College's open house yesterday that spotlighted the school's dental facilities, occupational-technical building and baseball field.

Open house HC dental program spotlighted

Howard College, in its attempt to provide top-flight education in the vocational-technical field, unveiled its modernized dental hygiene program yesterday during open house ceremonies at the school.

The facility is designed to take students through a two-year program encompassing classroom and laboratory work to prepare them for career in dental hygiene. Students will get first-hand experience with x-rays, dental materials, teeth cleaning and other facets of the profession.

Headed by Bette Buchanan, the program got under way in January with an enrollment of five students, but Mrs. Buchanan is confident class rosters will grow with the program.

"The program is set up to enroll 12 students every fall," Mrs. Buchanan said. "And from all indications it appears we will have no trouble finding students for the program."

It isn't easy to be chosen for the program, according to Mrs. Buchanan. The students are picked after completing stringent application rules based on a point system.

Included in the criteria is the person's high school or college grade average, science background, work experience and ACT score. The student must also have three letters of recommendation, a personal interview with Mrs. Buchanan and have a current cardio-pulmonary resuscitation card.

Once the student is enrolled, he will face an 82-hour program that includes two solid years of schooling including summer sessions. And once accepted, the student may not drop out and re-enter the program, Mrs. Buchanan said.

Tuition and expenses exclusive of room and board will cost an in-state student about $3,294 for two years, $4,144 for an out-of-state student.

Mrs. Buchanan said the program was begun by Howard College to meet a growing need for dental hygienists in the West Texas area.

"We get lots of phone calls and letters from dentists asking about the program," said Mrs. Buchanan, holding up a letter of praise for the program from a local dentist.

"The administration and board saw there was a need and the local dentists supported the program strongly because they cannot get dental hygienists to come to this part of the state," she said.

She said part of the program may be because there are no dental hygiene programs in West Texas.

"We are the only program in a 250-mile radius of Big Spring," Mrs. Buchanan said. "So we feel we can fill the demand of the dentists, while offering students a good chance for a job."

She said dental hygiene is becoming more popular with the public as it begins to see dental prevention as a much less painful and costly way to keep teeth in shape. This demand has also caused more and more dentists to add a hygienist to their staffs, thus opening a new job market.

Vo-Ed facility opened to public

"The best thing that ever happened to Howard College" was open to the public Tuesday as the Occupational-Technical Building held open house on the junior college campus.

Director Joe Rhoades said the building, which opened to the students in January, was a prized possession of the junior college.

"We are just ecstatic," Rhoades said. "People will be really glad to work here."

Rhoades said he expected enrollment in occupational and technical classes to increase due to the new building and the state of the economy. The instructor said Howard College currently had about 150 students in the program.

"The instructors do better, the students get more benefit and they bring in others," Rhoades said.

The new building has four large work areas with high ceilings as well as connected classrooms and offices. The old building — called a "dungeon" by one student — was about one-third the size of the new facility, Rhoades said.

Instructor Bill Sprinkle said space was the main problem in the old facility for his automotive classes. Gesturing around the spacious shop, Sprinkle said "We could get 12 cars in here."

Welding Instructor Al Long told a small tour group he had 17 welding units he could run at one time. Long said he currently had 40 students enrolled in his classes. The teacher said the training students received here could be put to use quickly.

"I've put lots of people to work," Long said.

C-City mayor's race first one in 40 years

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY — After Saturday, Colorado City will have its first elected mayor in almost 40 years.

A 1982 city charter amendment called for popular election of the mayor to a two-year term. Since 1946, the mayor has been appointed by the city council from within its ranks.

Mayor Elmer Martin, a farmer, will be opposed by businessman J.O. Dockery.

Martin was appointed in 1980.

Colorado City Manager Rick Crowley said the amendment to the charter was initiated by the council a year ago.

"It was just an idea the council had to let voters choose," he said. "They put the idea before the people, and it passed."

Martin, who served as county judge from 1958 to 1970 and state legislator from 1973 to 1979, said he is glad Colorado City is being given a choice for mayor.

"It's always good to let people have more of a direct say in government," he said. "We have a number of projects going, such as the remodeling of the sewer plant, that I'd like to see finished."

"My opponent is a good man, but when you have things started you like to see them finished," Martin is in his second term on the council.

Dockery, 54, is owner of Dockery Motor Co. He served as city councilman for four years and is a past president of the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce.

"I think it's good that the mayor will be elected," he said. "You get a much better indication of who should be mayor."

Constable quits

Howard County Constable Bob Smith officially resigned his office Tuesday, saying he wanted to avoid any conflict of interest between his bail-bond company and the constable position.

Smith was elected constable, a non-salaried position, in 1976. He has been writing bail bonds since July 1982.

He had asked Howard County commissioners for a salary last year, but was turned down. Smith said he began his bail-bond company after this refusal.

Smith was granted a license by the newly-formed Howard County

Bail Bond Board March 1 of this year.

The private detective also ran unsuccessfully for justice of the peace last year.

"It has been a pleasure to serve the citizens of Howard County as constable ... and it is with regret that I tender this resignation," Smith said.

Howard County Judge Milton Kirby said no plans have been made yet to fill the vacancy. Smith's resignation was a mutually-agreed issue, Kirby said. A conflict of interest could have developed with a constable writing bonds, Kirby said.

CISD taps new leader

COAHOMA — The Coahoma school board has chosen a new superintendent from 57 applicants.

Jerry Doyle, 41, superintendent of the Kress Independent School District in Kress, Texas, will begin duties in Coahoma on a part-time basis after May 25. He has been given a three-year contract.

"We feel we have found a man who will be an asset to our school and our community," a press release from the school board said.

Doyle has 16 years experience in education, according to his resume supplied to the board. He has been school superintendent in Kress since 1979. From 1975 to 1979 he worked as a principal in the Menard

Independent School District. He has also taught junior high science in Fort Stockton and mathematics in Pearsall.

He has also taught lower grades in public schools in Lubbock and Plains.

Doyle's salary will be $6,100 above state base with a house and all bills furnished, the school board said.

Doyle graduated from high school in Eldorado. He received an associate of arts degree from San Angelo Junior College in 1962 and a bachelor of science degree in government and history from Texas Tech in 1965.

About 200 Big Spring residents will get a chance next month to anonymously express their opinion of the city police department.

The community relations service of the U.S. Justice Department will conduct a survey here to examine the police department's relationship with the community.

Big Spring is the second of about 20 Texas cities that the justice department will survey. A pilot survey in Mission, Texas, was conducted in January.

Robert F. Greenwald, regional mediator for the community relations service, said he developed the survey after two month's research. He was here last week to organize the project.

"One of the most pressing areas of social conflict is between law enforcement officials and the community," Greenwald said. "The problem is that many people do not

Q. What happened to the new sewer jet the city was supposed to get? The present one is a monster.

The contract should be awarded at the April 12 council meeting.

District gauging water quality at local lake

The Colorado River Municipal Water District will be looking into the possibility of a second diversion on Beals Creek in an effort to upgrade the quality of water in Lake E.V. Spence.

CRMWD directors have authorized an engineering study on alternative courses for intercepting the normal flow of the creek, which is now heavily laden with chlorides.

General Manager O.H. Ivie, said there are several potential sites that could be used to divert water a lower the chloride level of the water.

Ivie mentioned a point eight miles east of Big Spring below the Moss Creek Road crossing where the chloride level stabilizes, and diminishes slightly, that might be used for a dam to intercept the flow. The water could then be diverted to side storage and left until needed.

Ivie was also given authority by directors to set up a plan of releases from Lake Spence, coordinated with potential inflows. The directors said releasing some of the present content and replacing it with floodwater will help to remove some of the chloride content in the lake.

In other business the directors:

- Approved a maximum of $125,000 for consultant studies to check into the possibility of replacing old microwave equipment at the Big Spring-Odesa intake and Morgan Creek booster station.

- The funds will also be used for studies to increase the efficiency of the Martin County pump equipment.

- Heard a report that negotiations were continuing for the acquisition of additional ground water rights on the western end of CRMWD system to be used as back-up source during summer peak demands.

"Elmer (Martin) is a real good friend of mine and I think he's done a really good job. I just think I could do a better job," he said.

In other races, three persons will run unopposed for three at-large, two-year city council terms.

Incumbents Dr. Don Bennett, a chiropractor, and Ray Mason, assistant director of Root Memorial Hospital and a former city manager, will seek re-election. They are being challenged by Diane Hearne, secretary of the Mitchell County Farm Bureau.

Councilman Macca Findley did not file for re-election.

• Three candidates are running unopposed for three three-year, at-large terms on the Colorado City Independent School District Board of trustees.

Incumbents Eddie Piland, a pharmacist, and Dr. Pat A. Thomas, an osteopath, are seeking re-election. Dwayne Thomas, a farmer, has also filed for office.

• Five candidates are seeking four two-year, at-large terms on the seven-member Mitchell County Hospital Board.

Incumbents Bobby Lemons, City National Bank vice president; Preston Morris, a former stockman; Glen Hemphill, owner of Mitchell County Utilities; and Herb Mearse, a Loraine Insurance man. Dr. Bill Jones, a physician, is challenging.

Stolen boat recovered

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Mitchell County Sheriff Wendell Bryant says a boat stolen almost two years ago in Irving has been recovered in the south part of Colorado City.

Texas Rangers and the Coahoma police chief worked with the sheriff's office on the case. No charges have been filed, the sheriff's office said.

Handicap aids constructed

The handicapped may soon be able to travel more easily along downtown sidewalks, City Manager Don Davis said yesterday.

Ramps and curb cuts will be constructed into sidewalks downtown as city workers do water line repairs and revalving, he said. The city will be doing extensive valve work and, as they repair what they have torn up in the process, they will build the ramps and curb cuts, he said.

The ramps will not be constructed at every intersection, Davis said. In some places a handicapped person will be able to wheel down one side of the street, but won't be able to get up on the sidewalk on the other side.

However, Davis said he hopes the project can later be extended.

Fund aids fire victims

A fund has been set up at a local bank on behalf of Mike and Melanie Gressett of Howard County. The Gressetts lost all of their possessions when their mobile home burned to the ground recently.

The fund is under Account Number 327-34-74 at State National Bank in Big Spring. Mrs. Gressett is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerald Walker of Salem Community.

SPELLING BEE HOPEFUL — Last year's runner-up Sashi Rajagopalan made a return visit to the Howard County Spelling Bee this afternoon as winner of the Goliad Middle School spelling bee. Sashi, 11, daughter of R. and Sara Rajagopalan, won her school's contest on the word maraud.

COAHOMA SPELLER — Allan Johnke will represent Coahoma Junior High School in the Howard County Spelling Bee today at the Howard College Auditorium. Allan made it to the county contest by winning the spelling bee at his junior high.

Highway commissioner appointed

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate today confirmed the appointment of Houston businessman Robert Lanier to the state highway commission despite a senator's protest that it would mean an all-urban commission for the first time in history.

The vote to confirm Lanier was 28-3. Senators also extended "senatorial courtesy" to Sen. Glenn Kothmann, D-San Antonio, in rejecting 0-31 the appointment of Van Henry Archer Jr. to the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, said he understood that Lanier "is a very fine and capable individual," but

Gov. Mark White had made a "fundamental error" in naming yet another person from Houston to the three-member commission.

Lanier, 58, was chosen to replace A. Sam Waldrop of Abilene, whose term expired. The other commissioners are Robert Dedman of Dallas and John Butler of Houston.

Jones said the only other time two people from the same city had been on the commission was during the 1920s when two San Antonio men were commissioners. However, Jones said, they had moved to San Antonio after their appointments.

2 arrested for prostitution

An agent working for the Big Spring police department went to the Howard House Hotel last night about 10 p.m. disguised as a prospective customer for a prostitute, police said.

Police said a white male took $3 from the agent and, in exchange, arranged for a woman to go to the agent's hotel room. The woman offered and agreed to engage in sexual conduct for a fee, police said.

The set-up resulted in the arrests of Linda Lynne West of Dallas on suspicion of prostitution and Bill F. Jones, a resident at the hotel, on suspicion of promotion of prostitution.

Jones was released after posting a $1,500 bond and Ms. West posted a $500 bond.

Police reports also show the following:

• Sgt. Troy Hogue and two police officers answered a disturbance report at 1901-B Scurry last night and arrested two men on marijuana possession charges.

Fred Marquez, 27, and John Grigaby, 18, were arrested on suspicion of possessing less than 2 ounces of marijuana. Police said the suspects permitted officers to search their residence and that they found a bag of what they believe is marijuana.

• Raymond K. Clark Jr., 20, was arrested yesterday at the Salvation Army at 304 Aylford on suspicion of possessing a firearm with an altered serial number.

• David Gomez, owner of Marco's Liquor Store at 511 N.W. Fourth, told police someone stole nine blank checks Monday from behind the store counter.

Absentee voting totals over 700

More than 700 voters cast absentee ballots in the Big Spring City Council and school board elections, courthouse officials say.

Absentee voting ended yesterday for both elections. The Saturday election will have two polling places: Precinct 1 at the Northside Fire Station and all other precincts at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at Howard College.

Howard County Clerk Margaret Ray said 429 persons voted absentee at the county courthouse for the school board race. She described the turnout as good, but said with the election falling on Easter weekend, more persons probably voted absentee than normally.

City Secretary Thomas Ferguson said 296 people voted absentee at City Hall for the city council election.

Saturday's election should see a turnout of less than 2,000 voters if past trends hold true. School district Assistant Business Manager Don Green said the last three years showed the following school board voting totals: 1982 — 1,567; 1981 — 1,642; and 1980 — 2,463.

Green said the last 10 years — with the exception of 1980 — had showed a voter turnout under 2,000.

The 1982 city elections featured a mayoral race between Mayor Clyde Angel and challenger Jerry Higgins. Approximately 1,700 people voted in that election. Two unopposed candidates received about 200 votes less in the same election.

Howard County boasts 15,587 registered voters, according to Tax Collector Dorothy Moore's office.

Catholic school plans kindergarten addition

Immaculate Heart of Mary School is planning to add another kindergarten, according to principal Sister Lucy Keane.

The second kindergarten will be a full-day program and will help the working parent, she said. Kindergarten is a readiness program for the child, Sister Lucy said.

"This gets the child ready for the educational experience of his life," she said.

She said Immaculate Heart of Mary has the classroom space and the teachers available. The two kindergartens will have a total of 50 students, Sister Lucy said.

Applications for the new kindergarten are being taken through Thursday, Sister Lucy said. However, regular registration does not begin until April 13-15, she said.

The kindergarten program stresses basic skills such as listening skills, muscle skills and social interaction, Sister Lucy said.

"They get everything they would get in school, but at their level," the principal said.

Persons with children who will be 5 years old by Sept. 1 that wish to enroll them in kindergarten can contact the school, Sister Lucy said.

Reagan offers cut in European nukes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today offered to cut back on the planned deployment of new medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe if the Soviet Union agreed to reduce its arsenal of rockets targeted on NATO countries.

Even if the proposal is accepted, the United States would begin installing new Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in Europe late this year as scheduled, while the Soviet Union would be required to dismantle some of its medium-range weapons. The Kremlin's chief arms negotiator, asked about the offer Tuesday, said, "I'm not optimistic."

Revealing a compromise plan to his "zero-zero" proposal to eliminate all medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe, Reagan said in a nationally broadcast statement from the White House that "it would be better to have none than to have some. But, if there must be some, it is better to have few than to have many."

"If the Soviets will not now agree to the total elimination of these weapons," Reagan said, "I hope they will at least join us in an interim agreement that would substantially reduce these forces to equal levels on both sides."

The Soviets have flatly rejected the zero-zero proposal and The United States' NATO allies have urged that the Reagan administration make a scaled-down proposal.

Reagan did not propose a specific limit on the number of weapons. A senior administration official who spoke on condition he not be named said the numbers of missiles allowed under the new U.S. proposal would be the subject of negotiations with the Soviets.

Accusing Moscow of failing to offer any serious alternatives to the zero-zero formula, Reagan said, "Their failure to make such a proposal is a source of deep disappointment to all of us who have wished that these weapons might be eliminated — or at least significantly reduced."

"But I do not intend to let this shadow that has been cast over the Geneva negotiations further darken our search for peace," Reagan said. Reagan's announcement confirmed earlier reports that a new proposal was put on the bargaining table in Geneva on Tuesday.

Accompanying Reagan's announcement was a White House statement saying the NATO allies "welcome and strongly support the new American intermediate nuclear force negotiating initiative announced by the president today."

"It represents a significant step designed to move the INF negotiations toward conclusion of an equal, fair and verifiable arms control agreement," the statement said.

Reagan announced his new strategy in a speech to NATO ambassadors, gathered in the East Room.

"NATO will begin deploying a specific deterrent to this threat late this year, unless, as we hope, an agreement to eliminate such weapons would make this deployment unnecessary," Reagan said.

Reagan, noting that the Soviet Union has rejected the zero-zero plan, said Moscow "has failed to come up with any serious alternative. They insist on preserving their present monopoly of these weapons."

The Kremlin has proposed — and Washington has rejected — a plan under which the Soviet Union would scale back its missiles to 162 rockets — matching the number of British and French missiles — if the United States abandoned plans to deploy its new weapons.

A senior administration official said the United States has asked Moscow not to reject the proposal out of hand. "We have asked them not to in any preemptive way come forward and disagree with it until they have had a chance to seriously consider it and before the negotiators have a chance to discuss it."

The talks recessed Tuesday and the United States asked the Soviet Union to agree to resuming them May 17, two weeks ahead of schedule.

OFFERS MISSILE CUTS — President Reagan offered today to cut back on the planned deployment of new medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe if the Soviet Union would agree to reduce its missiles aimed at NATO countries.

Artificial heart patient buried

FEDERAL WAY, Wash. (AP) — Barney Clark, laid to rest as a cold rain fell on 1,300 mourners, was eulogized as "our hero in this chapter of history" who blazed a medical trail with his artificial heart that thousands of patients will someday follow.

"In time, 50,000 men and women per year will be restored to a world while existence with the artificial heart in the United States alone," said Dr. Willem Kolff, director of the University of Utah Division of Artificial Organs, as Clark was buried Tuesday near his home town.

About 1,300 people turned out in cold, driving rain for the funeral service at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Stake Center, south of Seattle, where the retired dentist was eulogized as a selfless hero.

"To a world increasingly filled with hopelessness and despair, he stood quietly and resolutely for an entirely different view of life," said Elder Neal A. Maxwell of the Mormon Church's Council of the Twelve Apostles. "His impact was immense — greater than he could possibly know."

He called the 62-year-old Clark "a selfless pioneer, adding a new dimension to the Mormon pioneer tradition in which those who lost their loved ones crossing the plains nevertheless picked up their handcars and headed west."

Clark, the walls of his diseased heart as thin as tissue paper, on Dec. 2 traded a peaceful, imminent death for a painful future with the experimental, air-driven heart.

Rarely without pain after the operation at the University of Utah Medical Center, an uncomplaining Clark shook off death time and again for 112 days until circulatory collapse and multiple organ failure overtook him a week ago today.

Future recipients of the plastic heart "will experience that their borrowed days, weeks, months or years of survival are a precious gift which they owe to Barney Clark and (his wife) Una Loy," said Kolff.

In remarks directed to Mrs. Clark, Kolff spoke of the operation and its effect on the patient, his family and the doctors.

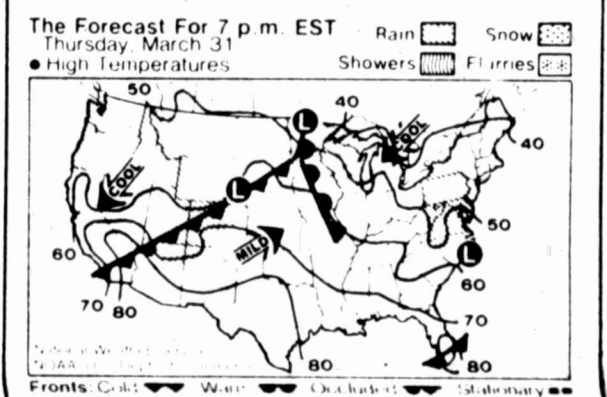

"It is not so much life we wanted to prolong, but happiness we wanted to create... We had hoped we could have given Dr. Barney Clark a higher quality of life," Kolff said. "Dr. Barney Clark is our hero, Una Loy is our heroine in this chapter of history."

The second artificial heart will be implanted within six months, Dr. William DeVries, Clark's surgeon, has said. Doctors hope to expand guidelines for the experiment to allow use on patients not as sick as Clark was.

Clark's body, in a closed walnut casket draped with yellow roses and carnations, was wheeled slowly into the chapel, followed by his wife, sons Stephen and Gary, daughter Karen Shaffer, five grandchildren and members of the medical team.

Clark was remembered by his dental partner, Theodore Lund, as a man devoted to golf who "could literally knock the cover off the ball. He never lacked for a foursome." Clark, he recalled, treated patients like family members.

Weather

Clearing, warmer

By The Associated Press
Showers and thundershowers decreased across Texas early today as a weak low pressure system lost its grip on the state.

Drizzle and dense fog were widespread across the Panhandle, Central and South Texas and along the coastal waters. Skies were mostly cloudy statewide.

Pre-dawn temperatures were mostly in the 40s, 50s and 60s. Readings at 4 a.m. ranged from 31 at Amarillo to 70 at McAllen and Brownsville.

The forecast called for a clearing trend through tonight, followed by warmer temperatures Thursday.

West Texas — Fair through Thursday. Highs 68 Panhandle to 77 south and 85 Big Bend valleys. Lows 40 Panhandle to 52 south except 38 mountains. Highs Thursday 78 Panhandle and mountains to 86 south and near 90 Big Bend valleys.

Texas car liability insurance could rise 50 %

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill under study by a House subcommittee would raise the minimum amount of car liability insurance Texas motorists must carry by more than 50 percent.

Insurance rates for liability coverage would go up by a statewide average of 10 percent for motorists now carrying the minimum protection required, said sponsor Rep. Don Lee, D-Harlingen. Lee operates an insurance agency in the Lower Rio Grande Valley city that sells automobile insurance.

His bill was sent to a subcommittee of the House Insurance Committee on Tuesday.

Dallas lawyer Richard Geiger, a lobbyist representing Fire and Casualty Companies in Texas, testified that 55 percent of Texas motorists already carry more than the required minimum liability insurance.

He said, therefore, the impact of increasing the minimum amount of insurance required would affect only 45 percent of the motorists in Texas. Besides that, he said, the amount of increase would vary greatly, since rates vary according to 15 classifications of motorists and 40 geographic regions.

At present, the law requires liability protection of $10,000 per person injured in an accident, $20,000 for total medical expenses, and $5,000 for property damage.

Lee said most cars today cost more than $5,000. He proposed raising the limits to $15,000 per person for medical expenses, $30,000 per accident for injuries and $15,000 for property damage.

Lee said the minimum rates have not been changed in the past 20 years, although it was not until 1981 that motorists were required by law to have liability insurance or post a bond.

The bill was referred to a subcommittee. Another proposal sent Tuesday to an insurance subcommittee would allow motorists cited for not having proof of insurance to get the ticket dismissed by later showing up in court with the proof that they were insured when they got the ticket.

DPS records chief George Griffin testified that is already the current policy. The bill's sponsor, Rep. Gene Green, D-Houston, said an attorney general's opinion issued earlier this year said the same thing his bill says — you violate the law only when you drive without insurance, not when you drive without proof of insurance.

"But some justices of the peace refuse to abide by an AG's opinion," Green said. "They say they just go by the black letter of the law, and this bill would make it the law."

Bill would hike employers' taxes

AUSTIN (AP) — Under a bill on its way to the full House, Texas employers would pay a one-time average tax of $1.80 per employee so the state can borrow another $300 million from the federal government to pay unemployment claims.

The emergency employers tax was approved Tuesday by the House Labor and Employment Relations Committee. The tax would be due with the employers' first-quarter 1983 taxes.

Rep. Lloyd Criss, D-LaMarque, who sponsored the measure, said the tax was calculated at 5 percent of the unemployment tax paid by employers in 1982. Texas has had to borrow $383 million from the federal government already because of escalating state unemployment and a corresponding drain on Texas' unemployment fund.

Employment officials have told Gov. Mark White the state will need another $300 million by mid-May to pay 1983 unemployment claims.

Last year, the Legislature met in a special session to change the formula used to calculate employer taxes to avoid a huge tax hike. Legislators also, however, decreed that the state cannot borrow additional money from the federal government unless it can guarantee payment of the 10 percent interest the government charges the state.

Criss said his bill would provide enough money to back the new loan request. Although unhappy about the situation, representatives of business groups who testified before the House Labor and Employment Relations Committee Tuesday said Criss' bill is the best alternative for coming up with the interest money.

The committee also heard testimony on Criss' general unemployment tax bill, a longer-term measure that would once again change the formula under which employer taxes are calculated.

2018 Grain Sorghum

Great Standability

NK Brand 2018 is a medium early maturing hybrid well adapted to non-irrigated farming conditions from central Texas to South Dakota. It has good greenbug resistance and standability. In test, yields have been high for a hybrid of this maturity. The semi-open heads dry down quickly and thresh easily.

Plantings of 2018 are not recommended for areas where downy mildew or smut are severe problems.

Descriptive Data:

Plant Type — Short, uniform, drought tolerant, medium early maturing hybrid. The semi-open heads are well exerted on strong standing plants.

Head Type — Semi-open, bronze color grain, high test weight — yellow endosperm grain.

Insect Resistance — Very good resistance to greenbugs.

Area of Use — Especially well adapted for areas with 12" to 18" of moisture and 130-150 day growing season.

Mariah Mom asks for help

Dear Editor,

Big Spring is the home of a very special group of young people called Mariah. They hosted the Second Annual State Color Guard Championship competition in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum this past weekend. There were 19 color guards present in our city from as far away as Denver, Colo., and Houston. Mariah was named Texas State Champion for the second year that the event was held. Even though this group has received tremendous support from our local businesses and neighbors, I want everyone in Big Spring to realize how well Mariah represents our community.

To begin with, these talented young people are chosen from the Big Spring High School band. They practice an average of 10 hours a week, including week-ends. They have traveled at their own expense on the weekends for competitions all over Texas, Colorado, and Oklahoma. They have competed six times this past year.

To conserve money, they carry sleeping bags and sleep on gym floors and shower in these borrowed lodgings. Because they are not included in the school's program budget, the parents furnish cars and gasoline for these trips. Each student is responsible for his or her own food expense.

In addition to the student's dedication, the Mariah staff donates many hours to designing the shows to be performed and overseeing practice sessions without receiving any remuneration.

The staff consists of Bill Bradley, Bonnie Anderson, Victor Mellinger, and Tracy Burch. Miss Anderson and Mr. Bradley are two of our band directors who have devoted several years of service to building this organization to its present stature. Victor Mellinger is a former color guard member and is presently a student at Texas Tech who comes home on weekends to help with the training. Tracy Burch who is from Denver, Colo., has spent the past school year in the home of a Mariah student in Big Spring as an unpaid volunteer instructor to Mariah.

As a Mariah parent, I appreciate the staff's continuing interest in our children.

Mariah is composed of six young men in the rifle line and twelve young ladies in the flag line. They are the current Oklahoma State Champions in addition to being the Texas State Champions for the past two years.

Winter Guard International Olympic trials will be held in Dayton, Ohio, on April 16th and 17th. Because Mariah has won the two state Color Guard competitions, as well as several other competitions, they are entitled to participate in this event. They are to compete in a special position along with 17 other guards from the United States and Canada. This is an honor and privilege they have been working toward all year. This trip will be rather costly because the students will have to fly rather than miss more than one day of school.

To lower the cost, all of the sponsors are buying their own plane tickets. The students will continue to buy their own food and will sleep on the floor again willingly, but in spite of these economies, they are still $4,000 short of their needed goal. Your attendance at the coliseum this past weekend helped greatly, but they still need a little more help.

If anyone would be interested in helping Mariah finance the remainder of their trip, donations can be made at the Security State Bank or be sent to me at the following address. This group would be pleased with any amount, large or small, that you care to give.

Mariah has a great deal of practicing to do before April 16th, but they hope to have a dress rehearsal in order to demonstrate to the townspeople of Big Spring what they are capable of doing in Ohio.

All of the help you've shown to this fine group of youngsters is appreciated by all of us who are involved with them. I've had the privilege of traveling with them and know that you would be as proud of them as we parents are. They have represented Big Spring beautifully. Thanks again for any help you may be able to provide.

Sincerely,

NANCY L. WOOD

What IS news?

John Chancellor, the former NBC anchorman, was on a talk show this weekend discussing "hard news." The TV newsman said most newscasts shied away from real news to spend their programs doing consumer information, weather, sports and other "soft news" items.

Chancellor said soft news dominated so much that newscasts were often interrupted for real "hard news."

His observations bring to mind exactly what is news anyway — whether on television or in print. The definition is fairly nebulous, even for veteran journalists like Chancellor. News is loosely defined as fresh information on something that has taken place recently. News is further identified as anything new or strange.

All this definition really means is that anything can fit under the news umbrella from the world's largest radish to a street riot in Yemen to the President's sock size.

HOWEVER, an examination of most news can lead to a stricter definition — news is composed of the bad things that happen to other people and the good things that happen to us.

Let's examine that statement in the context of some top news stories: the EPA hearings, Watt, Beirut, El Salvador, the Russians. All of these woeful tidings are happening to other people somewhere else.

The shootings, the assaults, the arrests, the thefts — they all victimize someone else. We are drawn to it all.

Of course, if you are a victim or a perpetrator, you wouldn't consider it news.

For some perverse reason, "the other guy's" disasters and misfortunes are newsworthy — even when the other guy is a country.

Psychologically, I suppose, the knowledge of others' suffering makes our own less painful.

BUT NEWS IS more than dire tidings from afar — news is the positive that happens to us all. No one dislikes seeing his name in print or hearing it spoken aloud or seeing his picture in connection with something good.

People enjoy reading about themselves. They like learning their teams won big or their business is expanding or their state is the best. News is news when it's good and "you are there."

Oftentimes, this is the only "real" news to many people. "Don't tell me about buffalo riots in Yugoslavia — we're sponsoring a ball team this summer." People don't care about Russia's threat to the U.S. — they want to know why their name is misspelled.

Of course, this definition of news omits items like the Queen's recent visit. But no one — as so aptly detailed by writer Richard Horn last week — really cared anyway.

News is those little things, too. My favorite "little news" is from the Santa Anna weekly newspaper in Coleman County. A column on Trickham society had this gem (more or less).

"The Quilting Club met this last week. Ten persons were present and everybody seemed to have a good time. We are trying to get two quilts out before the Cemetery Meeting April 10. Sarah Hastings and Jane Rogers already have two in."

Two in where? Cemetery meeting?

Minimum wage proposal eclipsed

Among the economists, the minimum wage has about as many adherents as the Flat Earth Society has among astronomers. Everyone from Lester Thurow on the left to Milton Friedman on the right regards it as a phony program which does the poor more harm than good. But in Washington, the minimum wage is treated as the political equivalent of the third rail: Touch it, and you're dead.

That's why the Reagan administration deserves credit for proposing to allow a lower minimum wage for teen-agers during summers. Though the measure probably won't pass, it may help to educate the electorate in the fraudulence of the minimum wage.

The bill would permit employers to pay workers under the age of 21 only $2.50 an hour between May 1 and Sept. 1 of each year, instead of the current $3.35 minimum. That would make it cheaper for employers to keep teen-agers off of street corners and, while they're at it, to train them in some useful skills.

The problem with the minimum wage is that it forces employers to pay unskilled workers more than they're worth. If a worker can produce only $3 worth of output each hour, a firm loses money by paying him the $3.35 minimum. Thus, the minimum wage induces firms to find ways to do without unskilled workers. It discourages restaurants from hiring human dishwashers and encourages them to buy the kind you plug in.

The greatest impact is on teen-agers, few of whom have marketable skills. The minimum wage is the main reason teen-agers typically have an unemployment rate five times higher than that for workers over the age of 25.

Economists Robert Meyer and David Wise, writing in the inaugural issue of the University of Chicago's Journal of Labor Economics, calculate that if the minimum wage had not existed between 1973 and 1978, employment among young men would have been 4 percent higher than it was — in effect, cutting their unemployment rate by nearly a third. And the effect would have been more dramatic still among black teen-agers.

One retort is that though some workers lose their jobs because of the minimum wage, others get paid more because of it. No doubt this is true. But Meyer and Wise found that the total earnings of teen-agers are no higher than they would be without the minimum wage — they are merely divided up among fewer workers.

Even the advocates of the minimum wage have trouble denying its malign effects. Former Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, who is to the AFL-CIO as the dummy is to the ventriloquist, once defended an increase on the ground that unemployed young people would be more likely to go back to school.

But the damage goes beyond the unemployment caused among teen-agers. Many young people, particularly those from poor families, have no way to acquire work skills except through low-paying jobs. Those skills, once acquired, can provide entree to better-paying jobs.

Why do college students waste their time in class when they could be out making money? Because that investment in "human capital" today ensures higher pay tomorrow. Likewise, unskilled workers can increase their future earnings by working for low wages now. But teen-agers who never get the chance to learn often have nothing to look forward to but lifelong unemployment.

It's easy to see why organized labor opposes any cut in the minimum wage, even though most union members make considerably more. The only way unskilled workers can compete with skilled ones is by accepting lower pay. Make it illegal for them to accept a lower wage, and you take away the competition. At the heart of union support for the minimum wage is not sympathy for low paid workers but pure self-interest.

Reagan's proposal can be faulted only for not going far enough. Better to repeal the minimum wage entirely. But by lowering the wage floor for teen-agers during the months when they are most in need of work, it attacks the biggest problem.

Given the political climate in Washington, the bill may have only the dimmest prospect of enactment. But the administration should make the public understand that congressional intransigence comes at the expense of the poor, the young and the unskilled. It is up to Ronald Reagan to make the unassailable case: The minimum wage is the greatest enemy of the people it is supposed to help.

Something is missing

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know something is missing in my life, and I believe it must be the church. How do you suggest I go about choosing a good church? — J.L.F.

DEAR J.L.F.: Church is important, but I would like to suggest that there may be something more basic missing in your life. That missing ingredient is a personal relationship with God. It would be tragic if you were to substitute religious activity for a vital and living relationship with God.

One of the greatest truths in the universe is that God loves us and wants us to enter into a personal relationship with himself. God does not just want us to believe that he exists, nor does he just want us to do things that are good. God wants to come into our lives and establish a personal relationship with you! Think of it! You can be a child of God, knowing the joy of coming to him in prayer and knowing that you will spend all eternity with him in Heaven.

How can you come to know God personally? First, I want you to understand what it is that keeps you from God. It can be summarized in one word: Sin. The Bible says, "But your iniquities have separated you from God; your sins have hidden his face from you, so that he will not hear" (Isaiah 59:2). Furthermore, nothing you can do can ever erase the blot of your sins. Only God can cleanse you. No, you may not be a "bad" person — but it would take only one sin to keep you from God, who is pure and completely holy.

Then I want you to understand what God has done for you. You can't take away your sins — but he can! And he has made it possible by sending his Son, Jesus Christ, into the world to die for your sins. Turn to Christ. Ask him by faith to come into your life as your Savior and Lord.

Then find a church where Christ is preached and where you will find fellowship from other believers. God wants to fill the missing place in your heart, and he will as you turn to Christ.

EPA forgets what it is

WASHINGTON — The function of the Environmental Protection Agency, of course, is to protect the environment. But the people who run the EPA seem more interested in protecting the environment's industrial polluters.

Take the matter of "particulate pollution." This is the visible soot and dust that people suck into their lungs. EPA officials decided the existing standards were too strict, so they decided to run a "cost-benefit" analysis of its proposed relaxation of the standards. This means determining whether the cost of enforcing a regulation is worth it in benefit to the public.

The idea of equating human health and dollars-and-cents is pretty crass. In fact, Congress made an explicit exemption from the cost-benefit yardstick in the Clean Air Act.

But the determined particulate-polluters at EPA went ahead with their cost-benefit study anyway. They justified this nose-thumb at Congress by citing a White House executive order that instructed federal agencies generally to run cost-benefit studies whenever a rules change was being considered.

But guess what: The EPA's proposed looser standard flunked its cost-benefit test. EPA staff studies and a $200,000 report by an outside consultant agreed that letting the air get dirtier would be far more expensive, in terms of additional health-care costs and workdays lost due to illness, than the amount saved by having a looser standard to enforce.

One EPA study found that the existing tough air-pollution standards had prevented as many as 40 million lost workdays. Another showed that hundreds of lives would be lost from lung disease and thousands of illnesses caused if the standards were relaxed.

Embarrassed by this bureaucratic boomerang, EPA officials simply kept the studies away from the agency's science advisers, whose job is to provide relevant data for new regulations.

Sheldon Meyers, director of planning and standards for EPA's office of air quality, said the studies were not allowed to be used because they hadn't been "peer reviewed" by other scientists. My EPA sources suggest it was because the results weren't what the agency brass wanted to hear.

At any rate, EPA next contracted with Mattech, a respected consulting firm in Princeton, N.J., to do the required cost-benefit study. But the Mattech report, a draft of which was seen by my associate John Dillon, was even less palatable to the EPA poobahs.

Mattech estimated that relaxing the air-pollution standards would save about $20 billion over a nine-year period. But it estimated that keeping the current standards would save $78 billion over the same period.

Slapped down by their own cost-benefit studies, EPA officials abruptly reversed themselves. They cited a provision of the Clean Air Act that says the EPA should not use the cost-benefit ratio as a basis for setting pollution standards.

The reason EPA was established in the first place was that Congress considered health more important than money. So clean-air standards should be enforced even if they are expensive. EPA officials chose to ignore this in hopes that the cost-benefit studies would help them justify a relaxation of the standards; then, when things didn't work out the way they had hoped, they changed signals.

Footnote: The White House has told EPA it wants to see the study, but it's unlikely the results will be used. Nobody thinks the study "produced good results," an administration spokesman said.

MIDEAST PARADOX: Both sides in the Israeli-Lebanon dispute are citing the late Egyptian President Anwar Sadat as an arguing point. His name was invoked by President Reagan, for example, when Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir called last week at the White House.

Reagan pointed out that the Egyptian leader was first ostracized by other Arab leaders for signing the Camp David accords, and eventually was assassinated by Moslem extremists. Reagan suggested that Lebanese President Amin Gemayel faces the same fate if he signs a separate peace with Israel.

Budget draft near completion

AUSTIN (AP) — Senate budget bill writers will spend part of their Easter holidays in Austin trying to work out final details of the 1984-85 state spending bill they will offer the full Senate.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, Senate Finance Committee chairman, said the group would be working Wednesday afternoon and night and Thursday morning while other senators and House members are enjoying the holidays, which begin at Wednesday noon. The committee also will return a day early, on Monday, for more spending negotiations.

The Senate committee made a series of broad policy decisions Monday that slashed about $600,000 from the 1984-85 budget that had been recommended by the Legislative Budget Board.

Tuesday, and the rest of the week, they will be reconsidering each state agency to apply those cuts equitably.

"Some people say we're trying to force the governor and the House into a tax bill," said Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches. "But the session is half over and we've got to get with it."

At the Monday session the Senate budget writers cut pay raises planned for state employees, proposed a freeze on hiring of new employees and took all new construction out of the $31.4 billion budget recommended by the Legislative Budget Board.

"This still doesn't balance the budget," said Sen.

Kent Caperton, D-College Station. "We still need to make some more cuts."

State employee pay raises, excluding teachers, were cut from 6 percent a year to 4.5 percent in 1984 and 5 percent in 1985, a total decrease of $118 million.

Blake said teachers pay raises will be considered later.

The committee voted not to increase the state contribution to employees' Social Security payments, saving $143 million.

Eliminating plans for additional state employees reduced the proposal by $70 million.

At least $250 million was cut by eliminating new construction.

Jury convicts whites in death of black man

BOSTON (AP) — A jury convicted two young white men of manslaughter Tuesday in the death of a black man who ran into the path of a subway train trying to flee a gang of whites who were stoning and jeering him.

The jury of eight whites and four blacks deliberated all day Monday before finding Francis X. Devin, 20, and William M. Joyce, 19, guilty of three counts each of assault with a dangerous weapon. The jury met for half an hour Tuesday morning before finding the two Boston youths guilty of manslaughter.

Defense attorneys said they will appeal the verdicts.

The prosecution charged that on the night of March 13, 1982, William Atkinson, a 30-year-old maintenance worker, ran into the Savin Hill rapid transit station in the city's Dorchester section to escape the jeering youths who threw rocks and bottles and shouted racial slurs at him.

ATKINSON, WHO died when he ran into the path of a subway train, found himself "in a funnel from which there was no escape," the prosecution contended. A white man who was with him was knocked unconscious during the attack but later escaped.

Three other Boston men, Edward Tuffo, 18, Michael Nowacki, 20, and Paul MacGregor, 19, are awaiting trial in the case.

Atkinson's sister, Regina, was in the courtroom when the verdict was announced, and said, "Maybe the decision that was made here today will stop" violence in the city. "These attacks on people have to stop," she added.

Joyce shook his head as the verdict was read; Devin stood impassively.

Suffolk Superior Judge Roger Donahue ordered them held without bail until sentencing April 8. Devin and Joyce face up to 20 years in prison for manslaughter and five years for each assault conviction.

Donahue told the jury that to convict Joyce and Devin of manslaughter, the panel had to believe that the attack set in motion "a natural and continuous sequence that produces death."

Defense attorney Geoffrey Packard said he would base his appeal on his belief that the prosecution failed to prove its case.

"The question is whether or not there was sufficient evidence to link the defendant's acts to the death of the victim," he said.

Joyce's attorney, George Donovan, said he will also appeal on the question of cause but added: "There was evidence that Joyce abandoned a joint enterprise — if one existed. There is no doubt in my mind that this can be a landmark Supreme Court case."

Defense attorneys argued that Atkinson drank beer and smoked marijuana on the night he died and was not thinking clearly at the time.

The Rev. William Alberts, pastor of the Community Church of Boston who led a group of white church representatives a year ago claiming a racist coverup in the case, said after the verdict that Joyce and Devin should have been tried for murder.

"I believe that if it were a gang of young black men who had attacked a white man and killed him that they would be tried for murder, not manslaughter," said the minister.

"We are talking about a tragedy, about a black man whose life has been taken from him. We're talking about people who are racist, who acted out that racism against him and now they are victims of their own white racism," Alberts said.

New execution date for condemned killer

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A new execution date has been scheduled for a condemned killer who was so impatient for a date with death that he unsuccessfully tried to force a deputy U.S. marshal to kill him.

Charles F. Rumbaugh was ordered Tuesday by State District Judge George E. Dowlen to die by lethal injection before sunrise May 2. But the execution could be stayed again if the U.S. Supreme Court does not rule quickly in another case.

Charlie Brooks Jr. was executed by the state last December, making him the first inmate executed by injection and the first in Texas to be put to death since the high court allowed the reinstatement of the death penalty.

But in January, the Supreme Court effectively delayed further executions by deciding to use the case of condemned Texas prisoner Thomas Barefoot to review procedures for emergency appeal of death sentences.

Cancer survivors tell stories in TV program

Three Americans who survived cancer to regain active lives will be the subject of "Cancer: The Winners," a 60-minute special to be broadcast by Superstation WTBS, Channel 11 locally, at 8:05 p.m. Thursday, with a repeat at 10:35 p.m.

The program is the third annual to be co-sponsored by the American Cancer Society, the National Cable Television Association and Turner Broadcasting Systems. It will also air over several other national cable systems during the first week of April.

Profiled will be Cleveland radio personality Rena Blumberg, mountain guide Glenn Exum, and American League umpire Bill Kunkel.

Blumberg has a mastectomy five years ago, followed by two years of intensive chemotherapy when it was discovered the breast cancer had metastasized. Exum, in his 70s, climbed the Grand Tetons again, one year after surgery for prostate cancer, on the 50th anniversary of his first ascent. Bill Kunkel was operated on for colorectal cancer in the fall of 1981 and was back behind the plate for the 1982 season. Their stories, told through filmed reports and studio interviews, are examples of the advances being made in treating and rehabilitating cancer patients today.

The show will be hosted by Bob Neal. Joining in the interview segments will be Willis J. Taylor, M.D.,

president of the American Cancer Society and head of radiation oncology at the Virginia Mason Hospital and Mason Clinic in Seattle, Wa. Members of a studio audience will also be able to ask questions.

The Christian Broadcasting System will carry the broadcast at 7 p.m. April 4.

Dear Abby

Name change

DEAR ABBY: I had to write after reading the letter from the "Proud Orlikoffs," who were upset when their son married a woman named Reilly and he changed his name to Reilly instead of insisting that she change her name to Orlikoff.

My brother, Edward Moravitz, married a girl who thought Moravitz sounded too ethnic, so she nagged him until he changed their name to Moore.

After Edward passed away (unfortunately at a much too early age), my mother, in making out her will, left the following bequests:

"To my two grandchildren, I leave $25,000 each. And to my daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edward Moore, I leave $1,000 — the other $25,000 she can get from some family by the name of Moore."

I hope you print this. Don't worry about embarrassing anybody. I've changed all the names, but the idea is the same.

OLGA IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR OLGA: Let's hear it from a man who takes the woman's part in this name-changing controversy:

DEAR ABBY: The "Proud Orlikoffs" felt that their son was abandoning his heritage when he changed his name to "Reilly," which is his fiancée's name.

I ask you: What about the proud Reillys? Why should the woman be expected to change her name to her spouse's just because of an outdated custom?

A man who changes his name to his wife's name is not disgracing his family any more than she would be had she changed her name to his.

Too bad we can't all do as Eleanor Roosevelt did — marry a person with the same last name.

OHIO MALE

DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column a few months ago from a daughter whose father had developed a relationship with a lady shortly after the death of his wife, who had lost a long battle with cancer. It hit home with me because my father very lovingly nursed my mother through six years of cancer before we lost her. My father was devoted to Mom for over 30 years — and especially those last six.

About two months after Mom's death, Dad met a lovely lady. There were some unkind comments from family members about the short mourning period he gave Mom. Almost two years later, he still mourns Mom, and this lovely lady understands his grief and comforts him. They have a very caring relationship. Neither one is ready for marriage, but they find it financially advantageous to live together. Now they're getting pressure from family members who want them to get married.

I support my father in his decision as long as he is happy and comfortable with the relationship.

My point: Where do family members get off judging and putting pressure on a man who has lost a beloved wife, and now has a second chance at happiness? No one will ever take Mom's place in our hearts. But Mom is gone, and Dad must go on living.

I hope you'll print this so others won't judge a situation unless they've been there.

A LOVING DAUGHTER IN NEW MEXICO

DEAR LOVING: Amen.

You're never too old (or too young) to learn how to make friends and be popular. For Abby's booklet on Popularity, send $1, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Housecleaning demonstration presented to club members

A housecleaning demonstration highlighted the Sew and Chatter Club meeting held March 23 in the home of Allie Moore.

Neva Clinkscales and Mrs. Moore will meet with the Chamber of Commerce City Beautification committee April 17.

Members brought redecorated yearbooks for display at the meeting. Each book was decorated with something the owning member had been interested in such as pictures of quilting.

Mrs. Louise Porter, an "adopted grandmother," collected sewing items for Westside sewing classes. Members brought material and sewing notions.

The next meeting will be held April 13 in the home of Della Nobles. "Diet and Drugs" will be the program presented by Joyce Mills. The last meeting will be April 27. A luncheon will be held in the home of Mrs. Porter. Members are to bring their own baby pictures or a picture from their early years.

Dr. Donohue

Rare potassium problem inherited

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please write about hyperkalemic periodic paralysis. At least six living members of my family have been bothered with this, but it was not defined until recently. I am presently taking a diuretic for it, but still get the paralysis episodes. If I ride a bike one day, I have the attacks the next. Do attacks subside as one gets older? — Mrs. D.D.

Yours is the first letter I have ever received on this quite rare disease. There has not been much written about it, and little is really known about it.

It is an inherited problem characterized by attacks of muscle weakness or paralysis, with attacks lasting for minutes and in some cases hours. It gets its name from the fact that during attacks blood potassium levels rise (kalemic is a reference to that mineral). That potassium is most likely coming from the paralyzed muscles. In your form of this muscle disease (hyperkalemic), attacks are often less severe after adolescence. And the diuretics are used to keep the blood potassium level on the low side. That sometimes prevents attacks from occurring. Attacks often happen after exercise, so you will have to seek guidance in that area.

Incidentally, there is another kind of periodic paralysis related to the blood potassium level. It is called hypokalemic periodic paralysis, and is characterized by low blood potassium levels, an even more puzzling circumstance. However, the symptoms of the two illnesses are similar.

May I make a suggestion? It is that you carry with you some form of identification, a tag that will let doctors know about your rare condition in the event of an emergency. Then if you are taken to a hospital where no one is familiar with your case you can get proper treatment as quickly as possible.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Why is it that some doctors give out penicillin for virus infections? I am told that antibiotics do not get a virus. Is there some difference of opinion among doctors about antibiotics vis-a-vis viruses? Or do some doctors just hand it out to make parents feel better when they bring in sick children? — B.F.

There's no disagreement. Doctors are aware of the fact that antibiotics are ineffective against viruses. They are effective only against bacteria. So they should be used only for bacterial infections. And patients should not pressure their doctors for a "shot of penicillin" when they have a simple cold — a virus infection.

Those are general principles, but as with all principles (outside of mathematics) there are exceptions. Nothing in medicine is this clear cut. Do I hear someone out there muttering, "here comes Donohue dashing to the defense of the establishment"? Not so.

Example: It is not always possible to tell the difference between a viral and a bacterial infection. A sore throat is a case in point. Many sore throats are caused by virus infections. A few are caused by bacteria — like the strep germ. You tell the difference by examining a throat culture.

But some doctors will treat a sore throat with penicillin without taking a throat culture. If the germ is there, the penicillin will kill it, and the extra expense of the culture is eliminated. And if the sore throat is viral-caused, that will wear itself out in short order, the way most viruses do. And the earlier you get the strep germ under control, the better. If you can do that with a harmless medicine, like penicillin, you can be that much further ahead.

Other doctors argue that a culture should be taken so that the antibiotic won't be used needlessly. You see, there are valid disagreements in how medicine should be practiced. However, most doctors I know are hesitant to use antibiotics without a good reason. Certainly, they should not be used for those infections clearly due to viruses, like the common cold.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Which foods contain nucleic acid? Are supplements important for nervous system disorders? — Mrs. J.F.

Cells of all living matter, plant or animal, contain nucleic acid. There's no recommended dietary requirement for nucleic acid. You may be referring to one theory about aging, which suggests that a diminished ability of our bodies to produce its own nucleic acid (hence its own protein) is a fault. Yet, I am not familiar with the practice of taking nucleic acid supplements for the treatment of aging or for any nervous system illness.

Westinghouse recalls faulty ventilators

In cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, Westinghouse Electric Corp. and Broan Manufacturing Co. announced today a voluntary recall of about 16,000 electric motors supplied by Westinghouse for Broan model #346 and Nautilus model N346 attic ventilators.

Company officials said the motors, which are miswired, may under certain conditions overheat and catch fire.

The attic ventilators were sold nationwide through electric supply houses to builders and contractors and through home centers directly to consumers. The units were manufactured and sold after April 1978.

Owners should determine if they have a Broan or Nautilus powered ventilator. The ventilator can be identified from outside the house by the two-foot diameter, round beige plastic dome with either a Broan or Nautilus logo embossed in the top.

Owners who have either model should enter the attic to inspect the unit for a model 346 or N346 label on the thermostatic control or inside the dome.

The motors subject to recall have a Westinghouse sticker with model number E322P159, and are painted gray. There are also 12 rectangular holes in the bottom of the motor. Only motors with the model number E322P159 and with SER*78 or SER*79 (* is any letter of the alphabet) date codes stamped on the bottom are affected by the recall.

Owners of the affected ventilators must disconnect or turn them off immediately, and call Westinghouse at 1-800-821-7700, ext. 133. A new motor will be provided and installed by approved service personnel free of charge.

Owners are asked to write down the motor model number and date codes before calling the toll-free number if they have one of the suspect ventilators in their home or business.

For further information, consumers may call the consumer Product Safety Commission's toll-free teletypewriter number for safety hotline at the hearing impaired is 1-800-638-CPSC. A 1-800-638-8227.

ATT asks to hike rates for long-distance competitors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. asked permission on Monday to boost the rates paid by its long-distance competitors for connections to local switches by roughly 18.6 percent.

The company told the Federal Communications Commission on behalf of its Bell System companies it wanted to put the higher rates into effect April 16.

The change would boost the basic rate for so-called ENFIA access connections from $183.46 per line per month to $217.64 per line per month, or an increase of $34.18.

If allowed to take effect, the increase would be the third in less than a year for AT&T competitors like the MCI Communications Corp.; Southern Pacific Communications; the International Telephone & Telegraph Co.; Western Union, and Satellite Business Systems. The previous increases totaled roughly 50 percent. AT&T's major long-distance competitors construct their own long-distance networks, but need connections to the switches of local phone companies to complete a long-distance call. The competing carriers pay for those connections based on a complicated formula contained in a negotiated agreement known as Exchange Network Facilities for Interstate Access, or ENFIA.

AT&T said Monday its latest request to boost ENFIA rates did not involve any proposal to change the formula, but rather reflected the fact that its competitors have reported they are using their ENFIA connections more each month as their traffic grows.

AT&T spokesman Pic Wagner said the current charge of $183.46 is based on an average weighted use of 4,474 minutes per line per month, when it appears the competing carriers are now using the lines for 5,236 minutes per month on a weighted basis.

"We estimate the new rates will produce additional 1983 revenues of about $30 million to $35 million for the Bell companies," Wagner added.

The ENFIA charges are normally among the largest expenses incurred by competing long-distance companies.

Gary Tobin, a spokesman for MCI, the largest of AT&T's competitors, immediately disputed AT&T's calculations and said his company would challenge the request at the FCC.

"Our usage numbers would not support any request for this kind of increase," Tobin said. "We're convinced the FCC will agree to suspend this. We would also note that AT&T is filing this right when we're preparing to argue our case in the U.S. Court of Appeals here."

Tandy unveils micro-computer with phone capability

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A battery-powered portable computer that fits in a briefcase and can retrieve outside data via a telephone hookup was introduced Tuesday by Tandy Corp.

Tandy said its TRS-80 Model 100, with a suggested list price of $799, is designed as a "micro executive workstation" and will be marketed through its 8,700 Radio Shack stores.

The computer weighs four pounds, measures 12 by 8½ by 2 inches, and can be operated comfortably on the lap where it takes up no more room than an opened book, said Tandy spokesman Sid Bates.

The Model 100 includes a display screen showing eight rows of 40 characters each, and it can show text, numbers or graphics. Its keyboard is full-sized with a layout similar to a standard typewriter.

Tandy's new computer comes with five built-in programs for word processing, storing address and telephone directories, and other chores. It comes with internal storage capacity of about 8,200 characters, and can be expanded to store up to about 32,800 characters.

In addition, the Model 100 is seen as an important step in combining personal computers with telecommunications.

The machine can plug directly into a standard telephone jack, and by using its "TELCOM" program, the user can then automatically dial up a connection into a data base provided by information networks for retrieving stock quotes or electronic mail, Tandy said.

"With the Model 100, it may become a common experience to see the person next to you reading the latest Dow Jones reports, not from the traditional printed matter, but from a small computer which receives details over the telephone from an information network such as CompuServe (a unit of H&R Block Inc.)," Bates said.

There are other portable computers now on the market, some smaller than the Model 100, but many have to be programmed from scratch by the user. Tandy is taking an opposite approach by pre-programming its computer to handle several basic functions, and raising the machine's ease of use.

Fame

Hague's Shorofsky is a mirror image

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP) — If you think Albert Hague looks the part of the music professor on NBC's "Fame," chalk it up to typecasting.

Hague is a teacher, lecturer, coach and a Tony award-winning composer who didn't turn to acting until he was 59.

He stars as the acerbic, eccentric teacher, Benjamin Shorofsky, the man who rains on the parade of the students at New York's School for the Performing Arts. He's there to remind the aspiring artists that there's more to a career than the "hey-gang-let's-put-on-a-show" attitude many of them have.

"Shorofsky is two things," said Hague, who grew his professorial white beard when he was cast in the hit movie that inspired the TV series. "He's a dedicated artist in the true sense of the word. He's serious about his work. He's maniacally serious, as I am.

"But he has a passion not to be pompous because pomposity defeats sincerity," Hague says.

Hague admits there are "enormous similarities" between himself and Shorofsky. Producer-writer Bill Blinn frequently stands near him and picks up his conversation and drops it into the scripts.

"He found out I play table tennis and so Shorofsky plays table tennis," Hague said.

"And he found out I don't drive a car, so there was an episode in which they tried to teach Shorofsky how to drive.

"So, in effect, it's really me. It's very flattering that they have gone out of their way to imitate the real Albert Hague."

Hague said that in real life he doesn't teach music but gives instruction in the theater, particularly on how to get a play onto Broadway. Some of the biggest names in the business are his students, but he said reports that Robert Redford took one of his classes is false.

When he completes filming "Fame" for the season, he and his wife, Renee Orin, will put on a one-night performance of their "Hague and Hague" at the Westwood Playhouse. He described it as humorous autobiographical sketches and songs that describe how he escaped from Hitler's Germany before World War II and came to the United States.

Hague believes it was a performance of "Hague and Hague" in New York that landed him a part in the "Fame" movie.

His wife, who writes under the name, Renee Orin Hague, wrote a script for "Fame" and had hoped to play the guest role. But the part was expanded and she did not want to do such a long role. Betty White took the part and she later played a role in another show.

"She played a villainess," Hague said. "She wasn't really bad, just on the other side. She was representative of a drive to replace an administrator with a computer."

Hague, who is Jewish, was born in Germany but fled the country with his parents after Hitler came to power. "I played a role in an NBC movie coming up called 'Nightmares.' Somebody asked me if I had any nightmares of my own. I said I had gotten out of Germany before the Nazis got me. That was nightmare enough."

He attended high school in the United States. He also attended the Cincinnati College of Music and at one time was known in Ohio as "the King of Boogie-Woogie."

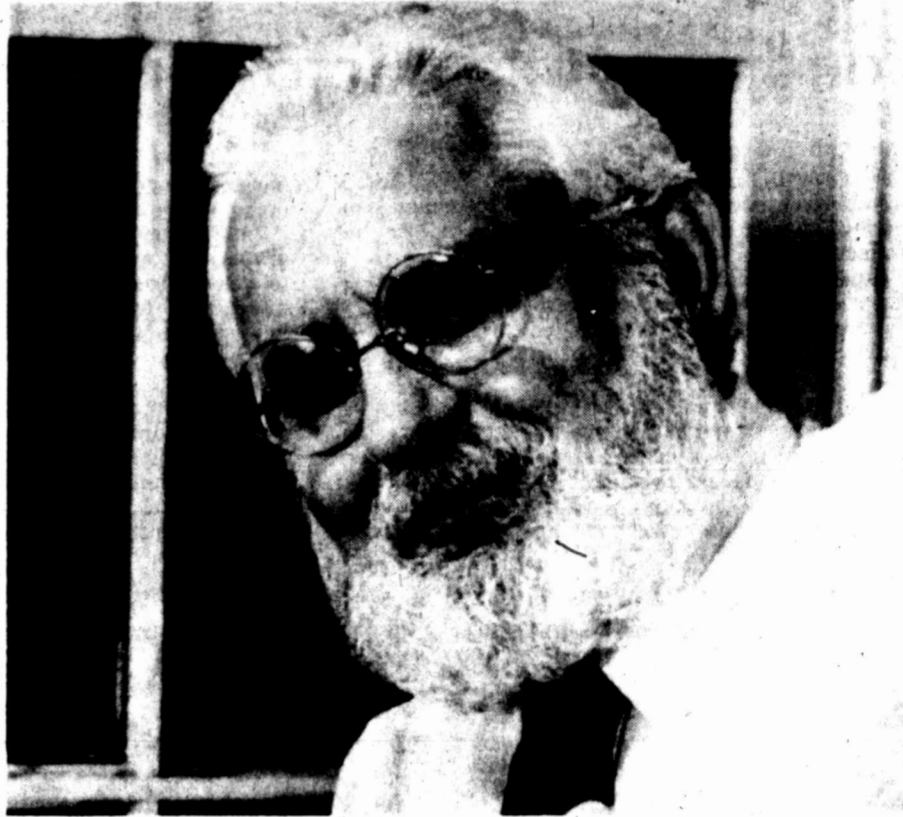

"Someone told me that I'd never understand American music because I wasn't born here," he said. "That was a challenge to me. I say I'm as American as Brahms was Hungarian. He wrote the greatest Hungarian rhapsodies and he was as Hungarian as apple strudel."

Hague has a new musical, "Flim Flam," that is Broadway bound. It's based on four O. Henry short stories about "two dedicated crooks."

His first Broadway show was "Plain and Fancy" in 1955 and he won a Tony award for his music for "Redhead."

Hague said in his own classes one of the things he teaches is the necessity for hard work.

"I say you need a talent for pain," he said. "I never tell my students to do anything that I haven't done. If I tell them to sit at the piano working for 14 hours a day, it's because I've done it. It only took me a short while to compose the music for my Broadway shows. But that was the culmination of many years of hard work."

MIRROR IMAGE — To Albert Hague, Prof. Benjamin Shorofsky, the acerbic eccentric who rains on the parade of the students at New York's School for the Performing Arts in "Fame" almost is a mirror image of the man who didn't turn to acting until he was 59.

Randy Howard's a redneck, mother

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Survival kits containing a pair of white socks, a brown paper sack to hold a beer can, a combination knife-beer can opener and a pool hall chili recipe, are flooding radio stations around the nation.

Warner-Viva Records has distributed 500 of these "All-American Redneck Survival Kits" to promote a record about rednecks.

RANDY HOWARD
 ... redneck

Randy Howard, who first tried to break into the music business in the late '60s, celebrates rednecks — a derogatory term for poor, white rural southerners — in his album, "All-American Redneck."

But, the 32-year-old Howard says, the term "redneck" doesn't have to be offensive.

"It can be positive," he said in a telephone interview from Macon, Ga., where he has lived all his life except for two years in Nashville. "When I play clubs, I ask if there are any rednecks out there. I get a good response whether I'm in New York or Miami.

"With the cowboy craze and modern-day cowboys, a lot of people look at rednecks with that in mind now. They think of 'The Dukes of Hazzard.'"

His song, also called "All-American Redneck," talks of white socks, pickup trucks, draft beer and pool hall chili. But the original version has been banned from all but a handful of country stations because of two vulgar words. Warner-Viva deleted the words and reissued the sanitized song for airplay.

fix you up."

Although radio stations have been cool to the record, Howard says it's a favorite of live audiences at country music clubs.

"It goes over great live," he said about the ballad.

Howard, who describes himself as a "good-ol'-boy hippie redneck," got the inspiration for the song from an "all-American hamburger" he was served at a restaurant.

"I figured if there was an all-American hamburger, then there must be an All-American redneck too," he said.

The term "redneck" has been the source of country music songs before.

Johnny Russell recorded a No. 1 hit in 1973, "Red Necks, White Socks and Blue Ribbon Beer." Conway Twitty had a chart-topping hit in 1981, "Red Neckin' Love Makin' Night."

Howard signed with Warner-Viva this year after the company president heard a tape of him singing. For the past 10 years, he has been appearing in clubs in the South and east.

His album, produced by Paul Hornsby, who has worked previously with Charlie Daniels and the Marshall Tucker Band, contains two other songs with unusual titles, "My Nose Don't Work No More," and "God Don't Live in Nashville, Tennessee."

The first song, Howard says, is about a musician "who can't breathe any more because he's snorted all that stuff they said was going to help him play."

The second song is about how tough it was for Howard to try to break into the music business during the two years in the late 1960s when he lived in Nashville. During those years, he worked at a variety of jobs while trying to establish a music

Abracadabra, Lee bats come to life

Rousing Rebel rally overpowers Steers, 12-6

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

It was the afternoon the magic ended for Big Spring High. Or perhaps it just started for Midland Lee.

Rebel batters, made virtually invisible by Jinx Valenzuela's pinpoint pitching for five innings, broke the left-hander's spell with a five-run sixth inning and went on to shock the Steers 12-6 in the District 4-5A showcase game Tuesday at Steer Park.

The comeback win whisks the Rebels into undisputed possession of first place with a 5-0 record, while the Steers slip to second with a 4-1 ledger. Lee is 12-6 overall while Big Spring drops to 10-7.

Catcher Sergio Ochoa was magician for Lee. His single in the big sixth inning put the Rebels on top 7-6 and his three-run home run over the left-center field fence assured Lee of its victory over the defending district champs.

"The main thing about this game," Rebel coach Ernie Johnson said, "was they found they had a little heart and fight in them. We talked about what would happen when we got over here and I guess we found out."

Lee's awakening caught Big Spring totally by surprise. The Steers had just wiped out a 3-1 Rebel lead and appeared to be in control of the game after two fielding gems in the fourth inning. Third baseman David Anguiano turned a sparkling doubleplay and right fielder Tom Cudd chased down Keith McDonald's shot in the gap, backhanding the ball in deep right-center field.

Not deterred by the turn in fortunes, Lee snapped back in the sixth. The remarkable point about the Lee comeback was the Rebels made things happen even with Valenzuela ahead in the count.

For example: Steve Woodlee singled with an 0-2 count; Darrell Holmes singled with an 0-2 count; Rob Walker walked after falling behind 0-2; and Dennis Matta rocketed a double to right behind 0-1.

Ted Leps tied the game with a sacrifice bunt, scoring Holmes from third and Ochoa followed with a single to right to put the Rebs ahead to stay.

"That's where we fell apart," Big Spring High coach Frank Ibarra said grimly. "Jinx came right down the middle with too good of a pitch to hit."

"The strike zone kinda of shrunk," Valenzuela countered. "I had been catching the corners but in the sixth, the ump wasn't calling the corners. Then I was getting the ball too high and they hit it. I've got to learn to keep the ball down."

If a two-run lead wasn't enough, Ochoa put Lee hearts to rest when he made the first pitch from reliever Adam Rodriguez disappear over the left field fence. "That's the first home run Sergio's ever hit," one Lee player yelled out. Magic.

If second most valuable player had to be chosen, Lee reliever Kerry Robertson was the man. He came on with the bases loaded in the fifth inning and walked in Valenzuela with a run to put the Steers ahead 6-3. But that was all the right-hander would allow.

He fanned Jay Pirkle with the bags still full to end the inning and then added two more scoreless innings to notch the victory, his first in district play. In 92/3 innings, Robertson has not allowed an earned run.

Pursley vaults to record

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Brad Pursley of Abilene Christian University set new American records in the outdoor and the collegiate pole vault when he cleared 18 feet, 10 1/2 inches in a dual meet with Angelo State University here Tuesday.

Pursley's effort, which came on his second attempt, broke the record of 18-9 1/2 set by Dave Volz of Indiana on June 26, 1982. Volz has an 18-10 1/4 set in France that is pending approval.

Pursley, whose previous best was 18-5 1/2, tried three times unsuccessfully at 19-1, coming close only on his first attempt. "I got everything out of it (the record jump)," Pursley said. "It felt good, but I was afraid at first I was coming up too far from the bar."

Pursley plans to jump at the Texas Relays against former teammate Billy Olson, who owns the world indoor record of 19 feet, three-quarters of an inch.

Ayala goes on trial

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — Two women who identified world-ranked boxer Tony Ayala Jr. as the man who was in their West Paterson apartment New Year's Day can take the witness stand in Ayala's sexual assault trial, a judge has ruled.

LEGGING ONE OUT — Big Spring High left-fielder Alan Trevino beats out an infielder chopper in the fifth inning. Trevino came around to score, giving the Steers a 6-3 lead at the time. Midland Lee rallied, however, to swamp Big Spring 12-6 to take over first place in the league standings.

4-A AAAA Roundup

Mojo helps Rebels

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Midland Lee put a little space between itself and its District 4-A AAAA competitors Tuesday.

While the Rebels took over first place with a 12-6 win over Big Spring, Permian was surprising Cooper 6-5, dropping the Cougars into fourth place. San Angelo and Odessa moved into third with victories; the Bobcats blanked Midland 5-0 while the Bronchos also won by the shutout route, handling Abilene 5-0.

Here's how they went around the league Tuesday:

Permian 6, Cooper 5

ODESSA — Ronnie Lovera singled and scored on Kenny Merritt's triple to lift the Panthers to their first league victory at the expense of the Cougars.

Down 5-2, the Cougars had battled back to tie the game in the top of the sixth only to lose their second straight when Merritt collected his big RBI.

Boyd Cowan has won two district games but Tommy Olivas turned in the best Broncho pitching performance in five games with a three-hitter against the Eagles.

Abilene could advance only one run.

Rubio tosses Howard to split

By KURT SALISBURY
Sports Writer

The Howard College Hawks rode the four-hit pitching of Moe Rubio and Jeff Hodges and the 3-for-3 performance of Billy Mitchell to down the visiting Paris Junior College Dragons 8-3 in the second game of Tuesday's doubleheader at Hawk Field.

The Dragons took the first game 7-4 as Kelly Smith's pair of two-run homers were not enough to offset the strong sixth pitching performance of Glen Caperton.

In the opener, Smith unloaded his first two-run homer in the second inning to give the Hawks a 2-0 lead. The Dragons stuck back with three runs in their half of the fourth, keyed by a double to right by Chris Timmon and Henry Peter's triple to right-center. In the bottom half of the inning, Smith struck back with his second two-run shot of the day to put the Hawks briefly back in the lead, 4-3.

It was the last time they would hold the upper hand as the Dragons scored three times in the fifth, two runs coming on Brad McNeal's two-run homer to left.

Kelly Smith upped his home run total to 11 with a pair Tuesday while Mitchell snapped out of a slump with a 4-for-5 effort.

Paris picked up one more run in the sixth after Peters tripled for the second time in the game and scored on Caperton's bloop single to left, boosting the final score to 7-4.

Niekro replaces Ryan for opener

COCOA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — They've been pounding Joe Niekro down here in spring training like heavy surf hitting a seawall.

He gave up 10 runs the other day but nobody so much as lift an eyebrow.

Spring training has never been the 38-year-old's cup of tea. Spring training is where he loosens up the joints and works out the kinks to get ready for another long major league season.

This will be his 14th. And he'll be the opening day pitcher for the Astros.

Nolan Ryan was to start but has an inflamed prostate gland and was placed on the 21-day disabled list. The veteran Niekro heads into the 1983 campaign after one of his best-ever years.

He was 17-12 in 1982 — one more victory than Ryan — with a sparkling 2.47 earned run average.

His victory total was surpassed only by his 21 and 20 victory seasons in 199-80. The ERA was a personal best.

How long would he like to hang around?
 "As long as I feel like I'm helping the club," he said. "Retirement is not in my plans right now."
 One of the things adding to Niekro's longevity is the Astrodome.

"You get to pitch under the same circumstances every day," he said, not to mention the ample dimensions of the park which is something of a pitcher's paradise.

Niekro, despite his excellent past season, is a little unhappy with the Astros' fifth-place finish last year in the National League West.

"We had a lot of injuries in our bullpen and that hurt," he said. "And we got off to such a lousy start. I think that will be different this season."

Niekro said the Astros have been hitting well this spring.

"That's a good sign," Niekro said. "If we can just carry on into the regular season we'll be OK."

Niekro said he enjoyed reading all the articles that said the Astros were no pennant threat.

"I love it that everybody is counting us out," Niekro said. "I like the position that we are in as underdogs."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, MAR. 31, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early morning is the best time of the day to make long-range plans for the future. Make sure you are in control of your emotions so that you don't become involved in arguments.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have to exercise more care in business deals now to avoid possible trouble. Take steps to improve your health.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put your ideas to work that could prove profitable at this time. Take treatments that will make you healthier.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Good day to put your house in order, even if it means more effort and extra work on your part. Buy appliances you need.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use more care in travel to avoid possible accident. Be diplomatic in handling a civic affair.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make changes in your budget so that you have less expense. Study practical ways to improve conditions in your environment.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your appearance well and know where to make improvements. Use your good judgment instead of relying on others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Concentrate on private matters that need your attention at this time. Make the evening a happy one. Be wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Think about doing more for your true friends instead of expecting more from them now. Show others that you have wisdom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have to be very careful you do nothing to injure your reputation since adverse aspects are in effect now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan time for obtaining facts and figures for a new project you have in mind or you could lose out before you start.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be more businesslike in handling finances and safeguard your interests. Strive for more harmony at home.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) It may be necessary to have long discussions with associates if you wish to work more harmoniously in the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young persons who be thinking of ways to have a secure future, so direct education along practical lines for best results. Be sure to give early training in religion.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Kiplinger predicts changes

The organization of a Toastmasters Club is being considered for the Big Spring area. It would be sponsored by the Midland Toastmasters Club. If you are interested in this possibility, call me at 263-1451. We will be having an informational meeting Tuesday, April 5, in my conference room at 210 Permian Building at 5:15 p.m. to give more details. A Toastmasters International Club is a great way to improve communications and leadership skills. It will be open to men and women of all ages and occupations. Membership dues are nominal.

and climbing to soon reach 40 percent increase.

A rising tide of marriages, increasing 2-3 percent each year, with half of them being remarriages. Half of all marriages will end in divorce. Average age of first marriage for men in 25 years, for women 22 years. Best place to find a husband is Alaska (with next best places being Wyoming, Nevada and Hawaii). Best place to find a wife is Washington, D.C.

computer skills ... running computers, interpreting results, applying them, sales, service. Those who don't understand computer talk will be left out in the cold. Other job opportunities that will be in demand: engineering, robotics, electronics, health, physical therapy, finance, marketing, telecommunications, office machine service.

For youngsters making decisions about education — don't load up on science and technology to the exclusion of the liberal arts courses. Industry doesn't want one-sided people — no matter how well trained. Learn how to communicate clearly in writing and speaking. Business executives rate this as a major shortcoming of recent grads.

Coming next week — a few insights into how you'll live and make your living between now and the year 2000.

Hundreds of books are for sale by the government and they aren't expensive. Covering such topics as business, careers, history, science, children, there is also a list of 4-color posters for framing. From the Kiplinger Report comes some projections for the next seven years (from now to 1990):

Total population, now at 233 million, will grow to 250 million, with 450,000 immigrants coming to the United States during each of the next seven years. Eight million new households demanding new furnishings, washing machines, carpet, etc. School kids 5-13 will increase but high school students will decrease by roughly 3 million. By 1990, life expectancy will be 76 years (women 80 years, men 72 years). Fastest growing age group of all is the 85 years and over — this group is up

Total work force, now is 111 million and will be 122 million by 1990. There will still be more people going into the labor force than is retiring. But there will be fewer 18-22 year olds in their first jobs (3 million fewer). Women will keep flocking into the job market. Well over half of all women 16 and over are currently in the work force. This will increase by 1990. Half of all wives are now either working or looking for jobs and 75 percent of divorced women. By 1990, over 75 percent of women 25-24 years old will have outside jobs.

4-H birthday party planned

The Howard County 4-H Council met and made plans for the 4-H birthday party and picnic to be April 12 at the Dora Roberts Fair Barn. This will be celebrating the 75th year of 4-H.

Bailey, local A.K.C. member and show dog breeder, will teach the obedience classes.

All adult leaders need to be present at the County Extension Office at 7 p.m. on April 4. Many items of business need to be discussed. A reminder to all interested in attending the 4-H Camps this summer. The Special Interest Camp applications need to be in my April 1 and the regular Summer Camp applications need to be in by April 15th.

Since 1908 when County Agent Tom Marks organized the original Boys Corn Club in Jack County, 4-H has grown into a dynamic organization of some 125,000 youth in Texas, more than five million throughout the nation. Out of the land-grant college system, begun in 1862, a need evolved to educate young people who might be interested in following agriculture for a career.

Thus the Corn Clubs of the early 1900's became the foundation for 4-H. These clubs were designed to teach the latest principles of agriculture production to youth who would, in turn, demonstrate their new-found knowledge and skills on their family farms.

With its roots in agriculture, 4-H has since expanded and broadened its scope and now offers more than 60 different project opportunities for boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 19. The mission of 4-H today is to help youth acquire knowledge, develop life skills and form attitudes that will make them self-directing, productive and contributing members of society.

In Howard County, 4-H'ers are involved in a wide range of projects. We have grown, but we still have a ways to go. As we celebrate the 75th year of 4-H, let's keep working together to build a bigger and greater 4-H.

The Howard County 4-H Clubs have started a dog training project. Don

Blue law battle begins with emotional plea

AUSTIN (AP) — The 1983 battle of the Blue Law opened with echoes of arguments from years gone by, plus an emotional plea by a man who blames his daughter's death on the "monkeys" pushing for legalized Sunday shopping.

Harold Marshall, a Dallas salesman, said the forces working for repeal of the Blue Law are "raping our school system" by making students work late and weekend hours.

"These monkeys are working kids unconscionable hours," he told the House Committee on State Affairs on Monday.

The committee is looking at several bills aimed at repealing the law banning the sale of 42 items on both days of a weekend. As in past years, witnesses for repeal said the 1961 law is an unfair restriction on free trade, and witnesses who like the law said it provides a needed day of rest.

Despite testimony that no employees would be forced to work Sundays if the stores opened, Marshall said workers — particularly students — would have no choice.

He said his 16-year-old daughter died in a car wreck after being forced to work late hours in a Dallas supermarket.

"These yahoos would run over their own grandmothers for a dollar," he said of the anti-Blue Law forces.

"There's ample hours to shop now. Who is having trouble finding enough time to spend money?" he asked.

Rep. Bill Ceverha, R-Richardson, said he got his repeal bill to the House floor in 1981, where it was narrowly defeated. This year, armed with an impressive fiscal note, he's trying a local option repeal bill. Comptroller Bob Bullock's fiscal note on the Ceverha bill says legalized Sunday shopping would raise $28 million in sales tax in the next two years, even if shopping was legalized only in urban and border counties.

Despite the impressive prediction, Ceverha said, "Right now, we don't have the votes" to get his bill out of committee. All the Blue Law repeal bills were referred to a subcommittee Monday.

Committee member Gene Green, D-Houston, said Blue Law opponents should concentrate on revision rather than repeal, because, "Repeal is probably not going to happen this session and maybe not next session."

Anti-Blue Law witnesses — including a judge who ruled it unconstitutional — said the law is archaic.

State District Judge Dee Brown Walker of Dallas, who struck down the law, called it a "continual irritant to the people" of a "24-hour, seven-day society." Walker's ruling is on appeal, a process that could drag on for two years. Robert Goodfriend, a Dallas lawyer who fought the Blue Law in court, said his clients are baffled by the law.

"What you have done is make legitimate business men in this state operate in continuous legal peril," he testified.

Goodfriend also argued that the intent of the law has become a reason to repeal it. The statute says the intent is "to promote the health, recreation and welfare" of Texans.

"The shopping center has become a recreation center," he said. "It's like the park used to be. It is a place to be with the family."

Witnesses from Tom Thumb-Page and Skaggs Alpha Beta stores — which now open on Sundays — said employees like to work Sundays because they are paid time and a half.

Trial date set in tape murder case

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A 21-year-old La Feria man will be tried on murder charges April 11 in a case involving a tape recording allegedly made by one of the victims.

Paul Wolf is charged with murder in last summer's slayings of schoolteacher Leticia Castro and her fiancé, construction foreman Billy Stator, both 26, of San Juan.

State District Judge Darrell Hester ruled Monday that Wolf's trial for the slaying of Miss Castro will be held in Brownsville.

The case has generated much media attention because of the tape recording, found on Stator's body the day he was dragged from a Rio Grande Valley drainage canal.

Cameron County District Attorney Rey Cantu claims the tape contains "23 minutes of murder" and demonstrates in "grisly detail" the events that transpired the night Stator and Miss Castro were killed.

But Assistant District Attorney Ted Campagnolo acknowledged Monday prosecutors must prove certain elements about the tape — including identification of the speaker in it — in order to have it presented as evidence during the trial.

Prosecutors allege Stator and Miss Castro were killed by Wolf and his wife, Sherry Wolf, July 16, and then dumped in separate Valley drainage canals, where their bodies were discovered three weeks later.

Stator, who is Mrs. Wolf's former husband, concealed a mini-cassette recorder on his body when he and Miss Castro went to the Wolf house to pick up his 2½-year-old daughter, prosecutors say.

Cantu said Stator recorded the visit on advice from his attorney to document the animosity demonstrated by the Wolfs over the child custody arrangements.

Mrs. Wolf, 21, also has been charged with the murders of Miss Castro and Stator. She will be tried later for Miss Castro's death, then she and Wolf will be tried together for the death of Stator.

The first trial has been delayed several times because of sickness and errors by the district attorney's office in previous indictments against the Wolfs.

Because of the errors in previous indictments, Wolf pleaded innocent again Monday to the charges against him, but Mardis also filed a notice of intent to present an insanity defense.

Hester ordered Wolf to undergo another examination by a court-appointed psychiatrist before the trial.

Soviet writer surprised by U.S. lack of curiosity

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Soviet free-lance writer Maria Werner says she finds life "complex, wonderful and glorious," and cannot understand why American students do not have characteristically youthful curiosity.

"Students in America are not very interested in what's going on outside this country. In the papers you can always find 'Andropov, Andropov, Andropov,'" said Miss Werner, who free-lances for Pravda and for German-language weeklies in Moscow and Yugoslavia. "But there are 280 million other Soviet people, and no one writes about them."

Miss Werner, in Tucson to visit relatives, said in a recent interview, "When I return to Moscow, I will have guests and guests and guests of the university youth. They will want to know what are the interests of students in America. How you feel about war, the arms freeze, and what you think about Soviet youth."

A Croatian Yugoslav who became a Soviet citizen in 1948, Miss Werner says she hasn't found the Soviet system oppressive.

"People in America make the mistake of comparing the two countries' political systems," she added. "Each people have their history, desires and ideas on how to build up the society. Your idea of freedom in this country is viewed as anarchy by the Soviet people. 'But you mustn't think everything is imposed from above,'" she said.

The Communist Party Congress, she said, has the task of carrying out policies and is elected by the people. She added that Pravda published ordinary citizens' letters — even those with complaints.

She says it is a mistake to compare economic, social and technological development of the United States and the Soviet Union. "The Americans made their revolution 200 years ago," she said. "The Soviet Union made its revolution some 60 years ago."

Miss Werner, who declined to reveal her age, said she had been interested in writing about people since she graduated from the University of Vienna with a philosophy degree.

"I could not think of another profession than journalism. I was born a journalist," she said. As one, she said, she appreciates American frankness. "There is such a lack of formality, it allows the natural aspects of people to come out," she said.

On the other hand, she says she dislikes the lack of interest Americans show in spiritual things, in particular saying that "they are too much involved with business and how to earn money."

Ex-teacher builds instruments

GARRISON, Minn. (AP) — While he was working as a string instruments teacher for Mankato public schools, Arnold Anderson bought a book entitled, "How to Build a Stradivari Violin."

Studying the methods of Italian master craftsman Antonio Stradivari, who built violins in Cremona, Italy, in the early 1700s, was to change Anderson's life.

Anderson took a year's leave from his job to bicycle through Europe, and stopped to visit a Stradivari museum in Cremona.

"I discovered that there was a violin-making school there," Anderson said. "I took a tour and they asked if I would like to enroll."

Anderson attended the International School of Violin Making for three years, then stayed in Europe another year and a half to collect 6½ tons of spruce from Italy and Yugoslavian maple, which he says are unequaled in the world for their evenness of grain.

Upon his return to Minnesota, Anderson opened his own violin-making shop in the Twin Cities. Two years ago, he moved the business to Garrison.

"I liked teaching, but I like this better," he said. Anderson, who has been in business eight years, has sold about 100 instruments. His violins sell for about $2,500, violas for $3,000 and cellos for $4,500.

Anderson, 38, who now produces 10 to 12 instruments a year in his home workshop, counts among his customers members of the British Broadcasting Corp. and the Covent Garden Orchestra in London, the New York Philharmonic and the University of Minnesota Orchestra.

"Students going into music professionally will 'sell their souls' for a good instrument," Anderson said. "You can't even touch an Italian violin for what I charge."

Anderson uses wood that has been seasoned at least seven years. Tops of the instruments are always made of spruce, with the rest maple.

He uses a planing tool to contour the top and bottom pieces with great care, emphasizing that this step is "critical" to the instrument's sound.

He then heats an iron to bend six thin maple strips around the sides. The instrument is put together with weak wood glue along side edges, to allow for humidity-related expansion and contraction of the wood, and strong white glue on the fingerboard, bridge and other points of stress.

Anderson lets the instrument dry in the sun to improve the sound quality, then applies from 10 to 15 coats of home-made varnish. The instrument is then ready to be strung and sold.

From start to finish, it takes Anderson about five weeks to build a violin and six weeks to build a viola.

Brooke Shields satire gets student editors fired

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Brooke Shields' application to Princeton University was such a hot topic here that editors of a campus humor magazine devised a satirical guide for male undergraduates intent on courting the young actress.

But the results — "The Princeton Man's Guide to Impressing and Sleeping With Brook If And When She Gets Here" — turned off university officials and the board that runs The Princeton Tiger, prompting the firing of the magazine president and the editor who helped write the article.

Miss Shields was referred to as "Brook Shell" and the word "Censored" was imposed on the cover photograph of her.

Charles Fry, a 1965 graduate who heads the magazine's board of trustees, told the student newspaper: "In the long life of The Princeton Tiger, there have been occasions when publishing responsibilities have been abused. Unfortunately, this is such a time." The Princeton Tiger is 100 years old and counts among its alumni authors F. Scott Fitzgerald and Booth Tarkington.

Fired by the board of trustees last week were Richard Herschlag, who helped write the article, and magazine President Wendell Long.

The 16-page magazine distributed free at dormitories on the Ivy League campus early this month became the topic of letters to the student newspaper, The Daily Princetonian.

"I found it extremely vulgar and sexist," said Hector Delgado, assistant dean of student affairs. "Not just an attack on Brooke Shields, but something just very degrading to women."

Herschlag, a junior from New York, defended his publication: "A lot of people at Princeton can't take a joke. We were surprised at the magnitude of the reaction."

Herschlag said Monday the publication was a toned-down version of a special issue that had been planned for December and dubbed "The Brooke Book."

"We decided it was too densely volatile," Herschlag said, adding the magazine's trustees and lawyers advised that he could run one or two articles on Miss Shields if her name was altered.

Scraping the edition cost The Tiger $1,500 in advertising revenue and $500 in production costs, the former editor said.

The publication received $500 from a fund of student activities fees collected by the university last year.

Herschlag said the intention of the controversial issue was to "poke fun at the male libido."

"Now if you're like most of us, you're probably worried about your chances of... sleeping with Brook, or even getting a date with Brook," the article begins.

Delgado said the university plans no further action against the two students.

Theft nets $100,000 in stamps

RANDOLPH, Mass. (AP) — The theft of more than $100,000 in stamps in this suburban community south of Boston was a professional job, a post office official says.

"They knew what they were doing, and they came well prepared," William O'Leary, postal inspector, said of a weekend robbery at the Randolph Post Office.

A burglar alarm was disabled and dry-chemical fire extinguishers were sprayed on the main vault door, two safes and the floor, apparently to obliterate any fingerprints or shoe marks, he said.

Police, notified of the break-in at 6 a.m. Sunday by a custodian, said they found a rear door forced open and the heavy steel door to the vault room cut open, as were the two 4-by-4 foot safes.

"They apparently first tried to punch a hole through the vault wall," O'Leary said. "We found a hole in the cement-block veneer, but they stopped and must have decided to cut through the door when they reached the inner wall, which is steel-reinforced concrete."

He said three acetylene tanks were found on the ground near the post office. O'Leary said there is a good market for stolen stamps, which can sell at 30 percent of their face value.

A year ago, a hole was burned through a safe in the nearby Hanover Post Office and $90,000 in stamps were taken.

Man finds bomb under his wife's car

CENTEREACH, N.Y. (AP) — A Long Island man who thought his wife's car was acting strange drove it into a service station, where a mechanic found a live bomb on the exhaust pipe, police said Tuesday.

They said the heat-sensitive bomb could have caused "extensive damage" had it gone off, and they said it would have gone off had it gotten much hotter.

The bomb's origin is a mystery. "What we're looking for now is a motive," said Detective Sgt. Joseph Marnick of the Suffolk County arson squad.

Alexander Saulon of Commack had brought the 1978 Thunderbird to the McCarville Ford service station in Centereach, complaining that the automatic transmission was sticking. Mechanic Bob Mayer had the car on a lift when he saw the device. He described it as an inch-diameter pipe, less than a foot long, and capped at each end. It was clamped to the exhaust pipe, just behind the catalytic converter. He showed the pipe to his supervisor, who called police.

The car is registered to Saulon's wife, Dr. Delia Saulon.

Mystery professor will plead case before judge

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A judge will hear arguments Wednesday on reducing the bail for a jailed college professor accused of using false identities to teach for at least six colleges.

Lancaster County Judge Ronald L. Buckwalter agreed to the bail reduction hearing Monday, after the lawyer for Paul Arthur Crafton, 60, filed a motion saying Crafton was needed at home in Potomac, Md., to care for his daughter.

Crafton, a George Washington University engineering professor who allegedly used false names to teach at two Pennsylvania colleges and at least four other universities or colleges, is being held in lieu of $150,000 bail in Lancaster County Prison.

Crafton says he needed money to care for his crippled daughter.

Bail of $150,000 has also been set in a second county, Cumberland, on identical charges of theft by deception, forgery, tampering with public records and false swearing.

A petition seeking a reduction in Crafton's bail in Cumberland County was filed in Carlisle today with Judge Harold Sheely of the Court of Common Pleas by attorney Dale Shughart Jr., a secretary in Shughart's office said.

No date for the hearing was set, she said. Crafton faces a total of 27 counts in connection with his simultaneous employment at Millersville and Shippensburg state colleges, 75 miles apart. He also continued teaching part-time at George Washington University in Washington, D.C.

Crafton's lawyer, John F. Pyfer Jr., and Deputy Attorney General Kim Daniel, met privately with the judge at the Lancaster County Prison.

Afterwards, Pyfer said he was encouraged to get a hearing quickly.

The attorney general opposes any reduction in bail because Crafton has "demonstrated he's adept at creating identities for himself," said spokesman Robert entzel.

Pyfer said Crafton created the multiple identities to finance operations for his 17-year-old daughter, Laura Melanie, who suffers cerebral palsy and paralytic scoliosis, a curvature of the spine.

The U.S. Navy, meantime, confirmed Monday that Crafton had once worked at one of its laboratories as an engineer.

Navy spokesman Lt. Aaron Long said "an individual by the name of Paul Arthur Crafton was employed by the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, D.C., from May 1944 through January 1969."

Crafton was hired as a mechanical engineer for the Navy and later was promoted to research physical scientist, Long said.

Race track stirs up ruckus

CHINA GROVE, Texas (AP) — A dusty quarter-mile strip of land in this South Texas hamlet has kicked up a ruckus and made folks here pretty mad.

You see, Oilly Otten wants to bring horse racing here and the city of 434 people has lost its court fight to stop him.

About half of this town's adult population — or 135 people — signed a petition against the race track.

"I have retired and bought two acres of land that I can live on and enjoy the rest of my life," City Councilman Burtel Horton said. "Now I got me a race track within 600 feet of my property."

Ottens is building the track behind his restaurant in China Grove, a community on a mile-long strip of rural highway about 15 miles east of San Antonio.

He and a makeshift crew spend every day working to finish the glass-enclosed clubhouse, grandstand and dirt track before a targeted Sunday opening.

Ottens, 46, came to this country from Germany about 20 years ago. He says folks here don't like him because he's foreign.

"No matter how little a town is — China Grove or Aransas Pass — if you haven't been born there, you're a foreigner," he said, with a heavy accent. "That goes back to the Indians."

Horton disputed that, but later said: "He's an immigrant. He wants all the fringe benefits of the democratic process, but doesn't want to contribute anything."

State District Judge Fred Biery denied city officials' request for a temporary injunction against Ottens, saying they couldn't prove the track was a public nuisance until it started operating.

"We're just going to have to watch and figure out a way to stop it," Horton said.

The councilman's property adjoins the 10½ acres housing Ottens' Swiss Chalet restaurant, which stands out from the town's homes and feed stores with its twin windmills and oversized Swiss emblems.

"You don't see much beauty in China Grove," Ottens said. "I'm trying to bring progress to this town and they don't want that."

Jerry Lee, who retired and moved here four years ago, said the townspeople haven't been buzzing like this since the Doobie Brothers recorded a rock song about "the sleepy little town down around San Antonio."

"We'd rather keep China Grove nice and peaceful and quiet," said Lee, who circulated the petition. "That's why we all moved here in the first place."

"I'm not against horse racing, but I'm against that track."

The race track, dubbed Swiss Chalet Downs, will operate on Sundays for nine months of the year, Ottens said.

Texas has no legalized betting, but Ottens said he'll make a profit by charging admission and drawing overflow crowds to his restaurant.

He expects people from across the state.

People and quarterhorses are the problem, Horton said.

"Crowds, trash, noise, dirt, manure and urine," he said. "You try to tell me that isn't a public nuisance."

Nobody Saves You More than Winn-Dixie!

BLOCK SAYS "MANY WILL OVERPAY"

The New Tax Laws are complex and if you aren't familiar with all of the changes you could be overpaying your taxes unknowingly. Some of the tax revisions make you lose other deductions which would have benefited you more. The instruction (you received from IRS) booklet doesn't answer all the questions that could affect your income tax return.

The New Income Tax revisions affect every taxpayer regardless of income. Your H & R Block Tax preparer can show you how the new Tax Laws can save you money or cost you money if you don't know how to apply the revisions to your benefit.

I.R.S. doesn't check every tax return to see if the taxpayer took all the available deductions and credits to the taxpayers benefit. Thus many taxpayers overpay their taxes.

If you don't know Taxes you need H & R Block. Last year's average fee was under $37.00 in the Big Spring area, so you can't afford not to see H & R Block.

Big Spring's office is located at 1512 Gregg. Tele: 263-1931. Open 9-6 Mon. to Fri. and 9-5 Sat. Appointments available. Prices start at $7.50.

MARY LEATHAM (THE "M" OF G & M GARAGE) AND SON
 ...garage offers friendly service and years of experience

G & M Garage offers complete car service

If you are looking for the most complete car repair service in Big Spring, look no further than G & M Garage at 809 E. 2nd.

Owned by G & M (George and Mary) Leatham, the garage provides almost complete in-house car maintenance. They specialize in tune ups, but they don't stop there. They have remodeled their office area to give their customers more comfortable surroundings and will do all they can to make sure their service is friendly and speedy.

They are an independent operation and they will give you the best service for your car's drive train, the rear end system and complete engine work.

Whether it's a dirty air filter, misfiring spark plugs or a sticky carburetor, G&M has the tools to make your car run smooth and sure.

Such as the brake lathe. Take your car to G & M for complete in-house brake maintenance. The brake lathe can save you time and money because it makes it possible for the brakes to be tuned and adjusted in the shop, without the expense and time of having them sent out. They can tune the rotors on the brakes right there.

G & M's has a fuel exhaust system analyzer and full electronic equipment to make your car's next tune-up the best ever.

Proper maintenance of your car is important because it can save you from bothersome breakdowns, especially in the coming summer months - when your car will be pushed near its limits.

G & M has many tools and skills to keep your car running all year around.

Wife paints hubby into corner

DEAR ABBY: I'll bet you are going to get mounds of mail on this one! "Peeling Paint in Dayton" said his wife's death bed wish was to be cremated. She wanted her ashes mixed with paint to be used to paint the ceiling of their bedroom. Obviously, the wife had hoped this would prevent her husband from entertaining other women.

You advised the man to honor her request, but to entertain elsewhere. Abby, no way! That letter had to be a joke! No woman in her right mind would make such a request. And if there's no law against it, there should be.

If a ghost were looking for a place to live, the bedroom would be it. Abby, you goofed!

HARMONY IN EASTLAKE, OHIO
DEAR HARMONY: It's not always easy to know when a reader is joking. This off-the-wall lady may have really wanted to end up on the ceiling.

DEAR ABBY: In regard to "Holding Out and Proud of It," the 27-year-old virgin who tells guys up front they're wasting their time if they expect to get her into bed before they put a wedding ring on her finger. She's a very wise girl, but with that approach she may never get married.

I used to tell my dates the same thing, and after that, I never saw them again. Then a very wise, moralistic brother-in-law told me I shouldn't state my puritanical views so quickly and emphatically - I should give the guy the "not-tonight-but-maybe-tomorrow" approach until he slips the wedding ring on my finger. A bit devious perhaps, but it keeps him coming back for more.

I tried it, and it worked for me.

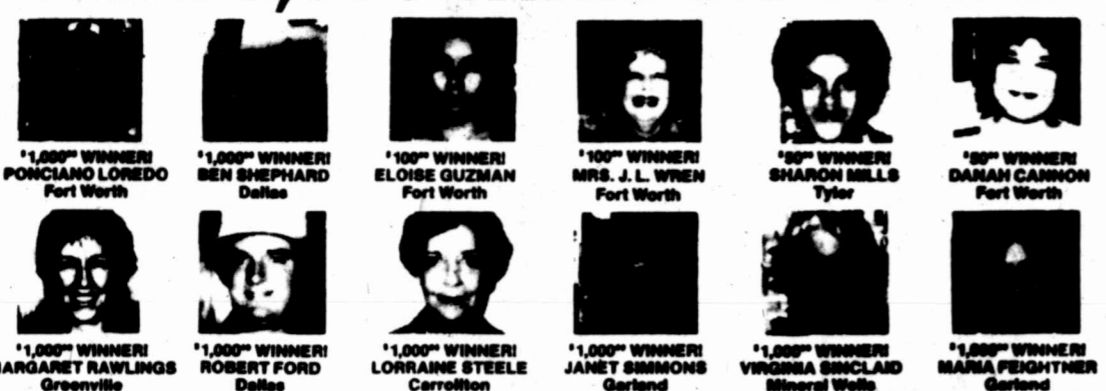

SAVED MYSELF FOR MARRIAGE

DEAR SAVED: Game-playing is for children. And the "not-tonight-but-maybe-tomorrow" approach will not keep a man on the string indefinitely. Honesty is the best policy for girls who are saving themselves. And it's a great time-saver for everyone concerned.

Rainbow Project looks to citizens

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

Construction on the Rainbow Project may be completed within a month, but hurdles remain before the new home for abused children is ready.

Debbie Holt, a worker with the Howard County Ministerial Fellowship's project to renovate the old No. 6 Fire Station, said money is needed to furnish the building.

She said they have made arrangements with a local store to receive furniture at cost.

"For $150, we can buy a good quality bed and frame," she said. "We need groups or individuals to buy a bed. This way we will be able to make everything standard and of good quality."

She said they could receive a good chest of drawers for $75.

The home at 2906 W. 13th also needs a washer and dryer, large cooking vessels, a cutting board, 20 sets of twin sheets and pillow cases and two sets of full-size sheets, Ms. Holt said.

"We'd be glad to accept donated furniture and other items, but we want to make sure everything is sturdy and long-lasting," she said.

Victor Sedinger, minister of Big Spring First Christian Church and co-chairman of the ministerial alliance, said he hopes to have construction finished by April 9 and to start moving furniture in on April 14.

"April 15 is the time-line for applying for a license from the Texas Department of Human Resources," he said. "They will send someone down to inspect and will respond within 30 days."

He said the project's supervisors would then have a limited amount of time to comply with the department.

"The whole process (of licensing) could take as little as 30 days or as many as 90. We're hoping for 30," Sedinger said.

Persons wishing to donate money are asked to make their checks payable to the Rainbow Project and send them to P.O. Box 2825, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Checks should be specified if they are to be used for a particular need of the project, Ms. Holt said.

Operator recalls work emergencies

...is honored

Handling hundreds of calls that routinely turn into emergencies isn't the easiest job in a hospital, but Peggy Smith, PBX operator at Malone-Hogan, does it well, hospital officials say.

She has been chosen the employee-of-the-month at Malone-Hogan for March. Mrs. Smith's husband, Roy, is a retired Missouri-Pacific railroad man.

Upon being named employee-of-the-month, Mrs. Smith said "I'm pleased, but a little embarrassed. I do like people. But I'm afraid that I'm not always the positive person they say I am."

Many of the calls coming into a hospital switchboard come from people justifiably upset. She says her heart goes out to them. Sometimes things become hectic at her post, though.

She remembers one night in particular. The emergency room was filled with people involved in a shooting. The lobby was quiet, but the switchboard shined solid red with incoming calls. She was trying to reach family members to notify them of the accident.

She heard people at the locked front door of the lobby, kicking against the door. She knew they hadn't seen the telephone outside the door, which would have allowed them to identify themselves.

"I couldn't afford to let them in without identification, and I was answering 'stat' calls from emergency room by that time. I heard glass break, and angry voices coming toward me. When I looked up, I saw that one of them was badly hurt, a stabbing victim, it turned out."

They walked straight into the arms of the police, who were all around that night, she said.

Although not all nights and days are like that, Mrs. Smith likes the urgency of her job. She says "Sometimes I'm able to help people at a time they need it very much."

Bride-elect is honored

Pamela Dawn Werner, bride-elect of Captain Wayne Crenwelge, was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower March 19 in the home of Mrs. J. D. Cauble, 709 W. 14th.

The bride-elect and the mother of the bridegroom-elect, Elizabeth Crenwelge, were presented corsages.

The tables was set with a linen cloth topped by a silk arrangement in peaches and browns, surrounded by peach candles set in crystal holders.

Hostesses were Dorothy Cauble and Bobbie Voss. Guests signed in on a linen tea towel with liquid embroidery.

The couple will wed June 4 at Plymouth Church in Whittier, Calif., with Father Charles Lum Kee, Honolulu, Hawaii, and the bride's grandfather, Dr. Frederic Groetsma, Whittier, Calif., officiating.

Capt. Crenwelge is a C-130 navigator, stationed at Dyess Air Force Base, Abilene.
