Rattler season returns

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Rattlesnakes are becoming active again as the weather warms up. That's what Ardis McCasland learned April 29 when a rattlesnake bit him. He learned too, the cure is sometimes worse than the bite — McCasland suffers allergic reactions to the antivenom used to combat the snakebite.

According to McCasland's wife, Bebe McCasland, the two of them were walking on their land in the Tubbs addition when the incident occurred.

"Our property is undisturbed and very natural with lots of rocks and lots of varmints. It was just an accident that he happened to step on the thing. The snake was out for his evening meal and just made a defensive move in striking," Mrs. McCasland said.

Her husband's first action — after flinching — was to identify the snake since it could have been a bull snake, Mrs. McCasland said.

An unusual part of the experience was her husband felt no pain for about 30 minutes; the swelling and pain did not come until an hour and a half to two hours later, she added.

Although her husband still has his leg propped up recovering from the bite, Mrs. McCasland said the entire affair was a real learning experience.

"The snakes are coming out at this time of the year and bites are really hard on children and older persons," she said.

And the skies filled with balloons

UP, UP AND AWAY — Students at Marcy Elementary School released helium-filled balloons into the air Friday as part of their "Reading Is Fundamental" program. Each balloon is attached to a card with a student's name on it and the request that the card be mailed back to the school. Students will keep track of where the balloons landed. These balloons quickly went thousands of feet into the sky before disappearing from view.

Police: body is Howry

Autopsy reports have confirmed the partially decomposed body of a man found late Thursday in west Big Spring is that of a missing 66-year-old Odessa man, Big Spring police said yesterday.

Dental records were used to confirm the body was that of Happy Howry, manager of the shoe department at Odessa's J.C. Penney store. He had been missing since April 25.

The man died from a "crushing blow to the left temple area of the head with a heavy instrument, possibly a tire tool," according to the autopsy.

Big Spring police said two young men who were taking a shortcut through a field near Sunset Boulevard discovered the body beneath bushes in a thicket at about 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

Extreme decomposition prevented identification of the body until the autopsy was performed Friday by Dr. Robert Rember, a Malone-Hogan Hospital pathologist.

Howry had been reported missing to the Odessa Police Department April 25, when he disappeared after eating visiting with his aged mother at her Odessa home, officials said.

Howry's bloodstained 1980 Chevrolet Malibu was found in the 100 block of South Nolan April 28. Blood stains found in the trunk area of the car led officials to believe Howry was a victim of foul play.

"We don't have any idea how or why yet," said detective Sgt. Roy Lee Osborne.

200 help out Garden City family

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

GARDEN CITY — With the closeness that is often apparent in small communities, Garden City residents came together Thursday night to raise approximately $500 for a neighbor who has been beset with misfortune.

A benefit pancake supper sponsored by the city's Lions Club pulled in "at least 200 people," according to Lions Club president Harry Calverley, to aid the family of Lupe Medrano with medical expenses.

Gate receipts at the supper totaled "around $700," said Calverley, but expenses accounted for $200.

In addition to the pancake supper, Garden City 4-H'ers sold cakes to add "$65-$68" to the benefit coffers, said Hubert Frerich.

The Medranos "thought (the benefit) was awful nice," said Calverley. "They felt real good about it and were real appreciative."

"They are part of our community and we feel we're all in the same boat," said Frerich of the effort. "Everybody knows they are a good family and something needs to be done for them."

For Medrano and his family, the troubles began last May, when a son, Billy Joe, was born premature and in poor health. The baby was born in Hall-Bennett Hospital and later transferred to a Lubbock hospital, where medical bills began to mount because of the special intensive care Billy Joe required.

While trying to keep up with medical payments, the Medranos were also trying to raise four other children.

In January, things got much worse when Mr. Medrano was involved in an automobile accident which put him in the hospital with a severely injured leg.

Only recently was Medrano able to return to work; however, the family received the bad news that Billy Joe had cerebral palsy at about the same time.

According to Mrs. Medrano, this will mean more trips to Lubbock, more doctor bills and possibly an operation. She said Billy Joe is already in therapy two days a week at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Reagan wants to limit missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has decided to propose that the United States and the Soviet Union set a common ceiling of 850 intercontinental ballistic missiles with no more than 5,000 warheads, U.S. officials said today.

The treaty proposal would require the two powers to reduce their arsenals substantially over several years. The Soviet Union now has 2,348 land-based and sea-based missiles while the United States has 1,548.

To reduce to a level of 5,000 warheads, the United States would have to destroy some 2,150 warheads and the Soviets, at least 1,100.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said the president made the decisions based on options presented to him this week. He intends to outline the U.S. position in a speech Sunday at his alma mater, Eureka College in Illinois, and then have U.S. negotiators present it to the Soviet Union in Geneva this summer.

The New York Times said today that the Reagan decision is a victory for the position of Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. over that of Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger. Weinberger wanted to measure reductions by missile throw weight — the weight of the warheads missiles could carry on target. Haig argued that this approach represented too sharp a departure from past strategic arms agreements and would not be taken as a serious proposal by arms control experts in Europe and the United States.

Mitchell water decision looms

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — A final decision on Mitchell County Utility Co.'s $84,766 annual rate hike request should come late this month, the Public Utility Commission said Friday.

The water company wants commission approval to charge its 770 Mitchell County customers $19.41 for the first 2,000 gallons of water and $2.07 for each 1,000 gallons thereafter.

For a customer using 5,000 gallons of water in a month, the bill under the proposed rate hike would be $25.62 compared to the $16.43 now paid.

Current rates are $11.93 a month for the first 2,000 gallons and $1.50 for each 1,000 gallons thereafter.

However, the commission staff has suggested a much lower rate — $13.47 for the first 2,000 gallons and $1.91 for each 1,000 gallons thereafter.

Under the staff's rate, a customer using 5,000 gallons of water would pay $19.20 a month — $6.42 less than the utility's proposed charge but $2.77 more than customers now pay.

Hearings on utility's rate request were heard this week at commission offices in Austin. A hearings examiner in charge of the case will issue her recommendation in about three weeks, a PUC spokesman said, and a final ruling by the three-member commission could be made by the end of May or early June.

Commissioners to change meeting date

Howard County commissioners will meet Tuesday instead of their usual Monday date to consider bids for diesel, gasoline, oils, grease and aggregate for the county. Commissioners also will consider the abandonment of one of the county's roads.

Other items expected to be considered are a school for Linda Arsiaga, who is the secretary to Justice of the Peace Bobby West, and approval of pipeline crossings for Cosden Oil and Chemical and Getty Oil Co.

The commissioners meet on the second floor of the Howard County Courthouse.

5 years for bomb threat

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A 28-year-old man has been sentenced to the maximum five years in prison for threatening to blow up the Springtown Post Office.

Dennis Bruce Kuykendal, who held the Springtown postmaster hostage for about four hours in April, will spend the first three months of his sentence undergoing psychiatric treatment.

U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon Friday ordered Kuykendal sent to the Springfield, Mo. federal medical center as part of his sentence for making threats by telephone.

Charges of assault and interfering with the duties of two U.S. postal employees were dropped under a plea agreement in which Kuykendal pleaded guilty to the threat charge.

Kuykendal had threatened to blow up the post office with dynamite he said he had packed in a briefcase. FBI agents found only cigarette packages in the case.

Kuykendal surrendered to FBI agents and released hostage Raymond Robinson unharmed.

2 shot dead in Clovis

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP) — A man who shot and killed two female convenience store employees during a robbery here was being sought by police Saturday, authorities said.

The shootings occurred at about 6:50 a.m. Saturday when an armed man robbed the store near Cannon Air Force Base of several hundred dollars, Curry County Chief Deputy Sheriff Jerry Harris said.

He identified the victims as night clerk Beverly Ann Keith and assistant manager Christy Lee Hopkins, both 25. Each woman had three children.

Harris said both victims apparently had been shot once in the head. One was pronounced dead at the scene by Deputy Medical Investigator Joe Thomas, the other at the hospital at Cannon Air Force Base.

Harris said a witness who saw the man leave found the victims on the floor behind a counter.

Area law enforcement officers were searching north of Clovis Saturday for the man, Harris said.

The man was described as a white man with a dark complexion, about 5-foot-5 to 5-6 and weighing about 120-130 pounds.

Harris said the women's bodies were to be sent to Albuquerque for autopsies.

Officers face lead threat

HOUSTON (AP) — High levels of poisonous lead have been found in the air at the Houston Police Department Academy's shooting range and in blood samples taken from officers working there, a City Health Department spokeswoman says.

The health department said the presence of lead in the air does not pose a serious health hazard, but many officers and full-time instructors now wear surgical masks and rubber gloves when working at the range for an extended period.

"Every time they have tested the level of lead in the officers' blood, it's higher than normal," said Capt. Leroy Michna, the academy director.

Ava Plummer, a health department spokeswoman, said blood tests revealed lead content from 30 to 45 micrograms per deciliter.

"Physicians usually start looking for clinical symptoms of lead poisoning when the levels reach 50 micrograms per deciliter," she said.

If ingested into the bloodstream, lead can cause behavioral changes, nausea, vomiting and, in larger concentrations, convulsions and death.

Texas Democrats faltering in their GOP budget support

WASHINGTON (AP) — A budget proposed by the Republican-controlled Senate Budget Committee is too harsh, and House Democrats will offer a "fairer" bill, House Majority Leader Jim Wright says.

A number of conservative House Democrats, including all seven "Boll Weevils" from Texas, defected last year to support President Reagan's economic legislation instead of that favored by the Democratic leadership.

"I'm not at all sure we can keep them this year. I hope we will. I believe we will be able to show a program that will reach the same dollar figure but that is fairer and not as brutal," the Fort Worth lawmaker said.

Wright criticized the proposal forwarded by Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., and subsequently endorsed by President Reagan.

"It seems a bit stark in some of its dimensions. To take $40 billion out of Social Security over three years can't be done without taking away some of the benefits," Wright said.

"On entitlements, Domenici's budget would reduce the total effort by about 50 percent more than Reagan's people had earlier agreed to," Wright added.

"He wants to take $33 billion out of such things as guaranteed student loans, veterans' benefits, and aid to dependent children. Those same lemons were squeezed pretty tight last year. We took out $15 billion from those same programs last year, for 1983, already. You're taking water out of the same well, and that well is pretty dry."

A number of Boll Weevils — members of the Conservative Democratic Forum — came to him over the past few months and told him they wanted very much to vote with the Democratic leadership this year, Wright said.

"A lot of them said their constituents expected Congress to give Reagan everything he asked for last year, and as a result we have the highest unemployment, the largest number of business failures and the largest number of farm foreclosures since the Great Depression," Wright said.

These types of things are going to cause some members to take a different view this year at the panaceas offered by budget director David Stockman and other administration officials, Wright added.

"President Reagan is an honorable man, and I personally consider him a joy to be around. While much of the American public still feels the same way, there has been a growing disaffection with the president's policies."

The budget advanced by Domenici's panel makes no mention of repealing or delaying the 10 percent tax cut scheduled for July 1, 1983. Wright said Democrats will seek some type of change.

"We must. The average American earning $20,000 a year got a total of $540 from the tax cut, which amounted to about 2½ percent of that family's income. But a family with $100,000 income got $6,875 back, and that's unfair," Wright said.

He suggested a ceiling of about $700 on the total any taxpayer could receive from the tax cut.

"You would save $12 billion on the deficit for 1983 by doing that, and that's fair. You wouldn't give a big windfall to the wealthy by doing so."

The bargaining that surrounded last year's tax cut legislation "was the worst example of that process I've seen in all of my years in Congress, and that goes back to Eisenhower. We ought to be sensitive to the needs of that average American and not to special interests."

Wright said the growing disenchantment with Reagan's economic policies will help Democrats at the polls in November.

He predicted Democrats will gain enough seats in the House of Representatives to achieve a working majority, rather than only a nominal majority that can be overcome by Boll Weevils who vote with Republicans.

Killeen celebrates centennial

KILLEEN, Texas (AP) — This city, the site of the Fort Hood military installation, swelled to a size half again as large as its population Saturday as citizens celebrated its centennial.

The parade, attended by Gov. Bill Clements, preceded a scheduled week of events marking the city's birthday. City officials estimated almost 20,000 people were along the parade route that stretched through the downtown area.

The centennial's theme, "a tale of two cities," depicts Killeen's development from an agricultural center to a military installation, officials said. Killeen was founded on May 15, 1882, and until 1941, when officials decided to build Fort Hood, was one of the busiest shipping points for

Lull in Falklands fighting

By The Associated Press

Britain sent 20 more Harrier jet fighters to beef up its Falkland Islands armada Saturday and pressed the United States for additional refueling support. Argentina vowed to challenge Britain's expanded war zone, and the United States predicted "new and terrible fighting" if U.N. peace efforts fail.

High winds swept the fog-shrouded Falklands area and no new battle action was reported for the islands 250 miles east of Argentina's southern tip. Argentine forces seized the Falklands from Britain April 2. There was speculation if U.N. talks collapse, British marines will storm the islands, possibly by Monday.

The Harriers were refueled by British tanker planes in the air en route from England and landed on Ascension Island after a nine-hour, 3,200-mile flight. They were expected either to fly to the Falklands armada 3,500 miles to the southwest, or be carried by the container ship Atlantic Conveyor.

Two Harriers were lost in bad weather Thursday and another was shot down over the Falklands capital of Stanley Tuesday. This left Britain with 17 Harriers aboard the carriers Hermes and Invincible, which normally have a capacity for six jets each.

Presumably the Atlantic Conveyor would serve as a makeshift carrier for the 20 new Harriers in the war zone, while the pilots take orders from the Invincible and the Hermes. The British government would not comment on the arrangements.

But the British have asked the United States for U.S. tanker planes to refuel British aircraft flying to the Falklands in line with the Reagan administration's offer of materiel support, and the request is under consideration.

Pentagon sources said the British want the tankers apparently to refuel C-130 transports flying between Britain and Ascension Island, where the United States has been refueling British planes en route to the South Atlantic under a longstanding agreement — but not warplanes for the Falklands, so far as is known.

Britain imposed a 200-mile air and sea blockade around the Falklands April 30, and last Sunday a British submarine torpedoed and sank the Argentine cruiser General Belgrano 36 miles outside the zone, leaving several estimated dead. But a missile from an Argentine fighter-bomber blasted the British destroyer Sheffield Tuesday and 20 men were killed.

On Friday Britain extended the war zone by threatening to attack any Argentine warship or warplane found more than 12 miles from Argentina's 2,500-mile coast.

Argentina reacted Saturday by strengthening coastal defenses, and Maj. Gen. Jorge O. Garcia, commander of the Fifth Army Corps in Comodoro Rivadavia, 1,200 miles south of Buenos Aires, declared his forces "are ready to fight on any terrain and in any place."

Garcia said unspecified adjustments had been made in troop strength and that his forces were prepared to defend their position on the mainland as well as support 9,000 Argentine defenders on the Falklands, 620 miles southeast of Comodoro Rivadavia.

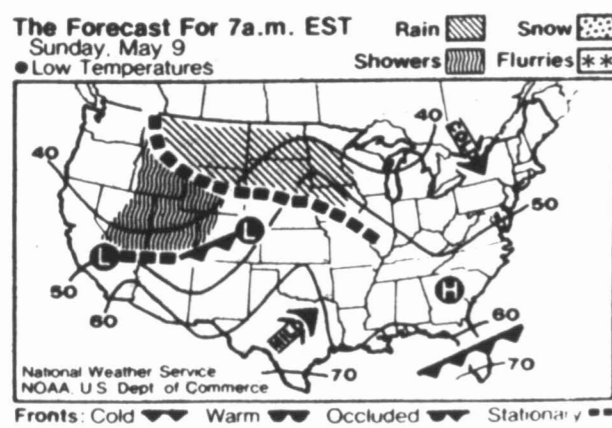

An Argentine Foreign Ministry communique said the British move "for all practical purposes amplifies the war zone to the entire South Atlantic."

PREPARING A DEFENSE — Argentine soldiers are photographed here as they prepare a defense for a possible British attack of the Falklands. Both sides in the issue are standing at bay, while U.S. Secretary of State

Alexander Haig reportedly has a pessimistic view of diplomatic efforts to resolve the dispute between Argentina and Britain.

Sunny skies back over Texas

By The Associated Press

Clear skies, pleasant temperatures and low humidity dominated most of the state Saturday, with the exception of thundershowers over the mountains of far West Texas.

The lower coastal areas and the western portions of the Texas Panhandle were under partly cloudy skies.

Afternoon temperatures ranged from an 87 degrees at Wink to 75 degrees at Palacios on the middle coast. Winds were southerly at 10 to 25 mph with strongest winds over the Panhandle.

The Sunday forecast calls for variable cloudiness with "warm afternoon temperatures and increasing clouds Sunday night."

Pigeons join coast guard

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Coast Guard officials are hopeful pigeons will soon provide a bird's-eye view in searches for boating accident survivors.

Six pigeons have already been drafted into a federal test program that trains them to help helicopter crews spot colored debris, like orange life rings, researchers report.

"I thought it was just an amusing idea until I flew with the pigeons," said Coast Guard Lt. Ray J. Miller. "Now, I'm a believer."

The plump birds scan a far wider area than humans, can watch for a longer time and have amazingly good color vision, he said during a news conference Friday.

Biologist Jim Simmons, who first developed the idea in 1976 at the Naval Ocean Systems Center in Hawaii, said pigeons can take in a 70-degree-angle view at one time, as opposed to slightly more than 2 degrees for humans.

"In earlier tests, the pigeon has an 89 percent probability of success in detecting red, yellow and orange objects at sea, compared with 40 percent for human crews," said Simmons.

The biologist developed a plastic pod, to be lashed to the bottom of the helicopter, with room for three birds, each facing a different 120-degree segment of the horizon.

If a pigeon sees orange, red or yellow objects, it pecks on a response key that sets off a tone and a light inside the cabin. When the pilot hears the tone, he checks the three lights to see which bird signalled and heads in the direction it was watching, he said.

"The pigeons themselves are very little trouble," said Simmons.

"All it takes to train them are little rewards of things like peas, barley and wheat once they complete their detection missions," he said. "That's hardly any cost."

Iranian army seizes territory

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An estimated 30,000 Iraqi troops retreated southward under a furious Iranian onslaught Saturday and regrouped near Iran's border close to the Shatt-al-Arab estuary in what appeared to be a major Iraqi defeat in the Persian Gulf war, battle communique said.

The official statements indicated that fighting along the southern end of the 300-mile war front was reaching a climactic point in the war that began with an Iraqi invasion 19 months ago aimed at seizing the Iranian east side of the Shatt, Iraq's only waterway to the Persian Gulf.

In the initial stages of the war the Iraqis conquered about 7,720 square miles of western Iran. An Iranian offensive in March seized back 772 square miles of ground, and the latest onslaught — which began April 30 — took back another 425 square miles, Iran said.

The Iraqis, who appeared to be driving for the Iraqi-controlled port of Khorramshahr on the Shatt-al-Arab waterway 400 miles southwest of Tehran, announced that two key highway towns — Hoveizeh and Hamid — had been "liberated" in the latest drive.

Hamid is a key stronghold on the 70-mile-long main highway that links Ahvaz, the Iranian-held capital of southwestern Khuzistan province, with Khorramshahr, Iran's largest port before the war. Hoveizeh is 18 miles southwest of the Iranian-held town of Susangerd on a road parallel to the main Ahvaz-Khorramshahr highway.

The official Iranian news agency reported that Iraqi tanks, personnel carriers and vehicles were smashed on both sides of the roads from Hoveizeh 18 miles south to Jofair and west to the Iraqi border where a huge marshland would likely stop any further Iranian advance.

Although reporters were barred from the war zone and independent confirmation was impossible to obtain, Iraq's high command indirectly conceded defeat by announcing that the "Mohammed al-Qassem" and "Usama" units staged a strategic retreat. The units were not further identified but were believed to be divisions with a strength of about 15,000 troops each.

Reagan out to court minorities

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, viewed with suspicion and hostility by many blacks, is waging a new campaign to demonstrate sensitivity to the poor and minorities and overcome ill will generated by White House policy blunders.

Reagan is depicted by top aides as frustrated at his unpopularity among blacks, and angered by television and newspaper accounts that depict administration policies as unfair to the poor.

As a result, the president's schedulers are looking for forums, particularly those suitable for network television cameras, where Reagan can best defend his policies and try to repair damaged relations.

"There is a new emphasis here," said David R. Gergen, an assistant to the president. "We're trying to deal in a substantive way and a symbolic way and with more sensitivity on issues that affect minorities. There has been a steady effort in the last few weeks."

For example, Reagan will make a visit Monday to a predominantly black school on Chicago's west side for a question-and-answer session with students. The president's advisers expect the questioning will be tough.

Reagan softened his stand on the Voting Rights Act last week and agreed to endorse a bipartisan compromise supported by civil rights group. The same day, he made a surprise visit to the home of a black family that had been the target of a Ku Klux Klan cross burning.

"I came out to let you know that this isn't something that should happen in America," Reagan told Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Butler of College Park, Md.

Later this month, Reagan will attend a fund-raiser for Howard University, a predominantly black college in the District of Columbia.

Reagan also has dropped his opposition to appointing a presidential aide to deal with blacks, naming Melvin Bradley, a longtime aide, as special assistant to the president for the job. White House officials say the administration is considering appointing another black — someone well respected among minorities — to a high-ranking position.

Gergen acknowledged that Republican strategy for the 1982 elections is linked to the new policy toward blacks but denied that the elections are the driving force behind it.

"It's not just minorities we're concerned about," Gergen said. "We have to build better bridges and better relationships with a variety of groups — blue collar workers, women, Hispanics, Catholics."

PRESIDENT REAGAN Wants to overcome blunders

Already, the White House sees dividends from recent actions.

Bomb-rigged book kills woman

NEW YORK (AP) — A bomb rigged cookbook exploded and killed a Brooklyn community leader who received it in the mail, and an attached note warned her husband, "You're next," police said Saturday.

Two of the three .22-caliber bullets rigged in the hollowed-out cookbook delivered to Joan D. Kipp's doorstep Friday exploded into her chest. Police have not come up with a motive.

"This was a classic mail bomb type of case," said U.S. Postal Service inspector Dan Mihalko, a bomb specialist. "There was extra postage to make sure it went through."

He said the package was addressed to Mrs. Kipp, 54, an officer of the non-partisan Bay Ridge Community Council and guidance supervisor for School District 20 in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Kipp found the package, in a Sears, Roebuck and Co. envelope, Friday afternoon. A six-volt battery triggered gunpowder and the bullets when the book was opened.

Mihalko said a threatening note on the inside flap of the book was addressed to the victim's husband, marine engineer Howard Kipp. It warned: "Dear Howard: You're next," he said, but threatened that other members of the Kipp family would be "first." The Kipp family has two grown children, Craig and Doreen.

Mihalko said the package was postmarked in Staten Island, a New York City borough just across the Verrazano Bridge from the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn, where the Kipp family lives.

"Everything is still open," Mihalko said, describing the investigation.

Postal and police inspectors were trying to find out exactly where the package was mailed and where the battery came from, he said.

"We're still looking for a motive," the inspector said.

Hard worker exonerated

PEKING (AP) — A worker who developed a labor-saving device for making watches was mistreated by jealous bosses but later exonerated and given the high honor of model worker, a Peking newspaper said Saturday.

The article was similar to a spate of reports in the state-run Chinese press designed to encourage worker enthusiasm while criticizing the nation's rampant petty bureaucracy and showing that the ruling Communist Party awards creativity.

The English-language China Daily said Zhang Jiefeng, 43, of the southeast city of Nanchang, invented the device in 1979 but was ignored, abused and overworked. When local Communist officials learned of the invention recently they honored him, the paper said. It did not explain how the device worked.

Irish wound 5 policemen

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (AP) — Gunmen believed to be Irish Republican Army guerrillas machine-gunned two police patrols Saturday, wounding five troopers, police said.

A spokesman said three troopers of the Ulster Defense Regiment were shot when gunmen ambushed their vehicle outside the Roman Catholic town of Toomebridge, 35 miles southeast of Londonderry. Two troopers were wounded in a similar attack near Ballymena, a Protestant stronghold 45 miles east of Londonderry, the spokesman said.

The mostly Catholic IRA is fighting to drive the British government out of predominantly Protestant Northern Ireland and unite the province with the mostly Catholic Irish Republic.

Airport firemen strike

ROME (AP) — A 12-hour strike Saturday by airport firemen halted air traffic throughout Italy, aviation authorities reported.

All scheduled domestic and international flights were canceled, but the firemen agreed to service emergency flights to remote islands.

The firemen were protesting government moves to restructure the fire department and make it part of the armed services, said union officials at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport.

For 24 hours starting at 9 p.m. Sunday, Italy's railroad workers planned a nationwide strike to dramatize demands for a new contract.

Prison breakout thwarted

GUAYMAS, Mexico (AP) — Six prisoners were killed and 11 others seriously burned in a fire they reportedly set after authorities discovered their attempt to tunnel out of a jail in this northern Pacific coastal town, officials said Saturday.

Prison officials said inmates had been trying to tunnel out of the prison, but that their 23-foot tunnel was discovered about 10 feet short of completion.

The prisoners, apparently acting out of desperation after the tunnel was found Friday night, set fire to mattresses and anything else that would burn, hoping the authorities would open the door and they could make a break.

In celebration of Mother's Day

Today is the day we honor mothers.

The dictionary says a mother is a woman who has borne children. But a mother is much more than that.

WASHINGTON IRVING phrased it best when he said:

"A father may turn his back on his child; brothers and sisters may become inveterate enemies; husbands may desert their wives, and wives their husbands. But a mother's love endures through all; in good repute, in bad repute, in the face of the world's condemnation, a mother still loves on, and still hopes that her child may turn from his evil ways, and repent; still she remembers the infant smiles that once filled her bosom with rapture, the merry laugh, the joyful shout of his childhood, the opening promise of his youth; and she can never be brought to think him all unworthy."

WHERE WOULD WE be without our mothers? (Nowhere.)

And so to all mothers, we say thank you. Thank you for being, thank you for loving, and thank you for giving us life.

Around the Rim

By BILLELDER

Interim

I'm back! This time around, I've got a new job title.

I've been appointed city editor. Right way, better than half of you are asking what a city editor is and does, so I'll be obliging and provide a little crash course (City Editing, Level I — hey, maybe I'll learn something from this, too).

Basically, a city editor makes assignments to the reporters who cover — natch — a city. In our case, you got it, that's Big Spring. Bigger papers have editors who assign stories covering a bigger spread of the world: like metropolitan editors, suburban editors, state editors, national editors, and finally, world editors (someday, Virginia, there will be a space editor. His job will be to maintain contact with correspondents in outer space. Some editors, of course, already do that...)

Anyway, back to Earth. Making assignments for the reporters in your territory is half the job if you're a city editor. The other half of the job is to do the first editing of local stories when they're turned in. A second editing usually is done by a copy editor; here at The Herald, we combine the two edits into one.

Another thing we do here that's done a little differently than at bigger papers is headline writing. If the city editor and copy editor were two people, as they are at some papers, then the copy editor or copy editors would write all the headlines. Here, the city editor writes some of the headlines — the ones that go on top of the local staff produced stories. I'm not quite sure what the reason for this is, but it seems to lessen the load on the wire editor — the redoubtable Richard Horn, who processes the wire-service stories that come in from around the state, nation and world, and puts headlines on those stories.

THAT, IN a specific sense, is what city editors do (and you thought, like Lou Grant, they spent eight hours a day outside the office, prancing around in dramatic attempts to change the world). In a sort of behind-the-scenes sense, we do something else — and this is where you may come in. As part of our attempt to cover the area's news, we provide information on events that haven't happened yet — such as fairs, groundbreakings, and so on.

One of the biggest frustrations in the news business is getting a scrawled press release on soiled paper. Believe me, I've seen people turn in press releases on the most unimaginable types of material — napkins, the backs of menus, I've even seen people cut a story out of a competitor's newspaper and ask us to run the same story.

What I'm getting at as I let off steam here, is this: as a city editor, I can be of a lot more service to you in publicizing your event if you give me a short, typed, double-spaced press release. You don't know what a pleasure it is to get a press release like that; they really get noticed. And the others, the napkins and so on...

HOW YOU turn the release in is important, too. It's tough to listen with both ears when it's 10:30 a.m. and the huge effort known as "getting the paper out" is just commencing and in strolls a well-meaning individual who wants us to track down a photo or spend 10 minutes taking down the facts for a write-up of some future event.

We are, in a nutshell, extremely busy from mid-morning to noon each day, putting together The Herald so that it's chock-full of all the local news we can get our hands on. If you strolled by in the afternoon, it would be better; best of all, make an appointment with an editor or a reporter.

This concludes our crash course. I hope it was informative, and if you read this column without taking umbrage at anything I said, you got an A.

Next week, I'll be rimming again on an interim basis. After that, the Sunday Rim will be written by Carol Daniel, a new reporter who will join The Herald on May 17.

Billy Graham

How pure must I be?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I want to serve Jesus Christ with all my heart, but I think I am too sinful for him to use me. How pure do I have to be before God can use me? — J.L.B.

DEAR J.L.B.: One of God's purposes in making us his children is that we would be pure and free from sin. It is true that we will only be completely free from sin when we get to Heaven. But it is also true that we are to "make every effort ... to be holy" (Hebrews 12:14).

The Bible also says, "For God did not call us to be impure, but to live a holy life" (1 Thessalonians 4:7).

But God still uses us, even when we are not as pure as we should be. A lack of purity in our lives will, I am convinced, keep us from being used of God as much as we could be, and will mean we lack his blessing in many ways. But the other side of this question is that God can use any Christian who sincerely wants to be used of him. This is never an excuse for impurity in our lives, but it should be a comfort to us. We should thank God whenever he uses us, and realize he often has used us in spite of our selves.

Yes, God wants to use you. He also wants you to fight sin in your life through the power of the Holy Spirit. But the devil will try and convince you that you cannot be used of God. The devil will whisper to you that it is no use to try to witness, for instance, because God could not possibly use someone like you. But God can use anyone!

Confess sin in your life to God, and seek his forgiveness and cleansing. But also ask him to use you. He wants to cleanse you and use you, and both go together. "If a man keeps himself clean from the contaminations of evil, he will be a vessel used for honorable purposes, clean and serviceable for the use of the master of the household, all ready, in fact, for any good purposes" (II Timothy 2:21, Phillips Translation).

Editor's Column

A philosophy of life comes in handy

Before I started writing today's column, I had to glue together two typewritten sheets of a letter to the editor.

The letter was so interesting I became absorbed in it and forgot to look where I was putting my glue stick. Instead of putting the glue stick back in the glue jar, I jabbed blindly in the jar's vicinity until the stick came to rest in my cup of coffee.

It was only when I glimpsed a wave of brown liquid rushing toward my side of the desk that I realized what I had done.

My desk is not the best place in the world to spill coffee. Stacks of mail, executive summaries, expense vouchers — all were soaked.

I have a philosophy of life that gets me through moments like this. It's a two-pronged philosophy that is appropriate for every occasion, and it goes like this:

1. Everything always works out for the best; and
 2. Good and right wins in the end.
- So if something unpleasant happens — or if something truly terrible happens, I know there was a reason for it. Perhaps to strengthen my character, to teach me a lesson, or to pave the way for something good to happen.

What good could possibly come from spilling coffee all over my desk? In this case, it forced me to clean up my desk. (And, next time Winston Wrinkle brings me a letter, I'll move the coffee before I read it.)

NOW I'D LIKE to present two opposing philosophies about messy desks. One philosophy is that a messy desk is the sign of a disorganized mind. The other philosophy is that a messy desk is the sign of a messy desk.

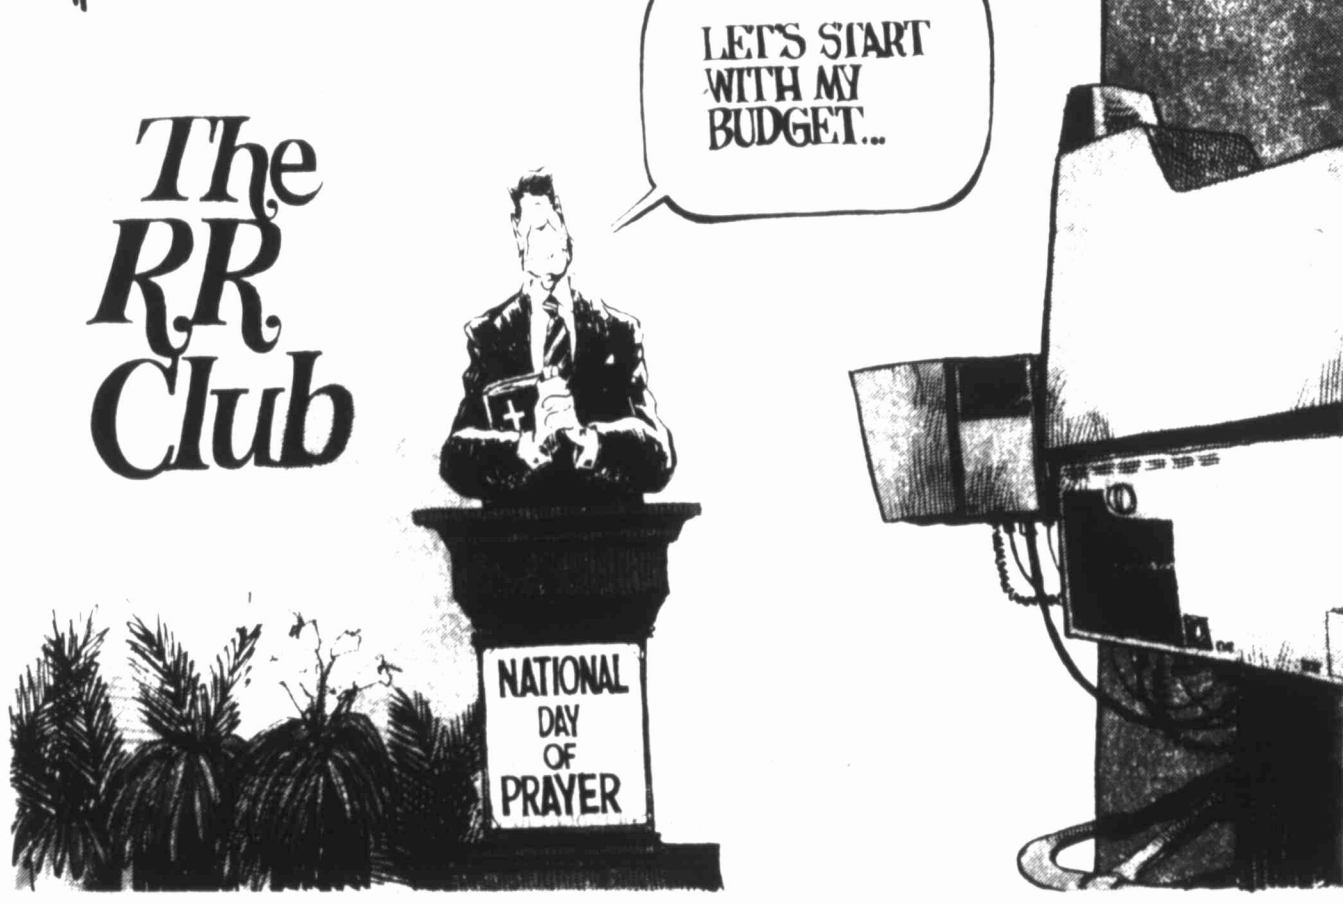

Before I came to Big Spring, I had two bosses who proved both sides of that philosophical coin to be true.

One boss was extremely organized, with a very neat desk, everything stacked in its place. He was the perfect model of efficiency. Everything always got done.

The other boss had a desk that was overflowing with papers and reports in all sorts of disarray. Yet he too managed to get everything done, often with brilliant strokes of creativity.

Both men are successes. So I always try to keep my desk clean, but I don't commit suicide if I can't. Because I know everything always works out for the best, and good and right wins in the end.

Winston Wrinkle shares FCC letter

(Editor's Note: Winston Wrinkle, president of KBST, shared with The Herald the following copy of this letter to the FCC.)

Honorable Mark Fowler, Chairman, Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D.C. 20554

Dear Mr. Chairman: I am enclosing copies of a petition requesting that Big Spring TV Cable Co., Inc. in Big Spring, Texas restore cablecasting of WFAA-TV, Channel 8's non-duplicated locally (Dallas-Fort Worth) originated News Programs.

As you know WFAA-TV, owned by the A.H. Belo Corporation, is one of the outstanding television stations in the Southwest. On Saturday, May 1, 1982, Big Spring TV Cable, Inc. dropped WFAA-TV and added USA Network in its place on their cable system. Mr. James Lancaster, Manager of Big Spring TV Cable, Inc. told me that he had been ordered by the FCC to not duplicate the ABC Network programs being telecast by KWAB-TV, Channel 4 licensed to Big Spring; but, whose local programming originates in Midland-Odessa area. Prior to this Spring, KWAB-TV merely rebroadcast the signal of KMOB-TV in Monahans, 90 miles west of Big Spring. The call letters of the Monahans station has been changed to KTPX and operates on channel 9.

The citizens of Big Spring, Texas are very upset with the Commission's ruling because the TV signal received on KTPX-KWAB is of poor quality and does not compare with the signal quality of WFAA-TV, Channel 8, which they have been receiving for approximately 15 years. The News, Weather and Sports programming of WFAA-TV was superior to any other television stations local programming on the Big Spring TV Cable. Big Spring is located 270 miles west of Dallas on Interstate 20 and WFAA-TV News kept us "in touch" with Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex News. Viewers enjoyed the live interviews with Dallas Cowboy Professional Football Club's players and coaches plus Texas Rangers Baseball players and coaches interviews. In my opinion, more than 50 percent of the homes on the Big Spring TV Cable watched Channel 8 at 6 and 10PM daily. We had so many telephone calls that we ask our listeners to come by our studio and sign a petition requesting that Big Spring Cable TV reconsider cablecasting WFAA-TV News at 5PM, 6PM, 10PM and PM Magazine at 6:30PM. We promised our listeners that we would send the petition to the Federal Communications Commission.

From Friday noon, April 30, 1982 until 5PM, Wednesday, May 5, 1982, more than 1486 cable subscribers came to our offices and signed the petition, expressing their displeasure. A copy of this petition and letter is being sent to: Mr. Jim Lancaster, General Manager, Big Spring Cable TV Inc., 2006 South Birdwell, Big Spring, TX 79720

Mr. Clyde Angel, Mayor, City of Big Spring, Big Spring, TX 79720

Your consideration of this request would be appreciated by all the citizens of Big Spring, Texas.

Sincerely, B. WINSTON WRINKLE, President, KBST

Citizens rise to the occasion

Dear Editor, With the announcement of the reinstatement of WFAA of Dallas, Texas, which was withdrawn recently and replaced by the much inferior USA Channel, this shows that this community will not be satisfied with an inferior channel, yet pay the same premium monthly cable rates. If Big Spring Cable TV has no compassion or feelings for its subscribers, then the citizens have to rise to the occasion of protest.

This they have done, in magnificent fashion. Many have written letters to the Federal Communications Commission, some have called the FCC, while hundreds have signed petitions in favor to continue WFAA-TV.

The community should be especially grateful to Radio Station KBST for taking the initiative and informing the public of this Shameful Situation. To Winston Wrinkle, President of KBST, China Long, Dr. John, Tom, Chris, and all the rest for the meetings, the forming of petitions, the calls and interviews with Officers of the FCC, and by keeping the public up to date and informed — As Always, CHARLES CUMMINGS, 1105 Stanford

KBST, Herald receive thanks

Dear Editor, Now that Jim Lancaster has announced he will restore WFAA programming to the Big Spring Cable TV, we think the KBST radio staff and the Big Spring Herald deserve our thanks.

If the radio station and the paper had not continued to investigate the why's and whereof's of Mr. Lancaster's actions, his decision to remove WFAA from the cable would have stood, and we would have been denied access to the top-quality channel eight news, sports coverage, and other local programming.

The fact that Mr. Lancaster has agreed to carry at least the local WFAA programming indicates that the consumer still has a voice. The majority of people who watch cable TV obviously like WFAA and want to continue to see their programs.

Because KBST's whole staff and the Herald continued to publicize the story, dissatisfied viewers expressed their feelings by signing the petitions and the combined efforts made Mr. Lancaster aware that he had made a very unpopular decision.

We're glad WFAA is being restored, and we thank KBST and the Herald for the work they did in encouraging Mr. Lancaster to change his decision.

In tribute to motherhood

Dear Editor, "In memory of my mother and mother-in-law": I wrote this one 20 years ago for my mother. My mother passed away in 1977, my mother-in-law in 78.

"Mother's Day" Don't forget your mother on this mother's day. Send her some roses help cheer her up today. Tell her you love her in a special way. So don't forget your mother on this mother's day.

She may be growing feeble, she can hardly see. Left alone with her memories but God up in heaven still hears her when she prays. So don't forget your mother on this mother's day.

So if your mother is still living go see her, call or send her a gift. She is the greatest friend you will ever have

P.S. "Thank you" of another view

Dear Editor, In regards to Mr. Bill Walters letter (May 6), I wish to make a few observations. In a nutshell, he states that no person can claim to be a born again Christian because the kingdom of God is a future Government. The "kingdom of God" is a very complex doctrine with at least eight major interpretations, all claiming to speak the truth. Those who claim that it is a future event only must sidestep scriptures like Mark 1:15 where Jesus says, "The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand," or Mark 9:1, "... there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seen the kingdom of God come with power."

For many Christians, the kingdom of God begins in the initial accepting Christ as Savior and consummates with His return. The kingdom of God is not the church, but it can be found in the church. The kingdom of God is not blood and bone; neither is the church brick and board nor even membership rolls.

The new birth is not a change from flesh and blood to spirit as Mr. Walters suggests but a change of spirit. I for one am happy to be called a "born again" Christian just as Peter was, "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead" (I Peter 1:3).

Sincerely yours, MIKE PATRICK, Pastor, Baptist Temple Church

Innovative ways to draw out voters

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Secretary of State David Dean had an idea a few months back. It wasn't necessarily a bad idea. It was just dull. And, of course, it didn't work.

Dean's idea was to have public-spirited businesses and individuals help pay for the May party primaries with tax-deductible contributions.

When informed that the state lacked sufficient funds for the elections, Dean's lawyer-like mind reasoned, the moneyed interests would want to help out, and to earn a tax deduction in the process.

He was wrong. Contributions totaled $30,000. That wouldn't buy cookies and soft drinks for Harris County election workers.

The problem is there are too many other, more interesting and exciting ways to earn a tax deduction these days. Why should a special interest pay for the election when there's no limit on how much it can spend to buy the attention of a candidate in that election?

What Dean's idea lacked was imagination. It needed less reasoning and more hoopla.

Remember when the school children of Texas collected enough pennies to buy the Battleship Texas for a floating museum? That wouldn't work today, of course. Thanks to inflation, you could fill the Battleship Texas with pennies and not have enough money to buy cookies and soft drinks for Harris County election workers.

But a more up-to-date version might work. Dean could have proposed that lobbyists bring baskets of dollar bills and try to fill up the Capitol rotunda.

All the candidates could have been there and sincerely thanked each lobbyist for helping make his or her election possible. Every lobbyist could have worn a big name tag and thus been able to assure clients that he or she was on a first-name basis with everybody who's anybody.

If Dean didn't like the idea, he might have proposed a statewide contest for someone to come up with a better one. First prize could have been something exciting — but cheap — such as a tour of Gov. Bill Clements' necktie collection.

If Dean ever wises up and decides to make his ideas work, he could make Texas politics interesting again.

Right now, Dean, as the state's chief elections officer, particularly is upset about the low voter turnout in the May 1 primaries and is looking for a solution.

Referendum items don't work anymore. The Republican Party's plan to draw out people with referendum questions, including one on gun-control, was shot down by a huge, collective yawn.

For the younger voters, maybe we should convert the voting machines into video games. In a game that he could call Poll-Man, the voters could move the candidate-eating Poll-Man through mazes and eliminate all but the name they want to support. By clearing the screen within the time limit, one voter could get a shot at the next race.

The slightly older voters might be drawn by flashing tips on the screen on how to buy a house or car at the lowest possible interest rate. For senior citizens, we might make them come to the polls to pick up Social Security checks.

Harvard professor explains recession

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Consumers watching the fall of gasoline prices are not crazy when they buy gas-guzzling cars, a Harvard professor said here Saturday.

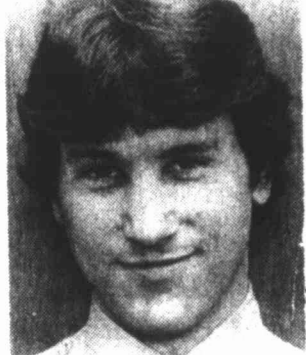

"They're not stupid — they're smart," said Joe Kalt, in a seminar sponsored by the Texas Associated Press Broadcasters.

Kalt urged reporters to make sure the financial figures they use are adjusted for inflation. And given that analysis, Kalt said, a consumer noticing that energy prices are rising less than other costs, it makes perfect sense to purchase a big car.

"If fuel prices rise 3 percent and everything else is 10 percent, in real terms it costs less Big Macs to buy a gallon of gasoline," the economist observed in explaining how expensive goods could be valued in terms of hamburgers.

Kalt said that economists are not concerned about fluctuating prices because they know the marketplace allocates resources and goods around an economy.

Some people always get richer and some get poorer, Kalt said, adding that the big difference among economists is whether to do anything about economic forces.

No campaign without warchest

State News Service

WASHINGTON — Running for office is one of America's favorite pastimes. You get your picture in the local newspaper. Total strangers run errands for you. Vendors offer you free chili dogs. It's fun.

But the reality of Texas politics is taking all the fun out of campaigning. You need Ewing oil money to be a candidate these days in a statewide or congressional race. In fact, state party officials say that you must raise at least $500,000 to win a seat in Congress.

Fun's fun. But more people are realizing that you can have a better time doing something else with that kind of money.

For example —

- Seven Texas congressmen will face no opposition from a major party candidate in this fall's general election. The number was five in 1980 and three in 1978.

- Democrat John Olin Teague, who many observers predicted would give Rep. Phil Gramm, D-College Station, a run for his money in the 6th Congressional District, said in March that he would need about $200,000 to win. Teague didn't get it — at the end of March his contributions totaled about $60,000. Gramm received approximately $500,000 and won easily.

- Sen Lloyd Bentsen says he will have to spend $4 million in his campaign to stave off his challenger, Rep. Jim Collins, who says he will spend between $4 million and $5 million.

- Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple this week withdrew from the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. He had spent nearly $1 million in the primary and was scheduled to face Attorney General Mark White in a run-off this June. Temple reportedly could not continue in part for "financial reasons."

- In the May 1 state primaries, 30 of the 69 contests went uncontested.

The examples are endless. Perhaps one could say that several candidates are not being challenged because they are formidable foes whom the voters know have done a good job. But even strong incumbents have been challenged in the past.

The state of Texas has become so diverse that a candidate has to spend money for hundreds of activities. He has to appeal to Hispanics, blacks, women, conservatives, liberals, rich, poor, business and labor. And the only way to reach so many audiences is through the expensive electronic media.

A candidate who does not have a large campaign warchest will not get his message across to the voters. He will lose, badly. And, as much as people enjoy running for office and getting free chili dogs, they do not relish public humiliation.

Some state political observers speculate that fewer candidates will mean less public debate of the issues. Incumbents could be less accountable to the voters.

But one state pol says candidates will simply have to change their running style.

"Campaigns will have to be more cost-efficient," said Tom Hockaday, political director of the Texas Republican Party. "There will be a movement back to organizing at the grassroots level."

Alaskans have highest income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans living in Alaska made more money last year, on the average, than residents of any other state, while those in Mississippi made the least, according to a government report released Saturday.

At the same time, the Commerce Department report said non-farm personal income in the United States grew only 1.8 percent in the last quarter of 1981, the smallest increase of any of the five preceding quarters.

In the state-by-state breakdown, the report said per capita personal income in Alaska was $14,190 last year, up 11.2 percent from the previous year.

Washington, D.C., was ranked the next highest at $13,487, followed by Connecticut at $12,995, and California at $12,057, the report said.

At the bottom of the scale was Mississippi, where per capita personal income was $7,256 last year, up 10.7 percent from 1980.

Overall, Americans had a per capita income last year of $10,517, an increase of 10.6 percent over the $9,511 of 1980, the report said.

The 11 states with the highest per capita personal incomes in 1981 were mostly in the urban areas of the Northeast and West, the report said.

"Most of the 19 states with low per capita personal incomes ... were in the Southeast and Rocky Mountain regions," it said.

The report also said that for the last three months of 1981, non-farm personal income in the United States was $2,459 billion, up 1.8 percent. Non-farm personal income rose 3 percent in the previous quarter.

Non-farm personal income rose the sharpest in the fourth quarter of last year in North Dakota, 3.6 percent; Nevada, 3.5 percent; Hawaii, 3.4 percent; Oklahoma, 3.3 percent; and Alaska, 3.2 percent.

"All of these states had large increases in federal government payrolls, and most had large increases in state and local government and non-durables manufacturing payrolls," said the report.

AFTER SUSPENSION — Springfield, Ohio, police officer Barbara Schantz, who recently posed nude for Playboy magazine, says she intends to resume her law enforcement career after a 37-day suspension ends. The city and Ms. Schantz agreed to the suspension and she apologized for any embarrassment to the community which she may have caused. But, she added, she doesn't think she did anything wrong.

Drilling show draws thousands

HOUSTON — It was the World's Fair of the petroleum industry, more than 2,500 firms from 24 countries were displaying their products trying to attract the attention of buyers. Tens of thousands flocked to the Astrodome and weathered the brutal heat and humidity of Houston to get a glimpse of the most modern technology equipment now on the market. Most were just casual observers taking their first close-up look at oilfield equipment. But there were also representatives of major American and foreign companies there to get a good look at future equipment.

Each of the 2,500 firms at the Offshore Technology Conference last week had some form of a booth to show their wares off. The booths included the small Japanese exhibit whose 20-foot jumping jack was swallowed up in the shadows of the biggest exhibit there, Oilfield Industrial Lines' 172-foot high rig.

The OTC is the largest annual convention in the world. The record 117,000 who attended the show were treated to the newest and most innovative developments in offshore technology.

WARNING THE SNIFFERS — Jose L. Sordia, director of outpatient services for an El Paso drug rehabilitation clinic, poses before a poster warning of the dangers of sniffing paint for a high. Police say sniffing spray paint is a major drug problem in El Paso.

Special care helped faceless girl survive

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Nurse Thelma Perkins cried over the faceless infant girl in the hospital's intensive care nursery. Two years later, she and her husband became Alice's guardians.

They forced the frightened child to learn to sit and walk, and they patiently explain her condition to curious children, who fear "that the same thing can happen to them," Mrs. Perkins said.

Less pleasant encounters, usually with adults who sometimes scream or stare, are simply accepted.

"Their reaction to Alice is really their problem and they have to deal with it," she said.

Alice, now 6, is blind and can't see the stares. But because she can hear, she may be aware of the sharp intake of breath, the whispered words as people pass.

Alice's condition, a birth defect, is called a bi-lateral cleft face. Dr. John B. Lynch, a plastic surgeon at Nashville's Vanderbilt Hospital who is working to build her a face, says Alice is one of only six such cases ever recorded.

When Alice was born at Knoxville's University of Tennessee Hospital on Sept. 6, 1975, there was only a hole opening onto soft mucous membrane where her eyes, nose and mouth should have been. She had eyelids on the side of her head, and no eyes.

The child was taken to an intensive care unit, where she was seen by Mrs. Perkins, then a licensed practical nurse.

"I remember I cried that any little baby would have to be born like that," she said. "It was hard to see all those perfectly formed little babies struggle for life and then die and then to look at Alice and see how very well she was doing."

Because she had no palate, Alice had to be fed through a tube inserted in her face and carefully threaded into her esophagus.

After Alice went home with her mother, Mrs. Perkins kept in touch and helped the mother deal with the special problems the child presented.

Eventually, Alice's mother decided someone else should care for the child. At age 16 months, Alice became a ward of the state. Mrs. Perkins and her husband, Raymond, the parents of three grown children, became Alice's guardians. They have filed papers seeking to adopt Alice.

Alice had undergone surgery 11 times. She has gums, some teeth and a semblance of a nose built from a rib to be the correct size for an adult. Lynch has moved her eyelids to a more normal position and done cranial surgery to give her a more solid skull.

Doctors say the work won't be finished until Alice is 18 years old, and they estimate the total cost at more than $300,000. When it is over, they hope she will have a normal face.

The Tennessee Department of Human Services has contributed more than $60,000 to Alice's surgery. The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, of which Perkins is a long-time member, has raised $23,000 of a goal of $100,000.

Paint sniffers pose problem for El Paso

By STEVE BREWER
Associated Press Writer

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — For nearly eight years, Lucy Ortiz "best friend" was a can of spray paint.

She was a "sniffer," a "spook," a "sprayhead." Most of her time was spent getting "high" from the vapors of the paint.

"It possessed me," she said. "I wouldn't know what I was doing. People would tell me that I had done things when I was high and I wouldn't believe them because I couldn't remember it."

Ms. Ortiz, 23, hasn't inhaled paint for nearly two years now and she's beginning to get her life straightened out. But the El Paso Police Department says there still are as many as 5,000 young people in the city who regularly "do spray."

Most of them have stories similar to Ms. Ortiz, say police. They are youngsters between the ages of 7 and 15 who come from the poorer Hispanic neighborhoods in south El Paso. They often are the products of broken homes or homes with family problems and use the spray paint as an escape.

"I started because I had some problems with my mom," said Ms. Ortiz, who first sampled spray paint at 13. "I watched my friends do it and I decided to give it a try. I would forget for a while the bad things that happened — until I came down."

Ms. Ortiz would meet with her friends to share a can of spray paint, usually metallic paint like gold or silver because it's more potent. They would spray the paint on a piece of cloth and then pass the cloth around, pressing it to their faces and inhaling the vapors.

"I liked it right away," she said. "The first time I did it, my head hurt bad for a while, but I liked the high so much that I kept doing it."

"We'd buy three or four cans and that would last about a day. Sometimes, we'd have to buy some more for that night."

Ms. Ortiz said that at times, she was inhaling two cans a day by herself.

Jose L. Soria, director of outpatient services at Alliviane, Inc., a drug rehabilitation center here, said spray paint is popular with the youths because it's cheap.

"It only costs $1.69 to $2.29 a can," he said. "With a can of spray paint, you can go all day."

Soria and his counselors have been working with paint sniffers since the late 1970s. He is concerned because more younger children are experimenting with the paint.

"You go to the South Side and find any kid who's 7, 8 or 9 and he can tell you the best paint to use," Soria said.

Police complain that because most paint sniffers are juveniles, their hands are tied when it comes to stopping them.

"If they were adults we could arrest them for chemical intoxication," said Sgt. Juan Rebollo of the Youth Services Division. "All we can do is take them home because they won't accept chemically intoxicated kids at the Youth Home."

Several years ago, when paint-sniffing was at its peak, the City Council passed an ordinance making it illegal to sell paint to a minor or to buy it for a minor, but Rebollo said the ordinance has done little good.

Police are investigating at least one man who they believe buys spray paint by the case and sells it to the youngsters for a profit.

Rebollo said most officers dread dealing with paint sniffers because they are unpredictable when they are high.

"It depends on what stage they're in," he said. "We had a call the other from this McDonald's up the street. There was this sniffer in there who was 30 years old. The guy had silver paint all over his face, his shirt, his shoes — he was out of it. He was just sitting there in a stupor. If you tried to arrest him a half hour before, he might have fought you. But in a stupor, they're no problem."

Ms. Ortiz said she often felt more aggressive when under the influence of spray.

"Somebody would pass and stare at you and you would shout, 'What are you looking at?'" she said. "You would just jump on people for no reason. Sometimes, one of my friends would get higher than the other ones and they'd start fighting each other."

Inmate sues again

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — David Ruiz, the inmate whose civil rights lawsuit brought sweeping reform orders for Texas state prisons, has filed a federal lawsuit charging that rights of Travis County Jail prisoners are being denied.

The suit asks for $1.5 million in damages. Ruiz twice has been convicted of armed robbery and is awaiting trial for aggravated robbery. He faces life in prison as a habitual criminal.

Ruiz contends prisoners are being denied contact visits, proper medical care, magazines such as Playboy and Penthouse and access to the courts.

Richard Pryor improves

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Comedian Richard Pryor was in satisfactory condition today in a Baton Rouge hospital where he was admitted for a "mild respiratory condition," a hospital official said.

Pryor, who had been working here on the film "The Toy" with Jackie Gleason, was taken to Our Lady of the Lake Hospital on Wednesday night.

Julia Lee, of the hospital admissions office, said the star of such films as "Silver Streak" and "Stir Crazy" was suffering from bronchial pneumonia.

However, hospital administrator Beau Hutchinson said a diagnosis of bronchial pneumonia was probably entered into the records for purposes of admitting Pryor.

"When you come into the hospital, you have to give an admitting diagnosis, just to have one for billing purposes," Hutchinson said. "He's really in fine condition. He does not have bronchial pneumonia."

He said Pryor suffered from a "mild respiratory condition" when he sought treatment at the hospital last Saturday. When there was a break in his part of the filming, the producer requested that Pryor check into the hospital.

Footnotes from Howard County Library

The world of science fiction

By ROSE VON HASSELL

Library Cataloguer

Attention all science fiction fans: The Howard County Library has just received 147 science fiction books. The authors range from Anderson to Zelazny.

The "Puppet Masters," "Double Star" and "The Door into Summer" are all in Robert A. Heinlein's "A Heinlein Trio."

"INVISIBLE DEATH" by Lin Carter has Zarkon, Lord of the Unknown, pitted against his most formidable opponent yet — The Grim Reaper. He can reach his helpless victims behind walls and closed doors, without leaving the slightest trace or clue with a chilling instrument of evil called "Invisible Death."

Ben Bocca's "Millennium" is a novel about people and politics in the year 1999. The earth's population has soared to eight billion and two major powers on moon colonies race to complete networks of ABM satellites to protect themselves from missile attack. The two men involved are the heads of the American and Russian colonies, who fortunately, for the sake of humanity, are idealistic men of good will. They are determined to work together to establish a world in which coexistence is possible. Why not check out "Millennium" and see if they can accomplish what they set out to do?

"THE WORLD INSIDE" by Robert Silverberg takes place in the year 2381, (only 399 years from now). Man has obtained Utopia, there is no war, starvation or crime; everything seems perfect, but is it? Siegmund Kluver, one of the leaders, and Jason Quevedo, an historian, have some doubts about whether it is. Robert Silverberg, in this novel, poses the great question — is the gift of life more precious than the quality of the individual?

I can't promise to have all 147 books on the shelves by Tuesday, but there will be a list of them at the front desk. Connie Rameirez, our head of circulation, will be glad to show it to you. Make a request, and then I'll catalogue the book and get it to you within a couple of days.

Howard to graduate 86

Howard County Junior College District commencement exercises will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Eighty-six students are candidates for graduation. Eighty-two will receive diplomas from Howard College. Four students from the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf will receive diplomas. These four students represent the first graduation class of SWCID. Featured speakers for the event will be Greg Wright, a graduate of Howard College, and Jennifer Jeffers-Grant, a SWCID graduate.

The public is invited to attend and there's a reception afterwards.

In other Howard College news, the Anthony Hunt Library on the Howard College campus will close its doors today at 5 p.m. to inventory all books and materials. All persons who have not returned books to the library should do so immediately, library officials said.

Books may be placed in the outside book drop on the left side of the library building, should the borrower return them when the library is closed.

Anthony Hunt will reopen at 8 a.m. May 26, when classes for the first summer semester begin.

Q. We are in the process of house hunting. However, in trying to determine how much a specific house would actually cost, we've been told we'll have to set up an escrow account ... more money, out of pocket. Why is this necessary?

A. Escrow accounts are set up to take care of real estate taxes and insurance. However, establishing an escrow account with your lending institution will save you headaches and paperwork in paying taxes and insurance. Those bills will be paid by the lender, on time, from the established escrow account. Unexpected expenses won't force you to borrow, just to pay those bills. And, even though you might feel your money could be put to better use elsewhere, an escrow account will give you peace of mind.

When you plant a rose bush select a place where there is sun at least half of the day, not under trees nor next to hedges. Preventing diseases (black spot and powdery mildew) gives more success with roses than anything else. Black spots can be controlled by spraying every 7 days. Powdery mildew is a white, mold like covering of the young leaves, buds or tender stems. Best control is by adding special fungicide to those for black spot control before mildew occurs. Principal insects are aphids (plant lice). Use Diazinon, Malathion, Sevin or Isotox when needed. These same insecticides also will control beetles, caterpillars and other leaf chewing insects. For red spider mite (tiny insects yellowing and finally webbing the leaves), spray with Kelthane. Feed rose bushes regularly.

Democrats dropping out

Juicy June 5 races fade: survivors are confident

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A week ago it looked as if the runoff ballot would be full of juicy Democratic races, including an indicted state treasurer trying to keep his job and a millionaire candidate trying to grab the gubernatorial nomination from the favorite.

The flavor faded when State Treasurer Warren Harding — saying it was too hard on his family — and Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple — saying it was too hard on his party — gave up and handed the nominations to their opponents.

"It seems like there was more excitement after the election than there was before the election," said one Austin voter.

So with Harding and Temple out, scratch the two best races from the June 5 runoff and prepare for a month of Jim Mattox vs. John Hannah for attorney general, Garry Mauro vs. Pete Snelson for land commissioner, and two appellate court campaigns.

The remaining candidates have varied feelings on the possible impact of the Temple withdrawal. Temple ran second to Attorney General Mark White and was entitled to a one-on-one showdown for the nomination to face Republican Gov. Bill Clements in November.

Harding, facing official misconduct charges, ran second to Austinite Ann Richards, but chose not to pursue the runoff because of the strain on his family.

Temple pulled out Thursday, saying party unity was the most important goal. Temple and Hannah are old pineywoods friends, whose ties go back to Angelina County politics.

Mattox said the Temple pullout will hurt Hannah, because it will mean a smaller turnout in East Texas, where Hannah is strong.

"Temple will not be spending the money out there and it will help me substantially," said Mattox.

Mattox also thinks the Temple dropout will be good for the Democratic nominee for attorney general.

"I think after I win the runoff, having Mark White on the ticket probably will be a good thing from my perspective in that Clements is going to have a very difficult time painting the overall Democratic ticket as some group of liberals when we have Mark White on the ticket," said Mattox.

Hannah says the Temple decision should have little impact on the attorney general's race.

"I think the vote will fall off probably the same statewide," he said, predicting Mattox could be hurt in some areas by a decreased turnout.

"I think Mattox has got all the votes he's going to get," said Hannah.

Mattox led the May 1 primary with 36 percent of the vote. Hannah was second in the four-man race, pulling 30 percent.

More importantly, Hannah is looking for the Temple withdrawal to "free up a good many resources for my campaign."

Temple and Hannah depended on many of the same East Texas sources for campaign money.

Mauro, an Austin lawyer, also predicted the biggest impact of the Temple decision would be that it would make more money available to other candidates.

Bail made in forgery case

Ann Mae Simpson, 33, of 3622 Calvin, was released from Howard County jail on $15,000 bond after being charged with forgery.

Michael Carl Ford, 23, is being charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Ford, who listed his address as 1607 Bluebird, had his bond set by County Judge Bill Tune. Released on $1,000 bond each after being charged with driving while intoxicated were two Luther men, Manuel Pineda and Jesus Jesse Martinez.

Also released after posting bail was an Abilene man, Kenneth Walter Hilburn, 37. Hilburn is charged with aggravated assault and two Texas Department of Public Safety traffic warrants. Bonds totaling $2,900 were set by Peace Justice Lewis, Heflin.

Health Fair Beat

Find out about good nutrition

Yes, Virginia. As sure as there is a Santa Claus, it's true that you can eat very little and still be overweight.

The Big Spring chapter of the American Dietetic Association will offer a screening at the fair, May 15 at the Big Spring Mall, that will not only help you determine your ideal weight, but will help you understand the relationship of calories to energy, and the roles nutrients play in fueling your body for energy. They'll also have a computer game you can play to test your knowledge of good nutrition.

"Most people have grown bored with the idea of counting calories, probably because they realize that simply counting calories just doesn't work. One piece of candy may be 400 calories, about what a full meal would add up to in calories. The problem is that the energy from the candy bar won't last long, nor will it satisfy your body's need for nutrition," said spokesmen for the local dietitians.

"You're not only counting calories. If you're really into good nutrition, you're concerned about nutrients such as vitamins, minerals, amino acids and such. Amino acids, for instance, makes muscles, hormones, hair, fingernails.

"If you do not fuel your body with regular intake of nutrients, the body uses its other tissues for energy. With a good understanding of what these different nutrients do, counting calories will not only control weight — you'll be a healthier person," they reported.

Calorie is another word for energy, nutritionists say. We commonly use the term "calories" to mean food energy — as we use "miles" to mean distance, "pounds" to mean weight, or "hours" to mean time.

ADA members will hand out "Food For Fitness; Let's Talk Sense!," a nutrition quiz, and an energy evaluation expenditure pamphlet.

Sponsoring the booth are Teresa Moore, R.D., Big Spring State Hospital; Joyce Mills, R.D., Malone-Hogan Hospital; Kenna Scott, R.D., Mary Paine, R.D., Veterans Administration Hospital, and Miriam Curry, regional representative of the American Milk Producers Association Dairy Council, Midland.

Recession finally dying, top U.S. executives claim

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — A group of the nation's top business executives said today the 1981-82 recession is finally dying, although the pain of low profits and high unemployment will linger a while longer.

The executives also were keeping a wary eye on the budget battle in Washington, concerned that government deficits soaring above $100 billion, could make for a puny recovery.

The overall forecast of economic recovery — beginning in the current April-June quarter — was released today by the Business Council, a group of about 200 leaders of major U.S. corporations.

The group is holding its semi-annual meeting at a resort in the western Virginia mountains.

The group's economists have tended to err on the optimistic side recently, forecasting last October, for example, a fourth-quarter end to "the sluggishness" of the U.S. economy.

"The economists are unanimous in believing that we will not fall into a recession," said that report, issued at the start of what now appears to have been the recession's worst quarter.

This time, however, the executives and their forecasters are far from alone. Most government and private analysts say companies have set the stage for production increases by aggressively selling off inventories and that the July tax-rate cut will provide the recovery spark by encouraging consumer spending.

The Business Council report said national economic activity, as measured by inflation-adjusted gross national product, will rise slightly in the current quarter and then "accelerate to a 4.3 percent annual rate during the second half" of the year.

That is about what the Reagan administration is forecasting, though some officials say there is a chance the GNP still will be down a bit this quarter.

TT Big Springers honored

LUBBOCK — More than 240 Texas Tech University juniors, seniors, law and graduate students ranking academically in the top 10 percent of their classes have been installed in the university's chapter of Phi Kappa Phi honor society.

New initiates were installed during a recent Texas Tech chapter banquet. Phi Kappa Phi recognizes outstanding scholars in all academic disciplines and limits membership to those ranked in the top 10 percent academically.

The chapter's initiates from Big Spring include: James R. Griffin, senior accounting major, parents Dr. and Mrs. Robert S. Griffin, 1605 Kiowa; Ernie Morgan, junior chemical engineering major, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Morgan, Sterling City Route; Barry Fish, senior chemical engineering major, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Fish, 907 Mount Park Drive; Shanna K. Farmer, senior marketing major, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherrill R. Farmer, 2402 Alamesa, and Kerre Merlyn Brown, senior sociology major, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Brown, Route 1.

To the voters of Precinct 2, Place 1, your support and votes helped me greatly.

I sincerely appreciated your votes and all the help I received.

I will do my utmost to fulfill my obligations as Justice of the Peace.

ROADBLOCK — Has he been driving under the influence? That's what these Arkansas state troopers are trying to find out. The check was part of a roadblock set up by state police near Forrest City, Ark. Monday and Tuesday. At least 240 people were arrested. Jails in the area were full with people charged with such offenses as driving while intoxicated and possession of marijuana.

Farm

Spring planting continues

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas farmers remain busy with spring planting in many areas while early planted crops are finally starting to make some growth with warmer weather.

Some corn is still being planted in the High Plains and in Northeast Texas, where some cotton and grain sorghum is also being planted along with early maturing soybeans. Grain sorghum planting is past the 60 percent mark in West Central Texas (San Angelo area).

A little cotton is still being planted in North Central and Central Texas. Some planting has started in the Trans-Pecos area and in southern counties in the South Plains. However, most of the cotton in the Rolling Plains and West Central Texas will be planted according to a uniform planting date in a coordinated effort to control boll weevils, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Unseasonably cool weather the past few weeks has slowed the progress of early planted crops and has been particularly hard on young rice in coastal areas. Also, some crops have suffered damage from such insect pests as yellow sugarcane aphids, greenbugs, rootworms and cutworms.

Cotton is squaring in South Texas and grain sorghum is putting out heads, noted Pfannstiel. Some late winter and early spring vegetables continue to move to market in the Rio Grande Valley where about 2 percent of the grapefruit and 19 percent of the late oranges remain to be harvested.

Grazing conditions remain good over the eastern half of the state, with clovers and ryegrass making good growth. Some hay crops are ready to cut in southern areas and the first cutting of alfalfa continues in the Trans-Pecos area and Rolling Plains, said Pfannstiel.

Reports from district Extension Directors showed these conditions.

PANHANDLE: Dry conditions continue to persist, with dryland wheat suffering from moisture stress. Some wheat is heading prematurely due to stress. Corn planting is past the halfway mark, and sugar beets, onions and potatoes are making good progress. Alfalfa weevils remain a problem in alfalfa. The cattle market continues strong.

SOUTH PLAINS: Good rains of an inch or so over much of the area should give a boost to ranges and wheat; however, some dryland wheat is too far gone to benefit. Cotton planting has started in a few southern counties. Sugar beets, onions and potatoes look good. More rain is needed for planting moisture.

ROLLING PLAINS: The area received some light rains the past week, but more moisture is needed to sustain forage growth and for spring planting. Cotton planting will start about May 20, the uniform planting date. Recent rains should boost wheat and ranges. Calves are being marketed at light weights due to improved market prices.

NORTH CENTRAL: Some cotton planting continues; cool, wet soils have slowed germination. Corn and grain sorghum are making good growth but need warmer weather. Rust, mildew and mosaic streak virus are plaguing wheat. Grazing continues to improve; producers are fertilizing pastures.

NORTHEAST: A rust epidemic has hit wheat and will reduce yields. Some cotton, corn and grain sorghum planting continues, and early maturing soybeans are being planted. Recent cool, wet weather has slowed all crops and pastures. Clovers continue to make good growth.

FAR WEST: Good rains the past week over much of the area should boost range conditions and provide some planting moisture. Land preparations continue for spring planting, with some cotton planting getting started. Alfalfa continues to make good growth but blue aphids are a problem. Ranchers are boasting an excellent lamb crop of 110 to 120 percent. Fruit trees are setting a good crop.

WEST CENTRAL: Scattered rains over the area should help ranges and planting conditions but more moisture is needed. Wheat is about 50 percent headed and needs more rain. Grain sorghum planting is at the 60 percent mark. Cotton planting will start about May 20, the uniform planting date. Land is being prepared for peanuts.

Church members destroy books

TEXAS CITY, Texas (AP) — It was too wet for a bonfire, so members of the First Assembly of God Church here instead ripped to pieces thousands of books, records and figurines that they believed were influenced by the devil.

Rock n' roll records and books ranging from "The Omen" to "Snow White" were destroyed by 60 persons meeting in front of the altar of the church Thursday night.

"I just didn't want to give the devil a hold in my house," explained one churchman after he destroyed his country music album "Urban Cowboy."

"My 7-year-old son agreed to get rid of his Star Wars figurines because he knows they are not of God," said Clare Gavin, a Texas City housewife. "The black and white forces in that movie have nothing to do with God. It's witchcraft."

Pointing to Walt Disney fairy tales that would be destroyed because they spoke of witches, Jane Blinn, a Dickinson teacher's aide, explained: "Satan has pulled the wool over our eyes and brought things in that we didn't even realize."

The minister of the church, Rev. Hunt Cunningham, said destroying the material was "a way for us to take action."

"About two thirds of the books and movies around today deal with the occult," he said. "People are looking for the supernatural, but are not aware of what they can open their mind to. I've worked with people who have been demon-possessed and the mind is a gateway to your soul."

Houstonian wins Mrs. America title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The 29-year-old owner of a recruiting firm from Houston, Texas has been named Mrs. American over 49 other contestants in the sixth annual Mrs. America Pageant.

Rhonda McGeeney, the mother of two children, received several prizes, including a new car, and the right to make personal appearances on behalf of the pageant over the next year in the competition Friday at the Las Vegas Hilton.

Sharon Best, a 29-year-old homemaker from Towson, Md., was named runner-up in the competition while Faye Fincher, 37, a nurse from Charleston, S.C. captured third place. Rounding out the top five were Susan Combs, a 31-year-old realtor from Rockford, Ill., and Kriston Tolson, a nurse from Billings, Mont.

5-A-A-A-A-A District Champions!

Olague's bat bops SAC, 1-0

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

The basehits had been sparse for Tommy Olague in the second half of District 5-A-A-A-A-A play. The single he got in the seventh inning Saturday against San Angelo, however, will be the hit he'll remember for a lifetime.

Olague slapped a 3-1 offering from Central hurler Zeke Barron up the middle to score Marcus Armendariz from third base and give the Big Spring Steers their first-ever baseball championship with a 1-0 victory over the Bobcats.

Big Spring completes its regular season of play with a 23-9 record, the best in the school's history. The Steers were 6-1 in the first half, tying Abilene High for the title but won the second half crown outright at 6-1 when Abilene High topped Cooper 8-2 Saturday.

"I hit a fastball... coach told me just to make contact," a beaming Olague sputtered after the game. "It was 3-1 and I knew he had to come in with a fastball. I just sat back and waited on it."

"It feels, well, devastating. It's awesome," he described his team's championship.

The game was tying all sorts of knots in the stomachs of the full house at the Big Spring High diamond. The game was a mirror image of the one played only a few weeks before in San Angelo where Big Spring needed nine innings to defeat the Bobcats 1-0.

Once again, pitchers Moe Rubio and Zeke Barron played zeroball. For six innings, neither yielded a run, as they had the time before. That was, until the seventh inning.

Armendariz lined a single that right fielder Marty Madonaldo bobbled, giving the Big Spring second baseman time to advance to second.

Barron fanned James Walker with a sinking curve but Blake Rosson knocked an 0-2 pitch into left field. It was too shallow to score Armendariz but two big sticks were waiting on deck.

The first was Olague who snapped out of an 0-for-13 second half slump with an RBI single Friday against Abilene. He was hitless, though, in three trips against Barron.

With the San Angelo infield pulled in to make the play at home, Olague used his power to line a pitch past Bobcat second baseman Kel Crain. The basehit touched off a celebration that may not yet be over.

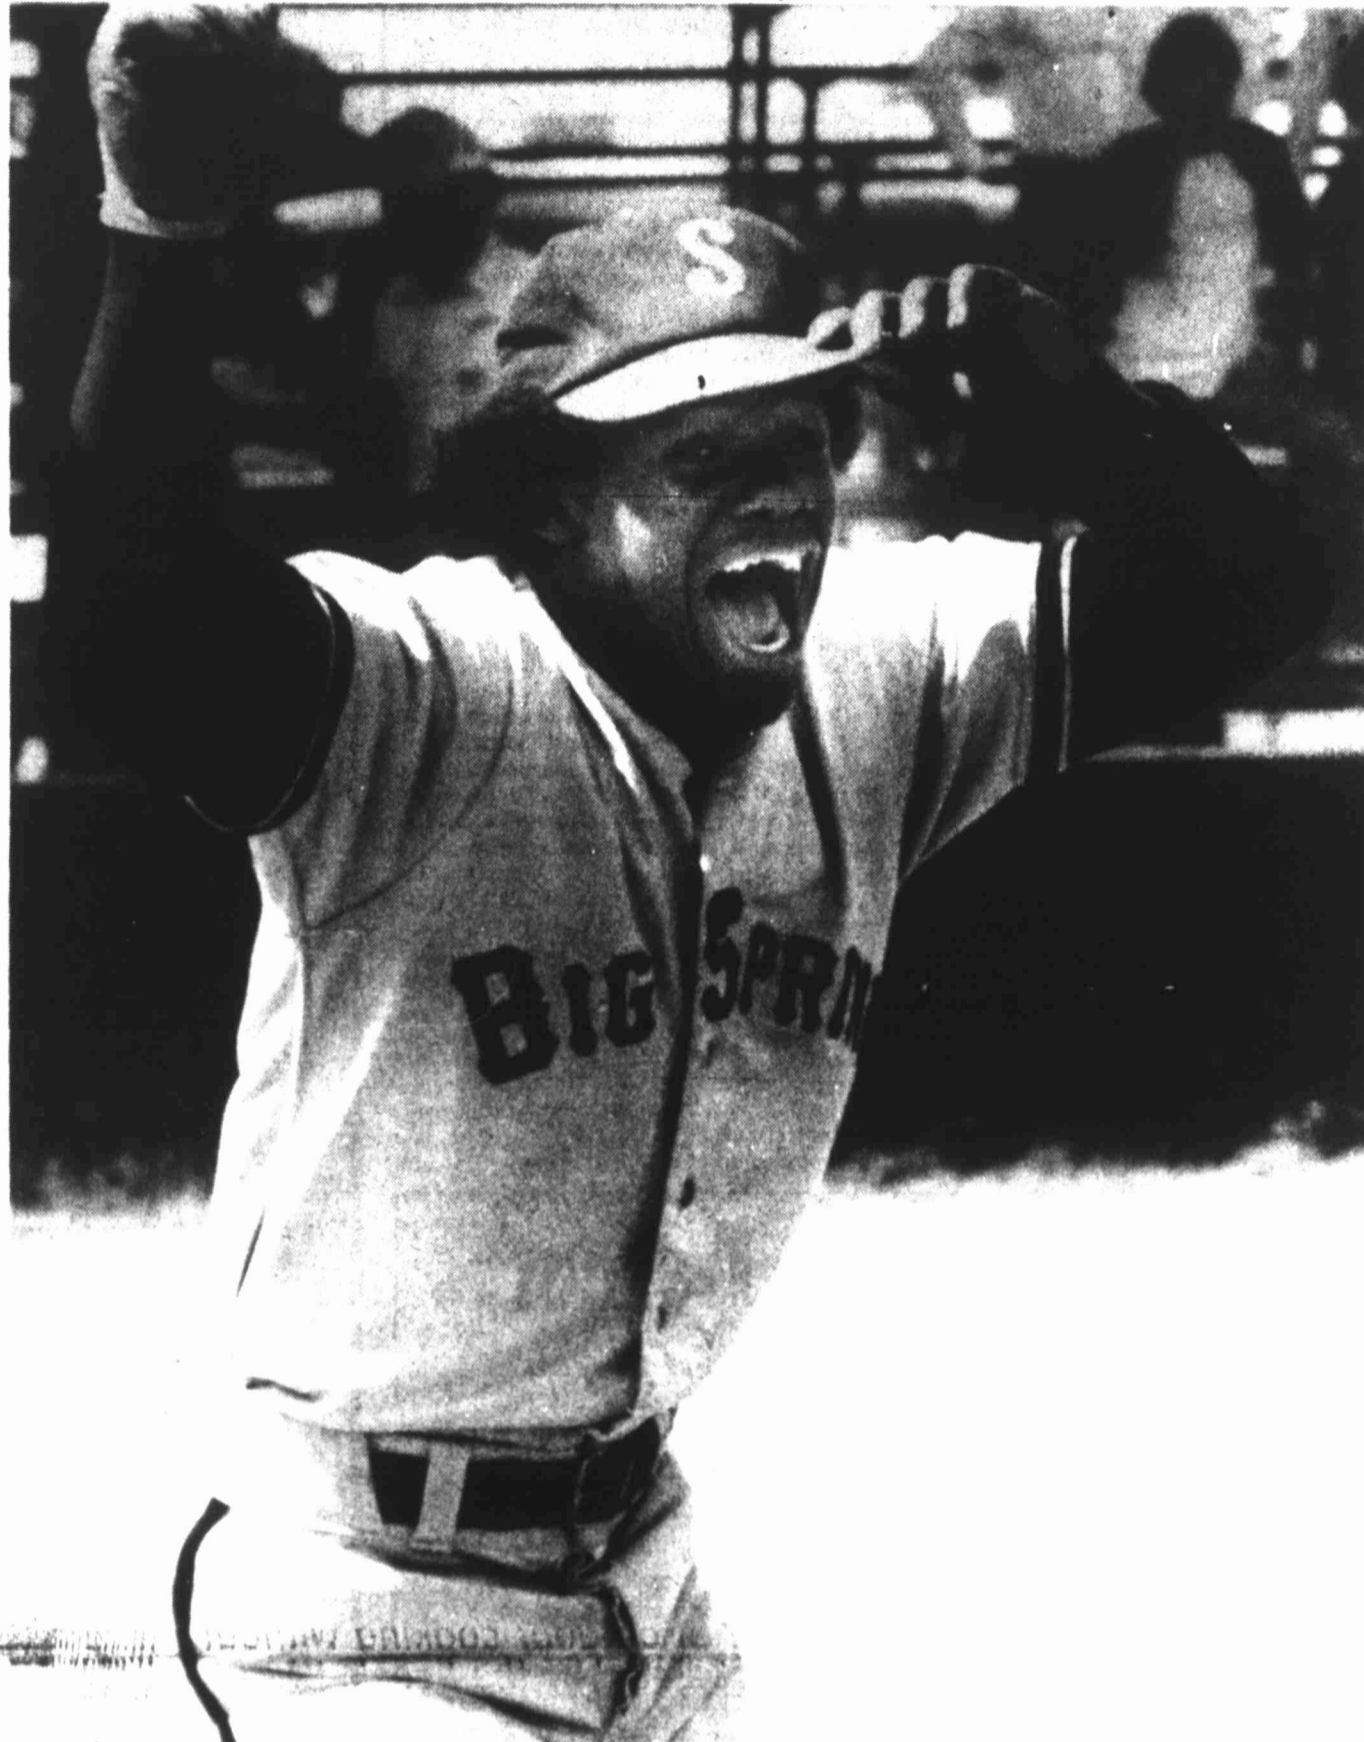

While Olague was the star of the moment, it was Rubio who was the real hero. The amazing senior right hander recorded his fourth shutout in his past five games, fanning 10 batters and scattering three hits. If he was to win an award for being the best actor, the men in the field behind him would be lauded for their great supporting roles.

"I had the confidence in my defense," he said. "They were behind me and all I was worried about was throwing strikes."

"I got nervous, oh, right around the fifth and sixth innings," he admitted. "I just had to concentrate. I just took a deep breath and tried not to pay attention to all the people. They were a distraction because we've never had people come out like this before and support us."

Rubio did not allow a baserunner to advance to third base. Only Kel Crain made it to second when he doubled in.

YEEEEAAHHHHH!!! — Big Spring right fielder James Walker lets the whole town know about his team's first-ever district championship in baseball. Walker was a main cog in Big Spring's success, batting .372 in district play, second highest on the team. The Steers topped San Angelo 1-0 Saturday while Abilene High defeated Cooper 8-2 to give Big Spring outright second half and overall championships.

Cooper victory delayed title

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

ABILENE — All three sections of bleachers at Abilene High's Blackburn Field were filled to the overflow point here Friday afternoon. Seemingly as a "thank you" for the large turnout, Cooper and Big Spring staged the top spectator's game this season in District 5-A-A-A-A-A.

Down 5-1 after one inning, Big Spring tied the game 8-8 with Marcus Armendariz's two-out single in the seventh only to watch Cooper snap the Steers' 12-game winning streak 9-8 on a two-out single by Cougar Tommy Clemons in the eighth.

The win by Cooper dropped Big Spring into a first place tie with Cooper with 5-1 second half records. The loss set the stage for Big Spring to wrap up the title Saturday against San Angelo.

Friday's game joins the first half win over San Angelo as Big Spring's gutsiest performances of the year. On a day when Cougar slugger Billy Mitchell was hitting everything almost to the rings of Saturn, the Steers rallied four times to tie the game and send it into extra innings.

Big Spring had its lower half of the order up in the seventh but Tom Cudd got things started with a lead-off double to right. When David Anguiano bounced one to shortstop and pinch runner Tracy Spence was nailed in a rundown, things did not look bright for the Steers.

Disregarding the bleak forecast for a two-run rally, Marty Rodriguez rapped a single to right. Alan Trevino went down on strikes and the possibility of a comeback looked even dimmer.

Frank Ibarra then called upon pitcher Jinx Valenzuela to pinch hit and the big junior lined a single to center to load the bases. Ibarra held Anguiano at third, a move that brought moans from the black and gold bleachers.

The protests were forgotten moments later when Armendariz dropped in a single in center that scored the tying runs.

Pitcher Adam Rodriguez set down the order in the seventh to send the game into an extra inning. Big Spring had the big sticks up at the plate but Cooper's third pitcher of the afternoon, Brad Morrison, set down Blake Rosson, Tom Olague and Spence in order.

Cooper loaded the bases in its half of the eighth and with two out, Clemons lined a 1-1 pitch to left field to score John Williams with the winning run.

While the Cougars were elated to keep the district race alive for both Abilene teams, the Steers looked to Saturday, happy just to be able to make a contest of Friday's game.

After Big Spring took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on Olague's RBI single, Cooper stormed right back with five runs against Rodriguez. That one inning alone accounted for more runs than Big Spring had given up in any of its 12 previous league games.

Mitchell drove in two with a triple to right while Chuch Cathey and Robert Wagstaff knocked in one each with singles. Wagstaff scored on a wild pitch. It wasn't all Rodriguez's fault as Oscar Limon let a fly drop in front of him in center and James Walker lost another in the sun in right to keep the Cougar attack going.

Big Spring came right back with three runs in the second as Mitchell, who had just returned from the

Jackson sets 5A long jump mark

AUSTIN — Big Spring track star Carla Jackson didn't have a great Saturday at the University of Texas' Memorial Stadium. That may have been because she had such a super day Friday.

Jackson won the Class AAAAA long jump with a record leap of 20-3. She actually tied state leader Melody Smith of Houston Sterling at 20-3 but when officials went to the second best jump, Jackson had a 20-0 and Smith a 19-11. Thus the gold went to the Big Spring senior.

She was sixth in both the triple jump and 200-meters Saturday, both of her efforts well off her previous bests. She triple jumped 35-11 1/4 for sixth behind the winning effort of 39-21.4 by Leslie Henderson of La Marque.

Trena Carpenter of Fort Worth Eastern Hills ran a 24.4 in the 200-meters for first while Jackson was sixth in 25.2. Jackson's best entering the state meet were 37-7 1/4 in the triple jump and 24.73 in the 200.

The old record in the long jump was 19-5 3/4 set by Linda Cornelius of Fort Worth Paschal in 1975.

Big Spring runner Karl Wolfe was fifth in the 3,200 meters at the Region I-A-A-A-A-A boys meet in Lubbock. Bobby Aguirre of El Paso Riverside won the event in a 9:18.0 while Wolfe ran a 9:52.0, off his best of the year.

He did beat rival Ruben Aguillon of San Angelo Central who ran a 10:10.0 in the 92-degree heat in Lubbock.

Harris pleased with hitting

Scrimmage a 'padded' performance

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

The hitting was crisp and the playing hard. Those were the things coaches wanted to see Saturday night at the spring football scrimmage between this fall's varsity squad and last year's veterans.

If you're looking at numbers, the 1982 varsity scored twice during the game-type conditions portion of the show and the vets once on a long run by quarterback Tracy Spence.

The offensive backs for the varsity ran with intensity. Danny Stevens combined his hard running with a few good moves to draw the notice of head coach Ralph Harris.

"He's much improved as a running back," Harris said after the final whistle had blown. "Last year he was a very average back but this year he has a chance to be a lot better."

Stevens escaped on runs of 23 and 27 yards on pitchouts under game conditions. Other backs that rated notice were Jay Pirkle and Eric Sherman.

Harris reported his offensive line was executing according to plan but still lacked aggressiveness and physical play.

"Right now our strength is in our receivers," he stated. "They have blocked well although we haven't been able to get the ball to them. We have some experience there with one starter back and another part-time starter."

The offense was directed by Dean Gartman and Pirkle. Probable starter Adam Rodriguez wasn't used because he still is involved in baseball as a pitcher.

Turning to the defense, Harris said, "We're tackling fairly well and gang tackling much better than we have. Our open field tackling isn't so good. The main thing we want is team effort and pursuit."

Taking a general overlook of the first week, Harris has noticed an improvement in team strength and that "the kids are getting tougher playing with the small injuries."

"We're not a very good football team. We've got a big coaching job ahead of us but the kids want to perform at the level of this district," Harris summarized. "The kids have shown more intensity and are paying attention to ourselves and not to the past."

The first team offense scored on a long drive as Stephens plowed over for the touchdown on a fourth and one situation to cap the drive. On the next series, the offense looked strong again as Pirkle broke for 11 and 12 yard gains.

Big Spring now town of champions

Finally, the descriptive term "champion" is associated with Big Spring.

With a heartstopping 1-0 victory over San Angelo Saturday, the Steers baseball team won an outright district championship — the first ever for that sport. No "bridesmaid's finish," no "almost," no "choke." Those are now archaic phrases in discussions of Big Spring sports. The Steers have arrived.

It would be easy for me to use this space to toss out laurels to player and coaches and fans and the ticket-taker at the gate. Instead, I'll let the guys that did it on the diamond do the talking for me.

Ladies and gentlemen, the senior players on the 1982 5-5A district baseball champs. In person, unedited, uncensored and almost too excited to enunciate.

Moe Rubio, pitcher — "What did I tell you? I tell you, I just feel great." On Tommy Olague's game-winning hit that made Rubio the winning pitcher — "I don't know. I was just happy, that's all. I knew Tom Olague or Tom Cudd would come through."

Tommy Olague, first baseman — "Devastating. It's awesome." On the most important hit of his career — "I was confident," more or less. Coach told me not to get down, 'I know you can hit the ball.'"

Beef Armendariz, second baseman — "There's no feeling. I'm still all psyched out. It was Moe that did it. When Moe pitches a game, we know we are going to win it. After the game yesterday, I knew we'd win today. We had no pressure... it was just a regular game for us." How about the pressure of a scoreless game? "I knew we'd have to explode sometime. There is no team in Texas that can shut us out." On getting on base to score the game's only run — "I knew I could hit that dude. I was taking good cuts. I had just been fouling them off."

Oscar Limon, center fielder — "Shoot, it feels great, man. It's something we've never won before. It's great to break that, man." Did you think it could happen? "This is what we were aiming for. We had the material to do it. We just went out and proved it."

Blake Rosson, shortstop — "I feel like we just won the World Series or something." On his hit in the seventh — "I was just trying to move up the runner." On what's next on the list — "We need to get some more batting practice."

James Walker, right fielder — "It feels, great, just great. The pressure got to them. I was tight all through the game. On his turnaround at the plate in the second half — "It was the team that helped... they told me I could do it. Blake helped me. I was trying to catch him or pass him (in batting). That helped." What does this mean to a senior? "I'm so happy I could cry. This is a great feeling. I don't think a team here has had this much support in a long time."

Usually these guys are more talkative than I have room for on a notepad. Saturday, however, they were struggling with words, letting their emotions go physical in hugs, high-fives and handshakes.

As Tom Cudd said earlier in the season, all the team had ever heard was "Choke, choke, choke. We've turned all that around now."

Indeed, there has been a turnaround.

5AAAAA standings

Eagles down Coogs again

They kept up with the Big Spring game by telephone and when the Steers were announced as winners, Abilene High went ahead and defeated cross-town rival Cooper for the second time in district play.

Nursing an 8-2 lead, all ears were on the Big Spring-San Angelo score. When the Steers clinched the 5-A AAAA championship with the victory, the Eagles wrapped up the Cougars. In other games in the final day of baseball, Midland Lee topped Midland 6-2 while Permian nudged Odessa 3-2.

Here's how they went around the league Saturday afternoon:

Abilene 8, Cooper 2

ABILENE — With their pitching exhausted from Friday's thriller with Big Spring, Cooper suffered at the expense of the Eagles.

Pitcher Jay Tindall rapped a two-run homer in the fifth inning as the Eagles collected eight hits off starter Brad Morrison and reliever Greg Galbraith. Tindall got the win, his first since he beat Cooper in the final game of the first half.

the gap with one out in the second. Rubio fanned Andrew Morin and David Holland to get out of that problem.

Strikeouts, in fact, made the first part of the game fly by. Rubio struck out the side in the first and second innings and had nine strikeouts by the fourth.

Returning to his defense, Rubio got two big plays from his batteymate, catcher Marty Rodriguez. Rodriguez threw out Augie Acala in the sixth inning trying to steal second and repeated his act in the seventh, nailing Crain with a perfect throw.

Big Spring left 11 men on the basepaths but to Barron's credit, he toughed up when the Steers appeared ready to break the scoreless deadlock.

He worked out of jam in the first inning, left two on in the fourth and the bases loaded in the fifth.

In the two games between the teams, Barron has given up two runs in 16 innings of work. Rubio has just one step ahead, firing 16 innings of no-run ball. The Bobcats managed just six hits against him.

"They deserve it... they got a good ballclub," praised Bobcat coach Rex Scofield. "Frank's (Ibarra) has done a heckuva job."

"I'm excited for the first time this year," Ibarra managed to force out after the game. "District champs. These kids really earned it. They've worked very hard."

"San Angelo has a very good ballclub," he said, "we were just fortunate to win. I feel sorry for Zeke. He pitches that way every time. I think he's one of the most outstanding pitchers in the league. In a crucial ballgame, he's the one pitcher I don't want to face."

regional track meet, went wild. He walked four batters and was vanked in favor of junior Greg Galbraith. Galbraith had the misfortune of facing Rosson, the league's top hitter with men on base.

The senior shortstop greeted him with a two-run single to right to bring Big Spring within one run.

Mitchell blasted a home run to the opposite field in the bottom of the inning to put Cooper back on top 6-4 as the slugfest continued.

The Steers tied the game in fourth when Armendariz scored on an error and Rosson collected in third RBI of the game. Not to be outdone, the Cougars took an 8-6 lead in the bottom of the frame as Jeff Blackburn and Clemons singled in runs.

"My curveball just wasn't working," Rodriguez said of his slow start in the first inning. "I stuck with the fastball and let up on it. When Mitchell hit that home run, I let up on a fastball."

"I felt all right after the first two outs," he said about pitching in the extra inning. "I just threw the ball at the wrong place."

Rodriguez, 8-3, had not pitched in almost two weeks and said the layoff did have an effect. "It wasn't easy pitching today," he admitted. "After the first inning, I decided to relax and not throw the ball so hard."

Spurs, Lakers ready for battle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers appear to be playing better right now than at any time since they captured the National Basketball Association championship nearly two years ago. But the San Antonio Spurs don't seem overwhelmed.

"We're equal all the way," said San Antonio's George Gervin, the NBA's scoring leader in each of the last four seasons — including this one. "I think it will be a very interesting series against Los Angeles."

San Antonio and Los Angeles will square off Sunday afternoon at the Forum in nearby Inglewood in the opener of the Western Conference championship series. The Spurs enter the best-of-seven series with the knowledge that they beat the Lakers three times in five regular-season meetings.

Both clubs were impressive in advancing this far. After receiving first-round playoff byes, the Pacific Division champion Lakers eliminated the Phoenix Suns in four straight games and the Midwest Division champion Spurs ousted the Seattle SuperSonics in five games.

San Antonio Coach Stan Albeck, a former assistant coach with the Lakers, has some strong words following his club's series with Seattle in reference to the tough times the Spurs have had in playoff situations.

"I think that we've taken the 'choker' tag off," said Albeck. "Tell me we're chokers. I'm tired of hearing it."

The Spurs have made the playoffs in each of their six years in the NBA and have won their division crown four times.

Knee Deep In Cascot

Planting certified cottonseed from Custom Ag Service is the first step in putting you "Knee Deep in Cotton". Cascot varieties are consistently high yielders on dry or irrigated land. Add to that high disease resistance, early maturity, storm resistant bolls, and premium micronaire and you've got just a few of the reasons you should be planting Cascot varieties like: Cascot B-2, BR-1, L-7 and new C-13.

If you're not planning on using Cascot, try 50 or 100 acres and compare its yield with the seed you're using now. We're betting that next season you'll be "Knee Deep in Cascot".

Shearer leads Houston Open

HOUSTON (AP) — Australian Bob Shearer, who gave himself a deadline of this year for making it big on the PGA tour, couldn't explain why he's running far ahead of schedule Saturday as the hottest golfer on the tour.

"If I didn't make the top 125 this year, I was going home and play in Australia and Japan," Shearer said after he fired a 7-under-par 64 Saturday and charged to a 5-stroke lead in the $350,000 Houston Open at Woodlands Country Club.

"But I wouldn't have played in the country six years if I didn't think it was the best place to play. The people in Australia seem to judge your ability by the way you play in this country."

Shearer would be judged superior in any country the way he played Saturday's round.

"The first 15 holes today were the best I've ever played," Shearer said. "I hit a lot of them close and I was able to scrape them in. There's not a lot to say. I'm just happy to be here."

Defending Houston Open champion Ron Streck, who started the day 3-under, made up four shots with a 4-under 67.

Sixers win series over Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks insisted that Philadelphia's 1-3-1 trap defense hadn't surprised them.

But Maurice Cheeks' offense certainly did.

Cheeks, a point guard whose job normally is to set up scoring chances for his teammates, poured in 26 points Friday night to lead the 76ers to a 102-90 victory over Milwaukee, eliminating the Bucks from the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Cheeks, constantly beating the Bucks' Brian Winters to the basket, sank 10 of 16 shots and passed for six assists as the 76ers won the best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal series four games to two.

The 76ers advanced to the conference championship series against the Boston Celtics, starting Sunday in Boston.

"Maurice was able to run wild," 76ers forward Julius Erving said. "He ran by Brian fouds on their big people. We made their guards work and our guards, Maurice and Andrew Toney, got a lot of point production for us."

Sox sock Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Chuck Rainey and Mark Clear combined on a six-hitter and Jerry Remy scored the winning run after reaching base on an error in the sixth inning as the Boston Red Sox edged the Texas Rangers 2-1 Saturday night.

Rainey, 3-0, who gave way to Clear with one out in the eighth and a runner on third, struck out six, walked one and allowed all the Texas hits. Clear, who earned his fourth save, struck out Mark Wagner and George Wright to leave the potential tying run on third.

Texas' Jon Matlack, 0-2, getting his first start of the season, surrendered six hits and only one earned run. He struck out five and walked none.

Trailing 1-0, Boston scored its runs in the sixth. Reid Nichols opened with a single and Remy sacrificed, but was safe when first baseman Pat Putnam dropped the throw. Nichols went to third on the play and scored on a double by Dwight Evans. Remy scored when Jim Rice grounded out.

Texas scored in the fourth on Putnam's double and a single by Lamar Johnson.

It was the 15th victory in the last 18 games for the Red Sox and gave them a 2½-game lead in the American League East. The Rangers had snapped a 12-game losing streak Friday night.

Blue Jays 2, Royals 1

TORONTO (AP) — Willie Upshaw smashed two hits and drove in a run and Mark Bomback earned his first victory of the season with relief help Saturday as the Toronto Blue Jays beat the Kansas City Royals 2-1.

Bomback, 1-4, pitched six innings and gave up one run on seven hits before being relieved by Roy Lee Jackson, who gained his third save. Jackson had to pitch out of a two-out, bases-loaded jam in the eighth to preserve the victory.

Kansas City right-hander Dave Frost, 3-2, who gave up eight hits in seven innings, was the loser.

Upshaw, who went 2-for-3, has hit safely in seven of his last eight games and Saturday increased his RBI total against the Royals this year to nine.

Indians 8, A's 5

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Miguel Dilone drove in three runs with a pair of doubles and scored twice as the Cleveland Indians beat the Oakland A's 8-5 Saturday.

Len Barker, 4-1, pitched six innings and got the victory with help from Dan Spillner, who earned his third save with three innings of one-run relief.

The Indians took a 4-0 lead against Mike Norris, 2-3, in the second. Roy Hassey led off the second with a single and went to third on Rick Manning's double. Norris walked Jack Perconte to load the bases, and after an infield grounder by Mike Fischlin drove in the first Cleveland run, Dilone doubled home two more runs.

Toby Harrah capped the rally with a sacrifice fly that scored Dilone.

American League

White Sox 7, Tigers 4

DETROIT (AP) — Chicago's Marc Hill, Tom Paciorek and Rudy Law each homered and the White Sox scored four runs in the last two innings to take a 7-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers Saturday.

The Tigers led 4-3 lead going into the Chicago eighth, when Steve Kemp singled just under the glove of Tiger first baseman Richie Hebner and Manager Sparky Anderson brought in reliever Elias Sosa for starter Dan Petry.

Sosa, 1-1, got Greg Luzinski on a pop foul before giving up a two-run homer to Paciorek to give the White Sox a 5-4 lead. They added two more runs in the ninth on Law's two-run homer.

The Tigers trailed 3-0 in the sixth when Enos Cabell singled and rode home on Jerry Turner's second homer of the season. With two outs, Chicago starter Dennis Lamp walked Hebner and Ernesto Escarrega came on for the White Sox and walked Larry Herndon, then gave up a double to Lance Parrish that drove in Hebner and Herndon that put Detroit on top 4-3.

Jerry Koonsman, 1-1, who came on to start the seventh inning, picked up the victory for the White Sox.

Angels 5, Orioles 2

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Don Baylor drove in four runs, three on a sixth-inning homer that put California in front, and helped the Angels snap a three-game losing streak Saturday night with a 5-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

With Baltimore leading 2-1, Bobby Grich singled to lead off the Angels' sixth and Reggie Jackson followed with his second single of the game before Baylor hit his drive into the left field seats off Mike Flanagan, 1-4. It was Baylor's fifth homer of the year and his third in eight days off Baltimore pitching.

Shavers batters Bugner in bout

DALLAS (AP) — Earnie Shavers made short work of England's Joe Bugner in a scheduled heavyweight 10-rounder Saturday night, scoring a second round technical knockout.

The 216-pound Shavers of Warren, Ohio opened a deep cut over the 245-pound Bugner's left eye with a sharp right after knocking him down in the first round.

Shavers upped his record to 65-10-1 with 61 KOs on his TKO at 2:14 of the second round. Bugner's record dropped to 52-9-1.

Dodgers 10, Expos 8

MONTREAL (AP) — Dusty Baker spearheaded a 15-hit Los Angeles attack with five hits and five runs batted in as the Dodgers outslugged the Montreal Expos 10-8 Saturday.

Baker stroked a pair of home runs, including a solo shot in the first inning and a three-run drive that highlighted a four-run third inning.

Pirates 4, Reds 2

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Ray and Jason Thompson delivered run-scoring singles in the 15th inning Saturday night, giving the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The Pirates were held to one scratch single for eighth innings by Bruce Berenyi, but tied the score 2-2 in the ninth on RBI singles by Bill Madlock and Thompson.

Cardinals 8, Braves 7

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lonnie Smith walked to lead off the bottom of the ninth inning, stole his second base of the game and scored on a sacrifice and error to give the St. Louis Cardinals an 8-7 victory over the Atlanta Braves Saturday night.

Smith's run pinned the defeat on Atlanta relief ace Rick Camp, 3-2. The Braves' fourth pitcher, St. Louis bullpen ace Bruce Sutter, 1-1, was the winner despite yielding an Atlanta run in the eighth.

Phillies 5, Padres 1

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mike Schmidt hit a home run, two singles, drove in three runs and stole a base as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the San Diego Padres 5-1 Saturday night for their sixth consecutive victory.

Hospital incentives reported

Three-year savings of $60,000 which the Malone-Hogan Hospital Clinic Radiology Department made from an incentive point system the department developed have been reported in the March-April issue of Radiologic Technology.

Buerk Williams, a Malone-Hogan Clinic radiologist, and P.T. Chacko, former Malone-Hogan Hospital chief radiologic technologist, co-authored the article about this first-of-its-kind system for the journal of the American Society of Radiologic Technologists.

Using a time and motion study, the department assigned points to various radiologic exams according to time required. Technologists earned points for exams performed and worked to increase their personal productivity index.

During the study, which began in 1975, Malone-Hogan's technologist productivity increased from 79 percent to 113 percent, an average savings of $20,000 per year.

Medical institutions across the nation have been emphasizing cost containment, and the savings realized by the Malone-Hogan radiology department are an important part in the local effort, according to Dr. Williams.

In addition to the savings, Williams notes positive spin-off from the system: "increased dedication on the part of technologists to work and work hard, dedication to do exams correctly the first time, and a decrease in patient waiting time," he said.

Though the study is completed, the department continues to tabulate incentive points for the eight salaried technologists who help perform 25,000 radiologic exams annually. The exams range from chest x-rays taking 10 minutes to skeletal surveys requiring two hours.

Williams reports that since the article appeared he has received many reprint requests and calls from several radiology departments interested in implementing similar incentive production systems in their own departments.

'The Wind': tales of a Texas drought

"The Wind," Dorothy Scarborough, University of Texas Press. "Never mind the weather so the wind blow." West Texans can relate well to the old Texas saying this spring of 1982 when winds have been almost constant — drying out the already-dried land. "The Wind" is a book her timid gaze fixed outside the train window. The train was scudding along through what seemed to Letty to be abandoned peach orchards. When she asked a passenger why there were no fences to the peach orchards, down came the Dallas News and Wirt Roddy moved into the seat next to galloping of the legendary black stallion which was believed to lead the pack of wild horses that roamed the plains — uncontrollable descendants of the beautiful Arabian horses brought to Texas long ago by the Spaniards.

So Letty's obsession with the wind was planted within her. When she was met at Sweetwater by a pair of cowboys, Lige Hightower and Newt Wortham, sent by her cousin Bev Mason to fetch her to her new home, the cold wind blasted them, as if foretelling her fate.

In the months ahead, Letty thought of Wirt Roddy and hoped he's come to rescue her. Life in the Mason shanty was hopeless — endless days of work and loneliness with three children and three adults in cramped quarters. Letty felt unwanted and in the way. When Lige proposed to her, she saw marriage as the only way out, and went to live in his unpainted frame house set down in a sandy waste. It was only then, when it was too late, that her hero, Wirt Roddy, came riding out of the east. Twice he visited her, making overtures and leaving for her as a wedding present a target rifle.

"The Wind" can't be classified as great writing. It is sometimes reptitious and monotonous as one tires of the endless comparisons of Texas and Virginia. But the pages glow with description and the realities of life on a barren ranch, winter blizzards, starving cattle, loneliness and poverty are believable.

It is the wind itself that is a main character in the book, since, in Letty's mind, it becomes a demon set upon her destruction. She gathers all her forces to fight this supernatural being. She stays away from windows so the wind calls to her to come out if she dares — when it roars to her — she smiles craftily to think how she is fooling the wind.

Eventually, she looks out the window. What she sees is the surprise ending of the story. The wind has won.

Book Review

about drought in Sweetwater in the years 1886-1887. It was written in 1925 by native Texan Dorothy Scarborough and republished by the University of Texas Press in 1979. Though it is fiction, it depicts the cattle country around Sweetwater, the winter blizzards, falling market prices, and the destruction of the cattle industry in a realistic manner, for the writer lived in Sweetwater through those years.

The story opens with a young girl on a westbound train in late December. Newly orphaned Letty Mason has been uprooted from her Virginia home and sent to Texas to live with her nearest relative, a rancher cousin, Bev Mason.

Letty is young, 18, pretty, frail and childlike. The "villain" enters early in the story in the person of Wirt Roddy of Fort Worth, who sits across the aisle and keeps Letty in view over the top of his Dallas News. Though Roddy, thirty, is dark and handsome, the girl is unaware of him and keeps Letty. He explained that the trees were wild mesquites. He showed her prairie dogs by the tracks, skeletons of cattle killed by trains because they ran loose on the fenceless plains. He pointed out the Texas sunset — the sun a great ball of flame on a horizon filled with clouds of orange, rose and gold.

On the journey the handsome man gave Letty his card and assured her if she ever needed him she could find him in Fort Worth. He warned that her life would be greatly changed — that she would face isolation, loneliness, hard work, dust, no neighbors, with only a few cowboys, cattle and coyotes for companionship. But the worst thing of all, he told her, was the wind. It was ceaseless and would destroy her beauty with icy blasts in the winter and burning heat in the summer. He said the sand was the weapon of the wind — it would sting her face, blind her eyes, seep into houses and make the beds and food gritty and the air stifling to breathe. He compared the wind to the

He fiddles with guitars

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Mike Henderson, 26, is a man of many talents. Despite a 75 percent vision loss, he accompanies fiddlers on the guitar in fiddling contests nationwide, helps manage and maintain two apartment complexes with his parents, and builds guitars as a hobby.

Mike's father, Leonard Henderson, played the guitar in a band when Mike was a little boy. He taught Mike the basic chords and Mike learned the rest on his own out of music books. Mike has played guitar for 16 years.

"When I lived in Houston, there was a shopping mall that fiddlers would go to every Saturday and play at a music store," Mike said. "I just happened by there one Saturday and I liked it. I kept going back and started playing with them. Then they started asking me to go with them to fiddle contests." Mike has since joined the Texas Old Time Fiddlers Association which holds contests throughout the state.

Mike attended Angelo State University, San Angelo, and University of Houston. While in college he taught guitar. He enjoys teaching others to play.

MIKE PLAYS FIDDLER MUSIC more than anything else. "That's all we play in contests. Just around the house, I'm liable to play anything." During the two months in the winter, when contests occur less frequently, he's practicing for the next year. He hasn't missed many contests since joining the fiddler's association. Mike spends much of the year traveling to and playing in contests.

The 1981 National Old Time Fiddlers Contest in Weiser, Idaho was about the most exciting contest he has played in, he says. At that contest participants from Canada, Mexico and England attended in addition to fiddlers from throughout the United States.

"I played for 48 different fiddlers including eight of the top 10 at the contest," he said. The fiddlers decide who plays with them in contests, he says. He has gotten to know most of the fiddlers around the country this way.

Awards are given not just to fiddlers, but to their accompanist as well. In the Weiser contest, competing with people all over the nation, Mike won third place as accompanist. In other contests he has been awarded "best accompanist," "first place," "most inspirational," "grand champion," and "best guitar picker." His room is filled with dozens of trophies.

Mike recently finished cutting an album of Texas style fiddling music with a fiddling friend of his in Odessa, Bart Trotter. "We recorded it in Dallas at Sumet-Burnet Sound Studios," he said. "I just got the record Friday." The album is entitled "On the Fiddle — Bart Trotter."

MIKE LEARNED TO MAKE guitars from books he has read. He's about to start working on his 10th guitar. "I've been working on them for two years," he said. "I do them in my spare time." He said when he started this hobby, he didn't quite know what he was doing. "The first one took about four or five months to make. I can do them in about a month now."

For those who have ever wondered how guitars are made, Mike can tell them how. "I have to order the materials," he said. "I can't get them here. The tops are either spruce or redwood. The back and sides are rosewood, mahogany, maple or walnut. The neck is mahogany and there is some ebony on it around the finger board and bridge.

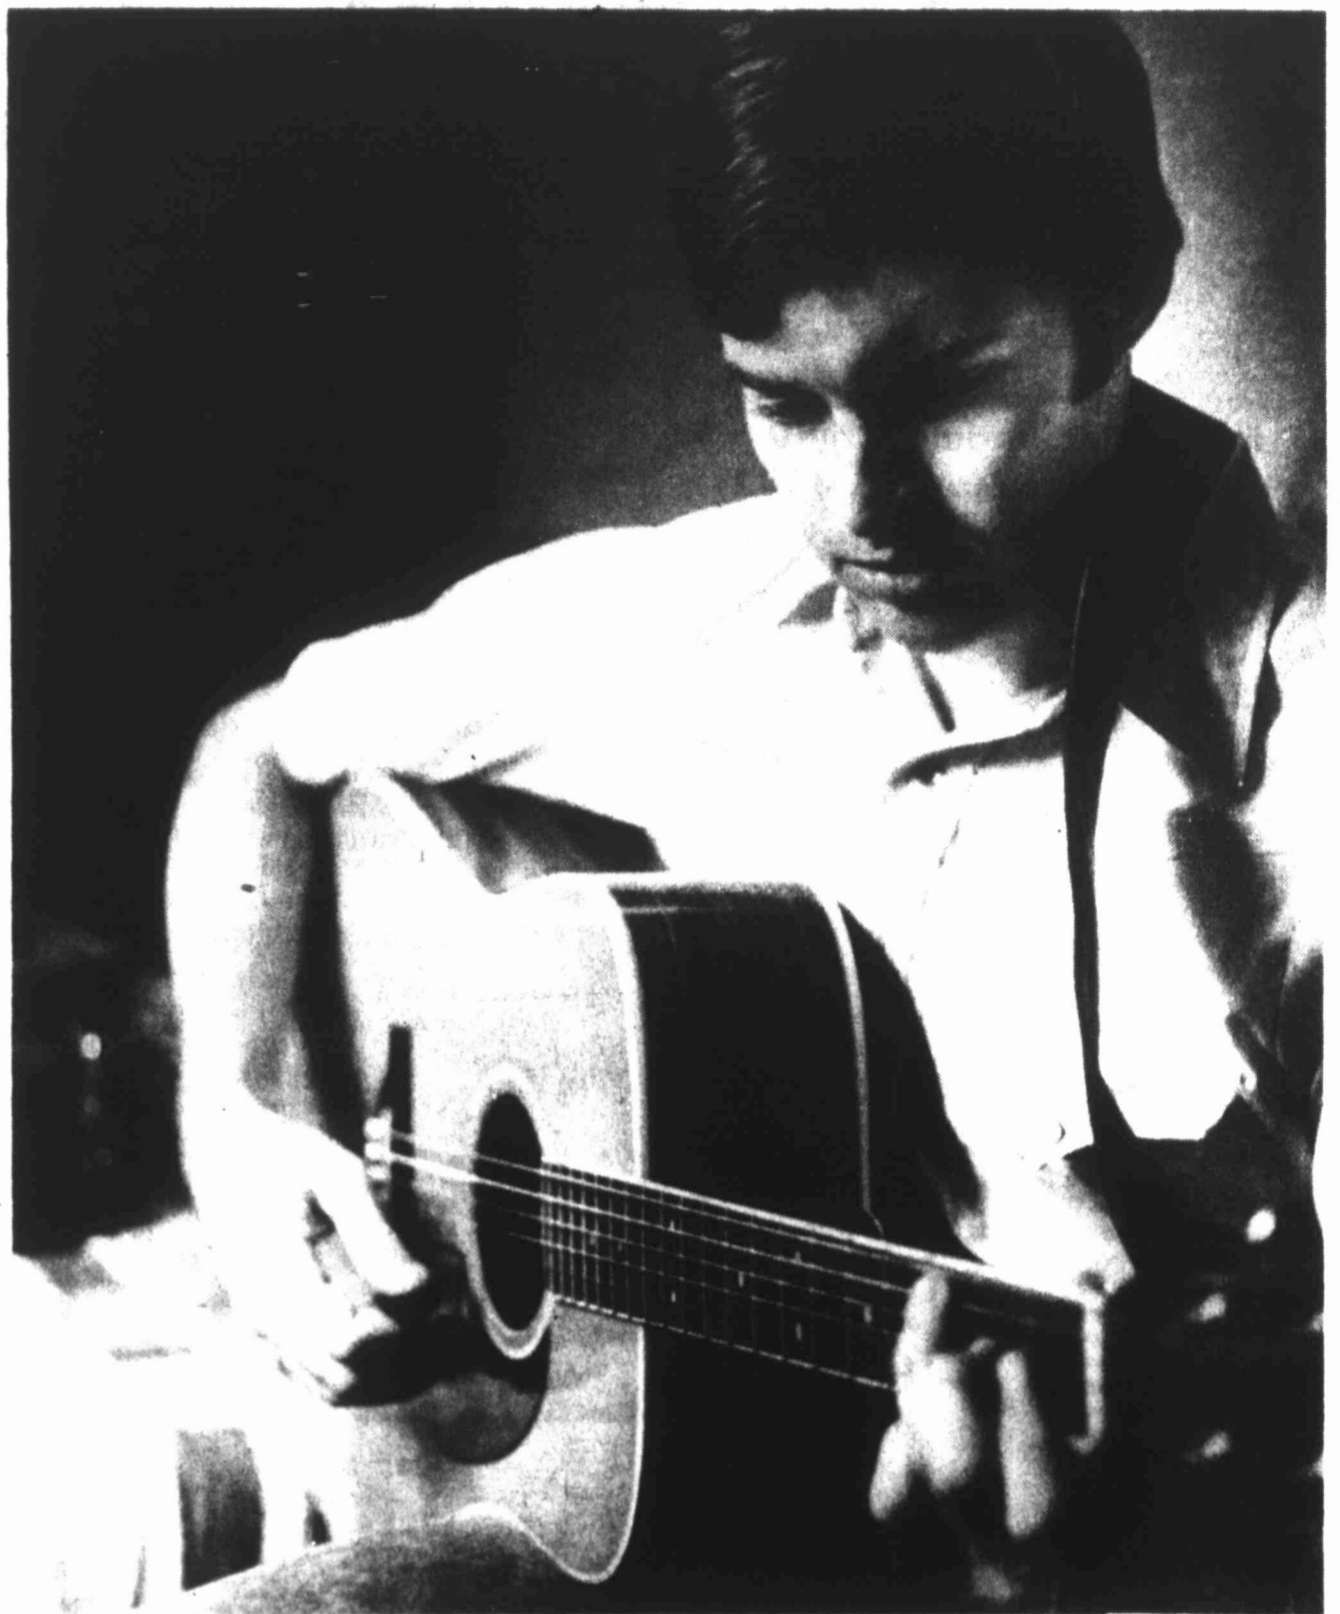

"(The wood) has to be thinned some. It comes 3-16 inch thick. The top and back come in two pieces and I put those together first, then sand it to 3-32 inch thick. Then you have to bend the sides." The wood has to be wet in order to bend, and if it is rosewood, it has to soak overnight. After the wood is wet or soaked, he puts it in a mold to shape it. Then he cuts and inlays the rosette. For the guitar he is going to start, he will use mother of pearl from abalone for the inlay. Wood or plastic also can be used.

After the inlay is finished, he cuts out the sound hole and glues on the braces. Next, he glues the top, back and sides together, cuts out the neck, finger board and the slot for the frets to go in. When that is finished, he glues the finger board on the neck. "Then I made the bridge and glue that on. It is ready to finish then and I usually use lacquer to finish it."

GUITAR MAKER — Mike Henderson makes guitars. The mold above aids in the formation of the sides of the guitars. He built 10 guitars in his spare time between fiddle contests and apartment management and maintenance.

FIDDLING THE NIGHT AWAY — Mike Henderson, above, spends many weeks of the year participating in fiddling contests, across the nation. During the winter, he practices for next year's contests. Mike has won dozens of awards for accompanying fiddlers in contests.

Once it is finished, he hammers in the frets and puts on the pick guard and tuning machines. The guitar is now a finished product and ready to be strung.

HOW DOES HE sell them? "I just advertise in the newspaper. I've only sold three. The first four I wasn't satisfied with and took them apart." He used the good parts on the next guitars he made. Mike usually sells his guitars for between $100-200 depending on his satisfaction with his workmanship. His materials run approximately $80-120.

Mike plans to spend the month of June on the road attending and participating in fiddler contests in Oklahoma, Tennessee, Utah and again in Weiser, Idaho.

He and his parents live at Quail Run Apartments, which they manage along with the Rock Terrace Apartments.

JERRE BURDEN

Two musically inclined Big Spring women, a mother and daughter, share their dedication and singing talents to help others come closer to God. The women are Mona Lue Tonn and her daughter, Jerre Burden. Both have recorded albums as a part of their many musical experiences.

"I took choir in high school and I guess I've always been able to carry a tune," Mona Lue said. She led the singing for Salem Baptist Church from the time she was 14 until she graduated from high school in 1952.

Mona Lue married Arnold Tonn two days after she graduated. In 1966, The Tonns moved their membership to Baptist Temple Church. "They asked us where we wanted to work in Sunday School," Mona Lue said. "We had been working with adults, and we told them that is where we enjoyed working." The only thing the church had available was an extension Sunday School class at United Health Care Nursing Home. It was called the Bennett House then.

The Tonns have led the class for almost 16 years now. Arnold teaches the lesson from literature provided by the church and Mona Lue leads the singing and performs a couple of special numbers.

"That is where I began singing with the tapes," she said, speaking of pre-recorded background music tapes. "I needed someone to accompany me and we heard about using the tapes." The Tonns went to Dallas and Rainbow Sound and bought 16 tapes of background music for songs she knew.

"After I learned those 16 songs (along with the tape), I began getting more and more," she said.

"I went to the Veteran's Administration hospital and did a concert out there. Chaplain Hicks asked me if I would come every Sunday night, except the first Sunday, to the VA hospital." She sings four to 10 songs to go with the films Hicks shows during the Chapel service on Sunday evenings.

"After I had been going out there for three years, some of the men began to ask me for tapes of my songs. Or they would ask me if I had a record. Some would call long distance and ask me to make tape and they would send me some money for it. It just kept on like that.

"At Rainbow Sound, they have masters where you can make albums with the tapes." She talked to a man there who told her to come and try recording two songs to get a feel for it. "My husband said, 'Why don't you and Jerre go down and do it 'cause I've told him I've always thought Jerre had so much talent and the Lord had something special for her. I couldn't do it without taking her with me.'"

The two went to Dallas to make the tape. While there, they decided to have Jerre make one too. "We had the most glorious time together," Mona Lue said. "I don't know when I've shared a more mountaintop experience than that time when she and I went down there and made a tape.

Mona Lue made her album in April, 1981. Jerre made hers in November of the same year.

"THE FIRST TIME I sang was when I was three," Jerre said. "It was at a Women's Missionary Union at the old Northside Baptist Church. Up through high school, I just mainly worked right in the choir in church.

"In 1970, I went with the Gene Williams Evangelistic Association to the Orient for six weeks. A week of that was in Vietnam when that mess was going on. We were doing 30 shows in 5 days. I was 16 then."

At 14 years of age, Jerre played the piano at Furr's Cafeteria until they had to let her go because of the child labor laws.

"I haven't always been in church work. After I got out of high school, I had to get a feel for what I wanted to do.

"I got into country-western and sang at the Lamplighter three nights a week and got around at different clubs trying to figure out what I really wanted to (do). At the time, I thought that was what looked like the best thing. Then I met Danny." Jerre is married to Danny Burden an employee of the Big Spring Fire Department.

Danny and Jerre were married in 1974. In 1975, her first child was born and she said she received the Holy Ghost. "I think that was the turning point in my music. From then on, that is when I felt like my life changed directions.

"I've always wanted a future in music, but for me until the Lord took over like He did, I didn't have a future."

"When you are singing for God, there is direction," Danny said. "God gives us our direction."

"And singing for God is my foundation," Jerre said.

THE MUSIC MONA LUE selects is geared to her audience.

"I get songs that will help men at the VA and the nursing inn ... There are alcoholics and sick people that need spiritual strength to get through their illnesses. I try to find songs that strengthen them and make them feel good ... something not too heavy. But I always have two or three songs that are soul searching. My closing song is 'One Day At A Time.' It is the theme for alcoholics.

"My ideas come to me through prayer, scripture and sermons," Jerre said. "Phrases that seem to stick." In March 1981, she started writing music. "My mind would go 90 miles an hour ... every phrase I hear is a potential song."

"The Lord deals simply. Songs are the words that describe how I felt at that time. Songs have become an outlet to me. It is a release to write them and put my feelings down. I write the words and music at the same time.

"In the recording, we used 22 tracks. Dan Smith was the producer in Fort Worth. He helped me. We got with him the day before (recording the album) He picked out the songs he thought were good recording material.

"I told him what I wanted and he made some suggestions.

"He took the songs home with him and the next day he told me what he thought." While recording the album, they added additional instruments and "stacked the vocals so that the three background voices sounded like a choir backing her up.

NERVOUSNESS WHEN singing is still a problem with Jerre but not so much for Mona Lue. They have a solution for nervousness.

"Your nervousness will go away if you give it to the Lord," Mona Lue said. "When you sing and the Lord is glorified, that is when you are blessed even more and drawn closer to the Lord. Your songs have meaning."

Mona Lue and Jerre have no plans to sing together in the future. Jerre spends most of her time caring for her family and is involved in church work. That is her priority.

"What I'm interested in," Mona Lue said, "is doing concerts for revivals, banquets or clubs. I feel like I have messages in songs that can help people ... help them to be stronger in their faith. That is what my desire is ... to draw people closer to the Lord and their faith."

NURSE'S DAY — May 6 was designated by Congress as National Recognition Day for Nurses. A proclamation to this effect was signed by President Reagan. The day to honor nurses was celebrated at the Veteran's Administration Medical Center by a reception for the nursing staff. Linda Ainsworth, right, is shown assisting Annette Miller during the reception. Co-Chairing the event were Mrs. Bea Price, R.N., Psychiatric Nursing coordinator and Mrs. Ainsworth, R.N., Intensive Care Unit staff nurse.

Congress of Parents and Teachers meets

Nelda Reagan of Big Spring was elected vice president for the 1982-84 term during the District 17 Spring Conference of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers held in Midland April 21. Conference workshops held encompassed such topics as "PTA Leadership," "Parent and Family Life Education," "Home School Communication," "Assertive Discipline," and "Television and Its Impact on Our Children."

Jennifer May, 2nd grader at Washington Elementary, Melanie Martin, 3rd grader at College Heights Elementary, Leigh Ann Wallace, 5th grader at Marcy Elementary, and Austin Biel, 5th grader at Moss Elementary, were guests at the afternoon session.

The students are winners of the Cultural Arts Contests.

Miss May won 2nd place in primary art. Miss Martin won 3rd place in primary literature and Miss Wallace won 3rd place in intermediate literature. Biel won 1st place in Intermediate Music.

The PTA believes arts are essential to a basic education. Mary Ann Leveridge, national president, said "Arts help children discover their own worth and identity. They provide an outlet for creative expression. They teach self-discipline. From art, children learn to recognize harmony, proportion, balance, and rhythm. They also learn to recognize beauty and to increase their sensory awareness." The Congress is proud of their National Cultural Arts Program and the children who participated in it this year.

Bride-elect is honored with a gift tea

Beanna Sundy, Rotan, bride-elect of Phil Springer, Rotan, was honored with a gift tea in the home of Mrs. Dwight Nowlin, Rotan, May 1. The honoree is formerly of Big Spring.

The reception table was covered in a beige lace cloth and centered with a floral arrangement in the bride-elect's chosen colors of beige, apricot, and brown.

Honored guests present were the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. Susie Sundy and Mrs. Clara Jackson of Big Spring, and the groom's grandmother, Mrs. R.L. Springer, Rotan. Also present was Mrs. J.C. Madry, great aunt of the honoree.

Apricot carnation corsages were presented to the bride-elect and to the mothers of the couple.

The hostesses presented the honoree with an upright vacuum cleaner.

The couple will be united in marriage May 8 in First Methodist Church, Rotan.

Dear Abby

Daughter's gift is breath of fresh air

DEAR ABBY: One week ago today I gave up cigarettes for good. It's got to be the hardest thing I have ever done, but I've got it licked this time. Why? Because my mother and I quit together. This is my chance to do something very important for someone I love very much, and know if I stick to it, so will she. We have both tried to quit before, but failed. This time it is working because even though I am not as hooked as my mother, I'm quitting more for her sake than my own. What better gift could we give each other? Happy Mother's Day!

L. GAYLE SMARRITO, CHERRY HILLS, N.J.
DEAR L. GAYLE: Beautiful! Please send a progress report in September, and if you're still "clean," have I got a present for you?

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will use my letter on Mother's Day as a tribute to all those brave, unselfish mothers who gave up their babies. I am a new mother whose heart is overflowing with gratitude to a 15-year-old girl I have never seen. I understand that she is a beautiful, intelligent person who became pregnant accidentally and decided on her own that her baby should have a better life than she was able to provide, so she put up the baby for adoption. As soon as our son is able to understand, I shall tell him about his "real" mother and what a courageous person she is. In the meantime, I pray daily for her well-being and good fortune. Sign me...

BLESSED

DEAR BLESSED: Thank you for an appropriate letter for Mother's Day. I agree that giving up a child for its own good is the ultimate in unselfishness. God bless those mothers who did.

NANCY

Wedding

MRS. KEVIN LEE CARLSON
...formerly Judith Fay Cox

Cox-Carlson

Judith Fay Cox, Coahoma, became the bride of Kevin Lee Carlson in a Saturday morning ceremony held in the Patio Room of the Holiday Inn. Justice of the Peace Bob West officiated the 10 a.m. rite before an archway accented with carnations in shades of blue and snow drop flowers. A unity candle held by a similar floral arrangement completed the setting.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. E.H. Cox, Coahoma. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Carlson, Slater, Iowa.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length organza gown with white silk Venise lace and seed pearls accenting the scooped neckline of lace and organza. A skirt of lace ruffles fell into a chapel-length train.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of light blue and grey blue carnations, navy roses, light grey tiger lilies, tied with light blue and navy blue ribbons tied in love knots and white lady lace.

Cathy Brown served the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Janie Wallace, Odessa and Tracy Dykes. Sherri Cox, Coahoma, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Melani Cox, Mt. Vernon, niece of the bride was flower girl.

Vernon Huser, Huxley, Iowa, was best man. Groomsmen were Rick Tomlinson and Jerry Roeber, and Byron Cox, nephew of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted with a reception held in the Patio Room. The bride's table featured a two-tiered wedding cake assembled with angel columns decorated with light blue, grey blue and navy tiny drop flowers.

The bride is a graduate of Coahoma High School and attended Howard College.

The bridegroom graduated from Ballard High School, Slater, Iowa and is employed by Oilfield Industrial Lines.

Following a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the couple will make their home in Big Spring.

Focus on family living Understand aging parents

As medical science extends life expectancy, more and more adults who are still learning their own children experience the increased responsibility for their parents.

A new program, "As Parents Grow Older" is being designed to answer questions about problems of aging; help adults improve communication with their parents; and to shed light on resources to assist them.

Adults from their 20's to their 70's often are involved to some degree in caring for parents or grandparents. Adult children may need help to deal with their feelings. They may suffer anxiety when they see their parent's frailty and they don't want to look at that. An adult child may have guilt in just feeling all that frustration, anger and rage. He may need to realize that these feelings aren't abnormal, and that they don't have to be hidden.

When you have a better understanding of the aging process, it frees you to deal with your parents in loving ways, which is what you really want.

Most older parents want to live alone, independently. The adult children may think the only solution is to have the parents come to live with them or in a nursing home. With more information, they may find other solutions.

One purpose of the "As Parents Grow Older" program is to help adult children reach the point where they can let go enough to let the parents manage on their own.

The new program will be offered during the summer months. Additional information will appear as soon as program arrangements are made.

Dr. Donohue

Weight training, running go together

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: In training for baseball, every other day we use the weight room. We use the weights to develop our arm and leg muscles. Then we have to run, right after the weight sessions. Does the weight training and the running idea seem OK? Does one negate the other? — M.A.

Nothing wrong with it at all. In fact, weight training and running will complement each other nicely in producing the desired result — giving you strength and power. Both will protect you against joint injuries by strengthening your muscles. The running will give you endurance, useful, certainly, in running out an inside-the-park homerun or engaging in long rundowns.

I generally make the point that when you run you're training your heart and lungs. That refers to the aerobics part of it. But you are doing much more than that. You are actually increasing the energy factories in the muscle cells. They are called the mitochondria. When you exercise the muscles, you cause new, tiny blood vessels to grow into them. They get more blood supply and are better nourished. They won't tire so easily.

Doing the weightlifting and running back-to-back is perfectly all right. They are not negating each other. If you are getting soreness from this, you should back off a little. Soreness means inflammation. Inflamed muscles should not be exercised.

In response to reader requests, Dr. Donohue's publisher now has a complete listing of all the booklets on various medical problems. Readers wishing this list can write him care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope for return mailing.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Tarzan couple celebrates fourteenth anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Guadalupe G. Morales, Tarzan, were honored on their fortieth wedding anniversary with a family dinner at Alberto's Cafe Thursday evening. Their sons hosted the anniversary party.

Morales, originally from Robstown, and Mrs. Morales, the former Otila Alvarez of Raymondville, met as children when they were neighbors in Raymondville. They were married in Raymondville May 19, 1942. The Rev. Tjerina, pastor of First Baptist Church, Raymondville, officiated the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Morales have five children: Guadalupe Morales Jr., Samuel Morales, Joel Morales, and Robert Morales, all of Tarzan, and Esther Rivas, Lubbock. The couple also have 14 grandchildren.

Nurse wins double honor

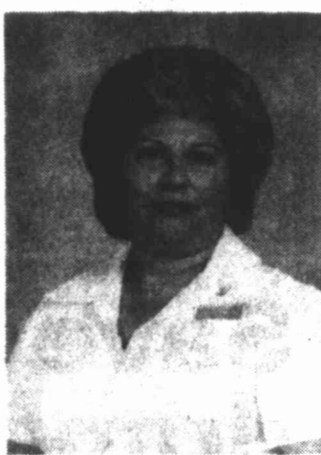

Mary Garcia, nurse aide at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital, is a firm believer in doing things in a big way. She not only won the award as the Hospital Nurse of the Month for May, but also had the honor of being the first nurse aide to achieve that distinction.

She did not know she was eligible for the award since she is a nurse aide and not a nurse. In complementing Ms. Garcia, Charles A. Wegg, hospital administrator, said, "It is not the title one has after his or her name that provides dedicated care to those entrusted to the nurse. Rather, the care comes from the person in the uniform and by being selected for this award you can be sure that your dedication and care is genuine."

Ms. Garcia, originally from Three Rivers, often thought she would become a nurse someday. She moved to Big Spring in 1965 and got her first real taste of nursing at the Big Spring Nursing Inn. She was employed there for seven years.

Ms. Garcia finds the nursing profession very rewarding and hopes to become a Licensed Vocational Nurse in the near future. She has been employed on the nursing staff of Hall-Bennett Hospital since August of 1980.

Pattern Terminology
Here at the ACCENT SHOPPE, we know that when you shop for sterling silver and silver-plate, you hear many technical terms. For instance, an obsolete pattern is one for which the molds have been destroyed and will never be recreated. An antique pattern is an obsolete pattern which the manufacturer began to produce before 1881. A very few of these are still in production today. And finally, old/new refers to the reintroduction of a pattern name — which means two distinct and different patterns may now have the same name (preceded, of course, by "old" and "new.") Now don't you feel like a smart shopper?
