest win in years, dropping the Cougars by a score of 7-6.

Needless to say, Cooper had to live up to his promise, eating a worm at K-Bob's at the post-game meal. According to reports from those present, it was a scene that won't be forgotten.

When talking to Cooper yesterday, however, he wouldn't promise any more worms for his diet, although I'm sure if bigger games come for the Bearkats, he wouldn't hesitate for a little added motivation.

"But how did the worm taste," I asked, quite curious.

Cooper laughed for a good 10 seconds, paused and replied, "Just leave it at that."

Dodgers turn decider into rout

 an almost comical 8-7 endurance test in Game Four. When Guerrero and Yeager tagged consecutive seventh-inning home runs, Los Angeles took the pivotal fifth game 2-1. It was then that Steve Garvey, who finished the Series with 11 hits, decided something special was going on. "The home runs on Sunday started to tell us that this was our year," he said.

single run and each of which they could very easily have won. Now the Series was switching to New York, where the Dodgers seemed to be suffering from a terminal Yankee Stadium syndrome. Pinstripe panic had beaten Los Angeles six straight times in the Stadium.

What's more, owner George Steinbrenner had defended his team's honor in an elevator fight and emerged with his hand in a cast. Surely that would fire up the troops for the final Series push.

"That's nonsense," snorted Cey. "The field is where it's done, not some elevator."

 "We had beaten them three times in California," said Yeager. "We knew we could beat those guys. We had to beat them, not the stadium, not the fans."
 So, the Dodgers went about doing exactly that.

Willie Randolph got the Yankees in front with a third-inning home run against winning pitcher Burt Hooton. But Los Angeles tied the score in the fourth on singles by Dusty Baker, Rick Monday and Yeager.

Then, in the bottom of the fourth, the game turned. With two out and a runner on second, Lasorda forced Yankee Manager Bob Lemon's hand by walking Larry Milbourne to bring up starting pitcher Tommy John. Lemon went for pinch hitter Bobby Murcer. It was a bold move but it backfired. Murcer flied out, and in the next two innings the Yankee bullpen disposed of the game.

John wasn't thrilled with the decision.

"I just wanted to get some runs," said Lemon. "I didn't figure it was a gamble. He's my best pinch hitter. I wanted a base hit and I didn't get it so I wasn't very smart."

George Frazier relieved and the Dodgers jumped on him in a hurry. Davey Lopes singled and moved up on a sacrifice. With two out, Cey hit a seeing-eye single up the middle, scoring Lopes with the go-ahead run. After Dusty Baker also singled, Guerrero tripled to make it 4-1 and eventually make Frazier the only three-time loser ever in a six-game series.

John won't 2nd guess Lemon

 no reason for Lemon to call on relief ace Rich "Goose" Gossage.

"Any time you do anything in the World Series and it doesn't pan out, you're open for it," Lemon said. "I would have left him in if it was 1-0. If I thought I had somebody who couldn't hold them, I wouldn't have made the change."

As Murcer walked to the plate, the television cameras focused on John. The veteran left-hander shook his head in obvious disbelief several times and his lips seemed to form the word "unbelievable."

However, John refused to second-guess Lemon, although he blanked the Dodgers over seven innings in winning Game 2 of the Series and allowed one run in four innings Wednesday night.

Lemon's first choice from the bullpen was George Frazier, a right-hander acquired from St. Louis in a minor league trade last spring. With Davey Lopes on second base and two out following a single, sacrifice and fly ball, Ron Cey hit a chopper over the mound and in back of second base. It skidded off the glove of second baseman Willie Randolph and rolled a few feet behind him as Lopes scored the go-ahead run. A bloop single by Dusty Baker and Pedro Guerrero's triple gave the Dodgers two more runs and a commanding 4-1 lead.

"That one of George that trickled over second base, that was the turning point of the whole game," Lemon said.

"It was a routine tipper," said Randolph. "But the ball stayed down. It hit the edge of the grass and took a weird hop. George goes out and pitches his heart out, but he didn't get any breaks in this series."

It was another bitter loss for Frazier, who became the first pitcher ever to lose three games in a seven-game World Series. He also was the loser in Games 3 and 4 in Los Angeles, the first pitcher in 40 years to lose consecutive World Series games.

Cey proves tough at bat and mind in win

 last Sunday and suffered a concussion. But he played five innings Wednesday night before asking to come out.

"I felt okay. If I hadn't, I wouldn't have gone out there," said Cey, who had two hits, including a run-scoring single in the fifth that put the Dodgers ahead to stay. "I was happy I could go out there and confident I could do it. I didn't know for how long."

Cey was removed for a pinch-hitter in the top of the sixth because "I was experiencing light-headedness and dizziness. It started right after I came off the bases (in the fifth)."

Yeager was an unlikely hero. The veteran catcher had only 86 at-bats during the regular season and played as much as he did in the Series only because the Yankees started so many left-handed pitchers.

"Let's enjoy this happy moment," he said. "I don't want to talk about that right now."

Guerrero was hitless in his first eight Series at-bats, but he closed with a rush. The second-year major leaguer had three hits and drove in five runs Wednesday night.

"I know I wasn't hitting," he said. "First base coach Manny (Mota) has been working with me. He talked to me after the first two games and tonight he talked to me for 10 or 15 minutes."

"I was hitting straight up. He told me to stay down and I would see the ball better and that helped me."

"This is one of the big things in my life. When we won the three games in Los Angeles I didn't think we'd lose in New York."

"Terrific," he screamed when told he was sharing the MVP Award. "This is the best moment of my life. It's been a long time, nine years and four World Series, before winning the big one."

Does Yeager still want to be traded, something he has requested several times in recent years?

That they didn't, doing the same thing to the Yankees that the Yankees did to them in 1978, losing the first two games, then winning four straight.

"This is the greatest thing that has ever happened to me in baseball," said Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda, whose first two Dodger teams lost to the Yankees in 1977 and 1978.

Steinbrenner issues apology to fans

NEW YORK (AP) — Owner George Steinbrenner of the New York Yankees issued a news release Wednesday night, an apology to Yankee fans following the team's loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers in the sixth game of the World Series.

"I want to sincerely apologize to the people of New York and to fans of the New York Yankees everywhere for the performance of the Yankee team in the World Series," said the statement.

"I also want to assure you we will be at work immediately to prepare for 1982."

"I also want to extend my congratulations to Peter O'Malley and the Dodger organization — a fine team that didn't give up — and to my friend Tom Lasorda, who managed a superb season, playoffs and a brilliant World Series."

Celtics feel return odds in their favor

By The Associated Press
 Boston Celtics Coach Bill Fitch already has the National Basketball Association season figured out before it starts.

"We've got a much better chance to defend our title," Fitch said, "because we've got the law of averages on our side."

Not since the 1968-69 Celtics were winning their 11th championship in 13 years has an NBA team repeated as league champion. That's not to say there haven't been some good teams since then: The New York Knicks, with Willis Reed, Dave DeBusschere, Walt Frazier and Bill Bradley; the Milwaukee Bucks, with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Oscar Robertson; the Los Angeles Lakers, with Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West, and later with Abdul-Jabbar and Magic Johnson; the Celtics with Dave Cowens, John Havlicek and Jo Jo White, and the Portland Trail Blazers, with Bill Walton and Maurice Lucas.

Undaunted by history, the Celtics start defense of their title Friday night at Boston against the Washington Bullets. If form holds, the Celtics will not be the 1981-82 champions. Maybe it will finally be the Philadelphia 76ers or maybe the Lakers will come back after a year of dissension, or maybe it will be the Seattle SuperSonics, Bucks, or Phoenix Suns.

First, however, they will have to get by the Celtics, who have, as Fitch said, the odds on their side not to mention a terrific frontline.

It's really a mystery why an NBA team has been unable to repeat as champion in the past 13 years. During that time, the Oakland A's won baseball's World Series three straight years and the New York Yankees and Cincinnati Reds each won twice in a row.

Area football Players of the Week

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

Area football teams posted combined records of 3-5-1 the past Friday night, and most of the success that teams enjoyed were a direct result of their defensive performances, as evident in this week's edition of Players of the Week.

The Grady Wildcats managed to outscore McCauley and take a 36-34 victory in a six-man football contest. Two key performers in that win were LYNN KEY and JOE RODRIGUEZ. Key had 140 yards rushing on 22 carries and had a game high 18 tackles, while Rodriguez rushed eight times for 89 yards, and also was in on 15 tackles defensively.

"They (Key and Rodriguez) did the bulk of our work both ways during the game," said Grady Coach Richard Gibson.

The Big Spring Steers suffered a lopsided loss to the Midland Lee Rebels, and Head Coach Ralph Harris declined to mention anyone deserving of this week's award.

The Lamesa Golden Tors held tough against a rugged San Angelo Lake View squad, finally losing by a count of 16-0. One performer that Lamesa Coach Jim Warren was extremely proud of was defensive end RUSTY RATLIFF, who graded out 85 percent and was in on eight tackles. "He (Ratliff) played real well. In fact, we played about as well as we have all year," Warren noted.

The Stanton Buffaloes lost a heartbreaker by a score of 7-3 to Plains in a most important District 5-AA contest, but one defensive person that shone above the others was defensive end TRACY SPINKS, who also doubles as an offensive guard. "I'm citing him for his defensive work," Park noted. "He had 17 tackles and forced two fumbles. Our defense gave us the chance to win many times, we just couldn't take advantage," Stanton Coach Steve Park said.

The Garden City Bearkats kept their 3-A West Zone record perfect by coming from behind twice to topple Meadow by an 18-13 count, and two of the main reasons were ROBBIE CRESWELL and DUANE HIRT.

Creswell rushed for 141 yards on 15 carries, including a long distance jaunt from 87 yards with just over nine minutes to clinch the win. Hirt was in on 13 tackles from his tackle position, including seven first hits. He also forced a Meadow fumble.

The Sands Mustangs, unintentionally going for some type of record, tied New Home 0-0. It was the third scoreless tie of the year for the Sands crew of Coach Jim White.

In the game, the two obvious Sands honorees were defenders in the form of linebacker STEVE BLAGRAVE and cornerback COLE HUNT. Blagrove, a regular in this weekly edition, was credited with 25 tackles from his linebacker position. Hunt had two big interceptions, four unassisted tackles and made a pair of catches offensively that gave the Mustangs a hope at scoring.

The Forsan Buffaloes suffered a 41-13 loss to Seagraves, and Head Coach Jan East would not nominate anyone for this week's award. "We didn't do a very good job tackling," East said. "When you give up 400 yards, you're not doing much right."

The Colorado City Wolves let some costly fourth quarter miscues allow Clyde to rally for 22 points and a 22-20 win, but there was still plenty of people that helped the Wolves get the 20-0 third period lead. Among them were running back MICHAEL SCOTT, who rambled for 130 yards on seven carries, including an 82-yard touchdown run. Others mentioned by Coach Steve Ramsey were linebacker RANDY USELTON, defensive tackle RANDY McPHAUL, and SCOTT FREE, defensive ends TODD NEFF and DANE POWELL, as well as quarterback JEFF HAMMOND, who completed six of 11 passes for 117 yards and a score.

The Klondike Cougars finally put it all together in winning fashion last Friday night, rolling to a 28-0 win over Wilson. Coach Bill West was pleased with the entire team, but in particular the likes of running back JESSE GUERRA and linebackers MIKE BARKOWSKY and MARTY TREVINO. "Guerra had his best game of the year. He didn't have that many yards rushing (85), but they were super yards," West explained. "And Barkowsky and Trevino were in on nearly every tackle."

Spurs obtain Mike Bratz

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs have traded their 1983 third round draft choice to the Cleveland Cavaliers for 6-2 guard Mike Bratz.

Team spokesman Wayne Witt said that Bratz, a three-year National Basketball Association veteran, posted his best average of 10 points a game for the Cavaliers last season.

Bratz, an Academic All-American and All-Pacific 8 performer for Stanford, spent three years with the Phoenix Suns before joining Cleveland for the 1980-81 season.

Coach Stan Albeck had indicated he would seek back court help with the departure of James Silas to Cleveland at the end of last season. Second-year player Johnny Moore is expected to start as playmaking guard opposite George Gervin, who will be backed by Ron Brewer in the off-guard slot.

SMU at A&M big SWC encounter

Saturday's schedule in order of starting times, with full-season and conference records in parentheses: HOUSTON (4-3, 2-2 in SWC) at TCU (2-4-1, 1-3 in SWC), Saturday 11:30 a.m.

CST-TCU in first televised game (ABC-TV) in nine years, while Cougars go before the cameras for fourth time in ten starts. Defensive injuries have hobbled Frogs in last three starts, but offense continues at 22-point-a-game pace and may get added boost if pass-catching whiz Stanley Washington returns following three-week layoff with rib injury.

strong UH defense (253.3-yard-per-game yield) attempts to end TCU QB Steve Stamp's record of passing for more than 200 yards in every game this year. Stamp became sixth SWC 5,000-yard career passer last week, has good shot at becoming sixth 5,000-yard season passer. UH corner Butch LaCroix national interception co-leader with six.

Cougars second in SWC rushing TDs with 16-80 offenses have similar results (367 yards a game for TCU, 361 for UH) with different methods...but game also matches top receivers--Washington averaging six catches per game before injury and Cougars' Lonell Phea and Mark Ford at 3.7 and 3.1, respectively...Phea leads nation in punt returns at 18 yards a trip...Cougars have won all five previous meetings between teams, averaging 42-plus points per start.

TEXAS TECH (1-6, 0-4 in SWC) at TEXAS (5-1, 2-1 in SWC), Saturday 1 p.m. CST. Longhorns lead all SWC defensive stats, ranking fourth in the nation in total defense (218.8 yards per game)...Tech hobbling after 1-6 start but quarterback Ron Reeves expected back at full strength after missing one game and limping through another...Texas, ranked sixth, won defensive battle with previously undefeated SMU Saturday

...Tech punter Maury Buford second nationally with 46.2 average, close to SWC season record 46.6...Horns allowing foes 108.2 yards per game on ground and 115.7 by air...tackle Kenneth Sims with 81 stops, 15 vs. SMU...Tech defense improved from allowing over 500 yards per game a month ago to just more than 400 now...DB Tate Randle has 49 tackles and three interceptions...Texas leads series 24-6 with six straight wins in Austin...Tech won in Lubbock last year, jumping to 24-0 lead in 18 minutes before Texas rally ended with 20 points.

ARKANSAS (5-2, 2-2 in SWC) at RICE (3-4, 2-2 in SWC), Saturday 2 p.m. CST. Both teams shot at SWC title (121.4 yards a game) and Arkansas falling to Houston and Rice losing passing battle to A&M...Arkansas loss was only second in last 15 at Little Rock, the other one was last year to Rice, 17-16...20th-ranked Hogs third in SWC total offense (372.9) and second in rushing (240.7) as 18 players have rushing stats and 14 have scored points...Owl QB Michael Calhoun has thrown four TD passes in three consecutive games and has 16 for the year, just five shy of SWC record 21 by SMU's Chuck Hixson.

SMU (6-1, 3-1 in SWC) at TEXAS A&M (5-2, 3-1 in SWC), Saturday 2 p.m. CST. Teams are tied for SWC lead for first time since Oct. 19, 1974 and tied for lead when they play each other for first time since both were 3-0 on Nov. 9, 1940, game offers four of top six SWC rushers, but big offensive news is SWC record six TD passes last week by Aggie QB Gary Kubiak in 51-26 victory over Rice...SMU's Eric Dickerson (121.4 yards a game) and Craig James (92.9) rank one-two in SWC rushing. A&M's Johnny Hector (81.3) and Earnest Jackson (79.1) rank five-six...Dickerson also No. 2 scorer in nation with 14 TDs...Kubiak came from off charts to rank tenth in NCAA national passing-efficiency formula...Mustangs lead SWC in pass interceptions with 20, Russell Carter tied for fourth nationally with five, while Wes Hopkins had four two weeks ago vs. Houston...Mustangs fifth nationally in scoring (34.7 points per game) and 13th in rushing offense (258.4).

Food director signed fake milk invoices?

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The Mission school food services director says he unwittingly signed fake milk delivery invoices when a dairy official needed a signature on the tickets one day.

Michael Jon McCarthy testified Wednesday that Ernie Strickland of Golden Jersey Creamery came to his office at the Mission school central cafeteria with some invoices to be signed.

Strickland, an unindicted co-conspirator in the case, asked for McCarthy's secretary, said the food services director. McCarthy said he signed the papers because he secretary was away from her desk.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Eddie Medrano prepared to cross-examine McCarthy today.

McCarthy and three other school personnel are charged with conspiring to defraud a federal school lunch program of almost $500,000 over a five-year period.

Indictments returned this summer charged 13 defendants with falsifying milk delivery tickets to make it appear the school had ordered enough half-pints of milk to claim all of its school meals for federal reimbursement.

Under federal regulations, all federally reimbursed meals must include milk.

According to testimony, school district payments for the phony invoices went into a dairy special account, from which the school district would be credited for other dairy products like ice cream and cottage cheese.

McCarthy became food services director in 1978 and said he did not learn the school district was actually paying the false milk invoice tickets until 1980 during a visit from dairy official Duane Towne.

Miss Moreno, named as an unindicted co-conspirator, was called as a government witness in the case.

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — A federal judge has given attorneys for the Justice Department and Ector County School District two months to submit plans on how to achieve educational equality in Odessa high schools.

Visiting U.S. District Judge Fred Shannon issued the order Wednesday at the close of a hearing in the 10-year-old desegregation suit.

The judge said he reserved the right to reconvene the suit that was filed by a disgruntled citizen's group and government attorneys.

Shannon ordered the Ector County Independent School District and plaintiffs to submit follow-up reports Nov. 15 and Dec. 20.

If either side objects to progress being made, Shannon said he would schedule a hearing.

Tuesday, Shannon handed down a partial ruling in the suit. He said the school district, through an ongoing pattern of segregation, created a situation that forced young people at minority schools to transfer to other schools to take college-preparatory courses.

Two plans emerged from Wednesday's hearing to provide equal education opportunities for minority students at southside schools.

The school district proposed offering at Ector High School all advanced college preparatory courses not now offered there. Shannon wanted to spread the courses through all three high schools and bus students needing the classes to the appropriate schools.

Shannon said he would not order a specific plan to be used, but would let the school district and government work out a plan acceptable to both.

The judge did order the district to reassign teachers so that highly qualified and experienced teachers would be evenly distributed between Ector High and the northside Permian and Odessa high schools.

Shannon also told the district to offer applications for a majority-minority transfer plan to all three high schools in the spring semester. Previously, students wanting to transfer into a school predominated by another race had to apply at the administration building.

He also said the district must try to inform parents and students about the educational opportunities in southside schools.

Panel wants limitation of CIA domestic spying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Intelligence Committee recommended today that the Reagan administration abandon its plan to allow the Central Intelligence Agency to infiltrate and try to influence domestic organizations.

After a one-hour closed meeting, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., the committee chairman, said the panel would recommend that the administration abide by the restrictions on CIA infiltration of U.S. groups imposed by President Jimmy Carter in January 1977.

Goldwater also announced the committee had completed its investigation of William J. Casey's fitness to serve as CIA director. Goldwater said the staff will write a report and recommendations on Casey, but declined to predict when that would be finished.

It was not known what those recommendations would be.

The committee has been studying a draft presidential order governing intelligence agencies which was prepared by the Reagan administration as a replacement for Carter's order.

The Reagan draft, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press, would have given the CIA its first authority to infiltrate and secretly try to influence the activity of domestic groups.

Infiltration could be authorized "for any lawful purpose" as determined by the CIA chief or his designees.

Under the order, any attempt to exert influence on such groups could be undertaken if the attorney general found that constitutional rights would not be violated.

Carter's order restricted both infiltration and influencing basically to the FBI, and required the approval of the attorney general for both.

New York's sticky wicket

NEW YORK (AP) — The city's parks department is up against a sticky wicket: there aren't enough cricket fields in the borough of Queens to meet demand.

The borough's only field for the British game is at Flushing Meadow-Corona Park in the shadow of Shea Stadium, the home of the New York Mets. And the field is overbooked, according to Matt McElroy, an assistant in the Queens branch of the Parks Department.

McElroy said Wednesday the boom is a reflection of the growing number of Pakistanis, Indians and other Southwest Asians in Queens.

The British introduced cricket to those countries as they were colonized, and many immigrants from there have settled in Queens, bringing with them their zest for the sport.

The India Sports Society, based in Flushing, approached the Parks Department this summer with a design for a cricket field in Kissena Corridor Park, McElroy said.

"We try to be responsive to the needs of park users," he said, adding that the department will pay for construction, estimated at more than $200,000.

Baseball puts ABC in first

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC ended CBS' two-week run at the top in the networks' weekly prime-time competition, thanks in large measure to high ratings for the first three games in baseball's World Series, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

Despite the relatively high ratings, there was some indication of fallout from the summer-long players' strike, which led to fan disenchantment at the ballpark.

The ratings for each game played in the week ending Oct. 25 were lower than the marks for comparable games last season.

The opening series game Tuesday night between the New York Yankees and the Los Angeles Dodgers, on ABC, was the week's highest-rated show, with Game 3 Friday night and the second game Wednesday evening close behind.

The rating for Game 1 was 29.9, Nielsen says that means of all the nation's homes with TV, 29.9 percent saw at least part of the contest.

The opening game of the World Series last year had a rating of 32.9, and by the fifth game the score had climbed to 35.3. Game 5 of the Yankees-Dodgers series was played Sunday afternoon, and the 21-minute prime-time runover pulled a rating of 30.1.

Though CBS had six of the 10 highest-rated shows, ABC's rating for the week was 23.1 to 19.5 for CBS and 14 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute, 23.1 percent of the nation's TV-equipped homes were tuned to ABC.

CBS' top-rated program for the week was the season's most-watched show, "Dallas," in fourth place. NBC's highest-rated show, "Little House on the Prairie," was No. 29.

Part I of CBS' made-for-TV remake of "Valley of the Dolls" finished sixth, with the concluding installment 20th, while ABC was successful with the two-hour pilot for "Today's FBI," 11th in the ratings.

NBC had the week's six lowest-rated shows, including two new series, "Nashville Palace" in 51st place and "Fitz and Bones" 56th. "Here's Boomer" was 52nd, a movie, "Revenge of the Gray Gang," 53rd, "NBC Magazine" 54th and another film, "Revenge of the Stepford Wives," 57th.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated shows:

World Series, Game 1, with a rating of 29.9 representing 24.3 million homes, Game 3, 29 or 23.6 million, and Game 2, 28.2 or 23 million, all ABC; "Dallas," 26.1 or 21.2 million, and "The Jeffersons," 23.9 or 19.5 million, all CBS; "Valley of the Dolls," Part I, and "Dukes of Hazzard," both 23.7 or 19.3 million, both CBS; "60 Minutes," 23.4 or 19 million, and "Alice," 22.7 or 18.5 million, both CBS, and "The Love Boat," 22.5 or 18.3 million, ABC.

International bridge possible at Presidio

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Highway and Public Transportation Commission has approved a request to develop engineering plans for a new international bridge over the Rio Grande at Presidio.

The commission on Wednesday also said negotiations about the bridge could start with United States and Mexican governments.

Presidio County Judge Charlie Henderson appeared before the commission Oct. 21, telling of the county's problems in expediting the long-delayed project.

The commission said the bridge is expected to stimulate tourism and commercial travel on U.S. 67 into Ojinaga, Chihuahua, Mexico. U.S. 67 runs 1,650 miles from the Rio Grande at Presidio through San Angelo, Fort Worth and Texarkana, Texas, and terminates near Clinton, Iowa.

'Hill Street Blues' returns

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For all the viewers it got last season, "Hill Street Blues" was probably mistaken for a ragtime tune from New Orleans. Six Emmy awards and a major promotional campaign later, "Hill Street" returns, and NBC hopes audiences know it's a television show — a fine one at that.

Aware that "Hill Street" might attract a large curiosity audience tonight, the producers structured a dynamic opening before the title and credits even roll. It dares you to turn the dial.

It's typical of "Hill Street's" authentic glimpses of police life — raw, funny and human — instead of fitting glossy fantasy into a conventional TV format.

Grant Tinker, whose former production company created "Hill Street Blues," is chairman of NBC. He promises fewer story lines, the completion of at least one of them and an anchored time slot.

Still, "Hill Street" is not easy to watch because it's so provocative. Everything doesn't unfold in neat 15-minute segments. There are shifting sub-plots — some based on the action but more rooted to the characters' undulating emotions and feelings, a remarkable feat for TV.

While it's own quality may be an obstacle to popularity, "Hill Street" is burdened by NBC's mediocre Thursday night comedy schedule. It's immediate lead-in, "Gimme a Break," takes the lowest road and should have viewers elsewhere at 9 p.m. CST.

"Gimme a Break" stars Tony award winner Neil Carter as housekeeper for a widowed police chief (Dolph Sweet) and his three daughters. This vehicle, well beneath Miss Carter's enormous stage talents, retreads a worn TV theme begun by Ethel Waters' "Beulah" in 1950.

This show doesn't know what it wants to be. Whenever a little sentiment creeps in, the mood is clobbered by some tasteless, pointless joke.

NBC's other new comedy tonight, "Lewis and Clark," is funnier and has much more class.

Gabe Kaplan plays Stewart Lewis, who tires of the suburban New York ratrace and buys a Texas saloon, managed by Roscoe Clark (Guich Kooch). Transplanted Easterners battling a new culture is similar to ABC's "Best of the West," but NBC's has a warmer feel.

Kaplan, star of "Welcome Back Kotter," is creator and co-writer.

GRIEF — An unidentified witness to the shootings shows grief on her face as police enter the bar.

Two men slain in bar

Two men were shot to death after a fight broke out in a westside bar Tuesday night, and two suspects are being held in connection with the slayings, police said.

Officers arriving at the Water Hole No. 3, 3204 W. Highway 80, found Clarence Yanez Jr., 36, and Benedicto D. Yanez, 20, dead on the floor of the bar when they arrived at the scene.

Clarence Yanez lived at 704 N.W. Fifth and Benedicto Yanez's address is unknown, police investigators said. The men possibly were second cousins, said Lt. George Quintero.

The names of the two men taken into custody and questioned about the incident were not released, pending filing of formal charges, Quintero said.

The suspects were arrested at the bar shortly after police received word of a fight in progress at Water Hole No. 3, Quintero said.

Justice of the Peace Lewis Leflin pronounced the victims dead at the scene, according to police reports of the incident.

The altercation started about 10:59 p.m. and "seemed to be very brief," Quintero said.

Officer Ron Wood was the first policeman to arrive on the scene. He got to the Water Hole No. 3 at 11:03 p.m., according to his report, and found the two Yanezes slumped on the floor of the bar showing no signs of life.

The two suspects were apprehended at about 11:15 p.m. after witnesses to the shootings pointed them out to police, Quintero said. The men are local residents, he added.

SUSPECT SEIZED — An unidentified suspect in the shootings is escorted to a police cruiser outside the bar.

No information was released on how many times the Yanezes had been shot or with what type of gun, pending the results of an autopsy ordered by Leflin.

It is believed each suspect had a gun, Quintero said. Charges are not likely to be filed until this afternoon, Quintero said, since detectives probably will not complete their investigation until that time.

Oil rig blast to produce at least four lawsuits

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

Personal injury and property damage lawsuits arising from a fatal drilling accident in Martin County last month should be filed in area courts within the next month or so, say the attorneys who will file the suits.

At least four lawsuits — three representing workers killed or injured when a rat hole rig struck a natural gas pipeline and a fourth on behalf of the rat hole service — will be filed, The Herald has learned.

Bob Freeman of Midland will file in federal district court with his partner John Hyde "probably within the next 10 days," Freeman said.

The pair will file on behalf of the estate of Joe Greg Dawson, a 19-year-old Midlander and employee of Harris Rat Hole Service who died in a blast that investigators said sent flames 200 feet into the air.

Freeman said he and Hyde were naming the Jet Oil Co. of Oklahoma as a defendant in the suit and "probably" other parties whose inclusion in the suit the attorneys are exploring. Freeman said the grounds for the suit were negligence and the amount the attorneys would seek to recover hadn't been determined yet.

The crew was drilling a preparatory shaft for an oil rig eventually to drill within when the pipeline was ruptured. Jet Oil has the oil lease for the property, which is owned by John Hale of Big Spring.

The crew was drilling 193 feet from the stake site surveyed and marked for drilling, according to Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders, who is supplying attorneys with information his department has gathered in an investigation.

Bob Huff, a Lubbock attorney, will file a suit on behalf of the wife and children of 32-year-old John Paul Hemphill, a machine operator for the Britt Trucking and Construction Co. of Lamesa. Hemphill, of Lamesa, died in the blast.

Huff said he hoped to file within 30 days in the state's 118th District Court office in Martin County. The case would be under the jurisdiction of Big Spring-based state Judge Jim Gregg.

Huff declined to reveal the defendant's being named in his suit but indicated there would be more than one party.

Huff will try to recover "at least $1 million" in "punitive damages for gross negligence," he said.

Propositions drawing mixed views

By DANA PALMER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Unless you're drowning at the time, it's hard to vote against more water for Texas.

That's one reason why opponents to Proposition 4 on the Nov. 3 election ballot seem more worried these days than the proponents.

The amendment, in essence, calls for setting aside as much as half the state's excess tax revenue every two years in a so-called water trust fund to help finance water research, acquisition, treatment and distribution projects, as well as flood-prevention programs.

The other half would be set aside and used later for whatever the Legislature deems appropriate.

If approved, the amendment also would make the state's current water project bonds more attractive by raising the interest rate paid to investors from 6 to 12 percent, and would allow the state to use $500 million of its credit to guarantee up to $1 billion in water project bonds issued by cities and counties, as well as water and river districts.

The proposal, supporters say, will help Texas avert what could be a water deficit of 8.6 million acre-feet a year by 2030.

With 20 years needed to build new dams and reservoirs, they say, Texans must start thinking about water today.

Also, supporters argue that setting aside excess tax revenues, mostly generated by the booming oil and gas business, will mean lower taxes in the longrun.

Amendment 3 would create state financial committee

AUSTIN — Texans must decide Nov. 3 whether a seven-member committee headed by the governor should be calling the state's financial plays while the Legislature is away.

Those pushing Proposition 3, one of seven on the constitutional amendments election ballot, say that like a team whose head coach is seldom around to consult, the state needs some kind of budget leadership to fill the vacuum during the 19 months between legislative sessions.

Opponents, such as the consumer-oriented Common Cause of Texas, are quick to acknowledge the problem, but say Proposition 3 is not the answer for two reasons:

One, it lacks enough safeguards to protect against abuse.

Two, it lacks accountability to the voters because only two of the seven state officials on the committee are elected on a statewide basis.

"Basically, five of the members are locally elected and the voters of the state as a whole have no say-so as to the decisions of these five," says Robert Dahlquist, vice chairman of Common Cause of Texas.

The proposal would set up a committee consisting of the governor, lieutenant governor, House speaker, and the chairmen of the Senate Finance Committee, the Senate State Affairs Committee, the House Appropriations Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee.

Should the proposal pass Nov. 3, the Legislature already has restricted the committee's power for the time being to allocating only a few federal block grants — those that are targeted for more than one state agency.

But opponents add that they expect the committee's power to be broadened considerably after the Legislature has a chance to see how well it works.

"It could be used in the future to meet financial emergencies and would do away with the need for costly special sessions if the Legislature gives it the power," says Don Cavness, an Austin lobbyist and coordinator of the Sound Financial Management Committee for Texas.

Cavness' group is the main force pushing for adoption of Proposition 3 and it claims wide-ranging support.

"I don't think this is a liberal or conservative issue," says Cavness, but a financially responsible one.

As it is now, state government must make do with a biennial budget that takes more than a year to prepare.

That means state budget experts must look well into the future.

"The idea of having to estimate state needs three years ahead of time is outmoded," Cavness says.

He also notes that the current state budget process is so inefficient that during the recent special session, lawmakers made eight changes to a state budget passed only six weeks before during the regular legislative session.

Other selling points offered by proponents include:

- State agencies would operate more efficiently and be more accountable to the people if they received supervision from a state finance management committee.
- Budget emergencies that can't wait for the next legislative session could be handled with committee meetings instead of costly special sessions of the Legislature.

'It's apparent that Clayton is out to get me.'

Rep. Shaw optimistic about outcome of remap

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Weary and concerned, Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring said he is still optimistic about the outcome of House redistricting plans now being considered by a five member board composed of Speaker Billy Clayton, Comptroller Bob Bullock, Attorney General Mark White, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong.

The board is considering two plans: One drawn up by Speaker Clayton which pairs Rep. Shaw with Rep. Jerry Cockerham of Monahans, and one put together by Comptroller Bullock which is much more favorable to Rep. Shaw.

The Clayton plan would take away all of Shaw's 63rd

District except Howard County and give him a very large portion of West Texas that stretches almost to El Paso.

"It's apparent that Clayton is out to get me. The plan he has drawn up is a blatant attempt to get rid of me. The plan is as bad as they can make it for me," said Shaw in a phone interview with The Herald Tuesday.

Rep. Shaw said he favors Bullock's plan and he expects some form of the plan to be accepted as a final House redistricting decision.

Rep. Shaw said Clayton has had it in for him every since Shaw declined to become a part of the Speaker's "team."

"There are a lot of politics involved here, but basically Clayton dislikes me for three reasons. I supported John Bryant in the last speaker's race, I defeated one of Clayton's team committee chairmen (Rep. Mike Ezzell of Snyder) in the 63rd District race and the fact I opposed Clayton's first redistricting plan," said Shaw.

Clayton's first plan was declared unconstitutional after the Texas Supreme Court decided the plan unlawfully cut across county boundaries.

Clayton's plan would give Shaw a very large district of 300 miles. The counties included are Howard, Glasscock, Reagan, Upton, Crane, Wrinkler, Ward, Loving, Reeves, Jeff Davis, Culberson and Hudspeth. The plan would also pair him with Rep. Jerry Cockerham of Monahans forcing the two into a runoff for the district.

Bullock's plan does not pair Shaw with anyone and gives him a much more compact district comprised of the following counties: Martin, Howard, Borden, Scurry, Fisher, Nolan and Jones.

"If I'm paired with Jerry the plan favors him. I'll still have Howard County, but the rest of the district will be new to me. Out of 90,000 people in the district only the 33,000 in Howard County will know who I am," Shaw said.

Cockerham, although a supporter of the Clayton team, has never been really accepted by some team members because he defeated House Dean Richard Slack of Pecos, a Democrat in the 1980 general election, Shaw said.

"It's a way of getting rid of one of us," Shaw said. Shaw said he was waiting on the board to decide on the Senate redistricting plan. He was hoping for the board to deliberate most of Tuesday so that he would have more time work out some form of compromise between the two plans submitted by Bullock and Clayton.

Shaw got his wish as the board used up most of Tuesday deciding on a senate plan drawn up by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

The board is expected to meet Wednesday in an attempt to decide on a plan before the midnight deadline. Shaw said he is hoping that Bullock's plan will be supported by Attorney General White and Land Commissioner Armstrong. Shaw said if the board can't decide on one of the plans by midnight he expects the decision to be left up to the courts.

"I don't know what they may decide. I'm optimistic that things will go my way. There is a tremendous chain of power here and I'm a thorn in the flesh of Clayton's team politics because I chose to be independent. I'm not sure if some of the team members remember why they were elected, they just don't seem to listen to the people in their districts," Shaw said.

In Clayton's first redistricting plan that was declared unconstitutional Shaw was paired with House Dean Bill Healy of Paducah and the district covered 290 miles. This time Shaw is paired again and the district is spread out over 300 miles.

"It's the same song second verse, Billy Clayton sings the blues to us," Shaw said.

Patrolman Elias Franco was on patrol when he observed the suspects siphoning gasoline from a truck parked at the Villa Motel. Three ran, Franco caught one and with help from Sgt. Ray Williamson, the other two were tracked down within an hour.

The trio has been identified as 24-year-old Donald Lee De Salvo, 23-year-old Ronald De Salvo and 24-year-old Dale Lee Woods, Jr., all giving addresses in Pueblo, Colo.

Officers impounded a 1968 model car plus as containers, funnels and hoses. Police Chief Jimmy Roundtree commended the officers for their alert work in nabbing the suspects, who currently are residing in the Mitchell County Jail.

Season tickets on sale now

Hawks, Queens open season next week

Season tickets are now available for the Howard College Hawks and Hawk Queens basketball season, announced Howard College Athletic Director Harold Wilder.

Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for students. Tickets may be purchased at the Business Office of the Administration Building of Howard College or Wilder's office in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Season tickets will be good for both the Hawks and Queens games.

According to Wilder, "This year's Hawks team is going to be inexperienced, as we have only one returnee in six-foot Jerome Johnson. I am looking forward to a challenge that most coaches wouldn't even want to attempt in their coaching lives," said Wilder. "I'm taking a team with 14 freshmen and one letterman and preparing to throw them into the toughest junior college conference in the nation."

The Hawks open the season Tuesday, November 3, at 8 p.m. against Sul Ross JV's here in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The Hawk Queens are in a little better shape, as they have 5 returnees and 9 freshmen. Those returning are Cindy Robinson, 5'8" guard; Kellie Mull, 5'8" guard; Carol Wasserman, 5'9" wing; Carrie Lee Lutrick, 5'10" wing; and Melissa Luna, 6'3" post.

The Queens open the season on the road against Ranger Junior College, Tuesday, November 3. Then they travel to McLennan for one of the toughest tournaments of the year, the prestigious McLennan College Classic on November 4-6.

"It's going to be a long, tough struggle to win the conference this year with four veteran teams (HC, Western Texas, Clarendon and Amarillo), and we hope we're in the middle of it," said Stevens. "This team's strengths will be its overall talent, experience and great attitude. Defensively we have the potential to be the best ever," added Stevens.

Defense has been one of Stevens' trademarks as last year's squad led the Western Conference in overall defense.

Lady Steers whip Odessa

The Big Spring Lady Steers girls volleyball team ended a two-game losing streak in impressive fashion here Tuesday night, carving out a 15-2, 15-1 win over Odessa High in a 5-AAAAA second half contest.

The game, which marked the final home match for the BSHS crew of Coach Patty Purser, was never in doubt. The Lady Steer serving managed five aces and controlled the match.

"Our service was a major factor in the match. We never let them get their returns set up," Purser said.

Leading the BSHS offensive charge were Tracey Williams, Elise Wheat, Sylvia Randle and Amy Ragan, while Purser praised the defensive efforts of Janie Phillips and Lisa Majors.

Majors and Wheat were the leading servers point wise with eight, and each managed one ace. Phillips added five points, with Ragan adding four, Randle three and Stephanie Russell two. Russell and Randle both had aces.

The Lady Steers now finish up on the road against 5-AAAAA champion San Angelo, which clinched the second half title last night in a rout of Odessa Permian. San Angelo won the first half by topping Big Spring in the final game of that round-robin.

C-City girls warm up for playoffs

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado High girls' volleyball team wrapped up no worse than a tie for the district championship by whipping Clyde in consecutive sets Monday night.

Coach George Martin commented, "Good sets, serves and spikes and, most of all, team work put the 15-1 on the scoreboard."

In the second game, we wanted all the girls to play, so we sent in the second bunch. Later in that game, we had to sub in and get cranked up again to win 16-14."

Goliad girls end year in sweep

The Goliad volleyball team finished out its season with a win over Sweetwater Monday night.

Goliad White won 11-15, 15-1 and 15-11. Sonja Evans was high point server with 11, followed by Michelle Huisted and Karen Brodie with 10 and 6, respectively.

Coach Anna Ezzell cited Gloria Bustamente for outstanding setting and defense. Noted for net play and spiking were Tanya Ferguson, Teresa Adamson and Adrienne Allen.

For backcourt hustle Pam Grant and Rosie Garcia were mentioned.

The ninth grade finished the season 6-14.

The varsity and junior varsity will play Odessa High tonight at 6 and 7 p.m..

Steers fall to Midland Lee Rebels in lopsided contest, 48-6

By BOB CAPENTER
Staff Writer

MIDLAND — The potent offense of the Midland Lee Rebels put on a scoring show for Homecoming fans here Friday night by knocking off the Big Spring by the score of 48-6.

The game left the Steers winless in District 5-AAAAA competition and 2-5 for the year. Midland Lee is 4-1 in league play and 6-1 for the year.

The Rebels dominated from the opening kickoff as they marched down the field with their first possession and scored in 14 plays with quarterback Bart Ryan sneaking over from the one. Van Gravitt added the extra point and Lee was on top to stay with 6:46 left in the first quarter.

Big Spring, however, got a break late in the first quarter as Tracy Spence recovered an errant Lee pitchout on the Rebel 40 yard line.

Spence helped by the running of junior running back George Bancroft engineered an 11 play drive culminated by a three yard scoring pass from Spence to Scott Griffin. The extra point by Jody Dowdy was wide to left and with 9:06 left in the second quarter Lee was still ahead 7-6.

Lee then went to work with a methodical offense that consisted of fullback Calvin Riggs battering the Steer defensive front line and Troy Barber skirting the ends on power sweeps.

The Rebels scored with 6:44 left in the second period as Troy Barber went wide left and outran everybody for a 28 yard jaunt to paydirt. Gravitt kicked the conversion making the score 14-6.

In an unusual play the Rebels attempted an onside kickoff which caught the Steers offguard. Lee managed to recover the ball on the Steer 35 yard line and from there all they needed was one play as quarterback Bart Ryan hit end Kenneth Brown for a 35 yard touchdown. Gravitt's kick was blocked leaving the score at 20-6 with 6:22 left in the half.

Luck was definitely not with the Steers as Richard Evans fumbled the second half kickoff and Lee managed to pounce on the ball at the Big Spring 23 yard line.

The Rebels drove down to the Steer one yard line where Calvin Riggs dived over for the touchdown with 4:07 to go in the second quarter. Gravitt booted the conversion and Lee was rolling with a 27-6 lead at half-time.

Lee remained relentless in the second half not giving the Steer defense a chance to breathe. With 9:08 left in the third period Darren Williams swept wide left and tightroped down the sideline for six. Gravitt, a busy man during the night, booted the extra point making the score 34-6.

The Steers managed to get a bit of offense going late in the third quarter as quarterback Spence engineered a drive to the Rebel 26 yard line, but unfortunately Spence was stripped of the ball and Lee's David Nix came up with the fumble.

Midland Lee inserted a new quarterback, Chris Parker, into the game, but he proved to be deadly, firing a 65 yard scoring pass to Kevin Sparks with 11:15 left in the fourth quarter. Gravitt once again was true with his kick and the score now totaled 41-6.

The Steer's offense was unable to move the ball against the stiff Rebel defense and a fumbled pitchout late in the fourth period gave the Rebels one more chance at scoring. And score they did in six plays with Kevin Taylor driving up the middle for a 13 yard touchdown. Gravitt added the meaningless extra point and with 28 seconds remaining the scoreboard said 48-6.

The Steers will try to regroup in time to face the Cougars from Abilene in a District 5-AAAAA match in Big Spring next Friday.

TML confab delays council meeting

The Big Spring City Council meets a day later than usual this week because city officials attending a Texas Municipal League meeting in San Antonio won't be returning to town until tonight.

The Tuesday council meeting was postponed to accommodate the schedule of City Manager Don Davis, Mayor Clyde Angel, Airpark Manager Hal Boyd, Councilman Robert Fuller and Police Chief Elwood Hoherz, who are attending the TML meeting.

When the council convenes at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in City Hall room 205, it will consider several items of new business.

One of the items concerns the rental policy at the Dora Roberts Community Center. The city Parks and Recreation Board has recommended increasing the deposit for dances and functions which offer alcohol, as well as initiating a fee per chair and per table.

Another item before the council concerns a state grant to the police department. The $25,590 grant — which would cover 40 percent of the annual budget for the department's Major Crimes Task Force, according to Hoherz — must be formally accepted by the city council before the state may dispense the grant.

In other state matters, the council will consider resolutions supporting passage of two of the seven constitutional amendments Texans will vote on next Tuesday. They are Proposition 1, the development-through-tax-incentive amendment, and Proposition 4, the water projects amendment.

The council also will consider raising the speed limit on W. 11th Place from 40 to 45 miles per hour from approximately 200 feet west of Abrams to F.M. 700. The city Traffic Commission has urged approval of the change.

In matters coming up for their second and final vote, the council is expected to announce the city's intention to lease about 400 acres for oil and gas exploration.

The council also is expected to award bids for the first phase of the city's capital improvements program.

Included in the council's agenda packet for members' perusal is a letter from state Sen. Roy Blake to Don Davis reporting on the success of Blake's bill to reduce state unemployment insurance payments.

Net income for Denny's breaks record

Denny's, Inc. (NYSE) today reported that net income for the first quarter ended Sept. 25, 1981 increased 41.4 percent compared to the same period a year ago and that revenues increased 15.7 percent. Net income and revenues were records for the quarter.

Revenues for the quarter were $241,251,000 compared to $208,461,000 a year ago. Net income was $10,704,000 compared to $7,589,000. Earnings per share were $1.08 compared to 87 cents. There were about 1,179,000 more shares outstanding in the quarter ended Sept. 1981 than in the previous year, principally as the result of a stock offering in May 1981.

Vern O. Curtis, president, said that the rate of increase of sales at the Denny's Restaurant Division continued during the first quarter at the fine level achieved during the past few months. He said that operating income and margins of the Winchell's Donut House Division continued to improve and were considerably better than the comparable period a year ago.

Larry Don Shaw/Reports from Austin

Budget power grab rears head again

In last year's general election, the voters of Texas soundly defeated a proposed constitutional amendment that would have given the Governor budget-execution authority over funds appropriated by the Legislature. (Actions by the Governor would have required the approval of a budget-execution committee consisting of the Governor, the Lt. Governor and the Speaker of the House.)

Now it's general election time again and, lo and behold, another budget-execution amendment is rearing its sinister head as Proposition 3.

This year's version would allow the creation of a state finance management committee to manage the expenditure of appropriated funds. This committee would consist of the Governor (chair), Lt. Governor (vice-chair), the House Speaker, and the chairs of the Finance committee and State Affairs Committee of the Senate and the Appropriations Committee and Ways and Means Committee of the House. Of these, only the Governor and the Lt. Governor are elected by voters statewide. The Speaker is elected by the House, and the committee chairs are appointed by the Speaker and the Lt. Governor.

I am opposed to Proposition 3, and I urge its defeat at the polls.

In my opinion, this amendment would tamper with the fundamental constitutional principle of separation of powers. The proposed committee could assume some of the budget management power that properly belongs to the executive branch, and some of the budget-setting power that properly belongs only in the legislative branch, on the basis of purely political considerations. And while finance committee members running for re-election or aspiring to higher offices, "logrolling" and political favoritism might prevail over the professional judgment of state agency administrators.

In short, it would be possible for this small committee — by transferring funds between agencies or between programs within an agency — to eliminate programs, commit the state to new programs and, in effect, circumvent the intent of the people's elected representatives in the Legislature.

It's bad policy, and the voters should put the idea to rest once and for all on Nov. 3.

This amendment would create enormous potential for abuse in the form of mutual back-scratching by the Governor, Lt. Governor and Speaker.

The proper function of the Legislature is to create or approve policies for the various agencies of the executive branch, establish a legal framework, appropriate funds for the programs, and then let professional administrators run them as non-politically as possible.

If Proposition 3 passes, we will be inviting political meddling by an all-powerful, seven-member state finance committee, six of whom are legislative leaders. The committee's power could be used to harass agencies. Funds could be transferred from one program to another

C-City trustees to try energy-saving system

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Colorado City school trustees have decided to go ahead with an energy management system which guarantees lower electricity bills.

The decision to try the system came during a special meeting of the board Monday night.

School Supt. Charlie Uselton explained, "As you know, we've been studying such a system for a long time, a system whereby we can control the amount of electricity and gas we use in our school system. Honeywell will be the main programming system, with a micro-computer."

Uselton continued, "We can control our own usage of electricity and gas in all our schools, as well as in the administration offices. We've been guaranteed a 20 percent savings on our utility bills, which means we can pay for the system in two years."

The energy-saving system was purchased from Oliver Energy Masters, Inc., Lubbock, at a cost of $63,591. Uselton said installation will begin within two weeks, just as soon as the equipment arrives. The superintendent said, "This is a guaranteed system. We have to be totally satisfied or the system will be removed at no cost. It has been highly recommended to us by local utility officials and we're looking forward to utilizing it."
