Rosalio Hernandez, Free Lance, Has 300 Men Not Far From Border. No Plans Made For Disposition of Troops Being Withdrawn

By Associated Press. Marathon, Texas, May 19.—Rosalio Hernandez with 300 armed followers is camping at Rancho De Encinitas near Laguna de Jaco, 160 miles south of the border and 40 miles south of where the American expeditionary force camped yesterday. According to reports Hernandez has a total of 500 men under his command in the immediate vicinity of his headquarters. Hernandez is alleged to be a military and political free lance. It is not known whether the Glenn Springs and Bouquillas raiders were connected with the force. Hernandez has made no effort to apprehend them upon their retreat through his lines.

It was said here that Colonel Sibley's expeditionary column is expected to reach Bouquillas late Saturday afternoon unless he is advised by his superiors to remain on Mexican soil or is reinforced with more cavalry. Major Langhorne with the Eighth cavalry is trailing slowly behind Colonel Sibley and may not reach the border until late Sunday or early Monday morning.

Germany Throw New Divisions into Conflict and Slight Gains Are Reported at One Point With Repulse Elsewhere

The Associated Press summarizes European war operations as follows: Although the Austrian offensive on the Italian front is meeting with stiff resistance there at the outset, ground is still being wrested from General Cadorna's forces, which, according to unofficial reports, have at points been pushed back as much as five miles. The main approach of attack is in the southern Tyrol, where the recent near approach of the Italians to Rovereto had threatened that place, the key position in the defense of Tyrol.

The latest reports from Vienna show continued progress for the Austrians. Their forces, crossing the frontier by capturing the Marle ridge and working into Italian territory as far as Postebella, which was captured.

The new divisions attacked on French lines west of the Meuse between the Avocourt wood and Hill 304 and obtained a footing in a small post near Hill 287 east of the wood. Elsewhere, there has been notable fighting on the Verdun front where the Germans have thrown fresh troops into the conflict.

According to Berlin advice, Russia, believing that the treaties recently concluded between Romania and the central powers go beyond the bounds of commercial agreement and have political significance, has taken measures to ascertain the circumstances which may give rise to the conclusion of the treaties.

SHAKESPEARE IS UNPOPULAR HERE

REAL SMALL CROWD ATTENDS PERFORMANCE OF "AS YOU LIKE IT"

FINANCES IN HOLE

Those Present See Clever and Entertaining Production By Ben Greet Players

The house witnessing "The Comedy of Errors" by William Shakespeare Thursday evening at the Wichita Theatre was almost totally "high-brow" and far too small for the merits of such a production which was staged by the Ben Greet Players. Those who stayed away for fear of being bored, certainly made a bad bet for there wasn't a minute of dullness in any of it, the action was as swift as a movie three reel thriller where twenty-five years of a man's life are crowded into forty-five minutes of celluloid. The plot would have done justice to any melodrama in fact the ancient bard was the originator of all plots of double and mistaken identity and in this case Willie S. went them all one better and rigged up two sets of twins, each of whom had never seen the other and produced a fourfold entanglement thereby.

The language was slangy at some places, so slangy that it would put George Ade to shame and George Fitch wasn't in it. It's all settled now where the modern Georges got their fresh, ripe original slang, they copied it from Willie. Why in one of the first scenes the fair Luciana, a maiden of royal birth, says to her sister, "Let's heat it in the house. Can you heat it?" Some may be familiar with the plot of "The Comedy of Errors" but there is the greater possibility that they aren't as it hasn't been in the curriculum of high schools like "Macbeth," "Julius Caesar" and others and every ten-twenty third stock company doesn't have it in their repertoire as they have "Romeo and Juliet" so the comedy was new to the most of the audience.

It was a highly complicated plot all about an old nobleman that was about to be put to death because he owed somebody some money; good thing such drastic means are not employed today by the credit systems or there would be a presentible poisoning of the population. It seems that this old man had suffered some hard luck about twenty or twenty-five years before, lost his wife and one of his twin sons in a shipwreck and also with them was lost a servant, a boy the same age of his son, one of twins which he had bought for his companion and slave. This much was gained from the old man himself and then the action started. There was a somewhat jealous wife, delightfully portrayed by Elaine Herndon Kearns, the Ben Greet leading lady, and a husband that was rather inclined to love the ladies, any of them and all of them, excepting his wife. This husband was one of the twins the one lost in a shipwreck, it happened. When the other twin happened to come to Ephesus and wander in the vicinity of his long lost brother's home things began to happen. He is taken for his brother and his brother is mistaken for him and things are in a mess until they think they are either insane or everyone else is insane. The twin servants also add to the liveliness of the scene but the last act everything is straightened out, the old father does not have to shuffle off his mortal coil and all are happy.

All of the actors were splendid in their respective parts with the comedy parts going to Victor Lee-roft and George Hare, the twin brother servants. There was a Texas girl in the cast, Lila Bell Frost of Waco and in her naughty part of the lady who lived across the way from the fussy wife and flighty husband she won much applause.

This was the first Shakespearean company to play here for several years and it is lamentable that the house was not packed. The comedy was genuinely enjoyable and the actors were the best of any company touring with a Shakespearean repertoire. The Ben Greet Players as a rule play only out of doors but as there was no advantageous place for such a production the opera house was of necessity utilized. The stage was covered with green boughs and vines to present as near as possible the wooded scene which the master dramatist had made the setting for his comedy and in this environment the players did their best. The comedy was brought here by the senior class of the high school and brought here at a loss, the class going in the hole owing to the meager attendance. So much for genius.

COUNCILMEN TALK ABOUT BUYING AUTO

Discussion as to Merits of Various Makes Occupies Most of Thursday Night's Session

Discussion as to the relative merits of the several dozen kinds of automobiles on the American market, with a view to purchasing a combination car to be used jointly by Fire Chief McClure and the police department, kept the board of aldermen busy for more than an hour Thursday night at the regular weekly council meeting. The board being unable to agree on what kind of machine to buy, the matter was postponed for another sitting.

It was regular bill paying night and numerous accounts against the city were ordered paid. The council ordered a sidewalk to be built on the north side of Fourteenth street from Austin to bluff.

A petition bearing a large list of signatures was presented, asking that a fire plug be placed at Lucile avenue and Briwell street. No action will be taken until the matter is investigated.

OPPOSES CHANGE IN MARKETING CATTLE

National Live Stock Exchange Present Urges Continuation of Present Plan

By Associated Press. May 19.—That the present plan of marketing live stock through commission houses at the large-selling centers should be maintained without a break, as a change would mean "destruction of market values" was asserted by M. L. McClure of Kansas City, president of the National Live Stock Exchange in his address before the annual convention of the organization here today.

"Let us remember always that the paramount issue with our organization, which is chiefly a market-organization, should be to maintain the present system which is the best developed by years of actual experience," he said. "The bad has been eliminated and the good retained. To change this plan, even in part, is to attempt to handle this sort of business in some other way would mean chaos and destruction of market values."

"The selling of live stock is not like selling a commodity such as grain, where government inspectors fix the grade. Our salesmen must be experts. The requirements are so strict and competition so strong that the standard has become very high. The position of live stock shippers is one of dignity and can only be held successfully by a very high class of men."

Mr. McClure made only one reference to the legislation pending before Congress, using an investigation of packing interests by the federal trade commission.

"No business can succeed and defy public opinion," he declared, after mentioning that he had appeared before the House committee in its hearings on the pending resolution. "The packers listened to the admonitions of this association and its committees sent in interview, then and would their conduct change would not be on the grill. The pot may be just beginning to boil. To-day feeders were losing money and when market on hogs was depressed $1.50 a hundred in two days and the apparent reason the flux was reached."

ROTARIANS TO TEST RIVAL STATES WATERMELON CLAIMS

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 19.—A total of 150,000 pounds of great red ripe juicy watermelon will be devoured and the "Big" claims of Georgia and Texas as watermelon producing states forever settled during the convention of the International Association of Rotarians, Cincinnati, Ohio, July 16-20. Atlanta, Ga., will give a Rattajack Melon party on Monday night of the convention, supplying 90,000 pounds of melons. There will be an exhibit by Georgia girls and served by Georgia girls. The delegation from all Texas, who will come to Cincinnati to try to attend the convention, will give a great feast of Texas melons at 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday of convention week. They, too, will be supplied with melons. Inspection and the visiting Rotarians will be the judges of quality between the two sections, in as much as the fruit to be consumed at a certain time the ripest and best melons in the field of Texas and Georgia will be picked, packed in ice and sent Cincinnati, to be served at Cincinnati, and the better opportunity was ever afforded to judge of the two localities as melons was ever enjoyed than melon-producing states.

others would have our foreign relations governed by hot (and probably just) anger spurring instant vengeance. The political fates may offer the American people choice between these two courses of action.

The House Naval Committee in rejecting Secretary Daniels five-year building program for the navy and adopting a "big navy" program for one year made the preparedness issue of even greater importance in the coming campaign. It is probably better and more in keeping with the idea of American government that the issue be presented at the polls before a definite or extended policy is adopted. The one-year program adopted by the committee is quite liberal including five battle cruisers at $20,433,531 each; four scout cruisers, $5,571,000 each; ten torpedo boat destroyers, $1,325,314 each; twenty submarines costing from $725,000 to $1,200,000 each; one hospital ship, $2,225,000; one fuel ship, $1,363,000 and one ammunition ship to cost $2,714,000. The program involves the expenditure of $180,000,000 in building new ships in one year. It would strengthen the navy in its points of greatest weakness, the battle cruisers and the submarines. There is little doubt but that the verdict at the election next fall will be for a continuation of the development of a strong navy. It is already practically certain that both the democrats and the republicans will be committed to that policy through their platforms.

All of us must hope that some plan for supplying the farmer with money at low rates of interest will be successful, for the farmer gets cheap money the rest of us can expect the interest rate to be lower. But as with nearly every other commodity the law of supply and demand largely governs the interest rate. In states and communities which have reached their fullest industrial and commercial development and no further progress is to be expected, the interest rate is generally low because there is an accumulation of money and nothing new in which it can be invested. In communities like our own where the development of resources has only fairly begun, and where growth is continued and rapid there is a demand for more capital generally than can be obtained and as a consequence the interest rates are higher. This is true everywhere. Money generally stays close at home. Its owners want their investments close at hand. Some agency which would safeguard investments at a distance without personal attention by the owners of the money might bring capital from places where development has stopped to communities that are developing. If such an agency in rural credits can be provided there is some hope for success. The idea that a rural credit system can be devised to give credit to any one who is not already entitled to it appears chimerical.

President Wilson in his talk before the National Press Club said: "If I can not retain my moral influence over a man except by knocking him down; if that is the only basis on which he will respect me, then for the sake of his soul I have to knock him down." It is the president's idea and practice to try reason and argument first before resorting to his fists and to use his fists only when he is convinced that other measures are unavailing. There are some folks who favor the practice of knocking a man down first and then discussing the ethical points involved later. President Wilson's idea of chastisement is for its effect on the other man's soul. The idea of some others is that such chastisement ought to be the natural sequence of hot anger. The president favors restraint and calm consideration and deliberate action. Some

NEGRO SCHOOL GIVES TRUSTEES DINNER

Members Enjoy Excellent Repast—Commencement Exercises Will Start Sunday

Members of the school board and newspapermen were guests of the domestic science department of the Washington (negro) public school at dinner today, the special being a feature of the closing exercises of the school, which are now in progress. The six graduates will receive their diplomas next Friday night. The dinner was served at the school, having been prepared entirely by the girls in the department, who served it. The menu included baked fish, macaroni, English peas, asparagus, celery, chicken salad, ice cream and cake, constituting about an appetizing repast as any of those present had gotten on the outside of in a long time. The girls worked under the direction of Zenobia Kettle Trimble, wife of the principal of the school. They were extended a vote of thanks by the school trustees. Those present included W. J. Bullock, A. H. Carrigan, W. W. Brown, J. L. Jackson, J. L. Downing, Superintendent Clark, E. P. Haney and The Times representative.

While at the school the trustees saw numerous specimens of the negro pupils' work. Excellent handwriting samples were displayed, in addition to maps and drawings, all entirely creditable. The work of the manual training department was shown; one feature of this department is a shoe making class, the boys being taught this trade. Their work seemed to be all that could be required, and the pupils are said to be planning to enter this business for themselves shortly. The school has a small museum to which specimens are contributed by the pupils.

Tomorrow the annual picnic and field day exercises will be held by the children, while on Sunday morning the graduating sermon will be delivered at the A. M. E. Church by Rev. H. Williams. Next Friday night the graduates, five boys and one girl will receive their diplomas. The principal address will be delivered by Prof. A. M. Moore, superintendent of the city schools at Gainesville.

STILL MORE PAINT UPON HIGH SCHOOL

Students Put Class Numerals On Walls and Windows—Investigation Under Way

All previous decorative efforts of the high school boys were outdoor Thursday night. This morning the exterior of the building, the windows, the doors and the sidewalks bore evidence of the talent of the students, class letters and numerals appearing on all sides. Formerly the painting had been confined largely to the roof and dome, but the work of last night was quite impartial and there were few sections of the building that were not being decorated. Members of the high school faculty are threatening decisive action in the matter and investigations were under way this morning, being attended by about the same degree of success that such inquiries usually meet. All classes seemed to have participated in the painting. It is likely that officers will be on duty at the high school at night for a while in order that the building may not be completely marred. It will take considerable trouble to remove the evidences of last night's paint party and the paint was not applied with a sufficient degree of care to make it advisable to permit it remain as part of a decorative scheme. The painting epidemic started when one class placed its numerals on the roof. This started the other classes and the pupils have been painting persistently, perseveringly and promiscuously ever since. This afternoon W. J. Bullock and A. H. Carrigan, members of the school board, went to the school and addressed the boys, urging them to refrain from further depredations. It was pointed out that class rivalry and class spirit are all right, but that marring or damaging of property was not to be countenanced.

HOW LONG ARMY WILL STAY UNCERTAIN MATTER
Washington, May 18.—Unless the Mexican populace forces him to make a new demonstration of disapproval against the stay of the American expedition into Mexico, Carranza probably will remain silent for some time to come.
Conclusion of a working arrangement by the recent Scott-O'Connell conference has eliminated, for practical purposes necessarily for much further diplomatic negotiations. While there may be sporadic efforts to have Carranza's recent withdrawal suggestions answered, it appears likely both governments will be content to play a waiting game.
The United States, in return for Carranza's concessions, pledged that it would withdraw its forces as soon as border banditry is broken. This task can be the better and more quickly accomplished under the working arrangement.
Asked to estimate the length of stay of the expedition, Secretary of War Baker declared: "I can not make a guess on that. It depends upon a statement of facts."

Our negotiations with Great Britain over blockade matters and interference with the mails ought not to be affected by any threat or conditions in the German note. These negotiations should proceed as if there had never been any note from Germany.

Billy Sunday has 'em going in Kansas City. He preached to 80,000 people Sunday. Monday's Kansas City papers were largely taken up with accounts of his meetings.

More building is already in progress in Wichita Falls than in any time during the past three years and with work soon to start on the court house and other buildings Wichita Falls will be in the midst of a building boom.

It is symptomatic of at least some virtue in the German cause in the European war that notwithstanding Germany's violations of American rights and the straining of peaceable relations to the breaking point, that the great majority of American people still hold a friendly feeling toward Germany.

In a statement appearing in the Times Sunday William J. Bryan sees democratic chances in the election next fall as very slim unless President Wilson can bring about peace in Europe. Mr. Bryan points out that President Wilson was elected in 1912 by a minority vote. He says the German-American vote will be against Wilson in 1916.

The editor of the Frankfurter Zeitung, who openly professes his faith in President Wilson, says: "President Wilson has given proof that he has the preservation of peace with Germany at heart."

tions with England, which has entirely destroyed the freedom of the seas—negotiations which, though lasting so very long, so far have been fruitless. As against England, President Wilson is in quite a different position, at least in his negotiations with Germany.

"On one point the very short American note carries the discussion between the two governments a step further, in that it confirms that Germany does not intend to make its new policy conditional on the result of diplomatic steps on the part of America with other warring powers, and that with our 'expectation' no formal condition was expressed.

That the bachelor has nearly three chances of getting into the courts for some infraction of the law where a married man has one, is the inference to be drawn from the records of the court of sessions in New York City.

Representatives of the railroad trainmen are quoted as having said they did not believe that the questions involved in their demands upon the railroads would ever be submitted to arbitration, giving as a reason that the trainmen had been hounded so often in arbitrating that they had come to regard it as a joke.

The suggestion of Thomas B. Love, probable choice of the Democrats of Texas for national committeeman, that the Texas delegation to the national convention support Newton D. Baker, the new secretary of war, for the vice presidential nomination is being widely discussed.

The Confederate Veterans know the horrors of war, its privations and suffering. They have been through it all and know from bitter experience. They are not for peace at any price. They are ready to send their sons, and would gladly go themselves, through the baptism of fire for the protection of American rights.

never heard that it was the custom of republicans to vote in their own primaries and then vote for democratic nominees in the general election. The fact that a man goes into a republican primary, ought to be the best indication that he is going to vote the republican ticket.

Pigs pens that make their presence known through the odoriferous before they impress the optical nerves are reported to exist not far from the city. The pigs are sloop fed and if they reach killing size before the cholera gets them they are sold in the market here.

WE MISS LEADER UNDERWOOD. No one, we imagine, will deny that the first half of the presidency of Mr. Wilson was much more successful than the second half has so far been.

A Wichita Falls cotton broker has offered to contract with farmers to buy their cotton on a basis of 12 cents a pound next fall. The offer has been made only to farmers who can make their contracts good and for a specified number of bales.

From the declaration of independence down to the beginning of the War between the States, the Southern men directed the affairs of the Nation. They made its laws. They commanded its fleets and armies and they fought its battles.

With the withdrawal of the Southern States from the Union this presidential election has, of course, and not for two generations did the South come into her own again. The declaration of war with Spain found Southern men again in the saddle. Southern soldiers fought at San Juan Hill. The strain of Dixie's Southern men. The terror begetting "rebel" yell was their battle cry and among the generals in command were Wheeler of Alabama and Rosser of Virginia, both appointed by a republican president.

LOYALTY. The Confederate Veterans know the horrors of war, its privations and suffering. They have been through it all and know from bitter experience.

ROOSEVELT, THE CHANGELING. The editor and publisher of the Cincinnati Times-Star is a brother of former President William Howard Taft, said elegant gentleman that he is, he does not view with any great degree of tolerance manifestations of a violent recurrence of Armageddon fever on the part of any public journal engaged in trying to influence a wise choice in the selection of the republican nominee to make the coming presidential race.

the Chicago Evening Post that "every man and woman, and every child of even half thinking age, knows today where Theodore Roosevelt stands on all matters of national moment." On the contrary, it says, that even the remaining progressives are doubtful as to how Mr. Roosevelt stands on several questions.

The Times-Star then points out that Mr. Roosevelt was against woman suffrage a few years ago. Today, as a means of getting votes, he is unqualifiedly for it. He was for the recall of judicial decisions four years ago. Today the recall of judicial decisions has been relegated to the scrap heap of obsolete political weapons.

FOCUS ON FACTS. The "Sweet Girl Graduate" will now occupy the stage near the footlights and her parents will furnish the applause and bouquets.

PRIMARY IS HELD IN PENNSYLVANIA

Bitter Factional Fights in Republican Party To Be Settled at Polls. By Associated Press. Philadelphia, May 16.—Bitter factional quarrels have characterized Pennsylvania's primary election campaign which ended last night. Today voters of both parties are at the polls.

In the republican party the struggle centers on the control of the 76 delegates to the national convention. United States Senator Hotes Penrose, favoring an unpledged delegation, leads in a fight against Gov. Martin G. Brumbaugh who supports candidates pledged to support the party's popular choice in the state for president.

Gov. Brumbaugh's name is the only one which appears on the republican preferential ballot. If one of the favored names must be written by the voters. This factional contest has become so heated in Philadelphia as to split the party organization.

In the democratic party President Wilson is the only name to appear on the ballot as a candidate for president. Opposing factions have, however, selected candidates for the twelve delegates at large, although which ever ticket is elected will support Mr. Wilson.

There is no United States Senate fight in the republican party. E. C. Knox, who held portfolios under President Roosevelt and Taft, is opposed. Senator Oliver Stone has announced his intention to retire.

Both the republicans and the democrats have contests for several offices. There are candidates in the field for all other offices but no contests within the party. Candidates for delegates at large to the progressive national convention include William Plinn of Pittsburg, Gifford Plimpton of Milford and William Draper Lewis of Philadelphia.

ROTARIANS HOLD PLEASANT SESSION

DOUBLE MURDER BY SWEDISH NOBLEMAN

Brutal Crime is Mystery For Weeks But is Finally Uncovered Through Accident.

By Associated Press. Stockholm, Sweden. (By Mail)—Leonard Rodolph Alexander Gyllenpalm, a member of one of the oldest families in Sweden—a family knighted in the seventeenth century and registered in the "Riddarhus," or Swedish House of Nobles—has confessed to the double murder which recently occurred in one of the branch banks of Stockholm, and which stirred all Sweden because of the brutality and mystery of the crime.

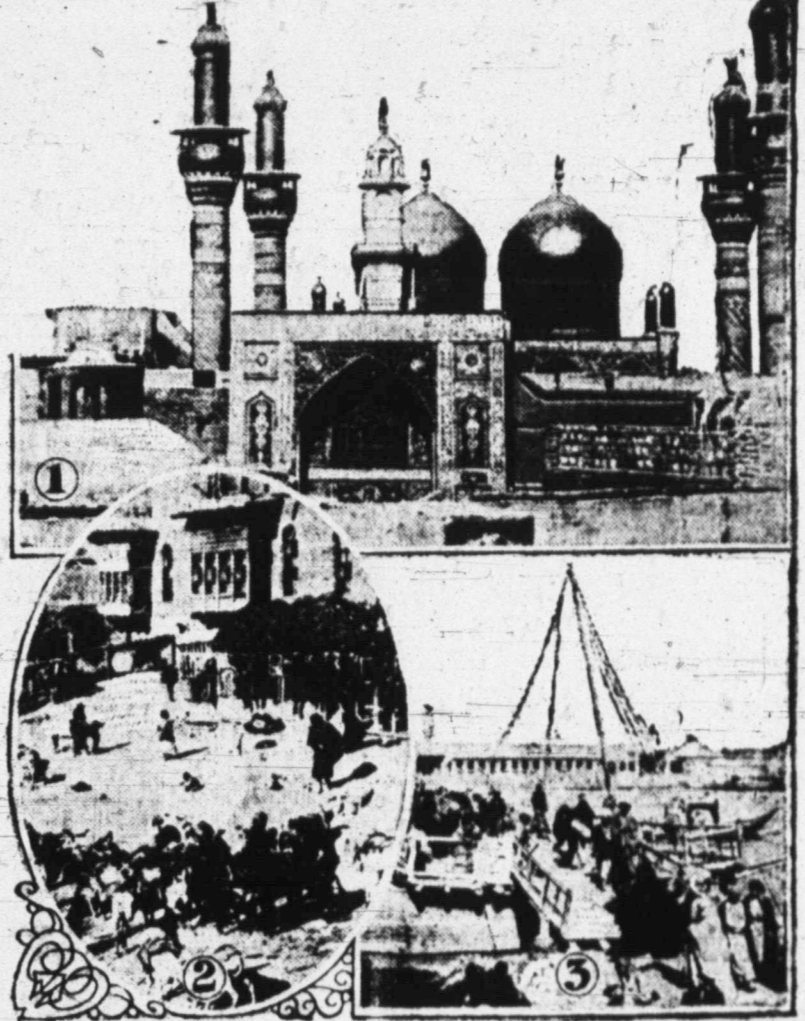

The nobleman at first denied all knowledge of the crime, but after he had been held for two days, an analysis of some spots on his clothes and shoes established that they were stained with this evidence, Gyllenpalm confessed. He said he was in desperate need of money and had planned the crime weeks ahead. He only intended, however, to kill the branch manager, thinking no one else would be at the bank at the time.
