County Board Discusses Bus Transportation at Meeting Called Aug. 6

At the County Board meeting called for August 6, lines of bus transportation will be suggested and discussed, and classification of the county schools will be completed. Any other business that may be presented will be discussed and acted upon.

Deadline for Transfers

Recent laws passed by the last legislature state that all transfers including high school are to be made by August 1. Applications must be filed with the County Superintendent. His approval or rejection of each may come before the County Board on August 6. Local boards or individuals may be heard at this meeting.

According to reports, the last legislature made it very difficult to change land from one district to another. All changes made prior to May 21 will hold under the old law.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed McLarty spent last week end with Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Turner at Arnett.

District Court Under Way With Criminal Docket Being Worked

Criminal cases were handled by this term of District Court, which began yesterday morning, with the cases of State vs. Floyd Myers, and State vs. John Saunders.

In the case of State vs. Floyd Myers, a non-jury case, Myers received two years from the court, according to reports. The charge was forgery.

John Saunders, charged with theft and burglary received a suspended sentence. This was a jury case and the defendant was represented by Tom Mears.

EWING EXES STAGE PICNIC AND PLAY

Following their picnic in the morning consisting of a negro ball game, between Moody and Gatesville, another game of "whites" between Adamsville and Mound, a Battle Royal, and music by string bands. Ewing Ex-Student's Association presented the play Friday night entitled "The Girl from out Yonder."

Clayton Powell, as the comic. Ben Cook led the cast of players, being a "Jacks" hound, took care of the serious moments with his fanatical "Jack" playing. Mrs. Elmer, was portrayed by Naomi Blonchard, Edward Elmer, by J. W. Brown, J. Hubert Hughes, by J. M. Price.

Flotsam Barton, winsome little derelict about whom the theme of the play was based was played by Mary Ellen Eubanks, winning "red-head" in the Basketball Tournament last year. Arline Bates was the "snootle" Clarice Stapleton, doing a good job with a difficult part. Capt. Amos Barton the lighthouse keeper with a past was played by Will Moore. Simonson, the Widow, according to her story to Ben Cook, was played by Mary Scott Seward. Other incidental characters were Stevens, by Lowell Holt, Joe Clark by Syble Price and the Sheriff by J. W. Medlin.

Between acts, patrons were delighted with instrumental and vocal music, featuring the duo Troy and Zell Kinsey, with two voices and two guitars. Also, a "sister act" by Johnnie Ruth and Blanche Dossey. A trio was also featured by the two above and Mrs. Morris Bates.

Settings for the play were unusually good, and with the aid of a lighting system, the play was even more enjoyable. Students and Ex-students of Ewing are certainly to be commended for the program in its entirety and for the smooth way everything was carried out.

FIREMEN SPEND WEEK AT COLLEGE STUDYING LATE PREVENTION METHODS

Pleas Walker and Bert Richardson returned Friday of last week from the Firemen's School at A. & M. College, where the sixth Annual Training School was held.

Two hundred-two Texas cities were represented with a total attendance of 487 firemen and fire marshalls, as compared with the 1930 attendance of 196 from 76 cities and towns. The school was in session five days.

Some of the instructors during this meeting were Dean L. H. Provine, Dean of Architecture of the University of Illinois; Col. Clarence Goldsmith, chairman of the fire Service Extension committee, Engineering division of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, Chicago, Ill.; George J. Gruber of the Mine Safety Appliances Company of Houston, and many others.

HEINZY CHAMPION SPIDER OF COPPERAS COVE

The prowess of the Black Widow Spider as the king of the battle royal ring was knocked down a notch or two last week when Lon Hinson, local barber, and Albert Teinert, ex-meat-market-man, pitted their two aces of the widow clan against the undefeated spider, Heinzy, owned by Rip Smylie, local loafer. The battle raged all thro' the night, but as the morning sun peeped over the hills, Heinzy became hungry and made his meal of the heavyweight champions. No, Heinzy is not for sale.—Copperas Cove Crony.

No wonder Chester Burchett was wearing a "big chest" yesterday; we understand he is papa. The News enjoyed a visit from our Correspondent at Buster, Mrs. Joyce Touchstone, also Miss Blanche Dossey of Plainview and Mrs. Lona Bates of Ewing. They inquired as to who is the Snoopier. A Black Widow Spider presented us by Dr. Kermit Jones, has a history, living a week in a glass jar, four days of which he did without food and water, however, the last three days he has been making up for lost time by demolishing several members of the "finny tribe" got busy over the week end at various points of the "silver Colorado," and sunburned faces, drowsy personalities and some grandios fish stories seem to be the results. In most instances a fish dinner was "had on the ground by all," and some went west of Goldthwaite, some Marble Falls, and some others, we don't know. Saturday we saw I. T. Bundrandt, Levita, and Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Tudor and Cordilla Bennett, who passed the time with us for a few minutes. Speaking of plays, they really have good ones at Ewing, especially when Clayton Powell plays Ben Cook.

GEORGE W. POWELL SENDS LETTER ABOUT SCOUTS FROM O. H. CROSS

George W. Powell, Scout Executive of the Heart O' Texas Council of the Boy Scouts of America, sends letter from Hon. O. H. Cross of the House of Representatives inviting all scouts to the National Jamboree in Washington scheduled for August 21-30.

We present Representative Cross' letter below.
My dear Scouts:

As your Representative in Congress, I am happy to extend my greetings and welcome to those of you who will be here to take part in the National Jamboree next August. I know that you are going to have the time of your lives and I hope it will be possible for me to be present so as to meet you personally, and as many of the other 30,000 scouts whom our President invited as possible.

You will visit places that you have read about but perhaps never hoped to see—the White House, the home of the President; the National Capital where are centered all government activities; the Washington Monument, the tallest masonry structure in the world—and think of the view from its top; the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier; the Bureau of Engraving where they print millions of stamps a day, paper money or currency, and Government bonds; the Smithsonian Institution, showing Colonel Lindbergh's famous plane "The Spirit of St. Louis"; Mt. Vernon, the home of George Washington, and a trip to the National Zoological Park where every sort of animal you have seen in your natural history books is housed.

There is a thought here for you fellows who are not scouts. You see the wonderful chances that scouts do have because everybody knows that this organization does help boys to learn worthwhile things and develop into the kind of men we can be proud of. How about going around to the troop that is nearest to your home and finding out how you can be a scout, or look in to telephone directory for the office of your local council and get in touch with them?

And so, boys of my own Congressional District, everyone of you ought to make every effort to become a member of the Boy Scouts, whether you are Protestant, Catholic or Jew, and so gain all of the valuable training that these youths are being given toward making them better citizens. And every boy who is now a Boy Scout and can measure up to the requirements should make every effort to attend this great Jamboree. Nor is there a parent of a Boy Scout anywhere but who should urge his son to exert every effort to qualify, see one of his troop to attend if there is any possibility of his earning or securing the funds.

And if Congress is in session when you come to Washington and I am here at that time, it will be my greatest pleasure, as well as what I shall feel my real duty, to do all I can to help make your visit here the time of your very young lives.

Respectfully,
Your Congressman,
(Signed) O. H. Cross.

"Double Door" New Bill For Thursday Night By Local Little Theater

Following their success in "The Whole Town's Talking," the Little Theatre, with an entirely new cast presents for the public's approval Thursday evening at 8:15, "Double Door" which has had long runs on Broadway and in other larger cities, and will probably cause more talk than any other play by the thespians during the year.

In addition to this play, is none other than the original Ames String Band, purveyors of scintillating melodies in the Light Crust Dough Boy manner, and featuring none other than "Big Joe" Ward Coryell County's youngest Maestro, yow-suh (with appologies to Bernie.) They'll strum their way into the heart of any audience, and this alone, is worth the price of admission.

Too, the cast, are some of the outstanding personalities of this section, including Bryan Arnold of West Point Military Academy, Elaine Cross, Beverly Chamlee, David Franks, James Boyd, Byron McClellan, Ruth Raby Franks, Pauline Garner, Earl Powell, Raymond Leonard, Jack Wollard. Assistants are Katherine Gordon and Louis Woodall.

Advance sale of tickets is under the direction of the City Drug Store, Arnold's Drug Store, Gatesville Drug Store and Cozy Cafe.

LOCAL BUYER LEAVES FOR EASTERN MARKET; STOPS FIRST IN ST. LOUIS

Byron Leaird, Jr., of Leaird's Department Store left Sunday noon for the east to buy fall merchandise. Stopping at St. Louis enroute, Mr. Leaird will buy novelty footwear for the shoe department, and then continue his journey to the markets in New York, where orders will be placed for all lines of merchandise.

ATTEND FUNERAL OF HER GRANDFATHER

Mrs. R. L. Routh received word Wednesday of the death of her grandfather, Mr. Willis, of Alba, who died Tuesday night from injuries received in an accident some six weeks ago. Mr. Willis who was in a Dallas hospital for three weeks died at his home in Alba. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Routh and son, Robert, and Mrs. E. Routh left Wednesday morning to attend the services which were held Thursday.

Mrs. Byron Leaird Jr. is visiting friends in Dallas.

Kelly Brooks of Hamilton visited in Gatesville Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Lutterloh were Waco visitors Sunday.

Mrs. Jack Phillips and children, Gladys Marie and Martha Lou, are visiting Mrs. G. W. Phillips in St. Jo.

Jack Wollard, Wesley Webb, Tom McGlothlin and Bill Powell spent the week end fishing at Marble Falls.

ALL SHOULD PAY

In a recent newspaper article, Walter Lippman, the distinguished publicist, pointed out that any sound national taxing system must see to it that every citizen, no matter how large or small his income, pays something in direct taxes.

Under present condition, only a minority of citizens pay any direct taxes whatsoever, and that his given rise to the highly erroneous belief that the majority of citizens are free from taxation—that the services of government come to them for nothing, being paid for by the tax-paying minority.

That attitude has been responsible for the amazing indifference of the average citizen toward wasteful, extravagant and over-extended government. He feels that governmental spending means nothing to him, so far as paying his share of the bill is concerned; that deficits are the worry of others, and that increasing appropriations cannot damage his pocketbook—and may benefit it.

As a matter of fact, the majority of citizens, who pay no direct taxes, pay the great bulk of government costs—indirectly. They pay them in higher costs for commodities of all kinds—shoes, electricity, amusement, transportation, everything they use. They pay more rent, more for insurance, more for medical and hospital care—because the taxes levied against businesses and corporations must be passed on to the consumer. It is folly to talk of industry “absorbing” taxes—the user of a product or a service always foots the bill in the long run.

If, as Mr. Lippman suggests, every income were subjected to some direct taxation—even if it amounted to only a dollar a year, every citizen would get an inkling of the real meaning of government spending. And when his small tax doubled or trebled he would know what it meant. He would realize his responsibility, and his personal interest in every public appropriation that is made. And that would mark the beginning of an aggressive, nationally-backed movement to force government to be efficient, conservative, economical.

TOO MUCH POLITICS HURTS EVERYBODY

One of the worst phases of restrictive, tax-creating, destructive legislation is its effect on the agencies to which the public looks to safeguard its savings and investments—life insurance companies, banks and trust companies,

Institutions of this kind, for example, are heavy investors in the securities of our basic industries—utilities, railroads, and grade-A industrial concerns. Anything that makes it difficult for these industries to progress, prosper and pay interest and dividends strikes directly at the institutions entrusted with billions of dollars of the people's money—money which principally belongs to persons of small means, who count on it to protect themselves and their dependents from want.

In addition, universities, research organizations, libraries, endowed hospitals and similar non-profit-making institutions which serve an essential purpose, customarily receive a large part of their total revenue from industrial investments. If political policies force industry to retrench, the services of these institutions must likewise be curtailed.

When we strike at an industry, the blow is felt throughout the entire social and economic structure. It destroys jobs, opportunities, investments. It imperils savings. It forces retrogression. Everyone loses and no one gains.

Holdings of life insurance policies, savings bank accounts and industrial securities have had this forcibly impressed upon them by loss of dividends, a large part of which is due to destructive legislation and regulation—in other words, too much politics.

World Comment

By JOE BURNS

QUITE A FEW of the Senate “veterans” are up for re-election next year—men who have served in Congress for as many as twenty-four consecutive years. Washington correspondents report that the 1936 elections are already coming in for serious attention. Members of the House have their eyes on seats at the other side of the Capitol and are preparing to go after them in the primaries.

Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, dean of both Houses in point of continuous service, is expected to encounter stiff opposition. Several members of the Texas delegation are reported planning to run against him. Rep. Joe Eagle of Houston announced his candidacy last year. Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, author of the Patman inflationary bonus bill, has been encouraged to make the race. Former Governor James E. (Farmer Jim) Ferguson has been mentioned as a possible candidate. Rep. Martin Dies has been mentioned as a possible contender also.

William E. Borah of Idaho, whose fifth consecutive term expires next year, will be opposed by C. Ben Ross, Democratic Governor of Idaho serving his third term. Democratic Senator Joseph P. Pope is supporting the candidacy of Ross. Borah is seventy years old. His thirty years in the Senate have been characterized by an independence rarely seen before. He is essentially a Republican and has opposed Roosevelt on many issues, particularly the United States entrance into the World Court, which he was instrumental in defeating.

He has opposed the United States meddling in foreign affairs and was one of the leaders of the forces that kept the U. S. from joining the League of Nations.

Another old-timer, George W. Norris of Nebraska, will seek another term in the Senate in the 1936 elections. Norris is classed among the Senate “unbeatables.” An independent Republican, he supported Roosevelt in 1932 and has generally voted for Administration measures.

Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Senate Democratic leader, and Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the powerful Finance Committee, will stand for re-election against powerful opposition. Huey Long has threatened to invade their states and “get” them, to borrow some of Huey's language. Huey is strong in Mississippi and Arkansas, where a large percentage of the population is illiterate. In 1932 Huey went into Arkansas and elected Mrs. Hattie Caraway over five opponents to succeed her late husband, Senator T. H. Caraway. Political wiseacres had placed Mrs. Caraway sixth in their pre-election computations. The Kingfish dreams of a Southern political empire dominated by himself and plans to defeat Robinson and Harrison—two old timers—as a preliminary step. Robinson entered the Senate in 1913. In 1928 he was the Democratic candidate for Vice-President. He is the Democratic floor leader and a staunch Administration supporter. Harrison is expected to encounter opposition within his own state from popular Gov. Sennett “Mike” Connor.

Charles L. McNary of Oregon, the Senate Republican leader, is up for re-election also. Oregon is considered a Republican state.

Huey Long will have to run for re-election also. Although the self-styled “Kingfish” has only been in Washington three years, he is a figure of national prominence and has been mentioned as a possible presidential candidate in 1936 or 1940. Huey has his subservient legislature change the primary election date from July to January. Huey will thus be able to get himself re-nominated—which is tantamount to election in Louisiana—and then be free to harass the President at the July convention and in the Fall campaign. Contrary to the impression in the South that Huey's smooth-running machine will easily re-nominate him in the Louisiana primaries, informed Washington quarters are actually predicting the defeat of the Kingfish next year. True, Huey has antagonized some of his strongest supporters—American Legionites, A. F. of L. followers, Senate liberals and the “plain peepul.” His indulgence in personalities and his tremendous ego have convinced them that he is no shining avator. Ray Tucker, in his Washington column, says the Federal Government will keep such a close eye on the senatorial elections in Louisiana that graft, corruption and violence won't be practical. Mr. Tucker predicts that by 1936 many of Huey's political lieutenants will be in jail. The Treasury is after Huey and his boys for income tax evasion and, according to Mr. Tucker, admit that they have Mr. Long's number. If a fair election could be held in Louisiana today, Senator Long would likely be defeated.

Senator Carter Glass, completing his third term as Senator from Virginia, is expected to encounter little opposition. Glass has been a member of Congress for thirty-two years, serving fifteen years in the House, resigning from that body to enter the Senate. In 1918 he became Secretary of the Treasury in President Wilson's cabinet. He is considered an authority on money matters. Glass sponsored and was largely responsible for the passage of the Federal Reserve Act. Glass and his colleague, Senator Harry Flood Byrd, dominate Virginia democracy.

Rumor has it also that a first class contest is the offering in Kentucky where Senator L. L. Logan is up for re-election. Fred M. Vinson, a House six-termer and author of the much discussed plan to pay the Soldiers' Bonus, which was shelved in favor of the Patman bill, is reported gridding himself to run against Logan. Senator Logan, a former chief justice of the Kentucky Court of Appeals, created something of a stir in the Senate shortly after his election by declaring rather ironically that he didn't want to come to the Senate in the first place and that since he had been there he was not at all sure he cared about staying. Perhaps the good people of Kentucky will retire Senator Logan next year when he will seek re-election against his will.

In Minnesota the radical Farmer-Labor governor, Floyd B. Olson, will oppose blind Sen.

(From Copperas Cove Crony)
Frederick Dewald was born June 30, 1876 in Lenback, Alsace, and died July 13, 1935, being at the time of his death 59 years and 13 days. In 1883 he came with his parents to Texas and the family made their home at Taylor, Williamson county, where they resided for some five years. In 1888 the family came to Copperas Cove and bought the farm on which Mr. Dewald lived until his death.

Mr. Dewald was baptized in the Lutheran faith. In 1897 he united with the Methodist Episcopal church of Copperas Cove, whose faithful member he remained until he died. He served his church as Trustee and Steward.

On March 5, 1898 Mr. Dewald was married to Miss Mary Kriegel. To this union six children were born.

On Saturday morning he complained to his wife that he did not sleep well and that he was very tired. Before the doctor could get there his heart had failed, and he had died.

He leaves to survive his death, his beloved wife, four boys; Henry Dewald of Copperas Cove, George Dewald of Nevada, Wesley Dewald of Montana and Fred Dewald of Dallas; two girls, Mrs. Charles Beerwinkle and Mrs. Walter Beerwinkle, both of Moody. He also leaves three brothers, Louis of Copperas Cove, Henry Dewald of Atlanta, Ga., and John Dewald of Edcouch, Texas, two sisters; Mrs. George Fritz of Copperas Cove and Mrs. J. H. Schroeder of San Antonio besides a great relationship and a host of friends who mourn over his death.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday from the family home and from the Methodist church by his pastor O. C. Raekle, assisted by Rev. James Trammell and Rev. J. W. A. Witt of Moody.

Margaret Dixon visited friends at Plainview last week end.

Tonight the Valley Mills softball team is due here to play a "mixed" team, composed mostly of Firemen. This team lost to the Valley Mills club in that city recently, however, after winning from the strong Kyle Drug team of Temple last week, the locals have become aware of the fact that they are fair softballers.

Mound and Hubbard are tied for top in the Sunday division of the County Baseball League. The two teams have met twice in a three game series to decide the winner, however the first game was protested, and Mound defeated Hubbard Sunday, the score of which is not known.

The two teams meet in the final game of the series Wednesday at the Training School. The game will probably start around three or three-thirty o'clock in the afternoon.

Teams in the Saturday division of the County League are reminded of the fact that all games must be played by Saturday, the 27th, and the winner of each division will meet in a five game series to decide who is awarded the League pennant.

C. L. Thompson, director of tennis in the local high school, has given us some information regarding the Tennis Tourney, which is as follows:

1. There will be three divisions: Boys singles and doubles,

Juniors singles and doubles, and Mens singles and doubles.

2. All boys who had not reached their 15th birthday by January 1, 1935 are eligible for boys' competition.

All Juniors who have not reached their 18th birthday by January 1, are eligible for Junior competition.

3. Entrance fees: Men's Singles and Doubles—25c; Junior Singles and Doubles—15c; Boys' Singles and Doubles 10c.

4. Anyone wishing to enter sign at the Coryell County News office on or before Saturday, July 27, 1935. Dues are payable at time of signing.

Matches with dates set will be announced in the News of July 30.

Matches will be best 2 out of 3 sets until finals; then 3 out of 5, for Mens' and Juniors; 2 out of 3 for boys.

If demand is great enough, a women's division will be planned. Everyone who plays tennis at all is urged to enter, since the larger the field, the more successful the tournament. Matches will be on the High School courts.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
 (Bosambo, an escaped convict, has made himself chief of the Ochori without British sanction. British Commissioner Sanders, white ruler of two million African natives, impressed by his undeniable influence for good over this formerly troublesome tribe, decides to make him official chieftain for a six months trial period.)

PALAVR
 Two or three days later, a telegraph message from Government House informed Commissioner Sanders that the warriors had raided the French territory of Dahomey, seized two or three hundred natives, and were marching back to their own country.
 An Ochori carrier-pigeon was released, and later the same day reached Bosambo. He removed a tiny roll of paper attached to it. The missive read as follows:
 "King Mafolaba's warriors will return through your country from slave raid. Stop them and hold their captives until my arrival."
 Ere long the beat of tribal drums was resounding through Bosambo's village, summoning his fighting men to arms, and with his followers in full force behind him the ex-convict led the way from the kraal.

The prophecy was no idle one, for that afternoon a great concord of warriors was sighted. Mafolaba himself was reposing in a litter borne by four of his servants.
 Sanders, Tibbets, and Bosambo awaited him. Close by, the company of Hausas from the Residency stood at ease.
 Mafolaba and his followers came on and halted.
 King Mafolaba stepped forward and he and Sanders exchanged salutations after which the negro potentate sat down.
 Sanders leaned forward to speak to him.
 "King Mafolaba," he said, "when I summoned you to palaver I did not ask you to bring all your warriors."
 An ugly glint was playing in the negro monarch's wicked eyes.
 "Sandi," he answered, "I brought them so that a dog of a little chief might tremble at the power he has provoked."

He looked venomously at Bosambo as he spoke those words, but the Ochori chieftain gave him eye for eye. Then Sanders raised his voice again.
 "King Mafolaba," he said, "you know that slavery is forbidden."
 "That is the white man's law," the other retorted. "I, Mafolaba, am the greatest king in this country."
 "My King is the greatest king on earth!" Sanders rapped out. "His law is the law of this country, and when petty chiefs and kings bring shame on him, we, his servants, must stamp them out. Take heed of that, Mafolaba, and let there be no more slave raids by your warriors."
 The old king succeeded in mastering his wrath. He was afraid of this Sandi, afraid of those Hausas standing nearby.
 "Sandi," he said, "I am your friend. I will do as you ask. But one thing I tell you now—I shall not forget that a dog of a little chief once chopped the captain of my guard."
 "The chief of the Ochori was acting on my instructions," the Commissioner snapped. "He intercepted your captain in my name, but your jackal chose to disregard my commands."
 Mafolaba showed no signs of being pacified.
 "In my village there are nine drums," he said for the benefit of Bosambo. "Each of them is covered with the skin of a little chief who has offended me. I think I know whose skin will cover the tenth!"
 "King Mafolaba," Sanders ground out, "I warn you! If you harm one servant of the Government, be it only a carrier-pigeon, I will grind you into the dust, and you shall be king no more!"

It was the figure of Bosambo Mafolaba's jackal called a halt.
 "Whose dog are you?" he asked.
 Bosambo did not answer the question.
 "You go no farther," he said. "That is Lord Sandi's command."
 "You know who I am dog?" the other retorted. "I am the Captain of King Mafolaba's Guard."
 "Lord Sandi says to stop you and hold all men and women whom you have seized," Bosambo announced grimly. "Turn round and march to my village. If you know what is good for you!"
 The spear of the Ochori chief was levelled at the other's breast, but that was not all. There had been movements in the long grass and the undergrowth, and now King Mafolaba's minion saw the glinting assegais of many warriors. For the first time he realized that Bosambo was not alone, but possessed a force that outnumbered the slave-raiders by three to one.
 Mafolaba's jackal ground his teeth. The party which he himself headed was but one-twentieth of his King's man-power. Away in the city of that powerful monarch, there were regiments which could have wiped out the Ochoris to the last man.
 But the Captain of Mafolaba's Guard was in a tight corner, and he had to obey. With a scowl he turned and moved back.
Leader slain
 He had gone only a few steps when he chanced to look back and see Bosambo glancing round triumphantly at his Ochori followers. On the instant Mafolaba's captain thought he saw his chance to strike a blow that would demoralize the enemy, and, wheeling unexpectedly, he hurled his spear straight at the Ochori chieftain's breast.
 Out of the corner of his eye Bosambo caught the glint of the weapon, and warded it off with his shield. Then he lunged forward, and all the strength of his mighty arm was behind the shaft that sped to the heart of the Old King's minion.
 It pierced the man's body, and he fell with a great cry.
 The unfortunates seized by King Mafolaba's raiding-party included ten girls, all attractive according to negro standards, but there was one in particular who took Bosambo's eye—a slender girl with a touch of white blood in her, strangely alluring in her dark, native way, with an expression that was winsome and yet bold.
 Bosambo looked down on her man's Club and of the Girl's 4-H Club be present.

Proposed Constitutional Amendments

Concise Explanation Given out by Secretary of State, Gerald C. Mann.

REPEAL OF LIQUOR PROHIBITION

Probably chief interest in the August 24th election on the seven proposed Constitutional Amendments will center in Proposition Number 3 on the ballot—the repeal of Prohibition, according to Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann.

The Constitution, at present, prohibits the sale, manufacture and transportation of alcoholic liquors (except 3.2 beer). This prohibition would be stricken out by adoption of the Repeal Amendment.

The proposed amendment specifically prohibits the return of the open saloon—and it would be up to the Legislature to define the term "open saloon."

No machinery is set up for the sale of liquor. The Legislature would have the authority to determine just who and just how liquor is to be sold. This could be done by State monopoly or through private channels. The Legislature would have the authority to pass laws regulating local option elections.

If the amendment is adopted all counties, cities and precincts that were dry in 1919 when statewide prohibition was adopted would be dry now—at least until local option elections were held to determine otherwise.

It is well to remember, Secretary Mann points out, that there will be an election next year in November to determine whether the State shall sell liquor through a State Monopoly system. If the repeal amendment is adopted in August, it will in effect be submitted again in November, 1936, in the State Monopoly Amendment which says the State SHALL have a liquor monopoly. To retain the present dry status both August the 24th 24th Amendment and the November, 1936 Amendment must be defeated. Passage of either will repeal the present prohibition section of the Constitution.

HARVEY-CARMINATI CO-STAR IN PICTURE TONIGHT AT REGAL

At the Regal Theatre tonight, also Wednesday and Thursday, is Columbia's "Let's Live Tonight," co-starring those two continental favorites, Lillian Harvey and Tullio Carminati. The film is a romantic comedy-drama by Bradley King which Gene Markey adapted to the screen. It tells the story of an eager young American girl, summering in Monte Carlo, who falls in love with a man she believes to be a poor but honest gigolo. A rather poignant theme develops when she discovers that he is wealthy, debonair man-of-the-world performing to love often but not too strongly. Disheartened, she encourages a younger and more romantic suitor, only to find that he is the brother of her desired Don Juan.

Lillian Harvey is the girl seeking romance on the Riviera. It is, by her own admission, the finest role she has had to date, which is no mean flattery considering her recent success in "I Am Suzanne" and "My Weakness." Tullio Carminati, of course, is the suave and polished lover, with Hugh Williams as the younger brother. Victor Schertzinger, who also directed "One Night of Love," produced "Let's Live Tonight." In addition, he composed two popular song numbers, "Love Passes By" and "I Live In My Dreams." Tullio Carminati sings "Love Passes By." The balance of the large cast includes Janet Beecher, Tala Birell, Luis Alberni and Claudia Coleman.

World Comment

ator Thomas D. Schall, Republican arch-conservative and ardent New Deal critic, standing for re-election.

New Jersey democrats will concentrate on defeating Senator W. Warren Barbour, who was elected in 1932 for four years. In 1934 G. O. P. Senator Hamilton F. Kean was replaced with Democratic Governor A. Harry Moore, but the governorship was taken by the Republicans. New Jersey democracy is dominated by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City.

Senator Arthur Capper, Republican of Kansas, is reported to have run into political difficulties by his support of New Deal legislation. He has been charged by some members of his party with being a better Democrat than a Republican and an effort may be made to unseat him in 1936.

In Oklahoma, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former head of the NRA, is expected to run against Senator Thomas P. Gore, another veteran incumbent seeking another term. Gore, who is blind, served in the Senate from 1907 to 1921 and was again elected in 1930.

James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, Administration spokesman in the Senate, will stand for re-election next year. He will have the support of President Roosevelt and the Democratic National Committee.

The attitude displayed by the group of Senate liberals when Dennis Chavez of New Mexico presented himself to take the oath of office to fill out the unexpired term of the late Bronson Cutting makes certain a lively senatorial contest in that State next year. Of the six Senators who absented themselves from the chamber while Chavez, a Democrat, was being sworn in, four—Johnson, Nye, La Follette and Shipstead—are prepared to invade New Mexico if necessary in 1936, as they do not stand for re-election next year.

The progressive bloc in both Houses went to the support of Cutting in 1934 and have said privately they are willing to take the field again for the cause which the New Mexico liberal sponsored. Both Chavez and New Mexico's other Democratic Senator, Carl Hatch, serving unexpired terms, will be up for re-election in 1936. From present indications the senatorial contests in that State promise to be very much in the national spotlight next year.

Many other senators with less distinguished records are up for re-election next year, which with the above make a total of thirty-three who will seek re-election or retire. Of the thirty-three up for re-election, twenty are Democrats; thirteen are Republicans. The two Senators to be elected in New Mexico account for the fact that thirty-two will have to stand for re-election.

J. F. PENNINGTON

J. F. Pennington, a well known resident of Coryell County, died at his home in Brownwood Friday night, July 19, at eleven o'clock, following several months' illness.

Funeral services were held at five o'clock Saturday afternoon, July 20, at the home with a Baptist Minister in charge. The Masonic Lodge, of which he had been a faithful and loyal member for many years, were in charge of the services at the Cemetery.

Mr. Pennington was born June 2, 1880 in Coryell county. He was married to Miss Maude Lowery also of this county. He followed the blacksmith trade.

Surviving are his widow, 2 brothers, J. L. Pennington of Brownwood and G. W. Pennington of Gatesville; two sisters, Mrs. Billy Christian of Evant and Mrs. Pearl Wornick of Troupe.

Those from Coryell county who attended the funeral services were Mr. and Mrs. G. W.

Pennington and daughter, Ora, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lowery of Mound and Mr. and Mrs. Roman Mayberry of Mound.

DENNIS CONNOR

Funeral services were held at Bee House Cemetery Wednesday afternoon, July 17, at 2 o'clock, for little Dennis Connor, four-year-old son of Mrs. Raymond Connor of Brownwood. He was struck by a city truck of Brownwood Tuesday in an attempt to bring his two-year-old sister from the street. The child lived only forty minutes after the accident.

He is survived by his mother, and a younger sister of Brownwood. The funeral services were conducted by a Brownwood pastor.
