LOCAL LANDOWNER SHOWS MARVELOUS SHOCK OF MILLET

B. Jones, proprietor of the Blue Shirt Cafe and land owner of this section, was showing yesterday what we believe and what Mr. Jones says was the best millet either of us has ever seen.

To make it interesting, Mr. Jones is taking guesses as to the number of heads in this wonderful shock of millet.

BAILEY WRECKING SHOP MOVES TO NEW QUARTERS

Having been in Gatesville slightly over a month, Mr. Bailey of the Bailey Wrecking Shop has recently moved from his place of business on East Main street to a location next to Black's Grocery Store on East Main street "out where the pavement ends."

Mr. Bailey is formerly of Ft. Worth, and has started a going business of "wrecking" cars instead of fixing them. Now, he has added a filling station to his place of business.

Johnnie Bradford spent last week end in Houston.

WIDOW'S MIGHT

Someone evidently has it in for some member of the News Staff. Mysteriously, someone has presented us with a fruit jar containing two little black bits of insect life with the famous "hour glass" design on its under side. Of course, you know of what we're talking—nothing else than the Widow Spider!

Now, thruout the office and the "back end" too we've gone trying to find out where these two Widow Spidtrs came from to no avail. These highly publicized insects are VERY PIOUSNESS. So, we'll editorialize enough on the front page to tell you as we understand, this is the most poisonous insect in the world, and the sting paralyzes its victims always from the hips down, and usually kills outright. That ought to be plenty,—and—

If someone has it in for us that bad these's simply no use to run. No, Suh! Our time is already here.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

Whereas, somebody discovered this country and we've been bragging about it ever since, and

Whereas, we're looking for any excuse to take a day off this kind of hot weather, and

Whereas, most of us come back cleaned financially and dirty, hot and sunburned otherwise, and

Whereas, it's being done everywhere in this county,

I M. W. Lowrey, Mayor of Gatesville, do hereby proclaim Thursday, the Fourth of July, a holiday, as far as I'm personally and officially concerned, and you and each of you can do as you please.

Signed M. W. Lowrey, Mayor,

LOCAL INSURANCE MAN RECEIVES HONORS FOR SERVICE TO CO.

Howard Compton, local insurance man, who has been representing the Home Insurance Company, was in Dallas recently presented with a Twenty-five Year Silver Service Medal. This was for the completion of twenty-five years' service with this company on April first.

A letter from Denny D. McLarry General Agent, Dallas, the Home Insurance Company to this office reads partially as follows: "This office (Dallas Branch Office) supervises 900 local agents in Texas, none of which are more highly regarded than Mr. Compton. He has not only faithfully and diligently represented this company in Gatesville for twenty-five years but his customers, Benjamin Franklin is responsible for the statement that any person who continues in any one line of endeavor for twenty-five years is necessarily respectable, reliable and responsible."

Mr. Compton and the company he represents, are both to be congratulated on the completion of this span of twenty-five years' service, to themselves, and to their customers.

SINCLAIR CONSTRUCTING TILE & BRICK STATION ON MAIN STREET

Carrying on the building boom that seems to have started here, the Sinclair Refining Company is building a tile and brick filling Station on East Main street, opposite the site of the new First Baptist Church.

According to Mr. C. L. Murphy, local manager for the R. B. Butler construction company of Bryan, builders, this station will be finished in five weeks scheduled time.

Revival meeting of the Methodist Church at Copperas Cove will start Tuesday night, July 2. The services will continue through a period of ten days. Rev. Trammel will have a very capable assistant. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

CIRCULARS ANNOUNCING SALE MAILED TO EVERY HOUSEHOLD IN CO.

Being mailed this morning is Painter's and Lee's big circulars announcing their store-wide sale starting July 5. The store is one solid bargain and citizens of this trade territory are indeed fortunate that they are privileged to take advantage of these extreme bargains.

Eight pages in all this circular contains undreamed of bargains in merchandise that will startle with quality, workmanship and price. This is another of Painter and Lee's "Shop and Compare" revelations. Visit them.

FIVE MEN INJURED IN HIGHWAY CRASH ON MCGREGOR ROAD

Five persons were injured, three seriously, in an automobile accident near McGregor at 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The injured are:

L. P. Clayborne of Oglesby, left knee broken in several places, right leg broken, several severe cuts on head and face. Mr. Clayborne died shortly after reaching a hospital.

L. S. Wright, Waco, Auditor for the Cotton Belt, right leg broken.

J. H. Cousins, McGregor, employee of cement plant, right leg broken.

Wesley Daniel, McGregor, slightly injured.

The accident occurred one mile north of McGregor when the cars going in opposite directions, attempted to pass a wagon loaded with hay on the highway at the same time and crashed head-on, the view of the drivers being obstructed by the wagon.

LOCALS FIND BLACK WIDOW SPIDERS AND BRING IN SAMPLES

W. A. Pruitt was the first to show us the new rage, the dangerous Black Widow Spider, and brought two of these venomous spiders to this office in a glass jar.

Robert Stout found one in his daughter, Bobbie Jean's, playhouse, and also brought it in to show us. Dr. T. M. Hall has asked for this specimen to preserve in alcohol.

THE GROVE MAN HAS KILLED 11 RATTLES

The Grove, June 28.—Guy Donaldson, farmer near here, is laying claim to the title of champion "rattlesnake killer" in the county.

So far this year, he has killed 11. This is one above his last year's record of 10. With six more months to go, Mr. Donaldson has hopes of setting an all time mark.

BUY AT HOME

'Rounding the Square' this week, we've seen lots. We talked to B. D. Wilson, F. N. Baize, A. P. Featherstone, P. D. Choate, A. J. Wynn, Mrs. Celeste Robinson, W. J. Ritchie, Dee Swift, while we had that little table on the square. A certain "gawjus" queen whereabouts was groaning something a wfully when she saw Billy Thomson tied up with labor troubles on the back end of a truck at a local wholesale grocery emporium. A proposed visit from a "Highwayman" of Arkansas, was causing hearthrobs for a local "deb" in a motor company office here. We've not seen him yet, but rumor is that that Bryan Arnold, who'll probably cause a stir in feminine circles here when he returns from a two year stay at West Point, will visit a month with his sister, Mrs. Irvin McCreary.

"THE FOURTH"

One hundred and fifty-nine candles will be placed on "Young Sam's" birthday cake the morning of the "Fourth," and the youngster is a mere child when comparing his age with those boys in Europe, Asia and Africa. They've grown into old, cranky people, some standing alone as bachelors, and some tied up with others for safety, protection and personal gain.

Young Sam, strongest boy in this neighborhood, if not the "bully" is to himself, and did have plenty of protection from the "boys across the trackless waters," but now with airplanes he's not so safe. Anyway, some of his parents like Monroe, told him to stay in his own backyard and he wouldn't have much trouble. Then Monroe also told him to take care of the other boys of the neighborhood and not let the "roughnecks" from across the track bother them. So far he has.

Now, as for Sam's birthday party—he's really throwing one most places. Locally, or rather in this section, he'll be seen in action in McGregor, Valley Mills, Clifton, Glen Rose, Killeen, Belton, Waco, Lampasas, Hamilton, Stephenville, Hico, and nameless other localities, but all he'll get in GATESVILLE and CORYELL COUNTY is a yawn from his progeny. However, thousands of those "live" ones here will go to the various nearby locales of Sam's children to pay honor and respect to the memory of this "grand old man," and with them, they'll take their hard earned $$$$$$$$, (lots of them) and seeking innocent pleasure and amusement, they'll get their money's worth there, and then return declaring a great time was had by all, and that all their $$$$$$$ are gone, but that it was certainly worth the price. And, backing them, we say it certainly was, and we wish them a grand and glorious birthday celebration, and a safe return, to probably the only COUNTY IN THE STATE AND NATION THAT DID NOT HAVE SOME KIND OF A CELEBRATION ON THIS DAY OF DAYS.

Even at that, we express our wish of "many happy returns of the day" both to Sam and also his unthinking local children.

SARAJEVO

Even a name like that is enough to start War! Call someone a Sarajevo and see!

Anyway, back in the past, 21 years ago Friday, the famed "shot heard around the world" was fired, following which blood flowed like water in a wet season, and millions of the "flower of the land" went to war never to return, or if they did return, they knew they'd been somewhere they'd never go again.

Now, according to the "big" writers, correspondents, observers, and others "in the know" it won't be long before the same shame bursts loose again on civilized (?) nations. They're literally at each others throats, so we read.

We remember, the same "talk" was current before the Sarajevo "mess," and our humble opinion is that this kind of "talk" would be better out of, rather than in newspapers, which shape the opinions of people generally without their knowing it. In other words, if you tell a fellow you're with just how bad you are; he's foolish if he doesn't get in the same frame of mind that you have, and start carrying a "gat" so that you won't take him by surprise. Same way with nations; they "blow about how bad" they are in the papers all over the world, and the next thing you see, their neighbor is beginning to tell how bad he is. It's a "blow," a "build-up" the kind of publicity that promotes fights, fairs, politicians, artists, anything you can think of.

So, the way we see it, is to keep all this "war publicity" out of the papers, or get ready to do some heavy fighting—and there's no fooling this time—we'd better be ready!

World Comment

By JOE BURNS

$3,000,000 CENTENNIAL APPROPRIATION. EXAMPLE TO FOLLOW. GERMANY ON TOP. JAPAN WINS.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has placed the final seal of approval upon the $3,000,000 Federal Appropriation for National Government participation in the Centennial celebration. Senators Tom Connally and Morris Sheppard and Rep. Fritz Lanham of Fort Worth had previously successfully steered the measure thru the Houses.

This brings a total of $12,000,000 appropriated for the 1936 celebration. The State had previously voted $3,000,000 and Dallas appropriated $6,000,000.

The Federal Commission, headed by Vice-President John Garner and including Secretaries of State, Commerce and Agriculture, is expected to allocate $1,000,000 for a Federal building at the Central Exposition at Dallas; $1,000,000 for the transport and installation of the Federal exhibits, and the third $1,000,000 for other Texas celebrations next year.

Five years ago JAMES V. ALLRED, youthful attorney, and ROBERT LEE BOBBITT, acting State attorney general, showed Texans how a campaign could be conducted without the traditional mud-slinging when they aspired to the office of Attorney General.

Bobbitt had been appointed by Governor Dan Moody to fill the unexpired term of Claude Pollard. In 1930 he sought election to the office for a full term. So did Allred.

A dignified campaign was conducted by both aspirants. Allred won; but the two contenders ended the campaign friends. Today they are friends.

Last week Allred, now Governor, appointed friend Bobbitt as a justice on the San Antonio Court of Civil Appeals.

Why cannot all political campaigns end thus? Can you imagine Roosevelt appointing Hoover to the Supreme Court or Jim Ferguson giving Ross Sterling a job or Dan Moody taking a case for Farmer Jim? I can't.

A SHORT time ago England, France and Italy met at Stresa, the Italian town on Lake Maggiore to effect a common policy against rearming Germany. It seemed as if Hitler's rearmament policy had effectually isolated Germany. Now, all is changed; forsaken, if not forgotten.

France is at odds with England as a result of the recently concluded Anglo-German naval pact, granting Germany a navy the size of those of France and Italy and tacitly admitting Germany's right to rearm on the land, water and air in violation of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty.

Italy is at odds with London as a result of Britain's refusal to pursue a hands off policy in the Italo-Ethiopian controversy, by which Italy threatens to absorb the black nation.

England opposes Mussolini's African venture. It has placed the new British cabinet of Stanley Baldwin between two fires. If Britain supports Italy in the face of a British public frankly in sympathy with the Ethiopians, it stands to lose at the coming general elections. And, if the British let Mussolini conquer Ethiopia (Abissinia) which is a member nation of the League, and in violation of all the League Covenants, it will mean the death of the League. On the other hand, British support of Ethiopia will drive Mussolini out of the League and wreck that body's international reputation anyway, already damaged by the abstention from membership by the U. S. and the withdrawals of Japan, Germany, and Paraguay. So either way Britain turns, it stands to lose—and lose heavily.

Capt. Anthony Eden, in recent conversations at Rome with Il Duce, was made to understand that Italy wants a "complete solution" of the Ethiopian question, which means an Italian protectorate over Ethiopia.

Thus the Stresa "front" seems badly bent if not broken.

Hitler seems to have made a master stroke in concluding the 100-35 naval ration agreement with Britain. When Britain signed that treaty, it recognized Germany's right to violate the naval clauses of the Versailles treaty and removed the last vestige of Versailles treaty prohibitions on Germany. The Reichsfuehrer realized that, with an empty treasury, he could not engage in a naval race with wealthy John Bull. So, capitalizing on the perpetual English hope for arms limitation and world peace, he agreed to limit his navy to 35 per cent of Britain's, virtually assuring German supremacy in European waters, due to the fact that a large percentage of the French and British navies remain in colonial waters. Most important, he drove a wedge of animosity between England and France.

Hitler is now in a position to demand a heavy price for his friendship. With Italy soon to be involved in an Ethiopian war, England his friend, France torn with internal strife and the new French rulers cool to the Franco-Russian mutual-assistance pact, Germany is in a position to crack the whip—and will probably do so, but far enough away not to strike the British Lion.

WASHINGTON columnists report that the giant naval maneuvers, just held in the Pacific, were probably the most disappointing in history.

Glaring defects were uncovered in strategy, while gunnery was below par. In other words, the two things that count most in battle—the ability to hit and the ability to out-manuever the enemy—were woefully lacking. These two depend entirely on officer personnel. And it is in this that the navy was shown to be the most deficient.

During the maneuvers, one battleship "sank" its own oil tanker. This is, it would have sunk in actual battle. Again, when the "enemy" planes came over, the officers on one of the "defending" vessels were between decks playing bridge.

Finally the "enemy" fleet—supposed to represent Japan—surprised the "defending" fleet six times. As one high admiral remarked when it was over: "Had the enemy fleet actually been the Japanese, they would have landed in California."

Tribute Paid to Cross In House by Colleague Martin Dies of Orange

In a speech before the House of Representatives on Monday, June 24, United States Representative Martin Dies of Orange, Texas, paid high tribute to retiring Congressman O. H. Cross of the Eleventh Congressional District, comprising Bell, Bosque, Coryell, Falls, McLennan and Milam counties.

Representative Cross, whose home town is Waco and who has many friends and admirers in Coryell county, announced several weeks ago that he will not be a candidate for re-election and that he intends to retire from public life.

Rep. Dies stated that "There is no member of this distinguished body more highly esteemed or more universally loved than Mr. Cross. By his kind and gentle ways, his tolerant understanding of the frailties of others, his rugged and honest character, and his keen sense of humor he has endeared himself to everyone of his associates, and his retirement will not only be a distinct loss to his associates in Congress but also to his district and the Nation. Few men have reached his period in life with so many achievements to their credit as our beloved friend.

"In recognition of his splendid mind he was elevated to the important Committee on Banking and Currency. As a member of that committee he has devoted himself diligently to the problems of finance and currency until he is now regarded as one of the outstanding authorities in this country on the subject of money and finance.

"Continuing, "I have never known a man more devoted to the welfare of the common man than he. He has at all times been independent and fearless in the advocacy of measures that were designed to do the greatest good to the greatest number.

"It is to be deeply regretted that such a man should retire from public service, for which he is so well adapted and qualified. During these uncertain and perilous times men like Cross are more needed than ever before.

"Cross will not be the same when he is gone. During the trying times through which we have all gone, Cross has been a guiding light to many of us, and a source of inspiration and encouragement. And as he goes back to private life to enjoy the fruits of a well-spent life, he will carry with him the richest reward which any man may receive on this earth—the consciousness of duties well done, and the esteem, the love, and gratitude of his fellow Members.

"While, like many of us, he will not leave behind him a portrait or sculpture in the Rotunda of the capitol, nevertheless he memory of his kindly ways and constructive service will be enshrined in our hearts and upon the tables of our memory his name will be carved as one who served well and faithfully and who loved his fellow man.

"And I bespeak the sentiments of my colleagues of both parties when I wish for him that peace of mind which passes all understanding. May the evening of his life be spent in the midst of his loving family and his grateful friends, for whom he has worked so unselfishly and so successfully."

In conclusion, Representative Dies asked and received the permission of the House to read a letter signed by the leading citizens of Belton commending Congressman Cross upon his splendid record of eight years continuous service in the House and expressing regret that he felt it expedient to retire next year.

ROOSEVELT'S YOUNGEST SON GETS TVA JOB FOR SUMMER; NO WAGES

Washington, June 24.—John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President, got a job Monday. He will spend the summer work-Authority—without pay.

John, who has just completed his freshman year at Harvard, also will pay his own board and furnish his own transportation to the valley, the White House announced.

The job was arranged after Mrs. Roosevelt vetoed the President's earlier plan to have his son work in an Oregon CCC camp, also without pay. Mrs. Roosevelt thought Oregon was too far from home.

The chief interest of Venezuela at present is in its coastal trade.

In the mandated islands of the South Sea, Japan maintains 22 public schools for the education of natives of the islands.

The death rate from accidents in the United States is far higher than that in France, England, Germany or Italy.

CHAPTER V.
WHAT HAS HAPPENED
Nicholas Kerry, in his middle thirties, handsome, a millionaire, and a confirmed bachelor, meets lovely young Kay Routledge in Monte Carlo. They play a romantic game, neither know the other's name, and after a round of gayety, Kay falls in love with Nicky. But Nicky, not wanting to disillusion the girl with his views on love, leaves on his yacht for a long cruise. Kay is heartbroken, and returns to her mother at their villa in Nice. She meets Nicky's younger brother, Brian, and immediately falls in love with him and after a six-week courtship, proposes to her. Kay's mother was in favor of Brian.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
Nice! And the Carnival! The gayest, the maddest, the most joyful carnival of all France. Everywhere noise... music... the blatant blare of tin horns... the rhythmic, swinging music of the gypsies... souls that laughed and laughed... hearts that brimmed over with happy excitement. Nice! And the Carnival!

Into the hotel room roared the night... the din merged into one throbbing, beating note. At a long table were Mrs. Routledge's guests. Ozy, as whenever he had a chance, was telling a story to several amused girls. He stopped short and stared, for two waiters, with the head waiter leading the way, were carrying a tremendous cake, symbolically white. At the top were two little figures... they must be Kay—and Brian!

"Hello! What goes on?" Ozy was amazed.
Suddenly, above the night's roar, came the sure, certain notes of Lohengrin. The "Wedding March" Brian, his face beaming and bright, turned and grasped Kay's hand, pressing it to his lips.

At once, the crowd was enthusiastic. Congratulations filled the air. The laughing guests surrounded Kay and Brian. Ozy leaped to a chair.

"A toast! To the most beautiful girl in Nice—and points West! And to the man who's going to marry her—the lucky stiff!"
The cheers rose unanimously. Mrs. Routledge raised her glass.

"You two darlings—you don't know how happy this makes me!"
To Mrs. Routledge, shouted Ozy. "A mother-in-law even I could learn to love!"
More laughter! More cheers! More tears in Kay's heart.

"What ho! How about leaping out into the street—to rub elbows with hot polli? They tell me there's a carnival going on!" Ozy again.
In a moment, shouting and laughing, the guests swept out into the milling throngs in the street. Kay and Brian were caught up in the swirl of humanity.

Kay, wide-eyed, wandered aimlessly amongst the revelers. She stopped suddenly, her mind torn with a terrible confusion. The man... "Monte!" "Monte" was holding her!

"Darling!" It was Nicky deliriously happy. "I've crossed half the world in the last few days—just to find you! I only got off the yacht an hour ago—and now—here you are! It's too good to be true!" He pulled her closer to him. "Say something, my sweetest! I want to hear your voice. Haven't I been punished enough? No—don't say anything. Just let me hold you in my arms."

For a moment they stood, oblivious of the crowd that surrounded them. There was another swirling mass of pushing, crowding humanity, and Nicky was carried away. Kay, breathless, turned as she heard her mother's voice.

"Kay! We thought we'd lost you dear—" Mrs. Routledge stopped suddenly. "Nicky!"
"Mrs. Routledge!"
Kay's mother grasped Nicky's hand happily. "Where in the world did you come from?"

"I picked a nice quiet evening to drop in unexpectedly!"
"You haven't met my daughter—Kay, this is Nicholas Kerry. A very old friend."
Nicky was startled. "Your daughter—"

"Nicky!" It was Brian. "For the love of Allah! Is this a surprise?"
"Hello, kid!" Nicky grinned.
"You dog! Why didn't you let me know you were coming—" He stopped. "Kay, where are you? Now the night is perfect. This is my brother! The one and only Nicky! And this is Kay!"

"We—we just met—" said Nicky uncertainly.
"I sent you a wireless—didn't you get it?"
"No."
"Telling you the good news!" Nicky's voice was steady. "What good news?"

"I announced their engagement tonight," said Mrs. Routledge.
Nicky gasped. His eyes met, and held, Kay's for a moment, but then Brian was pumping his hand.

"Well, aren't you going to congratulate me?"
Nicky forced a smile. "I do, old boy! I do congratulate you—"

"And now you must kiss the bride—"

Kay drew back with a frightened little laugh. "No—I'm not a bride yet! That's bad luck!"
Nicky looked deeply into Kay's eyes. "I wish you—great happiness, my dear."

Then the guests were surrounding them, with joyous greetings for Nicky.
"Listen, everybody!" shouted Brian. "This is a night for celebrating! Let's get away from this crowd and finish the party on Nicky's boat!"

The suggestion was immediately seconded, and soon the gay crowd was aboard Nicky's yacht and the party started afresh. Kay, her heart heavy, danced with everyone but Nicky. She avoided him as much as possible. She stopped suddenly as a fragment of conversation reached her above the babble and music.

It was Ozy's voice. "Continue dishing the dirt. Anything exciting happen on the cruise? I suppose, Nicky and Margot were cooling—"

The woman, who had been with Nicky and Margot on the cruise smiled. "You know Nicky! There always has to be some woman—it doesn't matter who. He can make you think you're the one woman in the world, on Tuesday—and by Friday he'll have forgotten your name!"

Kay winced. Had she been merely such a woman in Nicky's life. That night...
Brian, looking for Kay, walked into the cabin. Nicky, alone, faced him, a forced smile on his lips. On the wall, above Nicky's head, was a portrait of their mother.

"Hello, Brian—"
The younger Kerry slipped his arm through Nicky's, as he stared up at the portrait.

"I wish she were here tonight. Mother would have loved Kay, wouldn't she?"
"Of course she would, old boy." Nicky patted Brian's shoulder. "I didn't want to tell you in front of that crowd—too many explanations. But I'm leaving tonight."

"Leaving? Why, you just got here—"
"I know. But I have to be in London day after tomorrow. Brandon sent for me. It's about that new tax on the estate, and—"

"Brian!" It was Kay's voice. Both men turned as the girl entered the cabin. "Brian, I've been looking for you! I've made up my mind! You asked me when we could be married—I told you I didn't know. But I'll marry you as soon as you like. This week! Why shouldn't we make the Carnival our honeymoon!"
"Kay!" Brian grinned widely. "This is wonderful!"

Over Brian's shoulder, Kay stared defiantly at Nicky. Nicky's face was expressionless.
"I'm going up and spread the good news!" shouted Brian, striding eagerly from the room.

Kay started to follow, but Nicky quickly grasped her hand. She turned, her eyes holding his.
Nicky's voice was hoarse. "Why are you doing this?"
"Why not?"
"You don't love him?"
"How do you know? How would you know anything about love?"
"Have you forgotten so soon?"
Kay turned away. "Forgotten? What? You mean that night in Monte Carlo? I hope you didn't take that seriously! You—the cynical man of the world! You should have known it meant nothing to me. I couldn't be such a fool!"
Kay's eyes were bright with scornful mockery. "That night never happened! It wasn't real—it was just a fairy tale! A ghost story! Yes, you said yourself I was a ghost!"
"Please listen to me—"

But the guests were swarming in again. Ozy was ready with his perennial toast. But the crowd wanted Nicky—Nicky should toast Nicky smiled ironically, then raised his glass.

"This is a Russian toast—a very old one in the family. And when we've drunk it—we smash the glasses upon the floor. 'Za zdorovy svoychenitz!' To my brother's bride!" He smashed his glass, the guests laughingly following his action. Only Kay held her glass. She stepped forward suddenly.

"Now it's my turn!" Her voice was high, falsely sharp. "I propose a toast—to a ghost!"

THRILLING AIR FIGHTS IN "HELL'S ANGELS" COST $2,000,000 TO FILM

"Hell's Angels," the most expensive and most talked about film-drama of all time, will be the deluxe attraction at the Palace Theatre, starting Wednesday night at 10:30.

Nearly three years in the making, and bearing an overhead cost of approximately $4,000,000, this lavish air-thriller is the screen sensation of the new era of talkies.

Howard Hughes, the 25-year-old producer and director of "Hell's Angels," has shattered all records in time and money spent on a single picture. His prodigal outlay is discussed wherever films are shown, and fans everywhere are eager to view the first multi-million dollar talkie.

It is more than three years since "Hell's Angels" was first launched—as a silent super. Subsequently the cast and story were revamped, and all of the non-flying sequences re-filmed, with sound and dialogue.

Ben Lyon, James Hall and Jean Harlow are co-featured in the leading roles.

Approximately 137 aviators and as many mechanics, including nearly every stunt flyer and ex-war ace available in America participated in the sky action of "Hell's Angels," which alone required 18 months to record.

Exactly 87 planes, including 40 true wartype ships, both German and Allied, took part in "Hell's Angels."

A Zeppelin and a giant German Gotha bombing plane also figure prominently in mile-high action above the clouds. This is the largest air fleet ever assembled to perform in a private enterprise.

More than $2,000,000 was expended on aviation scenes alone, and another half-million was invested in the drigible sequence, which is a spectacular highlight of the film. This latter episode, incidentally, is the first authentic reproduction of the famous wartime Zep raid on London.

The exploits of Baron von Richthofen's "flying circus" have been accurately reproduced also, and in one scene 50 planes are shown participating simultaneously in a free-for-all "dog-fight" between fighting air devils of Germany and the Allies.

Equally stupendous were the operations on the ground. More than 20,000 extras were employed in the various mob scenes. Exactly 1,700 ex-soldiers took part in a single infantry battle scene, and extras are featured in other non-flying episodes by the thousands.

President Roosevelt Signs $3,000,000 Bill For Texas Centennial

Washington, June 28.—President Roosevelt signed the Texas Centennial authorization resolution Friday afternoon, insuring Federal participation in the event and authorizing $3,000,000 for it.

The fund authorized for appropriation by Congress was provided in an amendment to the second deficiency supply bill adopted Thursday by the Senate Appropriations Committee. After passage by the Senate, the appropriation bill is sent to the House for vote on Senate amendments.

In the event that the supply measure is delayed or tied up in conference, Chairman James P. Buchanan of the House Appropriations Committee will report a joint resolution appropriating the fund separately. The $3,000,000 was provided in an un earmarked lump sum by the Senate committee, but the authorization resolution signed by Mr. Roosevelt Friday provided authority for setting aside an unspecified sum for an American Legion-sponsored Centennial memorial museum at Austin. This authority was provided in an amendment adopted June 2 just before House passage. The amount to be spent on the Museum has been tentatively fixed at $300,000.

$125,000,000 May Be Spent on Highways

Expenditures for roads in Texas during the next 18 months are likely to total from $100,000,000 to $125,000,000, it was declared here yesterday afternoon by Harry Hines of Wichita Falls, chairman of the State Highway Commission.

"Besides the $85,000,000 that it is estimated the highway department will spend, Texas will receive a very large sum of the employment of relief labor throughout the State," Hines said.

"This will be utilized in many different types of projects such as dams, parks, streets and roads to be built by cities and counties, which will be able to finance such construction thru the Works Progress Administration of which H. P. Drought of San Antonio is state Administrator."

Explaining that outright grants are to be given on such projects as Drought and the WPA department deem worthy, Hines stated:

"Doubtless funds will be made available for the construction, not only of county lateral roads, but for more important county roads that will render a definite service to the county's transportation needs and eventually will fit into the highway system of the entire State."

The amount that the state WPA administrator will be allotted has not been determined and Drought will determine the proportion of the allotment that will go to roads, the highway chairman said.

"In view of the desirability of having as many lasting projects to show for the emergency expenditures as possible, I am confident that Mr. Drought and the highway department, by the close of 1936, will have spent between $100,000,000 and $125,000,000 for roads," he concluded.

Hines' estimate of $85,000,-

$23,000,000 Ford Plant Expansion

Top photo shows construction work on the new Ford steel hot rolling and cold finishing mills; left, installation of furnaces and other equipment in foundry for casting alloy steel parts; right, Rouge plant power house.

HENRY FORD is well under way on one of the year's largest single industrial construction projects in the United States—a $23,000,000 program designed to improve and expand the facilities of the great Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn, Mich.

Among the projects are: New hot strip steel rolling mill, $6,330,000; new sheet steel cold finishing mill, $3,460,000; modernization of main pressure steam power house in the world, $4,600,000; new glass plant, $3,000,000; modernization of foundry and installation of furnaces and other equipment for production of cast alloy steel parts, $675,000; and reconstruction of one blast furnace to increase its capacity from 600 to 800 tons daily, to cost $800,000.

In addition, new tools, machinery and other equipment and facilities in all departments to increase daily output, totals $3,000,000.

000 to be expended by the highway department is based on the expectation that from $44,000,000 to $50,000,000 will be allotted to the department by the federal authorities in relief funds, besides the regular federal aid which the State must match, plus several million dollars of emergency aid from Washington to repair damage caused by the recent floods and an apportionment from still another fund, he said a few days ago upon his return from Washington.

Culinary Jingles

by Marcia Camp

When summer comes, I like to lie
And watch the snowy clouds float by—
Especially ones that really seem Like heaped-up piles of rich whipped cream.
Because I know that down on earth
Of this I'll always have a dearth!

MAKE CREAM WHIPPABLE

DO YOU suppose any American has ever had enough—really enough—whipped cream? For Americans are the world's greatest lovers of this garnish which would almost make even an old shoe into a delectable dessert; and which makes an already delectable dessert into food for the gods.

There are so many reasons for the insufficiency of whipped cream which most people feel. For some it is entirely too fattening. For others it is too rich for their comfort. And for many it is prohibitively expensive. But if all these reasons could be removed at one sweep, how many dinner tables all over the land would blossom out this very night with strawberry shortcake and whipped cream, fruit gelatine and whipped cream, upside-down-cake and whipped cream, gingerbread and whipped cream?

In fact, all those objections are removed, and by a staple which should be found in every well-stocked pantry—marshmallows. For marshmallows make even thin cream whipable, fluffy, rich-tasting, without being actually any richer. And because they sweeten it at the same time, they make it into an ideal dessert sauce for fruits and gelatine.

Marshmallow Whipped Cream

16 marshmallows 1 cup coffee cream

Cut marshmallows into small pieces (eighths or smaller) with scissors dipped frequently in hot water. Place them in a bowl and pour the cream over them. Allow to stand, covered with paraffin paper, for several hours in the refrigerator. Just before serving time, whip like ordinary whipping cream.

And the result of this recipe is a garnish with all of the time-honored advantages of whipped cream and none of the disadvantages.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

Director, Physical and Health Education

Touring

The summer auto trip with children along takes a little planning. Wherever you go, conditions are not exactly the same as at home.

Some families carry water from home in glass bottles. Others boil water and some use the chlorine treatment, which your physician or druggist will explain. Pasteurized milk is your one safeguard when traveling.

Always wash thoroughly all fruit and vegetables purchased along the route. Do this even when you buy direct from the farmer. Just remember he may have used poisonous sprays to kill insects.

Take along a supply of paper cups. The glasses at roadside stands are not always as clean as yours at home.

It is wise to consult your family physician about first aid needs and laxatives. A little kit is often a blessing when least expected. Be sure to put in the soothing lotions you use for poison ivy and the cold cream for sunburn.

A word about eating. The danger is in eating too much and at irregular times. Avoid particularly the temptation to drink sodas and bottled drinks. And conquer the desire to overload the stomach with ice water. No vacation can be had while riding on a sea-sick stomach.

Adults' games are entertainment; boys' games are serious business. Dr. Ireland will discuss them in his next article.

London has an all-made ballet from the United States.

Russia has open-air movie theatres.

WACO STARTS MOVE TO REVIVE COTTON PALACE

Because they believe that the old Cotton Palace was a great benefit to Waco and that a revived Cotton Palace would be of as great benefit, a group of Waco citizens are considering the formation of plans for the reviving this fall of the exposition, which has been inactive since 1931, it is understood.

It is planned to get a number of interested people together to form a sort of framework for the calling of a mass meeting of Waco citizens to discuss plans for the reopening of the exposition in October of this year.

"In the past, all Cotton Palaces, including the original one, were the result of popular movements," one of the leaders of the movement has said, "and it seems now that, in order to secure a renewal of this splendid exposition, it will be necessary that such another popular movement be inaugurated to bring it about."

The fact has been stressed in Waco that there would be no competition from the Dallas Fair this year because that exposition will be inactive, and the sentiment has been voiced that Waco should begin at once the revival of the Cotton Palace so that the city will have something of real interest to show Centennial visitors next year.
