Sea Plane PN-9 No. 1 Forced Down By Lack Of Fuel, Is Lost In Pacific

Commander Rodgers and Crew Last Heard from 4 O'clock Tuesday Afternoon 300 Miles East of Hawaii.

MANY BOATS AID IN SEARCH

Every Available Craft with Seaplanes from Pearl Harbor Explore Surface of Ocean for Missing Airmen.

U. S. NAVAL HEADQUARTERS, SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—Missing now for almost 18 hours, the seaplane PN-9 No. 1 of the United States to Hawaii flight expedition is being sought today over a wide area of tropical waters by every available craft of the sea and air.

The search is being conducted over a wide area out from Honolulu, Hawaii, according to radio reports here. At dawn this morning, a half dozen sea planes from Pearl Harbor joined a dozen submarines and a score of small craft in an intensive search of the waters lying between the destroyer Aroostock and the islands of the Hawaiian group where the PN-9 No. 1, with Commander Rodgers, was last heard from at 4:12 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Out of Gas

With motors dead from lack of gas, Commander Rodgers had no choice but to let his plane drift. He was north and west of the Aroostock when last heard from, less than 300 miles from Honolulu and 250 miles from the island of Maui.

He was, however, drifting west on the ocean current at the rate of 8 miles an hour, which would have placed him near the island of Panagar, which is 1950 miles west of San Francisco.

Reports here said that aside from rain squalls the weather was favorable and no great cause for anxiety exists although it is realized hours might pass before the searching planes or ships discovered the location of the PN-9.

The navy radio at 10:26 A. M. Pacific time received official word from Panagar that the plane had not been found. This was in response from a query sent from naval headquarters here that the plane had been found.

Had Collision

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—A collision with the destroyer William Jones and not mechanical trouble prevented the naval sea plane PN-9 No. 3 from completing its flight to Hawaii after being forced down 300 miles at sea late Monday.

With the 5 members of the crew aboard the plane, weary, unshaven and sleepy, but eager to start again, the big craft was towed into San Francisco bay today.

Determined to make another effort if higher authorities will permit, the men immediately started to repair the damaged craft. And that permission will be granted, according to Rear Admiral Will.

"Within a few minutes after we were forced down by broken oil lines, we were ready to start again," Lieutenant Snoddy said. "We were waiting for the seas to subside and hoped to be off again by daylight Tuesday. Then the Jones appeared and crashed into us, tearing the fabric from the stabilizer and damaging the left wing."

"The damage could not be repaired at sea, and there was nothing else to do but come back."

Tows In Plane

NAVAL HEADQUARTERS, SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—The crippled TN-9 No. 3, Hawaiian flight plane forced down 300 miles at sea after the start Monday, was towed back into the bay today.

The destroyer Wm. Jones, first station ship along the route which picked up the plane by a lucky break after 8 hours search, steamed into the Golden Gate pulling the craft behind it at 7:30 a. m. The United States steamship Gannett, mother ship of the flight planes, was ahead of the William Jones.

President American Bar Association
Addresses 4,000 in Detroit Convention Day

INDIVIDUAL'S RIGHTS INSECURE

Growing Multiplicity of Laws Pointed Out—Urges Politics Freed of Religious Strife

By United Press.

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—Taking liberty and law as the keynotes for his address on the Declaration of Independence, Charles Evan Hughes, president of the American Bar Association opened the 48th convention of that body today with an impressive speech of some 6,000 words.

"The most ominous sign of our time is the indication of the growth of the intolerant spirit," he said. "It is most dangerously armed in sincere convictions. It is a spirit whose wrath must be turned away with the soft answers of sweet reasoning."

Hughes' address was delivered before nearly 4,000 persons including some 200 of the country's ablest attorneys, and it was broadcast to the country at large by radio.

On every side, he pointed out, the growing multiplicity of laws and the increasing dispositions of people to attempt to regulate their fellows made the security of the individual's freedom more precarious.

Above all else Hughes emphasized his fear for the freedom of education and his insistence that this freedom be protected. He said the question had nothing to do with the soundness of the theory of evolution. But he unhesitatingly denounced any endeavor to regulate what shall be taught in the schools by religious standards.

"What could be a nobler exercise of governmental power than to destroy religious error and save the souls of men from perdition?" he asked, and then gave his own answer:

"That plausible pretext has given us the saddest pages in history. That is the road that leads back to the version of authority and the abhorrent practices of the dark days of political disqualification on grounds of religion or persecution, of religious wars, of tortures, of martyrdom."

"We have troubles enough without introducing religious strife into our politics."

Hughes took as the general subject of his discourse Liberty and Law. He sounded the warning that law had reached such a stage of complexity that it in many cases was more likely to threaten liberty than to protect it.

"Democracy has its own capacity for tyranny," he declared, and pointed out that the principle of the majority rule upon which democracy is founded may frequently destroy the freedom of action of minorities. For this reason, he said it behooved the majority to impose its will on the minority only where absolutely essential to the public good.

Hughes also warned against the encroachment of bureaucratic government. He explained that the growing complexity of government had required the frequent delegation of authority to administrative officers.

"We find it necessary ever to be on the alert against insidious encroachments under the guise of official discretion—against the armored cars of bureaucrats which run so freely without showing a head to hit," he said. In discussing the freedom of education, Hughes said he did not wish to comment on the Dayton trial or upon the constitutional power of the state of Tennessee to pass a statute prohibiting the teaching of evolution. What he did wish to make emphatic, he said, was the extreme unwisdom, in his view, of every such attempt to apply a religious measurement to what shall be taught in the public schools.

"If we have any assurance for the future," he declared, "it lies in education. But reliance upon education will be in vain if we do not maintain the freedom of learning."

SLOW TO TEST

Less Than 30 Per Cent of Cars in County Tested for Proper Headlights on September 1

Although the four designated head light testing stations in the city were rushed day and night during the week end, and the first of this week, the new headlight law went into effect Tuesday and found less than 30 per cent of the cars in the county had been issued certificates for tested head lights.

Figures and estimates obtained from Sweetwater test stations show that approximately 1000 motor cars have been tested for properly focused lights up to the first of the month when the law became effective. Other stations in the county have tested comparatively few lights.

For two automobile tires, a tank of gasoline and $1.50, little Mary Ellis Days was sold by her parents to a couple of Neuhardt, Ark. UNCLE SAM THE VILLAIN

If Finance Minister Joseph Callaux of France doesn't want to lower his high average as a war debt adjuster, he should not head the commission that is coming to talk settlement with Uncle Sam. For Washington has served notice. It is an announced in administration circles that "if French officials are coming to the United States with the hope of bargaining with this government as they appear to have done with Great Britain, there will be disappointment over the outcome." France will not get better terms than have been accorded to other debtor nations. France and England have only themselves to blame for this firm position taken by the American government. In all their debt negotiations with each other they have made Uncle Sam the chief villain in the piece. A Paris dispatch reports that Winston Churchill is a clever gentleman and right cleverly he has continued the British preachment that it is all America's fault if England is collecting money on the continent. Lord Balfour started the game when he announced that England was perfectly disposed to cancel interrelated debts, but that America had refused to enter into the program. French officials help give point to this argument. All this does not help the already waning esteem of Europeans for the United States, and its propaganda argument is enormous. The other side of the story is not told, that every billion saved upon war debts at American expense will be blown by Europe on its standard armies, its wars and imperialism. The one best incentive to peace between nations is to obligate them to pay the debts of their last wars before they start another. This is the substance of the American plan. Europe may not like it, but it is something more potent than prayers as a peace preserver.

FALL BEGINS

Although fall does not officially begin until the autumnal equinox on September 21, to all intents and purposes it began with the first break of the summer heat. The ice cream parlors feel it first, along with the cold drink dispensers and other folks whose specialty is furnishing hot weather comforts. Perhaps there is no season of the earth that is so welcome. Money from crops begins putting new life into all channels of business. Growers who have nursed their fields through plowing and cultivating, now come to the happiest season of all—the harvest. And here in West Texas fall finds this exceptional climate at its magnificent best—a splendid stimulus for the resumption of activities that summer heat and vacation season interferes with.

We are going to discuss the Riff question as soon as they capture a town whose name we can pronounce.

AMUSEMENTS

PALACE
There was no charge for "building Hotel Commodore set" on the cost sheets for "Night Life of New York" inasmuch as Allen Dwan who made the production for Paramount used the lobby and foyers of the hotel with the permission and co-operation of the management. Instead of building enormous set on the stage of the Paramount studio, Dwan, with his featured players, Dorothy Gish and Rod La Rocque, went to the hotel at midnight after all the special lighting equipment had been set up and worked until dawn completing a number of highly important scenes. In addition to the seventy extras, a number of guests of the hotel filled in for atmosphere just for the fun of working in a motion picture. Ernest Torrence and George Hackathorne complete the quartette of players featured in the picture, which opens a two days' run today at the Palace.

PLEASES COLORADOANS

The following item recently appeared in the Florence (Colo.) Daily News:

The patrons of the Rialto theater were delightfully entertained following the regular picture last night by Miss Ellen Neely, an attractive young lady of Sweetwater, Texas, who contributed two violin numbers and a vocal solo, with violin accompaniment. The young lady was accompanied at the piano by her cousin, Miss Doris John, who is also an artist in her line. It was the first public appearance in Florence of Miss Neely as an entertainer, and she won the admiration of all who had the good fortune to hear her. She is the daughter of Otis Neely and was born in Florence. She has had some experience in chautauqua work last summer at Lincoln, Neb., and has been studying music in Springfield, Ill. for the past year, and after a visit with her folks in Texas will return to Springfield for the winter to again resume her music. Miss Neely's numbers were so enthusiastically received last night that Manager McCormick requested that she appear at the Jones theater in Canon City tonight. She plans to leave Sunday for her Texas home, accompanied by her brother, Miss Neely is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas John and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Pottee, and a grand daughter of Mrs. Sarah Morris.

Local Division of T-P Dispatching Trains by Long Distance

The local division of the Texas-Pacific from Baird to Big Spring is now using long distance telephones to dispatch trains instead of telegraph as formerly. Only train orders are given over the phone, the telegraph wires being retained for other railroad work.

Lady Says Her Back "Hurt Night and Day"—Least Noise Upset Her. Better After Taking Cardui.

Winfield, Texas.—"My back hurt night and day," says Mrs. C. L. Eason, of R. F. D. 1, this place. "I ached and ached until I could hardly go. I felt weak and did not feel like doing anything. My work was a great burden to me. I just hated to do up the dishes, even. I was no-account and extremely nervous. My mother had taken Cardui and she thought it would do me good, so she told me to take it. My husband got me a bottle and I began on it. I began to improve at once. It was such a help that I continued it until after the baby's birth. I took eight bottles and I can certainly say that it helped me. It is a fine tonic. It built me up and seemed to strengthen me. I grew less nervous and began to sleep better. I can certainly recommend Cardui to expectant mothers, for to me it was a wonderful help. In every way I felt better after taking it and I think it is a splendid medicine." Cardui is purely vegetable, and contains no harmful drugs. For sale everywhere. NC-162

Road Building In Nolan County Told

Under a Sweetwater date line in the West Worth Star Telegram, Silliman writes as follows concerning road building in Nolan county:

Some of these days—and it is a long time—there is going to be big news in Nolan county. The source of the news will be the Highway Department.

There is something akin to a lottery involved in the forthcoming item of news which concerns the citizenship of Nolan county, are going to spend a commission, none of whom lives in Nolan county, are going to spend a dollar of Nolan County money. And they alone are going to choose it shall be expended.

In October of 1923 Nolan county citizens, at the end of a strenuous campaign voted a bond issue of $600,000. Beforehand the county commissioners court pledged that $100,000 of the proceeds would be spent on the lateral roads. That has been done the lateral roads have been built. The taxpayers generally are well pleased with them. The other $500,000, it was promised, would be spent by the county commissioners' court in the construction of what in their best judgment, would be the best type of highway on the three designated highways in the county. Two of them are highly important routes—the Bankhead and Highway No. 70.

Most of the $500,000 is in the banks of Nolan County. The grade, with the base for the highway, has long since been completed on the west end of the Bankhead in the county. Work is proceeding rapidly on the east end of the Bankhead. The west end has been ready for topping for weeks.

County Judge A. S. Mauzey said that it has been the plan all along, and so the thought has been in the mind of the commissioners court, that that plan, and it was to put a three-inch macadam asphalt top on the Bankhead.

"We are now informed by the commission," he stated, "that when bids are advertised for the surfacing on the Bankhead that alternate bids will be received. The commission will seek bids on three inch macadam asphalt topping on one and one half inch plant mixed toppings such as amiesite, Willite, bitulithic, etc., and perhaps brick. The Highway Department will prepare the specifications and will ask for bids. When all of the bids have been received they will then decide what sort of surfacing shall go on the highway.

"Of course we would be glad to see brick, but we have preferred a three-inch surface of asphalt macadam to any other and one-half inch plant mix."

"And that is all that the County Commissioners' Court of Nolan county is going to have to do with the matter."

RED PEPPER HEAT
ENDS RHEUMATISM

Red Pepper Heat takes the "ouch" from stiff, aching joints. It cuts the heart pain, and it certainly stops that rheumatism torture at once. When you are suffering so you can't get around, just try Red Pepper Heat and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated heat as red pepper. You will feel the tingling, burning heat as it works its way through the joints and through the nerves. Pain is relieved for a long time. And that is all that the County Commissioners' Court of Nolan county is going to have to do with the matter.

selection of the sort of surfacing to be put on their highways. There is nothing that they can do to hurry the job along. There is nothing except moral suasion that they can employ to obtain for the highway the sort of construction that they, as members of the commissioners' court, pledged to the people of Nolan County would be carried on with the money that was voted. Nolan County, therefore, presents a clear cut example of the example of the difference between highway construction under the old, and the present, highway laws. There is nothing arbitrary in the act of the highway commission in determining the sort of surfacing to be done in Nolan County. It is strictly according to law, and under the act passed by the recent Legislature, the commission is obligated to do it. It should also be borne in mind that prior to the voting of the bonds in Nolan County in 1923 that the Texas Highway Commission pledged to its citizenship the maximum allotment of State and Federal aid, $800,000. To this Nolan County was entitled for it had left free of any demands the entire amount of State and Federal aid which, under the law, it may receive. And, too, it is an argument in favor of the present state dictatorship, created by the acts of the last Legislature, that here is the example of a county which, if the pledges of the department made by its commissioners are carried out, will get $800,000 from the State while the county will spend only $500,000.

in the plan which upon the characters of the road. Now the State Highway Commission selects the contractor. If, in the judgment of the commission, a plant mixed topping of an inch and a half is the best in price and value, then an inch and a half plant mixed topping is shall be, although the commissioners court previously had determined on a three inch topping. Previously the county drew money from the State; now the State draws money from the county. Shortly after the bonds were voted, they were issued," Judge Mauzey said. "We immediately went to work on the county lateral roads. We then took the $500,000 remaining, and with the $800,000 promised by the commission, we figured that an average of $17,000 could be spent on each of the 70 old miles of the state designated highway in the county. We estimated the cost on each type to be built. We planned to make the Bankhead the broadest road with the deepest base because it is the most heavily traveled in Nolan County. No. 70 and No. 10 were to be of the same type, but slightly narrower. We claimed to put a three inch topping on the Bankhead. Our plan was to spend $22,000 per mile on the Bankhead. The Bankhead is to be 18 feet wide on a 30 foot crown. There is to be a macadam water bound base 10 inches deep. All of the drainage and bridge structures will be concrete. The minimum right of way breadth will be 70 feet. All grade crossings have been eliminated either by over or under passes. The Bankhead was to have a three inch bituminous top. "We now have under construction 20 miles on Highway No. 70. The grade is already completed. Rock is being laid. The top is to be asphalt penetration. The contract for this road was let by the county commissioners court prior to the enactment of the new highway law. It is now ready for travel this fall. "The 15 miles of the Bankhead west of Sweetwater to the Mitchell County line the grading and drainage were completed last April. Everything has been ready since April for the surfacing of this stretch of the Bankhead. The grading has been packed down thoroughly, and we have been pushing the department for the last four months to get bids advertised for it. I understand that the specifications now are in the hands of the federal bureau at Fort Worth. "From Sweetwater east for 15 miles the grading and drainage structures are under construction, and with the exception of an underpass under the Santa Fe Railroad the entire grade will be open for travel during the winter. A considerable delay will still be necessary, however, unless some method of getting over the Santa Fe is devised. "Failure of the State to maintain the present Bankhead route, Judge Mauzey said, is due to a misunderstanding. He said the State now is undertaking to put this road on the map."
