Local man dies from stab wounds

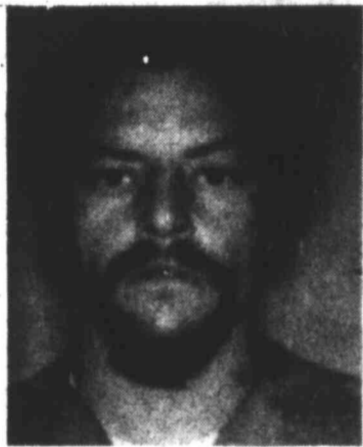

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

Police have issued murder warrants for three suspects in the multiple-stabbing death of a 27-year-old Big Spring man early Saturday morning.

Manuel (Nino) Lopez Sr., 27, of 1517 W. 7th was pronounced dead at the scene after an apparent fight in the 1500 block of Wood — a residential area several blocks east of Big Spring High School.

Police responded to a reported disturbance at 2:31 a.m. Saturday and found Lopez dead in the front yard. He received puncture wounds and lacerations to the chest, abdomen, back, arms, face and scalp, according to police Det. Ken Hallmark.

An autopsy performed Saturday afternoon by Dr. Roscoe Cowper of

MANUEL LOPEZ

Big Spring revealed that Lopez died of a wound to the center of his heart which cut the aorta, causing him to bleed profusely, Hallmark said.

Both lungs were punctured in the attack, according to the autopsy.

Witnesses said "three or four" men were involved in the fight. The other men fled before police arrived, Hallmark said.

"There was a lot of drinking and they just started fighting," said a witness who asked to remain anonymous. "A couple of them got cut, I think."

Hallmark said no weapons were found on Lopez and none were discovered in the area of the stabbing. Police were still taking statements Saturday afternoon.

Lopez was pronounced dead by Municipal Judge Melvin Darrat and transported to Cowper Clinic & Hospital by Shaffer Ambulance personnel.

Services are pending with Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

STABBING SCENE — Manuel Lopez Sr., 27, of Big Spring was stabbed to death at 1517B Wood, shown above, early Saturday morning. A witness said Lopez' body was found lying near the pipe in the front yard. Big Spring police say they have three suspects in the stabbing.

CLOWNING AROUND — Sloan Cathey, 4, imitated the dress of the professional rodeo clowns at the 87th annual Cheyenne Frontier Days Rodeo in Cheyenne, Wyo. Sloan is the son of Wacey Cathey, Big Spring.

Wacey was the champion bull rider at the 1978 Frontier Days and was the leader after the first go-round this year. The 87th "Daddy of 'Em All" celebration ends today.

Domino tourney winners crowned

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

The championship of the Big Spring Texas-style partnership domino tournament was a Metroplex Matchup, of sorts, between a team from Dallas and a nephew-uncle team from Fort Worth.

Dallas was victorious. Ralph Foster and F.E. Studur took home $750 each and two large trophies Saturday night. Their Fort Worth opponents — E.A. Jackson and his nephew, Mark — settled for $500 each and two slightly smaller trophies.

The last domino was played at 5:05 p.m. Saturday at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The top teams played for roughly 30 hours since 53 pairings began competition Thursday.

It was tense, but not unfriendly. Many of the players had competed against each other before.

"Old Foster, he had to win," Lewis Kolos of Hallisville said of one of the champions. "I lucked out against him a couple of years back. It's his turn."

Kolos said he's been playing dominoes all of his life in Hallisville — sight of the Texas State Championships.

"But that's elimination. This is round-robin and that's a lot better. You get to play more," he said.

"Playing more" wasn't the intention of Travis Neusome, who with his brother, Jerry, came all the way from Kansas City, Mo. He said their minds were on the long trip back.

But they will take home $250 and a trophy for their trouble.

"I guess I've been playing for about 22 years," See DOMINOES, page 2A

Tammy Peugh crowned queen of Farm Bureau

Tammy Peugh was crowned Howard County Farm Bureau Queen Saturday night at a contest at the Big Spring Country Club.

Runnerup was Dana Shaffer, 19, of Sands. The other contestants were Cathy Thurman and Debra Shortes.

In addition, Kelli Bearden, last year's Howard County Farm Bureau Queen, was picked the Talent Find for the county.

Miss Peugh, 19, daughter of J.E. and JoAnn Peugh of Stanton, will represent the county in the district 6 Farm Bureau queen contest Thursday night at the country club.

Should she win there she will represent the district, which includes San Angelo and El Paso, in the state queen contest later this year.

Winners of the district contest will receive prizes and the chance to compete for college scholarships at state competitions.

Robin Ethridge, Howard County Farm Bureau Queen for 1980, won the state pageant that year.

Last night's contestants were required to answer questions to show their knowledge of farm bureau issues and today's problems in general.

Connie Mabry of Stanton was master of ceremonies for the evening. Lynn Smith of Big Spring provided piano music.

Farmer awaits liver transplant

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

Jacky Romine's pocket beeper isn't for business appointments, it's to help save his life.

If it sounds it will mean doctors have finally — after six months — found a liver to replace his own diseased one. It will mean he has five hours to get to Pittsburgh for a lifesaving liver transplant.

The 46-year-old Martin County farmer has a rare and incurable liver disease called sclerosing cholangitis. The cells in his bile ducts are hardening — "like bacon that's been cooked too long," Romine said — and his blood isn't being properly cleansed.

His skin and the normally white sclera of his eyes have the sickly yellow cast of jaundice — a sign of the intensity of his disease.

"I feel pretty good most of the time," Romine said. "I get a tired feeling and every few weeks I get sick. But I'm still able to get around."

Romine is a large man — 6'2" — but his weight has dropped from 230 to 190 pounds since the condition was diagnosed by a Massachusetts doctor in January.

Instead of letting the disease take its course and destroy his liver's blood-cleansing function, Romine and his wife, Donna, 42, decided that he should join the waiting list for liver donors.

He insists upon working while he waits. He and Don-

Guards report 'ghost' screams

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Reports by "terrified" security guards of a mysterious strolling woman in a white dress and blood-curdling "ghost" screams in the night at a south Bexar County industrial plant have left investigators baffled.

The two guards reported separate incidents on Thursday and Friday, said investigators.

One of the guards reported seeing a mysterious young woman in a white dress walking in the bushes near Ellis Industries as he sat in his car, deputy Bill Stanley said.

Stanley said Ray Agosto refused to return to his car even though Stanley "checked the area for any suspicious spirits" and found none.

On Friday night, a second security guard called in an officer-in-trouble report after hearing a scream, said deputy Eddie Tijerina.

Tijerina said when he arrived at the scene, the security guard, Gabriel Contreras, "was scared half to death."

"He was standing close to the office area," Tijerina said. "He said he heard what sounded like a woman being stabbed. There were terrible screams according to him, but we couldn't find anything."

"He heard something. I don't know what it was. He was terrified and shaking like a leaf on a tree," Tijerina said. "When we left, he left. He said that he wasn't going to work there anymore."

Tijerina said Contreras told investigators he believed the screams came from the ghost of a murdered woman seeking revenge on her killer.

The deputy offered the theory that the screams and ghost sighting might be part of a teen-age prank, but said, "I don't know what's going on."

A spokesman for TIS Security, which employed the two men, said the guards had been instructed not to talk to reporters.

A spokesman for the Ellis plant said no similar incidents had been reported at the business before.

THE NAME OF THE GAME — Is concentration. In dominos, keeping an eye on the action may be the key to whether a player wins or loses a hand. Here, concentrating on their next moves in the domino tournament

Travis said. "It was the only game our folks let us play."

The crowd that gathered around the championship game was small and made up entirely of domino enthusiasts. The game is not considered a spectator sport, but that didn't hurt the enthusiasm of the participants.

Each successive best-of-five game grew quieter and quieter. The players took more time looking over their dominos, then slammed each one down in proud defiance.

"Don't be so sneaky, Studer," E.A. Jackson snapped. "I knew you were hiding that double all along." In the end, Studer-Foster won by 10 points.

"It's mostly luck," Foster said. "It's what you get and knowing how to use what you got. That's all there is."

"This is how a domino tournament should be played — down to the last domino," he said.

Here are the final winners of the tournament sponsored by American Petrofina, the Big Spring Jaycees and the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Youth charged with shooting

HOUSTON (AP) — A 17-year-old youth was charged Saturday in the shooting of a Houston policeman who was wounded in the face, said a spokeswoman for the Harris County District Attorney's office.

Daniel Moreno Jr. of Houston was charged with attempted capital murder of a police officer.

A 16-year-old companion who was arrested with Moreno was in the custody of juvenile authorities late Friday, said Houston police detective Jim Montero. He will have to undergo a certification hearing to be charged and tried as an adult in the case, the district attorney's office spokeswoman said.

Houston police officer K.E. Wenzel was hit in the nose Thursday night by a bullet, shot from a van, that pierced his patrol car window, police said. The officer was following the van after he noticed it fit the description of a vehicle involved in a shooting earlier in the night.

Wenzel was treated and released from Hermann Hospital Friday morning.

The arrests Friday occurred after officers followed a lead provided by the Crimestoppers program.

Texas girl writes letter

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — A 12-year-old girl writes a letter to President Reagan on Friday that she wrote the letter because "I didn't approve of the way the reporters hollered at him" during a news conference she had seen.

"President Reagan did improve on his speech that day. He just kept on going when the reporters kept on talking," the girl said.

She said a press aide had called the day of the news conference and asked her if the president could read her letter at the news conference.

"When he was walking down the aisle (to start the press conference), my mom and I were sitting there watching, and I remember thinking, my letter's in his pocket," Gretchen said.

Reagan identified Gretchen Johansen only as a 13-year-old named Gretchen when he read part of her letter to reporters at his nationally televised news conference Tuesday.

"Don't you (Reagan) wish sometimes you could just stamp your feet and shout at the press or senators to be quiet, sit down and listen to what you're saying?" said Gretchen in the portion of the letter that Reagan read aloud.

Reagan replied, "Yes, Gretchen, I sometimes feel that way and, particularly, over the last week."

Gretchen, the daughter of Buz and Nancy Johansen, told the San Antonio Light on Friday that she wrote the letter because "I didn't approve of the way the reporters hollered at him" during a news conference she had seen.

Weather

Clouds dot state

By The Associated Press

A weak low-pressure trough pushed scattered cloudiness caused by high pressure into Southeast and South Central Texas early Saturday, as rainfall dotted the High Plains and upper Gulf coast.

Light shower activity dampened sections of the Panhandle, but heavier thundershowers moved through coastal regions, while skies were clear across the rest of the state, the National Weather Service said.

Winds were southeast at 10 mph except light northeasterly along coastal areas. Morning low temperatures ranged from the low 80s in North Texas and the mid-70s across the southern High Plains to the lower 70s across the Panhandle.

Scattered thundershowers should fall across portions of North Central, South Central and Southwest Texas and the coastal plains. Hot temperatures are expected with readings in the mid to upper 90s across most of the state.

Lower 90s are expected over the Panhandle and along the coast. The Big Bend valley should warm to around 108 degrees.

Record-high temperatures were expected to reach much of the nation today as the heat wave that has claimed 187 lives continues.

A statewide heat emergency was declared Friday in Oklahoma, as temperatures soared above 100 degrees. Officials ordered daily inspections of nursing homes and boarding houses to check for excessive heat in buildings.

In St. Louis, Mo., where Friday's high was 100 degrees with just 41 percent humidity, officials called a heat alert and reopened cooling shelters for the poor and elderly. Records were broken in Michigan and Ohio, and Wichita Falls, Texas, registered 105 degrees with only 20 percent humidity.

Readings above 100 again were predicted for the desert Southwest today. Temperatures in the 90s were expected from the Southern and mid-Atlantic Coast to the Southern and Central Plains and over much of the nation west of the Rockies.

Thunderstorms offered a little relief in some areas Friday and this morning, but 100-mph winds damaged buildings in Kansas and storms left thousands of homes in Michigan without electricity.

West Texas - widely scattered late afternoon and evening thundershowers mainly Panhandle and west of the mountains. Lows 60s in the mountains and Panhandle to the mid 70s in the extreme south. Highs mostly in the 90s except near 108 in the Big Bend.

Human error blamed for Astroworld death

HOUSTON (AP) — Human error and "a violent, blatant violation of procedure" led to an Astroworld rollercoaster accident that killed one employee and injured three others, officials at the amusement park said Saturday.

The accident occurred late Friday night when three of four cars being installed on the ride plummeted 14 feet from their tracks during a safety check, officials said.

The dead man, identified as Frank Wamble, 22, of Deer Park, was trapped under one car after the apparent accident at 11:15 p.m., a Houston Fire Department spokesman said.

Two of the three injured, who suffered head lacerations and a fractured clavicle respectively, were released from Hermann Hospital Saturday morning, said spokesman Brian Roper. The third injured worker, Johnny Westbrook, was in stable condition at the hospital Saturday with a dislocated shoulder, Roper said.

Neither the hospital nor Astroworld would identify the two employees who were released from the hospital.

The four were among 15 employees who were about to begin a test run of a new train on the Texas Cyclone, the largest ride at the park, Ms. Smith said.

She said two ride supervisors gave the "clear to dispatch" signal. But the track had not been returned from the "load" position to the "run" position, she said. When the train was dispatched, it rolled backward into a storage shed and off the track.

"It's hard to understand" why the track position was not switched, Ms. Smith said. "It's very routine, very much a part of everyday procedure."

Ms. Smith said the accident was caused solely by human error.

"Nothing went wrong with the Cyclone — nothing was the matter with it," she said. "It was just a very unfortunate accident ... It was very obviously an error on the part of the crew."

A safety mechanism designed to "act as a backup to prevent human error" failed to perform correctly because a small wooden board had been jammed into the mechanism, said Astroworld general manager Lamar Parker.

Parker said the board sent a false signal that the track was in its correct position.

The actions which led to the accident were "a violent, blatant violation of procedure," Parker said.

Ms. Smith said officials don't think the block was put over the safety switch for malicious reasons, but because an employee probably had wanted to tend to something else on the ride, she said.

No paying passengers were on the Cyclone at the time of the accident, Ms. Smith said.

Ms. Smith said the second train was being added to the ride because of demand caused by additional passengers. The ride has been closed pending investigation into the incident.

Parker said all employees aboard the cars wore seatbelts and were locked inside by lap bars.

"Once you're in there, you're in there," he said.

Wamble had worked at the amusement park since 1977 but was not part of the rollercoaster's crew, Ms. Smith said. He was riding on the Cyclone because a minimum number of passengers was required for the safety check, she said.

Security officers at the park refused to allow employees or witnesses to talk with reporters following the mishap. Some said they were threatened with arrest.

The Astroworld complex, covering 75 acres in southern Houston, employs about 1,800 people.

House Democrats take aim at money to pay for support

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats, having won a vote against CIA backing for rightist Nicaraguan rebels, are now taking aim at the money needed to pay for that covert support after Oct. 1.

House Intelligence Committee Democrats have discussed not only eliminating the $19 million specifically earmarked for the aid but drastically reducing the CIA director's secret "contingency fund" that has been drawn on heavily to pay for the Nicaragua program, congressional sources said.

Maneuvering in Congress over the CIA's classified budget began in earnest after the House voted 228-195 Thursday to stop an estimated $30 million in covert U.S. aid to the 10,000 "contras" — or counter-revolutionaries — fighting the leftist Nicaraguan government.

The bill now goes to the Republican-controlled Senate where it is given little chance of passage. But even if the Senate rejects the bill, the $30 million only carries the program until the start of the next fiscal year, Oct. 1.

Both supporters and opponents of the bill agree that the House vote will stiffen Democratic determination to fight President Reagan's efforts to obtain new funding for the covert action — a key part of his Central America policy — after Oct. 1.

"That's exactly where the battle will be," said Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., an opponent of the covert action on the Senate Intelligence Committee.

One State Department official, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said he doubted the legislative battle would "end up in any serious erosion of the administration's flexibility," but added that the House vote was "an expression of the House will" that could cause complications.

The official said an eventual conference between the House and Senate on their differences might lead to a compromise that would cut off the CIA aid if Nicaragua is found to have halted support for leftist guerrillas in El Salvador — language similar to that unsuccessfully pushed Thursday by House Republicans and some conservative Democrats.

But the official said he doubted Congress would actually "fool with the financial mechanisms" of the intelligence agencies because that could damage the president's ability to respond to foreign crises.

Without approval by the House and Senate, the administration will be without authorization to pay for the Nicaragua covert action after Oct. 1, the start of the federal government's new fiscal year. That means action must be taken by then or the program will die.

In an interview, Durenberger said the CIA exceeded this year's budget for the covert action in March or April — only halfway through the current fiscal year — and has been funding it since then out of the contingency fund.

Profile

in courage

Add to your profiles in courage list Rep. Dan Coats, R-Ind. He voted against designating Oct. 25 as National Mother-In-Law Day. Not content with that act of extreme bravery, Coats plunged into the lioness' den by saying "behind every successful man lies a surprised mother-in-law."

Jesting aside, Coats said he had nothing against his or anyone else's mother-in-law but had wearied of Congress taking valuable time to designate special days to commemorate a myriad of things, like Jogging Day, National Coin Week, Hawk Watching Day, etc.

"As a freshman congressman," he explained, "I've quickly fallen prey to the sage advice of many House veterans that 'nobody is against bald eagles,' or 'hold your nose and vote for National Chicken Soup Day because there are 150,000 mothers in the district who serve chicken noodle soup to their kids every time they get sick.'"

Coats says the "implied threat" is that if those mothers found out their congressman voted against the soup day, "they would rise en masse next election to throw the insensitive lout out of Congress."

So the representative did show courage, rare as it is in Congress these days, even on trivial issues. That's not to say that mothers-in-law are a trivial matter. Quite to the contrary. As Sir James George Frazer once said, "The awe and dread with which the untutored savage contemplates his mother-in-law are among the most familiar in anthropology."

Life in the city

"Toot-toot, hey, beep-beep
Toot-toot, hey, beep-beep"
Donna Summer
From "Bad Girls"

"It's survival in the city
When you live from day to day
City streets don't have much pity
When you're down, that's where you'll stay"

Joe Walsh
From "In the City"

Cities around the world consistently show up on travel agency posters. Oh sure there are the Swiss Alps, the Nile River, the Grand Canyon... but when we fantasize about France, we think of the Eiffel Tower in Paris; when we have Britain on our minds, we think of London town; when we think of the great night life, the Big Apple, New York City, is our destination.

I've been to all these cities and confess it would be hard to turn down the opportunity to live in one with the possible exception of New York City. That was before I spent three days earlier this week in Fort Worth.

Now, I have nothing against Fort Worth; I'd rather live there than Dallas. What I discovered was that working in a city and being a tourist are two different things. Visiting the city is fun; working there is a pain in the gluteus maximus.

Of course, I was in Cowtown when it was 100-plus degrees. Bounce sunrises around steel, concrete, asphalt and you get mind-boggling heat. I'd rather have a summer home built on astroturf.

Tall buildings make pretty skylines. However, they make for poor circulation of breezes. The stillness holds in the tepid air much like a locker-room holds in the aroma of sweaty socks.

Mix in hot air, bus and truck exhaust fumes, the lovely smells from dark alleys and you need an oxygen mask.

It was so hot and humid that the usually pleasant after-effects of a shower disappeared by the time you unlocked your car in the morning. Walking between buildings drenched your shirt. I won't admit to being a sweatshop but I had streams of perspiration pouring down my pantlegs.

THE HEAT isn't everything, though. Try finding a place to park. Good luck.

If you are lucky, the place where you work will have a place to park. If not, find another job or parachute in to the office.

You know how it is when you go to a Cowboys or Rangers game, fighting the traffic going in and worst, going home. Try doing that every day. Just when you find a place to work, it's either 20-minute parking or no parking from 6 a.m.-4 p.m. Then, if you do find a legitimate place, the meter only goes for two hours.

You could try getting away with a violation except there are cops putting around in those three-wheeled cars writing tickets all day. They have no mercy.

Okay, so you can beat the heat by staying inside all day and you have your own place to park... how about ear pollution? They're always tearing up the street somewhere with a jack-hammer, there's horns honking, buses accelerating, trucks unloading.

Other things? Try crossing a street. Walk. Don't Walk. Move It, Buddy. Those flashing signs get on my nerves. It says Walk but halfway across it says Don't Walk. You end up sprinting to the curb just to save yourself from winding up on the grill of the Indy 500 cab driver gunning his engine next to you.

I haven't mentioned the strange people hanging around either. Especially the ones drinking out of brown bags and not wearing shoes. Or the guy who lurks under an awning eyeing purses and backpockets. Makes you sweat a little, which you don't need. No wonder people run down the sidewalks. The signs should flash Run and Don't Run.

Then there are the sleaze palaces. Exotic dancers, 24 hours a day. Little Frankie's Peep Show. They always leave the doors open but you can't see anything but darkened hallways. You expect someone to reach out and grab you inside, never to return.

HERE'S THE problem. When you are a tourist, you go to the nice restaurants, the nice nightspots, the theaters, sports arenas, department stores... You avoid all the bad things — or your guide steers you away from them. You leave the city thinking "Hey, this is the life."

But when you live and work there every day, the city's dark side appears.

I'll probably wind up in the city and learn to live with all the problems. But after my recent week, I won't count the days until I get there.

Editor's Column

Standing in your welfare line

I've always been fascinated by the lyrics to country-western songs. There's always a gimmick to them, a double-play on words. For example, "If I said you had a beautiful body, would you hold it against me?" Or, "I've got the hungries for your love and I'm standing in your welfare line."

"Kiss an angel good morning, and love her like the devil when I get back home."

Ormly Gumfudgin, official historian for the International Chili Society and now a weekly syndicated columnist, listed a few "Great Lines From Country-Western Songs" that were supplied to him by a PR man with the Dallas Cowboys.

"She stepped on my heart and stomped that sucker flat."

"My daddy was a broad-minded man, he had 'em on his mind all the time."

"Red hot memories and ice cold beer."

"I'll take anything from 18 to 80, when the full moon is shinin' and my Roadmaster's on the road."

"Don't cry down my back, baby, you might rust my spurs."

My mom came up with these examples:

"There's a new moon over my shoulder and an old love still in my heart."

"Pass me by if you're only passing through."

"While you're living it up, I'm living it down."

John Sanders of KBYG Radio offered these:

"She got the gold mine, I got the shaft."

"Pain in my past."

"Lying here lying."

"Johnny Walker home (because I'm too drunk to)."

Chuck Benz, circulation manager of the Herald, spun these classics off the top of his head:

"Get off the kitchen stove, Grandma, you know you're too old to be riding the range."

"She was only a bootlegger's daughter, but I love her still."

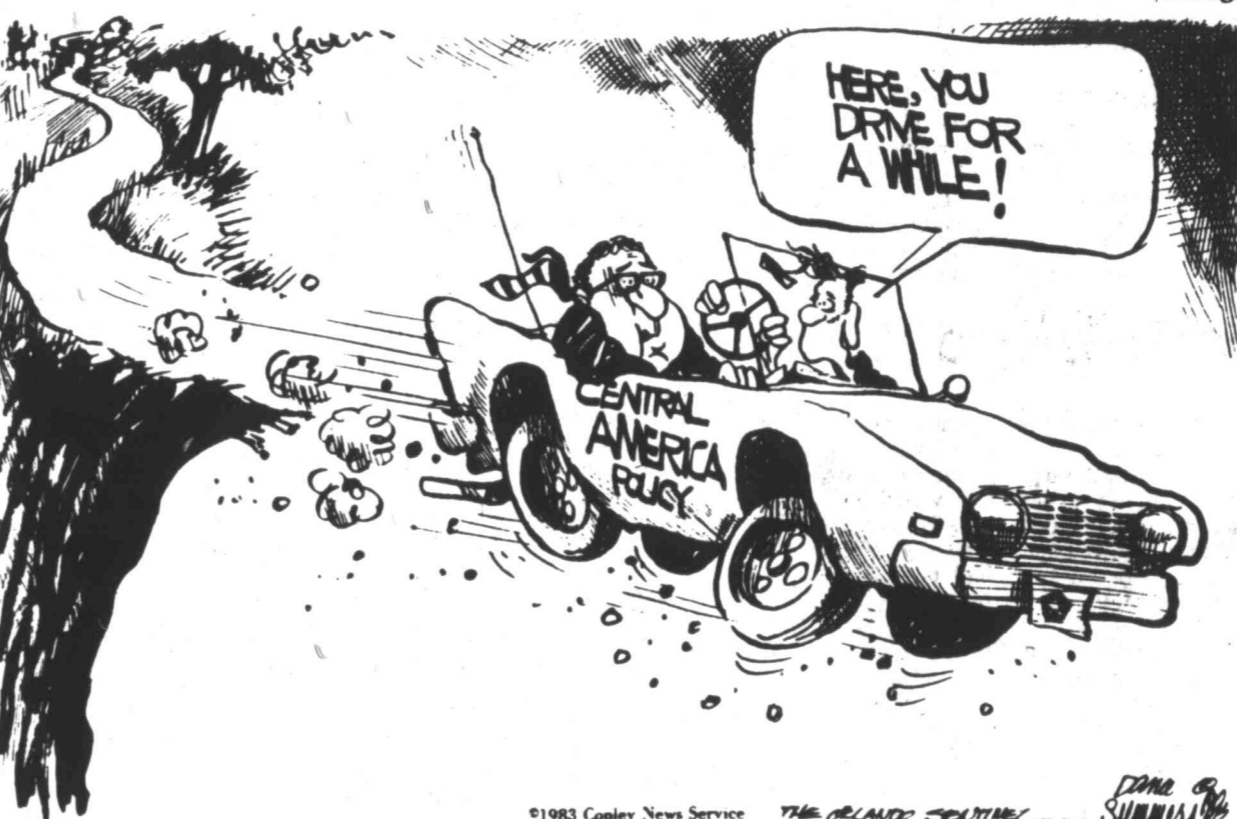

Then, straying from country music lyrics but with a sudden burst of inspiration just as I was finishing this column, Benz recited:

"Your teeth are like the stars, they come out every night."

"Your eyes are like pools — cess pools."

"Your lips are like petals — bicycle pedals."

"Your nose is like the gentle brook — always running."

In defense of Greg Jaklewicz

Dear Editor,
I think it's about time someone took up for Greg Jaklewicz. Every time the poor guy writes a column he catches heck because someone takes what he has to say personally and gets offended.

I don't know Mr. Jaklewicz personally but I do know he is the BEST sports editor the Herald has ever seen. He takes full interest in all local athletes, whether individuals (Kelly Rodgers) or teams (Big Spring Steers, Howard College Hawks, Little League, etc.)

Don't forget about the Knott Fun Festival. How many of you people who have negative things to say about Greg can say they took an active part in that?

So why don't all you overly sensitive people get off the guy's back. He doesn't write that column so he can take pot shots at people. He writes about things people can relate to — Ex.: Cafeteria food. I go to Big Spring High and I can honestly say that to the students and faculty, complaining about the food is a way of life.

No offense meant, ladies. I'm sure you all are caring and hard-working, but a little humor goes a long way. Greg Jaklewicz is extremely talented and you can bet the Herald isn't permanent. He'll be so, if you find yourself getting offended at Greg's Around the Rim, skip it. But you're gonna be missing a lighter and brighter side of the news.

Keep up the good work, Greg.

School is starting too early

Dear Editor,
Here it is the end of July, already less than three weeks until school starts.

I think it is extremely disgusting that our kids have to start back to school in the middle of August. We have not had even three months of vacation. We called the school administration office, and they said the teachers were given a calendar of dates to start on, finish on and holidays in between, and that they voted to start August the 18th.

I realize that there are a lot of teachers in Big Spring, but we have talked to 20 and none of them voted on this date and expressed how totally ridiculous they thought this was. Parents that we have talked to are as shocked as we are.

This will cut into a lot of people's vacation time. We for one will have to keep our child out for a few days if we are going to have a vacation trip. This is unfair to the children, to the working parents, and to the teachers.

The Ackerly schools do not start until Aug. 29th. Coahoma starts the 22nd, Garden City the 22nd, Snyder the 22nd. Why must we start on a Thursday the 18th?

We as taxpayers and as parents should have a say as to when our kids should start when our summer is being infringed on. This next coming school year of 1984 we will be looking into ways to change it.

Send Briscoe to his people

Dear Editor,
Your article in your Herald paper Thursday July 28, 1983, by Keith Briscoe — Around the Rim — "Give me liberty" was disgusting.

He says, "My rights under the first amendment of the Constitution are being violated and I'm angry about it."

This guy must have been raised in the ghettos or a Buddhist colony. Shows about how much ignorance he has been raised in.

He should get down upon his knees and thank God that he has the right to pray and believe in what he thinks.

I would not want him around me if we had another war and had to fight side by side to protect each other. If you have people like him printing your papers and writing articles like this every day for people to read you are scraping the bottom of the barrel.

I don't know where he came from but I'll donate $100 for a bus ticket to send him back where he came from. Maybe he can be happy with his kind of people. Enough said. We don't need him in Big Spring.

Police action is criticized

Dear Editor,
Last Wednesday evening, I was witness to what I call "unwarranted" police brutality. About 9 p.m., at the Back Door Lounge, a patron became upset, upon discovering he had spent a large amount of money. I will also add he had quite a bit to drink.

He then proceeded to the parking lot, where he took out his anger on another patron's car, causing extensive damage. I do not condone this kind of behavior, and realize that for insurance reasons, the police had to be called in. However, the events following their arrival are the reasons for this letter.

Upon arriving, the officers asked for identification of the parties involved, and a rundown of the events that led to the assault on the car. At the time of the questioning, both parties were calm, and there was no attempt of violence or resistance on the part of either party.

Party A (the offender) then offered to make amends by offering the victim money to pay for the damages. He was then grabbed by the arm, and slammed up against a car, and ordered by Officer Sautter to stay away from the victim. When Party A told officer Sautter to release him, Sautter then threatened (not verbally, but by his actions) to hit him with his flashlight. Party A again told the officer to release his arm, and Sautter replied by twisting his arm behind his back.

Party A was then grabbed around the neck and forced to the ground by officers Boyd, Meek and Russell. At this point, a female friend of Party A's began verbally protesting the rough treatment of her friend, when Officer Boyd informed her that she was under arrest for disorderly conduct. She had in no way interfered with the arrest of Party A, or posed a threat to any of the officers. She offered to go along peacefully, yet they insisted on handcuffing her. She was also visibly pregnant.

What kind of justice system is it, when the people we pay to protect us also threaten us with bodily harm? What ever happened to freedom of speech?

I was shocked by the events that took place that night, and can only wonder what the future holds in regards to our law enforcement system, should this kind of brutality be allowed to continue.
Sincerely,
MARIANNE PIERCE

I'd given it up for lost forever, when my mother received a phone call from the manager of the 7-11 store on Marcy Drive. He'd found my wallet, and tracked down my parents through a check my mom had written me.

My mom tried to give him a reward, but he refused, so the only way I know to thank this man is this — a public acknowledgment of his kindness and honesty. In this day of thievery and dishonesty, it is most refreshing to know there are good old-fashioned honest people still around.

Phooey on the armadillo

Dear Editor,
I, Charles William Russell, a born and reared Texas older concerned citizen, want everybody to know that I am hopping mad.

Speaking on behalf of the honorable and stately Texas Longhorn Steer, I am asking, no demanding, that He, the Longhorn, be recognized, revered, and officially be deemed as the Texas State Animal.

The nerve of beer-drinking, johnny-come-latelies attempting to set up that lowly, decrepit, squirming thing called the Armadillo as our State Animal is just too much. Any true Texan will beam with pride and relate how from the very beginning the Longhorn Steer is as much a part of Texas as the Lone Star, or the Alamo itself.

I am sure there are many other Old-Timers out there that feel the same way I do and ready to take up arms, or pens, on behalf of that majestic, brave animal, the Texas Longhorn Steer, which surely did its part in making our State recognized as the most wonderful State of them all.

Come on, Old-Timers, let's start a crusade to express our sentiments, a movement, that will literally be heard around the world, or at least Texas, and give justice where justice is due. By so doing, we will drive that lowly, worm-eating, ground-burrowing Armadillo back across the border where it belongs.

Congressional ebb and flow

By WILLIAM GARLAND

WASHINGTON — A common transformation among congressmen seems to occur both before and after elections, perhaps as the inevitable result of the natural ebb and flow of congressional politics.

Following an election win, especially in the case of senators with six-year terms, there's more time to concentrate on areas of broad interest. With the approach of election day, there's the more pressing need to make sure the people back home know what they've done and what they're doing, especially as it directly affects the constituents.

Those tendencies are becoming more noticeable now with Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and John Tower, R-Texas.

After his convincing reelection last year, Bentsen's next election battle will not be until 1988. Tower is finishing up his fourth term, with an election facing him next year.

Since the victory, many of Bentsen's activities have seemed more national-oriented than regional in nature. As vice-chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, he's giving heavy emphasis to such issues as foreign trade and tax policy for small businesses. He's also emphasizing his long-time interest in the problem of drug-smuggling, pushing hard on his bill that would give harsher penalties to pilots who bring drugs into the country illegally, many of them across the southern border.

In last year's election, Bentsen had to spend considerable energy fighting off a charge from former Rep. James Collins, D-Dallas, that he was "too liberal" for Texas.

Tower is likely to spend less time in his reelection campaign fighting off such ideological charges.

At the time of the election, Tower will have represented Texas for 23 years in the Senate, and voters probably will be more interested in what Tower is doing now for Texans and what the challenger could do differently or better. Whereas Collins tried to shock the voters with a sudden revelation that Bentsen was a "liberal" under a conservative veneer, it probably is not going to surprise anyone, after 23 years, that Tower really is a conservative.

So, with the election more than a year away, it seems that Tower has become predictably oriented toward dealing somewhat more vocally with Texas issues and letting people know what he's doing that affects Texas. His early election-consciousness undoubtedly stems in part from some early predictions (by Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, among others) that he would be vulnerable in the 1984 race.

Tower's strength, as chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, has been defense. He's been effective in protecting military interests of all kinds for Texas, in addition to being a leader in the major national defense debates. He always has let it be well known when he's gained something for a Texas base.

But Tower has seemed to be striving recently to make certain that he's not seen as a single issue senator. Most notably in the area of Hispanic concerns, Tower has made a definite and well-publicized attempt to be a leader on the issues of border problems and problems related to illegal aliens.

He initiated the call for a "border task force" to investigate the economic problems of the border in the wake of the peso devaluation, and when Reagan announces the task force results, Tower will undoubtedly be nearby to share some credit. He is also continuing to introduce a number of bills that would affect education of illegal aliens and other border-area concerns.

Tower has said he will formally initiate his campaign in September, and it seems likely that Texans will now begin to hear more often about what Tower is doing for Texas.

Sight restored, blind man sees wife

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — When Harold Schmidlin's sight was restored after more than 40 years of blindness, he saw his wife of 17 years for the first time.

"I was not disappointed," the 79-year-old San Bernardino man said.

But he said the real surprise came when he saw his own reflection in a mirror.

"I got the shock of my life at my gray hair and ugly puss," he said.

Dr. Sally Rabkin, who with her husband, Dr. Michael D. Rabkin, performed the surgeries that restored Schmidlin's sight, said he was "a man blind 40 years unnecessarily."

Schmidlin, an auditor until he went blind in 1939, was told for years he would never see again.

He met his wife at a meeting of the American Association of Retired Persons where he was playing the piano and she was a volunteer. Their friendship blossomed into romance and they were married in 1967.

"He had so many good qualities, I never thought about his blindness," said Mrs. Schmidlin, 85. "I was his eyes for 17 years."

But after attending a lecture given by the Rabkins in their Los Angeles office, she was the one who insisted he see them.

"I was very skeptical. I had been turned down so many times. I had a negative attitude," her husband said.

Mrs. Rabkin said she "really doesn't know why no one else had agreed to operate. There is no age limit. It's a misconception that people in their 90s cannot be candidates. The elderly need to see to get around even more."

The doctors removed a cataract, transplanted the cornea and implanted a permanent, intraocular lens in one of Schmidlin's eyes. There was no cataract in his other eye, so a cornea transplant was all that was needed.

"It's a brand new life for me. I have so much to be thankful for," Schmidlin said. "I can read the road signs and that's a thrill."

He can see the keys on the piano he loves to play and has discarded the Braille deck of cards he once needed. He's also put away the cane he had to use.

The couple this week described the eye surgery last December as a "miracle," especially at Schmidlin's age.

The cornea donation came from Houston, Texas, Mrs. Rabkin said, adding, "It's an incredible thing to do."

Schmidlin agreed, and said he is thankful for "two good eyes, two wonderful doctors, the donors, my wife and a wonderful divine creator."

And while "he doesn't have to hold my arm any more" to get around, Mrs. Schmidlin said she and her husband still travel together each day to San Bernardino convalescent hospitals and nursing homes where he entertains residents with his music.

Chicken strikes fear into visitors

ORANGE PARK, Fla. (AP) — Sweetpea the hen may be a sweetheart at heart, but since Randall and Willa Stewart put up a "Beware Attack Chicken" sign on their fence they haven't been bothered by burglars or prowlers.

Some of the neighborhood children are afraid to come in the house because they think the chicken will attack them," Mrs. Stewart said recently.

"We had some men come to the house to cut down some trees, and they walked up to the back fence gate and saw the sign and hesitated," she said.

Sweetpea fixes a fierce, beady stare on visitors as she eats cracker crumbs and clucks her way around the yard. But the hen really is a pussycat beneath her formidable white-feathered exterior. Mrs. Stewart said, and the "attack chicken" sign is just put-on.

"I have seen little juke signs in magazines like, 'Beware Attack Hamster,' and I had never seen one that said, 'Beware Attack Chicken,' so I made it and put it up," she said.

"We put the sign up thinking everybody would know it was a joke, but some people believe it. She has never attacked anybody."

Plan to display suit backfires

MIAMI (AP) — A group of fans of the vintage TV series "The Honey-mooners" have just one thing to say to the Miami man who owns Ralph Kramden's size 51 bus driver's uniform: "To the moon, Erwin."

Earlier this month, Erwin Fiesler auctioned off the mothballed uniform which Jackie Gleason wore on the show. The high bid went to the Royal Association for the Longevity and Preservation of the Honey-mooners — RALPH — whose 200 members planned to display the outfit at Borough Hall in Brooklyn, Gleason's hometown.

But the plan backfired just like one of Kramden's fictional get-rich-quick schemes. Fiesler says the club didn't come up with the money fast enough, so now he's going to keep the uniform himself.

RALPH isn't giving up, though. Co-president Bob Columbe says a New York state lawmaker — one of five who are RALPH members — is going to ask the state Assembly to pass a resolution supporting the club's efforts to bring the uniform to Brooklyn.

You want it? We have it.

Request for secret talk nixed

AUSTIN (AP) — Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle says he has refused to meet privately with Attorney General Jim Mattox to discuss Mattox's 1982 campaign finances and allegations under investigation by a grand jury.

"I didn't think it was in the public interest," Earle told the Austin American-Statesman. "We're not at that stage of our investigation yet."

Instead, Earle said, he and his staff met with representatives of Mattox — defense lawyer Bob Jones and Assistant Attorney General Arthur Mitchell — for slightly more than an hour late Friday.

"They just wanted to discuss their side of some of the allegations that have been publicized in the media," Earle told the Austin American-Statesman.

"We did not discuss any agreements."

The meeting resulted from the third overture made by Mattox and his attorneys in the past several weeks to discuss the investigation.

The American-Statesman said Mattox first tried to talk with Earle in late June after Earle announced that he would investigate Mattox's campaign contributions.

The second offer came 10 days ago when an accusation was made that Mattox threatened to use his authority as attorney general to put a Houston law firm out of the bond business.

The closed-door conference Friday night came after the Texas AFL-CIO convention meeting in Austin failed to endorse Mattox's call for a boycott of Mobil Oil.

The convention did approve a resolution approving Mattox's legal battle with Mobil for alleged irregularities in paying royalties on state-owned oil interests.

Mattox represents the state in joining in a $1.7 million lawsuit filed by South Texas rancher Clinton Manges, owner of the land, against Mobil.

Thomas McDade of the Houston law firm of Fulbright & Jaworski testified before the grand jury earlier in the week concerning the reported threats. He told reporters that Mattox threatened to use his authority as attorney general to cut off Fulbright & Jaworski's bond business if McDade insisted on questioning Mattox's sister in the Mobil suit.

Court records show McDade wants to ask Janice Mattox of Dallas about her possible business connections with Manges and loans made by the Seattle First National Bank.

The grand jury is studying reports regarding a $125,000 loan from Seattle First to Ms. Mattox and her brother, Jerry Mattox, and Jim Mattox's loan of $125,000 to his own political campaign. Both transactions were made within a week.

McDade commented Friday that Mattox's request for a boycott of Mobil products was "not only incredible, it's goofy. It's clearly very illegal." He said Mattox violated federal antitrust laws by calling for the boycott.

Gov. Mark White told reporters who asked about the boycott threat that he didn't think "public officials should be recommending that sort of thing."

The American-Statesman said a lawyer close to the grand jury investigation, who did not want to be named, said the call for a boycott probably would be studied as a possible violation of the prohibitions against public officials abusing their authority.

The grand jury meets again next Tuesday.

Block cuts price support loan by 10 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary John Block, bucking strong congressional opposition, will slash the basic federal price support loan for wheat next year by 10 percent in what he says is a drive to make U.S. grain internationally competitive.

"Politically it would be easier not to lower the loan rate," Block says. "But I come down on the side of better policy, and it's just better policy to make U.S. wheat producers competitive."

Block claimed most farmers will support the reduction, announced late Friday after months of review. But he conceded that the wheat industry is sharply divided over the issue.

Critics of the decision said coupling it with the administration's drive to bar scheduled increases for 1984 and 1985 in a support component known as target pricing was "adding insult to injury."

Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont., said he and others would continue to filibuster that target price legislation, ensuring that the Senate will take no action on it before mid-September.

Melcher and others said they believed the 1984 programs for other major crops will generally follow the wheat plan.

Block acknowledged little chance for passage of the bill, which he said would cut burgeoning farm program costs by $3.8 billion over three years.

He announced his decision to cut the 1984 wheat loan rate from this year's $3.65 a bushel to $3.30 as part of his detailed federal farm program for next year's wheat growers. Farmers use the price support loan to continue financing their operations between harvest and sale of their crops. The government makes billions of dollars a year in those kinds of loans.

But the program's land-tiling requirements, which farmers must meet to remain eligible for federal price protection, will be contingent on the action Congress takes on the target price question.

The alternatives each include a payment-in-kind, or PIK, component and fall within general guidelines issued by Block four weeks ago. Both are less attractive than the program for the 1983 crop.

"It is up to Congress to decide which option they want to choose," he said in reference to the target price debate.

Under either plan, Block admitted, farmer participation in the 1984 farm program will be lower than this year, total wheat production will be higher, market prices will hover right around the reduced loan level and net producer returns will decline.

The federal price tag for either alternative is estimated in excess of $9 billion over three years.

Block, trying to curb the $21.2 billion cost of this year's price support programs, has been urging reduction in the support level approved by Congress two years ago.

He claims basic support loans, viewed by many as the domestic market price floor, have escalated so much in recent years that they have priced American commodities out of international markets.

In the case of target prices, Block said they are set so high that they encourage farmers to over-produce even when there is no commercial market for their commodities. Under target prices, farmers get direct federal payments when market prices fall below the set target level.

Block has warned that if the taxpayer costs are not drastically reined in, the entire farm price support system will be in jeopardy.

Until recently, the system has worked well in protecting farmers and consumers from food gluts and shortages.

In addition to reducing the wheat price support loan rate, Block said a freeze in target prices will result in an acreage-idling component of:

—A 25 percent basic acreage reduction requirement to remain qualified for federal price support protection. No other government compensation for idling that land will be provided. This year's program was 20 percent with limited direct cash payments.

—An option to idle an additional 10 percent to 25 percent of the land under PIK. Farmers must already idle the basic 25 percent before qualifying for the PIK option. This year's program was 10 percent to 30 percent.

—Compensation to farmers opting for PIK of free surplus wheat equal to 80 percent of the grain they'd normally harvest from their PIK-idled acres. This year the compensation was set at 96 percent.

If target prices are not frozen, Block said the idling program will include:

—A 30 percent basic acreage reduction requirement for continued price support eligibility.

—An option to idle another 10 percent to 20 percent of their land under PIK.

Q: What, besides the house itself, might be included in the sale of a house?

A: The house and, possibly, everything in it. What goes with the house is a matter of agreement between buyer and seller. Items which are fixed, the furnace, central air conditioner or built-in bar, for example, usually are understood to be included in the sale without the necessity of being listed. Often, however, it's a good idea to stipulate items like a built-in bar, just to be on the safe side. Other items like draperies, rugs, appliances, etc. should be listed, if an agreement has been made between buyer and seller that these items will be included in the purchase price.

Actor David Niven dies Friday

LONDON (AP) — David Niven, the veteran British actor and one of the screen's most durable leading men, died Friday at his home in Switzerland after a long fight against Lou Gehrig's disease, his public relations agent in London announced. He was 73.

DAVID NIVEN
...dies Friday

Niven, who suffered for more than a year from amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, a debilitating neuro-muscular disorder, died early Friday, said Theo Cowan of Cowan Bellew publicity agents. Earlier, an employee for the agency said Niven died late Thursday in a Swiss clinic.

A source in Switzerland said members of Niven's family told him the actor died early Friday at his Alpine chalet above Lake Geneva. The source said the family requested absolute privacy, and funeral arrangements would not be made public until Monday.

Film star Elizabeth Taylor said upon learning of Niven's death: "I have loved David since I was a teen-ager. He was one of my best friends and I loved him for all the qualities he had — his friendship, his relish for life, his humor, his consideration, intelligence and the fact that he was David the person first and foremost. I can't bear to think that I shall ever see him again."

Trim and debonair with a pencil-thin mustache, Niven starred in nearly 100 films over a period of more than 40 years.

His most notable successes included "Separate Tables," for which he won the best-actor Academy Award in 1959, "Wuthering Heights," "The Moon Is Blue," "Around the World in 80 Days," "The Guns of Navarone," "Death on the Nile" and three Pink Panther movies.

At home in serious drama, drawing room comedy, spy thrillers or action adventures, he was the epitome of the urbane Englishman. "I am a displaced Cary Grant," he once quipped.

"My acting talent is extremely moderate, and always called on to produce an officer, a duke, or a crook," he said in a 1977 interview. "I've always been waiting for a little man to tap me on the shoulder and say I've been found out. Because I've made a wonderful living at very, very little."

In recent years, he devoted much of his time to writing at his homes in Chateau d'Oex, Switzerland, and Cap Ferret, on the French Riviera. His autobiographical "The Moon is a Balloon" and "Bring on the Empty Horses" and a novel "Go Slowly, Come Back Quickly" were all best sellers.

A Scot by birth, Niven was the son of an army lieutenant who was killed in the Dardanelles when Niven was five. The son graduated from Sandhurst, Britain's West Point, and soldiered for 4½ years.

After various jobs in New York, he went to Hollywood in 1935, worked as an extra and bit player for three years and in 1938 got his first starring part, opposite Ginger Rogers in "Bachelor Mother."

His film career was interrupted by the outbreak of World War II and he returned to Britain to rejoin the British army. He served with the Phantom Reconnaissance Regiment in Normandy, Belgium, Holland and Germany and was awarded the American Legion of Merit.

Niven was married during the war to Primula Rollo, the daughter of a British aristocrat. She was killed in 1946 at a party at the home of actor Tyrone Power when, during a game of hide-and-seek, she dashed into what she thought was a closet and fell down the cellar stairs.

Niven married a Swede, Hjordis Tersmeden, in 1948. He is also survived by two sons by his first marriage, David Jr., a London restaurateur, and James, a New York businessman, and two daughters, Kristina and Fiona, adopted during his second marriage.

Raymond Massey dies at age 86 in California

RAYMOND MASSEY
...dead at 86

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Raymond Massey, a gaunt-faced, courtly actor who brought Abraham Lincoln to life on screen and later won over TV audiences as no-nonsense Dr. Gillespie on "Dr. Kildare," has died at the age of 86.

The Canadian-born actor, who appeared in more than 70 movies and 80 stage productions, died at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center at 8:30 p.m. Friday. He had been hospitalized for 3 1/2 weeks suffering from complications of pneumonia, his son Geoffrey said Saturday.

Massey once described himself as "so Republican it makes my skin crack."

He played Lincoln in Robert Sherwood's Pulitzer Prize-winning Broadway play, "Abe Lincoln In Illinois" for two years, then took the show on national tour. The 6-foot-2 actor later portrayed the lanky president in three movies, describing "overwhelming."

"Actually, I'd kill with my bare hands anyone who tried to get the part away from me," he said in a 1955 interview.

"Dangerously They Live," "Seven Angry Men" and "The Naked and the Dead."

Massey, who directed 35 of his stage productions, made his final stage appearance in 1970 in London, saying he lacked stamina and was disenchanted with modern theater.

"To me theater should be enchantment, make-believe, pretend," he once told an interviewer. "Today it's sex, obscenity and

To a later generation, Massey was Dr. Gillespie, the crusty old physician of NBC's "Dr. Kildare" series (1961-65) that starred Richard Chamberlain.

In 1972 he appeared in a television movie "All My Darling Daughters."

Born Raymond Hart Massey on Aug. 30, 1896, in Toronto, Massey was the grandson of the founder of the Massey farm machinery empire.

Premier actress dies at age 95

LYN FONTANNE
...dead at 95

GENESEE DEPOT, Wis. (AP) — Lyn Fontanne Lunt, one of the premier actresses on Broadway for years and widow of famed actor Alfred Lunt, died at her home today of pneumonia. She was 95.

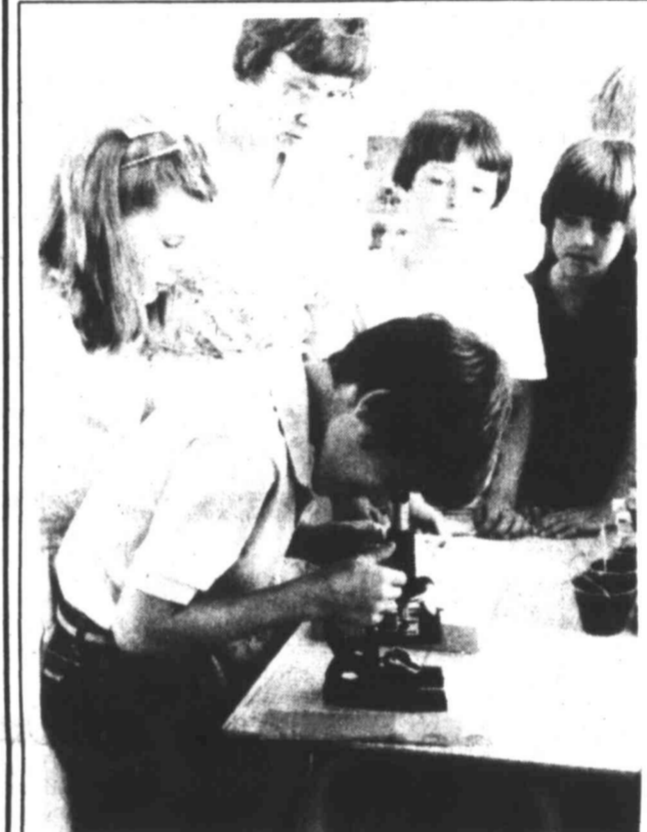

George Bugbee, who lived next door to Miss Fontanne's 110-acre estate, Ten Chimneys, said she died about 6 a.m.

"The last six weeks, her energies were reduced," said Bugbee, who also was one of her trustees.

Dr. Edward Bigg, Miss Fontanne's physician, said in Winnetka, Ill., that she died of pneumonia brought on by old age.

Robert Ferrick, president of the Ferrick Funeral Home in Wauwatosa, a Milwaukee suburb, said private funeral services for Miss Fontanne would be held at Forest Home Cemetery Chapel in Milwaukee.

Lunt died in 1977.

Youngster may have save teen girl's life

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An 11-year-old boy who rode his bike to find a policeman as several people watched a teen-age girl being raped in a fountain was "outstanding" and "may have in fact saved the girl's life," according to a police officer.

"I felt somebody should have done something because the girl was really screaming and she looked like she was being hurt," the young hero, Sur Williams, said in a telephone interview Friday.

Williams said he saw two youths assaulting the 14-year-old girl in a Forest Park fountain Thursday evening while onlookers, including several adults, did nothing.

"What surprised me was that they were doing it in front of a whole bunch of people and everybody could see," he said.

"She was screaming real loud," he added. "They were holding her neck and beating her and they said they would stab her if she didn't let them do what they wanted to."

Williams said he pedaled on his bicycle to the park's nearby Muni Theater, where he notified officers of the rape. St. Louis police arrived a few minutes later and arrested two teen-agers, charging them with rape and sodomy.

Capt. John Carnaghi said he planned to recommend Williams for a police department commendation for his actions.

Cat survives shot

PLEASANTON, Calif. (AP) — Judy Lawson discounted a noise that sounded like her cat Katrina howling. She thought the cat had been killed in an animal shelter five days before.

Then she went downstairs and "there was Katrina on the dining room table with the kids crowding around her...she just walked in through the pet screen on our back door."

Richard Elliott, a field officer for the Alameda County Animal Shelter, said he gave the 3-year-old Siamese-Burmese cat a "death shot" of phenobarbital last Friday and put the cat's body in a refrigerator to await disposal.

"I was as shocked as they were," Elliott said of the cat's appearance. "I don't know how it could have happened."

Mrs. Lawson had taken the cat to the shelter because she suspected that Katrina was causing allergy problems for two of her four children.

Shelter officials explained that if someone didn't claim Katrina by the end of the day, the cat would be killed, and Mrs. Lawson had thought Katrina was dead.

When the cat showed up at the Lawson house, Mrs. Lawson then assumed Katrina had been claimed but didn't like her new home.

"I called the shelter the next day and talked to Mr. Elliott, who told me that the cat had been put to sleep," she said. "I asked him if he believed in reincarnation because Katrina had returned home."

The family has decided to keep the cat, despite allergies.

"She came back to us for a reason," Mrs. Lawson said. "We didn't want to get rid of her in the first place."

Whooses, stay away

If you think the guys who play tennis are a bunch of whooses, forget it.

Tennis once was a game of the aristocratic, society's elite. Played on some czar's or duke's country estate, tennis was a favorite past-time before her highness and her friends gathered for a vodka or tea.

The sport remained an event for the wealthy until about 15 years ago. Suddenly, tennis was the rage, catching on with those who didn't qualify for the seven-plus digit income bracket. When that happened, a new breed of tennis player developed.

The guys had muscles, quickness and aggressiveness; the girls weren't far behind in pursuing those same qualities. Look quick because everyone was wearing Izod shirts.

Now we have guys like Roscoe Tanner who can hit a tennis ball 40 m.p.h faster than Nolan Ryan's best heater. There's Martina Navratilova who looks like the Incredible Hulk's sister. McEnroe may not be Mr. Olympia but he's as quick as they come.

Tennis is a sport that kids begin at an early age and can continue far into the golden years of their lives. All of these sorts are at the Figure 7 Tennis Center this weekend competing in the Holli-homme Tennis Championships.

Pretty fancy name, huh? I made it up.

Some of the contestants have never played in a tennis tournament before. Others have made a career of being a "first round victim." Advanced or beginner, people were having a blast even when the afternoon sun began melting the strings off their very racquets.

Tennis is an interesting sports. I think boxers have to be in the best shape of any athlete, with soccer players following. But don't count out tennis players. The game is not played from "baseline to baseline" anymore. This sport is not made for the person weak-of-ankle, slow-of-stretch.

More than any sport — topping even golf, tennis reflects the true meaning of the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat. Ever play golf and almost knock in your chip shot, only to miss the six-inch putt that follows? Tennis is full of those ups and downs that will drive you nuts.

Or cause you to bang your racquet into a helpless pile of graphite.

The thrill of victory. The ace, of course. There's also the MX missile slam, best demonstrated when the ball bounces over the fence. "I'll get it," you quickly offer, secretly flashing a broad smile and chuckling all the way to the gate.

We can't forget the well-placed volley or the passing shot that makes your opponent like an buffoon at the net. How about chasing down a lob and making a decent return? That's satisfying.

But for every thriller, there's a chiller. The double fault. What a waste. Worst than that is a weak second serve; as the ball lazily glides over the net, you cringe as your opponent, teeth clenched and a red glint in his eye, prepares to pound a return that could send you to an early grave.

There's the muffed approach shot. Your opponent is so far out of position, you could get a drink of water and still make it back to hit a winner. But instead you bozo the thing right into the net. He thanks the Lord for his infinite grace; you curse the man who invented the game.

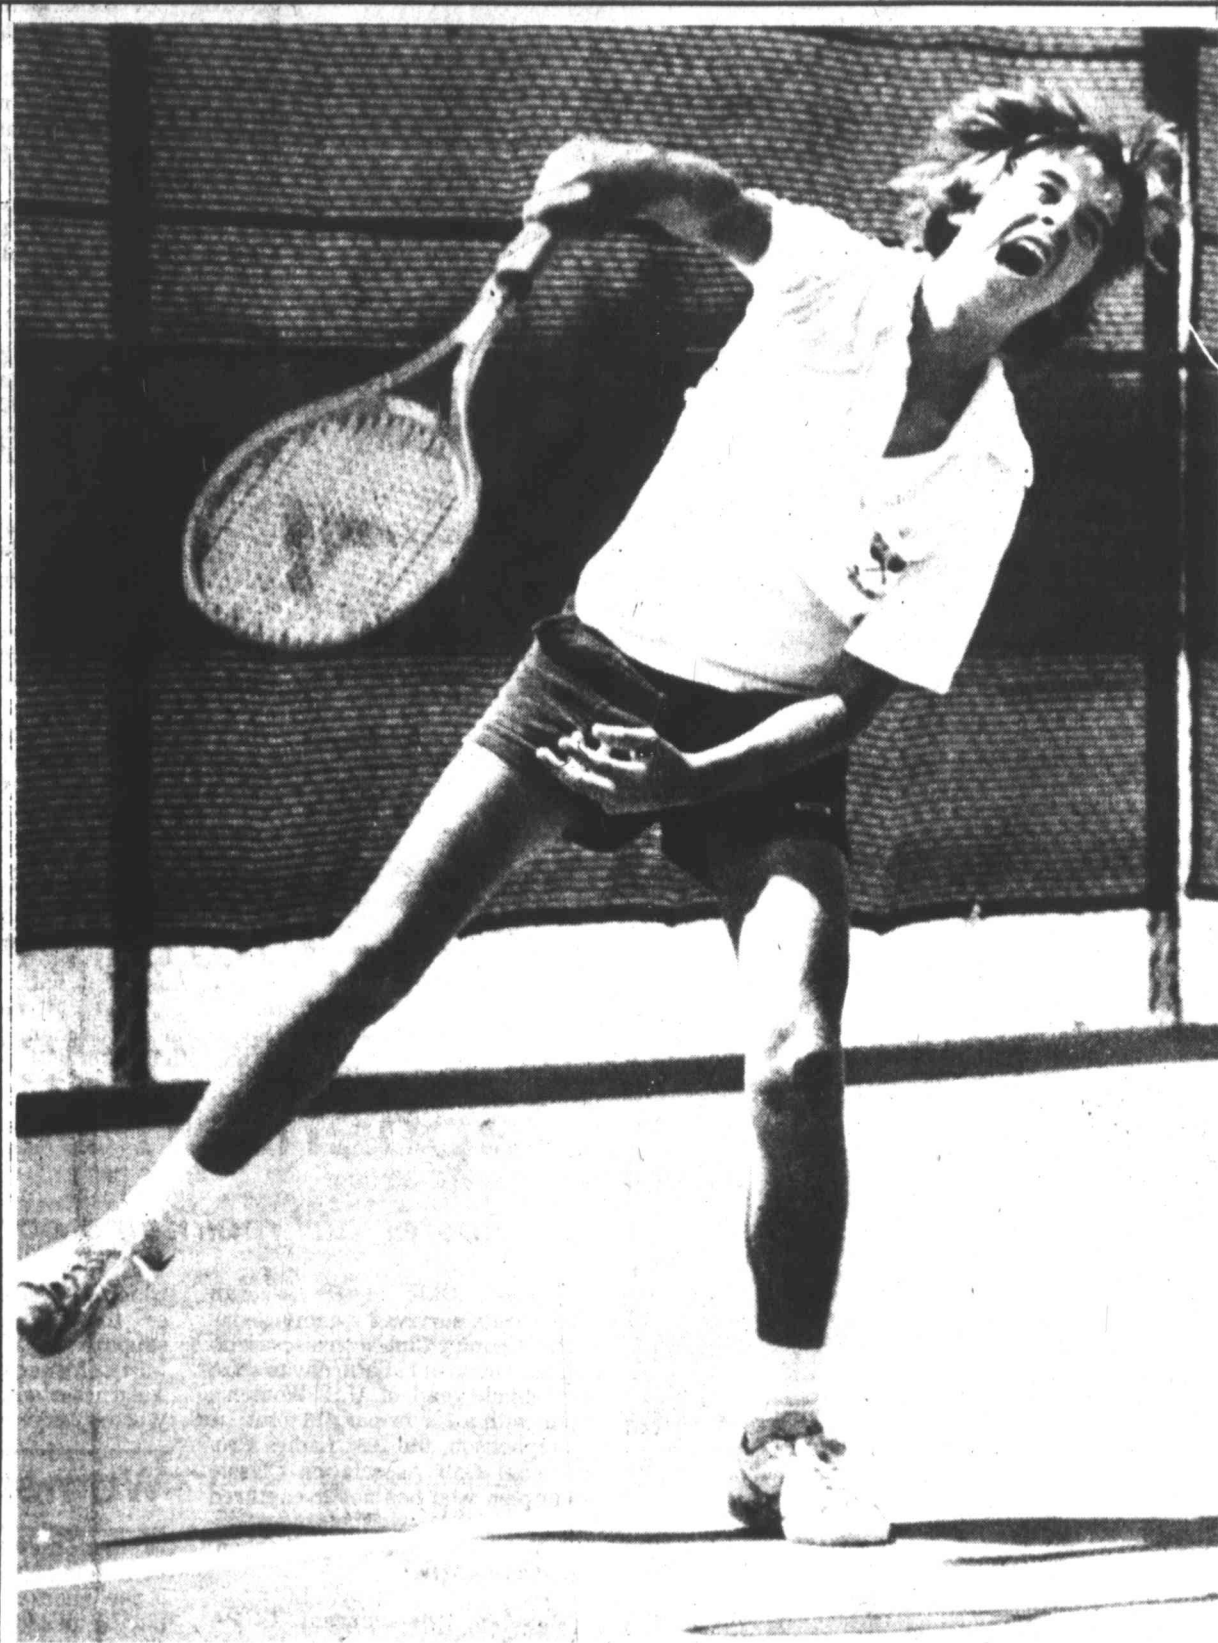

How about the slam that slams into your side of the net with a completely open court behind it? Or when your opponent's shot hits the tape...and then rides over to plunk in on your side of the net?

The most frustrating is the "too much or lack of muscle on the hustle" shot. You know the kind. Your opponent hits a shot and odds are 100,000,000-to-1 you'll be able to return it. But somewhere inside you hear that commerial jingle "Bring out your best..." and you make an incredible recovery.

The only problem is either your shot catches the last 1/4 inch of tape and fails to go over or it does make it over to where your opponent — waiting like a vulture — sends a boomer or dinker to the opposite side of the court for a winner.

You can play two hours of exhausting tennis and still lose 6-0, 6-0. Or you can play someone three times your age and get drilled because he or she is a master of placement or spin and you're the one who runs a track meet to get to the shots.

No, tennis isn't a game for whooses. You need athletic talent, smarts and a control on emotions. If you don't believe me, drive over to Figure 7 sometime and give it a try.

WITH THE FLAIR OF CONNORS — Big Spring High tennis player Mark State may not have had the shots of Jimmy Connors Saturday but he had the right look. State lost 6-2, 6-3 to Clay Coats of Beckville for third place in the juniors division of the tournament. Play continues through Tuesday at the Figure Seven Tennis Center.

Grady grid coach gains finals

A football coach/administrator and a personnel director are in the men's closed division finals at a weekend tournament being played at the Figure Seven Tennis Center.

Richard Gibson, who serves Grady High School primarily as head football coach, plays Dick Hoolahan, personnel director at Malone Hogan Hospital, at 10:30 a.m. for the championship at the tournament sponsored by Big Spring High tennis coach Allen Holliday and Figure 7.

Gibson downed Rip Patterson 6-4, 6-3 in one semifinals match while Hoolahan squeezed by Victor Coats, Sr., 6-4, 6-4 in the other.

The tournament is the first for Gibson who opened play by upsetting top seed Vince Kingsley, a recent graduate of Coahoma High. Their marathon 3-set match Friday night, won 7-5 in the deciding set by Gibson, began at 9 p.m. and continued until 11:45 p.m. The closed division was designed for those players with limited tournament experience.

Kingsley, who will attend Abilene Christian University in the fall with hopes of playing tennis, downed Coahoma High teacher Dennis Smiley 6-3, 6-4 in the consolation finals. He advanced with a 6-2, 4-6, 6-2 win over math teacher Joe Dawes while Smiley ousted Herald sports editor Greg Jaklewicz 6-3, 6-0 to makes the finals.

Patterson and Coats will play for third place at 8:30 a.m. today.

In other divisional results, Shawn Holliday tripped Victor Coats, Jr., 6-3, 6-3 for the juniors title. Holliday is the younger brother of the BSHS coach and plays his tennis in Andrews.

Corky Turner turned back Keith MacKinzie 6-3, 6-1 in the junior boy's consolation final.

Eighth grader-to-be Lara Cunningham swept past BSHS letterman Kristi Grimes 6-1, 6-3 to win the women's singles championship. Cunningham downed Sharon Andrews to gain the finals while Grimes topped Stacy Basham to make the title match.

Angie Wilson claimed consolation honors with a 7-6, 6-3 victory over Michelle Basham.

The tournament continues today with men's doubles play, beginning at 1 p.m. Action resumes Monday with junior doubles during the day and adult mixed doubles and triples scheduled that evening.

The tournament was organized to promote both junior and adult interest in tennis in Big Spring.

Pro football honors five

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Longtime coaching great Sid Gillman and former players Sonny Jurgensen, Bobby Mitchell, Bobby Bell and Paul Warfield comprised the Class of '83 inducted Saturday into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Gillman called it his "greatest thrill," while Jurgensen was called the game's greatest quarterback. Mitchell was overcome by emotion, and Bell said he would treasure the moment forever. Warfield said it was a humbling experience.

"I have been blessed to have the stamina to coach 50 years," said Gillman, 71, who had 123 winners and guided six teams in the AFL and National Football League championship games.

"This has been fun for over the last 50 years, but now this. This is the greatest thrill, the greatest honor any football person could achieve," he said.

Joe Madro, assistant coach of the Los Angeles Raiders and Gillman's presenter, called Gillman the catalyst that gave the old American Football League class and credibility.

"Perhaps he is the finest passing coach ever," Madro said of Gillman, the only one of 119 enshrinees whose career bridged the AFL, NFL and the new United States Football League. Gillman was named general manager of the Oklahoma Outlaws, which enters the USFL next season as an expansion team.

Mitchell, 48, former running back and wide receiver for the Cleveland Browns and Washington Redskins, was overcome by emotion as he gave his acceptance speech.

"As you go through life and in this game, you go nowhere without family," said Mitchell, barely able to finish his sentence.

He paused for several seconds before regaining his composure in the ceremonies on the shrine's front steps, watched by several thousand fans in 90-degree weather.

Mitchell especially praised his wife, saying, "I had the glory. She had the strength. She's been a great partner."

Washington Redskins owner Edward Bennett Williams, who presented both Mitchell and Jurgensen, said of Mitchell, "He combined all of the skills like no one ever has."

"This is the greatest thrill, the greatest honor any football person could achieve."

Sid Gillman

Mitchell scored 91 career touchdowns and still ranks third in all-time NFL yardage with 14,078 all-purpose yards.

Jurgensen still holds the NFL record, with five seasons of 3,000 or more yards. He also threw for 255 touchdowns and had 25 games of 300 passing yards in his 18-year pro career. The first seven were spent with the Philadelphia Eagles and the last 11 with the Redskins.

"The quarterbacks get all the credit for victories and the blame for losses," said Jurgensen, 49. "The blame may be in the right place, but teams win, individuals don't."

Jurgensen said he felt fortunate to have had the opportunity to play pro football.

"Remember, I went to Duke (University)," he said. "We threw the ball only 53 times my senior season."

Bell, 43, said of his induction: "It will be forever treasured." Hank Stram, Bell's former coach at Kansas City, called the first Chiefs' player to reach the Hall "probably the most versatile player I've been associated with. Without a doubt, he was the greatest outside linebacker ever to play the game."

Warfield, 40, who grew up near Canton, said, "It certainly is a humbling feeling, knowing you're a permanent part of professional football. It's an awesome thought."

Warfield is the only 1983 inductee elected in his first year of eligibility, five years after retirement. The wide receiver played for the Cleveland Browns, Miami Dolphins and Memphis Southmen of the World Football League.

Steelers top Saints in exhibition tilt

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Reserve quarterback Cliff Stoudt threw for two touchdowns and the Pittsburgh Steelers intercepted five passes Saturday in a 27-14 opening National Football League exhibition victory over the New Orleans Saints.

The Steelers, rolling to their sixth straight exhibition triumph over the last three seasons, were in control all the way after scoring 17 points in the opening quarter.

Before the nationally televised game, Sid Gillman, Bobby Mitchell, Bobby Bell, Paul Warfield and Sonny Jurgensen were inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Stoudt, a seven-year veteran from Youngstown State University, filled in for injured regular Terry Bradshaw, who still is recovering from surgery on his right elbow in March.

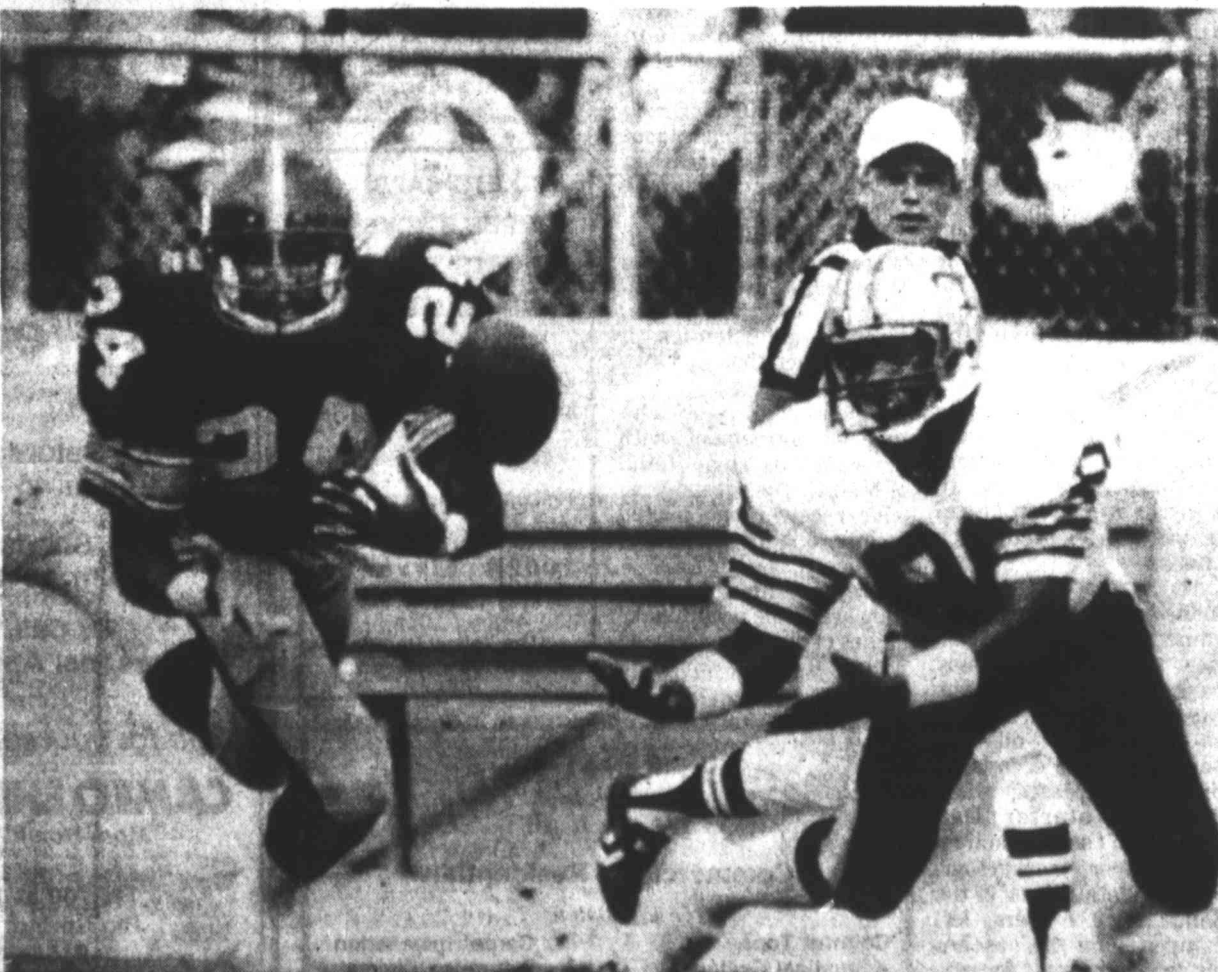

The seldom-used Stoudt responded with the longest touchdown pass play of his pro career, a 69-yard bomb to wide receiver Greg Hawthorne.

He also connected with rookie Gregg Garrity on an 18-yard play for another opening-quarter touchdown. Gary Anderson had opened the Pittsburgh scoring with a 34-yard field goal in the first six minutes.

Stoudt connected on eight of 14 passes for 174 yards. Quarterback Kenny Stabler appeared only briefly for New Orleans, playing the first three series. The left-handed veteran threw nine times, completing six passes for 59 yards.

The Steelers' secondary feasted on his replacement, Dave Wilson. They intercepted the second-year player from Illinois four straight times and picked off one of Guido Merkens' throws.

New Orleans scored twice in the last quarter. Jimmy Rogers plunged 1 yard with 13:10 remaining to cap a 78-yard Saints' surge, and Merkens hooked up with Marvin Dumas on a 38-yard scoring strike with 1:16 to play.

Midland, San Angelo tied in Little League playoffs

San Angelo's Richard Garza fired a four-hitter and his team scored twice in the third inning to nip Midland Eastern 2-1 in a Little League bi-district playoff game Saturday night in Big Spring.

The best-of-three series returns to San Angelo for an 8 p.m. game Monday at Mathis Field. Midland won 6-4 Friday but was unable to claim the series last night. The winner advances to the state all-star tournament which begins Aug. 8 in Waco.

Henry Rodriguez doubled in Armando Guerrero who led off the San Angelo third with a single to give the Concho City team a 1-0 lead. A one-out double by Garza made it 2-0 and proved to be the game-winner.

Midland scored its only run in the fourth inning. Charlie Johnson reached on an error and scored on a two-out single by Pete Reyes.

Garza struck out 11 in the game to notch the win while loser Nicky Villarreal surrendered only five hits and fanned nine including the side in the sixth inning.

Midland overcame a 4-2 deficit Friday night in San Angelo to win the series opener. Losing pitcher Manuel Briones struck out 13 but his catcher allowed eight passed balls that fueled Midland's comeback.

Villarreal had a triple for the winners while Henry Rodriguez and Garza doubled twice for San Angelo.

The winning pitcher was Reyes who struck out 10 while scattering seven hits.

Midland downed rival North Central last Saturday to win the District III title.

5 Howard Hawk baseball players named all-stars

Five ballplayers on the 1983 Howard College baseball team have been selected to play in the Texas Junior College All-Star baseball game.

Leading the honorees is former Big Spring High standout Blake Rosson. The 1982 District 4-5A Most Valuable Player hit .301 and played third base for the Hawks this past year.

Joining him will be Bobby Behnsch of San Antonio, Doug Hatch of Lubbock, Stephon Hodge of Amarillo and John Wilson of Snyder.

Behnsch, HC's first baseman, hit .446, boomed 12 home runs and drove in 62 runs for Howard while Hatch contributed a .423 average, 47 RBI and played in the outfield. Hodge, the team's shortstop, hit .386 while Wilson had a 5-4 record and 4.12 earned run average to lead all Hawk pitchers.

The game will be played Oct. 2 at Texas A&M University.

Bullington to speak Monday at BSHS football workshop

Abilene Christian University athletic director Wally Bullington will be the featured speaker Monday at an all-day football workshop at Big Spring High School.

The former ACU head coach guided the Wildcats to a 62-32-2 record in nine years. His 1973 team, which featured freshman sensation Wilbert Montgomery (now an all-pro running back with Philadelphia Eagles), went 11-1 and won the NAIA Division I title. The 1976 Wildcat squad was 9-2 and claimed the San Jacinto Shrine Bowl played in Pasadena, Tex.

Prior to his coaching position job at ACU he was head coach at Abilene High. He was a 3-time all-Texas Conference choice at center and linebacker at ACC, was all-American choice in 1952 and played on the school's only unbeaten, untied team (11-0) in 1950.

The workshop will focus on motivation of coaches and players, coaching ethics, communication, attitude and leadership. The one-day event is being sponsored locally by Avery & Associates.

Brett, famous bat reunited, KC slugger goes 0-for-3

DETROIT (AP) George Brett was reunited with his famous pine-tar bat Saturday, just in time for the Kansas City Royals' game with the Detroit Tigers, but he went 0-for-3.

Brett fouled out to Tiger catcher John Wocken-fuss in the first inning. He later flied out, was walked intentionally and flied out again.

The bat, the centerpiece of one of baseball's liveliest controversies, was delivered to Tiger Stadium about two hours before the start of the 2:15 p.m. EDT game, said Nancy Beliger, a service agent at Emery Air Freight's Detroit-area office. It was packed in a cardboard tube and shipped to Detroit Friday, after spending the week in the New York City headquarters of the American League.

"It got a little special handling and some tender loving care," Beliger said.

THE STRAIN OF IT ALL — Stacy Parks puts a little facial expression into a service return Saturday morning at the Figure Seven Tennis Center. Parks and teammate Amber Logback were playing in the women's tennis division of the long weekend tournament, battling Angie Wilson-Lara Cunningham in this round-robin match.

THAT PUTT WON'T HELP ME — Golfer Jan Stephenson reacts to a missed putt Saturday during the third round of the U.S. Women's Open in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Stephenson recovered to shoot an even par 71 and take the lead after 54 holes at the tournament.

NFL teams start push for 63rd year

By The Associated Press
Just 13 days after the fledgling United States Football League concluded its first season, the established National Football League kicked off the exhibition schedule to its 63rd season.

The New Orleans Saints and the Pittsburgh Steelers started the slate of preseason games Saturday just after Sid Gillman, Sonny Jurgensen, Bobby Bell, Paul Warfield and Bobby Mitchell were to be inducted into the NFL's Hall of Fame, pushing the number of those enshrined to 119.

The Los Angeles Rams and San Diego Chargers engaged in a full-contact scrimmage Friday in which neither team managed to generate much offense.

The Rams were led by fullback A.J. Jones, who gained 25 yards on five carries and rookie running back Eric Dickerson, who ran for 22 yards on his only carry. Regular quarterback Vince Ferragamo threw two passes, while Chargers starter Dan Fouts didn't see any action.

In player transactions Friday, Pete Kugler of the San Francisco 49ers, left camp, telling the coaches his departure was "for personal reasons." Coach Bill Walsh said he expected the nose guard to phone him Sunday and he does not plan to fine him.

The Dallas Cowboys placed last year's third-string quarterback, Brad Wright, on waivers leaving Danny White, Gary Hogeboom and Glenn Carano as the only quarterbacks in camp.

Casey Merrill of Green Bay, who ended his holdout earlier this week, reached verbal agreement with the Packers on a contract extension. Merrill, expected to replace defensive end Mike Bell, who signed with Tampa of the USFL, received an extension of his contract that had two years remaining.

Another player who reached agreement with his team was Vince Heflin of Miami. The second-year wide receiver had played mostly on special teams last year.

The 49ers announced that they are in the preliminary stages of discussing a trade with the New England Patriots.

Rookie Landrum leads

OAKVILLE, Ontario (AP) — Ralph Landrum, a rookie and admitted long shot, bounced back with a 4-under-par 67 and took a one-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $425,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship.

Landrum, playing in his first tournament as a full-fledged member of the PGA Tour, scattered seven birdies across his card as he rebounded from a 75 in Friday's second round.

The 25-year-old club pro from Florence, Ky., completed three trips over the 7,060-yard Glen Abbey Golf Club course in suburban Toronto in 207, six under par.

"I know I'm a long shot, not supposed to win the golf tournament," said Landrum, who won his tour playing rights by surpassing the money-winning minimum standard in the last month.

"But that does two things for you. The crowd gets behind you. They like a long shot. I never had people rooting for me like that.

"And, when somebody tells you that you can't do something, that you aren't capable of doing something, well, it kind of spurs you on."

Tom Furtzer, an experienced player with one tour title and four consecutive years as a $100,000 winner, was one shot back after a 70.

Defending champion Bruce Lietzke, a two-time winner on this course, and John Cook were another stroke behind at 209. Lietzke had a 70 that included 17 consecutive pars and a birdie on the 18th hole. Cook also had a 70.

Fuzzy Zoeller, the second-round leader, struggled to an erratic 74 and dropped back to 210, three off the pace. He was tied with Johnny Miller, Frank Conner and two Australian natives now living in the United States, Greg Norman and David Graham. Graham made an eagle-3 on the 18th hole for a 71. Norman shot 70, while Conner and Miller each had a 67 in the muggy weather.

Jack Nicklaus, who has won almost everything the game can offer but has yet to take this national title, dropped an 18-90 foot eagle putt on the 18th hole for a 70 that left him at 211.

Canadian Open

Landrum, who made several unsuccessful attempts at the PGA Tour school, tied for eighth in the U.S. Open and was fifth last week in the Anheuser-Busch Classic in Williamsburg, Va., in which he won $13,300. That gave him more than $31,000 for the year and entitled him to his playing rights.

His first round as a card-carrying member of the tour was a 65, which gave him a share of the 18-hole lead here. But he blew 10 shots higher in the second round, then came back again with an effort that included six 3s on the front side, and a double bogey that failed to discourage him.

He bogeyed the first hole from a bunker, but got the shot back making a 15-foot putt on the second. He hit a 5-iron to within eight feet and made the putt on the fourth, 2-putted for birdie-4 on the next and lashed a second shot through tree limbs to within a foot of the hole on the fifth.

"When it's going good, it goes good," he said.

He also birdied the eighth, hitting a 5-iron shot to within four feet of the flag.

Stephenson beats high temps

Poster girl maintains par, has 2-shot lead over pair

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Jan Stephenson survived steamy Cedar Ridge Country Club with a scrambling par round of 71 Saturday to seize the 54-hole lead of U.S. Women's Open with a 3-over-par 216 total.

Stephenson, the 1982 Ladies Professional Golf Association Classic champion who has never captured the Open, led by two shots over Debbie Meisterlin and Patty Sheehan, who were at 218.

Sheehan, the current LGPA champion who led by three strokes when play began, blew to a 5-over-par 76 while Meisterlin posted a 2-over-74.

Temperatures around 100 degrees, 63 percent humidity and a late afternoon thundershower which delayed play 10 minutes turned the course into a stamina-sapping sauna.

Stephenson, a 32-year-old Australian who now lives in Fort Worth, Texas, went out in even par

Women's Open

36 then matched par 35 on the homecoming nine.

She knocked in a 20-foot birdie putt on the 14th hole but gave it back to par with a 3-putt 15th green. It was her second 3-putt of the day.

Stephenson bunkered her tee shot on the rugged 400-yard-par-4 No. 17, drilled her second shot wide of the green and wedged to within 15 feet. She then slipped the downhill putt into the side of the hole for a saving par on perhaps the toughest hole on the course.

Pat Bradley, the 1981 Open champion, shot a record-tying 5-under-par 31 on the front nine which included an ace, but she found trouble on the homecoming nine.

Bradley knocked a 5-iron in the hole on the 145-yard par 3 No. 6 as she tied Judy Bell's U.S. Open nine-hole record. Bell set the record in 1964 at San Diego.

However, Bradley stumbled to a 5-over-par 40 on the back nine, including a 3-putt from 15 feet on the final green. Her even par round of 71 put her at 6-over 219 along with Lauren Howe, who had a 5-over-par 76.

Passing shines in Cowboys workout

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Danny White completed five of seven passes in brief action for 138 yards and one touchdown, a 70-yard scoring pass to Tony Hill on the first play of the Cowboys intra-squad scrimmage Saturday.

Gary Hogeboom, who is trying to challenge White for the starting quarterback job, completed 11 of 15 passes for 172 yards and one touchdown, an 10-yard toss to Robert Newhouse.

Glenn Carano, working with a mostly rookie offense, completed four of nine for 74 yards and one interception by Ron Fellows.

"Offensively, we started out sharp," said Head Coach Tom Landry, "but then we slacked off. Our passing game looked good. Defensively, we didn't do as well as I had hoped."

Hill led all receivers with three receptions for 107 yards, while Butch

Johnson caught three for 87. Fullback George Peoples led the rushers with 40 yards on seven carries, and rookie Chuck McSwain got 39 yards on eight carries.

Hass Botha, a free-agent rookie from South Africa, kicked a 42-yard field goal, but missed on two other attempts and had another blocked by Ed "Too Tall" Jones following a bad snap.

Scott McLain, Mike Walter, Harvey Martin, Jones, Larry Betha and Jim Eliopoulos recorded sacks.

Cincy nips Astros, 3-2

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati shortstop Dave Concepcion drove in two runs with a double and two singles to pace the Reds past the Houston Astros 3-2 Saturday night.

Meanwhile, Houston pitcher Nolan Ryan struck out five to raise his career total to 3,596, one less than all-time leader Steve Carlton of Philadelphia. But he was outpitched by Mario Soto, 12-9, who struck out seven and walked five while racking up his league-leading 12th complete game.

Concepcion's double in the first inning, the 300th of his career, knocked in Eddie Milner, who led off the game with a single.

Houston's Dickie Thon tied the game in the bottom of the inning with a solo home run, his 14th of the year. The Reds went ahead for keeps in the fourth. Alex Trevino singled to center and went to second when Ray Knight committed a throwing error on Soto's bunt. Milner walked to load the bases, and Concepcion's single to center off Ryan, 9-4, made it 2-1.

Cincinnati added a run in the sixth on Ron Oester's single, Soto's sacrifice bunt, and a single to right by Milner.

Houston matched that in the bottom of the inning. Jose Cruz singled, went to second on Milner's error, to third on Knight's groundout and scored on Alan Ashby's single to right.

Pirates 6, Mets 3

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Rhoden's two-run single and a three-run error by right-fielder Darryl Strawberry on Bill Madlock's bases-loaded fly ball highlighted a six-run fifth inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the New York Mets 6-3 Saturday for their sixth straight victory.

Rhoden was forced to leave the game after 4 1/3 innings when he was hit on the left knee by a line-drive single by Mookie Wilson. Rod Scurry, 4-7, pitched through the sixth and picked up the win. Manny Sarmiento, who pitched the final three innings, picked up his third save in a game delayed 1 hour, 14 minutes by rain. The Mets were held to just three hits.

Ed Lynch, 7-5, the loser, left the game after Strawberry's error that enabled the Pirates to take a 5-3 lead.

Cardinals 3, Expos 2

MONTREAL (AP) — Dave LaPoint combined with Bruce Sutter on a four-hit and Willie McGee scored a pair of runs, helping the St. Louis Cardinals defeat the Montreal Expos 3-2 Saturday night.

The Cardinals trailed 1-0 before scoring twice in the fourth against Montreal starter Charlie Lea, 7-8, who had retired the first 10 batters.

McGee and Ken Oberkfell hit one-out singles before George Hendrick singled to center, scoring McGee with the tying run. Darrell Porter followed with the fourth straight single to load the bases, and Tom Herr drove in the go-ahead run by lofting a sacrifice fly to left.

LaPoint, 9-6, left with two out in the seventh after the Expos cut the lead to 3-2 on pinch-hitter Jim Wohlford's one-out RBI double.

Sutter got the last out in the seventh and nailed down his 12th save with 2 1/3 innings of one-hit relief.

Cubs 4-3, Phillies 3-4

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ivan DeJesus' two-run double in the bottom of the sixth inning snapped a 2-2 tie as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-3 in the second game of a two-night doubleheader.

In the first game, Ron Cey lined a one-out double in the ninth to drive in the winning run as the Cubs pulled out a 4-3 decision, halting a four-game Phillies' winning streak.

Charlie Hudson, recalled on May 31, struck out five and walked only one in a strong eighth innings for Philadelphia. But Cey led off the ninth with his second homer of the game and Hudson, 5-3, was replaced by AL Holland, who got his 11th save.

Steve Trout, 8-9, was the loser.

Garry Maddox started the winning rally with a one-out walk and one out later advanced to second on Kiko Garcia's infield single. DeJesus then smashed his game-winning double down the left field line.

Giants 8, Dodgers 0

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mark Davis scattered seven hits and Bob Brenly's three-run homer highlighted a four-run, third-inning rally as the San Francisco Giants shut out the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-0 Saturday.

It was the first major league shutout and first complete game for Davis, 1-3, and his second major league victory as he walked three and struck out four. Davis, obtained last winter along with Mike Krukow for Al Holland and Joe Morgan, also had two singles.

The Giants jumped on Dodger starter Jerry Reuss, 6-10, for three runs in the first. Jeff Leonard drove in one with a single and Joel Youngblood's double drove in two more to make it 3-0.

Jammed thumb benches Garvey

SAN DIEGO (AP) — For seven and a half years, Steve Garvey didn't miss a baseball game, playing through such ailments as migraines, back problems and stitches in his chin.

But the holder of the National League consecutive-game mark saw his streak come to an end at 1,207 games when he suffered a dislocated thumb in the first game of a doubleheader.

"I've been dodging the proverbial bullet for a long time," said Garvey. The 34-year-old veteran first baseman for the San Diego Padres sustained the injury Friday night in the first inning while attempting to score from third base on an errant throw by Pascual Perez of the Atlanta Braves.

"As I was sliding into the plate, my thumb hit something," said Garvey, who was tagged out after catcher Bruce Benedict tossed the ball back to Perez, who was covering at the plate. "I don't know if it was the ground or Perez' foot, but I could feel the pain."

"I knew I had to leave the game," said Garvey. "When I put ice on it, my thumb fell out of place. There was no support."

Garvey was taken to Scripps Clinic in La Jolla, where X-rays revealed the dislocation in the joint of his left thumb. Dr. Paul Hirschman, an orthopedic surgeon at the clinic, placed the thumb in an elbow-length cast and said Garvey would be sidelined for at least three weeks.

"If the ligament damage is sufficiently severe, there is a possibility of surgery," Hirschman said.

Hirschman described the injury as, "significant, but we're optimistic about the long-term prognosis."

San Diego Manager Dick Williams said, "It's a shame his streak is going to be stopped. When Dick Dent (Padres trainer) said he thought it was a dislocation, I thought it would be bad."

Utilityman Kurt Bevacqua, a close friend of Garvey's who was brought in the game as his replacement, said he knew when he saw Garvey doubled over in the runway that the streak had come to an end.

"When I passed him in the runway, he was squatting and I couldn't see the extent of the injury," Bevacqua said. "I didn't have to ask (how bad it was). I knew it was bad enough for his streak to be over with. There was disappointment on his face."

Garvey, who ranked third on the all-time consecutive game-playing list behind Lou Gehrig with 2,130 and Everett Scott with 1,307, said the injury left him "personally depressed."

"The injury was a disappointment," said Garvey. "I'm disappointed that I can't help my team at a time that's very important. Baseball is a team sport. It's a very hollow feeling to know that I can't contribute. It's as low as I felt in many, many years."

After starring for the Los Angeles Dodgers for 12 years, Garvey became a free agent and signed a five-year, $6.6 million contract with San Diego last December.

He broke the previous NL record of 1,117 games held by Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs on April 16 in his first return to Dodger Stadium as a Padre. The last time Garvey missed a game was Sept. 2, 1975, when the Dodgers met the San Francisco Giants.

Patrick wins hurdles event

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — David Patrick, a former University of Tennessee runner, switched to the 400-meter hurdles Saturday and beat NCAA champion Sven Nylander of Sweden in an international track and field meet here.

Patrick, now competing for Athletics West, was timed in a fast 49.34 seconds. Nylander, of SMU, clocked 49.76.

Both will compete in the first World Track and Field Championships Aug. 7-14 in Helsinki, Finland. Patrick, however, qualified for the 800 meters.

Several World Championship-bound Americans entered Saturday's meet, including USA Championship winners Dave Laut and John Powell.

Willie Gault, the University of Tennessee football star, led the U.S. to a 1-2-3 sweep in the 100-meter dash in a mediocre 10.60.

Olympian's son ups vault mark

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Brandon Richards, son of two-time Olympic champion Bob Richards, set a new meet record Saturday to win the intermediate men's pole vault in the National Junior Olympic Track and Field Championships.

Richards of Waco had a jump of 15 feet, 6 inches, improving the previous meet mark of 15-1/4 set in 1982 by Preston Schmidt of Iowa.

Richards said he wants to follow in the footsteps of his father, a nine-time American champion who won two Olympic gold medals in the pole vault in 1952 and 1956.

The elder Richards still competes in the pole vault and other events in master's (over 40) track meets, said his son.

"He's learning how to jump with a fiberglass pole," said Brandon Richards.

Junior Olympic events were scheduled through Sunday at Duke University's Wallace Wade Stadium with competition among intermediate and young men and women.

In other events Saturday, Rick Noji of Seattle set a new meet record in the intermediate men's high jump with a leap of 6-10 1/4. Noji's jump bettered the previous record of 6-9 3/4 set in 1982 by Mark Trujillo of Nevada.

Lynn James of Navasota, Texas, also set a meet record in the intermediate men's long jump with a leap of 74-1, surpassing the previous record of 23-10 3/4 set by Andre Love of Illinois in 1982.

The Munchin Track Club of Orange Park, Fla., set a new meet record in the young women's 800-meter relay in a time of 9:03.42, beating the old record of 9:25.00 set by the Royal Knights in 1982.

New meet records were set in the young men's and young women's 3,000-meter walks. Meg Mangan of Pittsburgh won the women's race with a time of 16:01.11, eclipsing the mark of 16:33.72 set by Allison Cole of Missouri in 1982. Tony Engelhardt of Seattle set a record of 13:57.24 in the men's division to break the old mark of 14:36.76 set in 1981 by New York's Edward Kasch.

Patrick Mann of Dale City, Va., recorded the fastest times of the day in the young men's 110-meter hurdles with a time of 14.34 seconds and the 400-meter hurdles with a time of 52 seconds to advance to Sunday's finals.

Carla McLaughlin of Durham ran 12.02 to win her heat of the 100 meters and 24.75 to capture her heat of the 200 to advance to the finals.

Lloyd, Shriver gain tennis finals

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Chris Evert Lloyd and Pam Shriver scored singles victories Saturday night to gain the final of the $250,000 McDonald's women's indoor tennis tournament, a round-robin event.

Lloyd defeated Australia's Wendy Turnbull 6-4, 6-4 and Shriver defeated Britain's Sue Barker 6-1, 6-1 in the third round and will play Sunday for the $100,000 first prize.

In other matches, Andrea Jaeger downed Lesle Allen 7-5, 6-0 and West Germany's Sylvia Hanika forfeited to Lisa Bonder after trailing 7-6 in the first set because of an infected tooth.

Jaeger and Turnbull will meet for third place. Turnbull took a 4-1 advantage over Lloyd in the first set, but the American, playing her consistent baseline game, bounced back to win the first set.

"I had my chances, but basically I let her off the hook," said Turnbull. "I tried different tactics playing her tonight and attempted to move Chris around. At least I will know how to play Chris the next time we meet in a tournament."

Jaeger, third-ranked in the world, and Allen matched service in the first set before Jaeger finally broke Allen's serve in the 11th game to lead 6-5.

Jaeger then held service in the final game and won the first set in 30 minutes.

"I was determined I wasn't going to go out there and have another match like last night's," said Jaeger, referring to her earlier loss to Shriver. "Although I was tired, I kept talking to myself in a bid to get my concentration going, but even if I hadn't been winning I would still have enjoyed myself."

"I had big problems especially in the service department tonight," said Allen. "When you play someone like Jaeger, you have to work very hard and I was just a little too tired."

Hanika, who scored a major upset by beating Lloyd Friday night, had two teeth removed shortly before leaving West Germany for here.

O's deck Rangers, 7-4

BALTIMORE (AP) — Scott McGregor won his 13th game of the season and Eddie Murray's tainted triple highlighted a four-run seventh as Baltimore won its fourth straight game with a 7-4 victory over the Texas Rangers Saturday night.

The triumph improved the Orioles to 58-40, moving them one-half game ahead of the Detroit Tigers in the American League East race. Texas, 49-52, lost its fifth straight and fell to 5-18 since the All-Star break.

After Dave Hostetler's second home run of the game provided the Rangers with a 4-3 lead, the Orioles staged the game-winning rally in the bottom of the inning.

Cal Ripken Jr. opened with an infield hit. Murray then lofted a liner to left that glanced off left fielder Billy Sample's glove and rolled to the wall. After Murray reached third on the hit, John Lowenstein followed with a sacrifice fly to give Baltimore the lead.

Ken Singleton then singled, prompting Texas Manager Doug Rader to remove starter Mike Smithson, 6-10, in favor of John Butcher. Joe Nolan tagged Butcher's first pitch for a run-scoring double, and one out later Al Bumbry capped the rally with an RBI single to right.

McGregor, 13-4, won his ninth game in his last 10 decisions with relief help from Tim Stoddard, who earned his fourth save.

After Texas had taken an early 2-0 lead, Baltimore went ahead with a three-run third inning that featured sacrifice flies by Ripken and Murray and a run-scoring single by Singleton.

Blue Jays 6, Indians 5

TORONTO (AP) — Pinch-hitter Ernie Whitt singled up the middle with the bases loaded in the 13th to give the Toronto Blue Jays a 6-5 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

Reliever Bud Anderson, 0-2, the fourth Cleveland pitcher, walked Damaso Garcia to start the 13th. Lloyd Moseby laid down a sacrifice bunt but Anderson threw the ball past first base with Garcia advancing to third and Moseby to second on the error. Anderson struck out Rance Mulliniks and intentionally walked Cliff Johnson to load the bases before Whitt's hit.

Toronto reliever Joey McLaughlin, 4-2, came on in the 11th with one on and one out and allowed only one hit to earn the win.

Dan Spillner came on at the start of the ninth to relieve Neal Heaton with the Indians ahead 5-3.

American League

Tigers 4, Royals 1

DETROIT (AP) — Larry Herndon belted a fourth-inning two-run homer and Juan Beenguer and Aurelio Lopez combined on a seven-hitter as the Detroit Tigers downed the Kansas City Royals 4-1 Saturday.

The game marked the return of George Brett's bat from the American League office following League president Lee MacPhail's ruling reversing the umpires' decision and validating Brett's home run last Sunday against the Yankees.

However, Brett went 0-for-4.

Following the regular game, the two teams completed Friday night's game which was suspended after eight innings due to a local curfew law with the Tigers leading 10-1.

In the regular game, the Royals grabbed a 1-0 lead when Pat Sheridan hit the first pitch from Berenguer, 5-2, into the upper right-field seats for a leadoff homer.

Mariners 7, Twins 3

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Pat Putnam's three-run homer in the seventh inning helped Seattle to a 7-3 victory over Minnesota Saturday night.

Putnam's blast, his 15th of the season, came with two outs and scored Domingo Ramos and Tony Bernazard, who both had walked. Putnam's three RBI gave him 26 in the last 25 games he has started. Seattle starter Glenn Abbott, 4-3, went the first 6 2/3 innings for the Mariners to earn the victory.

Red Sox 10, Brewers 5

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski and Glenn Hoffman drilled three-run homers and Dwight Evans smacked a two-run double and a solo homer as the Boston Red Sox overcame a 3-0 deficit and pounded the Milwaukee Brewers 10-5 Saturday.

Yastrzemski's fifth inning blast snapped a 3-3 tie and made him the 17th major-league player to hit 450 career home runs. It was also the 43-year-old veteran's 47th homer after his 40th birthday, breaking a tie with Stan Musial for the major-league record.

White Sox 5, Yankees 1

CHICAGO (AP) — Tom Paciorek rapped out three hits and drove in two runs and Greg Luzinski knocked in a pair with a sacrifice fly and a double Saturday night to lead the surging Chicago White Sox to a 5-1 victory over the New York Yankees.

The triumph was the fourth straight and fifth in the last six games for the White Sox, who opened a four-game lead in the American League West race.

Richard Dotson, 11-6, was the winner and Shane Rawley, 9-9, suffered the loss as the Yankees dropped into fourth place in the tight American League East, 2 1/2 games behind first-place Baltimore. Dotson gave up six hits.

A's 13, Angels 8

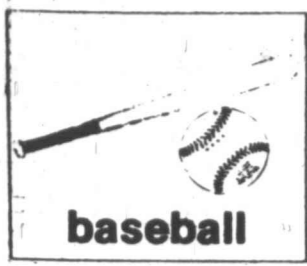

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Carney Lansford drove in the tie-breaking run with an RBI double and Jeff Burroughs added a two-run single to highlight a five-run rally in the seventh inning as the Oakland A's stormed back for a 13-8 decision over the California Angels in the first game of a two-night doubleheader Saturday.

The A's, who trailed 7-0 at one point, had 20 hits.

Tom Burgmeier, 6-6, took over in the first inning after the Angels had chased starter Chris Codiroli with a seven-run, eight-hit barrage. Burgmeier worked a season-high 1-3 innings, walking two, striking out two and allowing only five hits.

DENNIS THE MENACE

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"How's anybody s'posed to read these books of yours? There are no pictures in 'em!"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

SUNDAY, JULY 31, 1983
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today, the last day of the month, brings you the need to carry through with whatever you have already placed in motion and not to yield to a routinism.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Not a good day to get into anything new, so take it easy and keep calm, cool and collected. Avoid arguments.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Some secret worry could prevent you from getting into constructive activities, if you permit. Avoid heavy conversation.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure you place your energies properly if you are to gain that personal aim. Some friends could be in real trouble.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You feel like planning changes in your vacation, but this would only set you back. Spend time with kids.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Important you stay pretty close to home today and get caught up on tasks awaiting your attention. Creative ideas abound.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Concentrate on responsibilities you have assumed and don't feel imposed upon now, but plan how to discharge them properly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Be sure to carry through with whatever you have agreed with associates and not try to make changes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Don't argue with one who does not agree with you today but keep calm. Take care of health matters today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to have some expensive kind of recreation but you had better settle for the less costly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You do not like things as they are at home and want to make radical changes but still get opposition.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are anxious to get to work with partners, but you had better wait until tomorrow for this.

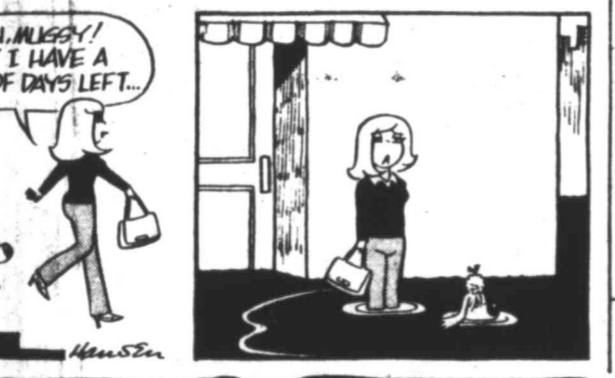

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Not a good day to handle money and property matters since you are not thinking very clearly and don't have enough data.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have a myriad of ideas and will dislike being thwarted in putting them in motion, although they have not been thought out carefully first. So teach early to think the matter over thoroughly before going into it. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Northwest faces brownout following default

SEATTLE (AP) — When the Washington Public Power Supply System slid over the brink last week, unable to make payments on bonds sold to build two nuclear power plants, Chemical Bank in New York — the bondholder trustee — called it "an incident" of default.

Some incident. It was the biggest default in municipal bond history.

The two power plants swallowed $2.25 billion in bonds. With interest over 30 years, the debt comes to $7 billion.

This week, bondholders, economists and government officials are checking the damage.

One analysis predicts what might be termed an economic "brownout" for the Pacific Northwest. Others say the damage can be overcome. Larger companies say they can cover the losses. Individual bondholders are bitter.

Lawsuits will keep WPPSS, a consortium of Washington public utilities that started building the plants for 88 Northwest power suppliers, in courts for years. Other effects are likely to be higher interest rates or financing troubles with other municipal projects.

All this was predicted in March in a study by the Chicago consulting firm of Knight-Bonniwell. The study, ordered by Washington Gov. John Spellman, surveyed investors, underwriters, bond-rating agencies and government officials.

"The economy and in particular the state of Washington will be severely hampered, but it is dif-

'There are individuals who are very emotional — in tears and angry. Others are just questioning, 'Are my bonds any good?' Others say, 'Name me the person I can sue. Whose fault is this?'

... difficult to quantify to what extent," the report said. "There will be a negative ripple effect on employment, probably huge, e.g., 20,000 lost jobs."

The report said that agriculture and the construction, newsprint, timber, pulp, paper, chemical and aluminum industries would be affected.

Utility rates will probably rise; two mothballed nuclear plants, projects 1 and 3, may never be restarted; business will be unwilling to locate or expand in the Northwest, the report stated.

"I think everything in that report was accurate; if anything, conservative," Gary Petersen, spokesman for WPPSS in Richland, said last week.

He said WPPSS would have to pay much more when it tried to sell bonds or borrow money in three to five years to resume work on nuclear plant 1 and 3.

"They will cost a premium," he said. Petersen also said he had received many calls from angry bondholders.

"There are individuals who are very emotional — in tears and angry. Others are just questioning, 'Are my bonds any good?' Others say, 'Name me the person I can sue. Whose fault is this?'"

Petersen said he personally felt that the bonds would be paid in 40-50 years. But the official position is bleak.

"We have no income. The state Supreme Court has said the utilities don't have to pay," Petersen said. "We have no other way of attaining money."

The two abandoned nuclear plants — No. 4 on the Hanford nuclear reservation in eastern Washington, about 25 percent complete, and No. 5 at Satsop near the coast in western Washington, about 16 percent complete — will never produce a watt of electricity. Construction was terminated in January 1982 because of financing problems and doubts whether their power would be needed.

WPPSS bonds for projects 4 and 5 were trading at 15 or 20 cents on the dollar last week, said Steve Hueglin, executive vice president of Gabriele, Hueglin & Cashman Inc., a securities firm in New York.

If the bonds still had an A-1 rating, a $5,000 bond would have been worth $3,000 to $6,000. Such a bond sold for about $900 Wednesday, Hueglin said.

"The default itself was anti-climactic," Hueglin said. "People have had so long to get used to it. People still don't believe this is the end."

Washington state is not responsible for the WPPSS default, but state Treasurer Robert O'Brien said the default would likely raise interest rates one-half to three-quarters of a point.

Spellman and public power officials are to testify at a U.S. Senate Energy Committee hearing Wednesday on a plan to create another entity to borrow money and complete the two mothballed plants.

Three private utilities filed suit Friday asking the construction schedule for one of those plants, at Satsop, be maintained.

A fifth plant is nearing completion.

O'Brien and Spellman will lead a delegation of legislators to Wall Street Thursday. To relieve a cash flow problem, O'Brien said, the state is going to the market for $150 million worth of 25-year general obligation bonds and $200 million in 12-month notes.

"All of this is to emphasize that WPPSS is not the state of Washington," he said. "The underwriters understand the difference. That isn't the problem. They have to go out and sell (bonds) to the school teacher in Tallahassee, the fireman in Alaska — the average small investor."

"We've got to get to them and explain it's two entirely different entities. The state has never defaulted and never will."

The governors of Washington and Oregon have appointed a panel to help control the WPPSS damage.

Couple meets on Greyhound bus

Angels celebrate their golden years

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

"We don't feel our anniversary is any more special than any other people's. Big Spring is what is special to us after we've lived here so long," says Annie Matt Angel, wife of Mayor Clyde Angel.

The Angels will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception at First Baptist Church Chapel and Parlor from 2-5 p.m., Aug. 7. Dr. and Mrs. Robert Tate Angel and their children Bobby and Robin Angel will host the occasion.

A musical program will be presented in the Chapel by Mrs. W.W. Grimes, church organist; Mrs. Bill McRee, church pianist; Mrs. Robert Downey, organist and pianist; and Robin Angel of Waco, pianist and granddaughter of the honorees.

IN 1932, AFTER APPLYING for a teaching position in Stanton, Annie Matt Tate caught a Greyhound bus bound for Abilene to meet her aunt and uncle.

During the passage, she conversed with a handsome young man from Big Spring. Annie's mother always told her not to talk to strangers. But this time she did.

The man, Clyde Angel, was going to Abilene to visit his girlfriend. When he told Annie his last name was Angel, she thought he was lying to her. After the bus trip, she forgot about him. Clyde was head bookkeeper at First National Bank in Big Spring.

A few months later, Oct. 12, 1932, the bank was closed for Columbus Day. Clyde decided to go to Stanton and see if the young schoolteacher he had met on the bus would go out with him that evening.

Annie was standing outside the school when she saw Clyde coming her way. She thought he looked familiar but couldn't place him at first. After a while she recognized him and accepted the first of many dates with him.

Clyde enjoyed flying "old mare" planes in those days, and when the opportunity arose he would fly over the schoolyard while Annie Matt was holding classes. Her students would say, "Miss Tate, your boyfriend is flying over."

Attraction went to admiration, and admiration grew into love. "He was very attentive, and he was fun to be with," Annie Matt said. "He was real good looking. I thought he had a pretty promising career, and I guess it was just the time to fall in love. I had other boyfriends. But he was just the special one."

"I ADMIRE HER qualities and morals," Clyde said. "I think those things would just grow on you." She was a "good Christian person interested in building a good Christian home," and she had a "good moral background."

Not quite a year later, Clyde and Annie Matt decided to get married. "I guess it was just the usual proposal," Annie Matt said. "You were just so in love you don't remember the words. We were just so in love that we knew we were for each other. Whatever we were doing, we enjoyed it." Clyde had many girlfriends in Big Spring, Annie said. "I guess he was just drawn toward Stanton."

'We've just had so many happy times. There's just something special about every day.'

They were married on Aug. 5, 1933, ten months after their courtship began. "Our wedding was very simple. We decided to go to a Baptist parsonage and get married," she said. The Rev. R.E. Day, then pastor of First Baptist Church, performed the Saturday afternoon rite. No big wedding; this was during the depression and people didn't have money for such. Clyde went back to the bank the following Monday, and Annie began teaching in Big Spring.

The Angels lived at the Settles Hotel after they were married. In those days, the Settles was the social center of Big Spring and many famous bands played there. A few months later, they moved into an apartment at 511 Runnels.

The Angels used to have regular picnics on Scenic Mountain. "In the depression days you made your entertainment with friends," Mrs. Angel said. They also held backyard parties and enjoyed card games. "Big Spring is a friendly town, and people always enjoyed getting together. The churches had lots of activities," she said.

THREE YEARS LATER, their son Robert Tate was born at Bivings Hospital, later to be known as the original Malone-Hogan Hospital.

The Angels built their first home at 709 W. 18th in 1941 or 1942. Later they bought a second home at 706 Hillside, where they currently reside.

Like any marriage, the Angels had many happy times and a few difficult times. The most difficult times had to do with health problems, death and war.

Annie Matt had cancer 35 years ago. Today, she is cured. Another difficult time for the Angels was when they put Robert on a plane to Viet Nam.

"Our daughter-in-law, Jimmie Lou, is like our daughter," Annie Matt said. "She and our grandson lived with us the year Robert was in Viet Nam as chief surgeon at the hospital in Cam Rahm Bay. Having her and a two-year-old was a blessing to us that year."

Another difficult time was when Clyde had to have open heart surgery 11 years ago. The doctor said Clyde was the healthiest man he had operated on. Clyde gets up at 5:15 every morning and walks Scenic Mountain with Dr. P.W. Malone and E.B. McCormick. They have done this for years with Granville Hahn accompanying them occasionally.

And like any other family, the loss of family members and close friends is hard on them. "Faith, prayer and the love of friends and family helped us get through these times," Annie Matt said.

However, basically their marriage has been a happy and fulfilling one. "One of the happiest and most joyous times in our marriage was when Robert came home from Viet Nam," Annie Matt said. Other times were when Robert was born, when the Angels became grandparents, and when they took several trips abroad.

THE ANGELS HAVE TRAVELED to Alaska, Europe, Scandinavia, Caribbean, Canada, Nova Scotia, Hawaii, the islands of the South Pacific, Australia and New Zealand with several local friends and grandchildren.

Other joyous occasions were when Clyde was honored by First National Bank in 1976 for his retirement after 47 years of employment, and in 1981 when First Federal Savings and Loan honored the Angels for being Big Spring pioneers.

"We've just had so many happy times," she said. "There's just something special about every day."

Annie has supported her husband throughout his work with the bank and city. She never asks personal questions about his business, she said. "I wait and read about it in the paper with everyone else. I never wanted to interfere in his work. I was always doing my own thing," she said.

Clyde has been president of the Big Spring School

RETIREMENT — Clyde and Annie Matt Angel were honored at a retirement reception at First National Bank in 1976. Clyde retired as the bank's senior vice president. He was employed by the bank for 47 years. When he met Annie Matt in 1932, he was the bank's head bookkeeper.

Board and Y.M.C.A. He is a director of First National Bank, a 28-year deacon of First Baptist Church, and is serving his second term as mayor of Big Spring. He enjoys walking the mountain, yardwork, hunting and fishing.

Annie Matt has taught a young women's Sunday School class at First Baptist Church for 50 years. She also has served on the building committee and pulpit committee at the church.

She was named woman of the year of Big Spring and Howard County in 1955 by Beta Sigma Phi. She also was honored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce with the Community Service Award — Woman of the Year in 1981.

She has served as president of the Heritage Museum, 1905 Hyperion Club, Hyperion Council, Big Spring Garden Club, Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs, and Big Spring Concert Association. She also was Southern Zone Chairman of Garden Clubs and has been active with the Y.M.C.A. board, Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center and the American Cancer Society.

Families vacation at a Colorado national park

Rocky Mountain National Park, Colo., is one of the most beautiful places in our country. MR. AND MRS. ED SLATE and children MARK, GLENN AND ELIZABETH, MR. AND MRS. JAMES M. NORMAN and children LARRIE AND CRAIG, and TONDA BACHELOR, Elizabeth's friend, recently spent a week in this nature lover's paradise. While there, Elizabeth caught a 14-inch brown trout at Taylor Park Reservoir.

The families of DENETTE DICK, VICKI MOORE, KEN HUNT, TANYA AND TASHA ROCK, AND PAULA ALLEN are hosting five youths from Japan, July 23-Aug. 21. The visitors are MAYUMI KARITA, NAMIKO KIMURA, WAKAKO SAITO, AKIO MORIYASU, and SATOMI SUZUKI. They are a part of the LABO exchange program with the Texas 4-H Clubs.

The youths will visit Tubbs' vegetable farm, attend a county-wide 4-H cookout at the Allen's home, and a district 4-H party at the Sand Hills in Monahans. Some have been to Six Flags over Texas in Arlington and the Texas 4-H Center in Brownwood. At the center, the Japanese youths sang their national anthem and LABO songs during a talent show.

Congratulations to MR. AND MRS. SAM HUNNICUTT and MR. AND MRS. DUFFY VASSAR for the new additions to their families. The Hunnicutts have a new daughter-in-law, the former MARTHA ELLEN ROLLINS, bride of JIM HUNNICUTT. Martha and Jim were married Saturday afternoon.

The Vassars have a new son-in-law, DAVID RANDALL McREYNOLDS, husband of MELINDA GAIL. David and Melinda were married Saturday evening.

The newly re-chartered Big Spring Jay Cees held two socials last weekend. Friday evening the club held a barbecue for members and spouses to become better acquainted. Afterwards several went to the Brass Nail to continue socializing. Sunday evening they met again at Barcelona Apartments Party Room to finish off the briskets they didn't eat the first go-around. Just a few of those attending were KEITH HALL and his fiancée DORRIE COOK, ROBERT WASH, MR. AND MRS. MARK SHEEDY, MR. AND MRS. TOMMY CHURCHWELL, MIKE AND BARBARA HARRIS, BILL NEHLS, KYLE ORREL, MR. AND MRS. JOHN MYERS, MR. AND MRS. TAB MORGAN, KEN AWTRY, AND SHELLEY HACKER.

Joneses meet for reunion

The descendants of the late Jim and Mattie Jones held a family reunion in Big Spring, July 23.

Out of the couple's seven children, five are still living and attended the reunion. They are Elgin Jones, V.L. (Runt) Jones, John Jones, all of Knott, Eugenia (Gener) Clanton and Wynell (Sally) Rayburn, both of Big Spring.

Eleven of the 14 grandchildren and 16 of the 28 great-grandchildren attended. Out-of-town guests at the reunion were from Torrance, Calif., Arlington, Terrell and Lubbock.

The late Mrs. Jones came to the Knott Community with her family, the T.A. Gaskins, from Buffalo, Leon County, Texas in 1906. The J.C. Jones family came to the community about six or seven years later.

The couple married in 1915 and lived primarily in the Knott Community where they farmed.

Do you have dry hair? It does not necessarily follow that you will have a dry scalp. A dry hair shaft is often the result of overprocessing, overexposure to the sun, and/or too much blow drying. These factors rob the hair shaft of moisture. The hair's dry condition is independent of whether the scalp is oily or dry. As a matter of fact, brittle hair often results from frequently shampooing an oily scalp with a harsh shampoo. Instead try using a shampoo that is formulated for oily hair. Follow up the shampoo with a non-oily conditioner that will seal moisture into the hair.

Your hair is in good hands with LA CONTESSA. We are here to offer you the complete myriad of hair care services. Our staff represents fully trained professionals who endeavor to meet your needs with the utmost professionalism. You will find us located at 1508 Marcy. 'New' plants enhance landscape

Landscape architects and home gardeners can take advantage of a new series of ornamental plants, selected for their beauty, desirability and low requirements of water, fertilizer, pesticides and maintenance.

These resource efficient plants help decrease wastage and costs of water, labor, fertilizer, pesticides, and other landscape maintenance items.

The new plants' development is based on a conviction shared by many Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) horticulturists that people can take advantage of the beauty and inherent strengths of Texas' wild flowers, shrubs and native plants.

These "native Texans" are a hardy lot which nature has evolved during millions of years with resistance to drought, diseases, insects, cold, heat and other adversities. With the "native Texans" as a basis, scientists have targeted research to develop new landscape plants, which incorporate hardiness and resource efficiency.

For several years, TAES scientists have selected several of these plants with high potential for landscape use in Texas. They have tested them for areas of adaptation, and developed methods of propagating them. Research is developing new landscape plants which are beautiful, hardy and easy to care for, with minimal demands for water, fertilizer, insecticides, etc. They have been named TAM-REP series for Texas A&M Resource Efficient Plants.

White Clur Cenizo is among the first of several REP (Resource Efficient Plants) to be released to wholesale nursery growers for multiplication and distribution.

Cenizo (Texas Silverleaf), a Texas native, grows in the Rio Grande Plains, southern Trans-Pecos and sparingly in the Edwards Plateau.

It's not true sage but is in the same plant family as the penstemon, snapdragon, and Indian Paintbrush. Popular names for this plant include Cenizo, Ceniza, Senisa, Texas Silverleaf, Barometer Bush, Liar Bush, Ash Bush, Texas Ranger, Purple Sage, and Texas Rain Sage. If you want to look it up, its scientific name is Leucophyllum frutescens (Berl.) I.M. Johnston.

White Cloud is a cenizo that will grow 8 foot high but height can be controlled, Simpson says by shearing. Its glistening white flowers are large and free-blooming against the gray background of the leaves. Due to its two neutral colors, White Cloud will blend with almost any landscape color scheme.

White Cloud Cenizo's energy requirements, in terms of water and fertilizer, are low for its area of adaptation. Insects and diseases are not major problems except for cotton root rot (Texas root rot) fungus.

Green Cloud Cenizo is another of the new race of ornamental plants developed by TAES. It has the same scientific and popular names as the "White Cloud" cenizo, is the same height, and is adapted to the same areas. However, its leaves are green, and its flowers are purple-violet.

When grown outdoors, "Green Cloud" is capable of multiple flowering periods following rains and/or periods of high humidity, although there is usually only one major display in late August to early September.

"Silver Cloud" is another resource-efficient plant release of the Experiment Station. It's a small cenizo, usually less than 3 feet in height. Leaves are small, rounded and covered with silvery hairs, giving the cultivar its name. The plant grows to a dense, rounded bush requiring little shearing to maintain its dwarf form. Its flowers are a rich purple-violet and it's sometimes called Violet Silverleaf. Silver Cloud has the same range of temperature adaptation as White Cloud. It is suited to alkaline, well draining soils of the arid to semi-arid areas of Texas and the Southwest.

When grown outdoors, Silver Cloud is capable of multiple flowering periods following rains and/or periods of high humidity, although there is usually only one major display in late August through early October.

"Mount Emory Mountain Sage is another of the new race of resource efficient ornamental plants. It is also called Royal Sage; its scientific name is Salvia regia Cav.

Mountain Sage, native to Texas, was found in the Chisos Mountains of Big Bend National Park, growing in dappled shade at altitudes generally over 5000 feet. It's a true sage and the leaves when crushed emit a typical sage fragrance.

The brilliant vermilion-red flowers are ornamental and blooms occur from August to mid-November, with prime flowering occurring in September and October.

"Mount Emory" is a tall shrub, about 8-foot high, with leaves about 2 inches long and wide, with glossy bright green color on the upper surface. It is one of the few plants in full bloom on the hummingbirds' migration routes to tropical areas, and the sage's bright-red tubular flowers attract several species of the birds.

The approximate range of average annual minimum temperatures for these zones were listed earlier in this column, in information about "White Cloud", with the exception of a 7a which has an average annual minimum temperature of 5 degrees to 0 degrees F.

"Mount Emory" Mountain Sage is considerably more cold resistant than any cenizo, with the sage able to stand cold approaching 0 degrees F. "Mount Emory" is adapted to both slightly alkaline and slightly acid well-draining soils of the arid to semiarid areas of Texas and the Southwest.

These resource-efficient plants are only the first of many "native Texans" that are planned to be introduced to gardeners during the next few years.

If widely adopted for homes, industrial sites, public buildings and the like, these plants could result in an annual savings of millions of dollars which would be spent on conventional plants for water, labor, and fertilizer maintenance.

Michelle Bolding honored with baby shower, July 22

Mrs. Gary (Michelle) Bolding was honored with a baby shower in the home of Mrs. Rube McNew, 1908 Settles, July 22. Hostesses were Melissa Garver, Charlotte Terry,

Tammy Burgess, Kim Chase and Nell Burgess. They presented Mrs. Bolding with a walker. Special guests were Linda Whitefield, the honoree's mother, and

Mrs. McNew, the grandmother of the honoree. The refreshment table held a centerpiece of multi-color roses. Baby Bolding is expected to arrive at anytime.

Fans circulate heat in convection oven

Several people have requested information on convection ovens lately. Forced convection is a more correct term. Convection is the natural circulation of heat. A convection oven uses a fan to force the circulation of heat throughout the oven.

A convection oven produces hot air by gas or electricity the same way that an ordinary oven does. The main difference between the two is that a convection oven uses fans to direct high-speed hot air currents throughout the oven cavity. As heat is transferred from the air to the food, the cooled air that results is recycled by the motion of the fan and replaced by hot air. The movement of the air speeds up the transfer of heat into the food. This forced-air system is the reverse of the wind chill factor on a cold, windy, winter day. It is much colder when the wind is blowing. The opposite is true in a convection oven resulting in more efficient use of heat.

In a conventional oven, heat cools as it moves away from the main heating element. Without a fan to keep the air moving, the gradually cooling air takes longer to penetrate the food and also loses intensity as food absorbs the heat.

Microwave ovens cook food with microwave energy. The microwaves, produced by an electron tube, penetrate the food and agitate molecules of fat, sugar and liquid inside the food. The molecules vibrate at an extremely high rate producing sufficient heat to cook the food.

Before making a decision to purchase a counter-top forced convection oven the following questions should be answered:

- Is convenient counter space available for its use? Some ovens may be (24 inches) side, (18 or more inches) high and up to 17 deep. Few units have the maximum lengths for all dimensions.
- If counter space is available, is adequate clearance available for both sides, the back and the top? A minimum of 4-6 inches is needed. More is desirable, especially for ovens with no insulation or air space between inner and outer walls. If the top serves as a door, adequate space above the door is necessary when removing and replacing it.

- Is an electrical outlet on a 20-amp circuit (without high demand for other appliances) close to the counter space or cart where the oven will be used? The common wattage rating is 1500 with some units rated at 1650. The cord should be less than 36 inches in length and should not dangle over or on a counter space or other equipment.
- How much or how often will the oven be used? Will it be used often enough to repay the original cost that varies from $100 and $300? All units can be used for roasting and baking. Some have broiling units. Some have racks for dehydrating foods.

If you put a piece of wax paper directly on top of soups and stews before you refrigerate them, you can peel the fat off when they're cool.

Dr. Donohue

Varicose veins

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a question that has been bothering me. I am 33, stand 6 feet, 4 inches, and weight 250 pounds, and I do exercising, such as jogging. Varicose veins run in my mother's family and I can see some slight evidence of it on my legs. There is no pain. Are my regular workouts to my advantage or could the exercise expedite a future serious condition? — S.D.C.

I know there are conflicting thoughts on this matter so I will give you my thinking. It coincides with the opinion of many doctors with great experience in sports and with varicose veins as well. They state that exercise does not cause them or make them worse. In fact, sitting down doing nothing will make you more prone to varicose veins than will running, jumping or doing other similar exercises.

Varicose veins result from a weakness of the values of the inner vein, and that's something you're probably born with. As those become less competent, blood backs up, stretching the vein causing it to be varicose. Using the leg muscles keeps the blood from backing up so exercise is actually good for you.

But you have to be careful to avoid factors that lead to blood backing up, like constricting leg hose, or sitting or lying with one leg crossed over another. You should also try to elevate your legs as often as you can. But as for exercise, so far as I'm concerned you shouldn't give it up unless your physician has specifically told you it's not for you.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I'm afraid you may have discouraged potential artificial valve recipients by stating that blood clotting on the valve frequently happens. Maybe so, but please include a line or two in a future column stating a positive attitude toward the procedure. I have greatly benefited from this operation and I would firmly and sincerely recommend it. — A.D.C.

Let me be most positive about surgical replacement of heart valves. I'm all for it. It's done about 18,000 times a year and patients do nicely. Clot formation can be prevented with blood thinners and anti-platelet drugs. My mother had an artificial valve put in 10 years ago and is still gadding around.

Jewels & Gems

by Ralph and Lynette Brooks

When selecting a diamond, keep the "four C's" in mind. A diamond's "cut" greatly influences its appearance. The shape and arrangement of its facets have much to do with the gem's brilliance and value. The "color" of the stone, not the surface rainbow of reflected light, also affects value. To best evaluate color, look at a stone through its side against a pure white background. "Clarity" refers to the relative absence or presence of flaws known as inclusions. Surface irregularities, cracks and spots may mar a diamond's beauty and reduce its long-term value. Lastly, "carat" is the unit used to measure the weight of diamonds. It is not, however, the most important factor in determining worth.

For the ultimate in fine jewelry we at BLUM'S JEWELERS invite you to visit with us today. Dear Abby

Wife wants more than stolen kisses

DEAR ABBY: Buddy (not his real name) and I have been married for six years. We have two kids and love each other very much, but he has spent at least three years of our marriage locked up. That's where he is right now. My mother doesn't like him and never has. For a long time she's been trying to talk me into leaving him and finding someone else. Please don't think I'm bragging, but I am a nice-looking woman and I get lots of offers.

I love my husband and don't like the idea of another man playing daddy to my kids, but I am confused. Buddy is really a nice man. He doesn't care for regular work, and he loves me and the kids so much he finds other ways of getting money. He tries not to hurt anybody. He just steals.

I hate to leave him, but I need a man who spends more time on the outside. What is your advice? Sign me...

LOYAL

DEAR LOYAL: "Nice" men work to support their families; they don't steal what other people have worked hard for. It's too bad Buddy doesn't care for "regular work" because that's the way honorable men make it in this world. Tell Buddy that you love him and don't want another man playing daddy to his kids, but unless he goes straight and stays straight, he will lose a loyal woman who loves him.

DEAR ABBY: It's usually women who are reluctant to tell how old they are, but I recently met a young man who simply will not tell anyone his age. If anyone attempts a guess, he doesn't let on whether the person is right or wrong.

I feel a very strong attraction for this young man, and I know it's mutual, but I don't want any problems to arise, such as contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

I am 20, and I'm sure he is younger, but I don't know how much younger. I don't want to mess things up by pressuring him to tell me how old he is, but I'd sure like to know.

Any ideas? MAD ABOUT THE BOY

DEAR MAD: If he refuses to tell his age, he's probably not old enough. Throw him back. He's not a keeper.

DEAR ABBY: After months of agonizing over how I was going to tell my husband of six years that I wanted out of our marriage, I finally gathered the courage to tell him that I admired him, liked him and respected him but I just didn't love him, and I thought our marriage was a mistake.

I also told him honestly that I had met another man who I felt was more "right" for me, and Abby, before I finished the sentence, my husband hugged me and said, "I'm so glad, because I've found someone else, too."

Abby, when a marriage isn't working, it's usually bilateral.

Many children don't outgrow allergies

A widely held misconception is that most children with allergies outgrow them. The truth is that only about half will outgrow allergies at about age 15, and the rest stay the same or get worse, says the Texas Medical Association.

Neglecting treatment in hopes that the child will outgrow allergic reactions can make the youth's early years miserable. This is particularly true with asthma, a respiratory disease that often arises from allergies.

The child often is unable to get a good night's sleep, often misses school, and may be unable to take part in sports or have a normal social life. Parents should consider that their child's present and future physical and emotional health may be affected by not seeking treatment.

Allergies are abnormal responses to certain substances in the environment. The substance that produces the allergic response is called an allergen. It is not essentially a harmful substance since most people are not affected by it. Allergens can be something you touch (wool, animals, rugs) something you inhale (pollens, molds, house dust, animal hair), or something you eat or drink.

The allergic response may take many forms — skin inflammation, particularly in infancy; hay fever; chronic problems with sneezing and itching; a runny nose; and the coughing, wheezing, and congestion that characterize asthma.

The usual method of treating allergies in children is to identify the allergen and remove it from the child's environment. This calls for careful observation and cooperation by parents.

In some cases, the cause can be identified quickly and the allergen removed easily. Examples are when a child's attacks are worse when close to a pet or when a child sleeps on a feather pillow. In many cases, skin tests identify the allergen, especially if it is in the air.

In other cases, the allergy can be controlled with a series of injections of the specific allergen in hopes of building immunity. This method is about the only effective one for pollen allergies, although it is ineffective for food allergies.

Program extended for handicapped youths

Many people are unaware that Head Start now extends its services to handicapped children. Children with special needs are eligible for Head Start, regardless of their family income level.

Head Start provides individualized care and guidance to children, helping them fulfill their developmental potential. Each child is considered a unique person with previous experiences, current needs, and potential for future growth.

The Head Start approach is well suited to helping children with special needs: children who are seriously emotionally disturbed; mentally retarded; visually handicapped; hard of hearing; speech impaired; physically crippled; deaf; learning disabled; or otherwise health impaired, requiring special education. No child seeking admission to this program will be discriminated against because of his/her race, creed, color, sex, national origin or handicapping condition. If your child has special needs, or if you know of another child who does, call 742-1945 or write to: South Plains Handicap Consortium, Box 4170, Lubbock, Texas 79409.

Local PTA officers attend state seminar

Four local Parent-Teacher Association officers were among some 700 PTA leaders and guests who attended the Texas PTA Summer Leadership Seminar in Austin, July 17-19.

Attending from Big Spring were Marcia Rogers, city council PTA president; Janice Mayes and Debbie Burton, Marcy PTA; and Donna Parker of Kentwood PTA.

Featured speakers were Ed Foreman of Dallas, a recognized authority on the art of successful daily living; and David Bahlmann, executive director of Big Brothers, Big Sisters of America.

Susan Howard of the TV series "Dallas" was a special guest at a press party the first day of the seminar. She is honorary membership chairman of Texas PTA for the 1983-84 school year.

Seminar participants attended workshops on topics such as child abuse, media influence on teens, seatbelt safety, evaluating schools, leadership styles, school food service and nutrition, drugs, alcohol, discipline, teenage suicide, and one-parent families.

Meetings of the PTA state board of managers and state committees and a child abuse prevention workshop preceded the seminar.

Stress can cause child abuse

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — "In a week anyone can become a child abuser," says a Purdue University sociologist who believes it takes only the right set of circumstances to trigger a case of abuse.

"There's a myth that only people who were abused themselves will abuse their children, or that it is a lower-class phenomenon, or even that you have to be mentally ill," says Dean D. Knudsen, associate professor of sociology.

But just put a person into the right setting — add a lot of stress — and Knudsen predicts any normal person could become an abuser.

A father laid off from work, for instance, may be a model parent — until he is jobless and forced to stay at home. As tension increases, so does the potential for first-time child abuse.

Knudsen, who has been researching child-abuse cases in Tiptecanoe County, Ind., for more than a decade, observes the frequency of reported cases of suspected abuse or neglect is up, from roughly 30 a year in 1970 to more than 1,100 in 1982.

Does this reflect a nationwide trend? Probably. "There's really no way to estimate the national figures, although reports are around a million a year," says the sociologist. The figures translate into one of every 14 children being abused, most by friends and relatives.

Knudsen believes it's stress in everyday living, from finances to relationships, that causes abuse to cut across the population. "Families don't get much support; they often don't even know their neighbors, and they can't seem to ask for help," Knudsen says.

Knudsen has observed what he calls a "cycle of violence," with two great contributors of modern life being TV and air-conditioning.

"Instead of sitting out on the porch or going to the park after supper, we're isolated from others, prisoners in our own homes," he points out. Worse still, no one is there to check our transgressions against our own kids, he adds.

Among the most frequent abusers, he says, are young, socially isolated parents who move frequently. They have low incomes and little access to help, he suggests.

Knudsen agrees with most theorists that the institutionalized violence in American society contributes to violence in the home. Prisons, for instance, and even schools, condone corporal punishment.

"There's a cultural milieu of legitimate force and violence surrounding child abuse in America," Knudsen says. "Violence is part of our background and heritage — it happens with tremendous regularity."

Knudsen notes that in this country parents are assumed to have nearly total control over their children, and in child-abuse cases parents must be proven unfit in order to remove children. In Sweden, he explains, it's the opposite: Parents are recognized as potential abusers and must prove themselves to be fit.

Another factor in abuse, Knudsen adds, is simple ignorance.

"We often have unrealistic expectations of our children. On TV, kids are always clean and well behaved. Young mothers today often have grown up with only TV models of children and come from families without younger children. Thus, in many cases they don't know what to expect from kids because they didn't have any experience or practice with babies while they were growing up."

One solution Knudsen advocates is involvement in groups, for past and potential abusers. "In a group,

Poll says Sally Ride proves woman's ability equal to men

With the recent achievement of Dr. Sally K. Ride, America's first female astronaut, in mind, The Merit Report asked the public whether women can handle jobs requiring complex skills as well as their male counterparts. In short, both sexes overwhelmingly agree that Dr. Ride is no exception.

Specifically, The Merit Report asked people whether they think that Dr. Ride proved that women, given proper training, can perform just as well as men in jobs requiring complex skills or that she is an exception. In response, an overwhelmingly 81% of the public say she proved that women can perform just as well, with only 13% seeing her as an exception. Another 6% express no opinion.

Both women (84%) and men (78%) are in agreement on this question. However, people aged 18-34 are slightly more likely than those 50 and older to say Dr. Ride proved that women can perform as well as men in complex jobs, by 86% to 75%, and the more affluent (incomes over $25,000 are more apt than the less well-to-do (incomes under $15,000) to say Dr. Ride is no exception, by 85% to 76%.

These are among the major findings of The Merit Report: A Public Opinion Survey conducted June 27-30, 1983 under the supervision of Audits & surveys, Inc. Some 1,222 adult Americans living in telephone households were randomly selected to participate in this scientific, nationally projectable survey.

Time to prepare for fall garden

COLLEGE STATION — Although there is still plenty of hot weather ahead, it's time to start getting things in shape for your fall vegetable garden.

Much of Texas is well suited for year-round gardening, and fall vegetables generally have better quality and flavor than those grown in the spring, says Dr. Sam Cotner, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Many popular warm-season vegetables such as tomatoes, peppers, eggplants, pole beans, potatoes, okra, cucumbers and squash can be planted during the coming weeks.

Also, the so-called "winter" vegetables such as broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, greens, parsley and carrots can be planted now for early harvesting. Later plantings of these cold-hardy crops will supply fresh vegetables well into winter.

What are some of the important aspects of fall gardening?

First of all, get the land into good shape, suggests Cotner. If you had a garden this spring and fertilizer was applied, little if any additional fertilizer will be needed before fall planting.

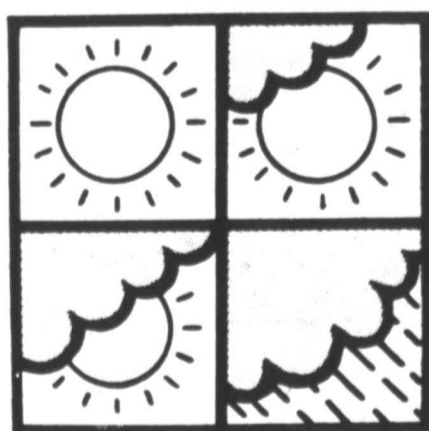

For new gardens, apply two to three pounds of a complete fertilizer such as 10-20-10 per 100 square feet and work it into the soil, recommends the horticulturist. If plants make slow growth, apply a light amount of fertilizer between rows and water it into the soil.

Adequate water is vital for a successful fall garden, particularly for seed germination and early plant growth. Cotner suggests "pre-irrigation" before planting followed by subsequent, light waterings three or four times a week to keep soil from drying and crusting. Water stress during early growth of plants can reduce later yields.

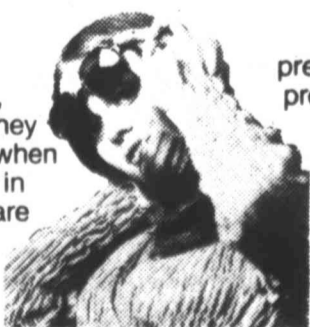

Transplanting is a good practice in the fall since this allows seed to be started in areas sheltered from high temperatures and drying winds. Check at garden centers for recommended varieties of vegetables and strong, vigorous, health plants. Or you may want to grow transplants, notes the horticulturist.
