WEBB OUTLINES RAIL CONDITIONS

Assistant General Passenger Agent, O. B. Webb of The Texas Pacific Talks to Sweetwater Club

TELLS OF DESTRUCTIONISTS

Raps La Follette and Magnus Johnson Type of Public Men Who Would Disarrange the Situation

Fifty members and guests of Sweetwater Luncheon Club attended the regular meeting at the Wright Hotel this noon. Following the dinner and the introduction of guests, Chairman Doak introduced the speaker, O. B. Webb, assistant general passenger agent of the Texas & Pacific Railroad.

Declaring the steady upward progress the railroads have made since the Transportation Act of 1920 became operative is the best possible proof of the value of that piece of legislation, and challenging "those radical politicians of the La Follette, Brookhart, Magnus Johnson type" who he charged are trying to destroy the Transportation Act and get the Interstate Commerce Commission's tentative valuation of the railroads reduced in order to bring about Government ownership of the railroads and foster their own selfish political ambitions.

According to Mr. Webb, the railroads are today moving the greatest tonnage in their history—the movement for the past seven months being the greatest in the history of railroading; yet, instead of being 149,000 cars behind in their orders, as he states they were on Oct. 16th, 1920 (the year the Transportation Act became operative) they today, at the peak of the greatest tonnage movement ever known, have a surplus of over 30,000 cars, with every indication that they will wind up this busy season without having had any serious car shortage.

Mr. Webb credited this happier situation partly to the Transportation Act, which he stated had helped to stabilize the railroad situation and make it possible for the roads to secure some new money which had been used to put the roads in better shape to do the job, and partly to greater efficiency in railway management, one result of which was the speeding up of the movement of freight cars—the speaker declaring that despite the fact that the roads actually had less cars than a year ago, by making each car travel nearly 20 per cent more miles per day, they had added the equivalent to 425,000 cars to their ability to serve the public.

Referring to the enormous increase in cost of everything that goes into producing transportation, Mr. Webb cited a Pacific-type passenger engine of the T. & P.'s 700 class, which he stated cost $23,500 in 1913 but cost $62,000 now—with cost of other power and equipment having increased proportionately (the speaker stated the T. & P. receivers had bought nearly five million dollars worth of new locomotives since 1916) and declared that while the roads had, by cutting out unnecessary jobs and otherwise adding to the economy and efficiency of operation, been able to reduce freight rates 13 per cent below the peak, and were anxious to make such further reductions as were possible without going below the danger line, rates couldn't go much lower until wages and operating costs come down; that the roads now pay out for operating expenses and taxes alone, 85 cents out of every dollar they get under present rates, leaving the monly 15 cents out of the dollar for interest charges, dividends, new facilities, betterments, etc.

According to Mr. Webb, railway rates are today one of the cheapest commodities on the market, as compared with pre-war prices. He stated the roads got seven tenths of a cent for hauling a ton of freight one mile in 1913 as against one one-tenth cents first quarter of this year—an increase of 54 per cent; that they got a fraction over 2c for carrying a passenger one mile in 1913, as against three and one tenth cents first quarter of this year—an increase of 55 per cent; while the average wholesale price of 200 representative commodities had, according to a noted economist, increased 61 per cent during that time.

Referring to the Interstate Commerce Commission's tentative valuation of the railroads, which Mr. Webb stated had been made after ten years' earnest exhaustive work, under an

MUST HAVE LICENSE

Mexican Government Will Not Permit Unauthorized Hunting

DEL RIO, Texas, Oct. 25.—No hunting will be allowed in Mexico unless a hunting license is first issued, according to H. Valdez, Mexican Consul here. There are two classes of these. One is for commercial purposes, with a fee of 30 pesos; the other for sport purposes which is entirely personal, with a fee of 10 pesos. Each license runs for one year from date of issuance.

The only person authorized to issue such licenses is the agent of the department of agriculture at Torreon, Coahuila, Mexico. All applications must be sent direct to him.

Valdez warns prospective hunters against hunting deer in vacant and national lands due to the scarcity of the animals in recent years. Deer are about to pass out here due to several years of drouthy weather.

And Valdez says that if any are caught hunting without a permit they will be fined from five to 500 pesos and their arms will be confiscated.

No arms of any sort will be permitted to cross the Rio Grande without the official permit of the war department of the Mexican government at Mexico City.

Valdez says that of recent years a good many Americans who have been hunting along the river have silently and stealthily crept across to bag game expecting to "get by" without being seen. He says that the department of agriculture this year is more vigilant and wardens are placed in covert and unlikely places so that any intruder into Mexican territory, not fulfilling the conditions of that government will be snatched up and given whatever fine that the case justifies.

GERMAN CROWN PRINCE ACTIVE IN A FIST FIGHT

is Trying to Arrange a Return to Germany in Attempt to Reorganize Fatherland, May Do It

FIGHTING CONTINUES ON RHINE

Separatists And Others Engage In Hostilities at Aix La Chapelle For Control of The City

With the former Crown Prince reported negotiating to return to Germany to aid in the reorganization of the Fatherland, Chancellor Stresemann was today attempting to reorganize the Reich into a federation of some sort in an attempt to ward off the dismemberment threatened by the Separatists in Saxon, Bavaria and between the Socialists and Communists.

Fighting continued furiously in Aix La Chappelle with the Separatists trying to regain the center of the city from which they had been driven by citizens loyal to the Reich.

Several police and citizens are reported killed. In other parts of the newly proclaimed Rhineland Republic, there were signs that the fighting would settle down into a guerrilla warfare unless the Separatists withdrew.

Hamburg was quiet today with the exception of one suburb where several police and marines were killed in routing out a group of communists.

President Zeigner of Saxony has warned the Central government of the danger of giving Gen. Mueller too free a hand with the reinforcements sent him to preserve order there.

HEAVY FIGHTING

By The United Press. BERLIN, Oct. 25.—Heavy fighting in Aix La Chappelle between Separatists and citizens loyal to the Reich has been in progress since daybreak. The dispatches received here said.

Many have been killed and wounded. The forces of the rival parties are wavering and it is impossible to tell which is in control. The Separatists are attempting to regain the heart of the city from which they were driven late last night.

PRINCE MAY RETURN

By The United Press. BERLIN, Oct. 25.—The former crown prince of Germany has asked permission to return to Germany. After a vigorous correspondence between the Prince and Chancellor Stresemann, the latter laid the matter before the Cabinet for a decision. Socialists in the Cabinet are embarrassed by the request and no decision has been reached. Some members of the cabinet admit they can see no reason why he should not be allowed to return.

The Dutch government has agreed to the request on condition that the Crown Prince does not ask to return.

ASK EXHIBITS

Entrants and exhibitors are urged by the Sorosis Club to bring their specimens to the Armory Friday morning between the hours of 9:30 and 11:30 a. m. and 2:00 and 6:00 p. m. and not later than 9:00 a. m. Saturday.

There will be a program in the afternoon, and also in the evening Saturday.

LOOT REMOVED MAX LEVY DIES

Postoffice Inspectors Drill Into Safety Deposit Box in Dallas Bank But There Was No $10,000

By The United Press. DALLAS, Oct. 25.—Postoffice inspectors who drilled into a safety deposit box in the Southwestern National Bank here failed to get $10,000 in currency which they had expected to find.

The currency was alleged to have been stolen from the mails at Fort Worth recently. Federal authorities are searching for a man named Francis who it is believed placed the currency in the box in the bank. Inspectors who have been on the trail of the money since it was stolen believe that the money was placed in the box after the theft and then following a "tip" the money was removed a day or so ago.

Frank and Laclaire Robertson are spending the day at Hamlin on business.

Deputy Sheriff Walter Henderson will go before the grand jury in connection with the shooting.

Sheriff Satterwhite of Howard County and Sheriff Johnston of Lubbock County were here aiding local authorities in taking care of the situation, which threatened to become a little ugly at one time, when some of the young man's friends started to take up the matter.

TURKEYS START JOURNEY NORTH

First Poultry Pool of Entire Southwest Will Get Under Way Here This Coming Week With Shipments

TO ADVANCE 50 PER CENT

Pool Has Been Financed And Advance Money Assured—List of Receivers Appointed For Other Towns

Cars of West Texas Turkeys will soon be rolling north for the Thanksgiving markets.

Although small shipments of poultry have been coming in, the first Farm Bureau poultry association of the entire Southwest is expected to get into operation this coming week.

The movement started in Nolan County, spread to other West Texas counties and now there are associations at San Angelo, and Abilene as well as at Sweetwater, all of them selling through a Dallas sales office known as the Texas Farm Bureau Poultry Producers Exchange, under the direction of George T. Platt, who in the past has been connected with California and Vancouver co-operative poultry associations.

Throughout this section, farmers will take their poultry to various receiving points throughout the area. As soon as a carload is accumulated, it will be sold by the Dallas office.

Growers will receive fifty per cent of their money for the produce at the time of delivery at the current market price, according to B. W. Eaton, who is in charge of the Sweetwater Association. The balance will be forthcoming as soon as the poultry is marketed, minus the expenses of operating the association, freight, etc. The finances have been arranged so that the fifty per cent can be advanced, Mr. Eaton said.

In the Sweetwater district, cold storage has been arranged at Snyder and poultry and turkey will be prepared for shipping there. The poultry will be pooled weekly and the turkeys every thirty days. The Thanksgiving turkey season is expected to open shortly.

Certain days will be appointed to receive poultry from the farmers at each of the following named places. This will enable it to be handled better by the Association, to keep a steady stream of it flowing into the warehouse instead of a flood one day and none the next.

The following have been designated as poultry receiving points:

- W. J. Cooper, Loraine.
- W. B. Hargraves, Maryneal.
- E. W. Adams' Champion.
- M. E. Smith, Roscoe.
- Copeland Brothers, Roscoe.
- National Mercantile Co., Roby.

RAIN GENERAL

Moisture Reported From Entire Panhandle Area—Started Last Night And Continuing Today

Rain which started falling about 1 o'clock here today had amounted to about a quarter of an inch up to the hour of going to press with every indication that more would follow.

Reports from the Santa Fe indicated that the rain was general throughout the Panhandle. A heavy rain fell between Lubbock and Canyon last night and the downpour continued practically the entire day on the Slaton Division.

Reports from the T-P showed the downpour extended from Abilene to Big Spring.

The weather forecast predicted more rain tonight and Friday, colder. Misses Mable Spann and Stella Watson returned Thursday morning from Dallas where they have been visiting the State Fair.

WHAT TO DO

The city commission of Abilene, and in no less degree the citizens of Abilene, have one of the gravest problems that has ever confronted them to solve and solve quickly.

The city is in a precarious condition, financially. It is a condition that is due altogether to circumstances. It is a condition that can be ameliorated only by action.

There seems to be but two possible solutions of the present difficulty. One way would be to call an election to change the charter so that the present tax rate of $2.20 could be raised to $2.50, or thereabouts, using the extra thirty cents for the schools. The alternative plan would be to call an election and vote upon the question of creating an independent school district, under which the school tax could be increased from the present fifty cents to as much as one dollar.—Abilene Reporter.

MR. ADAMS IS A FUNNY FELLOW

If it is granted that an argument is only as strong as its weakest premise, any defense of the superprotective tariff philosophy is bound to a sort of perpetual anemia. This truth is recalled anew in those interludes between busy seasons in the window frame and sash industry when the guiding genius of The National Republicans find time to rush again to the assistance of Mr. Fordney's monument.

If the latest effort of Mr. Adams and his editor to set the country right in this field of economics, the pair cover considerable ground and two centuries. Messrs. Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Calhoun, Buchanan and Lincoln figure in the romance and such extraneous matters as states' rights, greenbackism, free silver and slavery are incidentals to the tale. The authors detour in rather impressive style for a time but eventually are obliged to return to the main theme of their discourse. Presently they find themselves saying this:

"The American people are not complaining because foreign imports are bearing half a billion dollars of the cost of running our government."

Since the truth is, of course, that the increased cost of imported articles growing out of super-tariffs is paid by no one on earth but the consumer here in America, this euphemism appears to constitute a particularly weak link in Mr. Adams' argument, and one which relieves the reader of further obligation to pursue the harangue to its end of he felt any in the beginning.

PLANS EXPANSION

Amarilloans Would Increase B. C. D. Expenditures This Year

Special to The Reporter.

AMARILLO, Oct. 25.—Brought to a realization of the possibilities of cotton here by the success of the first year's crop in Potter county, the Board of City Development of Amarillo is planning an extensive campaign to convert this area into a cotton producing country. A committee from the Board flanked by bankers and citizens representing nearly every organization in the city, appeared before the city commission at its regular session and requested that the allowance for the B. C. D. be increased in order that the campaign to settle this section of the state with farmers might be carried out.

It was one of the most enthusiastic meetings of local citizens on a development project held here in weeks. It was the consensus of opinion among those present that the day of the large ranch is over in the Panhandle and that Amarillo would profit more by turning these great tracts of fertile land into small farms than through any other agency.

It was pointed out that according to the city charter two mills of dollar assessed valuation may be used by the board, which if used to the limit would allow $4,700 monthly, while the board is now operating on a monthly budget of $1350, and asked the commission to increase the present allowance by $1000.

Mrs. J. L. Stephenson, Mrs. J. D. Dulaney and daughter, Mrs. John Perry and little son, are at Amarillo attending the district meeting of the Eastern Star.

Act fathered and put thru Congress by Senator La Follette himself, who declared before the Senate in 1910 that all the roads of the country could be valued at a cost of not exceeding $2,400,000, and that such valuation would in one year save the country in transportation charged 150 times its cost, the speaker stated over $85,000,000 had already been spent by the Government and the railroads on this gigantic task which LaFollette had said could be done for $2,400,000 and that because the results proved the roads were not over-capitalized, La Follette now wishes to use the market value of railroads stocks as basis for valuing the roads, instead of basis used by the Commission and provided in his own act.

Referring to Senator La Follette's recent "valuation congress" and its proposal to cut Ten Billion Dollars off the Commission's tentative valuation of the roads, Mr. Webb stated this would set a value of $18,400 per mile for the larger railroads of the country, as against $36,801, the average cost of building an ordinary hard-surfaced country road, which hard surface roads of course doesn't have to include anything for terminals, round-houses, yards, telegraph lines, shops, station buildings, etc., as does the railroads, that five billion dollars cut off the valuation would only reduce freight rates about four per cent, as only the net earnings of the railroads would be affected but that such a cut would wipe out the railroads net earnings, destroy their ability to secure new money, and force Government ownership, the ultimate aim of these "destructionists" which the speaker said was a better name for them than radicals.

Nolan county came through last week and voted $600,000 for good roads by a majority of five to one. Sweetwater voted ten to one for the bonds and is determined to put the county out of the mud. With $800,000 in state and federal aid, it is expected that 125 miles of highway can be erected, 70 miles of it hard surfaced. Taylor and Callahan counties have voted bonds for good highways, enabling 100 miles of hard-surfaced highways to the east of Nolan county. The Bankhead Highway runs thru Nolan County and the permanent highways will be a great boost to that trans-continental thoroughfare.—Amarillo News.
