Government Ready to Buy Sheep and Goats Through County Agent

APPLICATIONS ARE ON HAND

Application forms arrived yesterday in the County Agent's office to be used in signing up Sheep and goats, which producers wish to cull and sell to the government. It is urgent that all those who wish to sell sheep and goats come into the County Agent's office and make application before September 8, since all applications must be in before purchase program starts.

Sheep which are eligible to be purchased must be ewes, one year old or older; no other sheep will be accepted. The price is $2 per head, whether condemned and killed or accepted for meat. This is a wonderful opportunity for sheep men to cull their flocks and dispose of broken-mouth ewes.

Goats which are eligible for purchase by the government must be does, one year old or over. The price paid for goats will be $1.40 per head, whether condemned or accepted for meat. Goats must be Angora type.

Sheep and goats may be sheared before selling to the government.

Cotton Tax-Exemption Certificates Expected To Arrive by Saturday

The long delayed Cotton Tax Exemption Certificates are expected to arrive here Saturday from College Station. Mr. Hughes, the Adjustment Assistant, has been aiding in working the Bankhead Applications through the tedious mill at College Station, and will bring the Exemption Certificates here.

It is important that everyone know that cards will be mailed to individuals to call for their tax exemption certificates as soon as they arrive. Producers should wait until notified by card to call for their Tax Exemption Certificates. About 150 Interim, or temporary certificates have been issued to date. These Interim certificates will be brought in by the ginners, holding them and exchanged for the proper number of tax exemption certificates for that particular producer. In using the Interim certificate the producer designated a ginner, with whom he is obligated to gin only the cotton called for in the Interim certificate at that gin, until the actual Tax Exemption Certificates arrive. This does not mean that a producer obligates himself to gin his cotton at any particular gin after the actual certificates are received, and only operates while the Interim certificates are being used.

Little Theater Votes Reorganization and Elects New Officers

JACK WOLLARD, PRESIDENT

A comparatively small but interested crowd was present last Tuesday evening when the Little Theater met in the district courtroom for the purpose of outlining plans for the coming year.

Superintendent Frank L. Williams presented the proposal for furnishing the new auditorium stage, describing the details of the stage facilities.

A discussion of a proposed membership drive was held and suggestions were heard concerning an enlargement of the club.

Ayres Compton, tendered his resignation as director of the Little Theater, which became effective immediately and the group went into a reorganization with permanent officers.

Jack Wollard was elected President; he named L. R. Ables, Hazen Ament and Eugene Alvis members of an executive committee. A nominating committee was appointed to submit names for a director to be voted upon at the next meeting, which will be held Tuesday, September 4.

SCHOOL OF DANCING TO OPEN NEXT WEEK

The Raye Rayford school of Dancing will open the latter part of next week with the registration of pupils on September 5, from three to five o'clock at the studio, according to Miss Rayford.

Group classes in ballroom dancing will be held twice monthly. Pupils will be registered in

School Will Run Bus From Jonesboro For Benefit of Students

OTHERS BEING PROPOSED

Recent developments in the way of preparation for the new school year include the definite decision of the School Board to run a school bus from Jonesboro through the Ames, Mt. Zion, Hay Valley and State Training School districts to the Gatesville schools.

This bus will pick up only students above the home school grades in all districts except the State Training School where all students will be transported.

Other proposed routes to run from Purlama and from Flat through adjacent districts to Gatesville have not been definitely determined, however, interest is still being shown in these routes and action will be taken at an early date, according to word from local school authorities.

MORRIS FEDERATION TO CONVENE SAT'DAY

The Morris Federation will meet Saturday afternoon at three o'clock at the home of the president, Mrs. J. O. Brown, on East Main Street.

This is an important meeting called by the club president, which is held at this time each year for the purpose of transacting the necessary business, and making plans for the new year.

It is expected that all members will be present.

September and January only. After the first registration period no more pupils will be registered until January.

ENROLLMENT, ISSUANCE OF BOOKS AND GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS WILL BE ORDER OF THE DAY

The official opening date for the Gatesville Public Schools is Saturday, September 8, at 9:30 a. m. At that time all students are expected to be in their respective places for enrollment, issuance of books and general instructions. There will be no formal opening programs but an assembly will be held in the auditorium of each building for the purpose of advising the students of the procedure for the day. A formal program will be held with the opening of the new gymnasium-auditorium building sometime in October.

All senior students, all students coming from rural schools, and all students who are coming to the Gatesville High School for the first time are expected to call at the high school office at any time during Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 4, 5, and 6 for classification, making of class schedules and other necessary procedure. Freshmen from the Gatesville Elementary School are not required to enroll before Saturday, September 8, the same time that all students other than those mentioned above will enroll.

All students from rural schools MUST bring a transcript of work in the rural school at the time they enroll, unless this record has already been sent to the local high school office.

All students from rural schools who expect the state to pay the high school tuition must bring, at the time of enrollment, a regular Rural High School Tuition Certificate properly filled in and signed by the rural school trustees. This is essential. Blanks for this purpose can be had at the office of the County Superintendent or at the Gatesville High School office.

Seniors and new students who do not enroll during Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week will largely forfeit their right to the choice of courses, the desirable sections of certain courses and any other rights that might come from early enrollment.

Post graduate students are requested to enroll on Monday, September 10. These students will be privileged to enter only the classes that are not filled with regular under-graduate students.

The high school curriculum will be printed in the next issue of the News.

Gatesville Goes Into Semi-Finals With Win Over Bellfals Players

BLANTON GIVES THREE HITS

With two wins to their credit and no losses thus far, Gatesville advanced into the semi-final round of the Cen-Tex Softball Tournament by defeating Bellfals in the last game, 11-1. Three teams remain undefeated.

Blanton, who pitched for the locals last Tuesday night allowed the Bellfals entry club only three hits. A double and a single in the fifth bracket brought in the only run for the opponents of Gatesville.

Rankin, B. G. Anderson and Ray Jones were credited with leading hitting attack of the local club. B. G. Anderson batted .1000 per cent with a home-run, a double, single and a walk. Besides Anderson, Wiggins and Berkley Laxson each got home-runs.

NEW SOUND SYSTEM AND SCREEN AT RITZ

Mr. L. B. Brown, owner and manager of the Regal and Ritz Theaters, has just installed the very latest type sound system in his Ritz theater which makes it the same as in the Regal—Operadio High Fidelity.

This system picks up the highs and lows of recording on the film and speaks from the screen in the natural tone that it should.

"You cannot sit still in the show business," stated Mr. Brown, "as they improve and advance we must step along with them or get out."

G'ville Visitors to Football Training Camp Find Boys Mixing Pleasure With Work

An inviting swimming hole and three square meals a day are enough to balance off the hardships of grilling football training under a broiling sun with no water to drink during practice. At least that's the way it looked to several local spectators who visited the twenty-eight youngsters in their football training camp at the Lampasas State Park this week.

Arriving at camp just when the boys were coming in from practice, the visitors found the enthusiasm and spirit among the athletes running high. As soon as they reached their barracks they lost no time in changing from their uniforms to bathing suits and heading for the swimming hole in Sulphur creek, not more than a hundred yards away.

After a refreshing plunge the candidates for this year's grid squad were ready for the noon meal consisting of beans, meat-loaf, potatoes, slaw, corn-bread and prunes—and they liked it.

According to schedule, a rest period followed during which time the boys studied the football rules for this season, followed by an open discussion on rules, directed by Coach Ewing.

The boys were prevailed upon to let the visitors take a few pictures in uniform before the rest period started.

Apparently they are having a great time. Coach Ewing together with Doyle Baldrige, who is acting in the capacity of assistant coach and manager of the camp, are seeing that strict regulations and discipline are observed. The visitors were highly impressed with the looks of the material and the prospects for the 1934 Hornet squad.

Unfortunately there were some three or four boys who could not make the camp but will join the squad when practice sessions begin here next week.

EDITORIALS IN BRIEF

A news story appeared in the most recent issue of this newspaper, but it was not on the front page. Consequently, it was probably overlooked by many readers, particularly those who have a habit of reading no farther than the frontis cover. This story was released from Austin and contained some very valuable information regarding the continued relief program in many sections of the state including our own. Heretofore many of the relief subjects have not had mattresses upon which to sleep. State relief authorities are now undertaking to overcome that misfortune by the establishment of a program in 28 mattress plants throughout Texas, including one at Gatesville. We are taking for granted that the program is to be worked out with local plants and if not, is should be. Local mattress factories should be utilized. Efforts to absorb some of the state's idle women workers will be particularly rewarded, as the average plant will employ from 15 to 25 persons. These mattresses will be distributed through the commission in much the same manner as canned foods are now being distributed to those on the relief rolls. Such a plan offers benefits for local people in dire need and others who could very easily use a good job, making these beds.

The complete reorganization of the Little Theater was enacted Tuesday evening at a meeting of that group in the district courtroom. Final plans will be drawn up at a later date by those in charge. The psychology of a new start with a new organization and renewed enthusiasm has its beneficial effects. We will see what the effects of the new program will be. The Little Theater has a big job confronting that organization, and that is about the easiest way to describe it. If the interest can be held together and the action united the job can be done. When the local dramatic organization puts a professional finish on the auditorium stage, those who had a part in doing so can say they did something worth talking about.

The central part of the county, including the county seat, has been accused of not having a so-called "pull." Many have said that whatever is undertaken where "pull" is a requisite the proposal usually falls flat. The latest report is that with other parts of the county and adjoining counties getting a little rain now, it looks like Gatesville and vicinity just don't have the "pull."

Reports from over the state reveal that crops planted over cotton that was plowed up last year are larger than crops planted on the other land. It looks like now that what we thought was a big reduction last year is responsible for a big production this year.

Jimmie Allred will select the National Committeeman and the State Chairman from among the "original Allred supporters," it has been announced. Among the so-called prospects are Myron Blabock, Allred's state campaign manager, T. W. Davidson, former lieutenant governor, and R. L. Bobbitt, former attorney general who stumped the state for Allred during his two campaigns.

Another prospective candidate is Vice President John N. Garner, who was due to succeed Jed C. Adams when he resigned to take a position on the Board of Tax Appeals at Washington. As you know the Ferguson controlled state committee named former governor James E. Ferguson despite the opposition of the President and other Washington authorities. Due to President Roosevelt's refusal to permit National Committeemen to hold governmental positions, it is expected that Garner will refuse upon the President's advice.

Wright Morrow of Houston, recently boomed by friends to take Ferguson's post, will be eliminated by Allred limiting the positions to original supporters of the attorney general. Morrow supported Clint Small in the first primary.

Carl Estes, Tyler newspaper publisher and staunch Allred supporter, is also being suggested for the place.

Chancellor Adolph Hitler has announced that the Nazi storm troops, as well as all other semi-military organizations, will be all past powers in his efforts to bring about the complete Nazification of Germany. His reliance is now upon the Reichswehr or regular army, which means the wealthy industrialists and landowners behind General von Blomberg, its leader. The Reichswehr is peculiarly the custodian of the old junker spirit, and Europe recalls that von Blomberg once said, "Give me 6,000 airplanes and see what I can do."

The question as to whether Goering, Goebbels or Hess would succeed Hitler in case of death was settled Tuesday when the Chancellor announced his intention of naming Hess deputy leader and chief of the Nazi party, his successor in case of death or "absence from duty."

A bulletin from AAA headquarters in Washington says Texas has received far more Federal money than any other state. The agricultural adjustment administration has handed out to Texas farmers a total of nearly $55,000,000, or an average of $111 to each of the 495,000 Texas farmers who have received Federal money.

Three tables of contract players enjoyed a pleasant afternoon of bridge at the home of Mrs. B. B. Garrett last Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock.

Following a series of games, high and second score prizes were awarded Mesdames Richard Moore and Bythel Cooper, and consolation went to Mrs. Robt. W. Brown.

An appetizing refreshment service of fruit punch and wafers were served from tables decorated with garden flowers of bachelor buttons.

The invited list included Mesdames Robt. W. Brown, H. R. Saunders, D. D. McCoy, D. R. Boone, A. W. Gartman, Rufe Brown, Andrew Kendrick, B. K. Cooper, C. E. Gandy, George Painter, Richard Moore and R. B. Cross.

Mrs. Minnie Battle was a caller.

Recent Bride Is Shower Honoree.

Mrs. Bailey Curry, who before her recent marriage was Miss Dahlia Mae Murray, was honored at a shower in the home of Mrs. T. M. Hall last Friday afternoon, with Mrs. E. W. Jones Jr. and Miss Louise Hall, hostesses.

During the afternoon, the following program was presented: vocal solo, Miss Wilma Sadler; piano solo, Miss Orpa Mayo; and reading, Mrs. Bythel Cooper.

Following this delightful feature of entertainment, the bride, followed by guests, entered the dining room where she was happy to find a decorated dining table laden with a large assortment of beautiful and useful gifts. After Mrs. Curry had unwrapped and admired each lovely gift, the guests were passed a refreshment plate of dainty sweets.

The rooms were attractively decorated with sunflowers and other cuttings, carrying out the chosen color scheme of yellow and white.

The brides book, in which each guest registered, was presided over by Miss Merl Liljebad, close friend and schoolmate of the bride.

About fifty guests were present at the occasion, and a number of gifts were sent in by those who were unable to attend.

Bluebonnet Workers Enjoy Meeting.

On Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Jesse Hale was hostess to the Bluebonnet Workers Club. A delightful afternoon was spent in quilting.

The regular business meeting was held, at which time Mrs. Max Parks was elected president to fill Mrs. Denny's place, who resigned. A social was planned for the members and their families. Plans were also made to begin work at the next meeting on foundation patterns, which are being taught to us by Miss Martin through the clothing demonstrator.

Many nice pal-gifts were received, after which refreshments of meat sandwiches, chocolate cup cakes and iced grape juice were served. Mrs. Curtis Rogers of Gatesville was a visitor to the club meeting.

Odom-Taylor Wedding(From Tyler Daily Times)
(Delayed)

Relatives and friends thronged the T. L. Odom home on Chilton Ave. to see the nuptials of the eldest daughter, Miss Elizabeth Odom, and Mr. Everett L. Taylor Jr., prominent young society couple.

The words of the marriage services were pronounced with solemnity and sincerity by Dr. Robert Hill, family friend for many years.

The bridal party came down the stairway—first Miss Martha Odom, sister of the bride and Mr. Billy Thomson of Gatesville, cousin of the bridegroom. Miss Odom wore a pink lace dress made with long sleeves and high neck and carried a bouquet of white roses combined with daisies and tied with white maline bow. Next appeared Miss Sara Hunter, maid of honor, dressed in long blue lace dress made high at the neck. The skirt dipped slightly in the back. A jacket of matching lace had long sleeves with slits down the length of the arms and these slits and neck were outlined in silk ruching. White roses and daisies formed her bouquet, also tied with maline.

The bride looked exceedingly lovely in her long white lace dress as she entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She presented a picture of the typical bride with dress cut square at the neckline in front and sleeves tight-fitting to the wrists. Trimming of ruffles across the front and tiny covered buttons on sleeves and down the back added to the dress. The skirt fitted closely about the hips to dip into a pointed train in the back. She wore a beautiful veil of illusion which her mother wore as a bride 31 years ago. The cap was fashioned to give the effect of a halo and had a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white caledonia rosebuds circled by lillies of the Valley and outlined with lily leaves. Its sash was handsome white lace showered with lily sprays.

Mrs. Odom, mother of the bride, wore a white embroidered dress with shoulder corsage of yellow rosebuds and purple asters while Mrs. Taylor, mother of the bridegroom, wore a printed chiffon with corsage of yellow roses and pink baby's breath.

True to the tradition, the bride threw her bouquet, which was caught by the matron of honor who gave it to Mrs. John T. Post of Gatesville, grandmother of the bridegroom.

The bride graduated from high school here, attended Tyler Junior College and Baylor College for Women, Belton. She was pianist for Calvary Baptist Church a year and is now pianist for the adult department of the Sunday School of the First Baptist church of which she is a member.

Mr. Taylor attended Tyler Junior College also, and Texas A. and M. College. Later he graduated from the Spartan School of Aeronautics in Tulsa and now has his commercial pilot's license from the United States Department of Commerce. He is employed by the Snowden Oli Company, owners of extensive holdings in the East Texas field.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Taylor are making their home in Tyler.

Mr. Orville Petree, office agent of the Greyhound Bus Station in Temple, visited his parents and friends in Gatesville several days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Stone and two sons from Houston have returned from a visit to Chicago and are now visiting Mrs. O. F. Wells and other relatives in Gatesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stout are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby daughter in their home last Sunday. The charming little Miss, who weighed eight pounds, was christened, Dorothy June.

Walter Connolly Tops Strong Cast in Film Drama at Regal

"Whom the Gods Destroy," Columbia's powerful drama of a man's great love for his son, featuring Walter Connolly, Robert Young and Doris Kenyon, will head the new bill at the Regal Theatre commencing Saturday night, Sunday and Monday. The film was adapted by Fred Niblo, Jr. from an original story by Albert Payson Terhune.

The story, briefly, concerns a successful Broadway stage producer whose one dominating aim in life is to perpetuate his name in the theatre through his son. While en route to London, the ship is wrecked in a collision with a derelict. Courageously the producer helps the ship's officers battle panic-stricken passengers, aids the women and children getting into the lifeboats and even gives his own life-belt to a woman companion. But in a mad moment of frenzy and panic following the realization that death means never seeing his loved ones again, he escapes the doomed ship by at-tiring himself in a woman's coat and furs and winning a place in a lifeboat.

Branded a coward at his rescue, he gives a false name and retires to a life of drifting and exclusion—while at home he is mourned as a hero. Unable to face his family and friends, he watches his son's progress in the theatre from afar, disappointed at the youth's lack of genius. Through subterfuge, and without disclosing his identity, he wins the confidence of his son and together they conceive and produce the boy's first hit.

The final scenes mark a highly dramatic climax, which attains one of the highest points in gripping emotional drama seen on the screen since "Bad Girl."

Mrs. J. W. Harper is confined to her home on account of illness.

Mr. Kirby Perryman has been confined to his bed this week on account of illness.

Messrs. Matt Jones, Bob Arnold and Ayres Compton visited the football training camp near Lampasas Tuesday of this week.

"A Woman must have had a hand in styling the new FORD V-8"

● A handy compartment for gloves and purse. ● A steering ratio that makes parking decidedly easy. ● Plenty of body, head, and leg room in the rear seat.

in styling the new FORD V-8

THE fact is, many women did. For this new Ford car was definitely planned to meet the needs of women as well as men.

That's why you'll find a special compartment for your purse in the dashboard and sun-visors for your eyes. That's why interior fittings have been so tastefully designed. Why a finer grade of upholstery has been used. Why brakes act on the slightest touch of your toe. Why the steering ratio is 15-to-1 in order to make this car easier for a woman to handle.

And remember, the Ford V-8 has all the safety features modern engineering skill can devise—a V-8 Engine, Torque-tube Drive, All Steel Body, Welded Steel Spoke Wheels, Safety Glass and many others.

Remember, too, that the Ford V-8 is the most economical car to operate Ford has ever built. Not only that—Ford V-8 delivered prices are decidedly low.

ROBBERS' ROOST

THE STORY

CHAPTER VII.—The gang is about to break with Hays over the abduction, but he explains that he robbed Herrick and stole Helen for ransom. Realizing that Helen will be worse off if she falls into Heese-man's clutches, Jim Wall rides on with Hank and his men. Heese-man's riders are discovered in pursuit. After a running battle in which Latimer, one of Hays' men, is wounded, Hays leads the gang into a canyon retreat, difficult of access and easy to defend—The Robbers' Roost.

CHAPTER VIII.—After camp has been made, Jim seeks out Smoky Slocum, and secures his promise to aid in case Helen is threatened with harm by the villainous Hays. Jim hears a wild cry in the night. Before he dies, Latimer, who was wounded in the fight with Heese-man, tells Jim and Smoky that Hays has held out some of the money he stole from Herrick.

He stalked away, waving the fagot to keep it ablaze.

"I seen her last night when he called me to fetch her supper," said Jack. "Fust time I'd had a peek at her face lately. Seemed a ghost of that other gurl."

"Yes, and you fellows saw only a ghost of the money Hays got from the Herricks," retorted Jim, divining the moment for revelation had come.

An angry roar arose. Smoky threw up his hands and left the camp fire. Then Jim, in brief, cold terms, exposed the machinations of their chief. After the first outburst they accepted the disclosure in astonished and ominous silence. Jim passed off into the darkness.

Some time during the night he was awakened. As he lay there, eyes open, a soft hand touched his cheek and a whisper brought him wide awake, transfixed and thrilling.

"Jim! . . . Wake up. It is I."

Helen knelt beside him. Jim sat up with a violent start.

"You! . . . What is it? Has that devil—"

"Hush! Not so loud. Nothing has happened. . . . But I couldn't sleep—and I must talk to you—or go out of my mind."

In the starlight her face had the same pearl-white tint as the clouds.

"All right. Talk—but it's risky," he whispered huskily. His hand rested upon the blanket.

She bent lower, so that her face was closer, and she could whisper very softly:

"First I want to tell you how cruelly it has come home to me—my ignorance, my failure to believe and trust you, even after you—so—so rudely insulted me that day up on the mountain trail. If I had only had faith in you then! It's too late. But I want you to know I have the faith now. Only the fear and the suspense are wearing me out."

"But you are well—all right still? . . . He hasn't harmed you? Helen?"

"No, he has not harmed me, and I am not ill. I'm losing flesh because I can't eat. But that's nothing. . . . Lately I don't sleep because I'm horribly afraid he will come—and smother me—or choke me—so I can't cry out. I've slept some in the daytime. . . . Jim, the thing is I—can't stand it much longer. I think I frightened him. But I can see—I can feel—Oh, Jim, for G—d's sake, do something to end—this horror—"

She leaned or fell forward in the weakness of the moment, her head against him. He stroked it gently, his reaction as far from that passionate and mocking embrace at Star ranch as could have been possible.

"Helen, don't—give up," he replied. "You have been brave. And it has gone—better than we could hope. . . . Only a little while longer!"

"We might steal away—now." "Yes. I've thought of that. But only to get lost and starve—or die of thirst in these brakes."

"That almost—would be better—for me."

"If you can't stick it out we'll plan and go—say tomorrow night. We must have food, horses. . . . It's only honest, though, to tell you the chances are a hundred to one against us. . . . We've got an even break if we wait."

"How can you—think that?"

"This gang is about ready to go up in smoke. There'll be a terrible fight. Hays surely will be killed. And just as surely, more than he. That will leave a proposition I can handle without risk to you."

"Even then—we still have to find a way out of this awful place."

"Yes, but I'd have time, and I could pack water and food. . . . Helen, trust me, it's the best plan."

"If you take me back to my brother, I'll give you the ransom."

"Don't insult me," he replied, bitterly.

At that she drew up suddenly, and threw her hair back from her face. "Forgive me. . . . You see, I have lost my mind. That never occurred to me before. But I'll reward you in some way."

"To have saved you will be all the reward I ask—and more than I deserve. . . . You have forgotten that I love you."

"Yes—I had," she whispered. Her great eyes studied him in the starlight as if the fact had a vastly different significance here than it had at Star ranch.

Suddenly she stiffened. Over her shoulder Jim's eye was arrested by a glint of starlight upon a bright object on the ground. Above and behind it a shape darker than the dark background, gradually took the outline of a man on hands and knees.

Cold terror assailed Jim Wall, despite his iron nerve. That was Hays crawling upon them with a gun in his hand.

A bursting tide of blood through Jim's veins paralleled the lightning flash of his thoughts. Death for both of them was terribly close. His gun was under his pillow. Helen knelt between him and the robber. A move of even the slightest kind would be fatal. Cunning must take precedence of action.

"It's Hays," he whispered, scarcely audibly. "Follow me—now." Then, exerting all his will to speak naturally, he said aloud: "No, Miss Herrick, I'm sorry, but I can't oblige you. I don't approve of Hays' kidnaping you, but it's done. And I'm a member of his band. I would not think of going against him, let alone trying to run off with you."

There was a tense silence, fraught with much apprehension for Jim. Would she be able to play up to him? There was just a chance that Hays had not heard any of their whispers, in which case it was possible to deceive him. Helen comprehended.

"I'll give you the ransom money," she said, quite clearly, and certainly most persuasively. "My brother will reward you otherwise."

"You can't bribe me," he rejoined. "And I wouldn't advise you to try it on Smoky or any of the others."

"Hays may have had only money in his mind at first, but now—"

"Don't move, Jim!" came a low, hard voice from the shadow.

Helen gave a little gasp and sagged on her knees. Jim waited a moment.

"I won't, Hank," he replied.

Then Hays' tall form loomed black above the rise of ground. He strode forward. If he had sheathed his gun, Jim would have made short work of that interview. But he held it half leveled, glancing darkly in the starlight.

The robber chief gazed down upon Jim and Helen. His features were indistinguishable, but the poise of his head was expressive enough. Still Jim sensed that he had been misled.

"You cat!" he declared, roughly.

"If I ketch you again—tryin' to bribe any of my outfit—I'll treat you so you won't want to go back to your baby-faced brother. . . . Now you git to your tent!"

Helen rose unsteadily and vanished in the gloom.

"Jim Wall, you ain't been with me long, an' I don't know you, but I'm takin this deal to heart," Hays said slowly. "I'm much obliged. I reckon you're the only man in the outfit who could of withstood that woman."

"No, you're wrong Hank. Smoky wouldn't have listened to her. And I'm sure the others would have stood pat."

"My faith was near gone."

"That's in you, Hank. You've no call to lose it. You've about split your gang over this woman."

"Wal, I'm not askin' judgments from you or any of the outfit," growled the chief gloomily. "You'll all be good an' glad to git your share of the ransom."

"The thing is—boss—will we get it?"

Hays made a violent move like a striking snake. "What you mean by that?"

"I'm askin' you."

James V. Allred Voices Appreciation to Voters

Wichita Falls—When late returns Saturday night from the Democratic primary revealed that James V. Allred, candidate for governor, was assured of the nomination he issued a statement in which he said he would ever be grateful to all of the "friends who have fought not only for me, but for ideals of government."

"To me, this is an hour of great emotion and it is difficult to express in words the tumult of appreciation, of humility and of consecration to the welfare of Texas. . . . I shall dedicate myself to the tasks ahead. I appreciate these problems fully realizing my inability to successfully deal with them without the whole-hearted cooperation of the Legislature and all other people. I crave their confidence and help.

"I want to be a good winner. I hold no ill will against those who opposed me in the past or in this campaign. I hope that, as the nominee of the party, and, I trust, the next Governor of Texas, I shall have their help and co-operation at all times."—Fort Worth Star Telegram.

CENTENNIAL PROMISES PROFIT

Since the Legislative act which authorized the Texas Centennial also states that within two years after its close, all profits and permanent buildings become the property of the State, this is one of the biggest incentives for the celebration. In addition to the profit made by the state, individual business men will reap a large revenue. The Texas Centennial promises profit—not expense.

HARRY FLENTGE THANKS VOTERS

I am deeply appreciative of the splendid vote given me in Saturday's election and wish that I could thank each of my friends personally. To those that signed an endorsement in my behalf I am also very thankful and trust that some day I can return the favor.

I am not discouraged over my defeat which was by a small majority but am going to face the future with a smile and again take up the active practice of law.

Yours respectfully,

HARRY FLENTGE

THANKS VOTERS

I take this method of expressing to the voters of Precinct No. 1., my appreciation for the many favors shown me, and especially do I thank those of you who supported me in Saturday's election.

Toward those of you who supported by opponent I bear no ill will, but desire that justice and courtesy come first in all our dealings.

It is my earnest desire to cooperate with you in the enforcement of the law, and that same spirit of cooperation on your part will be appreciated.

Respectfully,
FRED MAYBERRY

JOE WHITE THANKS VOTERS

I desire to take this method of expressing to you my appreciation for the many favors and courtesies shown me during the campaign that has just closed.

To those of you who supported and worked for me, accept my sincere thanks; to those of you who supported my opponent I have but the kindest of feelings; to both alike I desire that justice, fairness and courtesy be the underlying principles in all our associations in the future.

It is my intention and purpose to cooperate with you at all times in the enforcement of our laws with courtesy and fairness to all.

Respectfully,
JOE WHITE
