

Hot Competition Expected In Elections Held At Brownwood

BROWNWOOD.—The popularity and importance of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is reflected in the ambition of various cities and communities to be represented in this official family. There has never before been such a lively contest for the presidency of the organization. Ambitious cities are pushing their favorites with all possible energy. In the list of West Texas towns contests for the honor of having the presidency are Big Spring, who has a favorite son in the person of W. W. Rix, who served as chairman of the resolutions committee at the San Angelo convention and who has been a constant and consistent friend of the organization during its entire life. Rix is at the head of a big furniture company and has a string of stores in the West and his fellow townsmen are circulating the membership of the organization setting forth his ability as a business man, an executive officer and community builder. They are further presenting his usefulness by sending a large delegation and actively pushing his campaign.

Another town with ambitions of this character is Cisco, who is urging the name of R. Q. Lee, ranchman, capitalist and railroad builder. Lee is vice president of West Texas Chamber of Commerce and it is urged that he is in close touch with the business interests of State and country and his cause is presented upon these facts and further argument is made by his friends that he represents a section that has never been especially honored by the organization. Lee has endorsements of many towns in his section of the State and very appealing literature is being broadcasted in his behalf.

Still another city that is anxious to have the honor of the presidency is San Angelo, and no town or section is more active in urging appeals than San Angelo. A year ago when the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was held in San Angelo, Col. C. C. Walsh was chairman of the central committee and his address of welcome aroused much favorable comment. His ability as an organizer was exemplified by the splendid plans made for the great gathering. Col. Walsh is a pioneer of West Texas and knows it as few can know it, and has a large number of friends throughout the country. He is a banker by profession, but has varied interests in the Concho country and a vigorous campaign in his behalf is being urged.

Perfumes

A Parisian doctor declares that certain perfumes affected by his various patients in time produce an effect upon them using them. Violets indicate a predisposition to sympathy and devotion, geranium makes one audacious and bold, mint generates craft and business capabilities, while Yervain develops a liking for the fine art.

Find No Applicants For Best Job Offer Outside The Movies

OKLAHOMA CITY.—A chance of a life-time—the kind of a chance you dreamed about under the shade of the old apple tree as a boy—and its going begging.

This week an Oklahoma City man advertised with federal-state bureau of employment for the easiest, softest job the bureau and perhaps any other bureau has ever had. No one seems to want it.

The man advertising has solicited the bureau to find him a "buddy" for a trip to Europe. All expenses (to a party with references) will be paid, including cigarettes and a bottle of cognac, perhaps, once in a while. The only work will be to be a "good fellow" and assist in carrying the hand bags. The trip will last for three months.

Bureau officials are at a loss to know why they have had no applicants for the position.

Notes on Spraying

Clean cultivation, fall plowing, crop rotation and the destroying of diseased and insect infested plants aid materially in controlling insects and diseases. Spraying must be done, however, if certain pests are controlled. A satisfactory spray mixture which may be used for general spraying of tree and small fruits is made by adding 5 quarts of liquid commercial lime-sulphur, 1½ pounds of powdered arsenate of lead, and ¼ pint of nicotine sulphate, to 50 gallons of water.

This mixture should be well mixed and kept agitated while being used. It should be applied under high pressure, as high as the spraying outfit is capable of handling. Bear in mind that the efficiency of the spray varies directly with its pressure and the thoroughness of application. Every plant should be thoroughly covered with the spray. It is also important to get the spray on at the proper time. A few days delay will greatly decrease the effectiveness of the work.

Apply: Above mixture. First Spray: When first flower buds show pink. Pests controlled—buds moths, curculio, scab, leaf-eating caterpillars and aphids. Second spray: As soon as the petals fall from the blossoms and before the saffron cup closes. Pests controlled—Coddlin moth and those mentioned under first spray. Third Spray: Last week in June. Pests controlled—Scab, apple maggot and leaf eating insects. If the apple maggot is abundant in your locality a fourth spray should be applied the middle of July, using the above mixture. The nicotine sulphate may be omitted from any of the above sprays if aphids are not present. Where scale insects must be controlled, a dormant spray of lime sulphate at the rate of 1 gallon to 10 gallons of water should be applied in April before any growth takes place.

Plums: Above mixture. First Spray: Just before blossoms open. Pests controlled—brown rot, curculio and plum pocket. Second Spray: When plums are size of small peas. Pests controlled—Brown rot, curculio and scab. Third Spray: Last week in June. Pests controlled—same as above.

A barrel outfit will give fair satisfaction in spraying tree fruits in the home orchard. A power outfit is preferable for commercial orchards. The barrel outfit may be mounted either upon skids or upon a two-wheel truck. It may have either a single or a double acting force pump. The prices of such outfits vary from $39 to $60.

In pest control work preventive measures are far more effective than curative measures.

The primeval forests of white pine, which gave Maine the name of Pine Tree State, have nearly all disappeared, but the second growth is being used to a large extent. Kansas Town Taboo Tobacco Sellers As Revival Is Finished Chautauqua, Kas. — Tobacco salesmen will soon, if they have not already done so, place this town on their blacklist. Smoking in any form is taboo following a revival held in Cascade, Chautauqua county, the effects of which are expected soon to spread in this community.

It is calculated the saving realized from the abstainers will soon total the necessary "$5 enrolls you."

Suit For $2,330 Is Filed When Damages Caused By Landlord

KANSAS CITY. — If your landlord fumigates the apartment next to your apartment, thereby causing numbers of bedbugs to come into your apartment, and then if he attempts to fumigate your apartment and ruins your furniture, should he pay the damages?

He should, thinks a Kansas City woman who has filed suit for $2,330 to recover actual and punitive damages she alleges was sustained when her landlord drove the bugs from the adjoining apartment into her's and ruined her expensive furniture when he attempted to rout the pests. She says the furniture was badly damaged and marred, maliciously and wilfully.

Your Boy and the Other Fellow's

BY CURTIS A. KEEN

You have heard that there is an orphan's home in Lubbock. Possibly you have mentally said, "That is good stuff"—but what else have you done? Have you ever stopped to be thankful that you have been spared to care for your own family, for your own boy and girl—and to give them the things that make for comfort, for preparation for life in the way of education, for pleasure and general well being? As an expression of your thanks—do you pat yourself on the back like you have done something smart—do you sincerely thank the Good Father who has given you life, Health, Ability, Judgment, and a chance to make good? Do you return those thanks in empty words or do you dig down in your jeans and kick in with a little of the material wealth you have been able to accumulate thru the goodness of the Big Master—and not thru YOUR own smartness?

The West Texas Orphan's Home has purchased a permanent site three miles South of Lubbock and funds are being raised to build there a $40,000 home. Lubbock has been asked to contribute only 1-4th of this amount and the rest of the Plains towns will contribute the rest. It will take care of around 100 youngsters—boys and girls—who might have been your boy or your girl—if the Good Master had not taken compassion on you and spared you to care for them. Here they will be given a home, education, training and a chance to make good in life. They are almost self supporting after the home is established and you can have a chance in this great work—at a rate and on a scale that fits what you can afford.

The organization is managed by a dozen of Lubbock's most substantial business men—such as E. L. Robertson, W. O. Stevens, James L. Dow, and others. They are giving time, thought and care to the home as well as their money. If right down in your heart you are thankful for life, for the ability to look after your own family, and have any human appreciation of the good things that are yours—why DIG, BROTHER, DIG—and help put that home up in record time. Let your own conscience and common decency be your guide.

Blue Weeds
Get your moisture, and we need all the "wet goods" we can get in West Texas. Just one more bale of cotton on your big crop you are going to plant will pay for the very thing that will make your yield many times more.
Here is just a few of the many things you can do with the J. I. Case, 2-Row Cultivator:
Knife the weeds out before planting, or knife out the weeds just after planting, and not throwing any dirt to the already covered cotton seed.
Knife and plow your crop while very small.
If you already have your crop up and some weeds with it, take the disc and bar off, and then throw dirt back again, thereby saving so much hoeing.
The J. I. Case plow works has built its business on satisfaction, service and good stock of repairs. Don't be misled by some one telling you that the Case is out-of-date, no repairs, broke, and many other things that are not the straight truth.

Rural School Notes

By W. M. Pevehouse

The Board of Trustees of New Hope met at the County Superintendent's office last Saturday and closed a contract with Prof. J. N. Townsend of Brownwood as Principal of their school. Prof. Townsend comes well recommended and we believe that the Board has made a wise choice. Miss Blanche Stewart will be re-employed. It is understood and thus one place is yet to be filled.

Down at Posey, it is learned that Mrs. C. Z. Fine and Miss Eva Huckaby will be the grade teachers for another year. The principal has not been elected, but there are several applicants.

Prof. J. C. Turney, for the last four years Cleburne in Johnson county, has been elected unanimously as superintendent of the Idalou schools for another year. Mr. Turney is one of those fellows who come guaranteed by the people he is leaving. Those East Texas birds told him when he left last week that he would soon be back and want their school again. History repeats. How well the writer remembers that the school board in Milam county told him he would soon be back hunting a job. Few people who come to the west ever go back east. Mostly, only the quitters. Some go farther west. But the board at Idalou has made no mistake in employing Prof. Turney. It is the opinion of all who have met him.

Supt. Fletcher, of Wilson, was a pleasant caller at the office on Monday of this week. He reported all was well along his line of work down in his portion of Lynn county.

Prof. and Mrs. C. D. Showalter, of Bledsoe, were re-elected in the Bledsoe school. They have done some good work at Bledsoe, having been on the faculty for three years at the close of this session. We need exactly that kind of teachers in our rural schools. Teachers who like the open country, in preference to the city life, and are willing to go out into the rural community and stay. We have too long already had a type of transient teacher, who comes out and stays through the school session, and then is up and gone. And sometimes then, he would be there very few of the week ends. Never can we have the kind of school we need in the country until we come to the realization that we need teachers who are specially trained for that kind of work. The educational world is fast learning that education in its broadest sense is that kind of training that fits a boy or girl for complete living, regardless of where one chances to be called to do his part towards civilization. The old idea that we educate a child so he can make money, is disappearing with those who really are studying the question seriously. Money making is the greatest curse of the modern age, probably, and when we come to the point that we can see that the proper thing to do is to educate the child in the environment he has at the present, with the view that we are equipping him for a life work, then we have made wonderful strides. This life work would be the living of a complete life in the fullest sense possible. And we can do that only when we see to it that we get rural teachers who really want to live in the country and work with the farm folks. The man who comes in and says, "I have tried to get into one of the wards here in Lubbock, but Mr. Dupre says they are all taken. What have you got in the country that is decent and pays a decent salary?" gets this answer from me, "we don't have anything for you. We have several nice places that pay a net wage larger than the ward principals get and a few places that pay a gross wage larger than theirs, but those places are reserved for men who are real men on their jobs. In other words, men who want a certain definite thing, know that they want it, and go after it. We need men as principals of these schools who are acquainted with rural life and know that they like it. We want men at the heads of these schools who want to go out there and succeed and stay as this Mr. Showalter has done over at Bledsoe." Now when I answer a fellow like that he cannot feel offended. He knows I am right. But we are fast getting just what we want.

Mr. Ed Griffin of Acuff was in today discussing school matters. Mr. Douglas Pounds, of Acuff, called today to discuss the possibility of his boy taking college entrance examinations, that he may be able to enter high school at some other place in the event that the Acuff school does not see fit to carry evenhith grade pupils.

We understand that the Shallowater Board has employed Prof. F. Lee, of Justiceburg as superintendent of their school next session. Mr. Lee seems to be a likely fellow and in all probability we feel sure that the board has done well in selecting him. He has a wide and varied experience in the work and is well fitted for the place.

Prof. O. C. Horne, of the Hardy school, has been tendered the place as principal again, and we hope he can see his way clear to accept. He is well liked by all the folks.

CLAUDE FARMERS JUBILANT

CLAUDE.—Farmers are jubilant over the good prospects here. A night shower fell here today, and the clouds are heavy and a big rain is expected. The shower was accompanied by hail, but the stones were small and no damage has been reported. Gardens and grass are green and beautiful since the shower and wheat and oats are coming fine. Cotton and feed planting will begin here in a few days.

FEED CROPS FLOURISHING

ALBANY.—Crop prospects at this time are the best known in years, with fine showing for the wheat, oats, barley and other small grains. Rains have come at opportune times and the soil is in fine condition. The corn, cotton, maize and other crops will show fast growth with the abundance of moisture that has come, and Shackelford county looks forward to a banner year. If the grass-hopper can be destroyed.

AUTO TAX INCREASING

DENTON.—Payment of $16,000 automobile registration fees into the county treasury, by the County Tax Collector, representing the collections for the current year, has given the county road and bridge fund a balance of about $5,000. It has not had an overdraft for the last three years. Denton county did not contest payment of the registration fees to the State, but the Tax Collector acting on informal instructions from the Commissioners' Court, delayed payment of the funds until this time.

Make Preparations For Big Harvest In Kansas Wheat Belt

KANSAS CITY.—Between eighteen and twenty thousand cars already have been stored in the wheat belt preparatory to beginning of harvest about July 1. Walter Harvey, assistant secretary of the Trans-Missouri-Kansas Regional Advisory board, said the cars were distributed throughout Missouri, Kansas, Southern Nebraska and the northern parts of Oklahoma and Arkansas. By the time harvest begins, about thirty-five thousand cars are expected to be on hand. The number to be on hand is determined by the board of shippers' estimate of what they expect to ship. About ninety thousand cars were called for last year, but not all were used because of the low price of wheat. Fully ninety thousand cars are expected to be used this year, however.

Galveston Infested By Home Brewers Is Report of Officers

GALVESTON.—Although Galveston bears a national reputation for its liquid goods of true bonded species because of its port facilities, it appears that the great national industry "home brewing" is as extensive here, if not more so, than any city in the country. To such an extent is the profession piled that city commissions complain of the sewer being clogged up with mash, raisin stems and prune seeds. "As fast as we clean 'em out, they fill 'em up again," Commissioner Williamson complains.

SLATON IS BUILDING

SLATON.—The spring building boom has hit Slaton hard. There are nine brick business houses under construction, not including the $125,000 high school building and the $10,000 Presbyterian church.

In addition to these, two new brick school houses are to be erected within the next three months, within 10 miles of Slaton.

BASEBALL CLUBS PAY LARGE SUMS FOR YOUNGSTERS

Big League Bosses Comb Bush Leagues for Rookie Slabmen To Aid In Pennant Races

BY LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—An outstanding feature of the baseball season this Spring has been the unprecedented demand for capable young pitchers. Managers combed the country for promising box recruits, nursed them along during early workouts with all the solicitude shown by a landlord for his annual ton of coal, and started the youngsters in league games whenever possible.

The reason for this unusual demand for pitching talent is that the fans are growing weary of slugfests and lopsided scores. Sentiment is growing for a return to the days of 1-0 and 2-1 pitching battles; when the strike-out was greeted with louder acclaim than the base hit; when people would travel miles to witness a box duel between such renowned flingers as Christy Mathewson and Miner Brown.

Plenty of Sluggers

Catching to the home-run craze, the club owners went after sluggers last year, and they got them. Horsehide wallopers are now thicker than fleas at a dog show. The Detroit Tigers, for instance, can put a complete team of batting over .300 on the field. Yet Cobb would swap a handful of his bombarding beauties for a couple of pitchers who could take their daily shower at 5:30 instead of 4 o'clock.

In an effort to bolster up their pitching staffs, big league managers imported unusually large shipments of ivory into the orange groves this year for close inspection. Each club furnished nine or ten young boxmen with bed and board for nine expensive weeks, in the hope of finding one or two who could make the grade. Even Miller Huggins, with his champion-ship staff, took several youngsters into his private study and endeavored to tell them all the things that a growing pitcher should know.

Big Prices Paid

Sums that would make a Scotchman shudder were expended for minor league pitchers who appeared to have a chance of winning twenty games a season in the big show. John McGraw gave Louisville enough money to lift the mortgages off all the farms in Horatio Alger's romances by digging $50,000 out of the strong box for Wayland Dean, and the youngster has done splendidly. McGraw also gave Newark $25,000 for Howard Baldwin, "Iron man" of the International League.

August Hermann got Jackie May from Vernon, of the Coast League, for $20,000 and Tom Sheehan from St. Paul of the American association, at a price of almost as high. Pittsburgh was another heavy investor, bidding a figure in the neighborhood of $30,000 for Dan Kramer, a Coast League product, and parting with a tidy sum for Emil Yde, Wisconsin University graduate, who broke into professional baseball with Oklahoma City. Down in Oklahoma Yde is regarded as another Elster. In addition to winning twenty-eight games out of forty last season, he completed the attractive batting average of .392.

McGraw, more than any other manager, has been on the lookout for young pitchers. In addition to Dean and Baldwin he is devoting much time to the development of Ernie Maun, formerly of Wichita and Joe Bradshaw of Toledo.

Makes Closer Games

A reasonable proportion of these recruits have come up to expectations, providing the fans with a number of pitching treats. If they keep up the good work the familiar sight of half the fans leaving the park during the seventh inning because the sluggers on one team have stowed the game away in the bat bag will not be so familiar this season. The idea of kids, perhaps, will be to become pitchers like Walter Johnson, as it used to be, instead of becoming sluggers like Babe Ruth.

Another cause for belief that 1924 will be a year for pitchers instead of sluggers is the new rule that balls shall not be thrown out of the game until worn ragged. Working with an old ball, a pitcher can throw sharper curves and drops that will break more suddenly than with a brand-new ball. Last year a pitcher would be given a new ball several times during an inning and be knocked out of the box before he could get his "stuff working." This was one of the reasons for the epidemic of home run hitting.

ASK RANGERS TO BE REMOVED OUT OF SAN ANTONIO

SAN ANTONIO.—Requesting that Rangers be with drawn from San Antonio in "the interest of justice, fairness and good government," a resolution was adopted unanimously by the San Antonio Bar Association at an open meeting Saturday, together with a resolution vigorously condemning the courts, federal, state and county.

The lawyers also adopted resolutions commending the stand of the United States District Attorney John D. Hartman, voicing their confidence in every member of the bar to sign the resolution or come out openly and say if he knows of anything detrimental to a single judge.

Approximately 150 members of the Association were present.

The meeting was the outgrowth of charges that the courts have refused to take liquor cases presented to them by State Rangers.

Governor Neff was vigorously attacked for his action in bringing the Rangers to San Antonio. Lawyers severely condemned the Governor, saying that the Rangers were not needed here and were not asked for.

Complaints of Grand Jury

Charging that the Federal grand jury had adjourned over their protest, J. M. Nedberry of Kennedy, and A. R. Beatty of Waeider, addressed communications to Gov. Pat M. Neff Friday afternoon stating that it was their belief that Rangers were the only peace officers who were trying to enforce the law in San Antonio and urging that the Governor back the State officers to the limit.
