Draft On Bank In Sweetwater Is Not Honored

LUBBOCK, June 8.—One of the strangest cases of recent months was uncovered here with the arrest of Joe Brown, who claims to be from Gonzales county, after he attempted to draw drafts on Sweetwater and Dallas banks in extent of $100,000 to cover accounts here, officers stated yesterday.

Brown claims that he won $25,000 betting on a horse race, in a deal handled by another man, who was supposed to deposit the winnings in a Dallas and Sweetwater bank. He approached two Lubbock banks in an endeavor to draw drafts on the banks where his money was supposed to be to establish an account here, and succeeded in getting $200 from one of them after a phre to Sweetwater indicated that his account was good.
Sweetwater bankers called back later and stated that there was a mix-up in the business and that they wouldn't be responsible.

Brown is being held here for investigation. He has been in Lubbock for a period of six weeks but was unemployed, officers stated.

Miss Bessie Beall and brother, Dent, have returned from an overland trip to Austin and a short stop at Waco with their sister, Mrs. Lester Mays and family.

and additions to the church.

One of the outstanding features resulting from Sunday's service, was the decision reached at the meeting of the their resident pastor. When completed, Rev. Dougherty, the present pastor, will move his family here from said to have attempted to obtain financial aid from the county and city after the Government turned

COLLEGE TEACHER HACKED TO DEATH

Professor Of Agronomy In Louisiana
State University Found In Office
With Head Split Open

STUDENT WAS MURDERER

Believe Member Of Teacher's Class Killed Instructor With Axe—Bloody Weapon Found

By United Press.

BATON ROUGE, La., June 8.—
A student in the Agronomy class of Professor Oscar B. Turner hacked the teacher to death with an axe after being caught pilfering examination papers, police here believed today. A score of students at the Louisiana State University were summoned before a coroner's jury today for questioning as the result of this theory.

Professor Turner's body was found in his office Sunday, his face laid open from forehead to chin and his throat slashed while all around were evidences of a terrific struggle.

Searching amongst debris for clues of the crime which at first appeared to be the work of an "axe fiend" police and University officials found that a set of examination papers, prepared for Professor Turner's Agronomy class, had been stolen and later replaced.

Suspicion at once switched to that section of the student body which might have profited by knowledge of what the papers contained.

On a shelf shielded by a corner in the hallway was found a blood-stained axe which the murderer threw away as he fled down the hall.

HOPE FOR UNITY OF WORLD SEEN

President Coolidge Cites America As Example With Many Diverse Races
Living In Harmony

ADDRESS IN MINNESOTA

State Fair Park Scene of Presidential Activity—Believes World Unity
Very Possible

By United Press.

STATE FAIR GROUNDS, Minn., June 8.—World cooperation among nations for peace was envisioned by President Coolidge in his speech at the Norwegian Centennial Celebration here today.

America's success in moulding a nation from polyglot peoples demonstrates "that there is a spiritual quality shared by all races and conditions of men which is their universal heritage and common nature."

"Powerful enough to hold this people to a high ideal in time of supreme trial, why may we not hope that the same influence will at length reach men and women wherever found on earth," the President asked.

"If fraternity and cooperation are possible on the scale of this continent among people so widely diverse why not on the scale of a world? It is not a new thought, but it is a profoundly engaging one. I firmly believe it is more than a chimera. I feel it is possible of realization. I am convinced that our national story might somewhat help to guide mankind toward such a goal.

"If we were seeking proof of a basic brotherhood among all races of men, if one were to challenge the riddle of Babel in support of aspirations for a unity capable of assuring peace to the nations, I suppose no better testimony could be taken than the experience of this country."

Stressing repeatedly the hope to mankind in what he called "that magnificent and wondrous adventure, the making of our own America," the president recalled the doubts that beset his origins and drew them inspiration for the future.

"It is not so many years since visitors from other quarters of the world were wont to contemplate our concourse of races, origins and interests and shake their heads ominously," he said. "They feared that from such a melting pot of diverse elements we could never draw the tested tempered metal that is the only substance for national character.

"Even among ourselves were many who listened with serious concern to such forebodings. They were not quite sure whether we had created a nation with the soul of a nation. They wondered if perhaps we had merely brought together a large place.

"Had these misgivings been justified when the hour of trial came, it would have meant disaster to ourselves and to the world. But instead of crumbling into a chaos of discordant elements, America proved its truly national unity.

"Out of the confusion of tongues, the conflict of traditions, the variations of historical setting, the vast differences in talents and tastes there has been evolved a spiritual union accompanied by a range of capacity and genius which marks this nation for a preeminent destiny. The American people have commanded the respect of the world."

THE DEADLY AUTO

The automobile takes a toll of one human life in the United States every two hours.

Figures compiled by the Department of Commerce show a total of 1,631 automobile fatalities from Jan. 1 to May 23, 1925, or an average of 11.4 deaths per day. The returns upon which the department based its calculations were from 70 cities having a population of 100,000 or more each and total population of 25,937,258.

There was only a slight increase in the number of deaths reported this year as compared with the number for the corresponding period in 1923, when a total of 1,564 fatalities were reported.

New York, with its great population and congested traffic, led all other American cities in the number of fatalities with 334 deaths for the first five months of this year, or 23 less than the number reported from 52 other cities during any single month. Chicago ranked next with 198 deaths from automobile accidents. Philadelphia's death list contained 95 names, while 86 were reported from each Detroit and Cleveland.

During the four week period ending May 23, 80 deaths were reported from New York, 49 from Chicago, 27 from Philadelphia, 24 from Detroit and 17 from Cleveland.

Of 70 cities reporting automobile fatalities to the department returns from ten cities show no deaths for the four weeks period ending May 23. They were: Camden, Des Moines, Fall River, Lowell, Lynn, Bedford, Somerville, Tacoma and Yonkers.

New Bedford is the only city to report no fatality so far this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Price Maddox of Maryneal were shopping in the city Saturday.

AIRPLANE

In the aircraft controversy which continue to agitate the U. S. army following demotion of Brig. Gen. (now Col.) Mitchell, both sides are using the French-Riff war in Northern Africa as an argument to prove their conflicting points.

France, the greatest air power in the world, has been unable to use planes effectively against the tribal rebellion, thus proving that the military value of aircraft is popularly over-rated, according to air service critics in the army here.

The fight has been taken up by the Air Service News Letter, official publication, which defends the relative effectiveness of the French air forces against the Riffs on the ground that guerilla warfare is not a fair test.

Using the experience of Great Britain in controlling the rebellious tribes of Iraq of Mesopotamia solely by air force, the aviation experts insist that the success in Iraq and failure in Morocco is partly due to the fact that Britain has a separate unified air service—as urged by Mitchell—and France has not.

The following critique of the Moroccan war from the air service point of view, appearing in the official publication, has become a center of controversy over the value of military planes in fighting nomadic tribes:

"The Riffs are nomadic, saving no regular strongholds or supply bases; and operating singly or in groups of three or four, from caves and sheltered rock ledges in the mountains, they make the use of aircraft of little value. If there were supply bases to be bombed or if the tribesmen gathered in any numbers, they could be wiped out by aerial bombs or aerial machine gun fire, but their sudden onslaughts on isolated French detachments last but a short time and immediately thereafter they dispersed in the mountains.

"Most of these attacks come at night when airplanes are distinctly at a disadvantage. It has been reported that at least one French airplane flying very low over the rock ledges where the Riffs hide has been brought down by rifle fire, and the natives, having no regard for international are in the habit of disemboweling captured aviators. This makes low flying over the hostile country somewhat unpopular, and since little is to be gained, it is not done very much.

"Gas bombs are of little use, as the individual scatter so widely."

Agent J. W. Butts left Sunday for San Angelo where he goes to the Hudgens vs. Orient railroad trial as a witness. Mr. Hudgens lost his life in an accident here several months ago, while employed as an Orient brakeman.

"ACHED & ACHED"

Lady Says Her Back "Hurt Night and Day"—Least Noise Upset Her. Better After Taking Cardui.

Winfield, Texas.—"My back hurt night and day," says Mrs. C. L. Enson, of R. F. D. 1, this place. "I ached and ached until I could hardly go. I felt weak and did not feel like doing anything. My work was a great burden to me. I just hated to do up the dishes, even. I was no-account and extremely nervous.

"My mother had taken Cardui and she thought it would do me good, so she told me to take it. My husband got me a bottle and I began on it. I began to improve at once. It was such a help that I continued it until after the baby's birth.

"I took eight bottles and I can certainly say that it helped me. It is a fine tonic. It built me up and seemed to strengthen me. I grew less nervous and began to sleep better.

"I can certainly recommend Cardui to expectant mothers, for to me it was a wonderful help. In every way I felt better after taking it and I think it is a splendid medicine."

Cardui is purely vegetable, and contains no harmful drugs. For sale everywhere. NC-162

The Revolutionary soldier who fired "the shot heard 'round the world" has been positively identified after 150 years of doubt.

Diving deep into the dusty archives of Lexington, indefatigable historians have unearthed diaries, depositions and other documents which they regard as conclusive proof that Lieut. Ebenezer Munroe of this village was the first patriot to send a ball into the ranks of the rebels.

More than that, however, Munroe has been identified as the first American wounded by the British.

Perhaps the most important record brought to light is a deposition made by Munroe himself a few hours before his death, which occurred just 100 years ago, May 25 last. Referring to the Battle of Lexington, Munroe said:

"After the first fire (of the British regulars), I received a wound in my arm. As I turned to run, I discharged my gun into the main body of the enemy. Another ball passed between my arm and my body. One ball cut off part of my earlocks, which were pinned up. The balls flew so thick I thought there was no chance for escape, and that I might as well fire my gun as to stand still and do nothing."

After being wounded, the newly-found records show, Munroe mounted a horse and rode from town to town, a bleeding proof that the war for freedom had begun in earnest.

Despite Lieut. Munroe's narrow escape in the initial skirmish on Lexington Green, records show that he served throughout the Revolution, and that he afterwards married and reared a family of eight children.

Mrs. Oliver Stone of Ashburnham, Mass., a descendant of the Revolutionary hero in the eighth generation, was largely instrumental in identifying her illustrious ancestor as the first American wounded and the man who fired the famous shot.

Mrs. Ray Stiff and children have gone to McKinney to visit relatives for a few days.

TURKEYS INCREASE

Washington Statistics Show How Shipments Are Increasing
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8.—Uncle Sam today laid claim to being big brother to the humble Texas turkey and recited a few statistics to show how Mr. Gallopave, which is the social register name of the turkey, has increased and multiplied since the federal government took him in tow.

A remarkable growth in the turkey industry in Texas is the result of the vigorous warfare that has been waged in that state against predatory animals by the biological survey, department of agriculture, the statement said. In 1907, when predatory animals were still numerous, in McCullough county, only 500 turkeys were marketed; in 1924 about 110,000 were shipped from this county. Practically no turkeys were shipped from San Angelo before 1921, but 42 carloads of turkeys left this point in 1924 for distribution all over the United States. As all the turkeys in this district are raised on the open range, the absence of predatory animals is an important factor in bringing them to maturity and in building up the industry.

Guard Baby from Filthy Flies

Your helpless baby depends upon you for protection against insects. If you treat this lightly, just remember the fact that 75,000 babies died last year from diseases for which flies alone, were responsible.

Screens do not protect! Insects sneak in and fleck disease germs with every movement of their filthy feet and wings. Make sure your baby is safe by spraying Ni-Late regularly in every room.

Ni-Late Kills Insects Instantly!

Insects breathe through small openings in their skins. Ni-Late kills them instantly because it forms a moist, deadly gas that closes these openings. There is no escape; no insect can possibly live where this modern insecticide is sprayed.

Yet, Ni-Late is as safe as it is powerful! Harmless to humans and animals; harmless to furs, fabrics or curtains. It is the surest, safest and most economical insecticide known, as a test in your home will quickly prove.

AMUSEMENTS

PALACE

"Chien chaud! What a beautiful setting!" exclaimed Lou Tellegen, who plays an important role in "Single Wives" the first National production showing at the Palace theater today and tomorrow.

"Chien chaud!" seemed to be a favorite expression of this popular actor and excited the curiosity of Corinne Griffith and Milton Sills, the co-featured players. "What does it mean, Lou?" asked Miss Griffith.

"In French that means 'Hot-Dog,'" answered Tellegen. "I am catching on to your American quick, eh?"

LYRIC

Show no fear, keep the peace. When you know your man go and get him and don't come back without him. These were the words that young Patrick Michael Casey had heard from his police sergeant father for many years. When it came his time to don the blue clothes and the brass buttons he resolved to put those things into practice as his father had before him. What he did and how he kept the unwritten commands when he attained the dignity of being a member of the police force form a most interesting story and is called "The Fearless Lover," at the Lyric theater today and Tuesday.

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 8.—The Lubbock Hotel Company has a six story hotel for Lubbock, the contract to become effective July 1, subject to financial arrangements that are to be made by the hotel company. Bids on the job were opened here June 1, but owing to the fact that some details had to be worked out in connection with two low bids that were offered, the contracts were not let until Saturday when the board completed work with the contractors.

The building will be completed, including plumbing, electric wiring and the installation of an elevator, at a total cost of $326,716.

SUE FOR WHIPPING

Georgetown Man Institutes Civil Action for $100,000 Damages By United Press.

GEORGETOWN, Texas, June 8.—Suit for $100,000 damages brought by R. H. Rayleson against R. E. Bledsoe and thirty-seven other defendants was called for trial in district court here today. The suit is the outgrowth of a whipping administered to Burleson two years ago. He was taken from his car, stripped of his clothing and chained to a tree and beaten by several members of the party.

Several of the members, who Burleson claimed were members of the Ku Klux Klan, were tried, convicted and sent to the penitentiary from this county for alleged participation in the whipping.

TO VOTE BONDS

Lubbock To Issue $350,000 Bonds—To Vote on B. C. D. Plan

LUBBOCK, June 8.—A special election for the voting on the issuance of bonds in the sum of $350,000 will be held here July second, members of the city commission announced. Included in the total is $150,000 for water extension; a similar sum for sewer extensions and $50,000 for additional paving.

At the same time citizens will be called upon to vote on the proposition of changing the city's charter to permit the chamber of commerce to be run as a board of city development, supported by the taxpayers instead of by donation as is the present plan. A third part of the election calls for the changing of the charter to permit the employing of an all-time mayor, to be elected by the people and to receive a set salary large enough to live on.

VAWTER REVIVAL

my literature. I like mush, but I like it with milk on it. I like a story with a fight in it, although I don't believe in fighting. It is hard to give reasons for liking certain people. Some of you women would have a hard time telling why you married what you married. The fact that we can give reasons for loving the old Book, prove that it is superior to any other book."

"My first reason is because of its interest. If you want a story of love, it is there. Read the story of Ruth. Do you want a story of intrigue? Read how the Gibeonites worked the rabbit's foot on Israel. Do you want a story to tell the children? Tell them of the little red headed boy who killed a giant eleven feet tall, with a sling shot."

"The second reason I love the old Book is because it is the album of humanity and contains my picture. We all like to have our picture taken. No matter who you are, or what you are, the Bible contains your photograph. Did you ever turn your back upon your friend when he needed you? So did Peter. Did you ever sell your friend? So did Judas.

"I love the old Book because it contains the most beautiful productions of literature. It contains poems of majesty, sadness, mystery and sweetness."

"The last reason is, that in all the world with its millions of books in the great libraries, ancient and modern, this is the only book that will take away fear when the grave opens before us."

There will be services tonight which will be the closing of the revival. It is especially urged that all the new members attend, as there will be special features for them during the service. Dr. Vawter will show a large number of pictures from his trip around the world, at the beginning of the service.
