Eubanks Outlines Interesting Spots At Worlds Fair

The Star is to be favored throughout the summer with an occasional World's Fair letter written and forwarded to us by Prof. Wayne C. Eubanks, high school principal, who is now attending Northwestern University at Evanston, a suburb of Chicago.

Many readers will not be able to attend the great fair in person, and will thus be able to obtain occasional glimpses of it through the eyes and ears of Mr. Eubanks. The first of these letters has just been received and reads as follows:

"Dear Mr. White:

I have just returned from an evening of thrills at the Century of Progress. Many changes have been made all for the better.

The weather here has been fine. The temperature has been staying about 60 and 80. We have had showers almost every day.

As for the fair—it's one grand panorama of multi-colors. One of the most colossal and magnificent fountains in the world graces the center of the lagoon. At night the silver sprays lurch upward scores of feet into the air to fall in crimson heap in the center of the bowl. High spot lights drive their shafts of tinted light through the flying mist rising from the stupendous fountain. The bewitching strains of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra belled out from the Ford Garden completes the fairy land.

The skydiver towers rise above the gale and mingle their towers among the stars. The rocket cars glide through the night like ghostly balloons. The roar of a tri-motor depicts a package of human cargo plunging thru the night gazing down on four million, who eat, drink, sleep—live. Off to the northwest Chicago's Loop looms. Architects' dreams rise into the night and wink and blink in bewilderment—astounded at the glamour of such a display of progress.

I spent about an hour watching Barny Oldfield's "dare devils" put the new Plymouth on the spot. They drove them through sand trapped proving grounds. Here's an example—in the straight way at 40 to 50, then bang into the sand traps—up, down; now 5, now 60 feet into the air, then over and over, back on its wheels around the straightway and back into the traps for more punishment. Boy! Oh Boy! can they take it!

Ford has one of the most expensive exhibits ever to array a world's fair grounds, a structure covering acres. North of the main structure the Ford "Roads of the World" grounds are located. Here scores of Fords endlessly hum through beautiful flower gardens with hundreds of passengers.

At the east end of the garden the "Bell" where the Detroit Symphony Orchestra concerts. It's all free.

I had the thrill of boarding the new Union Pacific train which is rated at 110 miles an hour. The utility of design are engineering feats beyond comprehension. It's modern—that's all.

I am sure you are tired by all this description, so I'll just have to say "to be continued." You see I could write for hours and not even get started. Give my sincere regards to all the folks and send a copy of the Star. I want to hear from everyone and the address is 2023 Orrington Ave., Evanston, Ill.

Your friend,
WAYNE C. EUBANKS

HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUBS STYLE SHOW IN BOVINA

By Rozelle McKenney

One hundred and ten persons attended the style show of slips and cotton dresses made by individually fitted foundation patterns which was held in Bovina by the Parmer County home demonstration clubs on June 19th.

Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, State Clothing Specialist of the Texas Extension Service, acted as judge of the first and second year wardrobe demonstrators and of the dresses and slips entered in the contest by the cooperators. 39 dresses from Rhea, Black, Bovina, Jesko, Homeland, Lakeview, Lazbuddy, Farwell and Oklahoma Lane were entered in the contest.

In the morning the dresses were worn by the contestants. They were judged for style and originality of design, fit, selection of material, becomingness of color and workmanship. Dresses shown this year showed a marked improvement over those exhibited last year in style, design and color selection. An exhibit of hooked and braided rugs was shown.

A covered dish luncheon was served by the Bovina home demonstration club and iced lemonade was served to the guests as they left in the afternoon.

The afternoon program was directed by Mrs. Ralph Wilson, Mrs. G. W. Williams and Mrs. T. E. Caldwell of Bovina lead the audience in a song; stanzas were given by girls of the Homeland club and a reading was given by Mrs. Travis Brown of Rhea.

Roberta Burton, 4-H club girl of Lazbuddy, first place winner in the county contest, and Cirgilia McElroy, 4-H club girl of Rhea, second place winner told of the bedroom improvement work that had been done in their communities.

Reports of the Class I, first year wardrobe demonstrators and of the Class II, second year wardrobe demonstrators show that of 160 club members there are 130 who have foundation patterns, 40 of these have been made this year. Homeland club reported that 698 garments valued at $786.35 had been made by club members this year at a cost of $494.28. 22 Closets have been made and equipped with rods and shelves to provide convenient storage for clothing.

Class I wardrobe demonstrators were: Mrs. Ralph Wilson, Rhea, first place winner; Mrs. Jesse Hinds, Black, second place winner; Mrs. W. C. Williams, Lazbuddy, third place winner; Mrs. R. N. Willford, Bovina, and Mrs. C. A. Guinn of Lakeview.

Class II Wardrobe Demonstrators were: Mrs. Travis Brown, Rhea, first place winner; Mrs. A. H. Boatman, Homeland, second place winner; Mrs. O. G. York, Jesko, third place winner and Mrs. Sam Sides of Oklahoma Lane.

Winners in the cooperators Dress contest were: Miss Rosella Dixon of Rhea, first; Miss Helen Schlenker of Rhea and Mrs. Welch of Black tied for second place and Miss Amelia Schlenker of Rhea, was third place winner.

HAS ADOPTED DAUGHTER

Mrs. J. A. Blackwell returned from Fort Worth Tuesday of last week with her little three weeks old daughter, Melissa, whom she has taken as an adopted daughter.

Mrs. Blackwell is apparently just as proud of her little daughter as any mother could be and the little lady has been the recipient of many calls and visits from her new neighbors in Friona, all of whom are proud to welcome her to their midst.

The little quotation from "Tupper's Philosophy" seems most appropriate in this case and Mrs. Blackwell takes a great delight in quoting it. It is as follows: "A babe in the house is a well-spring of pleasure; a messenger of peace and love; a trust to be rendered back with interest."

A DRY TOWN

Friona was again a "dry town" during a part of the day Monday and Monday night, owing to a break in the pump shaft, which delayed pumping for several hours.

It is the custom of Mr. Osborn the school janitor, to open one or more of the city fire plugs, one about every two weeks and turn a stream of the city water on the young trees that are set about the high school building, and he chose Monday to do that work. This unusually large flow of water does not take very long to empty the large supply tank, and it so happened that at about the time he had the tank emptied, the shaft broke, leaving the city with practically no water in reserve for use while the shaft was being repaired.

RIFLE CLUB TO MEET

The Parmer County Rifle Club will hold its regular shoot at its rifle range southeast of Bovina, Sunday afternoon. Visitors are welcome.

J. A. Goyer, former postmaster of Friona, has taken the position as bookkeeper for the Friona Wheat Growers Inc.

Jess Mitchell Withdraws From Legislative Race

Jess Mitchell, newspaper editor at Muleshoe, in Bailey county has withdrawn his name as a candidate for Representative from this 120th Legislative district, according to information received here, the following statement from Mr. Mitchell being authorized for publication:

"It is with considerable regret that I announce my withdrawal as a candidate for representative from this 120th district, and I take this opportunity of thanking the citizens of this district for their very favorable response to my activities in this direction.

"During the past week there have arisen unforeseen business complications of a personal nature which demand my immediate attention, some of them requiring me to be out of the state for an indefinite period and which would handicap the prosecution of my candidacy, hence my decision to withdraw from the race.

"I have very greatly enjoyed the privilege of traveling over this district, meeting the voters and discussing with the needs of Texas in general and of this area in particular. The fact that I have already had assurance from citizens which virtually guarantee me an entry into the second Democratic primary makes retirement from the race more regrettable to me. I deeply appreciate the thousands of voters all over the district who have reposed their confidence in my ability in promising me their vote and shall ever feel indebted to the hundreds of people in this district who have wholeheartedly sponsored my candidacy.—JESS MITCHELL.

GUESTS AT HIGHFILL HOME

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Highfill and family have as their guest at this time Mrs. Erickson of Their River Falls, Minnesota, a sister of Mrs. Highfill.

Mrs. Erickson has visited at the Highfill home on former occasions, so she is not an entire stranger to the plains country. She came here on this occasion on account of the illness of her mother, Mrs. P. C. Mitchell, who is much improved now.

LAZBUDDY STUDY CLUB

The Lazbuddy Study Club met at the home of Mrs. Price Prather June 21, with Mrs. W. R. Prather as associate hostess.

The house was called to order by the president, Mrs. Ferris Jennings. Minutes were read and approved. It was voted that the club meet at 3:30 o'clock instead of 2 o'clock, the regular meeting time. It was moved and carried that the club sponsor no more showers, and the money spent on showers to the club-house fund.

"Gypsy Days" were studied, directed by Mrs. F. N. Wagoner. Response—Where I'd Like to Wander.

Poem, "Red Heels"—Mrs. Emil Steinbock.

Song—by the Club. Gypsy Folklore—Mrs. Loyal Lust. Song, "Gypsy Sweetheart,"—Mrs. R. L. and Betty Bladsoe.

Miss Floy Goodwine, who has been teaching at YL school in Bailey county during the past two terms, has secured a position in one of the large schools of Deer Park, a suburb of Houston.

In her new position Miss Goodwine will teach primary work and rhythm, a line of the teaching profession for which she has especially fitted herself and will thus be more congenial to her. She has been elected as one of the teachers of the Spring Lake school, but on receiving the appointment to the Deer Park position tendered her resignation for the Spring Lake.

FRIONA GOLFERS TO MEET FARWELL TEAM

TWO MORE JUNE WEDDINGS

Friona has been the scene of the weddings which have led up to two weddings among our young people within the past six weeks, weddings which were performed so quietly in a Near Mexico city, that a comparatively few of our local people have heard of them.

While the first of these was not really a June wedding, having occurred on the 16th of May, but owing to its not having been announced at that time, we are classing it as a June wedding.

In this first of these two weddings the bride was Mrs. Irene Wright and the groom was Mr. Ray Springer, both being well known and popular young people of the community.

The second of the two weddings was that of Miss Nellie Greer, as bride and Mr. Oscar Bell as the groom. The bride in this wedding is a sister of the bride in the May wedding, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bell of this city.

The two brides have, for the past two or three years been the central operators in the local telephone office, who by their courtesy and patience and prompt attention in serving the patrons of the telephone system, as well as by their jolly and genial disposition, have won a large circle of friends among the people of Friona all of whom will be loath to see them sever their connections with the telephone office.

They have tendered their resignation to the company to take effect June 30, after which date Mrs. Springer will depart for Hobbs, New Mexico, to join her husband who is employed in the oil field at that place.

Mrs. Bell will join her husband at that time and they will continue to make their home in Friona.

The Star joins the many other friends of these happy young people in wishing for them a long, happy and prosperous voyage on the ocean of life.

VISITING RELATIVES AT BLACK

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Tarpley and small son of Greenville, and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Tarpley and two children of Bonham, arrived in the Black community the latter part of last week for a few days visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hays, and other relatives.

Mrs. R. E. Tarpley was formerly Miss Lucile Hays, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hays and a sister of Clyde and Charley Hays.

The visitors in company with Mr. Hays paid the Star office a highly appreciated visit of a few minutes Monday morning.

RHEA NEWS

Last Saturday night Helen Schlenker gave a "weiner roast." There was a large crowd present and all seemed to have had a very good time.

Sunday afternoon the Rhea baseball team defeated the Kaffie team. J. E. Johnson was bringing out several barrels of gas for his tractor when his truck turned over. His truck was damaged rather badly. The newly graded road was the cause of the accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Drager, who have been living on a claim in New Mexico, are back up here at J. H. Drager's.

One Rhea Home Demonstration Club took three firsts, a second and at third place at the Style Show at Bovina.

Mrs. Floyd Reeve, her three daughters and Miss Ocie Hadley and Alice Goyer were visitors in the Rhea community Sunday afternoon.

Friona Visited With Extremely Warm Weather

No rain has visited this territory during the past ten days or longer, with the exception, perhaps, of a few light showers or sprinkles in widely scattered localities. Also the absence of hail has been noted during that time, and practically all the hail losses have been adjusted.

The absence of rain has also been accompanied by some of the warmest weather ever experienced in this locality, even by those citizens who have lived here the greatest number of years.

A part of this time there has been very little or no wind blowing, which fact has added to the intensity of the heat wave. People who have gardens, shade trees, flowers or lawns have found it quite difficult to irrigate them sufficiently to prevent their withering in the hot sun.

It is hoped and expected that the heat wave will be broken at least by the end of this week and that cooler weather will ensue.

DIAMOND SPARKLES

Friona baseball boys lost a hard fought game to the boys of Tucumcari, New Mexico, on the Tucumcari diamond last Sunday. It seems that our boys are jinxed from some cause as they are too fine a bunch of ball players to continue losing as they have for the past four games. However, they seem set now to be ready to come through with a vim, as we play Tucumcari on our home diamond this Sunday.

The Friona boys expect to have their best line-up out that they have had yet, to stop their losing streak. We hope to have a large crowd out to see the strong Tucumcari team. They have one fine speedball pitcher. Friona will have a new right-fielder. Tucumcari expects to have a Mexican pitcher that they speak highly of. Baseball fans should all be out to see the biggest ball game of the season, Sunday July 1, at 3 p. m.

There will be a small admission fee that will be used to help the boys keep on playing and end their four game losing streak.

Following is the box score of Sunday's game:

HARVEST SEASON

The 1934 harvest season in the Friona territory has been unusually quiet as compared to that of the past six years, when the elevators were working double crews and long rows of trucks stood waiting in the streets for their turn to unload.

Such has been the common scene during these past few years, but despite the fact that the harvest season appears to be at its height at this time, there are no such scenes about the local elevators, and rarely does any truck need to waste any time waiting for those before it to unload and get out of the way.

So far as the Star has been able to estimate the fields of the locality are giving a yield of from four to 15 bushels to the acre, with an apparent average of about 8 or 9 bushels. Those producing the lower yields, however are those that were visited by hail storms, but not many have reported as high as 15 bushels.

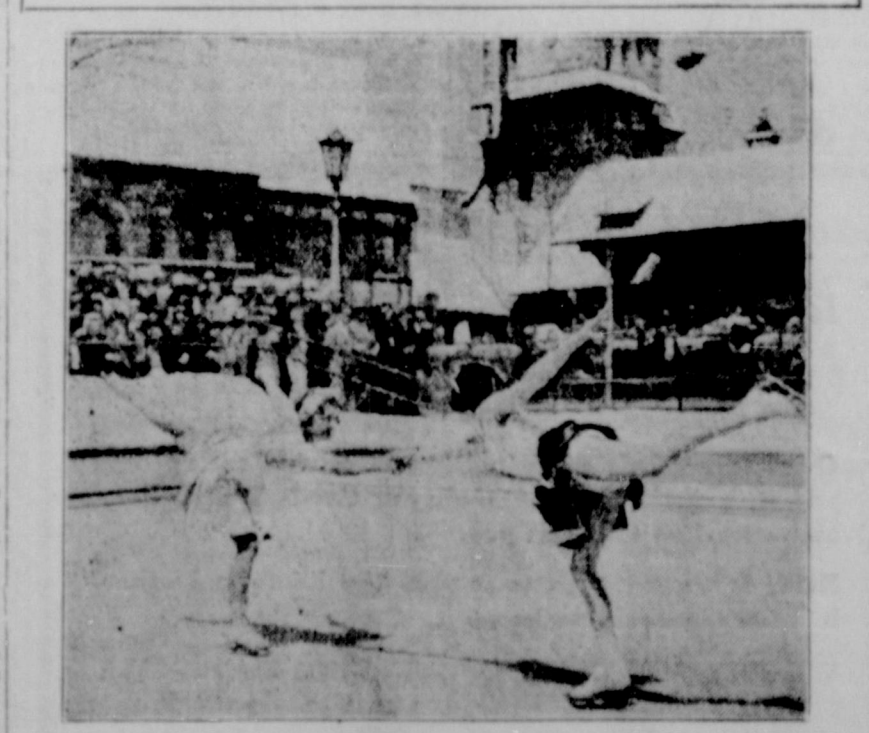

WILL PREACH AT BAPTIST CHURCH HERE SUNDAY

Rev. C. S. Burns, pastor of the Baptist church at Grady, New Mex., will preach at the local Baptist church this coming Sunday at 11 a. m. and at 8:30 p. m.

Mrs. Burns will also speak at the same place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Joel Crane of Cordell, Oklahoma, is spending this week here visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Frost and family. Mr. and Mrs. Crane were former residents of this community, moving to Oklahoma last spring.

OUTLAWS of EDEN

By PETER B. KYNE

WNU Service.

"You're a man after my own heart," Lorry cried joyously, and came into his arms. He held her close, his finger under her chin, tip-tilting her sweet face toward him, the while he appraised her hungrily, comparing her with the girls of her age in the world he had known before the honing instinct had brought him back to Eden Valley. He thanked God she wasn't soft, that she had high courage, initiative, and the power of instantaneous decision in an emergency; that hers was the old, fierce, unquestioning loyalty that was his own heritage. A man could rely on her always (he told himself), know always exactly where she stood. She was incapable of fibs, evasions, or the tears that camouflage little feminine deceptions. Her code was a masculine one, but of a quality rare enough in this decadent generation—the code of a gallant gentleman, plus that of the very finest of her own sex. Yes, she had character, courage, humor, self-reliance, capabilities of extreme self-sacrifice, tenderness, helplessness—an angel with a touch of the devil in her. . . . Well, better a touch of the devil than a trace of the cat.

"Dear little outlaw, I love you so," he murmured, and kissed her a dozen times.

"Dear Little Outlaw, I Love You So," He Murmured, and Kissed Her a Dozen Times.

times. "Make it snappy. Time and visibility wait for no pilot."

Half an hour later, as they roared upward in great spirals to gain altitude before crossing the mountains, they looked down on Eden Valley; to that tragic creek winding its silvery way through the green meadows, to the little black dots that were Lorry's outfit and the little white dots that were the home-made headstones, chiseled from native granite and marking the graves of all the Hensleys and Kernsaws that had gone before.

"I wonder what they're thinking of—up roader?" the girl shouted in his ear.

He pretended he did not understand her. "I've been so busy I couldn't get started on that new house I planned," he shouted back, "but we'll tackle it the minute we get back."

So she knew he had, at last, left his dead and his old bitter memories behind him; and there, above Eden Valley, as he little hard, calloused, capable hand closed over his, she dropped here also; she shed happy tears in the knowledge that never again would hard work, penury and loneliness be her portion. The sun was setting on Eden now, but when, for them, it should rise again on Eden, the serpent would be gone.

In June of 1927 the news spread through Forlorn Valley of the return of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Tichenor to Eden Valley. Shortly thereafter huge trucks laden with lumber and building materials came through Valley Center from Gold Run, bound for the old Circle K ranch. Immediately Crenshaw, the manager of the Valley Center lumber yard, motored up to the Circle K to see Nate Tichenor and ask for a share of this new business. He had been received courteously and told that no orders for lumber or building material could be given him because Silas Babson was one of his heaviest stockholders.

When Crenshaw returned to Valley Center he informed the local chamber of commerce of the projected outlay of a great deal of money in Eden Valley. Nate Tichenor and his wife had merged their ranches, the old Bar H headquarters were to be razed and the old Circle K log ranch-house was to be given over to Rube Tenney and his family, after the Tichenors had erected on the Circle K a country home that was to cost not less than a hundred thousand dollars. There were stables and kennels to be erected also, grounds to be laid out and flowers planted. The lunatic Tichenor was ev... to build a n... le golf course and a huge swimming pool. Crenshaw thought that the payroll for labor necessitated in these operations should go to Valley Center, so the vice president of the chamber of commerce called upon Tichenor to suggest it. "Forlorn Valley in general and Valley Center in particular wishes to forget the past and be friendly with you, Mr. Tichenor," he stated. "As proof of that feeling I call your attention to the fact that we gave you the use of the fresher waters of Eden Valley creek this spring when we found we couldn't use them ourselves, owing to the necessity for concreting our diversion canal. We didn't have to do that, but we desired to make a friendly gesture."

"My dear man, I ordered those flood-gates opened myself and I had men guarding them with rifles so that nobody would close them until our lands had had their annual soaking. That's the sort of friendly gesture I made to Forlorn Valley. I was on my honeymoon at the time and didn't want to bother with the law, so I just went back to the old Eden Valley custom. It worked. And I'll engage no labor from Valley Center or Forlorn Valley. I do not like anybody in that section of the county. And here's another message you can take back with you: within two years I'll own every acre of Forlorn Valley that is included in the irrigation district; I'll fence it and run cattle over it. At least the wells will supply drinking water for my cattle. And when the farmers in the district have been dispossessed there will be no further necessity for the thriving town of Valley Center, so it and its chamber of commerce will disappear; Valley Center will then be a ghost town, inhabited by ghosts."

The vice president of the chamber of commerce was irritated but he was also amused. "Is there no way in which we can escape this horrible fate that awaits us?" he pleaded in mock distress.

"Yes, there is," Tichenor replied seriously. "Get rid of that huzzard Babson and start doing your own thinking. Show an inclination to be fair and I'll meet you two-thirds of the way toward an amicable adjustment of this water war. Continue to permit Babson and his paid newspaper to print lies about us and ridicule us and I'll smother you. And when I've smothered you I'll buy up the pieces and own the district. I tell you, when I get through with the state of call forms that state will be out of the business of giving away water it doesn't own and that document Babson got from the state water commission will be perfectly worthless."

His visitor gazed upon Tichenor in amazement. "What a long tail our cat's got," he murmured.

"Oh, I'm only a common little bob cat now," Tichenor replied easily. "Wait until I develop into a tiger—and then watch my tail switch!"

CHAPTER XIII

The Forlorn Valley Irrigation district proceeded at once to the task of concreting its huge diversion canal. The job was completed by November first. Almost from the beginning the diversion canal ran half full and Lake Babson commenced to take form. The snowfall was unusually heavy that year also, but spring came early and the run-off due to the melting snow commenced about the middle of January.

This was the season of overflow in Eden Valley creek, the season of God's gift of free irrigation to the Circle K and the Bar H, and Nate Tichenor, watching the water's rise, knew that in another twenty-four hours the fresher would be on, so he and Hottentot and half a dozen armed men opened the floodgates, in defiance of the ditch-tender's protest and the flood roared on down Eden Valley. The ditch-tender immediately mounted his horse and rode down to Valley Center to report this act of vandalism to Silas Babson, who motored into Gold Run and, as president of the Forlorn Valley Irrigation district, petitioned the judge of the county superior court for an order restraining Nathan Tichenor, et al., from interfering with the orderly diversion of the flood waters of Eden Valley creek to the canal of the Forlorn Valley Irrigation District.

A total of 1,598 students have enrolled for the first term of the summer session at Texas Technological College, Lubbock. This is a fifty per cent increase over the enrollment for the corresponding term last summer.

COMPLIANCE BOARDS RELIEVED

Local NRA Compliance Boards, established nine months ago by National Recovery Administrator, Hugh S. Johnson, in various cities and towns of Texas to assist in administering the President's Reemployment Agreement, will be relieved of further responsibilities and pass out of existence on Friday, June 15th. The duties which they have been performing, now greatly reduced in volume since permanent codes have replaced the President's Agreement in a great majority of industries, will thereafter be performed by the offices of the State NRA Compliance Director at Houston, Dallas, and El Paso, to whom all complaints concerning PRA violations should in the future be sent.

To Babson's vast amazement the judge declined to issue the restraining order. "I hold, Babson," he informed the latter, "that the law under which the state water commission has been empowered to allocate to non-riparian owners the flood or waste waters of riparian owners, is unconstitutional and that, hence, Forlorn Valley has no legal right to the flood waters of Eden Valley creek."

"Why hasn't our Supreme court declared the law unconstitutional?" "Because nobody has carried a writ right up to the Supreme court."

A week had gone by since Nate Tichenor and his men had opened the flood-gates up in the Handle and as yet Babson had not been able to secure legal relief. Upon his return to Gold Run, therefore, he called upon the sheriff of the county and requested that official to take half a dozen of his deputies and guard the employees of the Forlorn Valley Irrigation district against attack by Nathan Tichenor et al. when the former closed the flood-gates in defiance of Tichenor's dictum. In the interest of peace the sheriff consented and the following day the gates were closed without interference from Nate Tichenor and his men. Indeed, not one of them appeared to protest the closing of the gates.

The next morning Nate Tichenor dropped in at the Bank of Valley Center and said to Babson:

"I merely dropped in to tell you, Babson, that while you were scurrying around a whole week seeking an injunction against my wife and me you couldn't get our lands had a grand soaking from that week's overflow."

Many Happy Returns

This Spring marks the birthday of the first American Newspaper

JOHN CAMPBELL, colonial postmaster of Boston, certainly set a good example in the liberal use of the mails.

Campbell corresponded regularly with the Colonial Governors of New England, keeping them posted on Boston news. So regular and voluminous was this correspondence that Campbell's letters finally emerged in the form of a printed pamphlet called "The Boston News Letter." And this was the first regularly and continuously published newspaper in America, appearing weekly from the last week in April, 1704, to the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The newspaper carried advertisements . . . from its very first issue! And this advertising, telling the reader where to obtain the goods that he sought for his home or his farm or his business, lifted the mere friendly chronicle of village affairs into the realm of a service to the community. The news-letters, plus advertising, became a helpful, informative, and educational institution.

Today, as in 1704, and all the years between, the advertisements are your guide-posts to honest, dependable merchandise at a fair price.

International Sunday School Lesson

By DR. J. E. NUNN

FOR JULY 1

General Topic:—Abijah and The Divided Kingdom.
Scripture Lesson.—1 Kings 11:29-39.

29. And it came to pass at that time, when Jeroboam went out of Jerusalem that the prophet Ahijah the Shilonite found him in the way; now Ahijah had clad himself with a new garment; and they two were alone in the field.

30. And Ahijah laid hold of the new garment that was on him, and rent it in twelve pieces.

31. And he said to Jeroboam, Take the ten pieces; for saith Jehovah, the God of Israel, Behold, I will rend the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and will give ten tribes to thee.

32. (But he shall have one tribe, for my servant David's sake and for Jerusalem's sake, the city which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel.)

33. Because that they have forsaken me, and have worshipped Ashtoreth the goddess of the Sidonians, Chemosh the god of Moab, and Milcom the god of the children of Ammon; and they have not walked in my ways, to do that which is right in mine eyes, and to keep my statutes and mine ordinances, as did David his father.

34. Howbeit, I will not take the whole kingdom out of his hand; but I will make him prince all the days of his life, for David my servant's sake whom I chose, who kept my commandments and my statutes.

35. But I will take the kingdom out of his son's hand, and will give it unto thee, even ten tribes.

36. And unto his son will I give one tribe, that David my servant may have a lamp always before me in Jerusalem: the city which I have chosen me to put my name there.

37. And I will take thee, and thou shalt reign according to all that thy soul desireth, and shalt be king over Israel.

38. And it shall be, if thou wilt hearken unto all that I command thee, and wilt walk in my ways, and do that which is right in mine eyes to keep my statutes and my commandments, as David my servant did, that I will be with thee, and will build thee a sure house, as I built for David, and will give Israel unto thee.

39. And I will for this afflict the seed of David, but not forever. Golden Text:—Pride goeth before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall.—Prov. 16:18

Introduction

Last year, in the third quarter, we studied the history of God's chosen people from Joshua to Solomon, continuing the Old Testament studies of the preceding year in Genesis and Exodus. Now we are to carry on the story, beginning with Solomon's successor and ending with an account of Isaiah, and next year we complete our survey of the Old Testament from Isaiah to Malachi. Seven of the lessons of this current quarter are taken from the books of Kings and Chronicles.

The two books, First and Second Kings, were originally one book, the Greek translators (the Septuagint) dividing them into two. The two books cover the history of four centuries, ending with the exile, and picture especially the moral and religious failures of the kings and people which led to that great disaster.

First and Second Chronicles were also one book in the old Hebrew Bible, and were divided by the seventy Greek translators whose work is called the Septuagint. The two books are the work of a single writer traditionally Ezra, and a single purpose runs through them. Perhaps the most striking feature of the books that present itself to the ordinary reader is the fact that the author deals almost exclusively with the history of the kingdom of Judah.

Evils of Solomon's Reign

In spite of the wisdom of Solomon, and his early piety, the reign of this great king ended in darkness. His failure—one of the saddest in history—was due mainly to two causes. In the first place, with the false idea that thus he would add to the strength of his kingdom, Solomon made matrimonial alliances with many foreign princesses. In the second place, his worldly ostentation demanded from his people the imposition of burdens far heavier than they were willing to bear. The indolent luxury and glided pomp of his court could only be maintained by the imposition of taxes which fell with crushing weight on a pauperized people. Solomon, before he died at the comparatively early age of sixty, had lost his early popularity, and we are now to see how his son and successor had to reap the fruits of his father's misdeeds.

Jeroboam

The man who was destined to head the revolt of the people against the evils fostered by Solomon was named Jeroboam. This young man, though poor, was able, industrious and brave. He was one of the contingent drafted by Solomon when he built the bastion called Millo, a part of the fortifications of Jerusalem which seems to have been left unfinished by David. His zeal and skill in this work were noted by Solomon, and the king promoted Jeroboam to be at the head of all the workmen from "the house of Joseph," i. e., from the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh sons of Joseph. In this position Jeroboam heard the mutterings of the bands of unwilling laborers and began to cherish in his impetuous soul the patriotic indignation and the towering personal ambition which were to bear in the future such momentous fruit.

Abijah, The Prophet

"And Ahijah laid hold of the new garment that was on him and rent it in twelve pieces," v. 30. One piece for each of the twelve tribes, the tribe of Levi not being counted, as being solely devoted to service in the temple, and the house of Joseph being divided into the two tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh. Acted parables such as this of Ahijah's were often used by later prophets.

"Behold, I will rend the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon," Really Solomon in his misuse of his great opportunities, had let the kingdom fall out of his hands. God took away only what Solomon had basely let go. "And will give ten tribes to thee," Jeroboam's alertness, his strength of mind, his ability as a leader, had been amply displayed before the prophet's observation, until the voice of God's Spirit within him had said, as God said to Samuel in the case of young David, "Arise, anoint him, for this is he" (1 Sam. 16:12).

The Reward of Obedience v. 38

"And it shall be, if thou wilt hearken unto all that I command thee." Listening is the first step in a life of obedience. We must learn God's will before we can do it. "And will walk in my ways," The path of life pointed out by God's commands. "Follow me," said the Son of God. He ever "goes on before," and the ways of blessedness are those ways in which he walks first, and then his people after him. "And do that which is right in mine eyes." Both Jeroboam and Rehoboam as Solomon before them, choose to do what was right in their own eyes, forgetting how weak and untrustworthy was their vision, how fallible were their choices. "To keep my statutes and my commandments, as David my servant did." If we are "men of the Book," we must be men of obedience. "That I will be with thee." All other blessings are involved in this supreme blessing of God's presence with his people, to be sought with all eagerness and held to with all fidelity. "And will build thee a sure house, as I built for David." Every one desires permanence for his work and security for its results. There is no such permanence and security except from God.

The Divided Kingdom

The story of Rehoboam's momentous decision is one of the most dramatic in all history. His father's sagacious counsellors advised him to use soft words and make smooth promises; but the advice of the young nobles who had grown up with Rehoboam in the court was that he should speak up boldly and sternly, and overawe the multitude by an assurance of future strictness. With incredible folly the son of Solomon shouted to the northern malcontents, "My little finger is thicker than my father's loins. My father laid on you a heavy yoke, but I will add to it. My father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions." No sooner had he made his insane reply than the assembly raised the cry, "What portion have we in David? neither have we inheritance in the house of Jesse: to your tents, O Israel: now see to thine own house, David." 1 Kings 12:16. The terrible schism was complete thenceforth, we are to read of a divided kingdom, north and south, Israel and Judah. During the coming centuries God's people were separated into two camps, when their united force was needed to repel the attack of the heathen.

Plumpness in Oats

How much hull there is in a sample of oats cannot be judged by the plumpness of the kernels. This was shown by tests made by the Minnesota agricultural experiment station, which in 1929 '30 and '31, tested several recommended varieties of oats to determine hull percentages. There was very close agreement between results from tests at University farm and at Crookston, the average of all tests showing the following hull percentages: Rainbow, 25.1 per cent; Minnie, 26.1; Gopher, 26.6; Logold, 27; and Anthony, 30.2. The studies were made because of common opinion among farmers that varieties with plump appearing grains, such as Anthony and Gopher, have less hull than those like Minnie and Raino with grains of thinner appearance.

Preserving Butter in Brine

A southern mammy down in South Carolina has discovered the secret of keeping butter as fresh as dew for six months, in cans, and without ice. She wraps rolls of butter in a muslin cloth or bag, packs them in cans, jars or crocks, and covers them with salt brine made by dissolving about ten ounces of table salt in a quart of water. The container is covered and set away in as cool a place as is to be found.

Lice Are Common on Young Cattle

Use Raw Linseed Oil Before Pasturing, Recommended for Control.

By C. L. Blackman, Specialist in Dairy Husbandry, Ohio State University, WNU Service.

Before cattle go to pasture in the spring is the best time to rid them of lice. Raw linseed oil is the best material to use.

The oil should be brushed thoroughly into the coat and all over the animal, and then thoroughly brushed out. The lice, creeping through the coat of the animal, become covered with a thin film of oil, which clogs their breathing organs. The process is repeated a second time ten days later kills the lice which hatch after the first treatment.

A day or so after the treatment the cattle take on a dirty appearance. This is remedied by rubbing the animal with a damp cloth dipped into warm water. The treatment must be followed by careful grooming to remove loose, matted hair.

Lice are found most commonly on the younger cattle, which are not so carefully groomed as the milking herd. They concentrate usually on the shoulders, the withers, and about the neck.

Cattle that rub against fences and trees are seeking relief from itching caused by lice. So are cattle that scratch their heads and necks with their hind feet. Dirt on these parts of the body, put there by the scratching, is almost a certain indication of the presence of vermin.

Brush Dams Last 3 Years; Other Types More Durable

To farmers who would like to know how long temporary check dams built in gullies for control of soil erosion will last, the United States bureau of agricultural engineering supplies information derived from practical experience.

Check dams made of brush will last from two and one-half to three years. This is true enough for vegetation to grow on the silt accumulated in the gullies and to prevent erosion of the soil.

Pole dams, which are more efficient in catching silt than brush dams, decay fairly rapidly but will last about a year longer than brush dams. After standing up for three or more years, pole dams will sometimes give way during a series of heavy rains.

Time seems to solidify rock dam construction by adding a heavy blanket of silt and grass and similar debris. Rock dams last longer than any other type of temporary check dam.

Guard Against Insects

With the likelihood that market values of many commodities, particularly food crops produced on farms, will rise as a result of the NRA, AAA and other governmental activities, it is more important than ever that such stored products be protected against destructive insects, says M. D. Farrar, research entomologist of the Illinois state natural history survey. In a statement to the extension service of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, Farrar points out that it is a quite common experience for insects to be found feeding on stored food products after they have been held in storage from a few weeks to several months. Dried beans, peas, apples or fruits of all kinds are particularly susceptible, if stored in a warm place.

Value of Manure

One ton of good quality manure is equal in fertilizing value to 100 pounds of 4-10-4 fertilizer. At least, this is indicated by tests conducted by the Arkansas College of Agriculture in cooperation with farmers in every section of that state.

These tests showed that ten tons of manure gave a little higher yield of corn, and a little lower yield of cotton, than 600 pounds of 4-10-4 fertilizer. In addition, the residual effects on the following crops were greater with the manure. This applies to manure that has not been damaged severely by heating or leaching.

The trials also showed that a better balanced fertilizer is obtained by adding 50 to 75 pounds of superphosphate to each ton of manure. Manure is poorer in phosphate than in nitrogen and potash.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Agricultural Briefs

Pruning before growth starts is best for trees and shrubs. * * * * * South Africa expects its 1934 wheat crop to total 3,001,000 bags. * * * * * More than 550,000 tons of butter was consumed in Germany last year. * * * * * This country produces nearly 90 per cent of the lard that enters world commerce. * * * * * Because of the danger of choking it is usually advisable to slice or pulp roots before they are fed to cattle. * * * * *

The simplest way to feed salt to cows is to place a block of rock salt in the manger where they can lick it as they choose. * * * * *

Grasshopper egg pods contain from 20 to 120 eggs and a single female will deposit about 20 pods. One egg pod per square foot over a field means at least 25 young grasshoppers per square foot. * * * * *

Preserving Beef on Farm

Any part of a beef carcass may be preserved by corning. Cut the beef into five or six pound pieces and rub with salt. Pack these chunks in a clean vessel of stoneware or hardwood and cover with a pickle made of one and a half pounds of salt, one ounce of salt peter, one-quarter pound of sugar or sirup and one gallon of pure water. Allow the meat to stand in this pickle for about two weeks. It may then be smoked lightly to improve the flavor or it may be allowed to hang some time.

Habits of Goat Grass

Goat grass is a wild relative of cultivated wheat, a winter annual. The seedlings emerge in the fall, and the plants mature the following spring about the time wheat is ready to harvest. Seedlings and young plants are difficult to distinguish from wheat plants. The leaves are narrower than those of wheat plants, and have hairs along the edges near the base, a character lacking in wheat. The grass fills profusely, and when abundant it often crowds out the wheat.

New Use for Epsom Salts

Rubber glass roads made from cotton, and airplanes and automobiles constructed from Epsom salts are possibilities of the near future. A recent invention of scientists of the Department of Industrial and Scientific Research is a transparent, elastic resin, "as resilient as rubber and as clear as glass. A material lighter than aluminum for use in transport vehicles long has been the aim of research workers. It has been found in magnesium, which is guarded against corrosion by the use of a waste product from the electrolysis of copper. A feasible way of manufacturing this is from magnesium sulphate or Epsom salts.
