GALLIANO, La. (AP) — In some parts of the country, people pay good money to get away from winter snow. Down here on the bayou, they pay just to see it.

The South Lafourche Chamber of Commerce is paying $4,600 to have more than 36 tons of artificial snow brought into this southern Louisiana town, where people have a hard time remembering the last time it snowed.

"It snowed here last year," said Larry Weidel, the chamber's president. "No, three years ago.'

Well, whatever. Anyway, Weidel said there should be enough of the artificial stuff for three- or four-foot snowbanks. "I would imagine 95 percent of the people in Lafourche Parish have never seen that type of snow," he said.

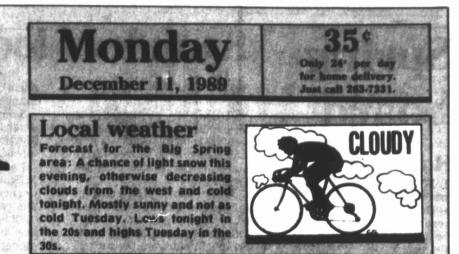

He said the Chamber has hired an artificial snow company to keep at least a foot of snow Friday night and all day Saturday on a 100-by-100-foot square in front of South Lafourche High School.

It'll cost $1 just to get onto the school grounds, where the snow is the centerpiece of a weekend Christmas festival. People who want to play in the snow must pay another $1 for 15 minutes.

Homeless get hope in area program

By JOHN McMILLAN Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Homeless people in Big Spring are not entirely without hope this Christmas.

A federally funded program for the homeless in Howard County celebrated its first birthday in September, and it is assured of funding through February 1990. The aid comes from the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act, passed by Congress in 1988.

"The purpose of this program is to help the client become a productive member of society," said Pat Lawlis, director for Howard County West Texas Opportunities, a

Fate of asbestos-filled boxing club uncertain

By BRADLEY WORRELL Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — The use the former Lakeview School by a local boxing club remains undetermined after Howard County Commissioners today decided to delay a decision on the fate of the building.

The school district is still responsible for the liability on the grounds and building while the county which has a lease on the building would be responsible for any personal liability, said Ron Logback, assistant business manager for the Big Spring Independent School District.

Commissioner O.L. "Louis" Brown first remarked he believes the building should be closed down to avoid any possible danger people could be poisoned by the asbestos. The asbestos was found by an abatement contractor in various levels in the floor tile and gym

Brown advocated finding another building the boxing club

could use, but asked if it would be is the school district that is responpossible for the county to continue leasing the grounds around the building

"I'm for keeping it open if somebody else takes responsibility for the asbestos," Brown said after the meeting. "The asbestos has been in that building for years.' The building, which has been closed in the past, is currently being used, he said. Logback said he was not appearing before the commisioners to advocate either the closing or the opening of the building, but said it sible for any liability associated with the asbestos in the building.

'The asbestos is our liability, it would come to use, not to you,' Logback said. He added, "It's not your responsibility for removing it, we could not let you remove it.

Commissioner Bill Crooker raised the possibility the county might still be sued jointly with the school district if someone were to get sick because of the asbestos

Logback said an official with the Environmental Protection Agency who toured the building is satisfied that the building meets health standards as currently being maintained. The asbestos should not have to be removed, he said.

"I don't know what to do now. I had to close it once before," Brown said. "I don't want to be responsible for anyone getting sick.

Crooker said he believes any decision about the building should be left to Brown because the building is in his precinct.

Logback said after the meeting the school district will close the building if the county does not lease • COUNTY page 2-A

Restoration costs more, takes longer than expected

AUSTIN (AP) — The restoration of the Battleship Texas is taking longer to complete and its cost is growing, according to state documents.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, amid charges of shoddy workmanship and overpricing from their own inspectors, has approved some $2 million in additions to the $4.3 million contract to Todd Shipyard, which is restoring the ship in Galveston.

In approving the additional expenditures, the parks department has relied on advice of a naval architect who has counted Todd Shipyard as one of his major clients for 20 years, the Austin American-Statesman reported Sunday

The total cost of the project has grow to about $14 million, including accomplished something pretty "there's no question the naval arwork to the ship's home slip at San Jacinto Battleground State Park, the newspaper said.

The shipyard work is seven months behind. The ship is expected to be towed to another berth in the next 10 days for additional work.

Parks and Wildlife Department officials say much of the delay and added cost resulted from the ship's hull being far more deteriorated and containing more oil and sea water than anticipated.

"I've been involved in this project since 1984, and it's given me a few gray hairs," said Wilson E. "Bill" Dolman, director of the agency's division that has overseen the work. "There have been many tense moments, but I think we've with project management.

amazing.'

The parks department restoration project began in 1984 with the hiring of Ed Phillips, a Dickinson naval architect who examined the ship and drew up the restoration plan. The Parks and Wildlife Commission, armed with a $5 million grant from the U.S. Navy and $200,000 raised by Texas schoolchildren, began the project a conflict into this. with a budget of $5.1 million for the shipyard work, plus a $1 million contingency fund.

Phillips, who has worked for Todd previously, played a key role in analyzing Todd's proposed costs for changes in the project.

"It doesn't bother me to walk around the (negotiating) table, and the yard respects this," Phillips said. "Yes, some people could read

Phillips told the American-Statesman he found no problem with Todd's higher rates for the additional work because "a common inspector of the restoration. ploy of shipyards is to bid at cost or if any, on the extras."

The rates Todd quoted for change order work were at times double the rates in the base bid because "they were essentially at the market price rather than at this extremely good price in the base bid," Phillips said.

The 96 change orders approved to date on the project have added $2 million to the cost of the restoration, the American-Statesman

"The extras were running about twice what they should have," said Dick Frenzel, a former shipyard owner experienced in marine repair work who was hired as chief

He attributed the problem to the under and try to make their profit, parks department's failure to use aggressive negotiations with the shipyard like those used by private industry.'

VD outbreak is subsiding

KINGSVILLE (AP) - An outbreak of about 50 reported cases of gonorrhea on the Texas A&I University campus since September apparently is subsiding, a university health official

Dr. Carolyn Franklin, university physician, said an unexplained sharp jump in reported cases of the venereal disease has tapered off in the past two weeks at the campus of 5,872 students.

"For a period of about two or 21/24 weeks, I saw three or four cases of gonorrhea a day," she said. "That number has now drastically declined.

The doctor said in November she treated at least 20 cases of gonorrhea at the school.

"I am urging the infected patients to talk with their contacts. and ask them to be examined, and I: am asking them to get follow-up studies to make sure they have been healed," Dr. Franklin said.

Infant undergoes second surgery

CHICAGO (AP) — The infant who received the nation's first living-donor liver transplant underwent an operation to stop bleeding on the surface of the liver, a condition doctors called common and controllable.

Alyssa Smith was in critical but stable condition today at the University of Chicago Medical Center, after the second operation in two days to stop bleeding on the surface of her new organ, which she received two weeks ago.

"The surgeon said the liver looked fine," said John Easton, a spokesman for the medical center. Alyssa, 22 months, was in surgery for about four hours

The bleeding was controlled, said Dr. Christoph Broelsch, who led the transplant and the later operations

Doctors first detected the bleeding Saturday afternoon when they noticed the child's abdomen had swelled, said hospital spokeswoman Mary Fetsch. She called the problem a minor setback

"It's a common problem" that happens in 30 percent of all livertransplant patients, Ms. Fetsch said. "You just never know when it's going to happen, but it's something that's controllable and something you can manage.

The problem is the same one that prompted doctors to operate on Alvssa within 12 hours after she received part of her mother's liver

The girl is the daughter of John L. and Teresa Smith of Schertz, Texas, near San Antonio.

The 29-year-old mother was released from the hospital Thursday, and has been back to visit several times, Ms. Fetsch said.

Meanwhile, doctors were optimistic that 15-month-old Sarina Jones, the nation's second livingdonor liver transplant recipient, would recover from her 71/2-hour surgery performed Friday.

"She's doing better than expected," Ms. Fetsch said. "Her liver functions look good so far and she's very alert."

Sarina was expected to remain in critical but stable condition for the next few days as doctors watch for signs of rejection of the new organ or the bacterial infection that delayed the surgery, doctors said. Her condition was unchanged this

Robert Jones, 20, from the Memphis, Tenn., area, donated the left lobe of his liver to his daughter. He was moved out of the intensive care unit Sunday morning and was listed in serious but stable condition, Ms. Fetsch said.

Houston homeless estimated at 10,000

HOUSTON (AP) - A study says10,000 people, including 1,500 children, were homeless on a typical night this summer in Harris than any previous count here has Sponsors of the study say they don't know if the problem of homelessness is getting worse in Houston or if the apparent huge increase is just due to better counting.

The study made public Friday was directed by the international consulting firm of McKinsey & Co. for the Houston Campaign for the Homeless. Much of the field work was done by local graduate students supervised by The Resource Group, another private consulting firm.

McKinsey managing director James Crownover said elements of the study should be repeated annually. Without the standardized data this would provide, he said, no one can tell for sure if the numbers are growing.

Such follow-ups should cost only a small fraction of the original study, said Crownover, whose firm donated about $45,000 in services to the effort. For the homeless campaign, Houston and Harris County each put up 21,000, of which about

$53,000 was spent. A report on the study was presented to about 100 local religious leaders on the campaign County - a figure much larger steering committee. The campaign, a partnership of local congregations, governments and business, is preparing for its third annual fund drive in January

> The study showed that about half of all Houston homeless people are the so-called "new homeless" - mothers with children, battered women and the mentally ill. Serious substance abusers and chronically homeless people were other major categories.

Besides the 10,000 residents classified as "literally homeless," the study also found a much larger group, estimated conservatively at 120,000 adults and 30,000 children. living doubled-up with friends or

It also found that about half of these "marginally homeless" people were in the first year of their first episode of homelessness.

If even 1 percent "fall through" into the homeless group, the latter could increase by 15 percent and swamp the available shelters, the study said.

Another 250,000 people are not homeless but have such small financial reserves that they could become homeless if they lost their jobs or suffered a medical emergency, the study said.

The study showed that about half of all Houston homeless people are the so-called "new homeless" mothers with children, battered women and the mentally ill. Serious substance abusers and chronically homeless people were other major categories.

The study found that about 40 percent of homeless people had been victims of crime, and that more than one-third of those living in abandoned buildings have high incidence of substance abuse and illegal activities, such as selling drugs and stealing.

Views from across the U.S. Interesting defense

Attorneys for Joseph J. Hazelwood, skipper of the illfated Exxon Valdez, have come up with a criminal defense that is, well, interesting.

As a result of the tanker running aground March 24 in Alaska's Prince William Sound, spilling nearly 11 million gallons of oil, the captain faces three felony and three misdemeanor charges in Anchorage.

Here's his attorneys' pitch: Because Hazelwood radioed in to the Coast Guard that his tanker was leaking oil, he had incriminated himself, presumably without aid of counsel or having been advised of his "Miranda" rights.

Don't like that one? Try this one: Because of state and federal laws that grant immunity to people who report oil spills, the fact that Hazelwood radioed the Coast Guard that the tanker had run aground and was "leaking some oil" made him an oil-spill reporter, and therefore subject to immunity.

Hazelwood a whistle-blower? On whom, himself?

Threat from the mob

Do Americans want to depend on racketeers to take care of their garbage?

That's another element of the problem of solid waste disposal that must be considered as landfills are being exhausted and the volume of refuse mounts.

Public hearings last month in Philadelphia revealed the East Coast crime families that have long dominated the waste-disposal industry in New York and New Jersey through intimidation and murder already have branched out into Pennsylvania. They are expected to look next at the Midwest — and possibly the South.

The threat is more alarming because it comes at a time when the nation is approaching a crisis on solid waste disposal. The risk to public safety is becoming increasingly clear, particularly as mob muscle can be applied to achieve monopoly control of the industry.

Profits in the industry can be enormous. Waste disposal is not a field in which many businessmen are interested. States are fighting back through laws requiring background investigations of waste haulers and landfill operations in an effort to block mob control. However, a cooperative, inter-regional response may be needed, as will some federal assistance.

The gangster threat only further underlines the fact that an effective, overall response to the solid waste problem must be implemented — and soon. Public health is at stake, and if a crunch comes, the public must avoid the additional threat of being at the mercy of the mob.

American takeover

For everybody worried about the Japanese "takeover" of America — first Columbia Pictures, then Rockefeller Center, next Mount Rushmore? — there's finally some reassuring news. One American is fighting back.

Well, wrestling back, anyway. He's Salevaa Atisnoe, a 490-pound Samoan-American from Hawaii. Using the professional name Konishiki, he has battled his way to the summit of Japanese sports, recently winning Japan's most prestigious prize, the Emperor's Cup, and establishing himself as the nation's premier sumo

The Japanese have greeted Konishiki's stunning victory with apparent good cheer. He seems to have a natural appeal for his fans - perhaps because in sheer physical dimensions he bears a striking resemblance to Rockefeller Center. In fact, the vast majority of the crowd attending his championship match rooted for him unashamedly.

In commerce and culture, ours is a small world and getting smaller, as the Japanese have obviously come to realize. Let's hope we react with similar equanimity when the Tokyo Giants win the National League East.

report

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush's latest veto will play better in Beijing than at home, so it probably won't stand up when Congress reconvenes. But it may serve an administration purpose in the meantime.

The bill Bush rejected would make it easier for Chinese exchange students to remain in the United States for up to four years. In his veto statement, Bush called that a laudable objective and said he will have the same thing done administratively, without changing the law, "preserving my ability to manage foreign relations.

While the administration said all along that the bill wasn't necessary, Congress insisted on it in response to Chinese repression of pro-democracy dissidents last spring. Sponsors of the student visa bill said the bloody crackdown that began in Tiananmen Square last June 4 isn't over yet.

There are about 40,000 Chinese students in the United States, and more than 30,000 of them hold visas under which they are required to return to China for at least two years before seeking new or longer stays in this country

After the Tiananmen crackdown and killings, the administration imposed limited sanctions aimed primarily at halting military sales and cooperation. Exchange student visas were extended for a year, so that no Chinese student would be required to leave before June 1990. While Bush said he will have Attorney General Dick Thornburgh extend that stay for up to four years, supporters of the bill argue that will mean case-by-case handling, exposing individual students to retribution if they ever do go home. Because of the visa bill, the Chinese government has threaten-

While he didn't take their advice,

Bush used the veto message to "reemphasize my commitment . . . to never allow any action that would force the return of Chinese students if their lives or liberty are at risk.

Chinese officials and educators insist that returning exchange students face no danger or persecution, but advocates of the bill say many of them would be in jeopardy. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D. Mass., said some would be forced to go underground lest they face imprisonment or death like the Tiananmen demonstrators.

The veto fit the advice former President Nixon brought back from China after a six-day visit that ended Nov. 2. Nixon gave Bush an 18-page written report and met privately with the president and his top foreign policy aides to recomsaid in his veto message, issued mend efforts to improve relations, despite the suppression of the democracy movement.

He said continuing sanctions would only strengthen reactionaries in the Chinese government. Even so, Nixon didn't anticipate the veto, saying Bush probably had no choice politically but to sign congressional sanctions.

The reasoning in Nixon's China memo suggests that even an unsuccessful veto might help Bush in future dealings with Beijing. The former president, who sent Bush to China as U.S. representative after ties between the two nations were reopened in 1972, said Bush's personal standing with the Chinese is a positive factor

"In our sometimes very tense discussions, not one of the Chinese leaders had a negative word to say about President Bush," Nixon said "They would sometimes blame the Congress, the media and the Voice of America, but never the president.

Atlanta's losers

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

I have to do this about every five years. I have to put to rest any notion anybody might have that the Atlanta Falcons (3-10-0) will one day be any good as a professional football team.

It won't happen. Never. Ever. Read my lips: Never.

Atlanta's is the worse franchise in National Football League history. Everybody else occasionally has one something.

OK, the Falcons did have one pretty good year when they almost got to the Super Bowl But God looked down on their playoff game against the Cowboys and realized there had been a terrible error and zapped the Falcons' hopes in the final seconds. The Falcons are a team that started with being laughable. When they played their first exhibition game ever, back in '09 or whenever it was, the Atlanta kicker opened Atlanta's pro football history by whiffing the kickoff. This is a team that once had a running back who gained over 1,000 yards. He achieved that milestone in the final minutes of the final game of the season. The Falcons called time and awarded him the game ball. On the next play, he was thrown for a loss and there went his 1,000yard season. I still don't know if he had to give the ball back.

I often listen to Atlanta sports radio talk show participants. Some of these people, believe it or not, think there is a solution to the Falcons' ineptness. "What we need is a new coach," they say

Who would take such a job? Want to be the new captain of the Titanic? The last time the Palcons were looking for a new head coach, they offered the job to everbody from Dick Vermeil, who coached too long and became a basket case, to George Halas, who was dead, and the only person who would take it was poor old Marion Campbell, who they had already fired once before and was forced to resign last week.

And speaking of the radio, I like what some caller said the other morning.

"For years, I've wished Atlanta could have a team like the Cowboys. Now we do.'

The Cowboys, if you don't follow pro football, are headquartered in Dallas, and, after vears of success, have sunk into the abyss with Atlanta

Falcon fans don't say, "Wait till next year." They say, "Next year? You mean we have to go through all this again?'

And it's too bad Atlanta has such a lousy football team that has come to be something of an embarrassment. It's such a nice city otherwise, regardless of what Pepsi employees think of

Atlanta has parks, and lovely homes, and beautiful women, and the Varsity drive-in that serves the best chili dogs on If the Falcons were a food, they would be a can of Spam. So, you ask me, "What can be done to bring a winning pro football team to Atlanta?

Nothing. It can't happen. I used to think it would help if the team's owner, Rankin Smith, sold it to somebody who gave a

But that wouldn't help either. Imagine what sort of goofball it would take to spend millions to buy this turkey?

I can think of only one way to help the Falcons. Let them drop out of the NFL and join the Atlantic Coast Conference.

They probably don't pay as well as Clemson, but I figure they occasionally could beat Wake Forest.

There is one piece of good news, however — if you can wait. In 1992, the Falcons will move out of Atlanta Fulton County Stadium, the worse football arena in the world, to the Georgia Dome, which will have a roof on it.

When that happens, at least the stench the Falcons raise when they play will remain

Dalai Lama voices hope for an independent Tibet

OSLO, Norway (AP) - The Dalai Lama, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, today welcomed Eastern Europe's non-violent revolution and hoped for the day when his homeland of Tibet would celebrate its own triumph over Chinese occupation.

China today lodged a protest with Norway over Sunday's presentation of the award to the Tibetan spiritual leader and said the official Norwegian participation would "greatly impair" relations.

In a separate ceremony in Stockholm, Sweden, on Sunday, King Carl XVI Gustaf awarded gold Nobel medallions to nine laureates who won the prizes for literature, chemistry, physics, medicine and economic sciences. Six were Americans.

In keeping with tradition, the peace prize winner gives a lecture at the University of Olso.

The Dalai Lama said in a text prepared for today's lecture that 'the awarding of the Nobel Prize to me, a simple monk from far-away Tibet, here in Norway, also fills us Tibetans with hope.

The exiled leader then said he wanted to speak about human understanding, compassion and love "instead of reading my speech.

His one-hour impromptu talk concentrated on moral and ethical questions illustrated with homilies that often provoked laughter from the audience of 600,

The Dalai Lama said he will use the $469,000 peace prize to help starving people, lepers in India, various peace programs and to establish the Tibetan Foundation for Universal Responsibility.

At Sunday's ceremony attended by Norwegian King Olav V and other government officials. he said China's rejection of his 1987 peace plan was forcing him to rethink his approach and that he might withdraw his proposal.

But, he added: "Our struggle must remain non-violent and free of hatred.

"I accept the prize with profound gratitude on behalf of the oppressed everywhere and for all those who struggle for freedom and work for world peace," he said.

The Dalai Lama, 54, was chosen at age 5 as the reincarnation of Tibet's god-king, making him religious and political head of the isolated mountain nation. He fled into exile in India after a failed uprising in 1959. China has ruled Tibet for 40 years.

Berlin's future topic of conference

WEST BERLIN (AP) — The Allied occupiers of a divided Berlin today convened their first conference in 18 years in a climate of breathtaking change that points to a diminished role for the Americans, Britons, French and Soviets

The meeting is the first Four Power conference since the 1971 meeting that drew up an agreement on the Allies' rights in the city they took control of after defeating the Nazis.

Its stated purpose was discussion of former President Reagan's proposal to open up the city as a center for international exchanges. But with Eastern Europe in tumult and Germans talking seriously of reunification the agenda was certain to be broad.

The meeting was attended by Vernon Walters, Christopher by the three Western Mallaby and Serge Boidevaix —

the U.S., British and French ambassadors to West Germany and Vyacheslav Kochemasov, the Soviet ambassador to East Germany

Mallaby, in a morning radio interview with the British Broadcasting Corp., said if the Soviets raise other issues beyond Reagan's proposal, "of course we have to listen. But that's all."

"We want in this new period of improvement in East-West relations that Berlin should benefit, too," he told the BBC. Asked what the ambassadors would discuss, Walters told reporters: "We'll see

Campaign march ends in riot

MASATEPE, Nicaragua (AP) - An opposition campaign rally turned into a riot in which one person was reported killed and more than 20 people injured. Foreign observers blamed the violence on Sandinista provocateurs

Sunday's violence lasted four hours and was the worst of the campaign leading to general elections set for Feb. 25, and the foreigners said it raised doubts that the balloting would be held without incident.

Opponents and supporters of the ruling Sandinistas clashed with machetes, knives, broken bottles, rocks and sticks Sunday in this town 30 miles south of Managua. The local Sandinista Front headquarters was sacked, and two vehicles were burned.

"I came here assuming that there would be free and open elections," said Robert Beckel of the Washington-based Center for Democracy, a bipartisan group invited to observe the electoral process. "You can't witness what we saw today and believe there's any way there'll be a fair election in this country.

The fighting broke out during a rally organized by the National Opposition Union.

Shape up or ship out

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) Mickey Mouse used to whistle while he worked back when he was Steamboat Willie, but he's got a more strident tone as captain of the Queen Mary.

The Walt Disney Co., which owns the leaseholds on the permanently docked ocean liner and the adjacent Spruce Goose exhibit in Long Beach Harbor, told all hands this week to conform to Disney's 35-year-old dress code.

The code deep-sixes beards, mustaches and long hair on men and lowers the boom on bright eyeshadow, red fingernails or "inappropriate" makeup on women. The rules apply to 30,000 employees in Disney parks and resorts.

James Magness, first officer on the Queen Mary, would sooner ship out than shave off the mustache he grew 42 years ago and wore in the Navy during the Korean War, aboard ships worldwide and skippering motor yachts off Mexico.

"No," Magness said of removing the mustache, even if that means he has to give up the ship, on which he has worked for 71/2 years.

"They said a mustache doesn't give a clean, fresh, wholesome look," he said.

Although Walt Disney himself sported a mustache, Disney Co. apparently thinks hairy lips could sink its ship.

"The grooming standards were designed to fit into the entire guest experience. We don't want to do anything that tends to detract in any way from that experience," said Queen Mary spokesman Rich Kerlin.

The company bought the rights to the tourist attractions nearly two years ago but only decided to put the code into effect in preparation for an upcoming promotion.

Washington state has an Elwha River, an Elwha Ridge and now, thanks to the ferry Elwha, an Elwha Rock. The Washington Board on Geographic Names on Friday officially named the reef in the San Juan Islands for the ferry, which rammed it Oct. 2, 1983.

Ferry Capt. Billy Fittro unwittingly romanced the stone when he made an unauthorized detour into Grindstone Harbor on Orcas Island while giving a local resident a waterside view of her home from the Elwha's pilothouse.

The ferry was damaged to the tune of $250,000, and local wits came up with a tune of their own, "Elwha on the Rocks." Tshirts also carried Elwha slogans, and an island bar named a rum drink after the incident. Fittro resigned and his boss, Capt. Nick Tracy, was fired after he tried to run cover for Fittro

Islanders have for years called the reef Elwha Rock, and Seattlite Greg Lange proposed to the board that it be named for the boat that struck it. That's the way many rocks have gotten their names, he said.

Land Commissioner Brian Boyle, who heads the board, spoke in favor of the name.

"There is a sense of whimsy attached to the name, but it will serve as a significant warning to other people who travel in these waters - a stark reminder of what happened," Boyle said.

Politicians give in to political pressure

ing leaps or small steps, and what he or she believes." Republican and Democratic candidates are moving away from anti-abortion positions as they prepare for 1990 campaigns that promise to spotlight the divisive

"They're changing so fast it's hard to keep up with them all." says Kate Michelman, executive director of the National Abortion Rights Action League.

Her abortion-rights lobby has been swamped with news of converts in the weeks since antiabortion candidates were defeated in Virginia and New Jersey governors races, and as an impression grows that electoral majorities favor maintaining legal abortions.

The most startling reversal came last week by Ohio Attorney General Anthony Celebrezze, the leading contender for the Democratic nomination for governor. After more than a decade as an outspoken opponent of abortion, Celebrezze declared that if elected he would veto any legislation banning abortion and would support public funding of the procedure for poor women.

His move was regarded as an attempt to head off the potential Democratic candidacy of an abortion-rights supporter, Joel

Celebrezze stunned and infuriated national anti-abortion leaders, who distributed copies of a statement he signed three years ago pledging support for legislation to prohibit abortion except to prevent the death of the mother, and to oppose the use of tax money for abortions

"A total flip-flop for what he perceives as personal political gain," said an outraged David O'Steen, executive director of the National Right to Life Committee.

Celebrezze, however, is only the latest and most clear-cut example of 1990 candidates trying to stake out the most advantageous position for their respective races.

Democratic gubernatorial candidates Rep. Bill Nelson in Florida, Neil Hartigan in Illinois, Tom Miller in Iowa and Frank Belotti in or made comments that have been an out-of-court settlement last seen as moderating past opposition month of a key court case that was abortion or siding outright with abortion rights forces.

Sharp divisions among sides as a potential vehicle for a

Texas, Tom Luce and Jack Rains, have begun airing television commercials declaring their support for legal abortions. They have drawn battle lines against antiabortion primary candidates including former Rep. Kent Hance.

In Rains' case, the move came just a few weeks after he appeared at a Dallas fund-raiser for a Texas anti-abortion group and said, "I stand shoulder to shoulder with you in this cause.

Driving the political turnabouts is the Supreme Court's ruling last summer that gave states more leeway to regulate abortions. That thrust the issue back in the hands of state politicians.

"It's going to be a very major factor in gubernatorial races," said Kevin Phillips, publisher of the American Political Report.

"It's a defining issue," said Alice Travis, director of programs for the Democratic National Committee. "It's like civil rights was, in some ways like the Vietnam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — In dazzl- was. It tells you who a person is,

In Senate races, the re-election battle of Democrat Tom Harkin of Iowa, an abortion-rights supporter, against Republican Rep. Tom Tauke, an abortion opponent, is already one of the most closely watched 1990 contests.

While Democrats were the beneficiaries of the new political focus on abortion in 1989 races, the party has a number of incumbents on the other side of the issue.

In Pennsylvania, Democratic Gov. Robert Casey is an opponent of abortion and could face a Republican who supports abortion rights. Republican Barbara Hafer, the state auditor, has the Fennsylvania GOP's endorsement.

Another key race is in Florida, where Republican Gov. Bob Martinez made abortion the issue when he called a special legislative session to enact abortion restrictions. He failed to win passage of his proposals, and he now faces a Republican primary against a state senator, Marlene Woodson-Howard, who supports abortion rights. Bracing for a tough battle and on NARAL's national hit list, Martinez has amassed a $4 million campaign war chest.

In the Democratic race to oppose Martinez, Nelson and George Stuart, a state senator, are both running as supporters of abortion

Nelson in the past has opposed abortion, however, and the national abortion-rights lobby remains skeptical of him. He was among some two-dozen House members who switched positions last October — from a similar vote year earlier — to support liberalized federal funding of abortions for poor women.

"He says he's been pro-choice, when he has not been," Michelman

Until Celebrezze's switch, Illinois' attorney general Hartigan had been the primary object of anti-abortion leaders' wrath. He is running for governor against Republican Jim Edgar, the secretary of state, who supports abortion rights.

Hartigan had been counted as op-Massachusetts have all taken steps posing abortion, until he agreed to life people who had supported said Darla St. Martin, associate executive director of the National Right to Life Committee.

Another key race is for governor of Iowa, a state long considered conservative on the abortion issue, and where the Senate race already assures a focus on abortion.

Miller, the state attorney general, has been running as an anti-abortion candidate and leads a field of opponents who support abortion-rights. But in recent weeks he has said he would not seek any restrictions on abortion, except to support a law requiring notification of the parent of a minor seeking an abortion.

Miller is still counted as an abortion opponent. Michelman said his actions are "little signals" that he may be changing.

"Tom Miller is feeling the heat," she said

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — A man wearing a Santa Claus suit sang "We Wish You a Merry Christmas" as he held up a bank

"You always see Santa Claus walking around this time of year," West Goshen Township police Officer Richard Geiger said. "No one thinks anything of it. If it happened in July, that would be a different story.

Geiger said the pseudo-Santa entered a Fidelity Bank branch Monday afternoon, waited in line with other customers, then told the teller he was there to present a singing telegram.

The robber then handed the teller a red plastic bag with drawstrings and pictures of Santa. His note instructed the teller to place cash in the bag until he was finished with his song, police said.

WASHINGTON (AP) Postal workers and private parcel delivery companies are gearing up for the annual holiday crush, the time of year when millions of parcels are being shipped, and not all of them will survive the trip.

Letter carriers, sorting clerks and deliverymen do their best for the most part, but their jobs are made more complicated by the sudden increase in business before Christmas, and by the fact that many packages are not carefully wrapped. The U.S. Postal Service points out that there are four things to consider in getting a package ready: choosing the proper container, cushioning the contents, wrapping and sealing and cor-

Most such containers have a strength rating printed on them. That includes the gross weight limit, which tells you the maximum amount of "average contents the box can handle. Average means items of normal density. High density items such as hardware or auto parts may need a stronger box.

Stepfamily Christmas

Holiday tension can occur in any family. But for children of divorce and remarriage, the Christmas season can be particularly stressful as they try to divide their holiday spirit among as many as four parents and eight grandparents.

To help the 50 million Americans who are involved in stepfamily relationships, Ladies' Home Journal offers some tips on coping, caring and communicating during the holiday season:

• Plan ahead: When each family member knows what to expect, and which set of relatives he or she is supposed to be with, the potential for chaos and disappointment is minimized.

• Ritualize arrivals: "A predictable sitting down together, like milk and cookies after the children have put their bags away, diminishes the uncertainty of not having been with each other for awhile. says Jeanette Cofas, president and founder of the Stepfamily Foundation.

• Spouses, ex-spouses and the children should keep talking. Communication can decrease the potential for unpleasant surprises and increase security for everyone. Set standards for gift giv ing: Coordinate the children's gifts with the ex-mate so neither person comes out looking like a scrooge or duplicates a gift. Be flexible: Christmas doesn't have to be celebrated a certain way. Be open to new ways of enjoying the holidays.

DEAR ABBY: This is a belated thank-you. Several years ago, I wrote to you as the mother of three small children. My problem was that because of our parents' divorces and remarriages, my husband and I were on the road keeping everybody happy (except ourselves) from Thanksgiving through Easter. Christmas was horrible! One year, we were in three different states and drove 1,500 miles in eight days.

You told me that children need traditions and my husband and I should start our own — in our own home. That's exactly what we did. Thank you!

We still spend Thanksgiving with either his parents or mine, but Christmas is ours. The old train is under the tree, we open presents in our pajamas and enjoy each other and our children

My husband travels much of the year, so being home and having few demands is doubly special Keep up the great work! - KRIS PAIGE, YARDLEY, PA.

DEAR KRIS: Thank you for the thank-you. Several others wrote to say that they had decided to break the tradition of going to Grandma's for Thanksgiving and Christmas and celebrate the holidays at home. Were their parents disappointed or hurt? One Wisconsin grandmother wrote: "Thank God my daughter is having Dad and me at her house for the holidays this year. Now I can relax!"

DEAR ABBY: For almost 25 years of marriage, my husband has sulked off and on. Sometimes he's sulked for just a few hours, but there have been times when he would sulk for days and even weeks! When I'd ask him what was wrong, he usually didn't answer me, and when he did, I never got a civil answer.

Many times I've apologized without even knowing what he was mad at. I've even tried sulking myself to give him a taste of his own medicine. That didn't work either.

I told him he needed counseling, but he said I was the one who needed it, so I went. My therapist was very supportive, but stated that my husband needed counseling.

The only reason I've stayed in this marriage for so long is that between his sulking episodes, he's a wonderful, caring person.

I doubt if you can solve this problem, but maybe if he sees it in print, he will realize how much hurt he has caused me, not to mention the loss of happiness for both of woman in the world, but they have never seen this side of him.

Our friends think I'm the luckiest

SULKER'S WIFE DEAR WIFE: Before you fault him, make sure there's no physical reason for your husband's periodic sulking episodes. If he hasn't shared this with his physician, he should. His periodic silent depressions may be caused by a chemical imbalance. It's worth exploring.

If there's no physical reason for his sulking, tell this "wonderful, caring" man that for your 25th wedding anniversary gift, you'd like him to see a counselor. (Sulking is a subtle form of abuse. He may be punishing you for something he's angry at himself about.)

Life is too short to waste precious time in long, unexplained silences. Please, take my advice and let me know what happens. I care.

75-year-old man invents implements

GIBSON CITY, Ill. (AP) — Elmo Meiners makes a living off something that he really enjoys though he has to get up a little early to do it.

"My biggest satisfaction is going out every morning at 5:30 and talking to farmers - playing a little gin rummy and finding out what they

For 40 years, Meiners has been asking farmers what equipment would make things easier, then manufacturing it. And that didn't stop even during his 75th birthday party in August. As the cake was cut, he was sketching.

Farmers' needs inspired Meiners and Art Warsaw to develop a transmission to double the speed of the Farmall tractor in 1949. That was the birth of M&W Gear Co. Assembled in an old oneroom schoolhouse, the M&W ninespeed transmission caught on; the company sold 1,400 the first year, grossing $160,000.

Success with the transmission led to development of parts like aluminum pistons that raised the Farmall's power from 39 to 51 horsepower. Watching the farmers haul grain in 100-bushel wagons with small tires gave him the idea for the Little Red Wagon. It held 300 bushels and large "floater" tires enabled it to glide over the field with less effort.

"We just grew, grew, grew," said Meiners, whose company is expected to sell nearly $30 million in farm implements this year. Warsaw sold his interest in M&W to William and J.C. Ertel of Indianapolis in 1954. M&W's small size - about 175 plant workers lets it get a product to farmers within a year or two of design, faster than the major implement makers, he said.

M&W builds a few prototypes for local farmers to use and evaluate, and Meiners often tests the equipment on his own 1,500-acre family farm in McLean County 'Agriculture is changing so rapid-Iv that it's not difficult to improve equipment for farmers," he said.

M&W innovations include the first engine turbo-chargers for tractors and a hay baler that wraps the huge roll in plastic to protect it from weather while it is stored in the field, said John E. Smith, vice president of marketing. It now concentrates on tillage equipment, hay machinery and mowing devices.

Painter, 83, tells story of her life

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Kitty Good doesn't believe in letting her paintings speak for themselves.

Each of the nearly 100 scenes she has done since she was 62 comes with a story, usually about her childhood on an isolated 700-acre farm outside Roanoke Rapids, N.C. "I hated it when I lived there and I was lonely.

Mrs. Good, 83, recalls her early life in colorful, detailed paintings in the primitive style made famous by Grandma Moses.

In one, a black woman stands outside a church, holding a white baby — the story of a childless black couple who raised a 6-week old boy abandoned by an unmarried white woman. The black woman prayed all her life that the mother and son would be reunited. Two years before the black woman

In another, Mrs. Good's parents sit on the porch of their farmhouse while their six children play croquet on the lawn. Two paintings show here June 1930 wedding. One shows Glenn and Kitty Good surrounded by wedding guests outside the church and another is of the wedding reception at the farmhouse

That wedding took Kitty Good from the remote countryside to Richmond, where she raised four children. Her husband died in 1979.

"I never had a brush in my hand until I was 62 years old and then I had it in there because of a dare. It was such a joke to me.'

Hope Davis taught the art class Mrs. Good entered. "I took one look and tried to isolate her from all of the people around her who might corrupt her. It was just so obvious that she was a natural primitive.' Primitivists have a talent for color and composition and often draw from their memories, she said. "They paint everything individually. It's absolutely amazing. People

Largent gets record

CINCINNATI (AP) — Steve Largent says his 100th touchdown reception was something special ... but only because it got Seattle headed towards victory.

Largent caught a toward touchdown pass from Dave Krieg to get Seattle's offense over the Cincinnati Bengals.

The catch just before halftime made Largent the NFL's alltime leader in touchdown catches, ahead of Don Hutson. It also cut Cincinnati's lead to 10-7 and gave the Seahawks momentum for the second-half comeback.

"I'm sitting here right now and I'm more excited about winning the football game than about breaking the record,' Largent said.

Largent, 35, missed time earlier this season with an injured elbow and had just two touchdown catches, tying Hutson's career record of 99. Largent wasn't worried about ending the season — and his career - in a tie, but he was glad to get the catch with some time to spare.

"I'm glad it didn't come down to the last game of the season," Largent said. "I think that might have been more pressure than I could handle. I'm glad Dave's the guy that threw it. The real bonus is that we won the game in the process.

Largent's five receptions Sunday for 68 yards extended his NFL-record streak to 175 consecutive games with a catch. padded his NFL record to 816 catches, and made him the first receiver to go over 13,000 career

The touchdown catch was on a second-down play. Krieg scanned the Bengals' zone defense and spotted Largent, who found an opening at the back of the end zone. Krieg lobbed the ball, and Largent caught it cleanly before falling out of the end zone.

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) - A bruised left shoulder didn't keep Mark Barsotti from throwing the go-ahead touchdown on the longest pass completion in California Raisin Bowl history.

And linebacker Ron Cox didn't let a missed tackle keep him from intercepting a pass on the same play and scoring a 58-yard touchdown that clinched the Bulldogs' 27-6 victory over Ball State in the opener of the college football bowl season Saturday.

Barsotti said the shoulder on his non-throwing arm was hurt when he was hit the play before he connected with Stephen Shelley for the 91-yard score that put Fresno ahead 10-6 late Inside Sports page 2-B

Heavy-hearted QB leads Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Randall Cunningham's arm was sharp and his legs felt light. But his heart was heavy Cunningham had lost a friend he couldn't replace.

After leading the Eagles to a 20-10 victory over the Dallas Cowboys Sunday, Cunningham let loose the emotion he felt when he learned Saturday that Eagles' quarterback coach Doug Scovil suffered a fatal heart attack in the locker room.

"Doug was like a father, a brother to me," Cunningham said, the words coming slow.

Scovil came to the Eagles in 1986. as an assistant to new head coach Buddy Ryan. Cunningham was a second year player, a raw talent out of Nevada Las Vegas.

"My first year I threw eight interceptions and one touchdown," Cunningham said, recalling 1985.

"In came Scovil who changed my whole release. He changed my whole physical ability.

Cunningham is quick to admit that Scovil played a major role in making him a quarterback capable of going to the Pro Bowl and being yoted the game's MVP last season. On Sunday Cunningham ran for 47 yards and completed 17 of 31 passes for 170 yards and one touchdown.

The Eagles took a 17-3 halftime lead and went on to boost their record to 10-4 in the NFC East. They opened their lead to 20-3 in the third quarter and held on for the Philadelphia remained deadlocked with the New York Giants for first place with two games left in the regular season. The Giants (10-4) beat Denver Sunday.

The game as expected was an exercise in physicality between two teams who don't like each other. The latest bone of contention was in the game for 177 yards.

It seemed the only time they didn't throw a flag was after the final whistle blew and the fans pelted departing Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson with snowballs.

Dallas was penalized 12 times for 107, and the Eagles 9 for 70. There were eight unnecessary roughness calls, four on each side. But only three were reflected in the statistics.

The official penalty yardage didn't include five of the unnecessary roughness infractions' because they were offsetting.

On one play although two Cowboys were cited and only one Eagle, under league rules the penalties are offsetting.

NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue said his visit to the game had nothing to do with the cash bounty controversy started by Johnson after the Eagles beat the' Cowboys, 27-0, in Dallas' Thanksgiving Day.

Johnson charged Ryan with placing cash bounties on Cowboys' quarterback Troy Aikman and kicker Luis Zendejas.

After a two week investigation, the commissioner dismissed the charges, saying no evidence had been found to support Johnson's charges.

Aikman connected on 17 of 30 for 152 yards and one TD and rushed for 60. He was sacked five times.

Eagles' defensive end Reggie' White said of the roughly played game, "There was no talk of bounties during the game. That's a bunch of bull. I'm tired of talking about it.

"People started throwing snowballs and guys on both side of the ball got frustrated.

Aikman said he didn't notice any cheap shots during the game. 'That (hard hitting) is football. If you can't cope with that you shouldn't be playing the game," he Eagles page 2-B

The 'other' McEnroe makes some noise

LONDON (AP) — With a world singles ranking of 359, Patrick McEnroe has gotten used to being described as "the other McEnroe.

But for the past week, he has proven that, in doubles at least, he has the skills to match anybody in men's tennis — including brother

"I enjoy being recognized for something I do myself," McEnroe said Sunday after teaming with Jim Grabb to win the Masters doubles championship and a share of $72,000. "It's tough being recognized when you lose in the first round of qualifying."

In helping Grabb beat Anders Jarryd and John Fitzgerald 7-5, 7-6, 5-7, 6-3, McEnroe — ranked 19th in doubles — added his name to the list of winners of a tournament that next year will become part of a new-look men's circuit run by the players and will shed the name Masters.

He and Grabb put their names on the trophy just in time.

"It's nice to do something John has done," said McEnroe, referring to the seven times that John McEnroe and Peter Fleming won this event.

McEnroe and Grabb hadn't won a title since their surprise French Open triumph in June. But in the elegant Victorian surroundings of the Royal Albert Hall, they hit peak form in all their five matches, conceding only two sets against the cream of world doubles.

'Here we proved to ourselves that we could beat the top teams in the world," McEnroe said. "We had to do everything well to beat those guys.

Wimbledon champions Jarryd and Fitzgerald went into the final with a performance record almost as impressive as their opponents. The first three sets could have gone either way and hinged on a few key points, such as the set point Grabb saved with a service winner at 4-5 in the second set. 'We didn't make the shots on the big points like we had earlier in the week," Fitzgerald said.

That pattern continued in the fourth set when, after breaking

McEnroe for a 2-1 lead, Fitzgerald immediately dropped his own pions appeared to lose confidence and when they conceded 11 straight points to trail 2-5, the match was effectively over

Asked to compare the McEnroe brothers, Fitzgerald said they were 'like chalk and cheese.

"One is all feel and touch, while Patrick pounds the ball at the back and is very solid. He had some weaknesses a couple of years ago which he seems to have ironed out. He gets a high percentage of first serves in which is important for doubles.

Jarryd, who shared the runnerup prize of $36,000 with Fitzgerald. also picked up an additional Suddenly, the Wimbledon cham- $120,000 for finishing second in the doubles bonus pool.

It would have been 165,000 if he had won the match. Instead, that sum went to Rick Leach of the United States, who held on to first place with 6,352 points despite being eliminated with partner Jim Pugh in round-robin play

"I'm not complaining," said Jarryd, who now moves on to Stuttgart, West Germany, to play for Sweden in the Davis Cup final. "It's been a great week and great preparation for the Davis Cup.'

LAS VEGAS (AP) - For Ty Murray and Butch Myers, rodeo is a family affair.

Murray, a 20-year-old in only his second year on the rodeo circuit, battled his veteran uncle Sunday to win the all-around title as the nation's top cowboy at the National Finals Rodeo.

He then turned around and credited the 44-year-old Myers for the win.

"He's been a great inspiration to me ever since I was little." said Murray. "He's a great

Murray was a little better this year, however capping his sophomore season with $58,030 in NFR winnings to win the $134,806.

Myers, a steer wrestler and calf roper, finished third overall out of 114 cowbovs with total winnings of $116,390.

"I'm numb," said Murray. last year's rookie of the year from Odessa, Texas. "I've dreamed about this ever since I can remember. It's the greatest feeling in the world. Murray didn't place in Sunday's competition, but managed to stay on his horses in both the bareback and saddle bronc events to win enough overall money to make him the yearlong champion. Five of the seven defending champions also won their respective events as the $2.3 million event ended the rodeo season after 10 go-arounds. Roper Clay O'Brien Cooper, of Gilbert, Ariz., earned $34,390 in the rodeo to finish second overall at $117,489. Murray clinched the overall title by scoring a 78 on his last bareback ride, a score that didn't earn him any money for the day but tied him for second for the entire rodeo and paid $15,628.

It was the first NFR for Murray, who failed to qualify for the prestigious rodeo in his first season last year despite winning $45,977 and capturing rookie of the year honors

One of those family members was Myers, who battled his nephew for the top spot throughout the nine-day rodeo before ending up third overall.

Myers, a 44-year-old veteran who won the steer wrestling world title in 1980, had his best year ever competing in steer wrestling and calf roping.

The final day of the rodeo featured a big comeback by bull rider Tuf Hedeman, who rode the last bull to a score of 81 to overtake Jim Sharp of Kermit Texas, and win the bull riding title.

Sharp, the defending champion who had ridden a record 23 straight bulls in the NFR, was bucked from his bull coming out of the chute, giving Hedeman, of Bowie, Texas, the chance to win the overall title with a strong ride that earned him secondplace money for the day.

Clint Johnson of Spearfish, S.D., won his third straight saddle bronc riding title, finishing well ahead of Billy Etbauer of Ree Hights, S.D., and his brother, Robert Etbauer of Goodwell, Okla.

Clay O'Brien Cooper teamed with Jake Barnes of Bloomfield, N.M., to win their fifth straight team roping championship. The pair finished second Sunday to push their season earnings to $90.454 rallied to beat the Los Angeles Lakers 108-103 Sunday night with a game plan a lot of clubs wouldn't have tried, let alone expect to give them a chance to win.

In the only woman's event, barrel racing, Charmayne Rodman of Galt, Calif., won her sixth consecutive title by overcoming Marlene Eddleman of Ramah, Colo., on the last ride to finish with $96,651 in season earnings.

Orlando wanted to run with Los Angeles, and for 312 quarters the strategy failed. Poor shooting eventually undermined the Lakers, though, and the Magic swept past the team with the NBA's best record (14-5) with a 23-4 spurt in the final 6:28

We had 42 minutes of very good basketball, and then we just totally collapsed," Los Angeles coach Pat Riley said. "It's totally unlike us to do this. This is one of the worst collapses I have ever seen. You've got to learn to close out games in this league. You have to have a killer instinct.

The victory was the fifth for Orlando against a playoff team from last year. The Lakers, who led 85-73 after three quarters and 99-85 before the Magic made its move, hit only six of 22 field goals in the last quarter and shot 39.3 percent (35 of 89) for the game.

Terry Catledge had 26 points and 12 rebounds to lead Orlando (8-11), which snapped a four-game losing streak and set an NBA record for the fastest start by a first-year team after 19 games.

Kansas stomps Kentucky

By The Associated Press Kentucky's illustrious but probation-riddled basketball program learned the hard way what the NCAA hath wrought.

The Wildcats, in the first of a three-year probation for violating NCAA rules, went to Lawrence, Kan. not far from the NCAA's back yard, Saturday and were pounded 150-95 by second-ranked Kansas — the most points the Jayhawks have ever scored and the most Kentucky has ever surrendered.

However, Kentucky couldn't lay claim to giving up the most points Saturday. That honor, as usual, went to U.S. International, a 166-101 loser to No. 10 Arkansas.

Missouri scored 11 straight points for a 58-34 lead with 15:25 left. Doug Smith and Anthony Peeler had 23 points apiece for the Tigers (7-0).

No. 7 Illinois 96, Metro St. 62 Marcus Liberty had 16 points for Illinois (5-0) as Lou Henson got his 300th victory as head coach of the Illini — his 540th overall — in the championship game of the Illini Classic. Illinois led 52-27 at halftime.

No. 11 Louisville 75, W. Kentucky

Everick Sullivan scored six of his 20 points in a 14-4 second-half run that gave Louisville a 48-40 lead. Western scored the next six points but Louisville got five points from LaBradford Smith and four from Felton Spencer in an 11-2 burst that put the game out of reach and offset the Cardinals' worst shooting performance of the season (25 of 59. 42.4 percent)

No. 13 UCLA 83, San Diego 74 Trevor Wilson scored 10 of his 25 points in a 20-5 second-half run that helped UCLA turn a one-point lead into a rout. The Bruins led 79-63 after holding San Diego to one field goal in 612 minutes.

No. 14 Indiana 92, Long Beach St.

Eric Anderson and Lawrence Funderburke scored 26 points apiece as Indiana (6-0) won its Indiana Classic. The Hoosiers have won all 32 of their games in the 16 tournaments.

No. 15 St. John's 58, Hofstra 47 Boo Harvey's 15 points led St. John's over Hofstra in a matchup of the two oldest coaches in Division I. Lou Carnesecca of St. John's is 64, Butch van Breda Kolff of Hofstra is 67. Iowa 87, No. 17 North Carolina 74

Ray Thompson's 27 points paced Iowa (6-0), which held off a secondhalf charge by North Carolina. The Tar Heels cut Iowa's lead to 70-66 with 5:06 left but the Hawkeyes scored the next seven points. North Carolina has lost four of its first eight games for the first time in Dean Smith's 29 years as coach. No. 21 Alabama 71, E. Kentucky 52

Alabama scored 14 straight points to erase a 14-13 Eastern Kentucky lead and won easily behind Robert Horry's 16 points.

W. Virginia 97, No. 22 Pitt 93 Tracy Shelton had 24 of his 36 points in the second half. Charles Becton added 19 and Steve Berger had 18 points and 16 assists. The score was 81-81 at the end of regulation and 87-87 after the first overtime. Pitt's Darelle Porter had a chance to win it at the end of the first overtime but missed the second half of a one-and-one.

Penn St. 61, No. 23 Temple 59 Monroe Brown made two free throws with 25 seconds left as Penn State beat Temple for the first time in 13 games and posted its first 5-0 start since 1934. Freddie Barnes scored 17 points for Penn State, which held Temple's Mark Macon to 10, 12 below his average. Macon was held scoreless for the first

NHL votes to expand

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) The Toronto Maple Leafs were the only dissenting team as the rest of the NHL voted in favor of the league's most aggressive expansion plan since 1967, The Canadian Press has learned

The NHL didn't release the final vote, but a rival team official, who asked not to be identified, said Sunday that the final vote count was 20-1 to change the NHL from a league by the turn of the century.

Unpredictable team owner Harold Ballard didn't attend the board meetings, where the plan was finalized Saturday and announced by NHL president John Ziegler.

orders," the source said. "It wasn't like they made a big fuss about it. This was an amazingly unified decision." The Leafs' vote was cast by were just following the boss' team lawyer Roseanne Rocci. 'I don't think I should be discussing the instructions given me by Mr. Ballard." Rocci said Sunday. "We are not supposed to be discussing the vote with anyone.'

Leafs general manager 21-team league to a 28-team Floyd Smith said the league has imposed a fine of $250,000 for breaking the gag order.

"There is a gag order so you can speculate all you want," Smith said from his home in a Buffalo, N.Y, suburb.

The plan calls for one to three teams to be added as "I think the Maple Leafs early as 1992-93.

Eagles<sub>-</sub>

The Eagles opened the scoring on Cunningham's 4-yard pass to Cris Carter in the end zone for a 7-0 lead 58 seconds into the second quarter. The Eagles started the 75-yard, 14-play drive after taking over at their 25 following a missed Dallas field goal

Philadelphia boosted it to 14-0 with eight minutes left in the second on a 13-yard touchdown pass from holder Matt Cavanaugh to Carter on a fake field goal.

Dallas cut it to 14-3 with 2:32 left in the half on a 47-yard field goal by Zendejas. The kick was set up the third when Bernard Ford returned a blocked Eagles' field goal attempt 51 yards to the Philadelphia 25.

The Eagles made it 17-3 on a sixplay, 66-yard drive that took 54 seconds. Roger Ruzek kicked a 29-yard field goal with two seconds on the clock.

Cunningham's 27-yard pass to Keith Jackson set up a 46-yard field goal and a 20-3 lead 3:11 into the third quarter.

Aikman completed four passes, the last for 18 yards and a touehdown to Daryl Johnson, to cut it to 20-10 with 6:02 remaining in

For six years, starting when Kenny Jr. was 12, the pair didn't meet or talk, according to an interview in the Dec. 8-10 issue of USA Weekend. The estrangement began after Rogers and his third wife, Margo, had what he calls a "volatile breakup." Over the last six years, father and son have tried to patch up their relationship.

They will act out a relationship not unlike the one they have in real life in a one-hour television drama, 'Christmas in America,' scheduled to air Wednesday on NBC at 9 p.m. EST. Kenny Sr. plays an ambitious

Area students and parents to be honored

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

Optimist International's Youth Appreciation honorees, parents, and school administrators for 1989 will be honored at a breakfast Wednesday at Days Inn.

Students representing Big Spring High School, Coahoma High School, Forsan High School, and Sands High School have been selected for as the recipients of Optimist Youth Achievement Award.

The Youth Appreciation award program was begun by Optimist International in the late 1950s to honor those students making outstanding contributions to their schools and communities. All too often, the positive contributions of the youth in our communities are often overlooked in favor of the negative.

Optimist International, whose motto is "Friend of Youth" stands firmly on the conviction that the majority of our youth are deserving of more support and encouragement in order to become the model citizens of world tomorrow.

This year's honorees from Big Spring High School are Marilyn Corwin and Marc Schwarz. Marilyn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Corwin, is corresponding secretary of the Leo Club, serves as news editor of the Corral, and has been selected as a Key Club calendar girl for two years. She is listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students and serves as vice-president of the National Honor Society

She has earned great distinction in the Steer Band, serving in the offices of band captain and as drum major of the marching band. In addition, she has successfully participated in the regional and state solo and ensemble contests and earned All-Region honors in both band and orchestra. She is active as vice-president of her church youth group where she also directs the children's bell choir
