Local Dramatists Will Meet Tuesday to Plan Fall Activity Program

REORGANIZATION IN VIEW

Tuesday evening, August 28, is the date set for the meeting of the Little Theater, which has been discussed through the press recently. The officials who called this meeting wish to have it understood that the meeting is open to all persons interested in amateur dramatic activities within the Gatesville trade territory. The meeting will be held in the district courtroom at 8:00 o'clock.

With the show season not far off and the construction of the new auditorium rapidly progressing it is hoped that plans will get underway immediately for Little Theater work in this vicinity. Reorganization of the dramatic club is being talked with plans for a full program of work in the future. These things and many others will be discussed at the general meeting next Tuesday evening.

Mr. Frank L. Williams, superintendent of the Gatesville schools, will present to the gathering in a short address the position open to the Little Theater concerning the new auditorium.

Gatesville Wins From Killeen in First Game Of Cen-Tex Tournament

PLAY 2ND. GAME TUESDAY

Gatesville advanced into the second round of the Cen-Tex Softball Tournament at Temple Tuesday night when the local team defeated a strong Killeen club, 8-7.

The Coryell county aggregation jumped into command of the situation at Temple when in the first inning they piled up a seven run lead which was never overcome by their opponents.

Two walks and two errors, a single, a triple from Buster Laxson another walk and another error provided the first inning tallies for Gatesville. The eight run came in the third inning on two singles and an error.

Killeen got four runs in the first inning, two in the third and a final run in the sixth inning.

Buster Laxson was branded the star of the game, getting three hits out of three trips to the plate. Blanton, Gatesville moundsman, allowed Killeen but six hits during the game.

Gatesville will play Belfals Tuesday night at Temple.

Interim Certificates Will Substitute for Originals at Present

OTHERS EXPECTED SOON

Due to the great amount of work on hand at College Station, it is believed that it will take at least a week before the original tax-exemption certificates will reach Gatesville headquarters.

Interim certificates will be issued pending the arrival of the real certificates. These are being used as a temporary means for allowing producers to have cotton ginned. Either the tenant or landlord may authorize the other to sign for and receive these interim certificates, for that particular farm unit.

Although the interim certificates have been here for some time they have not been issued for the reason that it was hoped the original certificates would reach here at the expected time.

The community committeemen will furnish the producers with blanks to be filled out and brought into the office by the authorized person in each case. The same day the farmer can take his interim certificates back home with him. In each certificate the holder must designate the ginner who will gin his cotton and cotton can not be ginned elsewhere.

Interim certificates will be used only until the originals arrive. When they do arrive they will be exchanged for the number of interims the farmer has on hand.

Cotton Program

The cattle buying program in Coryell county has been temporarily discontinued here until a new inspector is named to succeed Dr. W. A. Smith, who was recently appointed supervisor at Austin.

Coryell county's quota has been set at 450 head per week for shipment.

It is thought that buying will be resumed the early part of next week.

WILLIAMS SUPPORTS NEITHER CANDIDATE

(A Correction)

Contrary to a statement in the News last week, Hon. Ardell Williams, defeated in the first primary, has announced that he is publicly supporting neither of the run-off contestants in the district attorney's race, regardless of his personal preference.

This newspaper wishes to express its apologies to Mr. Williams and the readers of the News for the previous statement which he claims to be incorrect.

Former Localite Speaks In Defense of Allred's Candidacy at Gatesville

LARGE CROWD PRESENT

Hon. Claude Miller, father-in-law of James V. Allred, spoke here Thursday morning in the interest of Allred's candidacy for the office of Governor of Texas.

Mr. Miller was born at Jonesboro in this county and is the son of the late George P. Miller who served this district as District Attorney a number of years ago. No advance information had come to the hands of local Allred supporters as to Mr. Miller's coming to Gatesville. In commenting on his coming to Gatesville Mr. Miller said, "When I got to a neighboring county I couldn't resist the temptation to come back to the county where I was born and to meet some of the friends of my boyhood here in Old Coryell."

Mr. Miller's remarks took the trend of answering a few of the accusations brought by Allred's opponent. Relative to the mansion which Allred supposedly vacated the speaker said, "Jimmie moved from a four room house to a five room house," by way of explanation of the reason why Allred did not carry Wichita Falls Mr. Miller said, "The leading lawyers and citizens of Wichita Falls who opposed Allred are on the payroll of the major oil companies in either one capacity or another and are talking for their bread and meat." Concerning the tax platforms of the two gubernatorial aspirants Mr. Miller said, "Tom Hunter once favored a general sales tax but now says he will veto the bill if a sales tax is passed. I would point out that it is easy to change the name of a move and call a sales tax some name and pass it through. Jimmie is opposed to a general sales tax passed to the elimination of the ad valorem tax would lift the burden of taxation from the shoulders of the corporations, insurance companies, oil companies, utilities and other wealthy interests and place the burden of taxation more on the common people."

Information from Washington states that Mrs. Joe Carter Kline has been named permanent postmistress at Coryell City. Mrs. Kline succeeds Mrs. Jennie Lee, who was removed from the position of postmistress sometime ago for reasons not divulged by the Postoffice Department.

MRS. KLINE NAMED NEW POSTMISTRESS

Predict Certain Races Will Be Close

It will be a big day tomorrow, an occasion which comes only once every two years in Texas—the day when Democrats of this state go to the polls to cast their final vote for the party nominees prior to the general election in November, when Democratic nominees will face the selections of other political parties.

This year has been a record-breaking one for balloting in Texas with approximately 1,019,000 votes cast in the first primary. Coryell county polled approximately 4,725 and will likely cast the same number in tomorrow's election.

Campaigning has tapered off with most of the candidates making a last-minute appeal to the voters.

The following names will appear on the ballots tomorrow, with the choice of the candidates resting entirely in the hands of the voters:

Gridmen to Leave for Football Training Camp At Lampasas State Park

SQUAD TO DEPART MONDAY

Thirty-five invitations were mailed out yesterday to prospective Gatesville high school gridmen to participate in the pre-season football training camp, according to word from the office of Sup't Frank L. Williams.

The camp will be held at the new state park in Lampasas, beginning Monday, August 27, and continuing through Saturday, September 1. Coach Maurice Ewing and Assistant Coach Doyle Baldrige will be in charge of the training camp.

Boys who enroll for the camp will not have any expenses to pay outside of their personal wants.

Football uniforms will be issued Saturday (tomorrow) at five o'clock. Those who cannot report for uniforms Saturday will be issued suits Monday morning before leaving for camp.

Transportation will be furnished every one who enlists for the camp.

I will think—talk—write . . . Texas Centennial in 1936! This is to be my celebration. In its achievement I may give free play to my patriotic love for Texas' heroic past; my confidence in its glories that are to be.

It is remarkable to note the decreased amount of interest that prevails in the current election as compared with the first primary. We thought then that little enthusiasm was being shown but the interest is so slight now that we can hardly believe that we are about to elect local and state officials for another two-year term. Tomorrow is the final day—the date that democrats of Texas will elect their party nominees for the next term of office. There was a time when the race for governor attracted practically all of the voters' attention but in recent years other contests, particularly that of Railroad Commissioner and Attorney General, are drawing their share of the political warmth. The reason for this change is in the fact that these offices are more important in executive power than they were several years ago. Since this is true voters should employ every precaution in casting their ballots for candidates to these offices.

The nation and especially the Democratic party suffered an inestimable loss in the sudden death of Henry T. Rainey, who served his party as a member of Congress for thirty-one years. The legislative scholar's shoes will be hard to fill and that seems to be the current problem confronting the party—the selection of the next speaker. Washington observers look upon Congressman Joe Byrns as the most likely candidate to succeed Mr. Rainey to the chair. A Texan, however, is in the limelight and may get favorable consideration. His name is Sam Rayborn, regarded as one of Mr. Roosevelt's chief lieutenants. At present he fills a very important position, being chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. Rayborn hails from north Texas in the vicinity of Bonham and Commerce, and should he be called to the speakership by his congressional colleagues Texas will be granted a promotion of prominence in national governmental affairs.

In reconnoitering over the available clubs and organizations that should feel keenly a sense of duty in helping to promote the ideals of the Texas Centennial in Coryell County we call to mind these familiar names, not in the order of their importance but as a group: The Commissioners Court, County School Trustees, the school districts, Parent-Teachers Associations, Home Demonstration Clubs, Boy Scout and Girl Scout troupes, City Council of Gatesville, Morris Federation, Roundtable Club, Little Theater, Churches, Lodges, Coryell County Fair Association, Fire Department, and there are probably more we do not recall just at this time. The local Centennial organization will be gravely handicapped without the support of these groups and it is hoped that they will respond when called upon.

World Comment

By JOE BURNS

As expected, the German referendum held Sunday gave an Hitler's assumption of the powers of the late Paul von Hindenburg. But the surprising thing about the election was that approximately 5,000,000 voters dared to vote no.

This can easily be explained. By the killing of such important citizens as General von Seelicher and his wife, Ernest Roehm and others, Hitler antagonized a powerful group—the Junkers or wealthy landowners who will swear allegiance to the Kaiser and no one else.

This group, lead by von Papen and the Reichswehr generals, comprise the only effective opposition to Hitler in Germany today. The only chance the German populace has of ridding itself of Hitler is to bring about a coup by this group. The army is at heart sympathetic to Kaiser Wilhelm and would like to see him back on the throne—as did von Hindenburg. Perhaps we'll see some action by this group of 5,000,000 who defied this supreme leader—Fuehrer—together with the old Junkers. I don't expect old Wilhelm would object, do you?

Jimmie Allred has predicted that he will win tomorrow by 150,000 votes. It is not expected that more than 900,000 votes will be cast in the run-off, so this would make a nice little majority for Jimmie—or for Tom.

Right now it looks as if the boys are about evenly divided. Two years ago you remember Ms. Ferguson only defeated Governor Sterling by about 4,000 votes—the State Committee certified her majority at 3,333. Of course, it looks as if one of the boys ought to pile up a little better majority than that but you can't ever tell. However, it does look as if Jimmie is a little optimistic in predicting a majority of 150,000 or more. Mr. Hunter hasn't ventured to make a prediction yet but he may after writing this, (Wed.)

Here's the way it looks, Hunter will get the oil vote, the dyed-in-the-wool Ferguson vote or the vote of the boys that will vote for anybody, anywhere that Jim Ferguson supports, the extreme wet vote or the foreign wet vote we might call it, and a majority of the votes around his home city, as he did in the first primary. Allred will get the liberal and dry vote of southeast Texas where Maury Hughes ran strong on the 28th, the wet vote of northeast Texas, (believe it or not, he'll get this wet territory, the counties surrounding Austin, and the strong anti-Ferguson vote of former Governor Sterling and probably Dan Moody's following). Now, whichever one of the groups can aggregate the most votes will put one or the other in the Governor's mansion. You might just as well flip a coin as try to guess that.

Allred has many influential supporters throughout the state. Jimmie got a break when Clyde Smith, who polled an overwhelming east Texas vote in his race for Attorney General but was eliminated, declared that he would actively support him. Wright Morrow, who was drafted for Governor this year but refused to run, is supporting Allred and will get him many votes in the coastal area surrounding Houston. All in all, it looks like a horse race, folks, with Hunter getting the breaks at the first of the campaign and Allred getting all of them now.

Tom Reese Makes Final Appeal to Dis't Voters

I have made my campaign for District Attorney clean and free from personalities, without insinuations against anyone. I am closing it in the same way.

Beginning in 1924, my fellow citizens in Comanche County elected me to three consecutive terms as County Attorney of Comanche County. I have served by election on my local school board. At the first primary election four weeks ago I received approximately two-thirds of all the votes cast in Comanche County, and in my home box I received 921 votes to my opponents 161.

As for experience, I served one year in the Army during the war, spent four years in the University of Texas law school, have had eleven years active practice of law, including six years' service as County Attorney of Comanche County. I have handled more than four hundred criminal cases, both in prosecution and defense. I am 35 years old, married, and have four children.

This Judicial District is composed of Hamilton, Coryell and Comanche counties, which are almost equal in population and valuation. The District Court is composed of three officials—District Judge, District Attorney and Reporter. The District Court transacts more business in Comanche County than in either of the other two counties. Comanche County has not had a district office since 1918. Coryell County now has BOTH the District Judge and District Attorney offices, while Hamilton county has the Reporter.

During the last twenty-five years the officers of the District Court have been paid approximately $231,000.00 of tax money in salaries. Of that amount Coryell County citizens received approximately $131,000.00; Hamilton County citizens about $86,000.00 and about $14,000.00, less than six per cent, has been received by Comanche County citizens.

I submit the issue to the fair-minded citizenship of this District. If you believe in the principle of fair and equitable distribution of offices and tax money salaries, your vote for Tom Reese of Comanche County, for District Attorney, will be an endorsement of that principle and in support of a man who is qualified by age, expe-

Joe E. Brown Will Come to Town With "The Circus Clown"

With all its color, its action, its blare and heraldry, the circus—both as seen in the ring and as lived behind the tent drops—will be shown on the screen of the Regal Theatre, where Joe E. Brown will appear in the First National picture "The Circus Clown," on Saturday night, Sunday and Monday.

One of the greatest comedians in the history of filmdom, who has actually lived the life he depicts, for Joe E. Brown was a circus acrobat as a boy, Brown has been given a vehicle that allows his marked talents full sway, and, supported by an exceptionally capable company, including the entire cast of the Al G. Barnes circus, he brings to his audience a screamingly funny comedy that is replete with love interest, thrills and action, and which at times has touches of pathos that stop the laughter with a hint of tears.

Patricia Ellis plays the leading feminine role opposite Joe and is the aerialist with whom he finally falls in love, although when he first joins the circus he is madly infatuated with a bareback rider who is a female impersonator. This love affair makes him the butt of no end of jokes until he finally discovers that his enamorata is a man.

The romances are badly tangled, for the bareback rider, a part played by Donald Dilloway, is in love with Dorothy Burgess, in the role of a lion tamer. To cover up his own treachery, he leads the husband, Harry Woods, the knife thrower, to believe that Joe is his wife's lover, which makes it hot for the star. Joe's own misfortunes make for the hilarity of the comedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Prewitt and Miss Nola Mai Weaver attended a business meeting of the Relief Commission in Glen Rose last week end.

Miss Verona Franks has returned from an enjoyable visit with friends and relatives in Brownwood and Comanche. The many friends of Verona are happy to know that her health is much improved and will soon be able to resume her duties at the City Secretary's office here.

THE STORY

CHAPTER VI.—The cattle drive to Grand Junction are started. Jim Wall finds himself falling in love with Helen. He coaches her in riding western style, and finally kisses her. She is angry and dismisses him, but relents and asks him not to leave the ranch. Hays' men return from the drive with the stolen cattle. The leader has sold the cattle and brought back the money. A quick getaway is imperative. Hays tells his men to go on ahead, that he will join them at a certain canyon. The riders arrive at the canyon and to their amazement and Jim's dismay, Hays and a lieutenant are sighted with Helen Herrick—a captive.

CHAPTER VII.—The gang is about to break with Hays over the abduction, but he explains that he robbed Herrick and stole Helen for ransom. Realizing that Helen will be worse off if she falls into Heese-man's clutches, Jim Wall rides on with Hank and his men. Heese-man's riders are discovered in pursuit. After a running battle in which Latimer, one of Hays' men, is wounded, Hays leads the gang into a canyon retreat, difficult of access and easy to defend—The Robbers' Roost.

Their patient had wrestled off his bed out into the grass. They rushed to lift him back and make him comfortable. He appeared to be burning up with fever and alarmingly bright-eyed, but he was conscious and asked for water. Jim hurried to fetch some.

"How I rolled out there I don't know," said Latimer, after he had drunk thirstily.

"Reckon you was delirious, Sparrow," replied Smoky.

"No, sir. I was scared."

"Scared! You? That's funny," rejoined Smoky, looking across at Jim.

"What scared you, old man?" queried Jim.

"It was after I got my sleep. Must have been late, fer I always am dead to the world fer five or six hours. I was wide awake. It was shore a lonesome, still night. Mebbe my sins weighed on me. . . . But all of a sudden I heard a cry. It scared me so I jumped right off my bed. Hurt me, too, an' I didn't try to get back."

"Maybe it was a coyote right by close," returned Jim.

"Fellers, I'll bet you'll find that gurl dead. . . . murdered!" concluded Latimer hoarsely.

"Sparrow, you don't look flighty," replied Jim gravely. "But your talk is. Else you've a reason to think it."

"Shore I have," rejoined Latimer, lowering his voice to a whisper. "Hays beat an' robbed Herrick! . . . That's part I wanted to tell you, if I was goin' to croak. But I gotta tell it anyhow. An' I ask you both, as pals, to keep what I tell you secret till I'm dead."

"I swear, Sparrow," said Smoky, huskily.

"You can trust me, too," added Jim.

"Wal, that's why I feel Hank must have done fer the girl, too."

"Robbed Herrick!" exclaimed Slocum incredulously. "Was there a fight?"

"Yes. But Hank might have avoided it. He drove the man crazy. Fellers, Hays'd steal coppers off a dead man's eyes—shore. But what he said he wanted was the gurl fer ransom. Yet he picked a fight with Herrick an' beat him with a gun."

"Sparrow, how come you didn't tell us before?" asked Smoky sternly.

"I'm beholden to Hank. But I will say that if I'd knowed his game I'd never have gone with him. After it was too late—wal, I stuck. An' I've kept it secret. But I feel in my bones I'm done fer. So I'm squealin', an' I'm doin' it because Hays double-crossed you all."

"Reckon I'd have done the same

If Hank had a hold on me," conceded Smoky generously. "Suppose you take a nip of whisky and tell us what happened."

"I'm hot enough without liquor. But I'll tell you. . . . Gimme some more water."

After a moment Latimer drew a long breath and resumed: "Hank picked me because he had a hold on me. . . . After you fellers left that night Hank went out an' got another hoss. He had a saddle hid somewhere. We took them hosses up the bench back of the house an' tied them. Then we went down toward the house."

"Ahuh. He'd had this deal in mind all the time," said Smoky, nodding his head.

"Yes. Before we got to the house he told me he meant to hold Herrick up fer what money he had on hand—then steal the gurl fer ransom. I opened my trap to kick again' the gurl part of it, anyway, but he cussed me somethin' fierce. I seen then he was blood set on it, so I shet up. . . . Herrick was in the livin' room. We walked round the house, an' Hank showed me the gurl's winder, which was open. . . . Wal, we went back, an' up on the porch, an' into the livin' room."

"When Herrick looked up Hank threw a gun on him. 'Keep quiet an' shell out your money,' Hank ordered. That didn't faze the Englishman. He jumped up, thunderin' mad. Hank hit him over the head, cuttin' a gash. That didn't knock Herrick out, but it made him fight till Hank got him good an' hard. Then he opened his desk an' threw out some packages of greenbacks. After that he slid to the floor. Next Hank ordered me to go out an' round to the gurl's winder. It was bright moonlight, but I didn't locate that winder quick. An' at that I was guided to it by the gurl's voice. . . . Gimme another drink."

"'Keep Quiet an' Shell Out Your Money,' Hank Ordered."

Latimer quenched his inordinate thirst again, while Jim and Smoky exchanged thoughtful glances over him.

"Wal, where was I? . . . When I straddled that winder sill I seen the gurl sittin' up in bed, white as the sheets about her. Hank had a gun pointed at her head, an' he was sayin' if she yelled, he'd shoot. Then he told me to look around fer money an' jewels. I started that, keepin' an eye on them. The room was as moonlight as outdoors. Hank told her to git up an' dress fer ridin'. She refused, an' he yanked her clean out of bed. 'Gurl,' he said, 'yore brother is hawg-tied down in the livin' room, an' if you don't do as I tell you, I'll kill him. . . . I'm taking you away fer ransom, an' when he pays up you can come home. So long's you're quiet we won't hurt you. . . . At that she got up an' ran into a closet. I heard her sobbin'. He made her put on ridin' clothes an' pack what else she wanted. Meanwhile I found a heap of gold things an' diamonds, an' a package of money, still with the Wells-Fargo paper on it.

These . . . in my pockets, an' I shore was a walkin' gold mine."

"How much was there?" asked Smoky, curiously, when Latimer paused to catch his breath.

"I'll come to that. . . . We went out the winder, an' Hank hustled her into the woods, with me follerin'. Soon we come to the hosses, an' Hank put the gurl up on the gray. He blindfolded her an' told me to see she didn't git away. The girl talked a blue streak, but she wasn't so scared, except when we heard a shot, then someone runnin' on hard ground. Hank come back pronto, pantin' like a lassoed bull. He said he'd run plump into Progar an' another of Heese-man's outfit."

"'Miss Herrick,' he says, 'them fellers was bent on robbin' your brother—mebbe killin' him. I shot Progar, but the other got away.' . . . He tied the bundle on his hoss, an' leadin' the gurl's hoss he rode up the mountain. We rode the rest of the night, stoppin' to rest at daylight. Hyar I turned the money an' trinkets over to Hank. He counted the money Herrick had turned over—somethin' more'n sixteen thousand—but he never opened the Wells-Fargo package I'd found in the gurl's trunk. . . . That's all, fellers. We rode till noon, meetin' you as agreed in the cedars."

"What was in that Wells-Fargo package?" asked Smoky, after a long pause.

Your State's Rights Are at Stake—Vote for Hon. John Pundt for Railroad Commissioner.

HON. JOHN PUNDT

Let's give Mr. Pundt a chance, Lon Smith has had his. Mr. Pundt is for the interest of the people, and although he is related and sympathetic with Confederate Veterans, he is not seeking office on that sympathetic tale.

An experienced truck and bus man he offers needed reforms in this very important industry. He is for the reduction of auto license fees and railroad rates, which right now make an unfair profit off the farm and ranch products as well as all freight being handled by the railroads.

Mr. Pundt is an experienced oil man and can remedy the situation prevalent in the oil industry. He can stop the hot-oil racket which has been the duty of Lon Smith, a duty in which he has failed. If all reports are true 500,000 people voiced their disapproval of the present chairman of the Railroad Commission in the first primary, and 500,000 people can't be wrong.

Gartman's bunch trimmed the Methodists 7 to 1 Monday night. Both of these teams are out of the race, as far as winning this division, but are still playing good ball. No team has a "set-up" with any team they play. The Firemen broke Arnold's winning streak Monday night by giving them a 16 to 7 licking. Arnold's team blew completely up, while Ray pitched his mates to victory.

The Baptists nosed out the Bachelors Wednesday night 3 to 1. Blanton's "boys" played good ball, but many of them lacked "pep," after making the trip to Temple Tuesday night.

Arnold's crew nosed out Gartman's team Wednesday night 10 to 9. It was in the twelfth inning when the winning tally was made.

—MY—DOPE—

Today—The Firemen will give the Baptists their 4th. defeat of this division.

The Bachelors will defeat the Methodists by a few runs.

Monday—The Firemen will defeat Gartman's crew by a small margin.

Arnold's team will defeat the Bachelors.

SAN ANGELO PREPARES FOR CENTENNIAL PART

San Angelo is preparing for a big part in the Texas Centennial of 1936 in connection with the rehabilitation of famous old Fort Concho, which is within the city limits.

The San Angelo Standard-Times says Fort Concho is one of the best preserved of all the old forts, and that city will strive to be an important secondary celebration city.

Millions of Visitors Will Leave Millions of Dollars in Texas

Texans will show their State! Visitors will show their interest, admiration, respect for its history and confidence in its future. Some will become citizens, others will leave with a heart full of love for Texas, and admiration for its citizenship.

Statistics show that the influx of visitors alone warrant the statement that the project will show a profit. It is expected that 20,000,000 outside visitors will be attracted to Texas. A conservative estimate of their expenditures is $640,000,000. Probably $25,000,000 in gasoline tax will be collected. Thus the State will receive a very large margin of profit on whatever investment is made in the Centennial.

Interest yourself in this coming celebration. From a patriotic standpoint your interest is challenged, and from the standpoint of personal interest you are now called upon to do your part.

The Bible reveals God's will to man. It treats of the past, present and future of God's dealings with the human family. It is divided into Old and New Testaments. We live under the New Testament. Read 8th, 9th and 10th chapters of Hebrews and 3rd chapter of II Corinthians. We should read both the Old and New Testaments but we should do only that which applies to us. Some things in the Old Testament are brought over into the New Testament (moral laws). But in the main God requires different things of us today than He required of the Jews before Christ. If you are an unbeliever, read Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. If you want to know HOW to become a Christian read Acts of Apostles. The Epistles, which follow the Acts of Apostles, teach us HOW to live the Christian life.

We would like to have you present for services at the church of Christ next Lord's day, in fact, I believe if you come once you will want to come again.

Bible classes begin promptly at ten o'clock. We have capable, experienced teachers for these classes. Preaching services both morning and evening. Communion services at 11:45 a. m. New Minister

CLARENCE B. WILLIAMS

Clarence B. Williams of Grapevine, Texas, comes to Gatesville as minister for the Church of Christ, 10th and Saunders sts.

Bro. Williams will make his home in Gatesville indefinitely and while here he will reside with Mrs. Franks on 10th street between Main and Saunders.

To the members of the church throughout the county we wish to say that Bro. Williams is here to help and to be of service to all of us in whatever way he can. We hope that you will use him freely to preach for you, assist in the conducting of funerals, performing of marriage ceremonies, and in whatever other way he can be of help. The Gatesville church is sponsoring this work, but since our support at the present is not equal to what we would like for it to be, we will be glad to let Bro. Williams make appointments at neighboring places in the county to preach, and in this way enlarge his borders for doing good.

We hope that you will soon get acquainted with Bro. Williams. We believe that you will like him, and that you will find him to be all that you have a right to expect in a Christian gentleman. Come to the services of the church on Sunday and hear him. Watch the announcements as to when he will be here.

Bro. Williams has a car which will make it convenient for him to get about over the county. However, we would like to kindly suggest to those who care to use him, that it takes money to operate a car. If you call a preacher to conduct a funeral it is right that you should pay him for his services. It is certainly very inconsistent for one to pay the undertaker for his services and not pay the preacher. Why do people allow themselves to get into such practices as that? Of all the persons who may have anything to do with a funeral it seems that the preacher is the one who should have the first consideration. Let us think this thing over and act soberly and stop this foolishness. You will please understand that we certainly believe that it is right to pay for the services of the undertaker. We should be willing to pay what is right for the services of all those whom we call upon. We pay the lawyer for his services. We pay the doctor for his services. When we engage them we do not expect to do otherwise, and they have a right to be

ALL HONOR TO LON A. SMITH

Leader of Many Confederate Parades

Yes, it is true! Hon. Lon A. Smith, candidate for Railroad Commissioner, has led many Confederate parades, a charge made sarcastically over the radio by one opposing his candidacy for reelection of second term, and attended many Confederate reunions, where he tenderly cared for the veterans as only a loyal son of the South could do. I have attended Confederate reunions and State Conventions of the Daughters of the Confederacy the past twenty-five years, and his opponents in this campaign may have been present, but I do not now recall either their names or their faces. Yes indeed, I have seen Lon A. Smith help the old Confederates lead many of their parades, guide many feeble footsteps along safe paths, carry many cups of cool water to trembling hands for parched lips, and help to carry cots where the frail and feeble veterans could hear and see.

I have also seen spasmodically, other sons of Confederate Veterans about election time "preen and strut" on Confederate occasions, and I have heard them "burst forth in Southern oratory," seemingly to launch their political skiff on "State Rights" for which their Confederate "dad" fought four long years, and for which I dare say their oratorical offspring never voted.

Every loyal Southerner should think well before they cast their vote. Such campaign over radio and through the press should pass the acid test of loyalty and truth, and none but "State Rights" Democrats should wear the royal toga of office.

Let it be known, a Confederate parade is a scene as unique as it is impressive, and whoever looks upon it as only a parade, staged to entertain and interest, has not caught its inner meaning. Each Confederate parade is a tribute to a past history righteously rich in glory. It is manifestation of devotion to a cause not lost but fixed as the stars that represent each state in the Star Spangled Banner.

It is a renewal of a pledge to eternal principles and a proclamation to all the world that principles can never be vanquished—nor can they be dishonored.

All honor to Lon A. Smith, Leader of Confederate Parades—may his tribe increase.

Harry Flentge Answers Reese Circular

A few minutes ago I was presented with a circular with the heading, "Flentge's Statement Refuted." This circular is a last minute appeal placed over the district only one and one-half days before the election, trying to deceive the minds of the voters in the last days of the campaign and is an old political trick. One of Reese's supporters tried to get a letter from the editor of the Coryell County News saying that I was responsible for the following statement, "Hon. Ardell Williams is supporting Flentge." This the editor refused, saying that it was his news story, he alone was responsible for it and he would make a correction in the following issue, Friday, August 24, which he did. And they then say in said circular and leave the impression in said circulars that I have been unfair in the race. Read the circular and you will find that not one statement is contained in same that I am supposed to have made.

Mr. Reese further says that he has not engaged in personalities, when he, in a public speech, attacked me at Beattie and Robinson Springs in Comanche County, Texas, and after doing so I carried one of these boxes by a large majority and received as many votes as Mr. Reese in the other.

I trust that my friends will not be misled by last minute circulars which try to deceive the voters and are put out at such a late time that they cannot be fully and fairly answered.

I have conducted my race upon a high plane but feel that I owe it to the 4,945 voters to answer this last minute political propoganda, by which they are trying to deceive the voters.

Yours respectfully,

HARRY FLENTGE
