VOLUME 1 GATESVILLE, TEXAS, FRIDAY, FRIDAY, MAY 19, 1933 NUMBER 22

HERE and THERE

By Joe Quinn

THE EYES of America—men and women, continue to shadow Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of President of the United States. The nearest Mrs. Roosevelt will come to evading their scrutinous eyes will be during her trans-continental air journey to the western coast to visit her son, Elliot, in Los Angeles. The much talked of and popular lady of the land will leave her many admirers at the air port at Washington for a breathing spell of a few hours in transit, then to be greeted again by her Pacific Coast fans. We marvel at her stamina. Unquestionably, Mrs. Roosevelt is a woman who "can take it"—a great incentive to those of her sex. When she embarks for her trans-continental air voyage the first of next month the prayers of American men and women will go with her.

Bon voyage, Mrs. Roosevelt, a pleasant trip, an eventful visit, and a speedy return.

ACCORDING to reports, books containing pretzel recipes are the ones most sought after in the Omaha public library. From housewives to professional bakers, everyone seems to be clamoring for some sort of directions on how to successfully reproduce this age old delicacy. It looks like before long fashion experts will be introducing frocks of "pretzel brown" and a "pretzel wave" in ladies' coiffure. Needless to say it will be interesting to witness the new dance called the "pretzel twist."

FRANCE once enjoyed a considerable patronage from English vacationists but when the English pound fell off many of that country's pleasure seekers were forced to spend their holidays at home. With the depreciation of the American dollar it is inevitable that the same thing will happen as regards America. That will make it doubly hard on France. Her prices have been upheld during the world-wide depression, due to excessive taxation, but now it looks like France is going to have to readjust herself and relinquish her claim on foreign suckers.

SOVIET Russia boasts of the fact that contrary to American policy, moving pictures are shown in that country to educate the audience and not to entertain. In selecting a play, one is chosen that will educate the children and under-privileged classes, rather than to furnish entertainment for the elite. All this is no doubt good in theory and probably in practice as well for Russia, but not for America. This country is not blessed with philanthropic producers who give their time and money for educational purposes.

Motion picture producers in America are in the business for a livelihood and not for their health. And who can blame them, for a matter of fact many of them we admire. In Russia, the government foots the expenses of a production, but in our country the government "drains" the producers. Income taxes and amusement taxes are the nice names given to the racket.

AS LONG as civilization continues, two things are inevitable—people will continue to get married and swap horses.

Speaking of swapping, that seems to be quite the thing just now. A young bridegroom out in New Mexico recently paid the minister who performed the ceremony, the conventional fee with two sacks of peanuts, and all parties seemed pleased. Even the bride did not take offense at the deal. The minister had an appetite for peanuts; the young man had produced a heavy crop, and the young lady was willing, so why not?

Walter R. Adams of Ireland Appears Before Texas Poetry Society

WALTER R. ADAMS

WILL WE LET FRANCE DUPE US AGAIN?

On the face of facts, France has never intended to dig down in her own pockets to pay the United States the money she borrowed during and immediately following the World War. If she can get the money out of Germany in indemnities, over and above her own reparation claims, then she would pay us. The United States Government has always contended that reparations from Germany to the Allies and the war debts due this country had no connection whatever; France has argued that her debt to us depended on indemnities she could squeeze out of Germany. And when Germany ceased paying her, France refused to pay us.

Well, what are we going to do about it? We may not, and evidently cannot, force her to pay, but then we will know to whom to make loans the next time Europe calls on us for aid.

Just now it looks like war clouds are gathering in Europe. France and Germany (then all Europe) seem ready to go to bat. If they do, the help of the United States will be needed in many ways. We wonder if this country will be as easily duped by promises as she has been heretofore? Surely France won't be able to work us again!

ON BEHALF OF WORLD TRADE

The conferences between the representatives of the United States Government and the representatives of foreign governments are well along in their course. As expected, they have dealt largely with one burning topic—how to restore world trade.

The great powers have come to realize that there can be no permanent and stable prosperity for any one of them so long as the world bristles with embargoes, giganticly high tariff barriers and similar obstacles to the flow of commerce. In every important producing country, whether it produces raw materials or manufactured products, the result is distress, unemployment, more depression.

The foreign envoys are returning home pledged to cooperate in the work of restoring world trade and building a more amicable and understanding attitude among the different peoples. The American Government is pledged to an identical policy. If success is achieved, it will be one of the brightest signs of the century.

SAFE DRIVING IS BEING TAUGHT IN HIGH SCHOOLS

The automobile driver of tomorrow is the high school student of today, it appears. This driver of the future should be a careful, courteous and conscientious motorist, mindful of the rights of all others and thoroughly informed as to traffic laws and regulations. That is why high school motor clubs are multiplying rapidly in the United States. Several hundred such organizations are actively at work.

High school automobile clubs have three basic functions: First, the teaching of safe driving principles; second, accurate mechanical information; and third, education in state, local and municipal laws and ordinances. In this program police departments, automobile manufacturers, insurance companies and all others interested in traffic safety, are always ready to lend a hand to provide demonstrations, speakers, lecture courses, booklets, pamphlets and other material.

Statistics for 1932 show that 11,960 drivers under 18 were involved in accidents, although few states permit youngsters to handle a car alone in public. There is no better place to instill the principles of any subject than in a school. Carpentry is taught in schools, but more boys will drive automobiles than will work at a bench. Girls will drive more frequently than they will cook, but cooking is taught in modern schools.

The high school automobile club provides safety education. It is no expense to the schools. Nothing is spent but the willingly contributed time of the safety agencies.

The National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, One Park Avenue, New York City, offers to supply further information to any school desiring to investigate the motor driving club plan.

What Will I Do?

Graduation time is now only a matter of days. Several thousand young men and women will graduate from high school. The next important question arises. What will I do next?

To stop where you are means, of course, that you can make no further advance until you supplement your high school training with something that will give you an earning capacity. The professions are overcrowded. To spend from four to six years' time and the necessary expense incident thereto with no women were present.

chance to put into profitable use the training seems a waste of time and money.

Teaching offers absolutely no inducement. Law, medicine, and the arts offer but little, if any, greater inducement. At this time, with the upturning of the business trend, and the determined effort on the part of our wonderful President to give us a new deal, argues very strongly in favor of a business training.

Such a training may be had in a few months and at a comparatively small expense. It gives one an immediate earning power, and the longer the training is used, the more valuable it becomes. A prominent educator remarked recently, "Now is the opportune time for young men and women to train for business."

Take the advice of this man and plan to prepare yourself for a profession that offers much greater inducement at this time than anything else.

The Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration, at Tyler, Texas, offers the very best training in business. They will be glad to send you one of their large catalogs free. Write them today, using the coupon below.

How to Read a Menu So You Will Know What You're Getting to Eat.

Learn How to Cook Them, Too

Dining out, to the woman who does her own cooking, is more than a meal—it's a research expedition! She takes tips from the menus, suggestions from the service, makes mental notes of new names and strange flavors, and then goes home to try them on George!

That's why it means a lot to know what it means, when new words appear or foreign phrases appear on the menu. Anybody wants to know what sort of a gastronomic adventure is about to come off, before he chooses. It will help you to know "what's in it" if you glance over these listed here. Then learn to name and cook them too, a la smart restaurant style!

Yvonnaise: this comes from the cookery of Lyons, France, but we use it to denote the presence of onion. Creole: you can expect green or red peppers in this if an entire. Espanogole: "Spanish." Tomatoes will be present in this one, although don't be surprised if olives or onions or pimientos appear. Con Carne: Spanish; means "with meat." Garnish simply, "garnished."

Petits Fours: little cakes, Bonne Bouche: also a little cake, literally, a "good bite," with a delicious candy-like frosting. En Bouchee: in pastry shells, such as creamed meat; Vol au Vent means almost the same thing. Cafe Noir: order this if you want black coffee, and Demil Tasse if you want a small or half cup; if you like yours with milk you will choose Cafe Au Lait.

Chaudroid: Literally "hot-cold" this usually means it will be in a cold jelly. Mornay: cheese will be in this one; usually a cheese sauce, such as Eggs Mornay. En Brochette: on skewers, as lamb. Maitre d' Hotel Sauce: parsley butter sauce. Aux Marrons: with chestnuts. Melange: a mixture of, such as fruits. Macédoine: means cut up, diced, as diced chicken. Coupee: this is really a kind of stemmed glass container; it usually means fruit in a coupe glass, with ice cream or sherbet on top.

There are others, but suppose you find out how to make a few of the best, using these recipes:

Sauce Mornay
(For hard-cooked Eggs, Crab Meat, etc.)
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons light oil
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon paprika
1-2 cups milk
1-4 to 1-2 cup cheese
12 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Add flour, salt and paprika to cooking oil, stir until smooth and add milk slowly. Stir until mixture boils, add grated cheese; stir until melted, add Worcestershire sauce.

Fruit Melange
Stuff whole figs, halves of peaches and pears (fresh, preserved or canned) and pasteurized dates with a cheese paste or with cream cheese mixed with nuts. Arrange in low glass or silver tray, with butter wafers in the center.

Frosting for Bonnes Bouches
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons light syrup

1-2 cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
Put sugar, water and syrup into saucepan and cook, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Remove spoon and do not stir candy again during cooking. When candy begins to boil, cover saucepan and cook 3 minutes. (Steam formed washes down sugar crystals which may have collected). Remove cover and continue cooking. From time to time wash away sugar crystals, using a fork covered with cheese-cloth and dipped in water. Cook to soft ball stage (238 degrees F.). Remove from fire, and pour at once on cold wet platter. Cool to lukewarm; then beat with spatula until creamy and white; add vanilla and knead until lumps remain. Put away in crock or glass jar; allow to ripen for few days. When ready to use, melt over hot water, color if desired.

Arabian Coups
One banana
1-2 package pasteurized dates
1 pint vanilla ice cream
3 oranges
1-2 cup cocoanut
5 cherries
Quarter dates, cube banana and oranges. Mix together with shredded, fresh-keeping cocoanut. When ready to serve put into tall-stemmed glass dishes. Put a spoonful of ice cream on top of the fruit in each dish. Top with a cherry and serve with chocolate sticks or wafers or nabiscoes. Serves 6.

PROPER FOODS PREVENT PELLAGRA

College Station. — Pointing out that pellagra, which caused 1039 deaths in Texas in 1932, is a disease brought on by faulty diet, Miss Lola Blair, nutritionist in the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service states that it is an unknown ailment in families getting an adequate diet as outlined in the 4-H pantry demonstration promoted by county home demonstration agents. It is estimated by the State Health Department, she says, that there are from 50,000 to 100,000 persons suffering from pellagra in Texas.

People who have enough food, Miss Blair explains, including plenty of milk, lean meat, fish, poultry and plenty of green leafy vegetables or tomatoes, do not have pellagra. It is a disease likely to be produced by a diet made up of wholly fat meat, rice or potatoes, molasses or syrup, and corn meal.

"Fresh vegetables may be had from garden in Texas almost the year around, and a canned supply of 120 containers of leafy vegetables and 150 containers of tomatoes should furnish a family of five a part of the pellagra preventive food for the months when fresh stuff is not available," she states.

"If a dairy cow and chickens are not kept, wild game may be killed in some sections to obtain lean meat, or cheap cuts of lean pork and beef may be bought. Dried or canned milk may substitute for the fresh product in pellagra prevention."

The essentials of an adequate diet on which the 4-H pantry demonstration is based, are three servings daily of vegetables of which at least one should be leafy or green in color; two servings per day of fruit with tomatoes or citrus fruit at least three times a week; 1 1/2 pints of milk per person per day; at least one tablespoonful of butter per day; two servings per day of meat or eggs or cheese or nuts or dried beans and peas; at least one serving of whole grain; and fats, sweets and other grain (flour and cereals) in addition. With the exception of milk, all of these requirements may be met for the winter months by canning or storing home-grown products by the budget used in the 4-H pantry direct from county home demonstration agents or in Circular C-76 "Feeding the Family the 4-H Pantry Way" from the Extension Service, College Station.

HOGS SELL FOR $5.35

Chicago, May 17.—Hogs sold in the open market at the Union Stock Yards Wednesday at $5.35 a hundred pounds, the highest price paid here in almost a year.

A light supply both in Chicago and at all the leading livestock markets, gave prices an upward boost early, and later gains ranged from 15 to 25 cents higher than Tuesday.

Germany Willing to Disarm When Others Do So

Berlin, May 17.—Chancellor Hitler today, in his eagerly awaited pronouncement before the reichstag proclaimed Germany's demand for equality in armaments, accepted President Roosevelt's proposals for world peace, and announced Germany's readiness to cooperate with other nations in guaranteeing international security and tranquillity.

"There is but one great task before the world, namely, to secure the peace of the world, the nazis chieftain asserted in an address which while stoutly reaffirming Germany's 'right to live' on equal terms with other peoples, was marked by obvious moderation.

Scores Versailles Treaty
The German chancellor roundly scored the Versailles treaty, but pledged his government to abide by it until some better instrument should be found to replace it.

"Germany is not thinking of aggression but of security," the chancellor declared in announcing that his country is ready to join "every solemn non-aggression pact."

Other parts of the chancellor's speech were designed to show his desire to save Europe from the scourge of war and to assure peace for Germany and for her neighbors.

Cheered wildly by thousands of his uniformed followers the Nazi leader delivered his address standing in front of a huge swastika banner, beside which hung a black, white and red flag, emblem of the old Empire.

Demands Equality
Reiterating the demand for equality of armaments, the chancellor asserted that equality is moral, legal and sensible.

"Germany wants nothing she is not ready to give others," he said. He welcomed President Roosevelt's message, sent yesterday to 54 nations of the world.

"The American president's proposals," he said, "place Germany under warm obligations. Germany is ready without reserve to agree to this method of relieving the international crisis, for she too is of the opinion that without a solution of the disarmament question no lasting economic reconstruction is possible.

"She (Germany) is ready unselfishly to participate in this work of putting in order the political and economic conditions of the world."

President Roosevelt to Be Shown in Picture at Regal Next Week

Highlights of the public life of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, from the time when he first thought of a career in statecraft to first days in the Presidency are incorporated in a two-reel motion picture subject released by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and produced by International.

Not only does the new release present a novel pictorial and talking picture record of the thirty-second President, but it also shows intimate glimpses of such other public personalities as Alfred E. Smith, Josephus Daniels and the late Theodore Roosevelt.

This picture is to be shown at the Regal Theatre next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, along with other features described in an ad to be found elsewhere in this issue of The News.

SOCIETY

Tuesday Night Club Meets

With Mrs. C. E. Gandy
Mrs. C. E. Gandy was hostess at her home, East Bridge Street, to several members of the Tuesday Night Club, with a bridge party, Tuesday evening.

At the close of the games high score prizes, ladies hose and double deck of cards, were awarded to Mrs. Hines, and Judge Robert Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Beerwinkle Honor Visitor.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Beerwinkle entertained sixteen guests Tuesday evening with a bridge party at their home, 1403 East Bridge street, honoring Mrs. A. L. Brodie of New York, who is the guest of her mother, Mrs. R. S. Farmer, for several weeks.

An abundance of pink and white rosebuds were used in trimming the house. The color theme was carried out in the refreshments.

Mrs. N. Hammack Honor Guest at Book Club Affair.

Mrs. Norris Hammack was guest of honor at a reception given the Book Club members and guests Friday afternoon by Mrs. Minnie Battle, East Leon street.

A profusion of variety colored spring flowers was used in the reception rooms.

After the games a dainty ice course was served the following members: Mesdames D. R. Boone, J. O. Brown, Robert Brown, Francis Caruth, Paul Martin, Will Powell, Clay Stinnett, Pat Potts, Geo. Painter, Hugh Saunders, Troy Jones, R. W. Ward, D. McCoy, Richard Diekey, Misses Edith and Marjorie Raby, and guests Mrs. Norris Hammack of Dallas, Mesdames E. G. Beerwinkle, C. C. Edwards, C. H. Wallace, Clyde Bailey, Gus Davidson, S. J. Mings, and Roger Miller.

Attractive Tea Given to Honor Mrs. A. L. Brodie.

Mrs. R. S. Farmer entertained with an attractive tea at her home, 1400 East Main street, Thursday afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock, for 130 guests, honoring her daughter, Mrs. A. L. Brodie of New York.

Mrs. J. H. Hamilton greeted the guests at the door. In the receiving line besides the hostess and honoree, was Mrs. Velda Bradford of Hamilton, sister of the honoree.

Elaborate bouquets of pink and white rosebuds were used throughout the home. In the dining room the table was laid in a lacecloth cover pink, and crystal candelabras in which burned yellow taper, accented the table which was set in crystal glassware. A beautiful large crystal bowl on a reflective center of the table held snapdragons and gladioli in pink and yellow colors.

Mrs. E. G. Beerwinkle and Mrs. Geo. Painter presided in the dining room, and were assisted in serving the dainty plates which further carried out the pink and yellow color theme, by Misses Faye Hamilton, Ruth Raby Franks, and Penelope Hardin.

Mrs. C. W. McConaughy returned to Gatesville Wednesday from a visit with her sister, Mrs. R. A. Floyd of Richardson.

Mrs. B. B. Garrett is reported to be greatly improved the last few days from an operation she underwent at the Scott and White sanitarium, Temple, Monday.
