STRESS NEED OF AIRPLANE FIELD

Guy Morris Tells Luncheon Club of Recent Visit by Army Airmen Plotting Routes

OPPOSE DONATION PLAN

W. R. Johnson Says Use Tax Money for Charity—McKnight, Morris and Clark Speakers

Need for a municipally owned landing field in Sweetwater in view of the rapid extension of air routes in the southwest, and especially the proposed transcontinental line through Texas, was stressed by Guy Morris in a talk before the Sweetwater Club at luncheon at Hotel Wright Thursday noon. Morris, who is probably in closer touch with air service and air lines than any individual in this section, pointed out the prospects of a direct line from cities in middle western states to the southwest and the Pacific coast.

Morris told of the two army aviators who stopped here this week enroute east after a trip to the Pacific coast. Morris said he expected a favorable report from the aviators to their officers in connection with the southern route which is only a few miles further, as air miles go, than the northern route, and which has the additional advantage of moderate temperature and more numerous landing facilities. Sweetwater is in a fortunate position, midway between Fort Worth and El Paso, for an official landing station, it was pointed out, and with a well designed and improved landing field, should afford an attractive prospect as an official landing station on commercial air lines or the air mail service.

Indications were that the Sweetwater Club will lend every support in investigating the matter, and will work to provide facilities required for an official landing field.

D. A. Clark, president of the Nohra County Fair Association, told of the progress being made in preparing for the Second Annual Fair, which opens here October 28, for a four days' run.

"We are now preparing a permanent home for the fair," Clark pointed out. "This is made possible by the generous attitude of the city in furnishing required grounds for the fair, and the work is now progressing on leveling the grounds and erecting of the first three fair buildings in the east in excess of $12,000. It is our hope to make the fair bigger and better each year," Clark said.

Report on Picnic
George McKnight gave a detailed report of the standing of finances of the American Legion picnic fund showing the expenditures made for the picnic last July and the receipts for the occasion. The account, which was audited by a committee from the Legion, business men and Sweetwater Club, shows a balance of $825.

Quackery were Walter Boehm, who told of the interest being taken by Texas Hereford breeders in the annual Texas Hereford Association Show and Sale here during the fair.

Superintendent R. H. McLain who called attention to the fact that the football team's first home game of the season with the Hamlin eleven here Friday afternoon, and Sheriff Jack Yagbrough, who stressed the need of a county health nurse here to work in co-operation with the county and city health officers and charity workers.

Discuss Charity Work
A lengthy discussion of charity work, in connection with the plans of the newly organized United Charity Board, was held. W. J. Johnson, former chief of police, and for 14 years in close touch with charity cases here, delivered his opinions on the charity problem, in a short talk in which he favored raising of funds for charity work from city and county taxes instead of individuals. It is the custom as well as duty of the city and county to furnish funds for the care of needy in the city, Johnson pointed out. The plan of the United Charity Board to aid the sick and needy in the city was praised, and approval was voiced of their plan of aid. It was pointed out, however, that in the past, appropriations have been made by the city, commission and county commissioners to take care of charity cases, and that the chief of police and sheriff's department acted as investigators of cases and gave aid where needed.

In this matter, it was pointed out, the burden is not placed upon a limited group of individuals to produce the funds necessary to care for the few needy cases that come to light in Sweetwater.

Rev. B. R. Hestir and Superintendent

B. H. McLain of the charity organization made brief talks on the plans of the organization, pointing out the need of such a body and their plan of action.

Richard Wallace was the efficient toastmaster for the meeting, and a musical program was furnished by Misses Stella Watson, Verna Sheppard and Edith Moody and Mrs. Velma Sheppard Henson.

Will Wade, president of the club, named Sam Glass as toastmaster for the next luncheon, and announced a debate, "Resolved, that straw hats should not be worn over the weekend" between Dr. K. M. Hodges and Abe Levy, for the next session of the club.

JUDGES CRITICISE CLEVELAND COPS

Term Arrest 500 Chinese Following Murder-Tong Man "High Handed Justice"

RAP CITY CLEAN-UP PLAN

Condemn Safety Directors' Order for Destruction of Chinatown in Cleveland

By United Press.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24.—Terming the seizure of hundreds of the Chinese population of Cleveland as an act of "high handed justice" and "anarchy" appellate judges today freed 15 Chinese and recommended that all the others be liberated at once.

The ruling was made after the city announced that nine buildings in Cleveland's Chinatown had been condemned and were to be destroyed, also ordering a clean-up of the entire district.

Appellate Judges Vickery and Lavine severely criticized Director of Safety Ed Barry and police who took into custody 500 of the city's 800 Chinese population following the murder of a tong man.

The judges told police to catch the criminal and not punish the entire population of Chinatown for the crime of one man.

MANY CHICKENS

Fowl Population Placed at Four Hundred Million

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The chicken population of the United States was placed at 400,000,000 today by the Department of Agriculture.

This number the department said, would make a procession 100,000 miles long, and they could lay enough eggs each year to reach from the earth to the moon and back again.

Federal Expert in Complete Control Hoof and Mouth Eradication Work in Texas

By United Press.

HOUSTON, Sept. 24.—Dr. Marion Imes, Federal expert, was placed in charge of the Hoof and Mouth disease eradication work Wednesday evening in a telegram from Secretary of Agriculture Adaline, putting him in complete charge of all work in Texas.

This was in compliance with a request from Governor Ferguson. One government official will be placed in each county to enforce quarantine regulations.

Reporter's Free Cooking School Opens Monday

A long looked for event is almost here, when the housewives of Sweetwater and surrounding territory will have the opportunity of attending the free cooking school to be conducted under the auspices of this paper. The school starts Monday, September 28, at two o'clock and will be held at the Hotel Wright.

Long experience, coupled with scientific knowledge and a pleasing personality which enable her to impart her lectures with minimum of words and movements combine to make Mrs. Chitwood a most efficient lecturer on home economics subjects.

She has the scientific knowledge gained in laboratory work as well as practical experience in her own kitchen of foods, but her lectures are not the dry discussions of calories, proteins and carbohydrates. She knows what a balanced ration should be, but she also knows that foods should be appetizingly prepared daintily served in order to be eaten with relish. Her appeal is to the eye and the palate as of prime importance as well as those phases of dietetics with individual metabolism.

There are many women who have often expressed regrets that they did not have the opportunities provided for school girls of today by the economic departments in schools. Housewives appreciate the benefit and value of instruction along these lines and grasp the opportunity of taking a course in household arts if such a thing were practical.

One of these sources is through the series of lectures and practical demonstrations given by Mrs. Chitwood under the auspices of this paper. Mrs. Chitwood works along entirely original lines. Her lectures will be found especially helpful to the young housewife and the matron who is desirous of serving better meals at less cost. She seeks to encourage better health through better foods. It is not necessary to remain at home every day in order that good nourishing meals may be served in the home. Neither is it necessary for matrons to hurry the family to a cafe after an afternoon at the club or some other social affair. Mrs. Chitwood is going to give suggestion for preparing meals at less cost in time and money, but at the same time, meals that will be appetizing and healthful. The lectures begin promptly at 2 o'clock each afternoon and continue with the demonstration for about two hours. There will be ample opportunity for questions and opinions exchanged amongst those present. This phase of the class is expected to bring out a great many new ideas. The questions asked by ladies in attendance and answered by Mrs. Chitwood are very helpful, one question frequently leading to several others along the same line.

no one attending will be under any obligation. But every woman is asked to go every day and bring her friends along. Take a pencil and note book. Come prepared to learn something and be highly entertained at the same time. These are the only requirements and those complying with them can be assured of ideas and incentives for better home cooking.

"This Is Station Sweetwater" Will Be Radio Feature

Sweetwater will soon have an opportunity to broadcast a two-hour program over the radio, it was announced Thursday by P. T. Quast, who arranged for the opportunity with the Zenith Radio Corporation.

The Zenith people have perfected a portable radio broadcasting station of great power. This station is now located at El Paso and will be brought east some time soon. Big Spring and Abilene are two other towns in this section from which radio programs will be broadcast from.

Sweetwater will have two hours on the air and a program composed of local talent is to be arranged for.

BEGIN PARLEY ON DEBT OF FRANCE

Joseph Caillaux and Andrew Mellon Sit Across Table in U. S. Treasury Building

STATEMENTS EXCHANGED

Real Negotiations Begin Tomorrow—President to Entertain French Envoys at Dinner

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—A formal proposal for funding the $4,200,000,000 owed to the United States by France was laid before the American debt funding commission by finance commissioner Joseph Caillaux this morning and was immediately taken under consideration by Andrew Mellon Secretary of the Treasury, and associates, it was understood on good authority.

Although both the French and American commissioners refused to either affirm or deny such a move, another session with the French commission has been called for four o'clock this afternoon.

Tomorrow morning the French proposal will be placed before the president and his cabinet.

While the proposal is not believed to be entirely satisfactory from the American viewpoint, it is thought that it permits a basis for negotiations.

Opens Negotiations

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the United States Treasury, and genius of American finance and Joseph Caillaux, Finance Minister of France, and political mentor of his nation, sat across a table in the Treasury department today to settle the French debt to the United States.

The stake at issue between these two men and their two countries is a matter of $4,200,000,000 which has run over a period of seven years.

Both sides are confident an agreement can be reached soon.

Caillaux has reservations aboard a steamer leaving October 3, hence he believes the negotiations will reach such a stage as will warrant his return to France in nine days.

Proceedings got under way at nine a. m. in a conference room close to Secretary Mellon's office. The first concrete propositions will be made tomorrow, today's session being confined to an exchange of statements.

President and Mrs. Coolidge will entertain the French delegation at dinner tonight. Senator Borah will be among the guests.

President Coolidge has taken a position requiring full payment.

Still, despite the multiplicity of laws it doesn't require a bit more effort to be a decent citizen.

PLANE WRECKED

Douglas Transport Plane Which Col. Mitchell Said Could Fly to Peking Down at Dryden

By United Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 24.—The airplane which Col. Mitchell said was the army owned plane that could fly from the United States to Peking with only one stop, has been wrecked in Texas. The Douglas transport plane, flying from Santa Monica, California, to New York, threw a connecting rod which forced a landing on rough ground between Dryden and Fort Clark, Texas.

One wing was damaged in landing. Lt. Williams and crew of four men are proceeding to San Antonio by passenger train.

GENERAL RAINS FALL IN SOUTH

Cool Wave Sweeps North from Gulf, Precipitating Downpour North to Oklahoma City

RAINS IN ATLANTA, GEORGIA

Abilene Gets 2.02 Inches, Dallas 1.98, Rising Temperature Predicted Over Week End

DALLAS, Sept. 24.—General rains are falling throughout the state today with the exception of the extreme southwest portion, according to the United States weather bureau here.

A cool wave, sweeping north from the Gulf, precipitated the downfall, which extended as far north as Oklahoma City and east of the Mississippi river.

The rain extended as far east as Atlanta, Georgia, where it began falling at 7 o'clock this morning.

In San Antonio, the temperature dropped from 79 to 62 between 6:30 and 8 a. m.

The rain in Dallas amounted to 1.98 inches during the night. Abilene reported 2.02 inches, Bowie 1.15 and McKinney 1.55, with the fall continuing. Amarillo received another heavy rain with temperature of 50 degrees this morning. In Abilene the temperature was 56, Dallas 64.

Generally lower temperatures are prevalent over the entire state with rising temperature and clearing skies predicted for the week end.

Hits Austin

AUSTIN, Sept. 24.—The first wet norther of the season hit Austin today with a 25 degree drop in temperature. The slow rain benefited feed crops.

Another Deluge Here

Another deluge, in the shape of 2.25 inches of rain fell in Sweetwater and this section Wednesday night, thoroughly soaking the whole territory. The last deluge, according to the Sweetwater Valenciano Co., volunteer weather observers, brings the total of the year to 25.26 inches.

Hampers by a shortage of pickers, farmers stood helplessly all day Wednesday and watched the slow, cold drizzle fall on thousands of acres of open cotton, brought out by the preceding hot weather.

The amount of damage, if any, was uncertain Thursday morning. That the grade will be lowered on open cotton, was taken for granted. The rain can hardly mean additional cotton production but it will add to the moisture already in the ground, which insures excellent winter grazing for livestock. Ranchmen are wearing a broad smile these days.

The rain was fairly general according to advises at the local railway offices. No damage from washouts was reported, however, and all trains were close to schedule with the exception of T-P No. 5 from the east, which is more often late than not this time of year.

None of the stage lines except the Roby and Hamlin cars, made their trips Thursday morning. It was thought however that all could go out Thursday afternoon.

Cotton movement, which had just got into full swing, has stopped very suddenly and will not get under way again until fields are dry enough to get into.

The Orient reported arrival of 15 carloads of cotton from Tennessee, Bronte and other points south, but is not expecting any more for several days.

A sharp drop in temperature came with the rain.

Washington Will Be Asked to Tell All It Knows Concerning Orders Given to Fly

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 24.—Possibility that high naval officers from Washington will be called to explain why the Shenandoah was sent on its western trip after Commander Zachary Lansdowne had asked for a postponement, was discussed in the Naval Court of Inquiry here today, the fourth day of the investigation into the cause of the wreck of the dirigible.

Capt. Paul Foley, judge advocate of the court, told questioners that Washington officials would be summoned. The court wants all facts in connection with the crash, he said.

Three Men Drop Dead but Authorities Say Death Due to Natural Causes in Each Case

By United Press.

HOUSTON, Sept. 24.—Oliver E. Patterson, 4, son of an oil field worker at Manchester near here, died today as the result of an automobile crash.

The boy's jugular vein was severed by a piece of glass from windshield of one of the cars. The boy bled to death before he could be placed under medical care.

Three Houston men also died suddenly here in the past few hours. One man dropped dead on a street car while enroute home from work. Another toppled over while on the front porch reading a newspaper and the third was found dead in the bathtub of his home.

Death from natural causes was the verdict of authorities after investigation in each case.

LUXURY

If love of luxury and beauty is a sign of national decadence, this great country is in an advanced stage of decay. The Roman Empire is said by historians to have declined and fallen at the zenith of its luxury and extravagance. The moralists and calamity-howlers predict the same for the United States. But it was only a few years ago that other moralists and crepe hangers were lamenting the absence of beauty and the lack of luxury in these states.

It looks as if the masses must make choice between home-spuns and decay and that they have selected the latter as the most remote and lesser of two evils.

Luxury in the United States shows itself everywhere. The American home is the most luxurious in the world. The home of the American wage earner is often a palace compared with that of the more well-to-do abroad. The store has been developed in this country into an institution of splendor and refined beauty and so has the hotel and the better class of restaurants.

The Pilgrim fathers were content with log cabins and only the plainest of foods. Civil war times found at least one large house in every community. The twentieth century found wage earners and salaried classes content with plain houses, rag rugs or none at all and unupholstered furniture. Today every man who is working, and many who don't, believes he is entitled to luxury and beauty and is having both.

THE "HERDING" INSTINCT

Is the world becoming afraid of solitude in its mad rush for society and companionship? The social columns of the newspapers and Sunday supplements are rapidly growing in size. Public dance halls, which are more in number and larger in size, are nightly filled to capacity. The theater prospered; everywhere one hears of parties, teas, dinners, balls and smokers. The social life of church and school extends over the entire week. The public eating places with their many people, bright lights and music are attracting the nation away from the family dining table. The social instinct in man is manifestly strengthening itself.

Many will welcome the trend away from human solitude, but not so Schopenhauer, the "divine pessimist," who wrote:

"A chief lesson of youth should be to learn to enjoy solitude—a source of peace and happiness. In my years of youth I was delighted when the door-bell rang, for I thought, now it (the great romantic adventure) had come. But in later years my feeling on the same occasion had something rather akin to terror—I thought, there it comes!"

There have been others who have found solitude preferable to society. Thoreau said: "I love to be alone. I never found the companion that was so companionable as solitude," and Lowell compromised, "Solitude is as needful to the imagination as society is wholesome for the character."

Many will agree with all three of these past masters in philosophy and literature that solitude and society are both to be cultivated, that those who fear solitude have failed in life as utterly as those who have not enjoyed the pleasures of human society. It is possible to overdo either, but there is little evidence or danger of the present generation overcultivating solitude.

ADVERTISING AIDS BOTH

Duck eggs are as edible as the egg of the chicken and are much larger, but there is no market for duck eggs. The explanation for this as given by the advertising man is that every time a chicken lays an egg she cackles all over the barnyard, proclaiming her product to the world, but the duck lays her egg in seclusion and makes no noise about it.

Business is like the egg. Some merchants advertise their goods and sell them. Other merchants do no advertising and, consequently, little business. The wise merchant, when he receives a shipment of goods which he knows the public wants does not whisper the event down a bottomless well. He comes boldly forth in the newspaper pages and heralds his wares. When the general store filled every mercantile need in the embryo communities there may not have been much need for advertising. Only the bare necessities were obtainable and the consumer had only the general store at which to obtain them. All that has been changed. There has been specialization in business just as there has been in labor, the professions and industry and specialization has brought competition and expansion.

The inevitable outcome of the evolution, or revolution, of business has been the realization by both merchant and customer that advertising is as necessary to modern business as service. In fact the consistent advertising of its goods in the newspaper is a part of the service of every modern store which aims to serve the public.

of consideration before the National Conference of Catholic Charities in Washington recently.

Plenty of families—whole families—spend all their time wandering aimlessly around the country in their cars with no other home, living on handouts of food and traveling on handouts of gasoline. Miss Louise McGuire of the Catholic Service School said.

Some of these folk stop occasionally. Miss McGuire added, while the head of the family does a little work, but many of them are constantly on the go.

At best the father of a family of "auto tramps" doesn't get much of a job, for he won't stay by it. The "vagabond" instinct is too strong in him and his dependents. As soon as he's earned a few dollars they're on their way.

This new kind of gyppos is so recently developed that we hardly realize we have it with us and it is almost entirely unstudied as yet.

Probably Miss McGuire, whose attention was attracted to it through the future of children growing up such utter vagrants, is the best authority relative to the breed. Without going into figures, for no statistics are available, she declared it numerous and increasing—a grave problem soon to be met.

The Treasury Department, which keeps hammering away on the idea of the futility of federal tax reduction if state and local taxation is to continue to increase, has figures to prove how serious the situation is.

Three years ago, when federal taxes were higher than they are now and other taxes were not so high, of all central government took 59 per cent and state and local government 41. Last year the federal government took 28 per cent and state and local governments 72.

This, according to treasury officials is partly because federal taxes have been coming down but it is much more because state and local taxes have been moving up.

Of course, the state and local figures are an average—some parts of the country are worse than others, but those where there hasn't been an advance are few and far between.

GRAND OINTMENT MAKES PIMPLES AND BLOTCHES GO.

Ever since the introduction in this country of the wonderful Black and White Ointment, and Soap, skin specialists say that such troubles as pimples, blotches, bumps, rash, tetter, eczema, "breaking out," etc., are becoming fewer every year.

Wide distribution of Black and White Ointment, and Soap, has made it possible for millions of people to get the benefit of this wonderful, quick effect in clearing disfigured skin and making it smooth and good to look at. Dealers everywhere say they are selling faster than anything of a similar nature they have ever handled, and they attribute this popularity to the low prices at which they are sold, as well as their dependability. The 50 size Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size. (adv)

They Fight for Crown

Rogers Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, and his stellar first baseman, Jim Bottomley, are battling it out for the lasting leadership of the National League. Hornsby is out to make it a straight championship, while Bottomley hopes to halt the string, even though it would be putting it over on his boss. The great Rogers is shown on the left in the above photo with Bottomley also peering into the camera's lens.

Tigress Did This

This picture attests to the fury of a mother tigress. Shortly after the tigress gave birth to two cubs, she jumped across her cage during a circus performance at Ardmore, Okla., and savagely attacked Robert McPherson, tainer. McPherson's head, face, arms and chest were lacerated by the claws of the mother. He is shown holding one of the cubs.

PLANES MYSTERY

English Testing Two Secret Designs for Air Race

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Secret tests of the two mystery racing planes with which the British hop to recapture the Schneider Trophy Cup from America are being made.

The construction of the machines has been closely guarded and but few details regarding them have leaked out. It is understood that they are extremely diminutive in size, but powered with special Napier engines of 450-600 horsepower.

Equipped with floats as seaplanes it is expected they will develop speeds well in excess of 200 miles an hour. They will be flown in the American races by Captain Henri Bland and Hubert Broad, with Bert Hinkler, famous test pilot, accompanying as reserve pilot.

AMUSEMENTS

PALACE

One way of carrying a law case to a higher court is to elevate the judge's chair.

That is the means employed in Jas. Cruze's production "Beggars on Horseback," when Edward Everett Horton appeals his case. No one could blame Horton for wanting a different court because the members of the jury are dressed like undertakers. The judge smokes a cigar a foot long, while the jury pours tea. One of the women he is charged with killing sits in the court room and knits with an enormous pair of needles. The whole thing is not as scandalous as it would seem however, because Horton is dreaming. The dream sequence is the big feature of this novel and lavishly produced photoplay.

Snappy, youthful new models will be found here in gratifying variety. Distinctive Hats at moderate prices—drop in for one Saturday or Trades Day. A very interesting showing for Monday of the new models for fall and winter. You will surely find at least one that harmonizes with your dress or coat and that suits your type.

made guaranteed by the signature of a bank official to take good care of the books. The library must be open at stated hours to the entire community. The community, or those persons in it responsible for borrowing the library, must pay the transportation charges to and from Austin.

Miss Rogan said that a great deal of care was taken in selecting the books for these libraries. They consist not necessarily of books that persons ought to read, but of books persons will read and do read. On the other hand, no trash is included, and the books are such that the reader will be glad that he has read them.

Each traveling library consists of fifty books of interesting travel, inspiring biography, of worth-while fiction, of delightful children's books, and of other books that will comfort and cheer, or amuse, or instruct.

Send a postal card to the Texas State Library, Austin, Texas, for a leaflet on "how to secure a Traveling Library" and for an application blank. Each library may be kept for three months with the privilege of renewing the loan for an additional three months. When a library is returned, another will be sent in its place if desired.
