Local Thespians Add Technicians to Staff For Little Theatre

C. E. Alvis, Jr., Director of the Gatesville Little Theatre, stated that Mr. Sherrill Kendrick has assumed his duties as Technical Director of the current production of "The Whole Town's Talking." Also Miss Laura Pierson has been chosen for a gravely important cog in the production, that of prompting.

Finishing touches are being put on the play and plenty of laughs are assured as the rehearsals progress. The story comes to the News that the lines in this production are so funny that the actors themselves though having been over the lines numbers of times, sometimes become so convulsed at the antics of their colleagues that the whole practice has to (Continued Bottom Next Column)

PROCLAMATION

By the Mayor.
The week of March 30th to April 6th, inclusive, has been designated as Spring Fire Prevention Clean-up Week.

There are many reasons why the Spring Clean-up Campaign this year should receive the enthusiastic support of every man, woman and child. First, because Campaign this year is of particular importance, as it can be combined with general welfare work and be of particular benefit to the unemployed. Second, because every dollar in properly destroyed by fire which frequently is the result of careless housekeeping in the home and in the average place of business, is a serious drain upon our present economic condition. Third, every citizen should have a wholesome pride in his home parks and buildings. Homes and surroundings freshly painted, with well kept lawns and gardens, increase property values interest. Cleanliness creates cheer, courage and confidence. Fourth, because in the past ten years entirely too many of our citizens have lost their lives due to carelessness in their daily use of fire, and the preservation of human life is an important matter.

Now, Therefore, I, M. W. Lowrey, Mayor of the city of Gatesville, do hereby designate the week of March 30 to April 6, inclusive as Spring Clean-up Week and most respectfully call upon all departments of the city, the Chamber of Commerce, Civic Clubs, Patriotic clubs and our people in general, to take an active part in this clean-up campaign.

I further designate the Fire Marshall and Fire Chief as a committee of two to work with the city officials in selecting active committees to carry on this Campaign and ask the co-operation of all of our people in this enterprising campaign for a clean city.

In Testimony Whereof, I hereto sign my name and seal of office, this the 20th day of March, 1935.

M. W. LOWREY,
Mayor Gatesville, Texas.

be stopped for as much as fifteen or twenty minutes. Another un-authenticated story is that a casual visitor at the practice got so tickled that she tore open an appendicitis incision that had been healed three years.

Over 1,700,000 tons of phosphate rock were shipped from Tunisia last year.

Deadline on Cotton Contracts, April 1, Must be Made Soon

Although Saturday, March 23, has been set as a dead line date for making applications for new cotton contracts for 1935 and continue old contracts a new deadline date has been set for Coryell county. The absolute final date that farmers may make applications for new contracts or continue o'd contracts and the changing of all Legal Status Papers will be April 1, which is Monday week. It is the farmers' responsibility to ascertain whether his contract has been executed properly and to come to the county office and sign necessary papers if he has not continued his old contract or in case he wishes to make application for a contract he must come to the county office, and attend to this before April 1. It is necessary that a dead line be set as above which allows ample time for farmers to make all necessary changes and for all forms to be returned to the county office.

It is expected that with April 1 as the dead line date that the cotton contracts old and new may be submitted and approved by the State Board of Review at College Station, Texas, at an early date, and thus get ahead of the rush and secure payments from Washington in a minimum amount of time.

The County Committee is in session daily and contract signers wishing to discuss any cotton reduction problems with them may come to the county office and appear before them.

Too much stress cannot be made on the dead line date because after April 1st no farmer can make application for a contract, and it is hoped that no one will be disappointed in coming in after it is too late. Those who read this should notify their neighbors so that they will not be disappointed.

POPULAR NEW STORY NOW APPEARING IN NEWS

Starting in this issue and to be run every Tuesday hereafter, is our new story, a screen story, entitled, "The Whole Town's Talking." This is the first of a series of screen stories the News is to carry as an additional feature for its readers.

Incidentally, after reading this story in the News, the picture may be seen at a later date at one of the local movie houses, as it has already been booked.

Gatesville's Little Theatre has a play by this name now in production, but the plot and characters are entirely different, according to information we have. The title "The Whole Town's Talking," however, is identical.

R. J. Potts & Son to Open Grocery Store On South Side Sq.

R. J. Potts & Son, grocers of Coolee, Texas, are to open a complete grocery store here about April 1st in the R. M. Arnold building formerly occupied by Flentge Drug Store on the south side, according to R. M. Arnold, Jr.

Complete new fixtures will be used throughout according to Mr. Arnold, who is superintending construction work on the building which includes a new rear wall and calsoining of the interior.

Yesterday being the first day of Spring, I had a pleasant trip and saw two prominent citizens from Flat in town attending the County Meet, Messrs O. and C. Clawson. The weather brought Harold Cunyus out in "ice cream" suit; he did look rather neat in his Spring attire. From what I hear Elmer Brown, new employee at the City Hall, had trouble in getting acquainted with Gatesville's law force, but the "laws" found him to be ok. Pete Hardy of Oglesby was seen greeting friends here recently. Miss Elizabeth Williams, new employee of the News, told me she was going to get a pair of skates or a bicycle to chase some of these ads down; I would prefer a bicycle, a pair of skates makes too much noise and the "falls" come too often. Had a nice chat with "Badger" Jones yesterday, a fellow that's always in a good humor Paul Wiley says a fellow can always tell when Spring's here, we see how much we can loaf.

SPRING OPENING SALE AT JOE HANNA'S

Joe Hanna has inaugurated his Spring Opening Sale to begin today, March 22. The News office printed a large number of double page ads with which Mr. Hanna has circularized the entire county.

The Sale is to last ten days—till April 1st and the buyers are offered many wonderful bargains during this time.

In the last issue, the NEWS erred in and advertisement carried for E. T. Mayes Photo Shop. We carried Mr. Mayes' ad reading "3 photos for 10c". We are pleased to make this (Continued Bottom Next Column)

Co-operative Extension Work in Coryell County took a spurt on the market this week in the county with the District Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Kate Adele Hill's visit to the fifteen local H. D. clubs, assembled in a Reporter's School in the county Courthouse Wednesday afternoon, under the direction of Miss Gladys Martin, Coryell County Home Demonstration Agent.

At the Reporter's School the different home demonstrators were given instructions in writing "copy" both for the local papers and for publicity releases for the headquarters of the H. D. work in the state.

Miss Hill urged that the reporters use care in their reports and make sure that they had their stories in proper form, remembering to get them in in time for the "dead line" on press day.

Short talks were made during the school by representatives of both the Coryell County News and the Gatesville Messenger, outlining news stories and telling the club reporters about the "dead line" for respective papers. Invitations were extended by each representative for the members or anyone else interested to visit the local printing establishments.

Coryell County Home Demonstrators present at this school were Miss Bonnie Jean Seller, Carden 4-H club; Mrs. Roscoe Coward, Ater H. D. club; Mrs. C. C. Etchison, the Osage club; Miss Ernestine Jones of Slater club; Mrs. W. B. Duncan, Harmon club; Miss Ctha Berry, Hood Springs club; Mrs. Charles Bunnell, Priscilla club; Miss Avis Parsons, Purlma club; Miss Mayal Moore, Mountain club; Mrs. ParMer Hirsch, Priscilla club! Mrs. Addye Taylor, Ater club; Mrs. Maude Lovelace, Ater club; Mrs. Gladys Fry, Mountain club; and Mrs. Jack Morse of the Pidcoke club.

DISTRICT H. D. AGENT GIVES FINAL INSTRUCTIONS

During the visit of Miss Kate Adel Hill, distret Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Martin, the local Home Demonstration Agent, held a called meeting of all the Coryell County H. D. Council women, in the Courthouse yesterday.

As this was Miss Hill's last day in the county she gave final instructions to members of the clubs and to the councilwomen concerning the work they are to carry out in the county in co-operation with Miss Martin.

Youth again takes the spotlight, with The Little Broadcast. Of course, not with the finished nonchalance and suavity of the professional, but with a studied technique and natural ability that marks the budding artist. Tuesday evening several young artists appeared in delightful program at the high school auditorium and showed remarkable latent ability, that only needs encouragement and ageing to blossom into, probably, other finished masters that Gatesville and Coryell county may well be proud. Youth will surprise you everytime, give it a chance!

"Aw! Go fly a Kite!" Have you ever been told that? We are being told that constantly now adays, since we are seeing so many future aviators holding the business end of a string and straining their eyes toward the skies and rolling clouds where, at the other end of a string, hangs a tale—probably two thin sticks crossed and a bit of thin paper and a little paste. It's real sport.

Too, it doesn't only affect the youngster, but the "oldster," and only a day or two ago we saw two business men of the city enjoying this sport along with some of the boys of the neighborhood.

To be a gloom peddler, however, we must say, there is only one danger from this very amusing pastime and that is "live wires." Let us urge parents, and the participants themselves to "Go fly your Kite" away from live wires. No one will object to you using their pasture, the ball park, the fair grounds or the City Park for this wonderful pastime. So, we say, "Go fly your Kite" where there will be no "forced landings."

MISS WILLIAMS ADDED TO NEWS STAFF

The News is pleased to announce an addition to its staff in the person of Miss Elizabeth Williams, who will act in the capacity of society editor and local news reporter.

Miss Williams is the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Williams and is well and favorably known to most of the people of the county.

She graduated from the public schools of this county and later attended the Baylor College for women at Belton. For the past several months she has been conducting private classes in expression in this city.

With her first few days' introduction into the intricacies of newspaper experience Miss Williams declares that the work fascinates her, and that is one of the prime indications and promises of success in any career. She has a most pleasing personality, easy to get acquainted with, and we just know you will be glad to tell her all the good news you may know, for the columns of this paper.

J. S. TORBETT IS GIVEN PLEASANT SURPRISE

As a sort of surprise birthday celebration a number of friends of J. S. Torbett gathered at his home last Sunday night for a two hours' entertainment.

Mr. Torbett being one of the "old school singing masters," the evening was spent principally in singing—many numbers being old time hymns. A number of those present were former pupils of Mr. Torbett's singing classes.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for all the kind words and good deeds shown us in the recent death of our dear wife and mother. We also want to thank all our friends and neighbors for the lovely dinner that was prepared. Also for the beautiful flowers. May God be with each of you always is our prayer.

World Comment

By JOE BURNS

GERMANY'S denouncement of the Versailles Treaty descended like a bolt of thunder upon the nations of Europe last week. In the midst of negotiations to bring about perpetual peace in Europe, Chancellor Adolf Hitler issued a decree providing for an army of 500,000 men and compulsory military service. Hitler cited rearmament throughout Europe as a pretext for the abrogation of the treaty which closed the World War but declared that Germany's intentions were peaceful.

Despite the peaceful declarations on the part of Hitler, Europe and particularly France was tense. In the French Chamber of Deputies there was talk of war. At present the French army on the mainland numbers only 450,000, exclusive of 300,000 men in the colonies. Thus Hitler will have 50,000 more troops in Europe when he arms his 500,000 than does France.

It appears that the action on the part of Germany will serve to drive Great Britain in the arms of France and most likely strengthen the ties binding Russia to France. In fact, a revival of the Triple Entente alliance is actually envisaged. The only obstacle in the path of such an alliance is the attitude of Great Britain, which because of its fear of Japan, will hesitate to become embroiled in continental European affairs. It is suspected that France and Russia already have secret military alliance directed against Germany. Russia fears that Germany and Poland will attack her in conjunction with Japan. Such a concerted attack the Soviets naturally fear. Germany and Poland would divide the Ukraine between themselves and Japan would get Siberia. Italy, as usual, will not commit herself to either side. Mussolini has nothing to fear from Germany as long as he can keep Austria out of Hitler's clutches.

By the provisions of the Versailles Treaty Germany was required to abolish compulsory universal military service; to reduce her army to 100,000 men to be recruited by voluntary enlistment; to limit her navy to battleships and a few other smaller craft. One clause of the treaty prohibited Germany to construct battleships exceeding 10,000 tons. The inventive Germans responded with the 10,000 ton "pocket battleships" that threatened to antedate the entire British navy. Germany will now be at liberty to construct a navy on a par with France and Great Britain. Hitler will not commit the blunder of the Kaiser and attempt to rival British sea power at the present, you can rest assured.

In his official address to the German people, Hitler declared that it was for the protection of the Fatherland only that he made the momentous step of denouncing the treaty, and upon sober thought, he is right. Upon the West the Germans face a French army of 750,000 men. For 1935 the French will spend $451,000,000 on armaments. On the East is Russia with an army of 950,000 men. The Russian budget for 1935 calls for expenditures of $895,000,000 on armaments. Poland, right next door, has 300,000 men under arms and is spending 40 per cent of her current budget for "defense." Which of these nations may be called friends of Nazi Germany. None! So why should Germany—peaceful for sixteen years—be held in bondage. It is said that Germany started the World War. A review of the facts will show that France, Russia, Italy and even Britain contributed toward the starting of that war. France wanted Alsace-Lorraine and sweet revenge against Germany for the insults committed in 1870. Russia wanted Constantinople, Italy wanted a slice of Austria-Hungary, and Britain wanted to destroy the German naval power. And a thousand other rivalries and jealousies contributed their part toward starting this great conflict. History has shown that a great people—any great people—can not be held in bondage for any length of time. The German people, who are one of the worlds greatest, have at last broken the fetters that have bound them for seventeen years. There is no reason to believe that their intentions are not honorable. They should be given a break!

Track Team

Under the efficient coaching of Doyle Baldrige, the contestants for track and field events have been making rapid strides in the last two weeks. Last Friday afternoon eliminations were held and those who will represent Gatesville High School in the official County Meet were chosen.

Ball Team Sponsors Program

Clinton Chamlee, popular singer of Gatesville, presented the "Little Broadcast" at the High School auditorium, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. Many popular songs were sung by Mr. Chamlee. The comical part of the program came when Harold Chamlee, impersonating Kate Smith, sang "I'll String Along With You." Tap dances were given by Dorothy Chamlee, Mary Margaret Holmes, June Marie Chamlee, Jerry Davis and Gene Stinnett. Another feature of the program was the whistling of "Glow Worm" by Beulah Gamblin. A violin solo by Jacqueline West, accompanied by Miss Orpa Mayo, and a piano solo by Jack Reesing, who assisted Mr. Chamlee during the program, were the concluding number. The announcer for the "Little Broadcast" was Erle Powell.

The proceeds of this program will go to the Gatesville High School Athletic Fund.

Interscholastic Meet

The pupils of the Gatesville Schools and schools in Coryell county are much elated over the arrival of the annual County Meet. Each year the participating schools assemble at Gatesville and hold a meet which involves intellectual and physical contests.

The Interscholastic Meet was organized in 1920 and has been a profitable and beneficial organization ever since that time. Long before this a county meet was carried on between the different schools, but the Interscholastic League has improved this a great deal. The meet is held annually during the latter part of the month of March. The winning contestants go to the district meet at Waco, from there to the regional meet at Denton and to the state meet at Austin.

Cracks from the Campus

Uncle John came to stay, and before he left he gave Tom L. a dollar bill. "Now, be careful with that money, Tommy," he said. "Remember the saying, 'A fool and his money are soon parted'." "Yes, uncle," replied Tom L. "but I want to thank you for parting with it just the same."

"Look here, Mr. Cantrell, is this peach or apple pie?" demanded Hazen Ward. "Can't you tell from the taste?" asked Mr. Cantrell. "No, I can't." "Well, then, what difference does it make?"

There is danger in carrying a courtesy too far, if you believe the following: On the bus Donald Weaver gave Fay Byrom a seat. She fainted. On recovering she thanked him. Then he fainted.

James Webb: "Why all the gloom?"

Ed Curry: "I received a letter yesterday informing me that I was the beneficiary of a free pass to the Palace; and in the rush I replied, 'Your contribution is returned with thanks.'"

Several years ago Oley Beard, having gotten a gun and diary for Christmas, wrote in his diary:

"December 26. Snowin' can't go huntin'."

"December 27. Snowin' yet, can't go huntin'."

"December 28. Still snowin,' shot Granmaw."

DUSTING COVERS — OF — TEXAS HISTORY

Mirabeau B. Lamar was seeing wonderful visions as he wrote his letter to the Governor of New Mexico, telling him that Texans wanted to be friends with the New Mexicans, and that they offered the protection of the Texan flag should they desire to take advantage of it. There was valuable trade between St. Louis and Santa Fe, and deeming it right that Texas should get some profit from this trade, Lamar suggested a good will expedition into New Mexico. At first Congress refused to send commissioners, but Lamar ordered it done, to be paid for out of the treasury funds (such as they were) and honored with his own personal funds.

Three excited commissioners gathered their food and clothing together, and prepared themselves for the long journey to Santa Fe. William G. Cooke, R. E. Brenham, and J. A. Navarro were the three official commissioners. Going with them were fifty merchants, and seventy soldiers, under the leadership of Gen. Hugh McLeod.

Families and kinfolks were gathered at San Felipe de Austin the latter part of June to give their farewells to the men starting out to Santa Fe. The Texas flag waved in the breeze, and spirits were high as the men began their march that was to end so tragically. Lamar's term of office ended before the men were back, and Houston again became President.

Crossing West Texas was a terrible trip for the already foot-sore Texans. They had not known that their vast Republic was like this! When they finally reached Mexico they were exhausted, almost dying of thirst and hunger. To make matters worse, they were arrested as soon as they set foot in Mexico. General Armijo did not believe their story about coming on a good will trip. If they were coming as friends, why were there so many soldiers present? Without giving the tired Texans time to rest, they were started on a painful march to Mexico City, where they were to be dealt with by the President, Santa Anna.

When word reached Texas and the United States of the fate of their commissioners they tried at once to free the men. Most of the United States citizens among the captives were released, but it was not until June 13, 1842, Santa's birthday, that the Texans regained their liberty.

Much criticism has been made of Lamar for the Santa Fe expedition. He believed he was doing something for the future prosperity of the Republic when he organized the expedition, however, and he was not to be blamed too severely for the results of the trip. Several years later the Texans might have had an entirely different reception.

Lamar did his work well as President. The things he accomplished were for the good of the Republic, and they have not been forgotten in the scores of years that have passed since his time.

The memory of Mirabeau B. Lamar, as well as that of other early patriots, will be revered during the Texas Centennial celebrations of 1936.

RETAIL MERCHANTS URGED TO RENOVIZE

All business men, and particularly retail merchants, now realize that the retail stores of this country must be modernized, or within a few years, lacking modernization, they will have lost their desirability as stores.

The small merchant particularly is affected when buying shifts into other channels and when sales volume that he has enjoyed is diverted to other stores.

He realizes that such shifts have occurred because other and modernized stores took his trade away from him.

The volume of property modernization and repair already achieved under the sponsorship of Better Housing Programs throughout the country is reflected in the definite uplift of retail business volume. Probably every retail merchant has in some degree noted tangible results of successful Better Housing Programs in terms of increased business.

SOFTBALL GAMES TO START HERE APRIL 2

In a meeting of the Rules Committee and Managers of the Softball League in the office of Eugene Alvis the motion carried to begin games April 2nd, and the League to be split with the first division being 12 weeks.

Rev. Jas. M. McLean was elected as Judge Landis, and has started making out the schedule for games.

Members of the Rules Committee are Kermit R. Jones, M. D., Roger Miller, Pete Patterson, and C. E. Alvis Jr.

The following rules were adopted March 6 by the Rules Committee:

1. The League shall consist of four teams with a designated manager for each team. Each manager shall, before his team plays a scheduled game, provide Roger Miller, fire chief, with a squad list not to exceed sixteen players to be selected from Coryell County, which may be changed at will with the payment of additional entrance fees as provided in Rule 2. Provided that any player who has participated in play with one team cannot thereafter be eligible to play with any other team unless he has been dropped by the manager of his team and the Rules Committee consents to the change. Any change in a squad list must be reported to Roger Miller at least 48 hours before any player or players thus added may participate in play, but in no event may a player who has once been dropped from a squad list be re-added to the list of the same team.

2. An entrance fee of fifty cents (50c) shall be collected from each player participating in the League—all collections to be made by the respective managers and turned into Louis Neuman, treasurer of the Fire Department. No player shall be eligible to participate until this fee has been paid.

3. League games shall be played on Tuesday and Friday nights, each team playing two games per week, and two games being played each night. The first game shall be scheduled at 8 o'clock p. m. and the second game at 9 o'clock p. m. Nine players shall be the maximum number allowed to start or continue a game and a team not placing as many as nine players on the field within ten minutes after the scheduled time, shall have a forfeit declared against it.

4. Games rained out shall be played on the first succeeding date that the condition of the field will permit provided that such postponed games will not interfere with other scheduled games.

5. Any team playing an ineligible man shall forfeit the game in which such a player participated.

6. All questions as to interpretations of rules, eligibility of players, forfeiture of games, and postponement of games on

The following are games scheduled for the County Meet, and will start this afternoon at one o'clock.

Jr. Boys Basketball Line-up
First Round: Antelope vs. Pearl.

Second Round: Mound vs. White Hall; Leon Junction vs. Topsey; Coppiaras Cove vs. Jonesboro.

Event vs. winner of the game in the first round. Other games will be played in the bracket form.

Much interest is being shown regarding the forming of a volleyball league. Plans are under way for a game between the high school team and a club composed of local all-stars.

As the basketball season comes to a close we find the softball fever getting very serious in this locality. Managers have decided to draw a line and compromise over players rather than fight. Four teams will compose the league. Arnold and Gartman will have a team. I do not know just what the name of the club will be, but you can rest assured it will be a good one. The Roundtable crew will be managed by David Franks. Franks seemed to have gotten the jump on the other managers in signing players. To say the least, he got the best end of the deal on hurlers, signing up five. The Baptist, who were managed by Truman Elanton last year, have changed to the Conoco team. Blanton has a crew of fair material that can be developed into one of the strongest teams in the league. The Firemen's Club is the only team in the league that hasn't changed any players with one exception, C. D. Blackburn, who last year played with Gartman's crew but later became a fireman and is obligated to play with that organization.

The comedy basketball games in the gym last Wednesday night were worth any fan's money. The teachers team from over the county defeated the local lady faculty team by some six or eight points. The male team representing the local school faculty defeated the Hornet Club quint 29 to 27. The faculty team in their uniforms were beyond a doubt, the outstanding feature of the contest. Coach Ewing in a pair of pajamas was account of weather shall be decided by an impartial person to be selected. In all matters of judgment or question of fact the decision of the umpire shall be final.

7. No team or representative thereof shall be allowed to take any collection for any purpose at the playing field except the Firemen who have the responsibility of financing the lights.

8. Out of town games may be played on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday nights. Application for the schedule of such games shall be made to Roger Miller, Fire Chief, a sight, Baldrige in his attire was something to look at, Mr. Thompson and Kenneth Hedgepeth in their bloomers were just a little out of the ordinary, but Sup' Williams in his dress was about the most beautiful creature on the floor. The Hornet Club team was too bashful to get in the "weaker sex" attire, but their playing proved a "show-off" for the spectators. Bill and Hazen Ament were at home on the court, Kermit Jones and I were all-in before the game started. Jim Martin, George Painter, Fred Prewitt, Otis Ray, Eugene Alvis, Jr., Eiland Lovejoy, David Franks, Roger Miller, Byron Leaird, Jr., Troy Jones, proved to spectators that they "can take it". Gordon Shook played a wonderful game, but was short a little endurance. All-in-all it was a great game, and many of the Hornet Club members expressed themselves as wanting to play again, but didn't say when.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hirsch and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. Bunnel, and Mr. Tom Robertson, were guests of Mrs. W. A. Wise of Waco, who is critically ill. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sydow and children were guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Fegette over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Franks of Gatesville were guests in the Edd McDonald home Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Flentge visited in the Charlie Robertson home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Alford and children, Mr. and Mrs. Parker Hirsch, visited friends and relatives of Waco over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hirsch visited in the Bias Fry home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw and children, Mr. Bingham and son of Brady, Mrs. Neely and son of White Hall, were week end guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Bingham. Mr. and Mrs. Bingham returned to Brady with them for an extended visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon McKinney of Waco were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Parker Hirsch Sunday night.

Rev. Clyde Derrick filled his regular appointments at Liberty Church Sunday, and large crowds attended.

There will be a singing at Liberty Church Sunday afternoon. Everybody is invited especially the singers; come and bring your song books. The time will be 2:30 p. m.

Visitors in the D. E. Wilson home Saturday night were Blanch and Johnnie Ruth Dossey of Plainview, Jack Latham, Harvie Latham, Flossie Latham, Cecil Fowler, Dodge Hollingsworth and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Moore.

Presbyterian Church

Next Sunday, March 24, is the day when every Presbyterian in Gatesville is called upon to show his Church loyalty by attending Sunday morning church service, by going prepared to make his annual pledge, by making this pledge larger than last year, by pledging both to benevolences and local expenses—doing all this joyfully, for the love of Christ. This is the way to bring about spiritual and financial recovery in 1935. So each loyal Presbyterian is called upon to stand by your pastor and to stand by your church. Be in your place next Sunday, March 24. There is no better way to serve Christ than by being loyal to your church. The budget for the year will be presented. Each one will be given the opportunity of saying what they feel they can do for the church dur-

CHAPTER I

Old J. G. Carpenter growled into the phone. "I've just checked the time records, Seaver. Your people are always walking in late. Now, get this. The next one that comes in late is to be fired. Understand? That's an order." J. G. looked at a sheaf of papers in front of him. "These time records show only one employee without any marks against him, No. 48. How long has he been with us? Eight years and never late? That's the sort of people we want around here."

"Yes, sir," said Seaver into the phone meekly. "Let's raise his salary. How much do we pay No. 48? Twenty-four a week? Give him twenty-six—no, make it twenty-eight. At once."

"Yes, sir. At once." Seaver replaced the receiver on the hook, then made a little memorandum on the book in front of him—"Raise Jones." He left his small office and strode down the aisle of desks, past the clerks to where Jones should have been. Only—Jones wasn't there. "Where's Jones?"

One of the clerks look up. "He isn't in yet." Seaver was aghast. "Why, it's after nine!" "Yeah," said the clerk sarcastically.

Seaver walked slowly back to his office, muttering as he went. "My goodness me—Jones! Of all people—Jones!"

He went to his desk and picked up the memo pad. Slowly, but deliberately, his pencil crossed out the "Raise" from "Raise Jones." He wrote another word instead. The word was "Fire."

At that very moment Arthur Ferguson Jones didn't give a particular hoot. He was very much asleep. Near Arthur's bed was a typewriter on a stand. In the typewriter was paper, and on the paper was written:

"Passional, by Arthur Ferguson Jones. Chapter I. Her hair was a web spun by a golden spider and her eyes were twin stars. Cymbaline had more than loveliness; she was loveliness."

The alarm clock, which read "9:08," rang rather loudly. Arthur awoke and stopped the insistent clanging. He rubbed his eyes, smiled slowly, then let his gaze rest on a framed photograph on the wall.

"Good-morning, Cymbaline," said Arthur. He rose from the bed and walked to the door. "Good-morning, Abelard," said Arthur to the black and white cat curled up on the morning newspaper. "How many times have I told you not to sleep on my paper?" He picked up the paper to peruse the blazing headline:

"MANNION ESCAPES FROM PRISON. Public Enemy No. 1 Shoots Way Out, Wounding Two Guards."

Arthur smiled. Mr. Mannion's boyishness didn't interest him and, then again, Heloise, the canary, was calling.

"Good-morning, Heloise," Arthur yawned and stretched. "Oh, I had a grand dream. I'd like to tell you about it." He winked. "But you're much too young. I wish that dream'd come true some day. But it won't. Heloise, will it? What in the world would a girl like her want with a—"

He stopped, for the photograph on the wall of Miss Wilhelmina Clark, the young and extremely pretty stenographer with the J. G. Carpenter Corporation, didn't seem very responsive or sympathetic. And, then, the newsboys were very loud in their declamations of Mannion's escape from jail. It was very extra. Arthur would have stopped to listen, but fortunately, or unfortunately, as you will, his eyes accidentally found the alarm clock.

Arthur gaped. "Good—heavens—we're ruined!"

In the least possible time Arthur was at the office and walking quickly to his desk. He didn't reach it.

"Jones!" It was Seaver. Arthur walked slowly into Seaver's office.

"IMITATION OF LIFE," GREAT PICTURE AT REGAL

"Magnificent" may be a much abused word, even in Hollywood, but nothing else will adequately describe "Imitation of Life," the Fannie Hurst novel which John M. Stahl made into a picture for Universal, starring Claudette Colbert and Warren William, coming Saturday night, also showing Sunday and Monday at the Regal Theatre.

It is a magnificent production. Some notion of the scale

"Go ahead, Jones," said the department head. "I'm waiting." "Mr. Seaver, I—I bought a new alarm clock last week. It carried a five-year guarantee. This morning it went back on me."

"You went back on me, Jones. You've placed me in a very difficult position. This morning J. G. instructed me to raise your salary." Jones' face lit up. "He did? Oh, thank you, Mr. Seaver."

"Yes. But he also gave me instructions to fire the next employee who came in late."

"Oh . . ."

"And you're both people, Jones. Now what am I going to do? I can't raise your salary and then fire you. That wouldn't make sense."

"No, sir, it wouldn't." Seaver sighed. "My goodness me! I don't know what to do!"

"Might I suggest a solution, sir? Wouldn't J. G.—I mean Mr. Carpenter—be satisfied if you didn't raise my salary and also didn't fire me?"

"What! And ignore both his orders! Why, that's ridiculous, Jones. I've either got to fire you—or raise you—or—something."

"Yes, I suppose so."

"Oh, why do things like that have to happen to me?" Seaver became suddenly impatient. "All right, Jones. I'll try to figure something out. You better get busy on that McIntyre account. We're behind already."

"Yes, sir."

As Jones left the office, young Miss Wilhelmina—better known as

"Bill"—was summoned onto the "carpet."

There was a menacing expression on Seaver's face. "Miss Clark—well?"

"Not so very . . ." said Bill.

"You're late, Miss Clark."

"Late? For what? Something happen?"

Seaver scowled. "I want to know why you see fit to step in at 9:30 this morning."

"Well, if you must know," said Bill, "it's because I saw fit to step out at 9:30 last night."

"Well, it might interest you to know J. G. gave me orders to fire the first person who came in late, and—"

"That's me, I guess."

"It most certainly is!"

"In that case," said Miss Clark. "I quit. Do I go now?"

"We don't fire people in the middle of the week. You can stay until Saturday."

"That's mighty big of you."

Miss Clark made her way back to her desk.

"Good-morning, Miss Clark," said Arthur, as she passed his desk.

"Hello, Jonesy."

Jones stared after her retreating figure. There was no doubting the worshipful admiration in his eyes.

Bill sat at her desk quite comfortably, lounging back in the seat. She picked up the newspaper to scan the large photo of "Killer" Mannion on the first page, and the offer of twenty-five thousand dollars reward for his capture—dead or alive. Bill turned to the girl at her left.

"Now this is my idea of a boy friend. A maiden's prayer, for my money—he-man plus. If I only knew where he was—"

She stopped, a puzzled expression coming to her face. "Ethel—come here—"

She turned to the man at her right. "Sam, get a load of this!"

"Who is this?"

"Killer Mannion," said Sam.

"I know, but who else?"

Sam was puzzled. "What d'you mean, who else?"

"Well, look—"

said Bill, turning to face Arthur Ferguson Jones.

First, Sam's jaw dropped. Then Ethel's. They stared at Jones in frank amazement.

Other clerks joined the little group to see the photo. More jaws dropped. Arthur looked up, embarrassed. He didn't know yet he looked too much like one Killer Mannion.

on which this film has been produced can be gained from the fact that one single setting cost $10,000. Nothing about this set was extraordinary. The cost came about merely to make the set perfect and authentic.

In all, 48 sets were built for "Imitation of Life." One of these was a complete town house in New York City, containing 15 rooms, a real kitchen and a garage behind it. This garden was sodded with actual grass and flowers were planted there. From the garden a view of the East River was seen in the distance. Model vessels capable of operating under their own power were made for this scene and a small scale replica of the Fifty-ninth Street Bridge was erected in the background. A system of tiny moving electric lights in procession across the bridge indicating traffic in the night seen shot in the garden was effective.

Absolute realism was insisted on for this production. In the early sequences, Claudette Colbert operates a restaurant, specializing in flapjacks. For the week spent in shooting this sequence, a tank of real pancake batter was mixed, cooked and eaten every day. The daily cost of food used in this restaurant, bread, butter, tea, coffee, doughnuts, cake and pie was amazing. A replica of the famous Atlantic City Boardwalk was built extending over 250 feet and furnished with shops and booths.
