HERE and THERE

By Joe

THREE famous artists got down to fine point last Tuesday evening in New York City and attempted to pick (or pick to pieces) the feminine beauty of today. The results were startling inasmuch as they could not agree. However, that should be expected out of a bunch of temperamental artists.

One claimed that women look the same today as they did forty years ago, that is with the bustles and corsets removed; the figures remain the same.

One woman artist disclosed one astounding fact. According to her observations women are becoming more alike today than ever before. Beauty is becoming standardized because every woman wants to look like some one else. The result is that they are all beginning to look alike. If this keeps up there is no telling what the future will provide. A child will have a hard time telling its own mother.

THE game of matching dollar-for-dollar between the State of Texas and the federal government continues. Texas recently made request for an additional $1,000,000 federal unemployment money and got it. The requisition was filed by Governor Ferguson at the request of the state relief commission. Texas had recently sold $4,000,000 worth of bonds for aiding the destitute of this state.

Those of us who voted for the relief bonds last August should still thank our stars for doing so. No telling what might have happened to a of us and the many needy people of Texas without a little reserve to count on.

THINGS are beginning to get "Scotch" at Washington, according to reports from national headquarters.

One day this week, when the government is spending billions of dollars, and no telling how much every minute of the day, the House took ten minutes out to argue over a dime. The House had already passed a bill appropriating $40.30 for something-or-other, and decided to table the bill, sending a Senate bill to the White House for ten cents less.

SINGING AT LEVITA SUNDAY, APRIL 7

There will be an all day singing at the Levita Methodist Church on Sunday, April 7.

All singers are invited to come prepared to spend the day. Several good quartets are scheduled to be present.

Relief Works Program Succeeds Civil Works Administration Set-Up

The complete termination of CWA activities on April 1st placed the burden of supplying relief to indigent families of Texas on the shoulders of the following programs to be conducted by the Texas Relief Commission; Work Division (Work Relief), Direct Relief, the subsistence Homesteads and the Rural Rehabilitation projects.

The successful carrying out of these programs in Coryell County has entailed the creation and installation, by the auditing department of the Texas Relief Commission, of a materially changed accounting system. The new system, known as the Donnell installed system of relief accounting, was made under the supervision of George R. Donnell, auditor of the Commission.

Of particular interest in the new set-up is the new 'work relief' card which will enable the administration to properly supervise the 'Work Division' activities. Those unemployed, who are actually destitute and are physically vestigation has been made definable to work, after a through intely establishing their relief

MORRIS FEDERATION HAS ANNUAL ELECTION

At the meeting of the Morris Federation last Saturday the regular annual election of officers was held and the following were chosen for the year 1934-1935: President, Mrs. J. O. Brown; Vice-President, Mrs. E. G. Beer-Winkle; Treasurer, Miss Miriam Raby; Parliamentarian, Mrs. R. R. Anderson; Historian (permanent), Mrs. Q. A. Ellis.

'round the square

By
The Snooper

Lucille Cox beats a constant path between the courthouse and her office, and is one of the busiest women you ever saw. Three local boys at home again, Walter Weaver Jr., Jesse Wiggins and Elsworth Hinsley and they all look like C. C. C. life has agreed with them. John Carlyle kinda slipped up on my blind side in that big red truck as I was crossing the street, but I saw him just in time. Mrs. Frank Williams doing early morning banking, while I stand on the outside looking in wishing I had something to "bank" with. Mildred Graves shouldn't have any trouble collecting, because the job doesn't seem to be work to her. Ben Waller has his car bedecked with mud-chains. "What do I care for a little rain", says he.

Wins London Honor

LYTLE POWELL

In Tuesday's issue of the News an article telling something of the recent honor won by Lytle Powell appeared. Details were lacking at that time. An article which appeared on the front page of Tuesday's Waco Times-Herald is printed below:

"Lytle Powell, Gatesville boy who won unusual honors as a piano player while he was attending Baylor university, has kept up his reputation by an outstanding achievement at the Tobias Matthay school of pianoforte in London, Eng. Miss Roxy Grove, chairman of the Baylor School of Music, has received word that he won first honors in a recent contest there, being the only first year pupil to make such a record. The were 14 entries.

Winning entitles him to play in a concert which will be given soon in Queen's hall, largest in London, and he will be given a place of honor on the program, as well as being publicly presented a gold medal of award. While he was in Baylor, he won the State Federation of Music clubs piano contest at Temple, the Dealey contest at Houston, the William Beller contest at Dallas, and was one of two artists invited to play on the program when the new Fine Arts building of the University of Louisiana was dedicated.

Voting Light in Local City Election Tuesday Incumbents Relected

Voting was light in the City election here Tuesday. Only twenty-two votes were cast in Ward One while Ward Two voted thirty-four ballots. It is supposed that the reason for the light balloting was the fact that no candidate was opposed.

Officials elected were: M. W. Lowrey, Mayor; Dr. R. Bailey, Alderman Ward One; Dr. J. H. Hamilton, Alderman Ward Two; L. S. Holmes, Alderman Ward One. C. E. Alvis Jr. was elected City Attorney. There was no candidate for this office but enough voters wrote Alvis' name into the ballot to elect him to the office.

John Walker Solicits Votes in Campaign for County Superintendent

To the People of Coryell County: I wish to announce my candidacy for the office of County Superintendent, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary in July of this year. I solicit your vote and influence on the following platform.

1. I favor the building up of community life and community spirit in each school district. I believe that the individual characteristics and customs of the people of each community are the main sources of strength in American life and that the school building should be used as the social, intellectual and moral center, in developing and maintaining those characteristics and customs.

2. I think the school in each district should be developed to meet the needs of the children in that district, as far as possible. I am opposed to such extremes of

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN INITIATE C. E. ALVIS

The era of strange things and optical illusions evidently has not passed. Spectators along the sidewalks of Gatesville saw strange things and a few illusions last Tuesday afternoon as a spectacular cavalcade paraded the pavements. From a distance one supposed that it must be the first spring outing of the bathing beauties. A closer vision portrayed a walking Mahatma Ghandi. People scratched their heads in amaze to see such a world famous character in our modest village. Slowly the mirage faded into the real as Eugene Alvis, arrayed as Mahatma Ghandi sans mustache and with fewer adornments approached leading a donkey and attempting to take a little weight off his bare sore feet by leaning on a broom for his staff.

These things happen occasionally and when they do another civilian becomes a member of the Gatesville Volunteer Fire Department.

ADAMS AND JOHNSON TO BE BAYLOR COLLEGE GUESTS

On Friday April 6 Baylor College at Belton will present Walter R. Adams and Miss Siddle Joe Johnson in readings from their newly published volumes of poetry "The Dead Lie Down" and "Agarita Berry".

Following the program there will be a reception honoring the artists.

Willie Dunn, Los Angeles Athletic Club golf pro, uses a two-headed driver to teach the proper backswing of a club in tee shots.

The local softball diamond located at the Fair Park is to be opened tonight with a double head game. The first of these games will be one between the Business and Professional Women managed by Miss Thedra Mounce and the Business Men headed by Oscar Gloff. This game will be called at 7:30. Following this opening game the Fire Department team will meet the team which is managed by R. W. Ward. Hazen Ament and a real pep squad will be on hand to lend support to the chosen team. It is expected that the Gatesville High School Band will furnish the music for the affair.

The diamond upon which these games are to be played is lighted by seven giant bulbs which were erected under the leadership of the Volunteer Fire Department at a cost of more than $200.00. Upward of two hundred people have had a part in paying the more than $190.00 which has been raised to date. Lonnie Wharton asks that the appreciation of the Fire Department be expressed to those who had a financial part and to those who helped with the electrical construction work which was done free of charge.

There are five teams already organized in the Softball League and it is supposed that several others will be organized in the near future. Those already organized are: Fire Department, Roger Miller manager; Independent, R. M. Arnold, Jr. manager; Independent, R. W. Ward manager; Highway Department, Mr.

Charlie Bauman Is in Business Again at the Same Corner Place

The old saying, "You can't keep a good man down" is apparently running true to form again with the announcement that one of Coryell County's retired grocers is back into the whirl of business again.

Charlie Bauman, has been out of the grocery business for the past three years, but on Tuesday, April 3, he resumed his former business where he left off after twenty-three years of active service in the grocery line.

Mr. Bauman recently bought out the Jim McClellan Cash Store, including the grocery and market and will occupy the same stand that he had prior to the time he went out of business, three years ago, the same location that was occupied by the McClellan store on the corner of Leon and 6th Street.

Mr. Bauman is very enthusiastic over being in the grocery business again, where he feels at home, and invites his friends and old customers to call on him.

Mrs. Watson Hostess to Quilting Party

Mrs. Melvin Watson was hostess to a quilting party at her home last Thursday afternoon.

The ladies began to arrive at one o'clock and at the end of the party had completed two quilts. One feature of the quilting that proved rather interesting was a weighing contest in which a prize was given to both heavy and light weight champions.

At the close of the social delicious cake and iced lemonade was served to about forty guests.

Merry Makers Club With Mrs. Roy Lee

The Merry Makers met with Mrs. Roy Lee last Thursday afternoon.

The ladies cut out their dresses, colors being blue and white. They also finished their Club quilt, and are still looking forward to the Club rally at Pearl.

Mrs. Sties gave a very interesting talk on cooking. The next project is making cheese.

The Club meets with Mrs. Parks next Thursday.

Easter Sunday With Mrs. Whitehead

Mrs. M. H. Whitehead was the hostess to an all day affair at her home Sunday. A delicious dinner was spread and served in picnic style, and later in the afternoon an Easter egg hunt on the creek was enjoyed by the children.

Those attending the delightful occasion were Messrs and Mesdames J. A. Hughes, G. R. Whitehead, Wiley Whitehead, M. E. Rodgers, Wesley Moore, S. A. Whitehead, Claude Whitehead, Cleo Whitehead, E. E. Britian and a large number of boys and girls.

"42" Club Tuesday Night

Misses Millie Jack and Bobby Jayroe entertained members of the "42" Club Tuesday night at the home of Miss Florence Edwards.

After terminating a series of games high score prizes were awarded Mrs. C. Etchison and Mr. A. W. Ellis.

Candy and apples were served to Messrs and Mesdames W. C. Edwards, Carl Etchison, M. B. Edwards, C. Jayroe, Troy Sheffield, A. W. Ellis, C. Hartwick, W. E. Gatlin, and Misses Carrie Bland, Dora Beth Edwards, Lenora Martin, Alleyne Sheffield, Florence Edwards and Messrs Jesse Wallace, Herbert Jayroe, S. C. Martin, Ralph and Charlie Jayroe, Robert Tubbs and James Kagle.

Old Gang Club With The Tubbs

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Tubbs honored the Old Gang Club last Thursday evening with their regular social.

High score went to Mrs. Homer Painter and Price Edwards and low to Mrs. Price Edwards and Bill Tubbs.

A delectable refreshment plate was passed to Messrs and Mesdames J. B. Edwards, Bill Edwards, C. C. Etchison, Price Edwards, Elmer Swift, Dee Swift, Hillie Etchison, A. Painter,

BETTER TIMES, PERSONALLY

People Nowadays are looking for any slight indication of "better times," and the least inclination of this fact is a boom to their respective financial worries. The farmer-producer, the business man and the professionalist, regardless of the size of the community in which they reside, are all subject to this present feeling, which it is hoped will come again only after the next hundred years or so. A year ago people began to find these bits of encouraging evidences, whereas, they had only seen the worst side for the three preceding years, and since that time indications have grown steadily optimistic.

The Coryell County News has welcomed the greatest boast in its youthful existence in the subscription campaign which closes tomorrow. The management of the News would like to think that the hearty response, on the part of its new subscribers, comes directly through the merit of the paper, but conscientiously, this cannot be felt to be the case. It is thought, however, that the value of the paper has had something to do with the success of the subscription campaign but there is a far more predominant feature.

Times are better in Coryell County. Personal indications are enough proof. During the past six weeks this paper has found in its canvass of the county that more people are found to be in the humor of spending than have been found since December 1932, the month in which the News was founded. It may not be that pocketbooks and bank accounts are more enlarged than they were at that time, but it certainly looks like people are feeling more prosperous, which after all makes a "whale of a difference".

JOHN WALKER—

standardization that reduces the number of grades taught and forces children of tender ages to seek their school training at long distances from their homes. I think that the money the State spend for transportation and tuition on pupils transferred to standardized or affiliated schools could be better spent on their home schools.

3. I believe in more local self government in the school district and less bureaucratic control from Austin. It is my opinion that the whole tendency of school legislation in recent years has been to subsidize authority in the State Department of Education to the particular detriment of the rural school.

4. I am opposed to any further consolidations in this county until road and economic conditions are greatly improved; and then I would favor them, only where a clear majority of the patrons of each school to be consolidated, voted for it.

5. I am opposed to any further bond issues or higher tax levies for school purposes, until general business conditions are vastly improved. I think existing bond issues should be liquidated before others are voted. I promise that if elected I will use the influence of my office in opposition to such tendencies.

6. I favor the changing of existing laws governing teachers salaries. If salaries are to be fixed by statute, I think they should be based on a sliding scale to be determined by the teachers experience and academic training, and not by the size of the school. In other words the better trained a teacher is, and the more years of successful experience he has had, the larger the salary he would be allowed to contract for. I would not make this salary schedule compulsory but permissible. This would allow the small school that wished to employ a successful teacher to pay the salary necessary to get him.

7. I favor some form of state insurance for retiring teachers in old age on part time pay. I would have the State pay half of the premium on this insurance and the teacher the other half. I would not make this compulsory but would allow the man or woman who made teaching his life-time occupation the privilege of allowing himself of this opportunity for economic security in his old age.

I realize that some of the principle advocated in the above platform are contrary to the existing set-up. I do not mean that I would try to establish them in violation of present school law; but that I advocate them as principles to be embodied in new legislation. I believe that the County Superintendent through the influence of his office and in co-operation with other County Superintendents can exert sufficient pressure on the Legislature to get the present laws changed. I promise you that if elected I will use legal and moral means in my power to carry out the above platform. I will give you a just and impartial administration of the duties of County Superintendent. I will bend every effort to restore the Rural School pupil, and to restore its government to its trustees and teachers. All the efforts of my administration will be directed to building up each school, in each district, so that no child will ever knock at it's doors and be turned away.

Sincerely
John Walker

Pearl School News

3rd, 4th and 5th Grades

In the Easter Egg hunt Friday afternoon Robert Dillard won the prize for finding the prize egg.

Honor Roll For this Six Weeks

3rd Grade: Aubrey Myers, Wanda Smith, Leota Freeman, Ralph Bailey Medart, Oma Lee Medart, and Clara Mae Wright.

4th Grade: Grady Hanes, Geneva Chandler and Edwin Graham.

5th Grade: Dorothy Graham, Winston Freeman, Angress Harris and Robert Dillard.

Junior News

The Junior class is still crowing over the fact that they won the ball game at the picnic Friday. Two of the star players were Pete Nabors and Jack Elam, each knocked a home run. We played the rest of the High school and Mr. Tharp.

Vivian Andrew of our class had the best theme on Easter and also the best in the entire school. The title of her theme was "How the Date of Easter is Fixed."

Two members of our class, Iris Culp and Mildred White have been working hard on the play "One Minute of Twelve," which will be staged at Purmela Tuesday night.

Senior News

The Seniors are still going strong. Every one is trying to make a higher grade than the other. Herman Sims seems to be the star student in Physiology. Eldon Morgan seems to be the expert manager, see him if you want advice of anykind, we recommend him highly. Vada Ballard is proving quite an expert coach for rhythm bands, at least her services are very much in demand.

Sports

The Senior girls won their first game over Pidoke by a score of 33 to 8. The final game was played with Purmela. Purmela won this game by six points.

Personals

Visitors in the primary room last week were Mrs. Fred Robinson, Mrs. Emmitt Cox, Mrs. Jack McQuire, Mrs. Alice White and Mrs. Chick Reynolds.

Dorothy Andrew spent the Easter holidays with home folks.

The following ex-students accompanied the High School on a picnic: Noriene Hampton, Ometa Medart, Henry Franks and Dawson Preston.

Eldon Morgan found 33 Easter Eggs and ate too many red ones.

Easter Picnics

The entire school enjoyed a series of picnics last week. The primary room had their picnic on the Methodist Churchyard. Miss Winters and her students went to Mr. Carroll's farm, and Miss Laura and her students to Sand Springs. The High School students hiked to Bullard Creek.

Refreshments were served and an interesting and exciting Easter egg hunt was enjoyed by every student and teacher.

Good Friday

School was dismissed last Thursday afternoon in order that students and teachers might celebrate Good Friday. From all appearances everyone had an enjoyable Easter because good lessons were certainly out of order Monday. This was our last official holiday and now we are ready to settle down to our last seven weeks of hard effort.

Sports

Wednesday of this week is the date set for the organization of soft ball and baseball teams. Anyone who would like to match games may do so by writing or calling Mr. R. B. Forrest.

Letter Writing Contest

Coryell students and teachers are happy over the fact that one

"The Ghost Chaser"

The high school students, under the direction of Mr. R. B. Forrest, have begun practice on a play entitled "The Ghost Chaser". It is going to be a good play, so don't miss your chance to see it. The date will be announced soon—Watch for it.

of our senior girls. Miss Elizabeth Lindenberg, won second place in the All School Letter Writing Contest sponsored by the Coryell County News. Our one regret is that only one point kept her from winning first place and the silver loving cup for our school. Our hats are off to Elizabeth!

"Sunny at Sunnyside"

The upper grammar grades are still at work on the operetta, "Sunny at Sunnyside". Each of the forty pupils taking a part is doing his part well in order to make the time spent worthwhile. It won't be long—Don't miss it!

Grading System

Attention is called to the fact that a new system of grading is to be followed in the High School for the remainder of the year. Letters, not numbers, will be used in marking all future work, and a final examination grade of not below C is required for passing. Up to this time a required daily average of 75 and a minimum final grade of 60 has been given credit. The change in systems of grading will tend to raise the standard of work and insure against any student passing unless he really earned credit on the course.

Primary Grades

The first four grades went on a picnic Thursday. We had lessons until eleven-thirty and then hiked over to Mr. Dreyer's where we spread our lunches under a big shade tree. After lunch we went out to hunt Easter eggs which had been hidden in the grain before we arrived. The afternoon was spent playing ball and marbles. About three o'clock we each received a bag of popcorn to eat on the way home. Although we were tired after walking two miles, everyone enjoyed the day very much.

The Fourth Grade put up a blackboard border last week of Easter eggs and rabbits.

The Third Grade did some very nice work on the fruit booklets.

We had quite a time having our pictures made last week. They were received this morning and everyone wishes to buy one.

Several in the first and second grades have been absent on account of illness. We hope they will soon be back in school again.

Imagine

Hearing Irene Dreyer sing.

Edgar Haferkamp blushing.

Elizabeth Lindenberg eating more cakes than anyone else at the picnic.

Miss Hoff hunting rattlesnakes for pasture.

Hilma Gohlke not being broken hearted.

Marvin Dreyer being good.

Dale Britain and Cecil Copeland going on a big egg hunt.

Milton Bietendorf making a hit with the girls.

Odus McBroom studying.

Seeing Miss Hall at the medicine show.

FLAT NEWS

The social calendar of Flat has been quite full for the past few weeks. Members of the white division of the Epworth League were royally entertained by the blue division with a banquet on March 28. The tables and church were decorated in harmony with the Easter season and some thirty people enjoyed the bounteous meal and varied program planned. This banquet was the culmination of a recent contest of the League to secure new members. Every one present expressed themselves as enjoying the affair to the utmost.

The pupils of the sixth and seventh grades of the public school entertained their teacher, Miss Bertha Jones, with a party on March 24, in celebration of her birthday. Although no one seemed to be certain as to the exact age of the honoree, it was noticed by all present that there were sixteen candles on the birthday cake. Everybody reported an enjoyable time.

The P. T. A. had the pleasure of hearing the "Grease Monkeys" of Pat Olsen's garage on Friday night of last week. This group of individuals presented a varied program of music and fun, and everybody present expressed their appreciation for the splendid program given.

The League and Sunday School united in presenting a special Easter program on Easter Sunday night. An interesting as well as a spiritual inspiring program was enjoyed by all present.

Everybody is rejoicing over the light system recently installed in the church under the auspices of the League. This is indeed a step forward and makes for better opportunity for worship at night.

John Geisebretch is in the Sanitarium and at present is in a rather critical condition. Friends are hoping that he will soon be on the road to recovery.

Faculty Club Monday Night

Featuring the Easter motif and a yellow and white color scheme, Misses Edna Murray, Nela Scott, Mamie Sue Halbrook and Mrs. F. E. Cotchett entertained about forty members and guests of the Faculty Club Monday at the home of Mrs. M. W. Lowrey 1204 College Street.

An atmosphere of spring was created in the large reception room by the floral decorations of pot plants in bloom and masses of fern that gave emphasis to the chosen color scheme.

Games of "84" were played during the evening.

At the refreshment hour tables were centered with bouquets of violets and the yellow and white theme was noted in the refreshment plate of brick ice cream and cake topped with whipped cream and cherries, and in the dainty Easter Egg nets filled with delicious mints.

Guests other than the Faculty Club members were Misses Mary Routh, Orpa Mayo, Mesdames Byron Leaird Sr., Dan McClellan and Messrs and Mesdames Edgar Franks, Pat Holt, J. O. Brown and O. G. Gilder.

Former Local Woman
Acting Secretary of San Marcos C. of C.

Mrs. John Rufus Colgin, of Gatesville, is in receipt of a clipping taken from a San Marcos paper which will be of interest to many local people.

Miss Eloise Colgin, former Gatesville girl, is acting secretary of the San Marcos Chamber of Commerce during the absence of Secretary Grady Walker.

Miss Colgin's present position comes as a well merited promotion and the News joins her many friends in congratulations.

"Grady Walker, who for the past five years has been secretary manager of the San Marcos Chamber of Commerce, was granted an indefinite leave of absence this morning at a called meeting of the directors of the chamber which was presided over by President H. J. Williamson.

"The meeting was called at the request of Walker who had tentatively accepted a position as district supervisor under the State Relief Commission. Walker's leave will be for an indefinite period, and during his absence Miss Eloise Colgin, assistant secretary, will be acting secretary of the organization.

"Walker did not know Monday in which of the eleven districts he would serve. He will maintain San Marcos as his residence and Mrs. Walker and their daughter, Chloe, will remain here. Walker's duties will begin Tuesday.

Dairy Reduction Plan
Designed to Give Aid
To Farmer Herdowners

COLLEGE STATION.—Texas dairy farmers who have been struggling to make both ends meet the last few years are to get their innings in farm relief if the newly proposed dairy reduction program is finally adopted. It is described by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration as a genuine effort to increase purchasing power of the dairy farmer without bringing hardship to city consumers.

As outlined to the Texas A and M College Extension Service, which will have the job of carrying the plan to Texas farmers, the program calls for a 10 per cent to 20 per cent reduction below the average of 1932-33 milk and milk products sales. Just how the farmer will bring about this reduction is left entirely to him. He may weed out boarder cows, or feed less grain and more roughage and pasture, or eliminate diseased cows, or feed the surplus to hogs and chickens, or use other ways.

For his cooperation in the national program to adjust dairy production to effective demand the farmer is to be paid at the rate of about 40 cents per pound butterfat for the net sales reduction, or about $1.50 for each surplus 100 pounds of fluid milk reduction.

The plan will be financed by processing taxes starting at one cent per pound on butterfat and advancing to five cents per pound as the supply comes under control.

As supplemental feature it is proposed to include relief distribution of surplus milk to underfed children, to transfer cows from surplus areas to needy farm families in deficiency farm areas, and to speed up the accredited herd work. It is understood by the Extension Service that these added features are not to be forced on any farmer but are to be organized on an optional basis.

The object of the whole program is to gradually lift dairy prices to producers by checking the present surplus production to put it in line with effective purchasing power. It is pointed out that the birth rate is declining, that there are 9 per cent less children under 5 years of age than in 1930, and 15 per cent more persons over 65 years of age than in 1930. This means a probable further decline in dairy products consumption unless consumers begin to bring their use of these products up to the level demanded for healthful diet.

Hefner-Howell Players
Located on Cotton Yard
To Show all Next Week

Beginning next Monday night, April 9th G. Bert Davis will present the Hefner-Howell Players in their big new Tent Theatre. This is one of the strongest and best repertoire companies on the road today. The opening play will be Avery Hoppgoods society comedy drama "The Best People" featuring Ray Howell comedian extraordinary. Between the acts there will be dancing, singing, juggling and novelty acts of every description, and a feature orchestra under the direction of Pat Finnegan. (Radio Entertainer) will furnish a program of up to the minute selections. Mr. A. C. Hefner is well known throughout Texas as one of the cleverest leading men in Repertoire. Among the vaudeville acts offered during the intermissions are Mr. Billy Bancomb and Sid Winters, the boys with the educated feet, Bobbie Siler, (the crooner) Tillie Brooks-Walking, laugh riot, and many other novelty acts. The program of plays and vaudeville will be changed every night. The big tent will be located on the cotton yard, and is kept warm, dry and comfortable at all times. Be sure to see "The Best People".

EUROPE TURNS FROM AMERICAN COTTON

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The Bureau of Agricultural Economics in its report today on world cotton prospects said European cotton consumers were turning to Indian and Egyptian cotton instead of American, because of unusual price conditions.

Prices of Indian cotton at Liverpool during March were more than 30 per cent less than the price of American cotton and during the six months ended Jan. 31 three types of Indian cotton averaged 23 per cent less than American cotton of similar grade.

The bureau said more favorable prices of foreign cotton partly explained why consumption of Indian cotton in Europe increased 42 per cent during the last six months of 1933, while consumption of American cotton increased only 5 per cent.

BURRO STAGES COMEBACK

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 5.—The horse may not be coming back, but the burro is, at least in Montana.

Sawyer Stores, Billings, Mont., firm, recently sent an order here for a carload of burros, in sound health, broken for riding, and suitable for children.

A search of Albuquerque and suburbs resulted in a shipment of less than a half dozen of the beasts of burden.

Mrs. Brack Jones has returned from a visit with her daughter at Alice, Texas.

George Painter, buyer for Painter and Lee, has gone to Market in Dallas this week.

Mrs. Raby Ritcherson and Mrs. Elbert Pancake visited with Mrs. Jim Chambers at White Hall Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Gartman and son, Jerry Bob, left one day this week for a visit with relatives in east Texas.

C. P. Jones of Marlin is visiting his son, Dick Jones, here. Henry Ward of Marlin is also visiting with Mr. Jones.

Mrs. William Fielder of Lockhart, Texas, has been the recent guest of Mrs. John T. Post and Miss Lizzie Lockard.

Messrs J. R. Saunders and Gus Schloeman accompanied Misses Mary Ella Schloeman and Merle Scott back to their school in Denton Wednesday.

Mrs. N. A. Harper and her sister, Mrs. Charlie Hall of Arnett visited their brother in Stanford recently.

Miss Willie Lou Glenn, who has been visiting in the home of her sister, Mrs. Kermit R. Jones, returned to her home in Waco Wednesday.

James B. Smylie, editor of the Copperas Cove Crony, was a pleasant caller at the News office one day this week. He spoke very highly of the new Semi-Weekly Coryell County News.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Combest and baby daughter of Meridian visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Meharg recently. Mrs. Combest will be better remembered to her friends as Miss Hazel Meharg.

Mrs. Ben Speck and Mrs. John Hudson and her son, Alfred, all of Waco, visited Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Burchett here Thursday. Mrs. Alfred Hudson returned home with them.

PREDICTION TRUE, NOW EATS WITH ROOSEVELTS

NEW YORK, April 3.—Because a prediction he made came true, Herman W. Fechner, conductor on a commutation train, and his family were invited to tea at the White House today.

The invitation came from Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, to whom Fechner said several years ago, "someday you'll be riding the other way on my train. You'll be mistress of the Governor's mansion at Albany.

"More than that—I predict you'll be the first lady of the land."

Mrs. Roosevelt answered, "well, Herman, if I ever am, you must come to Washington to see me and bring your family."

The Fechners, who live in Ossining, N. Y., set out for Washington today. Their daughters, Elsie, 14, and Lulu, 12 went along to see the bargain fulfilled.

THE WEDDING MARCH MURDER

by
Monte Barrett

Copyright, 1933.
by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.
WNU Service.

"Miss Train, has this key been in your possession all the time since Franklin's death?"

"Why, yes, of course."

"How can you be sure?" inquired Peter. "Where did you keep the key, Miss Train?"

Choo Choo looked at him in bewilderment. "Of course I'm sure," she replied. "I always kept it in my purse. This morning, when Sergeant Kilday telephoned, I looked immediately. It was there where I had always kept it."

Unless the murderer had taken the key and then returned it again, without her knowledge, it seemed obvious that it had never been out of her possession. Apparently this was another of the many false trails they had encountered since the beginning of this investigation.

"So there was a fourth key," Peter mused aloud, after the actress had departed. "The woman in blue had it, Sergeant, and passed it on to the murderer. Evidently he was just awaiting his chance to search the apartment, and when he saw Fletcher leave, admitted himself and turned the place upside down."

"Then it must have been Rylie Carmody instead of Spears," growled Kilday. "He fits into all our clues, Peter."

"If," declared Cardigan, "Callis Shipley is the woman in blue, then Rylie is our man. Somehow, I can't picture her in an illicit relationship with Franklin, and having a key to his apartment. Yet, if Rylie is guilty, he obtained the fourth key from some one. And what other woman is he interested in? Of course, that's taking it for granted that the other key belonged to a woman. Who else would have had such a key?" he subsided into another reverie.

"There's one thing you're overlooking, Peter," said Kilday. "Why won't young Carmody talk? He says he had an appointment in Westport at nine o'clock. But he won't say who he was supposed to meet there, and he won't tell us why he gave our detective the slip. Obviously he never met anyone at Westport. He claims it was on account of the accident. Of course, I think otherwise. But if he were as innocent as he pretends, wouldn't he at least tell us these things? I believe he would."

"Why not have him over here?" suggested Peter. "You said before that you wished I could have questioned him. Give me a chance."

The sergeant reached for the telephone. "Now you're talking," he said. "Talk to him for five minutes and you'll be as sure of his guilt as I am."

He telephoned instructions to bring Rylie Carmody to the hospital immediately.

But if Peter hoped to glean more information from the young man than had the detective, he was doomed to disappointment.

"I don't see that it matters who I was going to meet," declared the young man impatiently. "My accident prevented me from keeping this appointment."

"Still sticking to the accident story, eh?" Kilday commented derisively. "If you haven't anything to hide, why don't you tell us who it was?"

Rylie maintained a stubborn silence.

"Perhaps," suggested the detective doubtfully, "you can explain why you were so anxious to give my man the slip. Was there anything about this mysterious meeting at Westport that you were afraid for the police to see?"

"Of course not," indignantly.

"Why were you going all the way out to Westport for the meeting? Why didn't you meet this person in New York?"

"You can save yourself a lot of trouble," declared Rylie slowly, "if you'll understand, once and for all, that I'm not going to tell you anything about that appointment at Westport."

"Was it a woman you planned to meet there?" This question from Peter.

The young man laughed shortly. "I just said I wasn't going to answer any more of these questions."

Kilday leaped at the suggestion. "A woman, eh? What if he did meet her, Peter? Had you thought of that? Perhaps he doesn't want to answer our questions because he did meet a woman at Westport. What about it, Carmody? And she gave you a key, didn't she—a key to Franklin's apartment."

"You went to Westport, all right, but you went there earlier in the afternoon. You gave my man the slip, kept your appointment with that woman and got the key. Then you returned to Franklin's apartment, searched it and, not finding what you were after, went on to his office. That's where Cardigan surprised you and where the struggle took place. After that you returned to Westport and returned the key to the woman who was still waiting there. Then you drove out into the country and turned your car over, in order to account for your battered-up appearance. How's that, Peter?" He turned to his friend, smiling grimly. "That accounts for the only flaw in our case against him. That's how he got possession of that fourth key."

"From whom?" asked Peter. "I don't know yet. But I'll find out. Maybe it was this woman in blue, and maybe she is Callis Shipley. I'll soon know. I told them to bring her here. At last I've got a few facts to go on. It won't take long to shake her story now."

The timely arrival of the girl they were discussing seemed to bear out the officer's promise. Dismissing the detective who escorted her, he admitted the girl.

"Rylie!" Callis hurried across the room, her arms outstretched, oblivious to the other men in the room. "Darling, I told you to be careful, that they—"

Rylie silenced her with a hand across her lips. "Don't say anything about Westport," he cautioned her in a whisper.

The byplay had not escaped Cardigan's attention. "I'm glad you came, Miss Shipley," he said. "I was just trying to get Rylie to tell me about his appointment to meet you at Westport the other afternoon."

He hesitated, waiting for an answer, but the girl only faced him silently, her hand clutching Rylie's desperately.

"You did have an appointment with him, didn't you?" prompted the novelist gently.

"Leave her out of this," cried the boy. "She had nothing to do with it. Leave her out, I tell you."

Peter ignored the command. "Rylie seems to think it would involve you in this unpleasant affair if he told us about it, Miss Shipley," he continued. "He is making a mistake. If there is a way for him to explain his movements that afternoon, he should do it, by all means."

"Don't listen to him, Callis." The young man clutched her arm and shook it fiercely. "Don't tell him anything."

"Be quiet, you," growled Kilday. "What is it you want to know?"

Callis asked Peter. "The same day that I was attacked in Franklin's office," Peter explained, "Rylie Carmody gave the detective that was following him the slip. Late that evening he had a wreck about ten miles from Westport. It is important that we know where he went and what he did, between the time the detective last saw him and the hour of that wreck. The only explanation he has offered for his presence in that neighborhood is that he had an engagement at Westport. But he persistently refuses to tell us whom he expected to meet there. Was it you?"

The girl glanced first at the novelist, then at Rylie Carmody.

"Don't say anything, Callis," the latter pleaded. "They'll just try to drag you into it."

She hesitated a moment longer. "There's nothing for us to conceal, is there, Rylie? I think I'd better tell them."

Peter wondered if the girl were preparing to deceive him again.

"He was coming to meet me," she said.

"What time did he get there?" Peter asked sharply.

"He had an accident," declared the girl. "He never got there."

"Don't tell me that," Kilday exclaimed truculently. "He met you there, all right. And you gave him the key to Franklin's apartment."

Rylie Carmody made a lunge at the detective. "What do you mean?" he snarled. His face was white and drawn with impotent fury as the officer grasped his wrist.

The young man struggled ineffectually. "You had no right to ask her that. It's absurd, Callis scarcely knew Franklin."

"You Had No Right to Ask Her That."

"Rylie is right," declared the girl gravely. "I scarcely knew Mr. Franklin. I met him for the first time only a few weeks ago, at a party given in honor of Doris."

"And you didn't have such a key?" "Never. I've never been to the apartment. I don't know where it is."

"Miss Shipley," Peter took up the questioning, "suppose you tell us why you planned to meet this young man at Westport the other evening?"

"There is very little to tell. I was going to meet him there at nine o'clock. But on account of the accident, of course, he couldn't get there."

"Why didn't he meet you at your home? Why Westport?"

Callis frowned. "He had another appointment," she replied hesitantly. "He knew it was going to take him some time, and we thought we'd save time by meeting there."

"He didn't tell you what this other appointment was, did he?" Peter pursued the point, and when she did not answer promptly he repeated the question.

Still she hesitated. "Perhaps," the novelist suggested, "you would feel more free in telling us why you planned to go to Martin's Cove?"

This time the girl answered promptly. "We wanted to get away for a few days, where we'd have a chance to forget about the murder." "Perhaps the fact that Rylie was being followed by a detective had something to do with your decision," Kilday put in.

"Did you know that he was being followed?" Peter asked in a kindlier tone.

"We couldn't help knowing it," replied the girl. "The man followed him everywhere he went."

"That was his job," the novelist explained. "But of course you both found that rather irksome, didn't you?"

"I wasn't used to being treated like a common criminal," the boy interrupted harshly.

"And so"—this time Peter addressed the boy—"you decided to give the detective the slip and meet Miss Shipley at Westport, so you wouldn't be followed to Martin's Cove. Is that it?"

"Yes. We didn't think we'd have much chance of forgetting what happened with a detective following us around," exclaimed Rylie defiantly. "That's the whole story. I took him out in the country and lost him. But I didn't take him toward Westport, because I didn't want him stumbling into us again, after I met Callis. I opened up the car, after I passed the city limits. I knew he couldn't keep up in that taxicab."

"After he had dropped out of sight, I zigzagged up and down a few side roads, and then headed for Westport to meet Callis when I had the accident. I didn't want to drag Callis into this. I didn't want some detective asking her personal questions. She had no more to do with the killing of Franklin than—I than I had."

RELIEF PROGRAM—

(Continued from page one) needs, will be given the opportunity to work and earn up to their estimated relief need requirements. This work card is so designed as to limit the payrolls to the actual relief requirements for each particular individual employed. Pay to persons not eligible for relief, or to relief clients in excess of the requirements of the individual family will not be approved in Austin. The new work card, though simple in form, will permit the definite placing of responsibility and indicate who is at fault if a client is allowed to earn from relief funds more than his relief budget requirements.

Staff Auditor F. H. Bushick Jr., Field Representative and Fred B. Treplett of the Texas Relief Commission announced today, after a conference with County Relief Chairman L. M. Stinnett of the Coryell County Relief Board, that a thorough study had been made of Coryell County relief problems and the new system installed. Eiland Lovejoy will take charge of the new set-up here effective April 1st, as Certifying Officer under Fred G. Prewitt Administrator.

The new relief set-up to be used in this County has the specific approval of Washington officials, and it is believed that Kansas and Oklahoma, who recently sent officials to Austin to confer with state relief officials and to study the Texas relief accounting set-up may install this system in the relief work in their own respective states.

Chief Auditor Donnell emphasizes that this is a relief program, not a project program. Under the CWA, group employment was provided which approximated current business wages, whereas the present relief program can only supply relief to the destitute. When the building of roads, schoolhouse construction or other projects takes the place of the first objective, that of giving relief, the relief program has gone astray, and such expenditures constitute an erroneous expenditure of funds according to the terms of the Relief Acts under which relief funds are made available.

Part of the local Relief and Works force attended a school of instruction on the new set up at Lampasas on Monday. Those who attended this ten county school were: Administrator Fred G. Prewitt, Eiland Lovejoy, Mrs. Frank Kelso, Chas. Baker and Gordon Shook.

... 80 million years of priceless filtering under earth!

Nearly every geological age has produced crude oil—but by and large the oldest ages seem to have produced the best of it for lubricating purposes. For this reason Sinclair uses the oldest Mid-continent paraffin-base crudes in making Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil—crudes which have mellowed and filtered under earth for an average of 80 million years.

Furthermore, Sinclair Opaline contains no petroleum jelly—that non-lubricating element which makes motor oil thick and sluggish when cold—thin and watery when hot. Sinclair Opaline has a genuine full body that is all lubricant—no waste. Try a crankcaseful. Note how seldom you need to add oil.
