Awards To Car Dealers

Highway Safety Awards were presented this week to Jack Bailey Chevrolet and Portwood Motor companies.

The two firms were recognized by the Texas Automotive Dealer's Association (Austin) for their contribution to traffic safety through lending automobiles for driver-training during the current school year.

Portwood now has new pickup trucks being used by Future Farmer chapters at Plains, Meadow and Brownfield high schools. The firm also furnishes a courtesy car to O. R. Douglas, superintendent of schools here, and a driver-training car to Wellman High School.

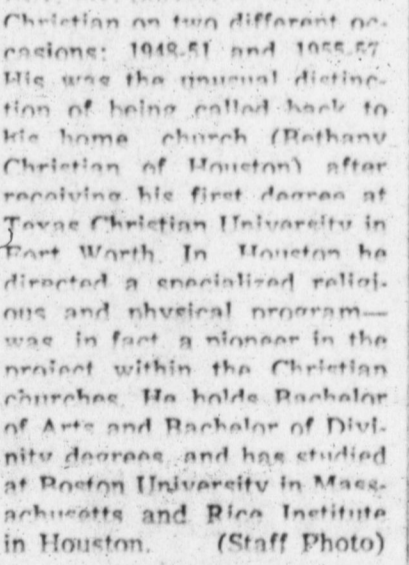

The driver-training cars at BHS and Union High School are furnished by Bailey Chevrolet, which also lends the Ropesville FFA chapter a pickup.

D. L. Johnson, Dallas Chevrolet dealer and TADA president, has referred to the lending of automobiles to high schools by new car dealers as "one of the finest contributions which can be made toward the proper driving education of our young people."

IN THE PICTURES — The Rev. W. J. (Bill) Spreen will deliver his final sermon at 11 a.m. Sunday as pastor of First Christian Church. Next week he retires from the Christian ministry, which he has served 35 years. However, he'll not be in complete retirement: He goes from here to Seymour, where he's to assume management of the chamber of commerce. He also will do "ad interim" preaching under the direction of the State Board of Christian Churches of Texas.

Dr. Wm. J. Spreen served First Christian as two different pastors: 1948-51 and 1955-57. He was the original director of being called back to his home church (Bethany Christian of Houston) after receiving his first degree at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth. In Houston he directed a specialized religious and physical program, was in fact a pioneer in the project within the Christian churches. He holds Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Divinity degrees, and has studied at Boston University in Massachusetts and Rice Institute in Houston. (Staff Photo)

PENMANSHIP AWARD — Theresa Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Stephens of Route 2, has been awarded a certificate from Esterbrook Pen Company for "outstanding shorthand penmanship" displayed on her entry to the National Gregg Shorthand contest. The first-year shorthand student placed second in the district Inter-scholastic League contests and passed a three-minute dictation test with 110 words a minute.

5,000 Terry County Persons Using The Anti-Polio Vaccine

An estimated 5,000 Terry County residents have completed or are taking the polio vaccination series, according to Jack Bailey, March of Dimes chairman for Terry and Yoakum counties.

Bailey reported a recent survey conducted through Terry County schools revealed that 606 families are participating in the immunization program or plan to do so.

The chairman also noted 119 families do not plan to take part in the program. "This gives us a total of about 84 percent who are or will take part in the anti-polio program," stated Bailey.

The survey also revealed the largest group of non-participants falls in the over-20 age group. "The 0-to-20 age group seems to be covered pretty well by the program," noted Bailey.

Mrs. Lewis Simmonds, committee health nurse, told the committee 1201 people have taken first shots at the South Plains Health Unit here since September 1956. She also said 941 have taken their second shot and 200 persons have completed the series.

"About 500 first shots have been given at the unit since the schools completed the survey," added Mrs. Simmonds.

The health nurse explained that free shots will be given from 1 to 5 p.m. each Wednesday to persons up to 70 years and to expectant mothers.

In addition to health unit totals, an unofficial survey conducted by Treadaway-Daniell Hospital revealed that almost 1,000 persons have completed their polio series through the hospital. Dr. Daniell said 770 persons have taken their second shot and 101 have taken their first shot. Other Brownfield doctors have given shots to an estimated 500 persons.

Mrs. Simmonds said Terry County had two polio victims last year, both of whom were Negro children who moved here less than a month prior to contracting the disease.

The committee stressed that sufficient vaccine is available but that the polio season rapidly is approaching.

SOIL STEWARDSHIP WEEK TO BE OBSERVED BY MANY HERE

Supervisors of Terry Soil Conservation District this week received the following letter from Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson:

"The Department of Agriculture is happy to join with the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts and church organizations in the observance of National Soil Stewardship Week which they are sponsoring May 26-June 2.

"During this week, or on Rural Life Sunday, May 26, local churches of various faiths and soil conservation districts throughout the nation will join in special recognition of man's responsibility as a steward of our God-given heritage — the productive soil.

AN EDITORIAL

Why Flirt With It...

There are some thinking persons in Brownfield and in the county who today are wondering: "Why aren't more of our residents—our friends and neighbors—taking full advantage of the miraculous polio vaccine?"

Frankly, this flirting with the deadly disease has them and us "stunned."

Loud was the hue and the cry—and much was the money demanded—for a preventive before Dr. Jonas Salk discovered just that.

Well... why all the vaccine rot in warehouses? Dr. A. H. Daniell of Treadaway-Daniell Hospital has expressed much concern that it was the recent death of a young polio victim which spurred many in the Tahoka area to take the series.

Said Dr. Daniell: "The public should not wait until the death of someone causes it to think of taking the series of anti-polio shots."

We're in agreement with the doctor: The sunlines are here, in the hands of all Brownfield doctors and at South Plains Health Unit. Why don't we who have not done so get our "shots?"

We invite your attention to the story elsewhere on this front page. It explains the results of a recent survey to determine how we stand here with regard to the anti-polio vaccine program.

Think of Future
"Such observance especially is heartening to us in the department who are charged with helping farmers use soil wisely and at the same time conserve it for continued production for the generations to come.

"Our future food supply depends on the intelligence with which we use our productive resources — such as soil and water. Not only food but many raw materials for industry come from the soil. While solving today's problems, we must not neglect tomorrow's needs.

"I strongly urge farm, church, club, conservation and other organizations to participate in this event as an important means of becoming better acquainted with the vital importance of wise use of our land to both our material and spiritual welfare."

TCSD supervisors Theresa Daniell thanked members of Brownfield Ministerial Association "for your great interest in Soil Stewardship."

FIRST POPPY — Mrs. H. B. Parks, secretary of the VFW Auxiliary, this week sold Mayor Arlie Lowrimore the first "Buddy" poppy of the campaign which begins Saturday. The poppy sale will prelude Memorial Day ceremonies to be held on the courthouse square at 10 a.m., May 30. Ceremonies will be conducted by Hand Brothers Post 6794, Veterans of Foreign Wars. On Wednesday, the mayor issued an official proclamation that "Saturday is Buddy Poppy Day in the City of Brownfield, and he called on "all our worthy citizens to wear a Buddy Poppy as evidence of our gratitude to the men of this nation who risked their lives in defense of the freedom which we continue to enjoy as American citizens. 'Beautification Week' Is Extended Here

Several days of continuous sandstorms and road construction which hampered trash pick-ups have caused "Beautify Brownfield Week" to be extended through Monday, reports Chairman John Hansard.

The chairman pointed out that many homes and business areas have been cleaned up but he said, "The city still needs lots of work if the campaign is to be a success."

Hansard said construction on Lubbock Road has slowed trash pick-up by the city. "As a result, in many places trash was stacked in the alley and wind blew it all over the neighborhood," he added.

Chamber of Commerce judges said the extension of time will enable Brownfield citizens to complete clean-up work stopped by last week's dust storms.

Hansard urged residents and organizations to make a special effort during the last days of the drive to help "Beautify Brownfield." "This will be our last chance to win the state award," he noted. "So let's all pitch in and do the job as completely as possible."

SHOW DUE HERE MONDAY

'Atoms for Peace' Show To Be Presented Here

The peace-time role of the atom will be illustrated here when an Atomic Energy Commission "Atoms for Peace" mobile unit sponsored by the Brownfield Junior Chamber of Commerce, is set up at sixth and Broadway from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday.

The exhibit, one of four developed by AEC, is designed to inform U. S. citizens of the ever-increasing role of nuclear energy in the future.

An atomic power plant being constructed in Pennsylvania will produce electric power for its vicinity. Others are in the planning stage and each will differ from the original. However, all are basically the same. To illustrate the basis for atomic power, an animated panel, operated by the spectator, will be part of the exhibit.

Terry County rural residents may see how radioactive elements and compounds are used in fertilizers. Radioisotopes, or "tracer atoms," have been used extensively to trace elements of growth and have been helpful in producing new hybrids.

Peace-time uses of nuclear materials also are evident in the field of medicine. Radioactive iodine is used to diagnose condition and efficiency of the thyroid gland and to destroy excess tissue where it is deemed necessary.

Radioactive elements also aid in the treatment of tumors and cancers.

The Jaycees urge Brownfield and Terry County residents to attend the exhibit. There will not be a charge for admission.

SHOULD CONNECT FARM TO SOIL FERTILITY RESEARCH

Soil Testing Is Not 'Gimmick' Or 'Cure-All,' Says Specialist

Probably no other service is as much misunderstood as that of soil testing, says Grady Goodpasture, owner of Goodpasture Agriculture Laboratory.

"Individuals assign a wide range of importance to soil testing, varying from just a 'gimmick' for the promotion of fertilizer sales to a cure-all in soil management," said Goodpasture. "Obviously the true meaning of soil tests should be near the center of these two extremes."

A soil test should be considered as a link that connects the farm to the soil fertility research of an agricultural experiment station, the laboratory owner related.

It intends to compare a field from which soil samples are collected with similar fields where soil fertility studies have been conducted.

"Without the soil test to bridge this gap," noted Goodpasture, "the farmer would have to do his own research. Many farmers have learned that fertilizer applications, based on reliable soil tests, can help them produce crops more efficiently."

Goodpasture pointed out the majority of cropland still is not sufficiently fertilized because the applications are made by guessing the crop needs and soil deficiencies.

"No wonder crops often fail to produce the expected yields," stated Goodpasture. "The reason for the difficulty in applying the proper kind and amount of fertilizer merely by a guess is that soils vary greatly in the ability to release nutrients to crops."

"These variations are due to the differences in parent material, native vegetation and climate," he added. "Those are factors that have developed a product that is the soil of today."

Past cropping, fertilization and other management practices have brought additional variations.

Summaries that are prepared on the basis of surface samples tested provide broad indications of the plant nutrient status of various soils in the state. Studies on profile samples of well classified soil types may give further information on soils in a given area.

However, because of the variation of soil types and their chemical properties that are encountered on a farm or even within a field, this can be only a supplement to a systematic soil testing program on a farm.

The lab owner noted it is necessary to meet certain requirements to get the full value from a soil test:

1. The soil samples must truly represent the soil of a given field.

2. The test results have to be reliable and properly interpreted.

3. The recommendations must be made properly.

This is achieved in the individual phases of soil testing: sampling, testing in the laboratory, correlating the test results with crop responses to fertilizers, and making recommendations.

In general, an organized soil testing program that is connected to the research work of a well equipped laboratory can fulfill these requirements better than any other arrangement.

One of the problems faced by Texas is that it is difficult to contact the farmers who are not taking advantage of the research findings of their Agricultural Experiment Station.

"Many of our farmers could make remarkable improvements in crop production by following recommendations that are based on reliable soil tests," summed up Goodpasture.

Use of Rotary Hoe Cuts Labor Costs;

Plan for bigger farm profits by avoiding unnecessary labor costs, advises Extension Farm Management Specialist C. H. Bates. Today's record-high farm wage rates are shoving into the spotlight such labor-saving devices as the rotary hoe weeder.

Bates says the rotary hoe is effective under proper conditions for eliminating young grass and weed seedlings in row crops. The machine greatly reduces expensive hand-hoeing labor and gets crops started faster than those competing with weeds for soil moisture and nutrients. Time and tractor fuel can also be conserved by making the first cultivation at high speeds.

The specialist warns farmers to prepare rotary hoes for immediate use! Adequate top moisture in most areas of the state now indicate a high weed infestation hazard. Farmers not owning machines are urged to consider renting them if their acreage and type of farming operation will justify it.

Mailing Tips Listed By City Postmaster

Brownfield Postmaster Joe Shelton outlined a few of the methods mailers may use to take full advantage of postal services. Following the tips will speed mail delivery and help the Post Office operate more efficiently, he noted.

"The local and non-local mail in separate bundles if you have a sizeable amount and use labels furnished by the post office to designate them," said Shelton.

The postmaster urged mailers to avoid the late afternoon rush by mailing before noon instead of only in the afternoon. Post office mailing schedules are based on train and bus departure times. Shelton revealed, so mailers are advised to send mail to the office as early as possible.

"Mailers may save as much as 24 hours by getting their letters in early and making the proper connection," he said.

"Plainly identify letters as 'Air Mail, First Class,' or 'Third Class,' the Postmaster said. 'First Class letters in large envelopes could be confused with slower Third Class material if it is not marked,' Shelton added.

Correct postage is of utmost importance to the mailer. If postage is due, the mail may be returned for additional postage or collected from the addressee, resulting in delivery delays and customer dissatisfaction.

"Often," the postmaster commented, "delays in mail may be accounted for by the simple fact that the letter was deposited in a mail box just after the last collection of the day. Familiarity with these simple tips can help patrons obtain better mail service."

Well Construction, Equipment, Site Are Important For Irrigation Here

By W. E. CRABTREE
Engineer — Soil Conservation Service

Well construction, equipment and site selection are all important considerations for the farmer who plans to drill an irrigation well in this area.

The depth and thickness of water-bearing formations vary considerably according to geologic origin. Within a single formation waterlain deposits vary greatly from one location to another in their ability to yield enough water for irrigation. In loose water-bearing formations such as sand and gravel, small diameter test wells are usually a good investment. The purpose of test holes is to locate the static water level, check the thickness and kind of water-bearing formation, and to sample the water for quality.

The first test hole should be located where the owner would like his completed well. With sprinkler or underground pipe systems, the best location is usually in the center of the area to be irrigated.

If the test hole information indicates there is not sufficient amount of water at the location, further test holes are necessary in order to find a sufficient supply elsewhere.

There are limitations in estimating the yield from a test hole but this information usually will determine if completing the larger, more expensive hole is justified. The importance of good test hole information cannot be over emphasized.

The rotary method of test hole drilling has been the most common because of its speed and relative low cost. However, the main limitation to rotary tests is that clay, mixed with water-bearing sand and gravel makes it difficult to judge the true permeability of the formation.

It also is difficult to judge the exact depth from which the samples are coming. The dependability of test drilling by this method will depend largely on the skill of the driller. Care should be taken to collect accurate samples at each formation change and every four feet through the water-bearing formation. These samples should be placed in bags or glass jars as a permanent record of the formation. The samples from the saturated portion of the formation can be sent to a commercial well screen company for sieve analysis service.

The most accurate sampling comes from cased holes of at least four inches in diameter by bailed, suction bucket, or core barrel. True samples are nearly impossible with washed, jetted, or rotary methods. The well driller should notify the owner when test pumping operations are to begin. The owner, in turn, should arrange for the pump dealer and sprinkler dealer, if sprinkler is to be used, to observe the test pumping. These dealers must have all information possible to install the correct equipment after drilling completed.

When planning the construction of an irrigation well and purchasing pumping equipment, the farmer should consider it as a long-term investment. A well that is properly constructed of the right materials could last for several years. A poorly constructed well could mean loss of well and crop all at once since a well usually goes out during heavy use.

Production Trends Control Hog Prices

Hog producers in Texas and the nation are worried about the prospects for continued good prices. They are wondering, says John C. McHaney, extension economist, whether production increases are going to be overdone with resulting lower prices to follow in the months ahead.

McHaney says the total spring pig crop for 1957 will probably be a little larger than the one in 1956 but that slaughter will continue below last year until the end of 1957.

The difference though will narrow in the months ahead and prices will probably stay above last year until November or December.

On March 1, 1957, farmers in the 9 principal hog producing states held two percent more pigs three months of age and younger than a year ago. They also reported that one percent more litters would be farrowed in March, April and May and three percent more during June, July and August.

At the present, says the economist, it appears that four to five percent more hogs could be available for marketing by late fall and early winter. Prices will react to the increased production with the greatest price differences coming in December 1957 and January 1958.

McHaney says no change in the demand for farm products including pork and lard is expected during the next 12 months and that changes in hog prices will result primarily from changes in supply. Hog profits will be determined in the months ahead by how well producers keep supplies and demands in balance.

The economist advises hog producers to keep a close watch on future production trends. Present hog prices and the prospect for lower feed grain prices for the fall of 1957 will aid expansion and increase the chances for lower prices in the spring of 1958.

The efficient producer will probably not need to make any major adjustments but should continue to be on the alert for changes which will make his operations even more efficient.

Lower prices, on the other hand, could result in losses or no profit for the inefficient producers, concludes the economist.

Face Covering Sets Sale Price for Sheep

Face covering long has been an important selection factor in breeding fine wool Rambouillet sheep. Now, animal husbandmen at the Sonora Experiment Station affix definite values up to $5 a head for sheep with medium face covering over those with near-complete coverings which pose serious wool-blindness threats.

Proper selection of ewes with an intermediate amount of wool-covering on the face can mean a difference of 5 to 9 pounds more lamb weight than either those heavily-covered or open-faced. The extra weight is due almost entirely to a higher percentage of weaned lamb crop.

Ewes with an excessive amount of wool on the face also tend to be much more susceptible to screwworm strikes in lachrymal pits below the eyes. It's a good management practice, therefore, to cull potentially wool-blind sheep at birth or as found in the flock.

Warden Is Champion

Winner in Brownfield Country Club's annual All-City Golf Tournament is Ray Warden, who defeated J. L. (Dusty) Kemper, 2 and 1, Sunday to take the honor.

By the same score, J. O. Burnett Jr., downed Jerry Kirschner to win consolation honors.

Warden also was medalist in the tournament because of a par-72 he stroked in the qualifying round May 12.

Other flight champions included Jack Shirley, 1-up over B. F. Hutson the first; Othel Reeves, 1-up over Sherwood Gill in the second, and Bob Hoey, who won by default over Dunc Warren in the third.

Consolation winners were George O'Neal, 1-up over Jim Cousineau in first flight; Sawyer Graham, 2 and 1 over Gene Angus in second flight, and Jack Bailey, 1-up over Murphy May in third flight.

This Week in Austin

By PRESTON SMITH
State Senator

To get an idea of some things that happen during the consideration of a bill, we can examine a typical incident of the 55th Legislature that attracted quite a bit of interest.

The bill, one of the "scrappiest" measures this term, is one intended to provide that those who use the telephone "with malicious intent to harass, annoy, torment, abuse, threaten or intimidate" be guilty of a misdemeanor.

After the bill had passed the Senate and weathered the House criminal jurisprudence committee, organized resistance was aimed at stopping the bill.

The opposition came from bill collectors, loan agency operators and retail merchants who resort to collections by telephone.

House members got letters and calls from persons of those categories back home asking them to kill the measure. In other words, according to the ringing telephones and letters coming into the capital about this bill it looked like that opposition was massive against such a measure.

However, there are many voters who might not disagree with the provisions of the bill, which reads, in part:

"Whoever uses any vulgar, profane, obscene, or indecent language over or through any telephone or whoever uses any telephone in any manner with malicious intent to harass, annoy, torment, abuse, or intimidate another shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $1,000, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than one month nor more than 12 months, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

The measure is intended to stop the practice of vulgar and obscene telephone calls which have kept police busy in several cities.

Broiler Festival Set For Two-Day Show

Plans for the Texas Broiler Festival to be held in Nacogdoches on May 31 and June 1 are rapidly taking shape, reports F. Z. Beanblossom, extension poultry marketing specialist and general chairman for the event.

Saturday, June 1 will be the day, he says. Final judging of the contestants who will be vying for the title of "Texas Broiler Queen for 1957" will be completed early Saturday morning so all participants can take part in Broiler Festival parade. Floats, bands and beautiful girls will be featured in the parade which will travel a course through downtown Nacogdoches.

But the event which is expected to draw some 15,000, the broiler barbecue, will begin at 12 noon and continue until all have eaten their fill of choice Texas broilers. This event, says Beanblossom, will be the largest such barbecue ever staged in Texas. During the barbecue Ferlin Husky and his band from the Grand Old Opry will furnish entertainment.

Immediately following the barbecue, Governor Price Daniel and Dr. Cliff Carpenter, president, Institute of American Poultry Industries of Chicago will be featured. Governor Daniel's subject has not been announced while Dr. Carpenter will discuss "National and International Events Will Determine the Future of the Texas Broiler Industry."

George P. McCarthy will introduce the queen contestants, announce the winners and present awards valued at hundreds of dollars. The final event on the afternoon program will be the drawing for attendance prizes which again, says Beanblossom, will be in keeping with the size and scope of the day's program.

The entire Festival, says the chairman, is being sponsored by the Texas Broiler Council but all segments of the Texas poultry industry are lending support to the observance. "Literally," says Beanblossom, "the eyes of the poultry world will be on Texas and and planting rates or methods are usually some of the earlier problems, he adds.

Later in vegetable gardening, the specialist says such things as care of growing plants, proper cultivation methods, plant diseases, and pest control become the center of attention. Since properly handled vegetable gardening can contribute to a variety of dinner table foods, Hancock urges strict adherence to all accepted management principles.

A recent revision of extension bulletin, "Vegetable Gardening," offers hints on all these phases of the enterprise. Hancock says it discusses fertilizers, soil testing, seed treatment, watering and other general gardening problems.

Liberal illustrations with charts and photographs, "Vegetable Gardening" also contains a section dealing with miscellaneous information on specific garden plants. A varieties and planting guide offers detailed recommendations for general areas of Texas including seed or plant spacing, planting depth and hardness for common vegetables of the state.

For better gardening tips, visit your local county agent Hancock advises.

Gardening Bulletin Aids 'Green Thumbs'; Gives Tips For Better Vegetable Yields

The first step in planning a vegetable garden is to select the best possible location. Daily attention and close supervision are almost as essential as fertile soil or water in later stages, and nothing can adequately replace properly-timed planting of locally-adapted plants for maximum yield insurance.

There is no "all-purpose" plan designed to fit the problems of "just any garden," warns Extension Horticulturist Blueford Hancock. Careful, localized planning is essential for each area — and each gardener, regardless of previous experience! Selection of tools, soil preparation, specifically Nacogdoches on May 31 and June 1. It's our opportunity to recognize and compliment a great state industry.

Sudan Is Production Leader For Forage

Sudangrass looks like the Texas champion in the annual forage crop division! Even Millet, formerly a high-ranking contender for the title, appears to have been replaced to a large extent in recent years by Sudan.

Sudan successfully defended its claim to the throne at the Denton Agricultural Experiment Station in 1954-56 tests. Eleven varieties of this African imported grass were credited with an average of 4,320 pounds of air-dry forage per acre, compared with 2,285 pounds for Pearl Millet varieties. Millets lack the ability to recover following harvest, says Station Superintendent D. I. Dudley, and were severely affected by the drought. German Millet was tested only in 1956, and produced a 2,135 pound per acre yield.

Highest-yielding annuals of the Denton experiment were Sudangrass Tift, Piper, Sweet 372 (S-1) and Common. Best records in the perennial division were posted by SJI Johnsongrass, Persistent Johnsongrass and sorghum alnum. Tift, highest yielding annual variety with a 5,040 pounds per acre 3-year average, was only 1,100 pounds above the lowest yield of 3,875 pounds recorded by Lahoma Sudan. Plantings in 40-inch rows yielded more than those in 12-inch rows.

Improved Johnsongrass, sorghum-Johnsongrass hybrids and strains of perennial Sudangrass planted in 40-inch rows yielded about 900 pounds more hay per acre than did plantings in 12-inch rows. Although undesirable under certain field conditions, Johnsongrass may prove valuable to North-Central Texas livestock operations for hay and as a grazing crop. Seed of the Johnsongrass hybrids are not yet available, however.

Dudleys says Sudangrass,

COMPLETE LOSS — One of the five tornadoes that danced around the Tokio Community last week unroofed the George Alexander home and heavily damaged the walls. Parts of the roof and walls were strewn about a mile across a pasture and road behind the home. Tornadoes also smashed at least four oil derricks in the area. (Staff Photo)

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

Heavy Income and Death Taxes Making Persons Plan Far Ahead—and Legally

You can tell a lot about people by the way they regard time.

Do they put stock mostly in the past — their record; the present — their direct joy in work or play; or the future — their plans? Why not use all three dimensions of time? Past experience to guide, the present for zest, and the future to realize dreams.

Lawyers report a sharp shift in the way people regard time and the law: Of old they Johnsongrass and all the sorghums as well as their hybrids are capable of forming dangerous amounts of prussic acid poison under stress conditions. He advises cautious grazing when these plants are resuming normal growth after being retarded by drought or frost.

thought of law in terms of past facts like failures to meet legal duties, misdeeds, etc. — facts useful chiefly in lawsuits.

You still have to think of the record, since you may have to go to trial some time. So keep good records of your affairs.

But more and more people now also think of the law in the future tense — in terms of built-in safeguards for plans which they want to go through without legal hitches.

Our heavy income and death taxes have made people plan ahead legally, rather than wait for the axe to fall.

Any time you buy or sell a home or a business or make an investment you have choices of how you may do it — some wise, some not, in view of your circumstances.

Should you do business as a sole proprietor, a partnership, or corporation? Do your contracts set out ways of meeting unexpected events? How best may you serve your estate (and also carry out your wishes) — by a will or a trust, or by direct gifts?

While all of these things point forward, the past in the form of court records can serve you by showing where trouble may come from.

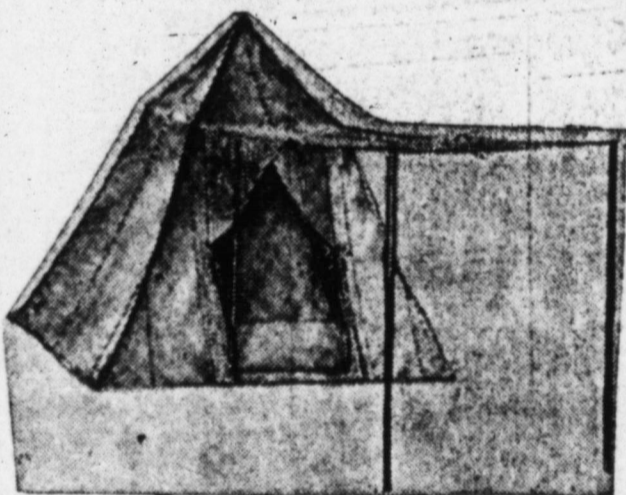

Where To Look
 As more and more people know the symptoms of legal trouble — where to look for legal hitches in plans before big trouble starts, there will be fewer law suits and better human relations.

And where does trouble sometimes start? Most often where you lack a clear grasp of your relationship, your rights and duties, and your own and the other fellow's resources — in transactions involving large personal or financial stakes.

Second Grader Mike Sherwin Pays Tribute To Past, Present Teachers

(Ed. Note. The following letter was received this week by Gee Gee Privitt, NEWS Women's Editor, and she felt that, with the closing of school, it would not only be appropriate but interesting to the readers. Written by Mrs. H. E. Sherwin of 602 East Cactus Lane, it was headed "The Sentiments of a Second Grader".)

As Mike and I ate breakfast this morning, we were talking about school being almost out. He said, "Mother, I don't know why, but I feel a little sad this morning. I will miss my school friends and I really will miss my teacher."

Curious, I asked, "Mike, which one of your teachers did you like best, your first grade teacher or your second grade teacher?" His exact words I quote: "Why, Mother, Mrs. (Homer) Barnes was my best first grade teacher and Mrs. (Norene) Hudspeth was my best second grade teacher. I love them both."

I thought, Who could give a better or more honest answer. I wonder if we as parents appreciate our teachers enough. They take our children (babies almost), help us to mold them to become good citizens, teaching them the graces of life we so often neglect, caring for them the greater part of the day, not just one or two children but 30 or more. Patience, yes; wisdom, yes; knowledge, yes; but most of all, a generous love for each as an individual, knowing each one's particular need at the moment.

I think it's a wonderful tribute to a teacher that a little boy can look back and say, "Why, Mother, I love them both". I join Mike in these sentiments.

Grasses Tested For Drought - Stricken Texas Cattle Range
Greatly improved native grasses developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station are now being tested throughout the state. Seeding these selected grasses in combinations may be a practical substitute for the long-sought "miracle" grass needed for restoring low-producing, drought stricken ranges.

In the past, many promising grasses have failed to withstand the ravages of drought satisfactorily or to respond properly under necessary range management practices. Extension Range Specialist A. H. Walker says stock farmers not only need drought resistant pastures, but also must have grasses capable of setting good seed; producing plenty of leaves; and establishing themselves quickly. Walker says the improved native varieties will probably lend themselves to more economical seeding and land preparation than grasses introduced in the past. Four years of breeding and selection has produced a side-oats grama, a blue grama and a hairy grama—all with runners like buffalograss. Over 200 varieties of side-oats grama are now being tested, one of which can set plenty of good quality seed and hold it long enough for a single combining operation.

Santa Fe and Electronics

New electronic methods keep constant check on all freight cars moving over Santa Fe rails

New electronic wonders are contributing to precision railroading on the Santa Fe.

Take freight car locating, for instance. With our Red Ball service, we can "put the finger" any time on any one of many thousands of freight cars moving over the 13,150 miles of Santa Fe rails every day.

Information on these cars is recorded on cards which are fed into electronic machines. These "electronic brains" process the cards as fast as 2,000 per minute—and tell us within a few seconds where every car is, what it contains, where it is going.

This information is immediately available for our customers. Shippers of produce may take advantage of any changing market conditions and divert their shipments while en route to other points where markets may be more favorable.

With this advice, consignees know in advance the time of arrival of their shipments. This facilitates their plans for delivery of shipments or scheduling of production.

This method of locating freight cars is only one of the many electronic tools now employed by Santa Fe. Some of the others are microwave, two-way radio, and supersonic rail detectors.

Something new in the science of railroading is a daily objective on the Santa Fe—the railroad that's always on the move toward a better way.

FOR EIGHTH YEAR

Portwood Honored By Ford Division

Portwood Motor was honored Monday by the Ford Division of Ford Motor Company in presentation ceremonies for the 1956 Four-Letter Award for the eighth consecutive year.

The award signifies that Portwood has met high company standards for outstanding dealership operation. Owner John H. Portwood accepted the plaque lettered F-M-S-F, meaning excellent rating in dealership Finances, Management, Spirit and Facilities.

The presentation was made by Pete Mitchell, field representative and George Montagnet Jr., manager of the Truck Merchandising Department.

In his remarks, Montagnet pointed out that the Four-Letter Award is the highest honor the Ford Division can pay its dealers.

"Portwood Motor Company and its employees are to be congratulated on having earned it. This places the firm among the top Ford dealerships in the nation," said Montagnet.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Jones made a business trip to Eagle Pass the past weekend. High water detained them, but they were finally able to return home by a detour.

A skein of cotton thread was one of the valuable gifts that Columbus brought to Isabella when he returned from the new world.

Cotton is the most progressive farm industry. Man-hours per bale declined from 328 to 96 in three decades. The pace is even faster today.

A certain type of cotton gauze can be sewed into wounds and left to be absorbed by the body within the course of a few days or a few weeks. It is particularly useful to surgeons in stopping blood flow.

There is about 26 cents of raw cotton in a man's dress shirt. This 26 cents worth of cotton undergoes some 15 major processes, each generating employment for capital and labor.

Cadillac

Friendly Welcome For a Total Stranger!

He's a "stranger in these parts"—just passing through on his way to some distant destination.

But you wouldn't know it to look at the wonderful welcome he receives as he brings his car to a silken stop and his day's travels to an end.

For high on the hood of his motor car rides the beautiful crest of Cadillac—and hospitality just seems to follow a new Cadillac wherever it goes.

No man, you see, is ever without standing when he is in command of the "car of cars".

For it is a recognized fact that Cadillac owners—representing though they do such varying fields of endeavor and such widely separated parts of our world—also have a great deal in common.

Invariably they are people of marked personal achievement—who have won for themselves a considerable measure of respect and recognition.

In brief, the driver's seat of the Cadillac car is the traditional dwelling place of the world's leading citizens. And people everywhere have found it safe to assume that whomsoever they behold at the wheel is a worthy member of this great and distinguished company.

Of course, this is but one of the satisfactions of Cadillac ownership... in addition to inspiring beauty, luxurious Fleetwood coachcraft, superlative performance and extraordinary value.

Have you as yet taken the wheel of a new 1957 Cadillac? If not, then you should visit your Cadillac dealer and spend an hour on the highway.

He'll be waiting for you with a "friendly welcome" of his own!

B.H.S. News

By DONNA CHRISTOPHER

'Tis "dead week" around B. H. S. as students prepare to take their final exams Thursday and Friday. All classes will be concluded Friday afternoon, and the graduation exercises will take place May 26 and 27. Students will return for report cards Tuesday.

Last Thursday morning the Methodist Church hosted an early breakfast for the seniors in their fellowship hall. After the invocation by Rev. Jimmy Tidwell, the guests sat down to a meal of bacon, link sausage, scrambled eggs, toast and jelly, and coffee and milk. Mrs. J. S. Smith gave the welcome, followed by a response by William Smyrl, senior class president. Mrs. George Weiss presided the entertainment with a humorous reading. Mike Hamilton gave the benediction.

The A. A. U. W. (American Association of University Women) honored the senior girls with a tea in the Seleta Jane Brownfield Club House, Thursday night. Mrs. Dorothy Garner, assistant to the dean of women at Texas Tech, was the featured speaker. She pointed out the value of a college education for women, and following her talk she answered questions posed by the girls. Mrs. Al Muldrow, president of the A. A. U. W., gave the welcome and introduced the speaker.

Refreshments in the form of coffee, tea, mixed nuts, mints, and tiny white cakes decorated with blue flowers were served. Each girl received a corsage made up of the class colors.

Twenty-six seniors spent all day May 15, in Ruidoso, N.M., on their senior trip. While there they played pool, bowled, rode horseback, climbed mountains, and just rode around. The three senior sponsors accompanied the group.

HIMS 'N' HERS: Mary Waters-Steve Lawlis, Barbara Knox-Richard Baggett, Le Nora Turner-Gerald Jenkins, Ruth Glenn-Lonnie

Bartley, Barbara Germany-Mont Muldrow, Betty Hargrove-Bobby Casey, Sherry Don Spears-Bobby Horton, Jorita Fulford-Lee Rowden, Mary Joe Christian-Mike Hamilton, Bobbie Bailey-Doyle Simpson, Jeaple Criswell-E. What Nots: Connie Marie King, a former B. H. S. student recently graduated from Kinder High School in Louisiana, visited the old burg from Monday through Wednesday. Connie, who was salutatorian of her class, plans to enter Stephen F. Austin College in Nacogdoches, Texas, next fall.

The seniors' caps and gowns came in Monday, and have been scheduled... Joan Priest was honored with a bridal shower Thursday evenings.

Brownfield Funeral Home Proudly Extends To You

This Invitation
 To Attend
 Our
FORMAL OPENING

BROWNFIELD FUNERAL HOME — Corner South 2nd and Tate. To the people of Brownfield and Terry County: It gives us great pleasure to extend to you this personal invitation to visit Brownfield Funeral Home. We have tried to erect a building of which all the residents of this area could be proud. It is constructed along modern lines of white tile, trimmed with red brick and topped with green roofing. It is completely furnished and equipped with the latest facilities, and is cooled by refrigerated air conditioning for your comfort. We hope you will be with us from 2 p.m. until 9 p.m., Sunday — hours of our formal opening.

We have tried to build this modern structure with your comfort and well-being in mind. In left picture: the handsome Chapel, large enough to accommodate all services, but small enough to create and maintain the "family" feeling. Below is the luxuriously furnished Reception Room.

ROY COLLIER IN 37TH YEAR AS FUNERAL DIRECTOR HERE; OCCUPIES NEW BUILDING

Formal opening of the all new Brownfield Funeral Home is May 26.

After that day is finished, Owner Roy Collier likely is to experience a singular feeling of "completion."

Now in the 37th year of his profession in Brownfield, Collier explains: "My youth's dream finally is fulfilled."

What the pioneer funeral director means is that he now can offer an establishment and service regarded by those in the profession as one of the finest in the Southwest—ranked by few anywhere.

The rebuilding completed only last month, Brownfield Funeral Home is housed in a long, low handsome structure of white tile, trimmed with red brick and topped by green roofing.

Located at the address of the old building, at Tate and South Second streets, everything is new with the exception of the personnel: reception room, two slumber rooms, chapel, offices, rest rooms, display and preparation rooms.

Probable opinion of visitors: "Here is a business keyed to the comfort, service and well-being of the family."

Pale colors of high brilliance, soft lights, good seating, appropriate music (equally soft), deep-piled rugs, tasteful wall pictures and handsome furniture—these are for the visitors. Mr. Collier is quick to explain that the funeral home was not named after the city, but was named "in honor of M. B. Brownfield, who always was soft lights, good seating, ap- my good friend, and gave me an opportunity in the West as he did so many others."

Collier even went against the wishes of those who wanted him to name his business the Roy Collier Funeral Home, after its complete renovation.

In 1920 and still a single man (he later married the former Miss Ellen Welch of Brownfield), Collier left Blanton-Draughon's Business College in Fort Worth and moved to Brownfield.

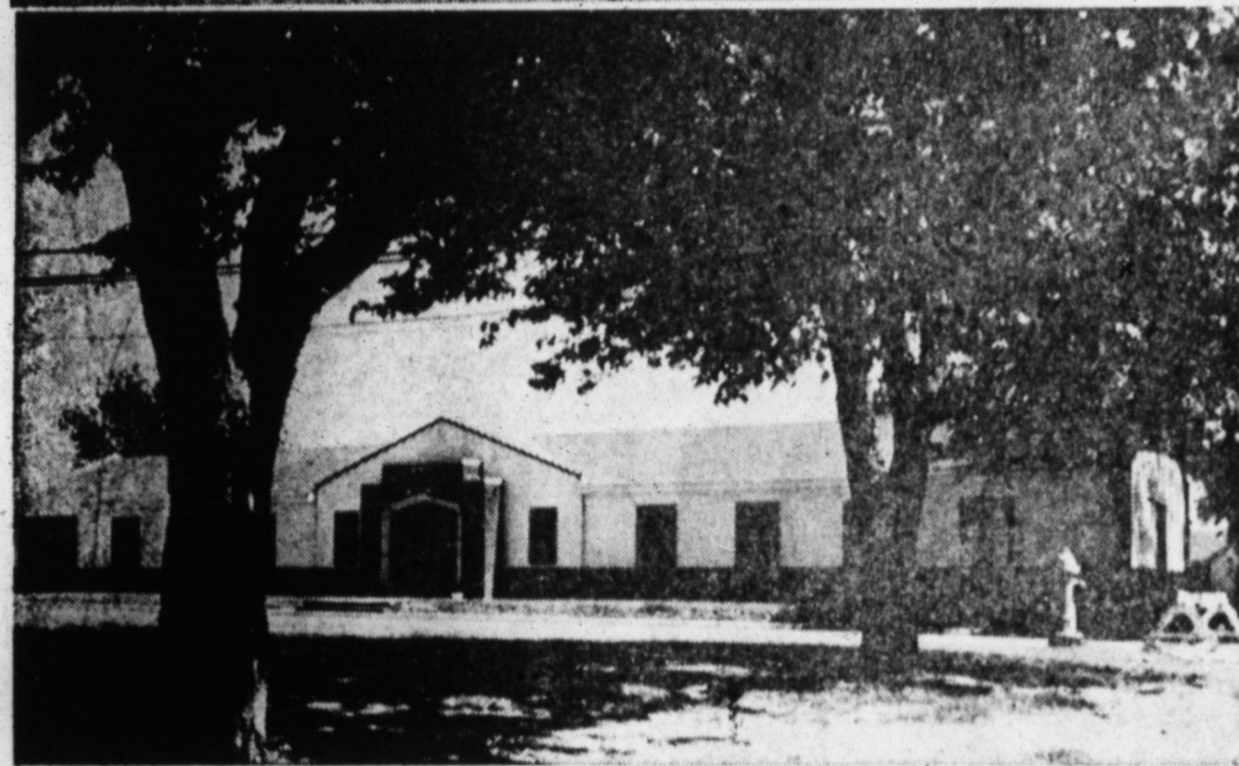

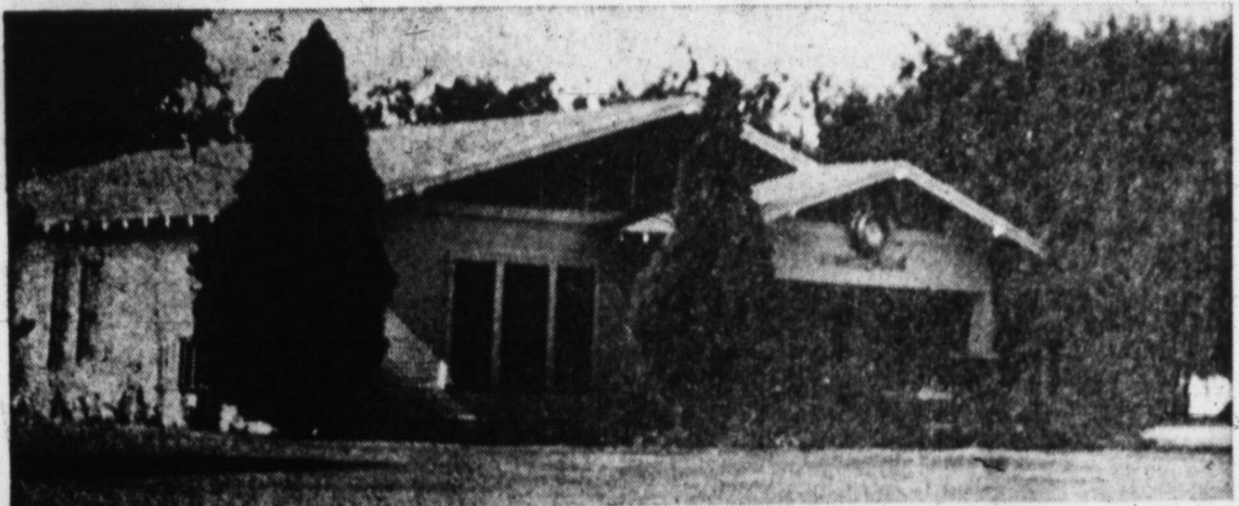

He bought a small interest in Guy Williams' variety store, later purchasing the entire stock and "closing out." Working through the late Wally Rix, founder of Rix Funeral in Lubbock, Mr. Collier added the furniture and undertaking lines to his business.

In 1923, he went with Brownfield Hardware, being in charge of furniture and funeral direction, and remained with the firm even after 1936, when it was sold to Hudgens & Knight.

It was in 1946 that Mr. Collier severed all connections with J. B. Knight Hardware & Furniture to devote full time and interest to the funeral home at the present address.

The funeral home personnel is particularly proud of the magnificent chapel, immediately to the right of the reception room. Of much interest to visitors will be the pews, seating more than 225 persons. The See No. 1 Page 7

ROY B. COLLIER — Owner of Brownfield Funeral Home is pictured above, seated in the luxurious office which is a far cry from the facilities when he pioneered the funeral direction business in Brownfield. Now in the 37th year of his profession here, Collier will be on hand to greet guests May 26, date of formal opening of his new building at Tate and South Second.

HITCHING POST AND MODEL T — When Roy Collier opened his first mortuary here, signs of the times were the hitching post and Model T cars, both shown above in front of the buildings which now house Cliff's Western Wear, Nicholson Insurance Agency, Main Street Barber Shop, law offices of Burton & Hackney, Akers Insurance Agency and House of Fabrics. Collier had his business located in the extreme left part of those shown.

No. 1 —

chapel also had a foldover partition at the front, allowing the accommodation of an additional audience in the 20x30 reception room.

Son Is Associated

Like the entire building, the chapel is air conditioned and heated entirely by electricity.

In the beautiful display room, the family will find a much larger selection of caskets, suits and dresses.

Now associated with Mr. Collier in the business is his son, Carrol. Likely to be seen somewhere on the premises are Carrol's three sons: 9-year-old Craig, 6-year-old Chris and 5-year-old Roy Clark.

Mr. Collier also has two daughters: Miss La Verne Collier, who primarily is responsible for those famous Hemphill-Weils display windows at Lubbock, and Mrs. Wanda Wade of Lamesa. Her children are Randal Clay, 4, and small daughter, Roi Vachelle.

Now in his 14th year with Brownfield Funeral is Lewis Simmonds. Both Simmonds and Carrol take turns with the ambulance calls, and both hold first-aid certificates. Simmonds teaches first aid. Carrol holds a bachelor of science degree in pre-medical studies at Abilene Christian College.

Mr. Collier, whose license carries the number 1120, is a member of both the State and National Funeral Directors associations, and has not missed a state convention in 15 years.

Last Sunday, he was at the state convention in Houston's Shamrock Hotel. Last year, he was nominated to serve on the state board, but had to refuse from the floor because of health. He also felt that he could not give just time to the board's business because his building here was in progress.

Mr. Collier is the oldest member in point of active service in Brownfield Rotary Club, is a charter member of Brownfield Country Club, and has been a Mason for 27 years. He and Mrs. Collier live at 1204 East Buckley, and attend Crescent Hill Church of Christ.

A Wholesome Atmosphere

Said Mr. Collier: "I planned to give my mortuary a wholesome atmosphere which would cheer visitors. I also have at-
"I also want them to feel that we are proud to have been fortunate in offering continuous service to Brownfield and its outlying communities for the past 37 years. We shall continue to keep pace with our growing city and its needs."

Sunday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maple and daughter of 711 South C were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Maple and daughter, Gail, of Claude.

Voice Recital Is Slated Saturday

Students of Mrs. John Luckie will be presented in a voice recital Saturday at 8 p.m. in the First Methodist Church. Public is cordially invited to attend.

Guest soloists will be Brenda Moreland and Reba Gail Willis of Levelland.

Other students to be presented are: Betty Bragg, Betty Collins, Carol Christopher, Virginia Lee Cooper, Priscilla Cornett, Jane Hill and Nancy King, all of Brownfield; J. W. Hawkins of Lubbock; and Sandra Armstrong and Charla Berry of Ropesville.

Group students who will appear on the program are: Carole Gates, Laveda Rains, Sherrill Turner, Beverly Dunn-Sue Lowe, Donna Douglas, Paulette Murry, Carolyn Hall, Patricia Cornett, Carolyn Callaway, Mary Jane Barrett, Judy Adams and Joy Luckie.

Sue Dell Jones accompanied Jorita Fulford and her mother, Mrs. W. A. Fulford, to Carlsbad, N.M. over the weekend. The three toured Carlsbad Caverns and visited Mrs. Fulford's mother.
