Sandstorm chokes Big Spring

STORM DAMAGE — Three men try to right the Tallant Printing and Office Products sign, a casualty of yesterday's sandstorm and 60 mile-an-hour winds. In the inset, the insulation and roofing at the Big Spring Wal-Mart store is flying through the air and littering the parking lot.

Staff and wire reports

Raging winds and thick dust sandblasted the Big Spring area Tuesday and left stranded motorists, several traffic accidents, shattered windows and splintered signs throughout the city and along area highways.

High winds took a section of a roof off Big Spring's Wal-Mart store Tuesday afternoon. Scraps of insulation littered the store's parking lot.

Store manager David Peters said he could not comment on the extent of the damage. The store remained open.

Firefighters in Colorado City fought a losing battle with a blaze fanned out of control by the high winds. A barn which belonged to Pete Barkley was destroyed in the fire. The loss was estimated at $11,000.

Wind gusts of up to 60 miles per hour and blowing dust brought visibility on Interstate 20 between exits 169 and 172 down to zero between 2 p.m. and 3 p.m. Visibility on the Snyder Highway, two miles north of Big Spring, was reduced to less than an eighth of a mile during the afternoon as an orange cloud of sand enveloped the area around Gamco Industries and Price Construction Co.

Travelers' advisories were posted for all area roads warning motorists not to drive in the poor conditions.

Howard County deputies and members of the Highway Patrol assisted several motorists during the storm.

Sheriff A.N. Standard said he called two night shift deputies and a reserve deputy into the office to work traffic control. Drivers were warned to slow down to 30 miles per hour to avoid both the blowing sand and stranded motorists on the side of the road.

Deputies on the roads were issued goggles to protect their eyes from the irritating sand. One deputy told the sheriff later that his eyeglasses had been scratched by the sand.

Department of Public Safety trooper Jim Lasater said, "If you didn't have sand in your eyes, you couldn't see your hand in front of your face. If you had sand in your eyes, you couldn't see anything." The sheriff's office reported two rear-end accidents on highways in the Big Spring area in heavy sandstorms after drivers, unable to see, stopped their cars and were then rammed by other vehicles.

"The sand was blowing so thick across the road, you couldn't see the hood ornament," said sheriff's deputy Barney Edens.

Two men were injured in a wreck about 2:30 p.m. on I-20, three miles west of Big Spring. Milton Lozano, 35, of 1500 W. 11th Place, and Refugio DelReal, 26, of Colorado City, were taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital by Shaffer Ambulance. See Dust page 2-A

Newspaper chain buys public stock

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Harte-Hanks Communications Inc., which owns the Big Spring Herald, today announced that three board members and two current officers would offer to buy back the media firm's outstanding shares of common stock and make the company private again.

The group is offering $28 a share in cash and $10 a share in debt instruments, making the deal worth more than $850 million.

Spokeswoman Ann Downing said the leveraged buyout was being executed by Edward Harte, publisher of the Corpus Christi Caller-Times; Houston Harte, Harte-Hanks board chairman; Larry D. Franklin, executive vice president; Andrew B. Shelton, publisher of the Abilene Reporter-News; and Robert Marbut, president and chief executive officer.

Several communications firms have attempted recently to either increase the percentage of stock owned by management or execute a leveraged buyout while their stocks are depressed on Wall Street, analysts said.

Harte-Hanks owns and operates 27 daily newspapers, 75 non-daily publications, four VHF network-affiliated television stations, nine radio stations and a cable station.

In a leveraged buyout, the investors, who usually include the company's management, borrow

Locals want to help with animal shelter

By RICK BROWN Staff Writer

Concern that a proposed new animal shelter for the city is not being built fast enough brought a local volunteer group to last night's meeting of the Big Spring City Council.

The women, led by Margaret Lloyd, offered to help upgrade conditions at the city's current shelter until a new one is built.

Mrs. Lloyd told the council her group was "not coming with hostility, but with an offer to help." She said she had spoken by phone before the meeting to local philanthropist Dorothy Garrett. According to Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. Garrett said she would donate "whatever is necessary" to help the group upgrade the shelter.

Plans for the new shelter were drawn up last December when an anonymous donor gave the city money to build the shelter.

According to Mrs. Lloyd, the group wants to keep the current shelter open for longer hours, maintain records on the animals in the shelter so owners can identify their pets more easily, enlist the local news media to publicize a listing of animals in the shelter, and improve sanitation in the animals' cages.

Mrs. Lloyd said her group has had trouble getting the necessary legal release from the city so volunteers could work at the shelter.

Mayor Clyde Angel appointed Councilman Jack Y. Smith as a liaison between the group and the city to avoid future problems.

"I feel like we've got the go ahead from the City Council, and now we will get the release we need from the city," Mrs. Lloyd said after her presentation.

All's fair in science

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

The Dorothy Garrett Coliseum was decorated with display boards, computers, miniature volcanos and plant projects today as students gathered for the awards ceremony for the Permian Basin Regional Science Fair.

Lynn Hise, superintendent of Big Spring schools, told the participants, "We want you to know we feel all of you are winners."

Several of the award winners talked about the science fair and why they wanted to participate.

JoJo Reed, daughter of Joe and Carolyn Reed, won the U.S. Metric Association Award. JoJo, a 14-year-old eighth grader, said "science is my best subject. It's something I've always liked. I was raised around a scientific environment."

JoJo plans to take science courses throughout high school. She wants to work as a park ranger or computer programmer when she's older, and she feels studying science will help her in whatever field she chooses.

Her project dealt with how vibrations effect plant growth.

"I looked up my father's old experiment cards, got the idea and improved it," she said. She found that when vibrated, plants give out more oxygen.

She says her project is important for the future because, if the earth becomes too small and people relocate to another planet, "We can take the plants to the next planet, vibrate them and make a new atmosphere."

Sheriff identifies corpse

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

Sheriff's deputies have identified a man's body found March 21 lying in a remote pasture southwest of Big Spring, Sheriff A.N. Standard said.

The body was identified as Tommy Junior Johnson, a black man from North Carolina who was about 33 at the time of his death, Standard said.

Johnson was identified from his fingerprints with the help of the Austin bureau of the Department of Public Safety, Standard said.

Deputies are talking to Johnson's relatives in North Carolina to determine when the man left the state and who he might have been travelling with, Standard said.

Johnson's cause of death is still uncertain, Standard said. Pathologist Dr. Robert Rember said his autopsy had found neck wounds on Johnson's body, Standard said.

The two puncture wounds possibly might have caused Johnson's death, but Rember said he could not rule out other possibilities, Standard said.

No bullet wounds were found in the chest or abdominal area, he said.

"When the body is this decomposed, it's hard to determine the cause of death," Standard said.

The body possibly lay in the field undiscovered for weeks or possibly months, Standard said.

Deputies think Johnson might have been traveling farther west, to Nevada or California, when he was killed, Standard said.

The FBI could become involved with the investigation if local law enforcement officers find that Johnson was killed in another state and transported here, Standard said.

"We don't think he was killed at the scene (where the body was found, 12 miles southwest of Big Spring), but it's a possibility," Standard said.

Council suspends consideration of TESCO rate hike

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring City Council last night voted to suspend for 90 days its consideration of a proposed rate increase for the Texas Electric Service Co.

The suspension pushes the council's decision on the rate increase to a date after state Public Utility Commission hearings on the issue.

Local TESCO manager Hooper Sanders told the council the increase is necessary to maintain the company's level of service and support the company's building program.

The company is currently securing a license for its Comanche Peak nuclear reactor, Sanders said, and the facility is 97 percent complete.

The reactor is two years behind its original spring 1982 opening date, he said.

In other action, the council:

- Awarded a bid of $68,000 to W.D. Turner Construction Co. of Lubbock for approximately 125 blocks of street maintenance work in the city's Douglas Addition.

- Accepted a bid of $35,000 for renovation of the municipal swimming pool at Comanche Trail Park.

- Set a public hearing for April 24 for consideration of a disannexation request from David Wilson of the city's Silver Heels Addition.

- Authorized the hiring of architectural and engineering firms to prepare plans for reconstruction of streets in the Big Spring Airpark.

- Approved specifications and authorized advertising for bids for replacement of the roof of the city fire station at 11th and Birdwell.

- Awarded a bid for auctioneer services to Dub Bryant for the city auction scheduled for next month.

- Appointed J.D. Nelson, president of the Security State Bank, to the Crimestoppers Board of Directors.

Police Beat

2 held in sexual assault

Two men are in custody at the Big Spring police station in connection with a sexual assault that occurred early this morning on the I-20 service road near State Highway 350, police Lt. Jerry Edwards said.

The assault happened after two male subjects offered a ride to a woman who was having car trouble and took her to the service road location instead of to her residence, Edwards said.

A report of the incident was filed with police at 2:33 a.m. Wednesday at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

- Courtney Ballard of Garden City Route told police that someone between 8:30 p.m. Monday and 8 a.m. Tuesday stole a Remington rifle worth $70 from a 1982 Chevrolet pickup while it was parked in the lot at Malone-Hogan Hospital, police reports said.

- Della Dickson, 23, of 1002 Main was arrested at 12:25 p.m. Tuesday in connection with an assault warrant, police reports said.

- Johnny Reid, 35, of Gail Route was arrested at 2:17 a.m. Tuesday on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, police reports said.

- Thomas Rodriguez of 2203 Rannels told police that someone between 7:45 a.m. and 3:15 p.m. Tuesday stole car stereo equipment worth a total of $190 from his 1972 pickup while it was parked in the east lot at Big Spring High School, police reports said.

Local woman, 60, dies from injuries in wreck

A Big Spring woman died at Malone-Hogan Hospital Tuesday from injuries she suffered March 19 in an auto accident at the intersection of Wasson and Belvedere streets.

Mrs. Zeigler, 60, was admitted to the Intensive Care Unit of Malone-Hogan Hospital in the early morning hours of March 20 after the 1984 Chrysler in which she was riding collided with a 1984 Lincoln driven by Joseph Diliberto.

Diliberto, who was also taken to the hospital, was subsequently charged on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and released on $2,500 bond.

Two other persons in the Zeigler vehicle were admitted to the hospital after the accident.

Services for Helen Zeigler are scheduled for 2 p.m. Thursday at the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel.

Fair

Scott Ferguson, a 14-year-old Big Spring freshman, won third place in the senior high division in the earth/space category.

Scott said, "Science is one of the most fascinating things in the world. There is always more to learn. No one ever knows all there is to know."

Scott's experiment dealt with astronomy rules of the galaxy. He began researching the project in September.

Scott is the son of John Ferguson and Clara Ferguson, both of Big Spring.

Chase Fraser and Jay Proffitt are both 12-year-old sixth graders who entered the science fair as a team "because we're real good friends and we always do stuff together," said Jay. This year, that friendship paid off, as the boys won first place in the biology group project for "Do Microwaves Affect Plant Growth?"

They also won a certificate of achievement from the U.S. Army.

The boys said their parents and their science teacher encouraged them to enter the science fair. Chase said, "Our science teacher thinks this will help us with science when we grow up."

Chase said he enjoyed roaming through the displays "looking at other projects and understanding them. A lot of work went into these projects."

Both boys are planning to enter again next year. Chase is the son of Linda and Troy Fraser. Jay is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Proffitt.

Bonnie Lopez, 12, and Paula Morris, 12, both Goliad Middle School students, won a certificate from the U.S. Army with a project called "Can Plants Grow with Different Nutrients?"

Bonnie said she and Paula were interested in how the project would turn out but they discovered "most of the plants didn't grow as much as we thought."

Paula said the science fair "teaches you different experiments. It helps you to know what will happen with an experiment."

Paula wants to be a "plant person" when she gets older and maybe work with computers. Bonnie wants to be a model or a cosmetologist.

"I like science a lot," Bonnie explained. "I think science will help you in everything."

Paula is the daughter of Donna and Johnny Morris. Bonnie is the daughter of Geraldine Lopez.

Two of the youngest winners at the science fair were Caryn Kelly of Kentwood Elementary and Elizabeth Anderson of Bauer Magnet School. Both girls are 10 years old, and they won first in the group division in physical science.

The girls entered together because "we're best friends," Elizabeth explained. They got special permission to enter together, even though they represented different schools. Their project was called "How Bleach Affects Different Fabrics."

Caryn said she and Elizabeth did the project on their own. "Our mothers supervised, but that's about it. We found the experiment in a book called 'Chemistry for Boys and Girls.'"

Elizabeth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Anderson. Caryn's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kelly.

Recognized during the event were Joe Reed, director of the fair, Helen Gladden and Janice Rosson, members of Howard College and the 100 judges.

since, analysts said. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was suspended Monday after the stock jumped $2.25 to $24.50.

A statement issued by the company said the acquisition proposal would be reviewed by an independent committee of the board.

"It (the buyout) will allow all shareholders to realize values in Harte-Hanks which we believe have not been recognized by the stock market for a long time," Marbut said in a prepared statement.

Some local trailer parks maintained only one meter, depriving the city of revenue.

Collection for the newly adopted garbage collection service is tied to water meter use, and several families using a single meter would pay only one collection fee. No action was taken on the matter.

Swinney also presented a plan for annexation. The city, he said, can "annex legally an area equal to 30 percent of the current land area of the city of Coahoma. The city currently covers 780 acres and can annex an additional 228 acres."

By following his plan, Swinney said, "the city would be able to relocate a proposed new water treatment plant within city limits and save the city nearly $3 million."

The Meadow Addition and several miles of a one-acre strip of land bordering Interstate 20 extending to Moss Creek Road is included under Swinney's plan. Coahoma currently sells water to much of this area, Rackley said.

"This would stop any other city from annexing land within half-a-mile of our boundaries," Swinney said. In the only official action of the night, the council adopted a resolution that will allow it to hold public meetings on the proposed annexation.

Sheriff's Log

Man sentenced to prison

Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin set bond at $15,000 for the credit card abuse charge. Hash was transferred later Tuesday to the Ward County sheriff's office.

Deputies also arrested James Corbett Abbott, 33, of 1314 State Park Drive on a Kendall County warrant for parole violation on suspicion of possession of a controlled substance. Bond has been denied.

NEW YORK — Nastassia Kinski, the sultry star of "Tess," "Cat People" and "Unfaithfully Yours," has been taking it easy after doing a little too much, her spokeswoman in New York says.

NASTASSIA KINSKI

Spokesman Peggy Siegal said the 23-year-old Miss Kinski is six months pregnant and was taken to a hospital in Rome about a week ago suffering from cramps.

"The reason she got sick was that she was overworked," Ms. Siegal said in New York Tuesday. "She had been traveling too much. In the past month she had flown from New York to Los Angeles to London to Paris to Munich and to Rome."

While Miss Kinski was in Germany "she was dubbing the German and French versions of her movie, 'Unfaithfully Yours.' She speaks four languages, so she does the dubbing herself," Ms. Siegal said.

She said the actress was released from the hospital after two days and is still in Rome resting.

Mehta has elbow trouble

NEW YORK — Substitute conductors are being called in to replace Zubin Mehta for a series of concerts in the next six weeks while the music director of the New York Philharmonic recovers from surgery on his elbow.

Dr. Leon Root at the Hospital for Special Surgery says the operation Tuesday for lateral epicondylitis, a severe chronic inflammation of the muscles attached to the conductor's right elbow, was a success.

Mehta, 47, has suffered with the ailment for two years, treating it therapeutically, until pain made an operation necessary.

He is expected to conduct opening night of the Philharmonic's "Horizons '84" contemporary music festival on May 31 but return to his administrative duties before then.

Conductors lined up in his absence are Michael Tilson Thomas, Larry Newland, Vaclav Newmann, Andrew Davis and Gunther Herbig.

Erich Leinsdorf already is scheduled for the last two weeks of the season.

Hope turns professor

DALLAS — Bob Hope said that when he played Fort Worth's Majestic Theater in 1928 as a "two-day hooper," he never thought he'd return to Texas as a professor.

BOB HOPE

Hope is conducting a series of seminars on comedy at Southern Methodist University, which named its theater after him.

The students at Tuesday's session on "what makes people laugh" got few insights into the secrets of the comedy game from the 82-year-old comedian. But they heard plenty of examples.

"I was going to open with a prayer," he said after his introduction, "but I was afraid Congress might hear about it."

Hope told the aspiring comedians when in doubt, joke about politics.

He said Ronald Reagan used to be a liberal Democrat. "That's like Lawrence Welk playing punk rock."

With 15 percent of the vote counted early Wednesday, Duarte was leading with 70,576 votes, or 37.5 percent, to 61,759, or 32.8 percent, for d'Aubuisson.

Francisco Jose Guerrero, a conservative who could prove a key figure in the expected Duarte-d'Aubuisson runoff, was third with 44,540 votes or 23.6 percent. The five other candidates split the remaining votes.

The total of 188,357 votes counted, out of an estimated 1.3 million cast, included the provinces of La Paz, Chalatenango, Ahuachapan and San Vicente.

Hart said his broad Connecticut win was proof that voters want "a break with the establishment politics of the past."

"I think the results showed a rejection of a foreign policy which calls for the continued presence of American troops in Honduras and the possible loss of American lives there," he said. Hart has been criticizing Mondale's refusal to call for an immediate withdrawal of American forces in Central America.

Hart won 33 delegates to the Democratic National Convention, to Mondale's 18 and 1 for Jackson. There are 252 delegates at stake in New York, nearly five times as many as in Connecticut.

Even so, Mondale continued to hold a wide lead in delegates overall — 692 to 422 for Hart and 76 for Jackson. It takes 1,967 to nominate.

In New York, a small sample poll of likely primary voters taken by ABC News and The Washington Post during three days ending Tuesday gave Mondale 43 percent to 33 percent for Hart. Jackson trailed with 15 percent, and 9 percent were undecided. There was a 6 percentage point margin of error.

Jeff Alderman, ABC News polling director, says the poll also shows that blacks have a greater share of the vote than they have had in the past.

"If that happens, it will reduce the share of the Jewish vote. Mondale's fortunes then will depend a great deal on how big the black turnout is, and the percentage of that vote that goes to Jackson," Alderman said.

Inmates riot at Peru prison

IMA, Peru — Rebellious inmates armed with pistols and dynamite held more than a dozen hostages for 12 hours at a downtown Lima prison until their bloody uprising was quelled by guards in a gas attack.

Authorities said a convict ringleader was killed and four hostages and four policemen injured during the attempted breakout by six armed prisoners Tuesday. The attorney general's office began an investigation today to determine how the convicts obtained their weapons.

Penitentiary guards stormed the convict-held administrative section and warden's office at El Sexto prison, using paralyzing gas and tear gas to rescue the hostages and end the siege, police said. An angry crowd had gathered outside and screamed for police to kill the inmates.

He said riot ringleader Luis Garcia Mendoza, awaiting trial for homicide and robbery, was killed, but gave no details.

Hostages said the guards opened fire on the inmates before the rescue attempt.

Interior Minister Luis Percovich put the number of mutinous inmates at six and said they were armed with at least two pistols, knives, homemade bombs and dynamite. The attorney general's office said part of its investigation would be to determine how the inmates got their weapons.

The riot and attempted prison break was the third in three months and the worst incident at El Sexto prison, which holds 1,500 inmates, since 1981. In a clash between prison factions that year, 27 inmates died.

Lava heads for Hawaiian city

VOLCANO, Hawaii — Residents of Hilo, Hawaii's second largest city, were put on alert as a mountain of lava tumbled toward their homes from a powerful eruption of a "furious" Mauna Loa that showed no signs of letting up.

Molten rock from the world's largest active volcano, which spurted nearly a million cubic yards of lava per hour on Tuesday, would begin reaching homes on the outskirts of Hilo late Thursday if the rate of eruption does not falter, authorities said.

"Mauna Loa's still furious," said Jon Erickson, a spokesman for Hawaii Volcanoes National Park.

In Hilo, officials rejected a proposal Tuesday to construct giant earthen walls as barriers to deflect the lava.

"From where the lava is at the present time, that's not a feasible alternative," said Gov. George Ariyoshi, who met with other officials to discuss possible contingency plans.

Ariyoshi said there was concern that the barriers would simply divert the lava flow from one residential area to another.

The largest of four lava flows was about seven miles from the nearest homes Tuesday evening, said scientist Robert Decker, who heads the U.S. Geological Survey's Hawaiian Volcano Observatory.

About 48,000 people live in Hilo.

Salvador vote counting goes slowly

SAN SALVADOR (AP) — Early official returns from El Salvador's presidential election showed centrist Jose Napoleon Duarte leading his right-wing opponent Roberto d'Aubuisson today — but not by enough to avoid a runoff.

Election officials said the count, delayed by two days, might be finished on Friday.

Duarte and d'Aubuisson, both claim they could end the country's 4 1/4-year-old civil war. But Ruben Zamora, a spokesman for the leftist rebels, declared Tuesday: "The war continues, and with zero or 40 elections nothing will be resolved."

With 15 percent of the

Hart wins big in Connecticut

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The Democratic residential marathon turns to New York today, with Sen. Gary Hart hoping his impressive sweep of Connecticut will give him the edge he needs in next week's showdown with Walter F. Mondale.

GARY HART

Hart was cautious about making too much of his win Tuesday night, telling supporters only, "We expect to do very well" in New York.

"Front-runnership seems to change about once a week," he added. "We'll wait and see."

But Connecticut's Democratic primary was his best election showing in two weeks — a romp that completed a six-state sweep of New England and was the kind of convincing victory he needed to tarnish Mondale's claim of a comeback and to regain campaign momentum for himself.

Mondale, campaigning in New York state, said Hart had a "very good win... and I commend him for it."

"We go now to New York for the next campaign," said the former vice president, the one-time front-runner now squeezed for cash even before the midway point of a long march of primary and caucus contests.

Final returns in Connecticut gave Hart 53 percent of the vote, compared with 29 percent for Mondale and 12 percent for the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

Hart won 33 delegates to the Democratic National Convention, to Mondale's 18 and 1 for Jackson. There are 252 delegates at stake in New York, nearly five times as many as in Connecticut.

Even so, Mondale continued to hold a wide lead in delegates overall — 692 to 422 for Hart and 76 for Jackson. It takes 1,967 to nominate.

In New York, a small sample poll of likely primary voters taken by ABC News and The Washington Post during three days ending Tuesday gave Mondale 43 percent to 33 percent for Hart. Jackson trailed with 15 percent, and 9 percent were undecided. There was a 6 percentage point margin of error.

Twisters dance across south

A wary eye was out today for possible tornadoes in Texas, Oklahoma and Georgia, where twisters Tuesday struck several areas with high winds, hail, and plenty of rain. Sandstorms and brush fires touched parts of Texas.

No one was injured as twisters touched down near Greenville and Kingston, Texas, and at Warm Springs, Ga. Winds gusted to 60 mph at Wichita Falls, Texas, and near Rayville Ga., and hail 2 inches in diameter fell in Bibb County, Ga.

The heavy thunderstorms triggered local flooding across southern Georgia and threatened northern Florida. A flash flood watch was posted for southeast Georgia and northeast Texas.

High wind and gale warnings were posted over southern Texas and along the Texas Gulf coast. Travelers advisories remained in effect for northeastern New Mexico because of blowing snow.

Rainfall measurements at 1 a.m. included 1 1/4 inches at Valdosta, Ga., and 1 inch at Jacksonville, Fla., while an inch of new snow whitened Bismarck, N.D., and Casper, Wyo.

Sandstorms hit western Texas Tuesday and snow fell in the Panhandle, while record-setting temperatures above 100 degrees baked south Texas.

Brush fires fueled by dry vegetation and winds gusting to 40 mph hit Kerrville, Texas, and destroyed six houses and a wildlife management center. There were no reports of injuries.

Today's forecast called for severe thunderstorms over parts of the Southeast as a major storm system dampened areas from the mid-Mississippi Valley to the mid- and southern Atlantic coast.

Rain was expected over the North Pacific coast with light snow widely scattered over the Dakotas. Gusty winds were expected to buffet the Plains.

High temperatures from the northern Rockies to the northern Atlantic states were pushing into the 30s and 40s. Highs in the Pacific Northwest and from the southern Rockies to the southern Atlantic coast were to be in the 50s and 60s. The inland Southwest, southern Texas, the Gulf coast and the Southeast were expected to hit the 70s and 80s.

Never cry bat over your kids

One needn't be a parent familiar with end-of-the-school-day stampedes and scout jamborees to sympathize with the plight of the poor Mexican free-tailed bat. In spring, the female of this species can find herself living in a cave in Texas with as many as 70 million other bat mothers and babies — some 40 million of the latter clinging to every 15 square inches of cave wall, and every one of them screaming in hunger by the time the mothers come back from work at dawn. Yet each bat mother is supposed to find in that horde her very own pup to nurse.

Human scientists, probably reflecting on their own difficulties at even a moderately full playground, have generally assumed that the task was impossible — that, in fact, bat babies were nursed communally by whichever females got to them first. But Dr. Gary F. McCracken of the University of Texas recently tested the hypothesis, by plucking nursing couples off the walls and taking samples of their genes. He found that only 17 percent of the females were nursing pups demonstrably not their own, and under the circumstances, he considers that success rate remarkable.

The next question is obvious: How do they do it? The studies aren't complete, but McCracken is working on the theory that each mother calls for her pup and listens for the distinctive sound of her own offspring's response. In the cacophony of 70 million mothers and babies all calling and responding at once, that doesn't seem to be quite enough of an explanation. Neither does McCracken's backup theory of a final sniff test.

Red sky at morning

I know why western artists always use earth tones for their paintings. They believe in realism.

Realism in West Texas means skies with the look of an infra-red photograph. Paintings that capture the real West Texas spirit use one base color, brown. Sometimes reds or yellows are added to shade the colors, but the earth and sky remain a variant of brown.

West Texans note the approach of gathering dust storms as people in other places look for thunderstorms. The only difference is that thunderstorms were welcome.

A line from T.S. Eliot keeps running through my mind, about the world dying, "not with a bang but a whimper." West Texas will go out in the Big Bang method, the world swirling around and disappearing in a cloud of sand.

By the same token, a creation scene keeps playing in my mind. I can imagine God looking at his handiwork and deciding they were incomplete. So he came to West Texas and said, "Let there be dust." And there still is.

The West Texas area also could have spawned the first surrealist painters. If they didn't come of age in this particular dust bowl, they must have been born in other deserts. Realism can be too gritty to face out here every spring.

When it's a good day outside, the sky and the land are just dusted with the neighbors' lawns. Now I know where the fashion designers got the color dusty rose — from the dust-encrusted plants on the next-door patio.

I remember why I get so happy when it rains and mists outside.

Rain, real rain, is so infrequent. In Phoenix, where I grew up, the drainage system was so terrible that when the rain finally came in burst of downpours, it was like sunshine is treated in the Northeast. People went home, and left work. Rainy days were holidays.

But if the wind blows too much, even the rain won't save you. The skies open up and pour mud.

If it weren't for the mudstorms, West Texans would never need to buy an umbrella.

Dust storms certainly heighten your sense of alienation. I looked at Margaret Bourke-White's photos of women during the 1930s depression in the Dust Bowl, and I cringe.

An example of the intensity of this isolation hit me with full force during a monster storm in Lubbock a few years ago. One spring break, I came back to my dorm room at Texas Tech early, only to find my friend, who had stayed there all week long, barricaded in her room.

She was watching film of the dust storm on the 6 p.m. news, and feeling scared. The winds were so strong they had blown out some of the windows in the Lubbock Airport terminal building, and they were shaking the dorm building.

The news footage, combined with the deluge of Texas Chainsaw Massacre commercials, made her feel like she was never going to see another person again. Once she realized there was another person in the building, she started to cry.

Now I know why West Texans put such stock on self-sufficiency.

Energy chief moonlights with market

WASHINGTON — A moonlighting Energy Department official has had close financial dealings with two companies that have received contracts from his office. DOE's inspector general has investigated the apparent conflict, but the official is still on the job.

William E. Richards is head of DOE's ocean energy division. It awards contracts to firms that study the technical and marketing aspects of drawing energy from the ocean.

Solar America Inc., an energy consulting firm, has won a $45,856 contract that was approved by Richards' office. Yet during the same period, Richards' own consulting firm was negotiating a contract with Solar America.

The Richards firm is Pegasus Trading Co. He is president, board chairman and majority stockholder.

Documents reviewed by my associate John Dillon show that Pegasus sold Solar America a concept for a remote-control, pilotless aircraft known as M2RDJS.

According to the September 1981 contract, Richards' firm was to be paid when Solar America landed a defense contract based on the device. Apparently the M2RDJS sold: A May 1982 invoice shows that Richards billed Solar America for $5,000.

The IG also investigated Richards' ownership of stock in Helionetics Inc., a California company specializing in laser development. About 70 percent of its business is with the government.

Richards bought his Helionetics stock at about the time his government office awarded the company a contract for $80,000 to design a laser defocusing system for ocean-energy generators. Though the Helionetics proposal called for the contract to expand to $600,000 by 1983, a company spokesman said the actual award was for one year only and $80,000.

Helionetics stock is a hot over-the-counter issue. Its price has climbed to around $20 a share since its first public offering in 1981. According to a stock purchase agreement obtained by my associate, Richards bought 5,000 shares of Helionetics in October 1982. He paid $1 a share.

The Helionetics stock is not listed in Richards' confidential financial disclosure statement — because the owner of record is Pegasus Trading Co., Richards' consulting firm.

Richards has refused to answer many of the questions I submitted to him, repeating only, "I have no conflicts whatsoever." A spokesman for the Energy Department's inspector general said the results of the Richards investigation had been sent to the general counsel's office "and back to management for corrective action."

Footnote: Richards isn't the only well-connected holder of Helionetics stock. Major stockholders and directors of the company include Adm. Thomas Hayward, former chief of naval operations; William Simon, former Treasury Secretary; and Edward Teller, the physicist known as "the father of the hydrogen bomb."

Teller has been a key Reagan administration adviser and a strong advocate of the president's "Star Wars" plan for a laser-based defense against incoming nuclear missiles. Helionetics is in the vanguard of laser research and already has contracts with the Navy and the Defense Advanced Research Products Agency to develop laser systems.

WHAT HUNGRY PEOPLE? Presidential counselor Edwin Meese's nomination as attorney general is in trouble on Capitol Hill. Some senators are concerned about his financial dealings with individuals who later landed influential government jobs.

They're also worried about Meese's rapid promotion in the Army Reserve — a story I broke last December. The Army's inspector general cleared Meese personally, but concluded that he had been "accorded special treatment."

Meese's insensitive remarks about hunger in America should bother the senators just as much. Meese apparently has a closed mind on the subject.

Meese stirred up a hornet's nest with his two widely publicized remarks on the hungry: that reports of hunger have not been substantiated and that people who stand in line at soup kitchens do so because they don't want to pay for food.

Since then, Meese has declined numerous invitations to visit soup kitchens — some only a few blocks from his office — and see for himself what goes on there. He evidently has made up his mind and doesn't want to be bothered with facts.

Earlier this month, Rep. Thomas Downey, D-N.Y., and the Ecumenical Christian Ministry sent Meese an invitation to visit a free breakfast program just four blocks from the White House.

U.S. scores victory in S. Africa

WASHINGTON — Southern African provides the most striking foreign policy gain so far achieved in the Reagan administration. For the recent accord between Mozambique and South Africa marks a historic step toward the safe dismantling of the most explosive racial powder keg in the world.

The U.S. played a modest role in that accord, and it is instructive to examine just how. For success came from containing this country's favorite diplomatic itches — preaching human rights and reviling Marxist regimes.

Two turnarounds entered into the treaty signed between Prime Minister P.W. Botha of South Africa and President Samora Machel of Mozambique. For six years South Africa, under Botha, has defended its racist practices by a bad neighbor policy. South African forces made savage attacks on the ground and by air deep into the territory of neighboring black states. The South Africans also sponsored native dissident movements which played on tribal divisions to the point of chaos in Mozambique, Angola, Zimbabwe and Lesotho.

Military elements inside the South African regime favored an indefinite dose of that harsh medicine. A slightly more moderate group under Foreign Minister Pik Botha argued in favor of striking deals with the neighboring black states. American diplomacy supported the approach of the foreign minister and helped persuade the prime minister to go for a negotiated settlement.

A main reason the U.S. enjoyed influence in Pretoria is that the Reagan administration ceased treating South Africa's grossly racist apartheid policy as a barrier to any dealings. The U.S. developed instead a policy of "constructive engagement." While outspokenly critical of apartheid, Assistant Secretary of State Chester Crocker indicated Washington wanted to help South Africa ease racial tensions. So this country had a hearing when it urged the Botha government to make terms with Mozambique.

An exactly contrary policy had to be turned around in Mozambique. Ever since the mid-'60s black regimes in Africa believed that the ending of white power throughout the continent was written in the stars. The "winds of change" and the "wave of the future," it was said, would slowly force the whites to get out. The point seemed proved in 1980 when white rule collapsed in Rhodesia and blacks took over what has become Zimbabwe.

So black regimes in Africa settled down to a long drawn-out struggle against the racist government of South Africa. Black leaders eschewed ties with Pretoria. They backed groups, notably the African National Congress, dedicated to the "liberation" of South Africa. Rather than accept help from states friendly to South Africa they turned to Russia and her allies. Thus President Machel fastened a Marxist regime on Mozambique. In Angola, the Marxist government came to rely on Cubans for protection against dissidents backed by South Africa.

These regimes were badly weakened by South Africa terror tactics and by internal dissidents. On top of that, the 1980-82 recession cut income from raw material exports, and drought made matters worse. Still, Marxist leaders were extremely loath to come to terms with South Africa. There again, U.S. diplomacy played a role in urging talks between the black states of the area and Pretoria.

But how come the U.S., having done business with Pretoria, carried weight with black leaders? The answer is that American diplomats, under the Reagan administration, did not act as though Marx was the pitch that defiled. They have dealt extensively with the regime in Angola. Similarly with Machel of Mozambique. Indeed, even after being nudged to the conference table with South Africa, Machel stuck to his Marxist guns. In signing the accord, he spoke anew of the "differences between our social, political and economic concepts."

The agreement between Mozambique and South Africa is basically a non-aggression pact. It provides that both countries keep peace on the frontier and refrain from supporting groups hostile to the other. It can thus be generalized to cover relations between South Africa and all its neighbors.

An indent for a similar deal has already been made — thanks very largely to American influence — between South Africa and Angola. A temporary cease-fire and disengagement are in effect with mixed teams supervising the agreement. If the accord sticks, Namibia, a territory illegally occupied by South Africa, would gain independence. Angola would invite the Cubans out. South Africa would restrain the Unitas movement of Angolan dissidents under Jonas Savimbi.

Even such an agreement is just another step along the way. The African time bomb will be defused only when a more humane regime is established in South Africa itself. But the steps along the way show the conditions for a constructive American role. This country can be helpful only when it ceases to force on others the human rights standards of the American left and the ideological preferences of the American rights.

The reason we all deserve to die

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Recently in one of your columns you said something about the fact that you believed everyone of us deserved to die just like Jesus did, on a cross. What do you mean by that? I can see that being true of a murderer or someone like that, but I don't understand how you can say that of everyone. — Mrs. A.P.

DEAR MRS. A.P.: On a human level we make a distinction between sins, because some things (such as murder) are obviously more destructive to lives and society than others. It is hard for us, therefore, to realize that — at least in some ways — God does not make this distinction. Sin is sin in God's eyes, and it only takes one sin to make us unfit for God's Kingdom. The Bible says, "For whoever keeps the whole law and yet stumbles at just one point is guilty of breaking all of it" (James 2:10).

Let me illustrate this. Suppose you were about to drink a glass of water that you thought was absolutely pure. But then you discovered that somehow a single germ of a dangerous disease — such as typhoid — had been put in the water. I doubt if you would risk drinking it, because you know it would take only one germ to make it impure and dangerous. This is not a perfect illustration, of course — but sin is a spiritual disease that contaminates us, even when we think we don't have very much of it.

But the thing you especially need to remember is that God is pure and holy. The Bible says about God, "Your eyes are too pure to look on evil; you cannot tolerate wrong" (Habakkuk 1:13). And because we have all sinned without exception, we are all subject to the judgment of God.

God, however, has done a wonderful thing for us. He sent his son, Jesus Christ, to die on the cross in our place. Yes — hard as it may be to face — we deserve to die for our sins — not just the ones we have committed, but the things we should have done that we failed to do. But Christ, the sinless son of God, took our place. He took the punishment that you and I deserve.

By faith you can reach out and accept God's gift of salvation by inviting Christ into your life. God loves you, and he will forgive you right now if you will trust Christ for your salvation.

Lowell and VonnaLee Davis are moving to San Angelo April 15. Lowell has for many years been the physical plant director at Howard College. Marilee Kemery of Marilee's Specialty Shop recently lost her lease when Classic Auto Sales bought the property. She has been in the process of locating new space to reopen. In the meantime she is continuing to take orders at home, 263-0875. She had to move several weeks earlier than originally planned. Asked to close just as all her Valentine special cookies and goodies arrived, she promptly donated the entire lot to patients at the Veterans Hospital.

On page 12 of the March 27, 1984 issue of Family Circle magazine is an article entitled "Reverends on Roof, Junior League in Attic". This is about Midland's "Christmas in April" annual day-long marathon to repair the homes of the elderly, the poor and the disabled. The article said: "Last year, the program's tenth, 119 homes were restored on a budget of $70,000."

Big Spring has its own "fix-up" helping program for senior citizen homeowners in conjunction with Private Property Week observance. Dorothea Jones of First Realty is coordinating this project for the Big Spring Realtors Association. Merchants have donated materials, and inmates from the federal prison will do the work on four senior citizens' homes.

The Realtors Association has been accepting nominations, and a drawing to determine the four lucky homeowners will be held Friday at the RSVP luncheon.

Chicken makes a good choice for nutrition and taste

Often the best price-per-serving buy at the meat counter, chicken is also the meat most food experts recommend highly because it provides quality protein with a minimum of calories. Best of all, almost everyone likes chicken and it can be prepared in countless different ways with herbs and spices enhancing the natural flavor without the addition of rich, heavy sauces.

Chicken is a good meat-stretcher too. One broiler-fryer, which normally serves four, can become a hearty treat for six or eight when combined with pasta or vegetables in a tasty casserole. Here are some recipes for chicken.

CHICKEN PIZZA

2 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved, boned, skinned and cut in 1-inch pieces
1 pkg. (8 rolls) refrigerated crescent rolls
¼ cup cooking oil
1 lg. onion, sliced into thin rings
1 lg. bell pepper, seeded and cut into thin rings
½ pound sliced fresh mushrooms
1 (10½ ounce) can pizza sauce with cheese
1 tsp. garlic sauce
1 tsp. oregano
¼ cup parmesan cheese
2 cups shredded mozzarella cheese

Unroll crescent dough into eight triangles. Into lightly oiled 12-inch pizza pan press dough, especially at perforations, to seal. In frypan place oil and heat to medium temperature. Add chicken, onion, bell pepper, mushrooms and olives and cook, stirring about five minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease.

TASTY DISH — Chicken mixed with beef, bacon and vegetables is not only a tasty dish, but also has nutritional value and often the best price-per-serving buy at the meat counter.

cheese on all. Top with mozzarella cheese. Bake, uncovered, in 425-degree oven 20 minutes or until crust is done. Cut into wedges to serve. Makes four servings.

EASY BRUNSWICK STEW

4 slices bacon
3 pounds chicken parts
8 ounces beef for stew, cut in ¾-inch cubes
1 can (16 ounce) whole

tomatoes, broken up
¼ cup instant minced onion
1 tsp. paprika
1 tsp. ground black pepper
1¼ cups water
2 cups peeled potatoes cut in 1-inch cubes
1 package (10 ounce) frozen lima beans, thawed
1 can (12 ounce) whole kernel corn, drained

In a large saucepot fry bacon until crisp. Remove and crumble; set aside. Add chicken to drippings in pan. Brown on all sides; remove. Add beef. Brown on all sides. Drain off drippings. Stir in tomatoes, minced onion, paprika, black pepper, water and reserved bacon. Bring to a boil.

Reduce heat and simmer covered until meat is partially cooked, about 30 minutes. Add chicken. Simmer covered until chicken and beef are barely tender, about 30 minutes. Add potatoes. Simmer covered until potatoes are almost tender, about 20 minutes. Stir in lima beans and corn. Cook until vegetables are tender, about two to three minutes. Makes six servings.

LOUISIANA CHICKEN CREOLE

3-pound broiler-fryer chicken, cut-up
3 Tbsps. vegetable oil
1 medium onion, coarsely chopped
1 medium green pepper, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 can (28 ounce) tomatoes, quartered
½ cup soy sauce
½ tsp. cayenne pepper
1 package (10 ounce) frozen okra, thawed and drained

Hot cooked rice
Brown chicken pieces on all sides in hot oil in large deep skillet or Dutch oven over medium heat; remove. Add onion, green pepper and garlic to same skillet and saute until onion is translucent.

Stir in tomatoes, soy sauce and cayenne; bring to boil. Arrange chicken pieces in sauce. Cover and simmer 50 minutes, turning chicken pieces over once. Stir in okra; cover and simmer for ten minutes longer or until okra is tender. Serve chicken and sauce over hot rice. Makes four to six servings.

CRISPY OVEN-FRIED CHICKEN

¾ cup enriched corn meal
1½ tps. dill
1 tsp. salt (optional)
½ tsp. onion powder
¼ tsp. garlic powder
¼ tsp. pepper
One 2½ to 3-pound broiler-fryer, cut-up
Water

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Grease 13 by 9-inch pan. Combine corn meal, dill, salt, onion and garlic powder, and pepper. Dip chicken into water; coat thoroughly with corn meal mixture. Place chicken, skin side down, in prepared pan.

Bake for 30 minutes. Turn chicken pieces over; continue baking for 30 minutes or until chicken is tender and golden brown. Makes four to six servings. Can be served cold.

SESAME CHICKEN

½ cup freshly squeezed lemon juice
¼ cup worcestershire sauce
2 Tbsps. water
½ tsp. salt
3-pound frying chicken, cut up
¾ cup dry bread crumbs
¼ cup sesame seed
¼ tsp. paprika
1 large egg, slightly beaten
¼ cup butter

In a shallow dish into the chicken will just fit, stir together the lemon juice, worcestershire sauce, water and salt. With fork tines, prick the chicken pieces on all sides; arrange in dish a single layer; let stand for one hour, turning pieces over after 30 minutes.

On a piece of wax paper, stir together the bread crumbs, sesame seed and paprika. Dip chicken pieces in the egg and then in bread crumb mixture. Melt the butter in a 13½ by 8½ by 1¾-inch baking dish in the oven. Roll chicken in the butter and arrange in the dish. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until tender or for one hour. Makes four to six servings.

SKILLET CHICKEN AND VEGETABLES

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts
2 Tbsps. vegetable oil
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. poultry seasoning
¼ cup water
2 cups carrots, sliced thin

1 can (16 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained
1 can (16 ounces) whole tomatoes, cut into quarters
1 whole bay leaf
12 green stuffed olives

In large frypan, place oil and heat to medium-high temperature. Add chicken and cook about ten minutes, turning to brown on all sides. Drain off oil; sprinkle chicken with salt, poultry seasoning and pepper. Add water to frypan, then carrots and bay leaf. Add tomatoes and bay leaf. Cover, reduce heat to low and cook for about 30 minutes more or until carrots are tender and fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Garnish with slices of green stuffed olives. Makes eight servings.

OVEN-BAKED ROSEMARY CHICKEN

24 broiler-fryer chicken parts
1 large onion, sliced and separated into rings
2 green peppers, cut into 1-inch strips
2 ribs celery, sliced diagonally
2 tps. salt
½ tsp. pepper
6 Tbsps. margarine
1 cup catsup
½ cup vinegar
1 tsp. rosemary, crushed
½ tsp. dry mustard
1 chicken bouillon cube

In large baking pan, arrange chicken in single layer, skin side down. Place onion rings, pepper strips and celery over chicken; sprinkle with salt and pepper. In small saucepan over low heat; melt margarine. Add catsup, vinegar, rosemary and mustard; bring to a boil. Add bouillon cube and stir until dissolved.

Spoon mixture over chicken and vegetables. Cover and refrigerate at least four hours or overnight. About one hour before serving time, place in 400 degree oven. Cook 30 minutes; turn, basting generously and cook for 30 minutes more or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Makes 12 servings.

PICKLED CHINESE CHICKEN MARINADE

1 whole broiler-fryer chicken
2 cups water
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
3 ribs celery, divided
1 can (16 ounce) bean sprouts, drained
1 can (8½ ounce) small English peas, drained
1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms, stems and pieces, drained
1 can (8½ ounce) sliced water chestnuts, drained
1 onion, chopped
¾ cup vinegar
4 Tbsps. sugar
1 tsp. tarragon leaves
1 Tbsp. cooking oil

In deep saucepan, place chicken. Add water, one rib of celery, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Remove chicken from pan and cool in refrigerator.

When cool, separate meat from bones; discard bones, skin and cook celery. Cut chicken into bite-size pieces. Chop remaining two ribs of celery. In large shallow dish place chicken, bean sprouts, English peas, mushrooms, water chestnuts, onion and celery; set aside.

In small saucepan, make marinade by mixing together vinegar, sugar, tarragon leaves and oil; heat, stirring constantly, for two to three minutes or until sugar is completely dissolved; cool. Pour marinade over chicken mixture and toss lightly. Cover and chill in refrigerator several hours or overnight. Makes six servings.

Tips help in finding proper diet

Editor's Note: This article is the third in a three-part series presented by local dietitians in observance of National Nutrition Month — March 1984.

by CAROLE CASWELL

Like mini-skirts, disco and toga parties, diet fads come and go. Just when some people are about to give up on the current craze, another one comes along that they think might work. Some are appealing because they promise quick and easy weight loss. But unless the diet is balanced nutritionally — as many of them aren't — it could be harmful if followed over a long period of time.

Be leery of diets that promise quick results, especially those that encourage eating little or no food. Fasting breaks down muscle as well as fat. This puts a big strain on the body systems, especially the liver and kidneys. Weakness, faintness, headaches and nausea can result. Don't try fasting unless your doctor recommends and supervises a program for you.

Some popular diets emphasize one type of food to the exclusion of others, or promise miraculous results with a particular food. Before you try a reducing diet you've read or heard about, be sure it is nutritionally sound. Here are some ways to evaluate a diet. First, carefully read the specific diet plan. Then, ask yourself the following questions.

Are there fewer calories in the weight loss diet than in foods you normally eat? (Remember you can only lose weight by reducing your caloric intake below energy output.)

Does the plan include a variety of foods from these groups: fruit/vegetable, bread/cereal, milk/cheese, and meat/poultry/fish/dry beans? It is important to have foods from each of these groups in your diet everyday.

Is it made up of appealing food that you will enjoy eating, not just for several weeks or months, but for the rest of your life? Remember that weight control is a life-long process.

Are the foods available at the grocery store where you usually shop? If products are not easily obtainable, you may end up losing interest in the diet. Unusual foods are sometimes available only at specialty stores and often cost more than regular foods.

Does it allow you to eat some of your favorite foods occasionally? On a sensible diet program, there is room for a dessert in a small amount once in awhile.

Does the diet recommend changes in your eating habits that also fit your lifestyle and pocketbook?

If you answer "yes" to all of these questions, you have probably found a program that is right for you. But if you are still not sure the diet you want to try is adequate, check with your doctor, registered dietitian, or Extension/Health Department nutritionist.

Exercise does more than burn calories

Exercise is something some people say they don't need because they're not overweight. Others say they're too old to start.

But no matter what size or how old your body is, the cosmetic value of exercise is only one of the benefits say the American Dietetic Association (ADA). More and more studies are suggesting that regular exercise may prevent some diseases, reduce high blood pressure and relieve tension.

March is National Nutrition Time and in this Olympic year, the ADA urges all Americans to make use of dormant muscles during its 12th annual campaign for improved nutrition.

Exercise requirements vary from individual to individual and programs should be designed to fit specific needs. But exercise is only part of the program since more and more research indicates that moderate consumption of fats, cholesterol, sodium, alcohol and high calorie sweets also may reduce the risk of heart disease.

Combining regular exercise with a well-balanced diet can make one feel more healthy and fit, says ADA, which is calling on idle Americans to catch the Olympic fever by starting a fitness program. Those who don't appear to have an ounce of fat on their bodies may not be "in shape" at all if their main activity is walking from the car to the office. But even if you're slim and you don't want to burn lots of calories, some calisthenics are designed to firm up muscles and smooth out curves.

Activities such as tennis, swimming or bicycling work the heart muscle and may prevent coronary arteries from becoming clogged. With a regular program, you also may find that you're more alert and productive during the day and sleeping better at night.

For people whose lifestyles have slowed down, daily, vigorous exercise isn't necessary. In fact, it's not even desirable, ADA says. Just increasing activity may prevent cardiovascular problems for people who think they're past the age of health spas, leotards and leg warmers.

Use the stairs instead of the elevator, walk to the corner drugstore instead of driving, or take a short walk at lunchtime, suggests ADA. If you park at the far end of parking lot rather than near the door or get off the bus one stop early and walk the rest of the way, you're using energy that adds up in the long run even though it may not seem like a lot.

Dear Abby

Girl looking for love needs maturity

DEAR ABBY: I'm a girl of 14. I always knew I'd wind up writing to you sooner or later, but I was betting on later.

Five months ago while on vacation, I met this guy I'll call Scott and we fell in love. You'll probably say that I'm too young to know what love is. Well, you're wrong! It happened real fast. Just 3½ hours after we met we were making love. I never dreamed of going that far, but I couldn't help myself. He's 16. Three days later he told me it was all over between us.

After that, I started doing all kinds of crazy things like drinking, smoking, stealing and even doing drugs. Then I met this guy I'll call Kevin. He's everything I want, but I'm scared the same thing will happen with him that happened with Scott.

My parents are very old-fashioned. They won't let me have Kevin over to the house and they won't let me go to the mall to see him. I know I'm capable of handling myself, but my parents don't think so. How can I convince them that I am really more grown up than they think? They would kill me if they knew I had already experienced love.

Please, Abby, help me prove to my parents that I am mature and responsible. Sign me.

GROWN UP AT 14

DEAR GROWN UP: You can prove to your parents that you are mature and responsible by acting that way. So far, you have proven that you are not. Having experienced "love" (in your case it would be more accurately described as "sex") does not make you mature. Mature people make responsible choices and have no need to sneak and lie.

Your parents love you and don't want to see you hurt. They are your friends, not your enemies.

Get back on the right track fast before you end up in serious trouble.

DEAR ABBY: I know how "Proud Mama (and Grandma, Too)" feels. I had one in college and one in diapers at the same time. When strangers learn the baby I'm holding is not my grandchild but my child, they say, "I don't know how you can stand it. I'm glad she's yours and not mine."
I smile and say, "That's why God gave her to me and not to you."

***
(If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Dr. Donohue Burning mouth

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I would like to know what causes severe burning of the mouth and tongue. This condition is so intense that it keeps me awake at night. Many thanks. — Mrs. H.S.

There are lots of sore tongue complaints around. But it isn't surprising because there are many causes. Tingling, burning, etc. of the tongue gets a medical name — glossodynia. It's a mysterious sounding condition, the cause of which remains equally mysterious for many who suffer from it. All I can do, then, is give you a kind of smorgasbord of known causes.

Burning tongue is common in women after the menopause, but the reason for the association is not known. In only about 25 percent of cases can a true cause be pinned down. I can give you some examples. Lack of vitamin B (pellagra) can lead to it. However, there are other non-tongue signs and symptoms of such a vitamin deficiency. Pernicious anemia and iron deficiency are two other sore-tongue ailments. Again, there are other symptoms too. A viral infection may cause the tongue burning, as can diabetes.

Less esoteric causes include excessive use of gargles and mouthwashes and cigarette smoking. Sometimes diminished saliva production can bring on the tongue disturbance.

For the 75 percent of "cause-unknown" burning tongue complaints, the best that can be offered is an assurance that the person's general health is good and that he is not suffering from cancer, which I know is what lurks in the back of the mind of the glossodynia patient, or for that matter in the consciousness of any person with an inexplicable symptom.

What can vitamins really do for you — and what can't they do? In his new booklet, Dr. Paul Donohue separates the common sense from the nonsense about this controversial health aid. For your copy of "Vitamins: Facts You Need to Know", send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Employment questions anger women

DALLAS (AP) — Some female county workers contend that some questions they are asked by county officials on employment forms are "none of their business."

The mandatory physical examination form includes questions about abortions, menopause and miscarriages, and some workers think it is an unnecessary invasion of their privacy.

The form, which the county says is the standard questionnaire it has used for at least six years, includes a series of eight questions directed only at women applicants, including, "Number of abortions of miscarriages, if any? (dates and causes);" and "Date of menopause, if passed."

"None of those questions is job-related," one county worker who asked not to be identified told the Dallas Morning News. "There's never been a time when an abortion has affected someone's job performance. And it's none of their business."

The physical is performed by doctors who work at the county health department and is mandatory for anyone offered a county job.

"A spontaneous abortion or miscarriage is a factor in a woman's health," said Dr. Gordon Green, a county health officer. "I think you'd find those questions on any form for a complete physical examination."

Green said potential employees are not penalized for their answers or for declining to answer the questions.

But one county employee told the News that some women "would be fearful that they wouldn't get the job if they didn't answer it, and fearful that they might lose their job because of societal pressures if they answer truthfully."

Chance at NIT honors erases team's bad days

NEW YORK (AP) — The last time Michigan and Notre Dame met on a basketball court as the final game of the 1981-82 season and the two teams, between them, had 16 victories.

They meet again tonight in the championship game of the 47th National Invitation Tournament with a combined total of 43 victories and the memories of losing seasons far away.

"Michigan and Notre Dame are two schools that represent a tremendous amount of tradition, a tremendous amount of success in all their athletic programs," Michigan Coach Bill Frieder said. "To see where we came from, both of us, has been a step in the right direction for both us."

They last met in the Silverdome in Pontiac, Mich. on March 7, 1982 and Notre Dame prevailed 53-52. Irish Coach Digger Phelps felt it was more survival.

"We were 9-17 and Michigan was 7-19 and would you believe 14,000 dummies showed up to watch the game," Phelps said. "We were throwing the ball all around, they were throwing the ball around. We won because they missed a last-second shot. Yet, here we are playing for the NIT championship."

The strides have been lengthened with the addition of some talented underclassmen to each roster.

Sophomore center Roy Tarpley led the Wolverines, 22-10, to their 78-75 semifinal victory over Virginia Tech with 23 points, including the decisive free throws with 45 seconds remaining in the game. Freshman guard Antoine Joubert added 17 points and was credited, along with junior guard Eric Turner, by Frieder with turning Monday night's game around.

"We struggled in the first half defensively," Frieder said of the 44-40 deficit he faced at halftime. "We usually play better than that. Turner did a good job on (Dell) Curry for six, eight minutes in the second half and then Joubert had to push him out the rest of the night."

Curry scored 16 of his game-high 24 points in the first half for Virginia Tech and stopping him, along with a 41-25 rebounding edge, moved the Wolverines into the final.

Notre Dame, 21-11, was led by its only senior, forward Tom Sluby who scored 26 points in the 65-59 semifinal victory over Southwestern Louisiana.

"Both teams are very, very young teams, with the exception of Sluby for us," Phelps said. "It just give you confidence, postseason play. The teams that have come here have obviously done well the following year in college basketball. It's obvious we'll both be ranked preseason next year because of the young teams we have and the recruiting we've done."

Madison Square Garden is a long way from the Silverdome and for Michigan and Notre Dame, their last meeting must seem far, far away.

EASTMAN AWARD WINNER — Michael Jordan, All-American guard from North Carolina, was named the winner of the Eastman award as the nation's top male collegiate basketball player.

Jordan voted tops in college

NEW YORK (AP) — The disappointment still was in Michael Jordan's voice when he talked of North Carolina not being part of the NCAA basketball tournament's Final Four this weekend.

"I would give up all these awards to be in Seattle," Jordan said Tuesday after receiving the 1984 Eastman Award as the nation's best college basketball player, an honor voted by the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Jordan knows what it will be like Saturday in the tournament semifinals and then next Monday night in the title game.

As a freshman, he scored the winning basket with 15 seconds to play to give North Carolina a victory over Georgetown and the 1982 national championship.

"It's a memory you always have," he said of capturing the title, though he insisted he didn't remember much of his winning basket. "Even if you never reach that goal again, you at least accomplished it one time and a lot of people will never accomplish it in their four years at school."

There was another memory, a bitter one, still fresh in Jordan's mind — the scene in the lockerroom after North Carolina had been eliminated from this year's tournament by Indiana.

"It was a very disappointing moment," he said. "We all were very down because we had set our goals high, and right then was the end of our goals." He remembered the silence of the scene. "We really had nothing to say. It was just hurtin' so bad."

That bitter moment is history, and Jordan is looking forward to trying out for the U.S. Olympic team and to North Carolina going for the title again next year.

"We should be in a good position to do all we did this year, and maybe even better," he said of the team that was No. 1 through virtually the entire season.

Was that an indication that Jordan would be back at school and not in the National Basketball Association? "Right now, I'm remaining for my four years," he said. "I haven't really considered professional basketball at all."

4-5A golf aimed at Big Spring

Both Big Spring High School teams will be trying to make up some ground when the city hosts both the girl's and boy's third round of the District 4-AAAAA golf tournament that begins Thursday, Mar. 29 with girl's action and concludes Friday, Mar. 30 with the boys hitting the links.

The Lady Steers are currently third after two rounds played at San Angelo and Midland while the boys are in 14th after tackling courses at San Angelo and Abilene. Thursday's action marks the final stop on the 4-AAAAA tour for the fem-linksters.

Action begins both days at 9 a.m. The girls will be playing the Comanche Trails course while the Steers will try the Big Spring Country Club fairways.

The Lady Steers have a two round total of 910 to lead fourth place Midland Lee by 20 strokes. Leading the chase are Midland High with 746 and San Angelo at 747.

The BSH team of Pam Martinez, Margia Garcia,

Maureen Mitchell, Michell Cox, Karen Brodie, Kristi Belew and Melissa Garner is pacby Martinez, the team's only senior. Martinez is tied for 12th i medalist competition with Midland High's Pam Emerson. Both hold 215 total. Garcia is only three shots off that pace at 218.

Midland High has the top three players in the medals race with Darla Smith heading the trio at 175.

San Angelo players hold down the fifth through ninth positions.

The Big Spring High School boy's golf team stands in 14th place going into Friday's fourth round of the six played at the various locations in District 4-AAAAA.

The Steers slipped 19 strokes off their first round 366 when they carded a 347 at Abilene last week. Despite the improvement, the Steers two round total of 713 is good only in front of the Odessa 'B' team's 872. Big Spring does have possibilities of catching 11th place Odessa's 'A' team 703 and making up strokes on the Permian 'B' bunch at 705 and the Abilene 'B' team's 708.

Cooper leads the boy's race despite blowing up to a 311 after a first leg of 295, but the Cougars' total of 606 is still 15 strokes better than the second place Cooper 'B' team.

PAM MARTINEZ is the leading golfer for the Big Spring Lady Steers. She enters Thursday's third and final leg of the 4-AAAAA girl's tournament tied for 12th place in the medalist division.

Release ends comeback for former Astros' star

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — The Houston Astros have released pitcher J.R. Richard, whose once-feared fastball was effectively defused almost four years ago by a life-threatening stroke.

Astros Board Chairman John McMullen announced the team's decision Tuesday, leaving Richard to accept a "career opportunity" from McMullen or to follow his earlier desires to become a minister.

Richard left the Astros training facility here Tuesday shortly after his release was made public.

The former league-leading strikeout artist signed a Class AAA make-good contract with the Astros this season in one final attempt to complete an amazing comeback from a near-fatal stroke suffered July 30, 1980 during a workout in the Astrodome.

The announcement ended a spectacular pitching career with the Astros that spanned nine seasons. Richard, 34, had back-to-back 300-plus strikeout season in 1978 and 1979 and was named to the National League All-Star team in 1980.

Richard underwent surgery to remove a blood clot from his neck in 1980 and later had further surgery to remove a blockage in an artery in his shoulder.

Richard later filed suit against doctors who treated his case and his suit is still pending.

When he arrived at spring training this year, Richard said he planned not only to go through with the suit but to win it.

"I don't think they gave the physicals right," he said last month. "I don't think they did anything right. What happened to me shouldn't have happened and it could have happened to anyone."

Richard compiled a career 107-71 record and 3.14 earned run average over nine major league seasons and last pitched competitively at Tucson late last season, compiling an 0-2 record and 13.68 ERA in six starting assignments.

Control of his pitches and slow reflexes were Richard's major problems in attempting a comeback.

"We don't want J.R. to get hurt and we don't want him to hurt anybody," General Manager Al Rosen told the Houston Post. McMullen said the decision on Richard had been made after several days of discussions with Richard and his agent, Tom Reich.

"It is now felt in J.R.'s best interests that he pursue a career other than baseball," McMullen said. "Tom has been very involved in the decision-making process regarding J.R. throughout the years and has done an exemplary job in helping this man through some extremely difficult times."

Hagler feels smart about title contest

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Marvelous Marvin Hagler says he'll stop Argentina's Juan Domingo Roldan because eight title defenses have made him a smarter fighter than Roldan.

And Hagler, who puts his undisputed middleweight title on the line Friday against Roldan, says his decision win over Roberto Duran in his last championship defense earned him a graduate degree.

"Beating Duran was like getting my PhD," said Hagler. "Against Roldan I'll prove that brains beat brawn every time."

Roldan, who has 34 knockouts while piling up a 50-2-2 record, vaulted into contention for Hagler's undisputed middleweight crown by knocking out then top-ranked Frank "The Animal" Fletcher last November on the Hagler-Duran undercard.

But, despite his ability to throw a punch, the Argentine fighter is not known for his boxing skills and Hagler says he'll take full advantage of that fact.

"I'm no Animal Fletcher," Hagler said. "The first mistake he makes and I can put his lights out."

The champion says he has seen little of Roldan and doesn't want to see any more because "the less I watch the less I have to worry about."

But Hagler said he never underestimates an opponent, especially one who can punch as hard as Roldan.

"I have to be very alert because his style of punches come from everywhere," he said. "I haven't been taking this guy lightly. I'm ready to rip his head off."

The 29-year-old Hagler earned $4 million for his fight against Duran, his biggest payday as a professional fighter. He'll receive $1.25 million to fight Roldan in a World Boxing Association mandatory defense.

"The Duran fight really helped me a lot," said Hagler. "It showed the people what I'm made of. It put me on a new status. I also feel I've gone to school since the Duran fight and I hope to show how much I've improved since then." Up ahead are possible big-money fights against Sugar Ray Leonard and Thomas Hearns — fights that Hagler has longed for and fights he says would cap his career.

But first comes Roldan, then a mandatory World Boxing Council defense against Mustafa Hamsho during the summer.

"I'm just taking it a year at a time," said Hagler. "You can't look too far ahead in this game."

IN TRAINING — Argentina's Juan Roldan (left) does situps and appears to be looking over his shoulder at Marvin Hagler as to go through workouts in preparation for Friday's middleweight title fight in Las Vegas. The defense will be Hagler's ninth such.

His feat was witnessed by Steers' golfers Ronnie Martinez, Jamie Hernandez and Jeff Reed.

TPC field will face 'new look' course

PONTE VEDRA, Fla. (AP) — Golf's premier performers, 144 strong, will face a subtly revamped course this week in the 11th Tournament Players Championship.

After severe criticism from some players last year — Tom Weiskopf said it was "like playing Donkey Kong" — an advisory committee of touring pros was formed to suggest revisions to the Players Club. Following the suggestions of Jack Nicklaus, Jim Colbert, Hale Irwin, Ben Crenshaw and Ed Sneed, four greens were rebuilt, six more were changed and waste bunkers on several holes were made more severe.

In general, the changes involve a smoothing out of the greens, a lessening of the severity of the mounds and swales and undulations on the putting surfaces that served as the focal point of criticism for the two previous years the TPC had been played at what is now its permanent site.

"In effect, we've heightened the predictability of a shot to the green," Crenshaw said before a practice round over the stadium-golf facility that was inundated by heavy rains which washed out Tuesday's scheduled pro-am.

The course was closed — the area later was placed under a tornado watch — and practice sessions restricted to today.

The tournament, which begins Thursday, is the annual championship of golf's touring pros. The event, ambitiously seeking a position among the game's greatest events, offers total prizes of $800,000. That includes $144,000 to the winner, the largest purse in this country.

The field, probably the strongest that will be assembled this season, is composed of all of the game's current leaders.

Chief among them is Hal Sutton, the defending champion who used this title last year — and the big prize — as a springboard to Player of the Year honors and his acquisition of the 1983 leading money-winning honors.

Gary Koch, the only two-time winner this season, Nicklaus and Johnny Miller, both of whom have played well without winning this year, also rank high among the list of potential contenders.

So do Crenshaw and Wayne Levi, both of whom have played well in recent weeks, and Tom Watson, trying to work his way out of lengthy slump.

Other major figures include U.S. Open champ Larry Nelson, Lee Trevino, Jerry Pate, Cal Peete, Lanny Wadkins, Ray Floyd, Irwin, Craig Stadler and Andy Bean, along with 1984 tournament winners Tom Purtzer, Tom Kite, Jack Renner, John Mahaffey, Bob Eastwood and David Edwards.

The foreign contingent is headed by Masters champion Seve Ballesteros of Spain and includes Gary Player of South Africa, Isao Aoki and Tommy Nakajima of Japan, Greg Norman and David Graham of Australia.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by CBS.

Hoyas hope to outquik 'Cats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Georgetown, on its way to the second Final Four appearance in three years, will find itself in a rare position against Kentucky on Saturday — looking up at a bigger opponent.

But the Hoyas say the quickness that helped them set records for defense this season should be more than a match for the "Twin Towers" of Kentucky. "Pressure (defense) has to be more of a factor for us now," said Georgetown Coach John Thompson. Georgetown earned the trip to Seattle by beating Dayton 61-49 Sunday, and that was the most points the Hoyas have allowed in the postseason tournament.

"It won't be me against (7-1 Sam) Bowie or (6-11 Mel) Turpin," said 7-foot All-American center Patrick Ewing, named the top player in the West Regional. "It will be Georgetown against Kentucky. It will be team defense. That's the way we'll be looking at it." Senior guard Gene Smith says the Hoyas aren't going to let Bowie and Turpin stop their march to a title. "Our three objectives this year were to win the Big East Conference, to win the Big East tournament and the national championship," he said. "Two of those we accomplished, and the third is still our objective. Guards will be a major factor, but defense will be the major factor. Who can stop whom?" he said.

Smith will have the task of guarding Dickie Beal, the speedy guard who has paced the Wildcats since moving into the starting lineup a little more than 10 games ago. "He's probably one of the quickest guards in college basketball," said Smith. Georgetown players stayed on the West Coast, where they have been since traveling to the regionals two weeks ago. A team spokesman said the players would go to the Seattle area without returning to the Georgetown campus before Saturday's semifinal. In Los Angeles, Thompson began preparing a strategy to offset the Kentucky inside strength. "They're awesome," he said. "Turpin is the best of offensive center I've seen. Bowie passes the ball extremely well ... and they've got a great supporting cast."

Georgetown's win over Dayton did little to change the Hoyas' reputation as an overaggressive team, however.

Hawks, Queens to be honored

The Region V Tournament semi-finalists Howard College Hawks and Hawk Queens will be honored with a "Hawk Appreciation Day" from Big Spring Merchants at noon Thursday, Mar. 29 in front of the HC Student Union Building.

The Hawks will be honored and presented with certificates of appreciation for bringing the men's Western Junior College Athletic Conference championship to the school for the first time in 10 years. The Hawks compiled a 28-4 record including a 16-2 WJAC mark in a conference race they led from start to finish.

The Hawks' season ended one game short of a trip to the recent National Junior College Tournament when Western Texas edged Howard, 56-55 in the semis of the men's tourney.

Highlighting the ceremonies for the men will be recognition of WJAC most valuable player Jerry Stroman and Region V All-Tournament performers James Johnson and Anthony Snooks.

The Queens capped a 24-9 season with a trip to the semis of their regional tourney and a third place finish in the WJAC women's race. Along the way the Queens ripped off a 10 game win streak that included nine straight in conference when they stood 1-4 at one point.

Also on the program will be honors for Howard County high school all-district performers in basketball. Expected to attend will be all-stars from Big Spring and Coahoma High School.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 29, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A daytime activity to reduce your over-all aims and ambitions is good, but it can lead to an upset in the evening when it is necessary that you hold tight to accepted standards.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Gain the favor of a bigwig during the day for some ambitious plan you have in mind, but don't think there is something wrong in P.M. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try a new tact, and gain some personal aim, but carry through once you have made up your mind; don't dilly dally.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study your worldly goals, and make them work like a charm, and don't permit a negative thinking person to dissuade you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Look to a powerful friend to help you with some new interests that could prove lucrative. Think more constructively.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Make the right decision about some future course with one you want as an associate, but put everything down in black and white.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Know what a partner expects of you, both financially and in work matters. Avoid a family tie who is opposed to new interests.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get your home in better condition, and be happier in it. Start using your own head instead of listening to others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to contact a co-worker if you want to have some pleasure you desire. Be clever and you succeed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have a chance to talk with kin about finances, so don't procrastinate any longer.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have a problem in the business world that a good partner can help you to solve. Be happy in the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't permit an inquisitive friend to butt in on a talk you are having with a bigwig who can be of assistance in the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Look for suggestions from a good pal regarding some modern idea you have, and you can handle it successfully.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will be one who can comprehend anything of a cultural or artistic nature so give as fine an education as you can, and add business courses to the curriculum in order to become more successful during the life-time.

Stress can break your heart

DALLAS (AP) — Stress can break some people's hearts.

Stress is also responsible for at least half of the heart disease that occurs, according to a Phoenix cardiologist addressing heart specialists at a meeting of the American College of Cardiology.

To dramatize his report that stress can precipitate heart disease and is a major factor in 1,200 sudden deaths each year in America, Robert S. Eliot persuaded doctors into a booth at the Dallas Convention Center, where they were given the chance to sit in an easy chair and play "Breakout," a video game.

Most of the physicians appeared calm Monday as they played. But after 15 minutes, blood pressure cuffs around their arms showed that one in five of the doctors had reacted to the stress of playing the game as if they were "fighting a saber-toothed tiger."

They are what Eliot calls "hot reactors" — people whose bodies react strongly to stress and thus are more susceptible to heart disease.

Eliot reported that his study of more than 4,000 men and women has shown that stress can cause death from heart disease just as much as obesity, a high-cholesterol diet, high blood pressure or diabetes.

"Hot reactors burn a dollar's worth of energy for a dime's worth of trouble," Eliot told his colleagues. "These are people who are driving 75 miles an hour with the brakes on. Their engines are burning up."

This reaction to stress, he said, can cause blood pressure to rise sharply, increase the heart rate and constrict blood vessels, making them more resistant to the flow of blood.

"Cholesterol is important, but it can be raised as much by stress as by diet," he said. "You can't get your cholesterol down until the person gets control over their lives."

Eliot said his interest in the effects of stress on the heart was sparked by the discovery of a high incidence of heart attacks and sudden death in men working on the space program in Cape Canaveral, Fla., during the 1960s.

"Men from 28 to 35 years of age were experiencing sudden deaths well above the national average," he said. "They weren't being poisoned and the usual risk factors prompting heart attack weren't occurring."

What the researcher found was the men were working in a stressful, frenzied atmosphere, and their stress was exacerbated because 15 percent of them were dismissed because of budget cuts.

A "hot reactor," he said, can improve his or her health by dieting, exercising, counseling or other methods to control stress.

"We are a product of what we live and the way we perceive life," he said. "They need to decide what is punching their button and decide whether it's worth dying for. They can't change the world, but they can change the way they perceive it."

TCU's Asia Business Seminar, developed by the university's M.J. Neeley School of Business, provides class credit for study of the Asian impact on the American investor, industrialist and consumer.

The July 12-Aug. 3, schedule divides studies about evenly between Hong Kong and Tokyo and includes a one-day industrial tour of the People's Republic of China. Upper-division and graduate students will concentrate on practices of finance, marketing and management, and they will visit companies such as IBM Corp., Mitsubishi and Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co.

TCU has a summer program in Germany but this is its first in Asia. No more than 20 students will be allowed to enroll.

Misconceptions about epilepsy corrected

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the misconceptions about epilepsy is that it is a disease, according to the Epilepsy Institute.

In fact, epilepsy is a condition of disturbed electrical activity in the brain. The most common cause of epilepsy is a head injury which damages the brain. Each year, 540,000 Americans suffer head injuries and some 20,000 of them will develop persistent epileptic seizures as a result, the institute says.

Four groups offer shooting sports programs

Time was, almost every youngster had an opportunity to learn to shoot. Hunting was an important part of everyday life, so good marksmanship was a necessity.

Supermarkets have replaced subsistence hunting for the most part, and there aren't as many wide open spaces as there used to be, but there are still plenty of opportunities for young people to learn good marksmanship and safe gun handling skills.

One program which has introduced millions of young people to the shooting sports is the Daisy-Jaycee Shooting Education Program. The Daisy-Jaycee program focuses on education, safety, enjoyment and competition. It's a successful formula. Over the past 17 years, more than 10 million youngsters ages eight to 14 have participated in the program.

More information on the Daisy-Jaycee program can be obtained from Tom Louks, Daisy, Box 220, Rogers, AR., 72756 or the U.S.

Jaycees, P.O. Box 7 Tulsa, OK., 74121.

NRA program
The National Rifle Association offers a comprehensive shooting program through its 2,000 junior clubs. Nearly all the clubs have access to shooting range facilities, and more than 50 percent offer competition as part of their program.

In addition, the NRA sponsors a Junior Olympic Shooting program with events for beginning, intermediate and advanced level shooters. More information about these and other NRA programs for young shooters is available from the Junior Programs Coordinator, NRA, 1600 Rhode Island Ave., Washington, D.C., 20036.

4-H also involved
The 4-H is another organization that offers a shooting program for young people. The program focuses on shooting sports education and safety and includes hunter safety education, trap and skeet, small bore rifle, silhouette shooting, black powder shooting and archery. Competition is also a part of the 4-H program. More information on the 4-H shooting program can be obtained from Lanny Bullard, State 4-H office, 218 Special Services Bldg., Texas A/M University, College Station, TX., 77843.

Boy Scouts of America
Through their summer camps and the Rifle and Shotgun Shooting Merit Badge, the Boy Scouts offer excellent opportunities for young people to learn about the shooting sports. About 70 percent of scout camps have facilities for 22 rifle and shotgun shooting. Some are also equipped for black powder shooting. Information on Boy Scout programs is available from the local Boy Scout Council office listed in the white pages of the telephone directory.

Greyhound bus gets a new paint job at Pat Gray Body Works.

Pat Gray Body Works Can Paint Anything on Wheels

When Pat Gray Body Works says it has the equipment, facilities and expertise to paint anything on wheels, you can believe it. The shop has just finished giving a Greyhound bus a new paint job. The bus, plus other vehicles ready to be painted, was easily accommodated in Pat Gray's large building at 700 N. Owens. The shop also paints cars, trucks, boats, motor homes — or anything else on wheels.

Matching your vehicle's factory paint color is an increasing problem, given all the new colors of domestic cars, plus the colors of imported cars.

Pat Gray Body Works has solved this problem with custom mixing in their own shop. They stock a complete line of lacquer and enamel tinting colors and each job is custom-mixed and matched twice for a perfect match. Another new problem for refinishers is the clear-coat system. Over 50% of new imported cars and 20% of new domestic cars are finished in base color with a clear top coat. Pat Gray uses a newly developed system that gives a virtually flawless match to these jobs. Pat Gray's shop is also well-known for its expert frame, suspension repair, front end alignment and body work. Look to Pat Gray for your next repair and paint job — even if it's your bus.

Coleman Machine Adds To Its Staff

Coleman Machine & Supply has expanded its staff, adding another machinist, in order to serve its customers better. The firm recently increased their shop capabilities to handle rebuilding of larger engines.

Coleman Machine can now accommodate tractors, dirt equipment and diesel engines, such as Detroit, Mac, Cummins and Caterpillar. All engines are test-run on Dynamometer before installation to assure performance. Coleman has developed an extensive inventory of parts and supplies — spark plugs, fluids, generators, alternators, brake shoes, and many other parts for cars, trucks and heavy equipment. And if they don't have it, they can get it for you.

Coleman Machines & Supply, located at 415 East Third Street is among the most experienced machine shops in the area. For over 30 years they've been the specialists in speed equipment, engine rebuilding, crank and cylinder repair. For customer convenience, they have added a new rotary phone number 267-2574; their old number 267-8122 is still in service.
