EUROPE LEARNS LITTLE FROM WAR

Bellows Applied to Trouble Again Before War Anvil is Cooled—War is Talked

RIDICULE LEAGUE OF NATIONS
No Chance of Germany and U. S. Joining—All European Countries Glaring at Each Other

By United Press.
LONDON, April 30.—Europe is said to have learned nothing and forgotten everything about the world war.

The anvil on which war is forged has scarcely cooled, and the bellows are again being applied to the crackling embers.

While the statesmen of Europe, standing jauntily before the footlights are tuning their harps to peaceful melodies, the muffled clanging of impatient armies is heard off-stage.

The question most frequently asked among the audience in this European arena is not, "Will there be another war?" but "When will it begin?" and "Where will it break out?"

While the statesman's Jazz Band plays those Peace-time Blues, the insistent martial drums will intrude with disconcerting rattle.

Without the United States, Germany and Russia, the League of Nations finds its pacific influence turned into an object of unreserved cynicism throughout wide circles of the continent. Even if Germany is admitted to the League, it remains to be seen whether the politicians of the Reich will be able to surmount the disbelief of the German millions in the League efficacy.

As for Russia, a recent conference of foreign correspondents at the Moscow foreign office. A Gerban correspondent had just asked the high Soviet official, who was presiding where the Soviet Union would join the League. There was a moment of tense silence. The mouth of the Soviet spokesman turned upward into a slow smile.

Another correspondent suddenly laughed outright and in a moment the whole conference was enjoying the joke. What? Somebody taking the League seriously? Loud guffaws from the assembled multitude. The German newspaper man, who had put the question grinned sheepishly. No, if you mention the League of Nations in Moscow, you must keep your tongue in the cheek—or take the consequences of ridicule.

Of course there are other projects. You hear much nowadays of the outlawry of war and the Hague tribunal. But while these schemes remain what Senator Borah calls "Buildings without foundations"—buildings where enterprising lawyers may exercise their forensic skill—Europe, the real Europe, continues in a cauldron of national and economic rivalries, simmering now, but with a glowing tendency to boil over, turbulently.

Britain warily watches France's huge air fleet assume greater dimensions, while France sees her naval power relegated to an uncertain fourth place. In the Saar and Rhineland, restless populations are alternately having their national passions inflamed by France and Germany.

In Central Europe, German chauvinism is recovering momentum. Austria, with four-fifths of her former industry delivered to Czechoslovakia, withers from economic impotence. Czechoslovakia still nursing a grudge against Poland for the Tesczen "plebiscite", is wondering when the Hungarian irredentists will strike out. And meanwhile the burly Slovaks cry "Autonomy!" and the German-Bohemian jingoes await the moment when Ger-

Make Nolan County Acres More Efficient

Efficiency in Industry is secured by arranging increased output per man. Efficiency in Agriculture is secured by increasing the output per acre. There are ways to make Nolan County acres produce more cotton and more feed. Experienced farmers know how. County Agent Calvert knows how. The more cotton and feed produced per acre, the more return for the farm operator. The more cotton produced per acre, the greater the prosperity for everyone.

There are "More Cotton Per Acre" Contests in Texas. Why not one for Nolan County? Why not let business interests of the County raise a cash premium of $500 to $1,000 to be awarded in a series of prizes for the most cotton per acre, the most feed per acre?

Such a proposition, if started at all, should be started now. The Reporter would be glad to hear from all who are interested in this proposition. Especially we would like to hear from farmers who would be interested in entering such a contest. Write or phone the editor of the Reporter.

"William Scott Stewart, Shepherd's attorney met me in a newspaper office," Clark said. "He filled me up on Scotch whiskey and then offered me $5,000 to change my testimony. He said all I needed to do was to sign an affidavit denying all I had testified to previously."

"Stewart threatened to prosecute me for an abortion if I refused but I told him to go ahead—he didn't have anything on me."

Clarke, who had testified previously at the inquest, was the first witness to link Shepherd with Dr. C. C. Faiman, the dapper president of a questionable correspondence medical school. Clarke was once in the employ of a Faiman's "National University of Science."

MORE RAIN ADDS TO APRIL TOTAL

Total .34 Inches Received in Sweetwater in 24 Hours Ending Thursday Morning, April 30

ENTIRE SECTION WELL SOAKED

Sufficient Moisture in Ground Everywhere to Plant—Thermometer Down to 48 Degrees

Another .34 inch of rain fell in Sweetwater during the 24 hours ending Thursday morning, April 30, bringing the total for April to 4.86 inches, according to the rain gauge at the Sweetwater Vulcanizing Co. There was some sleet mixed in with the moisture, while Clovis, on the New Mexico Panhandle line, claimed to have received snow.

According to the Santa Fe territory from Sweetwater to Lubbock including the Lamesa branch and all other sections, have been well soaked so that planting can proceed. North of Lubbock the rains have been spotted with the 100 mile stretch from Lubbock to Clovis still dry. Good rains enough to plant on have been received to the south as well. Coleman's new lake has not filled up yet, it was reported, but sufficient rain to plant has been received.

San Angelo received .58 of an inch of rain, as well as some snow during the past twenty-four hours and nearly five inches have been recorded there in April. The territory surrounding has been well soaked, the drenching reaching all the way to Sweetwater.

The Texas and Pacific reports general rains along its line east and west but lighter west and heavier east.

Twenty three cars of ballast screenings were shipped through Sweetwater by the Texas and Pacific Wednesday night for ballast reinforcement along the line in the vicinity of Big Spring.

Rains during the past several days have filled lakes along the tracks in that section, it was reported here, and in some instances practically washed away the ballast.

Recent rains have temporarily halted the process of cleaning out the water well below the Lake Trammell dam, water commissioner Musgrove announced Thursday. Work began on the project Monday.

The well is already walked with brick, and the only work necessary is cleaning the settlement of dirt from the well and installing pipes and pumps.

The engines for the pump house are ready after a general overhauling, and a pump has been ordered.

PARIS IS WORRIED

Special Precautions Taken in French Capital—Raids By Police Numerous—Riot in Sofia

By United Press.
LONDON, April 30.—Fear that the arrival of May Day tomorrow might be a signal for concerted Communist outbreaks, police of France, Italy, Bulgaria, Estonia, Hungary and Rhineland today took action. Special precautions were also taken in Great Britain and other countries in Europe, as authorities gathered evidence of a wide spread international plot of Red outbreaks.

Eleven communists were arrested in Paris with automatic revolvers and ammunition in their possession. Raids conducted for the last three days thru the French capital has disclosed stores of explosives. A huge infernal machine was discovered in a railway station near Riga, apparently designed to wreck a special train carrying the Estonian president and many government officials.

PLAN FOR TRIP

Mineral Wells Convention Committee Meet Thursday—Will Use Train If Rain Continues

Further discussion of the Sweetwater trip to Mineral Wells featured the committee meeting in the office of the Board of City Development Thursday morning with especial reference to the condition of roads relative to the proposed automobile caravan.

The committee decided that if rain prevented the use of cars that railroad transportation would be used, with coats, checkers as baggage. Special round trip rate of one and one half fares will prevail on all railroads for the Convention and some individuals plan to use this method rather than the automobile in any event. Without pullman the fare is $10.53.

There will be about 35 members of the band taken. A few of the boys are not being taken owing to unsatisfactory grades in school work.

Continued enthusiasm for the trip is very much in evidence, the committee reported, and everything points to a large delegation at the Convention. It is again emphasized that everyone who is going, register at the B. C. D. office.

BOOST

There has not been any slackening in the path of progress in West Texas at any time but since the recent rain there has been a stimulation of unparalleled magnitude.

The usage of battle has been thrown at the feet of Sweetwater in the friendly rivalry that prevails in West Texas. This city has never shrunk from any contest or that sort nor does it pretend to do so now.

Among the things expected of us at this time is a big delegation at Miner at Wells Convention next week. Now is the time to make up your mind to be among the Sweetwater boosters at the premier convention of Texas and to let the State know this town is most emphatically on the map.

CIRCULATION

With the thought of better serving Sweetwater and this section of West Texas ever uppermost in mind, steady improvements in the Reporter, planned several years ago, have been partially carried out in the past few months. This week has brought to a close a great circulation campaign, which is the entire trade territory of this section has been blanketed with subscriptions secured by the faithful participation of the day.

Prizes have been awarded winners in the drive. The Reporter extends sincere congratulations and best wishes to the winners who by their earnest efforts and hard work have secured the highest votes. And to all the other workers in the mammoth drive, are conveyed hearty appreciation for the work put forth in behalf of this news paper, which has and will aid in the coming an ever stronger factor in the growth and development of the whole section and the making of it a better place in which to live.

Folks may think that they do things by themselves, but that is not true. It is co-operation that counts and for the cooperation that the Reporter has received in the past hearty acknowledgment is given herewith. The measure of that co-operation in the future will be the deciding factor in its service rendered the community and you.

One thing about West Texas either it rains or it don't.

Folks usually don't appreciate a mud bespattered car but there are certain times in West Texas when such an occurrence is very much appreciated.

GOOSE GOSLIN IS RACING THE BABE

Both In Socking The Pill and In Popularity With Fans, Goose Is Rushing Ruth

IS NEWEST SENSATION

Blossomed Out in Last World's Series To Capture Approval Of Fans—Everybody Likes 'Im

By United Press.
NEW YORK, April 30.—"Come on Goose!" is getting to be a cry around the American League circuit almost as familiar as the old roar—"Hit one Babe!"

Leon Goslin, left fielder for the world's champions Washington Senators, known among his teammates and to fans in general as "the Goose," easily was the sensation of the early season in the American League and he seems on the way to become the biggest star in the game.

"Everything that fellow does is right. He can't seem to go wrong," an official of the New York Yankees said during one of the early games of the season when the Goose blew a game right from under the New York club.

Goslin hits the ball harder than any player in baseball with the exception of the Babe. Give him time and he may be able to get much distance as the Babe in his drives. Certainly there is no player in the game today who has as many Ruthian resemblances in his game than the Goose.

He stands at the plate just like Ruth. He takes the same toe-hold and swings with all his power like the Babe. He has a splendid eye and coordination almost as perfect as the home-run king's.

It may be taken as treason to compare any hitter in the one and only Babe, but the Goose is catching the eye of critics who know that the Babe is speeding to the end of his career and that some one will step up to take his place in the public's heart.

The Goose is 26 years of age. He weighs 180 pounds and has a pair of shoulders that would bring joy to the heart of a football coach. He is almost as perfectly set up as George Sisler, who is the physical Adonis of the major leagues.

Goslin has come out sensationally in less than a year. Up to mid-season last year the Goose was regarded as just a ball player on the Washington Senators. He came in leaps and bounds in the last quarter of the race when the Senators were making a heroic drive for the pennant and he arrived in full glory during the world's series when he was one of the outstanding stars. He is still getting better and there is no telling how high he will ascend. It is quite certain now that he is no flash in the pan.

Goslin has that color in him that is so necessary to a player who hopes to get into the public eye. He has a pleasing personality and a magnetism that appeals to the stands. He hasn't the tremendous personality of the Babe, but that is not to his discredit, because no player may ever have the same romance around him that made the Babe the greatest drawing card and the most popular player in the history of baseball.

Goslin, more than any other player in the game, seems to have the compelling interest in his baseball that Ruth has. There is something about his every action in the field and on the bench that shows he is in the game up to his neck.

He is a great hitter, a spectacular fielder and a daring base runner. He combines everything to make a great baseball player and he is one. Since the days of Ty Cobb there have been few players who could command the attention of the crowd when he gets on, he bases that Goslin does. With the exception of Ruth, no batter in the game can cause the fans to sit up

Baseball's Largest Hands

Here we have "Tiny" Osborne, stellar pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, sporting the largest pair of hands in baseball. He can hold five league balls in one hand without difficulty, as he is depicted in the above layout. If you think it's an easy trick try it yourself and see.

when he walks to the plate as Goslin does. With the Goose at the bat there is always the chance for a home run or a drive that will take some fielder off his feet. When infielders move back off the grass it is a testimonial to the batter and they all go back for the Goose. In one of the games during the first series with the Yankees, Goslin drove a terrific liner toward the box. It nearly took the leg of Lefty Franks and the ball bounced clear out into left field.

"I'd rather have Ruth hit me at me than get in the way of one of Goslin's drives, because he sends a ball so fast you can't see it," a well-known American League pitcher said recently.

While Ruth cost the Yankees more than $100,000, the Senators picked up Goslin for practically nothing.

He was born in Salem, N. J., and started his professional career with Charleston in 1920. He went to Columbia late in the same season and was transferred to the Philadelphia Athletics at the end of the season. He didn't get much of a trial with the Athletics, and was sent back to Columbia in May 1921. The Senators then picked him up and he has been with the club ever since.

The ball players all like him and he is popular with the fans all over the circuit. The name "Goose" will be an asset to him as catchy nickname is out of the essentials of a popular player, as is shown in the case of Embury, Sisler and Ruth, who have nothing but a proper name to distinguish them.

EUROPE LEARNS LITTLE

many can support their demands against the Czechs. Hungary contemplates her despoiled empire and giving vent to her humiliation, echoes her old war-whoop "No, no, never!"

To the southeast in the Balkans, the familiar signs of unrest are not lacking. Belgrade has resorted to dictatorship. Yugoslavia and Bulgaria watch one another across their frontier, wondering which will have the first brick. The Macedonians continue their policy of provoking first the Serbs and then the Bulgarians in the hope that some day, while the two are quarreling, Macedonia may run off with the coveted bone of independence.

Romania with her swollen territories, keeps Transylvania "loyal" with troops and gendarmes and lives in perpetual dread of a Bessarabian uprising or Russian invasion. Turkey and Greece add to the joy of life in the Balkans by baring their teeth at one another and growling. Albania is being egged by Yugoslavia and Italy, rivals for domination over the Adriatic.

In Eastern Europe, Poland and Germany maintain a half-armed truce, each biding his hour. In the Baltic provinces, Lithuania seeks a new combination of powers against Poland, while others are trying to hammer the Baltic block into an anti-soviet bulwark. Soviet Russia, convinced that her enemies are crouching for a spring keeps her gunpowder dry.

Health Brings Beauty

Roanoke, Texas—"I was ill for weeks, not able to do my work. I had feminine trouble of a serious nature. At evening I would have high fever and my back and head would ache day and night. The doctor wanted to give me treatments, but my druggist advised my husband to get a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Before I had taken the first bottle I felt so much better I bought another, and before I was thru, taking that I was well."—Mrs. R. E. Cunningham, Route 1. All medicine dealers. Tablets or liquid. No harmful ingredients.

Kidneys

need flushing, just as the bowels do. Don't think that back pain means serious kidney trouble. Or scant, highly-colored urine. Or frequent urination. Try flushing the kidneys. Do what you would do if the bowels were clogged. Relieve them. The pity is that people don't realize that the kidneys and bowels both eliminate wastes and poisons. And both become clogged. They relieve the bowels, but they let the kidneys go. Flush the kidneys—relieve them. Do this by drinking plenty of water. Drink the first glass before breakfast. Add a little Jad Salts. That makes a tart, pleasant, effervescent drink. Watch the quick results. In one hour poisons are eliminated. The clogging is relieved. Conditions are entirely changed. Jad Salts is made from the acids of lemon and grape juice combined with lithia. They are made to relieve the kidneys in a quick, efficient way. Try them once. Then whenever you feel that the kidneys need flushing, you will know the way to quick relief. And a better way has never yet been found.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

There is no need for the most fastidious housekeeper to hesitate at serving a dish made from left over food—if care has been given to see that, if it is a meat dish, it is well flavored and brown and savory with seasonings and gravy; if a pudding, that it is wholesome, tasty, without being either soggy or too rich; if a vegetable that it is so cooked that its original flavor and vitamins are not destroyed.

The plebian hash may either be one of the best and most appetizing dishes and it is surprising to see how many people order the delicious baked hash served at some popular tea rooms. When our food budget warns that one must be cautious in the purchases, an expensive dish may often be balanced by another that will be inexpensive because of using up of leftovers.

Perhaps one of the best means of utilizing leftovers is in soups. In cream soups, which seem to be the most popular and are wholesome there is certainly great variety. There are cream of tomato, spinach, celery, potato, pea, asparagus and cauliflower, all of which can be made from left over vegetables. The pulp strained from cream soups, which seem to be the most popular and are wholesome there is certainly great variety. There are cream of tomato, spinach, celery, potato, pea, asparagus and cauliflower, all of which can be made from left over vegetables. The pulp strained from a large can of tomatoes the juice of which has been used the day before, can be used in cream of tomato soup. Tomatoes too ripe for salad can also be used in this way.

In cream of spinach, a small amount of that vegetable left over is finely chopped and used in cream stock with a garnish of grated or rounds of hard boiled egg.

For cream of potato, left over mashed potatoes are saved, and at first, only a small amount of boiling milk or cream is added to even out all lumps. This is run through a sieve, and enough milk for the desired amount added, and a bit of onion, then thicken slightly, and a garnish of parsley.

Cream of asparagus may be made from the water in which vegetables are boiled with the addition of stock, or butter, milk or cream and with some of the left over vegetable run thru a colander for additional flavor and a few tips of garnish.

Three pounds of beef stew of a cheap but nutritious cut simmered slowly gives enough stock for a clear nourishing bouillon, with flavor of onion, pepper and salt for one day and a vegetable the next. The meat can be used with carrots and peas in a baking dish; or for baked hash with green peppers; as a basis for croquettes, or meat loaf; or ground and baked with left over rice or bread crumbs as a stuffing for peppers or tomatoes. These two latter dishes are in great demand in tea rooms—why not serve them more often at home?

Meat from the last meal ground up or fresh hamburger, combined with tomato, chili sauce, green pepper—even scraps of bacon or ham—highly seasoned, and mixed with spaghetti or macaroni, makes a very substantial main dish to serve for dinner and it is a time and labor saving one for these trying days of housecleaning.

And now let's see what can be done with the ever increasing scraps of dried bread. The most well-known on the list of dishes prepared with dry is bread pudding.

Bread crumbs should be dried in a very slow oven until a light brown and then placed in a glass jar and a fitted tin cover in which holes have been punched. Then there is no need to grate a small quantity of crumbs each time there is need for sprinkling over an au gratin dish, for rolling croquettes or meat, for use as layers in a casserole dish and for the countless other uses.

Dried bread may be used for Soup Garnishes, as croquettes—which are placed in a pan and browned in the oven. Soup sticks are cut in one-third inch strips from slices of dried bread, from which crusts have been removed then spread with butter and browned in the oven.

Leftover bread may be used for Bread Patties, of Canapes by cutting in two-inch slices shaping into squares diamonds, oblongs or rounds, removing and leaving cases, and either

MARY JANE'S MERRY JOURNEYS IN THE ENCHANTED FOREST

He told Mary Jane he had never tasted anything so delectable

On a lake near the Royal Palace in the Enchanted Forest lives Cigno Salvatico, a magnificent snow-white Swan, the favorite of the Queen.

One day, as Mary Jane was strolling through the Queen's flower gardens just on the edge of this lake, the Swan sailed by her, moving over the water like thistle-down on the air. "Oh lovely Swan," called out Mary Jane, "What would I give to be as beautiful and graceful as you!"

"Now that's very sweet of you, Mary Jane, to say such pretty things of me," replied the Swan. "You also are to be envied, for everybody loves you."

"I wish I lived on the edge of this lake so that I might see you all the time. I love you, beautiful Swan," declared Mary Jane. "But you seem to be looking for something. Can I help you find it?"

Then the Swan sailed close to the shore and invited Mary Jane to take a ride on his back. On the way he told her quite confidentially that he got really very tired of eating grass all the time and wished that someone would throw him a few grains of corn once in a while.

So Mary Jane took a bun from her basket spread with a good thick layer of rich MARY JANE SYRUP and gave it to the Swan. He told Mary Jane he had never tasted anything so delectable.

"That was because I spread delicious MARY JANE SYRUP over it," said Mary Jane. "The Queen is a very good friend of mine and I am sure if she knew you loved MARY JANE SYRUP so much she would get some for you. I shall ask her to keep it always just for you, dear Swan."
