Bad weather delays new pay-TV premieres

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Bad weather and equipment hold-ups have delayed the premiere of three new pay-TV cable channels, says Big Spring Cable TV Vice President Jim Lancaster, but they are coming "probably in March or April."

Lancaster said the cable rebuilding project has been completed in Big Spring. However, a great deal of cable needs replacement between the city and Coahoma.

"We are very close, but we are simply not ready yet," Lancaster said.

The prime factor holding up the process had been the bad weather hampering the contractors, he added.

A second problem that may develop is absence of converter boxes for the new channels, Lancaster said. He said the factory had just told him that the 600 units were "being held captive at the border of Mexico."

Lancaster said delivery of the converters is now questionable.

The new pay-TV channels will "more than likely" be the Movie Channel, MTV and Nickelodeon, Lancaster said. He said these channels were still subject to approval by the parent company.

The new channels will be offered in three "tiers" along with the current Showtime service, Lancaster said. For example, a person could purchase the Movie Channel and receive MTV and Nickelodeon free. Showtime could also be purchased and the two received free.

Lancaster said the two movie services could also be purchased together at what would probably be a reduced price.

The decision to choose the three services was based on past knowledge of the pay-TV channels by the parent company, Lancaster said.

"We have some experience in other systems that ... pioneered this in similar towns to Big Spring," Lancaster said.

While Lancaster said the local company did not conduct any market surveys in Big Spring, he said the office had received considerable input from young people for MTV. MTV is a 24-hour rock music service that features video tapings of various rock and New Wave performers.

Additionally, M-TV will be broadcast only in TV mono sound here without the FM stereo simulcast used by many cable services. Lancaster said the stereo service would be considered if MTV proved to be popular.

The movie services — Showtime and the Movie Channel — would not likely change in the future because market research shows they will remain popular, Lancaster said. However, the company is "saving a space for possibly a Disney channel," Lancaster said.

A pay-TV service featuring Disney movies is in the planning stages, Lancaster said, and is being considered for transmission here if it is inaugurated. Nashville promoters are reportedly working on a country-and-western channel as well, Lancaster said. This service also will be considered here, he said.

Hotel Settles to be restored?

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

After spending $60,000 on soil analysis, engineers' reports and architects drawings since last March, Dallas entrepreneur Robert Kendall says the Hotel Settles can be restored to its original glory and that he's the man to do it.

The 15-story hotel's fate has been in question since it was vacated three years ago. Since the days of being the area's social and business center, the city's most prominent building has been stripped and has fallen into disrepair.

Kendall, who has supervised restoration at the popular La Borde House in Rio Grande City and the Driskill Hotel in Austin, says with $4½ million and his expertise the Settles can reign over the city once more.

Kendall envisions the first two floors restored to their original condition. He would refurbish the lobby, shops, ballroom, banquet and meeting rooms so that those who had visited the hotel in 1930 would not see a change, he said.

About 90 rooms would be remodeled into modern hotel rooms and the rest into apartments or condominiums, he said. Kendall said a swimming pool and gardens would be added.

However, Kendall said Dallas investors are not interested in backing such a project in West Texas.

"My biggest problem is investors here are skitty about West Texas and the oil patch," Kendall said. "I'm having trouble mustering interest. The oil thing is so negative, no matter what's really going on out there."

But his enthusiasm has not been dampened, he says. Kendall said if investors funded the project, the hotel would create its own market, with people traveling to Big Spring just to stay in it. It could become a See Settles, page 2-A

HOPE FOR THE HOTEL — Dallas entrepreneur Robert Kendall says $4½ million and his expertise can restore the Settles Hotel to its original 1930s condition. The problem is finding investors interested in the project, he says.

Face-off with a tank

Marine keeps Israelis from crossing checkpoint

By NICOLAS B. TATRO
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon — U.S. Marine Capt. Charles B. Johnson said today he told an Israeli commander, "You're going to have to kill me" to stop the Israeli from trying to move three tanks farther into an area under American control.

The 30-year-old leatherneck told reporters that he pulled his .45-caliber pistol, jumped onto the officer's tank and grabbed him to halt the tanks' drive on Wednesday.

The armored vehicles had crashed through a white fence and barbed wire only a quarter mile from Johnson's Marine company headquarters near Beirut International Airport, the captain said.

It was the most serious of a half-dozen recent incidents between the Israelis and the American peacekeeping forces.

Israeli officials disputed previous U.S. accounts of the incident, which are substantially similar to Johnson's. There was no immediate comment on Johnson's comments today.

In other Middle East developments today, Israeli and Lebanese negotiators resumed their talks aimed at getting all foreign troops out of Lebanon.

In Beirut, a bomb shattered the currently unused offices of Syria's official news agency SANA. The offices have not been used since last summer.

The force of the blast hurled a 65-year-old woman out of her bed onto the floor in the apartment directly under the SANA office. Doctors suspect she has a broken rib, the woman's daughter told reporters.

CAPT. CHARLES B. JOHNSON ...stopped tank

Police said there were no other casualties from the bombing. There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the attack.

In Damascus, the government-controlled Syrian news media claimed Israel was moving reinforcements of troops and armor into eastern Lebanon to attack Syria.

Johnson, a native of Neenah, Wis., said he told the Israeli lieutenant colonel "he was in Marine lines and he could not come across Marine lines."

After a five-minute standoff, Johnson told reporters, the Israeli "started to get up on his tank and I said you're not coming through. You're going to have to kill me."

The Israeli officer then started to rev his engines. Johnson recounted, "I pulled my pistol out, locked and loaded it and carried it at the ready and said again to him, you can't come through."

Johnson said the first Israeli tank peeled off and he followed it on foot for a short distance. Then two other Israeli tanks that had been circling behind the lead tank made a dash up the road in the direction of the Marine company position and the joint checkpoint.

"I just ran up onto his tank and grabbed him and said stop those something tanks," said Johnson. "He didn't say anything, he just stopped them."

The standoff ended shortly after that, he said.

When asked about U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger's statement in Washington that he had recommended him for a commendation, Johnson replied: "I think it's lot of fuss over not that much big of a deal."

Israeli army commanders relayed a request through Lebanese liaison officers to have a meeting to discuss the incident.

"There has been a request to clarify some issues and find out what turf who was in and coordinate a little bit better that position, which is fuzzy at best," Col. See Mideast, page 2-A

Police Beat

Woman struck by truck

A Chevrolet pickup driven by Billy W. Jennings of 1309 Stanford struck a 29-year-old woman as she walked across Fourth Street this morning.

Maj. Britt Burks Barton of 4000 Parkway was treated for bruises and abrasions and released from Malone Hogan Hospital, an emergency room nurse said.

Police reports say Ms. Barton apparently didn't see the pickup as it turned from Main onto Fourth. The pickup had a green light when she crossed Fourth, police reports said.

The pickup skidded about seven feet and Ms. Barton bounced off the front bumper and hood, police said. Police reports also showed the following:

• A 22-year-old man was the victim of terroristic threats yesterday, police say.

Troy James of 3905 Hamilton told police a white male in a blue car parked in his driveway about 5:50 p.m. knocked on the door and threatened James with a knife.

James says he closed the door on the man, but the assailant then got out a "big gun" or "sawed off shotgun," fired a shot into the ground and left.

• Police say the arrested two men last night on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. Those arrested were Freddie Puga, 39, of 501 E. 18th and Alan Wayne Murphy, 30, of 1206 Ridgeway.

• Napoleon Ansley, 43, of Lubbock was arrested yesterday after a 7-Eleven clerk claimed Ansley tried to pay for $24.86 worth of gas with a worthless check.

Late tax notices

Have been mailed

Taxpayers should contact the Howard County tax collector's office if they have not received their tax notices yet, says County Tax Assessor-Collector Dorothy Moore.

Mrs. Moore said tax notices were mailed late this year due to the extensive appraisal protest process. Taxes are not due until the last of February when they become delinquent, she added.

Persons who had advance tax payments should receive their notices of additional taxes or refunds within a week, Mrs. Moore said.

Automobile registrations for January and February can be paid at the automobile division of the tax collector's office, Mrs. Moore said. Both offices are located on the first floor of the Howard County courthouse.

AUCTION BLOCK ENTERTAINMENT — Auctioneer Raymond Shadden asks for bids on merchandise at a Saturday night auction in Fred. The crowd gathers on Saturday nights, not only to buy and sell, but for the entertainment as well.

Going, going...gone

Auction in Fred makes bid for fame

By SHARON McRAE
Beaumont Enterprise & Journal

FRED, Texas — It has all the characteristics of a good Saturday night out on the town. The entertainment is cheap, and the place is always packed with familiar faces.

Pickup trucks line the highway in front of one of the few structures in Fred proper. Inside the converted grocery store, numbers are assigned to the pairs of eyes scrutinizing the trinkets of bargain — if not pristine — quality collected on the tables.

Children mill around munching potato chips. Crowd talk is of recent family surgeries and the state of the economy — only one of the factors that draws bargain seekers here.

The chatter dies away, and the spectators straighten in their seats as a hefty, coveralled figure steps behind the podium and takes microphone in hand.

A guttural cacophony rises from his throat. The utterance continues for a few seconds, and the crowd understands that the item just thrown on the auction block has failed to receive a bid.

"It belonged to my first wife," yells the owner of the makeup mirror.

Still the mirror draws no bid. "Take it back to your first wife," advises the auctioneer.

The Fred Auction House has attracted a sizeable crowd this night. A few come to sell from their caches of junk, most buy something and all come to be entertained.

"We had never heard of this town before we started coming here. Now we've made so many friends," says Mrs. Jack Flinn. She and her husband say they drive over from Houston every week. Some of their purchases are kept, some sold.

"Raymond bought several thousand dollars worth of toys the other night," says Flinn, pointing to the trinkets the auctioneer just dumped on the front table.

Col. Raymond Shadden was a route salesman for a potato chip company before he opened an auction house in Jasper 15 years ago. He and fellow auctioneer Carl Morris operate a corner of the Southeast Texas auction circuit.

Shadden helps Morris operate the Fred auction on Saturday nights and also one in Cleveland on Thursday nights. Morris, in turn, assists Shadden at his Jasper auction on Friday nights.

Shadden bought the toys now on the block the night before from a $10,000 lot owned by another dealer. He plans to sell more at still another auction, in Sour Lake the next afternoon.

"Some people don't do any Christmas shopping but at auctions," he says.

Shadden graduated from an auctioneer school in Fort Smith, Ark., 12 years ago.

"I took up auctioneering as a sideline, and it brought in more income than my regular business," he says. "An auctioneer I hired didn't show up one night. After I got up there and made a fool of myself, I decided if I was going to auction, I wanted to do it right."

The title, he says, is a tradition held over from the days when the Army held auctions over which only an officer who held the rank of colonel or higher could preside. "I don't know if it's true, but it makes a good story," he says.

"We call this a consignment auction. Actually, it's just junk people leave with us to sell," he says with a shrug. "You make your money on liquidation sales — grocery stores going out of business, people selling off their households. This is for fun. I like people. You can't do this unless you like people."

One night, Shadden wears a black derby that changes positions just about with every bid. Other nights he wears a baseball cap, sometimes cocked sideways, sometimes backwards, but always awry.

He looks into the audience with an anxious countenance as he sells off his own various sundries — a Christmas tree stand without screws, a perfumed pen-and-pencil set, a knife bearing a Ku Klux Klan message ("You don't have to join to use it").

At the microphone again, Shadden asks for bids on a consigned set of six shot glasses.

"You don't need more than one of those," he reasons and changes the description of the items to "toothpick holders."

Two long-blade knives come next. "Three of a kind beats a full house if you got one of those," he quips.

The owner of the unsold makeup mirror runs through his lot and begins to assemble the odds and ends rejected by the audience — the mirror, a broken space heater, a pair of ceramic elephants, a squeegie, a doll monkey playing drums, several boxes of bubble gum and a hub cap.

The collection fails to draw an acceptable bid, and the seller throws in a dozen kitchen knives. "His alimony must be due," Shadden kids.

After a stack of recipe cards and several furniture dollies are added, the pile goes for $35.

The crowd begins to thin after four hours. The night probably hasn't been as profitable as most. "Not much money spent tonight," says Flinn.

But the crowd doesn't mind. They didn't come only to spend their money on other people's castoffs. They came to fraternize at Fred's pseudo-social club.

Maimed crane takes steps

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A sandhill crane named Bonaparte that lost both its legs has taken some sprightly steps in new shoes — gray suction cups fashioned from plumbers' equipment.

"He is just doing fantastic," said the bird's caretaker, Debbie McReless. "He even drank and ate with those plungers."

"None of this would be possible if it weren't for the attitude of the bird," she said Wednesday. "He wants to live and he wants to walk."

Bonaparte was fitted with artificial limbs last week in Sherman, but could not stand up on them.

John Karger, director of the non-profit Last Chance Forever Inc. in San Antonio, brought the suction cup "shoes" here, fitted the crane Wednesday and said he would return later this month with more permanent walking implements.

"There will be a long period of physical therapy, but at least we know at the end of it we have a bird who can walk. He has a long way to go before he can do anything as far as breeding or anything," Karger said.

"Right now we're looking at a bird that's going to be much better than it is walking around on its stumps," he said.

She said Karger intended to use the artificial limbs constructed by Steven Prock of Sherman to fashion legs for the bird.

Thomas Stokes, commander of the 1,200 U.S. Marine peacekeepers, said.

Asked if Johnson was right to act on his own, Stokes told reporters: "He's in command up there and he's the man making those decisions. I personally am not going to Monday morning quarterback him but he sure as hell did the right thing in my opinion."

Johnson's father, Dan, said from the family's home: "He is the kind of guy you would want in the Marines. He's no quitter."

Johnson also was involved in a previous standoff with Israeli jeeps that tried to pass through Marine lines near his company on Jan. 17.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Alan Romberg said of the Beirut standoff: "The recurrence of challenges to the Marines by Israeli Defense Forces is unacceptable."

"We do not know why the tanks attempted to cross our lines but the incident was resolved, and the tanks withdrew at the insistence of the Marine officer on the scene," Romberg said.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli military command said the area involved

He managed and supervised the project in the unincorporated border town for owner Larry Sheehin. He filled 11 bedrooms with antiques from as far away as San Francisco and New Orleans. Several of the remaining rooms are efficiency apartments.

Kendall cited his experience with Rio Grande City as an example. He fashioned the La Borde House Hotel for $1 million from a Frenchman's 19th century home.

Clements gave him an award for bringing tourism to the area.

Kendall says the same thing can happen in Big Spring.

"It's a neat building, an intriguing building," he said. "And Big Spring is a nice-sized town."

"The Settles is rich in history," he added. "Restoring it would not only be fun, but rewarding and satisfying. Put in enough theater with nostalgia mixed in and people can't resist."

Man kills 3 in restaurant shooting spree

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — Patrons in a crowded restaurant hid under tables as a man with a .12-gauge shotgun opened fire on his ex-wife and her boyfriend, killing three people and wounding another before turning the gun on himself, police said.

The gunman, identified only as a 38-year-old contractor, was in stable condition when admitted to Peterson Memorial Hospital, nursing supervisor Carolyn Wenzel said.

The man underwent emergency surgery late Wednesday to remove shotgun pellets from his abdomen, according to Peace Justice Betty Burney of Center Point.

"It was a family squabble with his ex-wife," she said. "We don't know if they had any recent arguments."

No charges had been filed against the man, she said. Acapulco Restaurant manager Joe Hernandez described the scene in his 178-seat establishment as "bedlam."

"This fellow came in looking for his ex-wife and he saw her with a boyfriend and (the boyfriend's) father and two children. They were sitting eating. Then he went back to his vehicle, got his shotgun and came back in and shot (them)," Hernandez said.

Last storm cost city

$17,600 to fix breaks

Big Spring's last snow and ice storm came with a hefty repair bill — about $17,600 to fix a half dozen waterline breaks, says Public Works Director Tom Decell.

Decell said that movement of the ground as it froze caused waterlines to break in several areas of town last month. City workers have repaired them all, he said.

The number of breaks this year is not unusually large, he said, although it inconvenienced some residents whose water supply was cut off up to eight hours at a time.

Winter storm possible tonight

By The Associated Press
Most of the Texas Panhandle remained in the chilling grip of ice and snow today as forecasters warned of the possibility of another winter storm reaching the area tonight.

A winter storm watch was posted for the area tonight, raising fears that the snow and ice from a storm earlier this week would not melt in time.

All major highways in the Panhandle were open today, but the Department of Public Safety said many were barely passable. Many secondary roads remained closed.

A sunny day Wednesday diminished 10-foot snowdrifts by half, but many schools and businesses remained closed.

"Most people can't leave their houses without some kind of help," said Randall County sheriff's dispatcher Randy Rogers.

Some businesses, such as grocery stores, reopened Wednesday and customers stood in line to stock up on items before the next storm system arrives.

The 14.5 inches of snow that fell on Amarillo in January was the third greatest amount since the National Weather Service began keeping records in 1892. In 1932, 15.9 inches fell in January and in 1895, 18 inches fell.

Temperatures before dawn were well below freezing over the northwestern portion of Texas. Amarillo reported a frigid 10-degree low. Readings in the 30s and 40s were the rule over the rest of the state.

Fair skies were the reported across the state, with only a few high clouds noted in the South Plains and South Texas. Winds were under 10 mph over most of the state.

Florida, meantime, was recovering from a series of tornadoes that knocked out power to thousands and left three people dead. The state was hit by 26 tornadoes Tuesday and Wednesday that overturned cars and mobile homes before heading out to sea.

Snow was expected to spread from Michigan and Wisconsin into northern Illinois today, with another 6 to 15 inches of accumulation predicted in parts of Michigan, Minnesota and Iowa.

Truck strike hitting economy

Working drivers demand federal protection from snipers

By JOHN DANISZEWSKI
Associated Press Writer

A Milwaukee brewery cut back operations and California growers warned that Valentine Day roses might wither because of the nationwide strike by independent truckers, whose working counterparts demanded federal protection from snipers, arsonists and vandals.

Officials reported more than 300 trucks have been damaged, one driver slain and 27 people injured in violence stemming from the shutdown, which was called by the Independent Truckers Association on Monday to protest higher fuel taxes and fees.

Food shipments to some Eastern cities were curtailed Wednesday, and some produce prices rose.

BENNETT WHITLOCK, president of American Trucking Associations, sent a letter to Attorney General William French Smith, demanding the Justice Department and the FBI play a greater role in fighting the widespread bloodshed and intimidation.

"There's an absolute need for strong federal leadership. Federal law enforcement officials must make their intentions known and their presence felt," he said.

U.S. attorneys across the country have been told "to be on the alert" for any violations of federal law, said Justice Department spokesman John Russell, who said he was not aware of Whitlock's letter.

Meanwhile, Florida offered Highway Patrol protection to truckers if more requests are received and if truckers can organize convoys of 15 to 25 trucks. And Alabama said Wednesday it would use state liquor agents, revenue agents and game wardens to help state troopers patrol the highways during the strike.

"It looks like war out there," said Chief Deputy Edmore Rush in Colleton County, S.C., who urged sheriff's departments in surrounding counties to step up patrols of major truck routes. "We don't want this to be a bloodbath."

MIKE PARKHURST, head of the ITA, called the strike to protest scheduled increases in fuel taxes in April and highway use fees in 1985. The association claims to represent 30,000 of the 100,000 truckers who own and operate their own rigs — a claim that is disputed by other trucking groups.

While the independents make up about a fifth of the nation's truckers, they haul about 90 percent of its fresh food and much of the steel.

Drivers who idled their trucks, either out of sympathy with the strike or from fears for their safety, caused anxiety for produce growers.

California flower growers desperate to reach East Coast markets in time for Valentine's Day scrambled Wednesday to find trucks, and some shipments were being sent on more costly railroads and planes.

IF THE FLOWERS don't reach their destinations on time "we would have to absorb the total loss. Just like other perishable agricultural crops, our product has a limited life," said David Ninomiya, a rose grower from Richmond, Calif.

The availability of trucks at Florida vegetable packing houses was off 80 percent, with packers "concerned" about being able to make their shipments, said Steve Hull, a spokesman for Gov. Bob Graham.

"Many truckers are now into a daylight-only schedule," said Terry Rodes, president of the New England Produce Center.

In Tennessee, truck traffic on five major interstate highways rose 46 percent Wednesday, and state police Sgt. Dale Page said he thought truckers were "running a little more legal and are trying to stick to the primary routes for safety."

Some Pabst Brewing Co. workers in Milwaukee were told to stay home today because a shortage of trucks had caused a lag in the company's beer shipments.

OFFICIALS AT the giant Hunts Point Terminal Market in New York City said shipments of produce slowed to a trickle after remaining near-normal during the first two days of the strike.

Mike Pfluger of the U.S. Department of Agriculture station at the market said wholesale prices had already jumped as much as 30 percent.

Pfluger said supplies of beans, cauliflower, celery, eggplant, green peppers and tomatoes have dropped. He noted that 70 percent to 75 percent of the area's fruit and produce arrives by truck.

There were numerous new reports of illegal efforts to shut down truck traffic across the country.

At the trucking hub of Breezewood, Pa., power went out for 1 1/2 hours Wednesday and nails were dumped on ramps to the Pennsylvania Turnpike. An anonymous caller told The Associated Press that "unhappy local truckers" were responsible for the problems, but West Penn Power Co. spokesman Bob Van Atta said the outage probably was caused by a storm.

'Emergency' mental health discussion to wait

By JAY ROSSER

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Minutes after Gov. Mark White declared correcting Texas' flawed mental health commitment procedures a state emergency, the Texas House of Representatives adjourned until Monday.

"I guess they just didn't want things to move too fast," said state Rep. Bob Bush, D-Sherman, one of three House members who has signed on to sponsor the legislation. Bush had expected a committee hearing on the proposal Wednesday, but now predicts Tuesday action by the House Judiciary Committee that he chairs.

The Texas Senate last week gave unanimous approval to the bill, sponsored by Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, designed to let judges continue to lock up dangerous mental patients on an emergency basis.

The legislation is in response to a federal judge's declaration that portions of the state's Mental Health Code are unconstitutional because they allowed mental patients to be held for up to 14 days without a hearing.

The ruling, by U.S. District Judge George Kazen, was to go into effect a week ago and could have prompted the release of hundreds of mental patients who were detained without prompt committal hearings.

But, at the urging of Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox, Kazen stayed his order for 30 days to give the Legislature time to address the problem.

"There's no hurry on this," said House Pro Tem Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi. "We've got some time now, and we want to make sure we do everything right."

Under the bill passed by the Senate and now in the House, a potential patient and his attorney would have to be formally notified of the protective custody proceedings.

Before the person could be detained, a physician would have to certify the person was ill and presented a threat to himself or others.

The bill also states that any person placed in protective custody must be given a hearing within 72 hours to determine if the detention is justified.

Assuming the bill is passed, it would be effective only until Aug. 31 when a planned revision of the Texas Mental Health Code is expected to be in place.

Social Security rescue threatened

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The fragile support for a bipartisan Social Security rescue plan is threatened by a dispute over raising the retirement age, with a key congressman saying he will oppose the entire package if that is done.

That issue and other problems facing a $168 billion package drafted by the National Commission on Social Security Reform have cropped up during House Ways and Means Committee hearings which began Tuesday.

Outgoing Health and Human Services Secretary Richard S. Schweiker and Social Security Commissioner John A. Svahn were testifying today on the retirement system's financing crisis, which the administration has said will leave Social Security without enough money to cover benefit checks after June.

The reform commission's proposal calls for payroll tax increases, a six-month delay in July's cost-of-living increase, a levy on benefits going to middle- and upper-income retirees and other steps to produce $168 billion over seven years, as well as wipe out two-thirds of the system's long-term deficit.

However, the commission was divided on how to close the remainder of the financing gap. A Republican majority on the 15-member panel recommended raising the retirement age from 65 to 66 by 2015 then indexing it to longevity. But five liberal Democrats urged instead an increase in the payroll tax in the next century.

The dispute flared Wednesday at the Ways and Means Committee as Rep. Claude Pepper vowed to drop his support for the compromise plan if Congress adds a provision to raise the retirement age in the next century.

"Raising the age of eligibility is nothing but a cut in benefits," the 82-year-old Florida Democrat told the tax writers.

"If you put one item in there cutting benefits I cannot support this bill," declared Pepper, the chairman of the House Rules Committee and a key member of the reform commission.

Congressional leaders consider Pepper's support essential to passing a Social Security bailout plan because he has been such a vigorous advocate for the system.

Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, the 69-year-old chairman of the Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security told Pepper that raising the retirement age was "an absolute inevitable development in the history of our country as I see it."

Six die in row house fire

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — A fire that engulfed a two-story row house early today killed six people, including two young boys, and left three people injured, authorities said.

The fire broke out shortly before 1 a.m. and flames were shooting out of the front and back of the building by the time firefighters arrived, said Fire Chief Jerome M. Donohue.

Neighbors were screaming that people were trapped inside, he said. Six badly burned bodies were found on the second floor by firefighters who broke into the blazing building, the fire chief said.

Police Lt. Donald Palmatary identified the dead as 7-year-old Dean Lewis and 8-year-old Albert Wright; Dietrich O'Bryant, 32; his 29-year-old brother, Len O'Bryant; John Sutton Jr., 31; and Angel Morales Pizarro, 30.

Sex is for marrieds only

Dear Editor:

I am very disturbed by the comments of Cliff Coan in his article "Proverbs" Around the Rim, January 28, 1983. Mr. Coan has erred in many of his statements.

First of all, the regulation requires parents to be notified only if their minor daughter receives prescription birth control products from federally subsidized clinics. A simple inquiry or application for these products does not necessitate parent notification.

If, as Mr. Coan stated, "the government has no business interfering with anyone's sex life," then the government should not subsidize birth control clinics. The distribution of birth control products technically constitutes interference in a person's sex life. Therefore, the government should no longer distribute monies to these clinics.

Statistics show that the birth control clinics have not eliminated unwanted pregnancies and abortions. If a teen-age girl wants to use birth control devices without her parents' knowledge, then there are other forms available to her such as condoms, foams, jellies, and abstinence. If she believes that she is mature enough to engage in sexual relations and wants to use "the pill," an IUD, or diaphragm, then she should be mature enough to discuss this with her parents. If she is not a legal adult, then her parents are responsible and it is their business if their daughter chooses to have sex. This regulation does not violate physician-patient confidentiality because this confidentiality only applies to patients who are legal adults.

I question Coan's definition of sex as "a private act, a communion of love between two people." I was taught that sex was a communion of love between married people. In fact, Webster defines sexual intercourse other than between a man and his wife as fornication. Wouldn't it make more sense for all people to follow the biblical adage "Flee fornication. Every sin that a man doeth is without the body; but he that committeth fornication sinneth against his own body." (1 Corinthians 6:18)?

Why doesn't the wizard run?

Dear Editor,

I'm writing in reply to Mr. Gilstrap's letter in Monday Jan. 31 issue. I have to give you credit, Mr. Gilstrap, you are more intelligent than I thought you were — at least you know how to spell "Mr. Brazel."

You are such a constitutional wizard that you ought to have offered yourself for public office and have been elected by the people so that you can do the job that nobody else knows how to do. (This nation does not know what they are missing.)

J.R. ROEMER III
2800 Lawrence

P.S. Mr. Gilstrap, I do not know how you found out how to spell "Mr. Brazel," you probably had to look it up in the telephone book.

Writer agrees with Gilstrap

Dear Editor,

I read Mr. Gilstrap's letter and agree with everything he says.

But no one would ever guess who paid for the wall. I don't remember an approval being made to build it. Must have been decided in one of the closed meetings.

Mr. Davis, in some of your closed meetings, why don't you do something constructive like fixing these streets and cutting the weeds at the intersections? Then you can put up the barbed wire.

Thank you,

Big bad dude

A monthly feature in that ghastly magazine known as Playboy is a non-skin related article entitled "20 Questions." Musicians, politicians, businessmen and other interesting persons appear in this piece of writing, usually found a dozen pages after the uh, centerfold.

The March issue — which is already at the newsstands (I thought this was February?) — features Arthur Jones, the man who invented Nautilus weight-lifting equipment and is many dollars richer for his efforts.

Rumor has it (actually, a Playmate I know told me) that next month's guest is that lovable human being, Mr. T. Stallone's adversary in Rocky III. Since I know few — if any — Herald readers would dare peek inside Hef's girlie publication, I thought the impending interview with the world's meanest hero should not be denied our faithful fans.

Ladies and gentlemen, and you nasty old Playboy readers, I introduce MR. T.

Herald: "First of all, sir, what does the 'T' stand for?"

Mr. T.: "Look, chump, that's the name my momma gave me. Just T. But it could stand for Tough, Terrible, Thunderpunch, Tornadokiller, Turkeykiller... I could go on."

Herald: "We get the idea. Okay, you lost to Rocky in the movie. How did it go?"

Mr. T.: "My character lost. I didn't lose. Sly was going down, man, going down. But I had to lighten up for that so-called champ. For a couple of extra thou I backed down."

Herald: "Any new movies in the making?"

Mr. T.: "We be remaking Casablanca with me taking over for Bogey. I'm learning the script already... I'm goin' to punch you lights out, shweethaart. Not bad, huh, turkey."

Herald: "No, no. Just the part for you. Any leading ladies in your life?"

Mr. T.: "One more time, buzzardbreath."

Herald: "HOW MANY ladies are there in your life?"

Mr. T.: "Right now, only 37. The chicks find me hard to turn down, you know what I mean. They go for the feather in my head. And my eyes."

Herald: "You've got lovely eyes. What are your views on professional sports?"

Mr. T.: "Sissies. All of them. Gastineau? That wimpbrain is all disco and no action. He couldn't last two seconds wit me. Moses Malone? Send that doggie bag back to Egypt. Larry Holmes? Chomp on these (he lifts up his enormous fists) awhile, baitnose."

Herald: "Are you interested in the Olympics?"

Mr. T.: "Bring on those Russians. I'd whup those suckahs clear back to Siberia and then some. And those Cuban fighters are nothing but overstuffed cigars with hands. I won't say nothin' about those Polish sausages they put in the ring."

Herald: "Speaking of the Russians, some people believe that instead of whole countries going to war, their leaders should fight it out. Is that a good idea?"

Mr. T.: "I'm glad you brought that up because I plan on becoming the first black president. That's right, President T. I'll kick some (expletive deleted) in Congress. And I'd tell those Commies that a SALT treaty won't do them no good because I'm all the weapon they'll have to worry about, jack."

Herald: "What else would you do if you were president?"

Mr. T.: "WHEN I'm president, suckah. If you don't vote for me, it's lights out. The first thing I'd do is change the name of the Department of Defense to the Department of Offense. We ain't layin' back for no one. No rope-a-dope for this dude. It's punch, punch, punch. Down in the first round."

Herald: "What is your favorite food?"

Mr. T.: "Anything with blood, past or present (he laughs). Otherwise, I enjoy liver, turnips, sour milk, raw eggs, grizzle and fat and mildew."

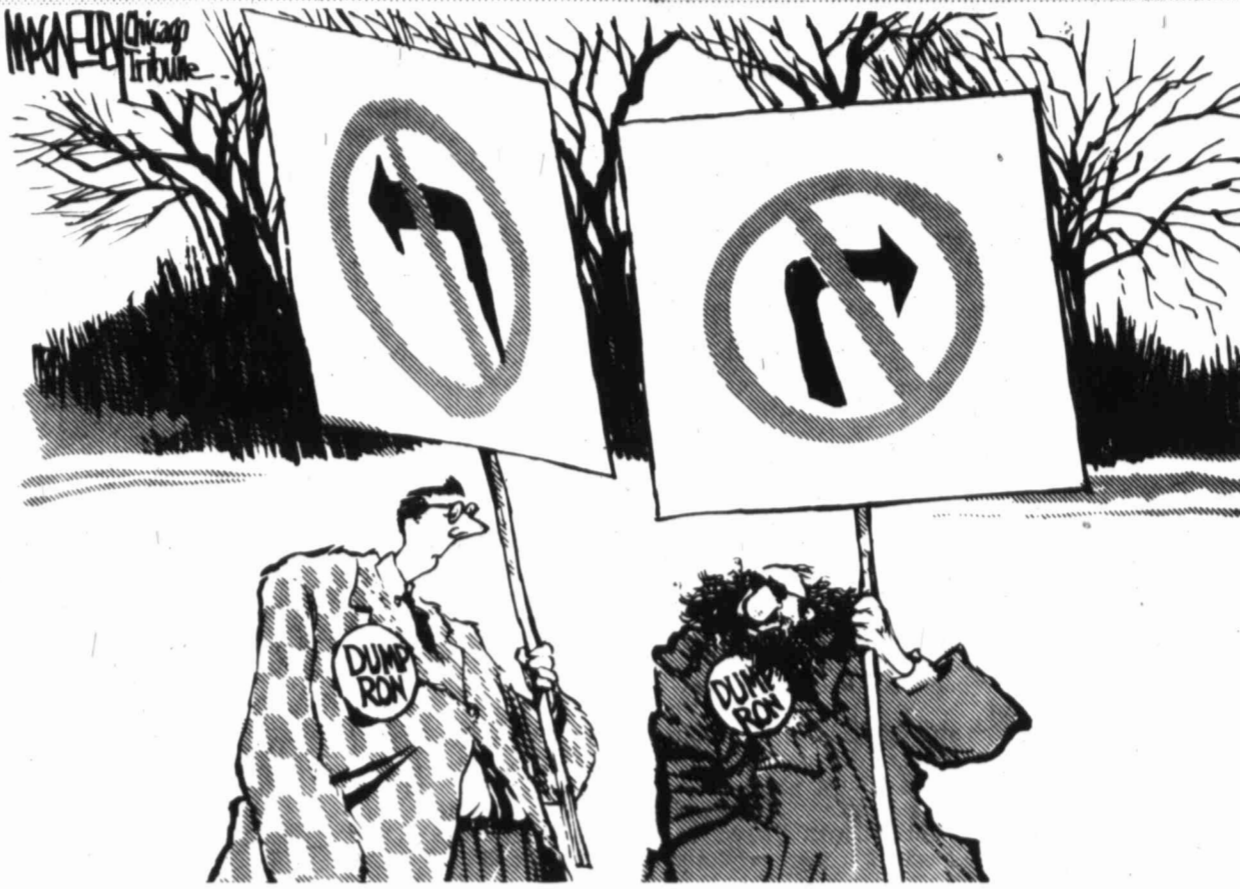

Herald: "One final question. Who are your sports heroes?"

Mr. T.: "Me (he laughs). Actually I pattern myself after Conan, Ghengis Kahn, Hitler, MacArthur, Idi Amin and Bruce Lee. I'm all those bad dudes rolled in one."

Herald: "But none of those guys played sports."

Mr. T.: "They did in my history book, pinball head."

That's only 10 or so questions. If you want to read the other 10, buy the magazine. And in case you ladies are a little upset, here's some good news. Mr. T. is the April, uh, centerfold in Mr. Muscles and Stuff magazine. All he'll have on is a scowl.

The sad state of the union

WASHINGTON — Has Ronald Reagan ever given a worse speech than his Tuesday report on the State of the Union? If so, it escapes memory.

The Great Communicator has never looked so unsure of himself. Instead of a vision of hope for the future, he offered limp apologies for the transitory pains of the present. Instead of a renewal of the pledges he made in 1980, he called for more compromise with those who most want him to fail. Reagan may not be in full retreat, but he isn't exactly standing his ground either.

In style and organization, the speech was a mess. It wandered all over the landscape without once suggesting an ultimate destination. It had no driving theme, but got bogged down repeatedly in the trivial. (What on earth was that paragraph about port modernization doing in there?)

The tone was flat and uninspired, offering pale pastels rather than bold colors. The closest Reagan came to a catchphrase — "America is on the mend" — was a model of defensiveness.

Granted, a chief executive presiding over the worst economic slump in half a century has something to be defensive about. But Reagan knows that his policies are not to blame — even if many of his aides don't. No one could seriously expect double digit inflation to be arrested without anguish.

ALL REAGAN could do was to pour the foundation for lasting growth. With his tax and spending cuts and his support of the Federal Reserve's anti-inflation efforts, he has done that.

And the worst time to go on the defensive is when things look bleakest. If Tip O'Neill has the votes to steamroll Reagan, he will do it whether Reagan is conciliatory or combative. Only by rallying his own troops under a clear standard can the President hope to prevail.

To borrow some of Richard Nixon's terminology, a football team that is down by three touchdowns doesn't settle for three-yards-and-a-cloud-of-dust; it throws the bomb.

The closest thing to a new idea (and it wasn't very close) was Reagan's domestic spending freeze. But it was cloaked in the usual attacks on fraud and waste, giving the false impression that no one will be left any worse off. And it didn't include the biggest domestic program of all — Social Security. In any event, Congress is not going to accept a domestic freeze while allowing military spending to rise — nor should it.

On the military budget, Reagan did stand fast. It is here, though, that the ground under him is shakiest. "Taken as a percentage of gross national product, our defense spending happens to be only about four-fifths of what it was in 1970," he declared.

But Reagan didn't point out that in inflation-adjusted dollars defense spending has not declined at all since 1970. He didn't mention that his own budget would give the Pentagon a bigger share of national output than it had in 1972. And he didn't explain why the defense budget shouldn't be lower during peacetime than during a shooting war involving half a million men.

IF REAGAN is resigned to compromise, defense is the place to start. He has already met the Democrats more than halfway on his economic program. A $100 billion increase in various taxes last summer, a $5 billion increase in gasoline taxes last fall, two Social Security tax increases in the next six years, in addition to increases provided by bracket creep and past Social Security legislation — if the President compromises any more, he will have nothing left to compromise.

On defense, however, he has hardly budged. Most of his defense "savings" would be achieved by adjusting spending to reflect the decline of inflation. His only real cut is a freeze on military pay — ignoring his joint chiefs, who would rather reduce spending on new weapons than jeopardize their recent achievements in getting and keeping good soldiers.

Reagan's call for a lasting "bipartisan spirit" may be good tactics but it is poor strategy. Even before he addressed the Congress, Democratic leaders were threatening to demolish the fragile Social Security compromise endorsed by both Reagan and O'Neill. So much for bipartisanship.

If Reagan has any confidence in his prescriptions, he should wait for a growing economy to restore his dominance over Congress, enabling him to dictate the terms of compromise. If he doesn't, he should admit that he no longer has a program. Unfortunately, the State of the Union address came perilously close to admitting just that.

Billy Graham

We need forgiveness

Dear Dr. Graham: I've been told we're supposed to feel liberated and not feel guilty about things we do, but I'm ashamed of myself. I constantly wonder if God can forgive me for these things and make me feel better about myself. — Mrs. P.B.H.

Dear Mrs. P.B.H.: Yes, I know there is a movement to deny that there is such a thing as sin and wrongdoing, and to say therefore that there is no reason for us to feel guilty about the things that we do. But that is not what the Bible teaches us — nor is it what our hearts teach us, as you have discovered.

The Bible tells us that each of us has a sense of right and wrong. However, it also tells us that this sense of right and wrong can easily be distorted or even completely suppressed when we constantly turn our backs on God and his truth. But that does not take away our guilt in God's eyes. You see, we are guilty of doing wrong, whether we "feel" guilty or not. We can be spiritually sick and guilty and not know it — just like a man who feels fine but has a deadly cancer lurking in his body. The Bible says, "The wrath of God is being revealed from Heaven against all the Godlessness and wickedness of men who suppress the truth by their wickedness, since what may be known about God is plain to them, because God has made it plain to them" (Romans 1:18-19).

I am thankful that you sense your need of forgiveness, because the worst possible situation for someone to be in spiritually is to believe that they do not need God. And the wonderful truth is this: Yes, God can forgive you — and he wants to forgive you because he loves you and does not want you to be burdened by a load of guilt and shame and self-hate.

This is why Christ came into the world — to make it possible for us to be forgiven and to become children of God throughout eternity. "Here is a trustworthy saying that deserves full acceptance: Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners" (1 Timothy 1:15). He took upon himself your sins, and he died on the cross in your place. You deserved to die, but he loves you so much that he was willing to die in your place. What must you do? Turn to him in faith, claiming his promise of forgiveness. Accept him into your heart by a simple prayer of faith, and then walk each day with him, knowing and believing what he has promised is true — you are forgiven.

Jack Anderson

She lost the battle and the war

WASHINGTON — In the past two years, 86,000 mentally impaired Americans have lost their Social Security disability benefits and have been cast adrift in a world that is sometimes beyond their cognition.

This is the tragic story of just one of them: Kathleen McGovern. Her fragile world of TV soap operas and dependence on others began to crumble in August 1981. That's when she learned that her $297-a-month disability payments would be cut off. Social Security Administration bureaucrats had decided she could hold a job and support herself.

Mrs. McGovern was stunned by the decision. Since 1973, she had been consistently diagnosed as a paranoid schizophrenic; she had been hospitalized at least eight times thereafter. Deemed unable to work, she became one of hundreds of thousands of mentally impaired individuals receiving Social Security disability benefits.

The agency failed to inform the 40-year-old woman that her appeal should have been handled immediately by a judge. Instead, she was subjected to an improper, seven-month "reconsideration" process.

As the SSA now admits, "Mrs. McGovern's case was mishandled in terms of recognizing the applicable appeal procedure."

Worse was to come. Because of a "transcription error," McGovern's file incorrectly noted the date on which she had first become eligible for benefits.

Twice during her appeal process — once in an interview with a doctor paid by the Social Security Administration — McGovern gave indications that she was considering suicide because of the cutoff. But the agency did nothing. (Belatedly, the agency conceded that it "should have secured more information about Mrs. McGovern's mental condition.")

In December 1981, the doctor made these diagnostic notations on McGovern's condition: "Totally dependent. Unmotivated. Cannot shop for self. Cannot prepare meals except very rudimentary items."

Despite this clear evidence of McGovern's helplessness, the government used the doctor's report as the basis for its conclusion two weeks later that there were "no marked restrictive qualities to her day-to-day living." (The agency now admits that "in light of the conflicting statements it is clear that further investigation was warranted.")

Last February, McGovern lost her appeal. Judged by a perfunctory review of her vocational skills, she was deemed capable of working as a waitress. The evidence that led to this decision included "wage records showing several years' experience as a waitress, and a description of the job of waitress as it appears" in a government dictionary of job titles.

After the government reaffirmed the denial of her disability benefits, McGovern was hospitalized briefly for depression. On June 2, she was found dead in her Philadelphia apartment. The coroner ruled her death due to natural causes.

Though it's too late to help McGovern, the Social Security Administration has modified the procedures it uses in its accelerated eligibility reviews. Some have been denounced by Commissioner John Svahn and, again, in a preliminary General Accounting Office investigation requested by Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa.

Also a federal judge in Minnesota, reviewing the Midwest Region's policy, issued a blistering attack on the bureaucrat's Dickensian penny-pinching procedures, calling them "arbitrary, capricious, irrational and an abuse of discretion."

Footnote: A Social Security spokesman told my associate Tony Capaccio that the agency's internal studies show that its termination decisions have been correct 97 percent of the time. The decision in the McGovern case, now admittedly "mishandled," was one of those adjudged correct.

Protective Ozone Layer

Is the ozone layer still in danger?

Scientists say ban on aerosol propellants is helping

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMIDT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — No one knows if the ban on aerosol propellants is saving the protective ozone layer around Earth, but it has sharply reduced the use of the chemicals, say scientists who are still debating the extent of the hazard.

The ozone layer, 20 miles above Earth, screens out hazardous ultraviolet radiation from the sun. That radiation could lead to an increase in skin cancer if it got through, scientists warned in the late 1970s.

Imposed between 1977 and 1979, the ban eliminated fluorocarbons from use as propellants, such as in hair spray and deodorant. But the chemicals are still used in some applications, notably as refrigerants, in dry cleaning and in plastic foam cushions.

Released into the air, fluorocarbons can damage or destroy ozone, according to a National Academy of Science study. The Academy projected in late 1977 that 15 percent to 18 percent of the layer could be depleted.

"At that time there were essentially few, if any, measurements that had actually been taken, and people really were scared," recalled Edward A. Klein, director of the chemical control division of the Environmental Protection Agency's office of toxic substances.

Dr. Lester Machta, director of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's air resources laboratories, said studies since the ban have shown a "tremendous drop" in the amount of fluorocarbons being released into the air.

Machta said figures from the Chemical Manufacturers Association show 580 million pounds of one of the chemicals, Freon 11, released into the atmosphere in 1981. That's down from 715 million pounds released in 1976, he said.

As to whether the drop has saved the ozone layer, Machta says, "I wonder if we'll ever know."

Klein said various agencies have conducted studies of ozone depletion, and "we haven't been able to measure any significant changes."

"The monitoring hasn't borne any real fruit up to now," he said.

Dr. James Angell of NOAA said that "it looks as though in the middle and upper stratospheres ... there may be a 2 percent decrease in ozone over the last 10 years, but you just can't be sure of something like that."

That, he said, is because of counterbalancing factors, including an increase in carbon dioxide in the air, which could result in an actual increase in ozone.

"What hurts people is (a drop in) the total amount of ozone, and Jim finds no change in that," said Machta.

But Donald Heath of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported in a 1981 study that he had found the first evidence that a change is occurring in the ozone layer, a finding that he said "represents a partial validation of the theory that (fluorocarbons) will destroy ozone."

His studies, based on information collected from satellites, showed a 4 percent ozone decline at 24 miles above the Earth. "It's small, but we feel it's significant," he said at the time.

Heath declined to detail his work recently, saying it will be published in a scientific journal. But he said further research has not changed his 1981 conclusions.

"We've extended our analysis over a considerably longer period of time. We're still left with the same conclusion: that there is an effect and the most likely candidate is fluorocarbon."

It's not yet proved, he cautioned, but "that theory seems to fit the observation best of all."

A National Academy of Science report, issued last March, cut in half its prediction of the expected reduction in the ozone layer. The new estimate calls for a decline of between 5 percent and 9 percent by late in the next century, the academy said, based on the same assumptions used in its 1977 study.

But at the same time, the academy said evidence is increasing that depletion of the layer will add to the number of skin cancer cases.

The council estimated that for each 1 percent decrease in the ozone layer, basal cell skin cancer will increase 2 percent to 5 percent and there will be a 4 percent to 10 percent increase in squamous cell skin cancer. These two types of skin cancer are common, but rarely fatal.

Diabetic mothers may produce obese children, study indicates

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON — The children of diabetic mothers are more likely than other children to be overweight when they grow up, a study shows, and doctors believe the obesity is caused by fat cells that begin developing in the womb.

The doctors based their conclusions on a comparison of the weights of children of diabetic and non-diabetic mothers. Their research began in 1965 among Pima Indians of the Gila River Indian Community of Arizona, who have a high prevalence of diabetes and obesity.

"The findings strongly suggest that the prenatal environment of the offspring of diabetic women results in the development of obesity in childhood and early adulthood," they concluded.

Doctors say they believe the children of diabetic mothers get too much sugar during the critical months of fetal development, leading to the growth of fat cells that last all their lives.

The study was done by Dr. David J. Pettitt and other researchers at the National Institute of Arthritis, Diabetes and Digestive and Kidney Diseases in Phoenix, Ariz., and the University of New Mexico. It was published in Thursday's New England Journal of Medicine.

The doctors watched the growth of 68 Pima Indian children with diabetic mothers, 541 whose mothers developed diabetes later in life and 1,326 whose mothers had no diabetes.

They found that by the time the children reached 15 to 19 years of age, 58 percent of those with diabetic mothers were at least 40 percent overweight. This compared with 25 percent of those children whose mothers later developed diabetes and 17 percent of those whose never had diabetes.

The doctors attributed the high rate of obesity to "fetal overnutrition" caused by excessive sugar levels. The last three months of development in the womb are important for the development of fat cells. Other studies have shown that when women do not get enough to eat during pregnancy, their children are less likely than usual to be obese.

The doctors noted both diabetes and obesity appear to be at least partially inherited. The diabetic mothers probably had more genes for diabetes and obesity and passed them on their children, which also caused them to be fat.

However, there was no link between the weight of the diabetic mothers and the size of their children.

"It may be that the effect of exposure to a diabetic environment during gestation on the development of obesity was so strong that other effects were obscured," the doctors wrote.

Diabetics do not produce enough insulin, a hormone that controls the body's use of sugar. Blood sugar levels can be kept down through weight control, diet and insulin injections.

Dear Abby

Poor table manners

DEAR ABBY: Our dining area is near a sliding glass door that opens onto the patio. We eat all our meals there. My husband continually opens and closes the door while we're eating to feed the dogs from the table and tend to their needs. He's up and down constantly. It drives me crazy!

I have told him and told him how annoying it is to have him feed the dogs from the table, but he pays no attention to me. Every mealtime is a nightmare, and it's very hard on my digestive system to eat while I'm aggravated.

FED UP: If his inconsiderate behavior is something new, he should see a doctor to determine whether he's sick or just plain ornery. If he's ornery, tell him (in a loving way) how upset you are. If that doesn't work, set a place for yourself in another room where you can enjoy a calm and peaceful meal. Tell him he's in the doghouse, and let him eat with the dogs!

DEAR ABBY: What can a mother do when she knows her son cannot afford to get married but his girlfriend keeps nagging him to marry her?

She has not finished school, she's not trained for anything, and she's very childish for a girl of 20. My son is 22 and up to his neck in debt — he owes me money and also owes the bank. He knows he can't afford to get married now, but this girl is constantly trying to get him to change his mind. I tried to talk to the girl, but you can't tell her anything. They would like me to help them. What should I do?

THE BOY'S MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Make it plain that they can expect no help from you. A man has no business on the sea of matrimony unless he can paddle his own canoe.

DEAR ABBY: I do not have sex very often with my husband, but on one of those rare occasions, he infected me with herpes. I didn't know what I had until I started having trouble and visited a doctor.

When I confronted my husband with this news, he swore up and down that he hadn't been with anybody else and must have gotten it off a toilet seat. Is this possible? Or is this a lot of bunk?

Now, the problem, I am having an affair with a wonderful married man I once worked for. Should I tell him about my herpes? I think the world of him and don't want to lose him.

HAS HERPES IN CHICAGO
DEAR HAS HERPES: Recent studies show that the Herpes Virus II (affecting the genitals) can survive on a toilet seat, hands, clothing and elsewhere for hours, and theoretically can be transmitted to an innocent party, so your husband could be telling the truth.

About your "wonderful married man," tell him! He should be examined immediately by a physician. It is imperative that he use protection during any future sexual encounters with you.

Two nurses get national certification in their specialized areas of practice

Two nurses at the Veteran's Administration Medical Center have received national certification from the American Nurses' Association in their specialized areas of practice.

Mrs. Davie Lee Wright Johnson, R.N.P.C., patient care coordinator of the Intermediate Medicine Unit at VAMC, has received national certification as a certified gerontological nurse. Mrs. Mary Frances Franklin, R.N.C., has completed the examination for certification in medicalsurgical nursing by the American Nurses' Association given in Lubbock.

Mrs. Franklin is a graduate of Howard College, where she received a degree in nursing and an associate degree in science. She has been employed by VAMC since 1979, and is a staff nurse in Intermediate Medicine.

Mrs. Johnson is a diploma graduate of Homer C. Phillips Hospital School of Nursing, St. Louis, Missouri, and obtained an associate of art degree in education from El Paso Community College, and a bachelor of science degree from West Texas State University, Canyon. She also has a master of science in nursing degree from the University of Texas, Austin, and is enrolled as a graduate student in the Center for Studies in Aging at North Texas State University, Denton. Gerontological nursing is concerned with the health needs of older adults. As a certified nurse, Mrs. Johnson is committed to the highest professional standards and improving care for older persons. She is a member of several organizations which focus on improving services for the older person including the American Nurses' Association and its Council of Nursing Home Nurses. Certification by the American Nurses' Association validates an individual registered nurse's qualification, knowledge and practice in a defined functional or clinical area of nursing. The process entails meeting educational and/or practice requirements in a given speciality area and passing a written examination. It recognizes expertise in current knowledge and in the ability to consider and initiate new alternatives and strategies in nursing practices.

National defense report highlights meeting

Mrs. Jack Alexander gave a report on national defense at the Saturday meeting of the Richard Hubbell Chapter of the Colonial Dames of the 17th Century. The group met at the country club for a luncheon and a business meeting.

Mrs. Alexander said the group should study the problems coming up before the Congress and the Senate, then let congressmen and representatives know their viewpoints.

Mrs. John Cobean was elected president of the group. Other officers are Mrs. William Riley, vice-president; Mrs. Alfred R. Reynolds, chaplain; Mrs. Louise Horton, secretary; Mrs. L.J. Jeter, treasurer;

Mrs. C.G. Barnett, registrar; Mrs. Mattie Wren, librarian; and Mrs. Lola Killman, historian.

Mrs. John Cobean is delegate and Mrs. C.G.

Barnett, alternate, to the convention to be held in Longview Feb. 16-18. They also were named delegate and alternate to the 59th National Conference to be held in Washington, D.C., April 15-18.

The next meeting will be in April. Time and date will be announced later.

Officer orientation presented at meeting

The Kopper Kettle was the setting for the orientation of the 1983 Desk and Derrick Club officers Monday. Venita Blessingame, immediate past president, presented the orientation.

Officers are Ann Drake, president; Jennifer

Largent, vice-president; Sheri Burleson, secretary; and Sherry Kloss, treasurer.

The next meeting will be at 7 p.m. Feb. 21 at Kopper Kettle. Women in oil-related businesses are invited.

Dr. Donohue

Removal of plantar warts is solution

Dear Dr. Donohue: My right foot is a warty disaster area on the bottom. There are several of them now, on the fleshy area behind the toes. These, I have been told, are plantar warts. Is surgery the answer for them? If that is done, would there be a chance of them coming back? I am finding it more painful to walk. Please comment. — J.V.

Any wart is a result of a virus infection of the skin. Plantar refers to the point of infection — on the sole (plantar portion) of the foot. Because a virus is involved, warts eventually disappear. However, the problem with plantar warts is that they tend to become most difficult to live with. They usually develop at pressure points and become conical affairs as they grow inward from the skin surface. Sooner or later, they seed nearby skin, appearing in localized groupings. Before you know it you can have a warty disaster area.

The best treatment, because of all these factors, is usually physical removal, surgery in one form or another. A skin or foot specialist can suggest the most effective removal method for your specific case. One popular and effective method being used involves excision. Another involves introducing a combination of acids to destroy them. It can be a lengthy process, especially if you have many warts.

There is no guarantee the warts will not return. I would guess, though, that if they were to reappear you would be talking in terms of years as opposed to months.

FOR B.B. AND OTHER PARENTS — A word or two on scabies is certainly in order. The most meticulous people can be its victims. The female mite burrows into the outermost skin layers to lay eggs. These burrows can be seen as short wavy lines. The intense itching is probably an allergic reaction of the skin to the mite or its products. A regular rash would indicate an intense allergic reaction (B.B.).

Sulfur ointment, although it is a bit messy and odiferous, is the old standby. There is also gamma benzene and crotamiton. For most, the danger of passing on mites to others ends about 24 hours after treatment.

You may have stumbled into a pitfall. Sometimes the itching persists after the medicine has had its effect. That's just the continuing allergic reaction. Don't fall into the trap of increasing dosage at such times. That can only worsen irritation. Overzealous application of such medicines can create a false impression of continuing mite infestation. Itching can persist a week or two after treatment.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Nursing students assigned initial learning experiences

First year nursing students were assigned this semester to the Big Spring Veterans Administration Medical Center for their initial clinical learning experiences. They were assigned to intermediate medicine and nursing home care units. Donna Fields, R.N. is their instructor.

Interactions between students and patients residents families and staff were warm. Patients residents looked forward to having their own "private" nurse, and the students reported on "my patient resident."

At the end of their clinical experiences, the students were guests at a reception hosted by the Nurse Recruitment and Retention Committee, chaired by Lynn Haggard, R.N. John Steward, Medical, Center director.

Recycling project is scholarship fund-raiser

The Extension Homemakers Council and Clubs began an aluminum can recycling project in January of 1981 to raise funds for Howard County 4-H Scholarships.

Bank personnel advised the council to raise $10,000 to buy a certificate of deposit. Using the interest only, the council could award two $300 scholarships a year.

With this amount as a long-range goal, the clubs began their program by asking friends and neighbors to save their aluminum cans.

Club members were urged to pick up cans wherever they could be found. Businesses and friends of 4-H throughout the county began saving cans for the project.

About 120,000 cans have been recycled from homes, roadways and businesses. According to Zula Rhodes, the council requests all

PUC bans automatic fuel cost adjustments

AUSTIN (AP) — The Public Utility Commission bowed to political pressure Wednesday and banned electric companies from automatically passing fuel costs on to customers.

But PUC Chairman Moak Rollins said Texans still will pay the fuel costs and won't see decreases in their monthly bills.

The new rule, however, will guarantee PUC review of fuel charges, rather than allowing the companies to figure it and tack it on monthly bills.

"I think people will see differences in their bills, but only in the manner the costs are expressed. They'll know in advance what those costs are going to be. They will know that those costs have been examined in public hearings," said Rollins.

The automatic pass-through of fuel costs was blasted by Gov. Mark White in his 1982 campaign. Last week he asked lawmakers to abolish the fuel adjustment charge and to change the PUC to an elected body, instead of appointed.

Several lawmakers also have called for a ban on the automatic fuel adjustments.

"I certainly hope it will satisfy many of the concerns legislators have expressed to us. That's been our objective," said Rollins.

"All of today's action was a result of that political rhetoric," he added.

Under the new system, electric companies will have to make month-by-month fuel cost estimates a year in advance. The companies also will give the PUC monthly reports on actual fuel costs.

There is a formula for bringing the charge to customers in line with the actual cost to companies.

CIA figures to testify

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON — Former Central Intelligence Agency figures will be called as witnesses in the federal trial here of Edwin Wilson, a former CIA agent who is charged with illegally exporting more than 21 tons of explosives to Libya, but a judge said he must hear the testimony before it is presented to the jury.

Defense attorneys Herald P. Fahlinger and Marian Rosen argued for permission to call the witnesses, citing federal cases where testimony on the "habit and custom" of an enterprise or business may be used to support a defense theory.

U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling said he would permit the witnesses to be called, but that he would first hear the testimony before he would permit it to be repeated for the seven-woman, five-man jury.

The defense has contended that Wilson participated in arranging the 1977 shipment to Libya from Houston of 42,470 pounds of the plastic explosive C-4 while working in a "deep cover" role for the CIA in Libya.

Fahlinger argued that "it is proper to bring in experts on the CIA" to present testimony on the "habit and custom" of the workings of the CIA.

Government attorneys argued that the former CIA figures that they know have been subpoenaed would not be proper because they "are not time-relevant" to the 1977 shipment of explosives.

The government rested its case Tuesday after presenting a series of witnesses who linked Wilson to an air cargo shipment of plastic explosives packaged in five-gallon cans. The explosives, according to the witnesses, were disguised as drilling mud and identified as such on documents filed with U.S. Customs.

Drilling mud is a substance used to lubricate and cool drilling bits while oil wells are being drilled.

The first defense witness called was Edward Bloom, 74, a Pomona, Calif., attorney who represented California explosives manufacturer Jerome S. Brower. Bloom was indicted with Wilson in the explosive shipping case, but has been granted a separate trial.

Bloom testified that he was on retainer with Brower and that in that capacity he helped draw up a shipping invoice for what Brower had told him were 42,300 pounds of chemicals. The invoice, said Bloom, showed that the chemicals were to be sold to a company called Meproco and delivered to Tripoli, Libya.

Asked if knew the agreement dealt with explosives, Bloom replied, "No, I did not."

Later, said Bloom, he flew to Geneva, Switzerland and delivered a sealed envelope to a bank there. He received three sealed envelopes and a quantity of cash. Bloom said he then flew to Montreal and paid an unspecified amount of cash to a firm called Canadian International Ltd.

He was told there, said Bloom, that the company was to deliver a shipment of explosives to an explosives company in Harvey, La. The shipment was to go from the Canadian company's warehouse in Plattsburg, N.Y.

Bloom said he went to Harvey, La. where he delivered more cash to an explosives company there. He said he learned that Brower would have to get a permit to move the explosives to a third explosives company plant in Cleburne, Texas.

Woman seeks $150,000

A Nebraska woman is suing the truck driver of a Houston firm for $150,000 in connection with the 1981 traffic death of her husband in Howard County.

Esther L. Gamboni has filed suit in 118th District Court in Big Spring against Warren Earnest Canady of Odessa and Dresser-Atlas, a division of Dresser Industries. The suit says Canady and Dresser-Atlas were negligent in the death of 75-year-old Calixte Albert Gamboni Feb. 2, 1981.

The truck and car accident occurred on Interstate 20 in the early morning hours, the suit states.

Mrs. Gamboni is seeking $50,000 for the loss of her husband, $75,000 under the Texas Wrongful Death Act and $25,000 for injuries she suffered in the wreck.

Jack Thompson is representing Mrs. Gamboni.

Couple files suit for $80,000

Jeffrey E. and Cindy C. Prosen are suing Chemical Express Carriers Inc. in Big Spring for $80,000 for injuries suffered when their motorcycle hit an oil slick they say was left by one of the company's trucks.

The suit, filed in 118th District Court, states the Prosen were injured Oct. 6, 1982 when their cycle hit an oil slick on Farm Market Road 700. The suit says the oil had spilled from a Chemical Express truck and the company was negligent in not removing it or warning motorists.

Wayne Basden is representing the Prosen.

Auto accident spurs suit

A Coahoma man is being sued for $44,000 as the result of his daughter's automobile collision with a vehicle driven by Mary Love Theftford.

Mrs. Theftford is seeking $38,000 in 118th District Court for injuries she says suffered when her vehicle was struck by a car driven by the daughter of John Redding of Vincent Route in Coahoma. The collision occurred July 25, 1982 on Gregg Street in Big Spring, the suit states.

The suit also asks for $6,000 damages for Christopher D. Theftford, a minor child in the vehicle during the accident.

Play gyms may be dangerous

In cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, American Toy and Furniture Co. and Sears, Roebuck and Co. recently announced a voluntary repair program of 30,000 children's play gyms sold from 1976 through July 1980.

There have been no reports of accidents involving this gym. However, there have been three reports of suffocation from infant head or neck entrapment between the steps of the ladder of a gym similar in appearance to the one sold by Sears and manufactured by American Toy and Furniture, the companies said.

While the Sears play gym has several features which prevent accidents, the company said, a repair program is being conducted as an additional precaution.

The product made by American Toy and Furniture was sold nationwide through Sears catalogs for about $30.

The product was sold under the name "Wood and Hard-Board Play Gym." The gym consists of a hollow box, made of fiberboard and wood about 30 inches high which supports a two-step ladder with one side held in place by two brackets and a short side on the other side.

Consumers owning affected gyms should discontinue use of the ladder and contact American Toy and Furniture for a modification kit free of charge.

To obtain a kit, call 1-800-323-6556, ext. R21 or write American Toy and Furniture Co. at 5933 N. Lincoln Ave., Chicago, Ill, 60659.

Redskins, Redskins
So you think you're really great
We Texans have no malice
But next year, it's Dallas
Making it another 10-year wait

The big news locally this week, of course, was the announcement by Howard College that four Hawk Queens victories will have to be forfeited because of an ineligible player. That means Don Stevens' No. 5 nationally rated team will have to work double-hard to defend their Region V championship. And that means local basketball fans will have to go out to Dorothy Garrett in double-numbers to support the Queens. Traveling to Snyder tonight for the Western Texas showdown or over to Odessa Feb. 17 for a rematch with the Lady Wranglers wouldn't be a bad idea, either.

A few upcoming events to remember. For you long distance people in the crowd, Immaculate Heart of Mary School is sponsoring an 11-mile marathon at 2 p.m. Sunday to benefit Catholic education. Sponsor sheets are available around town. Prizes go to the fastest, youngest, oldest, etc. participants.
The Rainbow Project Racquetball Tournament is set for Feb. 11-13 at the YMCA. The entry deadline has passed and a bracket will be made up early next week. Proceeds for this event go to the establishment of a shelter for Howard County abused and neglected children.
Both these events will burn up calories but better yet, the money goes to great causes.

Good news for you bass fishermen (and fisherwomen?) out there. Bill Follis of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department conducted a bass check at Moss Lake, using shock-prod method. In one hour, the crew collected 62 bass measuring up to six pounds from four feet of water. Follis' conclusion was that Moss is a little above average for lakes around the state.
Get out your gear and reel in some bass.

Greg's Picture Misidentification strikes again. Knowing that the Lady Steer pictured in Friday's (Jan. 28) was Stacey Bott, I insisted on calling her Debbie Donelson. No, it was Stacey that making a move on her Abilene High defender.
Sorry Stacey. And Debbie, I tried...

From the Herald Hole-in-One Scrapbook, Wally Slate recently lined up a shot on No. 13 at the Country Club. Watching him get his ace on the 147-yard hole (he used a 5-iron) were R.P. Nicholson, R.H. Weaver, Hudson Landers, Fred Wilderson, Bill McClendon and Howard Schwarzenbach.
Is that anything like Schwarzenegger?

Top area game? Robert Lee girls (20-1) at Forsan girls (20-1) at 6:30 p.m. Friday. Only Forsan loss was to Robert Lee. Fire department has been alerted because game is expected to be a "barnburner." — GREG JAKLEWICZ

BATTLE FOR THE BALL — Dallas Mavericks forward Pat Cummings (42) fights for possession of the basketball with Los Angeles Laker Norm Nixon (10) during Wednesday night's game in Dallas. The Mavs upset the Lakers 122-120. See page 2-B.

BASKETBALL
● The Big Spring High Lady Steers try to stay in the running for second place when they host Odessa High tonight at 8 p.m. in Steer Gym.
Big Spring dropped a 72-41 decision at Midland High Monday night to fall to 7-4 in the District 4-AAAA standings. Midland Lee leads the league race with a 10-1 record with Midland standing alone in second with an 8-3 mark. Big Spring and San Angelo, which lost 50-44 to Lee Monday, are deadlocked for third place.
Shell Rutledge continues to pace the Lady Steers in district scoring with a 12.9 average in 11 games. Monette Wise had 10 points against the Bulldogs and is scoring 10.3 points in 4-5A play.
Odessa is 1-10 and 5-21 for the season. Pam Allen is scoring 12 points a game and leading the Bronchos in points.
Big Spring won the previous district meeting between the two teams 69-44 as Paula Spears scored 16 and Wise 13 points.
The Lady Steers, looking for their first winning season ever, are 12-11 with three games remaining.
● Faced with a must-win situation, the Howard College Hawk Queens tackle No. 1 rated Western Texas College at 6 p.m. tonight in Snyder.
After forfeiting four games because of an ineligible player, the Queens stand 3-4 in Western Junior College Athletic Conference play. Western is leading the race with a 5-1 record which includes a narrow 81-80 victory over HC in December.
Nell Haskins still leads the conference in scoring with 29.6 points per game. Her 621 total points leads the nation while her 13.6 rebounds is second in the league.
Susan Cordell is tops in blocked shots and scoring 13.3 points while guard Janene Berry is second in assists.
Vickie Teal leads Western in scoring with 15.3 points each game with Ramona Irlbeck adding 13.0 and Norma Frazier 12.3. Teal is the No. 2 free throw shooter in the WJCAC, hitting 84 per cent of her tries.

Howard, ranked No. 5 in the last national poll, stands 14-7 for the year now while Western — boasting the league's No. 1 offense — is 19-6.
● Howard College hopes to get back into the first division of the WJCAC standings when the Hawks test Western Texas at 8 p.m. tonight in Snyder.
HC is only 4-4 in conference play although the Hawks are 17-4 overall. Western is 6-17 and 3-8 in league play after Monday's 63-60 overtime win at NMMI.
Nate Givens remains the No. 1 scorer (25.3) and rebounder (13.2) in the conference. Leon Issac is scoring 15 points a game and Reggie Childress 12.
The Hawks have been hampered by injuries with No. 2 guard Danny Grayson down with a knee injury, starting forward Dwight Harris slowed with a leg injury and No. 2 guard Antoine Morris out with a wrist problem.
Michael Speight tops Western with 13.1 points each game.

GOLF
● The Big Spring High girls team is in San Antonio Thursday and Friday for their initial golf tournament of the season. Leading a veteran team is senior Patricia Jones, the No. 3 medalist at the District 4-AAAA tourney last spring.

RACES
● Immaculate Heart of Mary School is sponsoring an 11-mile marathon Sunday at 2 p.m. to benefit Catholic Education.
Sponsor sheets are available at the school, church or at the Big Spring Herald.

RACQUETBALL
● The Rainbow Project Racquetball Tournament is scheduled Feb. 11-13 at the YMCA. Entries are already in and a bracket will be published early next week.

Pros turn free agents

By The Associated Press
John Riggins and Dan Fouts are the most prominent players on a list of 252 National Football League players — more than 16 per cent of the league — who have become free agents. But if the past is any criterion, most will almost surely return to their present teams.
The NFL released its free agent list Wednesday.
It included Fouts, the All-Pro quarterback from the San Diego Chargers, and Riggins, who set a Super Bowl rushing record of 166 yards. Nineteen of Riggins' Washington Redskins teammates, including eight other starters, also are on the list, the most from any one team.
In the past, only one free agent has played out his option and moved to another NFL team — cornerback Norm Thompson, who left St. Louis and signed with Baltimore. The reason is the compensation — a team signing a player for $80,000 must surrender a first-round draft choice and the compensation escalates for higher salaries.

This year free agents have another option — the new United States Football League, which starts play March 6. One NFL free agent, linebacker Stan White of Detroit, has signed with the Chicago USFL team.
The list also includes players who have long-since retired, like Ron Yary of the Los Angeles Rams, or who have announced their retirement, like Craig Morton, of the Denver Broncos.
In addition to Fouts and Riggins, prominent free agents include quarterback Ken Stabler of New Orleans; wide receivers Harold Carmichael of Philadelphia and John Stallworth of Pittsburgh; defensive linemen Kim Bokamper of Miami and John Matuszak of the Raiders; defensive backs Mike Haynes of New England and Donnie Shell of Pittsburgh; offensive linemen Dan Dierdorf of St. Louis and Charley Hannah of Tampa Bay, and tight end Don Hasselbeck of New England.

The list also includes punter Ray Guy of the Raiders and kicker Uwe von Schamann of Miami.
In addition to Riggins, Redskins starters who are free agents are offensive linemen Fred Dean and Joe Jacoby, linebackers Rich Milot and Neal Olkewicz, defensive backs Jeris White, Mark Murphy and Tony Peters and defensive tackle Darryl Grant.

Watson returns for Crosby stop

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — It is a time of frustration for Tom Watson.
The man who has dominated world golf for the past five years is torn between what he wants to do and what he feels he should do.
He's a disciplined man. So duty won.
"I'm eager to play, anxious to play golf. But at this time, I feel my duty is to my family, to be with them as much as possible," Watson said.
The family includes 2-month-old Michael, Watson's second child and first son. His birth in December, and the attendant duties of parenthood, have restricted Watson's early season schedule.
"I just hope I don't get out of the gate too slowly," he said. "Usually, I play five of the seven tournaments in the West. This year I'm playing only three."
As a result, he isn't playing as well as he'd like coming into today's scheduled first round in the 42nd Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.
"I don't give myself much chance here," Watson said. "I'm forcing the club, not swinging the club very freely."
Still, Watson ranks among the game's greatest, most intense competitors. Although he wasn't playing to his usual standards, he tied for sixth in his only previous start this season and ranks as one of the men to watch in this storied old tourney he's won twice.
He will play the last two rounds at Pebble Beach, where he turned back Jack Nicklaus with that dramatic chip-in birdie on the 71st hole of the U.S. Open six months ago.
Nicklaus, a three-time Crosby winner, also is among the 168 pros scheduled for one round each on Spyglass Hill, Cypress Point and Pebble Beach before the final round Sunday at Pebble Beach.
He was scheduled to play with former President Gerald Ford as his amateur partner, but Ford withdrew for medical reasons.
The three courses on the Monterey Peninsula have been lashed by a series of storms and received almost six inches of rain in the last week. More rain is in the forecast for Thursday and Saturday.
In addition to Nicklaus and Watson, some of the standouts include Masters titleholder Craig Stadler, defending champion Jim Simons, Tom Kite and Lanny Wadkins, along with Rex Caldwell, a playoff loser in each of his last two starts.
Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by CBS.

Gerulaitis connected with cocaine

...drug connection?

NEW YORK (AP) — Vitas Gerulaitis, the world's fifth-ranked tennis player, says he expects to be charged with being involved in a conspiracy to buy cocaine.

Gerulaitis, in interviews with New York newspapers, said Wednesday he had been told that federal charges are about to be filed by the U.S. Attorney in Manhattan, but, the 28-year-old tennis star insisted there was no basis for any indictment.

"I'm totally innocent of all these charges. I'm definitely going to plead not guilty if they go ahead and indict me," he said.

Gerulaitis expects the charges to contend that he was involved in a conspiracy to buy approximately $20,000 worth of cocaine while he was playing in last year's Volvo Masters tournament in Madison Square Garden.

Professional tennis players found guilty of a felony or conduct "severely damaging to the sport" can be suspended for up to three years and fined as much as $20,000, said M. Marshall Harper, administrator of the Men's International Professional Tennis Council.

Gerulaitis, who earned more than $400,000 in tournaments last year, has maintained that his game has been affected by the cocaine controversy as well as his reputation.

"This has been a very difficult period," he said. "This could be very damaging to me."

He said he had lost two product endorsements since his name was mentioned in a drug trial last summer.

The New York Daily News in today's editions quoted sources close to the case as saying that U.S. Attorney John Martin was moving to indict Gerulaitis in the face of opposition from some members of his staff.

Martin declined to comment on the case.

"We expect that an indictment will be returned," said Thomas P. Puccio, Gerulaitis' lawyer.

Puccio, who recently returned to private practice after serving as chief prosecutor in the Abscam investigation into political corruption, said Gerulaitis was not being accused of planning to sell any of the cocaine.

The expected charges were based on allegations made against Gerulaitis by Tony Goble, 36, a champion backgammon player who was convicted on cocaine-conspiracy last September.

The News said it had been told by its sources that Goble had agreed to testify against Gerulaitis in exchange for a substantial reduction in the 15-year prison term he was facing. In sealed proceedings last month, Goble was sentenced to a year in jail, the newspaper said.

The case against Goble stems from an undercover Drug Enforcement Administration investigation last year. It began when agents posing as traffickers "put the word out" that they were willing to sell high-quality pharmaceutical cocaine at low prices.

Late showing doesn't slow Carruthers pair

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Kitty and Peter Carruthers saved the best for last at the U.S. Figure Skating Championships.

The two-time defending U.S. pairs champions from the Skate Club of Wilmington, Del., didn't get on the ice until 12:35 a.m. today, but put on a stylish show featuring crowd-pleasing camel spins and lifts to win the short program.

"Ron was sensible about our workouts," Peter Carruthers said, noting the team didn't work out Wednesday before performing. A long opening ceremony and unscheduled maintenance work on the Civic Arena ice delayed their performance until after most of the fans had gone home.

The dazzling "Carruthers Lift" — in which Peter hurls his sister into the air, spins around and still manages to catch her — is unmatched in U.S. skating and makes them the favorites to win tonight's final program. The short program accounted for 29 percent of the scoring, with the other 71 percent determined tonight.

The long-anticipated duel between defending ladies national champion Rosalynn Summers, 18, of Edmunds, Wash., and world champion Elaine Zayak, 17, of Paramus, N.J., began Wednesday with the compulsories and continues tonight with the short program. The finals will be Friday night.

Melissa Thomas of Massapequa, N.Y., won the compulsories, with Summers second and Vikki deVries, 18, of Colorado Springs, Colo., placing third. Zayak was fourth.

Scott Hamilton, stripped of his closest competition from the last two years, began his attempt for a third consecutive national men's

McEnroe works hard in U.S. Indoors opener

PHILADELPHIA (P) — John McEnroe won his opening match in defense of his U.S. Pro Indoor tennis singles title, but it wasn't the type of victory he preferred.

McEnroe, the top seed, needed six straight points in the first set tiebreaker and a couple of service breaks in the third set to defeat John Sadri, an unseeded player with a big serve who got into the tournament through qualifying rounds.

After the 7-6, 4-6, 6-3 triumph Wednesday night, McEnroe came to a press session with his left elbow wrapped in a large ice pack.

Asked about the ice pack, McEnroe said he probably has tennis elbow, but the injury hasn't been bothering him that much.

McEnroe said it was the fifth time he had played

Vincent's rainbow jumper sinks Lakers in Big D again

DALLAS (AP) — Jay Vincent had everything in his favor as the clock wound down in the Dallas Mavericks' contest with the world champion Los Angeles Lakers.

Vincent had the ball just 12 feet away from the basket and was lining up one of his favorite shots, a soft jumper. The only problem was the outstretched arm of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the Lakers' 7-2 center who had dominated the Mavericks all evening.

But Vincent somehow saw enough of the basket to guide his rainbow shot in, giving the Mavericks a 122-120 victory over the Lakers Wednesday night in a game Vincent will not soon forget.

Vincent, who said he last won a game at the buzzer in his college days when his 30-footer beat Michigan, rebounded teammate Brad Davis' missed shot on the left side of the basket with two seconds on the clock.

For the Lakers, 34-10, it was the second loss at Dallas in as many visits this season, and both came at the buzzer before capacity crowds of 17,134.

Knicks 109, Spurs 98

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Len "Truck" Robinson can't quite put his finger on it, but the nine-year pro basketball veteran always seems to catch fire when he steps into HemisFair Arena.

Robinson scored 21 points — 16 of them in the second half — and snared 10 rebounds as the Knicks defeated the San Antonio Spurs 109-98 in a National Basketball Association game Wednesday night.

While Robinson was hitting 10 of 14 shots from the field, his teammates were shutting down the Spurs.

George Gervin led San Antonio with 33, 17 of them in the fourth quarter to narrow the margin. Artis Gilmore finished with 23 points and Mike Mitchell 12.

Rockets 135, Nuggets 128

HOUSTON (AP) — For Houston Rockets guard Allen Leavell, Wednesday's game was a chance to wake up from Tony Jay's nightmare.

A day after his team was dealt a 53-point loss in Chicago, Leavell scored a career-high 42 points to lead Houston to a 135-128 victory over the Denver Nuggets in a National Basketball Association game.

Houston, which won its third straight home game, got a season-high 23 points from Wally Walker and 21 more from James Bailey.

In other games, the Lakes nipped the Spurs 33-30 when Carlton Clark, who scored 23 points, hit a three-point play with eight seconds to play and the Bulldogs silenced the Jazz 37-24. Ronnie Ruiz had nine points as the Bulldogs took over second place.

Saturday's game finds the Jazz and Spurs playing at 12 noon, Stars and Lakers at 1 p.m. and Hawk and Bulldogs at 2 p.m.

Stars shine in YMCA basketball

Kiley Jones and Nick Gauer scored 18 points each as the Stars broke the all-time YMCA scoring record with a 56-17 victory over the Hawks.

The Stars' fast-break offense led by Will Rutherford's 14 assists was fatal to the Hawks. The win boosted the Stars to a league-leading 4-0 record. Abner Shellman added 12 points while the Jarid brothers — Matt and Michael — teamed for 13 for the Hawks.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, FEB. 4, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A time not to resent slight or make sudden changes, or you could fail to gain your objectives. Accept conditions as they are and don't become irritated with others at this time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Try to please your friends today instead of talking about personal worries. Show more consideration for the one you love.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't irritate a higher-up or you could have more trouble than you can handle. Show increased devotion to family members.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be alert to opportunities but don't jump into anything hastily. Studying old situations that need clarification brings right answers.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use care and tact in attending to promises and gain the respect of others. A new outlet can be profitable.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have to be tactful with an associate and prevent some action that could be detrimental to you both. Think constructively.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Quietly straighten out any errors at work and avoid getting panicky. A co-worker could be distraught so give words of encouragement.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have to be more sensible where practical matters are concerned to gain your aims at this time. Be poised.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Any situations that arise today should be considered from a standpoint of how they will affect you and family members.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Attend to duties that must be done early in the day so you'll have time for social activities later. Be cheerful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You need to apply yourself more now to gain your cherished wishes. Sidestep one who will impose on you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use good sense today, especially in the face of a possible emergency. Also, be sure to show thoughtfulness for others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Carry through with original plans even though you may be limited in some way. Use diplomacy in your business dealings.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who has to be taught to seek sensible solutions for whatever is puzzling and thereby avoid trouble. Direct education along lines of entertainment since there is talent in this chart. Don't neglect ethical training.

Hallmark sends mushy greetings to TV

By FRED ROTHENBERG

AP Television Writer
NEW YORK—In a more perfect and sentimental world, Cupid's arrows always land in the right place and Hallmark's viewer Valentine, "Thursday's Child," would be on tonight, and not two days ago.

That was the preference of Hallmark, the card company that has offered warm, mushy greetings and full sponsorship of exemplary television programs for over three decades.

Hallmark believes the best time for its commercial messages is Thursday night, 10 days before the holiday. If an advertiser is going to inspire somebody to buy Christmas or Valentine's Day cards, it should be closer to the weekend shopping period, the cardmaker reasons.

Since CBS generally broadcasts movies on Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday nights, Thursday, actually, was not a strong possibility. But Wednesday night probably would have meant more "I love you."

Joseph Curran, Hallmark's corporate vice president, understands, however, that television accommodates advertisers, when possible, but not at the expense of larger station profits.

"Thursday's Child," about a courageous

Television

17-year-old with a degenerative heart condition, is the kind of sentimental family entertainment that appeals to Hallmark and establishes the right climate for cheerfully solicitous prose.

But it was judged too sweet by CBS to attract the heavy viewership required in the February sweeps, when ratings fix local stations' advertising rates for the next three months. (The Arbitron ratings service began its sweeps Wednesday night. Nielsen's sweeps measurements begin tonight.)

"If we had a choice, we'd want to position ourselves at the beginning of a peak selling period," says Curran.

The last "Hallmark Hall of Fame" presentation also came too early for filmed prevented Hallmark from influencing the script, a privilege it exercises as full sponsor, strongly suggesting changes "not to act as censors," says Curran, "but to make sure it's family entertainment and it doesn't have unnecessary language, violence or sex."

In any event, the film worked for both CBS and Hallmark. Effectively counterprogrammed against ABC's usually dominant escapist fare, "Love Boat" and "Fantasy Island," "Witness" finished 17th in the week's ratings, and ranked higher than any other Saturday show.

"Witness" broke all the TV commandments," says Steve Mills, a CBS vice president for TV movies. "Thou shalt not do movies with British actors, or in confined courtrooms, or remakes, or films for older audiences."

Policewoman takes bite out of crime

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A policewoman put the bite on a robbery suspect when he tried to grab her gun, and the wound led to his arrest when he sought hospital treatment, authorities said.

Patrolwoman Azell Smith, 39, was leaving a post office when she saw a man grab a woman's purse, said Sgt. Chip Phippen.

Ms. Smith gave chase in her car and found the man behind a nearby lounge, looking through the purse. She identified herself as a police officer and attempted to arrest the man, Phippen said, but he tried to grab the gun.

As they struggled, the gun discharged, shooting the patrolwoman in the right foot. Then Ms. Smith bit the man in the cheek.

"She said she was doing everything she could to get him off of her," Phippen said. The man fled without the gun, and Ms. Smith fired one shot but missed.

Security officers at University Medical Center later notified police that a man had sought treatment for a bite wound.

Sister Judy

Missionary finds lives to help in bordello town

By RANDALL HACKLEY
Associated Press Writer

LAS PALOMAS, Mexico — Sister Judy watches with restraint as three women soliciting business of a more sensual nature slink down a muddy Mexican street.

"Of course it makes me sad. The prostitutes tell me there's no other way they can support their children," says Sister Judy, an American in self-imposed exile in this bleak Northern Mexican border town since 1978.

An avowed celibate who belongs to Kansas' conservative Order of St. Joseph's, Sister Judy on first blush would seem on opposite ends of the moral spectrum with the 50 to 100 prostitutes she says thrive in this town of 6,000.

"It's really bad because Las Palomas is used as a safe appeal to the U.S. customers (because prostitution is legal in Mexico). The men have their first experience in the bar; some older men seem hooked on it," she said.

Odd talk from a member of the Concordia, Kan., -based religious group, but at 41, Judith Stephens harbors no malice toward these women of the night.

"I understand now their desperation and know also what it's like to live close to the ground," she said.

Sister Judy didn't always live in the dank, two-room adobe hut she calls home.

Born in Denver, she has bachelor's and master's degrees in religious studies from Marymount College of Salina, Kan.

But she came to this two-bar town 60 miles west of El Paso, Texas, because her truck stalled in front of Palomas' Guadalupe Church on way to a mission in a nearby Mexican town. Thinking it an omen, she stayed.

"Personally, I didn't like Palomas. When the truck broke down here, I said to God, 'Oh no, not Palomas!'"

She moved to this pot-holed town known mostly for its bordellos after religious stints in Chicago and Silver City, N.M. Now, she is welcomed as a savior among the town's residents, burdened by the worst economic setback in Mexico since the 1910-20 national revolution.

...in self-imposed exile

She does out monthly offerings of clothes and food from a dispensary she set up here with the assistance of a Las Cruces, N.M., church, and often donates money to the town's many poor.

"Our faith is based on charity," she says. She also admits life is difficult for all here.

Last year, three peso devaluations halved the buying power of local residents. Mexico's foreign debt alone averages about $1,100 for each of Mexico's 77 million residents, and most earn no more than the 455 pesos per day minimum wage — $3 daily.

Life in Palomas also has been exceedingly harsh this winter. One man froze to death on a nearby farm during a recent snowstorm. Two others died from respiratory illnesses brought on by the cold in what officially is the worst Mexican winter in 30 years.

But Sister Judy lives just as the Mexicans here: The roof of her spartan adobe home leaks; her gasoline bills, like everyone else's, have increased tenfold in two years.

As stoic as she seems, the dark-haired woman admits a hankering for things many Americans take for granted: she misses good movies, and using the temperamental Mexican telephone system to call her family and friends often is a daylong ordeal.

Still, she loves serving a God she describes as half-male, half-female in a town worlds away from modern America.

"It's like getting hit over the head — the difference between this town and a couple miles up the road in Columbus (N.M.)," she said.

"There's also the immediate clash of being from the First World (the United States) and living in the Third World," Sister Judy adds. "But I've come to know a quality of life here and the kind of wisdom that comes out of suffering that you wouldn't believe. Still, I can't understand why some say I should leave a country so beautiful."

The country may seem lovely to Sister Judy, but border patrol officials say apprehensions of illegal aliens along the 1,760-mile U.S.-Mexico frontier is about 25 percent higher this year than the same time last year.

"I know they want to leave. Who came blame them? They can't find work here and when they do, it's for almost nothing — 455 pesos a day is nothing," she said.

The poverty she witnesses appalls her, because she thinks the Mexican government hasn't taken care of all its people, only those in power.

"Most live hand-to-mouth here and most of the time it never gets to the mouth," she said.

The people's belief in her and her God makes up for any hardships she endures.

"They've got faith in God, even though many may not be in church each Sunday," she said. "And that, to me, is more touching than in the U.S., where you see people go to church once a week dressed in their fur coats."

Panel wants to move refugee camps from border

By SOLL SUSSMAN
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY — A congressional committee will propose that Guatemalan refugee camps be moved from the border to keep them from being targets for armed incursions, the official El Nacional newspaper reported Wednesday.

In a front-page article, it quoted committee chairman Luis Danton Rodriguez as saying that the camps should be at least a half mile away from the Guatemalan border and each should be kept to a low population.

Danton, of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, heads the Chamber of Deputies' Foreign Relations Committee.

He said the committee would make its proposals to the Foreign Ministry and Interior Department.

Danton also was quoted as saying that incursions by Guatemalan military and paramilitary forces were intended as a provocation.

"If that were not the intention, they (the Guatemalans) could have resorted to other means, such as seeking the extradition of common delinquents — supposing that they were found in the refugee camps," he said.

The legislator also urged that Mexico turn to diplomatic and political channels to prevent any repetition of the armed attacks, rather than repelling them by violence.

Mexico's Interior Ministry denounced on Sunday a cross-border raid Jan. 26 by an armed band of about 100 men who raided a refugee camp in the southern state of Chiapas, killing four Guatemalans and kidnapping a fifth.

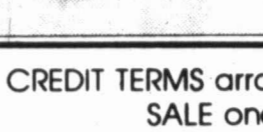

It was the latest in a series of incidents.

The Guatemalan government information office in Guatemala City denied the reported border violations.

Herald business manager named 'Boss of the Year'

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Dick Johnson, business manager of The Big Spring Herald, was named Boss Of The Year during the American Business Women's Association Scenic Chapter's Annual Boss Night Banquet held last night at the Cactus Room of Howard College.

The banquet honored all chapter members' employers.

Debbie Johnke, receptionist at The Herald, nominated Johnson for the award.

"My boss has all the qualifications to be Boss of the Year," Mrs. Johnke's nominating letter said. "He has earned the respect of all his employees and co-workers by being understanding, polite and putting forth that extra effort it takes to have his people work together with understanding and cooperation."

The letter mentions Johnson's background in school, military service, newspapers, business management, community and church involvement and family life, which included being a foster parent.

"I think my boss should be Boss of the Year because he takes the time to train and cross-train his employee's so we can do our jobs to the best of our ability," Mrs. Johnke's letter said. "He encourages us to learn and advance in position, but best of all, he not only listens to us, he hears what we are saying."

The award was presented by Jim Reese, keynote speaker at the banquet.

Former mayor of Odessa, Reese spoke on the "Spirit of Volunteerism in the United States." No other country in the world is blessed with the spirit and amount of volunteerism as the United States has, he said. The volunteer spirit was founded in this country and is its strength and salvation, he said.

Volunteerism is necessary to make the government more worthwhile, he said. Reese said he believes the spirit of volunteerism will live and that "liberty will grow old in the hands of children."

Reese is senior vice president of Eppler, Guerin, and Turner, Inc., a member firm of the New York Stock Exchange. Reese is active in the Republican party, the Easter Seals Society, the Odessa, Texas, and United States Jaycees and many other organizations. He is married to the former Jayne Damron and has three children.

Also during the banquet, Sherry Templeton presented a vocational speech about her position as classified ad salesperson at The Herald.

Farm Bureau begins improvement plan

Howard County Farm Bureau Paul Hopper has announced a countywide project to increase involvement and effectiveness of the farm organization. Hopper said the purpose of the 17-point project was to improve present programs and establish new services.

"The majority of the items in the plan are a direct result of what our membership has asked for," Hopper said. "We have made some large steps in the last 12 months to respond to our members' directives."

Hopper said the Howard County organization had risen rapidly in the state hierarchy and would do better with increased member involvement. The program is scheduled to begin Feb. 7 in conjunction with Farm Bureau Week, Hopper said.

Strike slows local truck traffic, but not economy

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The three-day-old national strike by independent truckers has caused a slight decrease in 18-wheel traffic here but has yet to seriously threaten the Permian Basin economy. Many truckers, however, admit they're afraid of the violence which has marred the truckers' protest in the East.

"As far as right now we haven't had any negative impact from the strike," said Dallas Musgrave, operations manager for Rip Griffin's Truck Service Centers on I-20.

Musgrave said business is generally off at truck stops during the early part of the week making it difficult to gauge the impact of the strike.

He also said harsh weather in the north and southeast parts of the country may have slowed down truck traffic through this part of the country.

The Lamesa 66 Truck Stop and Truck Town in Colorado City reported business was down this week because of the striking truckers.

Two independent truckers moving through town yesterday said they felt squeezed between loyalty to fellow truckers and the grim facts of the economy.

The truckers asked to not be named or photographed for fear they might become targets of violence from persons supporting the strike.

"I agree with the aims of the strike," said an independent trucker from El Paso. "But I also know I have to keep up payments on my rig and the only way to do that is work."

The strike is primarily protesting a five-cent boost in fuel taxes and increased highway user fees recently proposed by the Department of Transportation. The proposals are set to take effect in 1985.

"There's a lot of guys operating close to the edge," he said. "And more taxes and fuel increases are going to push them right over that edge into unemployment."

The El Paso trucker and a fellow driver from Tennessee are worried about violence directed toward truckers still on the road. As of today, 25 states have reported incidents of violence and one trucker has been killed during the strike.

"You wonder if keeping up payments on a rig is worth it if there's a chance you could get hurt or killed," the Tennessee truck driver said.

While the El Paso trucker said he would keep trucking, his friend was considering parking his rig until things were safer on the highways.

"It's a little bit scary to be out there now that guns are going off," he said.

As of this morning no reports of violence directed toward truckers had been reported in the Permian Basin, according to a spokesman for the Department of Public Safety in Midland.

Although independent drivers represent less than 15 percent of the trucks on the nation's highways, they haul 90 percent of the fresh food, most of the household goods and half the nation's steel.

Imperial Produce Co. of Midland, a large supplier of wholesale produce to the area, reported that supplies were still rolling in with regularity.

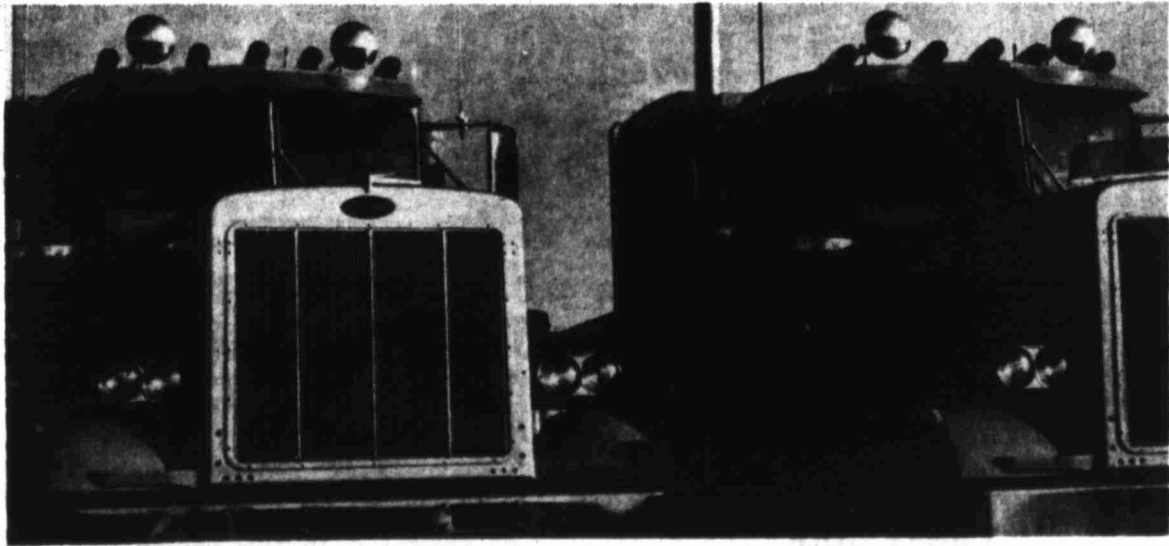

The company is dependent on the independent truckers for its produce. Manager Joe Price said it will take a week before the impact of the strike affects his business.

"Everything is 100 percent go here," said Joe Norwood, owner of Little Joe and Son Produce Kings Inc. in Odessa.

Norwood is expecting six loads of produce in today and doesn't see any problem keeping produce moving to destinations around the country.

"I contract hauling with a man who has nine semis and he's paying $300,000 to $400,000 a month in payments (for the rigs), so he's got to run and he will be dependable," Norwood said.

Reports have been released saying that anywhere from 20,000 to 70,000 of the nation's 100,000 independent truckers have joined in the strike.

PARKED FOR NOW — The three-day-old independent truckers strike has slowed truck traffic down in the Big Spring area; however, most businesses report shipments are arriving with regularity. Outbreaks of violence against truckers still on the road have occurred in 22 states, but no incidents have been reported in Texas.

Dora Roberts Foundation gives $150,000 to hospital

LUBBOCK — The Dora Roberts Foundation of Big Spring has donated $150,000 toward the planned expansion of the Harlan Hodges Cancer Therapy Center at Methodist Hospital.

"It is our pleasure to donate the money to help Methodist Hospital meet one of its priority health care needs," said Mrs. Dorothy Garrett, a trustee of the foundation and former patient at the hospital. "We wanted to use the funds to benefit the hospital and the greatest number of people possible. An investment in Methodist is an in the future of the finest health care facility in West Texas."

Since 1974, the Dora Roberts Foundation has made substantial gifts to Methodist Hospital totalling more than $600,000. One series of gifts in 1974-1976 helped make possible the Dorothy Garrett Coronary Care Unit on the north and east wings of the seventh floor, West Building.

Continuing aid to treatment of coronary patients, gifts were made of a cardiac catheterization laboratory (1978) and a heart lung pump (1979). In 1980, the foundation donated a nuclear medicine scanner to the hospital, which is used to make non-invasive (non-surgical) studies of organs such as the heart to determine variables such as size, shape, precise location, extent of damage, presence of tumors, and effectiveness of treatments.

TIPS FOR ENERGY SAVERS

How to Save Electricity Before It Comes To You

During late afternoon and early evening hours, the load on the nation's electrical systems usually reaches its peak. To meet the heavy demand, electric utilities often must use back-up generating equipment that is not energy efficient.

Try to use energy-intensive appliances such as dishwashers, clothes washers and dryers, and electric ovens in the early morning or late evening hours to help reduce that peak load.

This energy-saving tip is brought to you by the classified advertising department in the interest of energy conservation.

Reagan aides forecast 1.6 million new jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Facing a bombardment of criticism from Democrats demanding jobs programs, President Reagan's chief economic advisers said today that his 1984 budget proposal would bring about a recovery producing 1.6 million new jobs this year.

Formally opening the battle of the budget, director David Stockman of the Office of Management and Budget, chairman Martin Feldstein of the Council of Economic Advisers and Treasury Secretary Donald Regan testified before the House Appropriations Committee.

"I believe we have fashioned a reasonable approach to the deficit problem that should be credible to the financial markets, the Congress and the American people," said Regan.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill has said Democrats will agree on a $5 billion to $7 billion jobs program to offset 10.8 percent unemployment.

But Stockman reiterated the administration position that the jobless will be better served if the federal deficit is reduced, thus stimulating the economy.

Predicting economic growth of 3 percent to 4 percent this year, he said, "If that is achieved we will have 1.6 million more jobs by fall than we have this day."

pects another 4.6 million new jobs over the next year and a half.

Under questioning, Regan said the tax cuts enacted on the president's urging in 1981 will reduce federal revenue by $63.5 billion in 1983 and another $88 billion in 1984.

Some Democrats have said they will seek to postpone or kill the third year of the tax cut, scheduled to take effect in July, as a means of reducing the deficit.

Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., chairman of the 43-member appropriations panel, said he did not understand how the administration can propose a standby tax increase for 1986 while continuing to defend the tax reduction for 1983.

The logic of that, Whitten said, "goes around and around and around."

Reagan sent his $848.5 billion budget blueprint to Capitol Hill on Monday. It was met by criticism by Democrats who have their own ideas for reducing federal deficits.

"I don't think his (Reagan's) budget would have much chance of passing the House," said O'Neill, D-Mass. "It's going to be pretty difficult," for Reagan to get his budget enacted, said Sen. Lawton Chiles of Florida, the senior Democrat on the Senate Budget Committee.
