James E. Green and family of San Antonio (son of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Green and former resident here) were much in the news at that 'deep in the heart of Texas' town recently. Mrs. Green and sons Stevan, 5, and Howard, 4, were rescued along with twelve other occupants of a burning apartment building, and their pictures were prominently published in papers of that area.

In a letter home, Green states that their only damage was water damage although total damage in the building amounted to several thousand dollars.

Credited with saving the lives of the occupants was a passing fire inspector who saw the flames shortly before 7 p.m., turned in the alarm, and dashed into the house alerting the occupants and directing them to safety.

The Greens are now living at 435 Porter, San Antonio, only a short distance from the apartment house.

Schools Cooperate In Jr. Red Cross Enrollment

Parmer County is one hundred per cent in the Junior Red Cross Enrollment, according to announcement this week by Rev. Geo. Meyer, Junior Red Cross Chairman for the county chapter of the American Red Cross. Every room of every school in the county has enrolled.

The Friona schools lead the county in amounts given. Total county receipts were $82.71; Friona accounted for $30.19; Bovina $12.25; Farwell $21.65; and Lazbuddie, $9.98.

The schools enrolled are receiving the official publications of the national organization which give highlights of the program, according to Meyer. There also is a movie in sound which describes the work of the Junior division and which may be had without rental charge by contacting Rev. Meyer who states that he is anxious for every youngster of every school of the county to see the film.

The next step in organizational procedure of the Junior Red Cross is the naming of the representatives from the schools, one from the elementary and from the secondary who will be members of the Junior Council.

In addition to registration fees paid the national organization, the Juniors of the county gave $15 to the National Children's Fund.

Procedure Told For Well Permit Approval

Parmer County Water District Committeemen, following a meeting Monday, have announced the following standing rules for well permit application approval:

APPLICANT must be present when each committeeman signs.

APPLICATION must be made in name of land owner. (His legal representative may sign, indicating that he is authorized to do so.)

APPLICATION should be typed or printed when presented to first committeeman.

WELL driller or contractor should help applicant fill out application.

DISTANCES between proposed well and existing well, or adjoining well site should be measured when distance is under 600 yards.

HIGH POINTS on all adjoining quarter sections should be known and indicated.

PROVIDE correct legal description of land.

IF APPLICATION is for a well closer than one fourth mile to existing well or adjoining high point, affected party should accompany applicant to interview first committeeman.

The committee, for the convenience of applicants, will be on hand at the community cotton meetings scheduled for the next two or three weeks. It is hoped that this will expedite issuance of permits that are urgent.

Parmer County committeemen are Tom Caldwell, D. B. Ivy, C. V. Potts, Bruce Parr and Raymond Euler.

According to T. J. McFarland, manager of the High Plains Water Conservation District No. 1, this whole plan of well permits is aimed at benefitting the individual well owner. He observes that "wells too close together hurt the owner, his neighbors, and sometimes affect the entire community."

Monday Morning Musings It's Brotherhood Week, Too

February 14 is Valentine day - a day of love for many a tot over the nation. And next week, Feb. 15 - 22, is Brotherhood Week, an entire week in which adults and children the world over are asked to concentrate their thoughts on tolerance and understanding. And following in a very few days, March 1 - 7 in Texas the is observance of Public School Week.

It seems to us that these three occasions have a common tie, each promoting appreciation of our neighbor.

Yet all is not tranquil over the world as we in America reiterate our expressions of brotherhood. Russia probably accidentally picked this date to renew its attacks on the Jewish peoples.

Branch Riskey, general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates puts it this way: "The kind of brotherhood I have in mind goes above and beyond the simple duties of one American citizen to another. . . . God gives to every human a soul, and on that basis all men are created equal. Surely our Creator is MONEY BLIND, AN-

GESTRY BLIND, AND COLOR BLIND."

America today is a veritable Noah's Ark of peoples, of interests, of industries. Some uncharted seas are being navigated even right here in our own community - a clarion call for brotherhood. "Brotherhood is something like faith", says Barry Bingham of a prominent eastern newspaper, "Religious faith is a concept most of us honor but which we neglect during the ordinary hours of our lives. Then comes a crisis. Our life is threatened, or the life of somebody we love. Our lips begin to form unaccustomed prayers that pour straight up from the heart. . . . It is the same way with brotherhood. We are glad to acknowledge that we are our brother's keeper, and he is ours, when danger sharpens our sense of common cause. Yet the common cause is always there. If we are all brothers on the field of battle or in the operating room, we are brothers in the plain surroundings of our daily lives.

Let's not put faith and brotherhood up on a shelf, to be reached for in an emergency. Let's use them every day. They should not be associated with death or the threat of death. They are really the elixer of life."

WASHINGTON AND

"Small Business"

—By C. WILSON HARDER

American admen are reputed to be the world's greatest creators of cliches and slogans designed to sell a bill of goods.

Yet, London slogan makers do very well when the stakes are huge.

London has come up with a new dandy in "Trade-Not Aid".

It's a catchy slogan in the best Churchillian style, condensing this thought "The C. W. Harder United States should eliminate import tariffs so British goods can feed the American market, replacing U. S. business output and U. S. employment!"

In the November election returns, the British realized American voters registered a protest against the continuation of vast tax-wasting inflation-causing foreign give-away programs.

Therefore, British policy makers launched this slogan.

Among the first to sound the alarm in Washington was Sen. George W. Malone (Rep., Nev.).

"Workingmen and investors of this nation," he states, "have been alarmed and mystified by the flood of canned editorials, articles in national magazines and one economic world columnists mouthing with surprising similarity the trade, not aid catch phrase. "It is now clear," the Senator says, "that the bombardment for the division of the markets of this nation with the low wage living standard labor of Europe and Asia is being directed by the sterling bloc countries led by England using Marshall Plan Funds."

British policy makers consistently refuse to recognize why the American market is by far the world's richest.

In Britain, and all Europe, widespread ownership of automobiles, television and radio sets, mechanical refrigerators, and other conveniences is unthinkable. Vast monopolies, or cartels, control the markets. In doing so, they make it impossible for mass ownership of goods, but at the same time they prevent any independent firms from entering any given industrial field and taking a share of the volume away from the cartel in control of that field, even though new employment and wealth would be created.

In Washington a substantial group takes this attitude. It was thought American dollars would help Britain and Europe to prosper. Despite billions spent the job was a failure. Now Europe wants to flood the American market with cheap, foreign goods. That, too, would fail.

This group believes there is only one solution to the British and European problem. That is for them to adopt the very same American anti-trust laws that they, allied with U. S. internationalists, have been feverishly working to tear down.

Years ago General Douglas MacArthur said "America is a rich storehouse that any nation would like to plunder."

General MacArthur did not distinguish between friendly or enemy nations. Today, so-called friendly nations are engaged in a drive to plunder America, with the excuse their own survival depends upon it. Yet, they have never tried to adopt the free enterprise system that has made America worth plundering. Failing to do so, they are now in the position of saying "Let's all commit suicide together."

Corn Meal and Molasses Offer Valentine Treat

The versatile corn meal that kept America's colonists alive during their first winter in this country makes a delightful Valentine treat when combined with molasses, or sorghum, cinnamon, ginger and milk to make an Indian Pudding. Topped with vanilla ice cream, it is an attractive and healthful dessert, especially for the youngsters.

Indian Pudding is almost as old as America, itself, for it was another use of corn meal developed by the early settlers. Even early-day recipes specified milk as the liquid, and the addition of an egg to increase the healthful qualities of this dessert.

The ice cream, of course, is a more modern touch, but it is an outgrowth of the earlier practice of serving Indian Pudding with cool cream, or a hard sauce, poured over it. This dessert may be served warm or cold, no matter what topping is used.

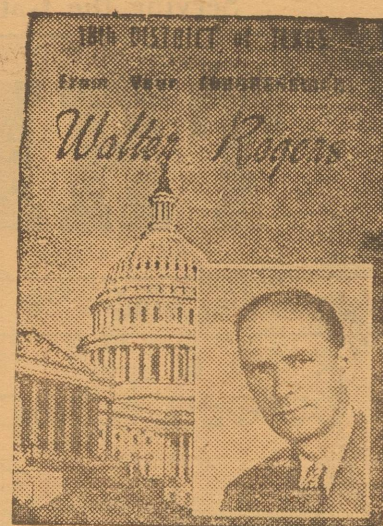

Men like Indian Pudding with a big scoop of vanilla ice cream. Children will regard it as a special Valentine's Day treat if the ice cream is first shaped in a heart mold.

Indian Pudding

- 1/2 cup corn meal
- 1 quart hot milk
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup light molasses (or sorghum)

- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon (optional)
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger (optional)
- 1 cup cold milk

Add corn meal slowly to scalding milk, stirring constantly. Heat to boiling and boil until thickened, about 10 minutes. Add butter and mix. Combine remaining ingredients except cold milk and mix with corn meal mixture. Pour into a well-buttered 1/2-quart casserole and bake 1/2 hour in slow oven, 300° F. Add the cold milk, stir, and continue baking for 2 hours. Serve warm or cold with ice cream, cream, or hard sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

LYNDON JOHNSON

Senator Lyndon Johnson, in his fortnightly letter tells of his being joined by some other Texans in Washington in calling on Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson, inviting him to attend the American Cotton Congress to be held in Lubbock next June. Subjects discussed with the Secretary included the drought and other Texas farm problems, including declining prices, migratory labor and the adverse effect of controls.

Quoting from Mr. Johnson: "We held the first meeting of the Senate Democratic policy committee last week and talked over the President's message on the State of the Union. We were particularly struck by his call for bi-partisanship in the field of foreign affairs."

THE FORMOSA QUESTION

Many news articles and columns have been written and many words have been spoken over radio and television in an attempt to analyze the statement of the President that he was issuing a directive withdrawing the 7th fleet from its present assignment between the island of Formosa and the Red China coast. Many of them have concluded that the end result will be an attack on the Red China coast by the Chinese Nationalist forces. As all of you know, I have long been a strong advocate of a policy of employing the Chinese Nationalist forces to the utmost of their abilities and to increase as much as possible their potentialities for operations against the Red legions. I sincerely hope that the forces of Chiang Kai-shek can mount a major onslaught in the nature of an invasion force against Red China. However, I doubt that under the present circumstances such result will be recognized within the near future unless a tremendous amount of aid is furnished by the United States naval and ground forces. The chances for a successful invasion by the Chinese Nationalist forces would have been much better had such invasion attack been a surprise attack. Many people here are wondering why advance notice should be given to the Red forces as to possible or probable military movements of the UN forces. Certainly the Red Chinese would lose no time in setting up a formidable defense against a possible invasion force if they are given advance notice as to the general locality in which such invasion might be attempted. The setting up of such defenses would require less manpower and less withdrawal of troops from Korea than would be necessary if the Reds were forced to defend against a surprise attack. If the Reds are going to be informed in advance of the possible or probable strikes of the UN forces, their need for espionage service will be reduced to a minimum. There have been suspicions that the Red forces have been obtaining vital information on troop movements through their member of the UN, towit, Russia. The recent uncovering of personnel in the UN with definite Red leanings would indicate that there might be some basis for some of the suspicions, I recently called upon the State Department for an explanation of certain charges made in a magazine article to the effect that troop movements in Korea were being cleared through a division of the U. S. in which one Constantine Zinchenko, a Soviet citizen, occupied an important desk. The State Department advised me that such was not the case and that the United States is in control of operations in Korea in accordance with the general United Nations' principles and objectives; and further that the United States Government has not cleared and does not clear any military movements or any directions to the troops with any organ of the United Nations or any person on its Secretariat. My question to the State Department and the State Department's answer received wide publicity and headlines in

It follows that Mr. Rogers has presented in the Senate a constitutional amendment which will allow all servicemen to vote as do their fellow citizens.

He notes, and correctly so, that those being denied voting privileges other than regular servicemen are persons under 21 years of age; idiots and lunatics, all paupers supported by any county; and all persons convicted of any felony, subject to such exceptions as the Legislature may make.

He sends 4 pages of arguments against distribution of questionable literature.

Space in the Star prohibits reprint of all this and the additional 4 pages of his observations under the heading, ANDY SEZ. Discussed are made touching on waste in the state government and what is being done about it; the four women legislators who even "work harder than many of their male colleagues"; the bill to lower the age at which children can start to school; teacher salary raises; building in public State Parks; the municipal water bill mentioned by Rep. Osborn last week; the narcotics trade, etc.

(COMPLETE script on file at the Star office).

One good point brought out by Rogers: Many citizens do not know that their State Legislature CANNOT engage in deficit spending as does our Federal Government. Our state Constitution forbids this. When the Legislature goes on a spending spree it cannot put off the day of reckoning - it must face its responsibility then and there - providing adequate taxes.

WHY WE BELIEVE A GOOD STRONG FARM BUREAU WILL HELP PARMER COUNTY

In a farming area such as ours, the economic prosperity of the whole region depends upon the welfare of agriculture. If the farmer gets a good price for his product, everyone profits. If the farmer suffers "hard times", we suffer too.

The Farm Bureau looks after the interests of farmers beyond the fences. It is a democratic organization of, by, and for the farmers and ranchers. The policy of the national organization, the American Farm Bureau Federation, is decided on the community and county level.

Farm Bureau is a tool that the farmer can use beyond the fences - in Austin and Washington.

Join Farm Bureau when the membership worker comes to see you. Farm Bureau membership doesn't cost - it pays!

"Bread Is Life" By LOUIS BROMFIELD

Bread is the staff of man's existence.

Bread is wheat and wheat is earth, the good earth, the good black earth out of which comes man's food, his health, his vigor, his long life.

Out of the earth comes first a single green leaf, springing from the bursting sprouted seed that is the symbol of resurrection in all faiths and religions since the spirits of thought and faith were raised in man.

In that sprouting seed and tiny sword-like leaf lies the whole meaning of life.

Wheat and bread are a part of that cycle which is the law of the universe, the law by which we are born, live and die, the law by which we are here on this earth, the law by which we leave our children behind us . . . the great, eternal and beautiful law of birth, growth, death, decay and rebirth.

Of all of this the grain of wheat is the symbol.

Throughout history the bread by which we live has been a symbol. In ancient faiths bread has been a god and in many parts of the earth where life is hard and soil infertile, bread today is still a god.

Bread has made empires and the dearth of bread has caused famines and revolution and the decline and fall of great nations. In many countries bread is the king of the table and all else that comes upon the table is merely the court that surrounds the king. The courtiers are the soup, the meat, the vegetables, the salad . . . but Bread is King.

If there is bread, all else falls into place . . . but Bread is the King and the Foundation.

Serving the Bread King since the beginning of time have been the Miller and the Baker.

The story of Bread is the story of civilization itself.

Bread began when the half-savage animals that were primitive man stopped roaming the wilderness, surfeited one day and starving the next, his shelter only the lonely, windy cave or a hut of dying branches.

With the coming of bread, man could know that he would eat because his food did not depend upon the vagaries of the chase.

No longer does the rough millstone grind the flour.

In its place are great wheels and shafts driven by the power of the forces which the ancients feared and worshipped without understanding.

And the baker's shop is no longer a small dark cave in the narrow street bustling with people but a vast, airy, white palace in which the ground wheat is turned into bread.

And after ten thousand, fifty thousand years, bread is still King. He graces the tables of the rich and the poor alike for man with his skills and power has made the Bread King a part of the life of even the poorest citizen as well as a delicacy on the table of the gourmet.

Bread is the staff of Man's existence.

Bread is still King and will always be.
Bread is Life.

Right Seed and Fertilizer Increase Pasture Profits

Reduce your feeding costs by using pastures that are planted right and correctly fertilized is the program advanced in a prize-winning essay by Robert V. Glynn of Oklahoma.

Everyone knows that the ideal feed for livestock is fresh, lush green grass and legumes. This "ice cream" feed is also cheapest, considering cost and total digestible nutrients. The closer we come to duplicating spring pasture conditions the year around, the larger will be the margin between feed costs and milk checks.

Plant a mixture of tame grasses and legumes adapted to your soil and climatic conditions. Legumes should always be included to increase protein content of the forage and stimulate the growth of grasses by supplying a readily available form of nitrogen.

In the South winter legumes may be best. These furnish a longer grazing and reduce summer competition between grasses and legumes. Pasture must be considered a crop. Only those grasses and legumes adapted to your soil and climate can be counted on for best production.

Determine which land should be kept permanently in pasture, which abandoned land should be built up so that it will produce pasture, and which cropland should be converted to pasture.

Don't waste time and money by planting seed of permanent pasture plants on loosely-tilled soil. Leave dead vegetation on the surface. Disc lightly instead of plowing, and harrow thoroughly. Use high quality seed. Inoculate legume seed with the right inoculant. Use a drill for sowing and follow with a packer or a home-made roller.

Results of Indiana Pasture Survey

	Total digestible annual nutrients per acre	Per cent of total nutrients
Pasture	1.5	1.5%
Grain	3.5	3.5%
Hay	20.5	20.5%

Best stands, best grown and the least amount of damage from freezing or drought are likely to occur on these fields planted with a drill on a very firm seedbed. Don't expect a quick stand. Pastures aren't developed overnight. If you have a rather thin stand it is usually best to let the plants spread by themselves.

Before planting, lime should be applied, if needed, and worked into the soil, since the legumes need a neutral soil for best growth. Legumes also need phosphorus. If the legumes selected can utilize rock phosphate, it will be a cheaper source.

Run-down soils that would no longer support a vigorous growth of pasture crops can be profitably renovated by thorough soil treatments, seeding and fertilizing to produce good pasture once more. Pasture is a crop that should be given fertilizer treatments equal to other crops. Pasture can be produced much cheaper than a grain crop.

In Indiana recently a survey showed that pasture is the "pay-off" crop (See Table). Check your feed list and you will find pasture is the cheapest feed. Pasture improvement through the use of the highest quality seed, adequate fertilizer of the right kind and better cultural practices may be your key to a better farm income.

Poor Seed at Any Price Is Always Too Costly

Progressive farmers recognize that the kind and quality of seed they sow largely determine the value and quality of their crop. They have learned they cannot save money by buying uncleaned or superficially cleaned seed from a neighbor or cheap seed from an unknown truck peddler without documented tests of its purity and germination. Experience has shown such "cheap seed" is really the most costly seed they can buy.

Yet a large part of the seed grain used for sowing is only farm cleaned. Much of it is sown as it comes from the combine or thresher, a practice that should be discouraged.

Where the fields have been kept relatively free from weeds and the farmer maintains a seed increase plot for each variety grown, so that the seed is kept pure and as free as possible from weeds and disease, the use of farm-cleaned seed grain for large acreages may be defended, but this advice does not apply to small-seeded legumes and grass seeds.

It is out of the question for every farmer who wishes to sow alfalfa, red clover, Ladino clover, hairy vetch, bromegrass, orchardgrass or any one of many other legumes and grasses to produce his own seed, or if he does produce it, to obtain the high quality, disease-free and weed-free seed he desires for sowing.

The seed industry has millions of dollars invested in regular and special seed cleaning

- What Makes Good Seed
1. Adapted variety
 2. High yield records
 3. High quality of crop
 4. High seed purity
 5. Small total weed seeds
 6. Freedom from noxious weeds
 7. High germination
 8. Freedom from diseases

machinery. The big plants operate their own seed-testing laboratories, employ skilled workmen and technicians, to process, refine and control the quality of farm seed from its original country-run or rough-cleaned state into the high quality standards required by present-day agriculture.

Considered on price alone, the difference between high-quality cleaned and farm-cleaned seed is very little. Take red clover, at 50 cents per pound for high quality, tested seed against say 35 cents for the unknown quality, the so-called "bargain" seed. At 10 pounds per acre, the difference is only $1.50 per acre.

The seed cost is small compared with the expense of preparing the land and doing the seeding. It is certainly folly to risk a poor stand or invite an infestation of weeds or disease when for so little more these unnecessary risks can be avoided.

Recleaned, reined, tested and cleaned seed is the most economical seed to use. It gives you the kind of crop insurance you want at low cost.

WALTER ROGERS:
 a number of Eastern papers. The matter was also treated in a Paris, France, newspaper, a clipping of which was recently forwarded to me by some friend of mine in the Canary Islands.

THE TWO BILLS THAT PASSED THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES ON FEB. 3RD:

As most of you already know, the House passed and sent to the Senate the bill extending the Reorganization Act and giving President Eisenhower the same powers of reorganization that were held by the former president. These were the powers requested by the President and about which I wrote in the newsletter last week. After much wrangling on the floor between the two factions on the Republican side of the aisle, the several amendments were offered and defeated. The bill was then passed in the form requested by President Eisenhower by an overwhelming majority, as it should have been. Although I question the basic constitutionality of permitting the Executive Branch to legislate, as I pointed out last week, the new President is entitled to have the full support and cooperation of the Congress in carrying out the wishes of the American people. The other bill that passed the House was requested by Secretary of State Dulles. It created a new Under Secretary of State at a salary of $17,500 per year. The new Congressman at Large from Texas, the Honorable Martin Dies, offered an amendment to this bill reducing the salary to the same figure as the salary received by Senators and Congressmen. He made a very able presentation of this amendment and pointed out, among other things, a very pertinent item. He called to the attention of the House the fact that many of our problems and troubles have been caused by so-called "brain trusters" that have been put into the Executive Branch of the Government at a salary substantially higher than that received by the elected representatives of the people, to say nothing of the fact that these executive officers have in many instances a car and chauffeur furnished by the Government and expense accounts that are amply sufficient. In fact, one of these jobs at $17,500 per year with the other emoluments of the office actually gives to the holder of that office an overall income of between $25,000 and $30,000 per year, on much of which he is not required to pay income taxes. It is also well to remember that there has been much criticism during the past several years about the vast numbers of employees in the State Department and the fact that it is over-stuffed, especially in the foreign offices. I supported Mr.

Dies' amendment and voted against the bill on final passage for the reason that I do not believe that you can cut the federal payroll by creating additional jobs, which will in turn require the assignment of additional employees to that particular field.

As Told to Betty Blake

Noted sportscaster MEL ALLEN, sports chairman of the Cigar Harvest Festival, hails from Alabama where athletes are tough and the food hot and hearty. Mel goes for "hot" dishes like this tasty, spicy Chile Con Carne, a superb man's dish. "Every man is a bachelor at heart," says Mel who happens to be one in fact as well, "and this is a typical bachelor's delight." Appeal to men with this economical easy-to-prepare dish, a long-time family favorite.

CHILI CON CARNE

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 2 1/2 cups cooked tomatoes
- 2 1/2 cups cooked kidney beans
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoons chili powder
- 1 1/2 cups over-popped rice cereal
- 2 teaspoons melted butter or margarine

Cook beef and onion in heated fat stirring to separate meat into small particles. Add tomatoes, kidney beans and seasonings; stir well. Cover and simmer about 20 minutes or until meat is tender. Serve in warmed bowls. Combine oven-popped rice cereal and butter. Heat in oven until lightly browned. Serve over chili. Yield: 6 servings.

Well, January white sales are over and many of us have piled our linen closets high with pretty new sheets, pillow cases and towels. Now, just a word of advice about caring for linens: Remember to reverse sheets and put the wide hem on the bottom frequently, also to rotate sheets.

Don't use pillow cases as laundry bags—strains them too much. And don't let damp articles remain with dry sheets and towels in the hamper as this causes mildew. Do mend snags and tears before laundering.

Guests love a choice of spreads for their hamburgers. Here are three: One: Mix 1/2 cup vitaminized margarine with 4 teaspoons mustard-with-horseradish. Two: Mix 1/2 cup margarine with 4 teaspoons anchovy paste. Three: Mix 1/2 cup margarine with 1 teaspoon onion.

Queen of Boating

CHICAGO—Smallest boats on exhibition at the Chicago National Boat Show here, Feb. 6-15, are only six inches long! Some of the largest craft are more than 45 feet in overall length.

Queen of Boating Mary Hartline, of TV's Super Circus, is shown with the miniature craft, part of a scale model of launching areas which the Outboard Boating Club of America is exhibiting to encourage communities to expand and improve small boat facilities. The model demonstrates launching in real water with simulated "tidal action" for eight different inland waterway and coastal situations. Drawings and diagrams of these facilities are contained in a booklet produced in cooperation with the Small Craft Division of the Society of Vacuum Oil Company. The booklet is obtainable free by writing GPO, National headquarters at 307 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago 1, Ill.
