CHECKING A CAREER

When Ogden L. Mills, rich young man, decided to devote his career to politics and public service, his ambition was approved. It was held up as good example to other young men. But one day recently Mr. Mills took advantage of an occasion to say a few words in violent rebuke of Mayor Hylan for making a political football of the New York traction problem. And the Mayor replied:

"You would hardly expect Ogden L. Mills, who has been reared in a traction atmosphere, far from the common run of people, and who inherited about $10,000,000, a large part of which is invested in public utilities, particularly traction to say anything else. When you consider that this administration in the past seven years has prevented Mills and his traction friends from getting over $400,000,000 in increased car fares, you have another reason why he might be kind things about me." Ogden then put his hand to his forehead, as if he had during the Lenten season and he simply must do something to attract traction attention, and his attack upon me last night will receive salvous of approval in his exclusive traction set.

A WORTHY CHURCH

The April number of the American Magazine has an article about Trinity Church of New York, the oldest church in America.

Whether or not one can find out the denominational leaning of the church he is impressed with the fact that there is more than merely an edifice at the head of Wall street. Trinity church has a soul, it has life. There is an invisible something that inspires one to greater things and a better life. Truly this is a house of God; a refuge and strength, a present help in time of trouble for many a person, torn by the cares of the world. Such a church, Christ intended that His churches should be. Every church that has more intake than output is supping Christianity and is without excuse for existence. A church ministering and manifesting Christ to the world must be a ministering church. Modern churches must either have the spirit of Christ or make of His house a mockery and waste.

A STRANGE GREIVANCE

There was a convention of the American Granite association at Washington. It was not a tumultuous event as the well known mass meeting of the silvermiths at Ephesus, led by the spirited Demetrius, which had to be quieted by the town clerk in the name of the law, but it had like grievance. For city planners and landscape engineers are beginning to overhaul the character of the nation's graveyard. They have decreed that it is no longer in good form for men to build monuments to themselves. They would institute so called park cemeteries, from which makers should be excluded and nothing but grass and flowers and shrubbery permitted to appear over the graves. This intended custom had no appeal to the favor of the granite association, no more than Paul's witness for a living God cheered craftsmen who had some grain from making images to Diana. Its convention speakers all referred to the new idea in "God's Acres" as only "undegraded cemeteries dolled up a little." A committee was appointed to combat a fad that would destroy a memorial business nearly as ancient as the first casualties in the Garden of Eden. Human nature fights on the side of the monument association. Not many individuals want to sleep in a suppleher as unknown and unseen as that of Moses, glorious as the latter's was, seeing that it was the whole earth. Beside the innovation might make trouble for justice. In large cities like Chicago, which every few weeks has to go exploring around in graveyards to exhume the remains of prominent citizens suspected of having died from being poisoned, what would happen if the caretaker should lose the plot of the so-called park burying grounds and the sheriff's, bailiffs and coroners would not know where to begin to dig? All things considered, on this cause the granite men will not be called reactionaries and die hard for standing pat.

BILIOUSNESS Retired Minister Tells How He Keeps in Good Form With the Assistance of Black-Draught.

West Graham, Va.—The Rev. Lewis Evans, a well-known retired minister, 80 years past 80, living here, has a high opinion of Black-Draught, which he says he has taken when needed, for 25 years. "For years I had been suffering with my liver," he says, "sometimes the pain would be very intense and my back would hurt all the time. Black-Draught was the first thing I found that would give me any relief. My liver has always been sluggish. Sometimes it gives me a lot of trouble. I have suffered a lot with it—pains in my side and back, and had headaches, caused from extreme biliousness. "After I found Black-Draught, I would begin to take it as soon as I felt a spell coming on and it relieved the cause at once. I can recommend it to anybody suffering from liver trouble. A dose or two now and then keeps me in good form." Made from selected medicinal roots and herbs, and containing no dangerous mineral drugs, Black-Draught is nature's own remedy for a host of ailments. Trade-Mark. BLACK-DRAUGHT LIVER MEDICINE

CAILLAUX'S TRIUMPH

Joseph Caillaux's return to favor in France through his appointment as minister of finance in the new Painleve cabinet, is one of the most remarkable upheavals in French politics since the war. To those who believed all the poisoned stories of atrocities and evil motives that the war's deliberate propaganda or hysteria caused one people to charge against another this elevation of Caillaux is like preferring a traitor to a patriot. But in fact it is nothing of the sort. Caillaux was crucified and later exiled because in days preceding the war he had the vision to see that France would gain nothing but debt, death, misery from association with it upon the plan by which its diplomats and generals had contrived to direct that benefit to France and to Europe would spring from the detachment of his nation from any alliance or agreement committing it to war against Germany or against any other of its neighbors. He was for advancing the cause of France by peaceful instead of warlike efforts. Naturally when war broke out, with France well prepared, and the general staff triumphant, Caillaux immediately became both despised and outcast for having held these views. But his most violent enemies, even with the aid of a court, under stimulus of wartime emotions, could not convict him of any overt treasonable act. The fact that he is now recalled to the most important place in the new government, since it was a financial and business crisis that brought the fall of the Herriot ministry, will give him a chance to prove his real worth to the nation. The recall of Necker to a like post in the days of the grand monarch, after a fickle and corrupt court had decreed

PALACE The quaintly charming old lady immortalized in canvas by Whistler's famous painting of his mother, is now moving about in her stately Victorian manner for the moving picture screen. And her screen incarnation is none other than Norma Talmadge. Imagine Norma playing a woman of 73! That is exactly what happens in "Secrets" at the Palace today. "Secrets" is the heart story of a woman's 55 years of married life from girlhood to old age. And Norma bridges the lapse of time in a true to life manner, showing the effect of passing years with the growth of the drama.

A Governor's Wife Who Does All Her Own Housework

You remember the story—quite a sensation in the daily papers. She entertains, she pays her calls, she presides at club meetings—and does every bit of the cooking, cleaning and laundry work in a twenty-one room house. Marvellous of course, but most of us marvel not so much how she does it, but why she does it. A Governor's wife—the First Lady of the State! Why does she ever do such menial labor? She doesn't. Housework isn't menial labor in this day and age. Electricity comprises a staff of servants, thoroughly trained and highly specialized. Electricity cleans the rugs, washes the dishes, irons the clothes, cooks the meals. The housewife is House Manager. She has but to direct the work of the force at her command.

Chesterfield's popularity was won on taste alone

Put a ring around that word - and don't forget it!

Taste! That one word explains Chesterfield's enormous popularity. "They satisfy," because they contain the richest, mellowest tobaccos that money can buy. And they're mild, because these tobaccos are blended in just the right proportions for taste and aroma. It's a blend of unique character and it can't be copied! No wonder smokers everywhere are changing from all kinds of cigarettes to Chesterfield.

OLD TREES IN SPRING

There is a quiet glamour to old trees, A fragrant breath—especially in spring— That soothes the soul. No heated clatter scorns Their tranquil shade. No restless heart bewails Their solemn, stately grace. No roving foot Turns from their easy avenues—in spring. Much like old men they nod beneath the sun, Proud of their scars. And here and there one stands Shorn of arm, bit by the darting lance That rules the storm. And some hang heavily, Mute evidence of sudden wrath that caught them unawares. Some random tempest struck At night, and morning found them strained and bent, Now every year their backs ache in the spring. Old trees, kind trees, what memories they keep Though outama binds them to forgetfulness They wake in spring with hands outstretched and hearts Alive and lips athirst to every breeze. No murmur of their hundred years—but they Recall its whim, or tryst, or song of love. No bitter sigh but grieves through all their days. Forget? How can old trees forget in spring!

Mrs. L. B. Stennott will leave for Dallas Tuesday, where she goes to place her little three years old daughter, Evelyn, in the Shriners' Hospital for crippled children at the city of the spine. She expects to be gone six months.

Parent Teachers Association

The P. T. A., East Ward, present tonight, Simmons College Glee Club, 32 girls, in songs, music and comedy. At high school, 8 p. m. 68-1tdc.

My husband in his relations with other women may be always be right - but my husband, right or wrong.

This was the code of one wife—a wife who knew her husband—his past—his present. It's the basis of a drama so strong in theme that only an artist such as Norma Talmadge could portray it.
