T'S A GREAT EMPIRE!

In Spite of Drouth...

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article was prepared and released by the Industrial Development Department, West Texas Chamber of Commerce.)
"The worst drouth of climatic record" is the way the experts describe the dry spell which since late 1949 has plagued the 132-county region known as West Texas.

This presentation is designed not to discount drouth's adverse impact upon the economy of some parts of the region but to challenge the erroneous concept that West Texas is drying up economically.

IN SPITE OF THE DROUTH . . .

West Texas's economy is growing in a spectacular manner.

It has been said that "... retail sales are in a descending spiral. The slump is evident by the sight of vacant stores."

IN SPITE OF THE DROUTH . . .

Retail sales in West Texas have increased during the drouth by more than 56 per cent.

It has been said that "... the people have spent all their savings. They have reached the end of their economic rope."

IN SPITE OF THE DROUTH . . .

Effective buying income in West Texas is at an all-time high and is increasing steadily.

It has been said that "... there is no more money available. It appears that many banks are on the verge of closing their doors."

IN SPITE OF THE DROUTH . . .

Bank deposits in West Texas continue to increase, with new records being set in most area at every call.

It has been said that "... men, women and children are leaving the area, driven out by dwindling resources and better opportunities elsewhere."

IN SPITE OF THE DROUTH . . .

The population of West Texas has continued to increase year after year.

It has been said that "... with farm and ranch lands lying under the parching sun, farmers and ranchers are leaving to find jobs outside the area."

IN SPITE OF THE DROUTH . . .

Employment in West Texas is increasing, with more employed today than ever before in the history of the region. Where jobs have become scarcer on farm and ranch, other jobs within the region have become available.

It has been said that "... the drouth virtually has dried up the rich agricultural production in the once great farm country."

IN SPITE OF THE DROUTH . . .

Value of farm products sold in the entire region has declined relatively little, although agriculture in West Texas has been seriously affected in some areas.

ACCORDING TO TEC ESTIMATES

Two area accidents Wednesday claimed the lives of two teen-age youths and a 71-year old Brownfield man and injured two other youths to raise Terry County's 1957 death toll to eight.

Dead are E. E. Baker of 921 North Third, who was struck by a construction truck as he rode his bicycle across the intersection of Stewart and Lubbock Road early Wednesday; Gerald R. Fitzgerald, 14, of Hawley, and Art Herzberger, 14, of Andrews, were killed about 8 p.m. Wednesday when their car smashed into a parked truck 3 miles west of Tokio on the Plains Highway.

Injured in the same accident were Jerry Brantly, 20, of Tokio, and Bob Lee, 13, of Andrews. Brantly, who suffered a gash over one eye, was released from Treadaway-Daniell Hospital after emergency treatment. The other survivor, Lee, received a broken arm.

Investigating officers said the youths' car was demolished as it struck the truck front bumper, ripping the automobile open at headlight level. Apparently Fitzgerald and Herzberger were killed

The Right Answers

It is easy to add two plus two to get the right answer, but there are many things in life that do not seem to add up right. Why does there seem to be so much sadness in the world, so much disappointment and so little lasting satisfaction? Why do good people appear to be stricken with as much affliction and sorrow as bad ones? The Church has wrestled with questions like these for centuries and has a positive answer. One cannot find the answer by seeking, but he can learn that God is trustworthy and that life is good. This is the good news the Church proclaims; go and hear it.

Is something wrong with your life—an inner restless dissatisfaction? The answer to every human problem comes only from God our Maker. He alone can forgive and reassure. Through the church God has committed the provision and proclamation of His forgiveness and redeeming love. Without a church relation no one is securely related to God. Everyone should be in the Church and the Church in everyone!

New Mexico Champion Sets New Record Here

By GEE GEE PRIVITT
NEWS Staff Writer

Coolly knocking out a one-over par 75 at Brownfield Country Club Tuesday to set a new course record for women, Kathryn Whitworth of Jal, N. M., seemed to have planned it that way.

The 17-year old blonde women's state golf champion from New Mexico has been a house guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hardy, 415 East Buckley. Playing with her Tuesday when she shattered Jewel Sampson of Lubbock's record of 76 were Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. J. T. Bowman and Mrs. Cecil Knox.

It was just two years ago in May that Kathryn took up golf — "because it looked like fun and good exercise" — and the two obviously took to each other from the start. Her teachers were Hardy Loudermilk, who is professional at the Jal Country Club, and Harvey Penick of Austin.

When she copped the state title July 21 at Farmington, she had to beat one of the state's top golfers, Blanche Johnson of Albuquerque. It was only the second major tournament she had played, having participated in the state tourney at Los Alamos last September. How'd she come out? She won the championship consolation and made herself a promise that she'd be top dog in the next "big one."

Is Typical Teenager

Kathryne is the typical teenager, with a zest for everything she does. She says she really doesn't have any hobbies, but she loves all sports and enjoys dancing. The young linkster was graduated this May from high school at Jal and has been offered a scholarship at Odessa Junior College. She is waiting now to hear the results of action of the board.

Yes, she plans to make golf an important future career. "If I can keep my game up," she said seriously. Right now, she doesn't know what major she'll have at college, but just wants a good "all-round" education.

Kathryne played 18 holes Wednesday when the South Plains Womens Golf Association met at Brownfield, shooting a 77. . . and there haven't been too many women match that score on the local course. "Just luck, I guess," she laughed.

She sure is. She is a perfect natural swing.

Mrs. C. A. Winn, Mrs. T. F. Winn and Mrs. J. W. Cooper visited this week in Corpus Christi with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ellis and son.

Suzie Andrews of Plainview and Terry Fulford of Brownfield spent the week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Fulford of Meadow.

in the home of Mrs. R. D. Jones Jr., at 1307 East Repto. The group will make plans then to attend the queen contest of the Dawson County Farm Bureau, Aug. 16 in Seminole.

On Aug. 27, the contestants will be Hospitality Time guests on Channell 11, KCBD-TV at Lubbock.

Mrs. Jones, entry committee chairman, said Saturday that a professional model, Mary Jane Kinard of Hemphill-Wells at Lubbock, would come to Brownfield after the Aug. 16 entry deadline to consult with the contestants.

No. 2—

Meeting also with Wayne Grant of Amarillo, TEC district director, the group determined that some 6,200 Mexican nationals will have to be imported into the county to harvest this year's crop.

Said Carrell: "Present crop conditions indicate greater production than was anticipated when (in early July) these figures were prepared. We may have to raise them approximately 15 to 20 per cent."

"Ceilings" granted by the secretary of labor limiting importation of Mexican national into this area will be posted in post offices in Brownfield, Meadow and Wellman.

Functions Under Law
The three-man committee functions under Public Law 78, obtaining facts relevant to the supply of domestic farm workers existing in Terry and the shortage of workers, which must be met by importing nationals to harvest the cotton-crop.

Under PL78, TEC must supply this information to the labor secretary, who must limit the number of nationals to be used in this country by granting a "ceiling."

The committee consults with the local office manager (Aubrey Jones, with offices on second floor of courthouse) to assist him in estimating the number of workers who will be needed, based on current local conditions affecting the cotton crop.

this week of supervisors and persons interested in Terry agriculture. It also was announced that those taking the tour will travel in air conditioned buses.

Though the itinerary is not complete, the tour will include several area farms which TSCD officials consider show good farming practices including crop rotation, diversification, and soil erosion control.

Open To Everyone
Joe Satterwhite, manager of Chamber of Commerce, which acts as coordinating agency for the event, said the tour should be much better this year because good crops are evident throughout the county.

The tour and the barbecue, which is scheduled for Coleman Park, is open to anyone in Terry County, revealed Satterwhite. "We especially want Brownfield businessmen to attend so they may get a better understanding of our agricultural economy."

Attending the planning meeting this week were Waters, R. J. Purtell, James Thurmon, Homer Causseaux and Bruce Zorns, supervisors; Walter Meyer and Robert Becker, vo-ag instructors; Ves Hicks, West Ward School principal; Satterwhite; Lane Erickson, Meadow vo-ag instructor; Jim Foy, county agent; Dennis Q. Lilly, Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee member, and Henry Williamson of the Soil Conservation Service.

instantly, they added. Officers said the car, heading west, rammed the left front of the truck-trailer unit which was parked facing the same direction.

The truck driver, Milan B. Gray, 26, of Odessa, was not hurt. He told highway patrolmen he was sitting in the truck cab, preparing to turn, when the car struck him.

Fitzgerald was visiting his grandfather, Roy Fitzgerald, in Plains and Herzgerger and Lee were reported to be visiting the Brantly home.

Both survivors were taken to the hospital by a passing motorist. Bodies of the other youths were taken to Brownfield Funeral Home by ambulance.

Baker, victim of the earlier truck-bicycle accident here, died about 4:45 p.m. Wednesday.

day in Treadaway-Daniell Hospital after the early morning mishap.

Police said the truck was backing north on Lubbock Road to dump a load of asphalt in an asphalt-laying machine when Baker, riding a bicycle eastward, pulled onto the highway.

The truck driver, George Jones, 53, of Lamesa, failed to see the man and backed over him, said officers.

Funeral services for Baker were held Friday in First Baptist Church with the Rev. Jones Weathers, pastor, and the Rev. Boyd Pearce officiating.

The 71-year-old retired compress worker had been a resident of Brownfield 30 years. He worked for West Texas Compress and Warehouses for 23 years before he retired. He was a member of Immanuel Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Lidda; three sons; J. R. of 303A East Lake, Elmer of Plains and M. D. of Burk Burnett; one sister, Mrs. J. W. Berryhill of 801 North Bell; a brother, 10 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Burial was in Terry County Memorial Cemetery under direction of Brownfield Funeral Home.

Funeral services for Fitzgerald were held Friday morning in Plains Baptist Church with the Rev. C. J. Coffman, pastor, and the Rev. B. C. Stapleton officiating. Burial was in Plains Cemetery.

He was born in Terry County and lived here until six years ago, when his parents moved to Hawley.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Fitzgerald; one brother, Jimmy of the

Milestones in Medicine

by Marquette Clark

Years later, Sigmund Freud, a student doctor at the Charcot Clinic in Paris, used a form of mesmerism called hypnosis on his hysterical patients. Through his "talking cure," Freud hit upon the technique of "free association," and his theory of psychoanalysis was born.

In the Second World War, hypnosis helped men who broke under mental and emotional battle strain. In civilian life, it is now used in skilled hands to diagnose and treat many psychological disorders. In modern dentistry, it's called hypnodontics, and in dental work on children, is now considered better in some cases than the chemical pain killers.

CONSERVATION PLEDGE

I GIVE MY
PLEDGE AS AN AMERICAN
TO SAVE AND FAITHFULLY TO DEFEND FROM WASTE THE NATURAL RESOURCES OF
MY COUNTRY -- ITS SOIL
AND MINERALS, ITS FORESTS, WATERS, AND WILDLIFE

Every man, woman and child in the Nation would do well to memorize this pledge, and to strive for its fulfillment.

Soil is our basic asset. Soil erosion is one of the greatest menaces to national prosperity and security.

Cooperators of the 2,700 soil conservation districts in the Nation are receiving the assistance of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service in an organized effort to save and conserve our soil. Are you doing your part?

a Dog's Life
YOUR DOG AND D.O.
by Dr. E. M. Gildow
Director, Friskies Research Kennels
If your dog has D.O. (doggy odor), it doesn't necessarily mean he needs a bath. If he's healthy, kept clean and regularly brushed, he should give off nothing more than a mild and rather pleasant aroma. If it's stronger, you should check for a cause.
It could be his ears. If they're the long floppy type, lift them up and take a sniff. A bad odor
Dog of the Week: MEXICAN HAIRLESS

Toy classification. Average weight, 12 pounds; shoulder height, 11 inches; coat, none, except for a tuft on the head and a little fuzz on the tail; color, any color or combination of colors.
means there is something wrong. It could be from ear mites, irritation from a grass awn or other foreign material in the ear, from infection, cancer, or from poor ventilation of the ear duct. If the odor is bad, find out what is causing it and have it corrected. Chronic ear trouble is difficult to correct, so get the job done early.
Bad breath is often the cause of D.O. Whoever coined the phrase "Clean as a hound's tooth" didn't know much about hounds' teeth, for tartar collects on dog molars just as it does on human teeth. Tartar is the greatest single cause of bad breath in dogs. Removing tartar is a common practice in most veterinary hospitals. Halitosis may also be caused by infected teeth, broken teeth, foreign bodies lodged in the mouth and from tonsillitis, stomach trouble, or diarrhea.
D.O. may be caused by infection of glands of the skin such as those between the toes or the perianal glands.
Even dogs that have been out in the rain should not have D.O. If they're properly dried with a terry-cloth towel or a chamois.
If your dog has D.O., have a veterinarian determine the cause and correct it, if possible.
All states now have stringent laws against dueling.

Youths Learn Safety In Hotrod Club Here

The word "hotrod" normally brings visions of wild, drag-racing kids to the mind of the average person. However a group of some 16 Terry County youths are striving to correct this blanket misconception on the part of the public as they enter their sixth month of organization here. The Pacesetters, an organization dedicated to driving safety and courtesy, is composed of area youths who are interested in the inner workings of an automobile.

They Took Beer In Hand (All 5 Cases) And Fled The Police

Tommy Gene Everidge entered Terry County jail for the second time in less than a week as he was arrested Thursday on charges of illegal transportation of liquor. Everidge, who was released earlier this week on a $3,000 bond for charges of assault with intent to murder, was apprehended at Lubbock Methodist Hospital a few minutes after Brownfield police chased him and a companion from a car-load of beer just north of the city limits.

Parents of the Brownfield boy will be driven to the camp Aug. 23 by a member of Brownfield Lions Club, and will return the next day. The chairman said camp visitors are welcome at any time. understanding — yet he must keep his eye on the legal aspects of each case, notes Chesshir. As presiding officer of the commissioners court Judge Chesshir votes only in the event of a tie. He also approves purchases and action of the court in questions of legality. Misdemeanors and minor civil cases take up the major portion of the county court docket, reports Chesshir, and only about 20 or 30 juvenile cases come before him as juvenile court judge. "Most juvenile cases can be handled without taking official action," revealed the judge. "However, more stringent action is necessary in about one-half of the cases."

Rains Producing Excessive Growth In Many Cotton Fields

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following cotton insect situation report for Aug. 8 is prepared by county agent, vo-ag teachers, Texas A&M and USDA.

Light to heavy rains fell over a wide area during the past week. Falls were sufficient to boost growth and fruiting of dryland cotton in many localities, and will tend to produce excessive growth of plants in many irrigated fields.

Such growth conditions will make the crop more attractive to late season insects. The cotton leafworm, however, is the only insect now appearing in widespread heavy infestations. Heaviest leafworm infestations have been reported from Crosby, Dawson, Gaines, Garza, Howard and Lynn counties. The worms are present in light to medium infestations in most other counties in the area.

Bollworms occurred in heavy infestations in some fields in Howard County. The worms were reported in medium infestations in Gaines, Garza, Hale, Lynn, and Yoakum counties. Lack of heavier infestations, in many fields, may be attributed to the attraction of the bollworm moths to grain sorghums.

In many instances the grain crop is heavily infested. With most cotton in a very attractive stage of growth, the crop should be watched closely for appearance of eggs and small worms. Fleahoppers were reported in heavy infestations in Collingsworth and Garza counties. Although these insects are present on cotton in most fields, the crop is sufficiently advanced to suffer little damage from the existing infestations in most localities.

Lygus bugs were found in light infestations. Populations

Open House Observed On Wedding Anniversary of Clovis Kendrick's

Celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Kendrick held open house from 8 to 10 p.m. Wednesday in their home at 620 East Tate.

Receiving guests was their son, Kenneth Lee, and assisting with greetings were Mrs. Kendrick's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bedford Hartsill, and Mr. Kendrick's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Stice.

Members of the houseparty included Messrs. and Meses. Glen Akers, Lee O. Allen, Burton Hackney, Al Muldrow and Ernest Latham of Lubbock.

Arrangements of pink roses, carnations, asters and crysanthemums in silver containers decorated the entertaining rooms. Guests registered at a table marked with a newspaper account of the August 7, 1932 wedding of the Kendricks, as well as their marriage license. Organ selections were played by Mrs. Pat Ramseur, Leonard Ellington and Bernie Howell of Lubbock during the evening.

The serving table was laid with a pink satin cloth with pink net overskirt banded in silver and looped at each corner with clusters of wedding bells. An antique branched silver candelabra, a gift of the Stices, banked with pink roses and baby's breath centered the table. Mrs. Hackney, Mrs. Muldrow and Mrs. Latham served punch, decorated cake squares, ribbon sandwiches and nuts.

Approximately 200 guests called during the evening.

GEE GEE'S

You know what happens when you lead with your chin? Ask Bill Bright and Ike Isaacs and they'll tell you that you get it busted. But it's not what you think... they didn't get into a fight. Just a case of warming up for the father-son pire game that wound up the Babe Ruth league Monday night and getting hit with those balls they failed to catch.

All the local stores are full of back-to-school clothing and I'm sure you're all busy as hunting dogs, getting things together. My erstwhile son will be going to kindergarten, but he's still at the stage when he knocks the knees out of all his "britches", so I'm busy trying to find some good sturdy ones... preferably with stainless steel plates for knee pads. The clothes are wonderfully practical this year, it seems, with the good old stand-by, the skirt and sweater, just as popular as ever both for young and old girls. Anyway, if you haven't looked around in the stores here, do so. You'll be very pleased with the good selection... and prices much lower than you'll find anywhere else.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Turner are in Houston, where Mr. Turner will be a patient in the veterans hospital for several months. Their son, Bobby, of Yuma Air Force Base, Ariz., is visiting his two brothers and families Mr. and Mrs. Billy Turner and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Turner; his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Davison; and Mr. and Mrs. Don Meeks in Houston. He will return to his base August 22.

Henry Fugitt of 1301 East Broadway has been a patient in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock since Tuesday.

Chit Chat

With school almost ready to start, that means that all the civic activities will pick up, too. Right here, I'd like to say to you club members that I'd like very much to have one of your club yearbooks, and if you'll call me at 3858, I'll be glad to pick one up, or if it's at all convenient for you to leave one for me at the office with Miss Jewel, she'll see that I get it. Makes things much easier for me if I have one of your yearbooks to go by when I'm writing up the account of your meetings.

Who among us deserves the wonderful, wonderful rain bestowed upon our crops Sunday night? I don't think I have ever seen the entire South Plains with such good crops.

Soon it will be freezer and canning time. In this department, my sister-in-law Ester Ruth Henson outshines anybody I know. She always plants a garden with all sorts of things. Sometimes it is almost a losing battle against the elements and bugs, but comes cold weather, she will have loads to eat.

What makes it so nice is that Ester Ruth shares her garden with neighbors and "lazy relatives" like me. I always feel a little guilty when she gives me things, because she works so hard. It's not that I'm so lazy. I just don't have the green thumb to grow stuff like she does. Beans, peas, okra — the heartier vegetable — I can handle, but not as well as she can.

Reading Tea Leaves
"I always wonder what a doctor writes in a prescription."

"Yeah, me, too. I can't read it either but I have a hunch it says,

'I socked him $7; I think he has about $5 left for you!'"

Could be more truth in this than poetry.
Remember last week when I told my readers that I had more curiosity that brains? The first letter I received this week was from a woman who said I knew her, so she just signed her letter "Anxiously." I promised to print the analysis in the paper, so here it is:

Mrs. A., I would not hesitate to tell you a secret because you would keep it quite well. You are definitely not a gossip. You have an excellent mind (above the average), sound judgement; analytical mind, with good reasoning power.

IT'S UP TO YOU

By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

COMMUNIST Oskar Lange was a professor at the University of Chicago. Renewing his Polish citizenship, he became that country's first Communist ambassador to Washington. Later he returned home to become economic adviser to the Communist Polish Government.

Lange now describes the economy of his country as being on the "verge of collapse." "Indifference" to work "paralyzes our daily life" and living conditions have become "incredibly hard." "Substandard or unusable goods" are being produced, even extending into "the mechanical industries, production of tools and transport equipment." He refers to "bureaucratic anarchy" in distribution. "Fear of being qualified in the category of kulaks" discourages increasing the production of livestock.

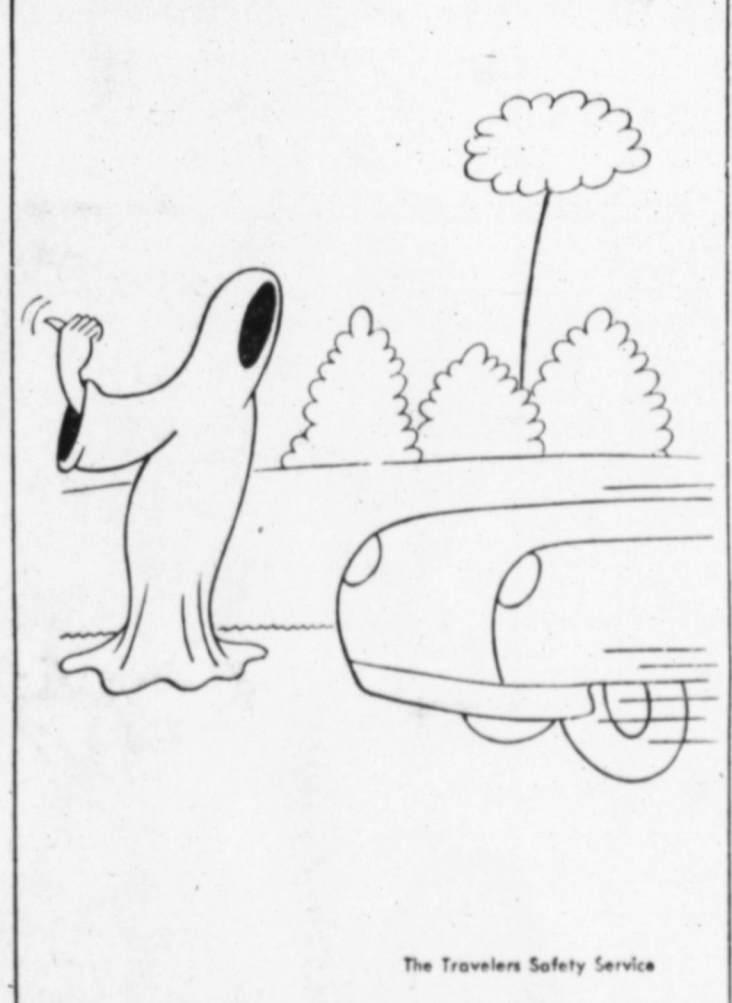

This startling confession of failure should give pause to the many advocates of further planning of the economic activities of the people.

Speed killed and injured more than 800,000 persons in 1956.

Your head control dominates your emotions making you able to grasp and size up a situation very well.

Generally, you are optimistic once you have started a job, but there are times when you get pretty down in the dumps and should give yourself a good pep talk. However, I would say you keep your troubles to yourself.

You are tactful and diplomatic and have business ability. Having a "stable" personality, you are not easily disrupted by other people or difficult situations.

Your handwriting definitely shows you to have an appreciation for the fine arts. You like luxury. This luxurious urge might get out of hand — so much so, you are extravagant at times.

You are slightly self-conscious and a bit shy. This emotional insecurity keeps you from being as good a mixer as you could be.

Your taste and manners are quiet and unassuming, consequently you wouldn't be considered a "classy or frilly" dresser. You like outdoor sports but are not particularly athletic yourself. You don't show your affections with outward advances.

You think a great deal more than you say and have firmly rooted ideas. You seldom make your mind hastily, but when you do make it up, it stays made up. You would even put up a healthy argument to defend your strong convictions.

However, you are a person folks like for a friend. They know where you stand and why.

Your handwriting indicates you are very considerate of the feelings of others and that you have a fine sense of justice, so I would say, No, you do not hen-peck your husband and neither does he run it over you.

You probably are a little easy or tolerant with your children (if you have any.) However there are those times when they know you mean business.

Sometimes it is hard for you to face reality and are over-sensitive to the future. Stemming again from insecurity, this fear prohibits you from taking a chance and consequently you miss a lot of good opportunities by hesitation and procrastination.

Well, Mrs. Anxious, that's about it. Remember, the analysis is suppose to be 85 per cent correct and adding 10 per cent for my errors — Anyway, it's been fun and right or wrong, come on out and get you some peas and identify yourself.

"What is the most frequent error that brides make?" People can smile tolerantly and forgive any little mistakes that can easily happen at a wedding or a reception. But the thing they are most often deeply hurt by is the bride's failure to acknowledge their wedding gifts promptly and properly.

It is never correct to send printed cards of thanks for wedding gifts. Wedding gifts should always be acknowledged with handwritten notes as soon after their receipt as possible, within 3 months at the very outside. They may be short, but they should be sincere, appreciative, and should mention the gift itself, even where literally hundreds of gifts have been received. And no one may write them for the bride. It is a social responsibility she alone must fulfill.

HAS WIDESPREAD IMPACT

Egg Law Regulations Listed By Specialist

The Egg Law, recently passed by the Texas legislature, will have a widespread impact on Texas citizens. It will affect egg producers, dealers, retailers, wholesalers, brokers and processors as well as consumers.

But just what does this law do? How will it affect those people just listed? F. Z. Beamblossom, extension poultry marketing specialist, lists a few of the law's highlights.

(1) It provides for the establishment of standards of size and quality of eggs. The standards of quality as determined by candling and conditions of shell, the grades and standards of size as determined by weighing shall be the same as the standards and grades prescribed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for shell eggs.

(2) The law provides for proper grading and labelling. The eggs are inspected primarily at retail outlets and labelled according to grade, which includes size and quality. Unless the grading is under USDA supervision, it shall be unlawful to use the prefix "U.S." on grades and weight classes.

(3) Provides for licensing of egg retailers, dealers, wholesalers, processors and brokers. There is no licensing fee to any retailer as defined by law—that is, any person selling or offering for sale, eggs to consumers only in this state. All retailers must have a license even though there is no fee.

(4) Provides that the law will be self financing through the fees collected.

(5) Provides penalties for violations. Any person convicted of violating this act is subject to a fine. The license of a violator may be suspended for a period not to exceed 90 days.

(6) Gives exemption to producers selling eggs from their flocks unless a grade is claimed. But if they wish to claim a grade, then their eggs must meet the standards specified by the law.

(7) It establishes an egg marketing advisory board appointed by the governor. This board will be composed of the Commissioner of Agriculture, who will be chairman, and nine other members, all from Texas, who will serve six-year terms.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Aldrup and Jacque of 120 West Broadway returned home Tuesday from Shreveport, La., where they attended the funeral of her brother.

Terry is one of Texas' prominent agricultural counties situated on the plains, with considerable trade from oil and other industry. Created in 1904 from Bexar territory, the county was named for Jamin Franklin Terry, of the famous Terry Rangers. Estimated population in 1955 was 12,893. The terrain is level to slightly rolling, with some basins, and with sand dunes in the northwest corner. The soil large fine, sandy loam (Amarillo and other types). There are numerous bearing shallow lakes. Oil production in 1954 was 5,778,000 barrels. 3,100 to 3,600 feet. Annual rainfall is 18.96 inches. Temperature 39 degrees in January, 79 in July. Mean annual temperature is 60 degrees.

Plastic Covers Are Considered Answer To Spoilage In Silo

Plastic covers may be the means of making low-cost, time and labor-saving horizontal silos more popular than ever among Texas dairy farmers.

Greater spoilage because of a relatively large surface area has been the major disadvantage of horizontal bunker, trench, and stack type silos as compared with the conventional upright types, according to A. M. Meekma, extension dairy husbandman.

Even this disadvantage has not prevented their construction and use by many farmers because of lower initial cost, ease of filling by mechanical means and ready accessibility of the silage either for self or mechanical feeding.

Use of plastic covers in U.S. Department of Agriculture experiments has reduced surface spoilage and total storage losses in horizontal silos to the equivalent of surface spoilage in upright silos, increasing their desirability.

The hazard of air leakage through punctures in the cover or when the cover was rolled back for feeding, says Meekma, was practically overcome in the experiments by spreading a two or three inch layer of sawdust or other similar weighting material over the cover.

Weight of the material seals off the rest of the surface and confines spoilage to a small area when air enters either through punctures or during the feeding operation.

Deciding what cover is best suited for a particular silo depends upon the individual's use and the comparative annual cost, says Meekma. For example, nylon sheeting is more expensive than unsupported covers, but its life is much longer — probably five to 10 years.

On the other hand, the less durable and less expensive films of polyethylene or vinyl plastic have been satisfactory. Life of these materials — probably one to three years — depends to a large extent upon the amount of time and care the individual can give them. Cost of any of the materials used will probably range from 1 1/2 to 4 cents per square foot per year.

Two recent publications released by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service should be of much interest to rice and turkey producers. They are L-340, Rice Diseases and L-341, Ornithosis in Turkeys.

Turkey flocks infested with external parasites will require extra feed for finishing and are sure to be discounted at market time, warns Extension Poultry Husbandman Ben Wormeli.

Emancipation of slaves in Latin America began in 1794.

Agricultural Prices and Income Remain Low While Most Economic Classes Rise

Agricultural prices and income have not enjoyed the rises that some segments of our economy have in recent years because of surpluses or lack of larger markets.

Prices received by farmers have increased only 1.3 per cent over those of May 1956. But prices paid by farmers have increased 3.5 per cent and parity ratio in May stood at 82 compared to 84 in May 1956, says John McHaney, extension economist.

Consumer disposable income in the first quarter of 1957 was more than 5 per cent above a year ago; due mainly to increases in wages and salaries. Too, the cost of living stood a few percentage points higher than a year ago, says McHaney.

General business activity looks good for the rest of 1957. Business outlays for new plants and equipment during the first 9 months of 1957 will be about 9 per cent larger than those for the same period in 1956. Apparently, businessmen are generally optimistic about their future sales prospects.

But the economist says we should not overlook the fact that consumer credit outstanding in May was 7.3 per cent greater than in May 1956; in some industries, inventories remain large relative to sales; output of durable goods and autos dropped 4 and 14 per cent respectively from December 1956 to May 1957; and steel mill activity has declined from around 100 per cent of rated capacity in the fourth quarter of 1956 to a low of 84 in mid-May. There was a pickup up to 88 per cent of capacity in mid-June, but the usual decline is expected in July and August.

Roads Should Be At Least 1,000 Feet From Any Railroad

Highway planners and city authorities are handed a highly pertinent suggestion by one of the nation's great railroads.

The Southern Pacific Lines urge that new highways be placed at least 1,000 feet from existing rail lines which they will parallel. Thus they can avoid creating long stretches of "no man's land."

Point is that enough space should be left between tracks and highways to provide valuable industrial sites. Manufacturing and distributing firms are attracted to land where they can be served by both railroads and highways.

But if the space is too narrow, such plants can not be built and, as a result, communities lose the benefits they would get from new industries. This is a word to the wise that should be sufficient.

Parasites Take Bite Out of Turkey Profit

Protecting the turkey flock from external parasite infestations is mighty important, says Ben Wormeli, extension poultry husbandman.

Infested birds will require more feed for finishing and are sure to be discounted at market time, he warns.

Major trouble now is coming from lice, chiggers and bluebugs, says the specialist.

Early detection makes control more effective and greatly reduces the damage caused by these pests. Clean premises are a must and this includes the range, roosting areas and housing, points out Wormeli.

Lice spend their entire life cycle on the bird and multiply rapidly if not controlled. Roost sprays or paints applied shortly before the turkeys go to roost are effective.

Lindane, malathion or nicotine sulphate can be used. A malathion dust (4 per cent) is recommended for treating litter. Malathion used as a five-tenths per cent spray; DDT as 5 per cent dust or sodium fluoride may be applied to the birds. Make sure, says Wormeli, that the compound reaches the bird's skin.

Chiggers are among the most annoying pests due to the poison they secrete on the skin. When treating the range with a spray for chigger control, Wormeli advises doubling the amount of water used in the mixture for more uniform coverage. Chlordane, toxaphene and lindane will give good results.

Bluebugs suck blood from the turkeys and cause unthriftiness and a loss of weight. They are more difficult to control and mature bugs can live as long as two years without feeding. Lindane, toxaphene and DDT will give effective control.

points out McHaney.

Agricultural exports through April of the 1956-57 fiscal year were estimated at $4 billion — an increase of 43 per cent over a year ago. Cotton exports were about 7.5 million bales, compared to 2.2 million in 1955-56.

Combined exports of grains and feeds showed an increase of nearly 50 per cent for the fiscal year 1956-57 despite a decline in sorghum grain and barley.

Wheat exports through April were 82 per cent over last year and rice exports during July 1956-April 1957 totaled 22.6 million bags compared with 9.2 million during the 10 months ending April 1956. Exports of fats and oils have been running a fifth higher than last year. Most export gains are due primarily to government export programs, adds McHaney.

Milestones in Medicine

The wild Rhesus monkey, swinging in the treetops and depending for survival upon the sharpness of its teeth, had almost no dental defects. The primitive chimpanzees, gorillas, gibbons, and orangutans led a somewhat softer existence. And as a result, they had less perfect teeth than the monkey.

The Stone Age man proved too clever for his own good, dentally speaking, when he entered the cave and, in his struggle for life, discovered the use of other tools in addition to his own strong teeth. The oldest tooth specimens from the Stone Age period show poor calcification and other serious defects.

However, there still is hope for modern man's teeth. Future generations may prevent severe dental defects by incorporating in their teeth important chemicals such as fluoride and other mineral factors. One way to make sure fluoride is incorporated into teeth is through the use of a dentifrice containing stannous fluoride which prevents decay by strengthening tooth enamel.

SHOULD YOU STOP SMOKING?

Only You Can Answer for You!

Half of the men and a fourth of the women in the United States smoke cigarettes daily, according to a recent survey by the U. S. Bureau of Census. That adds up to something like 38 million cigarette addicts — 25 million men and 13 million women.

These figures, besides revealing the extent to which the smoking habit has become ingrained among Americans, accentuate the grimness of the recently validated relationship between cigarette consumption and the general death rate, including dreaded lung cancer.

It took the American Cancer Society four years of concentrated study of the smoking habits of 188,000 men to reach these conclusions:

A 57 per cent greater death rate from diseases of the heart and circulatory system among smokers as compared to non-smokers; a 97 per cent greater cancer death rate; a 186 per cent greater death rate due to pulmonary diseases excluding cancer; and a 29 per cent greater rate of death from all other diseases.

Among men over 50 with a history of regular cigarette smoking, the general death rate is 52 per cent above the death rate for men who have never smoked.

The same study revealed a slight relationship between pipe smoking and lung cancer, and practically no relationship between cigar smoking and lung cancer. Present studies indicate that the reason cigarettes are more important in the cause of lung cancer than either pipes or cigars is that the tars in cigarette smoke is drawn in at much higher temperatures.

In support of statistical evidence relating smoking to cancer death rates, it is possible to prove the connection by laboratory methods. By condensing the smoke of burning cigarettes and painting the gummy tars on the shaved backs of mice or rabbits, laboratory technicians have produced cancerous growths on the animals.

The question as to whether men who smoked but quit have a lower death rate than those who have not quit also has been answered statistically. Men who quit 10 years before the study was made showed a death rate almost as low as those who had never smoked.

Should you stop smoking? You must answer that question alone. Ask yourself of the fleeting pleasures you get from cigarettes — described as "adult pacifiers" by the late Dr. William Mayo — outweigh the risks involved.

And keep in mind that the best scientific research talent in the world is convinced that steady cigarette smoking constitutes a health hazard of major proportions.

The American Cancer Society has turned its results over to the National Institution of Health for further checking.

SICK UNCLE SAM

By George Peck

Nations, even as individual humans, can be ravaged by disease. Poor old Uncle Sam is in bad shape—despite the fact that as nations go, he's not so very old—he was only 181 years young on July 4 this year.

George Peck

Throughout the years, Uncle Sam has had many illnesses, to say nothing of family troubles. As a youngster he was visited by the usual run of diseases and maladies that attack the very young. But the Founding Fathers had bequeathed him such a sound body that he managed to shake off every one one of them and survive.

But back about 1933 at the beginning of the reign of Franklin I, he was taken down with his first really serious indisposition. He broke out with a bad rash which economic doctors have diagnosed as SPENDEMIA. While this is nasty disease, it is not necessarily fatal if discovered in time, diagnosed correctly and given the proper treatment.

The chief physician and his staff of unexperienced consultants, in this particular case, however, did not prescribe the right medicine, in fact, ordered the wrong course of treatment. Result: SPENDEMIA developed into WASTEAPHOBIA. This latter is a much more serious malady and it was deemed advisable to send the patient to the hospital. Uncle Sam's real friends became slightly perturbed.

This slight anxiety progressed into grave concern, when through continued neglect, careless prescribing of quack remedies and nostrums, SQUANDERITIS set in. Now Uncle Sam was really ill and his friends were really concerned for this malady had as it is, generally is followed by TAXDEMENTIA—a most horrible and devastating disease.

A change of treatment was demanded, or failing this, that a new physician be put on the in Oklahoma. He is a graduate of Wilburton High School and in 1950 was awarded a B. S. degree from Oklahoma A & M College. His M. S. degree is from Iowa State College where he has been studying for a Ph. D. degree. His major has been soils.

Bennett Named To Chemist Post With Extension Service

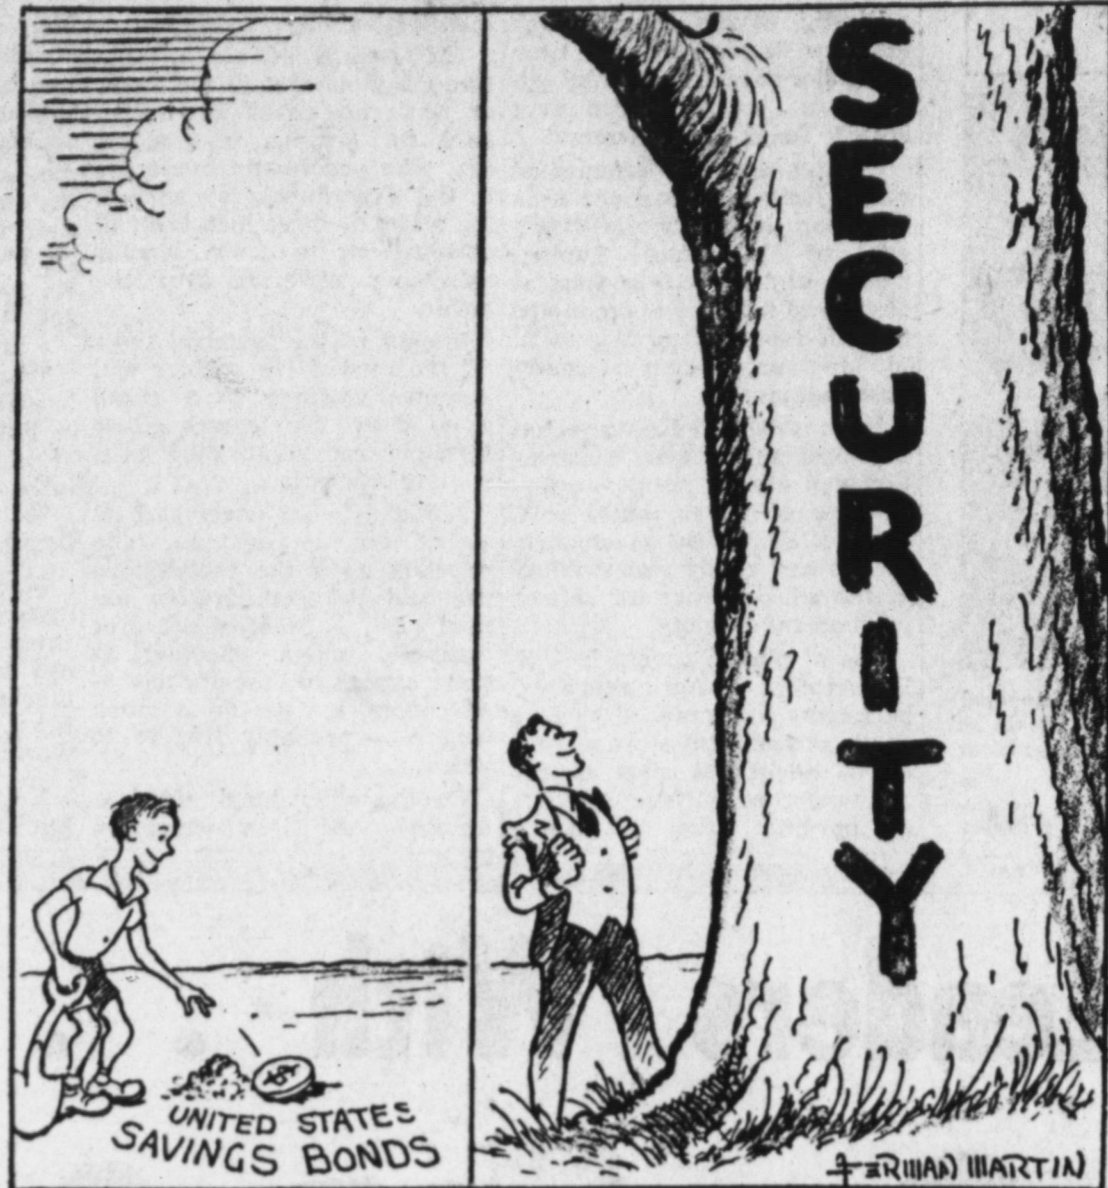

W. F. Bennett on August 1 became agricultural chemist on the staff of Texas Agricultural Extension Service. He succeeds M. K. (Duke) Thornton who retired March 1.

Bennett is a native of Arkansas but grew up on a farm just as soon as possible.

Meanwhile, Uncle Sam still suffers with INFLATITIS. Why not help start him on the road to full recovery by writing your Congressman and two U. S. Senators to bestir themselves to get Uncle Sam under the full treatment prescribed by Dr. Herbert Hoover and his staff of expert physicians?

And when writing these legislators of yours, it might be well to express a word of thanks about what they may already have done and intend doing toward cutting the budget proposed by the president. Most certainly, unless that budget has several billions dollars sliced off of it, poor Old Uncle Sam's INFLATITIS will assume proportions that could put him in a wheel-chair, might even cause his early demise.

Florida City Suspends Flouridation of Drinking Water To Await Additional Proof of Actual Value To the Consumers

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Alfred P. Haake, Ph. D., writer of the following article, is a noted economist, public relations consultant, author and lecturer.)

It takes real courage and statesmanship to recognize an earlier mistake; and, no less so to correct policies in consequence of that recognition. We pay tribute to the Mayor and Commissioners of St. Petersburg, Florida, who recently suspended the flouridation of their municipal water supply begun two years ago.

They will wait for the pending report of the American Medical Association, which is making a re-appraisal of its earlier position on flouridation of municipal water supplies.

Flourides Are Stopped

In the meantime, St. Petersburg has stopped pouring poisonous flourides into the water which it furnishes to its citizens. This is encouraging, to all adults, and especially to older persons, and even to children, who have any tendency toward degenerative diseases such as cancer, heart disease, kidney disease and others.

It is not yet exactly known just how long it takes for flouride to accumulate in the body before serious consequences result, or just exactly how it affects various people, whether to cause or merely to aggravate serious disease and untimely death.

But we do know that the poison does accumulate in the soft tissues of the body, and there is frightening evidence that it does hasten death in some cases.

Knowledge Is Lacking

TV SERVICE
PHONE 2050
GLEN COLLUM

Because of the utter lack of knowledge of safety of mass flouridation of the public, because of the accumulating evidence of the harmfulness of flouridation to adults and unsatisfactory evidence used to prove benefit to children, a number of medical societies, state and local, have gone on record as opposed to the artificial flouridation of the municipal water supplies.

Even the American Medical Association, once widely quoted for its limited approval of flouridation, takes cognizance of the growing suspicion of flouridation, recognizes the need for a re-appraisal of its own earlier position, and is now making the study that should have been made before any approval at all had been issued.

IT'S UP TO YOU
By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

WE HAVE long since passed the point of diminishing returns in the higher brackets of individual income tax.

Lower tax rates in these brackets would soon result in more revenue. In 1951, less revenue was received from persons whose taxes equaled 60 per cent of their gross income.

In 1952, this point was reached for persons whose taxes equal 50 per cent of their gross income, and in 1953, a smaller amount in total taxes was received from the group whose taxes equaled 31 per cent of gross income.

The fact is that high tax brackets discourage effort and destroy capital that otherwise would be productive, both in the forms of more wealth for the people and more income for government.

If present tax rates had been adopted a century ago, the great wealth and prosperity attained in America would not have been achieved. There is little reason to believe that it can be maintained unless these rates are drastically lowered.

Christian Freedom Foundation, Inc. 3 - York St., N. Y.

Propaganda Is Used

There have been few movements in the United States more cluttered up with deliberate propaganda based on inadequate and even distorted evidence, than the flouridation of public water supplies.

There is irony in the fact that a former highly-paid employee of a manufacturer of artificial flouride should have become head of the United States Health Service and in that capacity, pushed the idea of flouridation. From being almost a total loss, the waste products bearing the poisonous flourides now began to find a market.

Even the statistics used to prove the beneficial effects in reducing cavities in the mouths of children under ten years of age, are now being revealed as unsound and misleading in many cases. We also find better, safer and more economical ways of using flourides on children if that must be done.

Statistics Said Unsound. Parent-teacher associations, and other organizations, have been sucked into the stream of seductive propaganda which perpetrated the hoax and unconstitutional offense of artificially flouridating public water supplies. Even the warnings of expert bio-chemists were ignored in the headlong rush.

St. Petersburg is a haven for older people. They come by the thousands. It is a glorious place to which to retire, climate-wise. And the authorities in St. Petersburg are wise to recognize their obligation to the people who come here for visit or retirement, and stop putting the deadly poison into the water that the visitors drink.

In all fairness, all adults and even children, should be warned against the dangers of artificial flouridation. They should make careful inquiry as to the kind of water supplied by the municipalities which they visit. They should make sure the water is free of impurities and especially of sodium flourides. You can satisfy yourself by writing to the Mayor of the City which you plan to visit or to which you contemplate retiring.

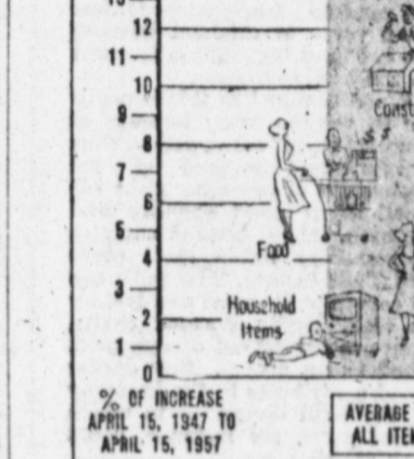

Do that especially before you pack your car and your goods to move into the land of comfort for your sunset years.

"Finders keepers, losers weepers." Is this old rhyme true or false? Lawyers say it is not always strictly accurate under the law. It is sometimes rather difficult to define the rights of a finder in court.

There are some rather fine distinctions and exceptions to be "finders keepers" maxim that have plagued the courts—and finders—for generations. In the first place, the finder is not entitled to keep the property unless the original owner is not known and cannot be located.

The average of all items in the Bureau of Labor Statistics cost of living index advanced almost 20 per cent in the past ten years. In the same period LP-Gas, used by millions of suburban, town, and farm homes, increased only 8.3 per cent, a survey conducted by the National LP-Gas Council reveals.

Living Costs Continue to Zoom But LP-Gas is One Bright Note

CHICAGO—Although the average of all items included in the U. S. cost of living index has jumped almost 20 per cent to a new high record in the past ten years, the cost of LP-Gas, used by millions of suburban, town, and farm homes is up only 8.3 per cent.

The increase in living costs was revealed by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. The bureau had recorded an increase in prices that brought the living cost index in April to 119.3 per cent of the 1947-49 price levels, a new high record. This meant that it took about $1.20 to buy the same amount of goods and services that could be bought for $1 in the 1947-49 period.

To determine if rising prices in the LP-Gas industry were contributing measurably to the inflationary spiral, the National LP-Gas Council, sent a questionnaire to hundreds of LP-Gas dealers in every state. The dealers were asked to tell how much their bulk customer price increased per gallon in the past ten years. Results of the survey indicate that the price of LP-Gas, used in homes for heating, cooking, water heating, clothes drying, refrigeration, and incineration, has increased only 8.3 per cent. How has this rapidly expanding industry kept the price of its product below the halfway mark on the postwar inflationary spiral?

The Council attributes the stability of LP-Gas rates to a number of factors. Of these, industry growth may be the most important. Post war growth of suburban, farm, and town populations opened tremendous new markets for the young industry. Through aggressive salesmanship and promotion, independent dealers obtained a major share of these markets for the fuel. Evidence of their success can be seen in the record-breaking sales of 7 billion gallons last year. The billion gallon increase in 1956 alone was equal to total industry sales in 1945.

This growth in public acceptance of the fuel has, of course, resulted in distribution economies. Increases in storage facilities and the number of plants to serve customers, and improved shipping and handling methods also contributed to industry price stability. Other technical and service advances helped make it possible to keep the price low.

pocket unobserved. In such cases, the finder owns what he has found against all but the true owner.

On the other hand, a package left on the seat of a bus is "misplaced" rather than lost. In one southern state, a pocket-book left in a barbershop by a customer was held to have been "left", not "lost." The barber was arrested and convicted of larceny when he spent the money that was in it.

Effort Should Be Made. Under the law the finder of either lost or misplaced property should make a "reasonable effort" to find the real owner.

When articles are left on a train or bus, in a public hotel room, or even when dropped on a shop floor, under circumstances indicating that the true owner will later return to claim them, such items are not considered lost. The proper custodian to hold them for the owners return would be proprietor or other person in charge.

Remaining unclaimed, the property sometimes goes to this custodian, sometimes to the finder. The distinction here appears to be whether the place it is found is private or semi-private, or a place used by the general public.

Range Management Program Offered To 4-H Club Members

Texas 4-H club members, by participating in the 4-H Range Management Result Demonstration program, can greatly increase their knowledge of the what and how of good range management.

The new program has been developed by Extension Range Specialists G. O. Hoffman and A. H. Walker and county, district and state awards are being provided by the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association.

Officially, the program will get underway on September 1 and will run for a 12-month period.

The participating 4-H member has a choice of seven different demonstrations. They are plant collecting; keeping a rainfall, temperature and moisture condition record; planting, caring for and keeping records on a grass nursery; preparing a range survey for one or more pastures or the entire ranch; conducting a demonstration on one acre plots involving brush control practices versus no control; making a comparison between pastures where deferred and continuous grazing practices are followed and enrolling in the well-established range management contest which involves the planning and operation of the entire ranch.

Completion of any one of these outlined demonstrations will make the 4-H member's record eligible for consideration for one of the awards.

Medals for county winners, an engraved belt buckle for district winners and two scholarships to the annual Range Camp for the top boys in the state are provided by the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association.

Purpose of the program is to give 4-H youth an understanding and appreciation for range management; encourage closer working relationship in range management conservation between youth and adults and stimulate the use of proper range management practices by youth in the operation of their home ranch.

The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council warns that conditions are favorable for grass fires and urges community organization to combat the threat.

New Collection Boasts Beauty of Teak

Teak — exotic in beauty, but no longer in price — is an oriental wood being used ever more widely to fashion furniture for American homes.

Because of its great strength and toughness as well as its highly distinctive grain pattern, it has always been a principal furniture wood in Burma, Java, East India and French Indo-China where the teak tree grows. It can never be as generally available as mahogany which must also be imported, for the true mahoganies come only from tropical America and Africa where there are considerable stands of large trees. In contrast to mahogany's pink-tinged brown luster and medium pores, teak is tawny yellow with a texture almost as "masculine" as oak.

The cedar lined storage pieces illustrated above are part of a coordinated group of bedroom and dining room furniture and living room tables with a Danish feeling to them.

Thanks to matching dimensions, two pieces placed side by side, as above, provide a single, smooth surface. And the fronts are exceptionally interesting to the eye. Note the direction of the dark streaks, so characteristic of teak, and you'll see that the grain in one runs horizontally, in the other, vertically. Further, in the cabinet, the teak is "book-matched"—that is the grain pattern is so joined that it forms a complete, delightfully abstract "figure" on each door. In the chest, the grain pattern is used "at random" (slip-matched), but great verve is attained because the sweep of the grain is reversed on the bottom drawer.

Wood beauty like this is possible in volume today because of "bonded wood" construction. This revolutionary method of the ancient art of veneering gives flat wood areas great stability and strength. These bonded surfaces permanently retain their place and their beauty. The pulls are as romantic in sound and history as teak. Easily grasped shafts, they are carved out of rosewood. Used as an accent, their darker wood contributes to the harmony of the total design — in which metal pulls, for instance, could look garish.

Casually tapered hardwood legs are firmly braced with supporting stretchers, fashioned in a favored modern manner that adds a feeling of lightness as well as strength to substantial pieces such as these. In accord with the best in modern design, nowhere here is there a hint of superfluous ornamentation. Instead, factors of function and convenience are amply provided — and express in lines of greatest simplicity and in the enduring beauty of natural hardwoods.

Plastic covers may be the means of making low-cost, time and labor-saving horizontal silos even more popular with Texas dairymen.

Texas beef producers are reminded that the annual Beef Cattle Short Course will be held at Texas A&M College, August 12-14.

TWC Miners Shift Linemen To Ready For Football Season

Football still is a month away, but the wheels already are in the motion at Texas Western College, where the Miners will defend their Border Conference Championship.

Oxygen Necessary For Fish To Thrive

Fish certainly are not human beings, but they are like people in one important respect—they can't live without oxygen.

Weed control and fertilization of farm ponds are important. However, Ed Cooper, wildlife conservation specialist, says that certain precautions should be taken to prevent oxygen depletion.

If mosses and other plants are sprayed with chemicals during the hot days of August and early September, the masses of decaying vegetation will cause a loss of oxygen in the water. Without this oxygen, fish will die very suddenly, warns Cooper.
