

Further and Definite Proof - A Little Bull Goes a Long Way in Texas

We won't tell you how it got here - but it wasn't a Halloween prank, for these pictures were taken early Sunday morning at the Hadley Reeve farm just west of Friona.

And the bull WAS on the barn, facing right into the cold north wind and seeming to relish it.

The second picture finds Virgil Evans in one of his several futile attempts to persuade El Toro to descend, but it finally took the combined efforts (last picture) of Evans and Tildon Slagle to scoot the ornery critter down the corrugated roofing to firmer footing below.

Novel Ad Series Commenced in Star

A very unique type of advertising is initiated locally this week by the Plains Hardware and Furniture. This firm and the Rockwell Bros. & Co., lumbermen, will run the half-page ads at frequent intervals, carrying pictures and descriptions of new homes of the vicinity, with a salute to the owners and to the workmen.

Not only is this good advertising but it is a real public service in our opinion. You'll want to watch for each ad of this series.

City Will Try Out Garbage Truck

City employees will try out a packer-type garbage truck next week in preparation for a permanent garbage pick-up program.

This action was approved in a meeting of the commissioners Monday evening, at which time they also discussed purchase of a street sweeper. No action was taken on the last item.

Farm Bureau Report

A telegram from Senator Andy Rogers was received in the Farm Bureau Office the day the membership drive was launched. He said: "Wishing continued success in your fine efforts to strengthen America through your Farm Bureau Organization. Would like to be with you tonight."

The annual drive for membership renewal and accrual just completed gives Farmer County 682 members. With over 90 per cent of our farmers enrolled in the "Voice of Organized Agriculture", our recommendations for farm policies can be heard clearly. The officers and directors welcome suggestions from all members concerning legislation or ideas for improving Farm Bureau's services on the local level. If you believe some ideas promoted by your organization are not in the interest of agricultural people, say so. Your suggestions for improvement will be studied and considered faithfully.

Here's what was written, in part, in a resolution of the American Farm Bureau Federation last year concerning one phase of our government: "Federal employment is not a right but is a privilege and a responsibility. Loyalty to this country is a prerequisite."

There are several new farmers moving in the county from other sections of Texas, and just about everyone of them has affiliated himself with the local Bureau. This indicates they come from an active local, and we want them to feel they are now Americans.

Historical Background of Friona Schools Told by Floyd Reeve at Masonic Meet

In keeping with the "Public School Week" theme, F. W. Reeve talked before the Friona Masonic Lodge Tuesday evening choosing as his subject, "An Early Settler Looks at Our Schools". Mr. Reeve told of the school progress here from the first rural schools to the present.

His very interesting bit of local history follows, presented in two installments:

Interest in school ran deep in the heart of Friona pioneers. Not all of these early settlers possessed superior formal education. They had little high-brow disposition among them; but they all had a deep urge to see this great expanse of clean native turned into a superior land of American homes.

From the first they pinned their hopes on good schools.

In the fall of 1909 a young immigrant family moved to Friona. The family consisted of husband, wife and month-old baby girl. They unloaded their immigrant car about where the stock pens are now located. There they hitched four horses to their wagons loaded with their stuff and supplies and headed to their new home, although their house was not yet built. They thought they knew where they were going because the man had been here for a few weeks the year before and built sheds and fences. From the railroad they drove up the hill to a watering tub. The tub was located about 200 feet east of the present Main Street crossing. An old boy by the name of "Daddy" Foster lived nearby in his scale shed. He was a coal dealer and of course loaded the newcomer with coal. They had not yet learned the merits of cow chips. This Dad Foster was, figuratively speaking, the chamber of commerce, the law, but in truth a good friend to all tenderfeet. He described in detail to these new people the route to their destination. Each prairie dog town, lake, old campground or distant dug-out was described minutely. He even warned against the deceitfulness of the mirages. He knew those details would shorten the distance.

The trail led near the spot where the postoffice is now located. It then angled off just north of the present Jasper home and at that point the new parents caught sight of the school house. It was off to the right of the trail on the site of the present grade school. It was a new looking 20 by 40 frame building. Some dozen or twenty children came running out to the trail to see a new family coming in.

The young man did not remember seeing the schoolhouse the year before when he was here. He was never sure whether the building was not there the year before or did his baby cause him to look more earnestly for the school?

sently is $2703 and there is agitation for a $3,000 minimum which we endorse.

But under HB 3, the local contribution to each salary would be increased $240 per teacher, or $6,240. Local taxes now needed for salaries total $29,471.52. Under HB 3 this amount would be increased to $36,020.12, AN INCREASE IN LOCAL SCHOOL TAXES OF $6,548.60 for the initial increase needed (After the 1953-54 school year this figure would be much higher).

Doesn't look very acceptable, do you think?
But on the other hand there IS a bill, Senate Bill 24, authored by Mr. Aiken of the Gilmer-Aiken duo, that provides for salary increases to come from state funds. This we favor. More about this next week.

We wish to commend our representative at Austin for watching the school legislation as they have, passing information back to the local levels. They will be glad to give you more detailed and probably easier understood explanation of the problem if you would take time to write them:

Richard Wright, local high school student, is hepped up over a proposition that 18-year olds be allowed to vote. Likely you noted Wes Izzard's reply and comment regarding a letter Wright had written him. And Richard has received other letters regarding the movement which he hopes will become state-wide.

Whether or not you or I think that 18 years or 21 years should be the minimum voting age, we commend this student for his enthusiasm. His point: If one is old enough to fight for his country in foreign battlefields, he is old enough to have a voice in the management of the nation.

A number of states have lowered the voting age, for men at least, and a few have lowered it for girls.

What is your opinion?

WASHINGTON AND

"Small Business"

—By C. WILSON HARDER

The decision to permit Chiang Kai-shek to invade Chinese mainland, if he wishes, poses economic problems receiving close attention in Washington.

The prime purpose of the decision was to encourage action to end the Korean War, and loss of American lives.

But in the attainment of this worthy objective, new problems can and will arise.

One of them: "Has Chiang learned to quit sucking eggs?" When head of China, his in-laws, the fabulous Soongs, held such a monopoly on Chinese industry and business that it was referred to as the "Soong Dynasty".

The Soongs had closer ties with British interests, because Britain has no anti-trust laws such as America, to hinder British monopolies entering into unholy cartel alliances.

So Chiang escaped to Formosa, but British cartels continue to do business with China even while Americans and Britons die.

Today two 64-dollar questions are asked about China, if Chiang overthrows Communists.

1. Will Chiang encourage free enterprise or restore systems that lead to Communism. 2. If he does try to set up free enterprise, will British monopolists aided by American connections permit it?

In rubber, petroleum, light metals, and chemicals, there is a great deal of evidence that some American firms have understanding with British firms to control markets.

Washington feels further investigations may be made of presumed alliances between American firms and British monopolies. Continued British-China trade, plus British protests against Administration's foreign policy, may be arousing ire.

Not the least of this information would be facts on who pressured MacArthur ouster.

Many hold his work in Japan in breaking up age-old cartels and introducing free enterprise to Japan was his greatest achievement. Since his removal, Japanese cartels again wax strong, and one time infinitesimal Japanese communist party is becoming a big factor.

On the surface, it appears government becomes more acutely aware of the problem of monopoly business, and anti-trust law enforcement.

For example, the Senate and House Small Business Committees have been reappointed.

But on the negative side, the House Judiciary Committee has dropped its special Monopoly Subcommittee.

This committee, headed by creator, Emmanuel Celler, (D., N. Y.) did outstanding work on the aluminum and newsprint situation.

Many Congressmen report that they are finding that independent businessmen are not alone in their alarm with concentration of economic power into a few monopoly enterprises, and lax enforcement of anti-trust laws.

They report that farming, white collar, and laboring people are voicing alarm over the situation. Some feel it is reaching crusade proportions; may well become major issue of 1954 campaigns.

LAWs of the State of Texas language pertinent facts in regard to the publication laws. Are you, as a citizen getting through your newspaper all of the information that law says you should have - concerning the operation of your local government?

Find out by following this series of articles in your newspaper.

At the insistence of the Texas Press Association, the 51st Legislature in 1949 passed the "Mandatory Publication Act."

The act was passed because some city, county, and other local government officials had failed to comply with state regulations requiring them to publish in the newspapers facts concerning the financing and operation of their offices.

The mandatory publications act provided that "all public officers of the state, counties, cities and school districts who are

HAWAIIAN STATEHOOD

Although there has been very little progress in the Congress as a whole toward completing final action on the legislative backlog, the committees have been in almost continuous session for the past several weeks. One of the subcommittees of which I am a member has been holding the hearings on the bill that would admit Hawaii as a sister state. These committee meetings have all been open to the public and many people from various walks of life have shown a great deal of interest in this legislation. There was one group at the meeting the other day that were not particularly interested in the Hawaiian statehood, but were more interested in the mechanics of the United States Congress. These men came from Germany. The delegation was from the legislative body of Western Germany. The delegation consisted of Mr. Hans Trossmann, Director of the Bundestag (Lower House), Mr. Albert Pfitzer, Director of the Bundestag (Upper House), and Mr. Friedrich K. O. Schramm, Assistant to the Speaker of the House. They found the proceedings most interesting and informative. At the time of their visit the re was extended debate in the subcommittee concerning proposed amendments to the bill concerning the constitution that has already been adopted by Hawaii. One point that was discussed at length was the possibility of a tidelands controversy should Hawaii be admitted to statehood. Incidentally, I warned the representatives of Hawaii to nail down their boundaries so that there could be no question should they be admitted as a state. I called to their attention that Texas thought she had her boundaries fixed until some federal bureaucrats decided they wanted the tidelands. During this discussion the former Attorney General of Hawaii, a Mr. Tavares, pointed out that there is practically no possibility of oil and gas along the shores of the Hawaiian Islands because of the fact that the islands consist of volcanic ash and coral deposits. He pointed out that in the Islands television beams go through the mountains, which of course indicates the lack of mineral deposits therein. It was also pointed out in the hearings that should the water area between the islands be used as constituting a part of the islands, Texas might lose her place as the biggest state in the Union. The former Attorney General assured us that Hawaii would yield that position to the State of Texas.

THE TIDELANDS

You of course realize that nothing yet has been done on the tidelands bills. This legislation is presently before the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives and the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee in the Senate. Frankly I think that these committee hearings are wasted time because this is an issue that has been more thoroughly scrutinized than perhaps any other issue in the past two decades. Lengthy committee hearings have been had in both the Houses of Congress and the reports are available for new members. The present administration is committed to tidelands legis-

Grass Roots

More about this soil fertility program! I have been accused of being an advocate of this organic farming program as being the only method of sane and sound agriculture. For the past several years there has been quite a lot said about organic farming versus inorganic or commercial fertilizers. The organic being legume and other green manure crops which are turned under and the commercial being that which you get out of the sack as straight elements. I will now proceed to take a stand. If a farmer is determined to go one route, and one route only, in maintaining soil fertility the legume or soil building crop method is the way to go. However a combination of the two will be the system which the big yield farmers will use. Turn under a good growth of Clover, Hairy Vetch or other soil builders and then add the commercial fertilizer and the results will speak for themselves. What does the legume crop do? Through the action of the roots more water can be stored in the soil. Legumes when properly inoculated support bacteria life on the roots which fix considerable amounts of nitrogen in the soil. By turning under a good growth of legume, tons of organic matter are added to the soil which maintains a healthy condition for future crop growth. In other words a Good Soil Tilth is necessary any where commercial fertilizer is used. What is the program then for increase in yields and keeping soil in a productive condition? Work a legume crop into your cropping system. The beautiful part of this is that one need not take land out of cash crop production while growing this soil building crop. Hubam Clover seeded into wheat, oats or barley is a practice which is growing rapidly in this area. This clover comes up and lives in a semi-dormant stage until the cash crop is harvested. When the harvest is completed one watering is generally enough to kick the clover out. Hubam is an annual and will grow until frost if taken care of. The main thing to watch for is the quality of seed planted. There is quite a lot of seed floating around this year that one can buy pretty cheap. However all of this seed that we have had an opportunity to purchase has contained Johnson grass seed. Needless to say we are not having any of this and will have top quality noxious free seed as in the past. Criticism of the constructive nature and from a solid source is always good; however one needs to investigate the source before getting too huble. One of our fine citizens gave me a blast about getting too technical at times in writing this column. He informed me that he didn't understand some of the gumbo that I stir up for this thing and would I please simplify a little. I had hoped that this would never happen but since it has, I apologize most sincerely.

Better keep our eyes and ears open regarding proposed legislation affecting teacher salary increases.
Clothed in the legal and lengthy paragraphs typical of Austin and Washington levels, the proposed bills may throw you a curve if you aren't on your toes.
Most people seem to favor a salary increase for the teachers, and some may blindly approve any legislation resulting in the increase.
We'll try to clear up a point or two that we have investigated, with the help of State Representatives Jess Osborn and Andy Rogers and the local school officials.
Looks like an attempt is being made to cram House Bill No. 3 down our throats; at least it is receiving lots of publicity through press releases and through individual appeals to citizens over the entire state, emanating from Austin.
True, HB 3 is phrased for raising teachers' pay, a good idea, but let us read further and LOOK AT THE METHOD:
Under this bill the increased funds would be raised within the school districts - not on a state wide basis. Imagine the predicament then of the schools already burdened in some cases with maximum taxation.
And in the case of the Friona district, even a greater ill would be incurred. The minimum teacher salary schedule under the Gilmer-Aiken set-up is $2400 per year. Already the local district is paying more than this - the minimum here pro-

MANY HEAT LAMP USES

PUT YOUR HEAT LAMP TO WORK—Today's modern heat lamp can be used in more ways than one. The infra-red heat lamp you drag out of the closet for that once-in-a-while muscular pain or backache has dozens of other uses around the house. Home consultants of the Sylvania Electric Company have come up with many interesting ideas on how your heat lamp can be put to work—like de-frosting the refrigerator, drying your hair, de-lousing your dog, quickly heating baby's room. Once considered for therapeutic use alone, the heat lamp is today an essential household item.

Guests were served by Mrs. Tina Bainum and Mrs. Jewel Wells at a refreshment table of sandwiches, pie and coffee.

Mrs. Ethel Chitwood is Worthy Matron, and Cayce Duunn is Worthy Patron of the Friona Chapter 990 of the Eastern Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wood and daughters, Dianne and Carol of Sudan, visited Rev. and Mrs. Ural S. Sherrill last Sunday evening, and attended the services at the Methodist Church.

The House of Mary —Mother of Jesus

SEVENTY MILES from Izmir, near Ephesus, is the house where Mary spent the last days of her life. It stands as it stood two thousand years ago in Panaya Kapulu. One of the very few relics directly associated with Christ, the Moslem Turks have restored the site and have built a modern highway from Izmir for Christian pilgrims. Izmir is the natural starting point for many of the pilgrims who, coming from foreign countries, land first at Turkey's busy and beautiful seaport.

We have been very thankful for the last two meetings. Each time we only had one absent. This Monday is was Carolyn Crump. Mrs. McFarland came over and gave us our membership cards. We answered roll call with a Girl Scout law.

We were very sorry that the nurse couldn't be with us this Monday. We have almost finished our second class badge. The girls were served apples by Mrs. Potts and Mrs. Snead. We had three visitors. They were Mrs. McFarland, David and Freida Floyd.

- Supper: Broiler Meal with Beef Patties, Tossed Green Salad, Bread, Butter or Margarine, Milk or Coffee

Timely Tips
1. Use cooked vegetables (canned or left overs) in bottom of broiler pan, when broiling meats. This is an easy way to prepare an entire meal in the broiler.

2. The distance of the meat from the heat determines the speed of broiling.

Picture Perfect

EXTRA-WIDE ruffled nylon-marquisette curtains with matching tie-backs afford a lovely backdrop for sister's room. Made by Hathaway, this 100% duPont nylon fabric provides a unique soft-flowing drape, which retains its beauty through many washings. Non-inflammable, it will disintegrate but not burst into flame when exposed to direct fire. It resists mildew and insect attack and is unharmed by ordinary dry cleaning fluids.

All About BABY

How to keep baby snugly covered? That's a question which has vexed all mothers—because uncovered babies get colds.

To answer this question, the makers of Sterncraft infants wear have perfected a crib blanket which is contoured at the bottom and tied with tapes at the top. This blanket—Slumber-Sia—never comes loose, no matter how much baby rolls, kicks or squirms. It has fitted corners which fasten firmly under the mattress with Dot Snappers.

Blanket and baby are both anchored snugly and warmly, and it is impossible for the blanket to roll up and uncover the baby. Yet it does not hamper the freedom of a healthy young crib-gymnast. Fully washable, soft and fluffy, lightweight-warm, the blanket is available in baby-pastel shades. Dot Snappers—laundry-dryproof, rustproof and quick-as-a-snap to work—are a blessing to mother as well as baby.

TRIP TO ENGLAND
 Mrs. Walter Loveless and niece, Miss Joy McEvoy, sail Friday of this week aboard the Queen Elizabeth for a 3-month visit in their native England.
 Mrs. Loveless last visited her old home at Winchester, England, in 1938; and Miss McEvoy has been visiting here since April of last year. She hopes to return to the States with her aunt.
 Plans for the trip were commenced in January when the couple inquired of sailing dates on the Queen Elizabeth. They were informed that the only berths available were in March and then much later in September.
 They sail from New York and will dock at South Hampton only a few miles from their Winchester destination.
 Mr. Loveless wishes to correct the statement placed in a neighboring paper stating that Miss McEvoy's parent also had been visiting here; they had not.

Mrs. J. W. Roberts, who has been visiting with her son Kenneth in Lawndale, California for several weeks, during his serious illness, returned home last Saturday night. Kenneth is improving and is able to be up some at present.

"New Homes of Friona"

About this Series:

We think the new homes of Friona would be a credit to any community.
 In this new series of "Introductions to Friona Homes" we want to salute the homebuilders who have seen fit to build here, purchasing material from our firm, another home institution.
 In recognizing the builders this week, we commend H. H. Weis, general contractor, and George Grant, plumbing, who worked on the beautiful home presented here.

About the Home Featured:

From the eye-pleasing exterior to the comfortable rooms and spacious closets, the W. F. Cogdill home is one of the beautiful homes recently built in Friona.
 Containing three bedrooms, a bath and half-bath, den and basement, the home is designed for comfortable living. It is carpeted throughout, there are corner windows in all the bedrooms, and all closet doors are sliding. Panel ray heating and electric wall heaters are used throughout.
 In fact, the many features of this beautiful home would fill an entire page!

SPACE PROBLEM in your kitchen? Take a tip from Peg Riley, stylist for Waverly Fabrics. Using inexpensive plywood, she built a breakfast counter beneath the corner windows, covered the top with new Bonded Glosheen print "Fiesta Plaid" and tacked on a ruffle of the same cloth with a roll-binding along the edge so that it may be removed for washing and easily replaced without disturbing the shirting. The bar stools fit nicely under the counter when not in use. For color, the tier draperies were made of washable Glosheen "Sweet Stuff" pattern in blue and yellow on white, complementing the canary painted walls. This type window treatment is excellent for light control, permitting sunlight to enter from top or bottom.

lation, and I personally feel that no delay should be occasioned in returning the products of that attempted legalized theft to the respective states who rightfully own them. The new Secretary of Interior stated before my committee in the House that he was for returning these tidelands to the States. He has recently been quoted in the newspapers to the effect that these tidelands should be returned to the States but that all properties outside thereof should be decreed to be in the Federal Government, indicating that the states bordering on the ocean should have no interest in the continental shelf. I believe that Secretary McKay was in some degree misquoted in this statement as it is my understanding that he favored the bill that passed the House of Representatives last year. This bill not only quitclaims the tidelands strips to the states, but goes into great detail to fix interests of the states in the continental shelf. This has caused quite a bit of comment here and has prompted so much of the news columnists to say that Texas and some of the other states now want to extend their boundaries several miles farther to the seaward. This certainly is not the case. Texas has always asked for what was rightfully hers and is not trying to encroach upon anybody. She is trying to keep from being encroached upon. Incidentally, one of the leading newspapers in the East, the Washington Post, has carried several editorials underwriting Federal ownership. Further delay in considering the matter could serve no good purpose and the bill should be brought to the floor for an immediate vote.

THE VOICE OF AMERICA

There are many people here in official Washington who have never been satisfied with the progress made by this arm of the State Department. Many have constantly condemned it. The hearings in this Congress seem to be confirming a suspicion that I have long harbored, namely, that the voice isn't that of America, but of some individual who makes a personal decision as to what Americanism is, or is not. This is certainly brought out in the discovery that certain passages from Edna Ferber's book, "The Giant", were used in this broadcast. The excerpts reported to have been used on the Voice were to the effect that male Texans drink Bourbon by the gallon and that the women are all nitwits. Any book containing such statements is a disgrace to America, and the broadcasting of such a statement on the Voice of America is ample ground for abolishing the Voice altogether. My observation is that many people in this world could do themselves and their country a great favor if they would follow the examples that have been set by Texans, especially those of our fine women.
