From what we hear the City Hall office force was recently confused with the definitions of the words "oscillation" and "osculation," and one of the personnel became quite embarrassed over the situation. For their meaning you might ask Miss Nola Mai Weaver. We saw on the ferris wheel at the carnival the other night Mr. P. M. Post, who seemed to be enjoying himself very much. Mason Crawford is certainly "fixing up" the court house lawn and we've heard many compliments about it.

Second Round. We were pleased to meet Mrs. W. B. Duncan of Copperas Cove, and Dr. Clyde R. Bailey came around to see us Sunday. Jeff Buckner, former softball fan from "Box 417" (State Juvenile and Training School, to you, dear readers) was a caller. Someone else presented us with another 'Widow.' When all these die, we're going to wash the jars and "put up" something in them, so bring us the "Widows." When they die, we'll keep their coffins. Hope you saw the "eclipse" last night—we had to take off, but it was worth it.

Total Eclipse of Moon Occurred last Night at 9:15; Covered 1 Hour

Central Texans were privileged to witness a most phenomenal spectacle last night when a total eclipse of the moon occurred at 9:15 Waco time. At that time the moon entered the shadow cast by the earth and was hidden from the rays of the sun and consequently dark.

The eclipse was said to be visible in all the western hemisphere except in the extreme northern part of North America.

The eclipse began at 8:15 p. m., but at which time the moon began to darken as it entered the penumbra or outer area of the shadow of the earth. This shadow was not discernible here because darkness had not descended.

At 9:12 p. m. the moon entered the umbra or darkest portion of the earth's shadow 10:09 the moon was gradually hidden until it disappeared from view, leaving Coryell County in complete darkness.

The leading edge of the moon began to be visible at 11:50 p. m. and the satellite came into full view at 12:47 a. m. and was entirely out of the shadow by 1:45 a. m.

Astronomers say the sun was about 94,419,000 miles from the earth and the moon about 226,470 miles away at the time of the eclipse and on the opposite side of the earth from the sun.

Mystery Symbols Cause Search for Treasure of Santa Anna at Grove

Following symbols as complicated as any to be encountered in the traditional frontispiece of "Treasure Island," C. C. Williams of The Grove has located a number of places where he thinks treasures may be buried. They are mainly in Coryell county, he says, and he thinks the treasure, if buried in the region, must have belonged to Gen. Santa Anna, because of the frequency with which he has encountered among other symbols carved on rocks an "S" superimposed on an inverted "A". The symbols are all of Spanish derivation, he says, and although he is unable to decipher them completely, he can follow them in the direction they indicate.

At one spot in this county there are two series of such symbols running in two straight lines. At the point where these lines converge there is a hole in the ground which must be 30 feet in circumference, Williams says. The hole has been filled with large rocks, which Williams has partially removed. In so doing he encountered the bones of several complete skeletons, he says. At a depth of about six feet from the surface, running in the four directions of the compass, are four tunnels, also filled with rocks.

Williams states that he has been unable to estimate the distance the tunnels run from the main hole. He thinks, however, that if the symbols leading to the hole indicate the presence of buried treasure, the treasure must be buried in the recesses of the tunnels. At some distance from this point there is a steer's head carved in a rock cliff, which Williams says is looking directly toward the hole in which he has excavated. This strengthens his belief that there is buried treasure somewhere in the vicinity of the hole.

Williams has located many other similar depressions filled with rocks, he says. Before going to the trouble of making extended searches of these localities, he wishes to learn more regarding the symbols which he has found nearby. They all bear a striking similarity, he states, adding that he thinks that the symbols would be intelligible to some old Mexican who might have happened to hear his parents or older kinspeople discuss the significance of such markings. He requests that anyone having any knowledge of Spanish cryptograms or symbols communicate with him at The Grove.

Secretary of State Explains Amendments To Be Voted On in Aug.

In a series of articles from the office of Secretary of State, Gerald C. Mann, we present a simplified statement and explanation of the proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution which are to be voted on in August.

Secretary Mann states in his letter to the News:

"Departing slightly from custom—and at the suggestion of many Texas newspaper men—this department this year is attempting to make an extra effort in acquainting the voters with the text of proposed Constitutional Amendments to be voted on in August. In addition of printing the Amendments in the legal manner required by the Constitution, we resolved to submit to the various papers a brief, concise, and accurate summary of each amendment in news form. Texas publishers have in the past gone out of their way to render a worthwhile public service in throwing open their news columns for discussion of public issues.

"This department has no desire to be placed in a position of endorsing or opposing any of the proposed Amendments. Our interest is strictly that of striving to acquaint the people with the CONTENTS rather than the MERITS of each of them.

"In addition to the presentation of the contents of the Amendments will you be good enough to stress the fact that this is the first time they have been numbered on the ballot? This means that the state will have uniformity of ballot in voting on amendments."

This is an additional service by the Department of the State headed by Secretary Gerald C. Mann, and is in readable understandable English, so that the layman may understand them more clearly than they would in the legal form.

The News is pleased to be favored with these articles and to present the unbiased explanation of them by Hon. Gerald C. Mann.

LOCAL THEATRE NOW HAS MARQUE DECORATIONS OF BLACK & CREAM

In line with innovations in interior decorations in some of the newer movies seen now days on the screens of the country, the Palace, has just completed decoration of the lobby of the theatre, under the direction of Harold Cunyus, manager.

Featuring the two colors, black and cream, the finished work was done by F. A. Garrett, local decorator and designer, and so complete is the job, that even the black spaces taken by the glass in the door carries this same color scheme.

Supt. and Mrs. Frank L. Williams and children, who are living in Abilene, where he is studying in Simmons University during the summer, spent last week end in Gatesville.

The leaguers met at the Methodist church at 6:15 p. m. and were motored out to the Thompson home, there they took the hay wagons and were on their merry way to Lone Mountain. When they reached the summit of the mountain, they were favored by a short talk from their sponsor M. O. Thompson and a very interesting talk was given by Mrs. W. E. Hayes on the "Value of Prayer." Then sides were chosen for a spelling contest to see who would cut the melons. After the melons were eaten the journey was started home.

Bare Feet

Grown ups often take on a wistful look when someone mentions "the barefoot boy." But parents, too many parents, take on a look of alarm when a son expresses a desire to be that boy.

What a pity it is that rumor can destroy so much good fun! If a person doesn't worry about pickles and ice cream, or milk and orange juice taken together, he's sure to believe evil of going barefoot. Now there are two causes for worry but neither of them is flat feet. Arches may break when a child persists in jumping from high places, but it happens just as readily with shoes on. Arches also break more easily when a child is undernourished. But the simple rite of going barefoot in the summer doesn't mean a sure case of flat feet.

The two causes for worry are hookworm in certain parts of the country and the punctured wound. Where hookworm is prevalent, the readers are usually well informed as to prevention and treatment. But the punctured wound is too often neglected. We're too content with a wash and a swab of antiseptic. The great danger is tetanus or lockjaw, which is frequently a fatal disease. There is one safeguard—tetanus antitoxin. When a child steps on a nail, take him to a physician. To neglect that precaution is folly of the worst kind.

How to get a tetanus antitoxin will be Dr. Ireland's next subject.

BALDRIDGE-GANDY WEDDING SERVICE READ FRIDAY

In a dignified setting, made lovelier by its simplicity, Miss Margaret Gandy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gandy, Bridge street, became the bride of Mr. Doyle Baldrige, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Baldrige, south Lutterloh street, Friday morning at nine o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Baldrige, father of the groom and presiding elder of the Methodist Church of the Gatesville district, read the double ring ceremony before an improvised altar banked with ferns and palms and two tall baskets of pink gladiolas on each side, in the presence of the immediate families and close friends.

Mrs. S. L. Stover of Teague, sister of the groom, played Lohengrin's Wedding March by Wagner and Wedding March by Mendelssohn as the processional and recessional, and accompanied Miss Sammy Martin of McGregor who sang "Because." Mrs. Stover wore a mesh colored crepe dress with white accessories, and Miss Martin was attired in a fuchsia dress with purple accessories. Both wore corsages of sweetheart buds.

Miss Vivian Sasses of Clovis, New Mexico, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She was dressed in a dusty pink sheer with white accessories. Her corsage was of sweetheart bud.

C. E. Alvis Jr. attended the groom as best man.

The bride, who is most charming, was beautiful in a navy blue chiffon suit. Her hat of a new fall style was navy blue with white trim; her accessories carried out the blue and white ensemble. For something old she wore a brooch of her grandmother's. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip. They will make their home in Taylor the remainder of the summer, where Mr. Baldrige will do architect work for the Cameron Lumber Company.

The last of the pre-nuptial affair for the couple was a rehearsal dinner given by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gandy, at their home on Bridge street Thursday evening. The table which presented a bridal theme in decorations was centered with a bouquet of ferns and zinnias. Those present were Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Baldrige, and her mother, Mrs. M. D. McClure of Duffau, Mrs. S. L. Stover of Teague, Miss Vivian Sasse of Clovis, New Mexico, Sammy Martin and Mildred Gandy.

The bride is one of the most popular young ladies of Gatesville and is a favorite with all who know her, both old and young. She graduated from the Gatesville High School in 1932 and has spent the past two years in Baylor University. The groom, who has lived here only a short time, has made many friends for himself. He served the past year on the Gatesville High School faculty as teacher of Mathematics and as assistant coach. Receiving his B. A. degree in Architecture from Texas University, he has already distinguished himself in this profession.

The many friends of this young couple are looking forward to their return in September at the opening of the school term when Mr. Baldrige will resume his duties on the Gatesville High School faculty.

HARRELL-JONES WEDDING SOLEMNIZED FRIDAY

In a setting of pink rosebuds before an improvised altar of white on the spacious lawn of the S. J. Jones home near Ewing, a double ring ceremony was performed, uniting in marriage Mr. Eugene Harrell of Turnersville and Miss Ivy Pearl Jones of Ewing last Friday. Rev. Clyde Childers reading the ceremony.

Miss Jones wore as a wedding ensemble, a pink satin dress with accessories to match, and carried a large bouquet of pink rosebuds, and also a lovely wreath of rosebuds in her hair. Miss Wilma Harrell, played Mendelssohn's Wedding March for the occasion.

Attendants for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Burks of Killeen, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Perryman of Killeen, Mr. Kildreth Mangum of Turnersville, and Miss Juanita Harrell, sister of the groom, also of Turnersville.

Mrs. Burks was tastefully dressed in a cream lace frock, while that of Mrs. Perryman was a canary yellow crepe, and Miss Harrell wore a beautiful white net dress.

Mrs. Eugene Harrell used as a going-away costume, a stunning navy crepe dress with navy and white accessories.

Following a short reception after the ceremony for the couple, they left immediately for San Antonio for a brief honeymoon, returning to Turnersville Monday where they will be "at home."

Miss Jones is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Jones of the Ewing Community, and a sister to Troy and Virgil Jones of Gatesville. She was a student of both Baylor University at Waco and the University of Colorado. For the past two years she has been a teacher in Turnersville High School.

The groom, Mr. Harrell, is a prominent young man of Turnersville, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Harrell of that place.

Entered as second-class matter June 24, 1933, at the post office at Gatesville, Texas, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

INNOCENT ENTERTAINMENT AND DIVERSION

Headed by a rodeo at Levita, then by the Firemen's promotion of a carnival here this last week, later by rodeos at The Grove and at Jonesboro Bridge, Coryell County has last "somewhere to go."

In most instances, for entertainment, people "go to town," but now in line with the government's "back to the soil" movement, it seems the "city feller" is going to have to go to the country for his entertainment, barring movie houses here in Gatesville. Too, Ewing has a picnic promoted by the ex-students.

Well, we're going to hand it to these enterprising neighbors of ours who have the forethought and initiative to know that citizens of the county ARE looking for entertainment and diversion, and are furnishing it for their own profit and pleasure; and the pleasure and entertainment of those who attend.

Each time, or each year that any kind of program of this kind is promoted, there is an added impetus and accrued value enjoyed by the program. Each year it takes less and less advertising to put a thing like this over because the "word of mouth advertising" is the best in the long run. People say "we certainly had a swell time at so and so," or we're going back to so and so again this year." It's this kind of "small talk" that keeps promotions of this sort building up, and being better and better each year, with larger and larger crowds and better and better entertainment.

These various people and sections of the country are building up a clientele that will attend every year, being assured that they are going to have an enjoyable time. It's worth it, folk, and they're wise enough to know it.

TUT! TUT! TUT!

The International Association of Chiefs of Police has been meeting at Atlantic City. Attorney Genral Cummings made the opening address and next day J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, gave what was said to be "the bluntest talk on crime ever uttered by a public official."

Disregarding suggestions from lawyer friends that he go easy on the profession, Mr. Cummings spoke scathingly of the "lawyer criminal"—crooked lawyers who plot with the underworld. These he intends to drive out of the profession and put them in jail. Mr. Hoover was even more bitter in his remarks. His epithets included—"shyster lawyers," "legal vermin," "crooked politicians," "sob sister Judges," "criminal coddlers," "lawyers-criminal, who bribe witnesses, dissemble evidence and when possible convert Judge and jury to a miscarriage of justice."

Beyond this, there is the legal shyster in lawmaking, who, in meetings of bar associations and Legislatures, cries out against every statute which aids the law-enforcement officer and works with fanatical zeal for laws which will hamper him. He orates loudly and blatantly upon the preservation of the constitutional rights of the criminal jackal and totally ignores the sacred and human rights of honest citizens. He is backed by the politician, crooked and otherwise, who is willing to trade the property, the well-being, the security and even the lives of law-abiding persons for ballots spawned in prison cells and the support of gutter scum.

It is really quite shocking the way these lawyers speak of some of the members of an honored profession. No layman would dare to do it. Mr. Cummings even spoke of having "got rid of fifteen members of the legal profession in the southwestern part of this country."

Surely he did not mean Texas! But can it be that Mr. Hoover explains in part why it is so hard to amend our statutes respecting crime, or to pass a State Bar bill?

Tut! Tut! Tut! The speakers at Atlantic City must have had bad dreams. The Bars of our Southwestern States are surely above reproach.—Dallas News.

SENATOR HUEY P. LONG'S domination of Louisiana is now complete. Laws passed by a special called session of the legislature gave the Kingfish and his Democratic machine complete control over all municipal governments, placing the hiring and firing of all city officials not elected by the people in the hands of the State Civil Service Board, composed of Senator Long's friends.

New Orleans, stronghold of anti-Lognites, has capitulated the members of the old "regular" faction calling off the war on the Long machine and deserting the arch-foe of Long, Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley.

The Mayor's former adherents are now clamoring for his resignation, but he has declared his intention of "sticking from hell to breakfast."

Senator Long has "moved in." The unfriendly Orleans county district attorney has been removed and other offices filled with Long henchmen.

Huey is now free for other lines of endeavor, via, running for President, fulfilling his dream of a Southern States political empire dominated by himself, or whatever grandiose schemes he may have worked out.

AN IMMINENT RETURN of the ancient Hapsburg family to power in Austria is expected. The property holdings of the family, confiscated when Charles, the last ruler, abdicated in 1918, were returned by Parliament recently. This was taken to mean that Otto, youthful pretender to the throne, would soon return and be crowned as Emperor.

Lending further credence to such reports was the recent ousting of Chancellor Schuschnigg, presumably as a result of an auto accident in which the Chancellor's wife was killed, but in reality to pave the way for Vice-Chancellor Prince von Starhemberg, Fascist leader and friend of the Hapsburgs.

Considerable opposition to a return of Otto and his family to Austria has been manifested by Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, both of which were created out of territories ruled by the Hapsburgs before their deposition, and Rumania, which profited greatly by the break-up of the old Hapsburg-dominated Austro-Hungarian empire. A threat was recently made by a member of the Rumanian government that the armies of the three or four mentioned powers would be mobilized in the event of a Hapsburg restoration.

U. S. EXPORTERS should profit by the recently-concluded trade pact with Soviet Russia, under which the U. S. S. R. agreed to boost its American imports by 150 per cent over the average of the last three years ($12,000,000).

Maxim Lit Vinoff, Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs, and William C. Bullitt, our Russian Ambassador, concluded the agreement after protracted negotiations extending over several years.

Russia will purchase $30,000,000 of American goods during the next twelve months and in return will receive wide tariff concessions.

Russian purchases will be limited chiefly to heavy machinery and manufactured goods which means that the agricultural producer will have to look elsewhere.

Nevertheless, the Administration is working in the right direction and other agreements can be made with Latin-American nations, now buying millions of dollars of goods from Europe and Japan, that should materially benefit American manufacturers and farmers.

ITALY is sending the most scientifically equipped as well as the largest army Africa has ever sent to war against Ethiopia's savage but poorly equipped tribesmen. About 130,000 soldiers and workmen are now in the two Italian colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland in expectation of an early assault on the 5,000-year-old independent kingdom of Ethiopia, better known as Abyssinia.

Observers report that the port of Massaua, Eritrea, is a town of stevedores and troops working without rest in a temperature of 120 in the shade to unload ships and clear the wharves already piled high with supplies. Four or five Italian ships constantly are standing in the harbor waiting to discharge their cargoes of tanks, armored cars, airplanes, artillery pieces and the rest of the paraphernalia of war in addition to countless thousands of troops.

The Italian soldiers, upon arriving at Massaua, see a barren plain which stretches away into the distance, unrelieved by vegetation. Because of the scarcity of water, the troops are allowed only two pints a day for each man, with which he must do his washing and drinking. Mussolini's soldiers, with all their elaborate fighting equipment, must have water—and Italian ships are scouring Red Sea ports for fresh water.

Mussolini has poured $50,000,000 into his African venture and hostilities have not yet begun. What will happen to Italy's weak financial condition if the African war is prolonged several years?

OKLAHOMA'S E. W. Marland ran for office in 1934 on a New Deal platform—and is sticking by it. He has declared war on and he is ready to fight.

Gore's term expires in 1936 and he intends to run again, but Marland intends to support a candidate whose sympathies are with the administration.

Marland is highly respected by his fellow Oklahomans but many wonder if he would not like to replace Gore himself.

Keeping cool this kind of weather might be hard for some, but with the help of some of the Gatesville shops, I've summed up the reason why some people enjoy hot weather.

On the slow, dripping hot days when you just can't seem to work—send out for a cool, refreshing brick of ice cream—choose any flavor, then sit back comfortably, enjoying smooth, tasty mouthfuls of this energizing refreshment, which you will find at the Gatesville Dairy Store.

Drink a glass of milk from Gambelin's Dairy, which gives youthful pep, concentrated vitality. No other food offers the same advantages, the necessary body and vitality building elements, in a form as easily digested and no other food offers as much at so small a cost. Try it cold for your afternoon snack, and order it regularly for every meal all the summer. People drink milk because they know milk after each meal and before bedtime will supply them with extra energy to enjoy the summer.

Enjoy every mile of your motoring. Olsen's Garage will help you, with a staff of experienced mechanics and auto technicians, with a completely equipped service unit, and with better grade gas, oil, and greases. If you're planning an extensive trip, your car will need a "going over." If you're going to stay in town, you'll have satisfaction in knowing that you've got a car under you that is ready for every test.

Chapter I

THE LAW MAKER

Soldiers and sailors and merchant-adventurers, these were the pioneers who laid the foundations of the British Empire, and to-day their work is carried on by the Civil Servants, keepers of the King's peace.

Far beyond the limits of civilization, out on the remote fringes of Britain's vast possessions, small groups of white men hold sway over territories peopled by many nations, each with its own chief, its own tribal customs, but all with the common instincts to raid, kill, and plunder.

The territory of Commissioner Sanders embraced an immense tract of country in Nigeria, and the wide, treacherous river was the highway that traversed it.

He had two capable assistants in Captain Hamilton and Lieutenant Tibbets, and a small force of native troops, Hausas. With these he had established peace among the tribes in the space of a few years.

To more than two million savages he was known and feared as Lord Sandi, as a stern father by his children. To the Colonial Office, he was known as one of the finest men in the Service.

One morning Sanders might have been seen in the company of his junior assistant, Tibbets.

They were discussing Hamilton, who had departed some days previously on a trip up-country, and who should have returned ere now.

"Do you suppose he's all right, sir?" Tibbets was asking anxiously.

Sanders frowned.

"There's no telling what might happen to a fellow in these parts."

Sanders turned to pour himself a whisky-and-soda. As he was drinking it the door of the Residency was pushed open, and a man of about his own age crossed the threshold.

"Hello, Mamilton!" Sanders greeted him, with a placidness that gave no indication of the relief he felt at seeing him. "You're just in time to join me in a drink."

"Thanks," the other said. "I need one."

Disturbing News

"Any news of special consequence to report?" Sanders asked him.

"Yes," Hamilton answered. "I dropped in on friend Oboja, chief of the Acholi tribe. Found a couple of gin bottles in his village."

Sanders and Tibbets exchanged a glance. Two commodities were taboo in the territory. One was spirits, and the other firearms.

"I had a long talk with Oboja," Hamilton continued. "He said that he was your brother, Commissioner. He said that you had the magic and the wisdom of all the witch doctors who ever lived, that you had ears as long as an elephant's, and eyes in the side of your head, and in the back of your head. But he wouldn't tell me where he got the gin."

"That's easy," Sanders commented. "I had word from one of my spies several days ago, telling me that Farini and Smith were passing through the territory. They're the culprits all right."

Hamilton spoke again. "By the way," he mentioned. "I ran across a queer sort of fellow upstream. He was in an Ochori canoe, but I'll swear he was no Ochori. He said he wanted to see you."

Sanders was listening attentively.

"Was he a tall man, Hamilton?"

"Why, yes," the other rejoined.

"Very tall. But out of the two million natives in this territory, don't tell me that you can pick out the very man I'm talking about."

"I think I may know something about your acquaintance of the river," Sanders stated. "We'll soon see."

A magnificent specimen of negro manhood was shown into the room. Well over six feet, he was splendidly proportioned, and Sanders was at once struck by the intelligence of his bold features.

"Who are you?" Sanders asked.

"I am Asaba, son of the old chief Sulabu, who died some moons past. I rule the Ochori in his place, lord."

Sanders eyed the negro with a touch of reproach in his gaze.

"Is that not a lie, man?" he said.

The black hung his head.

"It is a lie, Lord Sandi."

Sanders rose and crossed to a filing cabinet, produced a document which bore a picture of the negro who stood before him, and read the following description.

Escaped Convict

"Bosambo. Six feet four inches in height. Wanted at Monrovia. Convicted for petty larceny. Escaped from the prison of St. Thome—"

The black's uneasiness increased.

"Lord," he protested. "I am living honestly now. I have made myself chief of the Ochori people, and have taught them to live in peace, according to your laws. Were not the Ochoris always troublesome to you, before I came?"

"That may be so, man," Sanders rejoined. "But no one may become chief without my sanction."

"Why did you come here?" he asked.

"Lord Sandi, I bring a high and important message for you."

"Is that not another lie, man?"

Bosambo shook his head.

"Lord," he said. "I lie when it is good for me to lie. But to you I will never lie again."

"That will be wise," the Commissioner told him.

"The people of the river say the Lord Sandi knows all," Bosambo went on. "They say that he has great magic. But I know that he has many spies—I, too, have many spies—and that is why I bring you this message."

"One moment," Sanders said. "You knew that in a month I would come to the Ochori village—at the time of the taxes. Is that not what you are here—in the hope that may let you remain as chief of the people who have adopted you?"

Bosambo looked at him humbly.

"Lord, I have told you that I bring news, and it is this: warriors of the Old King have passed through the country of the Ochori on their way towards the coast."

The Commissioner glanced at Bosambo again.

"The warriors of King Mafolaba?" he breathed.

Bosambo nodded gravely.

"Did you try to stop them, asked Sanders.

Bosambo drew himself up.

"Lord," he said. "Mafolaba is great and powerful king, but there is one man on the river who does not fear him, and I am that man. Nevertheless, I did not stop the dogs, because that would have meant war, and I know that you do not desire. Therefore I sent spies after them."

"That is well," the Commissioner rejoined. "Now listen, Bosambo. Every nation on the river has Government pigeons, and here at the Residency we have the pigeons of every nation. By these birds messages are sent—But what are you grinning at, man?"

"Lord," Bosambo replied. "The Ochori pigeons that you have here are so old and fat that they can hardly fly. I have brought four more, which I have given to sergeant out in the compound."

Sanders had already made up his mind regarding Bosambo. Whatever the fellow had done in the past, Sanders was resolved to give him a chance.

"Tibbets," he said, "have you got a chain and medal of chieftainship?"

"I have them here, Lord Sandi," Bosambo broke in, smiling.

"The one worn by old Sulabu, your predecessor, eh?" the Commissioner murmured, and taking it, placed it around the big fellow's neck.

"Bosambo," he continued. "I am going to give you a six months' trial as chief of the Ochori people. See that you do not fail me."

The black dropped on one knee.

"Lord Sandi," he said gratefully. "I am your servant."

(To be continued)

Responsibility for all rural relief cases not accepted for rural rehabilitation prior to May 31, however, will remain with the Texas Relief Commission until they are dropped from the rolls or accepted on new works projects.

Culinary Jingles by Marcia Camp

"Now what kind of pudding will really be nice—
A thrifty brown Betty? Or humble old rice?
A glorified cobbler? They're tired of that too,
So what is an eat-weary housewife to do?"
Whatever you choose, it won't be a flop
If you sprinkle some yummy marshmallows on top!

A FESTIVE AIR

HOWEVER modest and unpretentious your pudding may be, those fluffy golden marshmallows on the top will give it a festive appearance, an intriguing new texture, and a delectable flavor. This is equally true of rice pudding and bread pudding, which will ring the bell with youngsters every time if they are topped with marshmallows; and of custard, which takes its marshmallows at the bottom of the cup; and of baked apples, which may be stuffed as well as topped with them; and of any other sort of pudding you may care to try the trick with.

Although a trick, it is a perfectly wholesome one, for marshmallows are all good food. And the child who does not love them for their sticky, gooey sweetness has yet to be found.

Caramel Pudding

- 1 slice bread, 1 inch thick
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 quart scalded milk
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 2 EGGS
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 12 campfire marshmallows, cut in halves

Soak bread until it is soft in enough water to cover. Meantime caramelize 2 tablespoons sugar in a heavy skillet. Add milk and butter; and cook gently until caramel dissolves. Press water from bread, add bread to cooked mixture, and beat well. Remove from stove; stir in well-beaten eggs, mixed with remaining sugar and vanilla. Pour into buttered baking diet and bake for 45 minutes in a slow oven (325° F.). Then cover top with marshmallow halves and return to oven to brown lightly. Serve hot with cream or coffee-flavored hard sauce.

Try this one on your child, especially if he fancies he does not care for milk puddings.

Proposed Constitutional Amendments

Concise Explanation Given out by Secretary of State, Gerald C. Mann.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

The first proposition to be found on the ballot in the August 24th Special Election on Constitutional Amendments is the so-called Old-Age Pension Amendment. This year, for the first time, the amendments will be numbered, according to Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann.

The Old Age Pension Amendment proposes to give the Legislature the authority to pay these pensions to persons over the age of 65, who are habitual drunkards nor habitual criminals, nor in coses of any State Supported institution. Those who are eligible must have lived in Texas at least 5 years, during the nine immediately preceding application and in the State continuously for one year. All other restrictions and limitations would have to be set up by the Legislature.

The Amendment authorizes the Legislature to accept money from the Federal government for the same purpose. It is presumed that Federal funds would match State funds. The maximum amount to be paid by the State would be $15 per person per month. It is presumed that the Federal government would match State Funds. The total pension per person per month in this case it is presumed would be $30. The amounts might be smaller, however; but not larger.

It is estimated that the cost of this pension to the State would run between forty and fifty million dollars annually. No provision is made for the income. It would be up to the Legislature to determine where the money would come from.

The Legislature would have to enact such laws as it deemed proper to utilize the right granted by the amendment. The Legislature might do his at once, or some time later—or for that matter not at all. The amendment is permissive and not mandatory, though few doubt that some form of old age pensions would be enacted if the amendment is adopted in August.

TEXAS MAKES FLOUR FROM PACIFIC COAST WHEAT

Austin, July 15.—Approximately half a million bushels of wheat from the Pacific Northwest will be converted into flour by Texas millers, according to an agreement between the millers and C. Z. Crain, head of the commodities distribution department of the Texas Relief Commission, acting as agent for the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation. Some 30 milling houses in Texas will grind the wheat on a toll basis, receiving all the offal, irrespective of present or future prices, as payment for the work. Milled flour will be delivered to the Texas Relief Commission in 12-pound paper bags and 24-pound cotton sacks for distribution to relief families in the state.

Crain said some wheat already has been bought and that first shipments were expected to be received in Texas soon.

A club composed of men from the Independent team, Oilers and Firemen, were defeated 12-10 in Valley Mills last Friday night. The same teams are scheduled for a game here this Friday night.

The Arbitrary Committee of this County Baseball League met Saturday, and after long deliberation reached certain necessary conclusions. The controversy over the Mound-Purmeta game of May 12, was ironed out, which put Mound, Osage and Hubbard in a tie for first place in the Sunday Division. Mound defeated Osage Sunday 8-4, which left Hubbard and Mound tied. These two teams will play a three game series to determine the winner of the Sunday division. Levita forfeited to Hubbard Sunday.

Since Managers have been at some expense of promoting the baseball games this year they will charge 5c admission for this three game series as well as the five game series to see who wins the league pennant.

The controversy between the Jonesboro-Turnersville game, the committee saw fit to have the game played again on a neutral field. Choosing the Training School diamond, they set the date for the game as Saturday, July 27.

It was decided that all teams in the Saturday Division make up all their games before letting a team in that division enter the play-off with a team in the Sunday Division. All of these games must be made up by the 27 of this month.

Managers are requested to get in touch with one another and see how many games they are behind, and play these games. The committee did not set certain dates for the games, however, managers are to notify this writer immediately after playing a game.

By the 27th, the Saturday division should be up with the Sunday division, and the winning team of each division ready to go into the five game series.

ON TEXAS FARMS

Minnie Fisher Cunningham
Extension Service Editor
A. & M. College

Farms and ranches alongside of Texas highways will keynote Centennial visitors' impressions of the State.

The Centennial Farm and Home Demonstration Contest announced by the Extension Service is an effort to enroll every family living on a Texas Highway in one great big reception committee to create a "smiling countryside" welcoming visitors to the birthday party.

Response to the announcement of the contest has been inspiring. Dallas News representatives met it when they went out to raise $2500 for prize money for the contest. Commercial firms gave generously to stimulate enrollment in the state-wide movement to improve the homes and farms and ranches by which the State will be judged in 1936.

Newspapers all over the State have joined hands in cooperation with the News as representing the city where the principal Centennial event will be celebrated. Good editorials and generous inches of space are being given to promote the movement. Radio announcers on commercial programs are telling about it.

The Sister State of Oklahoma plans to "pretty up" the highways leading into Texas.

Extension Service agents aided by the men and women and boys and girls who have worked with them heretofore are helping Texans on the highways to make plans for improvements based on Extension Service standards for country homes of comfort and beauty.

Everybody wants the contest to be a success because Texas will be host to the Nation in 1936. Texas pride is involved. Texas pride is our pride. The nation's opinion of the homes and farms and ranches of Texas matters to every Texan. So enrollment will not represent alone a desire to win one of the big prizes but will be a measure of Texans' love for their State.

Kountze—Tomato growers in the Votaw community in Hardin county realized more than $30,000 from the 1935 crop which amounted to 44 cars, according to W. P. Barrett, county agricultural agent. Due to the late freeze, growers were forced to market this season in direct competition with the Valley and north Florida crops.

The shipment this year was the largest number of cars ever shipped in one season. The next largest season was the 1934 crop which amounted to 34 cars. Although only 10 more cars were shipped in 1935, the 1935 crop returned to the growers three times as much actual cash, Barrett said.

San Saba—By using barn yard fertilizer on their land, Charles Lee and John H. Tra-week, San Saba county 4-H club boys, have both exceeded their fathers in the production of corn. Charles Lee planted his corn in three foot checks, manuring each hill. He will make seven or eight bushels more per acre than his father who planted his corn on unfertilized land. John H. Tra-week planted three-foot rows thick, which he thinned to a stand by cutting
